POETRY.

[Written for the N. O. True Delta.]
The Birth-Day of Robert Burns.
BY MILLIE MAYFIELD.

["Measures are being taken in Mobile to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns What will New Orleans do in the matter?"—N. O. Picayune, January 2d.

Forget him not—the bard who trilled
A lay for Auld Lang Syne,
And touched a chord whose tones have thrilled
Where'er Love's tendrils twine;
Who wrought for Age's "frosty pow,"
With song's sweet silver flow,
That halo that adorns it now—
"John Anderson, my Joe!"

And gave to immortality
The modest daisy's name,
Weaving for meek humility
A never-dying fame—
And sweetly told of lovers' faith
O'er Highland Mary's grave—
O, honor him, for Poet saith,
The loving are the brave!

Shall he, who sang the praise of Doon,
And Devon's banks, and Clyde's,
Not reap the myrtle's fadeless boon
O'er Missippi's tides?
Yea, rolling seas have borne his songs,
And sunny climes have heard?
And to All lands his fame belongs
Where thrill an English word.

All, all must own the magic spell
Of each old melody—
For childhood's pitying heart will swell
At Mollie's Elegy;
And maid, whose sire for worldly store
Would barter her away—
Grows pale, when warbling sadly o'er
The site of Robin Gray

E'en soldier lips will wreathe a smile
For him, whose cherry fancy
Brings back again the banks O'Coil
And some sweet, witching Nancy.
And graver wights to mirth give way
While following Tam O'Shanter,
By haunted auld Kirk Alloway,
As he frae Ayr did canter.

And many a heart, in which still sings
In whispers, low and deep,
The angel—tho' its prisoned wings
Seem furled in dreamless sleep—
Flutters with inborn, pure delight
Above the simple page
That stamp's the humble Cotter's Night
With precept holy, sage!

Then fill a "cup o' kindness" to
The memory of Burns—
Tho' Caledonian breezes blow
Where flowery heath inurns
Sweet Nature's child!—Ay, stretch the hand
Of fellowship, sincere,
Across the wave to Scotia's land
And wreath his honored bier.

(Written for the Southern Advocate.)
To Clarentine.
BY ANNA WORD.

'Tis a dark November day, Clara,
The wind is sighing now,
So sad and lone, as thou it sighed,
But one short year ago.
My heart is very lone, Clara,
Since thou hast gone away;
A chilly gloom enwraps it this
Chill, dark November day.

Thou art sleeping in thy grave, Clara—
Within thy narrow house;
Cold, cold will be thy wintry bed:
November soon has come,
And Winter, with its rain, Clara,
And shroud of spotless snow,
Will fall upon thy tomb, and thou
Will still sleep on below.

The world seems drear and lone, Clara,
So full of Grief and Gloom:
And yet I know, tho' thou art Dead,
Thy Spirit is at home.
Dead! yes thou art dead, Clara;
I know that thou art dead,
And yet thou livest, still love—
Above thy narrow bed.

Alone! yes I'm alone, Clara,
This dark November day;
The heart must bear its grief alone—
The portion of the clay.
It is the meed of hearts, Clara,
To mourn for those who die,
Till, in the sodden valley, they
Beneath the Shadows, lie.

Thou wast my sister friend, Clara,
We twin were very near;
Nor friendship, such as thine; love,
Again will meet me here.
Thy place is sacred still, Clara,
Alone I gave it thee;
My heart will hold, more sacred still,
Thy spotless memory.

Though tears will flow, afresh, Clara,
Each dark November day,
And thoughts of Loneliness will come
Which tears chase not away,
Yet will I often think, Clara—
Think of thee as thou art—
A smiling Angel; this will ease
My grief and gloom of heart.

In Heaven, thou art alive, Clara,
No tears are in thine eyes,
For Angels do not weep, love;
Smiles are for Paradise.
Bright flowers, without a thorn, Clara,
Bloom now for thee above,
They wither not; for flowers of Bliss
Are flowers of lasting love. 1858.

SUICIDE.—We learn that a negro girl, belonging to Mr. John Blake, some ten miles west of this place, on the Tallapoosa River, drowned herself one day last week. We have not learned the particulars, but the report is that she got mad at something,—probably her master had whipped her—and deliberately threw herself in. No one saw her but a little boy, who was not able to render any assistance. We hear that the body has been recovered.
Wedowee Mercury.

A RICH PAN FULL.—A pan full of gold weighing $31.56, the product of a single panful of dirt taken from the little Rattlesnake claim, is noticed by the Placer (Cal.) Press.

Miscellaneous.

Chaucy Lewis, the Boy Soldier.

A boy of fifteen years of age was standing before the open door of a Connecticut farm house with a little fowling piece upon his shoulder, while a matronly looking woman was standing in the doorway and gazing with moistened eyes upon him.

"Go, my son," she said, "but remember, when amid the smoke and the heat of the battle, the sentence in the blessed book I have given you, "the merciful shall obtain mercy."

"I will not forget it, mother," he replied, but our company is waiting, and now farewell."

"Good bye, my son,"—she kissed him as she spoke—"and may He how has for two score years watched over the mother, protect the son!"

A cloud of smoke hung over and enveloped the blood stained soil of Bunker's Hill. A noble looking man, in the uniform of an American General was slowly retreating with his face to the foe. The sharp report of a single rifle was heard, and Warren fell! A young soldier—almost a boy—sprang towards him and lifted his head; at the same instant a giant grenadier in the British uniform, came charging at him with levelled bayonet.

To draw an old rusty horse pistol from his breast, present and fire it, at the approaching foe, was but the work of a moment. The grenadier fell, wounded, and seizing the sword of Warren which had fallen from his grasp, the boy-soldier ran and raised it over the red-coat to dispatch him.

But why does he pause when the sword is uplifted, and allow it to fall slowly to his side, and then turn away and strike not?

He remembers the injunction of that mother, whom two months ago he left in the open door of the farm house, "Remember my son, amid the smoke and heat of the battle, 'The merciful shall obtain mercy."

The tide of battle had swept like a whirlwind over the plains of Trenton. The British cavalry had ridden with irresistible force over a detachment of men and boys, forming a portion of the left wing of the American army, and among the dead and dying, lay a boyish soldier wounded, and with his right arm broken:

A merciless party of Hessians, were ranging over the field murdering and plundering those who had fallen. They approached the boy-soldier, who dauntlessly awaited the impending death, and one of them drawing his sword was about to plunge it into the boy's side, when a gigantic red-coated grenadier rushed between the boy and the murderous Hessian and struck up the weapon.

"Hold, ruffians! That boy spared my life at Bunker Hill. It is now my turn," and raising him in his strong arms, he bore him from the bloody soil to a place of safety.

Ah! how those parting words of his mother again rang through his brain and made sweet music in his soul! "Remember my son, when amid the smoke and heat of battle, that 'The merciful shall obtain mercy."

It was never forgotten and when a little more than two years ago I stood above the venerated form and gazed upon the calm features of the aged boy-soldier, whose life had peacefully gone out like the last flickering of a candle which has burned down in its socket, I thought of those words, and in imagination could see the parting of mother and son, at the old farm house eighty-three years ago—N. Y. Waverly.

THE CHARITY OF SPEECH.—Can a higher compliment be paid to a man than to say he speaks ill of no one?—And is any man better spoken of by all than he who never opens his mouth to the detriment of his fellow creatures? And does any one in the long run live more happily than he? The charity of speech surpasses that of almsgiving; the latter, even if it be the widow's mite, is rewarded by the feeling the donor experiences, but the latter waits for its reward. The impulse that prompts one to look kindly upon his brother's sins of omission or commission, even while living as he would if he were dead, that prompts to suppress all mention of the evil within him and readily to acknowledge his good traits, to speak of man with the same delicacy of women, to remember that there is no existing creature without some redeeming trait—this impulse is one of the noblest that actuates the mind and dwells within the heart. We never meet one who has a kind word for the faults of another, without mental conviction that he would be the first to lend him a helping hand.

WEBSTER'S COURTING.—Dan'l Webster married the woman he loved, and the twenty years which he lived with her brought him to the meridian of his greatness. A anecdote is current on this subject, which is not recorded in the books. Mr. Webster was becoming intimate with Miss Grace Fletcher, when a skein of silk, which he was holding for her to wind, was getting into a knot, Mr. Webster assisted in unravelling the snarl—then looking up to Miss Grace, he said, "We have untied a knot, don't you think we could tie one?" Grace was a little embarrassed, said not a word, but in the course of a few minutes she tied a knot in a piece of tape and handed it to Mr. W.—This piece of tape, the thread of his domestic joys, was found after the death of Mr. Webster, preserved as one of his most precious relics.

The Memphis Appeal is our authority for stating that Col. Willoughby Williams, of Nashville, made and gathered on two plantations in Arkansas, upon which were worked one hundred & four hands, fourteen hundred bales of cotton, his crop for '58. To Alabama planters this does look like a good many squirrels up the same tree, yet the paper quoted vouches for its perfect correctness.

Model Speech in the Missouri Legislature.

We find the following in the reports of the proceedings of our Legislature on Friday last. It will at once occur to the reader of Mr. Pitt's speech that he is, as his name would imply, a veritable descendant of Load Chatham. His chief resemblance to that distinguished orator is said to consist in the possession of two legs, and a head with a nose on it. Read Mr. Pitt's speech.

St. Louis Democrat.

Mr. Pitt offered the following:

Resolved, That the Speaker be authorized to cause to be printed and posted one hundred bills, announcing the 8th of January, 1859.

Mr. Abney—I move to lay that resolution on the table.

Mr. Pitt. Mr. Speaker, this house passed resolutions, sir, to celebrate, in an appropriate manner, the 8th of January. This is a resolution simply asking that notice be given to the public of that day. We have declared an intention, and now, when we come to publish it, some gentleman is suddenly seized with the "retrenchment gripes," and squirms around like a long red worm on a pin hook. (Laughter.)—Gentlemen keep continually talking about economy. I, myself, do not believe in tying the public purse with cobweb strings, but when retrenchment comes in contact with patriotism it assumes the form of "smallness." Such economy is like that of Old Skinflint, who had a pair of boots made for his little boy; without soles, that they might last the longer. (Laughter.) I reverence "the day we celebrate." It is fraught with reminiscences the most stirring; it brings to mind one of the grandest events ever recorded in letters of living fire upon the walls of the temple of fame by the strong right arm of the god of war! On such occasions we should rise above party lines and political distinctions. I never fought under the banner of Old Hickory, but, "by the eternal" I wish I had. (Laughter and applause.) If the old war horse was here now he would not know his own children from the side of Joseph's coat of many colors—Whigs, Know-Nothings, Democrats, hard, soft-boiled, scrambled and fried; Locofocites, Douglasites and blatherskites! I belong to no party; I am free, unbridled, unsaddled, in the political pasture.—Like a bobtailed bull in fly time, I charge around in the high grass and fight my own flies. (Great laughter.) Gentlemen, let us show our liberality on patriotic occasions. Why, some men have no more patrotism than you could stuff in the eye of a knitting needle. Let us not squeeze five cents till the eagle on it squeals like a locomotive or an old maid. Let us print the bills and inform the country that we are as full of patriotism as are Illinois swamps of tadpoles. (Laughter) I don't believe in doing things by halves. Permit me, Mr. Speaker, to make a poetical quotation from one of our noblest authors:

"I love to see the grass among the red
May roses,
I love to see an old gray horse, for when he goes, he goses."

(Convulsive laughter.)

After the above speech, the House refused to lay the resolution on the table.

Rarey, The Horse Tamer.

The English papers contain the subjoined account of the manner in which Rarey tamed the celebrated horse Cruiser, that was known to be the most vicious and untractable animal in the kingdom:

Accompanied by one individual alone, a nobleman of undisputed nerve, temper and physical strength, Mr. Rarey proceeded to the encounter. As we have heard the story told, his injunctions to his comrade were characteristic enough "Whatever happens, my lord," said he, "don't you speak or interfere; at least, not until you see me down under his feet, and him worrying me." This compact made, he resolutely walked into the arena, which consisted of a box divided by a half door of some four feet or more in height. Stepping quietly up to this barrier, he leaned his arm upon it; so that it was just covered by the iron bar that ran along the top, and looked fixedly at the savage he intended to tame. Cruiser, from whom muzzle, head-stall, and all such impediments had been removed we believe, by some mechanical arrangements—for none dared go near enough to touch him—made his usual dash at the intrepid stranger, to pounce on him as a cat would on a mouse. Rarey stood perfectly motionless, neither altering his attitude nor the expression of his countenance in the slightest degree. Thinking he had his enemy by the arm, the horse seized and worried at the bar as if he would have bitten it through.

Again and again retiring for an impetus to the further corner, he rushed at the mysterious stranger, actually screaming in the uncontrolable violence of his rage. Rarey sustained these successive charges with the same sang froid that he had shown at the commencement of the engagement. At length, after more than an hour of this wild scene; with its frantic fury on one side, and its calm, scientific superiority on the other, the redoubtable Cruiser, blown, exhausted, dripping with sweat, and completely puzzled in his equine mind as to the properties of this figure, which he could no longer believe to be human, came quietly close to it, and true to his nature, warped as it was smelt at it, and touched it with his nose; then Rarey threw open the half door and walked boldly up to him. The last sentence speaks volumes. It was a trait not of the system, perhaps, so much as of the man. But what confidence the man must have had in system, thus to preserve his coolness and equanimity in a position which, to every one but himself, would have been of mortal danger. The "colt was now on the bird's tail," and when his own peculiar method had been resorted to, and Cruiser, converted into a quiet, docile, and particularly showy hack, had been ridden before astonished hundreds, the horse tamer was universally recognised as such.

The ample statistical returns with regard to the import, consumption and manufacture of Cotton during the last year, which are now appearing, throw much light on the influence which the commercial convulsion of 1857 has had on that great article. The importance of the subject will be a sufficient excuse for pointing it out.

The most marked effect of the sudden and violent fall in the price of cotton goods which followed that convulsion, has been to concentrate the production of both those articles in the hands of the richest and most skillful producers, and to drive weaker competitors out of the field. As far as the raw material is concerned, the cotton growers of United States have taken a more decided lead than ever; and as far as the manufacturers are concerned, a similar lead has been taken by the manufacturers of this country.

On comparing the quantities of cotton imported into the United Kingdom in the two years, it appears that the aggregate quantities did not differ much, but that the sources of supply were very different. From the United States there was last year an increase of 381,300, whilst from British India there was a decrase of not less than 319,500 bales, and from Brazil of 62,700 bales In Egyptian there is a small increase, which does not affect the result. Therefore, as relates to the supply of cotton, the effect has been to increase the import from the United States from 1,482,000 to 1,863,258 bales; but as relates to the East Indies to diminish the import from 689, 598 to 360,987, and as relates to the Brazils, from 168,614 to 106,227. We are thus more dependant than ever on the United States for our supply of cotton—the East India cotton grower having been almost driven out of the field at the time when he had began to produce a really important addition to the American supply.

Another curious effect of the convulsion of 1857 has been given to the British manufacturer the supply of cotton which his rivals in the manufacturing districts of the United States would have had in the natural course of things. In 1857 the American manufacturer consumed 702,138 bales of cotton, whilst in 1858 he consumed only 452,290, thus leaving an extra supply of 259,000 for the British manufacturers. How much he will consume this year is quite uncertain; but there has only been one year since 1851 (with the exception of the last) in which he did not consume upwards of 600,000 bales. That was 1854–5, when he consumed 563,500.

The effect of the temporary expulsion of the American manufacturer from the field of competition, and of the weakening of continental producers, has been to give to the British manufacturer almost undisputed possession of the markets of the world, but more especially of the markets of the East According to a valuable table published in the Manchester Guardian, it appears the number of packages sent to Bombay, which amounted in 1857 to 61,000 bales, had increased in 1858 to 111,000; whilst to Calcatta the number of bales, which amounted to 118,000 in 1857, had increased to 194,000 in 1858, the increase in price in the former case being from one and one and a-half millions sterling to two and a-third millions, and in the second case from less than three millions to upwards of four and a-half millions. Altogether, the increase in the value of the goods sent to India in 1858 is upwards of eight millions sterling, whilst in 1857 it was little more than five millions; and the value of the cotton goods exported in the first eleven months of 1858 is upwards of 29 millions sterling, whilst that of the corresponding eleven months of 1857 was less than 27 millions.—Liverpool Mercury, 5th inst.

A HORSE THIEF TRAGEDY IN LIVINGTON CO., N. Y.—The Livingston Sentinel, published at Dansville, on the Genesee Valley Canal, relates the circumstances of a horrible tragedy which occurred in that vicinity one night last week. A farmer hearing a noise in his stable, immediately dressed himself, & seizing a club proceeded to the scene of action; he found his stable door open and two men inside. He listened and heard one of them remark that "he could not get the bit in his (horses') mouth," when he immediately stepped to the door and enquired "who was there? This query was responded to on the part of one of the thieves by the presentation of a pistol to his breast, but without waiting for him to fire, the farmer dealt him a stout blow over the head which almost instantly killed him. He lived to say there are more ——," and then breathed his last. The other thief made himself scarce. There was about $400 found on the body of the dead man, but nothing affording a clue to his identity.

GRAVES AND ANTI-GRAVES BAPTISTS.—We learn from the Brownsville (Tenn.) Journal that a serious split has recently occurred in the Baptist church at Jackson, Tenn., growing out of an invitation extended some weeks ago by the Rev. Aaron Jones, the minister in charge, to Rev. J. R. Graves, (author of the iron wheel,) to a seat in his pulpit. Exceptions were taken by a portion of the members of the church who expressed themselves very freely in condemnation. The minister remonstrated with them, but finding them intractable, a meeting of the church was called for the purpose of investigation. A resolution was adopted by the Graves party declaring that they would no longer fellowship with the anties, whereupon the latter seized the key of the church and took possession of the building. They nailed up the church and removed the bell. The Journal says a lawsuit between the parties will be the result, as both parties claim to be the church, and the building will not be used until the suit is decided. The members seem to be about equally divided. The excitement was intense and extended to the citizens, who had no connection with the church.

The Family Opposed to Newspapers.

The man that didn't take his county paper was in town yesterday. He brought his whole family in a two-horse wagon. He still believed that General Taylor was President, and wanted to know if the "Kamkatkians" had taken Cuba, and if so, where they had taken it. He had sold his corn for thirty cents—the price being fifty-five—but on going to deposit the money, they told him that it was mostly counterfeit. The only hard money he had was some three-cent pieces, and these some sharper had "run on him" for half dimes.—One of the boys went to a black-smith's shop to be measured for a pair of shoes, and another mistook the market house for a church. After hanging his hat on a meat-hook, he piously took a seat on the butcher's stall, and listened to an auctioneer, whom he took to be the preacher. He left before "meetin was out," and had no great opinion of the "sarmint."

One of the girls took a lot of "seed onions" to the post-office to trade them for a letter. She had a baby, which she carried, in a "sugar-trough," stopping at times to rock it on the side walk. When it cried she stuffed its mouth with an old stocking, and sung "Barbara Allen." The oldest boy had sold two "coon skins," and was on a "bust." When last seen, he had called for a glass of "soda and water," and stood soaking ginger-bread and making wry faces. The shop-keeper mistaking his meaning had given him a mixture of sal soda and water, and it tasted strongly of soap. But "he'd learn tell of soda and warter, an' he was bound to giv it a fair trial, puke or no puke." Some "town feller" come in and called for a lemonade with a "fly in it," whereupon our souped friend turned his back and quietly wiped several flies into his drink.

We approached the old gentleman and tried to get him to "subscribe," but he would not listen to it. He was apposed to "internal improvements," & and he thought "larnin" was a wicked invention and a wexation." None of his family ever learned to read, but one boy, and he "reached school awhile, and then went to studying divinity."

ANOTHER HORRIBLE & SANGUINARY MURDER.—A Woman Killed by her Husband and Step-Daughter—Mysterious conduct of the Parties Suspected.—The "Taylor Flats," situated about two miles from Covington, Kentucky, has been, within the last two days, (the exact time is not known,) the scene of a tragedy almost unparalled in horror. Parties acquainted with what is called South Covington, which forms a part of the Flats, will remember that, nearly opposite Cole's Garden, there is a small grocery which has been kept for some time by a very tall man, a German, who besides his regular business, has eked out a living by bringing chips to this city for sale. His grocery and dwelling were in the same building, a long, low frame, and in this the tragedy was committed, which came near remaing undiscovered, and of which full particulars cannot yet be given.

The grocery and the house were kept closed for several hours yesterday, which so excited the suspicion of the neighbors, that finally Esquire Mentoi sought entrance, at the same time that a wagon was waiting at the door, evidently for the purpose of taking something away, the nature of which was certainly intended to be kept a secret.

A refusal was given to the 'Squire, who, feeling sure that mischief was going on, burst open the door and proceeded to ascertain the cause of the strange conduct of the inmates, who seemed frightened, yet determined to prevent his search. He continued, however, to prosecute his purpose until, in one of the rooms, he came across a rude box, in which was lying the wife of the keeper of the grocery, a bloody and mangled corpse—a spectacle full of ghastliness and horror.

Only a few minutes were required to secure the grocery-keeper, and his step-daughter, whose clothes were stained with gore. Being questioned they sternly refused to answer, and were yesterday taken to Covington & lodged in jail, whence they will be removed to undergo an examination on Monday next.

We have known this man, John Thmle by name, (more frequently called "Shanghai,") for some time, and had always supposed him a peaceable citizen. It is likely the deed was committed in a moment of passion, and an effort made to conceal all traces of the crime. He and his wife were about the same age—between 30 & 35—and both natives of Germany.

A Venerable Typo.—We enjoyed the pleasure, yesterday, of welcoming into our sanctum, Col. Robert Carr, of Philadelphia, Pa, who is a representative of the "Art Preservative," & has attained the ripe age of 81 years. He is here on a visit to his niece, Mrs. J. N. Feaster. and it is propable he will make this city his future home.

Col. Carr, notwithstanding he is an old gentleman, is upright in carriage and can walk his thirty miles a day.—He served as an errand boy to good old Benjamin Franklin, and remembers him well.

Jacksonville Republican.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

February, 3, 1859.

☞Mr. F. H. GOODWIN, is our authorized Agent, to receive and receipt for subscriptions to the Republican, contract and receipt for advertising, &c.

Our friends and patrons will confer a favor upon us, which will be gratefully appreciated, by affording him every facility in their power, in the transaction of business.

☞The Funeral Sermon of the Rev. Richard Pace, will be preached at Mt. Zion Baptist Church, near Alexandria, on the third Sunday in February next, by the Rev. J. J. D. Renfro.

Published by order of the Church.

COTTON AT 15 CENTS.—A writer in the Charleston Courier says that 15 cts. per pound for Cotton might have been obtained, by the exercise of a little firmness on the part of the planter and factor in holding on; and that 15 cents might yet be obtained for the remainder of the crop by the same policy. But he fails to estimate the loss, by such a policy, of weight of cotton, interest, and hazard of loss by fire, expense of storage, &c; and especially the fact, that what would be gained in the price of this crop, might be lost on the next, by hindering and embarrassing the manufacture of the article.

Correction.—A mistake occurred in first line of the third paragraph of our notice last week, of the molasses and sugar made by Dr. Edwards. It should have been 250 to 300 gallons of molasses to the acre.

