APRIL
SPEECH OF MR. CALHOUN.
In the Senate, March 14, 1846.—The majority of the Senate have, by an act of previous determination, directed me to present the following argument.

The President pro tempore of the Senate, Mr. ROBERTS, in the Chair.

MR. ROBERTS.—The President now directs me to propose the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Senate do adjourn to morrow morning, at nine o'clock, A. M.

Mr. CALHOUN.—Mr. President, I have had the honor to receive a request from the Senate to present the following argument:

[Argument presented to the Senate.]

SEBASTIAN CARY.
In the Senate, March 14, 1846.—Mr. President, I have the honor to present the following argument:

Let us come now back to the main point of the case.

The first point, as we have seen, is the want of a complete and legal position in the Union, the State of Washington.

The Second, as we have seen, is the want of a complete and legal position in the Union, the State of Washington.

Extra-Bureau Star Telegram.

WASHINGTON, D.C., December 20.

An additional letter to the telegraph service, published in the Washington Star yesterday, says that the President has directed the Secretary of State to be informed that the United States government is not in a position to furnish a copy of the treaty of 1861 between the United States and Great Britain, which was signed in 1861 and ratified in 1862.

The treaty, which was signed in 1861 and ratified in 1862, provides for the exchange of diplomatic representatives between the United States and Great Britain.

Our position is that the English Parliament and the House of Lords should be brought to heel, and that the right of the people to select their representatives in Parliament should be restored.

The English people have long been subjected to arbitrary taxation and oppression. They have been denied the right of free speech, and their liberties have been violated by the crown. The time has come when the English people must rise up in defense of their rights.

We demand that the English Parliament be dissolved and new elections held. We demand that the people be given the right to elect their own representatives in Parliament.

The English people have been denied their rights for too long. It is time for them to stand up and demand their freedom.

SPEECH NO. 1.

Nay, no Spaniard could need his nearer liver in a battle behind, and that is to have the map of a foe's city in his pocket, a plan, of the heart the bishop has.

"But why am I in Spain?"
said the Spaniard, who was not contented.

"Because the Spaniards are not contented.

It is a little over two months ago that the Spaniards began to ask for a revolution.

The revolution was organized by a group of young men who were dissatisfied with the government.

They called for a new constitution, and the re-

ing of the monarchy.

But the king refused to yield to their demands.
