POETRY.

From the Home Journal.

The Dream of Love.

BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

I've had the heart-ache many times,
At the mere mention of a name
I've never woven in my rhymes,
Though from it inspiration came
It is in truth a holy thing,
Life-cherished from the world apart—
A dove that never tries its wing,
But broods and nestles in the heart.

That name of melody recalls
Her gentle looks and winning ways
Whose portrait hangs on Memory's walls,
In the fond light of other days
In the dream-land of Poetry,
Reclining in its leafy bowers,
Her bright eyes in the stars I see.
And her sweet semblance in the flowers.

Her artless dalliance and grace—
The joy that lighted up her brow—
The sweet expression of her face—
Her form—it stands before me now!
And I can fancy that I hear
The woodland song she used to sing
Which stole to my attending ear,
Like the first harbinger of spring.

The beauty of the earth was hers,
And hers the purity of heaven;
Alone, of all her worshipers,
To me her maiden vows were given
They little know the human heart,
Who think such love with time expires
Once kindled, it will ne'er depart, but burn through life with all its fires.

We parted—doomed no more to meet—
The blow fell with a stunning power—
And yet my pulse will strangely beat
At the remembrance of that hour!
But time and changes their healing brought,
And years have passed in seeming glee,
But still alone of her I've thought
Who's now a memory to me.

There may be many who will deem
This strain a wayward youthful folly,
To be derided as a dream
Born of the poet's melancholy
The wealth of worlds, if it were mine,
With all that follows in its train,
I would with gratitude resign,
To dream that dream of love again.

THE PORCLAIN BUTTON.

A Storyof Circumstantial Evidence.

BY AN EX-DETECTIVE OFFICER.

MANY of our readers will doubtless remember the mysterious murder committed in Grand street, Williamsburgh, in the year 1856. The facts are simply these.

Mrs. Weldon, an old inhabitant of Williamsburgh, lived in a small frame house at the further end of Grand street, at that time very sparsly built up. A niece and a servant girl were the only persons residing with her. The former appeared to be very much devoted to her aunt, and attended to her wants with filial assiduity. The domestic had lived with Mrs. Weldon for five years, and was considered a good servant.

Mrs. Weldon was a widow lady of ample means, in the shape of an annuity, which was paid to her quarterly, but which was to cease with her death. She was rather miserly in her disposition, and accustomed to hoard up money. Her husband at one time had lost a considerable amount by the breaking of a bank, and since then no one could persuade her to have anything to do with any bank. It was supposed that this hoarding propensity was known only to the niece, Miss Milwood, and the servant girl Hannah.

One morning, in September, 1856, the inhabitants of Grand street were electrified by the report that Mrs. Weldon had been discovered murdered in her bed; and that strong proofs of guilt existed against the neice, Miss Milwood.

I read the account in the newspapers and supposed it was one of those plain cases which admit of no doubt. The matter having occurred in Williamsburgh, it was out of my beat and I thought no more about it.

The following morning, while at breakfast, my servant girl informed me that a gentleman wanted to see me. I told the girl to show him up, my time was precious and I would converse with him while at breakfast.

Almost immediately afterwards a young man of a very respectable appearance entered the room. I motioned him to a seat.

"Mr Johnson," said he, "I have come on a very painful business I want your assistance." He hesitated to proceed.

"What can I do for you, my dear, sir," I replied. "You may command me."

"You have doubtless read about the murder committed in Williamsburgh the day before yesterday. A young lady, Miss Emily Milwood, has been arrested on suspicion. Now, I know she is innocent, and I want your assistance to preve it."

"I have read the particulars in the newspapers, and I must confess the evidence appeared to me to be overwhelming"

"I know the evidence is strong against her," he replied, "but if you only knew Emily as well as I do, sir, you would be morally certain that she is incapable of this deed."

The young man spoke with such warmth that I looked at him somewhat curiously.

"Are you a relation of Miss Milwood?" I asked.

"Mr. Johnson, I will tell you all; the truth is we are engaged to be married. I have known her from a child. Her heart is pure and noble, she could not injure a worm, much less murder her aunt and benefactor."

I began to feel interested in the case, and told him that I would proceed at once to Williamsburgh and investigate the matter. He thanked me and bade me good morning, promising to call the following day to learn the result of my inquiries.

I hurried through my breakfast and proceeded at once to the scene of the tragedy. I found the room exactly in the same condition as it was when the murder was first discovered.

It was the front room on the second story. Mrs. Weldon must have been asleep when the deed was done. She was discovered hanging half out of bed with her throat cut in a frightful manner. The bed and carpet was stained with blood. And, strange to say, the blood could be traced to the door where Miss Milwood slept but no further.

It appeared that some persons in the street were alarmed early in the morning by the servant girl looking out of her mistress chamber window, and calling murder. They immediately went to the front door and found it fastend securely. The back door and windows were also fastened. Some watchmen were procured, and an examination was made of the premises. The strongest proofs were at once discovered that Miss Milwood was the perpetrator of the deed. The blood, as I have before said, was traced to her chamber. A considerable sum of money was found in her trunks, together with some jewelry, which was known to have belonged to the deceased. But, if this were not enough to convict her, there was still more damning evidence. Her bedroom window was found open, some drops of blood were on the window sill, and underneath her window, in the long grass, was found the knife with which the deed had been committed. It was surmised that she had committed the deed, and after having taken possession of the hoarded money and jewels, had gone to her own room, & thrown the knife out of her window. She had then retired to bed, where she was discovered in the morning fast asleep.

When I heard all this, I was far from being satisfied. It seemed to me if she had any intelligence at all she would have taken greater pains to conceal her guilt, and I made up my mind that if she were guilty she must be one of those stupid, clumsy people we sometimes meet with in the world.

I next proceeded to examine the chamber where the deed had been committed, very minutely. I had not been five minutes in the apartment before I was satisfied that Miss Milwood was innocent.

My reasons for these conclusions were these. The wound inflicted on the deceased was too deep and extensive to have been made by a woman's hand. The murderer, whoever he was, was left-handed. While searching the room I found on the floor a vest button; it was rather peculiar, being made of blue porcelain. I put it in my pocket.

My next proceeding was to visit the young lady in custody. My profession procured me an order instantly, and I was shown into her presence.

I explained my business to her, and stated who had engaged me. When I mentioned her lover's name tears filled her eyes. She was a very pretty girl, the epitome of maiden modesty and delicacy.

"Dear Henry," she exclaimed, "how noble he is! Thank God he at least does not believe me guilty."

She could constrain herself no longer but wept bitterly.

"I have been in prison for two days," she continued after a pause, "and yet I cannot realize the fact. It appears like a hideous dream to me. I repeat to myself the question, can it be possible? I am arrested for murder, and the murder of my aunt—my benefactress? No, no, it cannot be!"

"Miss Milwood," I returned, "unless we can set aside the evidence I know not what we must do; it is fearfully strong against you.

"You surely do not believe me guilty of this fearful crime?" she replied, her face flushing with indignation.

"I do not, but it may be different with a jury. Let me hear your statement."

"I have no statement to make. My aunt retired early to rest that night. I had a headache, and about ten o'clock took a cup of tea. I then grew very sleepy and went to bed. I slept all night through without waking. In fact I was asleep when the officers of justice entered my room."

"Did you sleep more soundly than usual?"

"Now, you remind me of it, I did, indeed. I scarcely ever remember to have slept so soundly before, and even when awakened I was unaccountably drowsy."

"Who gave you the tea you took the night before?"

"The servant, Hannah."

"Do you suspect she could have committed the deed?"

"Impossible, a better servant, or one more kind to my aunt could not be found than she is."

After a little more conversation, I took my leave.

When I was outside the prison wall I must confess I was at a loss. My opinion as to Miss Milwood's innocence was confirmed it is true, but I was no nearer discovering the real murderer. I next determined I would visit the servant Hannah. She was confined as a witness.

I found a good looking girl, about twenty two years of age. The countenance was an open one, but there was an expression of deceit about her lips which I did not like. I have not much faith in physiognomy, so I put it down for as much as it was worth.

Hannah's story was satisfactory enough. She stated that on the night of the murder she had retired to bed about eleven o'clock, and had heard no noise in the night. She got up early in the morning, as was customary with her, and on entering her mistress' bedchamber had discovered the fearful tragedy. She had at once opened the window and screamed out murder. She testified to the great affection Miss Milwood entertained for her aunt, and it was her opinion that the latter was entirely guiltless of the crime imputed to her.!

I soon found this Hannah was what is called a smart girl. She gave her answers readily and without any hesitation—almost too much so to please my fastidious taste.

I have already said it was no woman who had committed this deed—this of course included the possibility of Hannah being the guilty party. The question then arose, if neither of the women committed the deed, WHO WAS THE MURDERER? Here, I must acknowledge, I was completely at fault. All the doors and windows being fastened inside, precluded the idea of the house being entered from without.

I felt annoyed at being baffled, and started to walk to the ferry as night was fast approaching. I had not proceeded many steps down Grand street, when my eyes were attracted by the glaring show, bottles of a drug store. A sudden thought came into my head and I entered the shop.

Two or three people were inside imbibing soda water; I was very thirsty and waited my turn. The owner of the store and a customer were conversing about the recent murder.

"There can be no doubt about Miss Milwood's guilt," said the druggist, "but Lord: I should have thought she would have been the last person in the world to have done such a deed as that; she is such a nice spoken young lady."

"You know her then?" asked the customer.

"Certainly, I knew them all. Why, only the very evening of the murder the servant girl, Hannah, was in my store.

I pricked up my ears, but no further conversation passed between them. The customers were soon all served & I was the only one left.

"You stated just now that Mrs. Weldon's servant girl, Hannah, was in your store on the night of the murder. May I ask what she bought?"

"Let me see," returned the druggist, "it was morphine—she stated she had a toothache."

I said no more, but left the store. I had now the first clue—it was a faint one to be sure, but I felt certain Hannah knew more about the murder than any body else. I remembered Miss Milwood's extraordinary drowsiness on the night in question, and to this I added the fact, she had partaken of a cup of tea prepared by Hannah, and that the latter had purchased morphine that same evening at the drug store. But then my first conviction pushed in my my mind, no woman had committed the deed. The first link of the chain was found, however, and I was now hopeful. I resumed my walk towards the ferry, determined to sleep upon it.

During that memorable walk down Grand street, something also immediately attracted my attention. It was a tailor's shop, outside of which, various garments were exposed for sale. Amongst them I noticed some vests, the buttons of which immediately struck me they were made of blue porcelain.

I began to examine the things as if I wanted to purchase. An obliging shopman came outside to try to sell.

"What do you ask for one of these vests?" I demanded.

"Two dollars," was the reply.

"They are something new, are they not?" I inquired.

"Quite new; we have not sold more than two or three of them. We have not had them in the shop more than three or four days."

"I saw a man with one on yesterday," I said.

"You mean Bill Holsley, ostler at the George Inn."

"Yes, that was the man," I returned. "Good evening, I don't think I will buy one to-night."

To make my way to the George Inn was the work of a very few minutes. I asked to see the ostler, and was directed to the stable.

I approached it with a cautious step, and peeped in the door. The ostler was cleaning down a horse with his left hand. By and bye he turned round, and he wore the famous vest, with the middle blue porcelain button wanting. I knew I stood in the presence of the murderer!

I determined on practicing a ruse. I suddenly advanced, and seizing him by the arm, exclaimed:

"William Holsley, I arrest you for the willful murder of Mrs. Weldon. Your confederate, Hannah, has made a full confession."

The murderer turned deadly pale; his limbs shook, and his countenance betrayed the most abject fear.

"I will confess all," he exclaimed.

He was immediately removed to jail, and that night made a full confession, which amounted to this:—

He had been engaged to be married to Hannah, and was only waiting until he had earned enough money to support a wife. Hannah, who it seems was a thoroughly bad woman, was tired of the delay, and proposed to him that they should rob her mistress. It was finally agreed that Hannah should drug Miss Milwood's tea with a powerful opiate, and after she was asleep she let in Holsley. They then decided it would be better "to put the old woman out of the way," and throw the guilt on the niece. Holsley committed the deed, and after having robbed their victim, they proceeded to Miss Milwood's chamber, and placed a portion of the money in her trunk. The knife was then thrown out of her window. Holsley left the house, and Hannah fastened the door after him. The deed was skillfully planned, and had Hannah been only concerned, a guiltless party might have suffered; but Holsley was by no means a courageous man, and wanted presence of mind.

They were both tried, found guilty, and in two months from the committal of the deed they were hanged.

Six months after this occurrence, I one day received an invitation to a wedding. It was that of Emily Milwood and her faithful lover. I have seen them quite lately, they are as happy as it is possible to be, and have two fine children to add to their felicity.

To dream of having a great number of servants is madness.

It is very lucky to to dream you pay for a thing twice over; since afterwards you will probably take care to have all oour bills receipted.

To dream of a mill stone around your neck is a sign of what you may expect if you get an extravagant wife.

To see apples in a dream betokens a wedding, because where you find apples you may expect to find pairs.

To dream that you are lame is a token that you will get into a hobble.

When a young lady dreams of a coffin it betokens that she should instantly discontinue the use of tight stays and always go warmly and tnickly shod in wet weather.

If you dream of a clock, it is a token that you will gain great credit—that is tick.

To dream of fire it is a sign that—if you are wise—you will see that the lights in your house are out before you go to bed.

If you dream of beer it is a sign you may have "pot luck."

To dream of a bore, forebodes a railway call.

To dream of a cab foreshadows a journey and a dispute at the end of it which will probably have some reference to the fair.

To dream of ice is a favorable omen for a lady, that she relates her dream to an elegant young man passing a pastry cook's shop on a hot day.

To dream of soap betokens a combat in which you may expect to get lathered.

To dream that your nose is red at the tip is an intimation that you had better leave off brandy and water.

To daeam of walking barefooted denotes a journey that you will make bootless.

To dream of eggs is a sign that you will discover a mare's nest.

When a fashionable lady dreams of a filbert it is a sign that her thoughts are running upon one colonel.

If you dream af clothes it is warning not to go to law for by the rule of contraries you will be sure of non-suit.

To deam that you are eating is certain come true at breakfast.

To dream of a barber denotes losses hairs may be expected to be cut off.

The most influential man in a free country is at least a man who has the ability, as well as the courage to speak what he thinks when occasion may require it.

A gray hair was espied among the raven locks of a fair lady a few days ago. "Oh pray pull it out," she exclaimed. "If I pull it out ten will come to the funeral;" replied the lady who had made the unwelcome discovery. "Pluck it out nevertheless," said the dark haired damsel, "it is no sort of consequence how many come to the funeral proqided they all come in black.

THE MISSISSIPPI BY NIGHT.—By night the scene is one of startling interest and magical splendor. Hundreds of lights are glancing in different directions, from the vilages, towns, farms and plantations on the shore and from the magnificent "floating palaces" of steamers, that frequently look like moving mountains light and flame, so briliantly are these enormous river leviathan illuminated, outside and inside.—Indeed the spectacle presented is like a dream of enchantment. Imagine steamer after steamer come sweeping sounding thundering on, blazing with these thousands of lights casting long brilliant reflections on the fast rolling water beneath. There are often a number of them one after another, like so many comets in Indian file. Some of these are so marvelously and dazzlingly lighted they really look like Aladdin's pallace on fire sent skurrying and dashing down the stream while perhaps just then all else is darkness around it. I delighted, too in seeing as you frequently do the twinkling lights in the numerous cottages and home steads dotted here and there; and you often observe large wood fires lit on the banks looking like merry making bonfires. These I belisve are usually signals for the steamers to stop to take up passengers goods and animals.—Lady Worstley's Travels.

TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE.—A young man and woman were courting last Saturday evening at the house of Mr. Blackwell in Slopewell township, N. J., and both fell asleep while sitting beside a warm stove. During their nap the dress of the young lady took fire, and when they awoke her clothes were all in flames. She was so shockingly burned that she lived but a few hours. The young man was also seriously injured by the fire in his efforts to save his companion. The parties were engaged to be married, and the young woman had made her wedding purchases on the day of the accident

"Yes," said a kind mother, of one of our city churchrs, helping her little son to learn his Sunday school lesson, "Cain was a fugitive and a vagabond on earth; he was so bad that he thought every man would slay him. Where could wicked Cain go to?" "Why, mother," replied thoughtful Johny, "Cain could have gone to Baltimore."

The Charleston Mercury's programme.

The Charleston Mercury says that it has "been repeatedly asked to give a programme of measures which the Southern States might adopt in the maintenance of their rights in connection with the next Presidential election This programme is as follows:

1. Let the Legislatures of the Southern States, at their next meeting distinctly declare the rights of the South as plainly deducible from the Dred Scott case, accompanied with a resolutions that they will vote for no one for the Presidency or Vice Presidency of the United States who does not plainly and distinctly affirm and support them without non-committalsm, dodging or equivocation.

2. Should the Charleston Convention declare and affirm these rights and nominate candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency who distinctly support them, then the Southern States will support such candidate, and should they be elected, proof will be afforded that the South may continue with safety in the confederacy.

3. But should the candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency, thus fairly nominated by the Charleston Convention, be defeated in the Presidential election and the Republican or Abolition party succeed in electing their candidate, then the Southern Legislature, as soon thereafter as they shall successively assemble together, should recall their Senators and Representatives from the Congress of the United States, and invite to co-operation of their sister Southern to devise means for their common safety.

4. But should the Charleston Convention refuse to declare and affirm the rights of the South, as deducible from the Dred Scott case, or nominate candidates who will not affirm or support them then, let the Southern States nominate and support candidates of their own plainly and faithfully reflecting and supporting their rights.

5. Should the Southern States succeed in electing their sectional candidates, thus nominated of course, they will deem it a sufficient proof for the present of their safety in the Union.

6. But should the Southern States fail in electing the sectional candidates thus nominated then let the same course be pursued as has been suggested in case the democratic party be defeated with candidates standing on the rights of the South and the Black Republican or Abolition candidates be elected.