☞See in another column the advertisement of Charles A. Pringle & Co. wholesale Boot & Shoe House, of Charleston, S. C. This is a long established and justly popular house. Those who have dealt with them have been highly pleased with both quality and prices of articles; and speak in the highest terms of the fair dealing and accommodating disposition of the proprietors.

We hope our friends from this section may not fail to give them a call while in Charleston.

☞Our enterprising fellow-citizen, J. G. Nisbet, Esq., has recently erected Steam mills, four miles north of this place, the machinery of which we understand, works admirably.

Persons wishing to have grinding done, are referred to his advertisement in another column.

Distressing Accident.—On Monday evening last, Jannet Castleberry, a little girl, about nine years of age, step daughter of S. Sherbet, was accidentally burned to death by her clothes taking fire. Although her mother was in the room at the time, and her clothes torn off as quickly as possible, she was so badly burned that she lived only until about daylight next morning.

☞See in another column, advertisement of Mr. M. K. Kimbrel, who is still engaged in the wagon making business; and prepared at all times to make or repair wagons, stock plows, cradles, &c. We have heard Mr. Kimbrel's work spoken of, as of very neat and substantial character, and doubt not he will be able to give the most entire satisfaction to his patrons.

The largest yet.—We were presented the other day, with a turnip, from D. Hines Esq. of this County, which weighed six pound and a half. Who can beat it?

If you want Bargains,

Don't fail to attend Elston & McCain's Auction, on Thursday the 17th inst. Their entire stock will be sold without reserve, which will doubtless afford a better opportunity, than may occur for years, to obtain goods at very low prices.

Letter from Hon. J. F. Dowdell--He Retires from Public Life.

In publishing the letter which appears below from Hon. James F. Dowdell, declining a re-nomination to Congress from the District which he so gallantly conquered in 1855, and so nobly held in 1857, we should be doing injustice alike to our own feelings, and his true merits, were we to withhold the expression of our sincere regret at the determination on his part, which is to deprive the country of a conscientious and valued public servant, and the commonwealth of Alabama of the voice and counsels of one, who in the darkest hour of her political fortunes threw himself in the breach, and absolutely wrung a victory from the opposition, that made his name familiar as household words, in every section of the country where constitutional doctrines are taught and accepted. During the years which have made up the term of service of Mr. Dowdell, as Representative from the third Congressional Dist. of Alabama, he has succeeded by his respectful courtesy, his constant attention to the duties of his position, and his unexceptionable and unquestioned morality, in winning the esteem of his compeers; while their perfect respect has been awarded him for his devotion to what he conceived the best interests of his country, and his quick ability to defend and maintain the rights of his particular section. His retirement from public life is Alabama's loss; for a truer son she never sent to the councils of the nation, and a better man has seldom resigned to a constituency the trust with which he had been confided.

Confederation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11, 1859.

Fellow Citizens:

It has been known, for some time, to many friends in the District, that I would not be a candidate for re-election to Congress. A public announcement of this determination is proper now, that ample opportunity may be afforded for the selection of another to represent you.

In dissolving the relation which has so long and agreeably subsisted between us, my solicitude for your welfare, and devotion to your interests, will not be, in the slightest degree, diminished.

For the cordial support which I have received from a true and warm-hearted constituency, I shall ever feel grateful. And in this connection, I cannot forget my friends in the Old Seventh (now so well and ably represented by the Hon. J. L. M. Curry) who first took me by the hand, and honored me with their confidence. My grateful acknowledgments to them are likewise tendered, and the recollection of their kindness will end only with life. Yet, whilst justly appreciating personal friendships, so gratifying to me, I am not unmindful of the fact that victory was achieved by the strength of the principles maintained, and the honor of the triumph belongs to the cause, not to the advocate.

To the past I will recur only to say, my record is with you. Conscious of having endeavored to do my whole duty, and to serve you faithfully, I shall be content to abide your judgment.—Fidelity to you has been my controlling passion. And my representative duties have been pleasant, because I have ever felt I had the honor to represent a people who desired nothing but what was right, consistent with the Constitution, and in harmony with the welfare of our whole country.

In retiring to private life, with the pleasing memories of past friendships, I should do injustice to myself not to say, that for those of you who have differed with me on political questions, I entertain no unkind feelings. Whatever unpleasant things may have occurred in the heat of party conflicts, shall, on my part, be buried and forever forgotten. We all have common interests to cherish, and common institutions to protect. In weal or in woe the same destiny awaits us. Then let all our differences of opinion, fellow-citizens, be ever characterized by moderation; let us cease "to strive about words to no profit;" and let us labor earnestly to promote that harmony in council and union in sentiment which only can preserve the integrity of our Government, or, failing in that, shelter us safely in the storm of civil commotions. May God incline the hearts of our people to love each other, and continue over them His fostering care and gracious providence!

With great respect,
Your obedient servant,
J. F. DOWDELL.

Thirty-Fifth Congress—2nd Session.

SENATE.

Washington, January 19.—The Senate met at the usual hour.

On motion of Mr. Pugh the resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish to the Senate a list of all the articles exported to Cuba from the several ports in the United States during the past five years, and specifying the estimated value of the imports from that Island during the same period, was adopted.

Mr. Jones introduced a bill for the redistricting of the State of Iowa.

The joint resolution of Mr. Hale, for the restoration of officers displaced by the retiring board, was referred to the naval committee.

The invalid pension bill was considered, laid aside and the Pacific railroad bill taken up. A long discussion upon the general features of the bill & its constitutionality ensued, in which Messrs. Simmons, Benjamin, Davis and others participated. No new views were presented not hitherto reported, and without taking a vote the Senate went into executive session, and afterwards adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The bill recognizing the survey of the grant of Teneriffe Island, in the State of Louisiana, was passed.

Mr. Cobb, from the committee of public lands, reported back the bill for the relief of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, with an amendment. The amendment was agreed to, and the bill passed by yeas 135; nays 34.

Mr. Cobb also reported a bill to amend "an act granting rights of preemption to settlers upon the public lands of the United States."

Mr. Grow, of Pennsylvania; offered an amendment providing that from and after the first of May, 1859, no public lands should be exposed to sale under proclamation of the President until the same should be surveyed and the return thereof filed in the Land Office for at least ten years.

Mr. Jones, of Tennessee, moved to lay the bill on the table. Lost by yeas 40; nays 120.

The Speaker laid before the House a message from the President of the United States, transmitting a report from the Secretary of State containing all the correspondence which has hitherto taken place between this government and the governments of Europe in reference to the acquisition of Cuba. Also, a communication from the Secretary of the Navy, in response to a resolution of the House, stating that there was no evidence to show that non-Episcopal chaplains have been compelled to use the forms of the Episcopal Church.

The House then proceeded to consideration of bills upon the speaker's table, and took up the Senate bill for deepening the St. Clair Flats, which was referred to the committee of the whole.

The House then went into committee on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill.

Mr. Keitt, of S. C., referred to the geographical position of Cuba, and said that in the hands of a strong naval power it could make the Gulf of Mexico a Mare Clausum. He thought we should not allow the Island to remain in the hands of any power, strong or decrepid, which could control our commerce and menace our shores.

He quoted from Adams and Forsyth to show that its importance to our country had been recognized for many years. He dilated upon its fertility and productiveness, and went into statistics to show that our intercourse with Cuba was more extensive than that of any other power, and asked if every part of the Union was not interested in that? Her tariff was so high, that while Spain stricken and beggard as she is, with her starving population, exports to that Island 520,000 barrels, the United S. sends but 5000 barrels. Remove the tariff and what would be the interest that every section of the Union would have in the commerce of Cuba?

The navigation interest of the North was also deeply affected. There were 3918 vessels engaged in the carrying trade of Cuba the world over; of these the United States furnished 2370, Spain but 501; England 348, and France 126 and out of a little over 500,000 tonnage the United States contribute one-half. Was not, then, that portion of the United States interested in the shipping business vitally and deeply interested in the acquisition of Cuba, for it was only by its acquisition that they could strike the shackles from its commerce.

There were two modes of acquiring the island, one by purchase and the other by conquest. He did not believe the United States could purchase it; 1st because it was a source of large revenue to Spain, defraying all the expenses of her consular and diplomatic system on this continent; and secondly, because of the inveterate and traditional pride of Spain. The traditions of the period when the Spanish Empire was world-wide protested against the sale, and what would be the risk of acquiring the island by war? Could it be done without a conflict with Great Britain and France? Both have guaranteed to Spain her sovreignty over the Island of Cuba, and the gathering of their fleets in the waters of the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico indicates no disposition to recede from this guarantee.

With France we could understand it—Louis Napoleon, with the relentless ambition which marked his distinguished kinsman, wishes to establish a splendid colonial empire in the West Indies. To create and establish this it was necessary that the power of the United S. should be crippled and hemmed in.—With his hand upon the very throne of tropical empire, his army would be invincible, and his hand would clutch the sceptre of universal commerce, now passing to us; and when he shall have consolidated an empire, then the very power which he had made instrumental in crippling the United States would undergo subjugation.

The policy of Great Britain was only expicable upon the theory of subservience to France. He believed her diplomacy had placed her in the grasp of France, and she was now only moving at the dictation of Napoleon.

Mr. Ritchie asked whether the gentleman thought the United States had a right to take Cuba because they had a government that we did not approve of?

Mr. Keitt replied that he did not; but he would say, that the long catalouge of oppressions and insults recieved from Spain justified a declaration of war: and no other government had a right to complain.

Mr. Lovejoy, of Illinois, moved to strike out the appropriations for all foreign ministers except the minister to Spain; which was rejected.

Mr. Colfax, of Indiana, offered an amendment to strike out the appropriation for the minister to Persia, which was adopted.

Mr. Curry submitted a similar amendment in regard to the Buenos Ayers mission. Carried.

Messrs. Stanton, of Ohio, Scales, of N. C., and Garnett, of Virginia, advocated retrenchment in this branch of the public expenditure. The latter moved to strike out the appropriation for the mission to Rome; which was carried.

Mr. Curry made a similar motion in regard to Switzerland; which was adopted.

Mr. Barksdale, of Miss., thought we should have diplomatic representatives abroad, and pay them well, and that retrenchment and reform should commence elsewhere. The opposition manifested a great desire for economy, but were ready to vote for river and harbor bills, the French spoliation bill, and other extravagant expenditures.

Mr. Stanton replied by saying that the administration side of the House was responsible for the appropriations—they had the majority.

Mr. Burnett, of Kentucky, moved to strike out the appropriations for all missions except those to Great Britain, France, Spain, Russia, Mexico, China and Paraguay, and reduce the whole appropriation from $214,000 to $130,000.

After some debate of a conversational nature, the Committee rose without taking a vote

Mr. Phelps moved again to go into Committee on the President's Message, and then take a recess till 7 p. m., which motion prevailed.

EVENING SESSION.—The House reassembled at seven o'clock. Mr. Humphrey Marshall, of Kentucky, made a speech against the republican sectional issues.

Mr. Scott advocated the Pacific Railroad bill, without regard to the route.

Mr. Andrews made a speech against the free trade.

Before nine o'clock the committe rose and the House adjourned.

We publish as a great curiosity the following characteristic letter, received by our friend Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass. from the "Rebel Chief," or usurping Empire of China, in acknowledgement for quantities of his Cherry Pectoral and Cathartic Pills, the Doctor sent him as a present.

To Dr. Ayer in America—

The great curing Barbarian of the outside country. Your present of sweet curing seeds (Pills) and fragrant curing drops, (Pectoral) of the Cherry smell, has been brought to Hug-seu-Tsene—the mighty Emperor (Kwang-to) of the terrible stout Ming dynasty, by the grace of heaven revived after an interval of ages—Prince of peace (Ta-ping-wang) of China, the central flowery land. He directed his powerful Mandarines to give them to the sick according to what the Interpreters read from your printed papers (directions.) Be profoundly happy, O wise Barbarian! for I, Yang-seu-Tsing, say it. Your curing seeds and sweet curing drops were given to the sick in his Army of the Winged-Sword, and have them well. Be profoundly happy while you live for this is known to the Mighty Emperor of China, who approves your skill, and permits you to send more of your curing medicines for his fierce armies of myriads or men.

They may be given to Chiang Lin, Chief Mandarin of the Red Battyn at Shaghai, who will repay you with Tea or silk or Gold.

The high Mandarins of China, have heard of your great knowledge, surpassing all other Foreigners, even aspiring to equal the keen wisdom of our own healing teachers, who make remedies that cure instantly. We are glad to know you bow in trembling terror before our Mighty Emperor.

Written by YANG-SEU-TSING, Minister-in-chief of the restored Imperial Ming Dynasty, destined by the heavenly wisdom to rule in China.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, January 25.—Nothing of importance was transacted in either House to-day.

WASHINGTON, January 26.—In the Senate the Pacific Rail Road Bill was amended, and it will be pressed to a vote to-morrow. The bogus Indiana Senators have been refused a seat on the floor of the Senate, during the time their claim for seats are pending.

In the House the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation Bills were under discussion, and the Southern members took strong grounds against the appropriation for the maintainance and education of the Echo negroes. The Northern Democrats and Republicans took the opposite side, and sustained the Piesident in his course in the affair. Mr. DOWDELL, of Alabama, moved to strike out a clause in the Bill appropriating seventy-five thousand dollars, to be used by the President in suppressing the slave trade, which caused rather a sectional disscussion.

OBITUARY.

DIED at her residence in Calhoun c'ty, on the 27th of Jan. last, Mrs. Sarah Weir. Mrs. W. was born on the 8th Oct. 1813, in Chester Dist. S. C. and was the daughter of Vincent and Elizabeth Brown. She was married to David Weir on the 8th Sep 1831. She attached herself to the Presbytorian Church about 6 years before her death and led the life of a devout and exemplary christian. In all the different relations of life, she performed the duties devolving on her with faithfulness. She was a devoted wife, a kind and affectionate mother, a good neighbor and an humble christian. About 7 years since, she lost her husband, and the care of a numerous family devolved on her. Her counsels and example yet remain with her children so that "being dead she yet speaketh." Her death has made a great void in that household, yet her children though they can see her face no more on Earth can look up to Heaven and see it shining sweetly u o them in the day and in the silent watches of the night continually saying "Come up hither." Will not her children, to whom she was so endeared strive to meet her in yonder bright world, by imitating the example of her faith and piety?

"When soon or late you reach that coast
O'er life's rough ocean driven,
May you rejoice n wan lerer lost,
A family in Heaven."

A SONG.

"The Mill-Boy of the Slashes."

——"Gone is the light of the eagle eye
The eloquent tongue—it is mute."

Like an angel of Wrath,
With black wings unfurl'd,
He swept through the Halls of Debate;
He plead for the Union,
And like a Titan he hurled
A lasso on Seward, the great!

"Thy vocation is gone!"
Said the proud hissing lip,
And his finger pointed straight at his foe,
Who now, crouching pale,
Felt his craven heart fail,
"And beautifully less seemed to grow!"

Now the shadow of Washington
Flits to and fro,—
Looms up on the high ghostly wall;
He yearns o'er his people—
The temple he built,—
And the speaker portrayeth it all.

See! See! the lofty one,
The broad kingly brow,
Towering high in the strife of debate;
Now others may quail,
And cowards turn pale:
But he roweth the ship of the State!

Once a young man he came,
He had naught but his name,
As he strode thro' the halls of Debate;
Yet his lip proudly curled
As the pennon unfurl'd
For he carried the flag of his State!—

Yet, for "Union" he plead,
And each livid thread
With the shuttle of genius that came,
Seemed instinct with fire,
For his eloquent ire
Was woven in an ocean of flame!!

* * * * * *

Dark, dark will be the day,
When the memory of Clay
Is forgot in the "land of the Free;"
Ino legend doth tell—
Ere then—we know well,
Our freedom a fossil will be!

CRAZY JANE.

For the Republican.

"Little Sue Wood."

To the low couch where lay our "little Sue,"
An angel, with pinions unfurled and light,
Came hastily down and bore her away
To a home in Heaven beautiful and bright.

Three summers' breaths had scarcely come & gone
With their birds so gay, and flowers so sweet,
When hushed was her voice, and stilled was her form,
And faded the rose that bloomed on her cheek.

The bright smile that once o'er each feature played,
Like sunbeams in the west, still linger'd there
Once more to throw its soft tints o'er her face
Ere from its dimpled birth-place rent afar.

The fily in its pearly pearly beauty, slept
Upon the cheek from whence the rose had fled;
And all colorless and pale the clotted lips
Of that sweet child, the loved and early dead.

"Her sunny curls like shattered sunbeams, lay
Upon her brow as sun-tints o'er a cloud,
And softly blended with the loosened folds
Of her last winding sheet—the ghostly shroud"

Her hands upon her pulsless bosom lay
Like petted doves within a downy nest,
And seemed to guard the dusty portals whence
Her soul had fluttered to its Eden rest.

Her soft white forehead to the touch so cold,
By the mother's lips were pressed with fond care,
As though she but slumbered in realms of bliss,
And might wake from that world so blest and fair.

Wild bird's their requium as blithsome sing
Where the mother's plaintive cries, are oft heard
To blend in wild anguish with the sad notes
That is breathed in low strains by each passing bird?

Will flowers bloom as sweetly and lovely
Where the willows their boughs mournfully wave,
And the giant oaks stand sentinel to guard
One who thus early has gone to the grave?

Yes, the violet and daisy will grow,
And each as gracefully raise its bowed head
As if woven in garlands for a brow
That ne'er walked o'er the low turf of the dead

And birds will gaily chant their morning lays
Among the boughs of the oak and willow,
As though they waved o'er marble courts of kings?
And for sunbeams, the grave be a pillow.

But tears that freely fall from parents' eyes.
Loaded with freaks of woe and anguish wild,
Utter the depths affections stab the heart.
Since angels have taken their darling child.

FITS! FITS! FITS!

Persons laboring under this distressing malady will find Dr. Hance's Epileptic Pills to be the only remedy ever discovered for curing Epilepsy or Falling Fits. These Pills possess a specific action on the nervous system; and although prepared especially for the purpose of curing Fits, they will be found of especial benefit to all persons afflicted with weak nerves, or whose nervous system has been prostrated or shattered from any cause whatever.—The dyspeptic patient, whose stomach has lost the power of duly converting food into a life sustaining element, is relieved by a single course of the extraordinary Pills. The gastric fluid re-acquires its solvent power, and the crude nutriment which was a load and a burden to the sufferer, while his digestive organization was paralyzed and unstrung, becomes under the wholesome revolution created in the system, the basis of strength, activity, and health.

A CARD

TO THE

Medical Profession.

Having had for my object the preparation of a remedy that would be beneficial in all cases where an external application is indicated, without being injurious in any. I have devoted a number of years to studying and experimenting. After making thousands of experiments and consulting the best authors and most scientific chemists and physicians of the day, I have at length succeeded in making a Medicine that will recommend itself to every one who studies its combination. Every intelligent Physician and Druggist will see at a glance, from the analysis given below, that it is composed of the very best remedies for external use in the Materia Medica.

THIS IS NOT A SECRET REMEDY:

Every person who can read may know its composition; its effects are also well known. One hundred thousand Bottles made according to this prescription have been sold and used. The result in every case was always uniform and satisfactory. Read the analysis made by one of the most popular and scientific Chemists in the United States.

ANALYSIS

Porter's Oriental Life

LINIMENT,

MADE BY

C. W. WRIGHT, M. D.

Professor of Chemistry in the Kentucky School of Medicine, December, 1858.

To R. D. PORTER:

Sir:—The ingredients which enter into composition of the Preparation known as "Porter's Oriental Life Liniment," which was left with me for qualitative chemical analysis, were found on examination to contain the following ingredients:

Eupione,	Capnomar,
Paraffine,	Oil from Resin,
Picamar,	Naptha,
Pitical,	Carbonate of Potassa

All of the above ingredients, with the exception of Carbonate of Potassa are eminently antiseptic. As the composition of the above preparation is no longer a secret, I have no hesitancy in stating that it is a safe and efficacious external remedy for the diseases in which it is recommended.

Respectfully, C. W. WRIGHT.

Hundreds of physicians use and prescribe Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, believing it to be the best remedy for that class of diseases in which it is recommended. They know its composition and prescribe it with as much certainty, as to its effects, as they do any other remedy.

The following are a few of the many eminent and influential physicians who have written letters to the proprietor speaking in the highest terms of the medicinal properties of the Oriental Life Liniment:

Dr. W. D. Reid, of Jefferson county, Ky.
Dr. Moses Appelgate, Crothersville, Ind.
Dr. Bruce, of Newcastle, Ky.
Dr. J. H. Jupin, of Morganfield Ky.
Dr. J. L. McConnel, Obian Valley, Tenn.
Dr. J. W. McDonald, Butlersville, Ind.
Dr. R. B. Parker, Liberty, Ky.
Dr. R. H. Perryman, Boston, Ky.
Dr. D. Terrell, Felixville, Ky.
Dr. C. H. Harris, Charleston, Ky.
Dr. J. W. Hodges, Colemansville, Ky.
Dr. W. E. Olds, Maples, Ind.

The Oriental Life Liniment will be found of great benefit in Frosthites Rheumatism, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, &c. &c. Put up in 25c 50 c and $1 Bottles, and sold by all Druggists and Country Merchants. Manufactured by

Cotton Cultivator.

LETTERS PATENT were granted to the undersigned, on the 6th day of July, 1858, for his improvement in Cotton Cultivators; to which he calls the attention of both Cotton and Corn Cultivators.

The plow will penetrate the ground to any required depth, and will pulverise and loosen the soil, and cut off all the weeds. It will mow close to the stalks of cotton or corn, and loosen the soil near the roots without injuring or destroying them. It does not make a furrow, or turn over the soil, but loosens it up and lets it fall back into its place again. It is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of cotton; and one horse power is sufficient to propel it.

It is believed, as will be seen by the following certificate, that it will save 25 per cent. of labor over the best improvements, and at least 50 per cent. over the common plow.

He believes the cultivator entitled to all he claims for it, and in support of his belief, he calls the readers attention to the subjoined certificate of Messrs. Moragne and Hollingsworth, who are the only persons who have tried the Cultivator. As to its utility no more need be said—TRY IT—its BEST recommendation is ITS USE.

He offers for sale County or State rights at reasonable prices. Address,

ASBERRY SMITH,

Jan. 20, '59—6m. Jacksonville, Ala.

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 15, 1859.

The undersigned have used the Cotton Cultivator of Asberry Smith, and we take pleasure in saying, that is a most excellent plow; superior to any we have ever used in the cultivation of cotton, & saves at least 25 per cent. in labor, over any plow we have ever tried, and from 30 to 50 per cent. over the common plow. In the cultivation of young corn it is superior to any we have tried. We take pleasure in recommending it to the public as worthy of patronage, as we believe from actual experiment, it comes fully up to all that is claimed for it.

Is there a husband, father, or brother in the United States, who will permit the drudgery of hand sewing in his family, when a Grover & Baker Machine will do it better, more expeditiously, and cheaper than can possibly be done by hand?

PRICES GREATLY REDUCED.

OFFICE, No. 505 BROADWAY, N. YORK

SEND FOR A CIRCULAR.

