POETRY.

The Girls.

God bless the girls,
Whose golden curls
Blend with our evening dreams;
Their haunt our lives
Like spirit wives,
Or—as naiads haunt the streams.

They soothe our pains,
They fill our brains
With dreams of sunny hours.
God bless the girls,
God bless the curls,
God bless our human flowers.

LITTLE CHARLIE.

O sunshine making golden spots
Upon the carpet at my feet
The shadows of the coming flowers
The phantoms of forget-me nots
And roses red and sweet;
How can you seem so full of joy,
And we so sad and sore?
Angel of Death! again thy wings
Are folded at our door.

We can but yearn through length of days
For something lost we fancied ours;
We'll miss thee, darling when the Spring
Has touch'd the world in flowers!
For thou wast like that dainty moth
Which strews the violets at his feet
Thy life was slips of golden sun
And silver tear-drops buried sweet!
For thou wast light and thou wast shade
And thine were sweet; capricious ways!
Now lost in purple languors now
No bird in ripe red summer days
Was half as wild as thou!
O little Presence! everywhere
We find some touching trace of thee—
And pencil mark upon the wall
That "naughty hands" made thoughtlessly
And broken toys around the house—
Where he has left them they have lain,
Waiting for little busy hands
That will not come again,
Will never come again!

Within the shrouded room below
He lies a cold—and yet we know
It is not Charlie there!
It is not Charlie cold and white.
It is the robe that in his flight
He gently cast aside!
Our darling hath not died!
O rare pale lips! O clouded eyes!
O violet eyes grown dim!
Ah well! this little lock of hair
Is all of him!
Is all of him that we can keep
For loving kisses and the thought
Of him and Death may teach us more
Than all our life has taught.

God walking over starry spheres,
Did clasp his tiny hands,
And led him through a flood of tears
Into the Mystic Land!
Angel of Death! we question not
Who asks of Heaven, "Why does it rain"
Angel! we bless thee for the kiss
Hath hush'd the lips of Pain!
No "Wherefore," "To what good end?"
Shall out of doubt and anguish creep
Into our thought. We know our heals
He giveth his Beloved sleep!

DUTY.

I lurk in the cells of the heather bells,
And dance on the mountain streams
I glance in the sight of the stars by night
And glow in the noon-day beams;
I fall in the showers that waken the flowers
I fill them with mountain dew,
And wherever I go their dear buds grow
All crystal and pink and blue.
I glimer and hide in the forest wide,
And echo the wildbird's roundelay,
Then tripling pass through the meadow grass,
And leave a rose tint on the May.

I kiss the maid's face and a tender grace
Looks love from her violet eyes:
One moment I stray by the cold at play
And leave what never can die.
All the loves of the Earth from me have birth
And I bless them every one,
And ever I wait on the true and great
And deeds they have nobly done.

I ride on the blast where the leaves are cast
On the faded autumn grass,
And to and fro on the glittering snow
I flicker and pause and pass,
I flash through the storm in a terrible form,
Like a stream of molten gold,
I roll on the waves when the ocean raves
And the moonlight is clear and cold
Where the mourners weep and the famers sleep
And the dark yews hide the sun,
In the cottage home, and the gilded dome
Alike my will is done.

I crown the poet's rhyme with truth sublime,
For truth is the soul of my life,
I dwell with the sage in his silver age,
And follow the soldier's strife
I linger unknown in steel and stone,
Tho' ever old, the ever young,
Like a saucy bride in maidest pride,
The dim cathedral aisle among
Like a whispered prayer, like the first Spring air,
Or the flow of an evening song
Ever bad nag, ever ripe a Heaven born tyne
Of Him whose world I move along.

The stars and the spars and the rainbow bars
Have their light and grace from me,
And my foot prints stand all over the land
All over the blue of the sky and the sea
I work the misteries of the star histories
And haunt the woodland's minstrelsy:
I am the light of each feature, the heart of each creature
The fearless soul of the free,
And the shroud and pall will be over them all
Whenever they cease to be

Miscellaneous.

BUTTERMILK AND LONGEVITY.

The constant use of buttermilk as food, it has been asserted, would be the means of just doubling the term of man's life, and woman's too, we suppose, though nothing is said about that. On the subject of longevity, the New Orleans Surgical and Medical Journal contains some interesting facts:

It seems that an eminent French chemist, Mr. Ed. Robin, in a memoir presented to the Academy of Sciences, has expressed the belief that human life may be prolonged, and he gives his reason for it. He thinks living beings may be compared to a furnace always kindled; life exists only in a state of combustion, but the combustion which occurs in our bodies, like that which takes place in our chimneys, leaves a residue, a detritus, ashes. This detritus, which is always accumulating, is, according to Mr. Robin, the principal cause of old age and senile death. He thinks that the mineral matter which constitutes an ingredient in our food, after the combustion, is left in our systems to incrust and stiffen the different parts of the body, and to render imperfect many of the vital processes.—M. Robin sets forth many facts to prove the reasonableness of his position, but proposes to institute a series of experiments on animals whose lives of a short duration, to verify his theory. Among the series of experiments which he proposes, is one which consists in administering lactic acid with ordinary food. The lactic acid is known to possess the power of dissolving the incrustations, which form on the arteries, cartilages and valves of the heart; and as buttermilk abounds in this acid—it is moreover an agreeable kind of food—its habitual use, it is supposed, may free the system from these causes, which inevitably cause death between the seventy-fifth and the one-hundreth year. The author of one of the articles, in the New Orleans Journal, expresses his approbation of the labors of M. Ed. Robin, and gives, moreover, a reason of his own as to the probability that the period of human life may be extended. He makes the following formula, viz: "Every quality which appears to be an exception in a species, indicates a new rule, to which this species may be subjected." The author says: "Applying this principle to the present subject, we say there are macrobites, or centennarians, in the human species; these macrobie is combatible with human organization, and, since it exists, its cause may be determined. Now to posses a knowledge of the cause, is to be master of the effect; and that which has heretofore been an exception may become a rule."

To show that people do live sometimes to be very old—whether owing to buttermilk I cannot say—I condense some facts from the two articles before mentioned:

	Years.
Ponce Lefage lived	121
Eleanor Spicer	121
Madame Barnet,	123
Grandez,	126
John Newell,	127
John Bayles,	130
Polotiman,	140
Thomas Parr,	152
Obst,	155
Joseph Surringen,	159
John Bowin,	172
Peter Zostan;	185

And many others of similar ages, who have lived in modern times might be mentioned.

Dr. B. Dowler, of New Orleans, has given a list not included in the foregoing, of persons who attained the age of 120 years and upward.

In this list none are given who died more than two hundred years ago:

Years.		Years.
12 lived	120	4 lived	138
9	121	2	139
7	122	4	140
3	123	2	142

The instances of longevity below 120 years are frequent.

AN IMMENSE OYSTER BED DISCOVERED.—The New York Tribune informs the world that a special Providence has intervened to save the oyster-eaters from the tax which Virginia proposes to levy on oysters exported from her waters. "Her chief customer has discovered at her very door an oyster bank of inexhaustible extent and quality unexceptionable, from which she can draw forever, without fear of tax collectors or gunboats before her eyes. This important intelligence we hasten to lay before our readers as it reaches us, merely premising that we have it from the very best authority. Last week a party of five oystermen, while up Long Island Sound, accidentally discovered an oyster bed off Eaton's Neck, Long Island, about opposite Norwalk, Conn., which, upon examination, proved to be at least three miles in length by two in breadth, the bed being at least a foot thick, and of the largest 'East Rivers' ever seen in this market. The discoverers swore each other to secrecy, and resolved to make their fortunes; but one of the party, going among the oystermen of City Island basely betrayed the secret for $5.00. The result has been that over two hundred vessels have been at work on the bank, fishing up the bivalves, and planting them for market purposes. On Monday last a steamtug went up, and in a few hours landed over five hundred bushels at Rocky Point, Long Island, which, for quality and size, are said surpass anything that ever came from Virginia waters."

The N. Y. Sun gives the following report:

"A tremendously large bed of oysters, said to be three or four miles square, was discovered a few days since off Huntington, Long Island, by a party of fishermen from Norwalk, Ct. The value of the plocer is said to be more than a million of dollars. A hundred boats or more were on Saturday busily at work diminishing the value of this discovery as rapidly as hands could work. All kinds of implements for the capture of these strangers, which are said to vary in size from large to gigantic, have been sent for from Fair Haven and the other centres of the oyster trade. The steamers Jacob Belt has been chartered to go down to Huntington to carry the product of this bed to New York. Another steamer is already there."

"A Dollar or Two."

We clip the following sensible article from an exchange, and think it has hit the right place for making times easy. We hope those who are in arrears to the Republican, will take the hint, and send along the "dollar or two." The writer sensibly says:

"Give all the editors a dollar or two to carry in their pockets, and a hopeful ray of mental sunshine will soon light up their depressed and despoding spirits, and directly you may read in their papers of a change' in the financial condition of the country. This will induce timid capitalists and bankers to put out their funds which they have called in—manufacturers to hoist the gates and start the wheels of their machinery, and thus give honorable employment to honest hands. This will create a demand for agricultural produce, for "home consumption," put money into the pockets of farmers, and they, in return, pay the printer, the storekeeper, the tailor, blacksmith, schoolmaster, and others Try it. There is no less money in the world now, but much more, than at any previous time. All that is necessary to restore business, is simply to restore confidence, and put the money, now lying idle, in to active circulation. If you owe the printer a dollar for his paper, or for advertising, pay him promptly—the whole if you can—a part anyhow, and he will in return pay those to whom he is indebted, & thus throughout all the ramifications of business, new life and activity would at once be manifested. Send us a dollar or two and try it."

SUCCESS.

It is very strange, and as true as strange, that a man gains more enemies with each stride that he makes in a successful career. Had he remained upon a level with the meanest of his calumniators, the probability is that he would never have provoked their enmity, but when he commenced to rise upon the merit of continued effort and masterly energy, the croakers whom he left behind joined in a foul chorus of aspersion and lies. The very fact of his soaring above their heads constituted him a target for their calumnies. We may notice this condition of things wherever we choose to look. In mercantile life, where the honest toiler has become rewarded with affluence, for years of patient industry, we will hear those who envy without the spirit to emulate him, cast reflections upon his honor, and question the legitimacy of a success so great and so coveted. Yet it may be that every act of his life will bear the closest scrutiny. If a truly talented lawyer or physician attains to eminence, he is pronounced a quack or a toady, or something worse, by those who have neither the mental calibre or fixedness of purpose to carry them over the same path. With how much truth has it been said that there is no sin of which a man can be guilty, no unkindness, no meanness to his fellows which excites so much indignation among his cotemporaries, friends and neighbors, as his success. This is the one unpardonable crime which reason cannot defend nor humanity mitigate. The man whose pen more glowingly describes that which is feebly represented by another; the one who enunciates truths such as some one else is unacquainted with, and gains auditors where another fails; one who devotes his every energy to productive labor, & reaps the greater reward; in short, he who thrives as others do not, comprises in his single person—in the opinion of those whom he has surpassed—all the evils that may be summed up in one grand total.—They may not always denounce openly the successful man, but were the inscriptions upon their hearts translated truly, they, would all read, 'cruelly him! crucify him!'

TIME'S GRATITUDE AND REVENGE. Time is a good and beautiful friend, but a most revengeful and remorseless enemy. Like a deep-feeling and love-desiring human heart, it treasures up a grateful memory of kindness and good service; and is sure, sooner or later, to make payment with the addition of compound interest. But for every instance of neglect or abuse, it takes certain and terrible vengeance; and none who incur its anger can escape its punishment; for, like death time is inexorable.

A TALE OF BLOOD—A Woman Murders her Husband and Son and commits Suicide—A fearful tragedy occurred last Sunday at Lowery farm house about three miles from Versailles, Ripley county Indiana. The premises were occupied by a farmer named John Windsor his wife and a son, the latter aged fourteen years. It seems that the man and woman lived unhappily together, and their frequent altercations were a subjects of comment in the neighborhood. Upon the afternoon of Sunday their daughter, who had been upon a visit to a neighboring acquaintance, with whom she remained several days, returned home and entering the house was paralyzed by a sight of such intense horror as almost to deprive her of reason. Extended upon the floor, weltering in their blood, lay the bodies of her parents and her brother. The man was lying upon his face near the hearth, with his head nearly severed from shoulders; the body of the boy lay in another part of the room with several murderous cuts in his head, and close by the bloody weapon, a sharp axe with which this double deed of horror had been consumated. In the kitchen, adjoining was the body of the wretched woman, her throat severed from ear to ear, and a large butcher's Knife, with which she had taken her life, still clasped in her hand.

It is conjectured that while the husband was in the act of kindling fire upon the hearth, his wife seized the axe and dealt him the fatal blow, which nearly severed the head from the body, and he turning upon her son, who from being in his night clothes, had evidently just arisen from his bed, despatched him with the same weapon after which she rushed into the next apartment and concluded the tragedy by the sacrifice of her own life.

The poor girl, who is the sole survivor of the ill fated family, has received so severe a shock from the horrid scene which was so unexpectedly revealed to her, that she has ever since been bordering upon insanity.

Awful Tragedy at Cedartown.

We learn from a gentleman just from there that an awful tragedy was enacted at Cedartown on Monday morning. The facts as given to us are as follows: Col. J. J. Morrison had started from his store to the polls with several voters some of whom had spent the previous night at his house when they came up with several gentlemen one of whom was Thos. Chisolm, a brother of Col Ed. Chisolm took one of the men with Morrison and attempted to detain him Hereupon a quarrel commenced between Morrison and Chisolm. Our informant was not present and says there were two reports current at Cedartown at the time he left in regard to the commencement of the shooting one is that Chisolm shot first; and the other is that he drew his pistol first but that Morison shot first. Morrison's first or second shot took effect in the head of Chisolm and killed him almost instantly. Several of Chisolm's friends immediately commenced shooting at Morrison, who stood his ground until his repeater was empty when he fled to a place of refuge. It is reported that Morison was twice hit but not dangerously wounded. Very intense excitement prevailed in Cedartown the friends of Chisolm are very much exasperated and it is feard that there will be further bloodshed. After the excitement had subsided a little Morrison gave himself up and was carried to jail.

Since the above was in type we learn that there is a dispute as to who drew his pistol first. Rome, courier.

JUDICIAL JOKE.—A few years ago there sat upon the bench of a Court, not a thousand miles from Memphis, a judge whose disposition had been sourced from some cause or other (for he was a bachelor), until he fancied that barristers and all, were defying his dignity, and attempting to bring the judicial ermine into contempt. At the commencement of one of the sessions of his Court, he determined to bring the bar, clerk and sheriffs to a just appreciation of the dignity of his court, and the first thing he did was to fine the sheriff and his deputy for the non performance of an impossible duty. His next attention was paid to the members of the bar. One after another was fined, until it came to the turn of one of the most talented and boldest advocates. He (the lawyer) was busy in the examination of some papers, when his attention was arrested by an order from the Judge to enter up a fine of five dollars against him. "May it please your Honor." said the advocate, "for what am I fined?" "For contempt of court," thundered the Judge. "Well," said the advocate, "it is the first time in my life I have known a man to be fined for his unuttered thoughts."

Reward Of Honesty--Beautiful And Touching Incident.

Johnny Moore is the name of a bright eyed, jolly-faced lad, twelve or fourteen years of age, whose invalid and widowed mother, living on Morgan street, he helps to support by the sale of newspapers and by such errands and small jobs as he may chance to fall in with. Johnny, who is the hero of the pleasant and truthful incident we are about to record, is extremely neat in his attire, though his clothes may not have always been the best, and may have shown, in sundry patches and mended rents, the results of both poverty and frugal care. In short, Johnny is such a boy as we used to "read about" in Sunday-School books. Yesterday morning, bright and early, he was trudging along Broadway, between Franklin avenue and Wash street, when he chanced to stumble against a large pocket-book, which he picked up and found to contain a large number of bank notes and papers. While he was meditating on the sudden riches he had amassed, and which he had slid into a capacious pocket, or perhaps racking his youthful mind whether to seek the owner or conceal his good fortune, a gentleman rushed by him in an anxious, hurried, nervous manner, which convinced the boy that he was looking for something, and he thought he knew what.

"Have you lost anything?" asked Johnny. "Yes—my pocket-book," was the gentleman's answer; "have you seen it?"

The little fellow "expected" he had; he didn't know, though. What kind of pocket-book was it?

This led to an adjournment to a neighboring store, where the flushed and almost breathless individual "of the first part" proceeded to say that the pocket-book was a large black one, containing one thousand two hundred dollars in bank bills, and some accounts, a strip of red morocco binding underneath the flap, being inscribed "Robert Thomas, Covington, Ky." The description tallied, and Johnny's eyes snapped with cheerfulness as he placed the treasure, just as he had found it, into the stranger's hands; and we opine there was greater joy in that one act than ten thousand dollars could have purchased, at the expense of a guilty conscience.

Mr Thomas hardly seemed to know which to feel most—relief on the recovery of the money and papers or gratitude to the lad and admiration of his honesty. Taking Johnny by the hand, whose bounding heart (he knew not why) had by this time "splashed tears into his eyes," the gentleman took him to a clothing store and dressed him out, from top to toe, in a bran new suit. Then, proceeding to a jewelry store, he purchased a good silver watch, upon which he directed to be engraved these words: "Robert Thomas to little Johnny Moore. St Louis, Sept. 3d, 1859. Honesty is the best policy." Not even content with this, the generous stranger placed in a neat bead purse five twenty dollar gold pieces, which he directed the lad to give his mother.

We shall not attempt to portray the emotions of the boy. If his quivering lips, and choked utterance, and the smile that strove so hard to get through the great watery globes that trembled in his eyes, failed to tell what was going on in his heart, how shall we tell it?

PRAYER FOR MINISTERS.—How vast the range of blessing your prayers may take! Who can tell the history or trace the wanderings of yon cloud that sails in light and glory across the sky, or indicate from what source its bosom was filled with vapors it is yet to shed back upon the earth? Perhaps, though now wandering over the tilled field and the peopled village, its stores were drawn from some shaded fountain in the deep forest, where the eye of man had scarce ever penetrated. In silent obscurity that fountain yielded its pittance and did its work of preparing to bless the farsoff lands that shall yet be glad for it. And even this is with the descending Spirit. Little do we know often of the secret origin of the dews of blessing that descend on the churches of God. In the recess of some lowly cottage, in the depth of some humble heart, may be going on the work of pious intercession, in answer to which the grace of Heaven descends on us and on our children, on the labors of the wondering and joyful pastor, and on the hearts of the far heathen, until the wilderness and the solitary place are glad for them. The time is to come when from every home, brethren, such prayer shall arise. Let us sustain and swell in our day the ascending of supplication that is yet to roll round the globe, and never to fail until over a world regenerated and purified the morning stars shall again shout for joy, and the earth, emerging from her long and disastrous eclipse of sin and wrath, shall yet again walk the heavens in her unsullied brightness—a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. Till then we have no reason, no right to intermit our supplications; and it is only when, in the final accomplishment of David's prayer, his greater Son shall have come to reign king over all lands, and to have dominion from sea to sea—it is not until that prayer shall have been made for him continually, and he shall daily have been praised, that the believer remaining on earth will be warranted to adopt to his own lips the touching & triumphant close appended to the supplications of the crowned singer of Israel, "the prayers of David, the son of Jesse, are ended."—W. R. WILLIAMS, D. D.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.—The future is not dark. The right will prevail. Let us know our place and our duty in the world's great drama of moral actions. Let the American citizen, when asked "What is thy country, and of what people art thou?" reply, that his country is the birth-place of freemen—his people that happy people whose God is the Lord. Let him boast, unabashed, in the presence of princes, of the proud title, "I am an American citizen." Let the stars and stripes that now proudly float o'er a happy and prosperous nation ever be his shield and his refuge; and when he beholds his country grand and lovely beyond any other on the globe, he may boast of being indeed one of her sons; and if such a country and such a people speak out for freedom of faith and worship, theirs will be a voice as the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings which no ghostly power of tyranny can confine, but which will wake up the sleeping millions and cause them to rally and defend the rights of conscience and religious liberty the world over.—REV. A. G. CAROTHERS.

THE LOUISIANA VIGILANCE COMMITTEE.—The Attakapas Register, of the 24th inst, says:

It was brought to the Governor's notice that three of the victims of the Vigilants had died from the severity of the brutal whipping inflicted upon them, that one had been shot and stabbed, that a number of other dead bodies had been found in the prairies, and that women and children were dying in the prairies, whose fathers, husbands and and brothers have been driven from homes by the Vigilants! A sad catalogue of crimes are these, indeed, to be perpetrated in a civilized community! And to cap the climax of audacity, it is said that Judge Simon has been notified not to attempt to hold court in the Parish of Vermilion. It is with much difficulty that we are able to credit this last, for it seems to us incredible that men of the least intelligence can be so infatuated as to hope to be able to trample the courts of the State under foot, unless they are prepared to cap the climax of their lawless deeds by the crime of treason, the highest crime known to the laws of any State, and to attempt a revolution of the Government.