SAD AND MYSTERIOUS DEATH.—David Brown killed on the Railroad.—As we have been informed, Mr. David Brown a citizen, one day last week left Bellefonte for Stevenson after his trunk which had been by mistake taken there It is supposed he went from Stevenson to Settsboro, and there got on the up train to come back to Bellefonte. For some reason he was forcibly put off the train by the conductor a mile or two above Scottsboro. It is reported that he was staggering along and bleeding on the track after he had been put off. After dark the train passed over and so mangled his body that it could only be identified by his clothing and papers. It is supposed that in the struggle when he was put off he was stabbed—that he attempted to follow the track back to Scottsboro, but was unabled to proceed and stopped, or perhaps died on the track, and was run over and mangled by the down train. We understand that the conductor who put him off has been arrested and put under bonds for his appearance. The whole matter as represented to us is sad and mysterious Belefont era.

A TART REPLY.—A Fairhaven woman having been "posted" by her husband, retorts in the following notice:

Whereas, my good-form thing husband Lyman S Forbs, having seen fit to advertise me, forbidding all persons trusting me on his account, I would hereby warn all persons against barboring or trusting him on my account, as I shall pay no debts of his contracted after this dete. As he has not been in the habit of paying any of my bills, & his own neither since I have been acquainted with him, his caution is wholly unnecessary and uncalled for. Moreover no one who knows him would be verdant enough to trust anybody on his account.

CORNELIA FORBES.

Brown's Philanthropy.—According to Old Brown's story his family and those of his sons are very poor and destitute. It appears that while he and his sons were carrying on the war against negro slavery their families were left to starve at home. This is a great deal like the philanthropy of the day—it can be moved sensitively by distant and immaginary evils as to entirely forget the first duties and obligations which it owes at home. Brown would have been more honorably and philanthropically empoyed in keeping the wolf from his own door instead of trying to raise the hyena in the homes of the Virginians.—Baltimore sun.

THE FIRE IN ATLANTA.—We find in an exchange some particulars of the great fire in Atlanta on Wednesday night last which destroyed property to the amount of some $300,000 We regret to learn that the Intelligencer printing office was entirely destroyed and that three children were burnt to death.—Confederation.

CASUALTY.—We learn from the Chambers Tribune that Mr. S. A. Dowdell, of that county, had his gin house and eighteen bales of cotton consumed by fire on Thursday morning last. Two little negroes who were in the lint room at the time and where the fire originated also perished in the flames. They ran into the room to push the cotton back preparatory to putting the gin in operation with, it is supposed, fire on their garments Mr Dowdell's loss is estimated at from four to six thousand dollars.—Confederation.

Troops Sent to Brownsville.—Sosoon as the news reached the Government on Tuesday, by a telegraphic despatch from the Collector of New Orleans of the critical condition of affairs at Brownsville, Texas, measures were immediately taken to order the dispatch of the United States troops from Baton Rouge and they are no doubt now on the way to the seat of the disturbance.

FIRE.—The alarm of fire was given Sunday night last about 10 o'clock. On repairing to the spot, the fire was found to have been applied by the hand of an incendiary, to the rear of the warehouse on the premises occupied by Messrs Sulzbacher Schulein & Co. The flames were promptly arrested before getting fairly under way. Had the discovery been made a few minutes later, the block of buildings on the east side of the square would have been laid in ruins.

The bell-tower on the square is convenient, and well suited to hang a villian on, and has the necessary rope attached. We trust our citizens will keep a vigilant eye to the matter, and act on the hint.—Talladega Watchtower.

On motion of Senator Bynum, the Senate adjourned till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Monday, Nov. 14, 1859.

The members elect met to-day in the Hall of the House, at 12 o'clock, M., and proceeded to organize as follows:

On motion of Mr. Hubbard, of Lawrence, Mr. Hall, of Greene, was called to the chair.

On motion of Mr. Smith, of Lauderdale, Mr. Albert Elmore was appointed Clerk, pro tem.

The Clerk called the roll of counties, and the members enrolled their names.

The oath of office was then administered to the entire body by Chief Justice A. J. Walker.

Mr. Geo. P. Keys, on motion of Mr. Clayton, of Barbour, was requested to act as Assistant Clerk during the balloting for Speaker

Mr. Aldridge, of Blount, put in nomination the name of Hon. Thos. H. Hobbs, of Limestone, for Speaker.

Mr. Neal, of Pickens, nominated Hon. A. B. Clitheral.

Mr. Hardwick, of Cherokee, nominated Hon. Thos. B. Cooper.

Mr. Cary, of Conecuh, nominated Hon. A. B. Meek.

Mr Tait, of Wilcox, nominated Hon T. E. Irby.

After eight ballots, the Speaker pro tem., announced to the House the election of Hon. B. Meek, as Speaker of the House for the time prescribed by law.

On motion of Mr. Irby, of Dallas, a committee was appointed to wait on the Speaker elect inform him of his election.

The committee consisting of Messrs. Irby, Smith, of Lauderdale, and Whitsfield, of Tuscaloosa, introduced the Hon. A. B. Meek to the House, who was immediately invited to his place, from which point he returned his grateful acknowledgments for the honor conferred, in the following appropriate address:

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

For the distinguished honor you have seen fit to bestow upon me in selecting me to preside over your deliberations, I return you my most sincere and heartfelt acknowledgments. To be selected to fill the position to which you have so generously called me, is at any time an honor. The people of the State have selected as their representatives men distinguished for high abilities, undoubted patriotism, and love for our institutions, beyond probably any representative body that has heretofore assembled in this Hall, and to be selected to fill the position by such a body, I feel to be a very high and unmerited honor. I feel the responsibility devolving upon me, and have a full consciousness of my inability to discharge fully the duties appertaining to me as your presiding officer. I cordially rely, however, on your generosity, gentlemen, in the fulfilment of the duties required of me. In the present condition of our State affairs, measures of the utmost importance will come before you, requiring careful deliberation and your serious attention. These measures connot be properly attended to, unless strict order is maintained in your deliberations. Give me your aid, then, in maintaining this order, so that we may all properly discharge our duties and benefit the State. It is by order that the grandest and greatest events go on.

I remember to have been present when that question affecting the interests of so large a portion of mankind was decided in the Supreme Court of the United States. I refer to what is known as the Dred Scott decision, and I could not but admire the simplicity, and yet the great dignity that distinguished the Court in that event—the grandeur with which that decision was given. There sat the venerable Chief Justice, Roger B. Taney, like some old prophet lingering on the verge of the other world, enunciating principles of the greatest importance to the people of this Union; one, whenever the slightest disturbance interrupted his proceeding, he raised a simple pencil. the murmur was hushed, and thus the great movement went on. It was a scene worthy of contemplation. In like manner, I hope order will be preserved in this House, and that by the expedition of business, the best interests of State will be duly attended to.

Thanking you, gentlemen, again for the great honor you have conferred on me. I will, in conclusion, request the honorable member from Dallas County to administer the usual oath.

Pending the election for door-keeper, Mr. Irby of Dallas, moved an adjournment till to morrow 9 o'clock. After suggestion from Mr. Hobbs, of Limestone, he modified his motion so as to secure another session of the House to-day.

Mr. Clitheral opposed the motion, and expressed the hope that the House would not adjourn till it had completed its organization. He said the expenses of the government were about seven hundred dollars per diem, and he considered it wrong to adjourn before the House had done what was expected of it. Besides, he pressed upon the House the importance of getting rid of the pressure of candidates, so that members might begin to work.

Mr. Smith, of Lauderdale, addressed to the House the "stomach argument" in favor of adjournment. He said it was late—near 3 o'clock—his people did not send him here to starve. Hence he was in favor of adjournment.

Mr. Irby withdrew his motion.

Mr. Smith renewed it—lost.

On the 10 ballot Mr. Jno. H. Crawford, of Calhoun county, was elected door-keeper.

Usual resolutions informing the Senate, and His Excellency the Governor, of the organization of the House, were passed, and the House agreeing to take a recess with the view of attending the Fair on Tuesday, adjourned till 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The House then proceeded to the election of Clerk. Mr. Albert Elmore was elected without opposition.

Mr. Saffold put in nomination the name of S. B. Brewer for assistant Clerk, who was elected without opposition.

Mr. Irby nominated——Carden, for Engrossing Clerk.

Mr.——put in nomination Mr. T. B. Philips.

Mr.——nominated Mr. John A. Moore.

Mr.——put in nomination Mr. D. H. Workman

Mr. Carden was elected on the 1st ballot.

The Speaker announced the election for door-keeper as next in order, whereupon gentlemen from all portions of the State, named their friends, amounting to the respectable number of twenty!

[The reporter regrets his inability to give the names of the gentlemen candidates. Such was "the hot haste" with which they were nominated, that their names and localities were lost to his ear.]

Mr. Austin—A resolution to bring on the election of Chancellor on Wednesday, the 23d inst., which, on motion of Mr. Rather and the consent of Austin, was laid on the table.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY Nov. 22d, 1859.

House met pursuant to adjournment.

Minutes read and approved.

Messrs. Stake, Clitherall and Brown, of Marion, made personal explanations.

Mr. Cooper moved to suspend call of counties to enable him to make a report from the Judiciary, on the Senate bill, for the benfit of the estate of P. A. Wise, deceased—motion prevailed. Mr. C, reported favorable and recommended passage of the bill—further suspension agreed upon, and the bill read third time and put upon its passage.

Mr. Clitherall opposed the passage of the bill upon constitutional grounds.

Mr. Rice favored the bill, viewing an unconstitutional feature.—Bill passed.

Mr. Hubbard introduced a resolution instructing Door-keeper to furnish each member of the House with cent stamps sufficient to send off documents ordered by the House. [This is a cent-sible idea. It is unreasonable to expect members to pay from $60 to $70 per month board, and send documents to their constituents at their own expense.—REP.

Mr. Walden called for the ayes and nays, which resulted ayes 50, nays 38.

Mr. Hale, moved to suspend call of counties to take from the orders of the day "Bill to authorize city of Mobile to take stock in Railroads." Rule suspended. Bill read third time and passed.

☞ The anttention of the Southern People from late developments, should be directed to the necessity for organizing once more the Military Companies in every County beat. The decline of that martial spirit is lamentably apparent in this fast age of Young America, the fact of which has suggested to some of the citizens of this place the appointment of next Monday as a day when the people of the County are invited to meet at the Court House & decide upon the best mode of organizing volunteer Companies a full attendance is hoped for.

We are again compelled to apologize to our readers for our necessary absence on buisness, during the whole of last week up to yesterday morning. They will however find all the late items of the Legislative, commercial and political news and the space we should have occupied with editorial remarks, filled perhaps in a manner more interesting to them.

The favors of our advertising friends shall have a place in our next,

We are also reluctantly compelled to postpone to next week, another poetical contribution from the pen of R. E. N.

THE CHARLESTOWN TRIALS.—The case of Capt Cook was tried at Charlestown Wednesday. The Court-room was filled with spectators. The trial resulted in his conviction. His counsel moved for an arrest of judgment, but the motion was refused, and he was brought forward with Coppee, and the negroes Copeland and Green, for sentence. They were all sentenced to be hung on Friday, the 16th day of December. Capt. Brown had been previously sentenced to be hung on the 2d of December, but it is thought that the Governor will respite him until the 16th, and hang them all together. The Court then adjourned for the term. The following is the CONFESSION OF CAPT. COOK.

The confession of Cook, which was read yesterday afternoon, caused much excitement, and some of the comments on it were of the most unfavorable character, whilst some others were disposed to view it in a more favorable light, and the extreme youthful appearance of the prisoner at the bar was generally taken into consideration.

Cook states in the confession that he met Capt. Brown in Kansas some two years ago, and was led by the representations of Crown to join his band, not knowing at the time what would be the field of their operations. After some time had elapsed Brown informed him that the town of Harper's Ferry was the place he contemplated making his standat, and he wished him (Cook) to proceed there and try and ascertain whether or not Forbes had divulged the plan to any one at Harper's Ferry, as a rumor had reached him to that effect. Cook strongly objected to any such move as contemplated, but was replied to by Brown that he had taken the oath to stand by him and that he must not now desert him. Cook, therefore, started for the Ferry, and took up his residence. After having been there some time, he was introduced into society which resulted in the courting and marrying a Miss Kennedy, of South Bollivar. He then determined by all possible means to change the determination of Old Brown, but all his arguments and entreaties failed when brought to bear against the iron will of the Kansas outlaw.

The more important portions were those which told of the Convention held in Canada, at which the well known constitution was framed; of the military training under Stephens, which Brown's party went through, altering their original intention, which was to be instructed by Col. Forbes; and of his own exploration of Jefferson county, Va., under Brown's directions, to prepare the way for the insurrection.

Gerrit Smith, Fred Douglas, Dr. S. G. Howe, and others, were mentioned in the confession, but not in a way to deeply implicate them. Their connection with Brown involved, however, the presentation of pistols, money, &c. Cook said that the time of the invasion would have been different but for the information given by Col. Forbes.

The jury in Cook's case, after having retired for a short time, brought in the following verdict.

"We, the jury, find the prisoner, John E. Cook, not guilty of treason, as charged on the first count, but guilty of murder and conspiring with slaves to rebel, as charged in the second and third counts.

"CHARLES T. BUTLER, Foreman."

Virginia Affairs.

CHARLESTOWN, November 19.—There was not the slightest cause for the ridiculous panic. The fire seen was simply a stack of wheat burning.

RICHMOND VA., November 19.—The Court of Appeals of Virginia refused to award a writ of error to the Circuit Court of Jefferson county in the case of John Brown. He (Brown) will therefore be hung on the 2d of December.

CHARLESTOWN, November 19.—Col. Davis has called for more troops. A rumor says that letters have been intercepted cheering Brown and his associated culprits, and giving assurances that they shall all be rescued. The property of several of the jurors has been burned. Troops leave Richmond for Charlestown in the morning. There is considerable excitement here.

RICHMOND, VA., November 19 Col. Davis has telegraphed Gov. Wise that a large body of armed men are approaching from the direction of Wheeling, Va. A regiment of volunteers, 400 in number; left this city to day, in an extra train, with Gov. WISE as a passenger. More troops have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness.

WASHINHTON, November 20. P. M Gov. Wise with 600 State troops passed through here to-day, en route for Charlestown, Va. He does not believe the report of an approach of an armed force but thinks the presence of an imposing body of military will impart a feeling of security to the population, as well as fully insure the safe-keeping of the prisoners, and prevent any futile attempt at rescue. All was quiet at Charlestown at the latest accounts.

Troops for Brownsville.

NORFOLK, VA., November 19.—Eight companies of Federal troops under the command of Col. Brown have been ordered to proceed to Brownsville immediately.

ST. LOUIS, November 20.—The Republican's special Washington correspondent states that the Government have determined upon the seizure of the Northern States of Mexico. The U. S. troops at Old Point, and two companies from Fort Leavenworth have been ordered to Brownsville for that purpose.

WASHINGTON, November 20.—It is reported that an extraordinary Cabinet meeting was held on Saturday, and that all the members were unanimously in favor of this step.

The Recent Terrible Tragedy at Nashville.

The telegraph announced, on Sunday morning, the fatal and sanguinary termination of a personal difficulty, growing out of a violent political controversy between Allen A. Hall, editor of the Nashville News, and G. G. Poindexter, editor of the Union and American—both of Nashville. The Daily Gazettee, of Saturday, furnishes the particulars of this sad tragedy—which reads another deep and impressive lesson of the folly and danger of permitting heated political discussions to degenerate into newspaper personalities, and the fearful responsibility men assume in attempting to settle their personal differences by musket and pistol, or hand to hand rencontre in the public streets.

As the matter is one of general and exciting interest, and as we think a sound moral is deducible therefrom, we condense the particulars of the affair as given by the Gazette.

It appears that the Union and American, of Nashville, an administration journal, has recently produced in its columns some extracts from the Nashville Republican of 1834, of which paper Mr. Hall was then editor a paragraph, published during Mr. Hall's absence in Washington city, which seemed to favor the idea of incorporating in the State Constitution of Tennessee, a Convention to revise, which was about to meet, a provision for the gradual emancipation of slavery. The object of the reproduction of this paragraph was understood to be to make the impression that Mr. Hall entertained such sentiments now, and was therefore in a position to unite with the Black Republicans. Mr. Hall repelled this, and charged the conductors of the Union with being "unscrupulous," and guilty of "disreputable" practices in their discussions. This brought out from Mr. Poindexter the following paragraph, which appeared in the editorial columns of the Union of Thursday morning last:

The charges and insinuations against this paper, contained in the leading editorial article in the Nashville News of yesterday, are utterly destitute of truth. We cannot consent to carry on a newspaper controversy with an editor who utters calumnies against a contemporary trusting to the supposed privileges of age to shield him from responsibility.

Mr. John H. Hall, a son of the editor of the News, accosted Mr. Poindexter on Thursday morning in front of the St. Cloud Hotel, and demanded to know if he was the author of the above paragraph. Mr. P. replied that he was. Whereupon Mr. Hall denounced him in the severest terms, which denunciation Mr. P. resented by attempting to strike Mr. Hall. The two clinched, but were immediately separated, Mr. P. remarking in substance that the affair could be settled in a more appropriate place.

During the morning Mr. Hall received a note from Mr. Poindexter, and a correspondence followed, but the difficulty was still pending and unsettled, when the following card appeared in the News of Friday morning:

A CARD.

Yesterday morning there appeared in the Union and American the following paragraph;

[The paragraph that follows is the same as that printed above from the Union and American]

The "charges" I made against the Union and American in the article of the News above referred to, I established by undeniable facts then and there adduced. I made no "insinuations."

The assertion that I trust to the privileges of age to shield myself from responsibility for any statements I make [illegible] and calumnious. He who made the assertion trusts to the pistol to shield from exposure the misrepresentations and falsehoods of the journal with which he is connected. That is the plain English of the matter. The shield he has selected will prove insufficient for his purpose. I shall go on, as I have begun, with a thorough exposure of all mis-statements, misrepresentations and falsehoods which may appear in the Union and American, and which I may deem worthy of notice—fully able and prepared to protect my person against assault and to punish the assailant.

ALLEN A. HALL.

Early Friday morning Mr. Poindexter called, in company with two friends, at the Counting-Room of the News and asked for Mr Hall. The Gazette says; He was informed that, that gentleman had not yet come down.—The call was repeated, and Mr. Hall had not yet arrived. Soon after the second call, Mr. Hall came in, and was immediately apprised of the fact that Mr. P. was seeking him. A few moments after he was farther apprized that Mr. P. was advancing towards his office from the corner of Deaderick street. Mr. Hall immediately took a position in front of his door, and Mr. P. advanced, he commanded him twice to stop in a loud voice. Mr P. rather quickened his pace, and at the second command made a movement as if to draw a weapon Thereupon Mr. Hall leveled a double barrel shot gun, charged heavily with buck-shot, and fired. Mr. P. fell upon the pavement about fifty feet from Mr. Hall, & died in a few moments without articulating a word. His pistol fell by his side. His body received five buck-shot, either one of which, in the opinion of a physician who examined the wounds, would have proved fatal. In addition his left arm, in which he supported an umbrella, was badly broken. The umbrella shaft was also broken.

