POETRY.

Farewell.

We do not know how much we love,
Until we come to leave;
An aged tree, a common flower,
Are things o'er which we grieve;
There is a pleasure in the pain
That brings us back the past again!

We linger while we turn away,
We cling while we depart;
And memories unmarked till then,
Come crowding round the heart.
Let what will lure our onward way,
Farewell's a bitter word to say.

A DREAM OF HOME.

BY BLITHE WOODBIRD.

I AM dreaming, Mother, dreaming
This glorious Summer day.
Of a lowly cottage, gleaming
Through the vine leaves, far away;
And I see the green trees bending
O'er the gateway, brown and old,
With the sunlight glancing through them,
In the trembling flakes of gold.

'Neath their cooling shade I wander,
Up a pathway fringed with bloom,
And a moment pause to ponder
O'er the roses' rich perfume,
Listening to familiar voices
Stealing through the half closed door,
Then my footsteps cross the threshold
Of my childhood's home once more.

You are sitting, Mother, sitting
In the cosy, old arm-chair,
Where the light and shade are flitting
O'er thy slightly silvered hair.
Through the vine wreathed, open window,
Wafted on the scented breeze,
Comes the music of the streamlet,
And the grand, old forest trees.

Oh, my pulses bound with gladness,
As I dance from room to room:
But, alas! I wake to sadness,
All my gay dreams bathed in gloom;
I awake, a lonely stranger
In a wild and distant land,
Severed from thy care-dear Mother,
Severed from thy household hand.

I am gazing, Mother, gazing
On the brilliant beauties spread
Around in rich profusion,
Where'er my footsteps tread;
Through the radiance of the Summer,
Flowers of rare and brilliant dyes
Fringe the prarie with a splendor,
Equaling lost Paradise.

But I'm dreary, Mother, dreary
In this land with bloom so bright;
Of its tameness I am weary
Oh! I'm pining for the sight
Of hills, and rocks and rivulets,
Of the hemlock's solemn gloom,
Of maple groves and clover meads,
Where lingereth yet, fair June.

I am dreaming, sadly dreaming
That my hopes are all in vain;
That I'll never tread the clover fields,
Or the breezy hills again:
That I'll never climb those rugged rocks,
To reach the clambering vines,
Or list the low, weird whispering:
Of the dark and stately pines.

SONG OF WINTER.

BY JAMES HUNGERFORD.

The winter winds are wailing
Everywhere,
Like mournful death bells pealing
Through the air;
They tell of vanished hours,
Of pale and withered flowers,
Of sweet, blooming bowers,
Bleak and bare.

Thus, in my bosom knelling,
Deep and low,
Sad memory's tones are swelling
Ever on;
They tell of days departed,
Of loved ones broken-hearted,
Of hopes which youth imparted,
Dead and gone.

Miscellaneous.

The Black and White Beans;

OR,

THE LOTTERY OF LIFE AND DEATH.

BY JUDGE F. M. GIBSON.

The San Antonio Herald selects the following thrilling sketch from a chapter of the forthcoming "History of the Mier Expedition," published in the Austin Rambler, which we transfer to our columns:

The lottery, as the infernal scheme for the selection of human victims was termed, was arranged in the following manner: A hundred and seventy-six beans, seventeen black and the ballance white, were deposited in a crock, so covered with a silk handkerchief as to conceal the beans. This vessel, so pregnant with the issues of life and death, stood on a low wall about breast high, which seperated the prisoners from the Mexican officers, and behind which the latter were assembled to witness and direct the progress of the most important raffle that mortal eyes ever beheld. The black beans, to the unfortunate drawer, forboden the "sleep that knows no waking;" the white, exemption from such fate. For the ostensible purpose, however, of sacrificing as many of the officers as possible, the latter were placed at the bottom of the crock or urn, while the former—the black beans—were permitted to remain on top, until the officers had drawn, when the vessel was shaken and the contents equally mingled. This mean trick affords a lively, & by no means an uncommen example of Mexican notions of fairness and honesty.

When the reading of the fatal decree was finished and all again was silent, the intrepid Cameron, upon whose majestic form all eyes were involuntary turned, as he moved to and fro, like some god of ancient times, exclaimed:

"For my own worthless life I care no more than the running stream for the forest flower blooming upon its green banks; but for my brave troops, whose gallant deeds in defence of their country's rights I have so often witnessed, and who are now about to be immolated upon the alters of a bloody vengence, my heart bleeds with an anguish words cannot express!"

Here the speaker, overcome by feelings that choked his utterance for a moment, paused. Finally, mastering his sympathies he continued—

"But language is unavailing; we are wasting time. As we are to draw, boys let's be at it!"

Suiting the action to the word, and in anticipation of any command to do so, he calmly advanced to the crock, and thrusting his hand into the mouth of the vessel he drew forth a white bean. So likewise did his companion, Wm. F. Wilson. The next names called were Captain William Ryon and F. M. Gibson.

It will not be surprising if, on an occasion like this, we should have been constrained to a brief review of our past career. There stood the clay-colored, ominous-looking crock—the silk handkerchief carefully folded over the top, prevented mortal vision from peering into its fearful secrets. Perhaps that little article of earthenware was the urn in which were buried all our hopes of life and pleasing dreams of future happiness. Perhaps in its dark chambers lurked the evil genius of our destiny—the spirit to summon us away into eternity! We cast a lightning-glance through the vista of past years. Many acts thronged the store-house of busy memory of which we deeply and sincerely repented. But the mirror which reflected the deeds of by-gone days, exhibited no premeditated enormity or irreparable wrong. In the atoning blood of a blessed Redeemer there was sufficient efficacy for the expiation of our sins, even though they were like scarlet. We remembered also our numerous escapes from eminent peril.—Throughout the vicissitudes of a career more familiar with the storm than with the sunshine of life, the protecting hand of providence had been over us like a cloud. We did not believe that our time was yet to come, and thought only of those to whose lips would soon be commended the bitter cup of death.

While Rayon stood before the crock, he said. "Judge, as my right hand is in limbo, while yours is free and generally lucky please draw for me." Not being passionately fond of such amusements, we promptly but respectfully declined taking two chances; but as Rayon was entitled to the third privilege, we suggested to him the comforts there might be in the Rory O'More doctrine of "luck in odd numbers," which he soon realized, as the exhibition of a white bean grasped between the thumb and fore finger proved. The writer's experiment was accompanied by the same satisfactory result. But poor Eastland, who came next was not so fortunate. He anticipated his fate, as he expected, drew a black bean.—After him the balance of the prisoners drew as their names were called, displaying an unshrinking firmness of spirit which nothing but a sense of conscious rectitude could impart. In one in the case of the two Beards, a contempt of death was exhibited, and a depth of fraternal affection which, in the days of ancient Rome, would have been perpetuated by the storied urn as an example of lofty heroism, and an unparalled brotherly devotion, un-surpassed in any age or clime.

Robert Beard had been for several days past in a state of extremely precarious health. While extended upon his humble pallet, spread upon the cold ground by the affectionate care of his brother William, the latter conveying a cup of water, approached the invalid. Feebly rising upon his arms, the sick man said:

"William, should you draw a black bean, I'll take your place. Death to me will be a comforter. While it robs me of a life, which in my present condition I value not, it will relieve me of a pain I am little able to endure."

"If," replied the heroic William, his blue eyes beaming with a light not of earth, and his manly bosom thrilling with emotions he could not suppress, "if either is to be made the sacrifice, let the blow fall upon the stouter and the stronger man. Should I return to the paternal roof unaccompanied by you, the family favorite, the grey hairs of our aged parents will be brought with sorrow to the grave. For God's sake, let my loss satisfy the vengence of Mexico!"

This little episode, so touching in its character, brought the pearly drops from eyes which had not been moistened by tears for long years. But the amicable controversy did not have to be determined between these generous children of a common parentage.—Both drew white beans, and both not long after, drew their last breath on the road to the capitol, & were buried in a land whose soil, by the iniquity of its inhabitants, was rendered unworthy of the hallowed dust committed to its keeping.

CONSCIENCE AND THE DISTILLERY.

The following incident, related in "Taylor's Seven Years' Street Preaching in San Francisco," shows that when the conscience is quickened by the Spirit of God, it needs no other monitor to convince the sinner that the liquor traffic is directly opposed to the spirit and precepts of Christianity, and that whoever will save his soul must forego the gains of that pernicious trade:

"A man of my acquaintance in the State of Virginia, by the name of Beck, invested more than all he was worth in a distillery. Just at that time a camp-meeting was commenced in the neighborhood. He attended the meeting & the Holy Spirit called him to follow Christ. He hesitated a few minutes, and said to himself: 'If I seek religion I must give up my distillery. If I give that up, I shall beggar my family. If I do not seek religion, I can make a good living for my family, but my soul must go to hell.' He immediately presented himself at the altar, and said: 'Lord, I'll trust my family in thy care, and seek the salvation of my soul. O Lord, I have built a still house,' which I know I must give up before thou wilt pardon my sins to-night, for before to-morrow I may be dead. O Lord, if thou wilt trust me, and, for the sake of Jesus Christ, forgive my sins to-night, I will go home to-morrow morning, if spared, and knock every tub to staves, throw out the still, and never make one drop of liquor.' That very night he was redeemed from sin, and I heard him afterwards say, in a class room, correlating his experience, 'God saw my sincerity, and converted my soul on credit.' He kept his word with the Lord to the letter. He destroyed every tub, and converted the building into a mill. I have often seen his still, for he would never sell it, least it might be used for the purpose of making liquor, and affect his contract with the Lord."

The Atlantic Cable appears to have dropped out of public recollection altogether, no one alludes to it, or cares even to inquire about it. They are doing something with the Valencia end of it; but the public have given it up as a hopeless case. The other great speculation, the Leviathan, has undergone a kind of revival. a new company has been formed, which has bought her out and out, as she lies at anchor at Deptford, for a mere song, compared to what she cost; £160,000 is the price the original shareholders have sold her for—an alarming sacrifice of capital. A little less than that sum will fit her completely for sea; and, with a balance in hand of £300,000 to begin with, the new company will send the floating fabric on her first voyage to Portland, in the State of Maine. In six months from the present time, it is stated she will be ready to start. It the calculated speed can really be got out for her—eighteen knots an hour—she will monopolize mails, freights and passengers, on what ever route she is placed. It is supposed that all our small fry of ships & steamers, mere diminutives & pigmy things, will be degraded forthwith into the tenders of this ocean monster, and sink into the subordinate duty of carrying freight to the terminii of its voyages. A total revolution is impending over us; and the maritime interest, as it at present exists, has only a six months respite from destruction. The Leviathan, or rather the "Great Eastern," as she has resumed her original name, will overpower all petty traffickers, and reduce them to vassalage. So runs the report about the ship at the present time. But, remembering the Atlantic Cable, it is well not to expect too much. Portland had better not fire any guns, or light up its windows, till the monster steamer is at the wharf, "or eight days from England."

MR. MORPHY IN PARIS.—A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Paris under date of November 21st, says:

Morphy continues to play nearly every day at the Cafe de la Regence, against all comers, giving odds to the weak, and showing his brilliant points to the strong. Among those he has lately beaten in even matches were M. Ludinski, a celebrated Polish player, who came to Paris expressly, and who got beaten seven straight games; M. Laroche, whom Mr. Morphy declares the best French player and whom he beat with ease; M. de Riviere, a player who takes rank next to, if not equal, to Mr. Laroche, and who, in his various contests with Mr. Morphy, has occasionally beaten him. This M. de Riviere is a brother to your Captain de Riviere, of Blount notoriety. He is a gentlemanly, handsome man, a reporter for the press, a brilliant chess player, as we have seen, and, like the Captain, speaks English, their mother having been a Scotch woman. I ought to mention that Morphy has also beaten, with ease and with great mortification to his adversary, a Frenchman by the name of Erkel, who came and challenged him, backed by a numerous array of friends, with something of the air of mockery with which Goliah defied David. It did not take Morphy long to reduce his bombast to his smallest possible dimension

THE DEPOSIT WELL AT LOUISVILLE KY.—J. LAWRENCE SMITH, Professor of Chemistry in the University of Louisville, has recently made an interesting report upon this work of art. We copy as follows:

At the depth of 16.30 feet a sand rock was reached, doubtless of the lower silurian, and 97 feet deeper was encountered the first stream of water which reached the surface. This flowed out abundantly, and with much force. The quantity not being sufficient, the boring was continued. After this it was unnecessary to use the bucket to take out the material detached by the borer, the force of the water bringing up the fragments very readily. The water increased in quantity in going deeper, the increase being more marked at 1879 feet, and still more at 1900, where pieces of rock weighing an ounce or two came up with the water. The water increased every ten or twenty feet to the depth of 2036 feet; here a very hard magnesian limestone was encountered, 7 feet in thickness. After which the sand rock re appeared, and for the next 50 feet there was no increase of water.

From the urgent request of many citizens of Louisville the boring was now stopped to give a fair test to the medical virtues of the water that was pouring forth at the rate 320 gallons per minute, or about 330,000 gallons in 24 hours. The water by its own pressure rises in pipes 170 feet above the surface.

The boring was accomplished in sixteen months, and the depth we can better conceive of by referring to corresponding heights as represented by spires in our city; imagine seven such spires as that of the Catholic Cathedral piled on each other.

The water is very analogous in composition to the Saratoga Kissingen water of Bavaria, and of Blue Lick in Kentucky."

Winchester and Alabama Railroad.

The Fayetteville Journal of the 16th says: "We learn from Capt. Whitaker, one of the directors, that at a late meeting of the board at Winchester, it was resolved to raise the stock to continue the Winchester and Alabama Railroad to Guntersville according to the original design; there to connect with the Selma Road, and that Hugh Francis, Esq., has undertaken the work of getting up the stock. Mr. Francis enters upon this work with full confidence of a successful result; that he may realize his highest hopes, and at last see this important work completed as originally designed is our ardent desire. Mr. Francis has been a devoted, working friend to the Winchester and Alabama railroad from the time it was chartered and has always been ready to work for its advancement; that part of the road which lies in Tennessee has now reached a point in its progress which gives assurance of an early completion, and now under the resolution of the board of directors, Mr. F. goes forth to solicit the stock to continue the work to Guntersville, Ala, and by this connection, unite the stock raising counties of Middle Tennessee with the cotton region of South Alabama. The track-laying on our road was retarded for a short time, on account of the delay of iron at Charleston, but before this time the iron was expected to arrive when the work would again be pushed forward, and we feel safe in saying that the last spike driven, before the 4th of July, 1859 and that glorious anniversary will be celebrated in Fayetteville by rejoicings of the people and the arrival of the first locomotive

ANOTHER TERRIBLE TRAGEDY DISCLOSED.—The Louisville Courier, of the 20th inst., brought us the following account of another horrible deed of blood in that State:

We understand that for several days past the most intense excitement has prevailed in Larue county in consequence of the confession of a startling tragedy. John a slave, the property of Berry Cundiff, who was arrested one year since, charged with the murder of of Miss Mary Shaler, has confessed his participation in the crime, and implicates several other persons.

This Miss Shaler was originally a resident of Bardstown, but at the time of the murder was temporarily living in Larue county, with Mrs. Murphy.—The negro has been twice tried, but each time the juries failed to agree.—A few days since the negro was induced to make a clean breast of the horrible affair, being threatened with lynching, persons telling him that the Taylor county mob was coming to hang him.

He says that four other persons were connected with him in the affair, he being a mere tool, and receiving two hundred dollars. The persons charged are Mrs. Murphy, her daughter, aged sixteen years, James McGavock and Wm. Pickrell. These parties were all immediately arrested. Great excitement existed throughout the community, and so exasperated were the citizens that it was with much difficulty the officers could prevent the crowd from lynching the accused In fact, Pickrell was at one time swung up.

The circumstances that led to the murder are said to be owing to the fact that Miss Shaler was supposed to have a considerable sum of money. It is generally believed, however, that the true cause was that Pickrell's brother was about to marry the unfortunate young woman, concerning whose virtue there were serious reports. His brother and McGavock, a brother-in-law, had her murdered to prevent the marriage.

This report covers a period of five quarters ending Sept. 30, 1858. During that period, there were surveyed of the public lands 15,209,378 acres, which, with former surveys, makes a quantity of 16,951,046 acres of the public lands surveyed and ready for market on the 30th Sept., 1858, which had never been offered at public sale. During the same period there were sold for cash, 4,804,919 acres from which $2,554,192 was realized. Located with the military land warrants, 6,983,-110, and reported under swamp land grants, 1,401,565 making an aggregate of cash sales, land warrants locations, and swamp selections, of 13,183,594. The cash realized seems disproportionate to the quantity of lands sold, but this is accounted for by the very large sales at reduced prices under the graduation law of August 4th, 1854. Under the act of 1849 and 1850, granting the swamp and overflowed lands to the State in which they are situated, there have been selected and reported to the General Land Office 55,129,492 acres, upon which warrants, having the effect of patents, have issued for 36,006,828 acres.

The Commissioner recomends amendments to the pre-emption laws, with a view to uniformity in the system, and to settle disputed rights, and terminate controversy in litigated cases.

☞The following toasts, among others, were read at a recent celebration in Charleston, of the anniversary of the Hebrew Benevolent Society: We have seldom if ever seen them excelled, for beauty and purity of sentiment;

CHARITY: The cardinal virtue which forms the connecting link between man and his Creator.

THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES: The Gibraltar against which the waves of fanaticism impotently rage.

WOMAN: What can man say of her, when God decreed Paradise unfinished until she smiled amidst its bowers?

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY: The ruler who would wound its spirit, or violate its principles, is false to humanity, his country, and his God.

WHOLE NO.

"Manifest Destiny" of the United States.

The Paris Constitutionnel of October 29, reviewing the great events of the present time, and tracing their future, says:

Nowhere is this anticipated destiny more enjoyed, nowhere easier to construct, than in the United States. In fact the young republic imagined, adopted, and is now proclaiming as a national dogma, the ambitious formula of President Monroe, according to which "the manifest destiny" of the Americans of the North is to make over the whole of the New World. Starting from this point, a great newspaper of New York recently again took up a favorite theme of the division of the globe among the most powerful nations of the world. It felt no difficulty in cutting out of the Old World for France, England, and Russia, three magnificent shares, capable of amply satisfying the ambition of each of those nations; but by way of compensation it claimed for the Yankees the exclusive domination over the whole of the American continent.

It is also in virtue of this doctrine of their "manifest destiny" that the United States show themselves resolved to repel any foreign interference or influence at the most important part of the New World—The Central American Isthmus. Although affecting its willingness to guaranty the neutrality of the inter-oceanic communications which may be established by the opening of the Isthmus, the government of that jealous republic does not wish this work of civilization to be effected by other hands than those of Americans. Therefore it speaks in menacing language to those feeble States of Central America which, with a view to resist their aggressive adversary, endeavor to unite, and invoke the assistance of the great European Nations.

How shall this difficulty of the Isthmus route, which is already of ancient date, be solved? Will the United States be prevented from seizing this route, be it a land or canal way, and from becoming thus absolute master of the point of junction of the two oceans? Such seems to be their intention; and should it be realized, what will be the consequence?

Then they will really be established in the commercial centre of the world between Europe in the east, and China India in the west. The great city which will one day spring up at that point where the two Americas will join will be the Alexandria of the future. It will at the same time be the emporium for the eastern and the western world—for Europe and Asia. The Central American railway will be the Isthmus of Suez of the gantic Alexandra; but an Isthmus of Suez opened up to universal trade.

* * * * *

And that dream which concedes to America the future capital of the world and assigns to her the political preponderance, what does it leave to the rest of Europe? "A venerable past," but what does it promise her? Pious pilgrims, who will visit and contemplate amid its moms places where civilization was cradled.

* * * * *

In a political pamphlet, entitled "England and Russia," in which the engrossing questions of the day are treated with a bold sharpness of foresight, Mr. De Cesena has recourse to an argument of this kind to predicate the decline of British ascendency. He foresees the day "when he who steps in the cars at Calais, leaving them only to traverse on board a steamer the Gulf of Persia, will reach the Oriental Cape, passing through Paris, Constantinople, Calcutta, and Pekin, and find himself within a fortnight at once transported to the other hemisphere, without having hardly left the main land." And the publicist adds: "This will be the death of England." In another place he, without circumlocution, says: "Before the last year of this century will have elapsed, the ruler of this ocean will have descended to the level of Holland." In a word, according to this same writer, it is Russia which destiny seems to push on everywhere, in order to make her great upon the ruins of British power.

GOOD PRICES FOR NEGROES.—We learn from the Sumpter (Alabama) Democrat, that on the 20th inst. the A. A. Coleman, Executor of the Benjamin Ivy, with Wm. K. Usher, auctioneer, sold fifty-two negroes, of indiscriminate ages, sizes and conditions, for the large sum of $50,000 lacking only thirty dollars, being an average of overs $960. Eighteen of these negroes were under ten years of age; eight were forty years old and upwards and they were sold in families without separation, frequently as many as five or six selling together. Negro men brought from $1490 to $1675; boys from twelve to fourteen years old from $1250 to 1400; girls from nine to fourteen years of age, from $1050 to 1400.

Confederation.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE OF NEGROES.—One of the most extraordinary sale of slaves—not so much on account of their number as the prices obtained for them, although even the number was very large—was made at public auction at

The New Year.

We extend the usual congratulations of the season to our patrons, friends and acquaintances,—heartily wishing them health, happiness and prosperity; but we are too busy now to write a homily on the rapid flight of time—the hopes and fears and disappointments of life.

We enter upon the new year and upon our 23rd volume, with renewed determinations to bend every energy to increase the interest and usefulness of our paper, and make it worthy of its constantly increasing patronage. Our readers will perceive that we have an addition of several columns of news & miscellaneous articles in to-day's paper, which it is our purpose still to increase.

We renew our request of our present patrons, for their assistance in keeping up our subscription. Our close confinement to Editorial duties, and the business routine of the Office, renders us very dependent upon friends, in this particular. We return our sincere thanks to those who have given us evidence of their good wishes & willingness to help; but there have been many promises made to us on this subject, which remain yet unfulfilled.

Telegraphic News.

A great variety of very interesting news will be found under the telegraphic head in to-day's paper. One of the most pleasing items, is that of the advance in cotton—and the most sad and melancholy are those giving an account of the horrible rail road disasters in Georgia. There must have been criminal negligence and recklessness somewhere. It seems to us, that after the great floods of rain which have recently fallen, the most ignorant African waggoner, would have anticipated and guarded against danger.

The news from California & Mexico, and of the filibustering movements is very interesting; and among the things new under the sun is the proposition of Hon Jef. Davis of Miss., to take Cuba from Spain as an absent and fraudulent debtor.

There seems to be amania forsuicide, and lynch or mob law is all the rage.—The law will be a very convenient institution in a short time for the collection of debts, procuring divorces, &c.; but it would seem, is about to be dispensed with in dealing with criminals.

Baltimore Commercial College.

The advertisement of this, the largest and most elegantly furnished Commercial College in the United States, containing a list of the Faculty, Trustees, &c, may be found in another column of to-day's paper. The admirable system of Book Keeping and Penmanship taught, and great amount of valuable information imparted at this College, render it well worthy the attention of young men who design to engage in commercial pursuits: and in fact, many of those already engaged, could hardly spend 8 or 10 weeks more profitably and advantageously than in obtaining the information, so assential to success, there imparted. The Commercial College of Baltimore is among the oldest, and doubtless one of the very best in the United States.

☞The attention of the travelling public is invited to the advertisement of the daily line of four horse coaches from Jacksonville to Chattanooga—Divine & Kennedy, Proprietors. Our frequent reference to this line heretofore, renders it unnecessary for us to enlarge at this time. We will say however, that the complete and thorough arrangements of the liberal and enterprising Proprietors have surpassed the expectations of the friends and advocates of the route. Travellers too, thus far, report excellent houses and accommodations on the route, and themselves highly delighted. By reference to the fare, it will be seen to be the most direct and cheapest route, going either way. It has already increased the travel considerably through this place, and needs only to be known, to become one of the most popular routs in the southern country.

Large Crop Chinese Sugar Cane.

We have been informed by Maj J. E. Peace of this County, that he made off one fourth acre, in Chinese Sugar Cane, fifty-nine gallons and three quarts of syrup, 14 bushels of seed, and 200 bundles of fodder. This is certainly a very large yield, and is an additional proof of the immense value of this article. This yield on this 4th of an acre is larger than the average of an acre in wheat, besides the fodder and molasses.

Large Turnip.—Mr. Allen, living below Oxford, sent us, last week, a turnip weighing six and a half pounds.

☞The land, advertised for sale in to-day's paper, by R. W. Draper, Admr. of John Easterwood, deceased is well worthy the attention of purchasers.—The land is very valuable, well-improved, and advantageously situated.

☞The attention of the citizens of White Plains and vicinity, is invited to the advertisement of Mr. R. E. Neeld, Artist, who has recently removed to that place. Mr. Neeld is an artist of ability and experience, and will doubtless give entire satisfaction to his patrons—we heartily wish him success.

Dr. Cloud's Southern Rural Magazine.—The January number of this beautiful and valuable Agricultural Magazine has been received. It is considerably enlarged and improved, and commends itself a new to the liberal patronage of Southern Planters.—It is published monthly, at $1 per annum, in advance, or 11 copies for $10. Address, Dr. N. B. Cloud Montgomery, Ala.

Arthur's Ladies National Magazine is still published at Philadelphia at $2 per annum in advance: and is nearly, if not quite unrivalled. The January number is exceedingly intersting, and rich with rare and costly embellishments ☞"Crazy Jane" shall have a place in our next.

Melancholy Suicide.—F. M Young, living near Gadsden, committed suicide, a few days ago, by cutting his throat. He had been subject to paroxysms of insanity, of hereditary character, which appeared to increase in frequency and intensity after the death of his wife, which occurred several years ago. He was always harmless, and in his lucid intervals, conscientious and correct in department. He leaves three small children.

King Cotton.

Vast is the growth of Cotton in the United States, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, and wonderful its influence upon the comforts of mankind and the industry of the nations. If we ask what article, more than all others, has employed its millions of human beings in comparatively new pursuits, the reply will be Cotton. What single product has produced the greatest commerce known to to the world? Cotton. What has proved to be a main incentive to the invention of new machinery and steam movements? Cotton.—What has brought regions of territory into cultivation in our country? Cotton What has enriched the nation, and added to the conveniences and luxuries of the people by return cargoes in exchange for our exports? Cotton.—What has built up an unprecedented shipping interest? Cotton. What article may be said to secure continued peace? Cotton. But these interrogatories may be multiplied almost indefinitely, and the answers would be comprised in that simple word, cotton—still cotton! The combinations and ramifications created by the great American staple, and measurably permeating, as it were, all society, both in the Old World and the New, are all but endless

A Mysterious Capitalist.—The San Francisco Bulletin has a letter from a correspondent in Australia, dated Melbourne, June 1st, in which the writer says:

One of the most extraordinary characters of the day here, is a Mr. Gabricetli, a Loudon Jew, who advances any amount of money required of him—"half down and half in six months"—at eight per cent per annum. The other day he advanced the corporation of this city a million of pounds, and in neighboring town another million; and after having announced that he is ready "to do" eight millions for the Government for the railroads, he offers to invest a million here and a million there, in "testing the mines" of the country, upon terms which, when complied with, he is never backward in producing the major part of the needful, and the remainder at the end of the specified time. The beauty of it is, nobody knows where he gets his money from.—The members of the Government have frequently "pumped" him on the subject; but the only answer he designs to give is the production of the cash. Some say he is an agent of the Rothschilds, but this is merely a surmise, founded on the known great wealth of that firm. This London Jew is really a "remarkable man" He has his prejudices, however, for upon my mentioning to him California as presenting a fine field for speculation in mines and rail roads, he unequivocally expressed his doubts as to "securities," &c. Baring & Co., of London have advanced the eight millions for the railroads.

