ADMINISTRATORS Sale,
Of Valuable Coosa River
PLANTATIONS.
THE undersigned, as Administrators of the Estate of Dozier Thornton, deceased, late of this, Cherokee County, Ala., will sell, On Thursday the 8th day of November next, during the usual hours of sale, to the highest bidder, On a credit of one, two and three years, with interest from date,
Three of the most Valuable
COOSA RIVER PLANTATIONS
IN THE COUNTY.
Two of the Places are situated on the River near the mouth of Ball Play Creek, eight miles West of Centre, and 14 miles East of Gadsden.
The Home Place, on which is the Residence of the late Dozier Thornton, comprising near Eleven Hundred Acres of Land, about three hundred and fifty of which is Fine Bottom Land—400 Acres of open Land on the place. All the Improvements are of recent construction. The Dwelling House is a handsome building with ten rooms—all necessary out buildings on this place.
The Quarter Place, adjoining the Home Places, comprises about 821 Acres of Land—295 Acres of which is Fine Bottom—215 of the Bottom in a high state of cultivation—about 60 acres of up land open on this place—fine quarter improvements, and fine Gin House and Screw on the premises.
The Gadsden Place, is situated immediately opposite the Town of Gadsden, and comprises about Eight Hundred and Seventy-five Acres of Land—250 acres of which is FINE BOTTOM LAND—about 250 acres of open Land on this place. The Alabama & Tennessee River Rail Road is located through this place, and the contract is made for the completion of the Road to Gadsden by the 1st of October, 1861. The Improvements on this place are good, and its contiguity to the flourishing Town of GADSDEN adds much to the value of the place.
This sale, presents a rare chance to parties wishing to purchase Improved Coosa River Lands. The lands are mostly fresh, and were selected by Maj. Thornton on account of the Health of the locations and the Fertility of the Lands.—Maps of all the Lands can be seen at the office of R. B. Kyle, Gadsden, Ala.; and any information given that parties may desire, in connection with the Lands.
Sale to take place at the late residence of Dozier Thornton, deceased.
There are about 2500 Acres of Pine Lands adjoining the Home Place and Quarter Place, that will be sold in quantities to suit purchasers, so that parties could add to either of those places.

POETRY.

Parting Song.

BY ALICE CARY.

The long day is closing,—
And why should you weep?
'Tis thus that God gives
His beloved ones sleep.

I see the wide water
So deep and so black—
Love waits me beyond it—
I would not go back?

I would not go back
Where its joys scarce may gleam—
Where even in dreaming
We know that we dream.

For though life filled for me
All measures of bliss,
Has it anything better
Or sweeter than this!

I would not go back
To the torment of fear—
To the wastes of uncomfort
When home is so near.

Each night is a prison-bar
Broken and gone—
Each morning a golden gate,
On—farther on!

On, on toward the city
So shining and fair,
And he that hath loved me—
Died for me, is there.

Resignation.

Dreams of youth and hopes are faded—
It is well;
Ere by life's rude cares invaded,
Or by sorrow's midnight shaded,
They have faded—gently faded—
It is well.

Fame I sought but 'twas denied me—
It is well;
Strong temptation would have tried me,
Slander's evil tongue belied me,
In obscurity I hide me—
It is well.

Wealth to me no favor showeth—
It is well;
All my wants my Father knoweth—
Daily what I need bestoweth—
From this trust contentment groweth—
It is well.

I've no share of earthly pleasure—
It is well;
Wisdom from her heavenly treasures,
Filleth all my hours of leisure,
With a higher, purer pleasure—
It is well.

It is astonishing how often great truths must flit before the understanding before they can be firmly and finally fixed in its grasp.

A SNAKE IN AN EDITOR'S BED.—Monday night last after retiring says the Rappahannock (Va.) Southerner, we were aroused by feeling something move in our bed, apparently between the sheet and the ticking. Thinking it to be a mouse we arose, lighted a candle and commenced examining as round the bed, and much to our surprise, horror and disgust, we perceived a hooded adder glide from the bedding and disappear mysteriously. On Tuesday afternoon, while sitting in our sanctum, we heard the venomous reptile, in a waste paper box, and with some trouble and great danger we succeeded in rousting him from his quarters and quickly despatched him. His snakeship measured three feet in length, and four in diameter, and had we been bitten, death would have ensued in a few hours. This is no "snake story"—the curious can see the reptile hanging up in our office.

A SERIES OF SEVERE WINTERS PREDICTED.—A French meteorologist named Renou predicts a series of severe winters, of which the approaching winter is to be the first, and that of 1871 the most severe. Mr. Renou thinks he has discovered that these groups of severe winters return in forty-one years and that the increase of spots on the sun indicates them. He also finds that unusual displays of aurora borealis and frequent earthquakes are simultaneous with the increase of spots on the sun and severe winters.

THE INDIANA BEE TAMER.—The Wabash Intelligencer tells the following of a bee tamer in that place:

One of the remarkable sights here on the Fourth, was Mr. Twining and his queen bee. The day before; he came into our office with an old plug hat. He had cut two holes in it about midway to the crown—one in front, the other in the back part.—Holding the hat in his hand, and turning it over so as to show that it was empty, he said: "You see that this hat is empty; to-morrow I intend to have a swarm of bees at work in it. Sure enough, on the Fourth, as we were going out to the grove, we came across Mr. Twining. He was located under a shady tree, and was exhibiting to an admiring crowd of men and women his wonderful beehive. On his head was the identical hat he had shown us the day before. It was literally covered all over with bees busy at work, going in and out at the orifices before mentioned. The spare room in the hat was filled with comb that had been made within twelve hours. In his hand he held the queen bee, which he was showing to every one that would venture near enough to gaze on and admire the wonderful little insect. During all this time he was giving an eloquent and instructive lecture on the habits, worth and care of bees.

DEATH OF A TENNESSEE HERMIT.
FURTHER PARTICULARS
The McMinnville (Tenn.) New Era announces the death, on the 23d ult., of Daniel West, the well known hermit of the mountains, at the age of seventy eight. He had lived for a number of years in the hollow of a large American poplar tree, in the opening of which he had fitted a rude door. In the centre of this hollow he would build his fire in winter & for cooking his plain meals. This hollow also served as his sleeping apartment, and it is said he slept in a sitting posture, reclining against the wall of his house. Adjoining or near to this tree he had a rude shed which he used as a workshop, where he manufactured chairs, boxes, cider mills, &c. He was a North Carolinian by birth, and was a soldier in the war of 1812. He was at the Mobile station when the battle of New Orleans was fought, and heard the booming of the guns.

He married, it's said, in early life, a woman whose husband had left her, and who was by her considered dead They had one child, and lived together in great happiness and harmony. After the lapse of years the former husband returned and claimed his wife. He told her to make her own choice; if she loved him most, to remain with him and she would never repent it; if, however, she loved and preferred to go with her first husband, to do so, and he would never blame her. She decided to go with the first.

Daniel West was at that time in comfortable circumstances, had a quantity of stock, and was adding to his substance every year. After this desertion of the woman he loved, he became dejected, let his property run to ruin, and finally adopted the strange and secluded life of a hermit in his tree. He lived in this way many years. He did not do so from necessity, (for he had friends who besought him to make their homes his own.) but from choice. When questioned as to why he preferred such a mode of life, he only answered that "the world had not used him well." And yet he did not appear to be soured in his disposition or embittered in his feelings toward it.

TRAGEDY IN ILLINOIS—Lady and Two Children Murdered.—A terrible tragedy occurred in Tazewell county, Ill., on the 12th inst. resulting in the murder of the wife of Geo. W. Orendorff and his two little daughters, aged respectively seven and nine years. A letter dated the 15th, says:

On yesterday morning he and his hired man started for the timber, about five miles distant, to work, and did not return until after dark last night. On entering the house, he discovered no light, and went in to see what the matter was, when he was stricken with horror by stumbling over the lifeless body of his wife. He at once called for his hired man, and a light was soon struck, and a still more horrible and heart-rending picture presented itself. Near its mother, lay his youngest child, dead; and just outside of the door lay his eldest child, not dead, but speechless and dying.

The alarm was at once given, and several of the neighbors were soon upon the spot. On examination it was found that the fiendish crime had been committed with the back part of an axe, with repeated blows. Nine wounds were found upon Mrs. O., seven of which were considered sufficient to produce death if dealt singly. The youngest child was much mangled about the head; the eldest seemed to have made its escape from the house & was caught in the yard and stricken down with a club. On further examination, it was discovered that all the drawers and places where valuables were likely to be kept, had been opened, and from $39 to $40 and a Colt's revolver taken. A considerable amount of money was in the house, belonging to an estate of which Mr. O., was administrator, but which was not found by the scoundrel.