Mr. P. was immediately carried into the office of Mr. Childress. He gasped as he was laid upon a settee, and expired.

Mr. Hall immediately sent for an officer and delivered himself in his custody.

A coroner's jury immediately summoned, and after examining several witnesses, upon whose testimony a verdict was found in accordance with the facts narrated. Mr. Hall was subsequently brought before an examining court, but at the suggestion of the Attorney General, representing the State, the examination was postponed to Friday morning next. Mr. Hall having entered in to a bound of $5,000 for his appearance at that time, was discharged from custody

How many hearts have been thrilled with anguish at this terrible termination of an angry controvesy that might easily have been avoided—or restricted within proper limits Truly, folly and madness are near akin.—Mobile Advertiser.

AYER'S
Agne Cure

FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF

Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Agu Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dum Agne, Periodical Headache, or Bilio Headache, and Bilious Fevers, indee for the whole class of diseases orig nating in biliary derangement, cause by the Malaria of miasmatic countrie

No one remedy is louder called for by th necessities of the American people than a su and safe cure for Fever and Agne. Suc we are now enabled to offer, with a perfe certainty that it will eradicate the diseas and with assurance, founded on proof, th no harm can arise from its use in any qua tity.

That which protects from or prevents th disorder must be of immense service in th communities where it prevails. Prevention better than cure, for the patient escapes th risk which he must run in violent attacks this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expe the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGU from the system and prevents the develop ment of the disease, if taken on the first a proach of its premonitory symptoms. It not only the best remedy ever yet discover for this class of complaints, but also th cheapest. The large quantity we supply f a dollar brings it within the reach of ever body; and in bilious districts, where FEVE AND AGUE prevails, every body should have and use it freely both for cure and protectio It is hoped this price will place it within th reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. great superiority of this remedy over an other ever discovered for the speedy and ce tain cure of Intermittents is, that it contai no Quinine or mineral, consequently it pr duces no quinism or other injurious effec whatever upon the constitution. Those cure by it are left as healthy as if they had nev had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequen of the miasmatic poison. A great variety disorders arise from its irritation, among whic are Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headach Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asth ma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of th Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Coli Paralysis, and Derangement of the Stomac all of which, when originating in this caus put on the intermittent type, or become perio cal. This "CURE" expels the poison fro the blood, and consequently cures them a alike. It is an invaluable protection to imm grants and persons travelling or temporaril residing in the malarious districts. If tak occasionally or daily while exposed to the i fection, that will be excreted from the syste and cannot accumulate in sufficient quanti to ripen into disease. Hence it is even mo valuable for protection than cure, and few wi ever suffer from Intermittents, if they ava themselves of the protection this remedy a fords.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSI

are so composed that disease within the range their action can rarely withstand or evade the Their penetrating properties search, and cleans and invigorate every portion of the human orga ism, correcting its diseased action, and restori its healthy vitalities. As a consequence of the properties, the invalid who is bowed down wi pain or physical debility is astonished to find h health or energy restored by a remedy at once simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complain of every body, but also many formidable an dangerous diseases. The agent below named pleased to furnish gratis my American Almana containing certificates of their cures and directio for their use in the following complaints: Costi ness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disorder Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbi Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of App tite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaint arising from a low state of the body or obstructio of its functions. They are an excellent alterati for the renovation of the blood and the restor of tone and strength to the system debilitate by disease.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarsenes Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consump tion, and for the relief of Consumpti Patients in advanced stages of th disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so n merous are the cases of its cures, that almo every section of country abounds in persons pu licly known, who have been restored from alarmin and even desperate diseases of the lungs by i use. When once tried, its superiority over eve other medicine of its kind is too apparent to esca observation, and where its virtues are known, th public no longer hesitate what antidote to empl for the distressing and dangerous affections of th pulmonary organs that are incident to our climat While many inferior remedies thrust upon th community have failed and been discarded, th has gained friends by every trial, conferred benef on the afflicted they can never forget, and pr duced cures too numerous and too remarkable be forgotten.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, } Calhoun County. }

Court of Probate for Calhoun Co. Ala. Special Term Nov. 9th, A. D. 1859.

THIS day came Joseph C. Martin, Administrator of the Estate of Anderson White, dec'd, and filed his report in writing, setting forth, that said estate, to the best of his knowledge, is insolvent; which report is verified by oath, and accompanied by the several statements in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, and asked that a day be set for the hearing and determining upon said report, and upon the day set, an order of court be made, declaring said estate insolvent:

Thereupon, it is ordered by the court that Monday the 19th day of December next be set for the hearing and determining upon said petition and report, and declaring said estate insolvent: and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a weekly newspaper published in the Town of Jacksonville, in said county, for thirty days prior to said day, as a notice to the creditors of said estate to be and appear at a special term of said court, to be holden at the court house of said county, on said Monday the 19th day of December next, and show cause, if any they have why an order of court should not be made, declaring said estate insolvent.

Witness: A. Woods, Judge of Probate of said county, at office in the Town of Jacksonville, on this the 9th day of November, A. D. 1859.

A. WOODS, Judge

Economy & Progression.

In this, the age of advancement, many things new and invaluable have been introduced—not the phantoms and chimeras of other ages, but new ones, of sound and practical utility. In no department is progression better marked or more visibly to be seen than in the medical, when originating with competent men, and confined to scientific limits. Precisely of that character are the following remedial agents; none will prove more efficient, or are so often needed.

DR. LITTLE'S ANODYNE COUGH DROPS.

A new and certain cure for Coughs, Asthma Pain in the Breast; also Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds etc., among children.

This is a pleasant medicine to take, producing immediate relief, and in nine out of ten cases a prompt cure. It exercises the most controlling influence over Coughs and Irritation of the Lungs of any remedy known, often stopping the most violent in a few hours, or at most in a day or two. Many cases thought to be decidedly consumptive have been promptly cured by using a few bottles, and wearing the Little's Strengthening Plasters on the chest. As an anodyne expectorant, without astringing the bowels, it stands paramount to all cough mixtures.

DR. LITTLE'S FRENCH MIXTURE.

This is prepared from a French Recipe (in the forms of No's. 1 and 2, the first for the acute, and No. 2 for the chronic stage.) that has been much improved upon in this country; & from its unexampled success is likely to supercede every other remedy for the cure of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Gonorrheal, Bienorrheoal and Leuchorrheal or Flour Albus Affections. This extensive compound combines properties totally different in taste and character from anything to be found in the United States in Pharmacopoea or in private practice; and in point of safety and efficiency is not rivalled in America.

DOLLAR VERMIFUGE.

Prepared and put up in bottles and vials, only by C. W. Little. In using, nothing else is required to relieve children of worms; and besides being one of the best and cheapest ever offered to the public, its frequent use in families will save much trouble and expense, as well as the lives of many children; for eight out of every ten cases generally require it.

DR. LITTLE'S RINGWORM & TETTER OINTMENT.

Hundreds of cases of Chronic Tetters, Scald Heads, and diseases of the skin generally, have beed cured by this remedy, and since the introduction of the No 2 prepaaation (being stonger) scarcely a case has been found that it will noteffectually eradicate in a short time. For the cure of Cancerous Sores and Ulcers it is applied in the form of Plasters, and is almost infallible.

In addition, the Proprietor prepares, for the great convenience and certainty in prescribing, Strengthening Plasters, of the most superior quality, Improved Cook's Pills (an easy billious cathartic) Vegetable Pills (a mild cathartic to obviate costiveness) Antacid (for tightness and acidity of the stomach) Tonic Bitters, etc., which will be sent on consignment if ordered.

Medicines, like everything else, are better and more economically supplied to the great mass of the people by merchandise than in any other way.

Physicians are referred to the 13th page of Dr. Little's pamphlet, to the catalogue of medicines of the Materia Medica, that he uses in compounding his different remedies, and asked to say if they are not the chief reliance of the profession, as he himself has practised medicine extensively for more than ten years, before retiring to the drug business.

In more than two hundred places in Georgia, and in all the Southern States they are to be had; and as there are scamps about who are counterfeiting his remedies, by palming off their own or something else, by using the same or similar names (for no patent is wanted or secured amid the absurd patents of the day.)

N. B.—All orders and letters on business are to sent in future to LITTLE & BRO. Macon, Georgia, instead of Philadelphia.

Wholesale Agents, Dr. P. M. Cohen & Co., Charleston, S. C., McKesson & Robies, New York, & T. M. Cunningham, Selma, Ala.

Sold in Jacksonville by Hendrick & Nisbet.
In Alexandria by J. J. Vandever.
In Oxford by Dr. S. C. Williams, and by Merchants & Druggists generally. July 21.

OF
AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of a decree of the Probate Court of Calhoun County, Alabama, rendered on the 17th day of October, A. D. 1859, I will proceed to sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder

ON THE 20TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1859.

At the late residence of John Bush, deceased, the following described lands belonging to the Estate of the said John Bush, deceased, to-wit:

The west half of Section twenty-one Township sixteen of Range eight, east, containing 320 Acres. Also Lots Nos. 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 and 10, in Section Sixteen of Range eight east, containing 240 Acres.

ALSO, AT THE SAME TIME AND PLACE,

I will sell the following described Personal property, belonging to said Estate, consisting of

A LARGE LOT OF HOGS, including Pork and Stock Hogs, Oxen & Wagon, Milch Cows, MULES, one PLEASURE CARRIAGE,—Sheep—a lot of WHEAT, CORN & FODDER, and various Farming Utensils, Household and Kitchen Furniture, & many articles not herein mentioned.

The Lands will be sold on a credit of one and two years, in equal payments, with interest from date.

The Personal Property will be sold ON A CREDIT OF TWELVE MONTHS, with interest from date on all sums over five dollars—sums of five dollars and under, Cash. Note, and two approved securities will be required, to secure the purchase money of Land and Personal Property, and no property purchased, until terms of sale are complied with.

The foregoing Lands comprise the tract upon which the late John Bush died, lying within about one and a half miles of the Town of Oxford, in Calhoun County, Alabama, has a good Frame Dwelling House upon it, and all necessary out houses—land well adapted to farming purposes, a plenty of good water, in short a considerable plantation and residence.

DANIEL BUSH,
Executor of said Estate.

Howard Association.
PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhea, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

Medical Advice Gratis

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors, on a review of he past feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with a renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause.

Just Published, by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation or Self-Abuse, and Diseases of the Sexual Organs by the Consulting Surgeon, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed envelop) FREE OF CHARGE, on the receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage.

Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon Howard Association No. 2 South NINTH Street, Philidelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

POETRY.

MAKE HOME BRIGHT AND PLEASANT.

More than building showy mansion—
More than dress and fine array—
More than domes and lofty steeples—
More than station, power and sway;

Make your home both neat and tasteful,
Bright and pleasant always fair,
Where each heart shall rest contented,
Grateful for each beauty there.

More than lofty swelling titles—
More than fasion's luring glare—
More then mamon's gilded honor's—
More than thought can well compare;

See that home is made attractive
By surroundings pure and bright,
Trees arranged with taste and order,
Flowers with all their sweet delight.

Seek to make your home most lovely,
Let it be a smiling spot,
Where in sweet contentment resting,
Care and sorrow are forgot;

Where the flowers and trees are waving,
Birds will sing their sweetest songs,
Where the purest thoughts will linger,
Confidence and love belongs.

Make your home a little Eden,
Imitate her smiling bowers,
Let a neat and simple cottage
Stand among bright trees and flowers;

There, what fragrance and what brightness,
Will each blooming rose display!
Here, a simple vine-clad arbor,
Brightens through each summer day.

There each heart will rest contented,
Seldom wishing far to roam;
Or, if roaming, still will cherish
Mem'ries of that pleasant home;

Such a home makes man the better,
Pure and lasting its control—
Home, with pure & bright surroundings,
Leaves its impress on the soul.

THE SPIRITUAL RAIL-WAY.

CAN BE SUNG TO ANY LONG METER TUNE

The line to Heaven by Christ was made,
With Heavenly truth the rails are laid,
From earth to heaven the line extends,
To life eternal, where it ends.

We are going home we are going home
We are going home to die no more

Repentence is the station then,
Where passengers are taken in,
No fee for them is there to pay,
For Jesus is himself the way.

The Bible then is engineer
It points the way to heaven so clear,
Through tunnels dark and dreary here,
It does the way to glory steer.

God's love the fire, his truth the steam
Which drives the engine and the train,
All who would to glory ride,
Must come to Christ, in him abide.

In first and second and third class
Repentance, faith and holiness,
You must the way to glory gain,
Or you with Christ can never reign.

Come then, poor Sinners nows the time.
At any place upon the line,
If you repent and turn from sin,
The train will stop and take you in.

The depots, built on solid ground,
No earthly power can tear them down.
When the whisle blows we understand
The train is coming right at hand.

No switch is there for ns to tend,
There's but one track, from end to end;
When the alarm bell rings to tell,
Look out—then all things will be well.

No curves on this celestial way
'Tis safe to run by night or day,
Are you in haste bright heaven to gain?
Be sure and take the express train.

When we get to our final home,
The track is left and more can come,
And that is sound and won't decay,
And will be to the Judgement Day.

Miscellaneous.

THE GREEK LOVERS.

The moon was faintly rising over the brightest island in the Archipelago—the "Grecian Autumn's gentlest eye" melting into deeper night, amid the soft and deeper vallies, and the grand old hills of Scio. Along the waves a radient streak of moonlight lay sparkling like gems with each emotion of the waters; while above the mountain peak a single star hung like a diamond in the pure blue of the heavens.

From the gardens beneath the terraces came up the softly blending odors of orange, lemon, and almond trees, and mingling with them, the fragrance of the luxuriant plants and flowers that grow wildly upon those beautiful shores. Beyond was a bolder range of rugged mountains; and yet again, other ranges that were blooming to their summits; while the sea lay beneath, calm as a Summers lake, an open decked caique rocking upon her posom near the shore.

Upon one of these terraces a young Greek was talking in the low, persuasive tones in which lovers only express their thoughts.—And truly in Sappho's land there lived no maiden who might so well have resembled that unhappy songstress as the beautiful and intellectual Ianthe Tharbores. Not in her misfortunes, for she was happy in the love of Demetrius Maletus, and already her father, one of the most wealthy merchants of the Levant, had sanctioned their attachment. They were to be wedded in a few months, waiting only for the delightful abode they had projected to receive its finishing touches and embellishments; and, meanwhile, the lovers duly spent this lovely hour of twilight together.

All this day Lanthe had been haunted by a strange presentiment of coming evils—such as will force itself upon the mind at certain times, and which is followed by a startling reality. Before Demetrius had joined her she had walked scores of times over the beautiful Mosaic court-yard belonging to her father's house, and stoped as often before the stone reservoir, over which was a grape-vine twining about the marble columns. Never before had the charms of this spot failed to interest her; but now she could only lean her cheek against the cold pillar, and weep with an undefined dread of some thing—she knew not what. Her lover laughed at her fears, rallied her from her low spirits. They sat there until midnight.

And now rose up the wilder music of a procession, making its way in the midnight towards the Greek church, their torches shedding a strange light over the gardens as they passed. While they were still passing, a sound was heard which made every torch drop from the hand that held it. It startled the lovers from their dream, and they sprang upon their feet; in a moment Ianthe's father was upon the terrace beside them, and almost frantic to save his daughter from the coming peril.

"What is it father, dear father? What is it you dread so much?

"Did you not hear? Demetrius, did you not hear the sound of the Turkish cannon? Already the wretches are upon the island—and oh! what mercy will they show to any? least of all, to poor, defenceless child like this?" And he shook like the quivering aspen above him.

There was no time for tears.—The father passed his arm about the girl, and bore her to a recess behind the reservoir, the entrance of which was invisible, but which enclosed a flight of steps leading to a room beneath, where the family had often concealed treasures in their frequent absence from home. The little orphan Albanian boy, who had waited upon Ianthe, was hastily aroused from his slumbers and placed with her, and the blue stone that formed the narrow door replaced, with directions how to open it from within. The two then joined the band of affrighted Greeks who, unarmed and defenceless, lay at the mercy of the Turks, whose cruel butchery had already commenced.

Thousands of Turks were burning and ravaging the sweetest spot on which the sun ever shone.

Who does not remember the agonized heart-cry that was borne to us by the breeze across the sea?—Who does not remember when gentle women and little children, even in our own favored land, devoted their strength to the purpose of aiding their unhappy Greek Sisters?—when noble men took their lives in their hands, and went forth to the help of their Greek brothers.

In the brief but terrible strife following that evening. Demetrius and the father of Ianthe were taken prisoners, and reserved with the memorable "forty hostages." most of whose bodies hung in a dreary row from the castle. Even the horrible outrages that were witnessed lately beneath the burning skies of India did not exceed those which were enacted upon the calm shores of the Archipeligo.—But it is in vain to recall the dark prints of of the Moslem's footsteps.

Ianthe waited in agony until she could endure it no longer; and when the noise at length ceased she and Constantine left their hiding place, and proceeded together. What a sight met her eyes! The smoking and blackened ruins of her home awaited her, and a silence like that of the dead reigned unbroken. The beautiful stone houses, of a handsome brown color, surrounded by marble balustrades, belonging chiefly to the rich merchants of Scio, were now a mass of stained and blacked walls. Three of these had belonged to the father and uncles of Demetrius, and one to a relative of her own.—Not a soul was visible. Ianthe went into the lonely houses. On the marble floors the fires had been kindled, destroying pictures, furnitures, and hangings, and in some the walls had fallen down with heat.

But Ianthe's thoughts were with her father and lover. But where could she go? Of all the inhabitants of Scio, only a fifth part had escaped, while the rest had been murdered or sold into slavery.—That her father had met with one of these fates, she was well assured; and the thought his grey head trampled in the dust, or bowing as a slave to the Moslem, was too much for her to bear. Now her miserable presentiment came back to her memory, as fresh as on that day—the day that she had seen those most dear to her throbbing loving heart.