Washing for Diamonds in Georgia.—A correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle say :

You will be surprised, probably, to learn that arrangements are now being made to commence washing for diamonds in Georgia; yet it is so. Two localities have been found where the true matrix, with all its accompanying minerals, is found in abundance, and from the upper section in Hall and other counties, several have been found of the finest quality. The clastic sandstone (itacolumite, the true matrix of the diamond) extends quite across the State; but diamonds have been found only in those places where gold washing are carried on, being found in the sands of the riffles with the gold, elsewhere they have never sought after.

The other locality has but recently been discovered, and is of limited extent—merely a protrusion of the sandstone and magnetic and specular oxide of iron through the surrounding pyritic (auriferous) slates, together with immense quantities of stellar tale of unparalleled beauty, associated with magnificent crystals of rutile, from a few lines to four inches in diameter.—The Itacolumite is thickly imbedded with splendid crystals of lazulite of three different forms; The lazulet is a very rare mineral, found in but few places in the world, and is one of the accompanying minerals of the Brazilian diamond mines.

Gold exists in the pyritic states on the south side of the mountain, which is a corresponding formation with the celebrated Dorn Mine in South Carolina. They also exhibit every external evidence of the existence of copper, lead and silver. That diamonds abound here, there can be no doubt; yet they may be so scarce as to render it unprofitable to mine for them only. In Hall county, they are found in the gold deposit washings, and cost nothing to find them comparatively.

Washington, Dec. 24.

Senor Don Gabriel Garcia Y. Tassara, the Spanish Minister, this morning assured Mr. Cass. the Secretary of State, of the truth of the statement that the Spanish and Mexican imbroglio had been settled.

Letters, however, of the latest date from Tampico, to a citizen of this city, who is largely interested in the peace of Mexico, asserts that the statement of a settlement is false, and that the Spanish fleet is accumulating and controling the Mexican coast from Layuna to Tampico; and thus tending to verify previous advices of the intention of Spain to open hostilities.

He saw them landed by unknown white men. A number of the negroes were put on his boat, and he conveyed them up the Savannah river, about fourteen miles above the city, and landed them.

One other witness was called and examined, but his testimony was unimportant.

The Speaker stated the question to be on the third reading and engrossment of the pension bill as amended, and it was adopted by yeas 130, nays 73. [All the South Carolina members in the negative.]

The following is the pension bill as adopted:

That each of the surviving officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians & privates, who shall have served in the regular army, State troops, volunteers or militia, for a term of sixty days or more, or who have been engaged in actual battle with the enemy, in the war declared by the United States against Great Britain, on the 18th day of June, 1812, be authorized to receive a pension from the United States, to commence from the first day of the present Congress, and continue during his natural life.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That each of the officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, who have served in the regular army, State troops, volunteers or militia, of any State or Territory, for the space of sixty days or more, against any of the Indian tribes during or preceding the war of 1812 with Great Britain, or who were engaged in any battle fought by the United States against any Indian tribe during the aforesaid war with Great Britain, shall be entitled to all the benefits of this act.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That if any of the officers, non commissioned officers, musicians or privates have died, or shall hereafter die, leaving a widow, such widow shall be entitled to receive the same pension to which her husband would have been entitled under this act, for and during her natural life.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the pay allowed by this act shall, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, be paid to such officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, private, or his widow, or their authorized attorney, at such times and places as the Secretary of the Interior may direct; and that no officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, private, or his widow, shall receive the same until he furnish the Secretary of the Interior with satisfactory evidence that he is entitled to the same, in accordance with the provisions of this act; and that the pay hereby allowed shall not be, in any way, transferable, or liable to attachments, levy or seizure, by any legal process whatever, but shall go unencumbered to the possession of the officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, private, or his widow.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the officers, non-commissioned officers, and marines, who served for the time of sixty days in the naval service, or were engaged in battle with the enemy, during the war with Great Britain aforesaid, and their widows, shal be entitled to the benefits of this act, in the same manner as is provided for the officers and soldiers of the army of the war of 1812.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the pension provided by this act shall in no case exceed the full amount of ninety-six dollars per year, and shall be graduated according to the length of service, as follows. For twelve months service, or more, 96 dollars; for six months' service, but less than twelve months, 75 dollars; for sixty days' service, but less than six months, fifty dollars: provided, That the survivor, or surviving widow of an officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, or private, who participated in actual battle, in said war, shall be entitled to the maximum pension given by this act.

Mr. Phelps, of Mo., moved that the House go into committee of the whole on the bill making provision for the payment of Indian and other pensions, and he expressed the hope that debate would be confined to the subject matter of the bill. Agreed to

Mr. Phelps explained the bill, which appropriates $862,000.

Mr. Sherman, of Ohio, called attention to the fact that the pensions paid revolutionary pensioners were much less than those provided for the soldiers of the war of 1812 by the bill which had been passed this morning.

The bill was then informally laid aside with the view of being reported to the House. The military academy bill was then taken up, which appropriates $180,884.

The Printer and His Types.

The following beautiful extract, from the pen of Rayard Taylor, the traveling printer we commend to the craft everywhere:

Perhaps there is no department of enterprise whose details are less understood by intelligent people, than the "art preservative"—the achievement of types.

Every day, their life long, they are accustomed to read the newspaper, to find fault with its statements, its arrangements, its looks; to plume themselves upon the discovery of some roguish and acrobatic type that gets into a frolic and stands upon its head; or some word with a waste letter or two in it—but of the process by which the newspaper is made, of the myriads of motions and thousands of pieces necessary to its composition, they know little and think less.

They imagine they discover of a wonder, indeed, when they speak of the fair white carpet woven for thought to walk on, of the rags that fluttered upon the backs of the beggar yesterday.

But there is something more wonderful still. When we look at the hundred and fifty-two little boxes, somewhat shaded with the touch of inky fingers, that compose the printers' case,'—noiseless, except the clicking of the types, one by one they take their place in the growing line—we think we have found the marvel of the art.

We think how many fancies in fragments there are in the boxes how many atoms of poetry and eloquence the printer can make here and there, if he only has a little chart to work by, how many facts in small handfulls, how much truth and chaos.

Now he picks up the scattered elements until he holds in his hand a stanza of Gray's Eleg or a monody upon Grimes "all buttoned up before." Now he "sets" a "puppy missing," and now "Paradise Lost;" he arrays a bride in "SMALL CAPS," and a sonnet in and a sonnet in "nonpareil"; he announces that the languishing "live," in one sentence—transposes the word and deplores the days that are few and "evil" in the next.

A poor jest ticks its way slowly into the printer's hand like a clock just running down, and a strain of eloquence marches into line letter by letter. We fancy we can tell the difference by hearing of the ear but perhaps not.

The types that told a wedding yesterday, announce a burial to-morrow—perhaps in the self same letters.

They are elements to make a world of—those types are—a world with something in it as beautiful as spring, as rich as summer, and as grand as autumn flowers that frost cannot wilt, fruit that shall ripen for all time.

The newspaper has become a logbook of the age; it tells at what rate the world is running; we cannot find our "reckoning" without it.

True, the green grocer may build up a pound of candles in our last expressed thoughts, but it is only coming to base uses, as its letters have done times innumerable.

We console ourselves by thinking that one can make of that newspaper what he cannot make of living oaks—a bridge for time—that he can fling it over the charm of the dead years and walk safely back upon the shadowy sea into the far Past. The singer shall not end his song, nor the true soul be eloquent any more

The realm of the Press is enchanted ground. Sometimes the editor has the happiness of knowing that he has defended the right, exposed the wrong, protected the weak: that he has given utterance to a sentiment that is not lost—a sentiment that has cheered somebody's solitary hour, made somebody happier, kindled a smile upon a sad face, or hope on a heavy heart.

He may meet with that sentiment many years after it may have lost all traces of its paternity, but he feels an affection for it. He welcomes it as a long absent child. He reads it as for the first time. and wonders if indeed he wrote it, for he has changed since then. Perhaps he could not give utterance to the sentiment now—perhaps he would not if he could.

It seems like the voice of his former self calling to its parent, and there is something mournful in its tone. He begins to think—to remember why he wrote it—where his readers then, and whither had they gone—what was he then, and how much has he changed. So he muses, until he finds himself wondering if that thought of his will continue to float after he is dead, and whether he is really looking upon something that will survive him. And then comes the sweet consciousness that there is nothing in the sentence that he could wish unwritten—that it is a better part of him—a shred from the garment of immortality he shall leave behind him when he joins the "innumerable caravan," and takes his place in the silent halls of death.

Americans Killed in Mexico.—A Tampico correspondent of the New York Herald says:

Mr Flenn and son, of North Carolina, travelling to this city from the interior, were murdered a few days ago, and robbed of some $6,000 in gold and silver. His wife and three children are now under the care of Dr. Martin, in Saltillo, who was kindly offered to attend and treat them for the wounds they received from the treacherous scoundrels. Martin is a gentleman and will provide them with all they need, both professionally and pecuniarily.—The murderers are still at large in the open streets of Saltillo.

Contribution.—God judges not by the greatness of the gift, but by the heart that offers it.

NEW YEAR'S ADDRESS,

To the patrons and friends of the Republican.

Oh Time! what art thou? whither do you go!
I mean when you are gone in your quick flight?
To us it is of some concern to know,
Whose hold on this round world is rather slight.
To you, whose hours are centuries or so,
It don't much matter as to day or night—
But 'tis to Printers of a few short spaces,
Who're shooting sticks at best or empty cases.

I'll tell you why I ask—twelve months ago,
Which seems but yesterday, I wrote some rhyme,
Without much poetry—it went to show,
How rapidly you pass, old father Time;
Knocking down as you go, both friend and foe:
It treated of some morals and much crime,
Of births and deaths, of marriages and cotton,
But most of hope by New year's day begotten.

But as that year is gone, and fifty-nine,
Is making in the world quite a sensation;
Perhaps you'd wish to know by Right divine,'
How we have managed matters in the nation?
How little man, who likes on earth to shine,
As if he were the sun and fill'd its station,
Has play'd his part, by mad ambition fir'd.
Amus'd the gaping crowd, and then retir'd?

In India, first, a land of gems and gold,
Of Lions, Elephants, and glittering domes;
Where, as Burke says, one Warren Hastings sold
The people, and made desolate their homes;
Old England late her red cross flag unroll'd,
And sent some millions to their bloody tombs,
In spite of Democrats, and all to vex us,
For having taken Oregon and Texas.

Down South where Henningsen and Walker, both,
Tried hard to make a warlike demonstration,
The "grey-ey'd man of destiny," quite loth,
To leave without establishing a nation,
Made Mr. Justice John A. Campbell wroth,
By a small scheme of peaceful emigration;
Who swore by Jackson, he'd give Walker Jesse,
For making contracts with that Julius Hesse.

In Mexico, that land of broil and plunder,
Where Presidents are made and kill'd in plenty;
You'll find them busy, cutting throats like thunder,
While every hour a new chief makes an entry.
There John Forsythe the second, kill'd, oh wonder!
Of robbers on his way, at least some twenty;
Which proves by way of ratiocination,
The Yankees soon will take th'entire nation.

Some people glory much in ostentation,
And some make money fast as they are able:
Like Vic and Nappy, a: the Cherberg station,
And Field, who laid his conscience with the cable,
Events quite great in their anticipation—
The last they say is like to prove a fable,
But all agree tho' messages may'nt pass,
The immortal Field has prov'd himself an ass.

Some miserable devils, as you've heard of late.
Have kick'd up quite a muss on Abolition:
You'll always see in each well order'd State,
A few who love to give themselves position,
And as their interest is, to love or hate.
But fear not yet; Columbia's glorious mission
Is not fulfilled—Republicans nor fates.
Will ne'er dissolve the Union of the States.

When by her shores, along the sounding main,
The voice of Freedom, heard above the blast,
Call'd on her pilgrim sons to break the chain
Around mon's minds by foreign tyrants cast,
They spread upon the winds unsoil'd by stain,
Our Union flag, whose trimmphs will outlast,
Not only you, old Time, in your last waning,
But Seward's speeches & old Sumner's caning.

Here, where a paper, once a week we show,
Combining two, "Republican" and "Sun,"
(A White not Black Republican, you know;)
We're trying hard to get a Railroad done;
And tho' for lack of funds we travel slow,
(Far as green Alpine only are cars run.)
Yet if the Central Railroad men don't mind,
We'll leave both them and you, old Time, behind.

We've had a comet too, of some extent,
Filling the heavens with much sublimity,
Some said to burn the world; by others, sent,
To throw light on Free soil divinity;
Which ever way it was, it westward went,
Perhaps to Brigham Young in his extremity,
To fright Polygamy with signs terrific,
Or bathe its fiery tail in the Pacific.

Before it went, a warning left behind,
For all our pa rons, stands reveal'd to view;
To the poor Printer's Carrier boy be kind;
Twelve months he's labor'd hard to profit you,
And now when New year's mem'ries fill the mind,
If you can't find one dime, why give him two:
Just make it quarters, and my hat I'll bet,
You'll get your name in ev'ry State Gazette.

Death from Fright.—Mrs. Mary S. Edwards, of the First Controller's office, Washington, died rather suddenly on Saturday last. Mr. Edwards was walking in the garden, accompanied by his wife, when, as they approached the rear fence dividing his premises from those of a neighbor, a large ferocious dog made a spring against the fence, in the attempt to seize Mrs. Edwards. So sudden was the intended attack, and so near were the parties, that Mrs. Edwards's nervous system was completely prostrated, by the shock, and she was carried into the house.—On Saturday she was visited by the family physician, who pronounced her doing well, but in an hour afterwards she died.

Atlana, December 31.—Mr. Webb a bailiff, was fired at and killed by W. A. Choice, at noon to day. A public meeting of citizens was held at the Court House this evening to determine whether the law should be allowed to take its course, or Choice should be hung immediately. The mob are now assailing the calaboose and there is great excitement among our citizens.

Dr. J. C. Ayer, the world renowned Chemist of New England, is now stopped at the Barnet house in the city.—He has been making a tour of the Western States, with his scientific associates, to investigate their remedial productions, or such as he can make remedial. We notice he has been received with marked distinction by our leading citizens of the West and are rejoiced to find they have shown a proper estimate of the man who has perhaps done more for the relief of human ills than any other American. *Daily Journal Cincinnati. DIED at the residence of her son W. Glover, on the 25th inst. Mrs Jenne Glover, aged 53 years.

"Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

DIED at the residence of his son, Virgil H. Pace, in Walker county, Texas, on the 28th day of November, 1858, Rev. Richard Pace. The deceased, formerly lived in this County. He had been for many years, a zealous, eminent and useful minister of the gospel, of the Baptist denomination, and leaves a numerous circle of relatives and friends, to lament his loss.

It Saved my Life.—Such is the repeated testimony of hundreds of persons of all ages, with regard to the magic effect of Perry Davis' Pain Killer. When every medicine fails, this seems to possess a perfect charm over the various diseases incident to mankind. Sold by druggists generally

Administrator's Sale OF VALUABLE LAND.

BY virtue of an order of Sale, granted to the undersigned, as Administrator of the Estate of John Easterwood, deceased, by the Hon. the Probate Court of Calhoun County, Ala. on Tuesday the 4th day of January, 1859, I will sell to the highest bidder, on the premises, within the usual hours of sale, On Saturday the 5th day of February next, 1859, the following described land, to-wit:

The N. W. qr. of section 22, also north east fourth of south west quarter of section 22—also north west fourth of south east quarter section 22—also south half of south east and south east of south west quarter of section 22—also a small lot off of Wm. Weatherley's land, commencing at a stake on Easterwood's N. & S. line, running S. E. to the road, thence along said road to Easterwood's line in section 22, all in Township 15, Range 6, containing in all 230 acres, more or less.

Said land lies on the waters of Cane [illegible] in Calhoun (formerly Benton) county, about one mile below Goode & Ellis Iron Works—about 80 or 90 acres good bottom land—125 acres cleared and in a high state of cultivation. The improvements consist of a good Frame Dwelling House and other necessary out houses. The place is well watered and advantageously situated on the road leading from the Iron Works above mentioned to Talladega.

JOB WORK

NEATLY EXECUTED AT THIS OFFICE

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the Clove Institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case, Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N Y.

P. S Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, exciting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off this matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the healthy action of the stomach is at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the LIVER—having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of that organ one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable, and wherever this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove from the system all bad matter, and thus their place a healthy action of the stomach, liver and bowels is restored, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure. Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞ One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞ A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forvarbe blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anelogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, in soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only cleanse the stomach; become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forvarbe blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anelogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, in soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only cleanse the stomach; become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease. Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

CAUTION.—Beware of a counterfeit signed A. B. Moore. All genuine have the name of A. J. White & Co., on each box. Also the signature of A. J. White & Co. All others are spurious.

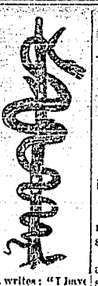
AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,



FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say he best remedy I have ever found for ought, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the ommittant symptoms of a Cold, is your HERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last en years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these omplaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have sed your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since ou invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its urpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner ay twenty five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or ake any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral s the best remedy we possess for the cure of whooping ough, croup, and the chief diseases of children. We of our fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and ommend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856 I had a bedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; ess than one half the bottle made me completely well Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we an buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, w the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous ures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a numb who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the ast forty years. HENRY L. PARRS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you how much your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, whom we have come to believe, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill; for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best phys

POETRY.

"It is the gift of Poetry to hallow every place which it moves; to breathe round Nature an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose, and to shed over it a tint more magical than the blush of morning."

The Bereaved Husband.

BY MRS. E. L. SAXON.

He sat within a silent room—
Death's shadow had been there,
His heart was filled with grief & gloom,
His head was bowed in prayer.
He strove to shut out memory,
Sotilled with bitter pain,
But close before his weeping eyes
Her glass was held again.

Again he stood before his wife
And almost deemed her living—
Again he took the farewell kiss
Which she had died in giving.
He half forgot that death had been
Within his pleasant home;
He seemed to feel her presence there,
Beside him in her room.

There stood upon the mantle shelf
A vase of faded flowers,
They had been placed there by herself
In happy, glowing hours;
There sat her vacant crimson chair,
Her shawl across it lying;
It had been folded round her breast
When he had seen her dying.

There was her basket and her books,
Her portrait on the wall,
The Bible, where her last sweet looks
On holy words did fall.
A few short years before and he
Had brought her there a bride,
But now she was laid down to rest
With her infant by her side.
He did not dream how much he loved
The flower that he had cherished,
Or how she twined about his heart,
Until the bloom had perished.

Thou hast Woven the Spell.

BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

Thou hast woven the spell that hast bound me
Through all the sad changes of years;
And the smiles that I wore when I found thee
Have faded and melted in tears.
Like the poor wounded fawn from the mountain
That seeks out the clear silver tide,
I have lingered in vain at the fountain
Of hope—with a shaft in my side.

Thou hast taught me that Love's rosy fetters
A pang from the thorns may impart;
That the coinage of vows and of letters
Comes not from the mint of the heart.
Like the lone bird that flutters her pinion,
And warbles in border close,
I have struggled to fly thy dominion,
But I find that the struggle is vain.

JENNY JENKINGS.

BY S. C. JR.

"No!" said Isadore Bolton, with an imperious stamp of the foot, "I shall not want you to attend upon me this evening nor do I wish you to show yourself at all when I have company.—You are becoming too familiar for one in your place. You will keep your room until I call for you."

Jenney Jenkins turned to the window to hide the few tears that would struggle up She had been sneered at so often for weeping that she used every exertion within her power on the present occasion to keep back the flood.

"You need not pretend that you are very much hurt by what I have said," remarked Isadore, as she saw her maid cross. "Persons in your situation are not so easily affected. Mercy on me! Things are coming to a pretty pass if our very servants have got to be treated as though they were honored guests"

"Stop, Miss Bolton," cried Jenny, brushing away her tears, & facing her mistress, "I have no such desire, you know very well. I know I am poor & friendless, and that but for your kindness I might be now without a home, but I hope you will not add to my misfortunes by ill-treating me."

"Ill-treating, indeed!" retorted Isadore with a flashing eye. "You are a pert miss, aren't you! I suppose you think that John Lapham loves you. I have no doubt that you imagine he—he—prefered you to others whom he had tried to win."

"I have thought nothing," returned Jenny, struggling with all her power.

"And you had better continue to think nothing," resumed Isadore.—"John Lapham did once have the audacity to make advances of a peculiar kind to me. His own squandered fortune needed repairing, and he hoped to gain mine; but when I discovered that he was a spendthrift and a libertine, I turned from him as I would have turned from a serpent."

"A spendthrift and libertine!" repeated Jenny, turning deathly pale.

"Aye—did you not know it? I thought it had become notorious. But say—I hope he has not been working upon your poor foolish heart. When he sought me it was for my money; but if he seeks you, it must be——"

"Stop!" groaned Jenny. "Oh! do not say anything more."

With a look of malignant satisfaction upon the bowed girl, Isadore Bolton turned from the room, and Jenny was left alone. She threw herself upon the couch, and there she lay and wept for a long time; there she lay until night came on, and until the sound of music came up from the large parlors, where a brilliant party were assembling. Later in the evening she walked out into the garden to get a breath of fresh air. The moon was up, and a gentle breeze, laden with the sweet fragrance of a thousand varied flowers and blossoms, came sweeping softly over the scene. She sat down upon one of the mossy couches, and ere she had been there many minutes she heard her name pronounced. She looded up, and beheld John Lapham.

"Jenny," he said, in a serious tone, "I have been searching for you."

She looked up into his handsome face—she gazed upon his manly form, clad in simple but costly attire—and her heart throbbed painfully.

"Mr. Lapham," she replied, speaking as calmly as she could, "why should you seek me? You move in a circle far, above the station I occupy, and your associations are far removed from mine. Let our acquaintance cease here; it may be better for both of us."

"At least," returned the young man, taking a seat by Jenny's side, "we will understand each other before we part." He hesitated a few moments, and then he resumed—

"If this should be the last time we meet, let us at least part understandingly. I sought you this evening for the purpose of making everything clear.—I am an orphan, as you well know, and am alone in the world. My parents left me with some money, and I went into business. In worldly matters I prospered, but I had no home. I wanted a companion—some one to love, & to love me. I saw Isadore Bolton.—She was called beautiful and witty.—She threw herself in my way, and gave me the most flattering attention; but when I came to read her character I feared to trust my happiness with her. She is—— But never mind. I could not love her as I would love the most precious companion man can have. I saw you—I saw you in an humble position—but it was the person and not the position I sought. You put me in mind of my mother when you moved before me, and when you spoke and smiled you seemed like the dear sister I had lost. So I learned to love you, and I fondly believed that you would be to me all that the most ardent soul could desire I knew you were an orphan; but I knew nothing of your history beyond that, nor—do I know now."

He spoke hesitatingly as he closed, and seemed to be troubled. Jenny saw it, and she quickly answered—

"You should have thought of that before. I am a child of poverty and misfortune, and not suited to the station you must occupy."

"But what is this misfortune?" cried Lapham, eagerly. "I care not for poverty, for in the sight of Heaven man is worth only the soul he bears with him; and in that I believe there art rich.—But of this misfortune—pardon me, let me speak plainly this once: Does it leave any stain upon you? Does it——"

"Stop," groaned the maiden. "Ask be no more to you"

"Say not so, Jenny. Am I not all you could wish? Could you not love me? Why don't you answer? Surely, you have loved me."

As the young man gazed into her pale face, and saw how she shuddered and trembled when he asked her this question, a new thought flashed upon him.

"Has any one spoken to you concerning me?" he asked, in an earnest hurried whisper. "Has any one spoken against me?—You tremble. There has been some story told to you. Perhaps I have its counterpart Has Isadore Bolten spoken of me?"

"Yes," answered Jenny, now resolved that she would tell all. "She told me that you were a spendthrift and a libertine."

"Did she say that?" whispered Lapham, starting as though something had stung him.

"Yes; and she said she refused your company on that account"

"Oh, God forgive her! And she has poured a long story into my ear of you, sweet Jenny. But now tell me of your early life. Will you not trust me with it? If you would know of my manhood, I shall refer you to those who know me best; but the story of your life I would have from your own lips."

Jenny hesitated at first, but finally she resolved to tell it all. Her companion took one of her small white hands, and held it in both his own while she spoke. She told him of her earnest childhood—of dark days and of dark nights—of want, of misery, of degradation, and of sorrow; and then she told of the later years—of trials, and of struggles; but through it all—from the hour of her birth up to the present—she had never swerved from the right. With her hand upon her heart she could look up to her God, and trust in Him without fear or shame.

"Bless you!" cried the youth, when she had finished. "I believe you; and in return I only ask that you will believe me when I say that all is false which speaks against my character as Miss Bolton has spoken against it."

They walked in the garden till a late hour, and when they finally separated they were as happy as they could be.—They understood each other perfectly, and no more falsehood could annoy them. John Lapham, with a soul above dishonor, and a heart above selfishness, clasped the beautiful, gentle Jenny to his bosom, and gave her his plighted faith because he knew she was the woman he needed to make him happy and peaceful. And she, with a heart that knew no gile, trusted in his manhood, and loved him devotedly.

Within the large parlors all was life and animation. Isadore Bolton was among the gayest of the gay, for she believed she had made a new conquest, and if it was a valuable one. Among the new arrivals in the town was that of George Arlington. He had lately come from Texas, where he had amassed an immense fortune in successful land speculation. Of this there was no question, as his banker was a native of the town, and had charge of the funds. And then Arlington was only six and-twenty, and was, moreover, exceedingly good-looking. In short, he was a gentleman of polished and refined manners, and no person of observation could be in his company any length of time without discovering that he possessed a kind and true heart. Isadore made sure that he was free from any matrimonial engagement, and then she laid siege to his affections. She talked with him, she laughed with him, she danced with him, she played and sang to him, and when she fancied that she had drawn the magic cord well about him she ventured to pout a little, and toss her head disdainfully when he bestowed any attention upon other fair ones.

Isadore was handsome, and she had some wit and some intelligence. Her mother was a widow, and she an only child; and though they had been left with quite a snug little fortune some ten years before, yet it had sadly dwindled away now. The life they had led had been an expensive one, and it had cost something to give the many brilliant parties, which had been meant for traps wherein a rich husband might be caught.

"Well, my child," said Mrs. Bolton, after the company had all gone, and the two were alone, "how do you prosper?"

"Well—well," replied Isadore, "I have him safe enough. I know he is fast. He will propose when I give him an opportunity."

"Then you had better give him that opportunity at once, child, for we cannot hold out much longer. My purse is well nigh empty. Do not let him slip as you did John Lapham."

