Once and Again as a Holding.

New York, Nov. 18. - Grover Cleveland stood today, in the presence of the multitude, the task of his administration.

In his address, the President-elect said:

"I have come here today to thank the people of this great state for their support. I have come to ask for their continued support, as we work together to build a brighter future for all Americans."

The President-elect was met with a thunderous applause as he stepped to the podium.

"We have a tough challenge ahead of us, but I am confident that we can overcome it. I ask for your help, and your patience, as we move forward together.

The President-elect then addressed the crowd on a variety of issues, including education, healthcare, and the economy.

"Education is the key to our future. We must ensure that every child has the opportunity to succeed, no matter their background."

"We must work together to provide affordable healthcare for all Americans. No one should be denied the care they need because of their economic status."

"The economy is the lifeblood of our country. We must work together to ensure that every American has a fair chance to succeed."

The President-elect concluded his address with a call to action.

"Together, we can make a difference. Let us work together, as one nation, to build a better future for all Americans."

The crowd erupted in a thunderous applause as the President-elect took his seat.

"I have come here today to thank the people of this great state for their support. I have come to ask for their continued support, as we work together to build a brighter future for all Americans."

NEW LAW PROPOSED.

Some of the Labor Returns from Glass Blowers Leave Them Dissatisfied.

New York, Nov. 18.—Several of the glass blowers of this city are not satisfied with the terms of the contract which they signed last year, and are in favor of a new law to regulate the labor of those in the glass works. The glass blowers make only about half of the money that the other laborers receive, and many of them are not satisfied with the wages they receive. The glass works are not well managed, and the wages are not paid regularly. The glass blowers are in favor of a new law to regulate the labor of those in the glass works.

A NEW COMET.

OR PERHAPS IT IS AN OLD ONE.

In Wilt, E. D., "Philosophy of the Solar System," p. 123, a comet is described as "a new one," and the "newness" is attributed to the fact that it has been observed for the first time. However, in a later work, "The Solar System," p. 238, the same comet is described as "an old one," and the "oldness" is attributed to the fact that it has been observed repeatedly for the past 20 years. Thus, it appears that the term "new" or "old" depends on the perspective of the observer.