Among the bodies that had been found was that of a little Albanian girl, Constantine's cousin, Ida Parios, and the tender grief of the boy over his only relative touched Ianthe to the very soul, amid her own deeper sorrows.

Marcus Tharbores had escaped to Spain and from thence to Italy; but his daughter's uncertain fate brought him back whether or not. A week, feeble old man, struck down as by a thunderbolt, he returned to the spot which he had left, well, strong and active. But she was there in the otherwise desolate home, and was safe.

The cares of Ianthe and Constantine soon restored him to comparative health; but nothing could make the Greek maiden smile while Demetrius was dead or suffering, as she believed him. Not daring to leave the ruins until some tidings of him should be known, she and her father decided to remain in the habitable part of their dwelling.

They were all three sitting upon the terrace one golden evening.—Ianthe's quickened hearing discerned the sound of footsteps in the distance; a form was seen through the shrivelled branches of the lime grove. Her heart throbbed wildly.

"Who can it be, dearest lady?" whispered the boy. "Some news, perhaps."

"Hush! let me listen to those footsteps," said Ianthe. "They are his Constantine! Let me go to him"

Scarcely a second had elapsed ere was she pressed to the living, beating heart of Demetrius! A spirit had seemed to whisper sweet tidings in her ear, and break the sudden truth gently. The first unlooked for sight of his face might else have killed her.

We cannot linger, except in thought, over a meeting like this. Life hath a few moments of perfect happiness; and theirs was dashed by the awful shadow of the Past, and by that indiscribable dread of the Future which, until Greece was once more free, must have ever hovered over her children's wronged and bleeding hearts.

Gen. Jackson and the "Turtle"—Among the many charges brought by the opponents of Gen. Jackson against him to prove that he was not fit for the presidency was that he was illiterate, and this was the honest belief of a great many everywhere.

During his Administration, a vessel arrived at Norfolk from the West Indies, and on its deck were several sea turtles. Among them was a giant of a reptile, which attracted the attention of every body who went aboard. The captain had them all taken on the wharf and exposed for sale. Among those who admired the huge fellow above mentioned were several leaders of the "unterrified," four or five of whom made up a purse, bought the monster, and by the next Washington boat sent it up as a present to Old Hickory.

He was much gratified at such a present, and the inmates and the visitors at the White House enjoyed a rare treat in the way of "turtle soup" of the most magnificent description.

The General wrote a very polite note, acknowledging the receipt of the present, which was duly received by Dr. A., who had sent in the name of himself and his other democratic friends.

Shortly after the receipt of the General's answer, Dr. A. was hobbling along on Main street, and just when nearly in front of Mr. B.'s book-store, he was hailed by five anti-Jacksonians, as follows:

"Well, Doctor, have you heard from the General about your turtle?"

"Yes," answered Dr. A., "and I have his reply in my pocket."

"Let's see it! let's see it!" they all cried, in a breath."

"Here it is," Dr. A. replied.

He produced the note, and they read: "GENTLEMEN: I thank you for the very fine tortoise you so kindly sent me, &c."

"There," said one of the gentlemen, "we had always heard that your great man could not write Eenglish, & now we know it. Who ever heard of a turtle being called a tortise?"

"Will you take a bet on it," said A.

"That we will," answered they, "and we will decide the point by going into friend B's."

So in they went, and both parties agreed to abide by the definition of a certain dictionary then the standard of the language. One of them turned over its leaves till he reached the word turtle. The definition was, "a bird of the dove kind;" and in the next line, "this word is sometimes used to designate the tortoise found on the shores of the West Indies. It is a corruption used by sailors and illiterate people."

"Are you satisfied, gentlemen." exclaimed Dr. A.; "I know you are not sailors—so, by your own authority, you are illiterate. Be pleased to pay your bets, and never after this say that General Jackson can't write English."

They did as requested, giving each an order for six bottles of Madeira; and as they went out of B.'s a bystander observed that there was in the ear of each a very large flea. B.

Our Sons and Daughters.

"Why is it," enquired a person one day, "that so many young men make shipwreck of their hopes, when their sisters become useful, virtuous and respected? There is Mr.———, all his boys are profligates, while his daughters are patterns of propriety and goodness." This remark touches an important subject. Let us reply to the interrogative. The answer is not very difficult. It is a clear case.

Sons are early brought into contact with the world. In their youth they form companionships in the streets and engage in pursuits which bring them into intimate relationship with wicked men They meet temptations of society everywhere. All the vices of men appear from time to time, and all the coarser pleasures of life, to lure and destroy them. To these they yield and go to ruin.

It is not so with daughters. They are within doors at home most of the time. A different class of employment occupies their time and thoughts, and they live under a mother's watchful eye from year to year.—Among the large number of girls who are cast houseless into the streets of our populous cities, a few, only, come out of the severe ordeal as gold tried in the fire. It is doubtful if there would be more sons than daughters ruined, if both were equally exposed to the temptations of the world.

Here then, is the difference. The watchful care and blessed influence of home saves the girls, while many boys are destroyed. The fact should deeply impress our hearts with two truths: First, there is great power in the allurements of the world. How many bright, intelligent, beloved young men are ruined every year by these appeals to their social nature! Second. The restraints and influence of home are indispensable to preserve the characters of the young unsullied. Home—home—there is nothing like it, if it be a home of the right stamp, to make sons and daughters what they ought to be—happy home.

THE DIMINUTION OF RAIN.

The following remarks on the cause and consequences of the diminution of rain in all countries are by M. A. Dombinsky, professor of chemistry: "It is demonstrated that during the last eight years an increase of rising tracts of land has taken place, and that the majority of rivers recede to much lower beds, losing a great amount of their usual volume of water, and raise an abundance of fossils and weeds, which soon form layers of dry land, and increase the solid matter of the globe The same effect is caused by the increase of population and the progress of science and arts by the decay or refuse of matter. Large forests are consumed by the great demand for the erection of habitations, ship building, domestic and agricultural employments and industry, by which means the reflection of light must increase, and thereby a smaller amount of evaporation or humidity must be caused, and in consequence a less amount of rain is produced, so that the formation of land is favored. The phenomenon of the Nile, in Egypt, not having overflowed during the last month of June, and the coast area of the Baltic having receded for about a quarter of a mile, and similar events visible in all rivers, substantiate the fact. We come now to the question, what results and consequences emanate from it? And as far as human calculation permits, we find already striking proofs in the great changes of climatic condition, the increase of heat, and great amount of atmospheric electricity, producing virulent diseases, the prevalent afflictions of the respiratory organs, the uncommon emigration of animals and fishes from distant climates, the frequent boreal reflections of the sun, and several other indications which would require volumes to describe. One universal blessing however will ensue, and that will be the disappearance of the potato disease. All bulbous plants, if for many years reproduced by bulbs, and not by the cultivation of seeds, lose a great deal of their saccharine and floury substance, and incline to an unhealthy fermentation of the juice in the plants, which, during the continuant rain, attract certain atmospheric animalcules, and which penetrate into the plants, to metamorphose, and thus produce an almost invisible maggot, which, at its maturity, descends from the stalk into the bulbs, and causes the potato disease. If, during an interval of dry and hot weather, the fermentation referred to is prevented, the disease will surely disappear. This result has been established on the continent, where sandy soil is prevalent, principally in Mark Brandenburg, in Prussia, where, by order of the government, extensive trials were instituted and produced the said effect. Agriculturists ought to improve the cultivation of potatoes by the seeds, and their products in the third season would confirm my assertion

A Touching meeting.

An affecting and highly dramatic incident occurred about a week ago in the neighborhood of Milan. The Certosa, as the name indicetes, is a Carthusian monastery situate at a distance of 15 miles from Milan, and between that city and Pavia. The church, a monument of rare beauty, teeming with costly treasures and noble works of art is a constant object of attraction to all travellers visiting that part of Italy. The monks, to the number of 31, are subjected to the severest discipline and are never even allowed to speak, except on those rare days when in accordance with their statutes, a faint ray of comfort is suffered to steal in upon the gloom of & existence dedicated to prayer and bodily mortification. A body of French officers on a visit to this remarkable spot, had obtained leave from the Superior to attend vespers, which are performed every afternoon at three o'clock in the magnifficent choir of the church, by the whole monastic body.

One of the visitors was observed to fix his eyes intently on the countenance of the monk, who was, like the rest, engaged in the act of chanting the service Suddenly, to the surprise of all present he sprang forward with a cry, caught the monk in his arm, and strained him to his bosom in a long and fervent embrace. The monk was in fact a brother lost for many a year to his family, and supposed to be dead. The Carthusian sobbed aloud, but faithful to the rule of his order, which prescribes absolute silence, held his peace untill a signal from the superior permitted his overstrained emotion to find relief in words By a special relaxation of the regulations of the society, the brothers may meet again twice before the departure of the regiment, to which the one is attached, separate then anew and forever The truth of the anecdote which I have just related is guaranteed to me by a friend, who received it from one of the party in question.—Milan correspondent of the Morning Herald.

Westward, Ho!

There have emigrated from East Tennessee and Cherokee Georgia, to Arkansas and Texas, this past fall, at least five hundred families, and the end is not yet, as every day or so, wagon after wagon with movers may be seen plodding their way thitherward. Hamilton county alone has sent out forty families, and a number are now down with the moving fever

MOBILE, November 30.

Sales to-day four thousand bales Middling 10¼.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.

Sales to-day eighteen bales.—Middling 11. The sales on Tuesday were twenty-five thousand instead of twenty thousand bales as reported.

SELMA, Dec. 5.

Cotton.—Yesterday there was a good deal offering, but the market was very dull at the following quotations: Middling 10@10¼; Good Middling 10½@10¾; Middling Fair 10¾@10⅞. Lower grades entirely neglected.

Telegraphed from the Selma Reporter.

JOHN BROWN EXECUTED!

WASHINGTON, Dec 2. 1859.

Despatches from Charlestown state that Old Brown was hung at the time set apart. No attempt was made by the Abolitionists to rescue him. No disorder of any kind occurred.

[SECOND DISPATCH]

Farther from Charlestown!

RELIGION SCORNED BY BROWN!

Body suspended half hour.

Remains delivered to His Wife.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2, 1859.

At the execution of John Brown today at Charlestown, everything was conducted with the strictest military discipline.—Brown was conducted to the gallows at eleven o'clock. No religion was administered, Brown scorning religious ceremonies. He made some remarks to those around him. He ascended the scaffold with a firm step. After suspending thirty minutes, the body was taken down and delivered to Mrs. John Brown.

☞ Rev. J. M. Wood, of Rome, Ga. will preach in the Baptist Church in this place at 11 o'clock, A. M. on Sunday next.

Jacksonville Male Academy.—The last session of this Institution, under the direction of F. H. GOODWIN, Principal, and E. F. O'BIERN, Assistant, closed on Friday last.

In company with a number of others, Trustees and Patrons of the school, we spent a few hours in the Academy during the exercises, which were not designed for regular examination, but merely recitation and review of the ordinary daily lessons. These exercises gave as correct an idea to the spectators, of the mode of instruction and progress of the pupils, as any examination could have done; and was highly creditable to both Teachers and Pupils.

Classes recited and were examined in History, Geography, Caesar, Virgil, Greek, English Grammar, Mathematics, &c. Afterwards, compositions of superior order were read by J. A. Snow, G. B. Lester, L. W. Grant, and others, followed with declamation by several young men and boys.

The entire exercises were highly gratifying and satisfactory to the spectators; and we think the Trustees may safely congratulate themselves with the future flourishing prospects of the Institution. Mr. Goodwin, has we think, been very judiciously selected, as Principal for the next year. The Trustees and patrons of the school, regret the necessity, (ill health) which impels Mr. O'Beirn, Professor of Ancient Languages, to leave for a more genial climate. He has well established his reputation for superior scholarship; and his industry and faithfulness as a teacher and department as a gentleman have been unexceptionable. He will carry with him the best wishes of Trustees, Patrons, and pupils, for prosperity and success in all his public fields of usefulness.

Furniture.—Purchasers of Furniture and Musical Instruments, are respectfully referred to the advertisement of Mr. J. J. Norris, of Selma. We were politely shown through his extensive Ware Rooms, while in Selma, and have seldom if ever seen a more extensive and varied stock, from the plainest to the finest and most beautiful articles. He has an assortment too of splendid Pianos, from all the manufactures named. Call upon him, or send your orders, and you can hardly fail to be pleased both in quality and prices.

☞ A. B. SEALS, Esq., a citizen of this place, and Principal of the Male Academy, during the first part of the year, has become Associate Editor and Proprietor of the "Literary and Temperance Crusader," at Atlanta, Ga.

The number of the Crusader, making this announcement, comes to us in a diminished form, occasioned by the recent disastrous fire in that city—the Editors facetiously remarking that they are only camping out for the present.

Persons wishing a paper from that point will find the Crusader as valuable and interesting as any they can obtain.

Carriages.—While in Selma last week, we visited the extensive Carriage Repository of Mr. W. B. Gill, of that city; and were shown a great variety of carriages of the most beautiful and fashionable Styles. Purchasers can find every article in that line from a baby wagon up to a nine hundred or one thousand dollar Family Carriage.

We invite the attention of all who may wish to purchase such articles, to the advertisement of Mr. Gill in another column; and more especially invite them to call at his establishment while in Selma, with the assurance that they cannot fail to be pleased with the Proprietor, as well as the quality, style and prices of his Carriages.

Rome & Jacksonville Railroad.

But for our absence and a press of other engagements, we should have referred to this subject sooner. When in Rome about two weeks since, we found the citizens of that place very much interested and in earnest about the building of this road. So much so, that we could not doubt that it would be soon commenced and speedily continued to a successful termination. Since then, the people of Floyd County, by a majority of 414, have decided to authorize the county to subscribe $50,000 to the Road; and the President and Directors have elected Messrs. LeHardy, and Pennington, Chief and Assistant Engineers, with instructions to proceed immediately to finish the location, preparatory to letting out the contract for grading, which they intend to do about the first of next month.

The friends and acquaintances of Messrs. LeHardy and Pennington, in this section, will be highly gratified by the news of their appointment. They are not only scientific and competent Engineers, but men of energy, action and decision, who lose no time in wind-work, but push forward to the complete accomplishment of their work.

☞ MESSRS. STREET & HALL well & favorably known to many in this section, as Grocers and Commission Merchants, give notice in this paper, that they have on hand, and for sale very low, a large and complete assortment of Family Groceries.

Selma, Ala.

While in this beautiful inland city recently, we met with many old acquaintances; from various parts of the State—some who had come to Selma on business—some going to Mobile or Montgomery—some going to Washington city, and some to other places. It has become quite a thoroughfare for travellers, going in almost every direction.

We found too our Town and County well represented by young men, in various branches of trade and business. To commence with Printers, we found in the Sentinel Office, two graduates, of the old "Republican," L. T. Marion and W. W. Beasley; and in the Reporter Office H. Lester, graduate of the "Sunny South." Mr. J. C. Francis jr. in the Dry Goods house of Messrs. J. M. Clay & Co. Mr. W. G. Privett, in the Dry Goods house of Mr. P. J. Weaver, Mr. Henry Earns, in the Dry Goods house of Messrs. James Taylor & Co. Mr. J. Hayden, in the Dry Goods and Grocery house of F. S. Beeton. Mr. H. T. Francis in the Grocery house of Messrs. Jos. Hardie, & Co.

To each and all of these young men, we tender our thanks for their friendly assistance in various business transactions, and our best wishes for their success and prosperity.

☞ See in another column, the card of Messrs. McClure, Thames & Johnson, Wholesale and Retail Grocers, Water Street, Selma, Ala. They have an extensive Stock, articles of the best quality, and offered at the lowest market prices.

Marble Works.—Persons who may [illegible] to obtain Tomb stones, Monuments, or other articles manufactured of Marble are referred to the advertisement of Messrs. H. P. Oden & Co.

The Marble of these quarries is known to be of the finest quality. It is now in the hands of gentlemen of capital and enterprise, who will have orders promptly and correctly filled, and upon uniform and reasonable terms; and the facilities for obtaining it from there, to supply this section, are greater than in any other direction.

Landmark Banner, and Cherokee Baptist.—We invite attention to the Prospectus of this paper in another column. It is Edited by REV. J. M. WOOD, & a number of Corresponding Editors, who are known to be able and vigorous writers; it will of course advocate the doctrines and church polity which its name indicates.

We have exchanged with the Banner since the issue of the first number. It is of large size, neatly printed on fine paper, ably edited, and altogether worthy of the patronage of the denomination in whose service it is enlisted.

A Foundling.—A child about three or four weeks old was found near the White Plains road just this side of the mountain, one day last week, by a Mr. Miller, who was passing the road. He heard its cries at a short distance, and going to the place, saw the child lying on its face, and a number of hogs lying near it, rooting about. He met an elderly man and young woman some distance beyond, whom he supposed must have placed it there. The child is a healthy fine looking boy, and a full blooded White Republican.

Grocery House

Talladega, Ala.—We invite attention to the advertisement of Messrs. J. G. Swain & Co. Grocery Merchants of Talladega. These gentlemen have a very large stock of Choice Groceries, which they offer at Selma prices, freight added.—Talladega is at present the most convenient and accessible point from which our citizens can obtain their Groceries; and we hope these gentlemen may be liberally patronised.

The friends and acquaintances of MR. D. M. ANDERSON, formerly of this place will find time in this house ready to wait upon them and supply all their wants.

☞ We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. W. C. Land, who has recently received a large assortment of Clocks, Watches, Jewelry, silver ware &c. Mr. L. is a judge of these articles and offers them, according to quality, upon reasonable terms. He has also, the reputation of being a superior workman, and will give his special attention to the repair of watches and jewelry.

☞ Montgomery Advertiser & Gazette.—We ought to have mentioned before now, and have only been prevented from doing so by absence, and a press of business engagements, that this able and interesting State Rights Democratic Journal, has recently been enlarged, and printed on entirely new type. The daily and weekly are now, we believe, the largest in the State. The Proprietors, Messrs. Shorter & Ried, have recently been elected State Printers, without opposition.

☞ We invite attention to the card of MESSRS. DUNCAN & BAKER, who have on hand an extensive stock and fine assortment of Groceries, Wines, Liquors, Bagging, Rope, &c. at their Grocery Store in Central Warehouse building, Selma, Ala.

