POETRY.
(From the United States Gazette.) Lines.
By Mrs. M. T. W. CHANDLER.
As bending o'er this little mound of earth, Recalling bitterly the painful past, My panting soul doth struggle to give birth To thoughts, which crowd its portals all Too fast.
For once again I stand beside thy tomb, Oh, child, so fondly loved—so early lost!
While shrouded silently in deepest gloom, My spirit wrestles—long and tempesttost.

Oh! 'tis a dread and fearful thing to feel The heart's sole stay, its last support, to fall—
To weep hot tears—to wildly pray—kneel—
And gaze of Heaven, what yet can naught avail!
I see thee still in slumber, oh, my child!
I clasp thy little tender hand in mine, I gaze within those eyes, divinely mild, And lay my cheek, once more, all close to thine.

And yet—and yet—I would it were not so—
For it is loneliness too darkly drear, To start—to wake—and all too soon to know.
That my arms hold thee not—thou art not here.
I pass along the busy, crowded street,
So thronged with happy childhood's And every lovely little one I meet, I yearn to clasp within my longing arms.

Ever before me is that little head,
The fillet bound about the golden hair—Then comes the sudden thought 'thou art dead.
And my heart sickens with its own despair.
I gazed around upon the darkened room,
I hold within my hand thy little toys, Till my soul shudders at the sudden gloom, So soon succeeding to departed joys.

Oh! 'tis the work of many a weary day, To school the sorrowful thoughts the heartache—
To teach the stricken soul to bend and pray.
And lead in silence its allotted part.
Give me, oh, God! this healing truth to know,
That though my heart be sorely tried and frown, Though now a mourning mother here below,
A blessed angel waits for me in Heaven.

MISCELLANEOUS.
From the Courier des Etats-Unis.
A Romance of Real Life.
On the 15th of April, 1818, a mercer's shop of very modest appearance was opened in the Rue St. Denis, near the market of the Innocents. About an hour after a young workman entered the shop and brought a skein of black thread for ten centimes. "Will you be kind to tell your name?" the mercer asked in the most polite manner of the young girl, as she handed him her goods, "I should be glad to know the name, at least of my first customer."
"My name is Victorie D.," replied she, smiling at his fancy. "Blessed be the hand which gives me my first sale," responded the mercer, as he wrote her name upon his register.

The workman, without, however, attaching the least importance to this benediction which thread beggars bestow on us at every turn, and which the dispenser of all good grants so seldom, the workman, as we were saying, bowed to the shopkeeper, and took her leave.
Two years since, a poor woman of sixty, having on her shoulders a bundle of coarse bags which she was carrying home to make up, was walking along the street, when an old gentleman passing in a cabriolet, after having looked attentively to her, stopped his horse, descended from his carriage, and approached her. "Bardon me, madame, said he to the stranger, who looked at him with an air of extreme astonishment, "I have not, I confess, the honor of being recognized by you, but for my part I remember you. Are you not Madame Victorie D.?" Formerly, sir, that was my name, but it was long ago; now I am the widow G. "Will you be so kind as to tell me where you live, that I may make you a visit, and that we may talk together, for I have much to say to you." Very much mystified by this singular recount, the widow G. gave her address, and the old man took his leave, promising to call soon and see her. Many changes then took place in the position of the former Miss Victorie D. since the year 1818, for then she was rich in youth and illusions, at least, and now years had come to destroy and disorder all this—affecting an extremely laborious life, the poor woman, whose eyesight had become weakened, had been forced to quit the profession of a seamstress, which she carried on, and to employ herself in sewing up coarse bags, a precarious business, which barely served to maintain her; in fact, her gains were so scanty, that her husband was on the point of electing the unfortunate widow, because she could not pay her rent. Things were in this state when she met the gentleman in the cabriolet.
Time passed, and the promised visit did not take place, when one day the widow received a letter containing a bill for five hundred francs, and conceived in this manner—"A thousand pardons, my dear lady, for my not having kept my appointment; until that takes place, be so kind as to accept the enclosed, as a small token of my gratitude.—Charles W."

The surprise and joy of the bag maker may be imagined. The poor woman thought she was dreaming. Six months after, the famous visit had not taken place, but a new letter expressed in almost the same terms, and containing a similar sum, reached the widow G., who, six months after, received another missive of the same kind, still with the exact five hundred francs. She did not know what to think of these periodical messages, when, a few days since, at evening, she saw arrived the mysterious stranger who had saluted her in the street. "Ah, sir," said she, in recognizing him, "what have I done for you, what service have I rendered you, for which you recompense me in this manner?
What have you done for me?"