The Planters' Banner, of the same date, says:

The Vigilance Committee have publicly whipped nearly seventy citizens of their parishes, in the heat of such a passion as is exhibited only by a wild infuriated mob, without judge or jury, and have ordered them to leave the State in five days or suffer the penalty of death by the hands of the same company. And we were credibly informed that a heavy vote of the committee, but not a majority, was given in favor of hanging, instead of whipping, the proscribed company.

But this is not all. Dr. Wagner, a citizen of the parish of Vermillion, is now in this place under the most painful and humiliating circumstances.—He is known by several of our citizens who vouch for him as an upright, honest man. He is a Justice of the Peace and Coroner of his parish, and has never been connected with either the Vigilance Committee or the organized opposers of these committees.

By request of a citizen of his parish, he copied, in a plain hand, the resolutions which we last week published in the Banner, and endeavored to execute the law as directed by the District Attorney and his superior officers; for this he was forcibly taken from the boarding house at night, carried a quarter of a mile into the prairie, tied up and beaten unmercifully with rifle butts and even butts of their whips across the spine and ribs, breaking one of the ribs and endangering his life by the blows across the spine, and then ordering him to leave the State in five days or suffer the death penalty at their hands.

At the General whipping of the opposers of The Vigilance Committees in the parish of Lafayette, it was reported that one of the party, to avoid being whipped, blew his own brains out.—Since that event, it has been discovered that the death wound was not self inflicted, but that he was shot by an enemy. Three others have died from the effects of the whipping they received, and one other was at the point of death at Opelousas a few days ago. Among those who have died was a young man by the name of Singleton, a clerk in a store at Breaux Bridge. He was known to be an estimable young man, and had nothing to do with opposing the vigilants, he being a looker on at their proceedings

THE STEAM PLOW.—The Cincinnati Press says that thousands witnessed the successful working of the Steam plow "Lancaster," invented and patented by Joseph W. Fawkes, of Pennsylvania, at the National Fair at Chicago. Three thousand dollars—the first prize at the Fair—has been awarded him, on the recommendation of an examining committee. The engine on trial was intended only for large operations, being capable of breaking from twenty-five to forty acres per day. Its actual performance was, in four minutes, to plow a strip of two hundred and forty yards long and twenty feet wide, and the headlands of fifty feet were crossed one in twenty-seven seconds and the other in thirty seconds—the eight plows being elevated and lowered to and from the ground in the time.

The Committee, it is said have confidence that a machine of one-fourth the cost and capacity will still successfully complete with animal power.—The "Lancaster" is on its way to be exhibited at the American Institute in New York. Rewards and blessings await the man who is to relieve the farmer and his horses of the drudgery of breaking up his lands.

Newly Discovered Gold Mines in Georgia.—Col. N. J. Scott, of Auburn, Alabama, on his return from New York, favored our sanctum with a visit a day or two since, and left with us a circular, from which we gather the following facts: Messrs. Malone & King have purchased the "Glades Mines" near Altoona, in Cass county, Ga. The value of these mines is incalculable. Col. Scott informed us that he was offered, while at the North, three hundred thousand dollars, for three-eighths interest in these mines, by responsible parties and refused it. Professor John Darby, a man of long experience and practical knowledge in natural science, has examined these mines personally, and gives his testimony in favor of their vast richness.—Atlanta Intelligencer.

THE CALIFORNIA GOLD CROP.—According to the California Register, for 1859, there were in operation in 1859, in fifteen counties from which information has been obtained, 333 quartz crushing mills, the machinery of which had cost $3,367,000.

The richest quartz vein in the State is that of Allison's Rancho, which is believed to be the richest gold mines in the world. The first sixty-three tons of quartz from this vein produced $22,000. The vein or lode, called lead by the eminers, was opend in October, 1855. The yield during the ensuing two years was estimated at $1,500,000. Eight thousand tons of the rock have been crushed, which has yielded $200 per ton. Street and Soulsby's claim, in Thomas county, is supposed to contain gold rock worth $4,000,000.—Colonel Fremont's Mariposa Rancho Mines are yielding him, it is estimated, $5000 per week. The authorities adopted by the Register state the production to have been very uniform since 1851, at about $70,000 per annum.

The Supreme Court of Alabama has recently decided that the law by which it was provided that no liquor should be sold within five miles of the town of Greenboro,' where the Southern University is located, is constitutional.—This settles the question. The liquor shops have all been closed, and the knobs hung in crape. The decision frees the town of a great nuisance for five miles, taking them into the open prairie, or into the midst of plantations, whose owners do not wish any dramshops to corrupt their negroes.

HIGH PRICE OF FARMING LAND IN ENGLAND.—We notice in the late English papers as report of the sale by auction of portion of the Westbury and Henbury estates of the late Hon. W. M. Noel Those estates are within three miles of the north of Bristol, in the west of England, and the prices realized are said to have been the highest known for many years. With the exception of three lots, the land offered was all sold. The Westbury land, twenty-two and a half acres, brought five hundred and th

Oct. 18, 1859.

To Our Patrons.

☞ We shall be very thankful to our patrons who will make it convenient to pay their subscription dues during the approaching term of our Circuit Court. All who do so, whether they owe for one or more years, can have the privilege of paying at the rates of two dollars per year.

A Good Time to Subscribe.

We would suggest to those who may wish to subscribe for our paper, that the approaching term of the Circuit Court would be a very good time. It would be easy to remember, as the commencement and expiration of the year. Besides, the Congress of the United States will be in session in a few weeks, and also our own State Legislature; from both of which all good citizens will be desirous to hear. The Chinese war against the allied French and English has broke out afresh, and the Italian difficulties are far from being settled. Filibuster movements are again being made on a large scale—Mormondom is in a stew; Indian wars and depredations are raging—and our country has renewed boundary difficulties with England in the north-west—The cotton and other markets are fluctuating, and altogether it is a time of most important and exciting news; and we cannot see how any good citizen can do without one or more good papers, on the score of interest alone. Give or send us your names, and we will promise to keep you well posted on all things of interest and importance, and to make improvements in our paper commensurate with its increase of patronage. Remember, a home paper is worth two or three from abroad.

☞ We invite particular attention to the card of Mr. R. E. Neeld, Artist, in another column. Mr. Neeld has proven himself to be a good artist, and has provided himself with all the necessary implements and materials to take pictures in the neatest and most perfect style. The fact too, that Mr. N. has located permanently among us, and that his interests have become identified with ours, gives him additional claim to the patronage of the community. He will have a stronger motive to please them, than a passing stranger would have; and they in confering their patronage will not be sending their money out of the county. Besides, he will be always here to correct any mistake or inaccuracy, and retake pictures which may not be altogether satisfactory.

We would remind our friends from the country that the approaching term of the circuit court, will be a convenient time to have their ambrotypes taken; and we bespeak for Mr. Neeld, as for a polite, generous and accommodating gentleman, the liberal patronage of the community. His prices will be found to be very moderate.

Frost.—We had a slight frost in this county on the mornings of the 10th and 11th inst.

There have been several weeks of most beautiful weather for the ingathering of cotton and other crops. We have heard the opinion expressed, however, by several farmers, that the present cotton crop would fall short of the last one, at least one fifth, in consequence of the extreme wet summer.

☞ We invite the attention of the citizens of Chockolacco valley, and the eastern portion of this county generally, to the advertisement of G. C. Morgan & Co.

These enterprising gentlemen have just received their Fall & Winter Stock of Goods, and are offering them to purchasers on advantageous terms

Their friends and customers should remember that their is no reason why they cannot purchase goods as low in New York and sell them as low as any where else in the county; and the more they sell, the less per cent, will pay them. By encouraging home trade too they bring goods as it were to their own doors, as cheap as they could perhaps purchase at retail in Rome or Selma.

A Beautiful Picture of Mount Vernon.—A view of the Home of Washington is always calculated to renew the memories which cluster around the name of Washington. Hence no subject affords to art a more patriotic labor than that of making familiar to Americans the mansion in which he resided. Such a view has just been published by Messrs. J. H. Byram & Co., No. 112 South Third street. It is a most beautiful specimen of printing in colors of which there are fifteen, variedly and most beautifully imprinted by a new and improved process. The picture approaches the beautiful finish of a well executed painting and is well worthy a place in any parlor or collection. An advertisement, republishing a letter from Hon. Edward Everett commending it will be found in another column.

J. A. A.'s Plan of Saving Sweet Potatoes.—"Always dig before frost and when the ground is very dry; have your beds ready by raising them about ten inches above the ground; then put on dry straw about one foot deep; then put on the potatoes, about twenty-five bushels in a bank, next put straw one foot deep on them, the dirt at least one foot thick well packed. Shelter them with a good shelter to keep them dry. Leave no air hole, but rather try to exclude the air entirely. Potatoes thus put up are not affected by the changes of the weather, which generally rot the potatoe. If dug when the ground is wet, they are almost certain to rot."

The Terrible Accident at Albion.
Further Particulars of the Disaster.—From Mr. Alonzo Grant, of this city, who came down from Albion on the 8:30 train, we get some particulars that may be of interest. A young man from Brockport had caused a rope to be stretched from the roof of the Mansion House, on the north side of the canal, to a building on the south side, and announced that he would walk across it. The rope was about two rods west of Main-street bridge; an iron-arched structure like most of the new canal bridges, which of course offered an eligible stand point from which to view the performance. It was accordingly crowded with people and teams. The rope walker had got part way across the canal, when the bridge broke in two at the centre, precipitating all who were upon it into the middle of the canal. Men, women, children, horses and wagons, were piled in an indiscriminate mass. The west half of the bridge went down first, and of course many of those who stood near the break, were pitched off in such a way, that when the east half of the bridge came down, which it did immediately, it fell upon and covered them up. Mr. Grant informs us that a pair of horses and a carriage full of people were crushed in this way so completely that nothing had been found of them when he left—two hours after the accident. He thinks that the number killed must be greater than reported by telegraph. According to his account, the name of Dr. Randall, one of the most prominent citizens of Albion, should appear in the list of killed, but we hope it will prove that he was misinformed. The scene must have been most horrible. What became of the rope walker, nobody appeared to know. He was not seen to cross the canal or to return to the side from which he started, so far as Mr. Grant could learn. He may have been startled by the crash so that he fell off, his rope into the canal and swam ashore.

Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat, 29th September.

From Utah.—Intelligence from Salt Lake City is that the United States District Court met there, Judge Sinclair presiding, July 25th. A Grand Jury being empannelled, two Mormon attorneys moved, on behalf of clients, to quash the array of the Grand Jury, upon the ground that they were not summoned according to the statute of the Territory, which provides that the Grand Jurors shall be selected by the clerk of the County Court. These motions were overruled by the Court, and the statute thus declared by him to be invalid. The first case taken up, that of McNeil against Brigham Young, for false imprisonment, was found to be ended by McNeil having been murdered by the Danites. The next case, one of murder, was rendered abortive by the Mormons having run off the main witnesses. The third case, which was against two Mormons charged with forging government drafts, came to a stop because the main witness, John Wallace, sent a letter to the Judge, dated Camp Floyd, saying that he had been warned that, if he came to Salt Lake City to testify, he would be murdered. The Judge read the letter to the Grand Jury, and ordered the Marshal to take a posse and place the said witness under the protection of the government. Another case, which was a civil suit against Hickman, a notorious Danite leader, was put off to be compromised, and soon after the Danites surrounded the house of the plaintiff, Drown, and killed him. Thus it went on through the whole term, and a correspondent says:

The Federal Judges have recently made complaints to the proper departments in regard to the official conduct of Mr. Wilson, the United States district Attorney for this Territory. He will leave for Washington about the 15th inst., in company with Mr. Hooper, the newly elected delegate for Congress, in order to justify himself before the Administration. In his absence he has deputised Hosea Stout, a most bitter Mormon, and the attorney of the Mormon Church and of the Danite organization, to act in his place

The Hon Charles E Sinclair, Judge of the District, by request of his associates, will also leave for Washington via California, to represent properly the condition of the Federal Judiciary here, and to suggest measures for its proper relief at the hands of the Administration and Congress.

The Island of San Juan.

The New York Express, referring to this island, lately seized by Gen. Harney, remarks:

For some time past it is said to have been occupied by British subjects as a sheep pasture, for which it is said to be admirably adapted. It is some seventy thousand acres in extent, and covered, for the most part, with fine grass. The disputed ownership has its origin in the vague wording of the Oregon treaty, which provides that the dividing line separating the territories of the two countries shall run westward with the 49 parallel to the middle of the Gulf of Georgia; thence southward, with the main channel, to the Straits of Fuca, and through the middle of those straits to the ocean." It now turns out, however, that there are two main channels, the Rosario Straits and the Chande Haro, and though the former is the one chiefly used by the vessels going to Fraser river, the latter is the wider. Between them lie a number of islands, the chief of which is San Juan. The British claim that the Rosario Strait is the "main channel" referred by the treaty, and if this be conceded it will give them possession of the intermediate islands. But the American commissioners contend that as the Canal de Haro is the widest, so it is necessarily the "main channel," and by this rendering of the treaty the island in dispute became American territory. This is the case as it stands.

Army Intelligence from the west—Captain M. D. Simpson, commissary of subsistence, proceeds to Fort Vancouver, and reports to General Harney.—Assistant Adjutant General Mackall proceeds to Antelope Creek, California, and ascertains the condition of the Indians of that vicinity. A general court martial, Col. Hoffman President, and Lieut. Conley, judge advocate, assembled at Benicia barracks, California, on 24th of August, Company E, 6th infantry, has been put in march for Fort Mohave, Rio Colorado.

Good Picking.—The Brandon (Miss Republican of the 18th, says two hands on the plantation of Wm. D. Bibb, picked 1'005 pounds of cotton one day last week; one picked 505 and the other 499. On hill land this is decidedly good picking.

Discovery of More Mammoth Trees.—A grove of mammoth trees even larger than those of Calveras, which have become so celebrated in California, wonders, has been discovered in an unfrequented part of Mariposa county. The largest tree in the Calveras group was one hundred and five feet in circumference. In this more recently discovered grove, a tree was found measuring one hundred and fourteen feet in circumference. The grove contains six hundred of these monsters—none others of them, perhaps, quite that large—but all of them of approximate proportions.—These trees grow on the South Fork of the Merced river, about thirty miles southeast of the town of Mariposa. One of the trees one hundred feet from the ground has a circumference of sixty-six feet and a branch measuring eighteen feet in circumference.

The Caloric Engine in Printing.—The Northampton (Mass.) Gazette thus records the triumphs of its new caloric engine.

It goes like a clock. Puffing and blowing it tugs away at its work like a boy at his stent. Hundreds of people have been to see it. "What makes it go?" asks one. "Where is the water" asks another. What the deuce went they get up next?" And on it goes. "What's that blowing off?" That is the escape of hot air. When more heat is generated than is needed to drive the press it is passed off through the ample pipe. No water is used. A fire is built in the little furnace and the wheel set in motion and away it goes. It needs no attention any further than to keep the fire burning. A boy can manage it. And besides driving the press it gives all the heat necessary to warm the room in the coldest weather. It can consume but little fuel and therefore cannot cost much to run it. It is the cheapest power in the world. When first set up the draft was not good and it failed to show itspower but that difficulty has been overcome and now it goes like a top. Three cheers for the caloric printer.

A Comical Incident.—In worcester (Mass.) paper we find the following.

Just as the train was about starting for Greenfield, on Friday morning, on the Vermont and Massachusetts railroad, a sprightly little woman with a child took a seat in the car near where I was sitting. The cars were beginning to move, and the little woman looked anxiously through the end window of the rear car for her missing husband, who was in the depot attending to the purchase of tickets, &c. The speed of the cars increased, and the woman looked more anxious. The husband now appears and commences to run. He gains on the cars at first, but they are too far ahead of him and soon are leaving him behind, although he "did run well for a season." It is now the wife's turn to try and see what she can do. In agony she implored the conductor that her husband is left, but he can't help that. "I am starting on a journey and can't get along without my husband." "Then let him attend to his business next time," was the cold answer. "But," says the keen Yankee woman, "I have no money with me." The brakes were applied, and the cars brought stand still, and the panting husband enters the cars, to the delight of all the passengers, especially of his wife.

Moral.—Money will stop a train of cars much quicker than husbands.

There is a mail carrier at Enfield N. C. who has carried the mail on horseback fifty five miles, twice a week, for forty five years missing but one regular day in that time.

Many run about after felicity, like an absent minded man hunting after his hat, while it is on his head or in his hand.

A Brief Tragedy.—Three robbers murdered and plundered a merchant who, hearing with him much gold and other articles, was passing through a lonely wood. They brought their Bonton gains into their cave, and sent the youngest one into the village to buy food.

When he had gone the two robbers said to one another, "Why need we share these great riches with this fellow? Let us kill him when he returns and then his part will fall to us."

But the young robber thought to himself as he went, "How fortunate would I be if all these treasures were mine alone. I will poison my associates and then all will be mine." He bought food and drink, put poison into the wine, and returned to his companions.

As he entered the cave these two young men him, plunged a dagger into his heart, and he drop ed dead on the ground. They then sat down ate the food and drank the poisoned wine, and died in the greatest agony. Surrounded with riches they were found dead.

"I can't sign away my liberty."

Patterson Scott's account of an incident which Lieut Phillip S. White relates somewhere in Texas. He said he escaped a number of times from Indians, but was finally captured by them. Expecting to be killed, he prepared himself for death, but could not make positive proof. One day, however, he caught him with a bogus bill of sale.

"Well," said the Spaniard, I have been of the opinion that you were a counterfeiter and now I have caught you!"

"Yes, Sah-ee," said Mr. B., "you've got me." "Now," said Spaniard, "you have a wife and four children, and I don't want to disgrace them, and if you will promise to pay me for all the hogs you have stolen and will sign a solemn pledge that you will not steal any more, I will not say anything about it." Mr. B. was thoughtful for a moment, and then replied, "All right, Squire, that you should be sold for your hogs, if I ever get able, I intend to pay you; but, Squire, I can't sign away my liberty!" It is humiliating, and yet amusing, to see a demijohn of bad liquor throw his hat into the air, and boast of the liberties his father enjoyed. For, Strange liberty! Liberty to have a bloated form, a diseased constitution a guilty conscience, an empty pocket, a heart broken wife, disgraced relations, ragged, ignorant, and hungry children, a black eye, and a bruised red nose!

"Tis thus he is left without coat to his back;
His boots will not cover his toes;
The brim of his hat plays flapit-te-flap
All over his run-ended nose!"
And yet he says, "I can't sign away my liberty!"

Slander.—Slander is a vice impure in its source, dangerous in its effects, general in its influence, irreparable in its consequences; a vice that strikes three mortal wounds: it wounds him who commits it, him against whom it is committed, and him who sees it committed.

The young men who was forbidden the house by his sweetheart's papa feels very much put out.

A Democrat Speaks.—We are pleased to learn that this gentleman has returned to the State and located permanently at Hamilton, where he has determined to engage in the active duties of law. Our community having occasion for his services will find him prompt, energetic honest and talented. But he is so well known to need eulogy from us. We trust he will meet with all the success he deserves.

Columbus Times.

Death of English Kings.

William the Conqueror, died from the enormous fat, from drink, and from the violence of his passions.

William Rufus died the death of the poor stags that he hunted.

Henry the First died of gluttony.

Henry the Second died of a broken heart occasioned by the bad conduct of his children.

Richard Coeur de Lion died like the animal from which his heart was named, by an arrow from an archer.

John died, nobody knows how, but it is said of chargin, which we suppose is another term for a dose of hellebore.

Henry the Third, is said to have died a natural death.

Edward the First is likewise said to have died of "natural sickness," a sickness which it would puzzle all the college of physicians to denominate.

Edward the Second was most barbarously and incidently murdered by Ruffians employed by his own mother and her paramour.

Edward the Third died of dotage, and Richard the Second of starvation, the very reverse of George the Fourth.

Henry the Fourth is said to have died "of fits caused by uneasiness," and uneasiness in palaces at those times was a very common complaint.

Henry the Fifth is said to have died "of a painful affliction prematurely."—This is a courtly phrase for getting rid of a King.

Henry the Sixth died in prison, by means known then only to his jailor, and known now only to heaven.

Edward the Fifth was strangled in the tower, by his Uncle Richard the Third.

Richard the Third was killed in battle.