"If you love me, mamma, don't mention that man's name again. I feel that I am well rid of him. He hasn't more than fifteen thousand dollars at the utmast, while Mr. Arlington has ten times—aye, twenty times that amount. It It was a blessing that I got him off in season."

"And will he make an offer to Jenny Jenkins, think you?"

"What—he? Preposterous! He may toy with her—he may deceive her—but I have placed her on her guard, and she will be to blame if she suffers."

"There was no need of that, Isadore," said Mrs. Bolton, with a strange look. "I think we had better be rid of that girl. She is young—two years younger than you are—and beautiful. Her beauty is of a style far different from yours, and the contrast calls attention to it. I cannot help fearing that it was her face that first turned the eyes of Lapham from you."

"True; she has beauty," responded Isadore, with a vengeful air, "but it is not a kind that can be very dangerous to any one save herself. However, I have held the same opinion which you have expressed. I do not want her with me. We have had her long enough. We took her when she was poor, houseless and ragged, and now she is getting above us all."

It was finally settled between the mother and daughter that poor Jenny—the girl who had been so faithful & true—who had borne with their whims & caprices without murmuring—should be set adrift. And it was furthermore settled that George Arlington should be caught and secured as soon as possible.

The Angel in Disguise.

OR,

HOW TO CHOOSE A HUSBAND.

A ROMANTIC AND YET TRUE STORY.

A beautiful young heiress had become so disgusted with a flattering set of soft-pated pomatum-haired, moustackhe, lipped, strongly perfumed suitors for her hand, that she shut herself from the fashionable world, turned all her property into money, deposited it in banks, donned a cheap wardrobe, put on a mask, and went, pedestrian like, through the city in which she had hitherto moved with so much magnificence and display. She asked alms of those who of late had knelt at her feet and sued for her hand. They knew her not, and casting a look of scorn upon her veiled face & coarse wardrobe, bade her begone. She entered the country—here she met with derision and scorn. A few kind-hearted people, it is true, bestowed aid; but these were of the poorer class, who had hard work to procure their own daily bread; but they could not turn a fellow-creature hungry from their door, and therefore gave a small pittance from their scanty store.

One summer day, a large company met on ——beach. They were mostly from the city. The disguised heiress, from some cause or other, had wandered there. She asked alms of some termed "upper tens." They spoke tauntingly but gave nothing. What they said had been heard by quite a number of their company. Most of them laughed or looked as if they thought it "served her right." The beggar woman turned about and was walking sadly away, when a good looking gentleman stepped forward, and catching hold of her arm, thus spoke:

"Stay, my good woman—tell me what you want"

She replied in a low trembling tone, "I want a sixpence—only a sixpence."

"You shall have ten times that sum. Here," he added drawing from his pock an eagle, and placing it in the gloved hand of the woman, "take this and if it is not enough, I will give you another."

The heiress returned the eagle exclaiming, "I want a sixpence—only a sixpence"

Seeing that she could not be made to take the coin, the gentleman drew forth a sixpence, and gave it to the strange being beside him, who, after thanking the generous donor, walked slowly away. After being laughed at for so doing by his comrades, he set out in pursuit of the beggar-woman, saying, "Perhaps she is an heiress—or an angel in disguise—I mean to ascertain."

Not that he thought this. He wished to show his indifference to what his comrades said, besides satisfying himself about the strange female whom he had aided. He soon overtook her, and addressed her thus: "Pardon me, madam, for pursuing you. I would know more about you."

As the speaker ceased, the mask dropped from the face of the female, and the beautiful heiress was portrayed before the astonished gentleman.

That they were afterwards married, the reader has already imagined, for the heiress used this means of procuring a worthy husband, and the generous gentleman had long been looking for "an angel in disguise."

The happy husband is often heard to say that he got an "heiress for a sixpence."—[Portland (Me.) Transcript.]

What is this Wonderful Ether?

From Dicken's Household Words:

We may now very naturally inquire —what, in short, is this wonderful ether? Is it a fluid, transparent, and impalpable body, which penetrates through out and everywhere? Is it composed of matter which is equally subtle and rarified at all the points, which it occupies? Is it exactly the same in the neighborhood of a voluminous planet as in the midst of an immense open space entirely empty of solid bodies?—In a word, does it differ essentially from the most rarified portion of the planetary atmosphere? All these points are open to controversy. In the opinion of learned men, whose express belief merits deference and attention, the either differs only in its extreme subtlety from the much more highly condensed matter which constitutes the atmospheres of the planets—a definition that has been ventured is, the ether is the simple of which atmospheres are the compound; in other words, atmospheric matter results from the condensation of a certain amount of etherial matter, or, finally, ether is the elementary matter of which all other things are formed.

This notion is not very far removed from that entertained by Mr. Grove, who believed that the other possesses all the qualities of ordinary gross matter, and particularly the quality of weight. If this matter, on account of its extreme rarification, can only manifest the properties with which it is endowed on a scale of infinite minuteness; on the other hand, at the surface of the earth it attains a degree of density which we are able to measure by experiment. The ether, or the extremely rarified matter which fills the interplanetary spaces, is thus believed to be an expansion of all or several of the atmospheres of the planets, or of their most volatile elements, and would thus furnish the material necessary for the transmission of those modifications of motion which we designate by the names of light, heat, &c. And it is held to be far from impossible that attenuated portions of these atmospheres, by gradual changes may pass from one planet to another, thus forming a link of material communication between the distant nomads of the universe. The ether, then, is an imponderable, or unweighable, or, rather, an unweighed fluid, endued with perfect elasticity.—It fills not only the planetary spaces, but also the intervals between the elementary molecules of solid bodies, and even the molecules themselves, as those of the gases which are assumed to be hollowed and spherical. In short, the ether pervades everything and is everywhere; in the most elaborately formed vacuum as well as in the densest substances. But the mind cannot admit the existence of an imponderable fluid; for, if it is a fluid, it is a body. Now, all bodies are ponderable; therefore the ether is ponderable. We certainly know that the ether has not been weighed, but we have no right to assert that it has no weight. The ether is the essential principle of all bodies; it is their primordial state; it is matter in a condition of extreme tenuity, which prevents its being palpable, seizable, or weighable. Hydrogen is the first material body, in respect to density, of which we are able to take cognizance; hydrogen is either condensed, tangible, or ponderable. Dr. Prout propounded the hypothesis that matter is uniform in its nature, and that all atomic weights are multiples of the weight of hydrogen. It would now appear that the weight of hydrogen is a multiple of that of the ether, or of unknown intermediate bodies, which are themselves multiples of ether. Several gases have been reduced to a liquid, and even a solid form, by the application of great compression & extreme cold; azote and hydrogen have hitherto resisted the efforts even of a Faraday to make them liquid. The last gaseous substance which will be liquified by human agency is doubtless the ether.

Whence comes the matter of which the heavenly bodies are composed? It is generally called cosmic matter—that is, universal matter; but does this universal matter differ from what may be called universal ether? Many natural philosophers believe that atmospheric matter is produced by the condensation of etherial matter. But if the ether is capable of condensation so as to form the atmosphere, the atmosphere in turn may be capable of condensation so as to form solid globes, such as the planets with the animals and planets which live on them. But the existence or non-existence of the ether derives its great importance from its intimate connection with the speculations that have been put forth respecting the nature of light. It is the all-pervading presence of a medium, which forms throughout space, a material communication to the very distantest visible bodies, which serves as the fundamental hypothesis of the theory of undulation. Whether this medium be, (as seems probable,) or be not, a continuation of our own proper atmosphere, the fact that there is such a medium derives great support from the powerful arguments which are now brought forward in maintenance of the undulatory theory. It would be desirable to solve the problem, what is the absolute density of the luminous ether at any given point of space? But the data hitherto attainable are insufficient for its solution. It may be remarked, however, that, according to the law laid down by Boyle, the luminous medium is incomparably denser than our atmosphere would be were it extended to the interplanetary spaces. The ether may also be perhaps regarded as the propagating agent of electricity and magnetism as well as of light. At the beginning of the present century the discoveries of Young, of Fresnel, of Malus, and Arago proclaimed to the world several optical phenomena which were inexplicable on the supposition that light was the effect of luminous corpuscules shot out from the sun with immense velocity, while they were easily explained by the admission that celestial space is filled with an excessively rarified elastic gas.

In this latter case the sun, nothing to dart in all directions molecules of light and heat which are to travel with inconceivable swiftness, may cease to be regarded as a monstrous planet ever lasting devoured by fire. The part which the sun has to play on the modern hypothesis, is simply to impress on the matter which fills all space a powerful vibratory movement which extends in the form of luminous waves, as far as the most distant planets and further, thereby supplying them with light and heat. These luminous waves, or undulations are the reason why the system is called the undulatory theory.

The views respecting the nature of the ether, of which we now conclude our sketch, are what are entertained to a greater or less extent, by almost all the scientific pioneers of the day, notwithstanding which, it is not completely proved that the ether exists any real or actual existence in nature. The grand quarrel of Plotinus was a vacuum, which mounts to a great antiquity and had already attained importance in the time of Aristotle. It can scarcely be said to be a settled question. There is little more than circumstantial evidence in proof of the allegation. It is consequently still so interesting a subject to know that the five classes of the Institute of Paris, at their annual meeting in August, eighteen hundred & fifty-seven, proceed their grand triennial prize to M. Fizeau, whose works have for their object the demonstration of the truth of the hypothesis of a vacuum, the establishment of the presence of the ether throughout heavenly space, the proof of the undulatory theory, the measurement of the velocity of propagation in light.

Sinora and Chihuahua.

The Washington Union gives a graphic picture of the resources of Sonora, over which and Chihuahua the President recommends that the United States should a temporary protectorate in reprisal for outrages upon American citizens, and upon principles of self preservation, of humanity to people these frontier States. Sonora contains fifteen millions of acres, with a population of 120,000, including Indians. The Union says it is beyond all doubt, the richest mineral region in the known world, blessed with a fine climate, and in the valley's the richest soil. Sugar, cotton wheat, corn beans all the fruits grow in luxuriousness and profusion unknown even in our Southern possessions. Notwithstanding these advantages and the industrious and orderly habits of the people, the State is rendered miserable by the incursions of the Apache Indians, so that all cultivation, except in the immediate neighborhood of the towns is given up, and the whole silver mining region abandoned. These savages have their haunts in the United States north of the Gila river, to which they retreat with their booty, or, when they have committed a great outrage upon our side, they seek shelter in Mexico.

There is no vice of which man can be guilty, no meanness, no shabbiness, no unkindness, which excites so much indignation among his cotemporaries, friends and neighbors, as his success. This is the one unpardonable crime which reason cannot defend nor humanity mitigate.

"When Heaven with such parts has blest him,
Have I not reason to detest him?"

is a genuine and natural expression of the vulgar human mind. The man who writes as we cannot write, who speaks as we cannot speak, who labors as we cannot labor, and thrives as we cannot thrive, has accumulated against his own person all the offences of which a man can be guilty. Down with him! why cumbereth he the ground?

London Times.

Senator Douglas has recently written a private letter, in which he declares he is not a candidate for the Presidency. He states that the fight just ended has been one of principle, and conscience and conviction, that the result has triumphantly vindicated his position in the eyes of his own people than to represent whom in the confederated councils of sovreignties he has at present no higher ambition. He reiterates his adherence to the Democratic faith and organization, and avers his purpose to support the Charleston nominee. He will take an early occasion in the Senate to define his views which he says have been the subject of much unjust misconstruction.—

COMPARATIVE WEALTH OF CITIES.

The wealth of two great centres, Boston and New York, amounts to eight hundred millions of dollars—New York having $525,000,00, and Boston 275,000,000, or a little more than one-half that of New York The property of Boston is $100,000,000 more than that of the city of Philadelphia, and nearly three times that of Baltimore.—It is said that Boston has more property per capita than any other city in the world.

The New York Herald sums up a review of the gold fields of the United States, with the following estimate of our future gold crop: California gives us a million a week. All the other fields, we can safely say with what facts we already have, will give us at least one half as much. Our g

DR. J. C. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of this organ one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable. This remedy is at last found, and any person troubled with liver complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, thereby restoring the stomach to a healthy action; they cause the digestive organs to perform well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machine—effecting a radical cure. Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented, by the occasional use of the LIVER INVIGORATOR.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia.

☞One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic, while one dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera

☞Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

DR. MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forthwith be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to its that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and unclog the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only cleanse the stomach become unified with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

BERNFIELD, MASS., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say he best remedy I have ever found for coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your "CHERRY PECTORAL." Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, MISS., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of whooping cough, croup, and the chief diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, TA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856 I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

DR. J. C. AYER: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we came to advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We like his kindness, as we do your skill; for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all around us bespeak the high merits of its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win an unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children Being entranced they are pleasant to take, and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while other have sent me the assurance of their convictis that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of the afflicted, suffering fellowmen.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis an American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:—

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dysentheerburn, Headache arising from a foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid function of the Bowels and Piles arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Pleurisy and Cutaneous diseases which require an evacuating medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia or Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a too state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

DO not be put off by unprincipled dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give can compare with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best and there is for the sick they should have it.

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS.

Dr. Radway & Co. have recently discovered a method for extracting from roots, herbs plants and gums, a nutritions extract of such wonderful nourishing power—which they have combined with Radway's Regulating Pills—that six of these Pills will supply the blood with the same amount of nutrition as one ounce of ordinary bread; so that, while the system is undergoing a thorough physicking, and regulating process, it daily becomes strengthened.

Persons afflicted with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Diseases, Fullness or blood, and all Females who are subject to Irregularities, Hysteria, &c., are particularly recommended to use these Pills. They are pleasant to take—elegantly coated with gum—free from taste, and will not gripe, sicken or weaken the system, or leave the bowels costive.—Mothers nursing should likewise take one or two of these Pills once or twice per week.—They will not only keep your system healthy and regular, but will protect your infants against Cramp and Pains in the stomach, and insure not only a healthy child, but will invest every child, thus suckled, with a sweet disposition.

POETRY.

——"It is the gift of Poetry to hallow every place in which it moves; to breathe round Nature an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose, and to shed over it a tint more magical than the blush of morning."

The Bereaved Husband.

BY MRS. E. L. SAXON.

He sat within a silent room—
Death's shadow had been there,
His heart was filled with grief & gloom,
His head was bowed in prayer.
He strove to shut out memory,
So filled with bitter pain,
But close before his weeping eyes
Her glass was held again.

Again he stood before his wife
And almost deemed her living—
Again he took the farewell kiss
Which she had died in giving.
He half forgot that death had been
Within his pleasant home;
He seemed to feel her presence there,
Beside him in her room.

There stood upon the mantle shelf
A vase of faded flowers,
They had been placed there by herself
In happy, glowing hours;
There sat her vacant crimson chair,
Her shawl across it lying;
It had been folded round her breast
When he had seen her dying.

There was her basket and her books,
Her portrait on the wall,
The Bible, where her last sweet looks
On holy words did fall.
A few short years before and he
Had brought her there a bride,
But now she was laid down to rest
With her infant by her side.
He did not dream how much he loved
The flower that he had cherished,
Or how she twined about his heart,
Until the bloom had perished.

Thou hast Woven the Spell.

BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

Thou hast woven the spell that hast bound me
Through all the sad changes of years;
And the smiles that I wore when I found thee
Have faded and melted in tears.
Like the poor wounded fawn from the mountain
That seeks out the clear silver tide,
I have lingered in vain at the fountain
Of hope—with a shaft in my side.

Thou hast taught me that Love's rosy fetters
A pang from the thorns may impart;
That the coinage of vows and of letters
Comes not from the mint of the heart.
Like the lone bird that flutters her pinion,
And warbles in borrow'd strains,
I have struggled to fly thy dominion,

Miscellaneous.

JENNY JENKINGS.

BY S. C. JR.

"NO!" said Isadore Bolton, with an imperious stamp of the foot, "I shall not want you to attend upon me this evening; nor do I wish you to show yourself at all when I have company.—You are becoming too familiar for one in your place. You will keep your room until I call for you."

Jenney Jenkins turned to the window to hide the few tears that would struggle up. She had been sneered at so often for weeping that she used every exertion within her power on the present occasion to keep back the flood.

"You need not pretend that you are very much hurt by what I have said," remarked Isadore, as she saw her maid tremble. "Persons in your situation are not so easily affected. Mercy on me! Things are coming to a pretty pass if our very servants have got to be treated as though they were honored guests."

"Stop, Miss Bolton," cried Jenny, brushing away her tears, & facing her mistress. "I have no such desire, you know very well. I know I am poor & friendless, and that but for your kindness I might be now without a home, but I hope you will not add to my misfortunes by ill-treating me."

"Ill-treating, indeed!" retorted Isadore with a flashing eye. "You are a pert miss, aren't you! I suppose you think that John Lapham loves you. I have no doubt that you imagine he—he—prefered you to others whom he had tried to win."

"I have thought nothing," returned Jenny, struggling with all her power.

"And you had better continue to think nothing," resumed Isadore.—"John Lapham did once have the audacity to make advances of a peculiar kind to me. His own squandered fortune needed repairing, and he hoped to gain mine; but when I discovered that he was a spendthrift and a libertine, I turned from him as I would have turned from a serpent."

"A spendthrift and libertine!" re eated Jenny, turning deathly pale.

"Aye—did you not know it? I thought it had become notorious. But say—I hope he has not been working upon your poor foolish heart. When he sought me it was for my money; but if he seeks you, it must be——"

"Stop!" groaned Jenny. "Oh! do not say anything more."

With a look of malignant satisfaction upon the bowed girl, Isadore Bolton turned from the room, and Jenny was left alone. She threw herself upon the couch, and there she lay and wept for a long time; there she lay until night came on, and until the sound of music came up from the large parlors, where a brilliant party were assembling. Later in the evening she walked out into the garden to get a breath of fresh air. The moon was up, and a gentle breeze, laden with the sweet fragrance of a thousand varied flowers and blossoms, came sweeping softly over the scene. She sat down upon one of the mossy couches, and ere she had been there many minutes she heard her name pronounced. She looded up, and beheld John Lapham.

"Jenny," he said, in a serious tone, "I have been searching for you."

She looked up into his handsome face—she gazed upon his manly form, clad in simple but costly attire—and her heart throbbed painfully.

"Mr. Lapham," she replied, speaking as calmly as she could, "why should you seek me? You move in a circle far above the station I occupy, and your associations are far removed from mine. Let our acquaintance cease here; it may be better for both of us."

"At least," returned the young man, taking a seat by Jenny's side, "we will understand each other before we part." He hesitated a few moments, and then he resumed—

"If this should be the last time we meet, let us at least part understandingly. I sought you this evening for the purpose of making everything clear.—I am an orphan, as you well know, and am alone in the world. My parents left me with some money, and I went into business. In worldly matters I prospered, but I had no home. I wanted a companion—some one to love, & to love me. I saw Isadore Bolton.—She was called beautiful and witty.—She threw herself in my way, and gave me the most flattering attention; but when I came to read her character I feared to trust my happiness with her. She is—— But never mind. I could not love her as I would love the most precious companion man can have. I saw you—I saw you in an humble position—but it was the person and not the position I sought. You put me in mind of my mother when you moved before me, and when you spoke and smiled you seemed like the dear sister I had lost. So I learned to love you, and I fondly believed that you would be to me all that the most ardent soul could desire. I knew you were an orphan; but I knew nothing of your history beyond that, nor—do I know now."

He spoke hesitatingly as he closed, and seemed to be troubled. Jenny saw it, and she quickly answered—

"You should have thought of that before. I am a child of poverty and misfortune, and not suited to the station you must occupy."

"But what is this misfortune?" cried Lapham, eagerly. "I care not for poverty, for in the sight of Heaven man is worth only the soul he bears with him; and in that I believe them are rich.—But of this misfortune—pardon me, let me speak plainly this once: Does it leave any stain upon you? Does it——"

"Stop," groaned the maiden. "Ask me no more to you——"

"Say not so, Jenny. Am I not all you could wish? Could you not love me? Why don't you answer? Surely, you have loved me."

As the young man gazed into her pale face, and saw how she shuddered and trembled when he asked her this question, a new thought flashed upon him.

"Has any one spoken to you concerning me?" he asked, in an earnest hurried whisper. "Has any one spoken against me?—You tremble. There has been some story told to you. Perhaps I have its counterpart. Has Isadore Bolten spoken of me?"

"Yes," answered Jenny, now resolved that she would tell all. "She told me that you were a spendthrift and a libertine."

"Did she say that?" whispered Lapham, starting as though something had stung him.

"Yes; and she said she refused your company on that account."

"Oh, God forgive her! And she has poured a long story into my ear of you, sweet Jenny. But now tell me of your early life. Will you not trust me with it? If you would know of my manhood, I shall refer you to those who know me best; but the story of your life I would have from your own lips."

Jenny hesitated at first, but finally she resolved to tell it all. Her companion took one of her small white hands, and held it in both his own while she spoke. She told him of her earnest childhood—of dark days and of dark nights—of want, of misery, of degradation, and of sorrow; and then she told of the later years—of trials, and of struggles; but through it all—from the hour of her birth up to the present—she had never swerved from the right. With her hand upon her heart she could look up to her God, and trust in Him without fear or shame.

"Bless you!" cried the youth, when she had finished. "I believe you; and in return I only ask that you will believe me when I say that all is false which speaks against my character as Miss Bolton has spoken against it."

They walked in the garden till a late hour, and when they finally separated they were as happy as they could be.—They understood each other perfectly, and no more falsehood could annoy them. John Lapham, with a soul above dishonor, and a heart above selfishness, clasped the beautiful, gentle Jenny to his bosom, and gave her his plighted faith because he knew she was the woman he needed to make him happy and peaceful. And she, with a heart that knew no gile, trusted in his manhood, and loved him devotedly.

Within the large parlors all was life and animation. Isadore Bolton was among the gayest of the gay, for she believed she had made a new conquest, and if it was a valuable one. Among the new arrivals in the town was that of George Arlington. He had lately come from Texas, where he had amassed an immense fortune in successful land speculation. Of this there was no question, as his banker was a native of the town, and had charge of the funds. And then Arlington was only six and-twenty, and was, moreover, exceedingly good-looking. In short, he was a gentleman of polished and refined manners, and no person of observation could be in his company any length of time without discovering that he possessed a kind and true heart. Isadore made sure that he was free from any matrimonial engagement, and then she laid siege to his affections. She talked with him, she laughed with him, she danced with him, she played and sang to him, and when she fancied that she had drawn the magic cord well about him she ventured to pout a little, and toss her head disdainfully when he bestowed any attention upon other fair ones.

Isadore was handsome, and she had some wit and some intelligence. Her mother was a widow, and she an only child; and though they had been left with quite a snug little fortune some ten years before, yet it had sadly dwindled away now. The life they had led had been an expensive one, and it had cost something to give the many brilliant parties, which had been meant for traps wherein a rich husband might be caught.

"Well, my child," said Mrs. Bolton, after the company had all gone, and the two were alone, "how do you prosper?"

"Well—well," replied Isadore, "I have him safe enough. I know he is fast. He will propose when I give him an opportunity."

"Then you had better give him that opportunity at once, child, for we cannot hold out much longer. My purse is well nigh empty. Do not let him slip as you did John Lapham."

"If you love me, mamma, don't mention that man's name again. I feel that I am well rid of him. He hasn't more than fifteen thousand dollars at the utmost, while Mr. Arlington has ten times—aye, twenty times that amount. It was a blessing that I got him off in season."

"And will he make an offer to Jenny Jenkins, think you?"

"What—he? Preposterous! He may toy with her—he may deceive her—but I have placed her on her guard, and she will be to blame if she suffers."

"There was no need of that, Isadore," said Mrs. Bolton, with a strange look. "I think we had better be rid of that girl. She is young—two years younger than you are—and beautiful. Her beauty is of a style far different from yours, and the contrast calls attention to it. I cannot help fearing that it was her face that first turned the eyes of Lapham from you."

"True; she has beauty," responded Isadore, with a vengeful air, "but it is not a kind that can be very dangerous to any one save herself. However, I have held the same opinion which you have expressed. I do not want her with me. We have had her long enough. We took her when she was poor, houseless and ragged, and now she is getting above us all."

It was finally settled between the mother and daughter that poor Jenny—the girl who had been so faithful & true—who had borne with their whims & caprices without murmuring—should be set adrift. And it was furthermore settled that George Arlington should be caught and secured as soon as possible.

The Angel in Disguise.

OR,

HOW TO CHOOSE A HUSBAND.

A ROMANTIC AND YET TRUE STORY.

A beautiful young heiress had become so disgusted with a flattering set of soft-pated pomatum-haired, moustackhe, lipped, strongly perfumed suitors for her hand, that she shut herself from the fashionable world, turned all her property into money, deposited it in banks, donned a cheap wardrobe, put on a mask, and went, pedestrian like, through the city in which she had hitherto moved with so much magnificence and display. She asked alms of those who of late had knelt at her feet and sued for her hand. They knew her not, and casting a look of scorn upon her veiled face & coarse wardrobe, bade her begone. She entered the country—here she met with derision and scorn. A few kind-hearted people, it is true, bestowed aid; but these were of the poorer class, who had hard work to procure their own daily bread; but they could not turn a fellow-creature hungry from their door, and therefore gave a small pittance from their scanty store.

One summer day, a large company met on——beach. They were mostly from the city. The disguised heiress, from some cause or other, had wandered there. She asked alms of some termed "upper tens." They spoke tauntingly but gave nothing. What they said had been heard by quite a number of their company. Most of them laughed or looked as if they thought it "served her right." The beggar woman turned about and was walking sadly away, when a good looking gentleman stepped forward, and catching hold of her arm, thus spoke:

"Stay, my good woman—tell me what you want."

She replied in a low trembling tone, "I want a sixpence—only a sixpence."

"You shall have ten times that sum. Here," he added drawing from his pock an eagle, and placing it in the gloved hand of the woman, "take this and if it is not enough, I will give you another."

The heiress returned the eagle exclaiming, "I want a sixpence—only a sixpence."

Seeing that she could not be made to take the coin, the gentleman drew forth a sixpence, and gave it to the strange being beside him, who, after thanking the generous donor, walked slowly away. After being laughed at for so doing by his comrades, he set out in pursuit of the beggar-woman, saying, "Perhaps she is an heiress—or an angel in disguise. I mean to ascertain."

Not that he thought this. He wished to show his indifference to what his comrades said, besides satisfying himself about the strange female whom he had aided. He soon overtook her, and addressed her thus: "Pardon me, madam, for pursuing you. I would know more about you."

As the speaker censed, the mask dropped from the face of the female, and the beautiful heiress was portrayed before the astonished gentleman.

That they were afterwards married, the reader has already imagined, for the heiress used this means of procuring a worthy husband, and the generous gentleman had long been looking for "an angel in disguise."

The happy husband is often heard to say that he got an "heiress for a sixpence."—[Portland (Me.) Transcript.]

What is this Wonderful Ether?

From Dicken's Household Words.

