The thought by General Pershing, the same man, was that the United States Army should be placed in charge of the city. This was done on the 29th, the city being taken over by the United States Army. The following day, Pershing returned to Washington, and the United States Army was placed in charge of the city.

General Pershing, in his message to the Secretary of War, stated that the United States Army was placed in charge of the city on the 29th, and that it was considered a military necessity. He also stated that the city was to be placed under military control for the duration of the war.
