Another missile thrown at the head of the Whig Party from its own ranks.

The New York Tribune of Thursday gives the convention now in session at Philadelphia the following sweet "last word":

TAYLOR'S LAST.—We are assured that Gen. Taylor has written a private letter, eight days later in that to the Richmond Republican avowing that he shall continue a candidate, whether nominated by the whig convention, or not nominated. It has been seen by a member of the Kentucky delegation, who will touch for the fact if questioned?

Suppose this true—(though there are other accounts of another explanatory letter of a different character, which is to be laid before the Philadelphia convention)—how would the whigs stand? We might wish their joy of their doer and still, "wishes available." How can they doubt his candor and full avowal of all the whig principles, prepared to abide so implicitly by the decision of the assembled party whose nomination he seeks. When did any party before, in any country, make so humiliating and abject a confession of weakness as even seriously to consider the claims of a candidate when so presented?

Discriminating Youth.—A gentleman traveling in Tennessee, stopped at the house for the night, and during the night observed an urchin pulling at a loaf of corn bread. At length the youngster remarked, "Mammy, here's a bar in the bread."

The old lady remarked that "it was only a corn silk."

"Corn silk, the mischief!" replied young Tom— "how come corn silk to have a nit on it?"

That boy, in our opinion, is bound some day, to fill a professorship.

Chambers Herald.

YOU WILL BE WANTED.

Take courage, young man. What if you are but a humble apprentice—a poor neglect orphan; a scold and a bye-word to the thoughtless and gay, who despise virtue in rags because of its tatters. Have you an intelligent mind all untutored though it may be? Have you a virtuous aim a pure desire and an honest heart? Depend upon it one of these days you will be wanted. The time may be long deferred. You may grow to manhood, and you may even reach your prime, ere the call is made; but virtuous aims pure desires and honest hearts, are too few and sacred not to be appreciated—not to be wanted. Your virtues shall not always be hidden; your poverty shall not always wrap you about as with a mantle; obscurity shall not always veil you from the multitude. Be chivalric in your combat with circumstances. Be ever active however small may be your sphere of action. It will surely enlarge with every talent, and your influence will have constant increment.

"In the world's broad field of battle, In the bivouac of life, Be not like dumb, driven cattle— Be a hero in the strife."

Work on, for surely you will be wanted, and then come your reward. Lean upon the sacred verity—"I have never seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." Never despair, for the lives of good men abundantly testify that often when the clouds are blackest, and the tempest is fiercest, and hope is faintest, a "still small voice" will be heard saying, "Come hither, ye who are named," and all your powers will find employment. Therefore, take heart, young man, for ere long you will be wanted.

TIME ABOUT.

Two Yankees were strolling in the woods without arms in their possession, and observing a tree ascending a tree, with its large paws circled round the trunk, one of them ran forward and caught the bear's paw, one in each hand. He instantly called out to his comrade:

"Jonathan, I say, go home and bring me something as fast as you can, till I kill the varmint. Mind, don't stay, for I'm in a fix."

Jonathan ran off as fast as he could, but was an exceedingly long time returning. During the time the bear had made several desperate attempts to bite the hands of him who held it. At length Jonathan came back.

"Halloo, Jonathan, what the deuce has kept you?"

"Well, I'll tell you," replied Jonathan: "when I got home breakfast was about ready, and I guessed it would be as well to wait for it."

"Here now, Jonathan," said his comrade, "come you and hold it, and I'll kill the critter in a jiffy."

Jonathan seized the bear's paw, and held the animal while the other could kill it.

"Well, Jonathan, have you got hold of him?"

"I guess I have," replied Jonathan. "Very well, hold him fast; I guess I'll go to dinner."

