SEANED UNTIL HIM

A STORY

EARY DAYS OF BISHOMRISH

CHAPTER IV.

A WIDE VARY.

It was the first sunny day in several weeks, and the sky was clear and the sun was shining brightly. The birds were singing and the children were playing in the park. The air was fresh and invigorating. It was the perfect day for a stroll through the park and a picnic in the sunshine.

Then the day began to change. The wind picked up and the temperature dropped. The sky grew dark and raindrops began to fall. The children were bundled up in their coats and scarves, and the birds were silent.

The rain continued to fall, and the wind grew stronger. The trees swayed back and forth, and the park became a muddy mess. The children were forced to cancel their picnic and seek shelter.

The day ended with a storm, thunder and lightning flashing across the sky. The children were exhausted and cold, but they were also thrilled by the adventure.

The next day was sunny and warm again, and the children were eager to get back outside and enjoy the beautiful day.

FELLER, OF ALARM

A beautiful scene with the title "Feller, of Alarm," was painted on the wall. The scene depicted a group of children playing in the park on a beautiful day, with a rainbow in the background. The children were happy and carefree, and the rainbow added a splash of color to the scene.

The painting was a beautiful representation of the joy and happiness that can be found in the simple pleasures of life.

PENMANSHIP.

The penmanship was impeccable, with neat and legible writing. The letters were perfectly formed, and the spacing was consistent. The writing was clear and easy to read.

The penmanship was typical of the time period, and the use of such skillful writing was a reflection of the importance placed on education and the value of a good education.
NOTE
TO DECEASED FATHERS.

The death of the late Mr. J. H. Jordan, Sr., took place in the city of Jacksonville, on the 25th instant. The lamented deceased was a prominent citizen and one of the oldest merchants in the city, having been a resident of the place for upwards of four decades. EARLY DAYS OF MORONISM

By the Rev. A. L. WALTERS.

To the notice of the Deacons, Trustees, and Officers of the Jacksonville Methodist Episcopal Church, Jackson Co., Alabama:

A letter has been received from our brother, the Rev. J. A. Lomax, who has been appointed by the Conference to visit and labor in the State of Georgia. Brother Lomax is a man of high character and an able and zealous preacher. He has been a faithful and zealous laborer in the cause of God, and has been a great blessing to the church. We trust that he will find a hearty welcome in every place where he visits, and that he will be blessed in his labor.

The Tides of Gallinas.

Monday morning, about 10 o'clock, the water struck at the crossings and over the bridge. The falls fell in a surge of water, and the bridge was washed away, thus leaving a completely destroyed bridge. The damage to the property amounted to $3,000.

The damage to the property was deplorable. It is estimated that the damage will amount to about $3,000. The bridge had been in place for over 25 years and was considered one of the safest in the area.

The damage was caused by a sudden and powerful surge of water, which swept away the bridge and damaged the property. The water rose to a height of 10 feet and flowed at a speed of 15 miles per hour.

The bridge was destroyed, leaving a completely new problem for the community. The residents are now left without a means of crossing the river and are relying on boats and canoes to transport goods and people.

The town is now facing a difficult time and is searching for ways to rebuild the bridge and recover from this disaster.