☞ The Charleston Courier.—This long established and justly popular political, literary, and commercial Journal, has recently been enlarged, and otherwise improved. It renews its type so often, tha we can never tell unless the fact is specially mentioned, when the change takes place. In point of beauty and neatness of typographical execution, it is certainly a model paper. The Tri-Weekly Courier is published at $5 per annum.

☞ The card of Mr. J. H. Stone, Wholesale and Retail Grocers, Selma, Ala. will be found in another column. Persons who may wish to purchase Groceries for family supplies or retail trade, would do well to forward their orders or call upon him while in Selma.

ALA. & TEN. R. RAILROAD.—We passed down the entire length of this road on Saturday the 26th ult., and up on the Tuesday following. The road is very smooth and in excellent order throughout; and we are glad to add that it has been for some time and still is doing an excellent business, with a prospect of continual increase.

The freight list from Talladega, on the day we went down, amounted to $613, besides passengers, & way freight taken in at every depot on the road, which must have amounted to about $200 more. The up freight and passengers would doubtless have amounted to $590, making the entire earnings of the road for the day $1300—a pretty good business, we should say.

We will take this occasion also to express our unqualified admiration of the gentlemanly deportment and business habits of the Conductors and other officers of the road.

In going and returning, we travelled in company with our old friends and former countrymen Messrs. J. W. FULLENWIDER & J. L. DAVIS, Mail Agents on this route. These gentlemen are deservedly very popular. They make themselves very useful and agreeable in many ways, besides the faithful and efficient discharge of their peculiar duties as Mail Agents.

☞ We invite particular attention to the advertisement of Mr. S. F. HOBBS, Jeweller & Silversmith, Selma Ala. We were in Mr. Hobbs House, while in Selma, recently, and can say in all truth and sincerity, that it is the most extensive and splendid establishment of the kind we have seen for years. His assortment embraces a great variety of Watches, Jewelry, Gold and Silver ware &c., and having a large capital invested, he can of course afford to sell upon good terms.

Those who deal with him, will find Mr. H. a most polite, agreeable and accommodating gentleman. Call on him while in Selma; and whether you purchase or not, you will find a half hour very profitably and agreeably spent in viewing the great variety of beautiful and splendid articles.

HOMICIDE.—We learn that on Wednesday the 29th ult. Samuel Medcalf living in the western part of this County was shot by Vandy Sturkie, with a pistol, and died in about 15 minutes. It appears that Sturkie and a Mr. Moore half brother of Metcalf had wrestled some time before, and Moore had thrown Sturkie, at which he was probably enraged. Moore and Metcalf were sawing with a cross cut saw when the shooting took place, Sturkie merely remarking "look out," and fired, the wad striking Moore and the ball Metcalf, below the ear ranging downwards in to his lungs. Sturkie, was taken or went before a Magistrate, and was released we understand on the ground that he did not kill the man he shot at. He has since left.

End of the Trials at Harper's Ferry.

The proceedings of the Court for Jefferson county, Virginia, wherein the conspirators in the late rebellion at Harper's Ferry were tried, has been brought to a close after a session of three weeks.

Five men were convicted, viz: Brown, Cook, Coppie, Copeland & Green. We have already noticed that Brown was to be hung on the 2nd December next. We copy from a report the following account of the proceedings of the court when the last four were sentenced:

The Court room was crowded, and the anxiety to get another view of the prisoners was great. They were brought into Court by the deputies and placed in the bar, in a range of chairs facing the Judge. Near Cook was seated Governor Willard and Mr. Crowley, both of whom seemed bending beneath the weight of sorrow this affair has cast over their families.

The prisoners were then directed to stand up and asked if they had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon them. Cook and Coppie then proceeded to deliver short addresses, the former being somewhat vehement in his manner of speaking, whilst the latter made a firm impression by his great and collective style of delivery. Both protested their ignorance of the attack on Harper's Ferry, until the Sabbath before the night of the attack, when they were called on to swear to obey the orders of their commander Brown. Coppie stated that he knew he should be punished for his foolhardy attempt, but he thought it should have been lighter than had been adjudged.

The negroes declined saying anything.

Judge Parker then proceeded to deliver the sentence on the prisoners, which was received by them with great firmness. The sentence was that John E. Cook, Edwin Coppie, Shields Green and John Copeland; Your trials, on which we have been so long employed, have at length ended, and all that remains to be done to complete these judicial proceedings is to pronounce and record the judgments, which by law must follow upon the crimes for which you have been tried, and of which you have been found guilty.

These crimes have all grown out of a mad inroad upon this State, made with the predetermined purpose to raise in our midst the standard of a servile insurrection. In the execution of this purpose, in the darkness of a Sabbath night, you seized upon a portion of our territory, captured several of our best citizens—holding them as hostages of war until your party was itself overcome by force—armed such of our slaves as you could seize upon with deadly weapons which they were to use against their owners, whom you denounced to them as their oppressors, and, in your efforts to push your bold and unholy scheme through to a successful issue, you have taken human life in no fewer than five instances. The evidence most abundantly proved that all these things had been done, and by the force of that evidence jury after jury has felt itself compelled to bring in its verdict of guilty against each one of you.

Happily for the peace of our whole land you obtained no support from that quarter whence you so confidently expected it. Not a slave united himself to your party, but, so soon as he could get without the range of your rifles, or as night gave him opportunity made his escape from men who had come to give him freedom, and hurried to place himself once more beneath the care and protection of his owner.

When we reflect upon all the mischief and ruin, the dark and fearful crimes, which must have attended even your partial success—men everywhere should be thankful that you were so soon and so easily overpowered.

For these offences the law demands the penalty of death and imposes upon me the duty of pronouncing that sentence. It is the most painful duty I have ever been called on to perform.

In spite of your offences against our laws, I cannot but feel deeply for you, and sincerely, most sincerely, do I sympathize with those friends and relations, whose lives are bound up in yours, and whose hearts will be so wrung, with grief when they shall hear of the sad fate which has overtaken you, the object of their warmest and holiest affections.—For them we all do sorrow; whilst a due regard for our safety may not permit us to forgive the offence of which you have been guilty, I hope that they will turn for consolation, and you for pardon, to that good Being, who in his wrath remembereth mercy. Make then your peace with Him—for you must soon be ushered into his presence, there to be dealt with as His justice & His mercy may ordain.

To conclude this sad duty, I now announce that the sentence of the law, is that you, and each one of you, John E. Cooke, Edwin Coppie Shields Green and John Copeland, be hanged by the neck until you be dead—and that execution of the judgement be made and done by the Sheriff of this county, on Friday, the sixteenth day of December next, upon you, Shields Green and John Copeland, between the hours of eight in the forenoon and twelve noon, of that day—and upon you, John E. Cooke and Edwin Coppie, between the hours of twelve, noon, and five in the afternoon of the same day. And the court being of opinion that the execution of this sentence should be in public, it is further ordered that this judgement be enforced and executed, not in the jail yard, but at such public place convenient thereto as the Sheriff may appoint—and may God have mercy upon the soul of each one of you.

During the delivery of the sentence the utmost silence was observed, and the solemnity was very marked.—A large number of the spectators wept, as also did the Judge.

The prisoners were remanded to the jail, there to await the execution of this judgment.—Cor. Balt'l American.

For the Republican.

The Grave-Yard.

(RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED TO E. L. W.)

I love these graves—the lessons which they teach,
And which enfold on this bleeding heart are sad
Inscriptions which no time can waste, no hand,
Save God's can wipe away.
Here, amidst this [illegible] it is
The monument of one endear'd to me.—
Of one whose [illegible] the same
Of a[illegible] to highest [illegible]
—And [illegible]—this is her new-made grave;
[illegible]
Our tears [illegible]—I've learned
For death she waited [illegible], like some air
[illegible], while [illegible]
Remains upon our hearts, and voids of woe
Where e'er her presence came.
—And [illegible] with her upward gaze & eyes
Of tender [illegible]
She, too, went up to God!—this is her grave!
—From earliest years, the [illegible] sky
Bent lovingly above the head, and oped
Its arms to her ascending path—
And daily did her [illegible] clouds grow pale,
While dreams of [illegible] worlds entranced her soul;—
And then she slept! [illegible] was her life's
Sweet close, that it did seem like those expiring
Tones, [illegible] by the breeze, from some Æolian
Harp-low [illegible] its trembling strings.
—How lone & solemn! the night winds moan,
Heard in the [illegible] all these waving trees!—
How [illegible] the yellow leaves bestrew
The ground; yet [illegible] how [illegible] they speak
To me, of man's approaching doom!
—My soul is with the past!
Life's panoramic beauties quickly pass
In dim review; and hope's dissolving scenes,
Are re-produced to fade away!—
A thicker darkness veils these hallowed graves
And shrouded forms are passing to & fro;
And faces, pale, move silently amid
The gloom; and well remember'd tones and words
Of love, float in the air—[illegible] on my brow,
I feel the presence of an Angel's hand!—
—Now, as the willow sways in every wind,
Submitting gently to each passing breeze,
So [illegible] bow before the breath
Of Him who desolates the earth—[illegible]
To heal.
—When from thy nostrils streams the rushing fire,
Which shall the earth consume!—and thron'd in pomp,
The Saviour comes, in flaming clouds, I pray
That I may be the least of those whom thou
Wilt raise [illegible] highest to thy throne! I fain
Would be, to watch for her—whose spirit gone
Before—will hover there to wait for mine!

Besides many useful subjects, for purposes of information, of developing the piety of Christians, of fostering education, and missions, this paper is now discussing, and arranging to discuss the following great questions which are of vital importance to the denomination.

1. CHURCH INDEPENDENCE. By President N. M. Crawford. C. D. Mallary, some of the editors and others.
2. THE TENDENCIES AND MERITS OF YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATIONS. By C. P. Cooper. A. A. Robinson. a Methodist writer, and others.
3. CORRECTIVE "CHURCH DISCIPLINE." Led by Prof. P. H. Mell.
4. MISSIONARY BOARDS, AND PLAN OF MISSIONS. Led by H. C. Hornady, & W. H. Clark.
5. THE PLAN OF CONDUCTING AFRICAN MISSIONS, or the Evangelization of Africa, by the instrumentality of free persons of color. Led by W. H. Clark, a returned Missionry.
6. DENOMINATIONAL DIFFERENCE. Led by Eld. G. M. Thompson, a Primitive Baptist Minister.

Besides the above named writers, Hon. Lott Warren, D. A. Vason, A. T. Helmes, Robert Fleming, Pres. Rambaut, Dr. Hugh Quinn, W. B. Lacy, R. J. Mays, and many others have promised to contribute to our columns. Of course the Editor and Corresponding Editors will look well to their own responsibilities.

Now is a good time for the "BANNER & BAPTIST," one of whose mottos is "Fair Play." Our paper is too modest to intrude upon you if you do not want it.

is warranted superior to any other Metalic Pen ever introduced to the public. They are well tempered smooth, and elastic made of the Finest Steel, and Plated with Golden Finish giving them the most attractive appearance; corrode and never fail to gve satisfaction. Nothing except the finest Gold Pens ever before invented in the pen line, can compare with them in appearance, quality, saleability, economy or cheapness. They are indeed superior, and by many prefered to Solid Gold Pen, as the points never come off.

They retail much easier, at a half dime, or dime even, each, than other pens at a lower price; will last ten times longer, write smoother, and are every way preferable. Their best recommendation is the rapid introduction they are receiving in Schools, Colleges, Banks, and Mercantile Establishments generally, throughout the Union.

Their peculiar construction renders them a universal favorite, while their elastic qualities make them suitable for every general use. Put up in a new and attractive style with Circulars, Cards, &c,

BOOK & JOB Printing.

HAVING a large amount of ornamental & display type, together with the combined materials of the Republican and Sunny South Offices, we are prepared to execute all kinds of Job Work in the most neat and expeditious manner: such as Pamphlets, Handbills, Circulars, Cards, Billheads, Blanks, &c., &c.

We respectfully request our friends not to send their work to distant cities, when they can get it done equally as well at home, and a great deal cheaper.

RICHARDSON'S IRISH LINENS,

DAMASKS, DIAPERS, &c.

CONSUMERS of RICHARDSON'S LINENS, and those desirous of obtaining the GENUINE GOODS, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm,

J. N. RICHARDSON, SONS & OWDEN,

as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared; season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manfactureis of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

Howard Association.

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhea, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the higiest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors, on a review of the past feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with a renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause.

Just Published, by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation or Self-Abuse, and Diseases of the Sexual Organs by the Consulting Surgeon, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed envelop) FREE OF CHARGE, on the receipt of [illegible] for postage. E. G. & I. G. MORRIS.
May 12, 1859:

Fever and Ague,

from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the CHILL. But in this effort it fails. Then the FEVER follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of FEVER AND AGUE. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote, which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from, the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, Bilious Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitations, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hysterics, Colic, Paralysis, and Painful Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "AGUE CURE" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habited to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term acclimatation. Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "AGUE CURE" does it at once, and with safety. We have great reason to believe this is a surer as well as safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all it has ever been found to do.

They are sugar-coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

Price 25 cents per Box; Five boxes for $1.00.

Great numbers of Clergymen, Physicians, Statesmen, and eminent personages, have lent their names to certify the unparalleled usefulness of these remedies, but our space here will not permit the insertion of them. The Agents below named furnish gratis our AMERICAN ALMANAC in which they are given; with also full descriptions of the above complaints, and the treatment that should be followed for their cure.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations they make more profit on. Demand AYER'S, and take no others. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.

Nov. 10th, 1859- Admr.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
Calhoun County, }

Court of Probate for Calhoun County, Ala. Special Term, November 10th, A. D. 1859.

THIS day came W. J. Turnley, Administrator of the Estate of Wm. Baber, Sr dec'd, and filed his written petition, praying an order and decree of court, authorizing him to sell the real Estate belonging to said Estate for the purpose of paying the Just debts against said Estate, and for division: representing that an equal, fair and beneficial division cannot be made without a sale the same. Said real estate is described in said petition, as being the West half of the South west fourth of section fifteen of Township fifteen, of Range Eleven in the Coosa Land District situated in said county.

It is ordered by the court, that the 28th day of December next be set for the hearing and determining upon said petition.

It is further ordered that notice of the day of the filing of said petition, and of the day set for the hearing thereof, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a newspaper printed and published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to the distributees of said Estate and all other persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said court to be holden at the court House of said county on said 28th day of December next and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness, A Woods, Judge of said court, at Office on this the 10th day of November A. D. 1859-

Administrator's Sale OF LAND AND PERSONAL PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of a decree of the Probate Court of Calhoun County, Alabama, rendered on the 17th day of October, A. D. 1859, I will proceed to sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder,

ON THE 26TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1859.

At the late residence of John Bush, deceased, the following described lands belonging to the Estate of the said John Bush, deceased, to-wit:

The west half of Section twenty one Township sixteen of Range eight, east, containing 320 Acres. Also Lots Nos. 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 and 10, in Section Sixteen of Range eight east, containing 240 Acres.

ALSO, AT THE SAME TIME AND PLACE.

I will sell the following described Personal property, belonging to said Estate, consisting of

A LARGE LOT OF HOGS, including Pork and Stock Hogs, Oxen & Wagon, Milch Cows, MULES, one PLEASURE CARRIAGE,—Sheep—a lot of WHEAT, CORN & FODDER, and various Farming Utensils Household and Kitchen Furniture, & many articles not herein mentioned.

The Lands will be sold on a credit of one and two years, in equal payments, with interest from date.

The Personal Property will be sold ON A CREDIT of TWELVE MONTHS, with interest from date on all sums over five dollars—sums of five dollars and under, Cash. Note, and two approved securities will be required, to secure the purchase money of Land and Personal Property, and no property purchased, until terms of sale are complied with.

The foregoing Lands comprise the tract upon which the late Sohn Bush died, lying within about one and a half miles of the Town of Oxford, in Calhoun County, Alabama, has a good Frame Dwelling House upon it, and all necessary out houses—land well adapted to farming purposes, a plenty of good water, in short a considerable plantation and residence.

DANIEL BUSH,
Executor of said Estate.

Economy & Progression.

In this, the age of advancement, many things new and invaluable have been introduced—not the phantoms and chimeras of other ages, but new ones, of sound and practical utility. In no department is progression better marked or more visibly to be seen than in the medical, when originating with competent men, and confined to scientific limits. Precisely of that character are the following remedial agents; none will prove more efficient, or are so often needed.

DR. LITTLE'S ANODYNE COUGH DROPS.

A new and certain cure for Coughs, Asthma Pain in the Breast; also, Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds etc., among children.

This is a pleasant medicine to take, producing immediate relief, and in nine out of ten cases a prompt cure. It exercises the most controlling influence over Coughs and Irritation of the Lungs of any remedy known, often stopping the most violent in a few hours, or at most in a day or two. Many cases thought to be decidedly consumptive have been promptly cured by using a few bottles, and wearing the Little's Strengthening Plasters on the chest. As an anodyne expectorant, without astringing the bowels, it stands paramount to all congh mixtures.

DR. LITTLE'S FRENCH MIXTURE.

This is prepared from a French Recipe (in the forms of No's. 1 and 2; the first for the acute, and No. 2 for the chronic stage,) that has been much improved upon in this country, & from its unexampled success is likely to supercede every other remedy for the cure of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Gonorrheal, Blenorrhoeal and Leuchorrhoeal or Flour Albus Affections. This extensive compound combines properties totally different in taste and character from anything to be found in the United States in Pharmacopoea or private practice; and in point of safety and efficiency is not rivalled in America.

DOLLAR VERMIFUGE.

Prepared and put up in bottles and vials, only by C. W. Little. In using, nothing else is required to relieve children of worms; and besides being one of the best and cheapest ever offered to the public, its frequent use in families will save much trouble and expense, as well as the lives of many children; for eight out of every ten cases generally require it.

DR. LITTLE'S RINGWORM & TETTER OINTMENT.

Hundreds of cases of Chronic Tetters, Scald Heads, and diseases of the skin generally, have beed cured by this remedy, and since the introduction of the No 2 prepaaation (being stronger) scarcely a case has been found that it will not effectually eradicate in a short time. For the cure of Cancerous Sores and Ulcers it is applied in the form of Plasters, and is almost infallible.