The suspected man made his escape, leaving a pair of bloody boots behind as proof of his guilt. the citizens had turned out en masse in pursuit.

ANTICIPATED REVOLT IN HUNGARY.—A private letter from Turin, says the Courrier du Havre of the 25th ult., contains this statement: "Garibaldi alone is in the secret of the moment at which the Hungarian insurrection is to break out. He has the greatest difficulty in restraining the liberals of Hungary until he gives the signal. At the present moment, Kossuth, Klapka, Teleki, and others, are in Turin, awaiting until the secret hour shall strike on the Garibaldian clock."

SMOKING SEED CORN.—At a late discussion of a farmer's club in Illinois, reported in the Chicago Farmer's Advocate, Mr. Ide says that he selects his seed ears in the field before frost, hangs them in a smoke-house—the more smoke the better. The pyroligenous acid imbibed by the corn will bring it up in dry, hot weather, and at the end of four weeks the growth will be twice that of corn planted at the same time without smoking, and will be left entirely alone by mice, squirrels or worms.

Brownites Convicted in S. Carolina.

The Charleston Mercury of Wednesday, learns that the two Hitchings concerning whose arrest and trial as Abolition incendiaries a full account was published in the Mercury of Saturday, had been duly convicted and sentenced to be hung on Friday to day). Additional and crushing evidence had been adduced to prove their complicity in an insurrectionary plot, and this sealed their doom. At last accounts, "Minute-Men" were actively forming in Cheraw and the vicinity.

The Prince of Wales at the Tomb of Washington.

The Prince of Wales visited Mount Vernon on Friday, in company with the President of the United States and others. On the arrival of the party at the tomb, the band of music which accompanied them played the solemn dirge from Trovatore. The correspondent of the Baltimore sun, says:

The youthful Prince, as well indeed, as his royal associates, appeared fully to appreciate the scene. Every mind was deeply imbued with a sense of the illustrious Washington, and such was the interest manifested by Lord Renfrew that he received several large horse-chesnuts, and with his own hands planted them at the tomb of Washington. He then secured a parcel of them with the avowed intention of planting them at Windsor, as a memorial of their interesting ever-to-be-remembered visitation of this day.—Then the venerable homestead, with every object of interest, however small, the gardens and grounds, were surveyed minutely until two full hours had passed.—The signal for return being given, the whole party was again conveyed to the steamer, and on board, a most exquisite repast or dinner was presented and partaken of with zest. The company, especially the more youthful portion, and the Prince ascended the upper deck, when it was agreed unanimously that the entertainment should be varied with dancing. This was commenced in good spirit, when, on suggestion of Lord Renfrew, the speed of the steamer was diminished so as to prolong the time of arrival in Washington. The vessel was then merely allowed to drift along whilst the gay party above, and more sedate below, enjoyed themselves to their heart's content.

Another Grand Demonstration.—We venture, once more, to call attention to the Southern Commercial Convention, which is shortly to meet in this city. We hope to see the Southern States fully represented in this Convention. Some of our timid fellow-citizens seem to be apprehensive that mischief may grow out of this Convention. So far as we are concerned, we say let the mischief come, if mischief grows out of this Convention. We should rejoice to see ten thousand people in Atlanta on the occasion of which we speak. If the Southern Representatives of the South when thus convened, shall determine to consult together about the rights of the South, and the dangers to which we, as Southern people, are exposed, that is our own business. Let those who are opposed to such a movement show their hands. We should like to see who such recreants are.—Atlanta Intelligencer.

Court in Anderson—Murder Case.—The Anderson Gazette contains the following:

The Court of Common Pleas adjourned late on Saturday evening last, after a very tedious week's work. His Honor, Judge Wardlaw, dispatches business with great rapidity, and has left every one pleased with the kindness and Courtesy with which he treats the officers of the Court, members of the Bar, and every one with whom he came in contact.

The only case of importance was the State vs. Frederick Leech, for the murder of Hampton Cobb. The prisoner was found guilty, and sentenced to be hanged on Friday, the 11th January next.

Some ten days before the trial of Leech, who is now in our jail under sentence of death for the murder of Cobb, Mrs. Leech (his wife) paid him a visit. We learn that their conversation was not of the most peaceable nature during her short stay, and when she went to leave, very quietly remarked to her unfortunate husband, that she supposed she would not see him again, as there would be such a large crowd at the hanging, there would be no chance for her to see, and besides that, the children would all want to come. The good lady then called at a grocery store, complained of the "cholic," turned off a couple of glasses of "pop skull," and then set out for her "desolate home."

"TWENTY-THREE BALES TO THE HAND."—Our townsman, Dr. Berry, who has recently been on a trip to the great cotton region of Louisiana, has placed on our table two packages of cotton, obtained at the ginhouse of a gentleman who last year gathered "twenty-three bales to the hand," and this year will gather as much if not more.—One of the packages represents the cotton as carried to the gin; the other, after it has been ginned, and made ready for the press. Any one who will examine these samples, and compare them with the cotton made in this part of Mississippi, will readily appreciate the great difference between picking and gathering cotton; and will cease to wonder at the complaints which reach us from Manchester, as to dirty and trashy cotton.—Hinds County Gazette.

BRUTAL MURDER IN FLORIDA.—ALBERT CLARK, well-known and highly respectable citizen Fernando county, Florida, was brutally murdered by one of his negros on the 8th inst. The culprit, Hamton, was brought into Brookville on the 12th inst., and, having made a speech on the gallows, admitting his guilt and the justice of his punishment, was executed in front of the Court House and in the presence of a large number of the citizens.

The Premium Bale.—The bale of Cotton which drew the $150 prize at the exhibition of the Shelby County Agricultural Society, which closed on Saturday, was sold, yesterday, by F. Titus & Co., of this city, at the high figure of twenty cents per pound. This bale will net Mr. Holms, the successful contestant against seventeen competitors for this prize, fully $250—an example of what careful cultivation and skillful husbandry may accomplish.—Memphis Appeal.

Suicide Resulting from Fear of an Insurrection.

A citizen of the upper part of Laurens District, Mr. Isham S. Bolt, says a South Carolina paper, committed suicide on Monday morning, by blowing out his brains with a shot gun. It seems that he had been much harrassed in mind with the fear of an insurrection, for some time, and had layed with his arms beside him the night before his death.

Press on the Column.

It is generally admitted that Breckinridge and Lane will carry this State by majorities ranging from thirty to forty thousand. Nearly every prominent man in the State is for our ticket. Every mail brings us the information of some Opposition paper which has sacrificed old prejudices to the good of the country, and hoisted the flag of Breckinridge and Lane. Our electors are in the field and everywhere pressing conviction upon the masses of the Opposition. Our mountains, prairies and valleys are filled with the staunch yeomen, who deeply appreciate the crisis which has come upon the country, when the tempest rages round the good ship, and the light of day is blotted from the heavens by black and rolling clouds, the good mariner bravely pursues his way according to his chart and compass through the fury of the storm and the rage of the seas. So it is where fanaticism threatens our path and treason creeps among us; trusting to Providence and the power of truth, we direct our course by the principles of the Constitution and the Union.
Austin (Texas) Gazette, Sept. 15th.

Wm. L. Yancey and the Nomination.

We are authorized to state positively and distinctly, and on responsible evidence which can be furnished to a proper demand, that the nomination for the Vice Presidency on the Douglas ticket, was offered to William L. Yancey, of Alabama.

This offer was made through or by George N. Sanders, of New York, and with the knowlodge of Stephen Arnold Douglas, and but a few days before the meeting of the adjourned Convention at Baltimore.

We respectfully request exchanges interested to give extensive circulation to this assertion, in the words of, and on the authority of the Courier, as we have placed it above, and we demand in justice, that those who undertake to doubt should put their negation in a proper form.

This will be taken as an answer to all who have questioned us concerning our former assertion of the same fact, as we had not then the distinct evidence available, although we were fully convinced before we first uttered the assertion.—Charleston Courier.