We may now very naturally inquire—what, in short, is this wonderful ether? Is it a fluid, transparent, and impalpable body, which penetrates through out and everywhere? Is it composed of matter which is equally subtle and rarified at all the points, which it occupies? Is it exactly the same in the neighborhood of a voluminous planet as in the midst of an immense open space entirely empty of solid bodies?—In a word, does it differ essentially from the most rarified portion of the planetary atmosphere? All these points are open to controversy. In the opinion of learned men, whose express belief merits deference and attention, the either differs only in its extreme subtlety from the much more highly condensed matter which constitutes the atmospheres of the planets—a definition that has been ventured is, the ether is the simple of which atmospheres are the compound; in other words, atmospheric matter results from the condensation of a certain amount of etherial matter, or, finally, ether is the elementary matter of which all other things are formed.

This notion is not very far removed from that entertained by Mr. Grove, who believed that the other possesses all the qualities of ordinary gross matter, and particularly the quality of weight. If this matter, on account of its extreme rarification, can only manifest the properties with which it is endowned on a scale of infinite minutenes; on the other hand, at the surface of the earth it attains a degree of density which we are able to measure by experiment. The ether, or the extremely rarified matter which fills the interplanetary spaces, is thus believed to be an expansion of all or several of the atmospheres of the planets, or of their most volatile elements, and would thus furnish the material necessary for the transmission of those modifications of motion which we designate by the names of light, heat, &c. And it is held to be far from impossible that attenuated portions of these atmospheres, by gradual changes may pass from one planet to another, thus forming a link of material communication between the distant monads of the universe. The ether, then, is an imponderable, or unweighable, or, rather, an nuweighed fluid, endued with perfect elasticity.—It fills not only the planetary spaces, but also the intervals between the elementary molecules of solid bodies, and even the molecules themselves, as those of the gases which are assumed to be hollowed and spherical. In short, the ether pervades everything and is everywhere; in the most elaborately formed vacuum as well as in the densest substances. But the mind cannot admit the existence of an imponderable fluid; for, if it is a fluid, it is a body. Now, all bodies are ponderable; therefore the ether is ponderable. We certainly know that the ether has not been weighed, but we have no right to assert that it has no weight. The ether is the essential principle of all bodies; it is their primordial state; it is matter in a condition of extreme tenuity, which prevents its being palpable, seizable, or weighable. Hydrogen is the first material body, in respect to density, of which we are able to take cognizance; hydrogen is either condensed, tangible, or ponderable. Dr. Prout propounded the hypothesis that matter is uniform in its nature, and that all atomic weights are multiples of the weight of hydrogen. It would now appear that the weight of hydrogen is a multiple of that of the ether, or of unknown intermediate bodies, which are themselves multiples of ether. Several gases have been reduced to a liquid, and even a solid form, by the application of great compression & extreme cold; azote and hydrogen have hitherto resisted the efforts even of a Faraday to make them liquid. The last gaseous substance which will be liquified by human agency is doubtless the ether.

Whence comes the matter of which the heavenly bodies are composed? It is generally called cosmic matter—that is, universal matter; but does this universal matter differ from what may be called universal ether? Many natural philosophers believe that atmospheric matter is produced by the condensation of etherial matter. But if the ether is capable of condensation so as to form the atmosphere, the atmosphere in turn may be capable of condensation so as to form solid globes, such as the planets with the animals and planets which live on them. But the existence or non-existence of the ether derives its great importance from its intimate connection with the speculations that have been put forth respecting the nature of light. It is the all-pervading presence of a medium, which forms throughout space, a material communication to the very distantest visible bodies, which serves as the fundamental hypothesis of the theory of undulation. Whether this medium be, (as seems probable,) or be not, a continuation of our own proper atmosphere, the fact that there is such a medium derives great support from the powerful arguments which are now brought forward in maintenance of the undulatory theory. It would be desirable to solve the problem, what is the absolute density of the luminous ether at any given point of space? But the data hitherto attainable are insufficient for its solution. It may be remarked, however, that, according to the law laid down by Boyle, the luminous medium is incomparably denser than our atmosphere would be were it extended to the interplanetary spaces. The ether may also be perhaps regarded as the propagating agent of electricity and magnetism as well as of light. At the beginning of the present century the discoveries of Young, of Fresnel, of Malus, and Arago proclaimed to the world several optical phenomena which were inexplicable on the supposition that light was the effect of luminous corpuscules shot out from the sun with immense velocity, while they were easily explained by the admission that celestial space is filled with an excessively rarified elastic gas.

In this latter case the sun, not only in dart in all directions molecules of light and heat which are to us inconceivable swiftness, may cease to be regarded as a monstrous planet everlasting devoured by fire. The part which the sun has to play on the undulatory hypothesis, is simply to impress on the matter which fills all space a powerful vibratory movement which extends, in the form of luminous waves, as far as the most distant planets and further, and thereby supplying them with light and heat. These luminous waves, or undulations, are the reason why the system is called the undulatory theory.

The views respecting the nature of the ether, of which we now conclude our sketch, are what are entertained, to a greater or less extent, by almost all the scientific pioneers of the day; notwithstanding which, it is positively and completely proved that the ether does not exist any real or actual existence.

Sinora and Chihuahua.

The Washington Union gives a graphic picture of the resources of Sinora, over which and Chihuahua the President recommends that the United States should a temporary protection in reprisal for outrages upon American citizens, and upon principles of self-preservation, of humanity to people of these frontier States. Sonora contains an area within limits of ... square miles, and a population of 120,000, including ... dians. The Union says it is beyond all doubt, the richest mineral region in the known world, blessed with ... climate, and in the valley's the richest soil. Sugar, cotton, wheat, and ... all the fruits grow in luxurious ... and profusion unknown even in our Southern possessions. Notwithstanding these advantages and the industrious and orderly habits of the people, the State is rendered miserable ... to incursions of the Apache Indians, so that ... all cultivation, except in the ... immediate neighborhood of the towns ... up, and the whole silver mining ... are abandoned. These savages have their haunts in the United States north of the Gila river, to which they retreat with their booty, or, when they have committed a great outrage upon our side, they seek shelter in Mexico.

There is no vice of which man can be guilty, no meanness, no shabbiness, no unkindness, which excites so much indignation among his cotemporaries, friends and neighbors, as his success.—This is the one unpardonable crime which reason cannot defend nor humility mitigate.

"When Heaven with such parts has blest him,
Have I not reason to detest him?"

is a genuine and natural expression of the vulgar human mind. ... who writes as we cannot write, who speaks as we cannot speak, who labors as we cannot labor, and thrives as we cannot thrive, has accumulated in his own person all the offences of which man can be guilty. Down with him! why cumbereth he the ground?

London Times.

Senator Douglas has recently written a private letter, in which he declares that he is not a candidate for the Presidency. He states that the fight just ended has been one of principle, and of conscience and conviction, that the result has triumphantly vindicated his position in the eyes of his own people, than to represent whom in the confederated councils of sovreignties he has at present no higher ambition. He reiterates his adherence to the Democratic faith and organization, and avows his purpose to support the Charleston nominee. He will take an early occasion in the Senate to define his views which he says have been the subject of much unjust misconstruction.

COMPARATIVE WEALTH OF CITIES.

The wealth of two great centres, Boston and New York, amounts to eight hundred millions of dollars—New York having $525,000,00, and Boston 275,000,000, or a little more than one half that of New York. The property of Boston is $100,000,000 more than that of the city of Philadelphia, and nearly three times that of Baltimore.—It is said that Boston has more property per capita than any other city in the world.

The New York Herald sums up a review of the gold fields of the United States, with the following estimate of our future gold crop: "California gives us a million a week. All the other fields we can safely say with what facts we already have, will give us at least half as much. Our gold crop, therefore, likely to be for years to come, at the rate of a million and a half a week, or seventy-seven millions of dollars per annum—equal to one-half the value of the cotton crop of the country.

☞Attention is invited to the advertisement, in another column of A. R. Harper, Hardware merchant, Rome, Ga. In addition to his large and complete assortment of Hardware, he will be prepared to fill orders for Reaping Machines, and horse power machinery of other descriptions. We advise our friends to provide themselves in time with one of these greatest, and most useful and economical labor-saving inventions of modern times, & not wait until harvest, when they have not time to arrange them properly for a fair experiment. If one man's crop is not large enough to justify the expense, a single machine will do the work of a whole neighborhood.

NEW & WONDERFUL GOLD DISCOVERIES.—Travellers and letter writers from Nebraska Territory, report the most wonderful discoveries of gold in the Chery Creek country of Nebraska. They say, that unlike California, where it is found in "gulches" and "pockets," that in Nebraska, in a region of country five hundred miles in extent, gold can be found all over the face of the country, in such quantities, that an ordinary hand can make from ten to twenty dollars per day. Some who profess to be well acquainted with California and other gold regions, say they have no doubt but the Cherry Creek mines of Nebraska, are the richest upon the face of the whole earth. But we would advise caution on the part of emigrants, until the truth of these reports is fully tested.

Mail Agents on the Ala. & Tenn. R. R. Road.—Mr. J. D. Davis and Mr. J. W. Fullenwider, are at present the Mail Agents on this road, the latter having been appointed in place of Judge Lewis, deceased.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Died at the residence of his father, seven miles north of Jacksonville, on Thursday the 6th inst., in his 20th year, MARION VAN BUREN TURNER, third son of Benj. D. Turner.

The death of this young man was singularly sudden. He had apparently a strong constitution, and muscular strength. On the morning of his death he got up as usual, and nothing remarkable was observed; after breakfast he was engaged in turning out the stock, when he suddenly fell. His father was standing about ten steps from him, and hearing a groan, turned round and saw him falling. He ran up to him, and after he and some other of the family got to him, he only drew two or three short breaths, when the vital spark was gone.

How forcibly does this sudden dispensation bring to our mind that hallowed sentence, "In the midst of life we are in death."

The deceased was a young man of most exemplary moral and industrious habits; a dutiful son, and promised fair to be a useful man.

Adjournment of Congress.

Congress has been guilty of the very foolish act of adjourning ten days for the Christmas holidays. When we reflect that the present session is a short one, with an immense amount of important business, pending for the action of that body, it must be regarded, by every thinking, man, as an unnecessary, and inexcusable waste of time. A much briefer period would have been more consistent with public interests. We are pleased to note that our immediate representative, Mr. Curry, voted against the adjournment.

Talladega Watchtower.

GOOD STOCK.—The receipts of the Alabama and Tennessee Rivers Railroad, for the month of December, amounted to $19,823. Had the Road been in operation to this place, we entertain not a doubt, the amount would have been thirty per cent greater.

Talladega Watch.

The bodies of thirteen men have been taken from the ruins of the sugar refinery which was blown up at St. Louis. Some twenty laborers were employed in the building, not one of whom appears to have escaped sufficiently unharmed to give any coherent account of the catastrophe he experienced.

LARGE BEQUEST.—John Killinger, a German apothecary at Lebanon, Ohio, died a few days ago, leaving it is said, property valued at $750,000, which, by his will, is to be invested and the interest to be devoted to the education of the German Protestants in Ohio.

The Late Disaster.

We copy from the Columbus Sun a full account of the late terrible accident on the Muscogee Railroad:

Not being able to obtain anything like satisfactory or definite information as to the extent of the train disaster which occurred on the Muscogee Railroad, sixteen miles from this city, on Friday morning, we went to the scene of the wreck on Saturday.

The height of the banks of the creek is about 30 feet, the crossing to which is secured by a culvert of stone masonry which has been standing some three years. The only person saved who was in a position to know how the accident happened, was the negro wood-passer. He says nothing appeared to be wrong and the train was moving slowly over the culvert, and that when the engine approached the further bank he felt the works sinking and the engine heading up, about which time he was knocked or thrown off on the upper side, and somehow or other escaped contact with the falling train or works, and swam ashore. The train consisisted of the engine and tender, a box car in which was Pryor's celebrated race horse Moidore, William Newby, Stepney, (a negro trainer belonging to George Lamar, of Augusta,) and Jordan, race rider, belonging to Major Easley, of Cass Co., in charge of the horse; next the baggage car, and last the passenger car. From the width of the creek, we think the engine and tender only, were on the culvert when it fell, and that as the other cars successively approached the precipice they fell on top of the engine and trucks of the tender; and that the passenger car, going over last and falling on the mass, broke the concussion which such a fall would otherwise occasioned, and accounts for those in it not getting seriously hurt. The passenger car, in its decent, broke off the top and spilt its contents in the water; and from the circumstance of its going down the creek a great distance, we think it must have passed over the others to the stream below.

The box car, in which was the horse and his attendants, went entirely to pieces and falling when and as it did, the wonder is how the three persons in it escaped being chrushed to death. The boy was scarcely hurt, the negro man had a large splinter run into his hip & his head slightly injured, and the white man was but slightly hurt. In the baggage and mail car was four negro passengers, conductor Snell, and W. H. Snell, train hand. This car broke in two and one portion now rests on the engine and truck of the tender, about thirty feet below range of the road, and the other portion sets on the bank where stood the abutment of a bridge, which was carried away. None of the negroes in this car were hurt; W. H. Snell was killed, it is supposed, by an injury in the chest; conductor Snell received a severe wound on the nose, and was otherwise bruised. He could not swim, but was floated down the stream some four or five hundred yards, he don't know how, with a heavy overcoat on, and finaly, caught to the limb of a tree, where he remained suspended in the water several hours before he was found and rescued.

To go and view the scene of the wreck, all wonder how so many escaped a violent death; and to none is it a greater mystery than to those who were the actors.

At the time of the sad occurence there was a heavy rain falling, and it was so dark that no object was visible.

Number of persons on the train 30 of which 25 were saved.

Great credit is due to the persons in the immediate neighborhood of the wreck for their vigilent exertions in assisting in rescueing the dead bodies from the creek; and especially to Mr. Wimberly and Messrs. John and Jack Odom, who threw open their houses & gave every attention that could conduce to the comfort of the unfortunate passengers.

What caused the giving away of the culvert, is more, we think, than any one can positively say. The foundations stand on solid rock and of course could not have been undermined; neither is there any sign of water having searched its way behind either wall. The centre of the wall on the west side is gone to near the foundation, while the lower and upper corners stand and the north or upper side of the arch remains unbroken. We came to the conclusion that it was the result of bad masonry in a portion of the arch which the freshet had little to do in destroying

We heard several interesting incidents related of passengers by persons, in the course of their struggles in attempting to rescue themselves from the stream. One passenger, when he discovered something was wrong with the car, laid hold of his carpet bag, in which was his money, a number of valuable papers and clothing, and he held his grasp until he had floated some two hundred yards down the creek, when finding from its accumulated weight that one of two things was inevitable, that either life or his treasure had to go, he let it loose and soon found the shore. When Dr. Philips had secured the grasp of a limb, he heard floating by a voice calling for help, and reaching out his hand, at arms' length he caught the boy Jourdan, and rescued him from a watery grave. Mr. Fickelberg, of Miss., had fifteen hundred in bank bills in a roll in a pocket of his pants, and the pocket pinned up but in the scramble for life in the stream, a naughty limb had to thrust itself into his pocket, ripping it open and discharging its contents into the stream. He also had sixteen hundred dollars in gold belted around his body.

CONTENTMENT.—As for a little more money and a little more time, why its ten to one if either the one or the other would make you a whit happier. If you had more time it would be sure to hang heavily. It is the working man is the happy man. Man was made to be active, and he is never so happy as when he is so. It is the idle man is the miserable man. And, as for money, don't you remember the old saying, "Enough is as good as a feast?" Money never made man happy yet, nor will it. There is nothing in its nature to produce happiness. The more a man has, the more he wants. Instead of its filling a vacuum, it makes one. If it satisfies one want, it doubles and trebles that want another way. That was a true proverb of the wise man, rely upon it—"Better is a little with the fear of the Lord, than great treasures and trouble therewith."—Old Jonathan; or the Parish Helper.

We find the following in The States of the 1st instant:

Vive la Republique.—Long live our government, our liberties, and our laws Here we can shake hands with our rulers, which is more than one could do with Emperors, Kings, or Queens; but who cares for them. Soldiers, sailors and civilians, cravat and crinoline, "the fierce Democracie," in all its glory, & all other orders besides, visited the President to-day in array motley and multitudinous.

Surging onward like an ocean wave, they poured up the steps of the White House, marching between files of officers, to the music of the marine Band. We, too, were in that crowd. We passed through the ante-room, passed into another, where we found Goddard, in all the glory of his uniform of Chief. We saw a fine coal fire burning, we saw some splendid furniture, we saw a picture of Washington, and to his memory we bowed our head: still we were borne onward, until we entered another room, and here we found Old Buck himself, "dressed to kill"

We put our thin, lean fingers in his large white hand. It felt fat and comfortable as Presidents should be, for to be a President is a fat and comfortable thing indeed, and we said, "How do you do, Mr. Buchanan?" and he said something which sounded like "Very well, I thank you;" and then we passed on, but on our way out we noticed a bevy of bright beauties seated on soft chairs looking as smilingly as the bachelor himself, and seeming as if they had designs on his Presidential heart; and then we entered another room, and here, wandering about, was a crowd of all sorts scanning the quarters which the people have assigned their ruler, & then we passed out, but we were stopped by a full rigged crinoline on the muddy coast, but an officer made way for us, and here we are again.

But there was no Monongahela, not a single drop. What a dry thing it is to be a bachelor, to be sure. No matter. We will find it elsewhere, and we will drink as a toast, "The Union now and for evermore."

CONFESSION OF TABLE MOVER.

George P. Pain, the Spiritual Medium, admits that he is a Humbug—The "Razor Strop Man" a Circle—How the Phenomena were Produced.

For a long time Mr. George P. Pain, of Worcester, Mass., has been known a powerful "physical medium," and his achievements in the line of table-moving have converted hundreds of people to Spiritualism, and been an argument in the mouth of its believers. His demonstrations were not in the dark, like those of the Davenport boys, but under a full blaze of gas, or in broad daylight. He has made tables move apparently without human contact, to the comfort of believers, and the confounding of skeptics.

The Worcester Spy, of the 20th of October, contained an account of one of his exhibitions, in which the table was so moved, and Yankle Doodle rapped on it in good style, in time with the whistling of a gentleman present.

From time to time "reliable mediums" saw spirits hovering around Mr. Paine, and he was in a fair way of becoming a lion among the Spiritualists.

Recently Mr. Paine came to this city, mainly for the purpose of convincing Mr. Coles, a former medium, who has recently concluded that physical manifestations are a humbug. For this purpose a circle was held in Mr. Paine's rooms, and Coles, with several others, attended, and were unable to detect any deception. At a second interview, however, he, with Mr. Henry Smith, the "Razor Strop Man," and Mr. Waters, of Worchester, determined to sift the matter to the bottom. Mr. Paine, on being requested to change the position of the table, refused, alleging that it would destroy the "conditions."

At last a small hole in the floor and a rent in the carpet were discovered in close proximity with the table legs.—The three gentleman named proposed to take up the carpet; but Mr. Paine demurred, and requested them to call the next day. Mr. Coles and his associates, however, determined not to yield the point, and gave Mr. Paine clearly to understand that they would not leave the room until they had taken up the carpet.

Mr. Paine finding that he could not stave off an examination, finally acknowledged that the whole thing was a fraud; that he had cheated, not only on this occasion, but from the beginning, his wife and his most intimate friends, as well as his numerous converts, having been the dupes of his premeditated deception.

Mr. Soles stated these facts in the Spiritual Conference on Wednesday evening, in the presence of Mr. Paine; and, after he had concluded, the bogus medium got up, publicly acknowledged the fraud, and defended it on the ground that the end justifies the means. He believed that the great share of the reputed spiritual phenomena is sham, although he was of opinion that some of them are real. He stood commended to his own conscience, and counted it among his treasures in heaven that he had charged nothing, although small presents had from time to time flown into his earthly coffers; his labor had been one of love. He had resorted to deception in order to meet deception, & ultimately expose it.

Having defended his course, Mr. Paine exhibited a piece of No. 2 wire, as the veritable apparatus by which he had moved tables and converted hundreds to Spiritualism.

THE CONDITION OF CHINA.—A correspondent of the Boston Traveller, writing from Shanghai, says:

The war, with little bloodshed and few battles, are utterly broken down the pride and arrogance of the Chinese government, convincing it and the nation of their utter imbecility with the Europeans by sea or by land. So powerless are they, and so concious of it, that, I am credibly informed, when our minister and the Russian met the French and English at Tein-tsing to enter upon negotiations, the Chines Commissioners went to these two ministers and entreated them, almost with tears to intercede with the French and English ministers to lower their conditions, in consideration of the utter poverty and helplessness of the nation! Never will they dare to resort to arms again, and anything may be demanded, in presence of a military force to sustain it.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Parties intimately connected with Mexico, and having a widely extended knowledge of Mexican affairs, are urging upon our government the sending of several vessels of war to Tampico, with positive orders to compel Garza to restore what he has plundered from American citizens, in the same way that he was compelled to make restitution to the Spanish merchants.

Five American vessels have been fired into, detaind and robbed by him, and the cargo of one was ordered to be discharged on the beach, while he was beseiging the city, and was then sent by him into the interior on his own account. The vessel was then made a cover to his launches in an attack on a fort, was perforated with shot holes, and the chief mate's hand shot away. Her commander, Capt. Trevis, was imprisoned for eleven days, and was only released on the arrival of the United States steamer Fulton; but no indemnity was exacted. Strong protests have been made before Mr. Chase, the Consul; but he, of course, has no means of enforcing them, while the want of action on the part of our government renders his official protection of little avail, and his influence daily weaker. The Spanish Consul is now the only strong man in Tampico, and Spanis interests the only ones respected by Gov. Garza.—N. Y. Herald.

Washington, Dec. 27.—It is belived that the Liberals of Mexico will consent to the establishment of military posts in Chihuahua and Sonora, and thus avoid the forcible possession recommended by the President. Forsyth has no intention of surrendering the ministership of Mexico. The overland mail officer at Fort Buchanan reports rich deposits of gld for 150 miles on both sides of the Gila River. 650 men are at work and 500 more are on their way from California. Richer specimens of silver have also been discovered. The prices of Mexican titles to Sonora lands have increased. Other parties have anticipated our government and obtained the right to construct a railroad from Guaymas to the American line. Lieut. Mowry asks of the Govenment the establishment of a military post and the Peinos villages to protect emigrants.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27.—The Jefferson City Examiner says, that on the night of the 15th. Fort Scott was attacked by Montgomery at the head of 200 men. The town was taken and 5 or 6 killed. It is presumed that the object of the attack was to release one of Montgomery's men.

It is feared that the town will be entirely destroyed. The Hambal Mo. Democrat of the 20th says a band of thieves from the Territory entered Vernon county and killed David Cruise, and stole a lot of cattle, 20 horses and 11 negres. Simultaneously two parties under Brown and Montgomery entered Missouri on Little Osage and stole a negress and took Larne prisoner, but released him. An express was sent to the Govenor of Missouri for assistance.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION—SHALL WE RESTORE ORDER IN MEXICO?—The correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune, writing from the City of Mexico, under date of November 24, says that as the United States cannot annex and admit into the Union at present the seven or eight millions of the colored races of Mexico, and, as something must be done to restore peace and order to the country and prevent foreign intervention from Europe, that we send there an American force, afterwards take the natives into our service, like the Sepoys of British India, collect their revenues, set the people to work, and by proper management they may hereafter become fit for annexation at some future time, and useful then to us also, but left to themselves without a new training, they will be a nuisance and an evil to us in time to come, provided other nations are willing to let them alone, which cannot be expected, because their subjects here are constantly applying to them for protection. It would be the establishment of law and order under an American guaranty and protectorate,—a sort of half-way house to the annexation of the whole country, which must ultimately all be ours.

Further about the Susan.

MOBILE, Jan. 1, '59.

The British war steamer Basilisk, Capt. Phayre, arrived in the lower bay to-day, from the Baliza, Honduras, with 119 shipwrecked Americans, who were passengers in the schooner Susan, and who were taken on board on the 26th December, by order of the Governor of the Balize. The Americans were treated in a gentlemanly manner by the officers of the steamer during the trip

The passengers from the wrecked Susan came up in a tow boat, formed a procession, and marched through the streets with the Nicaragua flag hoisted Capt. Maury was called out and made a speech to the crowd gathered to witness the return of their friends who had escaped the perils of shipwreck.

The following communications have been received in this city.

"BALIZE, BRITISH HONDURAS, }
Dec. 20, 1858. }

On the 16th inst., at 3 o'clock in the morning, the schooner Susan, Maury master, from Mobile, was wrecked on Flover's Coral Reef, about 60 miles off the Balize. The vessel is a total loss. No lives were lost. The passengers landed safely on the middle Cay on the 16th inst. The distance from the wreck to the Balize, bearing N. W is 55 miles."

Another letter dated at the same place on the 24th Dec. says:

Capt. Maury having arrived from the wreck of the schooner Susan, endeavored to charter a vessel to convey his passengers to their point of destination. Gov. Seymour of the Balize, tendered the British war steamer Basilisk to convey the passengers to any Southern port in the U. S. There were reports circulated to the prejudice of the passengers by an American captain, but Gov. Seymour said that the ship wrecked-men had violated no British law, and he asked not who they were or where bound, but chose to regard them as ship-wrecked citizens of a nation with whom he desired to cultivate friendly relations, and would gladly and promptly give any assistance needed. Capt. Maury accepted the offer on behalf of the passengers. The steamer leaves to-day to take the passengers from this Island, and they will proceed directly to Mobile.

"The passengers feel grateful to Capt. Maury for his efforts in their behalf, & acquit him of all blame for the wreck of his schooner."

A Owed to Stoeckel.

"Lo! the poor Indian, whose untutored mind"
Proffers tobacco to the passing wind;
See! where he stands at Stoeckel's open door;
O, enter there! if you have not before;
Within you'll see, piled up on either hand,
Cigars, tobacco, snuffs, of every brand;
And there all you who love the fragrant weed,
Can cheaply buy—just one door above Fried.

ANTI-SLAVERY CONVENTION IN PHILADELPHIA.—Last Day.—The Convention was engaged on Friday in the discussion of a series of resolutions offered by Mr. McKim, and a petition to the Pennsylvania Legislature, praying for the passage of a law that no fugitive slave shall be taken from the State. The debate took a wide range, in which the anti slavery principles of the Republican party were questioned by Mr. McKim, and defended by Messrs. Wm. B. Thomas and Wm. S. Pierce, who contended that the Constitution of the United States was anti-slavery, and when the Republican party remodeled the Supreme Court, as they would do, it would be declared, and the abolition of slavery would follow, as it would be unconstitutianal to hold the slaves. They professed attachment to the Union, and denounced the disunion abolitionists. Joseph Barker, Lucretia Mott, Dr. Rolf, (colored,) Robert Purves, (colored,) and W. W. Brown, (colored,) participated. The latter said his father was a slaveholder, and his cousin was the Hon. C. A. Wickliffe, of Kentucky, Postmaster General under President Tyler. Mr. McKim gave an account of the operation of the "underground railroad," which showed that from twelve to thirty fugitives passed over it weekly. Lucretia Mott favored the opening of the public schools to colored children on equal terms with the whites, as in parts of New England and the Oberlin Institute. The discussion was continued until nearly seven o'clk when the Convention adjourned sine die.

THE END OF A PRIZE-FIGHTER.—The following acount is from an eye-witness of the last round fought between Lilly and McCoy, in which the latter was killed:—N. O. Delta.