Henry the Seventh wasted away as a miser ought to do, and Henry the Eighth died of carbuncles, fat and fury, whilst Edward the Sixth died of a decline.

Queen Mary is said to have died of a broken heart, whereas she died of surfeit from eating too much of black puddings.

Old Queen Bess is said to have died of melancholly, from having sacrificed Essex to his enemies.

James the First died of drinking, and of the effects of a nameless vice.

Charles the First died a righteous death, on the scaffold, and Charles the Second died suddenly, it is said of apoplexy.

William the Third died from consumptive habits of body and from the stumbling of his horse.

Queen Annie died of her attachment to "strong water," or, in other words from drunkenness, which the physicians politely called the dropsy.

George the First died of drunkenness, which the physicians called an apoplectic fit.

George the Second died by a rupture of the heart, which the periodicals of the day termed a visitation of God. It is the only instance in which God ever touched his heart.

George the Third died as he had lived—a mad man. Throughout life, he was at least a consistent monarch.

George the Fourth died of gluttony and drunkenness.

William the Fourth died amid the execrations of his subjects.

The capture of the rebel Schaupyl has been confirmed; his sons have also been capured or killed.

From Utah Pike's Peak and the Plains.

Leavenworth, Sept 30—The Utah mail arrived here to day, also the Denver city express, the latter with dates to the 22d inst, and $5'000 in gold dust

The increase of crime in and about Denver has become alarming and demands prompt action for it suppression

The proposition for a State organization had been defeated by 3'000 majority It is alledged that three was some fraudulent voting.

The elections for delegate to Congres comes off early in October General Larimer is a prominent candidate.

A hunting party of Arapahoes had returned reporting a contagion existed among the buffaloes, killing them by thousands

The gold prospecting had penetrated to the head waters of the Blue river, a tributary of the Colorado, where rich leads have been discovered.

Movements of Gen. Walker.

New Orleans, Oct 4.—Collector Hatch yesterday refused a clearance to the steamship Philadelphia for Aspinwall on the ground that he had suspected she intended taking Walker and his men to Nicaragua. Walker has between two and three hundred men from Texas, Alabama and elsewhere here ready to start ostensibly for Chiriqui diggings. The men encamped at Bernick's Bay intending to take on the 5th, but it is suspected that another steamer will take them to Nicaragua and that the attempted clearance of the Philadelphia was a ruse.

New Orleans, Oct. 4.—Gen. Wm. Walker and men left here last night, and sailed from Bernick's Bay this morning in their own steamer without clearance. It is supposed that their destination is Nicaragua. Harry Maury has command of the steamer.

The Government and the Filibusters.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The administration are fully aware of the movements of the Filibusters, and the matter was the subject for Cabinet consideration to day. The Administration are determined to enforce respect for the neutrality law, even to the extent of employing the military and naval forces, Orders have been transmitted at Baton Rouge for the Federal military to hold themselves in readiness to act as a posse in a commitatus if necessary.

Georgia Election Returns.

Augusta, Oct. 5.—Eighth District. Full returns for this District are not yet in, but enough has been received to indicate the election of the Democratic candidate for Congress. J. J. Jones, by a majority of some three or four hundred.

Seventh District.—The race is close The returns thus far indicate the election of Harper (dem.) by a small majority

Third District.—Despatches to Savannah papers state that Hardeman (opp.) is probably elected by about 200 majority.

Markets.

Charleston, Oct. 5.—There is an active and buoyant demand to day, with stiffening prices. Sales 1,500 bales at 10¢ to 11¢.

Mobile, Oct 4.—Sales 2500 bales Cotton this day: Middlings at 10¾@10¾c Sales for the three days 5100 bales.—Receipts 13,025 bales.

New Orleans, Oct. 4.—Sales of cotton to day 6000 bales. Middlings Half cents. Sales three days 33,000. Receipts three days 24,000 against 23,000 same time last year. Receipts ahead of last year 30,000 bales.

Arrival of the Steamship Canada.

Halifax, October 7.—The Royal British Mail steam ship Canada, Capt. Stone, of the Cunard Line, has arrived on the way for Boston with the Liverpool mails of Saturday, September 24, bringing the usual weekly reports of the markets and advices three days later than any previous intelligence.

Liverpool Market, September 24.—Cotton.—The sales for the week ending Thursday, 22d, were 46,000 bales, of which speculators took 1000 bales and exporters 9000 bales. The sales show a decline on all grades, amounting to a well marked decline of ¼d. on low qualities, and even more on very inferior grades, for which indeed there is little demand. Holders are free sellers, but are not pressing at the new rates.

The San Juan Dispute.—The English papers are more temperate and pacific in the discussion of the San Juan affair.

Arrest of the Filibusters.

New Orleans October 7.—The steamer Panther has been seized by the United States Marshal, and the officers and crew have been arrested Arrangements have been made also to arrest the filibusters at the Southwest Pass.

LATER.—The filibusters have been arrested at the Southwest Pass by the United States Marshal, assisted by a company of Federal Militia from Baton Rouge. They made no resistance.

[For the Republican.

Auld Long Syne.

The fire is gleaming bright
One sit thee down to night,
And talk of olden days;
Tho' bright is the ingle—Dear
One close—for when thou'rt near
Still brighter seem its rays.

One cease thy work—sweet one
Nor task is to be done
No knitting must thou bring,
We'll sit and talk 'till time to nap,
While the light falls on thy snowy cap
And glimmers on thy ring.

That circle bright of yellow gold
Wakes many a dream of old,
It wove a spell;
That summer day of long ago
When the finger it clasped, was white as snow,
Remember it? my Nell.

'Twas at the orchard gate—
Dear me! at what a rate
Time flies—my Dear
Forty years! I remember it well,
Since thy answer in a whisper fell
Low, sweet upon my ear.

No whiter little hand
Wore golden jewelled band
Than thine to see;
No less were neater gown,
No hair so smooth and brown
As bonny bell's to me.

The hand I clasp—my own
Has browner, thinner grown,
But doubly dear to me
And 'neath thy cap away,
Is folded tho' tresses grey
That once waved light & free!

Thy step is not so light,
Nor thy loving eye so bright
As in auld lang syne;
But gently till it gleams
In thy auld man's dreams
Good wife of mine.

I'll go before—my own
Thro' the turbid stream alone
And when you'r coming on;
Just wave this faithful hand
Towards the shadowy land,
I'll meet thee at the shore.

FILBERT,
Hazle Dell—St. Clair County.

Married: At the Presbyterian Church in this place on Thursday evening the 6th inst., by the Rev. Mr. Mosely Mr. Benj F. Bowles to Miss Elvira C. DeBard. All of this county.

We tender the above couple our most sincere wishes for their peace and prosperity. May theirs be a life of wedded bliss unalloyed by a single element of discord may love ever radiant and beautiful preside over their destinies, and may their pathway through life ever strewn with the sweetest roses of undiminished faith and affection; and,

May many a bright path lie before you.
And many a blue sky spread above!
And peace around and sunshine o'er you
More closely draw the bonds of love!
May every parting joy entwine
A sparkling wreath for memory's brow
And may life's sunsetcalmly shine
On hearts as warm and light as now!

Through every path of life untried
Or rough or smooth or long or short
Be still a Fathers hand your guide
A Father's love your firm support!
And when—life's cares and pleasures ended—
The parting hour at length shall come,
May love and hope still sweetly blended,
Point to a better life at home!

Trinity Advocate.

Married.—On the 9th inst. by L. W. Cannon, Esq. Ira C. Hill to Miss, Mary A. Smith, all of this County.

Holloway's Pills.—Nothing this world can afford is of any value to those in whom sickness has extinguished the capacity for enjoyment. The most welcome intelligence we can give to all who are thus situated, is that the means of recovery are within their reach—that they have only to avail themselves of Professor Holloway's matchless remedies in order to shake off maladies which are breaking down their strength, spirits, and constitutions, and obtain a new hold on life, and a new sense of its blessings. The Pills are, to our certain knowledge, producing such results in chronic diarrhœa and choleic weakness of the stomach, diseases of the kidneys, and liver complaints, as have never been paralelled this country; while Holloway's Ointment is working miracles in external disorders.

As Luck as Usual.—We notice a short time since in the Livingston Democrat that our old friend, the Sheriff of Sumter County, R. The, Esq., drew a share of $20,000 in Wood Eddy & Co's Sparta Academy Lottery, which was promptly paid. This is not the only prize our luck won in the same lottery—which certainly pays out more prizes than any institution of the kind in the country.

Wood Eddy & Co's address is Augusta Georgia.—Free Press.

Economy & Progression.

In this, the age of advancement, many things new and invaluable have been introduced—not the phantoms and chimeras of other ages, but new ones, of sound and practical utility. In no department is progression better marked or more visibly to be seen than in the medical, when originating with competent men, and confined to scientific limits. Precisely of that character are the following remedial agents; none will prove more efficient, or are so often needed.

DR. LITTLE'S ANODYNE COUGH DROPS.

A new and certain cure for Coughs, Asthma Pain in the Breast; also Croup, Whooping Cough, Colds etc., among children.

This is a pleasant medicine to take,d producing immediate relief, and in nine out of ten cases a prompt cure. It exercises the most controlling influence over Coughs and irritation of the Lungs of any remedy known, often stopping the most violent in a few hours, or at most in a day or two. Many cases thought to be decidedly consumptive have been promptly cured by using a few bottles, and wearing the Little's Strengthening Plasters on the chest. As an anodyne expectorant, without astringing the bowels, it stands paramount to all cough mixtures.

DR. LITTLE'S FRENCH MIXTURE.

This is prepared from a French Recipe (in the forms of No's. 1 and 2, the first for the acute, and No. 2 for the chronic stage,) that has been much improved upon in this country; & from its unexampled success is likely to supercede every other remedy for the cure of the diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Gonorrhoea? Blennorhoea and Leucorrhoea al or Flour Albus Affections. This extensive compound combines properties totally different in taste and character from anything to be found in the United States in Pharmacopoeia or in private practice; and in point of safety and efficiency is not rivalled in America.

DOLLAR VERMIFUGE.

Prepared and put up in bottles and vials, only by C. W. Little, In using, nothing else is required to relieve children of worms; and, besides being one of the best and cheapest ever offered to the public, its frequent use in families will save much trouble and expense, as well as the lives of many children; for eight out of every ten cases generally require it.

DR. LITTLE'S RINGWORM & TETTER OINTMENT.

Hundreds of cases of Chronic Tetters, Scald Heads, and diseases of the skin generally, have been cured by this remedy, and since the introduction of the No 2 preparation (being stronger) scarcely a case has been found that it will not effectually eradicate in a short time. For the cure of Cancerous Sores and Ulcers it is applied in the form of Plasters, and is almost infallible.

In addition, the Proprietor prepares, for the great convenience and certainty in prescribing, Strengthening Plasters, of the most superior quality, Improved Cook's Pills (an entirely billious cathartic) Vegetable Pills (a mild, cathartic to elevate costiveness) Antacid (for lightness and acidity of the stomach.) Tonic Bitters, etc, which will be sent on consignment if ordered.

Medicines, like everything else, are better and more economically supplied to the great mass of the people by merchandise than in any other way.

Physicians are referred to the 13th page of Dr. Little's pamphlet, to the catalogue of medicines of the Materia Medica, that he uses in compounding his different remedies, and asked to say if they are not the chief reliance of the profession, as he himself has practised medicine extensively for more than ten years, before retiring to the drug business, in more than two hundred places in Georgia, and in all the Southern States they are to be had; and as there are scamps about who are counterfeiting his remedies, by palming off their own or something else, by using the same or similar names (for no patent is wanted or secured amid the absurd patents of the day.)

N. B.—All orders and letters on business are to sent in future to LITTLE & BRO. are to sent in future to LITTLE & BRO. Macon, Georgia, instead of Philadelphia.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
Calhoun County, }
Court of Probate for said county,
Special Term, August 13,
A. D. 1859.

THIS day came J. M. Anderson, O. & P. Anderson, Administrators of the Estate of Mary W. Perry, deceased and filed their written petition praying an order & decree of said court authorising them to sell the real estate belonging to said Estate for division, representing that an equal, fair & beneficial division cannot be made without a sale of the same Said Real Estate is described in said petition as being the South East fourth of North West fourth of section 10, Township 13, Range 10. Also South West fourth of North West fourth of section 10 Township 13, Range 10. Also North West fourth of North West fourth section 10, Township 13, Range 10 East, Coosa Land District in said County of Calhoun.

It is ordered by this Court that this 13th day of Oct. next be set for the hearing & determining upon said petition.

It is further ordered that notice of the day of the filing of said petition & of the day set for the hearing thereof, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed & published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to the distributees of said estate, and all other persons concerned to be & appear at a special term of said Court to be holden at the Court house of said county on said 13th day of Oct. next, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

THE GREAT AMBASSADOR OF HEALTH
TO ALL MANKIND.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS
A BOON TO THE SICK?

The want of a sterling medicinal to meet the ills & necessities of the suffering portion of humanity, and one entirely free from mineral and other deleterious particles, was severely felt till this all powerful medicine was ushered into the world; HOLLOWAY'S INVALUABLE PILLS have become the HOUSEHOLD REMEDY of all nations. Their attribute is to prevent as well as to cure; they attack the radix or root of the complaint, and thus by removing the hidden cause of disease reinvigorate & restore the drooping energies of the system, assisting nature in her task of vital & functionary reformation.

DYSPEPSIA.

The great scourge of this continent yields quickly to a course of these antiseptic Pills & the digestive organs are restored to their proper tone; no matter in what hideous shape this hydra of disease exhibits itself, this searching and unerring remedy disperses it from the patient's system.

GENERAL DEBILITY & WEAKNESS

From whatever cause, lowness of spirits, & all other signs of a diseased liver, & other disorganization of the system, vanish under the eradicating influence of this all powerful antiseptic and detergent remedy.

BILIOUS DISORDERS.

The proper quantum and right condition of the bile is of momentous importance to the health of the human frame, this anti-bilious medicine expels the hidden seeds of the complaint, and renders all the fluids & secretions pure and finest, cleansing and resuscitating the vital functions of the body.

SICKLY FEMALES.

Should lose no time in trying a few doses of this regulating and renovating remedy, whatever may be their complaint, it can be taken with safety in all periodical and other disorganizations its effects is all but miraculous.

UNREFUTED PROOF.

Asthma,	Diarrhœa,
Bowel Complaints,	Dropsy,
Coughs,	Debility,
Colds,	Fever and Ague
Chest Diseases,	Female Complaints,
Costiveness,	Headaches,
Dyspepsia,	Indigestion.
Influenza,	Stone and Gravel;
Inflamation,	Secondary symptoms
Inward Weakness,	Venereal Affections.
Liver Complaints,	Worms of all kinds
Lowness of Spirit.	Piles.

The testimony of Nations is unanimously borne to the health-giving virtues of his noble remedy, & certificates in every living language bear witness to the undeniableness of their intrinsic worth.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

☞ CAUTION!—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London," are discernible as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

Sold at the Manufactories of Prof. Holloway, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggist and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 63 cents, and $1 each.

☞ There is considerable saving by taking the larger sizes

PROSPECTUS

WEEKLY

Montgomery Advertiser & State Gazette

VOLUME 26.

THE Twenty Sixth Volume of the MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER AND STATE GAZETTE will commence with the 1st of the 7th of September next. The ADVERTISER AND GAZETTE, now just entering the age of a quarter of a Century, boasts its prosperity, the strength and impregnable citadel of the true and sound STATES RIGHTS Democracy of Alabama.

The ADVERTISER AND GAZETTE, a prominent feature in the living history and politics of Alabama, needs not the commendatory puff part of a lengthy or labored prospectus into the good opinion of the intelligent and patriotic yeomanry of the country; it bases its claim solely to the patronage of the STATES RIGHTS DEMOCRACY of the State, upon its stern and inflexible devotion to the practical issues and vital principal of that party. In short, the past history of the ADVERTISER AND GAZETTE is the best guaranty we can offer of its future. A true consistent and untrammelled Democrat! Proof alike to the selfish dictates of all cliques, or the abhorrence of the treasonable isms of the age! With these time honored principles ever floating at our mast head and in unshaken confidence in their triumph throughout all the South we on the stump on the 6th Volume and ask "all aboard" for the great and stirring Presidential campaign of 1856.

Our circulation is already large, yet it would be gratifying to us to supply the great army of Alabama Democrats with the pure and unadulterated principles of the State Rights school of politics in the weekly visitation of Advertiser. The WEEKLY ADVERTISER will contain all the latest important news, both foreign and domestic, also a carefully digested weekly report of the Montgomery markets.

$25 REWARD

ABOUT the middle of the afternoon of Saturday the 27th of August last, a man calling himself by the name of George Shemonsky, and saying he was a Russian by birth, came to my livery stable in Jacksonville, Ala. and said he wished to hire a horse to ride to Mr. Robert W. Draper's about six miles from this place. I hired him the horse, he saying he would return him the next morning. I have not seen him or the horse since. I cannot understand the gentleman's motive. The horse is a large sorrel, left eye out, a heavy chunky tail, rather inclined to be hog-backed, crew necked, about 12 years old.

Shemonsky is a man about 5 feet 4 or 5 inches high. He had on a crap hat, satin vest, and dark clothing, and a sack coatee, when he hired the horse. I will give the above reward for the delivery of the horse and the gentleman who hired him.

DR. CHURCHILL'S REMEDY

FOR THE PREVENTION AND CURE OF

CONSUMPTION.

Winchester's Genuine Preparation of the

HYPOPHOSPHITES

OF LIME AND SODA

The Specific Remedy for Consumption, Scrofula, Bronchitis, Asthma, Debility, Dyspepsia Nervous Diseases, Chlorosis, and the Consumptions of Women, Loss of Energy, Wasting, &c., &c.

This extraordinary CHEMICAL PREPARATION of PHOSPHORUS, (the principle and curative properties of which were discovered by Dr. J. L. Churchill, of Paris) is performing wonderful cures through out Europe and the United States, having already attained, since its introduction, a most unbounded popularity, both with the medical profession and the public. It is purely scientific preparation, acting with absolute certainty, and of invariable efficacy in all stages of Pulmonary and Nervous Diseases The

Cure of Consumption,

in the second and third stages (at a period, consequently, when there can be no cure anyway as to the nature of the disease) can readily be obtained, in all cases, by this treatment, except when the existing lesion of the lungs itself is sufficient to produce death. Hereditary predisposition seems in no way to counteract the effect of the Hypophosphites; patients in whom it was most strongly marked recovering as rapidly as others.

This Remedy has not only a curative effect but will, it used wherever there exists a suspicion of the disease, prevent its development, and thus act as a preventative with regard to consumption, just as vaccine has does with regard to small-pox.

It is impossible, within the limits of an ordinary advertisement, to furnish the evidence of cures in my possession in regard to the success of this new and specific treatment; I have one of the most extensive courespondences of the kind ever. But in order to satisfy the numerous inquiries who are daily addressing me for information, I have just published a treatise on

DR. CHURCHILL'S WORK ON CONSUMPTION,

Comprising his Report made to the Imperial Academy of Medicine, Paris; Notes of Cases, and Letters, Documents, Testimonials, &c., which, together with a Circular, will be sent on receipt of 12 cents in stamps to cover the expense of postage.

☞Those therefore, who wish reliable information previous to deciding whether to try this extraordinary remedy, should lose no time in writing for Dr. Churchill's Treatise. Thousands would be restored to health by placing themselves under this treatment during the Summer, which is the most favorable season, but who, if they delay, may go down to premature graves.

☞Price of Winchester's genuine preparation," of the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda (in Syrup), $5 per bottle; three bottles for $7. Single bottles in concentrated condition, by mail, when especially requested, $2 each. The Dry Salts furnished to the Profession. Each bottle has full directions for use, with my fac simile signature. Use no other.

Howard Association.

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhœa, Seminal weakness, Impotency, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

Medical Advice Gratis

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors, on a review of he past feel assured that their labors in this sphere of benevolent effort, have been of great benefit to the afflicted, especially to the young, and they have resolved to devote themselves, with a renewed zeal, to this very important but much despised cause.

Just Published, by the Association, a Report on Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, the vice of Onanism, Masturbation or Self Abuse, and Diseases of the Sexual Organs by the Consulting Surgeon, which will be sent by mail, (in a sealed envelop) FREE OF CHARGE, on the receipt of TWO STAMPS for postage. Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon Howard Association No. 2 South NINTH Street, Philidelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

POETRY.

A PRAYER FOR A DYING CHILD.

BY MINNIE MARY LEE.

Since I cannot save thee, darling
Since my yearning prayer is vain
While my heart so bleeding broken,
Pours o'er thee its tearful rain,
Bends my soul before the alter
Of the Father's golden throne,
Praying, O. with tones that falter,
For some soul to guide thine own.