We have never doubted that the Vice Presidency was tendered Mr. Yancey on the Douglas ticket.—Those who have called in question this charge first made by O. Jennings Wise, Esq., will now have an opportunity to test the truth of the matter, stated in more specific terms by the Charleston Courier. The Courier is well known throughout the country as a commercial newspaper of the highest and most conservative character. If, therefore, reiterates this charge in no light or partizan spirit; and it rests upon the adherents of Douglas to have the facts brought out. Come, gentlemen, you have dodged the issue long enough. Election day will soon be here. You are arraigned as pirates, sailing under false colors. What say you—guilty or not guilty? The people will to render their verdict on the 6th day of November next. When the Douglas leaders get through answering to this charge, we may call upon them to answer to the grave offense of, offering Mr. Yancey the Presidency in 1864, if he would only let the Squatter Giant have his way in 1860.
Montgomery Advertiser.

LYNCH LAW.—The negro Lewis, who murdered his overseer, Mr. James L. Davis, about two weeks ago, was caught last Tuesday on a plantation adjoining that of Maj. Cocke, to whom he belonged. He was taken by the citizens of that neighborhood, chained to a log and burned to death.

Just before the torch was applied, he addressed his fellow servants, many of whom had gathered around, and admonished them to take warning by his fate. He made a full confession of his guilt and acknowledged the justice of the punishment he was about to receive.

We are no advocate of lynch law, but there are circumstances connected with the murder of Mr. Davis which perhaps in a measure justify [illegible] in having taken the law into their own hands.—Taskegee Republican, 11th inst.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

November 1, 1860.

FOR PRESIDENT,

J. C. BRECKINRIDGE,

OF KENTUCKY.

FOR VICE PRETIDENT,

GEN. JOSEPH LANE,

OF OREGON.

DEMOCRATIC ELECTORAL TICKET.

FOR THE STATE AT LARGE.
DAVID HUBBARD OF Lawrence.
J. T. MORGAN OF Dallas.
FOR THE DISTRICTS.
1. J. S. DICKINSON, OF Clarke.
2. E. S. SHORTER, OF Barbour.
3. C. A. BATTLE, OF Macon.
4. I. W. GARROTT, OF Perry.
5. J. S. KENNEDY, OF Lauderdale.
6. R. C. BRICKEL, OF Madison.
7. R. W. COBB, OF Shelby.

☞ Some time ago, the charge was made that the Vice Presidential nomination on the Douglas ticket, was offered to Mr. Yancey. The charge was at first met by the Douglas papers and politicians, with a flat, unconditional denial. But recently it has been proven true beyond controversy: and now G. N. Sanders, through whom the proposition was made, with the knowledge of Douglas, comes out in a letter, and acknowledges it is true, but says it was only a very good joke

This reminds us of the young man who, in very good earnest asked a girl to have him. No said she, I have no notion of you. Well, said the young man "what would you have said if I had been in earnest?.

Remember the 6th of November! Give one day to your Country!

☞ The Charleston Mercury is informed that Wm. B. Astor of New York, has contributed one million of dollars, and some half dozen other merchants another million, to be used in the effort to defeat the election of Lincoln. If there could be a case in which the use of money to control elections would be justifiable, the present is one; and it is one also, in which the persons who make these enormous expenditures, would be gainers by the transaction; if successful in their object.

Goods at Reduced Prices. It will be seen by reference to the advertisement of Messrs. Blun & Frank, that in consequence of hard times and scarcity, they have determined to offer their entire Stock of Goods, at greatly reduced prices—in fact, many things at cost for cash.

Their stock is very large and of good quality, and they will doubtless make it the interest of all who need goods to give them a call.

Don't fail to come out to the Election. Stir up every lukewarm Neighbor.

☞ We were pleased the other day, to meet with our young friend and townsman, MR. G. H. FORNEY, who has been for some months engaged in business in the city of New York; and we suppose, will return there again in a short time. Mr. Forney expresses the opinion that Lincoln cannot be defeated in New York.

Ingenious Machinery.—We were shown yesterday, at the shop of Mr. A. Adams, of this place, some very finished and beautiful species of machinery for turning iron, cutting screws for bridge bolts, &c. The machinery was patented about a year since by Peter Sellers, and is said to be superior to any thing of the kind. Several piles of screw bolts were lying about intended for bridges on the Ala. & Ten. R. Railroad.

Mr. Adams, is now prepared to make contracts for bridge bolts, and iron for almost every description of machinery.

Have your Tickets ready!

☞ LIEUT. JOHNN H. FORNEY, of the U. S. Army, arrived at this place on Monday last, on his way from New Mexico to West Point New York. We understand, that under appointment, he will remain at the Military Academy at West Point, in the service of the government.

The census returns of the Parish of Concordia La., show a white populatian of 1280, and a black population of 12,800. In 1859, 63,288 bales of cotton were raised. The average of wealth for every white inhabitant of the parish is over $20,000, and an annual income to each of $2,000. This, it is believed cannot be beaten in the world.

Let Calhoun be the Banner County.

☞ We will give in our next paper all the election returns which reach us, up to the latest hour of publication in time for the mail—besides, we promise our indulgent and generous patrons, knowing that their anxiety will be great to hear the earliest news, to send it out in an extra to all the offices—if not to every reader, at least in sufficient numbers to disseminate the news generally.

Town Lots.—Many enquiries have been made recently relative to Town lots for sale in this place—their situation, size, location, price, &c. The attention of all such persons is particularly invited to the advertisement of Gen. R. G. Earle, in another column, who offers for sale sixteen acres of lots, advantageously situated for building and residences. He requests us to say that he will give a bargain in any or all of them.

Errata.—We were absent when the inside of our paper was printed off last week, in which occurred several glaring errors in some of our editorial remarks. In the article relative to the late State elections the word "Ark" is used twice, where it was written, and ought to have been printed Arch. In the 4th line of the same piece the word "changes" ought to have been chances.

Electoral Tickets.

As mentioned in our extra, we send out in each number of this weeks paper, in this and adjoining Counties several Tickets; and respectfully request of those who receive them, to keep one for their own use and distribute the others among their neighbors. Those who receive them, but do not desire to vote that way, we hope will also distribute them among their neighbors We ask this of them as a favor. As written tickets with so many names, would be liable to many errors, printed tickets should be generally adopted, and persons should supply themselves in time. We have adopted the mode above mentioned, in order to disseminate generally a number of tickets—besides which, our Breckinridge friends in Town have paid for a large number to be sent to the different precincts. Tickets have, and will be deposited at Judge Woods' office, with G. B Douthit, and at other places in Town, where persons from remote parts of the County can apply for them.

We will also fill orders, if desired, for Bell or Douglas Tickets, at 50 cts. per hundred.

New Grocery and Commission House at Selma.

Particular attention is invited to the card of MESSRS. WOODWARD, PORTER & WHITE, Wholesale Grocers and Commission Merchants, Selma, Ala. These gentlemen have been extensively and favorably known in this section of the State, for near a quarter of a century: and those who know them best, will bear us out in the broad assertion, that in all the branches of the business they propose to transact, none more competent, reliable, and devoted to the interest of their patrons, can be found. We hope the name of this firm will be constantly remembered by those who may wish to consign cotton or other produce for sale, or to procure Groceries and other supplies.

The Augusta Constitutionalist, the Douglas and Johnson, organ, has the following sensible remarks, in relation to the proposed fusion in Georgia Should Lincoln be elected, (against which we still hope.) political healing plasters will be as much in demand in the South, as political blister plasters have been before it.

FUSION IN GEORGIA.

We have before stated our conviction that a union of parties in Georgia could do no good—first, because too late; second, because we need thirty-two northern electoral votes, which all the South combined can't make.

The communication of the proprietor of this paper, proposes a joint electoral ticket, for the promotion of fraternal feeling among all parties in Georgia; and to any movement which has for its object the union of all southern men, we give our cordial assent. We want BRECKINRIDGE men and BELL men, not for present, but future power. This is with us no party trick, for we propose to ignore all party but the South. And we want the election to close friendly, so that the great southern convention, and the next Legislature, will see all Georgians united on the platform which has for its only plank, LOVE OF THE SOUTH.

We repudiate fusion for any other ultimate object than the union of the South for coming events.

A PARTING WORD.