GOOD NEWS.—A reduction in the prices of Sewing Machines is announced in our advertising columns. Their utility is established beyond question, and at the present prices we see no reason why they should not be found, as they ought to be, in every household. Several varieties are manufactured, adapted to various purposes. So far as public opinion has been framed and uttered, the preference is emphatically accorded to the Wheeler and Wilson machine for family use, and for manufactures in the same range of purpose and material. During the present autumn the trials have been numerous, and all the patents of any pretension have been brought fairly into competition. In every case, the Wheeler & Wilson machine has won the highest premium. We may instance the State Fairs of New-York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, Wisconsin, Virginia, Michigan, Indiana, Mississippi, Missouri & California, & the Fairs in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Richmond and San Francisco.—At the Fair of the St. Louis Mechanical Association, the Examining Committee was composed of twenty-five Ladies of the highest social standing, who, without a dissenting voice, awarded for the Wheeler and Wilson Machine, the highest and only premium, a Silver Pitcher, valued at $75. If these facts do not establish a reputation, we know not what can.—Christian Advocate & Journal.

True Democrat.

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above Institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case. Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c, will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N Y.

P. S. Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the application of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

JOB WORK

THE LIVER
INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS. IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the Liver—its organ—the Liver—in consequence of one or the other having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of the t organ the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable. To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all bad matter from the liver, their place a healthy action of the stomach, bowels; well, purifying tone and health to the whole machinery removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Billious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

DR. MORSE'S
INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anelog the passage to the lungs, and thus, in soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great a nd wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great a nd wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL,
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BELMFIELD, MASS., 29th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say he best remedy I have ever found for oughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the mountant symptoms of a Cold, is your HERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in y practice and my family for the last en years has shown it to possess unpe for virtues for the treatment of those omplaints. ERBN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for ll purposes ever put out. With a bad cold I should scorn my twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or ave any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral the best remedy we possess for the cure of whooping ough, croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and ommend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, In., writes, 3d Jan., 1856 "I had a bellous Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally ried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALMOS, MONROE Co., Iowa writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its efforts upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, whose we have come to believe, recommended a trial of your medicine. We follow his kindness, as we do your skill; for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared; season after season sealed with the name of RICHARDSON Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable while purchasers can be imposed on with goods of a worthless character.

POETRY.

From the Columbia Guardian.
Dumfries.

'Tis forty years ago, and more,
Since I a lassie wean,
Left Scotia, thy romantic shore,
How oft has memory gaen
Back to the time, back to the place;
Ah, time with me must cease
Ere memory refuse to trace
Upon my heart Dumfries.

Full forty years, a life-time gone!
How oft in all that time,
Hast thou in memory's glass been shown,
E'en now, when past my prime,
Such view sends to my heart a thrill.
Yes, years do but increase
The love that doth my bosom fill
For my own dear Dumfries.

A long, long time it is, indeed,
Since last my native air
I breathed. Not right the heart they read—
Who say that time and care
Can ossify it to the love
Of home and country. Cease
My heart to beat, ere thou dost prove Forgetful of Dumfries.

Forgetful of Dumfries! O no!
Although a land fair, new,
Affection's breezes on me blow,
And my life's path bestrew
With flowers of love and tenderness,
These love for it increase,
For all Columbia is to me,
All, all was dear Dumfries.

Adopted land, I love thee much,
May my heart's gratitude,
By more than words, have proven such,
Loved land dear, kind and good.
But there's a something gives my heart
A dirl, that doth increase
Pulsation, as some though doth dart
Back to dear, old Dumfries.

Back to the sloe and rowan-tree,
Back to the bourtrie-bush,
Back to the daisies dear to me
Though thousands I would crush,
The whin, the broom, the clover-bed,
The hawthorne-hedge, the fleece
Upon it caught, by all I'm led
Back to my ain Dumfries.

Back to the banks of bonnie Nith,
To side of craffle-hill,
Back to the shores of Solway-frith,
Where erst we waded, till
The tide came up and warning gave
Our pastimes there to cease,
I'm carried back on memory's wave,
To these and to Dumfries.

O, native land! there's many a one
Hath left thy shores, like me,
Yet back again like me, hath gone
With mind's eye, thee, to see
Thy butter-cups and heather-bells,
Thy banks and braes—but cease
Fond muse, my heart to bursting swells
Wi thinking O' Dumfries.

Where Burns is buried gave me birth,
There Scotland's poet sleeps;
And doubly dear to me the earth,
The bard's remains that keeps.
His genius belongs to Fame,
And time shall but increase,
The sacredness of his last hame,
His burial-place, Dumfries.

A mecca to the world of mind!
A green, a classic spot!
Association most refined,
To feeling and to thought;
The very name Dumfries inspires,
And sentiment shall cease,
And poetry put out her fires,
Ere we forget Dumfres.
Columbia, S. C. M. M.

Miscellaneous.

THE LAST OF EARTH.—The Paris correspondent of the Traveler has the following:

"Never envy any man! All have their burdens, and he "that tempereth the wind to the shorn lamb" hath endowed habit with the power of alleviating the heaviest loads. The other day there was a splendid funeral in this street, a few doors below the home in which I live. All the hideous pageantry which increases the horrors of Death was assembled. The crowd was numerous. The luxurious mansion of the great banker was one great funeral chamber. The banker is worth a million of dollars. His average income is a hundred and twenty thousand dollars. He is the head of a joint stock banking company, which enables him to dispose of ten millions of dollars at his pleasure. He is one of the lions on Change. Don't you envy him? Oh, no; don't envy him; he has his sorrows, as well as anybody; for 'twas only six months ago the undertaker laid his third son, nineteen, in the grave—the other day his second son was carried away by the same sombre tradesman to the graveyard, though the boy was but one-and-twenty—his eldest daughter is a hunchback and is in declining health—his second daughter is bed-ridden with consumption, and will surprise the doctors if she outlives the winter—the banker himself is blind from overlabor—he has been known to pass twenty days without once undressing and sleeping in a bed; all his repose being a few hours of feverish slumber snatched from corroding cares—a respite passed on a sofa! Oh! don't envy the rich banker, though his coffers overflow with gold, for it avails little to him; and though, as I grant ye, the resonant chimes of coin tossed about as so much trash in his cash-office sound musically to the ear, and the old heard passing bell and doctor's tread common in that house as the resonance of gold, destroy all the effects, except the painful contrast between the emptiness of human vanity and ambition!—So envy no man!

One never looks among his own relatives for any person of genius—except one's self.

I'm loosing flesh," as the butcher said when he saw a man robbing his cart.

A SAD CASE.—On Friday last, says the Nashville Gazette, 23d inst., a neatly dressed and beautiful lady, evidently a stranger in this city, called at the office of Mayor McGavock, and requested a private conference with that gentleman. Complying with her request, the Mayor became acquainted with the truly melancholy part of her history, which led her to call upon him for his advice and assistance. Through tears, such as only the broken hearted could weep, she informed him that she lately arrived here from Charleston, coming hither at the instigation of a man who had wooed and won her affections, and then by the artifices usually employed by the smooth-tongued seducer, wrought her ruin. She stated that he had pledged himself to meet her in Nashville, and repair so far as possible, by marriage, the great wrong he had done her. Since her arrival here, she had borne her misery patiently and quietly, making diligent search and enquiry for him she had loved to her ruin. But she had searched in vain, and in her dire extremity, betrayed, penniless and alone, had determined to unburthen to some kindhearted one the story of her wrongs, and seek means necessary to enable her to return to her home.

In the first part of her conversation with the Mayor, she seemed quite calm and rational, but to relate with entire composure her sad grievance was more than her woman's heart would allow her to do. Perceiving her unhappy embarrassment, Mayor McG. kinkly suggested that he should furnish her lodging at a hotel, and the next day advise with her as to what was best to be done. She assented, and was conveyed to a Hotel. Next day the Mayor called on her, according to promise, but was pained to find her sadly changed from what she was even on the previous day. Her sorrows had pressed too heavily upon her—her reason was dethroned, and a wild laugh and incoherent expressions told but too plainly how terrible was the ordeal through which she had passed. At the suggestion of the Mayor, she was yesterday taken to the Lunatic Asylum.

The name of this unfortunate woman is Caroline Walters, and we learn she is a resident of Charleston, South Carolina.

Kissing him for his Mother.

The editor of the New Orleans Advocate, of the 3d ult., has this incident about the ravages of the yellow fever in that city, related to him by one of the Methodist pastors: "The preacher was called, a few days since, to attend the funeral of a young man. Before his sickness he was a stout, buoyant, manly youth. He was from the State of Maine, and had been here but a short time. He was attacked with yellow fever, and soon died, with no mother or relatives to watch by his bedside, or to soothe him with that sympathy which none but those of our own 'dear kindred blood' can feel or manifest. He died among strangers & was buried by them. When the funeral service was over, and the strange friends who had ministered to him were about to finally close the coffin, an old lady who stood by stopped them, and said, "Let me kiss him for his mother?" We have yet to find the first man or woman to whose eyes this simple recital has not brought tears. That dear old lady, whoever she is, is probably wholly unconscious of having uttered a sentiment, and performed an action, unsurpassed in beautiful simplicity and sublime eloquence. May her sons, when they die, not lack a mother's sympathy; but if they should, may they find one who will kiss them for their mother! 'One touch of nature makes the whole world kin.'"

Burnt up in his own House.—A gentman, recently arrived from Dickson county, gives an account of the horrible death, during the Christmas week, of a man named Wash Allen, near Charlotte, in the following manner; Allen, had been indulging too freely at a Christmas frolic and returned to his dwelling in a state of intoxication. He immediately began abusing every one about the place, swearing loudly, and raving in a most violent manner. His wife was so frightened that she fled from the house, and took refuge under her father's roof, several miles distant. In the meantime Allen loaded a shot-gun with buck-shot, ran all the servants off the place, locked himself us in a room, and swore he would shoot any one who should attempt to open the door.—Those who were assembled outside, hearing no noise in the room, concluded the inebriate had dropped off to sleep, and accordingly left him alone in his glory. In the morning no vestige of the house was to be seen, except the ashes and smoking cinders—the house having caught fire in the night was razed to the ground. The bones of the unfortunate man were found on the spot where he was supposed to have perished. The explosion of a gun was heard in the neighborhood during the night, and many supposed he had set fire to the house and then shot himself; but of course this is a mere surmise.

AN EDITOR UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF GIN.—The editor of the Logan (Ohio) Gazette, having been presented with a bottle of old London Dock Gin, drank it, and then attempted to write a paragraph of thanks, with this melancholy result:

In conclusion, here's to "fire Fountain Company No. some," the Brassfountaine Belle Band, and the rest of our home institutions and orgizations, including the ladies, and other branches of business [hic] in and around town—and especially the Messident's Pressage, Monington Washument, Buck—Brook—Brook and Dug Store of Binlingers' old London Dock Gin, for $2 a year, if payment is delayed until the end of the Atlantic Cable.

Murder of a Young Lady by a Rejected Lover—His Subsequent Suicide.

We mentioned recently that a young lady named Susan V. Whiting had been shot dead, at South Franklin, Mass., by a rejected lover named Jonathan Wales, while returning from a surprise party. The Boston Traveller brings us the announcement of the subsequent death of Wales, by his own hands, and furnishes the following particulars of the terrible tragedy:

About a year ago he became enamored of Susan V. Whiting, a young lady, sixteen years of age, who resided with her parents, about a mile distant from his home. A brother of Wales' had married an older sister of Miss Whiting, so that the families were already connected, and thrown in contact with each other. He pressed his suit upon her, and, according to the statement of Mr. Wales, and other evidence, she favored his proposals, and either reciprocated his affection or pretended to do so.—The parents of the young lady were very much opposed to the match, and urged the inequality of age between them as an important objection, forbidding her keeping his company. They were undoubtedly engaged to each other at one time, though Susan denied the fact to her mother. But it appears that they plighted their vows to each other, and knowing the opposition which would be encountered from her friends, agreed to wait two years, and to form no other attachment during that time. Before they were engaged Wales had made her small presents of jewelry, and afterwards he presented her with a gold chain. They also exchanged miniatures.

About six or eight weeks since an estrangement took place, probably caused by a change in her feelings, or a sence of duty to comply with the wishes of her parents. He wrote her a note requesting the return of his jewelry, and she at once returned all his gifts—the young man who was with her at the time of the murder, we are told, being the messenger.

That evening he appeared changed and unusually sad. A portion of a soliloquy, "God knows and I know," convinced his friends that his feelings were deeply pained. He gave the watch and chain to his mother, requesting her to keep it to remember him by.—He also distributed the other gifts, giving a locket to one sister, a chain to another, and a ring to a young lady friend. From this time he began to change, acting listlessly, and growing haggard in appearance. Soon after, visiting Boston, he had purchased a five barrelled revolver, and since then has frequently practiced in the woods; this conduct led his friends to fear that he meditated suicide. At one time, after he had been shooting, he called at the school house, where Susan attended school, and requested to see her at the door, but she refused to go. He was at one time heard to say that this and similar slights caused more pain than the single act of rejecting him as a lover.

About a fortnight since at a meeting of the South Franklin Lyceum, several young men, who had heard the circumstances of the rejection of Wales by Susan, willing to sacrifice his feeling to their love for sport, arranged to have a discussion on the subject—"Resolved, That a married man should be ten years older than his wife"—and to complete their plan for amusement at his expense, managed to have him speak on the affirmitive. The school house was crowded, and, as was intended, the discussion soon assumed a personal character, and his affairs were alluded to with such a freedom as to exasperate him greatly. After this he was frequently joked on the subject, and it is thought that this disregard for his finer feelings caused the deliberate commission of the double crime.

Last Wednesday evening he met Susan in the street, having waited for her to pass. He accosted her with "How do you do?" and immediately threw her a note, which was merely folded, and with an envelope, and then left her.

In this note he complains that Susan had broken her promise, but still expresses his devotion for her, and begs her to have him, despite the opposition of her parents. In a word he clearly intimates that if she refused to have him he would commit suicide.

By this time, both families had been led to fear that he intended violence, and on Sunday afternoon last Mrs. Whiting, while in church, was so annoyed by his appearance, and the manner in which he watched her daughter, that she left the church, accompanied by her.

Last Monday evening, a surprise party was given at the house of Mr. Nathaniel Hawes, about one hundred rods from her father's house, and she was very anxeus to attend, but her mother had a premonition of trouble or danger, and refused her consent. She finally granted it, on condition that she would ride home with her uncle, Mr. Willard Whiting, who was a neighbor, and was to attend with his adopted daugter Anne. She went, and Wales was also at the party. He appeared much gayer than usual, and laughed and played with the rest, but was noticed to keep his eyes riveted on her. At about half-past eleven o'clock, she left the house in company with a young man named Ephraim Follett. They had scarcely proceeded fifty rods, when Wales came up behind them. They turned a little one side to allow him to pass, but he deliberately walked up to her, and raising his pistol, discharged the contents of one barrel, with the muzzel nearly touching her right temple. He immediately climbed over the fence and disappeared over a hill by the roadside.

The unfortunate girl was immediately conveyed home in an insensible condition, & lingered until two o'clock the next morning, when she died, without having spoken a word from the moment she received the fatal wound.

Early Tuesday morning, a party proceeded to trace the footsteps of Wales, who, it was anticipated, had committed suicide. The father had been previously advised of the murder, and had expressed the hope and prayer that his son might be found dead. They tracked him for about a mile through swamps and pastures, to Bald Hill, where they found the body at eight o'clock, in a piece young woodland flooded with blood and with the pistol lying at his feet.—He had removed his clothing sufficiently to place the muzzle of the pistol directly to his body without injuring the clothing, and had thus discharged it just below the pit of his stomach. He had evidently worn a poorer suit of clothes than usual, to the party, to be prepared for the event. His boots were filled with blood, and his clothes completely wet with it. The body was taken to Mr. Wales' house, and laid out in his favorite suit of black. He looked perfectly natural, and wore a smile even in death. Besides his bereaved parents, he leaves three brothers and five sisters, with many other relatives and friends. Miss Whiting leaves four sisters and two brothers. She was an amiable young lady, and much beloved.

A MAN WHO DIDN'T READ THE PAPERS—MRS. FUBBS AND MR. FUBBS—CORRECT VIEWS OF THE FORMER.—"Fubbs, I want to talk to you awhile, and I want you to listen while I do it. You want to go to sleep, but I don't; I am not one of the sleepy kind. It's a good thing for you, Mr. Fubbs, that you have a wife who imparts information by lectures, else you would be a perfect ignoramus. Not a thing about the house to read, except a little Bible that the Christian Association gave you, and a tract which that fellow, called Porter, left one day, entitled "Light to the Heathen." It's well he left it, for you're a heathen, Fubbs; you may feel thankful you ain't a Mormon! Yes, I understand that insinuation, too, you profane wretch! You mean you're glad you haven't but one wife! You never would have known there was a Mormon, Mr. Fubbs, if I hadn't told you, 'cause you're too stingy to take a paper! Now, Fubbs, I declare your name ought to be Fibs, you tell so many of 'em. It's only last week I lost a dollar and a half on butter I sold to a pedlar, because I didn't know the market price. This would have paid for the paper the whole year. And then you are so ignorant, Fubbs. Don't you recollect when you took the gun & walked down to the big marsh a-hunting, because some one said that the Turkeys were marching into Rushes? Yes, y-o-u d-i-d! You needn't deny it; Fubbs. Didn't kill any, did you? It was a bad day for turkeys, wasn't it Fubbs? Ha! ha! ha!"

Navigating the Air.

The startling advances in the various departments of scientific investigation within recent years, seem somewhat to prepare us for still more startling achievements. The mind becomes addied in seriously contemplating the results of the past, and yet still higher aims and bolder efforts are made and put forward, to eclipse the wonders already accomplished. We have grown cautious in expressing a doubt as to the result of the most seemingly improbable efforts that may attract the attention of the public. Many of the derided inventions or suggestions of a few years past, have been conducted onward to completion.

The latest and boldest explorer into the mazes of difficult achievements, is Prof. Steiner, of Ohio. The Xenia News announces that he is about to make a practical application of the results of his experience, in travelling through the air; and he proposes to construct a balloon, or air-ship, in which he can cross the Atlantic in sixty hours. The bottom of the air-ship is to be of thin sheet copper, three hundred feet long, and eighty feet in diameter at the centre, and tapering towards each extremity. "Beneath this balloon is to be suspended, by wire cables, a platform of the same conical shape, with the balloon itself—and on the central part of this platform is to be placed the machinery and the cabin for passengers. The surface measure of the air-ship will be one hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and twenty five square feet, and its total weight thirty seven and a half tons. It will contain two million eight hundred and ninety four thousand four hundred and sixty cubic feet of gas, which will support in the air a weight of 86$\frac{1}{2}$ tons. The platform, cabin, machinery, &c., are estimated at 18 tons, leaving power enough to elevate twenty one tons of passengers, freight and ballast."

We infer, from the statements published, that this air-ship is to be worked by paddles, propelled by steam power, and Prof. Steiner thinks he can travel at the rate of forty miles an hour with head winds, and one hundred miles an hour with favorable winds; and that he can construct one of his air-vessels for forty thousand dollars. It is also suggested that Congress should aid him in his efforts to complete his air-ship.

The New York Troy Times, of the 14th inst., gives the name of another aspirant for the honors of air-navigation. It is Mr. John La Mountain.—He has made arrangements for the construction of a balloon in Boston, in which he hopes to cross the Atlantic the approaching summer. The balloon is to be made of silk, and the funds necessary to complete the undertaking have been secured. Mr. Wise, the old aeronaut, it is stated, approves of Mr. La Mountain's plan, and both will cooperate in bringing it to a successful completion.

We may be excused for expressing wonder at the apparent temerity of these men who propose to navigate the air by air-ships or balloons. It is no great novelty to ascend into the air in a balloon—that has been demonstrated in the view of thousands. But it will not only be a novelty, but a great scientific achievement, when it can be shown that the air can be navigated—that the same skill can be employed in conducting a ballo. through a stormy atmosphere that is usually employed on a stormy main.

Mr. La Countain, if successful, will make several long trips over this country, before he attempts to cross the Atlantic.

We can all well afford to wait and see the result of these schemes of air navigation, before we either express doubt or confidence in such undertakings.

FALL OF AN AEROLITE.—The following description of the fall of an aerolite is given in a letter dated the 9th of December, from Clarac, a village in the neighborhood of Toulouse, France:

About seven o'clock this morning, we heard a terrific explosion, similar to the heavy sound of a heavy clap of thunder which continued, at least, five minutes. At the same time we observed a million of sparks in the sky, followed by a black cloud, which greatly astonished us. While we were thus gazing at the heavens, an enormous stone of a nature unknown in this country, black and burning hot, fell close to our church, on a little barn belonging to the widow Maria Capereau. She was standing at her door, and, being terrified, she called for assistance. Her neighbors responded to her appeal. They went in the direction of the noise, and perceived an enormous stone, which they endeavored to raise up, but it was too hot. They found, on breaking it, that it was perfectly calcinated. The weather is cold, and the mountains in the neighborhood are covered with snow.

A NEWSPAPER EDITOR.—A newspaper editor must, like the poet, be born to his calling, as in the majority of instances, no amount of training will fit a person for such a post, unless he have a natural taste and aptitude for that description of literary labor; for, although many persons are able to write "leaders or "literary articles," for a newspaper, few can be entrusted with its editorial control, few can scent out the libel which lurks in almost every communication, few can distinguish the report intended to please the speaker instead of informing the nation, and the letters written to serve private interests instead of public ends; still fewer who can tell at a glance the kind of literary or political material which will promote the circulation of the journal—in fact a good editor's great difficulty is not as to what he should put in, but what he should keep out of his colums. Successful editors have not been great authors, but men of good common sense and their good common sense has taught them to write but little themselves, but to read, judge, select, dictate, alter and combine the writings of others.—Chambers Journal.

A NEW RACE OF HUMAN BEINGS.—Some time since a paragraph appeared in a New South Wales journal, relative to the discovery, in the far interior, of a new race of blacks, "who had no hair on the top of their heads, in the place where the wool ought to grow." The account of this most extraordinary discovery, says the Bombay Telegraph, has been corroborated by an eye witness, a Mr. Thomson, who has arrived from where the aboriginal ruralizes. They are, he says, of a copper color, and are tall and athletic, much superior in every respect, to their dark skinned brethren. The women are also said to have more claims to beauty. They, however, are also deficient of what is also generally acknowledged to be the "glory of woman." Mr. Thomson, it appears, was at camp on the Upper Balonne, with others, on Miscarriage of Letters.—We received a letter last week, mailed for us at Augusta, Ga., in April last. It had been missent to Jacksonville, Georgia, and remailed to us: but it must have taken a long rest at its first stopping place, or went in search of another Jacksonville in Australia or Japan. It was plainly marked "Jacksonville, Ala." & how any intelligent Postmaster could have missent it, we cannot see.

Where there are more places of the same name in adjoining States, these miscariages are very frequent, and it would be well if some remedy could be devised. Perhaps if the P. M. Gen. would make it obligatory on persons writing letters to such places, or the Postmasters mailing them, to write the name of the State in full, it might remedy it in part. We wish that at an early day it had been made unlawful to name two places the same at least in adjoining States; but it is too late now to remedy the evil. There are already 17 Jacksonvilles in the Union, three of which are in adjoining States, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. There are 26 Washingtons, & both families of names rapidly on the increase. What the number may be in a few years no one can tell.