Through the dark and shadowy valley,
O'er the river chill and wild,
Up the starry steeps of soul-land,
Thou wouldst fear and faint my child;
Thou so young, and mild, and tender,
Full of tears when Mammat's gone,
How couldst bear the radiant splendor
That at last should o'er thee dawn?

Send some spirit, Father holy,
Down to guide my fainting dove:
There is one among thine angels,
Who was once my child of love
Like his eyes so blue and wondrous,
Are the eyes of dying Grace:
Browned hair like his and golden
Falls around her pallid face.

Shall not he, with gentle coming,
Fold his wing beside her bed,
Clasp her soul to his so saintly.
Ere we call our blossom dead?
Ah methinks I feel the presence—
Now I bow me to the rod;
Oh give pardon for my sorrow
That my darlings are with God.

(From the Dublin University Magazine)

THE EARLY DEAD.

BY MRS. LENOX CONYNGHAM.

We buried her while morning's light
Was stealing o'er the sky
Ere yet the tears of dewy night
On Nature's face were dry.

We buried her while still the sun
Was on the horizon's verge
The lark before our task was done
Began to sing her dirge

We laid our sleeping flower among
The first awaking flowers
Like them she was so sweet and young
That blighted bud of ours.

She died at dawn—we laid her where
The sun's first smiles will rest
He will not look on aught so fair
Before he gains the west

We did not leave a trace of gloom
At out her grassy bed
All should be bright beside a tomb
Which holds the early dead.

Her being had but dawned on earth
Before she passed away:
Death is the spirit's better birth
The dawn of perfect day.

Miscellaneous.

The Story of Richard Miller,

OR, INVENTION OF THE BRICK MACHINE.

Some years ago, in a little city in the West, lived Richard Miller, an honest, industrious, sober, shoemaker. He had emigrated from Philadelphia a few years previous to the opening of my story, with his wife and child, and by economy and the closest attention to business, he managed to lay up six hundred dollars. This sum he would have undoubtedly so increased as to place himself and family beyond the reach of want in a few years, had it not been for that insidious monster consumption. The fell destroyer came to him, as usual in such cases, in a bad cold, and for a long time he flattered himself into the belief that it was only a bad cold; but like a skilful sapper and miner, it soon undermined his constitution, and he began to have some faint glimering of his real condition.

There was no use staying any longer in the West, so he sold his stock and fixtures, and returned to Philadelphia, where he took up his permanent abode. Having become entirely too weak to work he spent his days in that inactive, but petulent state so common to consumptives.

One day he took it into his head to consult an eminent physician—one of the Professors of a medical college—in order to ascertain his true condition. He called upon him, stated his case, and underwent the customary examination.

"Young man," said the professor, "your lungs are badly affected, and I am only dealing frankly with you when I say, that in my opinion you are not long for this world."

Miller's heart sank within him as he heard his doom. He had the most implicit confidence in the professor; and, as he thought of his wife and child, he felt very much as if for the future the world would be blank to him.

"Did you ever drink whiskey?" inquired the Professor, as he paced the room.

"Never, except upon one, or perhaps two occasions," said Miller.

"You can keep yourself alive two years—probably three—by the moderate use of whiskey. It is a dangerous prescription, but in giving it to you I have reason to believe that you will not let it obtain the mastery over you. Get the best whiskey you can buy, & drink a pint of it a day."

Poor Miller, ready to grasp at the merest shadow of relief, went to a liquor store and purchased a demijohn of Bourbon whiskey, and commenced taking doses of it at intervals through the day.

A year rolled away, and Miller was much improved. His cough was easier, and the stimulus appeared to impart a kind of artificial strength to his body; but I regret to say, his appetite, which never before craved alcoholic drinks, had assumed an abnormal condition, to appease, which it now required not less than a quart per diem. He felt that he was not doing much toward retarding his march down to the grave; but the heavy doses of alcoholic stimulants invested the past present and future with a feeling of obliviousness that was quite a relief to his melancholy broodings over his misery when he was properly himself.

When in this state Miller loved solitude, and he frequently walked as far away from home as his strength would permit him—generally in the neighborhood of the brick yards in the south-western part of the city.

One day having extended his walk beyond his usual limits, and being overtaken by a thunderstorm when he reached the brick yards, he took shelter under the shed of one of them. Having drank an unusual quantity of whiskey during the day, he fell asleep upon the wheelbarrow on which he was resting, while the storm was still raging; nor did he awake until the dawn of next day, a mild, beautiful June morning. At first he was mystified; but soon recalled to his recollection the storm and the brick-yard, and feeling somewhat drowsy, he composed himself for another nap. It is uncertain how long he slept—probably not over half an hour—but during that time he had a remarkable vision. He dreamed out the principles of a machine for the manufacture of brick—a machine that would, in a great measure, supersede all hand labor. Every wheel, cog and casting passed through his brain; and in his dream he even saw the machine in practical operation. When he awoke it was quite light, and he hastened towards his home. His mind was entirely taken up with the machine, his dream having evidently made an impression upon him as indelible as any idea ever conceived in his most wakeful hours. Long before he reached his home he had resolved to carry out the spirit of his dream. After breakfast he made the necessary preparations to work out a model. The obstacles that interposed were legion, but he overcame them all. Tools that he could not borrow he bought, and it was now that he went to work most patiently and perseveringly, paying very little attention to the whiskey, as his whole soul appeared to be wrapt up in one grand object.

His wife, from the begining of the work, thought that his mind was giving away; and the poor, patient, enduring woman, finding their stock of money rapidly decreasing, took in sewing, while he sawed, planed and chiseled at his model. He grew morose, and seldom spoke. Sometimes he would gaze abstractedly upon the model for a long time, & then, as if reassured, he would go to work again with renewed energy; and so he continued for many long and weary weeks until the model was finally completed, and stood before him perfect in all its parts. As he worked it in the presence of his wife, a gleam of satisfaction sat upon his countenance and he smiled. It was the first smile that had illuminated his features since he had been at work upon the model. He carried it off to a finished mechanic, who engaged to make a fine duplicate for $20; and when he had finished his job, the wife saw him take that amount from their slender store more in sorrow than in anger, but she knew the utter folly of protesting.

Richard Miller now for the first time consulted a friend in the matter; and that friend, having had some experience in procuring patents, gave him the benefit of his knowledge. To procure the patent, would cost thirty dollars more. This alarmed Miller; but the patent must be had, and that amount went. In due time letters patent arrived, and he had the rough model and document—nothing more. Out of them it would be next to impossible to realize. No, he must have a machine capable of working. He felt satisfied that nothing short of a machine would enable him to dispose of his right. But how to get a machine built was a question which puzzled him sadly. No one capable of making a perfect machine would undertake the job for less than $100. Alas he had no longer that sum of money in the house. Miller was almost bordering on despair, when one of the mechanics to whom he had spoken called upon him in order to make a more minute examination of the model. He was eminently a practical man, and he made a most thorough examination, at the end of which he declared his firm conviction was that the machine was a great invention. At all events he would be willing to build one on a contingency. If it failed to work, he would charge nothing, but if it answered the expectations of the inventor, then he would charge two hundred dollars for machine and risk. This was virtually taking an interest in the success of the invention, and Richard closed with him. The mechanic was prompt and energetic, and putting his whole force to work, in a few days turned over to Miller a complete machine.

His next business was to give the machine a trial. He went over to Camden, where he had an acquaintance in the brick business, and prevailed upon him to let the trial take place at his yard, next day, at 11 o'clock.—The proprietor had very little faith in the machine, but, as he had a large lot of brick for sale, he was willing to submit to almost anything to attract attention to his yard. To this end he slyly inserted an advertisement in several of the early papers of Philadelphia, announcing the trial of a wonderful patent brick machine, naming the time and place, which, of course, he thought would only be another addition to the long catalogue of failures in that line of inventions.

Next day Miller partook of an early breakfast, and then possessed himself of the last dollar in the house to pay current expenses. He bade his wife be of good cheer—that he thought he would return before night with not less than five hundred dollars. The poor woman thought it more likely that he would return dejected, broken hearted, and ready to die; but she said nothing.

From his house he went direct to the machine shop, and had his invention taken to the ferry boat, and had it safely landed, put up ready to operate at the appointed hour.—He knew nothing of the advertisement in the papers, and was therefore a little surprised to see upwards of a hundred persons congregated in the yard. He did not like, it for in case of failure the mortification would only be the greater; but he consoled with the belief that in case of success, competition might spring up and enable him to realize one thousand dollars for his right, instead of five hundred dollars; at which moderate figure he held it.

The clay having been elevated, the horse was started and the machine moved. It was a moment of intense anxiety to every one, and painfully so to Richard Miller. Eureka! it was a triumph! mould after mould of beautiful brick were carried from it, until in an incredibly short space of time a thousand were finished and drying in the yard.

There stood Richard Miller gazing upon his invention. It was the full realization of his dream in its minutest particulars. It was the happiest moment in his life. He was just on the point or offering the right of making and vending the machine in the United States to the highest bidder, when an old Yankee tapped him on the shoulder.

"Young man,' said he, 'that's a very good machine of yours, but I see where a very important improvement can be made. Under such circumstances I will give you fifty thousand dollars for your right, title and interest in it!"

Miller grasped one of the levers of his machine to keep from falling. No! it could not be; the whole thing must be a continuation of the brick-yard dream.

"How much did you say?" asked Miller in doubt.

"Fifty thousand!" said the man, evidently ready to increase the amount if Miller demanded it.

"I'll take it" grasped the inventor, who still could not believe the evidence of his senses.

"Then come with me."

A few moments more, and they were on their way to Philadelphia; and in crossing the river Richard Miller paid the last sixpence he had in the world for ferriage. Once arrived in the city, they went direct to the office of a lawyer, where the necessary papers, making a full assignment, were drawn up—Miller all the while doubting the possibility of the man having anything like the amount of money he offered; but he still resolved in his mind that he was safe if he got but a single thousand in cash, and the ballance in worthless promisory notes. At length the assignment was finished and signed, and the man handed Miller a check, payable at one of the principal banks, for the entire amount, on the back of which the attorney certified to Miller being the owner of the check.

The patentee was still incredulous; but, satisfied that if the check was worthless, it would be evidence of fraud, and the sale not valid, the papers were exchanged and he left the office. He hastened to the bank, and presented his check to the paying teller. That gentleman scrutinized it a moment, and then asked how he would have it?

Richard Miller was again nonplussed. He stood like a statue gazing upon the teller until the question was repeated.

"Gold and silver!" said Richard.

"Gold and silver!" said the teller in surprise—"have you a dray?"

"Beg your pardon," said Miller "Let me have a bag of a thousand dollars in gold and silver, & the ballance in bank notes."

A bag with that amount in mixed coin was soon placed before him, and forty-nine packages of one thousand dollars each were laid upon the counter. Miller had by this time in a measure regained his self possession, and after stuffing the notes into his pocket, he shouldered his bag of coin and left the bank.

As soon as he saw an omnibus he hailed it, & rode to within two squares of his home. When he reached the latter he staggered in beneath his load, and walking directly to the bed, he emptied the bag of glittering coin up, on it, to the infinite amazement of his wife. But what was her astonishment when he drew from his pockets package after package of bank notes. He contained himself until he had thrown the last package upon the bed, when he gave way to the wildest and most extravagant feelings.

"Ha! ha! ha! he laughed hysterically—"my dream is out! The machine works! Fifty thousand! Ha! ha!"

Then snatching up his child, he continued, pacing the room—

"My boy, you are no beggar. Fifty thousand! ha! ha!"

In this way he raved, shouted and stamped. Large beads of prespiration stood upon his brow, his face looked haggard, and his eye had the wild glare of the maniac. In vain his wife tried to calm his agitation; he raved until he ruptured a blood vessel. He sank down in his chair with his child in his arms, the blood gushing from his nose and mouth. He drew back his head to indulge in another hysterical laugh, but it was checked by a gurgling noise, and the next minute Richard Miller was a corpse! His spirit had passed away in the language of Longfellow:

"Like a glorious roll of drums,
In the triumph of a dream!"

The reader will notice that we have used fictitious for real names. The machine, which went under the name of the purchaser, made him an independent fortune and is still in use.

Letter from Dr. Nott.

PARIS July 15th, 1859.

My Dear Forsyth—After making my purchases for the college, in London, I started with my cavalcade to do up the rest of Great Britain, which was accomplished in the most speedy manner possible. I being very anxious to get to Paris, where I expected to find most of the articles I am in search of. We went up by the famous Cathedral of York to Edenburg; thence to Melrose Abbey, Abbotford, Leamington, Warwick, Kenilworth, etc., etc., and with the facility of railroads, were enabled to see a great deal in a short time.—England is a most beautiful country, full of interesting objects and historical associations. Strikes you at every step with enormity of its wealth and power. But still it is, in many respects, a disagreeable country to travel in. The charges at hotels are enormous—the railroad charges are excessive.—Everything is dear, and you are robbed at every step by that class of people which travellers are necessarily brought in contact with. I only remained there two weeks.

When we landed in Paris I really felt as if I was at home, although I had been away twenty years. There are many temptations here to spend money, but the mode of living is so well arranged—prices of rooms, meals, servants, hacks, &c., are so perfectly regulated that you can spend much or little (comparatively speaking) as you please. But in England the thing is impossible.

Everything here seems familiar to me, and I take up my old routine that I followed twenty years ago, just as we would go to the Virginia Springs or New York. You have heard much of the improvements made by the Emperor in Paris, but the short space of a letter can give you no idea of what has been done—in fact language cannot describe the extent and splendor of the new streets; the completed Louvre; the Place de la Concorde; the Champs Elysees; the Bois de Boulogne, &c. They must be seen to be appreciated.

The city is more quiet now since the armistice, but when we arrived it looked like a visit reservoir of soldiery.—It was Saturday morning and a grand Te Deum was to be performed in honor of the victory of Solferino. The drums were beating, immense masses of infantry and cavalry were moving in every direction; the streets were crowded with hundreds of thousands of people, and all concentrated on Notre Dame to meet the Empress.

I started out the day after my arrival in Paris to deliver letters, look up old acquaintances among the Faculty get all the necessary information about the various articles which go to make up one of those complicated assortments necessary for a Medical College Museum, and I have been fortunate beyond all expectation. I have no hesitation in saying that I shall have such a museum in Mobile next winter, as never has been brought from Europe before. This looks like a bold assertion, but I can give you very ample reasons to satisfy you that I am saying what is strictly true. 1st. I was connected some time with the New Orleans schools, where the largest foreign collection in the United States exists, and I not only know what it contains, but took occasion to inform myself thoroughly with regard to its contents and the sources from which things are had.—2d. The manufacture of such articles has greatly improved of late years, many of them are better done, and many new things particularly in the way of Pathology have been added to the catalogues. 3d. I have been extremely fortunate in finding out some private collections thro' Professors, where I have been able to get some preparations, the like of which never crossed the Atlantic before, and do not exist any where in the United States. I allude particularly to preparations of the arterial, nervous and lymphatic systems, made by the distinguished anatomist Sappey, whose reputation has been mainly made on the very dissections I have purchased. These preparations have been in his private cabinet, and were never offered for sale. They are worth to us their weigt in gold, though I have paid but $550 for the whole series. These preparations were made for a concours, were exhibited in the Museum of the Ecole de Medicine, and some of the duplicates of them are now there, the handsomest of the Institution.

The collection of Vasseur, where I obtained the largest portion of articles purchased up to this time, is a very rich one. I have from him a complete system of osteology, from the earliest period of infancy to adult age, representing this system in every phase that the most minute demonstration could require. I have from Vasseur, also an extensive and very valuable collection of diseased bones, which will be extremely useful in practicial teaching.—In addition to these, I get from him some models of diseased eyes, which are excellent, various little models in wax, and beyond all this a series of comparative anatomy which will greatly interest Dr Anderson, the Professor of Physiology, and afford ample material to illustrate his course. This collection alone cost ten thousand francs, but it covers, not only a large field of anatomy, special and comparative, but also much belonging to the other departments.

My next point was the Anatomic Clattique of Auzoux, where I have made a valuable collection of anatomical models. In addition to human anatomy, I have from him some excellent models of the anatomy of the horse, and in he physiological department a complete series of models illustrating the vital functions of the animal kingdom, from man down to the zoophyte—the digestion, circulation, respiration, innervation, &c. This series is large, costly, and very interesting.

In speaking of the collection of Vasseur, I should have stated that our collection of Comparative Anatomy will include a complete series of beautifully prepared skeletons of leading types of whole animal kingdom. We commence at the Bimanes (man.) Quadrimanes (monkey.) then follow in order, the beasts of prey, the Marsupials, the Rodentia, the Edents the Pachyderms, the Ruminants, &c. Next come the types of the feathered tribe, commencing with the birds of prey, and following through the various orders. After these, in order, come the Reptiles, Chelonians and Saurians, then Serpents, Batratians, and a long series of Fishes, too numerous to mention, &c. You will recognise the great value of this collection in a state whose geological formation is such as ours.

The next depot of materials was the celebrated one of the Thibert. Here I have purchased largely. These are mostly pathological models. The collection is very extensive, and contains a great deal that is valuble to the anatomist, surgeon and physiologist. Say to Dr Gordon, that his department (Obsterries) will be most fully illustrated in our museum. From Thibert I get a has been placed in the case devoted to very interesting series of models of reptiles of "Asia and the Archipelago. Microscopic Anatomy. They present the minute structure of all the tissues magnified from five hundred to three thousand times, which will enable the Professor of Physiology to demonstrate with facility to a class these intricate subjects.

You can tell Dr. Rose, that I have provided for his department most fully and satisfactorily. I had been recommended to a very large house of first rate reputation, and on going there to make my business known I found they had been in the habit of filling orders of this kind, and had supplied the handsome collection in the New Orleans School of Medicine. All this saved me a great deal of trouble, for they had catalogues ready of a full series, bottles made of proper form, labels, &c. The collection costs us about five thousand francs. It will make a handsome display and give every thing necessary to illustrate his department.

Dr Ketchum, whose branch covers the whole range of the profession, will find in the collection I have purchased in London and Paris, all that he can possibly desire.

My own department will also be amply provided for. The surgical and pathological anatomy in the collections I have described will give me enough to talk about. The only thing I have left untouched is the mechanical department of surgery, and I have made an appointment with Charriere to-morrow to spread out his immense collection before me, when I shall go throu' every thing in detail, and make a selection of all that will be useful in a practical course of surgery. From 7 to 10 o'clock every morning I attend the cliniques of the great surgeon Velpeau, Civiale, Nelation, Jobet, &c., and will pick up all the new hints that can serve me in completing my arrangements.—Velpeau is in a wonderful state of preservation, looks vigorous and active, uses no glasses and must be 70. Nelation is one of the most charming of men, has the most kind and benevolent manner imaginable among the sufferers of his ward—is modest and conscientious in his teaching, full of knowledge and experience, and imparts it in a manner peculiarly simple and happy.

As you may imagine, I have not been idle since my arrival in Paris. I have delivered the ladies over to my sons to be amused in sight seeing, and have seen little out of the medical department except the exterior of palaces, churches, gardens, &c.—for I had determined before I came to do my work thoroughly before I looked for pleasure. My son has been of great use to me, for I had written to him about my wants and requested him to have all information possible ready to facilitate me.

My purchases up to this date, including my collection in England, have run up to a heavy amount, but I still have funds enough in hand to get a great many good things. There are several departments in which I am deficient, and have not yet found materials to satisfy my cravings; and I shall not purchase until I do find what comes up to the mark. The articles already bought will be put in motion in a few days, and shipped from Havre direct to Mobile, where they will arrive in six weeks.

I am pushing hard to get through with all that can be done here, and expect to run down to Florence in a week to look over the collection of wax models, &c, in that city. I dread the trip on account of the season, but I wish to perform my mission as thoroughly as possible. I think I shall take my family up in the mountains of Switzerland, and let them amuse themselves there and on the Rhine while I go to Florence.

In conclusion, I may say of our museum that it will be a superb one, which will enable us to give a thorough course of instruction, and which will do honor to our State. This has all been done by the energy of a few private individuals, aided by the generosity of many of public spirited citizens of Mobile.—But our work is but half done, and I hope that the State Legislature will not permit this great enterprise to flag for want of proper support. The city of Mobile is not alone interested in an institution of this kind. Its benefit will be extended equally from the mountains to the seaboard. We have temporary lecture rooms, which will answer well for vigorous commencement of our course: but before the institution can be placed on a firm and enduring basis, it is indispensable that we should have a proper building of its own for a thorough organization. Surely our State will not refuse to do its part, particularly when it looks to its own sister city, New Orleans, where the legislature has appropriated $100,000 to its medical schools. Our trustees have backed us nobly thus far, and, well known as they are through the State, I feel confident they can and will push the enterprise through.