As time was called at the one hundred and twentieth round, McCoy was lifted from his second's knee, and stood on his feet for the last time. He was led slowly to the mark, and took his position—a dying man—but as erect, as dignified, as game as ever. Lilly rushed in threw him hard, fell with his whole weight upon him and remained upon the dying man until lifted off.—On approaching him, (McCoy.) he was found to be perfectly inanimate, and sank lifeless in his second's arms. Time was called but alas! for him. Poor fellow, he was doomed never to hear sound again, till the challenge of the last trumpet shall pierce the portals of his ears, and summon him with those who did foul murder on him, to a "mark" from which there be no dodging—no escape. He had fought for two hours and forty-three minutes, receiving eighty-one heavy falls, with his antagonist on him, and bleeding, certainly, for two and a half hours.

As soon as he had been decared the victor, Lilly jumped up, slapped his hands with an exclamation of joy, and amid the cheers of his circle, sprang over the ropes of the ring. He was but little marked and not severely hurt. Poor McCoy, on being lifted from the ground, sank as limber as a rag in his second's arms. A cry was made for the Doctor, and a movement in mass took place to give him air. I forced my way into the crowd, and looked at the dying man. God grant I may never see such another sight. He lay upon his back, one bruised, unseemly, bleated mass of incipient corruption, gasping for breath, and word went in a hearse whisper that he was dead.—Never shall I forget the talismanic horror of that expression.

The circles of old and young, the fledging villain and the ruffian steeped in crime, all blanched to ashes, and exchange a look of vague and undefined fear they separated silently and sought their boats. Not a loud or rough expression escaped from the vast assemblage that collected at the landing. Solemnly each man embarked, and silently cast off and bore away. I went in the dead man's boat and sailed back with him, lying stark, corrupt and dead, in the same cabin where he in the morning lay full of life, health, hope, strength and manhood. I leave the moral with the reader.

THE MYSTERY OF THE GOULDY TRAGEDY EXPLAINED.—The New York Christian Intelligencer states that young Gouldy, the murderer and suicide, during last winter's revival, was under strong religious impressions While in an undecided state of mind he was met by old companions and induced to go to a place of revelry, where he met dissolute men and abandoned women, and spent the night in dissipation. This was the end of his religious impressions, and his course was rapidly downward, till it soon ended in madness and the commission of the most unnatural crimes in which his brief career ended. The history is a sad and instructive one.

GREAT FEMALE MEDICINE.

Females who value health should never be without these Pills. It has been admitted by a number of physicians, that females cannot too highly value them. They have given health and spirits to hundreds of females who without them would have been in their graves. They purify the blood, remove obstruction, and give the skin a beautiful, clear, healthy, and interesting appearance. A box of these Pills is a great medical companion at certain periods. From one to three should be taken every day until relief is obtained. A few doses occasionally, when well, will keep the system in a healthy condition.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are sold by all dealers in Medicines.

PRETTY GOOD HUNTING.—One of our citizens, says the Gonzales (Texas) Inquirer, was in a camp hunt a few days since, on the Neuces, in which he helped to kill thirty-six deers, seventy-five turkeys, three leopard cats, two panthers, one bear, and about two hundred partridges, besides hooking as many trout as they could eat, cutting a bee-tree filled with honey, and catching a runaway negro.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27.—The Jefferson City Examiner says that on the night of the 15th inst., Fort Scott was attacked by the notorious Montgomery at the head of two hundred men, who took possession of the town, killing five or six of the inhabitants.

It is presumed the object of the attack was to release one of Montgomery's men from the hands of justice.

It is feared the town will be entirely destroyed.

The Harrisonville Democrat says on the 20th inst., a band of thieves and robbers from the Territory of Kansas entered Vernon county, in the State, and after killing David Cruz, stole a lot of cattle, twenty horses and eleven negroes belonging to him.

Simultaneously, two parties of the same character, headed respectively by Montgomery and Brown, entered Missouri on the Little Osage, stole a number of negroes, and took a man, named Larrie, whom they afterwards released.

An express was immediately sent off to the Governor of Missouri for his assistance in protecting the lives and property of the citizens from the depredations of this band of outlaws which is infesting the frontier of our State and committing robbery and murder in Kansas.

THE NEW CENSUS:—The appointment for members of Congress under the census of 1860, it is stated, will make a great change in the representation of several States, judging from the votes at the recent elections in some of the Western States. Illinois, with nine members of Congress, has given 250,000 votes, while Massachusets, with eleven representatives, gave only 120,000. Wisconsin, with only three representatives, gave a vote within a fraction of that of Massachusets.—Compared with the votes of many other States, the discrepency is still greater.

Perrey Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer possesses virtue, which not only removes pain instantly, but regulates the stomach, gives strength, tone and vigor to the system. It is one of those medicines which is worth more than gold. Sold by druggists generally throughout the United States and Canada.

TO B——.

LOVE ON EARTH AND IN HEAVEN.

——I saw him once again;
'Twas in a joyous throng, & there leaned on
His arm, his young and timid bride.—
Long years had flown since last we met; yet time
Had wrought no change in the polish'd beauty
Of his pale high brow. He was to me the Same bright, glorious one, whom I had
Worship'd in my girlish days—ere time had Stole the roses from my cheek, & dim'd the Lustre of my young and joyous eyes.
No frost of age did gleam amid the hair
Of glossy blackness, whose midnight beauty
Lay in ripling curls upon his beauteous
Brow. But young, and buoyant, as in days
Gone by, he stood, the star and centre of
That bright saloon. The lip—it had the Classic curve of other days; and the voice—
To me, so strangely sweet, spake in the same
Rich tones that wove the mystic spell, and woke
The wild sweet dream of love—
There was a gulf at separation dark
And deep, and dug by fate, which I nor he,
Could ever cross,—and the dove of promise,
Flown from my bosom's ark, hovered on its
Dying wings o'er the wreck of hopeless
Love! In memory's ruined vase, the flowers
Of hope and joy had droop'd & died. And at
The grave of young affection, the sheeted
Ghost did wave the flag of pale dispair.
I could but turn away, to press the eyelids
On my coming tears, and stifle the rising
Shriek that hovered on my pale & quivering
Lips! O! Mortimer! thou art lost to me,
And I to thee! and never more may meet,
Yet in you Heaven, where poverty is
No crime—where the accursed clink of Dollars is not heard—the angels—they will Read the Lottery divine, and then, my
Spirit's mate, shall come to me, and I to Thee; and melting in a long embrace, wilt
Feel the joys we now have lost, and all the
Bliss of love celestial, without the taint
Of Earth.——
Yes! glorious, gifted one; we needs must
Meet again. There is a bridge of brightest
Flowers,—the promises of holy writ—
Woven in one solid woof, which spans the
Gulf of tears o'er time's dark waste of woe;
This we must cross, as Burns and Mary
Did, in olden time; and as the shining
Feet of pale and trooping thousands, whose
Sainted love, unblest on earth, leadeth
Them upward to those cloudless skies, where
Love is not a sin, and congenial souls
Do mingle, ne'er to be wrenched apart by Iron hand of power, and—
——Fools, Nabobs Monkeys & Dandies,
These synonyms—ne'er get to Heaven; all are Lost in this vile category. The Millionaire, and Aristocracy itself,
Cut up by the roots, shall burn to ashes
In the lowest, redest hell!
While the free spirit, soaring like a bird,
Overtakes its mate, to live and love
Forever!!

CRAZY JANE, (or the Lady who cannot love Dandies, or rich fools.

Joy to the World.

DEAR SIR:—I feel that it is a duty I owe to suffering humanity that I should give a relation of the great benefits I have derived from the use of Perry Davis's Pain Killer. Last summer I had the misfortune to lose two of my children by the dreadful scourge—the cholera—and in all human probability should have fallen a victim to the pestilence myself if a kind Providence had not provided me help in the hour of need. I first became acquainted with the Pain Killer whilst traveling on the river with husband. A gentleman passenger had some with him which he recommended in the highest terms as a remedy for cholera. I thought no more of it at the time, but the same night I was attacked by the cholera in the worst form. I resorted to various remedies used to arrest its progress, but all in vain. I was seized with violent cramps, and my discharges began to assume the same character as did those of my dear children previous to their death. I was looked upon as lost, but all at once thought of the PAIN KILLER. My husband obtained the bottle from a fellow passenger and administered to me a dose. I experienced almost immediately a cessation of pain. The dose was repeated at intervals of fifteen minutes, four or five times, and the result was my complete recovery. I feel confident that owe my life to the Pain Killer, and only regret that I had not have known of its extraordinary virtues earlier, I then might have saved the lives of my dear children.—Since that time I have used the Pain Killer in my family extensively, and the more I use it the better I like it. As a great family medicine, it has no equal.

Dec. 2 1858—1y. Rome Ga.

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above Institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research and post mortem by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case. Inhaling Vapors, Medicated Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows: $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicines, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N. Y.

P. S. Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

THE LIVER

INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS, IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body; and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are almost entirely dependent on fault, the bowels are the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when stomach is at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the LIVER—having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of the last one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

These Gums remove all bad matter from the system, and in their place a healthy action of the stomach is established; digestion is made well, purifying the blood, and health to the whole machine is restored by removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and what is better, prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose often relieves Sick Headache.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach & prevent the food from rising & souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.

Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowels gently, and cures Costiveness.

One dose taken after each meal will cure Dyspepsia

☞ One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.

☞ Only one bottle is needed to throw out of the system the effects of medicine after a long sickness.

☞ One bottle taken for Jaundice removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite, and makes food digest well.

One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhœa in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.

One or two doses cures attacks caused by Worms in Children: there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails.

☞ A few bottles cures Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever & Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious TYPE. It operates with certainty, & thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

ALL WHO USE IT ARE GIVING THEIR UNANIMOUS TESTIMONY IN ITS FAVOR.

MIX WATER IN THE MOUTH WITH THE INVIGORATOR, AND SWALLOW BOTH TOGETHER.

The Liver Invigorator

IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even to first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

DR. MORSE'S

INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a Plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and unclog the passage to the lungs, and thus, in a soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity or humours cannot pass by the sweets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become united with the blood, for they add way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system or they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out once, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to themselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness, pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

AYER'S Cathartic Pills,

(SUGAR COATED,)

ARE MADE TO

PURIFY THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and Judge of their Virtues.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER, Sir: I have been repeatedly cured by the most terrible pain my body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE.
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D. C., 7 Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regular action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of the system. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disorder in which they did not readily yield to them.

Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 16, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Was finally induced to try your Pills, which soon cured her of a distressing large quantities of worms (dead) from her stomach. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while the doctors around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. SPENCHAM, M. D.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother had been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and it is her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Howkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church

PLANTERS HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 1856.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief you shall have brought me if I did not report my case to you. I was confined in my limbs and enought on excruciating, muscular pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet are communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed by infants and young persons. Parents should protect it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Pectoral saves more lives by the consumptives it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable fever that fastened on the vitals, cuts your life away or leaves a hopeless wreck of shattered constitution. When you commence a course of this remedy, we need not direct you to persevere, no cure, no fee, till it produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

POETRY.

"It is the gift of Poetry to bring every place in which it moves to breathe round Nature an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose, and to shed over it a tint more magical than the blush of morning."

"Blizzard," a Californian relates the following in an epistle in which he endeavors to prove—and does—that anybody can write poetry:

A Kiss, and its Consequences.

Said I, "my pretty miss,
"Let me have a little kiss,"
And I revelled in the bliss,
Rich and mellow;
"Just help yourself to more,"
Said she, tripping o'er the floor,
And backing toward the door
Of the cellar.

I never saw the trap
Till I fell through, kerslap,
And you should have seen me drop
Through the hole;
Full twenty feet I fell—
How I struck I cannot tell—
But I sent up such a yell
On my soul
That the girl thought I was dying,
And at once set up a crying
For the old man, who was trying,
Not far off,
To mend a broken pump,
Cleaved a sled, and tumbled plump
In a trough!

But what has this to do
With the story, which is true
As the gospel, old or new?
With a hop,
He came up; enquired the matter,
"Whence—the screaming, and the clatter?"
He had a half a mind to rap her
On the top
Of her head. She meekly pointed
Down the steps where I, disjointed,
Lay; with grease and mud anointed,
On the floor.
"Blizzard" up those stairs was carried;
Quite a month there Blizzard tarried—
In two months was Blizzard married
Nothing more!

The Beam of Devotion.

BY GEO. P MORRIS.

I never could find a good reason
Why sorrow unbidden should stay,
And all the bright joys of life's season
Be driven unheeded away,
Our care would make no more emotion,
Were we to our lot but resigned,
Than pebbles thrown into the ocean,
That leave scarce a ripple behind.

The worldhas a spirit of beauty,
Which looks upon all for the best—
And, while it discharges its duty,
To providence leaves all the rest;
That spirit's the beam of devotion,
Which lights us through life to its close,
And sets like the sun in the ocean,
More beautiful far than it rose.

My Little Daughter—Sleeping.

BY C. D. STUART.

Soft be thy pillow, my darling,
That bears thee in slumber to-night
Sweet be thy dreams, till the morning
Wakes thee to fairer delight;
My precious, my innocent darling,
My loving, my beautiful one,
God keep thee from sickness and sorrow
Till life's little journey is done.

What were the light of the morrow,
If thou shouldst not waken again—
What but a cloud and a tempest,
And sadness, and anguish and pain?
The curls on thy brow are our sunshine;
The light of thine eye is our joy;
The smile on thy lip brings us gladness
And pleasure unmixed with alloy.

Surely the angels my darling,
Will watch thee in waking and sleep;
And God, in his infinite goodness,
The way of thy footsteps will keep:
Tenderly, lovingly bending,
Shield her, good angels, to-night;
Sweet be her slumber, till morning
Wakes her to dearer delight.

Miscellaneous.

JENNY JENKINS.

BY S. C. JR.

John Lapham kept one of the best stores in the town, and it was natural that Arlington should make his acquaintance. In fact, this was about the first acquaintance he did make, and it soon ripened into a warm friendship. The tastes of the two men were congenial, and they had many likes and many dislikes in common. The first act of Lapham's which had drawn Arlington's attention was his flat refusal to taste a glass of wine.

"Don't you ever use it?" asked George.

"Never," was the reply of the young merchant. "I promised my mother, upon her death bed, that I would not, and I never will."

Arlington extended his hand, and with a warm, friendly grasp he responded—

"I stand just there. I made the same promise to my God when I was a boy, and I have kept it to this day."

And from that hour their friendship was sealed.

"John," said Arlington, as the two were together one day, "they tell me that you are making love to a little fairy who lives with Mrs. Bolton. How is it?"

"Are you poking fun at me?" asked Lapham.

"Upon my soul I am not. And I'll tell you why. They tell me she is a mere servant there, and as penniless an orphan to boot. Now I know you well enough to know that no power on earth could induce you to harm such a creature, so, if you really mean what you do it from love, and from a love which must be pure and noble—"

"Thank you, George," replied the other, warmly. "I do love the poor orphan, and I mean to make her my wife, though I must confess your suspicions as you will soon see, the mistress of it shall be satisfied."

"Umph" muttered Arlington with a shrug of the shoulders. "We won't talk of Miss Bolton now. Yet, allow me to say that I think her a very fine girl, but I would know her better before I commit myself. And in the meantime I would see your little Jenny. I caught a glimpse of her sweet face as she passed through the hall last evening, and it interested me. Don't be jealous, man, for I assure you I will give you fair warning if I mean to make love to her. But she did interest me. I have seen some one, at some time, somewhere, whom she resembles, and the resemblance touches a cord near my heart. I must see her again."

"Don't let Isadore know that you seek the acquaintance," said Lapham, with a smile.

"Ah—is she apt to be—"

"Tut—I meant nothing. Can't you take a joke."

"You spoke not like one in senseless jest," returned Arlington, somewhat soberly. "But I won't question you—Ah," he added, looking at his watch, "it is past eight. I promised to be at Mrs. Bolton's at that hour. Your fairy must be beautiful indeed if she can draw me from my allegiance to her lovely mistress; but you must be surprised at nothing."

With a laugh he went away, and if Lapham allowed a fear to cross his mind, it was quickly banished when he remembered how honorable his friend had thus far proved himself.

Isadore was expecting her visitor, and she was prepared to do her utmost to captive him. She met him with one of her sweetest smiles, and at the end of an hour he was completely entranced. So carried away was he by the arts of the beautiful schemer, that he might have spoken that magic word which would have committed him to the fate laid out for him, had not a circumstance happened to turn the tide. Arlington held one of Isadore's hands in his own, and was upon the point of saying something very tender, when the door was unceremoniously opened, and Jenny Jenkins entered the apartment. Isadore was completely thrown from her guard by this unexpected visitation, and allowed her passion to gain the mastery over her.

"What now?" she cried, starting to an upright position, and gazing upon the intruder with a flashing eye. "How dare you come in here unbidden!"

"Excuse me, Miss Isadore," murmured the poor girl, trembling with apprehension. "Your mother sent for me, & I thought she was in here."

"You thought no such thing!" retorted the angry belle. "You knew we were here."

"Indeed——"

"There! I want no more words.—Leave the room!"

Jenny cast a look, half of pity, and of astonishment, upon the imperious maiden, and then turned away.

For awhile after the gentle orphan had gone there was a cloud between the pair which neither seemed inclined to remove. Isadore did all in her power to bring him out again, but she could not succeed and at the end of half an hour he took his leave. He promised to call again, but Isadore saw very plainly that the string was broken, and that a new effort would have to be made. She retired in an angry mood, and passed a sleepless, unhappy night.

On the next day Jenny Jenkins was summoned to the presence of Mrs. Bolton, and informed that her services would, for the future, be dispensed with. Isadore had just commenced a torrent of abuse, and was lashing herself into a furious passion, when a servant appeared and announced that Mr. Arlington was below. She calmed herself as quickly as possible, and hurried away to her dressing room, while Jenny slipped out into the passage.

"It's you the gentleman wishes to see," said the chambermaid, who had just come up.

"He?" whispered Jenny.

"Yes. He wants to see you right away."

The poor orphan had seen the handsome face of the visitor, and she had dreamed strange dreams over it; and now, without knowing the import of the sudden impulse that seized her, she hurried down to the parlor. On entering the drawing-rooms she found Mr. Arlington trembled from head to foot.

"Miss Jenkins," said the young man, "pardon me for this seeming intrusion, but I have come from a long way off, I expect; and she probably has good cause for keeping her parentage a secret. At all events, she cannot be induced to say anything upon the subject. However, we do not allow her shame to stand in the way of our giving her a home."

"Shame, did you say?"

"It may be inherited, you know. I meant, only, that she must be ashamed of her early life."

"Ah—yes—I see," said Arlington; and then he fell to thinking once more.

Jacksonville Republican.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

January, 29, 1859.

☞Mr. F. H. GOODWIN, is our authorized Agent, to receive and receipt for subscriptions to the Republican, contract and receipt for advertising, &c.

Our friends and patrons will confer a favor upon us, which will be gratefully appreciated, by affording him every facilityi n their power, in the transaction of business.

Cuba.—The Louisville Courier, in an article on the acquisition of Cuba, says that it is more than the key of the Gulf, that it is the janitor of that isthmus, which will soon be the portal of a commerce, outstripping the present commerce of the world. That the entire exports of cotton and other products of the south and west through that channel are not less than $800,000,000 annually; and that all that commerce, in case of war is at the mercy of Spanish cruisers—that it is due to our honor and safely that Cuba be obtained—peaceably if we can, forcibly if we must. "If Congress does its duty and negotiations fail, WAR! Let it come. We promise for Kentucky, in such a case, her volunteers will equal their ancestral renown, and achieve again a glory which will make her famous throughout Christendom, and her name a word of warning in the halls of the Escurial."

☞The Selma Reporter makes honorable mention of a Mr. Moore, who has been a constant and regular paying subscriber, since the issue of the first paper in that city, some 26 years; he had also taken the tri-weekly and daily Reporter. We believe we could venture to vote for that man for Governor, if he were a candidate, without further enquiry. His having been a paying subscriber to, and reader of a newspaper 26 years, would be a sufficient proof of his integrity, constancy and intelligence.

We believe we have some on our list, who have been there more than 20 years, paying up regularly, or at least every few years. But there are here, as we presume there are everywhere else, some men, who, when seized with a fit of economy, begin retrenchment where they ought to end—that is, by stopping their newspaper. These are wiseacres who have found out at last, that they can make a fortune rapidly, by groping in the dark at two dollars a year!!!

"HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE." We have been informed from a reliable source, that MAJ. WALKER REYNOLDS of Talladega County, one of the Directers of the Ala. & Tenn. R. R. Road, and one of the first and most energetic and persevering friends of that great enterprise, recently repaired the road, above to the head of the track, with his own hands. During the recent spell of extremely wet weather and bad roads, when part of the road from Talladega to Alpine had become almost impassable, and if left alone would have forced the cotton in some other direction, Maj Reynolds took a number of hands out of his own farm and kept them employed near a month in making repairs on the worst portions of the road. Such an act should inspire every citizen of Talladega County, and friend of this enterprise elsewhere, with increased energy and public spirit; and is far more worthy of praise and commendation than that of the man who leaves his thousands to rear marble walls of high sounding institutions. The one is an act of real benificence to the living, strugling age; while the other is often little else than a costly monument of the vanity of the wish, merely to perpetuate the memory of a name.

If we had a sufficient number of such Citizens as Walker Reynolds, how long would it take us to cover our beloved and noble Srate, with a complete network of Railroads?.

☞Our acknowledgements are due, and most cordially tendered to the enterprising and accommodating publishers of the Daily Advertiser and Confederation at Montgomery, and Daily Reporter, Selma. To these neat and interesting sheets we are indebted for much of the latest and most important intelligence we publish.

We heartily recommend the daily and weekly papers published at these points to the patronage of our up country friends—they will find them much more valuable and interesting than northern papers.

Jacksonville on the most Direct Route from New Orleans to New York.

It will be seen by reference to the proceedings of a meeting recently held in Talladega, that $32,000 have been provided to extend the Selma road to that place and, that active measures have been taken to procure the remaining $18,000 required.

It is now confidently believed that the road will be finished to Talladega by the 1st day of April next, and also the connection direct from Chattanooga to the East Tennessee Road. After that time, by a careful calculation and comparison, this will have the advantage, over all other routes, from New Orleans to New York, of 12 hours in time and $9 in fare. The excellent daily stage lines of Mr. Powel from Talladega to this place, and of Messrs. Divine and Kennedy from here to Chattanooga, renders this route now, to travellers, almost equal to a continuous railroad line. But the railroad lines above and below will be pressed on to completion, continually shortening the gap and rendering the advantages of this route, in time and economy, still more important and manifest.

We say to our friends of Talladega—hurry on and finish the road to your Town—we are itching for the fun of snatching it away from you.

Ladies Home Magazine.

The February number of this beautiful, chaste, elegantly embellished and justly popular Magazine, Edited by T. S. Arthur and Virginia F. Townsend, has already come to hand. It is published at $2 per annum in advance, but we now propose to our friends, if they desire, to furnish both the Ladies Magazine and Republican far $3 50 ₱ annum in advance.

ACCIDENTS FROM FIRE.—We notice this winter, thus far, an unusual number of cases reported of accidental death from burning of clothes; and doubtless many have occured, not reported in the papers. The mode of dress may have something to do with this, as the winter has been unusually mild. Until the fashion changes, more woollen clothing and increased caution should be resorted to.

New Cotton Cultivator.

Mr. A. Smith, has patented a Cotton Cultivator, the utility of which has been very highly spoken of by those who are acquainted with such things.

Mr. S., advertises patent rights for Counties and States for sale in this paper, and we learn from him that he intends to have a number manufactured in this place for use by individuals.

For further particulars of the nature and uses of the invention, and certificate of its utility, see advertisement in another column.

Jacksonville Female Academy.

The attention of the friends and patrons of this institution is invited to the advertisement of the commencement of the Spring session of that institution on Monday the 14th of February next; and particularly to the importance of attendance on the first day of the session.

"THE FAMILY JOURNAL."—This is the name of a new literary weekly paper, recently started in the city of Baltimore, Md. The size, style of print, engravings &c. are very similar to those of the New York Ledger; but the character of its literary articles, we believe to be far more elevated & instructive. As a southern literary Journal, it has strong and well-founded claims on Southern patronage, which we hope it will receive. It is published at $2 per annum, payable in advance. Address, Williams & Moore, No. 6, N. Gay st. Baltimore, Md.

Ladies American Magizine.

We have received the first number of this truly magnificent work, devoted to Literature, Fashion, Amusement, and Instruction. It contains several beautiful Colored Steel Engravings, and Colored Steel Fashions, besides other engravings and handsome patterns for Crochet and Needlework. The contents of this number are very interesting, and among its contributors, are some of the most popular story writers of the day. Price, one copy one year $2. Two copies one year, $3. Address Henry White, 7 Beekman st. New York.

We thank our correspondent for the following rules; so sensible, timely and true; and hope they will be generally adopted by teachers, who are not already governed by them, or others equally as good. We hope to receive frequent contributions from his pen.

AN EX OFICIO TEACHER.

For the Jacksonville Republican.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said,
This is my own, my native land."

Such was the impassioned utterance of Scotland's most illustrious bard. If he, subjected to a tyrant's rule, could be animated by burning patriotism, how much dearer to every American heart, should be his home, his country, and his native land. We are a people blessed with the plivilege of choosing those who rule over us—a people over whom the Goddess of Liberty has spread her protecting wings—a people permitted to worship under our own vine and fig tree, where none dare molest or make us afraid: in fine, a people who, if we have not become what Rome once was, the mistress of the world, at least occupy a front rank among the nations of the earth, and lead the van in agriculture, commerce, manufactures, internal improvements, and every thing that tends to the prosperity, peace, harmony, happiness of the world. Nor is it vain boasting to speak of the liberties & blessings we enjoy. Go to the faithful pages of history, and learn, from the origin, progress and triumphs of the American Republic, the reasons which inspire our heart with the sentiment of the poet, and prepare our tongues to give utterance to the soul-stirring thought: this is my own my native land.

It is impossible to allude to the origin of our Country, without recurring with pleasurable emotions to the far-seeing penetration, indomitable will and persevering efforts of a man, as extraordinary says history, as was the discovery which he made. We are told that he possessed all those energetic impulses of the will, which lead to high achievement; and with these he combined judgment the most grave and solid—prudence and patience the most steady and unoffending—piety the most devout—and what ensured his success, the most untiring perseverance ever manifested by man. And perhaps it would not be exagerating to say, that that being never existed whose heart was filled with more intrepid boldness than that of Columbus. How strong the resolution must have been, to have enabled Columbus to leave the Spanish shore, and brave the perils of an unknown deep, to tear himself from home, kindred and friends, that he might demonstrate to the world, the truth of that philosophy which declared the earth was round, and that an undiscovered land lay beyond the limits of the pathless deep. In my imagination I see him as he leaves the shores of Europe, and with the bold tread of a conqueror, step upon the deck of the frail bark which is to bear him upon his uncertain mission! In my imagination, while on their voyage, when the storm raged & the grand power of an angry ocean seemed to threaten inevitable destruction to the little fleet, I see this same bold, intrepid man consoling his companions, and calming the minds of an enraged, hostile and rebellious crew. And at last, when the hear of triumph came—when the hitherto pathless ocean had been crossed, and dim lights shone far ahead on the land; methinks I see the same bold confident bearing, which always attended him, in success or defeat, in freedom or in chains. HOME RECOLLECTIONS.