Had not the Post Master General some years ago prohibited personal names for Post Offices, and the too frequent repetition of the same name, our postal system would now have been almost a mass of confusion.

Mr. Palmer proposes to sell at lower prices than any other establishment in the South, and will doubtless make good his word. Remember too, that all his work is warranted. Call on him while in Rome, and examine for yourselves.

Flint rocks in Cotton Bales.—It was recently stated, that in some cotton bales shipped to Liverpool, flint rocks had been placed, and that the steel knives, used in the machinery to loosen the cotton, coming in contact with them, and striking fire, burned up the cotton, buildings, valuable machinery, and destroyed several human lives.—The shipment of the cotton is about to be traced back to a planter in Florida. The act is universally reprobated and denounced by the southern press and people; and the hope is expressed that it may be rigorously visited with the utmost punishment of the law. This ought not only to be done, but increased vigilance observed, to prevent the recurrence of an act, by negroe or others who might be ignorant of the danger.

Another Man Killed.—We have been informed that a man by the name of Richard Abercrombie, was killed on Saturday last the 5th inst., at Easterwood's Grocery, near the Cane Creek Iron Works, by James M. Meadows. Meadows and others it seems had been disputing about some stolen articles, in which dispute Abercrombie took part. Meadows was advised to leave the crowd, and started to do so, but was intercepted by Abercrombie, who drew a rock upon Meadows. Meadows gave back some distance warning him not to strike. Abercrombie threw down the rock and took from Meadows a stick, with which he struck him once or twice. Almost instantly, Meadows threw open his coat, drew a large knife and stabbed him in the breast. He then started to run followed by Abercrombie some 50 yards; but being called after by the drowd he started to return, staggering from the effects of the wound. He fell and was carried to the nearest house, where he expired in about two hours. The knife entered his right breast between the nipple and corner of his breast bone. These are some of the circumstances stated, but of course we cannot vouch for their accuracy.

☞See in another column the advertisement of Mr. J. A. Cobb, who has recently purchased the Grocery & Confectionary establishment of Mr. G. W. Mathews. Mr. C. expresses the determination to keep a constant supply of good articles, and sell at prices which will merit the patronage of his friends and the public.

Abolition Candidates.

It is now said to be clearly ascertained that the Black Republican or Abolition party intend to run, Wm. H. Seward of New York, for President, and Francis P. Blair of Missouri, for Vice President. Let them do so. We believe the Democratic National Convention, which is to assemble at Charleston can and will start a team that will "lick them up like salt."

☞In the department appropriated to original poetry, the reader will find another contribution from the pen of "Crazy Jane," who seems to have poetic fire as well as "method in her madness."

Also, a poetic "gem," from the pen of an unknown contributor, over the signature of S. P., who seems to have a soul in harmony with the Muses, and to possess that "gift" which breathes "an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose," and sheds "a tint more magical than the blush of morning."

Let us hear from you again, "S. P."

A new method of teaching Orthography and Orthoepy.—Through the kindness of Prof. Mulky, we had the pleasure of making a partial examination of his books and charts, designed for teaching Orthography and Orthoepy—also of witnessing an examination of one of his pupils; and from the evidence thus hastily gathered, we feel no hesitancy in recommending his system to the most favorable consideration of the friends of education generally, and especially to the Teachers of Free Public Schools of this County. The system is a good one, and possesses all the merit claimed for it by the author.

WM. M. HAMES, Co. Supt.

We were present during the examination mentioned above by Mr. Hames, and agree with him in opinion as to the merits of the system. We see too that it has been recommended by the heads of various Academies and Colleges.

We understand that it is the intention of Mr. Fletcher Mulky, a son of the Professor, to visit most of the prominent neighborhoods of this County, when teachers and others can examine the system for themselves.—ED. REP.

Selma and Gulf Railroad.

We are glad to see, says the Selma Reporter, that the Mobilians have commenced moving earnestly towards the building of the "Great Northern Railroad," which will connect with the Selma and Gulf Road, at some suitable point. Books of subscription were opened in that city in December last, and a considerable amount has already been subscribed, but, as the Advertiser says, "the friends of the enterprise never contemplated that private subscriptions enough could be obtained to build the road. It was expected, and naturally and justly, that the city of Mobile, which has the deepest interest at stake in the matter would, as a corporation, at the proper time, come forward to the aid of private capital and so with these conjoint means and action, the road might be rapidly built."

Knowing that quite a number of our readers are deeply interested in the building of both roads—Selma & Gulf, and Mobile and Great Northern—we cheerfully give the message of Mayor Withers a place in the Republican's columns, which is taken from the Mobile Advertiser:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, CITY OF MOBILE, January 24th, 1859.

To the Board of Aldermen and Common Council:

By an act of the last General Assembly, approved February 5th, 1858, authority is conferred on the corporate authorities of this city, "to aid in the construction of a railroad north-easterly from the city of Mobile, either by taxation upon all property subject to taxation, at a rate not exceeding two per cent. per annum, for five years, or by the issue of city bonds for an amount not exceeding one million of dollars, under such contract with the company to be aided, as the said city authorities may agree upon: Provided, that before such tax shall be levied, or such bonds shall be issued, they shall submit to a vote of the persons subject to be taxed, under such regulations as they shall deem just and proper, the questions, whether any such railroad shall be so aided? what railroad company shall be aided? by what means, taxation or bonds?" and requiring the corporate authorities to be governed by the vote thus taken, and authorizing them to pass all ordinances necessary to carry out the true intent and meaning of the said act.

The earnest, intelligent and persistent efforts being made on either side of us to divert to other ports the large and desirable trade which naturally flows to this, must soon result in an accomplished fact, if nothing be done by us to prevent this dwarfing of our city to the dimensions of a decaying country village. The public spirit & laudable energy which characterized our community in reference to one great enterprise, will not surely sink into lassitude, before this, so comparative insignificant as to cost, and yet none the less important as to results. The citizens of Mobile must look to themselves for help; they must take care of their own interests and build up their own prosperity. Other States may take pride in their seaports, and direct their legislation to the fostering and building them up, but the proud prerogative of rebuking this selfish spirit is, without competition, reserved to the commonwealth of Alabama. The wealth of North Alabama must go to add to the prosperity of New Orleans and Memphis, of Charleston and Savannah, and the legislation for East and Central Alabama must tend to the same generour draining, last direct and frequent intercourse between the two sections of the State might engender thoughts of State pride, State sovereignty, State independence, and thus lead to a less generous policy. The great mountain barrier, which proclaims us a divided people, must be carefully preserved, that we may be driven through Georgia and Tennessee on the one side, or else, through Mississippi on the other. To prevent this isolation, Mobile must build the link now waiting to connect the Gulf with the net-work of railways already established leading northward. The importance of this connection can scarcely be exaggerated, and the ends to be attained are so many, and yet so obvious, as to render their enumeration almost unnecessary. Take the "Mobile and Great Northern Railroad" as the one best suited for our purposes, as most exclusively under our control, and best adapted to secure to Mobile all the advantages desired. To make a direct railway connection with Montgomery, by intersecting the Alabama & Florida Railroad at the most favorable point, will be to furnish the only link wanting to perfect an unbroken railway chain between all the Atlantic cities and the Gulf of Mexico, and to bring Montgomery within eight hours, and New York within three days' travel of Mobile. To connect, by the Selma and Gulf Railroad, with Selma, Talladega, and thence northward with the network of railways traversing Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky, we secure to Mobile the mineral wealth with which East Alabama abounds, particularly the coal of the Alabama mines, destined to supply the steam marine of the Gulf, thus making Mobile the great coaling station for that steam marine. To connect with the Girard Road we place Mobile upon the most direct route, make her the best port for the Gulf travel and traffic of Georgia and the Carolinas; then, should the Uniontown and Point Jackson Railroad be constructed, it will naturally intersect with and terminate upon the Mobile & Great Northern Railroad, and open up an extensive district of Central & Northern Alabama to the trade of Mobile. Thus, by the construction of two hundred miles of railroad, through a favorable country, and at a moderate cost, these several connections can be made, securing to Mobile all the advantages of several thousand miles of railway already in operation, and which concentrating upon the trunk line resting upon Mobile, a vast amount of trade and travel must necessarily make it one of the most important and profitable roads in the country.

The commerce of the Gulf of Mexico, like the States on its borders, is in its infancy. That commerce will have a mighty future, and those States may keep pace with, profit by, and control it, or they may ignominiously sell their birth-right to others more grasping and more energetic. Their destiny is in their own keeping; they may fall by the way, but commerce is still onward. The wealth that floats upon the Mississippi must one day meet upon the waters of the Gulf an equal reflax of wealth from the waters of the mighty Amazon. The population occupying the broad region stretching from the Atlantic coast to the Mobile and Ohio and Illinois Central Railroads must and will have an outlet to Texas, the West Indies, Mexico, Central and South America, from some point on the Gulf, and it is now for the people of this city to determine whether or not Mobile shall have the advantages of competency for that outlet. The aid which it is proposed to give can be rendered least burthensome by the issuance of bonds to the amount of one million of dollars, having twenty or twenty-five years to run, and bearing an interest of seven per cent. To render them certainly negotiable, and in order that the entire amount may be applied to the construction of the road, it will be necessary to levy a small tax, not more than 33 100 of one per cent. per annum, for the payment of the interest, until, by the operation of the road, its earnings could be made available for that purpose and also for a moderate sinking fund, by the annual investment of which provision should be made for retiring the bonds at maturity and protecting the city against all danger of ultimate loss. The amount advanced to the road in the payment of interest should also be so secured as to render it available to the accomplishing of another great object, the removal of the obstructions in our harbor; for which Mobile has nothing to hope from the State. She has still less favor to expect from the Federal Government. She is in the wrong latitude to have the obstructions to her commerce removed, the third city in exports though she be.

Should these suggestions meet with your favor it will give me pleasure to co-operate with any committee you may appoint to prepare the ordinances requisite for taking the sense of the taxpayers, specifying the terms of the contract to be made with the Company aided, and securing the amount advanced in the payment of interest to the removal of harbor obstructions, with the rules and regulations necessary to insure its application and efficiency.

Terrible Catastrophe.

We learn from a letter in the last Lumpkin (Ga.) Palladium, that the steam mill owned by Mr. Wiley B. Horton, about ten miles from Florence, was completely destroyed between ten and eleven o'clock on the morning of the 18th inst., by the bursting of the boiler. Three men, John Smith, James Blackburn, and John Johnson, were so badly injured that the two former died the same day, and the latter was so badly mangled and scalded that it was thought on the 19th, the date of the letter, that he could not live. A number of others were more or less injured, but not seriously.

The mill house was totally demolished. Smith Blackburn & Johnson, were standing near the furnace at the time of the explosion, and the bursting boiler passed over their heads. The boiler made its way through an embankment of earth and took its flight up the hill knocked down an enclosure, demolished a stable, tore down a blackjack shivered a stump, then pitched into the earth and turned a complete somerset, and ended its mad career by coming to a full hundred yards up the hill from its former resting place. The boiler is said to weigh betwixt seven and eight thousand pounds, and the force necessary for its removal to such a distance must have been immense. There were some twelve or fifteen persons, if no more, immediately in and around the mill, and the wonder is that so few were killed.

LOVE AND FORTUNE.—If love is represented as blind, perhaps Hymen may properly be called the coucher that often manages to open its eyes. Why may Wood, Eddy & Co. be considered in the same relation to fortune that Hymen is said to hold to Love? Because they open the eyes of the blind goddess. They stand in that respect between Fortune and Fate. By forwarding to their address, Augusta, Ga., or Wilmington, Delaware, ten, five, or two and a half dollars, you pay the entrance fee to their Oracle, who may interpret it into a prize of fifty thousand dollars, or its half or quarter. Remember that if the Greeks had an Adelphi, we have an Augusta Oracle.

When the wolf turns moralist, always look to your lambs.

The Greatness of the U. States.

The Russian organ published at Brussels, in speaking of the President's desire for the acquisition of Cuba, ascribes to the United States a position of some importance, as follows:

The war which might result from it would be far more disastrous than the Crimean war, which has cost so much gold and blood to the world. It would be a war with a nation whose products are the first element of industry in all parts of the world, and whose commercial intercourse makes an important branch of income for most governments. It would be a violent rupture of all the arteries of commercial circulation; it would be a fatal seperation between Europe, which needs America, and America which can dispense with Europe. Take from England the gold of California and the cotton of Louisana, and her industry will at once be stopped in its prosperous action. We sincerely hope that such a terrible occurrence will not take place.

TERRIBLE SHIPWRECK & LOSS OF LIFE.—The bark Azor, at Providence, R. I., from Fayal 10th ult., reports having brought home Wm. Kennedy, the man picked up at sea by the schooner Dread, from the house of the ship Margaret Tyson, Captain Morris, from New York for San Francisco, before reported lost. He states that the ship capsized in a gale on a Saturday night—does not know the date, latitude or longitude—and lay on her beam ends until Sunday morning, when she was settling very fast. Captain Morris then called all the men aft and told them to look out for themselves, as he should go down in the ship; she soon had every appearance of sinking. The ship had six boats, three of which were stove by the drifting spars about the deck. Two were stove alongside, and the sixth was launched in safety. Five of the crew jumped into her, but she was capsized soon after by a heavy sea; four of the men got on her bottom, and the fifth—the man saved—caught a rope hanging from the ship and hauled himself on board again. He then stripped off part of his clothes and swam to the ship's house, which had become detached from the wreck. He found two of the crew on it, and was soon after joined by two more, who had been floating on portions of the wreck. At this time the ship had entirely disappeared. Two men soon died from exposure—The third man became delirious on the ninth day and jumped overboard. The fourth died two days before Kennedy was picked up. He says that he caught seven small fish with his hands, and occasionally caught water when it rained. He accounts for his being seventeen days on the wreck from the fact that the last man who died told him that they had passed three Sundays on the wreck. He does not know what date the ship was lost. He is an Irishman and not very intelligent. Letter from the Captain of the schooner Dread state that it was in longitude 40 that he picked up Kennedy.

Kennedy's statement is not very straightforward, but it may be accounted for partly from his ignorance and partly from not having recovered from his sufferings yet.

GEN. WALKER.—The Mobile correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser gives the following:

I have heard, on very good authority, that, a few days ago, Gen. Walker, Ex-President of Nicaragua, paid a visit to the very Reverend Father Gantrelet, President of the Jesuits' College, (St. Joseph's) Spring Hill, and expressed his desire to be baptised, and received into the Catholic Church. Whether on enquiry, the good father was not altogether satisfied that the General was sufficiently acquainted with the doctrines of the church into whose fold he be applied for admission, or sufficiently impressed with the sacred obligations of the sacrament which he was desirous of receiving, I know not but at all events he recommended him to reflect upon the matter a little longer, and gave him a catechism, containing explanation of the doctrines of the church, that he might have an opportunity of learning fully what was necessary for him to believe before he could be admitted, and what duties he imposed upon himself in receiving the holy sacrament of Baptism.

HIGH PRICES FOR NEGROES.—At the sale of the property belonging to the heirs of John G. O'Neil deceased, which took place on the 24th of January 1859, some five miles west of this city of which Jas. Gilmes Esq. was Guardian, the following sales were made to the highest bidder by Maj. John M. Strong, Auctioneer:

There were 160 acres of land sold at the same time at $17.10 per acre. The terms were 12 months credit.

BRICKBAT'S BREVITIES.—Mr Brickbat can't imagine why everybody is abusing Brigham Young for carrying bigamy into Utah. He doesn't see why they should make any more fuss about Big Amy than any of his other wives.

He thinks it nonsense to send an army to conquer the Mormons when they could be driven off by a Kane.

He wants to take a contract to supply the Mormon settlement with miles. He thinks he could make a little profit (prophet) in the transaction.

Although one swallow will not make a summer, still a pin maliciously inverted in a chair will make one spring.

He thinks the Mormon difficulties grew out of the President's jealousy, Mr Buchanan feeling indignant that Brigham should have sixty-five wives while he did not have any.

He wants to know, if the Mormons are leaving Salt Lake City, who is Cumming.

He understands that the saints will remain at Salt Lake until the wheat harvest is gathered. He says the women ought not to be driven off until they have bre(a)d and that the men should be allowed to cradle the fruits of their husbandry.—Nashville Union.

Heart-Mysteries.

There is a record in each heart that none
May read, none, O! none save He whose eye doth
Scan the Ocean's depths—the blue unfathom'd
Caves, where scarce the trumpet will be heard when
It hath peal'd its summons to the judgment!
Such is the fearful mystery of the Human heart! a labarynth—an enigma
To all save to the eye that fashion'd it:
He alone can see the wond'rous depths &
Read the records in the red-leaf'd book.—
—And I would have it so; a sacred leaf
Should not be turn'd by hands profane; the soul's
Dear Album is a volume God hath seal'd.
Here friendship left its registry—here love
Its baptism of tears!—
A voice it hath that comes in
Low, sad murmurs from the grave-yard of the Past! whose young affection wept upon the Tomb of joy, and despair raised its pale hands
To curse its birth day, and it the night of grief
That had no morrow.—
The heart! O! 'tis a mystery profound!
'Tis proud, yet humble; 'tis warm yet cold; the Lips may quiver—the brow grow paler than
A shroud! but these are fleeting shadows, and Dumb initials to the name of grief.—
No one hath heard a genuine heart-sobl
The spirit's wail is on the air, but none
But God may hear it! The angels look from
The cliffs of yon bright cloud, and weep to see.
The rending of a heart, but see not the
Crimson'd depths of woe unutterable!
As in the Hebrew Sanctury, above the Ark of the covenant, the Cherubim
Vail with their wings the mystery within,
So God hath curtained from the vulgar eye
The deep, red caverns of the human heart!
And yet our hearts are sad, and march in
Funeral trains towards the grave.
Dark memories come; and oft we hear again
The mourner's footfall, and the rumbling hearse;
But O! the grief that hath no coffin, nor
Shroud nor grave—nor tear nor sob, nor outward
Mimicry of woe, is deep! far deeper
Than the ocean-depths, for hell itself is
Shallow in comparison!——
Tis the freezing pang that congeals the soul,
And makes the mourner a sculptured statue
Bending o'er a gulf of woe, watching the Floating fragments of a wreck that left not
A splinter behind!——* * * *
To me the night is beautiful!
The stars are symbols of our hopes & joys:
But the upturn'd face of wild dispair can
See no beauty there, nor light nor love in
All the universe! Those angel torches,
Flashing along the blue infinitude
Of space, are quenched forever, save as they Shine upon the giant shadows of the Past, falling dismally upon the present.
——The heart is a mystery—a book that
Is sealed. The flowers it loved are press'd
Within its sacred leaves—the flowers of
Hope and joy; but they are dead! the clasp of
Love was unrelenting, and hence they died!
A heap of perished beauty is "the all"
That's left—a residue of pale dead leaves,
The ashes of remembrance!—

CRAZY JANE.

For the Republican.

Life's Joys.

Elysian blooms their fragrance shed
To soothe the faint and restive soul,
The falling petals 'neath the tread
Form but a crisping bloody scroll,
Unfurled to view when joys are past.
When threat'ning storms of sorrow lower,
Grants to mem'ry a dire repast,
A bitter feasting hour.

Fast on unfettered pinions fly,
The charms that chant the pensive heart,
And sorrow smites the languid eye.
And melts the soul to tears that part
From the nest which wrapt their brilliant hue.
To trickle down the care-worn form,
And leave the soul as the leaf that grew
To tremble in the storm.

Joys are fleeting as the chainless wind
That heaves the billows on the shore,
But cold's the heart that ne'er can find
The feast where eternal blessings pour.
The myrtles which delight the gaze,
Are fading blooms before the blast;
The genial sun with soothing rays,
Must nestle in the west.

The harp of life, of vig'rous strength,
Whose cords are woke by every breath
And drawn to sweetest tension'd length,
Must hush its warbling sounds in death—
When th' bursting sound of every thread
Tells the parting knell in fine,
Enchanting hope makes firm the tread
On th' crumbling verge of time.

STRANGE RUMOR.—There is a most remarkable rumor from Japan to the effect that the Emperor suffered a violent death in consequence of signing the treaty with the United States. It is said that some of the subordinate rulers, upon being asked for their approval to the treaty, refused any sort of concurrence, and notified the Emperor that in obedience to the laws of Japan, the time had come for him to commit "Harikari," (suicide) The Great Ruler therefore stabbed himself in the bowels, receiving at the same moment a severe blow on the back of the neck, from a friend and relative, which, dislocating the vertebra, produced instant death. These reports come through the Dutch traders in Japan, and are considered reliable.

Joy to the World.

DEAR SIR:—I feel that it is a duty I owe to suffering humanity that I should give a relation of the great benefits I have derived from the use of Perry Davis's Pain Killer. Last summer I had the misfortune to lose two of my children by the dreadful scourge—the cholera—and in all human probability should have fallen a victim to the pestilence myself if a kind Providence had not provided me help in the hour of need. I first became acquainted with the Pain Killer whilst traveling on the river with husband. A gentleman passenger had some with him which he recommended in the highest terms as a remedy for cholera. I thought no more of it at the time, but the same night I was attacked by the cholera in the worst form. I resorted to various remedies used to arrest its progress, but all in vain. I was seized with violent cramps, and my discharges began to assume the same character as did those of my dear children previous to their death. I was looked upon as lost, but all at once thought of the PAIN KILLER. My husband obtained the bottle from a fellow passenger and administered to me a dose. I experienced almost immediately a cessation of pain. The dose was repeated at intervals of fifteen minutes, four or five times, and the result was my complete recovery. I feel confident that owe my life to the Pain Killer, and only regret that I had not have known of its extraordinary virtues earlier, I then might have saved the lives of my dear children.—Since that time I have used the Pain Killer in my family extensively, and the more I use it the better I like it. As a great family medicine, it has no equal.

SARAH SANDERBERRY, St. Louis.

DIED at her residence near Jacksonville, on the 24th January, 1859, Mary Frances Davis, wife of Mr. J. N. Davis, in the 22nd year of her age. The subject of this notice made a profession of religion before she was married, and joined the Methodist Church afterwards, of which she lived a consistent member to the close of her life. A few hours before she died, she gave satisfactory evidence of her acceptance with God. She was an obedient wife and affectionate mother, & leaves a husband and two small children to mourn her loss. FITS! FITS! FITS!

Persons laboring under this distressing malady will find Dr. Hance's Epileptic Pills to be the only remedy ever discovered for curing Epilepsy or Falling Fits. These Pills possess a specific action on the nervous system; and although prepared especially for the purpose of curing Fits, they will be found of especial benefit to all persons afflicted with weak nerves, or whose nervous system has been prostrated or shattered from any cause whatever.—The dyspeptic patient, whose stomach has lost the power of duly converting food into a life sustaining element, is relieved by a single course of the extraordinary Pills. The gastric fluid re-acquires its solvent power, and the crude nutriment which was a load and a burden to the sufferer, while his digestive organization was paralyzed and unstrung, becomes under the wholesome revolution created in the system, the basis of strength, activity, and health.

Sent to any part of the country by mail free of postage. Address Seth S. Hance. 108 Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.—Price—one box, $3; two $5; twelve, $24.

WHY WILL YOU DELAY?