We feel little encouragement to fill this, the last paper we shall issue before the election, with political articles—the argument is exhausted—the appeal must now be to the ballot box. If at the very commencement of the canvass, many things had been known that are now known, we have no doubt the position of many men would have been different. If it had been seen then, as clearly as it is now, that a distinct sectional issue at the North could only be met by a distinct sectional issue at the South—that our differences, bickerings, and recriminations, gave aid and comfort, confidence and zeal to the enemies of the South—that it is as futile to meet distinct sectional issues with timid time-serving compromise issues; as it would be to attempt to extinguish fire with oil, the position of many men we think would have been different. What has the lamb to expect from the wolf by appeal to his generosity?—the wolf, for the want of any other accusation would still accuse the lamb of muddying the water, although on the lower side of the stream But many men were hasty in taking their positions, tho' fear of being on the weak side or in a false position; and then pride of opinion and a false notion of consistency kept them there: it would seem vain to appeal to such now, or ply them with arguments—yet as this is a canvass involving issues so momentous, that if a man errs against his own section, it will be fatal to him, as a politician, for all time, we would make one other and last appeal. As human judgment is not infallible, and we must all run some risk of erring, it is a wise maxim to let it be on the safe side No individual or government, acting purely on the defensive and seeking nothing but justice, was ever known to ask too much, or to get it sooner by asking less This is the present position of the South. The most extreme sectional party at the South is not accused by their opponents of desiring to aggress on any other people, or of demanding any thing more than justice and equality. But parties, professing to be honest, say there is danger of revolution in claiming what is right. Well then, if we cannot get justice and equality by demanding them, we shall certainly not by failing to do so, neither can we by submitting to wrong escape the final danger. A people purely on the defensive, contending for nothing but their constitutional rights, are bound by every principle of honor and good policy, to dispute every inch of ground. As stated by Mr. Curry, in his speech at Gadsden, that people who will not openly and boldly contend for justice, equality and right, are unworthy the blessings of freedom

What a sublime spectacle would the South now be, even if overborne and defeated, by presenting a united front against aggression, in this contest. United defeat would be more honorable, give her more moral power, and go farther to avert threatened danger, than victory purchased by indirection and cowardly compromise. Then friends, let us go to the polls, forgetful of past political prejudices, rising above minor differences, when compared to the great issue before us, with the proud consciousness that we desire nothing but what is right, and determined not to submit to anything that is wrong.

South Carolina.—The Governor of South Carolina has issued his proclamation convening an extra session of the Legislature on Monday next, the 5th day of November, for the purpose of appointing Electors of President and Vice President; "and also that they may, if advisable, take action for the safety of the State.

☞ The attention of land buyers is invited to the extensive land sale advertisement in our last and present issues, by Abel Bhillips and C. W. P. Phillips, Administrators of Joseph Phillips, de'ed. A large portion of these lands are of very superior character, with Mills, Mill seats and many other advantages, for particulars of which the reader is referred to the advertisement.

JACKSONVILLE INSURANCE COMPANY.

We learn that the fifty thousand dollars of stock, required by the charter to be taken, preparatory to the organization of this company, was promptly taken last week by the following named gentlemen:

Hon. T. A. Walker,	$10,000
E. L. Woodward,	10,000
J. D. Porter,	10,000
Wm. White,	10,000
Dr. C. J. Clark,	5,000
B. C. Wyly,	5,000

We presume the company will organize in a short time and proceed to business.

Great Mass Meeting at Gadsden.

Outpouring of the People.

If any one had doubted that there was an overwhelming majority for Breckinridge and Lane, in Cherokee, DeKalb, St. Clair and Calhoun, they would have ceased to do so, when present at the Democratic Mass Meeting held by the citizens of those Counties on Wednesday the 24th of October.

The people commenced collecting on the evening previous, and several speeches were delivered at the stand by Mr. Clare of Cherokee, and others.

On Wednesday morning early, the people commenced pouring in by all the roads and across the ferry. So dense was the crowd and great the anxiety to get across the ferry, that serious apprehensions were entertained on several occasions that the boat would be sunk, but fortunately no accident occurred.

The stand for the speeches had been erected on the bluff above the street leading up from the landing, in a beautiful grove, and seats prepared for some 2500 persons. The tables were set on the lower side of the same street, also in a handsome grove.

About 11 o'clock, the people were called to the stand, preceded by the band of Music, from this place, consisting of Messrs. Farmer, Wright, Neeld, McAfee and others, who also carried the large Breckinridge flag from this place and erected it, with other flags, brought by other deputations, on the right of the speaker. The meeting was called to order and organized by the election of Hon. F. M. Hardwich, of Cherokee, President, B. B. Wharton, of St. Clair, Martin Hale, of Cherokee, W. J. Whisenant, of Calhoun, F. J. Holly of Green, Jesse Edwards of DeKalb, and Col. Abels of Randolph, Vice Presidents, and J. F Grant and Isaac P. Moragne, Sec'ys An eloquent, impressive and appropriate prayer was then offered to a Throne of grace, by Rev. D. Bryan, of Gadsden: The space immediately in front of the stand was assigned to and occupied by the Ladies, who seemed in sufficient numbers to occupy nearly half the seats, which was one of the pleasant, encouraging and cheering features of the occasion.

Hon. J. L. M. Curry, being called for, was introduced by Mr. Clare of Cherokee, who arose amid deafening cheers, and enchained the attention of that vast audience, for about three hours, in one of the most eloquent, chaste, clear, forcible, and argumentative speeches, it has ever been our good fortune to hear, although we have listened to many, from the renowned Henry Clay down to the most common. Mr. Curry was scrupulously careful not to use harsh or abusive language: in fact he did his opponents, the Bell and Douglas men the justice to say, that he believed them equally as honest, patriotic and devoted to what they believed the best interests of their country, as their opponents He said he was not disposed to call them traitors and disunionists, though he could do so with equally as much truth and fairness, as the Breckinridge men had been thus branded. He attributed their differences of opinion from others of their Southern brethren to the blindness and obstinacy of party prejudice, and a failure to examine impartially both sides of the question as at present presented, together with a false notion of consistency. He stated that he appeared before that vast audience deeply impressed with the perils and dangers of the impending crisis, and that he would scorn to use any evasive or deceptive argument—would state nothing but from the most reliable documents, or what he knew, or most conscientiously and religiously believed to be true; and if any there doubted or denied, he wanted them then and there to challenge him to the proof, and not go off and denounce his facts and arguments as a batch of democratic lies His speech indeed, throughout, was weighted and burthened, with the most incontrovertible facts and arguments—touching on every phase and feature of the canvass—showing the falsehood and hypocricy of the disunion cry raised against the Southern Rights Democracy, and the utter unsoundness of Bell and Douglas on the slavery question;—and as said of his speech on another occasion, he "in a most touching manner appealed to the men of all parties at the South, to lay down their prejudices, and come to the support of the only men and the only party whose principles fully and unequivocally antagonize the aggressive policy of the Black Republican tide of fanaticism at the North, which threatens so soon to overwhelm the liberties and the equalities of the South." No man, we thought, whose heart and mind were not obscured by a veil of prejudice and passion, could have failed to be convinced of the recititude of his principles and positions and the facts he stated.

John T. Morgan, Esq. and other distinguished speakers, who had been invited failed to attend. At the conclusion of Mr. Curry speech, the people were invited to a bountiful repast, prepared at the place before stated, the tables near the river being assigned to the ladies, who were first conducted thither, by the Marshal and officers of the day.

After dinner, the crowd was again assembled at the stand, and the subjoined letters, read by Mr Clare of Cherokee, who followed the reading with some eloquent and appropriate remarks, showing that he possessed the graces and powers of oratorary in no small degree; he gave way, when we would have fain heard him longer, under the impression that there were others, that the audience wished to hear. We understood that Mr. Clare has done very faithful and effective service in this campaign in Cherokee and adjoining Counties, for which we hope he may be both remembered and rewarded by the True Democracy.

Hon. J. H. Wright of this place was next loudly called for, but not being present, he did not speak, and in a short time, the immense, orderly and attentive audience was dismissed, with the thanks of the President.

The number of people was variously estimated at from three to five thousand, and it is said, would have been much larger, but for DeKalb Court being in session. We have never witnessed in any place, more sobriety, order, decorum and harmony, where so large a number of people were congregated at a political meeting.

Much credit is due to Messrs. D. A. Miller, R B Kyle, J. P. Moragne, W. P Hollingsworth, and other officers, committee men and citizens, for the freedom of the ferry, their liberal contributions, and vigilant exertions for the comfort and convenience of the people assembled.

The following are the letters received from some of the invited speakers, and read by Mr Clare, of Cherokee:

WETUMPKA, ALA. OCT. 8, 1860.

