THE OLD HOME.

By a correspondent.

What would I not give to return to the days of my early manhood, where I was safe from the calamities that now beset me? Oh, how I would give to have those happy days back again! For then, I was not afraid of anything; there was no thought of war, of disease, of famine, or of anything else that could come to me. I had a comfortable home, and I was happy.

But now, I am old, and I have lost all that I once had. I am alone, and I have no one to help me. I am poor, and I have no money. I am sick, and I am in pain. I am old, and I am alone.

But I would give all I have to be young again, and to have those happy days back. I would give all I have to be young again, and to have those happy days back.
GRAND SUPPER. - A grand supper will be given in the American Hall on Saturday evening, the proceeds being applied to the support of the American Hospital at the South Coast. All friends of the Institution are asked to be present.

SALOON RENOVATION. - A large sum has been expended in the renovation of the saloon of the Bank of Exchange, the work being under the supervision of Mr. J. H. Smith, who is to be commended for the neatness and taste displayed.

SOUTHERN BOAT CALL. - The Southern boat made her call at this port on Tuesday, the passengers from the South arriving in great numbers.

"The Price of Liberty is Eternal Vigilance."

The Price of Liberty

It is a question whether there is any price to be paid for liberty or whether it can be bought at any price. However, it is clear that liberty is not cheap and that it must be purchased with a high price. The price of liberty is eternal vigilance, and the longer you let your guard down, the more likely you are to lose it.

The Price of Liberty is Eternal Vigilance

The price of liberty is eternal vigilance, and the longer you let your guard down, the more likely you are to lose it. REDUCTION OF TAXATION.

With the excitement occasioned by the prospect of a reduction of taxation, there is an extraordinary amount of discussion as to the amount of the reduction which may be expected. The depression of trade and the general distress of the people are said to call for such a reduction, and it is urged that the government should do all in its power to relieve the sufferers. It is proposed that the reduction should be made by reducing the rates of taxation, and that the surplus revenue should be applied to the aid of the poor. It is said that the government should also take steps to prevent the evils of speculation, and to encourage industry and commerce.

The reduction of taxation is a matter of great importance, and it is to be hoped that the government will take steps to effect it.