Why will you neglect that disease which is taking such deep root, and which gives you warning by that hacking cough, that you are fast gaining for eternity? Why encourage that pain in the side, the raising of blood, those night sweats, or that difficult breathing, which silently whisper in your ear that something must be done to save you from the grave of consumptive? Why act so carelessly by permitting that disease to destroy your health, and hasten you to the tomb from whence no traveler ever yet returned?

SILENCE THAT DREADFUL COUGH!

Or death must carry you to your silent grave. Why delay while there is yet hope? Consumption is caused by impure humors of the blood being deposited in the cells of the lungs. Hence, the lungs are like a spring of water when relled up by the dirt or mud, if clear water constantly flows through the spring, impurities or mud will be conveyed away by the pure water. Just so with the blood when kept in a clean or pure state; as it constantly flows through the lungs, it carries away all corrupt matter, and perfect health will be the result. From two to four Pills taken every night or every other night, or enough to keep the bowels regular, will in a reasonable time cure consumption. The reason these pills are used more than all others, is because they are made of purifying vegetables, and cleanse the body from all corrupt matter, and drive out disease of every description, quicker and in a milder way than any other Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are sold by all dealers in Medicine.

If there be any of readers who doubt touching the magic powers of Perry Davis' Pain Killer to remove pain, we advise them to buy one twenty-five cent bottle and give it a trial—We never yet knew it to fail. Sold by druggists and grocers.

TO THE
Medical Profession.

Having had for my object the preparation of a remedy that would be beneficial in all cases where an external application is indicated, without being injurious in any. I have devoted a number of years to studying and experimenting. After making thousands of experiments and consulting the best authors and most scientific chemists and physicians of the day. I have at length succeeded in making a Medicine that will recommend itself to every one who studies its combination Every intelligent Physician and Druggist will see at a glance, from the analysis given below, that it is composed of the very best remedies for external use in the Materia Medica.

THIS IS NOT A SECRET REMEDY:

Every person who can read may know its composition; its effects are also well known. One hundred thousand Bottles made according to this prescription have been sold and used. The result in every case was always uniform and satisfactory. Read the analysis made by one of the most popular and scientific Chemists in the United States.

Porter's Oriental Life LINIMENT,
MADE BY
C. W. WRIGHT, M. D.
Professor of Chemistry in the Kentucky School of Medicine, December, 1858.

To R. D. PORTER:

Sir:—The ingredients which, after into compsition of the Preparation known as "Porter's Oriental Life Liniment," which was left with me for qualitative chemical analysis, were found on examination to contain the following ingredients:

Turpentine,	Camphor,
Petroleum,	Oil from Resin,
Pitch tar,	Naptha,
Potash,	Carbonate of Potassa

All of the above ingredients, with the exception of Carbonate of Potassa are comparatively antiseptic. As the composition of the above preparation is no longer a secret, I have no hesitancy in stating that it is a safe and efficacious external remedy for the diseases in which it is recommended.

Respectfully, C. W. WRIGHT.

Hundreds of physicians use and prescribe Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, believing it to be the best remedy for that class of diseases in which it is recommended. They know its composition and prescribe it with as much certainty, as to its effects, as they do any other remedy.

The following are a few of the many eminent and influential physicians who have written letters to the proprietor speaking in the highest terms of the medicinal properties of the Oriental Life Liniment:

Dr. W. D. Reid, of Jefferson county, Ky.
Dr. Moses Applegate, Crothersville, Ind.
Dr. Bruce, of Newcastle, Ky.
Dr J. H. Jupin, of Morganfield Ky.
Dr. J. L. McConnel, Obian Valley, Tenn.
Dr. J. W. McDonald, Buttlersville, Ind.
Dr. R. F. Parker, Liberty, Ky.
Dr. R. F. Perryman, Boston, Ky.
Dr. D. Terrell, Feitsville, Ky.
Dr. C. H. Harris, Charleston, Ky.
Dr. J. W. Hedge, Colemansville, Ky.
Dr. W. E. Olds, Maples, Ind.

The Oriental Life Liniment will be found of great benefit in Frostbites; Rheumatism, Cuts; Bruises, Sprains, &c. &c. Put up in 25c 50 c and $1 Bottles, and sold by all Druggists and Country Merchants. Manufactured by

Clarion, and Little Rock Ark. True Democrat.

A Card from Dr. James M Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above Institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case, Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N Y.

P. S Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

JOB WORK

THE LIVER
INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS.

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and, when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the fault, the bowels are in consequence of one whole system suffers having ceased to do organ—the LIVER—duty. For the disease of the t ese organs has made it his one of the proprietors study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some ty years to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and con- viction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, digesting food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease —effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞ One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞ A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even in just one giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

DR MORSE'S.
INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and unclog- the passage to the lungs, and thus, in osoothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only cleanse the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

Cotton Cultivator.

LETTERS PATENT were granted to the undersigned, on the 6th day of July, 1858, for his improvement in Cotton Cultivators; to which he calls the attention of both Cotton and Corn Cultivators.

The plow will penetrate the ground to any required depth, and will pulverise and loosen the soil, and cut off all the weeds. It will mow close to the stalks of cotton or corn, and loosen the soil near the roots without injuring or destroying them. It does not make a furrow, or turn over the soil, but loosens it up and lets it fall back into its place again. It is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of cotton; and one horse power is sufficient to propel it.

It is believed, as will be seen by the following certificate, that it will save 25 per cent. of labor over the best improvements, and at least 50 per cent. over the common plow.

He believes the cultivator entitled to all he claims for it, and in support of his belief, he calls the readers attention to the subjoined certificate of Messrs. Moragne and Hollingsworth, who are the only persons who have tried the Cultivator. As to its utility no more need be said—TRY IT—its BEST recommendation is ITS USE.

He offers for sale County or State rights at reasonable prices. Address,

ASBERRY SMITH,
Jan. 20, '59—6m. Jacksonville, Ala.

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 15, 1859.

The undersigned have used the Cotton Cultivator of Asberry Smith, and we take pleasure in saying, that is a most excellent plow: superior to any we have ever used in the cultivation of cotton, & saves at least 25 per cent. in labor, over any plow we have ever tried, and from 30 to 50 per cent. over the common plow. In the cultivation of young corn it is superior to any we have tried. We take pleasure in recommending it to the public as worthy of patronage; as we believe from actual experiment, it comes fully up to all that is claimed for it.

I am personally acquainted with Isaac P. Moragne and Thos. Hollingsworth, and I have the utmost confidence in the above statement made by them.

It is no longer questioned that these Machines are the best in use for family sewing. They

Is there a husband, father, or brother in the United States, who will permit the drudgery of hand sewing in his family, when a Grover & Baker Machine will do it better, more expeditiously, and cheaper than can possibly be done by hand?

SEND FOR A CIRCULAR.

GOOD NEWS.—A reduction in the prices of Sewing Machines is announced in our advertising columns. Their utility is established beyond question, and at the present prices we see no reason why they should not be found, as they ought to be, in every household. Several varieties are manufactured, adapted to various purposes So far as public opinion has been formed and uttered, the preference is emphatically accorded to the Wheeler and Wilson machine for family use, and for manufactures in the same range of purpose and material. During the present autumn the trials have been numerous, and all the patents of any pretension have been brought fairly into competition. In every case, the Wheeler & Wilson machine has won the highest premium. We may instance the State Fairs of New-York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, Wisconsin, Virginia, Michigan Indiana, Mississippi, Missouri & California, & the Fairs in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Richmond and San Francisco.—At the Fair of the St. Louis Mechanical Association, the Examining Committee was composed of twenty-five Ladies of the highest social standing, who, without a dissenting voice, awarded for the Wheeler and Wilson Machine, the highest and only premium, a Silver Pitcher, valued at $75. If these facts do not establish a reputation, we know not what can.—Christian Advocate & Journal.

LOVED YOU BETTER THAN YOU KNEW.

It was the autumn of the year,
The strawberry leaves were red & sere;
October's airs were fresh and chill
When, pausing on the windy hill,
The hill that overlooks the sea,
You talked confidingly to me—
Me, whom your keen, artistic sight
Has not yet learned to read aright,
Since I have veiled my heart from you
And loved you better than you knew.

You told me of your toilsome past;
The tardy honors won at last,
The trials borne, the conquest gained,
The longed-for boon of Fame attained
I knew that every victory
But lifted you away from me—
That every step of high emprise
But left me lowlier in your eyes;
I watched the distance as it grew,
And loved you better than you knew.

You did not see the bitter trace
Of anguish sweep across my face;
You did not hear my proud heart beat
Heavy and low beneath my feet;
You thought of triumphs still unwon,
Of glorious deeds as yet undone;
And I, the while you talked to me,
Watched the gulls float lonesomely,
Till lost amid the hungry blue,
And loved you better than you knew.

You walked the sunny side of Fate;
The wise world smiles, and calls you great;
The golden fruitage of success
Drops at your feet in plenteousness;
And you have blessings manifold—
Renown, and power, and friends, and gold;
They build a wall between us twain
Which may not be thrown down again
Alas! for I, the long years through,
Have loved you better than you knew.

Your life's proud aim, your art's high truth
Have kept the promise of your youth;
And while you won the crown which now
Breaks into bloom upon your brow,
My soul cried strongly out to you,
Across the ocean's yearning blue,
While, unremembered and afar,
I watched you, as I watched a star
Through darkness struggling into view,
And loved you better than you knew.

I used to dream, in all these years,
Of patient faith and silent tears—
That Love's strong hand would put aside
The barriers of place and pride—
Would reach the pathless darkness through,
And claim me solely up to you.
But that is past.—If you should stray
Beside my grave, some future day,
Perchance the violets o'er my dust
Will half betray their buried trust,
And say, their blue eyes full of dew,
"She loved you better than you knew."

Destruction Railroad.

The Directors take pleasure in reassuring their numerous friends and patrons, that the Road to Ruin is now in good order. Within the last three months it has carried more than THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND passengers clear through from the town of Temperance to the city of Destruction, while the number of way passengers is encouraging. An enormous amount of freight such as mechanics' tools, household furniture, and even whole farms, have gone forward; and the receipts of the year have been so large that the Directors have resolved to declare a dividend of five hundred per cent. The track has been much improved, and relaid with Messrs. Diabolus & Co's patent rail. The grades are reduced to a dead level, and the switches brought to such perfection all along the route, as to jerk the cars in a moment from the main track, to avoid collison with the Total Abstinence engine and the Temperance trains which have recently occasioned so much trouble. In short we have spared no expence to make it superior to any other Road to Ruin ever established. It gives us great pleasure to call the attention of the public to the improvements in our engines and cars. The old favorite locomotive—ALCOHOL—has a fire-chamber of double capacity, and patent driving-wheels after the fashion of old Juggernaut's. Our wine cars are models of luxurious conveyance, after the pattern of the famed London Gin-Palaces, where ladies and children and gentlemen of the first water can have all attention. To keep up with the spirit of the times, our whisky, rum, and brandy cars have been greatly enlarged, and fare reduced to half price. Our cider, porter, and beer cars are exciting great attention among the children. Our experienced engineer, Mr. Belial, and our polite and gentlemanly conductor, Mr. Mix, have been too long known to the travelling public to need any commendation.—Indeed, so swift and sparkling are our trains through all our towns and villages, that some have called it, "The flying artillery of hell let loose on the earth." Tickets must always be procured of Mr. Mix, at the Drinker's Hotel, where you may see the following extract from our charter from government:

"Licensed to make a strong man weak;
Licensed to lay a wise man low;
Licensed a wife's fond heart to break,
And make her children's tears to flow.

"Licensed to do thy neighbor harm;
Licensed to hate and strife;
Licensed to nerve the robber's arm;
Licensed to whet the murderous knife.

"Licensed where peace and quiet dwell,
To bring disease and want and woe;
Licensed to make this world a hell,
And fit man for a hell below."

REGULATIONS.

The down train leaves Ciderville at 6 a. m., Portertown at 7 a. m., Byerville at 8 a. m., Wineville at 9 a. m., Brandy Borough at 10 a. m., and Whisky City at 12 m.

The speed of the train will be greatly increased as it proceeds, stopping, however, to land passengers in Poorhouseville, Hospitalfown, Prisonburg, Gallowsville, etc.

On Sunday, cars will be ready as usual, especially for way passengers, until further notice.

N. B.—All baggage at the risk of the owners, and widows and orphans are particularly requested not to inquire after persons or property at Ruin Depot, as in no case the Directors will hold themselves liable for accidents to passengers.

WM. WHOLESALE, President.
ROBERT RETAIL, Vice President.

☞ We copy the following just and well merited compliment, of one of the best Female Colleges in the Southern country, from the "Memphis Weekly Avalanche."

Huntsville Female Institute—George M. Everhart:

One of the best female schools in the Union is located at Huntsville, Ala. It is under the supervision of G. M. Everhart, a man of talent, integrity, and unsurpassed as a teacher. Huntsville is one of the healthiest spots in the South. It is situated in a romantic region—a suitable place to inspire youth with the peotry of nature, and all that is sublime in mountains and musical in rippling rills.

It is generally admitted that the position of school teacher is the most laborous and thankless of all occupations. It is certainly true that his lot is one of toil, and usually of remuneration inadequate to the importance and arduousness of his duties. A teacher should combine many peculiar qualities; he must possess sufficient spirit for the enforcement of a salutary discipline, and yet servility enough to submit to a foolish and ill-timed interference of patrons. He must have such discriminating nicety of taste as shall enable him to familiarize his pupils with all the elegancies of letters, and such an utter want of independence as to submit unmurmuring to the dictation of these "little, wise-seeming folk." He must be well schooled in the courtesies and amenities of intercourse in higher life, yet he must possess sufficient physical strength to endure, without fatigue, the most incessant exertions. He must have judgment, ready, at all times, to determine the most advisable course for the pursuance of a scholar, and complaisance to be positively grateful for the instructions of a clownish employer; skill for the performance of his task, and patience to be instructed how to perform it. He must have moral principle, guaranteeing a conscientious and faithful discharge of his duties, while in this catalogue of pre-requisites there must exist forbearance enough to enable him unconcernedly to hear his principles doubted, his diligence and fidelity suspected and called into question. He must experience that proud feeling of conscious dignity which [illegible] confers upon her votary, and yet he must descend to teach an infant the letters of the Alphabet.

Mr. Everhart, of Huntsville, possesses in a pre-eminent degree the various requisites for a competent teacher—His method of instruction is no mechanical or unthinking operation; but he seems to reflect deeply upon the impressible and susceptible characters of those intrusted to his charge. From being a mere creature of feeling—a passive recipient of whatever trumpery chance may fling in its way, he seeks to make the child a creature of thought, earnest in its reaches after that higher mental attainment—cognizant of the high faculties with which he is endowed, and of the ends for which they were designed in the richness and fullness of God's original intent. Education with Mr Everhart is no brilliant thing, revealing itself in bright scintillations or erratic flashes. But his aim is far higher. Proficiency and readiness are secondary objects in the view of the true educator, while his students are conducted into the inner-temple of knowledge, acquainted with all the beauties of classic song, and rendered appreciative of the vigor and nerve of ancient.

Mr. Everhart is [illegible] far above the level of [illegible] teachers. With undoubted talent, learning, and quick apprehension of the salient merits of any species of composition, he descends without effort to the lowest capacity. He renders the student thorough, inspires him with confidence and implants the knowledge that there is within him a wondrous faculty of expansion. Mr. E's method of instruction is at once peculiar and happy—into this we have no space to enter. It is, by no means, the province of a teacher to decorate the surface of the person he proposes to educate—but it should be sought to make education, what it really is, a central soul and substance—the food of our moral nature—the arterial blood of the intellectual system, informing every limb, and quickening every muscle with life, beauty, and strength. We are conscientious in the penning of this article, and only regret to leave much unsaid.

We cordially commend the Huntsville Institute to the people of the South, for while under the direction of Mr. Everhart, it will be emphatically one of the best schools in the Union.

REPLY TO A SCOFFER.—To a young infidel who was scoffing at Christianity, because of the misconduct of its professors, the late Mr. Mason said: "Did you ever know an uproar to be made because an infidel went astray from the paths of morality." The infidel admitted that he had not. "Then you see," said Dr. M., "that by expecting the professors of Christianity to be holy, you admit it to be a holy religion, and thus pay it the highest compliment in your power." The young man was silent.

The following is said to be an excellent receipt for cleaning silk; Pare three Irish potatoes into thin slices and wash them well. Pour on them half pint of boiling water, and let it stand till cold. Strain the water and add to it an equal quantity of alcohol. Sponge the silk on the right side, and, when half dry, iron it on the wrong side. The most delicate colored silks may be cleansed by this process, which is equally applicable to cloth, velvet or crape.

Fiendish Deed.

John Wesdhouse Heart, son of Mrs. Heart, one of the Charlestown Mercury, [illegible] near 10th street in this city, met his death on Thursday night in a fearful and extraordinary manner.

It appears that Mr. Heart left the house of his parents on Thursday afternoon, stating that he intended to spend the night at the house of Mrs. Walker a relation of his, living on L street between 4th and 5th. Unfortunately while on his way there he was detained at the house of another relative to whom he paid a visit and, when he reached the house on L street, he found that the family had retired to rest, and that all the doors were locked. He then went into the alley and endeavored to gain admission by the stable door.

Over this door there was an opening or transom of sufficient width to admit his head, and having climbed up to it he put his head and one arm through it for the purpose of unfastening the door inside—and while in the act of doing so, his feet slipped and he was caught under the chin and on the back of the neck by the boards above and below, and was choaked to death, and remained thus suspended until yesterday morning, when he was found by a servant who had occasion to go to the stable.

When the body was discovered it was found that a part of his clothing had been torn off by a dog (not his own) which attacked him while he was suspended.

☞ An anecdote, illustrative of the wit of Irish "jarvies," is going the rounds in Dublin. Mr.——is a man of aldermanic proportions. He chartered an outside car t'other day at Island Bride Barrack, and drove to the postoffice. On arriving he tendered the driver sixpence, which was strictly the fare, though but scant remuneration for the distance. The jarvey saw at a glance the small coin, but in place of taking the money which Mr.——held in his hand, he busied himself putting up the steps of the vehicle, and then, going to the well at the back of the car, took thence a piece of carpeting, from which he shook ostentatiously the dust, and straightway covered his horse's head with it. After doing so, he took the "fare" from the passenger, who, surprised at the deliberation with which the jarvey had gone through the whole of these proceedings, inquired, "Why did you cover the horse's head?"—To which the jarvey, with a humorous twinkle of his eye, and to the infinite amusement of the approving bystanders, replied, "Why did I cover the horse's head? Is that what you want to know?—Well, because I didn't want to let the decent baste see that he carried so big a load so far for one little penee!" It should be added, in justice to the worthy citizen that a half crown immediately rewarded the witty jarvey for his ready joke.

THE BEATIFIL.—All the world worships beauty.

The infant exhibits unmistakable, though inarticulate delight, on perceiving certain motions or sounds, and is attracted by any bright color dazzling glitter, be it of the costly jewel or gewgaw, the painted baub, or the marvel of art, flower or star.

The young man, when, "she whom God sends" finds the whole face of things more lovely, nay, glorified for her sake—beauty, "amid all beauty beautiful," having made for itself a silence in his heart.

The old man, after gazing in silent wonder on the setting sun, speaks kindly to those merry children who have been gathering buttercups and daisies. His thoughts wander away and dwell with a lingering fondness on "the days that are no more;" and as he gives the little ones his blessing, the subdued sweetness which beams from his face tells that a chastened heart is filled with the beauty of holiness.—Titan.

ITALY.—The rumors of disaffection continue unabated. Many persons were leaving Milan every morning. The police had to efface from the walls of houses such inscriptions as "Death to the Germans." The troops quartered at Milan are exceedingly excited, and very strict discipline is necessary to prevent. Ib.

WORKING CHEAP.—"What does Satan pay you for swearing?" asked a gentleman.

"He don't pay me anything," was the reply.

"Well, you work cheap, to lay aside the character of a gentleman; to inflict so much pain on your friends and civil people, and lastly to risk losing your own precious soul, and all for nothing. You certainly do work cheap—very cheap indeed."—From Arthurs Magazine.

It is not so much the being exempt from faults, as the having overcome them, that is an advantage to us; it being with the follies of the mind, as with the weeds of a field, which, if destroyed and consumed upon the place of their birth, enrich and improve it more than if none had ever sprung up there.—Swift.

How best o'chiels are whiles in want,

GOLD MINE IN GEORGIA.—The Dahlonega (Ga.) Signal of Saturday last, says, quite an excitement existed among our mining population, in the early part of the week, in consequence of a rich discovery of gold, near what is known as the Briar Patch, in that county. The particulars we have not heard, but rumor says fifty pennyweight is obtained at a single panful.

"I spend no money for cigars, for soda, for oysters, for night suppers of any kind, neither do I run up a bill at the stables," was the answer.

CONVERSATION.—The most usual remark lives forever in its effects.—There is not a word which has not a moral history. And hence it is that every "idle word" which men utter assumes a character so important, that an inquest will be held on it in the general judgment.—Harris.

MR. COBB, OF ALABAMA.—We observe the following compliment paid to the indefatigable member from the Sixth Congressional District of our State, by a Washington correspondent of the Huntsville Democrat.—We have no doubt it is well deserved:

"Mr. Cobb, of Alabama, is really one of the most exemplary and industrious members of the present Congress. He reported, last week, a large number of bills affecting almost every part of the United States. I am told he keeps the decks clear in his committee, and does not allow the public business, referred to the committee on Public Lands, to sleep on his table. He has the whole history and condition of every inch of the public domain at his fingers' ends, and, therefore, sees with promptness, energy and intelligence on every subject committed to his care."

HAPPINESS.

Now let me tell you a secret—a secret worth knowing. This looking forward for enjoyment don't pay. From what I know of it, I would as soon chase butterflies for a living, or bottle up moonshine for cloudy nights. The only true way to be happy is to take the drops of happiness as God gives them to us every day of our lives, the boy must learn to be happy while he is pleading over his lessons, the apprentice while he is learning his trade, the merchant while he is [illegible] If he fails to learn this art, he will be sure to miss his enjoyment when he gains what he sighs for.

Acquisition of Cuba.

The New Orleans Delta of the 15th inst. comes out in an article decidedly favoring the forcible acquisition of Cuba. It very correctly argues, that so far from the opposition of France, England, and other European powers, being an argument against the acquisition, it proves its imperative necessity; and that Cuba must inevitably be European or American. That paper also argues, that the present troubled state of Europe, when the principal powers are on the eve of a general war, is a propitious time for the consumation of that important object, inasmuch as these powers have enough to do at home, and are consequently not in a condition to interfere to prevent it.

So far as the influence of a general European war is concerned, in preventing interferance, it would be wise perhaps to wait until it actually breaks out, lest the muddying of the waters on this side of the Atlantic might tend to clear them up on the other.

Senator Davis of Mississippi, has recently spoken out very emphatically on this subject. He is reported to have said that the acquisition of Cuba was necessary to the preservation of the United States as a nation, that France & England were not in a position to interfere, and that while he did not believe Cuba could be purchased, there never was a period when the forcible acquisition of the island would be attended with so little injury to all parties as the present."

Selma Book Store.

Mr. J. M. West proprietor of this establishment, keeps always on hand a well selected and extensive assortment of Books and Stationery. He will be found an agreeable and accommodating gentleman to deal with, and one who will fill orders with promptitude, and the most business-like accuracy. Call on him while in Selma, or send your orders by mail or a friend.