Gentlemen:

Your favor of the 1st inst., inviting me to attend a "mass meeting of the true Democracy to be held on the 19th inst., at Gadsden" has just been received.

There is no portion of Alabama where I have received a more uniform support, since I have been engaged in public life, than your own immediate section. Nor have I any constituents, whom I would meet with more pleasure in social or political intercourse than your own. But my engagements are such that I will not be able to be with you on that occasion.

The unhappy divisions of the Democracy which characterized the deliberations of our late Conventions, and the subsequent bickerings and discord, which followed, and now exist throughout the Union, are causes for deep regret, not only to all democrats but to all patriots, and all who desire the peace and quiet of the Country. I hardly deem it necessary to add, that no one has felt more regret at this than I have. There is no period in the history of the country, since my recollection, when the State stood more in need of the united counsel, and the united action of all her people, to counteract and defeat the election of candidates such as Lincoln & Hamlin—candidates nominated upon principles, which are not only degrading to us, as a section, but which, if carried out, will end in our ruin.

Messrs. Breckinridge & Lane having been nominated upon a platform, which declares principles in accordance with my views of constitutional right and power, and especially upon the absorbing question of the territories, I have, as you are aware avowed a preference for them It would give me pleasure, therefore, if I could be with you, to urge their claims upon our friends. I know them both well, and know them to be sound reliable constitutional and conservative men, and if they shall be elected, I feel sure that the government will be faithfully administered, and the interests of all sections respected.

Very Respectfully,
Your Obe't. Servant,
BEN. FITZPATRICK.

Messrs. W. P. Moragne,
D. C. Webb,
Jo. Beavins,
W. P. Hollingsworth,
B. B. Whorton,
R. B. Kyle,
W. B. Wynne,
D. A. Miller.
Committee of Invitation.

The following is also an extract from a letter received by the Committee, from Virgil S. Murphey, of Montgomery:

"The great issue involved in this canvass, stripped of the miserable sophistries thrown around it, by interested partisans, is, whether we shall hold our slave property in peace and tranquility in the states, and emigrate with it to the common territory of this Union unmolested by territorial restrictions.

This system of labor, so often sneeringly termd, the "peculiar institutions of the South"—(peculiar only from the great benefits it confers upon both races and the mighty practical results of its workings) has become so intimately blended with our safety and happiness—our past and our future that not to sustain and defend it, is inevitable destruction—to pause even, is an irretrievable error. Experience has demonstrated that expansion is the law of its nature, and restriction its sentence of death. Can we then support Mr. Douglas with his territorial dogma, which if carried out, "is but a short cut to all the ends of Black Republicanism." He who in his Norfolk manifesto of defiance to the South, struck down the dearest principles of democracy and removed the last barrier between him and Black Republicanism: Clearly then he is not the man for the South.

Can we find safety in that string of meaningless and powerless generalities, called, "the Union the Constitution and the enforcement of the laws." Does it promise anything? Does it assert one single constitutional principle? Does it foreshadow any policy which will guide Mr. Bell (if elected) in the administration of this government? Clearly not. If you will permit me to coin a word, I should call this platform a complete ignorer, of all vital issues and needs but the addition of the declaration of independence to complete its beauty and the multiplication table to tell you how many ways it it may be construed. In this hour of our country's need, we want a strong zealous energetic man—not a timid time serving politician, to control its destinies. In Breckinridge and Lane we find all the requisites of a true constitutional ticket. In the first we have the peerless young statesman of the age, who has served his country with honor and fidelity in offices of high trust and importance. In the second we have the true and noble hearted old hero of Buenna Vista, who stood by his country's flag on foreign fields where "death came careering on the gale" and won at the cannon's mouth an imperishable name."

Lafayette, Ala. Oct. 15, 1860.

Gentlemen:—Your kind favor of the 3rd inst., inviting me to be present at a Mass Meeting of the Breckinridge and Lane party at Gadsden on the 24th Oct. came to hand a short time since. It is needless for me to assure you how much pleasure it would give me to meet my old friends on such an occasion, and unite with them in their efforts to advance the cause of Southern rights and Constitutional equality; but it will not be in my power to do so, my heart is in the cause, gentlemen, and notwithstanding the darkness which now surrounds us, my confidence in its ultimate triumph is not diminished.—We may be borne down by superior numbers for awhile, but holding the truth in our possession, we shall not fail of victory in the end. In the conflict for Constitutional equality, it is much to be regretted that the South does not present unbroken columns. She is in a minority, and the safety of her rights depends upon a true interpretation of the Constitution, and an administration of the Government in strict accordance with its letter and spirit. The question is, shall a municipal majority, in contempt of its limitations, govern us at discretion? Upon this issue, every right sacred to freedom is put in jeopardy.

How do parties stand in the controversy? Those who follow the fortunes of Bell & Everett, unable to get clear of the mists and fogs of party prejudice, and intent mainly on defeating the democracy, observe ominous silence on the great question, whilst Douglas and his partizans divide by a plea of popular sovereignty, and attempt to confuse the issue; Breckinridge alone, sustained by the State rights men of all parties, North and South, openly and unequivocally joins issue with the Black Republicans, and demands the full measure of our rights. We can follow his flag with safety and honor, for upon it we find written, liberty and equality, and the success of no other insures a Constitutional union.

In such a noble cause, with such a gallant leader, with brave hearts, true to the impulses of patriotism for followers, shall we fail? Surely not. I have confidence in the banner of truth, and will still hope for the Republic notwithstanding the perils which environ us. The South will give her whole electoral vote for Breckinridge & Lane. This will secure harmony in our counsels, should fanaticism enter the North and force us to another struggle for our Constitutional rights. We should stand prepared for the worst, and if I do not mistake the courage of our people, they will prove true to the revolutionary blood, and be found equal to the emergency of defending their liberties at any and all times. Hoping that you may have a large meeting and that much good may be done, I remain with great respect, your ob't servant.

Montgomery, Oct. 6th, 1860.

Messrs. W. B WYNNE, J. P. MORAGNE, and others, Committee of Invitation:

Gentlemen—Your invitation to me to attend the Mass Meeting of the friends of Breckinridge & Lane, on the 24th inst, at Gadsden, was received yesterday. I fear and believe previous engagements will prevent my attendance. If however I can attend consistently with such engagements, it will afford me great pleasure to do so.

Feeling a deep concern in all that is calculated to advance the great cause of the equality of the States, and the equality of rights between citizens of every section of the Union, I can but feel a lively interest in the success of Breckinridge & Lane, the true exponents and representatives of that great cause. With great respect,

SAMUEL F. RICE.

Cincinnati Hog Market.

At Cincinnati, during the past week, hogs on the spot declined 25c. per cental, during the week, closing on Tuesday last at $5 25 to $5 50 for slop and $5 50 to $5 75 for corn fatted per cental, gross. For future delivery prices have been easier; 4,000 head sold at $6 50, to be delivered the first three weeks of November, and $6 25 for all December, closing with a fair demand at these rates, and not many offering.

☞ We most earnestly ask every friend of Bell and Douglas, into whose hands this copy of our paper may fall, even at this eleventh hour, to read the following article from the Cincinnati Courier When Northern papers can be thus bold and outspoken in favor of equality and justice to the South, is it not profoundly humiliating to hear Southern politicians, apologising for their enemies, proposing to compromise away constitutional rights, and pledging themselves in advance to the support of Lincoln, the "irrepressible conflict" candidate, and the endorser of Helper's infamous "Impending Crisis?"

The Union—Its True Friends and its Enemies.—That the permanency of the Union is at this time endangered, says the Cincinnati Courier is conceded by reflecting men of all parties. One by one, the links which have bound our people together have been sundered: churches have been separated by geographical lines; political parties have been sectionalized, and all minor issues have been swallowed up in the great and overwhelming issue. Shall the people of the South enjoy an equality of rights with the citizens of the North? Upon the decision of this question, disguise it as we may, depends the perpetuity of the Union. The man is insane who believes that the South will submit to be degraded in the Union.

This Union must be a Union of equal States, or it will cease to be a Union as formed by our fathers. All acknowledge that the Union is in danger, from the sectionalism which manifest itself both in the North and in the South, and some have proposed to meet the impending danger by the formation of a Union-saving party, whose object evidently is to save the Union by sacrificing the constitutional rights of at least one section of the Union.

