We regret to announce the death of Mr. O. C. Davis, of Jacksonville, Ill., on Wednesday last. Mr. Davis was one of the most prominent and respected citizens of that place, and his death is deeply regretted by all who knew him. He was a man of high principle, and his attachment to the Constitution and the laws of the country was never questioned. He leaves a family of substantial means, and they will have the sympathy of all who knew him.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. J. H. Kennedy, of Chelsea, Mass., on Thursday last. Mr. Kennedy was a man of great ability, and his services to the country were highly esteemed. He was a member of Congress, and his writings on political questions were highly appreciated. He leaves a family of large means, and they will have the sympathy of all who knew him.

We regret to announce the death of Mr. H. H. Winslow, of Paterson, N.J., on Friday last. Mr. Winslow was a man of great ability, and his services to the country were highly esteemed. He was a member of Congress, and his writings on political questions were highly appreciated. He leaves a family of large means, and they will have the sympathy of all who knew him.

The Northern Commissioners to Europe.

The Northern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in Paris, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Telgraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from Washington:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe.

The Southern Commissioners to Europe have arrived in London, and are now settled in their hotel. They are in a good state of health, and are receiving a large number of visitors. They are now engaged in the business of their mission, and are expected to return to the United States in a few weeks.

The Electric Telegraph.

The following is a telegraphic message received from New York:

"The President has appointed Mr. R. S. E. Newcomb, of Philadelphia, as Consul-General to France."

The message is signed by the Secretary of State.