Tenn. & Coosa Railroad.

The Marshall County News, of the 11th inst. says that S. K. Rayburn, Pres. and Col. J. H. Moore, Treasurer of this road, recently went to Montgomery with a bond meeting the requisitions of the act making an appropriation of $50,000 which they received.

The available means of the company with the land donation is now estimated at $685,000, and [illegible] friends confidently predict that [illegible]nished & in running order [illegible]tter's Landing to Gadsden in [illegible]rs.

Forest Hill Female Academy.

We invite the attention of Parents and Guardians, who have children and wards to educate, and the friends of education generally, to the advertisement of the commencement of the next session of this excellent school, located at Talladega, Ala.

Mr. Samuel was formerly Principal of the Masonic Female Institute, but for the last 4 or 5 years has been Principal of the Forest Hill Academy. During all this time he has had a number of Pupils from this County, and we know no man who has stood higher in the estimation of his patrons, as a Teacher, or one who has given more unqualified satisfaction.

The Homestead Bill which has passed the Representative branch of Congress, has been reported on favorably by the Committee on Public Lands in the Senate, with a fair prospect of its passage in that body. This bill provides that any native born or naturalized citizen of the United States who is over the age of 21 years, and the head of a family, shall be entitled to enter, free of charge 160 acres of land for the purpose of settling thereon, from any of the domain, in any State or Territory subject to entry at the time of application.

We sincerely hope this bill may pass, notwithstanding it is said the Alabama delegation voted unanimously against it. We would much rather see the public domain given away to worthy, but needy and homeless citizens, than divided among the States, given to wealthy Railroad corporations, or taken up by greedy speculators, or wasted by and expensive land system. It is now a fixed fact that the public domain will in future be a bone of contention between the different States, and every extravagant and wasteful appropriation eagerly grabbed at by sectional and selfish interests. Let it go to the needy say we.

Marble.—The attention of persons wishing any description of marble work, is respectfully invited to the advertisement of Mr. J. N. Montgomery, of Selma. His articles are of the finest and latest styles—his prices uniform and moderate; and articles ordered from him can be safely packed and conveyed to any part of this country.

The Pension Bill allowing pensions of various amounts to soldiers in the public service, from the time of the revolutionary war down to the present, will probably be defeated.—The argument of retrenchment and economy has been brought to bear with power against it in the present exhausted state of the treasury. This argument is legitimate, and might well reconcile the friends of the bill to its fate were it not for the fact, that they know that all the revenue which can be raised is likyly to be wasted upon less useful or worthy objects.

The cry of retrenchment and reform is very rife in Congress just now.—Doubless many of them raise it in good faith and in earnest. But as usual in such cases they "commence by saving at the spile, while it is running out at the bung hole." They have commenced at the outside twigs of the tree of extravagance instead of the roots.—Our wise Congress is industriously engaged in trying to abolish the franking privilege of some minor Post Masters, and the free exchange of Newspapers, which if carried out fully, would not pay for the time they talk about it.—And as the latter measure would have a direct tendency to curtail the general dissemination of intelligence among the people, we hope for the sake of the pitiful economy, they will discuss it alone in nigh sessions, blow out the candles and talk it over in the dark.

If our government expenditures are becoming alarming, which we do not deny, let our wise Statesmen begin to curtail the millions upon millions expended for Pacific Railroad surveys & explorations, expeditions to South America, Asia and Japan, Coast surveys and ocean mail service, foreign diplomatic intercourse, &c. When these extravagances are all lopped off, and there is still no money in the treasury, the same patriotism that caused the soldier to shoulder his musket in time of need, will reconcile him, though poor and dependant, to go unpensioned by his poverty-stricken government.

☞Call on Baercke & Kienecke, while you are in Mobile; and we venture to say they can fit you with a splendid and fashionable suit of clothes, easier than you can pronounce their names Their store is under the Battle House. See card in another column.

Gold.—The present production of gold from the various mines of the world, is estimated at $170,000,000; and it is the opinion of the best informed financiers, that this amount will be doubled in a few years. Although much of this may be absorbed by the growing wants of internal improvements, manufactures and commerce, yet it is probable that the price of labor and products will continue to increase, and that gold and silver may finally become the chief circulating medium.

☞If you want articles in the Saddlery or Harness line, call on R. Valentine & Co. while in Selma, or send your orders by a friend, and you will have them filled by these gentlemen, of as good articles and at as reasonable prices as if you were present.

See advertisement in another column.

Murder and Bank Robbery.—George E. Miller, teller of the Union Bank at Jackson, Tenn. was murdered on the night of Thursday, Feb. 3rd, and the Bank robbed of $25,405, of which, $4,545 was in gold. A reward of $2,000 has been offered, but as yet no clue to the murderers and robbers has been obtained.

☞Attention is invited to the notice of Mr. B. Eliasberg, in another column who has an extensive Confectionary, Fruit, and Family Grocery Store on Broad street Selma, Ala.

Paraguay.—The news from Paraguay is, that that government is determined to resist the demands of the United States, and is making rapid preparations for war. The government is said to have from eight to ten thousand troops in the highest state of discipline, commanded by French and English officers.

☞Sewing Machines, at greatly reduced prices, may now be obtained from the Agent, J. W. Blandin, at Selma, Ala. See his notice in another column.

New Paper.—We have received the first number of Frank Leslies new Weekly paper, called "The Stars and Stripes." It contains 16 pages, neatly printed, on entirely new materials; and a number of well executed wood engravings of original design, of humorous cenes, and war-like and hunting adventures. Leslie has been very successful in his literary enterprizes, and "Stars and Stripes," promises to be very popular with the reading public. In this number we see no other terms mentioned except 4 cents per copy, which is about $2 per annum.

Address, Frank Leslie, 13 Frankfort St., New York.

Sadlery.—The attention of persons in need of work in this line of business, are respectfully invited to the card of Mr. C. H. Kuhne, of Selma, of whom the may obtain articles of superior quality upon the most reasonable terms. Those who cannot apply in person can have their orders filled with accuracy and dispatch; and the constant intercourse between this place and Selma, will make this mode very convenient.

☞Notice correction in place of holding election in Beat No. 8 from Allen's to Waldens.

Rain.—It has certainly been one of the most extraordinary rainy seasons, since the latter part of October, within the memory of any living man. It is the opinion of many farmers, that the constant and long continued wet weather, will be very injurious to the wheat crop, particularly on low and and level lands.

The Tariff.—Letter writers from Washington, express the confident belief, that notwithstanding the recent depletion of the treasury, there will be no necessity for any change in the present revenue laws, and that none is likely soon to occur. Imports are increasing immensely. The receipts at the New York Custom House alone averaged since 1st January, $2,000,000 per week.

The high protective tariff party, have shown themselves willing to plunge the country in debt untold millions, for useless purposes: they wish to make a national debt an apology for a high tariff, to accomplish their selfish and sectional designs; and we are glad, that after all they are likely to have their hopes frustrated.

Destructive Fire in Dalton.—On the night of the 9th inst. a destructive fire broke out in Dalton, which destroyed Messrs. Morris & Jackson Dry Goods Store, Dr. Brown's Drug Store, and the Western and Atlantic Hotel. The loss is estimated at $17,000.

Friendship in Action.—Our acknowledgements are due to our old friend, Capt. L. M. Gilbert, formerly of this County, but now of Union Parish, Louisiana, for sending us additional names to his own, as subscribers to the Republican—names too of the right sort, as vouched for by the gold dollars.

The many friends and acquaintances of Capt. Gilbert, in this section of country, will be pleased to learn that he is well, and leading the same useful and enterprising life, in that prosperous country.

We also return our sincere thanks to many friends nearer home, who have recently manifested their good will, by successful efforts to increase the number of subscribers to the Republican. The assistance of such friends will enable us to devote our time and attention to making a useful and interesting paper; one that they may truly and freely recommend to others.

Opium Smoking.

The New York correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer says that, in addition to the poisoned liquors, which produce so much disease and death in New York, engendered by cupidity and fostered by vitiated taste, is coming into vogue, both in England and in this country, and which promises to be more destructive in its effects than all the poisoned liquors ever invented, and that is the smoking of Opium mixed with tobacco, in pipes, &c. Already Persian and Arabic Smoking Tobacco is paraded before the public, which is said to contain an admixture of prepared Opium. Once the habit of Opium smoking takes possession of its votaries, there is no hope of reform. The only end is stupefaction and death It will be a terrible day for humanity when Opium smoking shall spread among the people of England and America. And the time may arrive when this great evil, which England attempted to fasten upon the Chinese, may recoil upon her own people and upon us. "Curses sometimes go home to roost." May civilzation be saved from this, the greatest of all curses!

The New Postage Bill.

A Washington correspondent says, the bill purporting to abolish the franking, which was reported from the House Postal Committee, a few days ago, proposes to deprive Congress-men of the privilege, giving each member $100 per annum in stamps as an offset, but it retains the privilege for the President, ex-Presidents, Presidents' widows, Postmaster General and Deputies Auditor and Chief Clerk, and for those post masters whos[illegible] pay is less than $200. Tho[illegible] deprives newspapers of th[illegible] they now enjoy of having [illegible] and their county circulation

There is a difference between economy and meanness, and it is to be regretted that our Congressmen cannot carry out the former without descending to the latter. The newspaper press is already saddled with burdens enough for the public good, for which they never reap a dollar's reward. Free exchanges is about the only privilege they have, and it seems even this small pittance is to be taken from them. We think it enough that Congress and the executive departments at Washington should claim to dictate their own terms to publishers of newspapers in all matters of business that are sent to the latter, and to fix them, invariably, below the customary rates.

Upon the whole, we consider the reduction in this matter of newspaper exchanges a very little affair, and that Congress is straining at a "gnat" when such moustrous "camels" as the overland mail and ocean steamships are swallowed without a solitary wry face.

Discovery of Silver Mines.—A Washington letter to the New York Journal of Commerce, says:

"A private letter from Assistant Surgeon Irwin, U. S Army, from Fort Buchanan, Arizona, announces the recent discovery of the celebrated Compadre silver mines. The mines are famous in the Spanish records for their rich yield. The ore is argentiferous galena. Thirteen furnaces were found buried at the mines and the shafts carefully covered up.—Large rewards have been repeatedly offered for their discovery. The finders are Mr. Meregd, formerly of Maryland; and Mr. Titus. The locality is about twenty four miles East of Fort Buchanan and just North of Santa Cruz."

Beamon, who killed Auberry and Battles in St. Clair county, has been admitted to bail, on a writ habeas corpus, tried before Chancellor Foster, in the sum of $6,000 in each case.—Cherokee Argus.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

Cotton Slightly Declined.

Sales of the week 44,000.

CONSOLS 95¼.

New York, February 7, 1859.

The steamer Asia arrived this afternoon. Sales of the week 44,000 bales. Speculators took 500 bales, and exporters 3,500.

Some circulars say the market declined 1-16. Middling Orleans 6¼; middling uplands 5¾. Sales of Friday 6000 bales.

Congress, February 1st.

In the Senate the bill, which has already passed the House of Representatives making donations of public land to the several States for the purpose of founding agricultural colleges, was discussed during the day's session.

Amendments were proposed by Messrs. Gwin, Stuart, and others, when Mr. Pugh, after a brief argument against the bill, moved that it be recommitted to the Committee on Public Lands.—The motion failed of adoption—yeas 27, nays 28.

The Senate having thus expressed a disposition to proceed with the bill the discussion was continued by Messrs. Stuart, Harlan, Simmons, Collamer, Hale, and others in support of its provisions, and by Messrs. Rice, Mason Green, Davis and others in opposition to its adoption.

The Senate adjourned without coming to any final decision on the bill.

In the House of Representatives the homestead bill was called up by Mr. Grow and passed after some discussion, by a vote of 129 to 76. This bill proposes to every citizens who is the head of a family, and to such as have declared their intention to become citizens, the right to enter a quarter section of land; the location to be on lands subject to entry at one dollar and a quarter per acre.

Congressional.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Nothing of importance was transacted in either branch of Congress to-day.

Washington, Feb. 4.—In the Senate to-day bills were reported to form Territorial governments in Arizona and Dacotah. The committee rejected the Colona Territorial bill. The land committee reported favorably to the homestead bill; and passed the bill for the relief of the Mobile and Ohio railroad. Several private bills were passed, and among them one for the relief of the owner and crew of the brig Gen. Armstrong, was passed by a vote of twenty-three to eleven.

In the house, the military committee reported in opposition to the President's recommendation of a protectorate over Sonora Chihuahua. Several important bills were postponed until the next session.

Charleston Races.

Charleston, Feb. 4.—Maingo won the first race to-day and Sue[illegible] the Hutchinson's stakes. Planet did not start.

Kansas News.

St. Louis, Feb. 3.—A dispatch from Leavenworth states that Brown has escaped; and that a party has gone in pursuit of him. He is said to have gone to Nebraska.

From Utah.

St. Louis, Feb. 3.—Advices from Salt Lake City state that the grand jury has been discharged, in consequence of the impossibility of obtaining impartial justice. It was probable that martial law would have to be established.

Union Telegraph Companies.

Washington, Feb. 5.—It is understood here, and from reliable authority, that Mr. F. O. J. Smith has disposed of all his rights in the Morse Telegraph lines and [illegible]ments to the Magnetic and Am[illegible]ompanies, and negotiations a[illegible] being consummated in consoli[illegible] the interest of these compan[illegible] from Nova Scotia to New Orlean[illegible]

Market Reports.

Mobile, Feb. 5.—Cotton—Middling 11 cents. Sales for the week 18,500 bales. Receipts of the 10,000 bales, against 25,250 for the corresponding week last year. Stock on hand, Feb. 4. 1859, 299,000 bales.

From California.

The subjoined telegraphic items are taken from our eastern exchanges, under date of St. Louis, Feb. 5th.

The overland mail of the 10th has arrived. It is rumored at San Francisco that three hundred prisoners in the penitentiary had been accidentally poisoned by some chemical in the flour used, but it is probably exaggerated.

The sloop of war Vandalia left for Gapmas to relieve the St. Mary's.

The probate Juge of Carson Valley published a card declaring his intention to perform his duty, without fear or favor. A collision between him and the anti-Mormons is considered inevitable.

Gen. Kibble was still prosecuting the war against the Indians, with great success.

Paul C. Shore was killed in Santa Clara county, by Thomas Seales, on the 6th, which caused great excitement.—Seals was carried to the jail in San Jose, and protected by the military from the citizens.

Highly flattering accounts from the Kansas gold mines continue to be received at Leavenworth.

Ossawattamie Brown escaped into Nebraska, and the troops having returned.

Congressional.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The Senate, to-day, passed the joint resolution to regulate the tobacco trade with foriegn countries. A discussion resulted on the resolution to equalise the revenue expenditures; and there was some discussion on the consular diplomatic bill.

William and Mary College Burnt.

Petersburg, Va., Feb. 8—William and Mary College, in Williamsburg, with its extensive library and laboratory, were burnt at three o'clock this morning. It was the oldest institution in the country, founded in 1692, (not old[illegible] or perhaps, than Harvard,) and had a library of over five thousand volumes. The insurance was only twenty-two thousand dollars.

Congressional.

Washington, Feb. 9.—In the Senate to-day, the revenue bill was discussed. Mr. Slidell's bill for the purchase of Cuba, was up for consideration, and attempts were made by the Republicans, to defeat it, by loading it with ridiculous amendments.

In the House, the legislative, executive, and judical bill was passed. The amount provided originally has been greatly reduced. Mr. Brauch, from the committee on foreign affairs, reported back the bill for the purchase of Cuba. Mr. Davis, of Mississippi, gave notice that he would substitute the word "to be" for purchase in the bill.

More Gold Discoveries.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—Major Culbertson reports the discovery of very prolific gold mines, near Steven's Pass, in the vicinity of the head waters of the Columbia and Missouri rivers.

Congressional.

Washington, Feb. 10.—In the Senate to-day, Mr. Yulee, of Florida, reported a bill making provision to sustain the Charleston Key West, and Havana mail transportation. The tariff was under discussion, and the Senate in session when the reporter left the capitol.

In the House, to-day, the debate on the Oregon State bill was continued

Eight o'clock P. M.—The Senate debate on the acquisition of Cuba has continued, but no action has been determined. It is believed that the bill will pass the Senate.

In the House it is expected the bill will be defeated.

Washington, Feb. 11.—In the Senate to-day the Cuba bill was debated.

In the House, the bill for the admission of Oregon was discussed.

Arrival of the Moses Taylor.

New York, Feb. 11.—The steamship Moses Taylor has arrived from Aspinwall, with the California mail and $1,300,000 in treasure.

The settlers in one of the valleys of California killed forty Indians on New Year's day, for killing stock, and committing other depredations.

Chili was in a disturbed state. The provinces were under martial law, and it is probable the next news from that country will announce the overthrow of the Government or the butchery of the mob. President Castilla was threatend with death.

Prospect of a General European War.—Ion, the Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, says:

The news by the Arabia certainly indicates the probability of a general continental War, upon the "Italian question." The speech of the King of Sardinia, the movements of Austria, the warlike preparations of France, and the panic in the stock markets, all tend towards the commencement of hostilities at an early day. When and how such a war will end no one can foresee. But, in the course of its complications, a state of things may arise that will be favorable to a negotiation with Spain, through the interference of France, for the purchase of Cuba by the United States. This view of the matter may become an argument with Congress in favor of the thirty million bill.

Names of Authors.—Mr Allibone enumerates twenty-one family names that have an aggregate of 1586 authors. The Joneses are the most numerous of the list numbering one hundred and eighty authors; next comes the Browns and Brownes, with one hundred and seventy-five writers; the Clarke and Clarkes come next, numbering one hundred and fifty-three; others succeed as follows: Davies and Davis one hundred and sixteen: Johnsons, one hundred and ten; Hall ninety-two; Hamilton, eighty-six; Green and Greene, eighty-three; Jackson, eighty-one; Hill, sixty-seven; Howard, fifty-three; Johnston & Johnstone, fifty-two; Harris, fifty-two; Harrison, fifty-two; James, forty-eight; Ellis, forty-seven; Grant, forty-seven; Gibson; forty-two; Holmes, twenty-four, Irving, seventeen:

Important from the Juarez Cabinet. We have reliable assurances from Mexico that President Juarez is not only willing but anxious to enter into a treaty with the United States for the protection of the frontier. All that we could gain, as a people, by an expensive and objectionable "protectorate" may thus be honorably obtained by treaty, to the mutual satisfaction and advantage of both governments, and at a saving, instead of an increase, of our war expenditures on the Indian infested Mexican frontier.

We have also reason to believe that the Anglo-French demands were diminished to much more reasonable proportions by a seasonable hint that Mexico, if reduced to the necessity of choosing a dictator, might appeal to her great sister of the North for protection or annexation. This was a contingency that the allied admirals dared not assume the responsibility of forcing, and they came down in their terms. Juarez seems to really have a fixed policy of his own, and the nerve to carry it out.

The Charleston Mercury.—We publish with pleasure the prospectus of our spirited and time-honored Charleston cotemporary, and refer to it those of our readers who desire to procure a journal from the city and at the same time encourage an able, constant, faithful and everywhere esteemed exponent and champion of the best interests of the South. The Mercury improves with every issue, and besides its value as a political leader, we place it with the most interesting and entertaining of our sanctum visitors.

During the past, week, it has donned a new dress, fashioned in a new and improved style, and presents a truly handsome appearance. We welcome this indication of prosperity and extend our heartiest congratulations.—Yorkville Enquirer.

"Sir," said a pompous personage, who once undertook to bully an editor, "do you know that I take your paper?" "I've no doubt of it," replied the man of the quill, "for several of my honest subscribers have been complaining lately about their papers being missing."

Talladega and the Railroad.

The Board of Directors for the Ala. & Tenn. River Railroad had their regular meeting in this city last week, to whom a report was made that forty-one thousand dollars had been raised towards extending the road to the town of Talladega. Nine thousand more has to be raised before the extension can commence, and we sincerely hope that the people of the town and county, who have a reputation as being public and enterprising people, will not let the effort be abandoned. They are able to raise it, and they ought to do it at once and be done with it, so that the iron could be bought and brought up the river before it falls. It is true, that several in and around town have acted liberally, while there are others who are able but not willing to do anything—who are waiting to receive the benefits of the road, without lending a helping hand towards its construction. It is a great misfortune that such men live in an enterprising community. They are great draw backs, and the only way to get along with them, is just to move along like they were not citizens—treat them as blanks in every respect, and it is possible that they may learn something after awhile.

We see but one way for the balance of the money to be raised, and that is for those in and around town, who have already aided, to strain a little more and make it up at once. We have in our eye, a few men up there, who can do it if they will, and we believe they will before they will see the effort abandoned. Meet together, gentlemen; at once, and learn what is necessary for each one of you to do, and then do it and be done with it. Don't wait any longer on your crawfish neighbors, but go ahead, and if you do a little more than your part it will all work out right in the end. It will never do to let the forty-one thousand be lost, and the only way for you to save it is to pile upon it till you raise the amount to fifty thousand. It will not do to delay much longer—now is the time to act and it must be done quickly, or the prize is lost; and lost for years. You will all be benefited and benefited greatly, and we cannot believe that you will not raise the amount until you entirely abandon the field. But delay will soon cause the field to abandon you, and we do sincerely hope that the amount will be raised at an early day, so that the company can go to work and complete the road to Talladega in a short time.

Profane language is abominable, loud laughing is impolite, inquisitiveness is offensive, tattleing is mean, telling lies is contemptible, slandering is devlish, ignorance is disgraceful, and laziness shameful. The Worlds Commotion.

Full of commotion is the world,
Raging in tempest—oceans hurled
And loudest thunders echo around,
Nor is there calmness to be found.
Convulsed the seas—the mountains roar,
Islands disperse, and heaves the shore,
Such is the scene of mortal's woe,

Men seek for honor and renown
And rest in these is nowhere found,
Relentless still, next seek for fame,
In Politics is heard their name;
On Fortune's shore they take their stand,
New pains they form on every hand.

Ten thousand are the aspirants grasp,
Round nature's bubbles—empty blasts;
Empty their hopes and void their ease,
All of this world they hope to please.
Down comes the castles they have reared;
And of their glory, they've dispaired;
Winter's cold and withering blast,
Again to earth has bound them fast.

MARRIED—On the 2nd inst., by L. Bedwell, Esq. Mr. G. B. Riley of Talladega county to Miss Mary A. Miller of Calhoun county.

Owing to the apparent indifference and manifest inactivity on the part of a majority of the citizens of Jacksonville in regard to educati[illegible]on;—or, rather in regard to securing for themselves a regular, thorough and permanent system of education;—and owing more especially, to the long continued and increasing want of united effort in promoting and sustaining the interests of the Female Academy—I feel compelled,—in justice to myself and the honor of my profession, to discontinue the exercises of this Institution.—Not forgetting, however, to acknowledge my feelings of obligation and gratitude to those who have so kindly manifested their confidence and esteem by th[illegible] uniform support and unfailing sympathy.

FITS! FITS! FITS!