How I love to sit these beautiful moonlight nights, and think of home. It is a quiet pleasant little place in the country; and at such hours as this, I only heard a small creaking noise, made by the constant moving of my mother's old familiar easy chair, or perhaps the low quivering voice of my father. Yes he is old, hymning some well remembered song of his early days, or else my sister, or my brother would read from some favorite book, the rich sentiments of enlightened sages, or may be 'twould be a poem of the vein of which my soul drank deeply; and even now, I can hear, as it were, the same sweet sounds reverberating in the silent chambers of my sad heart.

How well do I remember the sweet yet positive reproving glance of my dear old father. A man of few words was he, but they were words of momentous importance, and all felt their weight. Then there was the tender, gentle voice of my mother, either to check my waywardness, or mark some prudent course for my inexperienced feet to tread. Ah! how little did I then think it so much worth the parent's while to spend so much time in lecturing as I then termed it: but now I know: now it is that those warnings and reprimands are appreciated. Yes I am again sitting near my mother, hearing the accents of her earnest voice, falling on not an impatient, indifferent ear; but how I even now forget all else, and remember every syllable: and oh, how I wish it a reality; how I long to be little again, and lean my head on that precious bosom, while the scene would live again. Then when my mother let me go—to bound into the open woods with my dear little sister, as I used to do, and gather some flowers to present queen Ma, for thus we called her in our childish sport. I am a woman now, though I confess I love not the title, and all those joyful childhood hours forever flown; still I will love them—never will I, while memory lives, forget the home of my childhood. ### Railroads in Alabama.

We observe that the friends of the much talked of Central Railroad, about Montgomery and in some other parts of the interior, manifest by acts as well as words a determinition to make the effort to build it. We have exyressed the opinion that it is impractable to construct a railroad from Montgomery to Decatur at this time, without aid from the State, and that such aid cannot be obtained, and, in this particular instance, ought not to be granted.

If, however, the friends of this road are willing to incur the risk of failure in an attempt to build it without State aid, we shall heartily wish them success. The Alabama and Tenn Rivers Railroad is at present the work of first importance to the State, because it can be completed long before any considerable portion of the other road can be got in running order. Therefore it would be unwise to divert any part of the means for constructing the former to aid the latter, and especially to withhold the fund which was designed to connect the navigable waters of the Mobile Bay with the Tennessee river from a railroad so nearly completed, to bestow it upon one which it may prove wholly impracticable to build under a great many years.

The friends of the central route, according to the Montgomery Mail, do not ask aid from the State. Very well; we hope they will not askir, at least until the road from Selma to the Tennessee river shall have been finished. If, after the completion of that road, the public mind can be satisfied by the progress made in building the Central of its practability, then a moderate amount of assistance from the State may be asked for with possibly some prospect of obtaining it.

It cannot be denied that sech a road as that proposed from Montgomery to Decatur is desirable, and would develope a vast amount of mineral wealth which, without it, must be dormant; besides, uniting more closely and directly than the Selma and Tennessee Road will do, the northern and southern portions of the State, and constituting a part of the great thoroughfare connecting the Gulf with the States that lie north of Alabama. This road is necessary and important, but not indispensable, and with the Alabama and Tennesee Rivers Railroad completed, we can afford to wait for it.

As to the particular interests of Mobile, we hold that she should immediately build her Great Northern Railroad, connecting with the "Selma and Gulf," the "Montgomery and Pensacola," and the "Mobile and Girard" Railroads. This done, her interests will be secured; she will receive all the trade she is entitled to, which no doubt will be abundant. Every road connecting with her, in proportion as it increases the wealth and commerce of the State, is sure to benefit Mobile. Her interest and the interest of the State are indentical.

There is really no occasion for any jealousy among the friends of different roads; but a catholic spirit ought to prevail. Alabama has been backward in works of internal improvement; and now, when a more prosperous era has commenced, let no unnecessary stife clog the wheels of progress.

Great Fire in Memphis.

Our Memphis exchanges report a conflagration more extensive than any recorded in that city for some years.

The Eagle and Enquirer of Thursday morning says:

Early yesterday morning our city was thrown into intense excitement by the occurrence of one of the most extensive and fearful conflagrations with which it has ever been visited, involving not only an immense destruction of property, but of human life. Nearly the whole square, from Adams to Washington-streets, on Front Row, is one complete mass of ruins. Amidst the confusion and excitement which such a scene of disaster produces, it is quite impossible to determine with accuracy to what extent losses are sustained, and the whole number of those on whom they fall.

The fire is supposed to have originated in a bowling saloon, kept by W. J. Whitsitt, which was nearly in the centre of the square, and is thought to be the work of an incendiary. Some however, say that it originated in an adjoining house, kept by an Irishman as a boarding house. It was about four o'clock yesterday morning when first discovered by Mr. Teufel, who was one of the first who gave the alarm of fire, at which time the wind was blowing from S. W. to N. E., but soon changed from S. to N., causing the flames to spread through the square with astonishing rapidity. Nearly a quarter of an hour had elapsed from the time the alarm was given before the Fire Companies arrived, and, owing to the difficulty of getting water, and the strong wind that was blowing at the time, the flames soon made such headway, that all efforts to subdue them were unavailing. About fifteen buildings were destroyed, most of which were brick, and three story houses.

The Memphis Bulletin says:

The greatest losers by this fire are Messrs. Forsyth, Jameson & Co., wholesale grocers, who occupied the store on the corner of the alley between Washington and Adam-streets. They had in store a large and valuable stock of goods valued at $40,000, all of which was destroyed. They had insurance on their stock of goods to the amount of $20,00. Mr. Jameson, a member af the firm, lost, in jewelry and valuable papers, about 2000 in addition to the above, on which he had no insurance. The building occupied by Mesrs Forsyth, Jameson & Co., was owned by John M. Lea, Esq., of Nashville, and we presume was insured.

Messrs. J. W. L. Sturgis & Son, grocers, were the next greatest sufferers, their loss amounting to near $8000, on which they had insurance to the amount of $3000.

After a list of names of sufferers the Bulletin adds:

The district burned was, perhaps, the most densely pupulated in the city, and by this sad visitation many poor families have been left without homes. This fire has accasioned, perhaps, more real distress than any former one which ever occurred in Memphis.

A STRANGE DEATH SHOT.—The Paris correspondent of the Philadelphia North America, in his letter of December 2, notes the shocking fate of the gallant Gen. Ardent, who, after commanding the artillery through the Crimean war, has just met his death by a singular accident at Vincennes.—In company with Marshall Vaillant, the Minister of War, and a large number of general officers, he was watching the effects of the explosion of bombs from a block-house erected for that purpose. A very small opening of less than an inch wide was left for the purpose of observation, and the officers took their places at this alternately.—Scarcely had Gen. Ardant placed himself before it when a bomb exploded, and a fragment, passing through the aperture, struck him on the forehead with such force as literally to scatter his brains on his brother officers around. Thus died, in the midst of friends and peace, by an almost inconcievable hazard, a gallant soldier, who had passed unscathed through a hundred combats.

Thirty-Fifth Congress 2d Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, January 12, 1859.—A message was received from the President in answer to a resolution of the Senate, calling for information in regard to the landing of a cargo of slaves in Georgia from the Wanderer. The President communicates to the Senate the report of the Attorney General, to whom the resolution was referred, which states "that at this stage of the proceedings it would, in my opinion, be incompatible with the public interest to communicate the steps which have been taken therein. The fact that a vessel of that name did land a cargo of upwards of three hundred negroes from the coast of Africa in Georgia is well known, and there is official information to that effect. It is also true that the most effective measures have been adopted by this government and by the local authorities of the United States in Georgia to execute the laws which forbid such importation and to punish the offenders. The correspondence of this office and of the Treasury Department with the collector, district attorney, special counsel, marshal, and other officers at Savannah, is in my possession. It proves the general fact above stated; but I am sure that neither you nor the Senate would be willing at this moment to have it published to the world."

Mr. Hale, of New Hampshire, from the naval committee, reported a joint resolution authorizing the President to confer upon Capt. Charles Stewart, of the U. S. Navy, in recognition of his distinguished and meritorious services, the commission of senior flag officer of the navy, on the active list.

On motion of Mr. Mason, of Virginia the Senate proceeded to the consideration of the bill to equalize the compensation of the ministers of the United States to France and England, during the period therein mentioned. After some debate the bill was rejected by yeas 9, nays 38.

The Pacific railroad bill was taken up, the question being on Mr. Iverson's motion to recommit, with instructions to report a bill for a Northern and Southern route.

Mr. Doolittle moved to amend by adding "a central route." Agreed as follows:

Yeas 35. Nays 14.

The motion to recommit was lost by yeas 25, nays 32.

Mr. Houston, of Texas, advocated the Southern route, and replied to the remarks of Mr. Iverson in reference to a dissolution of the Union, denying that the sentiment of the South was as represented by the Senator from Georgia. He characterized the views offered by Mr. Iverson, as little short of treason.

Mr. Iverson, of Georgia, replied to the remarks of Mr. Houston, who, he said, had read him a lecture. He was not opposed to the Union if administered in accordance with the constitution and with equal justice to all sections but a Union administered by abolition ists he would trample upon as the veri est reptile. Such a Union might suit the Senator from Texas, as his antecedents indicated, but would suit no true Southern man. His eager desire for the Presidency had rendered the Senator indefferent to the rights of his section, and his own State had repudiated him for it, a result which he heartily approved. The Senator, therefore, had no right to speak for Texas, for she cast him off. Mr. I. defended the views expressed in his late speech at some length.

Mr. Houston rose to reply, but yielded to a motion to adjourn, which was carried.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. Stephens, of Ga., asked leave to introduce the bill for the admission of Oregon, to which Mr. Morgan, of N., Y. objected.

The naval appropriation bill was taken up, and considered.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE

AFRICA.

NEW YORK, January 9.—The Royal Mail Steam Shhip Africa, Captain SHANNON, the Cunard line, with Liverpool dates to the 25th December, has arrived.

General Intelligence.

The steam ship Arrago arrived out on the 23d.

The ship Isaac Wright, bound to New York, and having 300 passengers on board, was burned in the River Mersey, but no lives were lost. All the passengers were reseued. Her cargo consisted of fine goods and 1000 tons iron. She was burnt at night, and run aground and scuttled.

The Times, in speaking of the President's Message, considers it very remarkable that the United States should have casus belli with almost every State in South America at the present time.

In France the result of the MONTALEMBERT appeal is considered a triumph over the Government.

The last India and China mails bring nothing very importat. The Chinese negotiations for a tariff had been concluded. At canton exchange was advancing and business checked by the high prices asked for Texas.

Commercial Intelligence.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET, Dec. 25.—The sales of the week ending Friday, the 25th, were 46,000 bales, of which speculators took 3500 and exporters 4500 bales. The market in the early part of the week opened buoyantly, but the steamer from America caused a decline of a sixteenth to an eighth, particularly on Uplands and Mobiles.

LIVERPOOL GENERAL MARKETS, Dec. 25.—Flour is dull, and prices are nominal. Wheat is quiet but firm.—Corn is dull; no regular market since Tuesday Beef is heavy, and holders are pressing sales.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—In the House, yesterday, the Hon. Wm. Barksdale, of Mississippi, introduced a resolution, which was agreed to, calling upon the President for information in regard to the position that France and England occupy in regard to the island of Cuba.

In the Senate, to-day, the committee on foreign relations reported a bill empowering the President to use the army and navy against Mexico and Central America, in defence of the rights of citizens of the United States. The bill was referred.

Washington, January 10.—In the Senate, Mr. IVERSON introduced a Bill for the abolition of the franking privilege. The French Spoliations Bill passed by a vote of 26 to 29.

In the House the President's Message was debated, and a few unimportant Indian appropriations passed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—In the Senate to day, Mr. Houston replied to Mr. Iverson's speech made on yesterday. Mr. Iverson made a generous apology for supposed personal reflections. The Pacific railway bill was debated until the Senate went into executive session.

More Treasure.

New Orleans, January 8.—The Quaker City brought one hundred and twenty passengers. She was detained at Coalzacoalcos by severe northers.—The steam ship J. L. Stephens, from San Francisco, December 20, has nearly two millions of dollars for New York, nine-two thousand for New Orleans and seven hundred and thirty-five thousand for England.

Later from New Mexico.

ST. LOUIS, January 6.—The mail from New Mexico, of the 20th December, brings the intelligence that the Navajoes are peacefully disposed—Nothing has been heard from the mail party that left Neosho City on the fifteenth of October for Albuquerque.

Later from California.

NEW ORLEANS, January 8.—The steam ship Quaker City, Capt. SHUFELDT, has arrived here from Minatitlan, Mexico, 2nd instant, with the San Francisco mails of the 20th, December. The news from California is unimportant. Dates from the city of Mexico to the 29th state that ZULOAGA had been deposed by forces under command of Gen. ROMBLES, and that he had taken refuge with the English Minister. ROMBLES annnounces himself as the head of the Conservative party, and has sent commissioners to Vera Cruz to treat with the Liberals.

The Reporter Hoaxed.

Mobile, December 7.—The reported arrival from Runtan, announcing the landing of the passengers of the Susan at a port in Honduras, was a deception practiced on the reporter here.

Savannah Cotton Market.

Savannah, January 10.—Sales have been light to-day and prices feeble.

Augusta Cotton Market.

AUGUSTA, January 10.—The market is drooping and the sales have been small.

New Orleans Market.

New Orleans, January 7.—Cotton. Sales of day 8500 bales, at unchanged prices. Middling 11⅛@11¼c. Sales for the week 56,000 bales last year.—The increase at this port is 208,000 bales. The exports the past week were 21,000 bales, and the total exports are 923,500 bales. The stock is 428,000 bales. Flour continues steady, and Coffee firm. Other articles are unchanged.

NEW ORLEANS, January 8.—Sales of 5500 bales. The market is unchanged.

Late from Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.

The steamship Tennessee, from Vera Cruz, is below, with advices from the city of Mexico to the 6th inst.

Gen Echeagaray issued his proclamation on the 20th of December, at Ayotla, and declared himself President of the Republic. This movement was not seconded at the Capitol, and the troops pronounced in favor of Mr. Robles, (who, by the way, was last year the Mexican Minister to the United States.)

On the 23d of December, Mr. Robles published a plan providing for the government of Mexico, and recommended that three delegates be appointed from each State in Mexico, and meet at some central point and organize a junta.

The populace and troops have abandoned Zuloaga, and he has retired to the quarters of the English legation.

The convention of delegates had met, and the Junta, by a vote of eighty in favor of Miramon, and forty-four for Robles, proclaimed Miramon President.

Mr. Robles will remain in control of the government until the arrival of Miramon, who was reported to be at Guadalajara, at the head of one thousand cavalry.

Dates from Vera Cruz to the 9th instant, are at hand. The Juarez government remains firm. The Liberals had taken Jalapa and Cordova, & were attacking Orizaba.

ARRIVAL OF THE

NIAGERA.

MARKET STEADY.

Breadstuffs Advancing.

HALIFAX, Jan. 13th 1859.

The steamship Niagara has arrived. Sales for the week 55,000 bales.

The market opened declining, but closed steady.

Middling Orleans 7.
Breadstuffs advancing.
Consols 96¾.

Fire in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 9.

A very destructive fire occurred here to-day. Chisolm's Rice Mill and large wharehouse at the West end of the city, with about 80,00 bushels of rough rice, were destroyed. The loss of rough rice, is about equal to 2,500 tierces of clean merchantable rice. There was no insurance on the rice, and only $10,000 on the mill.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 14.—The U. States troops and volunteers are concentrating near the Missouri line, where Montgomery has fortified himself. Six hundred muskets for Medary's volunteers passed through Jefferson City to-day for Kansas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The proceedings of Congress to day are unimportant. In the House, the Committee on Foreign Affairs have agreed to report a bill appropriating thirty millions of dollars for the purchase of Cuba.

Further by the Niagara.

HALIFAX, Jan. 13.—It is reported that France has officially informed England of her support, if England adopts measures to counteract President Buchanan's policy.

A recent false alarm of fire, at the Victoria theatre in London, had caused a panic, and sixteen people were trampled to death.

The Spanish papers denounce Mr. Buchanan's message in a tone of offended pride

In Cincinnati the meat market has commenced declining, & the speculators already begin to suffer. Mess Pork has fallen from 18 to $17, bulk sides from 8 to 7½, bulk shoulders, to 5¾.

SELMA, Ala., Jan. 18, 1859.

COTTON.—Tuesday last the market was quiet—Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday the demand was good: Middling 10 5-8, Good Middling 11; Middling Fair 11 1-4.

MOBILE, Jan. 11.—Sales of cotton to-day 3,500 bales: Middlings 11 cents.

OBITUARY.

For that wreath entwining in heaven, an angel is ever culling flowers of the rarest hue, and in his late selection, has plucked a lovely bud from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wood of Alexandria.

The petals fall from the withered rose, and are rudely shaken from those fully blown, while the early buds are niped by ruthless hands, ere their beauty and fragrance are unfolded.—Such was "little SUE"—three summers had scarcely come and gone, when she was snatched from the fostering arms of her parents, and borne to mansions on high, where she is an adorning flower to that crown for which she was chosen.

The smile that so late played in unfeigned innocence, & happiness around her pure brow—the gleeful tone that reflected gladness and heaven-kindred joys into the hearts of fond parents, loved relatives, and dear friends, are claimed by Him who gave the precious gem, and who has taken it from earth ere it was poluted by the tarnish that every breeze bears on its fleeting pinions.

The tears of vain regret, at the early culling of one so lovely, chase each other in rapid succession down our checks, but deeper still the unsheathed weapon enters the heart, when we revert to the separation of the parents from their cherished "pet,"—their "day-spring" of households joys. So closely had the surpassing loveliness of the little darling woven herself into the affections of the father and mother, that she seemed essential to their very existence. Excruciating anguish heaved their bossoms, when they saw her singled out by the unyielding hand of death. And now while her once lively tones, her rosy cheeks, and sparking eyes, are hushed, and hid beneath the humble turf that enshrine the dearest treasures lent to the heart, her image is printed on every spot where her busy little feet were wont to rove. Oh, God! let Thy grace and love soothe the stricken hearts of "little SUE'S" father and mother. How can they stay where she is not! They turn their weeping eyes toward the play-ground—they gaze upon her little chair—they look at her clothes folded and laid aside, but all, all, speak in accents lone and wild, not here, not here! "Where then is my child?" the broken hearts sadly demand; In heaven, to the sweet repose in that holy kingdom, where angels bestow those kisses, and smiles you so anxiously covet. Jesus has taken her in his arms, folded her to his bosom, tenderly caressed her, and with ten thousand blessings welcomed her to her happy abode. Then ask the questions in the language of a divine,

"Wherefore should I make my moan,
Now the darling child is dead?
She to early rest is gone,
She to paradise is fled:
I shall go to her, but she
Never shall return to me.
God forbids her longer stay,
God recalls the precious boon,
God hath taken her away,
From my bosom to his own.
Surely what he wills is best,
Happy in his will, I rest."

Cotton Cultivator.

LETTERS PATENT were granted to the undersigned, on the 6th day of July, 1858, for his improvement in Cotton Cultivators; to which he calls the attention of both Cotton and Corn Cultivators.

The plow will penetrate the ground to any required depth, and will pulverise and loosen the soil, and cut off all the weeds. It will mow close to the stalks of cotton or corn, and loosen the soil near the roots without injuring or destroying them. It does not make a furrow, or turn over the soil, but loosens it up and lets it fall back into its place again. It is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of cotton; and one horse power is sufficient to propel it.

It is believed, as will be seen by the following certificate, that it will save 25 per cent. of labor over the best improvements, and at least 50 per cent. over the common plow.

He believes the cultivator entitled to all he claims for it, and in support of his belief, he calls the readers attention to the subjoined certificate of Messrs. Moragne and Hollingsworth, who are the only persons who have tried the Cultivator. As to its utility no more need be said—TRY IT—its BEST recommendation is ITS USE.

He offers for sale County or State rights at reasonable prices. Address,

ASBERRY SMITH,

Jan. 20, '59—6m. Jacksonville, Ala.

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 15, 1859.

The undersigned have used the Cotton Cultivator of Asberry Smith, and we take pleasure in saying, that is a most excellent plow; superior to any we have ever used in the cultivation of cotton, it saves at least 25 per cent. in labor, over any plow we have ever tried, and from 30 to 50 per cent. over the common plow. In the cultivation of young corn it is superior to any we have tried. We take pleasure in recommending it to the public as worthy of patronage; as we believe from actual experiment, it comes fully up to all that is claimed for it.

ISAAC P. MORAGNE.
THOS. HOLLINGSWORTH.

I am personally acquainted with Isaac P. Moragne and Thos. Hollingsworth, and I have the utmost confidence in the above statement made by them.

NOBLE BROTHERS & CO.
Dec. 2 1858—1y. Rome Ga.

A Card from Dr. James M. Jarrett, of the NEW YORK LUNG INFIRMARY.—My connection for the past eight years with the above Institution, as Chief Physician, and a twelve years course of steady devotion to the cure of Pulmonary Consumption and its kindred diseases, together with my unrivalled opportunities and advantage of pathological research—aided, not a little by a perfect system of Medical Inhalation—has enabled me to arrive at a decisive, direct, and successful course of treatment for the positive and radical cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, and Air Passages. By Inhalation, the vapor and curative properties of medicines are directly addressed to the diseased organs and the integument. I do not advise the use of Medical Inhalation of any kind, to the exclusion of general treatment; and although I consider it a useful adjuvant in the proper management of those fearful and often fatal diseases, yet I deem it very necessary that each patient should have the benefit of both general and local treatment in the above diseases, and the high character of the Institution over which I have so long had the honor to preside, are too well known to need any eulogy or comment from me. At the solicitation of many private and professional friends, through whose philanthropic aid the above charity has been long and liberally supported, and after due consideration, I have concluded to make such arrangements as will bring the benefits of my experience and treatment within the reach of all, and not confine myself, as heretofore, to those only who entered the Infirmary or who were able to visit me at my office. Hoping therefore that the arrangement will, give entire satisfaction, both to my professional brethren & the public, I would respectfully announce in conclusion, that I can now be consulted personally or by letter, on all diseases as above, and that the medicines, the same as used in the Institution, prepared to suit each individual case, Inhaling Vapors, Medical Inhalers, &c &c., will be forwarded by express to any part of the United States or the Canadas.

TERMS.—My terms of treatment by letter are as follows, viz: $12 per month for each patient, which will include medicine sufficient for one month's use; also, Inhaling Vapor, and an Inhaling Apparatus. Payments as follows. $6 to be paid to Express Agent on receipt of the box of Medicine, and the balance $6 at the expiration of the month, if the patient be cured or is entirely satisfied with the treatment. Patients, by giving a full history of their case, and their symptoms in full, can be treated as well by letter as by personal examination. Patients availing themselves of Dr. Jarrett's treatment may rely upon immediate and permanent relief, as he seldom has to treat a case over thirty days. Letters for advice promptly answered. For further particulars address

JAMES M. JARRETT, M. D.,
No. 820 Broadway, cor. Twelfth St. N Y.

P S Physicians and others visiting the city are respectfully invited to call at the Infirmary, where many interesting cases can be witnessed, and where our improved apparatus for the inhalation of medicated vapor can be seen and inspected.

THE LIVER

INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS, IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human system. When it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are generally developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the Liver—having ceased to do its duty. For the disease of this organ Sanford's Liver Invigorator has made it its business for more than twenty years, and has never failed in a single case of more than twenty-one days' standing, when it could be taken according to directions. No remedy is at last known which will cure Liver Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR PER BOTTLE.

INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forthwith be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and unclogs the passage to the lungs, and thus, soothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills not only cleanse the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely root out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system or they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added to them selves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

BARNFIELD, Mass., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say he best remedy I have ever found for coughs, hoarseness, influenza, and the commencement of consumption, is your Cherry Pectoral. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or else any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, Miss., Feb. 7, 1856.

REVEREND AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of whooping cough, croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of our fair valley in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people.

HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MANCHESTER, Va., writes, 3d Jan., 1856 "I had a bad cold or influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Cherry Pectoral, by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, Pa., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has for over under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. BRYDGES, M. D., ALMON, MONROE Co., Iowa writes, Sept. 9, 1856: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some of the most astonishing cures have been made by it, and even where all else has proved but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

ASTON HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for me. For more than two months I laboured under the distressing symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid whatever gave me much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We liked the advice, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours with gratitude and regard,

ORLANDO SHELBY, of SHELBYVILLE.

Cleansing from the blood all impurities, from whatever cause arising, and restoring the vigor of health to the whole system, this is the best medicine that can be taken for the relief and cure of all diseases of the throat and lungs, and its great merits are known to all who have ever tried its virtues.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE eminent Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed to their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs have shown that these Pills have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win on unexceptionably upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow disease, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the everyday complaints of every body, but also the formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable are free from any risk of harm. Cure have been made which surpass belief were they not sustantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the statement of their own cases that no "prevarication's need are necessary to the relief of mankind, call their skill to witness.

The subscribers have been pleased to furnish gratis to their fellow Almanacs containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Piles, arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases arising from Disorders of the Stomach, require an evacuation of the bowels for which Ayer's Pill, they also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure most complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Dropsy, Partial Palsy, Neuralgia and sometimes Blindness, Deafness, Ulcers of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and a thousand other complaints arising from the state of the body or some of its functions.

Be not be put off by any disciplined dealers with some other pill they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S CURES, and take nothing else. No other they can say is as good as this, for it has been proved by all those it for the cure of all complaints that it is recommended for.

The Great Grand Discovery,

R. R. R.

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS.

Dr. Radway & Co. have recently discovered a method for extracting from roots, herbs, plants and gums, a nutritious extract of such wonderful nourishing power—which they have combined with Radway's Regulating Pills—that six of these Pills will supply the blood with the same amount of nutrition as one ounce of ordinary bread; so that, while the system is undergoing a thorough physicking, and regulating process, it daily becomes strengthened.

Persons afflicted with Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Heart Diseases, Fullness or blood, and all Females who are subject to Irregularities, Hysteria, &c., are particularly recommended to use these Pills. They are pleasant to take—elegantly coated with gum—free from taste, and will not gripe, sicken or weaken the system, or leave the bowels costive.—Mothers nursing should likewise take one or two of these Pills once or twice per week.—They will not only keep your system healthy and regular, but will protect your infants against Cramp and Pains in the stomach, and insure not only a healthy child, but will invest every child, thus suckled, with a sweet disposition.

RADWAY'S REGULATING PILLS

Regulate each and every organ of the system, and correct all derangements of the Liver, Bowels, Stomach, Heart and Kidneys.

POETRY.

——"It is the gift of Poetry to hallow every place in which it moves; to breathe round Nature an odor more exquisite than the perfume of the rose, and to shed over it a tint more magical than the blush of morning."

The Advancing Years.

The following lines are sweet & beautiful—far better than the common run of newspaper poetry—and are pervaded with a touching melancholy. They are by an unknown author; they have merit enough to be claimed by the writer:—Southern Adv.