In addition, the Proprietor prepares, for the great convenience and certainty in prescribing, Strengthening Plasters, of the most superior quality, Improved Cook's Pills (an easy billious cathartic) Vegetable Pills (a mild cathartic to obviate costiveness) Antacid (for tightness and acidity of the stomach) Tonic Bitters, etc., which will be sent on consignment if ordered.

Medicines, like everything else, are better and more economically supplied to the great mass of the people by merchandise than in any other way.

Physicians are referred to the 13th page of Dr. Little's phamplet, to the catalouge of medicines of the Materia Medica, that he uses in compounding his different remedies, and asked to say if they are not the chief reliance of the profession, as he himself has practised medicine extensively for more than ten years, before retiring to the drug business.

In more than two hundred places in Georgia, and in all the Southern States they are to be had; and as there are scamps about who are counterfeiting his remedies, by palming off their own or something else, by using the same or similar names (for no patent is wanted or secured amid the absurd patents of the day.)

N. B.—All orders and letters on business are to sent in future to LITTLE & BRO. Macon, Georgia, instead of Philadelphia.

Wholesale Agents, Dr. P. M. Cohen & Co, Charleston, S. C., McKesson & Robins, New York, & T. M. Cunningham, Selma, Ala.

Sold in Jacksonville by Hendrick & Nisbet.

In Alexandria by J. J. Vandever.

In Oxford by Dr. S. C. Williams, and by Merchants & Druggists generally. July 21.

MERCHANT MILLS,

Latest Improvement.

My merchant Mills, 2 miles west of Jcksonville, are now in full and complete operation, capable of grinding, from 3 to 400 bushels of grain per day, at any stage of water. And if a large outlay in cash, combining the best science, mechanical skill and material in their construction, that the County afforded; with an accommodating Scientific Miller in charge of them, will entitle these mills to a share of public patronage, it is respectfully solicited.

For the accommodation of those who may remain over night, there is at the Mills a comfortable house and fire place, and lots & sheds for their stock.

POETRY.

We, too, have Autumns.

BY JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

We, too, have autumns, when our leaves
Drop loosely through the dampened air,
When all our good seems bound in sheaves,
And we stand reaped and bare.

Our seasons have no fixed returns,
Without our will they come and go,
At noon our sudden summer burns,
Ere sunset all is snow.

But each day brings less summer cheer,
Crimps more our ineffectual spring,
And something earlier every year,
Our singing birds take wing.

As less the olden glow abides,
And less the chillier heart aspires,
With drift wood beached in past spring tides,
We light our sullen fires.

By the pinched sunlight's starving beams,
We cower and strain our wasted sight,
To stitch youth's shroud up, seam by seam,
In the long arctic night.

It was not so—we once were young—
When Spring, to womanly Summer turning,
Her dewdrops on each grssblade strung,
In the sunrise burning.

We trusted then, aspired, believed
That earth could be re-made to morrow;
Ah, why be ever undeceived?
Why give up faith for sorrow?

O, those whose days are yet all spring;
Trust, blighted once is passed retrieving;
Experience is a dumb, dead thing;
The victory's in believing.

From the Once a Week

The Song of the Survivor.

Where is the form of girlish mould,
Under the spread of the branches old,
At the well-known trysting tree;
With the sunset lighting her tresses of gold,
And the breezes waving them fold, upon fold, Waiting for me?

Where is the sweet voice with cadence deep,
Of one that singeth our babe to sleep,
And often turns to see
How the stars through the lattice begin to peep,
And watches the busy dial creep,
Waiting for me?

Long since those locks are lain i' the clay,
Long since that voice hath passed away,
On earth no more to be,
But still in the spirit world afar
She is the dearest of those that are Waiting for me.

Interesting Gems.

The man whose soul lives in the thoughts of wealth, can never become the possessor of that inestimable jewel—content.

Kindnesses are stowed away in the heart, like leaves in a drawer, sweeten every object around them

Resolution without foresight is but a temerarious folly; and the consequences of things are the first points to be taken into consideration

We should never remember the benefits we have conferred, nor forget the favors we have received.

It is not well to be too hasty in believing or rejecting what is reported; to be able to suspend our judgment for awhile will save us many an error.

The worst form of ingratitude is to refuse to accept a favor from the hands of a person to whom you have had the pleasure of rendering one.

All virtue is placed in the medium; or rather, virtue consists in avoiding extremes.

Never despise humble services, when large ships run aground, little boats may pull them off.

Calamity never leaves us where it finds us; it either softens or hardens the heart of its victim.

A transient injury is better than a slow benefit.

A good man, who has seen much of the world, and is not tired of it, says: "The grand essentials to happiness in this life are, something to do, something to love, and something to hope for"

THE SECRET OF WORLDLY SUCCESS.—We yesterday heard a young man who had been quite adventurous in entering upon wild schemes of speculation, that promised large profits and quick returns, laying down to a small company of young men, who had feelings in common with our relator—they having engaged in wild cat speculations and "gone up"—the grand secret of pecuniary or worldly success.—Said he, (and he spoke with all that intensity of feeling which apparently only the almighty dollar can enlist, and at the same time in a tone indicating regret that he had not practiced what he was about to preach,) "it is just the easiest thing in the world to get out at the big end of the horn, if you only enter at the little end. The trouble with me was, I went in at the big end." "But boys," continued he, "if you would succeed in business hereafter, go in at the little end of the horn, and you're bound to come out at the big end." We thought there was more truth than poetry in what he said—Memphis Enquirer.

BOYS.—Boys, when they are boys are queer enough. How many ridiculous notions they have and what singular desires which in after life change and shape themselves into characteristics? Who remembers when he would have changed his birthright for a rocking horse, and the new suit of clothes for a monkey? Who forgets the sweet faced girl, older than himself, against whose golden hair he leaned and wept his griefs away? Who recollects when the thought of being a circus rider appeared greater than to be President; and how jealously he watched the litte fellows that wore spangled jackets and turned somersets, and prayed to become like them? If memory preserve not these caprices, or something similar, the boy is lost in the man. Happy visits, they come but once and go quickly, leaving us ever to sigh for a return of what can never be again.

Incendiarism.—Attempts were made on Saturday night last to fire two houses on Broad street—one a framed building occupied by Mr. Wm Curtis as a paint shop—the other a brick building recently vacated by Messrs. Monroe & Morrow for the purpose of having it repaired. Had the attempt to fire either of them proved successful, the consequences would have been most disastrous. The incendiaries of course had an eye to the destruction of as much of the city as possible when they went about their hellish work, and could not have selected buildings as kindling from which a greater fire would have spread.

Our citizens should be on the look out for incendiaries. They will doubtless make other attempts when least expected, and it sometimes an easy thing to fire a building without being detected. A few shavings and a match applied, and the work is done at once. The incendiary has only to step out of the way the moment the match is struck, and he is safe. There is nothing by which he can be known as guilty.

Sad Case of Suicide.

Philadelphia, Nov. 22.—John D. Winslow, an agent of Messrs. Luckett, Davis & Co., jewellers, of New York, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head. Yesterday he had entrusted a box of jewelry, valued at $3,000, to a colored porter to carry to the office of Messrs. Draper, Tifft & Co., but the box not being delivered it was supposed to have been stolen. The young man immediately informed the police, but being unable to recover it he was driven to despair and rashly took his life as stated. Before the commission of the deed he wrote a letter to his mother at Providence, to his employers and to Mr. Arnold. This morning, a few hours after the fatal act had been committed, the missing box was recovered, having been left by the porter in mistake at another jewelry establishment on Market street. The deceased was a single man, aged 28 years.

Austin, Texas.—The Heroes of the Alamo.

In the vestibule of the State House is a monument erected to the memory of the heroes at the Alamo. As you enter the name of Crocket stands out in bold relief: upon either side, the names of Bonham, Travis and Bowie, and under these those of their companions who so dearly sold their lives on that memorable occasion.

Upon the monument are the folllowing inscriptions;

"To the God of the fearless and free is dedicated this altar, made from the ruins of Alamo, March 6, 1836, A. D."

"Blood of heroes hath stained me.—Let the stones of the Alamo speak, that their immolation be not forgotten."

"Be they enrolled with Leonidas in the host of the mighty dead."

"Thermopylae had her messenger of defeat but THE ALAMO HAD NONE."

AFTER THE POCKET BOOK—A young gent, is discovered surrounded by his friends, who are jesting with him regarding his attentions to a certain young lady.

Young Gent—"Boys, I'll tell you how it is. You see I care nothing for the girl, it is the old man's pocket book I am after"

Chorus of friends—"Ha ! ha!!"

Scene second—A parlor. Time 1 P. M. Young lady seated. Young gent rises to depart, hesitates, is bashful, and then slowly remarks;

"Miss Matilda, excuse me, but you must be aware from my frequent visits my attentions cannot have been without an object."

Young lady—"Ah yes, so I've heard, and shall be only too happy to grant what you desire. (Takes from the table a paper parcel, and unfolding it, displays a large old fashioned empty morrocco pocket book. This, I have been informed, is that object. Permit me to present it and congratulate you. You will in future have no further occasion to renew these visits and attentions." Young gent swoons.

YOUNG AMERICA WONDERS.—Wonder why mamma keeps Bridget at home from church to work all day and then says it is wicked for me to build my rabbit house on Sunday.

Wonder why our minister bought that pretty cane with the lion's head on the top, and then asked me for my cent to put into the missionary box. Didn't I want a jewsharp just as much as he wanted the cane.

Wonder what makes papa tell those nice stories to visitors about his hiding the master's rattan when he went to school, and about his runing away from the school mistress when she was going to whip him, and then shut me up all day in a dark room because I tried just once, to see if I could not be as smart a boy as he was?

Wonder why mamma tells papa he is cross when he comes home at night and says the tea is cold, and then ties a handkerchief over my mouth, so I can neither speak nor breathe, because I said she was cross?

Wonder what made papa say that big word when Betsy upset the ink all over his papers, and then slap my ears because I said it when my kite-string broke?

Wonder why mamma told Betsy, the other day, to say she was not at home when Tommy Day's mother called, and then puts me to bed without my supper every time I tell a lie?

Wonder what makes papa, when he is telling mamma how much money he has made in the month, and all about how he made it, say "little pitchers have great ears"

Our Printers caught the war spirit, and left us in the fore part of the week for the Rio Grande. We felt flat, but as Providence ordered, there happened to be two Methodist preachers in attendance at the Conference, who are first rate typos as well as preachers. They are both young men, and abundantly worthy of good wives. We say this for the benefit of the ladies.

Goliad Mes.

The New York Herald, Times and Tribune contained one day last week fresh advertisements yielding for a single day's publication the aggregate sum of $23,000. The enormous extent to which New York merchants have carried their advertising system is undoubtedly one of the most important causes of the great trade of that city. Nowhere else in the world is the advertising so extensive.

TERRIBLE RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—Cincinnati Nov. 18.—A terrible accident occurred on the Indiana Central Railroad near Cambridge city. A rail had been taken up from the bridge from the bridge for repair and before it could be replaced, a train drawing eighteen cars, filled with hogs, came along at high speed, and before it could be stopped, the engine, with thirteen cars, plunged through the bridge into the river. A. J. Smith, of Indianapolis; conductor; Greene, a breaksman, and a drover, named Newby, were killed.—Several firemen were injured. The engineer jumped from the train and escaped. It is said that over five hundred hogs were killed. The engine, cars and bridge are piled upon one horrible wreck.

A Noble Little Girl.—One of our exchanges contains an account of the death, on last Thursday week, a little girl of 8 or 9 years daughter of Mr. Traverse Gough living a few miles from Haymarket, Va. In the absence of all older than her clothing took fire; she first tried to suppress the flames herself, then asked her little sister of four years to throw water on her, but the little one ran instead, to call the neighbors, When they came they found her lying out in the yard & in reply to the question what she was doing there she said she thought if she staid in the house would catch fire and burn the baby up too. What a noble sensible remark for one so young? She retained all her faculties to the last conversed and bore her sufferings with a degree of fortitude truly remarkable for one of her age. The interesting little creature deserved a better fate.

Munificent Bequest.—The late Major M. A. Browder left by his will the sum of $1000'000 to the Greenvil Ala College and Military Institute. The interest on this large sum is to be applied to the payment of professors, salaries and the education of poor boys

MORE ABOUT THE PAGE MURDER.—Startling Development!—A rumor reached this city on Saturday morning last, to the effect that the murderer of Mr. Page, and also an accomplice, had been arrested in Conecuh county a day or two previous, and immediately burnt by the former neighbors of the unfortunate deceased. It is also stated, that these two fellows, before passing through the terrible ordeal to which they had been subjected, confessed that they belonged to a regularly organized band of highway robbers, composed of nine other individuals besides themselves. These are indeed startling developements, and it is to be hoped that the inhuman wretches, who have alike trampled upon the law of God and man, will be eventually brought to the most condign punishment.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

December 15, 1859.

Execution of John Brown--Excitement North & South.

We give in to-day's paper some of the particulars of the execution of Brown, at Charlestown, VA. No demonstration whatever, or attempt at rescue was made; and by the admirable arrangements of Gov. Wise, the utmost order was observed. But notwithstanding the scene of this execution has passed off with so much order and quietude, excitement North or South has not been allayed, but is vastly on the increase. At many places in the North, the day and hour of Brown's execution, was made the occasion of disgraceful demonstrations on the lition sympathisers, showing te of public opinion there ed hostility to the le idea of this, we w facts, taken from our accounts:

At the National Hall in Philadelphia, an overflowing assembly attended on the day of execution, to offer prayers for John Brown. At Syracuse, N. Y. the City Hall was densely crowded with citizens, who listened for hours to stirring and exciting speeches, expressing sympathy for Brown and his family, and the city bell was tolled At Boston, a motion was made to adjourn the Legislature—a mass meeting of citizens held in Tremont Temple—the bells tolled, and the colored population allowed to hold meetings wearing crape on their arms. At Cleveland Ohio, 1500, persons assembled in a hall which was dressed in mourning; they listened to speeches and passed resolutions in accordance with their sentiments. At chester N. H., an attempt was to toll the bell, but suppressed avor. At Plymouth & New the bells were tolled at , N. Y., one hun were fired. At Prov large meeting was ord, N H. the bells Montreal, and doubt nada, these sym in their of have been e the fanaticism of the North had borne the fruits of treason, rebellion and murder. It is too late to bring water when the house burned down: and moderate counsels ally lost on excited multitudes.

le all these things are going on throughout the country, Congress is unable to organize, in consequence of the same sectional divisions, and more excitement is said to exist in that body than at any period for the last ten years. The announcement of Mr. Burnett of Kentucky, that his State was ready to secede was received with great applause.

Gov. Wise says in his message that the object of the North is "to see whether we will face a danger now sealed in blood, and that we must face it and have a settlement at once—the sooner the better."

Unprincipled politicians and commercial speculators, regardless of all consequences, are endeavoring to seize upon the present excited and unsettled state of things, and by every species of misrepresentation turn it to their own selfish ends and pecuniary advantage.

In the midst of all this confusion, we scarcely know what next to expect; and do not feel free to predict greater evil, or indulgence in the expression of flattering hopes It is right and best however, "never to despair of the Republic," while we have a Republic for which to hope.

Messrs. Hyman Brothers, TALLADEGA, ALA.—In the hurry of business last week, we unintentionally omitted to call attention to the advertisement of these gentlemen, which will be found in another column.—While in Talladega recently, we were in their store, and found their stock of Dry Goods and ready made Clothing very complete; and so far as we were able to judge, their prices low. Persons from this section, visiting Talladega, will find it to their interest to give them a call and examine their goods.

Business Change.—It will be seen by reference to the advertisement, that the business of J. R. Cavett, has been changed to that of Cavett and Sanders: and that they have added to their stock in Groceries, an assortment of Dry Goods, Clothing, Hardware, &c.

We have recently received a bill of Groceries from this house of such excellent quality and at such reasonable prices, that we take pleasure in recommending it to others; with the confident assurance, that they will get just what they order, forwarded with despatch, and upon the most satisfactory terms.

Valuable Invention.—For the benefit of the afflicted, we would here mention that we were shown the other day at the Drug Store in this place, by Mr. Noah Roberts, who has the right to vend the patent in this State and Mississippi, "Hardin's Patent Hernial truss."

This invention is said by Physicians and those who have used it, both male and female, to be the best ever invented: and we do not doubt the fact after seeing one and the manner of its application. In fact we cannot see how it could possibly be improved upon or made any better for the purposes intended. And it is not too much to say, that it may be applied without pain or injury, nor interfering with ordinary labor, and unless in extreme cases effect a radical cure.

Mr. Roberts is now in this place and expects to travel through the State generally. We advise all who are afflicted to apply to him for information and relief—and we venture that all who do so from seeing this mention will thank us that they ever saw it.

We invite the attention of Tanners to the Notice of Z. & J. Y. Henderson, who wish to employ the services of a Tanner or lease their Yard for a term of years. It is in a good neighborhood, and doubtless a good business can be done.

BOOK OF PLAYS: for home amusement. Being a collection of original, altered and selected tragedies, plays, dramas, comedies; farces, burlesques, charades, lectures, etc,

We are indebted to the kindness of Mr. G. G. Evans, Publisher, 439, Chestnut street Philadelphia, for a copy of the above named work, and find it truly interesting and entertaining. Any person forwarding $1,20 will receive a copy of the book and a prize or gift, free of postage. The plays are arranged for private representation, with full directions for performance.

☞The attention of emigrants to Louisiana and Texas, is invited to the Notice of the Rodney Ferry, said to be on the nearest and best route. By giving attention to these things, they may save both time and money.

WILD PIGEONS.—For some days past Pigeons have been more numerous in the woods and fields in this vicinity, than they have ever been since the first settlement of the country.—The men and boys have had fine sport, bringing in loads of them every day.

For the Republican.

Why have we so little veneration for our Grave Yard? Does it not present a most neglected appearance! If there is a spot on sacred than all the world beside, it here rest the bodies of our departed . Home is indeed dear to us, but the ones who are missing—oh how dear ed is the place where they repose. know how the Spirit draws our hearts and it is there we go to find them; but loved form so familiar to our hearts & is buried there, and dear to us as ever our understanding it seems to die, but it still lives to God; and although it must pass into the dishonor of the grave, yet this is but a changing process, in order to a better life. Even when we exclaim, "dust to dust," it is not like common dust, but is, in the sight of God, distinct from all other: not an atom shall be lost, "all is laid up in the storehouse of God;" and will at his command, come forth, be reanimated by the same spirit, and stand perfect and immortal. Then with what sacred awe should we regard the graves of those who "are not dead but as asleep." Ere long too, we ourselves, and those around us and about us, will also, take up our abode there; and though we may believe, "the dead in Christ repose in guarded rest," that holy angels keep their vigils o'er them, yet the blessed privilege is left to us, to bestow our care and attention upon their graves—and to adorn them with tokens of love and esteem. Oh! should we not gladly perform this sacred duty?