In haste very truly yours
J. C. NOTT

A Sea Serpent—The sea snake caught by Capt. Taylor master of the ship British Banner coiled up on the surface of the sea in latitude 1° 30 south and 78° 10' east longitude has been forwarded to Professor M'Coy for the Melbourne Museum. It is an exceedingly fine specimen of Pelamis bicolor a venomous and truly pelagic serpent, remarkably distinguished from land snakes by the lateral compression of the posterior part of the body enabling it to swim like an eel; and as the broad ventral scales used for creeping by terrestrial snakes would be useless they are replaced by minute ones like those of the back or sides. The reason why they are caught easily when on the surface of the sea is that instead of breathing by gills like fishes they breathe like the land snakes, by large very long lungs which becoming distended with air when the animal comes to the surface to bask in the sun, cannot be quickly emtied to enable it to sink or escape when surprised. The Irish Revival.

A correspondent of the Presbyterian Banner, writing from London says:

The awakening in Ireland still continues to manifest its power. Physical prostrations are not so common, yet still they occur, accompanied in some cases with what the Ballymena Observer calls "a faculty of limited prescience or perversion," which has excited very great astonishment among the people. It is noticeable only in connection with a class of persons whose physical organization has, to a serious extent, been disturbed by the frequently repeated action of mental excitement. Two sisters thus fell, at the same time, into a trance, for three hours, deaf, dumb, and motionless. Both recovered at the same hour, and immediately were separated—one taken forth with to her own house, where she fell on her knees and was engaged in prayer for half an hour. To the great surprise of her relatives she then affirmed that at four o'clock the next day, she would be in the same condition again, and also lose the power of one side, and remain so for six hours. "I cannot explain how I know, but my mind tells me it will be as I have said."

There seems to have been a kind of mysterious sympathy between the two sisters. The other girl, Jane however, was not told that Ellen expected thus to be influenced. Precisely at four o'clock Ellen dropped from her chair in a state of absolute insensibility, and was found to become immovable and rigid in every joint on the left side. The other sister fell into the same state (except blindness) at the same moment, and both awoke together in perfect consciousness. One of them, watched by a crowd of anxious visitors, immediately exclaimed—"Christ is my Saviour. He is all in all." And incredible as it may appear, these identical words were uttered at the same moment by her sister, three hundred yards distant, as she awoke to consciousness the same moment.

The parties affected predict the time of their recovery, and yet they are not fanatical, and believe that "the sure word of prophecy" is complete, & that "the vision is shut up."

SMOKING A CAUSE OF INSANITY.

The terrible ravages which tobacco is making on the bodies and mind of the young, seems to be attracting the attention of medical men in various parts of the world. In a pamphlet, just issued by Dr. Seymour, of London, on Private Luntic Asylums, and the causes of insanity of late years, the Doctor denounces with emphasis, as one of producing causes, the practice of immoderate smoking, indulged in by boys and young men at the universities & large schools, now called colleges." The Doctor's remarks are as applicable to the youths of this country as those of Europe. No one conversant with disease can doubt that excessive smoking, especially in the case of young people, must be highly injurious to both mind and body. Its effect is to depress the circulation—the heart becomes weak, irregular in its action, and the pulse is scarcely to be felt. The victim becomes irresonte and nervous, his appetite fails, and his mind fills with imaginary evils. This may continue for years, but at length the smoker dies often suddenly; then examination has shown that the muscular structure of the heart is imperfect in its action; the left side is thin, and in some cases, in which sudden death has occurred, there has been found little more than a strip of muscular fibre left on either side. The question of restraining boys from smoking is rather a difficult one to deal with, but the grave interests at stake seem to demand that some action should be taken in the premises.

A Profitable Blackberry Field—The editor of Norwalk (Ct.) Gazette has been visiting the New Rochelle fields, belonging to Messrs. George Seymour & Co., and says that three or four bushels of berries is not an unusual yield for a single bush!—Three acres under cultivation have produced over four hundred bushels of black berries, with a cultivation that cost $8 per acre, and the blackberries, when sold in New York, realized above expenses, $3200, or more than $1000 per acre. Besides this, thirty barrels of blackberry wine, now worth $50 per barrel, have been made from the berries grown on the same lot, and there are plants enough for the sales of next spring to make the net yield from this small lot at least five thousand dollars.

Georgia Made Rail Road Iron.

We learn from the Griffin Empire State that eleven car loads of rail road iron passed through that place, a day or so ago, on the Macon & Western Road, shipped from the Atlanta Rolling Mill to some point below. We have noticed some of this iron passing up the State Road, and it will compare favorably with any we ever saw. Every year Georgia is becoming more independent, and in a very few years she will be able to manufacture everything she needs. Her mineral wealth is inexhaustible—indeed she has every element to make her a great State, and we long to see the day when she will not have to look to the North for anything—when she will manufacture her own goods—when she can, in truth, be called not only the "Empire State of the South but of the Union.—Dalton Times.

☞ We must offer as our apology this week, to our kind patrons, for any deficeneies of the present number of our paper, the fact of our absence in attendance at the Talladega celebration, & also two days absence on urgent business in another county. It is not often that we ask for a furlough, or are absent from our post, even for a single day, we therefore count with more confidence on their patience and indulgence in this instance; and assure them that those deficiencies shall be more than made up within a short time.

Rail Road Celebration at Talladega.

We were present at the celebration, on Wednesday last, at Talladega; and truly we may say that it was altogether a magnificent affair. But unless we were prepared to devote some three or four columns to the scenes and festivities of the occasion, we should almost despair of conveying any thing like an adequate idea to those who were not present. We shall therefore content ourselves with a brief mention of some of the prominent features of the occasion, & depend upon the reports of the local papers, which we shall copy, for the satisfaction of our readers.

On the night previous the inns of the place were crowded to overflowing, by those who had already arrived to be present at the celebration. At daylight on Wednesday morning, a salute of some 30 or 40 discharges of cannon, and volleys of musketry, was fired by the military companies in attendance, composed of the Selma Blues, Selma Artillery and Talladega Artillery.

Early in the day people came pouring in from every direction, until the crowd had augmented, by 11 o'clock, according to the most correct judgment, to the number of at least ten thousand.

When the train came up from Selma, with fifteen hundred or two thousand persons on board, the enthusiasm which prevailed, was far beyond any thing which could be conceived from a mere description of the most gifted pen. The thousands on the train, in swift motion, cheering the answering thousands that lined the road on either hand, amid the roaring of cannon, the rattle of musketry, the beating of drums, and the unearthly yells of the escaping steam from the engines, caused altogether a scene not often witnessed; and one which caused the pulse of the most cold and phlegmatic, to leap with a strange but delightful thrill.

A bountiful & sumptuous dinner was prepared, even for so large a crowd, by the generous and liberal citizens of Talladega and vicinity, set upon tables measuring in entire length, three quarters of a mile. The Ladies were first conducted to the table, and the remaining space filled up in good order by gentlemen. This immense table we learned was filled some three or four times.

An eloquent & appropriate speech was delivered on the ground by Col Calhoun of Dallas; and previous to dispersion the crowd was entertained by various evolutions of the military companies above mentioned, and some two thousand treated to a ride on the cars to Alpine and back; a large majority of whom we suppose, experienced for the first time the strange sensation of being whirled through space at the rate of 20 or 30 miles an hour.

Great credit is due to the Committee of arrangements, to Gen. McClellan, marshal of the day, the railroad engineers, conductors and officers, for the admirable order preserved throughout, and exemption from any and every accident. We saw Judge Walker President of the road, frequently through the day, receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends and acquaintances; and we confess to a feeling of pride when we remembered that he was a citizen of our town, and how much the stockholders were indebted to his almost superhuman energy, industry and perseverance, amid the most trying circumstances, for the rapid progress of this noble enterprize. We heard mentiond in commendatory terms, the kind, humane and persevering efforts of J. L. Davis, Esq Mail Agent, to prevent any painful accident, by his constant warning of the crowd whenever danger occurred in his presence.

In the evening the military companies marched out to the battle ground, and fired a salute over the burial place of the soldiers slain in the battle of Talladega; at which place an appropriate and feeling address was delivered by L. E Parsons, Esq.

At night a complimentary supper was given by the Talladega Artillery to the Selma Blues, after which a splendid display of fire works, was kept up for several hours, the scene closing with a midnight salute of ten guns.

Throughout the day the utmost order, harmony and good feeling prevailed; and the entire display was one of which the citizens of Talladega Town and County may well be proud. And we look forward with anxious and ardent anticipations to the time when the citizens of our County at Oxford and Jacksonville, will have the opportunity to emulate, if they cannot equal the citizens of our sister County of Talladega.

☞ We would call particular attention to the notice in another column of the recent purchase by Messrs. Curry of Talladega, of a splendid and extensive stock of Goods. A choice of markets to sell to be a great advantage to purchasers, and this advantage will now be afforded to many of our citizens who carry their cotton to Talladega, & who pass through or to that place on other business. We were in the store of these gentlemen several times during our late visit to Talladega, and can assure our readers that we have seldom seen a more extensive or splendid stock of goods. They have lately built one of the largest, most beautiful and conveniently arranged store rooms in this end of the State, into which their goods will be removed in a few days. Be sure to give them a call when you visit Talladega, and you will acknowledge, that in our brief notice, one fourth has not been told you.

☞ We invite the attention of merchants and business men generally to the Banking and Exchange advertisement of JAMES INZER, Esq of Talladega. This gentleman has been so long known in this end of the State for his promptitude, strict integrity, and affable and accommodating manner of business, as to need nothing from us but a simple reference to his business advertisement.

Our Rail Road.

The completion of the Ala. and Ten River Rail to the Town of Talladega, one hundred and ten miles from Selma, has and will produce quite a change in the shipment and transportation of the products of Calhoun and Cherokee counties.

We notice quite a number of cotton wagons this week passing through our town, from Cherokee and the northern portion of Calhoun, on the way to Talladega. This is quite a change in the commerce of this upper country. Heretofore Augusta, Charleston and Savannah reaped the benefits of all this trade—now it is turning down its natural channel to Selma and our own seaport, Mobile. Let this road be pushed forward to Jacksonville and Gadsden, and then the whole products of North East Alabama, composed of the counties of Calhoun, Cherokee, St Clair, DeKalb and Marshall, will inevitably turn to Selma and Mobile.

The valuable products of these counties, are well worth a decided and vigorous effort to change their direction. We trust the day is not far distant, when the Ala. and Ten. R. R R. will be finished; which beyond controversy will open up to Selma and Mobile, a trade which will greatly surprise and astonish them. To accomplish this grand object, but little is required—all that is wanting is the iron to clothe the road to Gadsden. From Talladega to Gadsden, a distance of 57¼ miles, the entire road is graded and culverts built, with the exception of about 17 miles, which is slight work. If the railroad company had the means to obtain the iron, they could do the remainder within themselves, in a short time. It seems to us, if these facts were generally known to the people of this State, they would not let this road linger any longer on the way. They would come forward and finish the road at once.

This railroad company has over $700,000 of its first mortgage bonds now a hand—an investment in these bonds would evidently be safe. The whole road, with its rolling stock and fixtures, are in charge to secure them. In other words the entire road with all its equipments is mortgaged to secure $700,000 of the first mortgage bonds, which when sold, have to be applied in finishing and equiping the road; who can for a moment doubt that an investment in these bonds would be safe and good. It seems to us none could doubt on the subject.

Our Rail Road company ought not to delay any longer in putting these bonds in market. They are good and safe, and ought to sell at par. If capitalists will not take them, the State ought to loan to the company the 5 per cent. fund, and take these bonds as collateral security.

We trust speedy action will be had in some way, and this great enterprise finished.

SALE OF MERCHANDIZE IN CALHOUN AND TALLADEGA COUNTIES THE LAST 3 YEARS.

A statement has been shown us to day, made out by the Judges of Probate of this and Talladega counties, showing the amount of merchandize sold in these counties for the fiscal years of 1857, 1858 & 1859, as evidenced by the tax books.

Calhoun County	1857	sold	$242,552
" "	1858	"	249,788
" "	1859	"	251,559
Talladega Co.	1857	sold	$333,975
" "	1858	"	291,215
" "	1859	"	270,600

The greater portion of these goods, in fact very nearly all; have been shipped round by way of Rome, Ga. to these counties. Why is this? Their natural route is by way of the Alabama river and the Ala. & Tenn. River Railroad. There surely must be some short sighted policy on the part of our Railroad and Steam boat companies that forces goods out of their natural channel. We call upon our Railroad and steamboat companies to look into this subject, and change their rates of charges, if that be the cause, that forces the increasing trade of these counties out of their natural channel.

☞ Persons who may wish to purchase Dry Goods, Millinery articles or Ready Made Clothing are referred to the advertisement of Mr. J. Freudenberger, in another column. We can say from personal knowledge, having visited his Store several times recently while in Talladega, that his stock is very handsome and extensive. His manner of business too, is very uniform and equitable, being plain marks and one price only. He proposes to sell at the lowest New York retail prices.

☞ The attention of the citizens of White Plains and vicinity is invited to the advertisement of Messrs. Williams & Argoes. This enterprising & accommodating firm have received their usually fine stock of Fall and Winter Goods, and are prepared to furnish their customers on accommodating terms & prove to their satisfaction that it is both to their interest & convenience to encourage home trade.

Hon. J. L. M. Curry.

The Hon. J. L. M. Curry, representative in Congress of the second Congressional District of Alabama, having been invited to address the citizens of Dawson, Ga., on the political question of the day, has written a letter in reply from which we make the following extracts.—Mont. Ad.

"The next Congress must pass upon questions of grave national and pecuniary interest to the Southern and the whole country. It behooves each district to be represented by a Democrat of lofty intensity and unquestioned devotion to the rights and honor of the sovereign States. Inside the Union, the Democratic party is the only organization co-extensive with the confederacy, which among other things has the publication and advocacy necessary to our well defined local interests and constitutional rights. The concealed unsoundness of some Northern members of that party, is the strongest reason for honoring none at the South who are not thoroughly free from all heresies and short comings. Containing, as the South does, the bulk of the Democracy, it should give more but a healthy tone to Democratic sentiment, and its trumpet should speak forth a certain sound, in preparation for the great battle of '60."

The English Government and Affairs on the North American Continent.

The London Post of Sept. 9th, the organ of the present English Administration, has an editorial on the recent occupation of San Juan Island by United States troops, under Gen. Harney's command. It rehearses the difficulties attending the Oregon question, and the ultimate surrender of that territory by England to the United States, and thinks Mr. Buchanan wishes "to surpass the high handed policy which Mr. Polk pursued" towards Great Britain. It says:

The discovery of gold in California and in British Columbia, has, however, given it new interest to the entire northwestern portions of North America, and it is not a few years ago, the Cabinet at Washington was determined to enforce its extreme rights over territories then comparatively valueless, in the confident belief that the exception of an island which commands the entrance to the Fraser river, and therefore the gold regions of British Columbia, is not an indication of that constant policy of aggression which dates from the cession of the celebrated Mooredoctrine. The Americans have asserted that the line, if extended beyond the continent, would include not only this island, but the mouth of Fraser river. If the assumption as to the mouth of the river be correct, and it is one which cannot be determined until an accurate survey has been actually made, it does not seem by any of a very extensive construction to be opposed to the interests of this country. But the right of England to an island which lies off the coast must depend upon discovery and occupation. If the title of England to the island of San Juan, or Bellevue, has to be decided as such, the convention of the Escurial, the ancient claims of Spain, and the previous rights of England will have to be considered. The boundaries of the United States, making possible hereafter a termination on the Pacific coast. The whole territory of New Albion or New Caledonia, now called British Columbia, was first claimed by the British Crown by Drake's visit and possession of the same territory was next claimed by Vancouver, and a little after by the Nootka Sound Convention, which, however, came only to a discussion between Spain and England, and was settled by the Spanish Convention of the Escurial, in which Spain gave up all claim to the territory in question. Russia, we are informed, has no claim to any part of the territory in dispute. The whole matter will engage the early attention of the Foreign Office, and that it can possibly will be found which may be agreed upon consistent with the dignity of the country as well with the security of those gold regions which will, we believe, be the means of extending Britt h liberty, both to the nations and British commerce, as to the north west coast of the American North American continent.

Death of Madge Wildfire.

The Border (Scotland) Advertiser makes the death of Elizabeth Graham, the "Madge Wildfire" of the "Heart of Mid Lothian." She was a pauper and was found in a dying state in the public road. It says:

"Fifty years ago Elizabeth Graham was the rustic beauty, belle and toast of Melrose and its neighborhood, was portably brought up, with health rambling on her cheek and guileless innocence in her heart. Returning home one evening, she was set upon in the gloamy solitude of the Bogle Burn, and there ruined. She returned home, or she immediately forsook the ordinary haunts of man having become a raving maniac, and henceforth she dwelt apart, living alone among, but not a responsible portion of, humanity. The outward form of what had once been a gay and happy girl took up its dwelling place in a rude cave in the old Quarry Hill of the Rome Courier, will, as an act of justice to all the parties, insert the foregoing in their columns.

Stobtertoint says that prices for useful qualities were slightly reduced. A lot of useless, though not the lowest sort was taken for export, at for Middling Orleans 6¾d.

Warnett & Co., say that the trade in the face of the growing crop, see no reason to purchase beyond their present supply. They quote a decline of 1-16@⅛d. Lower qualities the pronounce unsettled.

Hewill's circular quotes a decline of ⅛d., and that a large portion of the stock is useless. The imports of the week were 27,000 bales; at sea 27,999 against 26,000 last year.

The Broderick & Terry Duel.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—D. C. Broderick, who was shot in a duel by Judge Terry on the 13th, died on the 14th. There was a profound sensation at the funeral on the 18th. It was the most imposing spectacle that ever was witnessed in California.

Judge Terry has been arrested, and the public are much incensed against him.

New Orleans Market.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct 12.

Sales to day eleven thousand bales.—Middling 10½@⅝c. Sales of three days, twenty-one thousand bales. Receipts three days, thirty-four thousand bales, against twenty-four thousand bales same time last year. Receipts ahead of last year, fifty-eight thousand bales.

Mobile Market.

MOBILE, Oct. 12.

Sales to day six thousand bales. Middling 10⅛c. Sales of three day eleven thousand seven hundred bales. Receipts three days thirteen thousand three hundred and twenty-five bales.

Mobile Cotton Market.

MOBILE, Oct. 17, 10:15, P. M.

Sales of cotton to-day three thousand bales. Middling 10½@10⅝. Steamer's news caused an advance of one-eighth, and a firmer market.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct 17, 10:15, P. M.

Sales of cotton to-day twelve thousand five hundred bales. Middling 10⅝@10¾.

AN IDENTICAL FACT.—An exchange very justly observes:

"Discontinuing to advertise is like taking down one's sign. It is a sort of intimation of retirement from business, and the public treat it as such. While business creates advertising, it is equally true that advertising creates business."

THE SHADOWS OF LIFE.

(RESPECTFULLY INSCRIBED TO MRS. JUDGE WALKER.)

—Our lives are much too short:
We do but live, and then Death's summons comes,
And life's unfinished task is laid aside.—
And all along the "span" allotted us,
Banditti of disease in ambush wait
To thrust us in the grave!—
The very elements conspire against
Our lives & armies of inciting pain
And wasting sicknesses, leaps unbridled
Of life & o'er the humanized host—
Apocalyptic—rides grim "death himself"
Upon his pale fleet fleet horse!
The sweetest but for human hard
The mother's cherub baby, cradled on
The brink of death! 'Tis like a fragile flower
That blooms upon the mountain rock
A barren crag, where scarce one ceramb
Of earth sustains its life, yet sweetly smiles,
Unconscious of the thin partition 'twixt
It & death!
The gossamer that braids the morning dew
Is not more frail than mortal ties;
And yet such cords do bind our "jewels"
To our hearts! How poor the guarantees
Of human bliss How bankrupt life's estate!
—As o'er you crystal stream the silver spray
Throws bright tints upon the musing eye
So fluctuates the dream of life; and so
Will pass away the mirror charm that binds
Us here.—
—We cling to those we love; we nurse them in
Our hearts, and will not let them go:
But Death comes on apace, & wrenches them
Away; and then it is great reals are made
And gaps in the heart, & aching voids,
Which time may never fill.—

To Our Patrons.

☞ We shall be very thankful to our patrons who will make it convenient to pay their subscription dues during the approaching term of our Circuit Court. All who do so, whether they owe for one or more years, can have the privilege of paying at the rates of two dollars per year.