We did not fear them once—the dull gray mornings
No cheerless burden on our spirits laid;
The long night watches did not bring us warnings
That we were tenants of a house decayed
The early snows like dreams to us descended;
The frost did fairy-work on pave & bough;
Beauty, & power, & wonder-love not raised—
How is it that we fear the Winter now?

Their house-fires fall as bright on hearth and chamber:
Their northern star-light shines as coldly clear;
The woods still keep their holly for December;
The wind a welcome yet for the new year.
And far away in old remembered places
The snow drop rises & the robin sings;
The sun & moon look out with loving faces—
Why have our days forgot such goodly things?

Is it that the north wind finds us shaken
By tempests fiercer than its bitter blast,
Which fair beliefs & friendship, too have taken
Away like Summer foliage as they passed,
And made leafless in its pleasant valleys
Waning the light of promise from our day,
Till mists meet even in the inward palace—
A dimness not like theirs to pass away.

It was not thus when dreams of love & laurels
Gave sunshine to the Winters of our youth,
Before its hopes had fallen in fortunes quarrels
Or Time had bowed them with his heavy truth—
Ere yet the twilight found us strange & lonely
With shadows coming when the fire burns low,
To tell of distant graves and losses only—
The past that cannot change & will not go.

Alas! dear friends, the Winter is within us;
Hard is the ice that grows about the heart;
For petty cares and vain regrets have won us
From life's true heritage & better part.
Seasons & skies rejoice, yea, worship rather;
But nations toil & tremble even as we,
Hoping for harvests they will never gather,
Fearing the winters which they may not see.

The Old Year and the New.

And an infant's idle laughter,
The old year went with mourning by,
The new came dancing after.
Let sorrow shed her lonely tear,
Let Revelry toss her "ladle,"
Bring boughs of cypress for the bier,
Fling roses on the cradle:
Mutes to wait on the funeral state!
Pages to pour the wine!
And a requiem for fifty eight,
And a health to fifty-nine.

Alas! for human happiness,
Alas! for human sorrow:
Our yesterday is nothingness,
What else will be our morrow?
Still beauty must be stealing hearts
And knavery stealing purses,
Cuisiniers live by making tarts,
And wits by making verses.
While sages prate and courts debate,
The same stars set and shine:
And the world as it rolled through fifty-eight
Must roll through fifty-nine!

Some king will come in heaven's good time,
To the tomb his father came to:
Some rogue will wade through blood and crime,
To a crown he has no claim to:
Some suffering land will rend in twain
The Manacles that bound her,
And gather the links of the broken chain
To strew them proudly round her:
The grand and great will love and hate,
And combat and combine:
And much as were in fifty-eight,
We shall be in fifty-nine.

THE STRANGER ON THE SILL.

BY T. B. READ.

Between broad fields of wheat and corn,
Is the lovely home where I was born:
The peach tree leans against the wall;
And the woodbine wanders over all:
There is the shaded door way still—
But a stranger's foot has crossed the sill.

There is the barn, and, as of yore,
I can smell the hay from the open door,
And see the busy swallows throng,
And hear the pewee's mournful song:
But the stranger comes—oh! painful proof—
His sheaves are piled to the heated roof.

There is the orchard—the very trees
That knew my childhood so well to please,
Where I watched the shadowy moments run,
Till my lips imbibed more of shade than sun:
The swing from the bough still sweeps the air,
But the stranger's children are swinging there.

It bubbles, the shady spring below,
With its hoirush brook where the hazels grow;
'Twas there I found the calamus root,
And watched the minnows poise & shoot,
And heard the robin lave his wing—
But the stranger's bucket is at the spring.

O ye who daily cross the sill,
Step lightly, for I love it still;
And when you crowd the old barn eaves,
Then think what countless harvest sheaves
Have passed within that scented door,
To gladden eyes that are no more.

Miscellaneous.

THE BOY PATRIOT.

A REVOLUTIONARY ADVENTURE.

BY GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND.

History is filled with the deeds of the men of the Revolution, nor are the patriot women forgotten in the burning words of the anadists of "76;" but where is the historian who tells of the patriotism of the boys of that gloomy period? Who writes their biographies?

There were boys in the Revolution—boys of noble patriotism and dauntless spirit—boys who would not become traitors, though the rack and the gibbet confronted them; boys who toiled with an endurance and boldness unequalled in the annals of a nation, for the independence of the 'Old Thirteen;' and had they now a just desert, the brightest star in America's constrellation, and the widest stripe in her broad canvass, would be dedicated to the 'Boys of '76.'

Let us relate an instance. It was in the year 1777. Philadelphia was in the hands of Howe and his inhuman soldiery, while the field of Brandywine gave the American people an evidence of British humanity. The inhabitants of Pennsylvania and Deleware were at the mercy of their foes. Bands of Hessian dragoons scoured the vicinity of Philadelphia for miles around, and committed acts which would disgrace a Vandal.

On the evening of a delightful autumn day, a group of boys ranging in age from twelve to seventeen years, were gathered together on the steps of a tenantless storehouse in the little village of Newark, Delaware. The town seemed lonely, and, with the exception of the youthful band already referred to not a human being met the eye All the men capable of bearing arms had left their homes to join the army of Washington on the banks of the Schuylkill. A youth of sixteen years, mounted on a barrel, was giving an account of the disasterous battle of Brandywine James Wilson, the narrator, was a bold boy, enthusiastic in his love for the American cause, and possessed of no little intelligence. His bright blue eye and flaxen hair gave him an effeminate appearance, but beneath that plain homespun jacket throbbed a heart which never quailed in danger, nor shrunk before any obstacle. His father was the commander of the Delaware regular troops, and his mother was dead. The boy concluded his narration, and was deeply lamenting that he could not join the army.

'I am not old enough, said he; 'but had I a musket, I would not stand idly here, with my hands hanging useless by my side.'

'Are there no guns of any description in the village?' asked a listening youth.

'None. I have spent nearly a week trying to find one, but my efforts have been of no avail. I strongly suspect that that old Tory, Livingston, has several in his house, but as he permits no one to trespass on his land, I am unable to say positively.'

'Why not take a party and search his dwelling?' asked Frank Howard; 'he has no one there to assist him, except his cowardly son George, and I can thrash him as easy as that;' the boy snapped his fingers to imply the readiness with which he could trounce old Livingston's son.

James Wilson's eyes sparkled with joy 'If any three boys in this company will help me, I will search old Livingston's house this night. All who are willing to go, just step forward three paces!'

Every boy in that little crowd, without a moment's hesitation, stepped forward.

The boy's eyes flashed like stars.—'Now, by the dead of Bunker Hill, I will search old Livingston's residence, though death stands in my path.'

With a firm tread, and in the utmost silence, the young heroes took up their march for old Squire Livingston's.

Livingston had long been suspected of harboring British spies, and some of his former laborers had reported that he kept up a regular correspondence with the British commander. At all events, he was generally regarded by the genuine whigs as a dangerous man, and, therefore, avoided. His house was situated a short distance from Whiteclay Creek, on the side of a steep hill, surrounded on all sides by tall trees It was just such a place as one might suppose suitable for the plotting of treason.

At the time James Wilson and his little band left the deserted storehouse in the village of Newark, dusk had given place to the darker shades of night; still, it was not dark. The new moon was shining brightly in the clouds, and every object was perfectly distinguishable. The boys walked firmly forward, maintaining a solemn silence. At length they gained the bank of the creek, and, slowly following the winding path, soon came in sight of the object of their destination. As they came to a little log bridge which crossed a shallow rivulet leading into the White clay, James Wilson ordered them to halt.

"Let Frank Howard and myself reconnoitre the premises first, to see whether any danger may be apprehended. All the rest stand here until we return. Make no noise, and keep a constant watch."

James and Frank silently departed, and were soon lost to the eye in the thick woods through which the path ran. Scarcely had they gone from the view of their companions ere the quick ear or Wilson detected a noise. 'Hist!' said he to Frank, as he pulled him behind a gigantic beechtree. The noise soon resolved itself into a human footfall, and in another moment George Livingston, the Tory's son, stood opposite the tree. James Wilson darted from his covert, and tightly gripped the boy by the neck. The cowardly youth trembled like a reed.

'Speak one word, whispered his captor, 'and I'll toss you in the creek!'

The Tory's son was struck dumb with fright, and before he had recovered from his stupor, found himself in the midst of the whole group of boy heroes, with the vice-like grip of James and Frank on either arm.

'Now,' said James 'answer me promptly and truly, or I'll make your position uncomfortable. Do you hear?

'Yes,' gasped the affrighted youth.

'Who are in your father's house at this moment?'

'I—I—cannot tell, stammered the half dead boy.

'You shall tell, or '

'Spare me, and I will disclose everything. When I left the house there was no one there but our own family and—Major Bardstone.

'Who is he?' asked James.

'I don't know—I don't indeed!'

'Tell!' threatened Frank.

'He is the captain of the Yorkshire dragoons.'

The blue eyes of James glistened with joy, and he soon gained from the Tory's son a revelation which stamped his father as a traitor of the most appalling character. He discovered that old Livingston not only kept up a correspondence with the British commander, but that he had so plotted in his traiterous designs that the little village of Newark was to be burned to ashes, and its women and children left exposed to the mercy of their pittiless foes. The old Tory was to receive as his reward the land whereon the village stood and an annual pension from the English government.

But stranger than all, the plot was to be consummated that very night, and the Tory's son had been captured while he was going on an errand to a tory neighbor, about two miles distant. The little band of heroes learned, too that the British troops had secured their horses in Livingston's stable, and intended to descend the creek in a large boat.—There were twenty of them, besides their captain. Major Bardstone the leader of the band, was in temper and heart, a thorough demon, and scrupled not in his cruelty to destroy the slumbering infant or the sickly wife. Not a few in that youthful band of patriots trembled for the safety of a widowed mother or a defenceless sister. Some were for departing immediately, but James Wilson, still retaining his grasp on the Tory's son, ordered all to be silent. The prisoner was tied hand and foot, a thick handkercheif bound over his mouth to prevent him from calling for assistance, and a stout cord fastened to his breast and wound about a tree All hope of escape forsook George Livingston. Wilson motioned his little band to follow him, and in a few moments they stood on the summit of a high precipice which overhung Whiteclay creek.

'Now boys,' said James Wilson, 'the narrative which we have just heard is true; and, as we have no muskets or ammunition, we must make the best of the occasion. The British band will pass this spot in their boat, and as we have an hour to work, let us busy ourselves in rolling some of these large rocks to the edge of this precipice, and when the red-coats pass below let us sink them to the bottom."

Each boy set immediately to work, and in an incredibly short space of time nine huge rocks, each of half a ton weight, were nicely balanced upon the edge of the giant precipice. The creek at this point was not more than twenty feet wide, and was directly overhung by a mass of rock on which our heroes stood If the British band descended the creek, they would certainly pass this spot; and, if they passed it, then death was their certain fate. In about an hour the quick ear of Wilson detected the measured beat of muffled oars.

'They are coming;' he whispered, 'let no one drop his rock until I give the word and then all at once.'

It was a beautiful night to wreak a work of death. The heavens were spangled with innumerable stars, and every object on which the moonbeams played sparkled with a silvery radiance.

Closer came the doomed royalists, & the hearts of the boy patriots beat wildly in their bosom. Peering cautiously over the precipice, James Wilson saw the tory boat slowly but surely approaching. An officer stood in the bows, guiding the oarsmen by his orders, and the epaulets on his shoulders told that it was the identical fiend Major Bardstone.

'Don't drop till I give the order,' again whispered Wilson.

When the boat was about twelve feet from the rock, the boy leader fell securely behind his stone defence, and shouted, 'Who goes there?'

In a moment the oarsman ceased rowing, and gazed with amazement above them. The impetus which the boat had acquired caused it to drift slowly beneath the rock, and just as it was fairly below, forth came the doomed words.

'Cut loose in the name of liberty.

Each boy pushed his rock at the instant, and, with one impulse, the gigantic stones fell. A loud shriek from the dark waters told how well the plan had succeeded, and when the exultant boys again looked over the rock, nothing was seen but a few pieces of floating wood. The boat had been burst to pieces, and the occupants had found a grave at the bottom of the Whiteclay. A cry of victory burst from the joyous lips of the youthful patriots, and it was echoed along the old creek in solemn grandeur.

'Now for our prisoner' cried Frank Howard, boarding ahead, but what was the astonishment of the boys to find that, in efforts to free himself, George Livingston had been caught by the fatal cord and choked to death! There was no time for repining; the traitor and son had met their deserved doom, and there was no one to mourn their loss.

'Such be the end of America's foes forever!' said James Wilson.

Old Livingston's house was searched and to the surprise of every one, not merely guns, but three brass field-pieces, several barrels of Powder, and an abundance of balls etc., were found concealed in the Tory's cellar. The military stores found here were given over to the American troops, and found a jovial welcome at their head-quarters.—Had not the British party been so signally defeated along the banks of the Whiteclay, the town of Newark, and the whole northern part of the State of Delaware whould have been overrun by predatory parties of British soldiers.—James Wilson and Frank Howard both joined the army of Green, and served with distinction in the Southern campaigns. Frank fell in the memorable battle of Eutaw Springs, bewailed by all who knew him. James Wilson lost his leg at the seige of Yorktown, and retired to his native village, but mortification ensued, and he expired with the ever to be remembered words on his lips 'Cut loose, in the name of Liberty!'

The village of Newark still stands, and has become a town of some celebrity. The scene of the defeat of the British by the band of boy patriots is still pointed out; and it is a sacred spot in the annals of Newark.

Such reader, were the acts of the boys of '76,' and though they have no monumental pile to preserve their memories, they live in legends, song and verse, where they will exist when history has been swept into obscurity.

Let our literary men redeem from darkness the deeds of American youths, and, while they recount the noble achievements of our revolutionary patriots, let them not forget the boy heroes.

Bayard Taylor on Life in the North.

The lecture at the Tremont Temple, Boston, was attended by a crowded audience. It was by Bayard Taylor, on "Life in the North."

In the outset, Mr. Taylor spoke of his route to the far North, which he chose to take by way of Lapland, because thereby he had an opportunity to retreat when necessary. The natural features and varied aspects of Lapland were sketched. Among other things, the character of its extreme North was shown; there were on the Norwegian side of a portion of the coast, currents from the Atlantic, which were so warm as to keep the harbors open, while on the Russian side the harbors were frozen six months in the year. Russia was anxious to obtain possession of these Norwegian harbors, as she could not afford to have her maritime power frozen up six months in the year. The walrus fishers had penetrated to 84 degrees, and found open water 11 degrees further North than Parry went. The length of the day in the North of Lapland had struck him with admiration, far more than the gorgeous and beautiful aurora. The snow constantly freezing after a snow storm made a scene of alabasters; different entirely from what we see in our Northern snows; all these scenes had tints varying with the time of day—at one hour pink, at another rose; at another crimson, as if this beauty was given as a compensation for the want of heat.

In a snow storm the snow struck the face like needles; the breath froze and the face became framed in ice; the cold came nearer the citadel of life; all things looked ghastly; one felt that life had no luxuries there; when the cold pierces through tripple furs to freeze the hand it is no joke; to take off the glove the hand feels as if it was crushed by the cold. The breath freezes on the beard, hair and eyebrows, till all are white; the eyelashes become loaded, and only by constant winking could the eyes be kept open; if you drive a black horse, in fifteen minutes he becomes white.—When the cold is at 40 or 50, and the wind from the North, it is a constant battle for life; you can almost see the cold in the dead steel-blue air. Men are met with a white rim of ice on hair and fur, and purple faces, with white frost spots, looking like anything but human beings. The absorption of cold is gradual, so that it comes like a deadly creeping chill, and the worst trouble one has is the constant fight for life.—It is when one gets into a warm room, after passing this ordeal, that he feels it worst: for he shivers sometimes for two hours as if he had the ague.—When one goes into a warm room, too, the steam rises from a person like a dense atmosphere.

We have living within the Arctic circle there, the Swedes, the Fins and Lapps, three different races; so we would judge of the effect of the cold on man.

The faces of the Swedes were oval, the complexions were fair, the frames strong and well built, and the eyes a pale blue. Under these full eyes and fair frees, lay passions not easily aroused, but when aroused, terrible in the extreme. The men are cold only through their superior self-control.—You rarely hear a word of endearment, because love is eternal. There is truth and fidelity. The women there are not beautiful, but healthy and strong, and know not about nerves.

In Finland, we find a different class: square browed, ruddy, more passionate; with a bearty of language, and various oriental traits which it is curious to find in the Arctic circle. They are passionate, prone to excess, imaginative, superstitious, and yet destitute of traditions. Their imaginations were directed in a religious direction. They were formerly given to drunkenness, but have somewhat reformed. Their ideas of propriety seem contradictory; both sexes use the vapor bath together, and salute by an embrace with the right arm, and yet the kiss is considered immodest, and a lady expressed her astonishment at the knowledge that in the other parts of Europe kissing was common, and said if her husband dared to kiss her she would box his ears so that he would feel it for a fortnight.

They are indolent, because in winter it is dark most of the time and they can do nothing but eat, smoke and sleep; and in summer when it is always daylight, there is plenty of time. So the extreme cold, like the torrid zone, is unfavorable to the full development of man.

The Lapplanders are small, and seem to be the natural tenants of that region; they are small, tawny, with red cheeks; yet one skeleton of a girl is preserved over seven feet high; they are a sort of gypsies; their paganism has departed and with it their peculiarities and what ever is picturesque. No more do the wizards sell to the Norwegian mariners spells to charm the winds; no more dispose of charms to find silver mines, and the enthusiasm runs in the direction of religion. The task of the missionaries among them is not a sinecure, and even when preaching the Church is so filled with steam that he can hardly see the congregation. The country is a terrific desolation, and but for the reindeer life would be impossible. He is not larger than a Newfoundland dog, and one of the most stupid and contemptible animals imaginable. From almost everything that supports life is derived, & the family that does not possess a hundred reindeer is poor.

They can go fifteen miles in an hour, and some of them can travel for many consecutive hours. To learn to drive them in sleighs, is a difficult task, and no one can prevent them from stopping, turning around, and staring at you, as much as to say, "what are you going to do about it?" The Laplanders have much patience with them, and he had soon one got out and turn his deer around forty times a day.

In those climates one feels the utter desolation of the scene; human life exists but in sufferance; he had seen the most startling magnificence, the most weird and remarkably picturesque beauty, but in all that dream there had been an unseen nightmare of destruction, and he should never dream that dream again. Summer, short as it is, nowhere received with such unmitigated joy as in the Arctic regions, and vegetation in a brief three months hurries through its annual season of bud, flower and ripeness.

The people are removed from temptation. They have so hard a struggle to live that they know not the heatings of sense; they cannot steal, for there is nothing to steal; they cannot wrong their neighbors, for they have none. He could not imagine what had induced human beings to transplant themselves thither, and he could not forgive the first colonists for what they inflicted on their successors. Yet they loved each other, they were virtuous, they had faith in God's glory, his mercy and his infinite love.

Western Geography.—The rapid changes which have taken place in the great West have carried its geography past the wisdom of many, who have not studied it since their schooldays.—The following definitions of boundary may be of use to those interested in the West changes:

"Dacotah," is the western half of what was Minnesota Territory. When the State was formed, a line was drawn through the middle of the Territory from North to South. The eastern part became the State of Minnesota; the western is unorganized and without a government.

"Arizona" is a combination of the South part of New Mexico, with that Mesilla Valley strip of land which we purchased from Mexico in 1854. The latter is without a local government.

"Nevada" is the western half of Utah lying between Salt Lake and California.

"Laramie" means the western part of Nebraska, in which the fort of that name is situated.

"Pike's Peak" is in the Rocky Mountain

Chinese & African Sugar Cane.

We have been presented, by Dr. J F. EDWARDS, who resides in Choccoloco valley in this County, with a beautiful, clear specimen of syrup, made from the Omsenna, or No. 1, African Sugar cane, which is said to be better than the Chinese. This specimen is decidedly the clearest and finest flavored of any that we have seen It is in fact of such superior quality, that 5 cents more in the gallon has been offered for it than the best New Orleans molasses.

The Dr. informed us that he sent to France for works on the subject, and also for implements to test and manufacture, besides obtaining information from England, Scotland and Germany. He made 1408 gallons of molasses, and about 375 pounds of sugar; and has still on hand 8 or 10 barrels of Molasses, which he is offering to sell at 59 cents per gallon.

From 250 to 300 gallons of juice was obtained from an acre of land, and 5 gallons, from ripe cane produced one of syrup. The cane is known to be ripe by bursting at the joints. Clay land proved to be better than bottom land.

The mill, by which 800 gallons per day could be pressed out, is easily worked by one horse. and about 300 gallons could be boiled down in five hours.

Dr. E. appears to have gone into the manufacture of Sugar and Syrup, with a zeal and energy, and perfection of information and preparation, surpassing any one in this section of country.

DETENTION OF TRAIN.—We learn from a letter from J. L. Davis, one of the Mail Agents on the Ala. & Tenn. R. R. Road, dated Plantersville, 21st inst. that the late heavy rain carried away a small bridge one mile below that place, which detained the train only five hours; but by the promptitude and vigilance, of the Road Master Waite and Conductor Carden, the passengers, were carried immediately on to Selma in hand cars, and no accident occurred.—Had the Division Master of that part of the road Mr. Fallen, been asleep on his post, the fate of the passengers might have been similar to those in the recent disaster on the road between Columbus and Mameon.

The Road Master, Mr. Wait, used cross ties, for a temporary but safe bridge, and the train passed on in about five hours.

Poetry.—The reader will find in to day's paper, in the column usually devoted to selected poetry, several articles of more than usual merit and beauty.—Some of the best poetry in the English language, may sometimes be found floating about, unclaimed—true genius is generally modest and unassuming.

We also give in this paper another effusion from the pen of "Crazy Jane," —but to relieve some of our female friends, who are not willing to be guessed at as authors, especially of rapsodies on love, we will say that the author is not a female. The article which appeared in our paper two weeks since, entitled, "Love on Earth and in Heaven," has been pronounced by one of the most competent critics in our county or State, the best piece of original poetry which has appeared in our columns for years. We are glad to receive the contributions of our correspondent, and only regret that our paper is no better medium for their just appreciation—but it is as true now as when uttered by a poet many long years ago,

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene,
The dark unfathom'd caves of ocean bear;
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen,
And waste its fragrance in the desert air."

☞We invite particular attention to the advertisement of Mr. R. STEPHENS of Talladega, Architect and Builder.

Persons who may wish to have buildings erected, will find him a most competent Architect—one who will plan and execute their work promptly, in the neatest and most durable manner, and in perfect accordance with the spirit and letter of contract.

We would also suggest to others who may not wish to employ him to have their work executed; that at a trifling cost comparatively, they can obtain plans, drafts, and specifications, in the most modern and finished style of art.—Those who have tried the experiment, have found a great saving in extra charges, usually made for various parts of buildings, besides having their work executed more tastefully, and more perfectly in agreement with contract.

Ala. and Tenn. R. R. R.

Since the cars first commenced running on this road, it has been noted for its remarkable exemption from accidents, involving the loss of either life or property. In this respect, it is believed to be almost without a parallel in the United States. This may be owing in part to the excellent and firm character of its construction, and also to the fact that the President and Directors, have been particular in procuring good Engines and machinery. But in addition to all this, it cannot be denied, that they have been exceedingly fortunate in procuring good road officers and agents. Men who understood their business, who were sober, discreet, vigilant and faithful in the discharge of their respective duties. Such men deserve to be known as such, and to be honored for their fidelity.

Authorizing the President to use the Land and Naval Forces in Certain Cases.

Mr. Mason, in the Senate yesterday, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported the following bill, authorizing the President of the United States to use the public force of the United States in the cases therein provided:

Whereas the President of the United States, in the discharge of the duty imposed on him by the Constitution, from time to time to give to Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient, has informed Congress that, by reason of the distracted and revolutionary condition of Mexico, of certain of the States of Central America, and occasionally of those in South America, as well the property as the lives and liberties of American citizens, peaceably & rightfully within their respective limits, are subjected to lawless violence, or otherwise placed in peril by those claiming to be in authority, and for redress thereof negotiation and remonstrance, in the forms of diplomatic intercourse, are attempted in vain; and it being manifest to Congress that such condition of things in the States aforesaid will continue so long as government is found there in the unsettled and irresponsible condition at present, and at times heretofore tolerated by their people; and it being the indispensable duty of the government of the United States to protect its citizens against lawless violence without the limits of the United States, wherever found on lawful errand: Therefore,

Be it enacted, &c., That whenever it shall be made to appear to the President that any citizen or citizens of the United States shall have been subjected, within the limits of any of the States aforesaid, and without commensurate offence on their part, to any act of force on the part of those claiming to be in authority therein, affecting the life or liberty of such citizens, and the case in the opinion of the President demands on his part the interposition hereinafter provided, it shall be lawful for the President to use the land and naval forces of the United States, or such part of them as he may deem requisite, in such way as in his judgement may be most effectual, by force, within the country so offending, to give full and adequate relief and protection to any citizen or citizens of the United States so injured or imperilled, and at his discretion to obtain redress for any wrong so done: Provided, That the President shall report to Congress (if in session, forthwith, or if in recess, at its first meeting thereafter) whatever may be done by him at any time in execution of this act: And provided further, That as soon as the object shall be obtained in any case where the provisions of that act shall be carried into execution, the land and naval forces so used shall be withdrawn.

DEATH OF A MOBILE MERCHANT.—We regret to find the following notice in the Mobile Tribune of the 17th inst. That paper says:

"We are exceedingly sorry to record the death of one of our oldest & most respectable merchants, Porter B. Pomeroy. Mr. P., died at his residence on Saturday evening last. He had for some time been in ill health, but to the last moment retained all his senses; and we learn, up to a few hours of his death, could not believe that his hours were numbered. There is scarcely a man in the community whose death would be more deeply regretted by all classes. He was an energetic, straight forward, enterprising business man. He leaves a wife and some six or seven children to mourn his loss. His funeral took place on Sunday evening."

DR. G. W. NEWTON'S WILL.—Conflicting rumors being in circulation regarding this gentleman's will, we deem it necessary for public information to state, that there was but two or three items in it. After making bequests of about $13,000, he gave the rest and residue of his estate to the Augusta Orphan Asylum, thus placing that institution upon a firm basis. The real value of his estate is supposed to be about $225,000.

DEATH OF HON. J. E. BELSER.

The Montgomery Mail, of the 17th inst., comes to us clothed in habiliments of mourning, bearing the saddening intelligence that the good and gifted BELSER is no more! He died at his residence in the city of Montgomery, on Sunday evening last, at a quarter to six o'clock, after an illness of eleven days.—Selma Reporter.

The Mail says:

He was struck down while making a speech to a Jury in the Circuit Court, on the 6th inst., by an attack of cramp cholic, from which he was partially relieved after great suffering; but immediately thereupon he was attacked with pneumonia of both lobes of the lungs, and this again was complicated with a disease of the heart previously unsuspected. It is believed that the immediate cause of his death was the coincidence of spasmodic action of the heart and lungs. Although lying in a critical condition, his decease was rather sudden and unexpected, his pulse, immediately before, counting 108 and having tolerable volume. His great physical strength and vitality enabled him to bear up very long against the multiplied tortures of disease—and his kindness of heart and unselfish regard for others shone through all his sufferings, and was never brighter or more lovely than in his last hour.

