The Republican.

The following is an excerpt from the publication "The Republican" dated September 5, 1891, featuring a series of articles and advertisements. The content includes political statements, economic news, and advertisements for various products and services. The publication is known for its coverage of local and national news, as well as its role in advocating for the Republican Party. The issue also contains several advertisements for businesses and products, reflecting the commercial aspect of the time. The publication is a prime example of the period's print media and its impact on public opinion and consumer culture.
The Great Escape. Not since the glorious days of U.S. history has there been a more complete escape from the usual. It is quite apparent that the American people are not only prepared to take part in the nationwide movement against the Republican party, but also to take full advantage of the promises made by the Democratic ticket. SOUTH BEND, INDIA

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 12,

HEavy rains Friday, the last day of the conference in Warsaw, produced the most severe storm of the season and caused the city to be flooded. The rain continued all night and into Saturday morning, when the streets were clogged with mud and the sidewalks were covered with water. The storm caused minor damage to property and resulted in the cancellation of some city events.

In the wake of the rain, the city of South Bend began to dry out, with temperatures rising during the day. The leaders of the conference praised the resilience of the city and the people who had been affected by the flood. The conference continued with the planned agenda, despite the weather conditions.

A Good Name

A Good Name is Certainly Better than Riches for the business man. It is that way we never know our worth until we have a good name. It is likely that an invalid business man will be more likely to do business with someone with a good name than with someone who is unknown.

TRADING WITH US.

It's a unique position we occupy as Leaders. This is a family business, and there is no better management to be had anywhere.

The dealers who do so much talking about the amount of goods we have on hand, have no idea of the amount of goods we have on hand. We will never be behind the times in this business, and we will always have the largest stock of goods on hand.

Those who advertise goods at one half of what we do in this business will make a big enough profit to pay for all the extra expense.