The Approaching Crisis—The Slavery Agitation Brought to the Point of Revolution—Programme of an Independent Southern Confederacy in default of the Maintenance of Southern Rights Under the Constitution, &c., &c.

We are approaching a crisis in our political affairs, which may possibly bring this Union to a speedy dissolution. While all the small-beer politicians and spoilsmen at Washington are debating, plotting and counterplotting for the offices and spoils of the House organization, you may depend upon it that the leading men of the South are brooding upon a far more important matter. The paramount question with them is, are we and our institutions any longer secure in this Union? and if not secure, what steps shall we take for our security?

Acting upon this idea, I understand that the following programme has been substantially agreed upon by a number of leading Southern men, in Congress and out of Congress, to wit:—

First—That in view of the Harper's Ferry abolition invasion, and its extensive and alarming ramifications; and in view of the sympathies of the abolitionized republican party for Old Brown, and of the threats of that party to reduce the South to submission, a special law shall be demanded of Congress for the future protection and security of the Southern States against all abolition conspirators, emissaries & incendiaries.

Second—That in default of such Congressional protection, the Southern members of both houses shall withdraw from Washington, and meet in a body in Richmond, Virginia, or some other convenient place, in view of the initial steps for an independent Southern Confederacy.

In anticipation of this alternative, I am further advised that this Southern Congressional meeting, in Richmond or elsewhere, will proceed to put the South in a proper position before the Great Western powers of Europe, including a programme of commercial treaties on a purely Southern basis, that can hardly fail to attract the sympathies of even England for Southern cotton, including Southern slavery.

Confronted by this contemplated Southern plan of operations, how utterly insignificant the House organization, the Charleston Convention, and all other political schemes and movements appear, in reference to 1860. If a Southern demand for Congressional protection of the institution of slavery shall be made—and it will be made—and if this protection shall be refused as it will be by the anti-slavery Northern majority of the House, then we may witness, before the close of this session of Congress, the opening of the last chapter of the great American Union. Rely upon it, that if the Southern States cannot be protected against abolition traitors and cut-throats within the Union, they will abandon the Union, peace or war; and, in view of this last alternative, the preparations for war will not be neglected by this projected Southern Congressional Convention. Northern men may say this is the old Southern cry of wolf, wolf; but they will find, perhaps when it is too late, that the wolf is really at the door.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

This document will not be sent to Congress till the House organizes. The reason stated for this course is, that something might occur in the meantime requiring a modification of that important document. Besides, should the struggle for an organization continue many days, it is probable the Executive will have additional information on two important questions to communicate, namely, those of the San Juan difficulty and our Mexican relations. The next arrival from California will probably bring more information as to the result of General Scott's mission.—On the last arrival information was not as complete as desired.

OUR RELATIONS WITH MEXICO.

By the next arrival of the Tennessee from Vera Cruz, due on the 12th instant, Minister McLane will probably send a definite statement as to the fate of the treaty he is negotiating with Mexico, or the Brooklyn, now at Vera Cruz, may bring a dispatch previously. Information from a high source is in Washington that Senor Lerdo, after having been compelled to lay in the harbor of Vera Cruz by a "norther" two days, had landed, and had a full conference with President Juarez and his Cabinet on the subject of the American treaty. The President and Cabinet were united on the question, and it was believed there would be no further difficulty in concluding the treaty on the basis understood between Mr. McLane and Senor Lerdo, the Mexican Minister here and the government at Washington. It is thought the treaty would soon be ratified after the landing of Mr. McLane, and that the Brooklyn may bring it in advance of the arrival of the Tennessee.

No confidence is placed in the statement from Mexico that Miramon and Robles were endeavoring to negotiate with Juarez. It is known, however, that Robles has addressed the constitutional President, and it is not improbable, as far as he is concerned, there may be a possibility of Robles abandoning the reactionary party.

The statement that there is a movement in the United States to aid by a large military force the constitutional government has no other foundation than that propositions have been twice made to President Juarez, by individuals said to have means. The first proposition was positively declined, and the second was refused for the time. Nothing further has been done since.

The Tennessee's mails, which arrived here to day, brought a letter from an entirely reliable source, saying that the Cabinet of the liberal government of Mexico are united in their views, and that there is every reason to believe they will agree to the pending treaty with the United States. So hopeful is the writer that he adds, it will be received in this country very soon after the meeting of Congress.

There is no truth in the newspaper report that Juarez intends asking for immediate American armed intervention. A rumor was, however, prevalent at Vera Cruz just before the Tennessee left, that the Miramon government was about to make overtures to our own, but its truth was strongly doubted.

THE ENTENTE CORDIALE BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE.

Letters received here, brought by the last mail from Europe, from high sources, represent as exceedingly critical the affair of England and France, and that there is imminent danger of a rupture between these two Powers. Unable to fathom the movements of Louis Napoleon, and doubting perhaps his good faith, her Majesty is taking swift measures to place her government in a state of security to meet any emergency.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE HOUSE.

The complications in regard to the organization of the House thicken hourly, and it is pretty definitely settled that the Republicans cannot organize the House. The programme of Weed, arranged in New York, is repudiated here.

Details of the Execution.

CHARLESTOWN, December 2.—Captain Brown was hung to-day at quarter past 11 o'clock. The military assembled at 9 o'clock, and were posted on the field where the execution took place and also at various points surrounding, as laid down in the general orders for the day. Every thing was conducted according to the strictest military discipline, as if the town was in a state of siege.

Mounted scouts were stationed in the woods to the left of the scaffold, and picket guards were stationed out towards the Shenandoah Mountains, in the rear. The military on the field formed two hollow squares: within the inner one was the scaffold, and between the inner and the outer lines the citizens were admitted—no one being allowed outside of the lines except the mounted guards.

At 11 o'clock the prisoner was brought out of the jail, accompanied by Sheriff Campbell and his assistants, and Capt. Avis, the jailor.

A small wagon containing a white pine coffin, was driven up, on which Brown took his seat. Six Companies of infantry and riflemen, one company of horse-men, and the general and staff officers, numbering twenty-five, headed the procession, which soon moved towards the place of execution.

The prisoner was not accompanied by any minister, desiring to have no religious ceremonies either in the jail or on the scaffold. He looked calmly around on the masses of people, seemingly fully self-possessed. On reaching the scaffold he mounted it with a firm step. His arms were pinioned by the sheriff, and he bid farewell to Captain Avis & Sheriff Campbell.

At half-past 11 o'clock the trap was pulled away, and with a few slight struggles John Brown yielded up his life. His body was placed in the coffin as soon as life was extinct, and it is now on its way to Harper's Ferry, to be delivered to his wife, accompanied by a strong military escort.

Second Associated Press Dispatch.

CHARLESTOWN, December 2. p. m.—The despatch sent at noon to-day has already put the public in possession of the main features of the execution of Capt. John Brown for his treasonable and insurrectionary doings at Harper's Ferry. The following embraces all the particulars of the memorable event that seem worthy of recording:

At an early hour the town was in more than usual stir, even for the stirring times that have fallen upon this neighborhood. Soon the movements of the military drew all the citizens of the place and all others who had been able to gain admittance to the town to the vicinity of the place assigned for the execution.

The prisoner was brought out of jail at eleven o'clock. Before leaving he bid adieu to all his fellow prisoners, and was very affectionate to all except Cook. He charged Cook with having deceived and misled him in relation to the support he was to receive from the slaves. He said he was lead by him to believe they were ripe for insurrection, but he had found that his representations were false. Cook denied the charge, and made but little reply to Brown. The prisoner then told the Sheriff he was ready, when his arms were pinioned, and he walked to the door, apparently calm and cheerful. He wore a black slouch hat, and the same clothes worn during his trial. As he came out, he was taken under guard of the military. Six companies of infantry and one troop of horse, with Gen. Taliaferro and his entire staff, were deploying in front of the jail.

At the door of the jail an open wagon, with a pine box, in which was a fine oak coffin, was waiting for him. He looked around and spoke to several persons whom he recognized, and walking down the steps, was assisted to enter the wagon, and took his seat on the box containing his coffin, along with Jailor Avis. He looked with interest on the fine military display, but made no remark The wagon moved off as soon as he had taken his seat, flanked with two files of riflemen in close order.

On reaching the field the military had already full possession, and pickets were stationed at various points. The citizens were kept back at the point of the bayonet from taking any position except that assigned them—nearly a quarter of a mile from the scaffold. Though the determined persistence of Dr. Rawlings, of Frank Leslie's paper, the order excluding the press was partially rescinded, and the reporters were assigned a position near the General's staff.

The prisoner walked up the steps firmly, and was the first man on the gallows. Jailor Avis and Sheriff Campbell stood by his side, and after shaking hands and bidding an affectionate adieu, thanked them for their kindness. He then put the cap over his face and the rope around his neck. Mr. Avis then asked him to step forward on the trap. He replied, "You must lead me, for I cannot see." The rope now being adjusted, and the military order given, the soldiers marched and countermarched, and took their position as if an enemy was in sight. Nearly ten minutes was thus occupied, the prisoner standing meanwhile. Mr. Avis inquired if he was not tired. Brown replied, "No; but don't keep me waiting longer than necessary."

At fifteen minutes past eleven the trap fell. A slight grasping of the hands and twitching of the muscles was visible, and then all was quiet.

The body was several times examined, and his pulse did not cease beating for thirty-five minutes. It was then cut down and placed in the coffin and conveyed under a military escort to the depot, and there put in a car to be conveyed to Harper's Ferry by special train at four o'clock. The whole arrangements were carried out with a precision and military strictness that was most annoying.

The general conviction is everywhere entertained that the rumors of intended rescue were altogether an egregious hoax.

This morning Capt. Brown executed an instrument empowering Sheriff Campbell to administer on all property of his in this State, with direction to pay over the proceeds of the sale of his weapons, if recovered, to his widow and children.

BROWN'S INTERVIEW WITH HIS FELLOW-PRISONERS.

Sheriff Campbell bid the prisoner farewell in his cell, and Brown returned his thanks to him for his kindness, & spoke of Capt. Pate as a brave man. He was then conducted to the cells of his fellow-prisoners, desiring to take his leave of them.—Entering the cell of Copeland and Green, he told them to stand up like men, and not betray their friends. He handed each a quarter of a dollar, saying that he had no more use for money, and having said this he bid them a final farewell.

Next he visited Cook and Coppie, who were chained together. Addressing Cook, he remarked, "You have made false statements." Cook asked, "What do you mean?" Brown replied, "Why, in stating that I sent you to Harper's Ferry." Cook replied, "Did you not tell me in Pittsburg to come to Harper's Ferry and see if Forbes had made disclosures?" Captain Brown, No, sir! You know I protested against your coming."

Capt. Brown on his way to Execution.

On his way to the the scaffold, Mr. Sadler, the undertaker, remarked to Capt. Brown, "You are a game man captain." To which Capt. Brown replied: "Yes I was so trained—it was one of the lessons of my mother; but it is hard to part from friends, though newly made." Then he remarked—"This is a beautiful country—I never had the pleasure of seeing before." On reaching the field in which the gallows was erected, Brown said: "Why are none but military allowed in the enclosure? I am sorry the citizens have been kept out."

As he reached the gallows he observed Wm. Hunter and Mayor Green standing near, to whom he said, "Gentlemen, good-bye;" his voice not faltering in the least.

While on the scaffold Sheriff Campbell asked if he would take a handkerchief in his hand to drop as a signal when he was ready. He replied "No—I do not want it; but do not detain me any longer than is actually necessary."

Another Excitement.

Shortly after the execution, and whilst the body was being taken to the depot, a great excitement was occasioned in the town by the arrival of a horseman, announcing that "Wheatland," the late residence of Geo. W. Turner, shot at Harper's Ferry, was on fire: that the dwelling was burnt, and the fire was extended to the farm building of W. F. Turner, who was in town and had left home at 10 o'clock, who said that several of his horses had died very suddenly, and also some of his sheep, supposed to have been poisoned. He said he intended to have the contents of their stomachs examined by a chemist.

The stock of Mr. Castleman and Mr. Myers, in the same neighborhood, had also died very mysteriously. The excitement on hearing these stories became very great, and Col. Davis had the Fauquier cavalry in readiness to go out and inquire into the truth of the report about the fire.

The body of Capt. Brown arrived at the Ferry at 5 o'clock, and will be taken on by Mrs. Brown and her friends by express direct to Albany, N. Y. It is desired to avoid all public demonstrations on the route, and Mrs. Brown is determined that the body shall not be seen anywhere on the route to North Elba, where it will be deposited in the family burying ground.

Mrs. Brown speaks in the highest terms of the kindness extended to her by the citizens and authorities of the State of Virginia. She, of course, is in great distress. She has most favorably impressed all who have met with her as being a woman of fine feelings, and great affection for her husband.

The rumored fire which so excited the citizens of Charlestown, proved to be a fabrication, and all is quiet again.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—No organization of the House has been effected yet. It is freely acknowledged that to-day has been the most stormy and exciting day in Washington for the past 10 years. Mr. Burnett, of Kentucky, said his State was ready to secede, which was received with great applause.

In the Senate there was a sharp debate on Mr. Mason's resolution. The prospect for the South is good.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—In the Senate to-day a long discussion ensued, on the resolution introduced yesterday, by Mr. Mason, of Va.

Mr. Trumbull, of Illinois, favored the investigation proposed in Mr. Mason's resolution, but he desired also to have an investigation into the occurrences which took place in 1855, at Liberty, in Missouri.

Mr. Mason said he wanted the information to be officially communicated, and to base Congressional action on it. He denounced John Brown as a vagabond, ruffian, thief and a robber.

Mr. Hale of New Hampshire, made as usual with him a humorous speech on resolution.

Mr Hunter, of Va rebuked Senator Hale for the levity of his remarks upon such a question and said it sounded in his ears like the laugh of an inebriate, in a house of mourning, or by the bedside of the dying.

Messrs. Green, of Missouri, Pugh, of Ohio and Iverson, of Ga., favored Mr. Mason's resolution, but opposed Mr. Trumbull's amendment.

Mr. Wilson, of Mass and Mr. Clark, of New Hampshire, advocated the amendment and the resolution.

[The resolution offered on Monday by Mr. Mason, of Va., provided for the appointment of a select committee to inquire into the nature and consequences to the General Government of the recent capture of the United State Armory at Harper's Ferry.

No definite action was taken on the resolution, and the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The discussion on the resolution offered on yesterday by Mr. Clarke, of Missouri, was resumed to day. That resolution declared that certain members of the House now in nomination for Speaker, had endorsed and recommended Helper's Impending Crisis and that the doctrines and sentiments contained in it are insurrectionary and hostile to the domestic peace and tranquility of the country, and that no member, who had endorsed or recommended it, was fit to be Speaker of this House

Mr. Leake, of Virginia, said he was in favor of the resolution, and desired to make the Republicans in the Representatives hall face the music.

Mr. Milson, of Virginia was very severe in his denunciations against the endorsers of Helper's book, and said they were not only unfit to live in any country where Constitutions and laws were formed, enacted and regarded.

Mr. Keitt, of South Carolina, said that the present state of feeling between the free and the slave States was the legitimate fruit of the seed sown by Seward, of New York, and those who affiliate with him.

Messrs. Sherman, of Ohio, and Curtis, of Iowa, said as Republicans, that they did not justify any interference with the relations of master and slave.

Mr. Gilmer, of N. C., offered a proposition reiterating the declarations of the Whig and Democratic parties, heretofore made of frowning down all attempts to agitate the slavery question, either in or out of Congress.

Other members engaged in the discussion.

The House adjourned without taking a vote for Speaker

We are in the midst of great excitement, and no one can forsee the result.

FRANCE AND ENGLAND.

The phantom knife which Henry the Fourth carried so long in his bosom at last flashed in the hand of Ravailliac. Is the vision of a French invasion, which perplexes and torments the English, to pass likewise from a phantasmal condition to that of an incarnate reality? Are French ships to ride triumphant in the channel, and French armies to scale the cliffs of Dover? Is the color to eclipse the red-cross? Is Waterloo to be avenged? Who knows? Who can fathom the depths of that profound mind which at this moment directs the destinies of France, if not of Europe? Yet one thing is certain. In spite of the seeming alliance between France and England during the last few years, there has really been but little love on either side. To suppose that the traditional animosities of centuries could be dispelled by the temporary arrangements dictated by political necessity, is to imagine that deep-rooted passions and settled convictions can be eradicated by a verbal formula A nation's history is its life. Its prejudices, its passions, its antipathies belong to its history, and are an integral portion of its being. It can not sacrifice them to a syllogism They continue to abide in the popular heart, however they may be covered up by the euphemism of diplomacy, or obscured by the devises of statecraft.

It is not wonderful, on the contrary, it is very natural that the shadow of Waterloo should fall with dark & menacing effect across all the paper alliances that conceal, but can not dispel the mutual animosity of France and England. Neither is it strange that while that great defeat remains uncompensated, England should be perpetually haunted by the terror of French revenge.

St. Helena is the skeleton in England's closet. The vision of the great Napoleon, chained to a lonely rock in a distant sea, is the evil genius which she can not exorcise. It is eternally before her eyes, beckoning French armies to her shores, and whispering grim warnings of retribution. There is something terribly dramatic in all this No one can observe the agitation with which every sign of French aggrandizement, every increase of French strength is received in England, without becoming convinced that its causes lie far deeper, and are much more powerful than mere jealousy of a rival nation, or apprehension of hypothetically hostile intentions. Until those causes are removed, their effect will always exist.

Indeed, the panic in England has become a Frankophobia, and the Frankophobia has become a sort of chronic intermittent. It has its cold stage and its hot stage, so that at one time England is in a fever, and at another time in a shiver. At one moment she trembles with fear of a French invasion, which her newspapers and many of her public men declare may take place any fine night; at another moment she is all in a glow of martial enthusiasm, and goes vigorously to work launching ships and arming volunteers. Nor are these preparations superfluous At this moment, by the blaze of her military glory, and the splendor of her achievements, France has succeeded in eclipsing all other nations. She is recognized to be the first power in the world, on land; and at sea, the magnitude of her fleets enables her to challenge competition even with England.

