\"Age Does Not Wither It.\"" - The Republican

The Republican of Jacksonville was founded in 1860 and published weekly. It was one of the first newspapers in Alabama and played a significant role in the state's political and social life. The newspaper was known for its pro-Union stance during the American Civil War, which eventually led to its suppression by Confederate authorities in 1861. Its archives provide valuable insights into the history of Alabama and the Civil War era.

Plain Talk!

This is, indeed, an age of advertising. Everything nowadays seems to have its own special advertisement. But it is important to remember that the success of any advertising depends on making it understood by the general public. The American public is quite intelligent, and is capable of distinguishing between a true and a false advertisement. Therefore, it is important that advertisers should be honest and truthful in their advertising.

And Selling Them Below Cost.

The merchant who sells his merchandise at a loss is likely to find that he is making a mistake. A merchant who sells his goods below cost is likely to find that he is losing money. Therefore, it is important that advertisers should be honest and truthful in their advertising.
