JANUARY
The New York Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The Washington Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The Washington Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The Washington Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The Washington Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

The Washington Times

August 28, 1861

INFORMATION FROM MEXICO

The Mexico City, via Tampico, has arrived, with orders for the United States. The news from Mexico is very disappointing. The American government has decided to withdraw its forces from the Mexican provinces of Texas and New Mexico. This decision is based on the belief that the Mexican government is not capable of maintaining order and stability in these areas.

The situation in Mexico is complex and volatile, with frequent outbreaks of violence and unrest. The American government is concerned about the safety and security of its citizens and property in the region. The withdrawal of American forces is expected to be gradual and cautious, with the goal of ensuring a smooth transition and minimizing any potential conflicts or misunderstandings.