A Good Time to Subscribe.

We would suggest to those who may wish to subscribe for our paper, that the approaching term of the Circuit Court would be a very good time. It would be easy to remember, as the commencement and expiration of the year. Besides, the Congress of the United States will be in session in a few weeks, and also our own State legislature; from both of which all good citizens will be desirous to hear. The Chinese war against the allied French and English has broke out afresh, and the Italian difficulties are far from being settled. Filibuster movements are again being made on a large scale.—Mormondom is in a stew; Indian wars and depredations are raging—and our country has renewed boundary difficulties with England in the north-west—The cotton and other markets are fluctuating, and altogether it is a time of most important future exciting news; and we cannot see how any good citizen can do without one or more good papers, on the score of interest alone. Give or send us your names, and we will promise to keep you well posted on all things of interest and importance, and to make improvements in our paper commensurate with its increase of patronage. Remember, a home paper is worth two or three from abroad.

A GIGANTIC ENTERPRIZE.—We refer to the advertisement, of Messrs Wood Eddy & Co., of Augusta Georgia and Wilmington Del., of their magnificent scheme with a capital prize of $100,000. While passing through Augusta a few days since, they informed us that in future that they should draw a $100,000 scheme both in the combination and single number schemes. Many other concerns advertise schemes with large capitals, but Messrs Wood Eddy & Co., never offer any that they cannot at any moment cash. Stick a pin there—For it is a consideration of vital importance to speculators in lotteries.—Helena Democrat.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—For injuries resulting from fire steam, or hot water, Holloway's Ointment is indeed a healing balm. It not only relieves the pain and inflamation, but prevents the superficial sores from deepening and extending. No steamboat or railway train should ever start without a supply of this great external remedy. Cuts, bruises, fractures, burns, dislocations, etc., are all equal ly within the field of its curative influence, and there is no variety of eruptive or ulcerous disease which it is incapable of controlling. In nineteen out of twenty of the fatal "camphene cases" recorded by the press, this peerless counter irritant would have saved the the victim. The Pills are equally potent in internal disorders.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, } ST. CLAIR COUNTY. }

Probate Court, October 12, 1859. In the matter of the application of William E. Hampton, Administrator of James Hampton, deceased, for the sale of certain Real property, for partition and division.

THE said William E Hampton, Administrator aforesaid, having this day filed in said Court his application in writing, alleging that his said intestate and Pomeroy C. Bishop, John C Bishop, Ahayra A. Richardson, and her husband, Jeffrey H Richardson, were and are the joint owners of certain real Estate, described in said petition, and that said property cannot be equally partitioned or divided, without a sale thereof. The 12th day of December, 1859, was appointed a day for hearing the same; and inasmuch as it appears that a portion of the parties who are represented as being interested in said property, reside without this State—It is therefore ordered, that notice of said petition and of the time and place set for hearing the same, be given by publication to be continued weekly for three successive weeks, in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper published in Calhoun Co. Alabama.

RENEWOLENCE.

We do not think a person can evince a more benevolent trait of character than being benefited at the desire, and suffering of others, and furthermore, anxious to do all in their power to alleviate by every possible means their suffering. In this view of the case, we do not know how the humane and benevolent can take an action in accordance with their philanthropic views, than by calling the attention of the afflicted friends acquaintances to the fact that Dr. SETH S. HANCE, of 108 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., has discovered a remedy, which is put up in the form of a pill that is a specific action for curing Epilepsy or falling fits, spasm, cramps, and all forms of convulsive diseases. Among those who have permanently cured we might mention a member of the family of James H. Beadle, Huntsville, Alabama, Mr. M. P. Sledge, Cabin Point, Surrey County, Va., and Mr. W. P. Ligon, Grenada, Miss. We might go on enumerating a number of others, until we had entirely filled up this column of our paper; but we think we have said sufficient to satisfy every person that the subject under consideration is one of vital importance to every one. Reader if you are a woman or woman, and have no need of a remedy, perhaps you know some person who is, and equally bless them yourself, if so, cut out this notice, and send it to him or her. It will cost you but little trouble, and probably it will make you instrumental in curing some poor, afflicted mortal of that dreadful visitation Epilepsy, or falling sickness.

Dr. Hance sends his pills by mail, free of postage, to all parts of the world, on the receipt of a remittance. His prices are: one box $3; two, $5; twelve, $21. We have given his address above.

Holloway's Ointment.

The free admission of all Nations, as well as the verdict of the leading Hospitals of the Old as well as the New World, stamp this powerful remedial Agent as the greatest healing preparation ever made known to suffering man. Its penetrative qualities are more than marvellous, through the external surface the skin, invisible to the naked eye, it reaches the seat of the internal disease; and in all internal affections its anti-inflammatory & healing virtues surpass anything else on record. Nature's great ally.

ERYSIPELAS AND SALT RHEUM

Are two of the most common and virulent disorders prevalent on this continent, to both the Ointment is especially antagonistic; modus operandi is first to eradicate the venom and then complete the cure.

Bad Legs, Old Sores, and Ulcers.

Cases of many years standing, that have pertinaciously refused to yield to any other remedy or treatment, have invariable succumbed to a few applications of this powerful unguent.

Eruption on the Skin,

Arising from a bad state of the blood or chronic disease are eradicated, and a clear & transparent surface regained by the restorative action of this Ointment. It surpasses many of the cosmetics and other toilet appliances in power to dispel rashes & other disfigurements of the face.

Piles and Fistula.

Every form and feature of these prevalent and stubborn disorders is eradicated locally, entirely by the use of this emolient; warm fomentations should precede its application. Its healing qualities will be found to be thorough and invariable.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Mecurial Eruptions,
Burns,	Piles,
Chapped Hands,	Rheumatism,
Chilblains,	Ringworms,
Fistula,	Salt Rheum,
Goat,	Scalds,
Lumbago,	Skin-Diseases,
Swelled Glands,	Sprains,
Sore Legs,	Stiff Joints,
Sore Breasts,	Tetter,

Sores of all kinds,	Wounds of all kinds.

☞CAUTION!—None are genuine unless the words "Holloway, New York and London" are discernible as a Water-mark in every leaf of the book of directions around each pot or box; the same may be plainly seen by holding the leaf to the light. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such information as may lead to the detections of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same, knowing them to be spurious.

Sold at the Manufactories of Prof. Holloway, 80 Maiden Lane, New York, and by all respectable Druggist and Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and the civilized world, in boxes at 25 cents, 62 cents, and $1 each.

$25 REWARD.

ABOUT the middle of the afternoon of Saturday the 27th of August last, a man calling himself by the name of George Shemonsky, and saying he was a R. sian by birth, came to my livery stable in Jacksonville, Ala. and said he wished to hire a horse to ride to Mr. Robert W. Dozier's about six miles from this place. I hired him the horse, he saying he would return him the next morning. I have not seen him or the horse since. I cannot understand the gentleman's motive.

The horse is a large sorrel, left eye out, a heavy bushy tail, rather inclined to be hog-backed, ewe necked, about 10 years old.

Shemonsky is a man about 5 feet 4 or 5 inches high. He had on a cap hat, satin vest, and dark clothing, and a goatee, when he hired the horse. I will give the above reward for the delivery of the horse and the gentleman who hired him.

Howard Association.

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special enlowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhœa, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

SPEECH OF HON. C. C. CLAY, JR.,
ON
Slavery Issues,
DELIVERED AT
HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA, SEPTEMBER 5TH, 1859.

ALABAMIANS: I salute you as fellow-citizens, constituents and friends Fellow-citizens of the United States, which, whether contemplated in its material or moral aspect, deserves, as it has received from foreign nations, the name of THE GREAT REPUBLIC! Fellow-citizens of Alabama, one of thirty-three free, sovereign and independent States, composing a confederation, not a consolidation, a union, not a nation called the United States. Constituents, whom it is my pride and honor to represent in that high council chamber of sovereignties, the Senate of the United States! Friends—for such, I trust, you all are, either personally or politically—many of you friends of my childhood and manhood, to whom I am indebted for all the honors I have enjoyed. Friends, constituents, Fellow-citizens of Alabama and of the United States: These are the chords that bind me to you, and I name them in the order of their strength. I am attached to you as citizens of the United States, for it is, according to our fathers' covenant, our country, for whose "common defence and general welfare" all patriots should labor. I am more attached to you as fellow-citizens of Alabama, for to her I owe my first, last and highest allegiance. I am yet more attached to you as constituents, for I am your honored servant, as well as fellow-citizen, to whose hands the rights, interests and honor of Alabama are confided But I am most attached to you as friends, for who can define the duties & obligations of friendship?

I come to speak of principles, not persons, of measures, not men; and if in my unpremeditated language my words should grate harshly upon the ears of any, I trust it will not be regarded as intentionally offensive.

I appear by request to speak of that everrecurring, interminable and all-absorbing theme of SLAVERY, as your counselor, not your champion. I should not have volunteered to counsel you, for nothing is more difficult to any but a vain man, or more dangerous to any but a desperate politician, than to advise the people how to act in great emergencies. To magnify my embarrassment, I am forewarned, by some Democratic presses and leaders, that the principles and sentiments, entertained by me and avowed last winter, have been already condemned by a majority of that party and of the people of this State. Every man has more or less respect for public opinion and desire for public approbation; and it too often happens, that those holding or seeking office adopt public opinion and court public approbation regardless of their own principles or of popular rights. I respect public opinion, but my own conscience more. I desire public approbation, and while holding office, will strive to merit it; but never, never will I surrender my principles to popular clamor or the dictation of any party. Many of you know, that from my youth I have lived a Democrat of the straitest sect. I am, have always been, and expect ever to be, a State's Rights Democrat. I never was, am not and never will be a Nullifier in fact. This declaration may put me out of pale of the Democratic party, as threatened by some of its professed organs, but hear before you strike, you revolutionizing and real Democrats, who follow party for the public weal and not for pelf or power. That word National does not belong properly to the political vocabulary of this country. The Framers of the Constitution and of the Union rejected it. It has been foisted into our party nomenclature by those who would convert the general government of the United States into a consolidated democracy, and has been ignorantly or carelessly accepted or tolerated by many strict constructionists, and true State' Rights men. It is unfortunate that the Convention that framed the Constitution sat in secret, that its proceedings were carefully concealed for many years, and are now but imperfectly revealed. Had it been open to all to hear and report its debates, the government would have started and the people would have kept it in the right direction.—None would then have been guilty of such phrases as the National Congress, or the National Democratic party. To prove this I invoke the aid of history.

A meeting of deputies from several States, at Annapolis, in 1786, recommended the appointment of Commissioners "to devise such further provisions, as shall appear to them necessary to render the constitution of the federal government adequate to the exigencies of the Union." The Congress of the Confederation, in 1787, recommended a convention of Delegates, to be appointed by the States, "as the most probable means of establishing in these States a firm National government"—thus expressing a wish to exchange the then federal for a national government. Fearing probably, to wound the pride of the States, Congress added another object of the Convention to be, to "render the federal constitution adequate to the exigencies of government." Each of the twelve States that sent Deputies, replied to these dicordant recommendations by rejecting the proposed National and by authorizing the intimated federl government. The credentials of the deputies define their duties. They are before me, but one will speak the purposes and principles of all. The credentials from Massachusetts were "for the sole purpose of revising the articles of Confederation, to render the federal constitution adequate to the preservation of the Union."—Such is substantially, the language of the credentials from each state. All excluded the word National and use the word Federal; thereby showing that the States knew the difference between a National and a Federal government, and chose the latter. Yet, strange to tell, notwithstanding the express instructions to frame a federal government, on the day the convention met, 29th May 1787, Mr. Randolph, of Va.—the State which had been the herald and pioneer of free republican government—moved resolutions, proposing that national government which his own and every other State had refused to authorize the Convention to frame! He proposed a national executive, nat onal judiciary and national legislature, which legislature "shall have the right to legislate in all cases in which the harmony of the U. S. may be interrupted by the exercise of individual legislation, and to negative all laws passed by the several states, contravening in the opinion of the national legislature, the articles of the union or any treaty under the Union. This resolution will suffice to show what was to be the character of the national government. Mr. Randolph, when advocating them, said, "this resolutions were not intended for a federal government: he meant a strong consolidated union, in which the idea of states should be nearly annihilated." Mr. Madison said that by the "resolve of having a national government, "it was then intended to operate the exclusion of a federal government."—Judge Read, said "A state government is incompatible with a national government." Mr. Hamilton, said, "we must establish a general and national government and annihilate the state distinctions and state operations. I believe the British government forms the best model the world ever produced" * * * "and this truth gradually gains ground."

It did gain ground so far that it was resolved to adopt the national form, giving to a national legislature power to revise and annul state laws and to supervise and direct the domestic interests of the people; thus making the States dependent provinces of a central, consolidated, national government. Nothing but fear of its rejection by the States, and the heroic opposition of the deputies from Connecticut and New Jersey, prevented the convention from finally adopting such a government, and caused it to obey instructions and frame our federal constitution. Mr. Patterson, of N. J., said: "Let us consider with what powers we are sent here. By our credentials we see, that the basis of our present authority is founded on a revision of the articles of the present confederation, and to alter and amend them in such parts where they appear defective. Can we on this ground form a nfational government? We are met here as deputies of thirteen independent and sovereign states for federal purposes. Can we consolidate their sovereignty and form one nation; and annihilate the sovereignty of our states who sent us here?"

Mr. Sherman and Judge Ellsworth, of Conn, vigorously supported Mr. Patterson, aided by a minority of the convention. Mr. Lansing declared: "Had the legislature of N. Y. apprehended that their powers would have been construed to extend to the formation of a national government, no delegates would have appeared on the part of that state. New plans, annihilating the rights of the states, (unless upon evident necessity) can never succeed." I might quote other extracts from the debates, showing that the Federal Convention was divided into two parties, the nationalists, who favored a consolidated democracy of an American nation, with absolute power in the majority of Congress to control the affairs of states and people, and the federalists, who wished to preserve the independence and sovereignty of the States, and limit the powers of Congress to matters of common interest, mainly treaties to the States.—The federal party ultimately triumphed over the national, and formed a confederation not a consolidation, an union not a nation; and, appropriately, called the charter of its powers, the Constitution of the United States of America. They carefully expurgated it of the term national, and of every synonymous word, and adopted throughout the precise language to convey the idea of a federal system.

Now, mark and take warning of these facts: The large States favored the consolidated or NATIONAL government, the small States the limited FEDERAL form; showing the universal inclination of the strong to increase their power, and the natural repugnance of the weak to entrusting the strong with power. I doubt not the patriotism of Randolph, Hamilton, Madison, and other advocates of a National government. They thought it necessary to keep the States together and enable them to resist foreign aggression, and they trusted to the magnanimity of the great States not to abuse the interests of their weaker sisters. I doubt not that many patriots are now Nationalists.

This same division of States and of parties, into advocates of national and advocates of federl powers of government, has continued ever since, and exists to day. The Nationalists of the Federal Convention dropped that name, immediately on the adoption of the Constitution, and took that of their opponents, and all were Federalists during the Administration of Washington. But, still, many nationalists at heart, though federalists by profession, by arrogating for Congress National powers and exercising them in adopting the Alien and Sedition laws, made the name federalist odious, although a good word, expressive of the true nature of our government Hence, the real federalists formed a new anti-national party, called Republican, under the lead of Thomas Jefferson. He and Mr. Calhoun always called themselves Republicans. That was the original States' Rights Democratic party name, and it is to be regretted that it was not adhered to and is not now the name of the States Rights' Democracy, because our States are really Republics, not Democracies, and their general government is an Union of Republics, not a National Democracy.

The majority party in the North, miscalling itself Republican, termed by us Black Republican, would make our general government a National Democracy if they could. They claim for it national powers over domestic interests absolute power over the territories and other property of the U. S, over the District of Columbia, dock-yards, forts arsenals, navy yards, &c.; and, therefore, insist that Congress should prohibit or abolish slavery in all those places They claim power in Congress to discriminate in favor of Northern against South ern interests, in many other ways; as by protective tariffs, fishing bounties, ship-building monopolies, coasting-trade monopolies, pensions, internal improvements, foreign mail steamer-monopolies, donations of public lands in free farms, insane asylums and agricultural colleges. By such measures the Northern States (or a majority party in them) would consolidate or nationalize the federal government, aggrandize themselves and impoverish and oppress the South. They can control Congress, for they have a majority of six votes in the Senate and of fifty-seven in the House of Representatives, with assurance of ever increasing majorities, &, like the large States in the federl convention, they do not fear their own power and would enlarge it illimitably. On the contrary, the majority party in the Southern States, like the small States of that Convention, knowing that the South is weak in Congress and unable to secure a fair division of the treasury, territory or other property of the United States, have opposed those measures.

In a speech in April 1856, I showed how Congress had, up to June 1848, appropriated in fortifications for defence of Northern more than double the amount expended upon Southern coasts; $10 in Northern to $1 for Southern internal improvements; $4 in Northern to $1 in Southern pensions; two acres of public land for Northern to one for Southern works; $10,000,000 in direct bounties to Northern cod-fisher-men, while no Southern industrial interest had any bounty; had built a light for every twenty odd miles of Northern coast, to guide the mariner, while for hundreds of miles of Southern coast not a warning beacon cheered him; and had extorted numberless millions from the South in indirect bounties to Northern manufactures and shipping interests. Northern avarice has striven to appropriate all the lands and most of the other property of the U. S; South ern ambition has clutched at its highest offices and honors. For the first fifty years of our present government but three Northern men were chosen President—the two Adam's and Van Buren—and each for only one term; while there were five Southern men elected President, each for two terms. But the North has made the South pay dearly for honors in the common treasure and the common territory. I have epitomized an exhibit of the unequal division of treasure. A yet larger share of territory has been appropriated by the North.

The anti-slavery agitation originated in Northern avarice, and has been kept up to serve that passion. It is usual to date its birth from the Missouri restriction; but it was born before the Union and will, I fear, survive it. Pending the Revolution, the North-western territory, belonging to Virginia, excited "the lucrative desires" of the North-eastern people (as Mr. Madison said) to a degree threatening the Confederacy. At the conclusion of the peace of '83, the North had but 161,681 square miles.—the South 617,202 square miles of territory. To satisfy those desires and consolidate the Union, Virginia gave all the North western territory to the Confederacy, and the ordinance of '87 secured it all to the North, by prohibiting slavery therein forever. Thereby the North grew to 425,741 square miles, and the South shrank to 286,521 square miles. This was the first step of Abolition, and first intervention by Congress against slavery. The territory of Louisiana, next acquired, was, by the Missouri restriction, so partitioned, that the North took (exclusive of Oregon) 659,138 square miles and the South 225,456 square miles. This was the second bold stride of Abolition and intervention by Congress against slavery The acquistions of Oregon, Florida and Texas, were so divided that the North got 415,467 square miles, the South 271,268 square miles. This was the third advance of Abolition and intervention by Congress against slavery.

The Mexican conquests engrossed by the North added to her limits 586,648 square miles. This was the boldest step yet made by Abolition, if as now maintained by nearly all the North, the non-intervention, then inaugurated, means pro missive intervention by squatter sovereigns against slavery.

The South has grown from 647,202 to 882,245 square miles; having added but 235,043 square miles to her area since '83 In the same time the North has grown from 164,081 square miles, to 2,088,014 square Miles; having added 1,923,933 square miles to her limits. These estimates may not be precisely accurate, but closely approximate the truth.

All this was the fruit of concessions by the South to the North, called compromises—made to secure peace and rest for the South and fraternal concord, harmony and love between North and South! All was claimed by the North to protect her rights, or the "rights of freemen and free labor." In the same spirit they claimed protection for all Northeon industrial interests—manufactures, fisheries, ship-building, coasting trade, &c, by protective tariffs, bounties and monopolies, at the expense of slave labor.

COMPENSATIONS.

Let us say be cheerful,
Whatso'er betide;
Life is not all tearful,
There's a sunny side,
Vernal zephyrs banish
Winter's frosts alar;
Midnight's spectres vanish
With the morning star.

Every deep depression,
With its chills and blights,
Has a compensation
In the neighboring heights,
Birds of plumage plainest
Lift the sweetest song;
Pangs that rack the keenest
Seldom tarry long.

Oft the richest uses
Come from humblest things,
As the marsh produces
Tribes of Wings.
Larks at Heaven's gate singing
Nestle in the corn;
Mountains proudly springing,
Were in valleys born.

Charm'd from ocean-chamber
'Mid the tempest's roar,
See the precious amber
Thrown upon the shore!
So each stormy trial
Yields as fruits of good
Wisdom, self-denial,
Strength and fortitude.

Ravens once did cater
To Elijah's need;
And a fish for Peter
Tribute-money paid.
There's a charming story
How the widow's cruse,
Blest by prophet hoary
Poured an overplus.