H ne'st illa misericordia. England has never been a great military power; but her supremacy on the sea has long been undisputed Now she sees the power whose policy rules the Continent, whose bayonets are resplendent with recent victory, whose ruler represents the grand idea which she vainly strove to consign to a perpetual exile among the waves of the Atlantic, questioning the maritime supremacy, and covering her sea with vast and powerful armaments

When the Italian was about to begin France refused to disarm, on the plea that she had not armed. Yet in a week, she plunged into a bloody war with the greatest military power of Europe. Peace soon followed in the path of victory; and still France did not disarm. Not a soldier was dismissed, not a ship was put out of commission. On the contrary, military preparations went on with as much energy as ever. At this time France is better prepared for war, both by land and sea, than at any former period of her history. England's alarm, therefore, so far from being unreasonable, is only the expression of well-grounded apprehensions, and the manifestation of a very necessary caution. The very fact that France has made preparations so gigantic, that she maintains armies so vast; that she builds navies so numerous, is sufficient to give her an over shadowing influence, unless equal preparations are made by her rival. Should England remain an idle spectator of these great efforts across the channel she would not only invite the blow which timely precaution might avert, but she would sink at once into the second rank among nations with whom military and naval power is the test of supremacy. To this she has no idea of coming. No body need expect that England will abandon her assumed preeminence without a struggle. Louis Napoleon may soon have use for all the ships he has been building, and all the armies he has been organizing, to meet England on the seas, and repel the allies she will be sure in the event of a conflict, to subsidize on the Continent. It may turn out, after all, that the armistice of Villa Franca was but a temporary suspension of hostilities, and the peace of Zurich but a truce.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
Calhoun County }

Court of Probate for Calhoun Co., Ala.
Special Term Nov. 9th,
A. D. 1859.

THIS day came Joseph C. Martin, Administrator of the Estate of Anderson White, dec'd, and filed his report in writing, setting forth, that said estate, to the best of his knowledge, is insolvent; which report is verified by oath, and accompanied by the several statements in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, and asked that a day be set for the hearing and determining upon said report, and upon the day set, an order of court be made, declaring said estate insolvent:

Thereupon, it is ordered by the court that Monday the 19th day of December next be set for the hearing and determining upon said petition and report, and declaring said estate insolvent: and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a weekly newspaper published in the Town of Jacksonville, in said county, for thirty days prior to said day, as a notice to the creditors of said estate to be and appear at a special term of said court, to be holden at the court house of said county, on said Monday the 19th day of December next, and show cause, if any they have why an order of court should not be made, declaring said estate insolvent.

Witness: A. Woods, Judge of Probate of said county, at office in the Town of Jacksonville, on this the 9th day of November A. D. 1859.

DR. CHURCHILL'S REMEDY

FOR THE PREVENTION AND CURE OF

WINCHESTER'S

GENUINE PREPARATION OF THE HYPOPHOSPHITES

OF LIME AND OF SODA

The Specific Remedy for Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, General Debility, and all Nervous Diseases.

The success of this NEW REMEDY (discovered by Dr Churchill of P's) is obtaining for it the most UNBOUNDED POPULARITY throughout Europe and the United States.

It is a purely SCIENTIFIC PREPARATION, and acts with INVARIABLE EFFICACY in all stages of Pulmonary and nervous Diseases. The Hypophosphites increase the Principle which constitutes nervous force, and are the most powerful blood generating agents known.

The Cure of Consumption,

In the SECOND and THIRD STAGES (at a period consequently, when there can be no uncertainty as to the nature of the disease) can be obtained, IN ALL CASES by this treatment, except when the existing lesion of the lungs is of itself sufficient to produce death.

This REMEDY has not only a curative effect, but will, if used wherever there exists a suspicion of the disease, PREVENT ITS DEVELOPEMENT, & thus act AS A PRESERVATIVE WITH REGARD TO CONSUMPTION, JUST AS VACCINATION DOES WITH REGARD TO SMALL-POX.

Professional Correspondence

"COLUMBUS OHIO, Aug. 8, 1859.—I have been treating this disease for twenty-five years, and have derived more satisfaction from the use of the HYPOPHOSPHITES than from all other forms of medication combined."

"MANCHESTER, MICH. Aug. 3. 1856.—I have used the HYPOPHOSPHITES in my practice with very happy effects—so much so that I WOULD NOT BE SATISFIED TO REMAIN WITHOUT THEM."

"MIDDLEBURY, VT., Aug. 9. 1859.—I believe the HYPOPHOSPHITES used in the manner and way Dr. Churchill used them, WILL CURE CONSUMPTION."

"SHEPHERDST W. VA., Aug. 15, 1859.—I have prescribed the Hypophosphites in several cases, and am delighted with ite effectt. IT IS ACCOMPLISHING WONDERS."

"LOWELL, O, July 5, 1859.—I have used in all about forty bottles, and in but one instance have they failed to benefit the patient, and that was a hopeless one before I was called—I have had several cases given up by attending physicians, WHO ARE NOW ENJOYING COMPARATIVELY GOOD HEALTH, and EXEMPT FROM ALL THE SYMPTOMS of pulmonary disease. I have used the REMEDY in my own case, with decided success. It was regarded as HOPELESS by physicians & friends and even by myself under the old treatment. I am now able to ride in attending on the sick as many miles perhaps in a day as any other physician in the county.

"CHATHAM, PA., July 26, 1859.—I received the twelve bottles of Churchill's Remedy for Consumption. * * * IT HAS WORKED WONDERS IN EVERY CASE."

CONSUMPTIVES, in any stage of the Disease, should resort immediately to the use of the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA. "WINCHESTER'S GENUINE PREPARATION" (in simple syrup), in extra large bottles, is "chemically pure," and is prepared according to his original Formula.

Dr. Churchill's Work on ConsumPtion,

Comprising his Report made to the Imperial Academy of Medicine, Paris; Notes of Cases; and Letters Document, Testimonials, &c., together with a Circular, will be sent on receipt of TWELVE CENTS in stamps.

CAUTION.—Interested Druggists will try to sell you other preparations than mine. Do not buy them! My "Genuine Preparation" bears my fac simile signature.

Beware of all Preparations claiming to be Hypophosphites, which contain IRON, or DRUG. The country is likely to be flooded with spurious preparations. By writing to me, you obtain information that will prevent any deception being practised upon you.

PRICES.—One Bottle, $2; three Bottles, $5; Concentrated Solution, by mail, pre-paid, $2. Sold Wholesale and Retail at the Sole General Depot in the United States, (where all orders should be addressed) by J WINCHESTER, 43 John St. N Y.

A BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.—When the summer of youth is slowly wasting away on the nightfall of age, and the shadow of the past becomes deeper and deeper, and life wears to its close, it is pleasant to look through the vista of time upon the sorrows and felicities of our earliest years.—If we have a home to shelter, and hearts to rejoice with us, and friends have been gathered together around our firesides then the rough places of way faring will have been worn and smoothed away in the twilight of life, while the many spots we have passed through will grow brighter and more beautiful. Happy, indeed, are they whose intercourse with the world has not changed the tone of their holier feeling, or broken those musical chords of the heart, whose vibrations are so melodious, so tender and so touching in the evening of their life.

Howard Association.

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhœa, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors, on a review of the past feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with a renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause.

Just Published, by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, the Vice of Onanism, Masturbation or Self Abuse and Diseases of the Sexual Organs by the Consulting Surgeon, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed envelop) FREE OF CHARGE, on the receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage.

Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon Howard Association No. 2 South NINTH Street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

SELLING A NEW ARTICLE OF UTILITY, NOVELTY. BEAUTY and SALEABILITY.

[illegible], profitable, and popular inducements for dealers and traders, both local and traveling to engage in its sale.

THE GOLDEN PEN

is warranted superior to any other Metalic Pen ever introduced to the public. They are well tempered smooth, and elastic made of the Finest n Steel, and Plated with Golden Finish giving them the most attractive appearance; corrode and never fail to give satisfaction. Nothing except the finest Gold Pens ever before invented in the pen line, can compare with them in appearance, quality, saleability, economy or cheapness. They are indeed superior, and by many prefered to Solid Gold Pen, as the points never come off.

They retail much easier, at a half dime, or dime even, each, than other pens at a lower price; will last ten times longer, write smoother, and are every way preferable. Their best recommendation is the rapid introduction they are receiving in Schools, Colleges, Banks, and Mercantile Establishments generally, throughout the Union.

Their pecular construction renders them a universal favorite, while their elastic qualities make them suitable for every general use. Put up in a new and attractive style with Circulars, Cards, &c.

as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of interior and defective Linens are prepared; season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

AYER'S Ague Cure,

FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF

Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Agu[e] Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dum[b] Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilio[us] Headache, and Bilious Fevers, inde[ed] for the whole class of diseases origi[nating] in biliary derangement, cause[d] by the Malaria of miasmatic countri[es]

No one remedy is louder called for by th[e] necessities of the American people than a su[re] and safe cure for Fever and Ague. Suc[h] we are now enabled to offer, with a perfe[ct] certainty that it will eradicate the diseas[e] and with assurance, founded on proof, th[at] no harm can arise from its use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents th[e] disorder must be of immense service in th[e] communities where it prevails. Prevention [is] better than cure, for the patient escapes th[e] risk which he must run in violent attacks [of] this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expe[ls] the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGU[E] from the system and prevents the develop[e]ment of the disease, if taken on the first ap[proach] of its premonitory symptoms. It [is] not only the best remedy ever yet discovere[d] for this class of complaints, but also th[e] cheapest. The large quantity we supply f[or] a dollar brings it within the reach of ever[y] body; and in bilious districts, where FEVE[R] AND AGUE prevails, every body should have [it] and use it freely both for cure and protectio[n]. It is hoped this price will place it within th[e] reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. [A] great superiority of this remedy over an[y] other ever discovered for the speedy and ce[r]tain cure of Intermittents is, that it contai[ns] no Quinine or mineral, consequently it pr[o]duces no quinism or other injurious effec[ts] whatever upon the constitution. Those cure[d] by it are left as healthy as if they had neve[r] had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequen[ce] of the miasmatic poison. A great variety [of] disorders arise from its irritation, among whic[h] are Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headach[e] Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asth[ma], Palpitation, Painful Affection of th[e] Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Coli[c], Paralysis, and Derangement of the Stomac[h] all of which, when originating in this caus[e] put on the intermittent type, or become period[ic]al. This "CURE" expels the poison fro[m] the blood, and consequently cures them a[l]ike. It is an invaluable protection to imm[i]grants and persons travelling or temporaril[y] residing in the malarious districts. If take[n] occasionally or daily while exposed to the in[fection], that will be excreted from the system and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantit[y] to ripen into disease. Hence it is even mo[re] valuable for protection than cure, and few wi[ll] ever suffer from Intermittents, if they ava[il] themselves of the protection this remedy a[f]fords.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSI[C]

are so composed that disease within the range [of] their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their penetrating properties search, and cleans[e] and invigorate every portion of the human organ[ism], correcting its diseased action, and restorin[g] its healthy vitalities. As a consequence of thes[e] properties, the invalid who is bowed down wit[h] pain or physical debility is astonished to find h[is] health or energy restored by a remedy at once s[o] simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaint[s] of every body, but also many formidable an[d] dangerous diseases. The agent below named [is] pleased to furnish gratis my American Almana[c] containing certificates of their cures and direction[s] for their use in the following complaints: Costiv[e]ness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disordere[d] Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbi[d] Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appe[t]ite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaint[s] arising from a low state of the body or obstructio[n] of its functions. They are an excellent alterativ[e] for the renovation of the blood and the restor[ation] of tone and strength to the system debilitate[d] by disease.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarsenes[s] Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consump[tion], and for the relief of Consumptiv[e] Patients in advanced stages of th[e] disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so nu[merous] are the cases of its cures, that almo[st] every section of country abounds in persons pu[b]licly known, who have been restored from alarmin[g] and even desperate diseases of the lungs by it[s] use. When once tried, its superiority over ever[y] other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escap[e] observation, and where its virtues are known, th[e] public no longer hesitate what antidote to emplo[y] for the distressing and dangerous affections of th[e] pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon th[e] community have failed and been discarded, thi[s] has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefi[ts] on the afflicted they can never forget, and pro[duced] cures too numerous and too remarkable t[o] be forgotten.

Administrat[or's] Sale OF LAND AND PERSONAL PROPER[TY]

UNDER and by virtue of a [decree] of the Probate Court of Cal[houn] County, Alabama, rendered on [the] 17th day of October, A. D. 1859, [I] will proceed to sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder.

ON THE 26TH DAY OF DECEMBER, A. D. 1859.

At the late residence of John Bush, deceased, the following described lands belonging to the Estate of the said John Bush, deceased, to-wit:

The west half of Section twenty-one Township sixteen of Range eight, east, containing 320 Acres. Also Lots Nos. 1, 2, 7, 8, 9 and 10, in Section Sixteen of Range eight east, containing 240 Acres.

ALSO, AT THE SAME TIME AND PLACE,

I will sell the following described Personal property, belonging to said Estate, consisting of

A LARGE LOT OF HOGS, including Pork and Stock Hogs, Oxen & Wagon, Milch Cows, MULES, one PLEASURE CARRIAGE,—Sheep—a lot of WHEAT, CORN & FODDER, and various Farming Utensils, Household and Kitchen Furniture, & many articles not herein mentioned.

The Lands will be sold on a credit of one and two years in equal payments, with interest from date.

The Personal Property will be sold ON A CREDIT of TWELVE MONTHS, with interest from date on all sums over five dollars—sums of five dollars and under, Cash. Note, and two approved securities will be required, to secure the purchase money of Land and Personal Property, and no property purchased, until terms of sale are complied with.

The foregoing Lands comprise the tract upon which the late Sohn Bush died, lying within about one and a half miles of the Town of Oxford, in Calhoun County, Alabama, has a good Frame Dwelling House upon it, and all necessary out honses—land well adapted to farming purposes, a plenty of good water, in short a considerable plantation and residence.

DANIEL BUSH,
Executor of said Estate.

Economy & Progression.

In this, the age of advancement, many things new and invaluable have been introduced—not the phantoms and chimeras of other ages, but new ones, of sound and practical utility. In no department is progression better marked or more visibly to be seen than in the medical, when originating with competent men, and confined to scientific limits. Precisely of that character are the following remedial agents; none will prove more efficient, or are so often needed.

DR. LITTLE'S ANODYNE COUGH DROPS.

A new and certain cure for Coughs, Asthma Pain in the Breast; also Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds etc., among children.

This is a pleasant medicine to take, producing immediate relief, and in nine out of ten cases a prompt cure. It exercises the most controlling influenee over Coughs and Irritation of the Lungs of any remedy known, often stopping the most violent in a few hours, or at most in a day or two. Many cases thought to be decidedly consumptive have been promptly cured by using a few bottles, and wearing the Little's Strengthening Plasters on the chest. As an anodyne expectorant, without astringing the bowels, it stands paramount to all cough mixtures.

DR. LITTLE'S FRENCH MIXTURE.

This is prepared from a French Recipe (in the forms of No's. 1 and 2, the first for the acute, and No. 2 for the chronic stage.) that has been much improved upon in this country; & from its unexampled success is likely to supercede every other remedy for the cure of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Gonorrhoeal, Blenorrhoeal and Leuchorrhoea or Flour Albus Affections. This extensive compound combines properties totally different in taste and character from anything to be found in the United States in Pharmacopoea or in private practice; and in point of safety and efficiency is not rivalled in America.

DOLLAR VERMIFUGE.

Prepared and put up in bottles and vials, only by C. W. Little. In using, nothing else is required to relieve children of worms: and besides being one of the best and cheapest ever offered to the public, its frequent use in families will save much trouble and expense, as well as the lives of many children; for eight out of every ten cases generally require it.

DR. LITTLE'S RINGWORM & TETTER OINTMENT.

Hundreds of cases of Chronic Tetters, Scald Heads, and diseases of the skin generally, have beed cured by this remedy, and since the introduction of the No 2 prepaaation (being stonger) scarcely a case has been found that it will not effectually eradicate in a short time. For the cure of Cancerous Sores and Ulcers it is applied in the form of Plasters, and is almost infallible.

In addition, the Proprietor prepares, for the great convenience and certainty in prescribing, Strengthening Plasters, of the most superior qualitr, Improved Cook's Pills (an easy billious cathartic) Vegetable Pills (a mild cathartic to obviate costiveness), Antacid (for tightness and acidity of the stomach.) Tonic Bitters, etc., which will be sent on consignment if ordered.

Medicines, like everything else, are better and more economically supplied to the great mass of the people by merchants [illegible] other way.

Physicians are referred to the 13th page of Dr. Little's phamplet, to the catalouge of medicines of the Materia Medica, that he uses in compounding his different remedies, and asked to say if they are not the chief reliance of the profession, as he himself has practised medicine extensively for more than ten years, before retiring to the drug business.

In more than two hundred places in Georgia, and in all the Southern States they are to be had; and as there are scamps about who are counterfeiting his remedies, by palming off their own or something else by using the same or similar names (for no patent is wanted or secured amid the absurd patents of the day.)

N. B.—All orders and letters on business are to sent in future to LITTLE & BRO. Macon, Georgia, instead of Philadelphia.

Wholesale Agents, Dr. P. M. Cohen & Co., Charleston, S. C., McKesson & Robins, New York. & T. M. Cunningham, Selma, Ala.

Sold in Jacksonville by Hendrick & Nisbet.

In Alexandria by J. J. Vandever.

In Oxford by Dr. S. C. Williams, and by Merchants & Druggists generally. July 21.

MERCHANT MILLS,

Latest Improvement.

My merchant Mills, 2 miles west of Jcksonville, are now in full and complete operation, capable of grinding, from 3 to 400 bushels of grain per day, at any stage of water. And if a large outlay in cash, combining the best science, mechanical skill, and material in their construction, that the County afforded; with an accommodating Scientific Miller in charge of them, will entitle these mills to a share of public patronage, it is respectfully solicited.

For the accommodation of those who may remain over night, there is at hand, a comfortable house and fire-place, and lots & sheds for their stock.