The design of the party has never been clearly defined or understood. But, in our judgement, its formation will be productive of evil. This careless cry of Union! Union! on the part of the Union party South, to use the argument of another, is an advertisement to the people of the North that they may commit aggression upon the rights of the South, and still the people of the South will patiently submit. What more do the supporters of Lincoln desire? In 1856, Mr. Fillmore declared that the election of Fremont would be sufficient cause the dissolution of the Union. So thought thousands of good and patriotic men throughout the country. Indeed, it was the prevailing apprehension which everywhere existed, that the Union would be dissolved in the event of a Black Republican triumph, that secured the defeat of Fremont. The Black Republicans now, however, have no such apprehensions A party has been formed and pledged to stand by the Union, under all circumstances The Black Republicans may, therefore, go on, knowing that there is a party South which will stand by the Union in spite of all their aggressions on the rights of the citizens of the South. They could not possibly ask for more. They cannot expect to carry any Southern State in their warfare on Southern rights. All they ask, and there are thousands who, for party purposes are willing to make the consession, is, that the South will patiently submit to their continued aggressions

WE HOLD, THEREFORE, THAT THIS UNION MOVEMENT GIVES AID AND COMFORT TO THE BLACK REPUBLICAN PARTY BY URGING THEM ON IN THEIR AGGRESSIVE COURSE, AND BY INVITING THEM TO MAKE WAR ON THE INSTITUTIONS OF THE SOUTH. IF THE SOUTH, INSTEAD OF BEING DIVIDED, SHOULD STAND UP FIRMLY FOR HER CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS THE PEOPLE OF THE NORTH WOULD HONOR AND RESPECT HER.

The present contest involves the equality of the rights of the citizens of the South in the Union. On this issue the South should stand united—true to herself. If she abandons her rights, can she expect the true men of the North to stand up in her defence? It is urged against the supporters of Mr. Breckinridge that they are in favor of a dissolution of the Union. The truth is, the party which supports him is the only party whose principles are broad enough to embrace this whole country. Its principles are national—its organization national—and its candidates national.

The enemies of the Union are those who propose to compromise away constitutional rights; who propose to submit to wrong and injustice; who seek to strengthen the disunion Black Republican party, by assuring them that the South will quietly submit to all they may inflict upon them.

The South will stand by the Union so long as her rights are respected and equality preserved. If the Union is ever dissolved it will be done by the persistent disregard of the requirements of the Federal Constitution and the continued aggressions upon the rights and institutions of the South. The North may drive the South to disunion, but the South will never abandon the Union until driven to do so by the North. It, therefore, becomes the citizens of the North to pause and reflect upon the consequences which may result from the election of a Black Republican President and the attempt to carry out a purely sectional policy Such policy may destroy the Union. It is a fearful experiment. Why shall it be attempted.

A well-known gentleman of this city, an Old Line Whig, and up to this moment a strong Union man, has returned from a Northern tour decidedly in favor of Breckinridge. In conversation with a number of Belleverettites about the recent Northern elections, he asked: "Do you suppose this result would have taken place but for all the bell-ringing and Union shouting in the South?" That is just the point. The Black Republicans, when they were told that disunion might result from Lincon's election, very justly answered that they had no fears of that, so long as a large party in the South proclaimed its determination to stand by the Union at all hazarbs. The Belleverettites could keep the Democracy in check while the Lincolnites sieze on the Federal Government.—N. O. Delta.

RATHER BITTER.—The following is said to have taken place at a late occasion at the house of Douglas Jerrold: "Douglas, dear," said his wife, appealing to him in a small feminine dispute, "do you think I am generally bad tempered?" "No, my dear," said he, "I think you particularly so."

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP CITY OF WASHINGTON.

Cotton Market Bouyant and Advancing.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 24.—The steamship City of Washington has arrived with Liverpooll dates to the 10th inst.

The sales of cotton for three days amounted to 40,000 bales, the market closing bouyant and advancing. The sales for one day previous to her sailing amounted to fifteen thousand bales. The advices from Manchester were favorable.

GOVERNMENT LOAN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—There were forty to fifty bids for the ten million Government loan. With the exception of Messrs. Riggs & Co., of Washington, there were no bidders South of Philadelphia. The whole aggregate bid was for lesss than eleven million dollars. The premiums ranged from five to ninety nine hundredths of one per centum. The largest amount bid for was by Messrs. Riggs & Co, who bid for two and four-fifths of a million.

A Call to Arms.—The Governor of Arkansas, Elias N. Conway, has issued a proclamation to the militia of the State, directing them to "prepare for trouble and danger." Governor Conway expresses the singular belief that the peril of the South comes, not from the North, but from the machinations of Great Britain. He says:

It is my opinion that the British government is the real author and instigator of the mischiefs and outrages perpetrated against the slave States, and that it is the duty of our federal government, and of the patriotic people of the United States, to hold the British government responsibie for disturbing the domestic tranquility of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The receipts from sales of public lands, for the year ending with June, was less $200,000, on account of the scarcity of money and other causes. In some cases no bids were received.

Mr. Douglas intends to make speeches in all the States, and the result,

HE WILL NOT GET A SINGLE ELECTORAL VOTE.

OCTOBER ELECTIONS.—The elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, on last Tuesday, have tickled our Republican friends to such an alarming extent that it is not safe for a Breckinridge, Bell, or Dougles man to show himself in their Midst. A broad grin is visible on each Republican face. "Have you heard from Pennsylvania?" is the first interrogatory you receive from these fellows. The election of "Old Abe" is a foregone conclusion, and any one who questions or doubts their boasting declarations is not regarded by them as a rational being. Well, gentlemen, you had better spare a little of your enthusiasm and jollification until you are out of the woods. It is not best to be too sanguine. "There is many a slip between the cup and the lip."

The Republicans have, by the recent elections, lost the organization of the next house of Representatives. The Democracy have done nobly in Pennsylvania and Ohio, making a gain of five or six Representatives to Congress. In Pennsylvania the Republican party is no where. They were so insignificant in numbers and influence that they made no nomination for governor or members of Congress, but cast their votes for the "People's Ticket." Curtin, the candidate of the People's party for Governor received from forty to fifty thousand Bell and Everett votes who will vote to a man for the anti-Lincoln Electoral ticket in November. New Jersey is united on one Electoral ticket against the rail splitter. Rhode Island is united upon one Electoral ticket, and will most assredly, go against Lincoln. We know our Republican friends will carry all these States by large majorities for Lincoln. But, we tell them again they had better not hollow until they are out of the woods.

Salem Mass. Advocate.

SECESSION.—The Huntsville (Ala) Advocate says: "We understand from personal consultation, or what we regard reliable authority, that all of our merchants, no matter what their party affiliations, have returned from the North in favor of secession and resistance, if Lincoln shoul l be elected."—Southern News.

The Resources of the South.—The Philadelphia Pennsylvanian, in reviewing the late election that State, remarks:

Conservative Pennsylvania seems disposed to join herself to that Northern Abolition party which, if true to its professions, must dissolve the Union.

When it breaks the chief bonds of Union as formed by the Constitution, the South will have nothing left to it but to declare, to promulgate what the North has acually done. When the North commits that high-handed act, then the South will declare Free trade, and make treaties with European powers, giving them priority and preference, and excluding Northern products, manufactures and ships. The North will thus be left to support itself, and to compete with Europe.

The South may then invite the idle artisans and manufacturers of the North to come to them, where they will have employment. Now of every six dollars earned by the South, four of them are paid to the North. The South can exchange with Europe her Cotton and her Tobacco for whatever she wants; the North will have nothing comparatively to exchange. There is nothing whatever which the South now receives from the North which it cannot get cheaper elsewhere. The North can nowhere else get what it now gets from the South. In these two sentences there are volumes of suggestions.

A GOOD PAPER FOR EVERY FAMILY.

All our readers may not be acquainted with one of the most valuable agricultural and family journals in the county, now in its nineteenth volume. We refer to the American Agriculturist, which is a large and beautiful journal, devoted to the practical labors of the Field, Garden, and the Household. It is prepared by practical men (and women) who know what they write about, and it gives a great amount of valuable information, useful not only to farmers, gardeners, stock-raisers, fruit growers, and those who have little village plots, but also to every family. We advise our readers to send $1 to the publisher, ORANGE JUDD, 41 Park-Row, New-York, and try the Agriculturist a year. A specimen copy can doubtless be had by sending to the publisher. Those subscribing now for the twentieth volume, (1861,) will get the remaining numbers of this year without charge.