Thorniest afflictions
Sharper might have been;
Healing benefactions
Mitigate the pain.
See the ark rise higher,
With the swelling flood
Ever drawing nigher
To the Mount of God!

'Tis a sight of beauty,
When a noble heart,
Bravely does its duty
Though each fibre smart.
Courage, Faith and Patience,
Principles divine,
In the worst vexations,
Like the rainbow shine.

Miscellaneous.

A SHARP WITNESS.—A late Philadelphia paper has this report of some ingenious testimony given by Mr. O'Daley in a case for assault and battery:

"Mr. O'Daley, where do you live?"

"In Clinton street, yer honor."

"And which way does Clinton street run?"

"Longthways, sir."

"Which way is that, north or south?"

"If you stand at the upper end, it runs south, sir; if you stand at the lower end, it runs north."

"Then you mean to say it runs north and south?"

"Yes, sir provided you stand midway between the ends."

"And what is the width of Clinton street, Mr. O'Daley?"

From side to side, do you mean?"

"Yes; what is the width from side to side?"

"Well, as near as I can come to it, it is just the distance from one sidewalk to the other. It may be more, but I'd take my Bible oath of it."

"With whom do you reside, Mr. O'Daley?"

"With the man I board with."

"And who is he?"

"Do you know Dennis—Mike Dennis, the butcher?"

"I haven't that honer."

"Then how the devil can you know who I board with?"

"Do you mean to say that you board with Dennis?"

"And if I didn't, why should I hand his wife two dollars every Saturday night, barren the last one?"

Mr. O'Daley was let loose.

MONUMENT TO MAFFITT.—The Nashville Christian Advocate says there is evidence of a disposition in the public mind to revive the memory of John Newland Maffitt, and that many are bold to say that the verdict which doomed his last days to obscurity and leaves his grave unhonored, was "wrong, all wrong."

A lady passing through Mobile, on her way from South Carolina to Texas, writes as follows on this subject:

"At Mobile Rev. Mr. Andrews, the pastor of the St. Francis street Church, was so kind as to bring a carriage and take us to see poor Maffitt's grave. It was sad to stand beside it, and see the grave of him who peculiarly loved the beautiful, marked only by a few bricks, and not even a rose, or violet, or a forgot me not planted there. As I gazed upon it, the thought occurred to me, If every person whom Mr. Maffitt has received into the church, or who has in any way received spiritual benefit from his preaching, should contribute the small sum of one dollar, I wonder if it would not build him a very nice monument, something better at least than this brick pavement?—Would not the experiment be worth trying! And as he received me into the church, may I not have the pleasure and the privilege of subscribing the first dollar? If there are among the thousands who once sat enraptured while he spoke, who are now willing to contribute one dollar to this monument, let them send the money to Rev. A. N. Andrews, pastor of the St. Francis street church, Mobile."

The Christian Advocate also gives the following characteristic anecdote of an old Kentuckian, long familiar with hunting and border warfare, who, being present at a conversation where Maffitt's name was mentioned in connection with other distinguished Methodist ministers, exclaimed: "I tell you what it is, gentlemen, say what you please about your Bascoms, and Waughs, and Capersus; but in the big day coming Maffitt will bring up as many skelps as any of 'em."

THE UNBLESSED MEAL.—Thirty years ago, a little boy, the son of pious parents, was invited to spend a few days at the house of a friendly family. When dinner came on the table, Philip, though very hungry after his journey, could not be persuaded touch a morsal of food. Again and again did they urge him to eat, and as often did he look wistfully at the contents of the table, but reluctantly declined. At length the lady kindly inquired if there was any reason why he did not eat his dinner. Bursting into tears, and sobbing so that he could scarcely speak, he exclaimed: "You haven't blessed it." That family ever afterward asked the blessing of God on their food, and that little boy is now a missionary in Jamaica.

Singular Medical Case—A Worm in a Child's Tooth.—Mr Editor:—The following described case of our only child, Willie, four and-a-half years of age, as witnessed by various individuals, is considered, to say the least, uncommon. The child had been ailing for months; he grew thin and pale, so much as to give us increased anxiety in regard to the nature of his disease He often, while at play, would suddenly drop his toys and scream out. Also, in the night, he would wake up crying, thereby increasing our fears. At this juncture the child was taken to Doctor Bruce's, 16 Tremont Row, who became satisfied the disase was seated in the upper jaw. He accordingly administered ether, under the influence of which a canine tooth was extracted. The tooth encompassed a species of worm, which when elongated by crawling, was full half an inch in length; the head was jet black, and hard as slate stone, while the body was white and flexible

The tooth was deeply inserted; the inner end was largely perforated, and also sufficiently capacious for necessary vermiculations; the paroxysms obviously resulted from efforts of the worm to gain the marrow or inner portion of the jaw bone. The child began to improve in health at once after the tooth was drawn, and is now well again. This occured a few weeks ago, and, as it was such a singular case, I thought I would send an account publication.—Boston Evening Transcript, October 7.

THE TURNING POINT.—When Napoleon was about to invade Russia, a person who had endeavored to dissuade him from his purpose, finding that he could not prevail, quoted to him the proverb: "Man proposes, but God disposes;, to which he indignantly replied: "I dispose as well as propose."

A Christian lady, hearing the impious boast, remarked: "I set that down as the turning point of Napoleon's fortunes God will not permit a creature thus with impunity to usurp his prerogative." It happened just as the lady predicted. Napoleon's invasion of Russia was the commencement of his fall.

RAIL ROAD TO JACKSONVILLE.—We are heartily glad that the "solid men," of our community have become fully impressed with the importance of taking immediate steps for securing a connection with the Selma & Tenn. River Railroad. There, probably, never has been a time so propitious for taking up this enterprise in good earnest as the present. So far as we know, there is but one sentiment upon this subject in this vicinity, and that is, in favor of efficient, determined and immediate action. We are obliged to go to Press before the proceedings of the meeting last night had transpired, but we doubt not that initiatory measures for immediate action will be adopted.

Liberality In Alabama—The Rev. E. J. Hamill, agent for the East Alabama Male College at Auburn, reports that he has, in two and a half years, added $20,000 to the subscription of that Institution, making the entire subscription now about $45 000. Among the donations was one of $12,000, from Mr. Joel Hamiter, given in the name of a lovely daughter, lately deceased, and one of $25,000 from Mrs. Eliza E. Battie, of Mobile. It will be remembered, likewise, that the Alabama Methodists have raised more than $300,000 for the Southern University at Greensboro, Alabama, of which Dr. Wightman takes the presidency. We commend the example to Methodists in other Conferences.

THE FARMER'S WIFE.—Is there any position a mother can covet for her daughter, more glorious than to be the wife of an honest, independent happy farmer in a country like this? To be the wife of one who is looked up to by his neighbors as one whose example may be safely followed—one whose farm is noted far and near as a model of neatness and perfection of cultivation? To be the mistress of a mansion all her own, that may be the envy of every passer by because it is neat and comfortable—a sweet and lovely cottage home. To be the angel that flits through the garden, bidding flowers bloom and twining roses and honey-suckles around the bedroom, or sweetening their fragrance with her sweetest smiles; or spreading the snow cloth beneath the old oak at the door to welcome her husband as he returns from his toil; or ever tripping the cradle with her foot, as she plies the dasher with her hand, or busily moves the needle, at the same time humming a joyous song of praise that she is the happy and fondly beloved wife of an American farmer—one of the true noblemen of this free country—one that should by rights rank as the pride and glory of America.

Comptroller's Report.

From the report of the Comptroller of Public Accounts, just made up for the next Legislature, we gather some very interesting statistics, which show a remarkable degree of prosperity that has attended the enterprising spirit of the people of Alabama, as well as showing what results can be made to follow diversified pursuits, when directed in the proper channel by the right kind of energy & perseverance We take the Comptroller's figures, from the returns made to his office, for the last three years, from which it appears that the total taxes assessed for 1856, amounted to the sum of $701,564.19—for 1857 to $756,802.13, and for 1858 to $774,749.39. The value of lands and town property returned for 1856 amounts to $119,922,067—for 1857 to $122,295,722, and for 1858 to $126,949,626. The number of slaves for 1856 amounts to 361,088—for 1857 to 365,657, and for 1858 to 373,816 The amount of moneys at interest and hoarded for 1856, is $16,679,060—for 1857 $18,507,363, and for 1858 $19,620,146. The amount of moneys invested in stocks in corporations created in this State, for 1856 is $2,565,221—for 1857 $3,816,220, and for 1858 $4,696,872. The amount of sales of merchandise for 1856 is $22,788,962.—for 1857 $26,386,254, and for 1858 $26,447,506 All other property has increased in about the same proportion. The number of acres of land returned as taxable for 1858 is 17,962,982.

THE AFRICAN SLAVE TRADE IN KENTUCKY.—Governor Magoffin in his Inaugural Address thus alludes to the effort which is making by the ultraists, in certain quarters to revive the African Slave Trade:

Kentucky, calling not in question the motives or morality of other sections, is firmly united in resistance to the re-opening of the African Slave Trade. She is stubbornly opposed to the introduction of any such tests of political orthodoxy.—She will give no countenance at this time, come from what quarter it may, to any movement that looks to a dissolution of the Union. With seven hundred miles of line bordering on free States, we must think more calmly and act with more discretion. The position of Kentucky, ever loyal, ever true to the Union, is to avoid the altraisms of the South and the treason and fanaticism of the North.

THE CHIRIQUI GOLD REGION.—We learn from the Panama Star, of the 2d inst., that favorable accounts continue to be received from the interior. Mr. Hawes who returned to Panama brought with him some splendid specimens; and he calculates that he has seen at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars worth of the gold images in the houses of poor people in David, but he thinks there must be much more that he did not see, as they were shy of exhibiting them to strangers.—Among all the varieties of found none represents any of the domestic animals.

The country appears in many places to be covered with graves for miles around. Chiriqui is one of the most healthy and beautiful districts of New Granada; the temperature is cool, and provisions are reported cheap and abundant. Foreigners are cautioned against emigrating thither before the dry season sets in, which will be about the close of December; as at present the rains have so swollen the streams as to prevent all progres: Fever also is geneeral rife, and frequently proves fatal to emigrants at this season.

Pictures of England.

GEORGE S. HILLARD, who is travelling in England, and writes admirable letters to the Boston Courier, which the Richmond Examiner says afford so refreshing a contrast to the Belle Brittan and Dr. MACKAY style, that we are greatly delighted with them. We extract from a letter dated at "Great Malvern, July 20," as follows:

TALK WITH A BRITISH FARMER.—I found myself seated near a gentleman between fifty and sixty, with one of those healthy complexions which show a life-long acquaintance with the sun and wind, and but little of that cocked-pistol expression of defiance and repulsion which so many Englishmen deem it necessary to put on when they are traveling. We fell into conversation, in the course of which I revealed my nationality. I generally do this under such circumstances; it seems to excuse a departure from the common usage of the country—Englishmen very rarely addressing a stranger—and it lubricates the ways on which discourse is launched. My neighbor was a farmer; probably not a landed proprietor himself, but holding a considerable estate on lease. He informed me that the wages of agricultural labor in hampshire, where he lived, were about twelve shillings a week; somewhat increased at harvest and hay time; that the price of good farming land was from £70 to £80 an acre; and that the net return to the owner was rather less than five per cent, the legal interest on money here. He stated that about one third of the gross yield of an acre of land was absorbed in various forms of tax, including land tax, income tax, tithes, road rates, poor rates. I explained to him our own system of levying and collecting taxes; and he said he should pay what he did more cheerfully if he could do it in so simple a way as we do; paying it all at one time, upon one bill, and to one officer.

THE CEREMONY OF SHAKING HANDS. When we parted he held out his hand to me, and shaking mine very cordially thanked me for the information I had given him. I mention this little incident mainly to illustrate a point of difference between English and American manners, which our countrymen do not always apprehend. Shaking hands in England is not a ceremony, but a symbol strangers, when introduced do not, as a general rule, shake hands; but they often do when they part. The act shows that a certain relation of friendship or acquaintanceship has been formed; and and the hand is extended in pledge or ratification thereof.

AN ENGLISH COUNTRY SCENE.—I passed by two or three stately mansions embowered in foliage, and with green velv lawns, running up to the door, and several cottages, one or two of which might have been put into an artist's sketch book as perfect types of the class of buildings in which they belong. In front of one then a sturdy, brown-cheeked little damsl of ten or twelve years, was tending a bab with a most motherly air, the twain making a pretty picture, relieved against a back-ground of roses and hollyhocks.

THE ISLE OF WIGHT.—I think the attractions of this island are more felt by the Americans than by English men and this because the scenery is so unlike what we are accustomed to see at home The beauty which charms us here is a trimed dressed regulated, and cultivated beauty All irregularities have been pared down all rough places smoothed and a uniform air of finished neatness has been given to the whole. Not a tree not a shrub, hardly a blade of grass has been allowed to grow ,at its own sweet will but every thing has been made to bend to a common result. From the small size of the island, and the decorated elegance which everywhere marks the scenery it looks as if it might serve as a bracelet to a giantess, if one were found big enough to wear it. Every square foot of the surface, not dedicated to pleasure grounds, is under cultivation and the abundant harvests now ripe for the sickle show the fertility of the soil and the care with which it has been tilled. The houses are generally cubic in form and built of light brown stone which harmonizes well with the rich green of landscape. Flowers and flowering shrubs roses myrtles, jessamines, hydrangeas fuchsias and laurels grow around them in great abundance and luxuriance and pains are taken to give each dwelling place however small an air of individuality and isolation.

The roads which are very narrow are bordered by hedges so high that the tallest man endeavors in vain to overpeer them. One chafes sometimes at being thus cribed and cabined, and pants for a wide view and broad horizon but prettier passes walls than these were never reared, and they are now gay with the finest tapestry of flowers among which I marked eupatorium or st. Johnswort; the brambles our high bush blackberry but with a purplish blossom the yarra; the wild thyme the convovulus the gerse the broom; and those denizens of of our gardens the honeysuckle and the foxglove.

THE ISLE OF WIGHT AND NEWPORT SCENERY.—Here as in places on the English cost the beach is but a narrow rip of shingle between the cliffs and the sea. The charm of the isle of Wight consists mainly in the rich verdure, the exquisite cultivation the gentle undulations. the firm hedges, the velvet lawns—elements drawn from and peculiar to the land and not the sea although in some respects the scenery would have and advantage over corresponding spot on our coast but not all Indeed, with my fresh recollections of this fairy land I cannot recall any one point that I think equal to the cliff at Newport on a brilliant afternoon in August taking into account the wide sweep of the horizon, the curve of the beach the sail dotted waters, and the splendid coloring thrown over all.

A young man inclined to crime and sin has probably been saved by the man he attempted to wrong. He presented at the Crescent City Bank, a few days ago a check for $711 forged upon Messrs J. A. Barrelli & Co. The teller detecting the forgery jumped over the counter & collared the young man and kept him in custody in the bank till Mr. Barrelli could be sent for that gentleman soon arrived and recognizing the young man as one who had been raised for a better destiny than the penitentiary and reflecting that his public exposure and prosecution would be almost a death blow to his family and other relatives who stood specially in the city he consented to counsel with giving some wholesome advice and letting him go positively refusing to have him handed over to the police or prosecuted in any other way. This generous action of merchant ought to serve as a lifelong lesson to the young man and a renewed incentive to good conduct and integrity.

SUICIDE.—A Father's Revenge.—Pocahontas, Tennessee, was the scene of a tragedy a few days since. Some months since Wm. M. Jackson, a merchant of Pocahontas, willed his property to his wife, and bequeathed a handsome legacy to each of his children, except his son-in-law, Dr. Bond. He, however, sought to obtain what he thought was his wife's influence, and demanded that he should be given what he considered his due. Being refused, he declared at the time, a debt of $700 due in three weeks to be considered forever discharged. At the expiration of that time, Jackson still declining to pay the money, Bond inflicted the determined blow with the sense of wounded honor, and Jackson, shot Bond down in the street, killing him instantly. Jackson was arrested, committed, and whenever he comes before the Paris (Tenn.) jail.—Louisville Courier.

CONSUMPTION

WINCHESTER'S

GENUINE PREPARATION OF THE HYPOPHOSPHITES

OF LIME AND OF SODA

The Specific Remedy for Consumption, Chronic Bronchitis, Asthma, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, General Debility, and all Nervous Diseases.

The success of this NEW REMEDY discovered by Dr Churchill of Paris obtained for it the most UNBOUNDED POPULARITY throughout Europe and the United States.

It is a purely SCIENTIFIC PREPARATION, and acts with INVARIABLE EFFICACY in all stages of Pulmonary and Nervous Diseases. The Hypophosphites in union the Peroxide which constitute a nervous fluid, and are the most powerful blood generating agents known.

The Cure of Consumption.

In the SECOND and THIRD STAGES (as it is called consequently, when there can be no mistake as to the nature of the disease) can be reclaimed IN ALL CASES by this treatment, except when the destroying lesion of the lungs is of itself sufficient to produce death.

This REMEDY has not only a curative effect, but will, if used wherever it is known to exist, prevent the development of the disease. PREVENT ITS DEVELOPEMENT, & thus act as a PREVENTIVE WITH REGARD TO CONSUMPTION, JUST AS VACCINATION DOES WITH REGARD TO SMALL POX.

Professional Correspondence

"COLUMBUS OHIO, Aug. 8, 1859.—I have been treating this disease for twenty five years, and have derived me to satisfaction from the use of the Hypophosphites than from all other forms of medication combined."

"MANCHESTER, MICH. Aug. 3 1859.—I have used the HYPOPHOSPHITES in my practice with very happy effects—so much so that I am not SATISFIED TO REMAIN WITHOUT THEM.

"MIDDLEBURY, VT., Aug. 9, 1859.—I believe the HYPOPHOSPHITES used in the manner and way Dr. Churchill prescribed them, will CURE CONSUMPTION."

"SHEPHERDSTOWN, VA., Aug. 15, 1859.—I have prescribed the Hypophosphites in several cases, and am delighted with its effect". IT IS ACCOMPLISHING WONDERS.

"LOWELL, O. July 5, 1859.—I have used in all about forty bottles, and in but one instance have they failed to benefit the patient, and that was a hopeless one before I was called. I have had several cases given up by attending physicians, who ARE NOW ENJOYING COMPARATIVELY GOOD HEALTH, and EXEMPT FROM ALL THE SYMPTOMS of pulmonary disease. I have used the REMEDY in my own case, with decided success. It was regarded as hopeless by physicians & friends and even by myself under the old treatment. I am now able to ride in attending on the sick, as many miles perhaps in a day as any other physician in the country.

"CHATHAM, PA. July 26, 1859.—I received the twelve bottles of Churchill's Remedy for Consumption. * * * IT HAS WORKED WONDERS IN EVRY CASE."

CONSUMPTIVES, in any stage of the Disease, should resort immediately to the use of the HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA, "WINCHESTER'S GENUINE PREPARATION" (in Simple syrup), in extra large bottles, is chemically pure, and is prepared according to his original Formula.

Dr. Churchill's Work on Consumption.

Comprising his Report made to the Imperial Academy of Medicine, Paris, Notes of Cases, and Letter Documents, Testimonials, &c., together with a Circular, will be sent on receipt of TWELVE CENTS in stamps.

CAUTION.—Unprincipled Druggists will try to sell you other preparations than mine. Do not buy them! My "Genuine Preparation" bears my fac simile signature.

Harpers Ferry Insurrection.

We surrender a considerable portion of space in our to-day's paper to the telegraphic accounts of the late insurrectionary movement at Harper's Ferry, knowing that our readers will be more anxious for information on that subject at this time than any other.

We shall give in our next, some interesting details of the scenes and incidents of that strangely mad, fanatical and criminal outbreak.

It was at first thought that discontented railroad and government employees had something to do with the movement, but further developments seem to prove it to be clearly of abolition instigation. Surely, the tragic finale of this imbecile, rash and criminal attempt will have a wholesome influence on public sentiment at the North. The most rabid and fanatical abolitionists themselves can recognize in it only the legitimate fruit of their insane and criminal sentiments and teachings. Shame, disgust and deep repentance, ought now to take the place of their former insane fanaticism.

This affair clears the other Black Republican Abolition ism will look and the Charleston Mercury in some comments on the subject, says, very truthfully, that it is a warning profoundly significant of the issues of the day with our sectional enemies.

