The Republican.

NOW WE GO.

THE TRUE STORY OF THE MOUNTAIN MINERS.

The following account of the struggle of the miners in the Cripple Creek district of Colorado is brought to us by Mr. J. A. W. Coates, the editor of the "Cripple Creek Miner." The miners have been struck down by a combination of the mining companies to prevent further strike action, and the government has taken measures to protect the strikers. The miners are now on strike, and the situation is critical.

ANYTHING MORE.

Through Federalism to Unionism.

The Cripple Creek Smartphone rebellion is the story of a group of miners who, tired of the exploitation of their employers, have formed a union to protect their interests. The government has intervened to suppress the union, but the miners are determined to continue their struggle.

New Water Eleventh.

Tuesday night at the new Star House in North Dakota, the miners were declared to be the eleventh water main in the city. The installation took place in the presence of the mayor and the city council. The new water main will provide water for the city's needs.

The Republican.

A new water main was recently installed in North Dakota. The installation was a significant event for the city, as it will provide a reliable source of water for the city's residents.

CHEAP MONEY.

As a correspondent of the Lax Co., we are glad to learn that the prices of provisions are falling rapidly, and that the money market is beginning to improve. The demand for money is increasing, and the supply is decreasing. This is good news for the 财务的抽出, and it is expected that the 财务的管理 will soon be restored.

JACKSONVILLE, CALHOUN COUNTY, ALA., June 15, 1889.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago, the population of the county was only 10,000. The county seat was located at Jacksonville, and the county courthouse was a small building located on the east side of the town. The town was a small settlement, with a few hundred residents. The town had a post office, a school, and a few stores. The town was surrounded by fields and forests.