The days of our courtship are the happiest of our lives.
Prudence is too often the only virtue left us at seventy years.
It is well for the humble when they have sufficient education to render them cautious to contempt.
Premature consolation is but the remainder of sorrow.
Aspiring leggers is wretchedness itself.
Fidelity is the constant, always present misfortune, it may do much in disappointing its effects.
Draw upon content for the deficiencies of fortune.
A man's own heart must be ever given to him that is another.
It is not well to be much displeased with happily delusions that tend to make us happy.
As some men gaze with admiration at the colors of a tulip or the wings of a butterfly, so I was by nature an admirer of happy human faces.
Those who are frugal by habit hardly know that temperance is a virtue.

TERRIBLE DISCLOSURES!
SECRETS FOR THE MILLION!
A most Wonderful and Invaluable Publication.
DR. J. C. WALKER'S
Medical Manual; Being an account of the various DISEASES OF THE MALE & FEMALE
Their Physiology, Functions and Sexual Disorders of every kind, with never-failing Remedies for the speedy cure of all diseases of a private and delicate character, incident to the evolution of the Sex of Man.
PRICE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

The Author of the above volume is a graduate of one of the first medical schools in the United States, and having devoted a quarter of a century to the study and treatment of the various diseases of a private and delicate character, he is enabled to give the most valuable information in regard to the same, and is able to compare the various systems of medicine, and to show the superiority of his own, as the result of the experience of the most eminent physicians in Europe and America is thoroughly demonstrated in his work. It is highly practical in its treatment of secret diseases in many thousands of cases in the city of Philadelphia alone.
The practical value of this work is further enhanced by the fact that the author is a skillful and successful practitioner, and has been successful in the treatment of many cases of the most difficult and dangerous diseases of a private and delicate character, and is able to give the most valuable information in regard to the same, and is able to compare the various systems of medicine, and to show the superiority of his own, as the result of the experience of the most eminent physicians in Europe and America is thoroughly demonstrated in his work. It is highly practical in its treatment of secret diseases in many thousands of cases in the city of Philadelphia alone.

It is a volume that should be in the hand of every man, woman, or child, as a guide for the prevention of one of the most awful and destructive scourges ever visited upon the human race, and as a guide for the alleviation of the sufferings of one of the most afflicted and distressed classes of our race. It is a volume that should which they know the public will appreciate their mode of doing business in the future the same as heretofore—a strict adherence to their uniform rule, Small Profits and quick returns.

Their stock is so varied and embraces so many different styles of Goods, that to enumerate them all is an impossibility, and they content themselves by repeating that they have every thing that can be kept in an establishment like theirs.

PURIFY THE BLOOD.
MOFFAT'S
LIFE PILL
AND Phenix Bitters.
Free from all Mineral Poisons.
THE great popularity which MOFFAT'S LIFE PILLS & PHENIX BITTERS have attained, in consequence of extraordinary cures effected by their use, renders it unnecessary for the proprietor to enter into a particular analysis of their medicinal virtues or properties.
Having been more than twenty years before the public, and having the united testimony of more than Three Millions of persons who have been restored to the enjoyment of perfect health by them, it is believed that their reputation as the best vegetable medicine now before the public, admits of no dispute. In almost every city and village in the United States, there are many who are ready to testify to their efficacy in removing rigor and health.
In cases of Scrofula, Ulcers, Scurvy, or Eruptions of the skin, the operations of the LIFE PILLS are truly astonishing, often removing a few days, every residue of these loathsome diseases, by their purifying of the blood. FEVER and AGUE, Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Piles, and in short most of the diseases, which may be cured by their use. No family should be without them, as by their timely use much suffering and expense may be saved.

CHAMPIONS PILLS.
WE would call the attention of persons afflicted with Chills and Fevers to this celebrated Pill, which owes its popularity to no puffing, nor to long warranties—but solely to its own merits as a remedy which never fails to cure when taken according to directions accompanying each box, this pill unlike many others—contains no mineral—Nor any injurious ingredient. And may be administered with perfect safety at all times, to any—young or old.
As a preventative, against Chills, or any other type of fever it is superior to Quinine, or any of the preparations of the Peruvian Barks. A trial of its merits is all that is needed to insure it a favorable position in the estimation of every the most inveterate opposer of Proprietary or Patent prescriptions.

CHAMPIONS PILLS.
WE would call the attention of persons afflicted with Chills and Fevers
to this celebrated Pill, which owes its
popularity to no puffing, nor to long
warranties—but solely to its own
merits as a remedy which never fails
to cure when taken according to directions accompanying each box, this pill
unlike many others—contains no mineral—Nor any injurious ingredient. And
