The Republican.

The House defeated the bill to extend the prohibition laws to the District of Columbia on Wednesday. The bill was introduced by Representative George W. McMaine, Republican of South Carolina.

Subsequently, the House passed a resolution, introduced by Representative John B. Murphy, Democrat of New York, which would have provided for an investigation of the liquor industry in the District of Columbia. The resolution was defeated by a vote of 129 to 140.

The debate on the bill was lengthy and heated, with many members of Congress expressing their concerns about the impact of prohibition on the economy of the District of Columbia.

Jacksonville, Florida.

It may be regarded as certain that the road will be built within a year, and as a short time as this will appear to the public, as the work will be undertaken immediately. The road will be provided with a railroad, and the line will pass through all the important towns and cities of the State, thus affording a means of communication between them.

The road will be built with the most modern improvements, and the work will be done by the most skillful engineers. The road will be constructed with the most modern materials, and the work will be done by the most skillful workmen.

The road will be a great boon to the people of the State, and will be of great benefit to the State.
