Life Insurance, Inc.

This first day of October, Grand Opening of this establishment. Our thousand policies are now open for insurance, and the funds held are sufficient to guarantee the payment of the whole. Our insureds have not yet been responsible in any way. The year 1871 will be a year of increased prosperity. All our subscribers now are insured at the lowest rates. We are not in a position to compete with the larger concerns. Our rates are as low as any in the State, and we can give prompt attention to our business.

CRAPS.

For the health and comfort of our patrons, we have introduced the following improvements into our establishment: the flooring is new and clean; the walls are painted; the furniture is of the best material, and the inside of the room is thoroughly lighted. We have also provided a good supply of cold water, and a variety of soft drinks, to which we hope our patrons will give a trial.

The Volunteers' Home.

The Volunteers' Home, located in a beautiful spot on the outskirts of the city, is now open for the accommodation of veterans. The building is spacious and well appointed, and the grounds are beautifully landscaped. The management is under the charge of a board of trustees, consisting of prominent citizens. The establishment is open to all veterans, medical or surgical, and no charge is made. We hope that our patrons will give it a trial.

The Farmers' Co-Operative Society.

The Farmers' Co-Operative Society is now in full swing. The building is erected, and the stock is being issued. We hope that our patrons will support this society by purchasing the stock. The profits will be divided among the members, and the society will be conducted on a sound and equitable basis.

By Telegraph.

St. Louis, August 15.

Strange reports from the Kansas line on the west being on the move, and new rumors that the troops are retreating, are reaching here. The movement of troops in the direction of the west, as reported, is said to be for the purpose of meeting the slaves in the territory of the United States. The new reports are said to be based on information received from the frontier, and indicate that the troops are preparing to advance further into the territory. The reports are not confirmed by any official statement, and the situation remains uncertain.

Washington, August 15.

The president has directed the military department to take all necessary steps to prevent the spread of the insurrection. The military force is being increased by the draft of new volunteers, and the troops are being ordered to the frontier. The situation is considered critical, and all necessary measures are being taken to ensure the safety of the population and property. The government is determined to suppress the insurrection and maintain law and order in the territory.

Philadelphia, August 15.

The news from the west is remarkable. The troops have been ordered to the frontier, and the situation is considered critical. The military force is being increased by the draft of new volunteers, and the troops are being ordered to the frontier. The government is determined to suppress the insurrection and maintain law and order in the territory.

"The Price of Liberty in Eternal Vigilance."
The Battle of the Bulfinches. Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Bulfinch will remember to have seen an article recently published by Mrs. Bulfinch's late spouse in the New York Times. The piece was a defense of the Bulfinches' right to bear arms. It was a spirited plea for the continued protection of American citizens in the face of growing foreign threats. The Bulfinches firmly believed that the right to bear arms was a fundamental right guaranteed by the Second Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.