☞ Baltimore is redeemed from the control of the Know-Nothing ruffians who have ruled it for so many years. The Reform ticket for Mayor and other city officers was elected last week by large majority. The Plug-Uglies threaten to revenge their defeat by voting for Lincoln.

A GREAT SPECULATION.—The New Orleans Delta of Thursday week says that one broker of that city bought on the day previous 16,000 bales of cotton, valued at $750,000. This great speculation is based upon the late storm in the South, which, it is believed, will produce short crops.

Yellow Fever.

MOBILE, Oct. 19.—Five deaths from Yellow Fever have occured in the last ten days.

From New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Washington correspondent of the Times says that the Nicaraguan Minister notified the State Department that a plot exists in the Southern States to invade Central America for the purpose of extending slavery under the auspices of a powerful combination, whereof Gen. Walker was simply an agent.

From Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Scofields woolen factory on William Street is burned. Loss $50,000.

The census of Charleston shows a population of 40,748. In 1850, it was 42,985. In the last decade, the slave population has decreased 9,926, and the free colored population 184. During the same period, the white population has increased 3,315.

GROWTH OF THE WESTERN CITIES.—The official returns of the several prominent Western cities, for 1850 and 1860, are as follows:

Cities.	1850.	1860.
St. Louis,	77,760	162,179
Cincinnati,	115,436	160,060
Chicago,	28,680	109,420
Louisville,	44,199	75,196
Milwaukee,	20,060	45,000
Detroit,	21,019	46,834
Cleveland,	17,034	44,550

Or an increase in the population of St. Louis since 1850, of about 110 per cent.; Cincinnati, 40 per cent.; Louisville, 75 per cent.; Milwaukee, 125 per cent.; Detroit, 125 per cent.; Cleveland, 230 per cent.; Chicago, 290 per cent.

Obituary.

Died at her residence in this County on Sunday the 28th day of Oct. 1860 Mrs. Jane Phillips, in the 52nd year of her age.

The deceased was born in South Carolina, and married in that state to Joseph Phillips, in 1820. She emigrated to this State with her husband and family in 1854, and resided in this County up to the time of her death. She professed religion and joined the Baptist Church in the early part of this year. She leaves a family of eight children to mourn her irreparable loss. In all the relations of life, as daughter, wife, mother, friend and neighbor, she performed her relative duties with fidelity, and was much respected and beloved by all with whom she was acquainted.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale, on accomodating terms, and at a very moderate price, in proportion to its intrinsic value Two Tracts of Land.

One containing 160 acres, lying one mile east of his present residence, on the Jacksonville road, 3 miles from Oxford. About 55 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation—comfortable log cabins, cribs, stables and other improvements. A spring of pure never failing water, near the house. The soil is of good quality, well adapted to the cultivation of grain or cotton.

The other place is situated 4 miles from Oxford, and contains 120 acres, about 35 cleared and under good fence—comfortable log cabins and other necessary improvements on the place, and a good well of never failing water in the yard; also a good young peach orchard. If the places are not sold by the middle of November they will be to rent. Persons wishing to purchase are invited to call and examine them.

VALUABLE LAND

FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale his two tracts of Land containing FOURTEEN HUNDRED ACRES, eight hundred of which is comprised in the tract upon which he now resides, situated in Choccolocco Valley, four miles south of White Plains, in Calhoun county, Ala.

Near five hundred acres are cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation—two hundred acres excellent bottom land, nearly all of which is cleared.

The place is well improved, having a large two story Frame Dwelling House, six rooms besides dining room and kitchen; all good out houses, Cotton Gin, and Screw, together with a large, young Orchard. All the upland is of good quality—fine for cotton and grain; and all the uncleared land is well timbered. Every field in the tract is well provided with water.

ALSO—Six hundred and eighty acres, known as the James A. Williams tract, situated eight miles from White Plains, on the Wedowee road, which is also well improved, having a large two story framed dwelling house, brick kitchen, and dining room, smoke house and negro houses, regularly and conveniently arranged—also, Cotton Gin, a Grist Mill, and a good site for a Saw Mill. About 400 acres cleared, lying level, and the greater portion first class bottom land, and the upland excellent. The entire tract is unusually well watered in every part—there is also on the place a good young orchard.

All the above described land will be sold on reasonable and accommodating terms.

Land buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves, and if they wish further information before doing so, they can obtain it by addressing a letter to me, at either White Plains or Corn Grove.

MERCHANT MILLS.
Latest Improvement.

My merchant Mills, 2 miles west of Jacksonville, are now in full and complete operation, capable of grinding, from 3 to 400 bushels of grain per day, at any stage of water. And if a large outlay in cash, combining the best science, mechanical skill, and material in their construction, that the County affords; with an accommodating Scientific Miller in charge of them, will entitle these mills to a share of public patronage, it is respectfully solicited.

For the accommodation of those who may remain over night, there is at hand, a comfortable house and fire place, and lots & sheds for their stock.

ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL SCHOOL.

The second session will commence on Monday the 20th day of July.

The establishment of this Institution was regarded by its friends as an experiment. Its first session however has been a decided success; the number of pupils having been very much larger than was anticipated; most of whom were in the Classics and higher branches.

The course of instruction is designed to be thorough; and preparatory either for any Class in College, for professional studies, and business occupations, or for Teaching.

RATES OF TUITION per session of 5 months:

For the Classics and higher branches of		Mathematics,	$20
"	"	Natural Sciences,	16.
"	"	Common English,	12 50
"	"	Primary Studies,	10

Pupils will be charged form time of entrance.

For protracted sickness the usual abatements will be made.

The science of Vocal music will be taught as a daily exercise; also Reading and writing.

It is highly important that pupils be present on the first day of the session.

YOUNG LADIES'
BORDING AND DAY SCHOOL.

This school, prevented hitherto from going into effective operation, will open on Monday, July 30th and will be for the present, under the Tuition and discipline of Mrs. F. P. Parsons, well known, for several years, as the Principal of the Jacksonville Female Academy; and as a most thorough, successful & popular Teacher.

Any pledges heretofore made by the subscriber, to make the institution worthy of the patronage of those wishing a thorough, complete, & accomplished education for their daughters, will be fully redeemed as patronage justifies.

Able and efficient Assistants will be provided as required by increased numbers.

The old Presbyterian church has been purchased by the subscriber for this school. The Presbyterian congregation will, however, continue to occupy it for their purposes, till their new house of worship is completed.

The School will therefore open in the church, which is a large and very pleasant room, well ventilated, well lighted, commodious, and easy of access from all parts of town.

AND THE BEST OF

COTTAGE BEDSTEADS!

Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of dwelling—pinning and blocking. Bedsteads now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered.

My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bedbugs, so troublesome in this region.

All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and furnished at short notice, at prices as low as those of any Cabinet maker, who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not selling my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at another trade.

Selma, March 22, 1860.—1y.

AYER'S
Ague Cure,
FOR THE SPEEDY CURE OF

Intermittent Fever, or Fever and Ague, Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, and Bilious Fevers, indeed for the whole class of diseases originating in biliary derangement, caused by the Malaria of miasmatic countries.

No one remedy is louder called for by the necessities of the American people than a sure and safe cure for Fever and Ague. Such we are now enabled to offer, with a perfect certainty that it will eradicate the disease, and with assurance, founded on proof, that no harm can arise from its use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of immense service in the communities where it prevails. Prevention is better than cure, for the patient escapes the risk which he must run in violent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expels the miasmatic poison of FEVER AND AGUE from the system and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the cheapest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of every body; and in bilious districts, where FEVER AND AGUE prevails, every body should have it and use it freely both for cure and protection. It is hoped this price will place it within the reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. A great superiority of this remedy over any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cure of Intermittents, is, that it contains no Quinine or mineral, consequently it produces no quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. A great variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of the Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis, and Derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in this cause, put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "CURE" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all alike. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. If taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection, that will be excreted from the system, and cannot accumulate in sufficient quantity to ripen into disease. Hence it is even more valuable for protection than cure, and few will ever suffer from Intermittents, if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC

are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their penetrating properties search, and cleanse, and invigorate every portion of the human organism, correcting its diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitalities. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once so simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases. The agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac containing certificates of their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Costiveness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disordered Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions. They are an excellent alterative for the renovation of the blood and the restoration of tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

DR. MOTT'S
CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE
PILLS OF IRON

An aperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation Dyspepsia, Consumption, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermitent Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods have suddenly reappeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In DYSPEPSIA, innumerable as are its causes a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant Costiveness,

In unchecked DIARRHOEA, even when advanced to DYSENTARY, confirmed, emaciating and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Iodine without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this REMEDY AND RESTORATIVE, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflamatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swelling and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite complete digestion rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
CALHOUN COUNTY. }

Court of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, Special Term, September 26th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came William A. Wilson, Administrator of the Estate of James Barge, deceased, and filed his petition in writing, representing that his intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, lying and being situate in said County of Calhoun, to-wit: Fraction No. 17, fractional section 36, township 12, range 10—Fractions Nos. 20, 21, 22, fractional section 31, township 12, range 11; and Fraction No. 22, fractional section 33, township 12, range 11. North east fourth of North west fourth section 6, fractional township 13, range 11—south east fourth of south east fourth, section 6, township 13, range 11—north east fourth of north east fourth, section 7, fractional township 13, range 11—south west fourth of north east fourth, section 7, Township 13, range 11; and north west fourth of north west fourth, section 8, township 13, range 11—Fractions E and F, fractional section 18, township 13, range 11—north west fourth of north east fourth, section 19, township 13, range 11; and south east fourth, north west fourth of section 19, township 13, range 11 east in the Coosa Land District.