Persons laboring under this distressing malady will find Dr. Hance's Epileptic Pills to be the only remedy ever discovered for curing Epilepsy or Falling Fits. These Pills possess a specific action on the nervous system and although prepared especially for the purpose of curing Fits, they will be found of special benefit to all persons afflicted with weak nerves, or whose nervous system has been prostrated or shattered from any cause whatever.—The dyspeptic patient, whose stomach has lost the power of duly converting food into life-sustaining element, is relieved by a single course of the extraordinary Pills. The gastric fluid re-acquires its solvent power, and the crude nutriment which was a load and a burden to the sufferer, while his digestive organization was paralyzed and unstrung, becomes under the wholesome revolution created in the system, the basis of strength, activity, and health.

Sent to any part of the country by mail free of postage. Address Seth S. Hance, 108 Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md.—Price—one box, $3; two $5; twelve, $24.

WHY WILL YOU DELAY?

Why will you neglect that disease which is taking such deep root, and which gives you warning by that hacking cough, that you are fast ripening for eternity? Why encourage that pain in the side, the raising of blood, those night sweats, or that difficult breathing, which silently whisper in your ear that something must be done to save you from the grave of consumptive? Why act so carelessly by permitting that disease to destroy your health, and hasten you to the tomb from whence no traveler ever yet returned?

SILENCE THAT DREADFUL COUGH!

Or death must carry you to your silent grave. Why delay while there is yet hope? Consumption is caused by impure humors of the blood being deposited in the cells of the lungs. Hence, the lungs are like a spring of water when rolled up by the dirt or mud, if clear water constantly flows through the spring, impurities or mud will be conveyed away by the pure water. Just so with the blood when kept in a clean or pure state; as it constantly flows through the lungs, it carries away all corrupt matter, and perfect health will be the result. From two to four Pills taken every night or every other night, or enough to keep the bowels regular, will in a reasonable time cure consumption. The reason these pills are used more than all others, is because they are made of purifying vegetables, and cleanse the body from all corrupt matter, and drive out disease of every description, quicker and in a milder way than any other Pills.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are sold by all dealers in Medicine.

A CARD
TO THE
Medical Profession.

Having had for my object the preparation of a remedy that would be beneficial in all cases where an external application is indicated, without being injurious in any. I have devoted a number of years to studying and experimenting. After making thousands of experiments and consulting the best authors and most scientific chemists and physicians of the day. I have at length succeeded in making a Medicine that will recommend itself to every one who studies its combination. Every intelligent Physician and Druggist will see at a glance, from the analysis given below, that it is composed of the very best remedies for external use in the Materia Medica.

THIS IS NOT A SECRET REMEDY:

Every person who can read may know its composition; its effects are also well known. One hundred thousand Bottles made according to this prescription have been sold and used. The result in every case was always uniform and satisfactory. Read the analysis made by one of the most popular and scientific Chemists in the United States.

Porter's Oriental Life LINIMENT,
C. W. WRIGHT, M. D.

Professor of Chemistry in the Kentucky School of Medicine, December, 1858.

To R. D. PORTER:

Sir—The ingredients which enter into composition of the Preparation known as "Porter's Oriental Life Liniment," which was left with me for qualitative chemical analysis, were found on examination to contain the following ingredients:

Eupione,	Picamar,
Paraffine,	Oil from Resin,
Picamar,	Naphtha,
Pitical,	Carbonate of Potassa

All of the above ingredients, with the exception of Carbonate of Potassa are eminently antiseptic. As the composition of the above preparation is no longer a secret, I have no hesitancy in stating that it is a safe and efficacious external remedy for the diseases in which it is recommended.

Respectfully, C. W. WRIGHT.

Hundreds of physicians use and prescribe Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, believing it to be the best remedy for that class of diseases in which it is recommended. They know its composition and prescribe it with as much certainty, as to its effects, as they do any other remedy.

The following are a few of the many eminent and influential physicians who have written letters to the proprietor speaking in the highest terms of the medicinal properties of the Oriental Life Liniment:

Dr. W. D. Reid, of Jefferson county, Ky.
Dr. Moses Appelgate, Crothersville, Ind.
Dr. Bruce, of Newcastle, Ky.
Dr. J. H. Jupin, of Morganfield Ky.
Dr. J. L. McConnel, Gibian Valley, Tenn.
Dr. J. W. McDonald, Butlersville, Ind.
Dr. R. B. Parker, Liberty, Ky.
Dr. R. H. Perryman, Boston, Ky.
Dr. E. Terrell, Felixville, Ky.
Dr. C. H. Harris, Charleston, Ky.
Dr. J. W. Hedges, Colemansville, Ky.
Dr. W. E. Olds, Maples, Ind.

The Oriental Life Liniment will be found of great benefit in Frostbites; Rheumatism, Cuts; Bruises, Sprains, &c &c. Put up in 25c 50 c and $1 Bottles, and sold by all Druggists and Country Merchants. Manufactured by

Clarion, and Little Rock Ark True Democrat.

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided, not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or commendment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will, give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case, Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N. Y.

P. S. Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

JOB WORK

THE LIVER
INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS, IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic—It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it perfurms its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the performance of its functions; when at fault, and the, in consequence of one or the other, having ceased to do its duty, the disease of the stomach is made it his remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all matter from the stomach, their place a healthy state, thus purifying the stomach, digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machine, and thereby removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Billious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

DR MORSES
INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way the the Indian Root Pills were first discovered—Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from "IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased, thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name, our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of and if nature is not assisted in throwing off these stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forevarble blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to know that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anclog the passage to the lungs, and thus, in osoothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distresse when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

CAUTION.—Beware of a counterfeit signed A. B. Moore. All genuine have the name of A. J. White & Co., on each box. Also the signature of A. J. White & Co. All others are spurious.

POETRY.

LILA LEE—A VALENTINE.

BY F. H. STAUFFER.

I can shut my eyes and see,
Lila Lee,
The church upon the hill,
The trumble-down old mill,
The fields of bearded rye
Where often you and I
Have wander'd, Lila Lee!
The rye fields blossom still,
But the church and the mill,
They are gone, Lila Lee!
Can you shut your eyes and see,
Lila Lee?
We often sit and think;
And we sigh, as we think,
Of the tears we have shed
For the lost and the dead,
And ourselves, Lila Lee!
I've lov'd you all my life;
Say, will you be my wife?
Be my wife, Lila Lee!

THE POET.

BY JULIA A. BARBER.

EARTH was fading from his vision,
Death had clasped his willing hand,
As he passed the haunted portals
Of the unknown, silent land,

White-winged Peace in the dim chamber
Waved her pinions o'er the gloom,
And the angels softly whispered
In that dimly-lighted room.

Then the poor, who truly loved him,
Laid him to his long, long rest,
With his pale hands meekly folded
O'er the lyre upon his breast.

Not alone he passed Death's River,
Lowly ones, long gone before,
All the children, too, who loved him,
Waiting his coming on the shore.

'Twas for them he lived and labored,
Not the world his praise confessed,
But the poor and suffring blessed him,
And he loved their praises best.

So the angels came to crown him,
While their blessings fell like rain,
And at last the poor-pilgrim
Knew he had not lived in vain.

Memento.

My son be this thy simple plan,
Serve God, and love thy fellow man;
Forget not in temptation's hour,
That sin lends sorrow double power;
Count life a stage upon thy way,
And follow conscience come what may:
Alike with heaven and earth sincere,
With hand and brow and bosom clear,
Fear God—and know no other fear."

"STARLIGHT."

BY PAUL LAURIE.

CHAPTER I.

YOUNG Doctor Leslie sat before a pleasant fire in his cheerful office, with one hand half-buried in his long, curling hair, and the other turning over the leaves of a book listlessly, while his eyes were gazing into the fire, half-sleepily, half-dreamily. Suddenly the hall door was flung open with a loud jar; a hasty pattering of feet fell upon his ear; a moment after, the knob of his office door was wrenched around quickly, and a beautiful child stood in the doorway before him. Doctor Leslie drew himself up to his full height, and rubbed his eyes, to assure himself that he was really awake, as he looked upon his visitor.

"Doctor Leslie, won't you come down to our house right away, and set our Jack's leg; it's broke in two places, mother says; and I've just come after you because I knew I would find you at home."

"Yes; certainly child; but take a seat," replied the doctor, advancing to the door, and closing it. "Now, tell me how he broke it?" he inquired, drawing his overcoat on, and gazing admiringly into the lustrous eyes of his little visitor. Those eyes were now suffused with tears, gazing up at him imploringly; her cheeks were flushed with excitement, her lips apart, her breathing hard and quick, her bonnet fallen back upon her shoulders, and half-hidden by the mass of golden curls which her little hands brushed back with a rapid movement from her sunny face. Although her attire was scrupulously neat, the plainness of the material induced the doctor to think that her parents belonged to the middle class, in reply to the doctor's question, the child said,

"Oh, dear! Jack was after a rat—a great big one, and he knocked over a box; the box just fell on his leg, and broke it in two places; but won't you come right away, Doctor? I've been five minutes coming here, and I am all out of breath."

"Well, come, then: I am ready now," replied the doctor, as he lifted a mysterious bundle from the table, and opened the door. "But how did you know you would find me at home, little lady?" he inquired, as he accompanied her, walking rapidly to keep up with her, for the little feet were impatient.

"Oh! because I see you there all the time, sir, when I go past with Jack.—Haven't you seen me passing with Jack?"

The young man did not reply; her answer had brought up before him two years of weary waiting. True, he very seldom had a call, and more than once he had determined to "Throw physic to the dogs," as week after week, & month after month passed by with scarcely a call; but something—perhaps it was his love of the art—always prevented him. The child waited for the answer to her question, but none came.

"Don't you know our Jack? He is only a year younger than me. We often pass your office, when we are playing together."

"And how old are you?" queried the doctor, smiling at the little one's prattle.

"Just five years old last week. This is our house, sir; let me open the door, if you please." And the little one swung the door open, preceding the doctor to the parlor, and taking his hat from him in a graceful manner. "I'll run and tell Mother and Father; they don't know you are here, or that I went after you; I just done it all myself."

The doctor gazed after the fairy-like creature in amazement. "Done it all herself! Hem! Like as not they don't want me; family physician, and all that! A precious fool I am, to follow that little one!"

Nevertheless, the doctor proceeded to make himself at home, turning over the leaves of annuals, examining various specimens of the yellow ore which were placed upon the centre table, and now and then glancing around upon the surroundings. Certainly he had made a great mistake; the child's parents were undoubtedly very wealthy. Perhaps it would be a wise movement to return to his office at once! No! now that he was there, why he was determined to see the end of this affair.

"Now, Doctor, please to come up stairs," said the little lady, as she entered the parlor, tripping to his side gracefully, and shaking back her golden curls as she looked up into his face, & gave him her hand, as if to lead him. "Please to come up; everything is in order, and Jack is perfectly quiet."

The doctor gave the tiny hand a warm pressure, as he followed her up the stairs, and into an elegantly furnished chamber. Two ladies and a gentleman were seated at one of the chamber windows, with their backs towasd him, the gentleman bending down and over what the doctor supposed to be the suffering boy, Jack. As the doctor advanced to the middle of the room, the ladies turned around hastily, meeting the doctor's collected look with one of undisguised astonishment.

"Mother!" exclaimed the child, "Here he is, and he said that he would certainly set Jack's leg."

Upon hearing the child's voice, the gentleman arose, and facing the doctor, favored him with a well-bred stare from beneath his elevated eyebrows.

"Permit me," said the eldest lady, placing a seat for the doctor, with a look that said, "Your business, pray?"

Why did the color deepen in the doctor's cheeks? Why did he catch his breath in that manner, or what caused his heart to throb so painfully? Reader, when the gentleman at the window arose, & the doctor's glance reached beyond the gentleman's seat in quest of the sufferer, it fell upon a Newfoundland dog! As they looked at each other in silence, a smile, a very faint one, it is true, flickered around the doctor's lips; but it did not extend to his eyes. It was not without visible embarrassment that he managed to say, at last, still looking in the gentleman's face boldly, "I believe you have the privilege of indulging in a hearty laugh, sir; pray, do not permit my presence to strangle it in your throat; but when this little fairy called upon me to set Jack's leg, I—I was not aware that Jack was a dog."

"My dear sir, you must excuse me!" replied the gentleman, as he endeavored, in vain, to control his muscles; then leaning back, he burst into a clear, hearty laugh, that rang throughout the house. The ladies gazed from the gentleman to their visitor, and at each other, with humor-lit eyes, then yielded themselves to a hearty fit of laughter, in which the doctor joined, and which they all found very difficult to restrain, even at the end of some five or six minutes.

"Indeed, you must excuse us, sir," said the eldest lady, as she wiped the tears of laughter from her eyes, and essayed to compose herself.

"Look at Starlight, Mother, will you," exclaimed the gentleman, as he pointed towards the child with one hand, and pressed the other to his side.

"Oh, dear! how sore my sides are!" The child was looking from one to the other with a look of perplexity and amazement, with her hands clasped behind her in an old-fashioned manner.

"Indeed, I can't see anything to laugh at! Didn't I tell you I was going for the doctor, just a minute ago, Will? And didn't you say 'Very well?'"

"So I did, Starlight; but I had no idea—" here the young gentleman sat down hastily, and again the doctor was forced to join in the laugh against him.

"Come, William!" said his mother.—"This is ridiculous conduct."

"Oh, I know it! confound it! It's so ridiculous that my sides just now feel very much as if they had been pounded with drum sticks!" was the broken reply, between sobs and contortions.

"Yes, it is ridiculous; and Jack laying there with his poor, broken leg.—He don't laugh!"

"No, Starlight; but it's because he don't know how. Starlight, you will be the death of me yet! Don't you think the doctor could put that piece to the cat's tail?" Starlight drew herself up proudly, and advanced to the side of the dog, saying, "Doctor Leslie didn't come to hear you laughing; he just come to set Jack's leg. Poor Jack!" continued the little one, as she caressed the noble animal, putting one arm over his neck, and gently placing her other hand upon his broken leg.

"You see how it is, Doctor Leslie; we paid no attention to the child's prattle, when she told us she had brought a doctor; we owe you an apology for so far forgetting ourselves as to indulge in this untimely mirth; you will, I hope, overlook it; and I hope we may be friends hereafter."

"No apology is required here, Madam."

"My name is Logan."

"Well, Mrs. Logan, I am indebted to your child for the heartiest laugh I have enjoyed for months," continued the doctor, as he glanced around upon the circle, and made a movement towards the door.

"Oh, Doctor! why you have not looked at Jack yet!" exclaimed Starlight, in dismay, as she noticed his outstretched hand. He turned around deliberately, facing the child as he replied, "Don't you think your brother could set his leg as well as I could do it?"

"I'm sure he couldn't; besides, you know, you said you would certainly do it, and you must keep your promise."

"That's right, Starlight! make him do it," said her brother, banteringly.

Doctor Leslie approached the dog, and examined his broken leg. In compliance with his request, Mr. Logan procured for him a piece of wood, out of which he made suitable splints, and with Mr. Logan's assistance, while the rest looked on, he very soon placed Jack's leg in its proper shape. In gratifying the child's desire, he also gratified the whole family. Mr. Logan's manner was respectful and frank at the same time, as he acknowledged the slight service rendered.

"You must call again, Doctor, and look at your patient," said Mrs. Logan, as she accompanied him to the door.

The doctor shook his head as he rejoined, "I think you have had sufficient amusement at my expense, Mrs. Logan."

"I am in earnest, Doctor; you are at liberty to call upon us, and I hope you will do so."

"Oh, yes; I will go and fetch him, if he won't come without," added Starlight, who had that moment joined them. "I'm sure I'll never forget you for setting our Jack's leg."

"And I am sure I'll never forget it, either," thought the doctor, as he bewed himself out, and walked back to his office.

"You'll make a famous business woman, Starlight, when you grow up!" exclaimed her brother, when Starlight re-entered the chamber with her mother. "I will be 'do this,' and 'do that,' and it will be done in short order.—What put it into your head to go after that doctor?"

"Why, it just come, like everything else comes there, I suppose; wouldn't you want a doctor, if your leg was broke, Will?"

"I wouldn't want one long, if you were about."

"Well, then, I think you needn't mind laughing so much at the things I do," replied Starlight, surveying Jack with an air of self-complacency. "If it hadn't been for me, Jack's leg wouldn't have been mended at all; it takes me to bring the doctor!"

CHAPTER II.

It was late in the afternoon of the third day following his singular visit, that Doctor Leslie, tired with reading, leaned back in his chair in his office, and gazed out of the window, now upon the passers-by, now upon the richly-colored clouds sweeping majestically along the sky, when a knock at the door attracted his attention. Rising, and opening the office door, his glance fell upon Starlight, who, in company with Jack, had come to pay him a visit.

"So you came to see me, Starlight, at last; I had given you up; and how is your Jack's leg to day?"

The dog gave him a wistful look upon hearing his name mentioned. "That means 'Very well, sir,'" interpreted Starlight, as she proceeded to make room for herself beside the doctor, laying her bonnet upon his table. Jack limped to her side, and stretched himself out at full length, upon the floor, evidently considering himself at home.

"Free and easy, ain't he?" inquired the child, looking up into the doctor's face gravely.

"Very," he responded, running his fingers through her beautiful hair, and smiling at the oddity of the expression coming from a mere child.

"Mother said that if you wouldn't call to see your patient, why, that your patient must come to see you, and so I just brought him along."

"Without telling them at home?"

"What's the use; when she said that, I just took her at her word."

"What a singular child," murmured Doctor Leslie, still running his hands through the golden curls.

"What makes you say I'm singular?"

"Did I say you were singular?"

"Yes; you said it just now. What is singular?"

"I could scarcely make you understand it, Starlight. By the way, tell me why they call you Starlight."

"Father said it first; he said there was something in my eyes, he never told me what, that made him call me Starlight. Then Mother, and Annie, and Will, called me Starlight, too. Do you see anything in my eyes, Doctor Leslie?"

"Yes; a great deal."

"A great deal of what? tell me, I want to know."

"A great deal of starlight."

"That's just what the rest tell me, when I ask them. But I have another name, and a prettier one; though I don't often get it."

"What is that?"

"Jessie."

"I like Starlight the best."

"Do you? Oh, I nearly forgot to tell you. Doctor Porter (that's the doctor we always had, 'till I got you to set Jack's leg) was at our house this morning, and when he seen Jack, he asked who fixed his leg so nice, and mother told him all about it."

Here Doctor Leslie's face grew red. Doctor Porter was their family physician then; one of the ablest and oldest of the many able practitioners in the city. The story would be all over town now; he knew it would come to that!

"Oh! you needn't be the least afraid, Doctor Leslie!"

"Afraid of what, Starlight?"

"Afraid of any one making fun of you. When Doctor Porter laughed, Mother and Annie didn't laugh a bit. And mother told him you were not a bit of a fool, and if he told it for a capital story, she would tell the other side of it, and when Doctor Porter told mother to employ you for the family, she thanked him for his advice, and that made him angry, and Mother says he is never to come back again; and I'm so glad, for he isn't a bit like you; but ever so cross."

"There! don't tell me any more, Starlight."

"Why? well, won't you look at Jack's leg, then?"

The doctor complied with her request.

"It is doing famously, Starlight; it will be well in a few days."

"Well, I think I must go now; you won't tell what I told you, Doctor. Oh! I nearly forgot something else! Maybe Will will be here to see you to-night. I heard him saying so. Come, Jack! Good bye, Doctor! we'll come soon again," and tying on her bonnet carelessly, the little lady tripped through the door, and away from the office, swiftly, while Doctor Leslie sat down and meditated.

"Humph! Porter will never weary repeating that story. Confound the dog! What could that little one mean? her mother would not, even for a moment, think of employing one like me as her family physician? Pooh! the idea is ridiculous! I dare say, every time my name is mentioned, they enjoy a hearty laugh at my expense. I wonder what brother Will wishes to call upon me for; perhaps to pay me for my services. He will do well to conduct himself in a gentlemanly manner when he comes."

When young Mr. Logan called upon him, two hours later, Doctor Leslie gave him his hand, though not without a degree of restraint. Upon taking the seat which the doctor had placed for him, the gentleman proceeded at once to state his business.

"I hope you will not be offended, Doctor Leslie, at my offering to remunerate you for the service you rendered the other day—we looked for you at the house; but when you did not return, we concluded to call upon you."

As he spoke, he placed a ten dollar bill upon the table beside the doctor, who lifted it, and handed it back to him, saying, with a smile, "Be assured, I am not offended. I think I understand the motive; but I cannot take anything upon that score."

"I am sorry, sir; still, importunity here would be very much out of place," replied Mr. Logan, adding, in a few moments, "Why, Mother desired me to request your services as our family physician. I presume that you have but an answer to the proposition, Doctor Leslie."

Doctor Leslie did not reply at once, and when the answer came, it was in a low tone, "I shall certainly accept it; but I fear that your mother overrates me. To what do I owe this, Mr. Logan?"

"Perhaps I should not tell you, sir."

"You will confer a favor upon me by so doing," interrupted the doctor, hastily.

"To gratify you," replied Mr. Logan, bowing. "Doctor Porter has been our family physician for many years. If you have ever met him, you know that he is exceedingly coarse, pompous, and tyrannical." He called upon us the day after your visit. The manner in which Jack's leg was bandaged, attracted his attention; finally, he drew the story from my mother. I was not there at the time, but I understand that his manner was insulting, and to such a degree, that my mother gave him to understand that his services were no longer required. This is the reason why she desires you to take his place.—Your manner pleased her; indeed, I confess you impressed me favorably, as well as the rest."

"I hope I may prove myself worthy of the confidence you repose in me," responded Doctor Leslie.

"And you refuse to accept this?" said Mr. Logan, holding the note towards the doctor.

"No! no!" was the laughing reply. "I can't take it; if I did, I would merit the cognomen of 'Dog Doctor.'"

"Well, well! as you please: perhaps Starlight may succeed in paying that."

Doctor Leslie made a light reply, then changed the subject. When the gentlemen separated, after an hour's conversation, it was with a mutual feeling of respect for each other.

(To be continued next week.)

Down and Up.

In the year 1849, a young man who was rich, and engaged in a lucrative business in Cincinnati, became enamored of a beautiful and amiable girl—the daughter, by the way, of wealthy parents—and after a brief courtship married her. He loved her dearly; she loved him dearly. A future of happiness seemed in store for them; but evil days came, and after a brief but violent struggle with fortune, the young man became a bankrupt. He was left without a dollar, but not without a hope. The gold mines of California were open to the adventurous and industrious. He would leave his beautiful wife and seek its glittering shores, where he would remain until his fallen fortunes were revived. He came to California, but the cloud still hung over him. He was active, enterprising, and persevering; yet while others around him were gathering the golden harvest in abundance, his every object failed. For eight years he continued thus. He became sick, weary and disheartened, but his pride would not allow him to write home for assistance. He was at last reduced to sell newspapers upon the streets for a living.

A few weeks ago he was at Folsom street wharf upon the arrival of the mail steamer, and among the passengers who came ashore, he caught a glimpse of a richly-dressed lady, whom he thought he knew. He followed her to a hotel, got a fair view, and recognized her as his wife, whom he had not seen for eight years. He was poorly dressed, but his affections conquered his pride, and he immediately made himself known to her. The recognition was followed by a beautiful exhibition of unabated and unfaltering love. The lady's parents having died, had left her heiress of great wealth. She had not heard of her husband for eight years, and fearing for his safety, she resolved to visit this State and make enquiries for herself. The lady closed her conversation with her husband by putting her arms around his neck, and saying:

"Now, dear George, we can go home & be happy, as we used to be." They did go home on the steamer which left last Monday. This story is strictly true.—California Spirit of the Times.