Thus has departed Montgomery's oldest, truest and most influential son—he, who for thirty years has been the leader on whose wise counsel, energy and courage she has confidingly relied. Almost from the date of his removal to this place, from South Carolina, he has held those positions of public trust, in which he was enabled to advance the prosperity and honor of his adopted city; and the faithfulness with which he has discharged all public duties, as well as the generous, uncalculating nature which distinguished him in his private sphere, had so bound him in the chains of love, to our people, that now when his death comes upon us, it is as if each family had lost some dear member, and the entire community is wrapped in mourning.

HON. BENJAMIN FITZPATRICK.—A Washington correspondent of the Alexandria Gazette, in speaking of other Washington matters and men, speaks as follows of this distinguished Alabama Senator:

"I observe that the correspondent of the Santa Fe Gazette, alludes to one of the Alabama Senators as that "noble Roman the Hon. Benjamin Fitzpatrick, having been elected President pro. tem of the body, which his talents and virtues adorn." Any one who is acquainted with Governor Fitzpatrick, will acknowledge the justice of this compliment. The country is, at present, in want of honest, and firm, and conservative statesman in her high places of honor and trust; there are few such men now to be found, and Governor Fitzpatrick is one of the few."

COPPER ORE IN DUCKTOWN.—A correspondent of the Ducktown Eagle gives the following account of the copper mines in that vicinity:

"Operations have for years been carried on at different mines in Ducktown; shafts have been sunk to a great depth (near 300 feet) to find the yellow ores, but with no definite success, until within a few days past, when it was found in great abundance on what is called the "East Tennessee" property, in the northern part of Ducktown. This is justly regarded as the greatest discovery ever made in Ducktown, for it establishes the fact beyond doubt, that the yellow ores do exist in continuous veins through the whole district. A new feeling animates not only the property holders, but all who have an abiding place in Ducktown are now in better hopes and feelings than ever heretofore. This cannot, however, be regarded as a mere excitement. It is the conclusion of the mind, from satisfactory evidence, that 'there is a better time coming'"

AN ATLANTIC CABLE OPERATOR RETURNING TO ENGLAND.—Mr. Charles Gerhardi, one of Mr. DeSauty's staff of telegraph operators at Trinity Bay, came to New York, from St. John's, N. F., by the Pacific, and takes passage on Ker to-day to return to England, himself and one or two others of his associates having been ordered home by the directors for some purposes, as yet unknown to them, in connection with the Atlantic cable. The feeling among the operators and others who are well acquainted with the situation of the cable is one of much confidence that it will yet be put in a condition to transmit messages without difficulty. Four or five operators, including Mr. DeSauty, are yet remaining at Cyrus station, and day and night duty is kept up; the least deflections of the galvanometer are carefully watched, and will be reported to the directors. When Gerhardi left the station on the 10th of December, there were constant evidences, by currents passing over the cable, that it was unbroken, although they were not sufficiently intelligible to be made out. Mr. Gerhardi expresses the greatest confidence that if the present cable is not restored to a condition to be used, another cable will be laid down at no distant day. He also certifies with much earnestness to the entire willingness of Mr. DeSauty to communicate whatever is of the slightest interest to the public relating to the line, in proof of which he cites several instances in which he has volunteered to notify the New York telegraphic agent of the evidences of the existence of continuity in the cable.

STRANGE MORTALITY OF HOGS AND CATTLE.—A friend living in the neighborhood of Fort Browder, in this county, informs us that he has, within a few days, lost some twenty odd fine pork hogs, and some fifteen or twenty head of cattle, by some unknown disease.—They were all in good condition, and would eat heartily even up to the moment of death; in fact, one cow was in the act of eating oats and dropped dead as suddenly as if it had been shot.—Several other planters in the same section have lost stock in the same way.—No clue to the cause has as yet been discovered.—Eufaula Express.

The Hon. J. J. McRae, in his eulogy on Gen. Quitman in the House of Representatives, on the 5th inst., stated that he "fell a victim to the National Hotel disease, which had proved so fatal to so many distinguished men." This was the belief of Gen Quitman himself

EXTRACT

From the Address of Vice President BRECKINRIDGE,

Delivered on the occasion of vacating the old Senate Chamber, Jan. 4, '59.

On the 6th of December, 1819 the Senate assembled for the first time in this chamber which has been the theatre of their deliberations for more than thirty-nine years.

And now the strifes and uncertainties of the past are finished; we see around us on every side the proofs of stability and improvement; this Capitol is worthy of the Republic; noble public buildings meet the view on every hand—treasures of science and the arts begin to accumulate. As this flourishing city enlarges, it testifies to the wisdom and forecast that dictated the plan of it.—Future generations will not be disturbed with questions concerning the centre of population or of territory, since the steamboat, the railroad, and the telegraph, have made communication almost instantaneous. The spot is sacred by a thousand memories, which are so many pledges that the city of Washington, founded by him and bearing his revered name, with its beautiful site, bounded by picturesque eminences, and the broad Potomac, and lying within view of his home and his tomb, shall remain forever the political Capitol the United States.

It would be interesting to note the gradual changes which have occurred in the practical working of the government since the adoption of the Constitution; and it may be appropriate to this occasion to remark one of the most striking of them. At the origin of the government the Senate seemed to be regarded chiefly as an executive council. The President often visited the chamber and conferred personally with this body. Most of its business was transacted with closed doors, and it took comparitively little part in the legislative debates.

The rising and vigorous intellect of the country sought the arena of the Hose of Representatives as the appropriate theatre for the display of their powers. Mr. Madison observed on some occasion that, being a young man, and desiring to increase his reputation, he could not afford to enter the Senate; and it will be remembered that, so late as 1812, the great debates which preceded the war, and aroused the country to the assertion of its rights, took place in the other branch of Congress. To such an extent was the idea of seclusion carried, than when this chamber was completed, no seats were prepared for the accommodation of the public; and it was not until many years afterwards that the semi circular gallery was erected which admits the people to be witnesses of your proceedings.—But now, the Senate, besides its peculiar relations to the executive department of the government, assumes its full share of duty as a coequal branch of the Legislature; indeed, from the limited number of its members, and for other obvious reasons, the most important questions, especially of foreign policy, are apt to pass first underdiscussion in this body, and to be a member of it is justly regarded as one of highest honors which can be conferred on an American statesman.

It is scarcely necessary to point out the causes of this change, or to say that it is a concession both to importance and individuality of the State, and to the free and open character of the government.

In connection with this easy but thorough transition, it is worthy of remark that it has been effected without a charge from any quarter, that the Senate has transcended its constitutional sphere—a tribute at once to the moderation of the Senate, and another proof to thoughtful men of the comprehensive wisdom with which the framers of the Constitution secured essential principles without inconveniently embarrassing the action of the government.

The progress of this popular movement in one aspect of it, has been steady and marked. At the origin of the government, no arrangements in the Senate were made for spectators; in this chamber about one-third of the space is allotted to the public, and in the new apartment the galleries cover two-thirds of its area. In all free countries the admission of the people to witness legislative proceedings is an essential element of public confidence and it is not be anticipated that this wholesome principle will be abused by the substitution of partial and interested demonstration, for the expression of a matured and enlightened public opinion. Yet it should never be forgotten that not France, but the turbulent spectators within the hall, awed and controlled the French Assembly.—Whith this lesson and its consequences before us, the time will never come when deliberations of the Senate shall be swayed by the blandishments or the thunders of the galleries.

It is impossible to disconnect from an occasion like this, a crowd of reflections on our own past history, and of speculations on the future. The most meagre account of the Senate involves a summary of the progress of country.—From year to year you have seen your representation enlarge; time and again you have proudly welcomed a new sister into the Confederacy, and the occurrences of this day are a material and impressive proof of the growth and prosperity of the United States. Three periods in the history of the Senate mark in striking contrast three epochs in the history of the Union.

On the 3d of March, 1789, when the government was organized under the Constitution, the Senate was composed of the representatives of eleven States containing three millions of people.

On the 6th of Deceber, 1855, when the Senate met for the first time, in this room, it was composed of the representatives of twenty-one States, containing nine millions of people.

To-day, it is composed of the reprtentatives of thirty-two States, containing more than twenty-eight millions of people, prosperous, happy, and still devoted to constitutional liberty. Let these great facts speak for themselves to all the world.

The career of the United States cannot be measured by that of any other people of whom history gives account; and the mind is almost appalled at the contemplation of the prodigious force which has marked their progress. Sixty-nine years ago thirteen States, containing three millions inhabitants, burdened with debt, and exhausted by the long war of independence, estab for their common good a free constitution, on principles new to mankind, and began their experiment with the good wishes of a few doubting friends, and the derision of the world. Look at the result to-day: twenty-eight millions of people, in every way happier than an equal number in any other part of the globe, the centre of population and polical power descending the western slope of the Alleghany mountains, and the original thirteen States, forming but the eastern margin on the map of our vast possessions. See besides. christianity, civilization and the arts given to a continent—the despised colonies grown into a power of the first class, representing and protecting ideas that involve the progress of the human race—a commerce greater than that of any other nation—every variety of climate, soil and production to make a people powful and happy—free interchange between the States—in a word, behold present greatness, and in the future an empire to which the ancient mistress of the world in the height of her glory could not be compared.—Such is our country; ay, and more, far than my mind could conceive, or my tongue could utter. Is there an American who regrets the past? Is there one who will deride his country's laws, pervert her Constitution, or alienate her people? If there be such a man, let his memory descend to posterity laden with the execrations of all mankind.

So happy is the political and social condition of the United States, and so accustomed are we to the secure enjoyment of a freedom elsewhere unknown, that we are apt to undervalue the treasures we possess, and to lose in some degree the sense of obligation to our forefathers. But when the strifes of faction shake the government, and even threaten it, we may pause with advantage loug enough to remember that we are reaping the reward of other men's labors. This liberty we inherit—this admirable Constitution, which has survived peace and war, prosperity and adversity—this double scheme of government, State, and Federal, so peculiar and so little understood by other Powers, yet which protects the earnings of industry, and makes the largest personal freedom compatible with public order; these great results were not achieved without wisdom, and toil, and blood. The touching and heroic record is before the world; but to all this we were born, and like heirs upon whom has been cast a great inheritance, have only the high duty to preserve, to extend and to adorn it.—The grand productions of the era in which the foundations of the government were laid, reveal the deep sense its founders had of their obligations to the whole family of man. Let us never forget that the responsibilities imposed on this generation are by so much the greater than those which rested on our revolutionary ancestors, as the population, extent and power of our country surpass the dawning promise of its origin.

It would be a pleasing task to pursue many trains of thought not wholly foreign to this occasion, but the temptation to enter the wide field must be rigorously curbed; yet I may be pardoned perhaps for one or two additional reflections.

The Senate is assembled for the last time in this chamber. Henceforth it will be converted to other uses; yet it must remain forever connected with great events, and sacred to the memories of the departed orators and statesmen, who have engaged in high debates, and shaped the policy of their country. Hereafter the American and the stranger, as they wander through the Capitol, will turn with instinctive reverence to view the spot on which so many and great materials have accumulated for history. They will recall the images of the great and the good, whose renown is the common property of the Union; and chiefly, perhaps, they will linger around the seats once occupied by the mighty three, whose names and fame—associated in life—death has not been able to sever; illustrious men, who in their generation, sometimes resisted, public opinion—for they were of that higher class of statesmen who seek the right and follow their convictions.

There, sat Calhoun, the Senator—inflexible, austerl, oppressed, but not overwhelmed by his deep sense of the importance of his public functions—seeking the truth, then fearlessly following it; a man whose unsparing intellect compelled all his emotions to harmonize with the deductions of his rigorous logic, and whose noble countenance habitually wore the expression of one engaged in the performance of high public duties.

This was Webster's seat He, too, was every inch a Senator. Conscious of his own vast powers, he reposed with confidence on himself, and scorning the contrivances of smaller men, he stood among his peers all the greater for the simple dignity of his senatorial demeanor. Type of his northern home, he rises before the imagination in the grand and granite outline of form and intellect, like a great New England rock, repelling a New England wave. As a senatorial orator his great efforts are historically associated with this chamber; whose very air seems yet to vibrate beneath the strokes of his deep tones and his weighty words.

On the outer circle, sat Henry Clay, with his impetuous and ardent nature untamed by age, and exhibiting in the Senate the same vehement patriotism and passionate eloquence that of yore, electrified the House of Representatives and the country. His extraordinary personal endowments, his courage—all his noble qualities, invested him with an individuality and a charm of character which, in any age, would have made him a favorite of history. He loved his country above all earthly objects.—He loved Liberty in all countries.—Illustrious man! orator, patriot, philantropist—whose light, at its meridian, was seen and felt in the remotest parts of the civilized world; and whose declining sun, as it hastened down the West, threw back its level beams in hues of mellowed splendor to illuminate and to cheer the land he loved and served so well.

All the States may point with gratified pride to the services in the Senate of their patriotic sons. Crowding the memory come the names of Adams, Haynes, Mason, Otis, Macon, Pinceny and the rest—I cannot number them—who, in the record of their acts and utterances, appeal to their successors to give the Union a destiny not unworthy of the past. What models were these to awaken emulation or to plunge in despair! Fortunate will be the American Statesman who, in this age, or in succeeding times shall contribute to invest the new hall to which we go with historic mentories like those which cluster here.

And now, Senators, we leave this memorable chamber, bearing with us, unimpared, the constitution we received from our forefathers. Let us cherish it with grateful acknowledgment to the Divine Power who controls the destinies of empires and whose goodness we adore The structures reared by men, yield to the corroding tooth of time.—These marble walls must moulder with ruin. but the principles of constitutional liberty, guarded by wisdom and virtue, unlike material elements, do not decay. Let us devoutly trust that another Senate, in another age, shall bear to a new and larger chamber this Constitution vigorous and inviolate—& that the last generation of posterity shall witness the deliberations of the representatives of American States still united, prosperous and free.

For the Republican.

The Poet.

He was a child of song:
And loved the harmonies that Nature made
From earliest years, his spirit caught the Music of the surging winds that swayed the
Tops of giant oaks, and moaned in sad'ning
Numbers thro' the long-leafed, funeral pines.

He walked by ocean's brink, and mused the while
When wild winds tossed the foaming waves, and loved
The anthem of the mighty deep!——
The sea-bird, on majestic wing, that laved
Its plumage in the glittering spray, he
Watched with eager eye, and loved the peril
Of its fearless gambols. He was as brave
As good. The lightning's flash, that seemed the sword
Of dread omnipotence leaping impatient
From its scabbard of flaming fire, he loved
To, see and listen to bellowing echoes
Of far-off thunder, the cannon of God's Almigh y wrath, fired at wicked ones, who
Would not be rebuked by love.
——The music of the spheres he loved too well;
There was a trancing beauty, all sublime
To him in Heavens star-lit canopy.—
For there his spirit soared above the sordid
World, shaking from its wings the dust of time,
And mingling its pure essence with the great
"I am," and all the shining ones who tread
The azure paths of bliss.
——He was but poor in earthly goods;
And vulgar ones oft mocked the sadness of
His pale high brow. The rich would pass him by,
And gaze with stoney eyes upon his thin
And simple garb: They could'nt see the golden
Threads that made the mantle of his generous
Soul! The angels walked with him, and the Shining hosts encamped around him while he Slept; but aristocracy spurned him from
Her door, and would none of him, for gold
Was all she loved.
——The breeze that lifts the yellow
Curl upon his marble brow, is not more
Lightly felt than sneers from purse-proud fools, who
Bark and yelp at all who do not worship
Gold. His eyes would gleam with momentary
Fire, and his pale lips smile the utter hell
Of his contempt! But he did not speak of
Those that scorned him thus; it would have jarred
The tenor of his lofty mind;—he could
Not stoop so low. * * * * *
Upon the marble steps
Of yon bright mansion, stood the gifted one,
He cannot enter there, tho' the very
Idol of that palace home is only his,—
But Inez heedeth not her father's scorn,
But now, while ivory keys are sobbing
Neath her fingers in that pianoforte,
She little dreams that he—the banished one
Is listning to the strain.

CRAZY JANE.

Table Rules for Little Folks.

I must give thanks before I eat,
And then in silence take my seat:
Must for my food in patience wait,
Till I am asked to hand my plate;
I must not scold, nor whine, nor pout,
Nor move my chair nor plate about:
With knife, or fork, or napkin ring,
I must not play: nor must I sing:
I must not speak a useless word:
For children must be seen—not heard;
I must not talk about my food,
Nor fret If I don't think it good;
I must not say, 'The bread is old,'
'The tea is hot,' 'The coffee's cold;'
I must not cry for this or that,
Nor murmur if my meat is fat;
My mouth with food I must not crowd,
Nor while I am eating, speak aloud:
Must turn my head to cough or sneeze,
And when I ask, say, 'If you please;'
The table-cloth I must not spoil,
Nor with my food my fingers soil
Must keep my seat when I have done,
Nor round the table sport nor run;
When told to rise, then I must put
My chair away, with noiseless foot;
And lift my heart to God above,
In praise for all his wondrous love.

GEN. SCOTT VICTIMIZED.—The Picayune tells the following:

As the procession had finished the display proposed for the Eighth, and the carriage containing the veteran General drove up in front of the St. Charles Hotel, the crowd filled the street and greeted him with loud shouts.

As the General descended from the carriage with his overcoat hanging on his arm, a well-dressed gentleman stepped up to him, and, with the politeness that would have graced a drawing-room, said: "General, permit me to take your coat." Unconsciously the General handed him the garment, and, following his escort, entered the hotel; but the gentleman with the coat failed to appear. He and the coat had disappeared. Some think that his admiration for the old veteran tempted him to keep the garment as a souvenir of the meeting and a memento of the fame of the great captain.

THE FAMOUS FOUNTAIN OF FORTUNE.—The famous fountain, of whose mirculous qualities, it was said, possessed the power of renewing youth to the aged, has been equalled, in another respect, by a discovery which gives fortune to the penniless, Ponce de Leon travelled many miles and many years to discover the pure fountain of youth. The Ponce de Leons of the present day have only to travel by mail as far as Wilmington, Delaware, or Augusta, Ga., to have their hopes realised in the discovery of the Fountain of Fortune. WOOD, EDDY & Co.'s legalised lottery is no myth—no fabulous fountain.—Money is the stream which renews youth. By sending ten, five, or two and a half dollars to either of these points, the lucky explorer of its treasures, entering with but this small amount, may come forth invigorated with a fortune of fifty thousand dollars, or its proportion.

Douglas Jerrold say: A diamond is a diamond, though you put it on the finger of a beggar nobody would believe it to be diamond. Does not mendicant genius every day offer the "precious jewel in its head" for sale, and yet, because the holder is medicant, does not the world believe the jewels to be of no value? Men have died with jewels in their brains, and not untill the men were dead were the gems owned to be true water.

Cotton Cultivator.

LETTERS PATENT were granted to the undersigned, on the 6th day o July, 1858, for his improvement in Cotton Cultivators; to which he calls the attention of both Cotton and Corn Cultivators.

The plow will penetrate the ground to any required depth, and will pulverise and loosen the soil, and cut off all the weeds. It will mow close to the stalks of cotton or corn, and loosen the soil near the roots without injuring or destroying them. It does not make a furrow, or turn over the soil, but loosens it up and lets it fall back into its place again. It is peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of cotton; and one horse power is sufficient to propel it.

It is believed, as will be seen by the following certificate, that it will save 25 per cent. of labor over the best improvements, and at least 50 per cent. over the common plow.

He believes the cultivator entitled to all he claims for it, and in support of his belief, he calls the readers attention to the subjoined certificate of Messrs. Moragne and Hollingsworth, who are the only persons who have tried the Cultivator. As to its utility no more need be said—TRY IT—its BEST recommendation is ITS USE.

He offers for sale County or State rights at reasonable prices. Address,

ASBERRY SMITH,

Jan. 20, '59—6m. Jacksonville, Ala.

Gaidsden, Ala., Jan. 15, 1859.

The undersigned have used the Cotton Cultivator of Asberry Smith, and we take pleasure in saying, that is a most excellent plow; superior to any we have ever used in the cultivation of cotton, & sares at least 25 per cent. in labor, over any plow we have ever tried, and from 30 to 50 per cent. over the common plow. In the cultivation of young corn it is superior to any we have tried. We take pleasure in recommending it to the public as worthy of patronage; as we believe from actual experiment, it comes fully up to all that is claimed for it.

ISAAC P. MORAGNE,
THOS. HOLLINGSWORTH.

I am personally acquainted with Isaac P. Moragne and Thos. Hollingsworth, and I have the utmost confidence in the above statement made by them.

THE GROVER & BAKER Sewing Machine Co.

53 ST. FRANCIS SREET, MOBILE.
11 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Having greatly increased their facilities for manufacturing their CELEBRATED FAMILY MACHINES, with all the recent improvements, have reduced their prices, and offer for sale

A NEW STYLE MACHINE.

PRICE $40.

HEMMERS $5 EXTRA.

It is no longer questioned that these Machines are the best in use for family sewing. They

HEM, FELL, GATHER, AND STITCH

in the most superior manner, and are the only machines in the market that are so well and simply made, that they may be sent into families with no other instructions than are contained in a circular which accompanies each machine, and from which may readily learn how to use them, & keep them in order. They make upwards of

A CHILD OF TEN YEARS

FIFTEEN HUNDRED STITCHES A MINUTE, and will do the sewing of a family cheaper than a seamstress can do it, even if she works at the rate of

ONE CENT AN HOUR.

Is there a husband, father, or brother in the United States, who will permit the drudgery of hand sewing in his family, when a Grover & Baker Machine will do it better, more expeditiously, and cheaper than can possibly be done by hand?

WHEELER & WILSON'S SEWING MACHINES.

PRICES GREATLY REDUCED.

OFFICE, No. 505 BROADWAY, N. YORK.

SEND FOR A CIRCULAR.

GOOD NEWS.—A reduction in the prices of Sewing Machines is announced in our advertising columns. Their utility is established beyond question, and at the present prices we see no reason why they should not be found, as they ought to be, in every household. Several varieties are manufactured, adapted to various purposes So far as public opinion has been formed and uttered, the preference is emphatically accorded to the Wheeler and Wilson machine for family use, and for manufactures in the same range of purpose and material. During the present autumn the trials have been numerous, and all the patents of any pretension have been brought fairly into competition. In every case, the Wheeler & Wilson machine has won the highest premium. We may instance the State Fairs of New-York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Illinois, Wisconsin, Virginia, Michigan Indiana, Mississippi, Missouri & California, & the Fairs in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Baltimore, Richmond and San Francisco.—At the Fair of the St. Louis Mechanical Association, the Examining Committee was composed of twenty-five ladies of the highest social standing, who, without a dissenting voice, awarded for the Wheeler and Wilson Machine, the highest and only premium, a Silver Pitcher, valued at $75. If these facts do not establish a reputation, we know not what can.—Christian Advocate & Journal.

THE LIVER

INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD.

COMPOUNDED entirely from GUMS, IS ONE OF THE BEST PURGATIVE and Liver Medicines now before the public, that acts as a Cathartic. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, then on the stomach and bowels to carry off that matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it; and when taken daily in moderate doses, will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body—and when it performs its functions properly, the powers of the system are developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the Liver for the proper performance of its functions; when the stomach is at fault, and the bowels are in consequence of one, or having ceased to do their duty, the whole system suffers disease of the different organs—the LIVER—has made it his study, for its duty. For the space of more than twenty-one years, to find some remedy to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable. To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with liver Complaint, in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.

INDIAN ROOT PILLS.

DR. MORSE, the inventor of Morse's Indian Root Pills, has spent the greater part of his life in travelling, having visited Europe, Asia, Africa as well as North America—has spent three years among the Indians of our Western country—it was in this way that the Indian Root Pills were first discovered. Dr. Morse was the first man to establish the fact that all diseases arise from IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD—that our strength, health and life depended upon this vital flood.

When the various passages become clogged and do not act in perfect harmony with the different functions of the body, the blood loses its action becomes thick, corrupted and diseased; thus causing all pains sickness and distress of every name; our strength is exhausted our health we are deprived of, and if nature is not assisted in throwing off the stagnant humors, the blood will become choked and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important then that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely, Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from plants and roots which grow around the mountaneos cliffs in Nature's garden, for the health and recovery of diseased man. One of the roots from which these Pills are made is a Sudorific, which opens the pores of the skin, and assists Nature in throwing out the finer passage parts of the corruption within. The second is a plant which is an Expectorant, that opens and anclog the passage to the lungs, and thus, in ossoothing manner performs its duty by throwing off phlegm, and other humors from the lungs by copious spitting. The third is a Diuretic, which gives ease and double strength to the kidneys, thus encouraged, they draw large amounts of impurity from the blood, which is then thrown out bountifully by the urinary, or water passage, and which could not have been discharged in any other way. The fourth is a Cathartic, and accompanies the other properties of the Pills while engaged in purifying the blood, the coarser particles of impurity which cannot pass by the outlets are thus taken up and conveyed off in great quantities by the bowels.

From the above, it is shown that Dr. Morses Indian Root Pills not only enter the stomach, become united with the blood, for they find way to every part, and completely rout out and cleanse the system from all impurity and the life of the body, which is the blood becomes perfectly healthy, consequently all sickness and pain is driven from the system for they cannot remain when the body becomes so pure and clear.

The reason why people are so distressed when sick, and why so many die, is because they do not get a medicine which will pass to the afflicted parts, and which will open the natural passages for the disease to be cast out hence, a large quantity of food and other matter is lodged and the stomach and intestines are literally overflowing with the corrupted mass; thus undergoing disagreeable fermentation, constantly mixing with the blood, which throws the corrupted matter through every vein and artery, until life is taken from the body by disease, Dr. Morse's Pills have added tothemselves victory, upon victory, by restoring millions of the sick to blooming health and happiness. Yes, thousands who have been racked or tormented with sickness pain and anguish, and whose feeble frames have been scorched by the burning elements of raging fever, and who have been brought as it were, within a silent step of the silent grave, now stand ready to testify that they would have been numbered with the dead, had it not been for this great and wonderful medicine, Morses Indian Root Pills. After one or two doses had been taken, they were astonished, and absolutely surprised, in witnessing their charming effects. Not only do they give immediate ease and strength, and take away all sickness; pain and anguish, but they at once go to work at the foundation of the disease, which is the blood. Therefore it will be shown, especially by those who use those Pills, that they will so cleanse and purify, that disease—that deadly enemy—will take its flight, and the flush of youth and beauty will again return, and the prospect of a long and happy life will cherish and brighten your days.

Cathartic Pills,

CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK

Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 1856.

DR. J. C. AYER, Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing.

Yours with great respect, WM. W. PREBLE,
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, D. C., 7 Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for dreadful concomitant of the gall. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disorder in which they were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital

Dysentery, Relaxation, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 16, 1855

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine they have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Was afraid to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, which others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Mo. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the panacea of all that is good in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother had been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church

PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 1856.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent will not some personal experience of its effects; and few are the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtile and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should be on their guard against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Pectoral saves more lives by the cure of colds than consumption itself. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable archer that, fastened on the vitals, cuts your life away. You know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as you know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not dwell here then to assure them if it still inside the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on its use the best aid that our skill can furnish for their cure.