Brown the leader of this movement, is said to be the last survivor of Morgan's clan. He is now nearly 70 years of age, had eleven sons. He was noted for his participation in the Kansas troubles. Was defeated at Ossawatomie in Sept 1856. He and his sons assassinated five men, Doyle and two sons, Sherman, and Wilkinson Pottawatomie, in June 1856. Of the 25 persons engaged in the Harpers Ferry insurrection, 15 have been killed, three mortally wounded, & two robbers made prisoners, three out of with a large body of negroes towards Pennsylvania. The question of jurisdiction & trial of the prisoners has been settled, & they have been delivered by the hands of Gov. Wise of Virginia, who says the country & common may have them when he is done with them. By this time it is probable the insurrection and its abettors will have had justice meted to them.

☞ We commence in to-day's paper the publication of Senator Clay's able and eloquent speech, on slavery, recently delivered at Huntsville September 5th, 1859. Its publication will be continued until it is finished.

The question of Congressional protection or non-intervention, on the subject of slavery in the territories, is now a deeply absorbing question, and one likely to produce a fine division in the democratic party, and be brought into the Charleston Convention.

Mr. Clays speech will be found to contain important political & historical information on this subject and will be interesting to all who are seeking to be thoroughly informed.

☞ We invite the attention of Merchants and business men generally to the Notice of the Talladega Insurance Company, of which Maj J. G. L. Huey is Secretary. This company is well known, and deserves a liberal amount of its street insurance by the prompt, punctual and accommodating manner of business.

☞ Our thanks are due to friend Watson, of Chocktoo Valley for the fine Turnip received from him. They were the largest we have seen of the season.

Messrs. J. & J. B Huey, give notice in to-days paper of the reception of their Fall & Winter Goods We know from personal knowledge, that their stock is very large, embracing a great variety of durable, fashionable and beautiful goods; and we are well satisfied that they can and will make it to the interest of persons from this County, to make their purchases of them. Their manner of business has always been eminently satisfactory to their patrons, being that of fair dealing and reasonable profits. We can cordially recommend our friends, while in Talladega to give them a call. Orders too, we believe, will be filled by them.

Large Potatoe.—Mr. J. M. Love sent to us the other day, as a specimen of his crop, a spanish potatoe, two feet and one inch in length, and as large round, for the greater portion of the length, as a common sized man's arm.

☞ In our call of attention last week, to Messrs. Curry's advertisement of the reception of new Goods, we omitted to mention, that our young friend and former townsman, Mr. W. W. Draper, was in that house. His many friends and acquaintances in this section, when visiting Talladega, will find him ever ready and attentive in waiting upon them, and supplying their wants in the most accommodating manner.

WARREN D. BROWN.—Our much esteemed and popular young friend, whose name heads this paragraph, has recently become connected with the Montgomery Advertiser, in the capacity of local editor. We wish him success, and feel confident that a little experience as a "knight of the quill," he will make his de partment of the paper both instructive and interesting.

Rail Road Connection from Rome with Selma & Coosa River Rail Road.

The following communication we find in the Courier of yesterday, and publish it for the purpose of interesting, if possible, this subject upon the minds of our people. There is no use in longer disguising the fact, that unless the people of Rome go to work in earnest to turn this way and retain, the business that is now beginning to go in another direction, that the time is not far distant when our streets will be deserted and grown up with grass. This is no dream, pictured to alarm any one. It is frankly stating a fact, that will all sooner or later realize. The Rome and Jacksonville Rail Road and we care nothing about routes in Georgia or Alabama that can be easily accomplished, if you will go to work in the right way, and with a proper determination. With this Road, Rome would have advantages over any town in this end of the State and would continue to enjoy a trade to which she is justly entitled; but fail to make this Rail Road connection with the Alabama Roads, and other Roads will be built from Atlanta, Cartersville, Dalton, or some other point which will effectually destroy all the trade of our city, and verify our prediction. The wise work while it is called today. Citizens of Rome, will you not seriously reflect upon this matter—and move as becomes men of energy and wisdom.

Mr. Editor—Some four years ago a move was made by the citizens of Rome and country around for a Railroad to run from Rome to the Alabama line, via Cave Springs in a direction for Jacksonville. Liberal subscriptions of stock were made, the route surveyed, and the company organized and I was chosen as president, and the work all over to be commenced, when on account of failures in crops and scarcity of money in the country it was deemed advisable at a meeting of the Stockholders to defer the work a while. Paris, this interval there has been a move made to build a road from Rome down the Coosa river in the direction of Gaylesville, the same that is talked of by Judge [illegible] very desirable time to put the land in motion again and before calling a meeting of the stockholders together again, I think it would be well for [illegible] to suggest a meeting of the citizens of the county for an expression of opinion in regard to the two routes, Jacksonville and if the one of that of Jacksonville be preferred, begin to work and build the road.

Another obstruction then spoken of has been removed that is Col Sherter's chartered rights on the river. I am happy to state that Col Sherter has very graciously authorized me to say that the company will have a [illegible] a flat boat built, and ready to run in the river on the [illegible] of the present month. With this encouragement I think we can now build the road so much needed.

NEW YORK, October 14.—The steamship Africa, Capt. SHANNON has arrived, bringing dates from Liverpool to the 1st of October.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET, October 1.—The sales of the week foot up 50,000 bales, of which speculators took 3500 and exporters 11,000 bales. The inferior qualities have declined 1/8@1/4d., while the middling grades are easier, but prices unchanged. Holders offer their stocks freely, but show no disposition to press sales.

GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.—The Italian rumors look threatening. Louis Napoleon repudiates any desire to place Prince Napoleon on an Italian throne.

The latest advices from China confirm the rumor of the nominal imprisonment of Mr. WARD, the American Minister, at Pekin.

Prince Napoleon left Zurich without an interview with the Plenipotentiaries. The Conferences continue, but nothing has transpired in relation to them.

The visit of the King of Belgium to Louis Napoleon referred only to the matrimonial affair of that country due to France.

The Italian rumors are conflicting. One report says that the Dukes of Modena and Tuscany have organized a large force to attack the army of Central Italy.

Spain declines English mediation in the Morocco affair.

The Paris Pays says that Minister Ward's detention in the city of Pekin is only while he is awaiting an interview with the Emperor. He is confined to his house to prevent his making any external observations. He will return to port immediately after the expected interview.

Texan Affairs.

NEW ORLEANS, October 11.—Advices from San Antonio report that Gen. Insurrection in Virginia.

Rebellion at Harpers Ferry!

Great Excitement!

U. S. TROOPS CALLED OUT

BLOOD NEEDED!

INSURRECTION SUPPRESSED BY UNITED STATES AND STATE TROOPS!

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

Rumors reached this city, this forenoon that a serious insurrection has broken out at Harper's Ferry, Va. The trains on the Railroads leading there have been stopped the telegraph wires cut, and the town and all the public works are in the hands of the insurgents.

At first it was believed that this story was merely an exaggeration of an affray among the government employees and the United States Army. Later dispatches, however, from Monracey the nearest station to the Ferry, confirm the first statement.

The trains have been stopped on the several Railroads, and the employees killed. The negroes on the Maryland side of the river have been seized carried over and made to join the insurgents. All statements concur in saying that the town is in the complete possession of the rebels, together with the United States Armory, Arsenal, Pay Office and bridges, The insurgents are composed of whites and blacks, and are supposed to be led on by Abolitionists.

It is supposed by some that the object of plundering arms, amunition, government money, is for the purpose of effecting a general rising among the blacks of Maryland and Virginia.

One hundred Marines, with two twelve pounders, from Washington barracks went up this afternoon to the scene of hostilities, and will reach there about 8 o'clock P. M. They have orders to clear the bridge at all hazards Three companies of artillery, from Old Point are also on the way thither; besides which six or seven companies of military from Baltimore and Frederick City Maryland, have offered their services and have been accepted by the President. They have gone up on extra trains. The insurgent are said to number about 600 or 800, and that they are under the leadership of a man by the name of Anderson, who but recently arrived at the Ferry.

One report from a merchant, there says that most of the citizens have been surprised, and that many have been killed.—All the roads leading to the town have been barricated and are guarded.

It is believed here to be a move of the Abolitionists. Secretary Floyd received some weeks ago an anonymous letter in informing him that there would be a rising, and an attempt made to capture the Arsenal but the letter was too indefinite, and improbable to be believed. The report may now be greatly exaggerated, there is undoubtedly a serious disturbance occurring at the Ferry. Representatives of the press have gone up with the troops to the scene of action.

SECOND DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 9:30 p m.

Nothing further has been heard from Harper's Ferry except that the reports are generally confirmed. The insurgents have fortified the bridge with cannon. The suspicion here is that the disturbance was caused by the failure of the contrators on the—Government dam to pay the employees, several hundred in number, and that the negroes have been pressed into service—Several companies have been ordered from Richmond and they will probably leave in a special train to-night. Gov. Wise is en route for Washington.

Additional from Harpers Ferry.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.

A special despatch to the Baltimore Sun says that the Baltimore troops and the marines are under the command of Col. Lee. The army arrived near the Ferry at one o'clock last night and learned that the Virginia regiment, and the Frederick, Maryland, troops had entered the town on the opposite side—There was a good deal of firing heard, and it was reported that nine persons were killed. The insurgents are in possession of the arsenal and were willing to surrender, but they demand safe conduct out of the difficulty, otherwise they threaten to sacrifice the lives of two of the principal citizens, whom they hold as prisoners.

Among the insurgents are Kegg, Seaman Brown of Ohio, Todd, of Maine and Aaron Stephens of Connecticut, now dying makes the following statement The plan has been concocting for more than a year the parties rendezvoused at a farm a few miles distant which had been hired for the purpose by Capt Brown, of Kansas notoriety, under the assumed name of Bill Smith

LATER.—The battle last night was fought mainly by the Railroad men. One Conductor was killed and two others wounded. It is thought that the Abolitionists will be hung as soon as they are taken.

[FIFTH DISPATCH.]

BALTIMORE, October 19, 12.30 A. M.—The dying confessions of some of the insurgents state that Ossawatomie Brown and some others concocted the affair months ago, hired a farm in the vicinity of Harper's Ferry, having gathered around him several impoverished Kansas discontents and fanatics. A plan was laid to seize the armory, hoping thus to induce a concentration of the slaves in the neighboring counties of Virginia and Maryland, and ignite a general and wide spread insurrection.

It was stated on Sunday, that the insurgents would be reinforced by 1500 men. Many citizens and government employees were forced out of town, on Sunday night, by armed squads of whites and blacks, who spread the alarm, causing the assemblage of armed citizens and military in the neighboring towns. This movement alarmed the negros, who may have intended joining the insurgents.

The rail road companies afforded every facility for the transportation of the troops, and before the rioters were aware of it, every outlet of the town was guarded, and the insurrectionists completely penned up.

Previous to this movement, a portion of the Abolitionists had affected a stampede among the negros of the neighboring farms, forcing them away against their will. Others conveyed Government arms and ammunition to distant hiding places, and are also said to have plundered the Pay Office of the Government of fifteen or twenty thousand dollars.

About dark Monday night, the local military simultaneously attacked the town from four different points, and drove the insurgents into the armory enclosure for refuge. The conflict in the streets of Harper's Ferry was very severe; fifteen of the insurgents, and two or three of their assailants being killed, and several wounded

Matters thus rested until the arrival of the United States marines and troops from Baltimore and frederick, when the Armory surrendered at daylight.

The demand for surrender being refused, the marines battered down the door of the armory, but were met by a brisk discharge from the insurgents.—One marine was killed, and one feared to be mortally wounded. Two or three others were slightly wounded

The marines forced an entrance, taking all the insurgents prisoners and liberating their captives whom they had previously threatened to murder if attacked.

The number of their prisoners is not stated, but it is believed that out of the original insurgents fifteen have been killed and two are believed to be mortally wounded.

Among the citizens of Harper's Ferry murdered, are Fountain Beckham, a prominent and respected citizen, the agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Rail Road Company; Joseph Barnley and George Turner, one of the first men in the vicinity.

There were killed in the fight, Evan Dorsey, rail way conductor, and George Richardson, of Martinsburg. Several soldiers are seriously wounded.

The latest advices report that Brown is not dead, but may live to be hung.

All is quiet, and the Rangers, under the orders of the President, are now in pursuit of fugitives,

The United States District Attorney has gone up to take charge of the legal proceedings against the prisoners The arrangements made by Gov. Wise to prevent the spread of disaffection were complete and admirably executed. The Governor arrived at the spot too late to participate in the attack. Seven infantry and two rifle and artillery companies, all with full ranks, besides several local companies, were under orders and en rout for Harper's Ferry, in less than four hours after the news was received by him.

[SIXTH DISPATCH]

Harper's Ferry: October 19, 12 M.—There are no signs of any fugitives. The Chambersburg and Bedford Rangers are searching the mountains. Last evening detachments of marines and volunteers visited Brown's house and found a large quantity of blankets, boots, shoes, clothes and tents, besides fifteen hundred pikes, with large blades affixed to them Also, a carpet bag containing sundry documents, throwing considerable light on the affair; among them a printed constitution and by-laws of organization, showing or indicating ramifications in various States of the Union. Also, letter from different individuals at the North. One

From Fred Douglass containing ten dollars; one from a lady; one from Gerritt Smith, about money matters, and enclosing a check or draft by him for one hundred dollars, endorsed by the cashier of a New York bank, the name not recollected. All these documents are in the possession of Gov. Wise, who has issued his proclamation, offering one thousand dollars reward for the arrest of Cook. Large numbers of armed men are now scouring the mountains in pursuit of him. Cook took tea at his father-in-law's house, near the Ferry, on Monday night, only a few hours previous to the arrival of the marines. It was reported on Tuesday morning that he was seen in the mountains, only three miles off from this place.

Two wagons loaded with government arms have been recovered. The insurrectionists did not rob the pay office, as at first reported. There was a large amount of money in it.

Among the letters found in Brown's house, is the following, which is given as a specimen:

"Dear Sir—Have been disappointed in not seeing you ere this, to take charge of your freight. They have been here two weeks, and as I had superintended providing for them, it has imposed on me no small task Besides they are getting discontented, and if not taken in charge soon, will go back to Missouri. They cannot be kept here much longer If any of them go back it will be a bad termination of your enterprise."

It appears that the insurrectionists had printed constitution and by-laws for a Provisional Government of the United States. They had also issued commissions from their war office, near Harper's Ferry; of which the following is a specimen:

"Whereas W. H. Leeman has been nominated Captain of the Army established under Provisional Government; now, therefore in pursuance of authority vested in me by the said constitution, we do hereby appoint and commission the said Leeman, Captain.

"Given at the office of the Secretary of War, on the fifteenth of October, 1859.

"JOHN BROWN, Commander-in-Chief.

"H. KEYS, Secretary of War."

Annexed is a copy of the annonymous letter addressed to Mr Floyd, Secretary of War at Washington:

"CINCINNATI, August 29.—Sir: I have recently received information of a movement of such great importance, that I feel it a duty to impart it to you without delay. I have discovered the existence of a secret association, having for its object the liberation of the slaves at the South by a general insurrection. The leader of this movement is old John Brown, late of Kansas, who has been to Canada during the past winter, drilling negros, who are only waiting his word to start for the South and assist the slaves. They have one of their leaders, a white man, in an armory in Maryland, although where it is situated I am not enabled to learn. As soon as everything is ready, a number of negros who are now in the Northern States and Canada will come South, in small detachments, to their rendezvous, which is in the mountains of Virginia, and will pass down through Pennsylvania and Maryland, and enter Virginia at Harper's Ferry.

"Brown left the North three or four weeks ago, and will arm the negros and strike a blow in a few weeks, so that whatever is done to put a stop to their prowlings, must be done at once. They have a large quantity of arms at their rendezvous, and are probably distributing them already. I am not fully in their confidence, and this is all the information I can give you. I dare not sign my name to this, but trust you will not disregard the warning on this account."

Among the arms found in Cook's house are fifteen hundred pikes, made in Connecticut, the handle six feet long, with a broad and flat two-edged blade, one foot long. Also nine hundred Sharp's rifles, one box of revolvers, and a box of swords. Brown denies that any others except those at the Ferry are connected with the enterprise His wounded son says that other parties at the North are connected with it.

[SEVENTH DISPATCH.]

Harper's Ferry, October 19, 9.40 P. M.—All the prisoners have been committed to the Charlestown jail, to await the action of the Grand Jury. They will be indicted and tried in a few days. The arrangements about jurisdiction have been settled in this way:—the local authorities are to try the prisoners for murder, and meanwhile the U. S authorities will proceed against them on the charge of Governor Wise stated to U. S. District Attorney Ould that he had no objection to the General Government proceeding against that portion of prisoners left after the authorities of Virginia were done with them.

Brown is better and has made fuller statements. He says he rented the farm from Dr Kennedy, six months since, and that the rent is paid until next March. He never had over twenty-two men at the farm at any one period, belonging to the organization, but had good reason to expect reinforcements from Maryland, Kentucky, North and South Carolina and Canada. He had arms sufficient for fifteen hundred men; also, two hundred revolvers, two hundred Sharp's rifles and one thousand spears. These were left at the farm, where he had an abundant supply of powder and fixed ammunition.

All these arms were brought at different times from Connecticut and other Eastern points, to Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, and were directed to J. Smith and Anderson, Kenedy's farm, his assumed names

They were packed in double boxes, the better to deceive the parties who handled them on their way to the farm.

He says he made one mistake, in either not detaining the train on Sunday night, or permitting it to go on unmolested. This want of judgment, he seems to infer, exposed his designs too soon, and prevented re-inforcements from reaching him.

The names of all his party at the Ferry on Sunday night, except three white men whom he admits sending away on an errand, are as follows, with their proper titles under the Provisional Government:

WHITES.

Gen. John Brown, Commander-in-chief—wounded, and will recover.

Capt. Oliver Brown—dead.

Capt. Watson Brown—dead.

Capt. Hasan C. Stephens, of Connecticut—wounded badly; has three balls in his body, and cannot possibly recover.

Lieut. Edwin Coppiee, of Iowa—unhurt.

Lieut. Albert Hazlett, of Pennsylvania—dead.

Lieut. Wm. Leeman, of Maine—dead.

Capt. John E Cook, of Connecticut—escaped.

Private Stewart Taylor, of Canada—dead.

Private Chas P. Todd, of Maine—dead.

Private Wm. Thompson, of New York—dead.

Private Dolph Thompson, of New York—dead.

Capt. John Sage, of Ohio, raised in Virginia—dead.

Lieut. Jeremiah Anderson, of Indiana—dead.

Add to the above three previously sent off, and making a total of seventeen whites.

NEGROS.

Daingerfield Newby, of Ohio, raised in Virginia—dead.

Emperor, of New York, raised in South Carolina—not wounded, a prisoner. He was elected a member of Congress under the Provisional Government, some time since.

Lewis Leary, of Ohio, raised in Virginia—dead.

Copeland, of Ohio, raised in Virginia—not wounded, a prisoner at Charlestown.

Brown has nine wounds, and none of them fatal.

A bushel of letters have been discovered, from all parts of the country. One from Gerritt Smith informs Brown of money being deposited in the Bank of New York, to the credit of J. Smith & Sons. It appears to be one of many, informing him, from time to time, as money was received.

$25 REWARD.

ABOUT the middle of the afternoon of Saturday the 27th of August last, a man calling himself by the name of George Shemonsky, and saying he was a Russian by birth, came to my livery stable in Jacksonville, Ala. and said he wished to hire a horse to ride to Mr. Robert W. Draper's about six miles from this place. I hired him the horse; he saying he would return him the next morning. I have not seen him or the horse since. I cannot understand the gentleman's motive.

The horse is a large sorrel, left eye out, a heavy lucky tail, rather inclined to be hog-backed, ewe necked, about 12 years old.

Shemonsky is a man about 5 feet 9 or 5 inches high. He had on a cap hat, satin vest, and dark clothing, and a goatee, when he hired the horse. I will give the above reward for the delivery of the horse and the gentleman who hired him.

THE SECRET INFIRMITIES OF

YOUTH AND MATURITY.

Just Published Gratis, the 25 Thousand.

A FEW WORDS ON THE Rational Treatment, without Medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Premature Decay of the System, Impotency & Impediments to Marriage generally.

BY B. DE LANEY, M. D.

The important fact that the many alarming complaints, originating in the imprudence and solitude of youth, may be easily removed without medicine, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; the Author, fully explained, by means of which every one is enabled to cure himself perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrums of the day.

Sent to any address, gratis and post free in a sealed envelope, by remitting (post paid) two postage stamps to Dr. B. DE LANEY 85 East 21st Street, New York City.

RICHARDSON'S

IRISH LINENS,

DAMASKS, DIAPERS, &c.

CONSUMERS of RICHARDSON'S LINENS, and those desirous of obtaining the GENUINE GOODS, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm.

J. N. RICHARDSON, SONS & OWDEN, as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared; season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.