A lodger in one of our Western hotels was complaining bitterly to the Irish porter of his want of sleep. "Sure," said Pat, with a merry twinkle in his eyes, 'you're not the worst by far.—There are some of our outdoor lodgers who have never closed their eyes at night, since they tuk up their quarters here!" "Indeed!" claimed the stranger in surprise. "I was not aware of the fact. Pray, who are they? "The bed bugs!" was the reply.

"These are stirring times," as the boy said when he got into a hornet's nest.

"Husband, I have the asthma so bad that I can't breathe." "Well, my dear, I wouldn't try, nobody wants you to."

An Irish Judge said, when addressing a prisoner; "You are to be hanged, and I hope it will be a warning to you."

Loquacious mouths are like badly managed banks—they make large issues on no solid capital.

The young lady who caught cold from drinking water from a damp tumbler is convalescent.

"What object do you now see?" "It appears like a jackass, doctor, but I rather think its your shadow!"

A pedestrian travelling in Ireland, met a man and asked him rather gruffly, why the miles were so long? when the Hiberian replied: "You see, yer honer, the roads are not in very good condition, so we give you good measure."

The Deaf and Dumb Institute.—We have heretofore, on several occasions, called attention to this Institution.—And it is with pleasure that we again bear testimony to its present flourishing condition, under the auspices of its accomplished and indefatigable teacher. In company with our esteemed cotemporary of the Reporter, we visited the Institution on Friday last, and witnessed the recitation of the classes. To say that we were pleased, would be paying but a poor compliment to the manner in which they acquitted themselves.—In fact, we were almost amazed at the rapid proficiency which the pupils have acquired in the brief period which some of them have been deprived of one of the great senses bestowed on man by Nature, they have notwithstanding progressed in their studies to a degree which is truly surprising. Indeed, some of them who commenced in the lowest grade, as primary scholars, have advanced almost as rapidly in their studies as many juveniles we have seen in other schools who were blessed with hearing and speech to the fullest extent. These facts speak alike in the highest degree for the intelligence of the pupils and the faithful efficiency of their persevering teacher.

In speaking thus commendably of Dr. Johnson and the pupils, we could but observe that the former was overtasked. In other similar institutions the number of pupils awarded to each teacher is from twelve to sixteen. Dr. Johnson has about twenty under his charge, and we believe without an assistant. This is too great a tax on his energies, and we trust that the matter will be laid before the right quarters, and properly remedied.

In the temporary location of the Deaf and Dumb Institute at this point, the State has been exceedingly fortunate. The present prosperous condition of the Institute, we doubt not, is due, in no inconsiderable degree, to its location. Talladega is famed for the salubrity of its climate, the high moral tone of its society, the fertility of its valleys, and the beauty of its mountain scenery.—The very handsome and superb building leased by the State, and in which the exercises are now conducted, is for sale, and can be purchased for a sum much less than a new building can be constructed. In view of these facts, we are sure the good sense of the Legislature will rule at its next sitting, and purcase the building, and thereby make the location of the Institute permanent.
Talladega Watchtower.

GEN. SCOTT'S BRAVERY.—In a speech delivered at Newark, Judge Conrad, of Philadelphia, in answer to a charge of cowardice made against Gen. Scott, produced a document which was sworn to several years since, as part evidence on a pension claim. This was the evidence of a soldier at Lundy's Lane, who stated in his affirmation that Gen. Scott, after he was wounded, rode to the line where the soldiers were stationed, "his neck, breast and arms in a gore of blood, which ran down his leg and trickled from his foot upon the ground, and said to the commander of the line—'I am wounded and very weak. I want one of your young men to get up behind me on my horse.' A young man threw down his musket, and at one spring leaped upon the horse, and they slowly galloped away to the main body of the army." The excitement produced by reading this document was thrilling in the extreme. The hundreds present rose to their feet and gave most vehement cheers, so that it was some minutes before the speaker could proceed.

"Jeff, why am you like de cedar?" "I guvs dat up, Sam; I can't tell you." "It's ease you stays green both summer and winter."

An alderman having grown unusually fat while in office, a wag wrote on his back, "Widened by the corporation."

Jacksonville Republican.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

February, 24, 1859.

☞Mr. F. H. GOODWIN, is our authorized Agent, to receive and receipt for subscriptions to the Republican, contract and receipt for advertising, &c.

Our friends and patrons will confer a favor upon us, which will be gratefully appreciated, by affording him every facility in their power, in the transaction of business.

☞We have been requested to state, that owing to the illness of some of the relatives, the funeral sermon of the Rev. Richard Pace, dec., to be preached at Mount Zion Church by Rev. J. J. Pentro, has been postponed to the 3rd Sabbath in March next.

Generous and Praiseworthy.—Our County Commissioners Court, during their session last week, passed an order appropriating $120 to board an school boy named John Raley, who unfortunately, from the effects of Dropsy, has become incurably lame for life, and a charge on the County. This amount will board and school him one year. By this act the Commissioners appropriate only five or ten dollars more than his board would have cost for the same time, and afford to a young man of good moral character, who is inspired with a laudable ambition to support himself by some useful and honorable employment, an opportunity to do so. At the end of this time he will be qualified to teach school, or if not, at least at the end of a second year.—Then, pass onward through life, he can have the proud satisfaction and independent feeling of supporting himself, by one of the most noble and useful employments; and will doubtless experience more heartfelt gratitude to the County, than he could do, if fed by it, in idleness and inaction, until his head were gray with age.

There is not, we think, a right thinking, or right feeling man in the County, but will say well done, to their Agents the Commissioners, for this act, which combines both noble charity and true economy.

Stone's Hotel.

This large and commodious house is open at all hours. The traveling part of the community will find the Manager, P. C. STONE, "always on hand" to do the honors of his house, and make his guests comfortable.

We can safely say that Stone's Hotel, Selma, is one of the best between Mobile and New York. To enumerate all its comforts is impossible, among them however, are the important items, of good rooms, well furnished and a table supplied with all the luxuries of the season.

While you are in Selma call on him, and see if we are correct.

Male School.

the Male Academy at this place will be opened for the reception of scholars on the 1st Monday in March, under the management of Mr. A. B. SEALS, a gentleman fully competent to teach all branches usually taught in Academies. We feel assured that a better selection could not have been made.

At the last annual meeting of the Board of Trustees for the University of our State, the degree of Master of Arts was unanimously conferred upon Mr. Seals; and while we regard this as sufficient evidence of his capacity—he comes to us with the additional evidence of his fitness for the position—the endorsement of his former patrons, and gentlemen of destinction residing in Eufaula, Ala., who have known him from his youth. We trust our citizens will extend to him that patronage which he so justly merits.

There is abundant material for a large school within the incorporate and vicinity of this place; and with a little exertion on the part of those directly interested in the property of our Academy, a flourishing and permanent school might be established.

Rates of Tuition, see notice of the Secretary of the Board.

Fruit Trees in Bloom.—We notice on Friday the 18th inst. several peach trees in bloom. This is unusually early, and for this reason, it is supposed by close observers, that the chances of the fruit being killed by frost are greatly increased. The extreme cold at the North, is said to have destroyed the peaches in the bud.

Wisdom's Hack Lines.

The attention of the traveling public is invited to the advertisement, in another column, of the line from Jacksonville via. Gadsden and Guntersville to Larkinsville, on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

Mr. Wisdom has contributed much, by his prompt and energetic management on this and other lines, to make them popular with all who have travelled on them. He has spared no necessary expense in procuring good coaches and horses—will have none other than careful, experienced and careful drivers, and in fact spares no pains for the comfort and accommodation of passengers. If you wish to pass directly across the country from east to west, or from west to east, don't forget Wisdom's line, which connects at this place with C. Stone's tri-weekly line to Opelika, on the Montgomery and West Point Railroad.

☞The attention of persons wishing to purchase articles of Marble is invited to the card of J. M. N. B Nix, in another column.

Lights and Shades of Texas Life.

We have learned some particulars of this delightful land from a letter recieved by a gentleman of this place, from our old friend "Ellick" Brown, ex-Sheriff of this County, which may not be interesting to those who design to emigrate there.

Mr. Brown is now a resident of Washington County, Texas. He describes the climate and soil as fine, and says there have been only 11 man, shot, stabbed and hanged, within 25 miles of him, during the last year; but that it was not a very good year for outlaws. An Irishman once said, there were but three kinds of natural death known in Ireland, hanging, starving, and drowning. It would seem that Texas, though a much younger country, has already rivalled that number; that is, shooting, stabbing and hanging. He says it is the most windy country he has ever known, especially on the praries, where it frequently requires both hands to hold a man's hat on. This is not quite as bad as the storm at sea described by the sailor, which he said was so severe that it required two men to hold the hair on one man's head. The cotton he says grows very tall and open finely, so much so that much of it falls out; but notwithstanding the great waste from falling out, the rains and the wind, he made more cotton last year, than in all his life before. May success and prosperity attend our old friend in his new home. When he left us, our County lost one who was firm and true to his friends, an honest man, a good citizen, and a good democrat; and Texas gained a citizen of which she might well be proud.

Steamer Wm. Jones, Jr.

It was our good fortune, recently, to take a trip down the Alabama River, on this splendid Boat. The whole-souled Capt. TIM MEAHER, & gentlemanly clerk, MR. AUSPRAUGH, contrive to make the time pass so agreeably that one almost regrets, the unrivaled speed of the Boat,—so quickly does it land them at the journeys end.

The Jones is an independent Boat, and Meaher, in an independent captain.—Those going to Mobile, or having freight for that port, will do well to patronize this Boat. See card in another column.

China, Glassware, &c.,

P. Loughry of Mobile, wholesale dealer in these articles, renews his business acquaintance with our readers in this section. Merchants in the interior who visit Mobile would do well to give him a call. They will find him prepared at all times to supply them out of his extensive stock, upon the most advantageous terms, as his capital is employed exclusively in the one branch of business.

Wheat.—Those who have a surplus of Wheat, can find a market for it by consulting the advertisement of Maj. M. W. Abernathy, in another column.

☞STEAMER P. BOGUE, Captain LOCKLEY, plys regularly between Mobile and Montgomery,—Passengers on this Boat will find every accomodation "the heart can wish"—Gentlemanly officers, good fare, and roomy berths.

Battle House, Mobile.

Every body going to Mobile, will of course, stay at "the Battle House"—To commend it is unnecessary—it speaks for itself. The proprietors of the Battle House also have a large Hotel at Point Clear, a delightful retreat in Summer—There is a daily Boat from Mobile to Point Clear.—Give them a call.

☞The attention of all whom it may concern is directed to the advertisement of Mr. E. L. Woodward, in another column, relative to the settlement of debts.

INTERESTING FROM UTAH.—The St. Louis Republican has the following letter from its correspondent at Great Salt lake City, dated January 19. The dispatch we had from St. Louis a few days ago, giving news from Utah that Judges Sinclair and Cradlebaugh, in order to resign and leave the Territory, was founded on the statements in this letter.

I have nothing important to say other than that things here are settled on such a pass that the sixth city of the Federal Courts is a mere mockery of justice. Neither murder nor other crime has been or can be punished here. The Mormons have everything their own way. Judge Sinclair has adjourned his court, and will, on next Monday adjourn it sine die, for the reason that the laws of the United States can not be executed in this Territory. Both Judges Sinclair and Cradlebaugh will leave early next Spring, satisfied as they are, that their presence as Federal officers in administering the laws is merely farcial. A manifesto, carefully prepared, will be issued, as I am informed, clearly setting forth their reasons in detail. I have been a careful observer of events in this Territory, and am now more than ever satisfied that there is no loyality to the Government among the Mormon people, and that while, to a certain extent, they pay respect to the mere forms of law, they neither recognize nor respect its spirit. The officers of the Government, and I refer particularly to the Judiciary, although not openly insulted, feel that they are powerless, and are treated with such contempt and sneers as to make their situation anything but enviable. Anonymous notes have been placed under the doors of the building where the court is held, not intimidating or threatening, but dealing in innuendoes and criticisms, so peculiar to the Mormon nation.

Judge Sinclair has performed his duty in the premises nobly; with a wise head and discriminating judgment, an earnest desire to deal impartially with all, and a firmness that has never yet wavered. He is chained down in his efforts to administer the laws by the Mormon theocracy, which holds the consciences and oaths of jurors in its keeping. I speak thus of Judge Sinclair, because his position has been a most delicate and responsible one, and in adjourning his court he has the approval of every well-informed man in the Territory.

Judge Cradlebaugh is a man whose metal, both as a gentleman and a jurist is of the clearest ring, and has proven himself in several instances, which it is not necessary to mention; and one who has brought to light some circumstances about which the world will, in due course of time, be informed.

I may be asked, why should this state of things exist with the presence of an army here? I answer, that the army is under instructions, a mere military posse a police, if you please, and is bound hand and foot, so far as active operations are concerned, and cannot act except under orders.

Gov. Cumming also feels the high responsibility that attaches to himself, and those who know him need no testimony to be assured that when an exigency arises, when the overt act is committed, that he will use all his prerogatives, and the army will have what they have long wanted—something to do.

The Legislature has been in session here now several weeks; they have as yet done nothing. This seems strange, too, as it is composed entirely of Mormons, with one exception, and the work is always cut and dried at the palace of the great M and him off.

The Eastern mail has not arrived in time for several trips, the snow in many places being from fifteen to twenty feet in depth from drifting by storms, so that it impossible to make a trail.

There are negro balls here every week. They are literally attended by Mormon men and women, and not unfrequently a few Gentiles. The woman seem to enjoy them most.

Later from Mexico.

By the arrival of the Tennessee at New Orleans on the 19th inst., we have the following news which we find in the N. O. Picayune:

VERA CRUZ, Feb. 8, 1859.

Mexico Editors: Political matters have at last taken a very exciting and interesting turn in Vera Cruz and Mexico.

Gen. Miramon has, after restoring his father-in-law, Zuloaga to the Presidency, called another council and had himself again elected President, so the ladies Zuloaga again yielded the chair of state and retired to private life.—But the ambitious Gen. Miramon has placed himself at the head of the army to march on Vera Cruz and his father-in-law is penditted to act as President ad interim. It is said that Miramon declared vengeance against all who dare a gun or oppose his entrance into Vera Cruz.

In Vera Cruz, the French and English commanders of fleets have assembled in conferring their demands, that the pecuniary, from customs, not liable to meet the interest on the conventional bonds shall be faithfully held for that purpose. 2d. That high rates of duties which were ordered a year ago, shall be rescinded forthwith; and 3d, That General Garza shall be reprimanded and be required to disband the French and British forces taken at Tampico, without having their debt returned.

The foreigners here, especially citizens of United States, are very anxious at the French and English assembling to regulate the tariff of duties on Mexican ports. And as the law regulating the old tariff takes effect from the date of the decree—properties of goods ordered and shipped to this port before the decree was known—thereby causing it retroactive, the merchants here look for something good to come out of it. Consul Vera Cruz has promptly protested, and it is hoped, as the French and English commanders have taken the same ground, that the decree will be annulled. Will not let you know the result in time for this.

Among the passengers on the steamer from Vera Cruz, Dr. D. W. Adams, of Alabama, who visits the Capital on business connected with the Mexican Claims Commission, of which he is a member. Dr. Adams is a gentleman of high character and standing, and has been a member of Congress from Alabama.

Gen. Lopez, Governor of Vera Cruz, has issued a decree that all persons who have been in the employ of the late Government, and who have not given in their accounts, shall be arrested and held to bail.

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS.
Dr. Radway & Co. have recently discovered a method for extracting from roots, herbs, plants and gums, a nutritious extract of such wonderful searching power—which they have combined with Radway's Regulating Pills—that six of these Pills will supply the blood with the same amount of nutrition as one ounce of ordinary bread; so that, while the system is undergoing a thorough physicking, and regulating process, it daily becomes strengthened.
Persons afflicted with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Diseases, Fullness or Head, and all Females who are subject to Irregularities, Hysteria, &c., are particularly recommended to use these Pills. They are pleasant to take—elegantly coated with gum—free from taste, and will not gripe, sicken or nauseate the system, or leave the bowels costive.—Mothers nursing should likewise take one or two of these Pills once or twice per week.—They will not only keep your system healthy and regular, but will protect your infants against Cramp and Pains in the stomach, and insure not only a healthy child, but will invest every child, thus suckled, with a sweet disposition.

STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CALHOUN COUNTY. }

Court of Probate, for Calhoun County Alabama, Special Term, Feb. 1st, A. D. 1859.

THIS day came James Lawrence, Administrator of Joseph Lawrence, deceased, and filed his petition in writing, representing that his intestate died seized and possessed of the following described land, to-wit: Lot No. 6, being the north half of the south west fourth of section 16, township 18, Range 4—that the said Joseph W. Lawrence, left the following heirs, (viz., Martha Chandler, wife of Walton Chandler, and resides in Montgomery county, Alabama; Mary Plemans, wife of L. E. Plemans, who resides in Winston County, Alabama, James Lawrence petitioner, over twenty-one years of age; Henry Lawrence, Elizabeth Lawrence and Robert Lawrence, Catharine S. Lawrence, Sarah J. Lawrence, all of whom are minors & reside with their father, Robert Lawrence, sr. in the county of Hall and State of Georgia; also Lydia Eubanks, wife of N. H. Eubanks, and Susannah Hester, wife of John Hester, who are over 21 years of age and resides in Hall county, Georgia. He further alleges, that a fair, beneficial, and equitable division of said land, among said heirs at law of said estate, cannot be made without a sale thereof, and asks an order and decree of court authorising him to sell said land, for the purpose of division among said heirs.

It is therefore ordered by the court that Monday the 14th day of March next, 1859, be set for the hearing and determining upon said petition, and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in the Town of Jacksonville, in said county, forty days, prior to said day as a notice to the aforesaid non resident heirs, as well as to all other persons concerned, to be and appear at a regular term of said court to be holden at the court house of said county, on said Monday the 14th day of February next, 1859, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

A CARD
TO THE
Medical Profession.

Having had for my object the preparation of a remedy that would be beneficial in all cases where an external application is indicated, without being injurious in any, I have devoted a number of years to studying and experimenting. After making thousands of experiments and consulting the best authors and most scientific chemists and physicians of the day, I have at length succeeded in making a Medicine that will recommend itself to every one who studies its combination. Every intelligent Physician and Druggist will see at a glance, from the analysis given below, that it is composed of the very best remedies for external use in the Materia Medica.

THIS IS NOT A SECRET REMEDY:

Every person who can read may know its composition; its effects are also well known. One hundred thousand Bottles made according to this prescription have been sold and used. The result in every case was always uniform and satisfactory. Read the analysis made by one of the most popular and scientific Chemists in the United States.

Porter's Oriental Life LINIMENT,
C. W. WRIGHT, M. D.

Professor of Chemistry in the Kentucky School of Medicine, December, 1858.

To R. D. PORTER:

SIR:—The ingredients which enter into composition of the Preparation known as "Porter's Oriental Life Liniment," which was left with me for qualitative chemical analysis, were found on examination to contain the following ingredients:

Espiono,	Cajeonar,
Paraffine,	Oil from Resin,
Picanar,	Naphta,
Pitical,	Carbonate of Potassa

All of the above ingredients, with the exception of Carbonate of Potassa are eminently antiseptic. As the composition of the above preparation is no longer a secret, have no hesitancy in stating that it is a safe and efficacious external remedy for the diseases in which it is recommended.

Respectfully, C. W. WRIGHT.

Hundreds of physicians use and prescribe Porter's Oriental Life Liniment, believing it to be the best remedy for that class of diseases in which it is recommended. They know its composition and prescribe it with as much certainty, as to its effects, as they do any other remedy.

The following are a few of the many eminent and influential physicians who have written letters to the proprietor speaking in the highest terms of the medicinal properties of the Oriental Life Liniment:

Dr. W. D. Reid, of Jefferson county, Ky.
Dr. Moses Appelgate, Crothersville, Ind.
Dr. Bruce, of Newcastle, Ky.
Dr. J. H. Jupin, of Morganfield Ky.
Dr. J. L. McConnel, Obian Valley, Tenn.
Dr. J. W. McDonald, Butlersville, Ind.
Dr. R. B. Parker, Liberty, Ky.
Dr. R. H. Perryman, Boston, Ky.
Dr. D. Terrell, Felixville, Ky.
Dr. C. H. Harris, Charleston, Ky.
Dr. J. W. Hedges, Colemansville, Ky.
Dr. W. E. Olds, Maples, Ind.

The Oriental Life Liniment will be found of great benefit in Frostbites; Rheumatism, Cuts; Bruises, Sprains, &c &c. Put up in 50 c and $1 Bottles, and sold by all Druggists and Country Merchants. Manufactured by DR. R. D. PORTER,
FEB 3, '59: 146 Third St. Louisville, Ky.

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and the Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should receive both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic and the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will, give entire satisfaction both to my profession al brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the memorials, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case, Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N. Y.

P. S. Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

JOB WORK

THE LIVER
INVIGORATOR!
PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS, IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human system, performs its functions of the system are stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the stomach is at fault, and the liver in consequence of one or both having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of the digestive organs has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞ One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children; there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞ A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or are the result of a Disordered Stomach, all of which

DR MORSE'S.
INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anelogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out beautifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become mixed with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, has it not been for this great and wonderful medicine. Morses Indian Root Pills After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

Cotton Cultivator.

LETTERS PATENT were granted to the undersigned, on the 6th day of July, 1858, for his improvement in Cotton Cultivators; to which he calls the attention of both Cotton and Corn Cultivators.

The plow will penetrate the ground to any required depth, and will pulverise and loosen the soil, and cut off all the weeds. It will mow close to the stalks of cotton or corn, and loose the soil near the roots without injuring or destroying them. It does not make a furrow, or turn over the soil, but loosens it up and lets it fall back into its place again. It is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of cotton; and one horse power is sufficient to propel it.

It is believed, as will be seen by the following certificate, that it will save 25 per cent. of labor over the best improvements, and at least 50 per cent. over the common plow.

He believes the cultivator entitled to all he claims for it, and in support of his belief, he calls the readers attention to the subjoined certificate of Messrs. Moragne and Hollingsworth, who are the only persons who have tried the Cultivator. As to its utility no more need be said—TRY IT—its BEST recommendation is ITS USE.

He offers for sale County or State rights at reasonable prices. Address,

ASBERRY SMITH,
Jan. 20, '59—6m. Jacksonville, Ala.

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 15, 1859.

The undersigned have used the Cotton Cultivator of Asberry Smith, and we take pleasure in saying, that is a most excellent plow; superior to any we have ever used in the cultivation of cotton, & saves at least 25 per cent. in labor, over any plow we have ever tried, and from 30 to 50 per cent. over the common plow. In the cultivition of young corn it is superior to any we have tried. We take pleasure in recommending it to the public as worthy of patronage; as we believe from actual experiment, it comes fully up to all that is claimed for it.

ISAAC P. MORAGNE.
THOS. HOLLINGSWORTH.

I am personally acquainted with Isaac P. Moragne and Thos. Hollingsworth, and I have the utmost confidence in the above statement made by them.