SALE OF A RAILROAD.—The Vicksburg Jackson Railroad, says the Concordia Intelligencer, has now become well entitled to one part of its name. It is now surely enough, the Jacks'n Railroad, having been surrendered to Mr. Washington Jackson, who purchased it at Sheriff's sale some month or more ago. The debt for which the road was originally $15,000, which, however, was once sold at a bankrupt sale for $5,000. And for this debt this profitable railroad, which clears $75,000 a year over all expenses, has been surrendered!

There was no alternative. Mr. Jackson had given the bank that originally owned it a stipulated to redeem the road by refunding him his purchase money; and effort to that effect has been made without success. The time has elapsed and he has taken formal possession.

We heard a good anecdote the other day of an old Methodist preacher who rode this circuit a few years ago. While going to one of his appointments, he met an old acquaintance, who was one of the magistrates of the county. He asked the preacher why he didn't do as his Savior did—ride an ass. "Because," said the divine, "the people have taken them all to make magistrates."

TOWN OF RINGGOLD, NORTH-WESTERN GEORGIA.
The sale of Town Lots at this place will commence on the 17th of July next, and continue until disposed of. This place is situated on the line of the Western and Atlantic Railroad, in the County of Walker, is 15 miles from Dalton, 26 from Spring Place, 20 from Lafayette 35 from Sumnerville, 18 from Harrison, and 13 from Chattahoochee. It is beautifully laid out at the western base of Taylors mountain near an excellent gap, through which passes the river, and one of the most public roads in the State. Its elevation is 94 feet above the Etowah and 140 above the river at Chattahoochee. The water power is not excelled by any stream in N. W. Georgia, west of the Etowah. Marble and Iron ore, with different kinds of mineral water abound in the vicinity. Its beautiful and healthy location with all the natural advantages, must make it a handsome inland Town. Tradesmen, capitalists, merchants and mechanics will find it their interest to attend the sale, which will be on fourth cash, and the residue on twelve months with interest.
Special attention called to the above.

Graefenberg Company.
The Great flood of 1847 will long be remembered in many parts of the West. The swollen streams seemed to know no bounds; but rising higher and higher carried dismay to the inhabitants. Merchants were obliged to remove their wares from the rivers' sides to higher places; families were compelled to desert their dwellings; the poor suffered more acutely than language can describe. The public authorities were called on to administer aid and comfort. The most general calamity had occurred. Well would it be if the sad consequences of the Flood had ceased when the waters subsided. But no! The retiring waves left still alluvial deposits, which in a few months most of the best productions which produce billions of dollars! What says the celebrated Dr. Ferguson on this subject? "The cause of biliousness proceeds from the principal source in half dried masses of rice." All history and experience prove this theory. When the British army encamped on the plains of Extremadura, at a time when the rice Gardens had become dry after a fall of rain, and the mountains were covered with the troops with such destructive malarial fevers, that they came sick and exhausted. The Graefenberg Company, therefore, earnestly call the attention of the entire West to their most extraordinary and celebrated series of Anti-Bilious Medicines. In every locality where there is the slightest tendency to malarial fever, Fever and Ague, Dumb Ague and the like, the inhabitants should at once send to the General Agent of the district, and have a Graefenberg Depot established there. When this time, and the Graefenberg Vegetable Pills and Health Biscuits are used according to directions, there would be no fear of bilious diseases. An important note of Anti-Bilious Medicines to the people of the West, that the following steps should be immediately taken:
1st. Every neighborhood should have a Graefenberg Depot. By addressing the General Agent of any district this can be secured.
2d. Families should call together and get an immediate supply.
3d. Every family should have other pharmaceuticals, such as Lead, Lard, and the like.
By such means bilious diseases will be entirely prevented.
The Graefenberg Company are most anxious to supply the West with the following:
The Graefenberg Vegetable Pills, The Children's Panacea, The Green Mountain Balm, The Graefenberg's Balm, The Precious Syrup.
The General Agents for Georgia, Tallapoosa & Coconino, A. M. Moore of Tallapoosa to whom the application for agencies may be addressed.