Said Administrator further states, that Elvira Harris, late widow of decedent and now the wife of Frank Harris, who are over 21 years of age, and reside in Calhoun County, Alabama, Aaron Barge, Richard Barge, & Jacob Barge are over the age of 21 years and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; Edward M. Barge, over 21 years of age and resides in Forsyth county Georgia; John and Emily Robertson, formerly Emily Barge, and now the wife of Jackson Robertson, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in parts unknown; Ann Black, formerly Ann Barge, now the wife of James Black, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in Fayette county Georgia; also the following other heirs, the children of Sarah Childs, formerly Sarah Barge, to-wit: Daniel P. S. Childs, over the age of 21 years and resides in Fayette county, Georgia; Martha Eidson, formerly Martha Childs and now the wife of James Eidson, Richmond B Childs, Eliza Ann Teal, formerly Childs, now the wife of Lovel Teal, who are all over the age of 21 years, and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; also James Childs & Sarah F. Childs, minors under the age of 21 years—the former residing in Fulton County, Georgia, and the latter in Campbell Co. Georgia, are the heirs at law of said Estate. And the said Administrator asks that an order and Decree of said Court be made authorizing the sale of said lands for division among said Heirs, alleging that an equal, fair and beneficial division of the same cannot be made among said Heirs without a sale of said lands. It is therefore ordered by the court that Wednesday the 15th day of November A. D. 1860 be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition. And it being further shown that all of said heirs except Elvira Harris and Frank Harris residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama. It is therefore further ordered by the court that notice as to said nonresident heirs of the filing of said petition and of the day set for hearing the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to said non resident heirs to be and appear at a special Term of said Court to be holden at the Court House of said County, on said 15th day of November next, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness: A Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this the 26th day of Sept. A. D. 1860.

POETRY.

The Days That Are No More.

BY TENNYSON.

Tears, idle tears! I know not what they mean.
Tears from the depth of some divine despair,
Rise in the heart, and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy Autumn fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.

Fresh as the first beam glittering on a sail
That brings our friends up from the under-world;
Sad as the last which reddens over one
That sinks with all we love below the verge;
So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more.

Ah, sad and strange as in dark summer dawns
The earliest pipe of half-awakened birds
To dying ears, when unto dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square;
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.

Dear as remembered kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feigned
On lips that are for others; deep as love,
Deep as first love, and wild with all regret,
O Death in Life! the days that are no more.

Years Ago.

BY G. P. MORRIS.

Near the banks of that lone river,
Where the water-lillies grow,
Breathed the fairest flower that ever
Bloomed and faded years ago.

How we met and loved and parted,
None on earth can ever know—
Nor how pure and gentle hearted
Beamed the mourned one years ago!

Like the stream with lillies laden,
Will life's future current flow,
Till in heaven I meet the maiden
Fondly cherished years ago.

Hearts that love like mine forget not;
They're the same in weal or woe;
And that star of memory set not
In the grave of years ago.

There is a story of Henri Quartre, who on being told by his gardner at Fontainbleau that a certain plot of ground would grew nothing, told him to plant a bed of attorneys; for they would flourish anywhere.

The following notice may be seen on a blacksmith's shop in Essex: "No horses shod on Sunday except sickness and death."

Many years ago, a naval officer was so pleased with the pluck of a barefooted boy who rowed him across from Staten Island to Bergen, during a snow storm that no one else dared encounter, that he got him a situation on a vessel; the boy was Cornelius Vanderbilt, now worth thirteen millions of dollars.

Peach Preserves.

A lady of Philadelphia, whose peaches keep beautifully and retain much of their delicious flavor, takes half a pound of sugar to each pound of peaches The sugar is put into a preserving kettle, with a half pint of water to every pound of sugar, heated and the surface skimmed. Into this syrup, the peaches after being pared, are placed, and boiled ten minutes. The peaches are then put in the can while hot and immediately sealed up.

Personal.

The Prince of Wales bestowed the most marked attention upon Mrs. and Miss Le Vert at the Boston Ball, conversing frequently with them during the evening, and personally inviting them to a seat in the royal box, a compliment payed to no other ladies present: so the Southern belles eclipsed the Bostonians even at the "hub of the Universe" itself. Madame was dressed in white embroidered in gold, with a crown of gold and green on her head. The daughter wore primrose colored satin, trimmed with point lace, and a coronet of verbena flowers mingled with golden lillies. A looker on remarked that the Prince talked with her con amore, and not as if it was a mere matter of ettiquette. Mother and daughter were looking uncommonly well However, most ladies look better when seen in company with crown princes.—New York Day Book.

How the cotton Gin was Invented.

Mr. Eli Whitney, of Westborough, county of Worcester, Massachusetts, entered Yale College at the age of twenty three In 1793, he contracted with a citizen of Georgia to reside in his family as teacher. He went there in company with a widow of General Greene of the Revolutionary army. She was then returning with her family from the North. He was an invalid, and she kindly invited him to her residence, near Savannah. He was soon informed that the gentleman who had engaged him had employed another teacher, leaving Whitney without resources. Mrs. Greene said to him, "My young friend, you propose studying the law—make my house your home, your room your castle, and there pursue what studies you please."

Mrs. Green—most likely—was the owner of a miserable tambour frame; otherwise as the reader will soon see, the cotton gin would, probably, not have been invented by Eli Whitney. Desirous of manifesting his gratitude, Eli went to work and made a tambour frame upon a novel principle, and presented it to Mrs Greene. It was a subject of unbounded admiration among the ladies, of course

Not long after, a number of gentlemen engaged in planting, were dining with Mrs. Greene and her family, and the conversation turned upon the difficulty of cleaning cotton from the seeds. A woman, at that period, was employed a whole day in cleaning a single pound. —It was agreed that it would be in vain to think of raising cotton for market until some plan should be contrived for cleaning or separating the cotton from the seed by machinery.

In the midst of their conversation Mrs. Greene exhibited her tambour frame, and said, "Apply to my young friend, Mr. Whitney: he can make anything." And thereupon he was introduced to these gentlemen. The final result of that interview was the cotton gin by Eli Whitney.

Miscellaneous.

Halloran the Peddler.

AN IRISH TALE.

The power of outward circumstances suddenly to awaken dormant faculties—the extraordinary influence which the mere instinct of self-preservation can exert over the mind, and the triumph of mind thus excited over physicial weakness, were never more truly exemplified than in the story of Halloran the Peddler.

In the south part of the county of Kilkenny lived a poor peasant named Michael, or, as it was elegantly pronounced Mickle Reilly. He was a laborer renting a cabin and a little potatoground; and on the strength of these possessions, a robust frame which feared no fatigue, and a sanguine mind which dreaded no reverse, Reilly paid his addresses to Cathleen Bray, a young girl of his own parish, and they were married. Reilly was able, skillful, and industrious; Cathleen was the best spinner in the county, and had constant sale for her work at Kilkenny; they wanted nothing; and for the first year, as Cathleen said, "There wasn't upon the blessed earth two happier souls than themselves, for Mick was the best boy in the world, and hadn't a fault to spake of—barring he took the drop now and then; an' why wouldn't he?" But as it happened, poor Reilly's love of "the drop" was the beginning of all their misfortunes. In an evil hour he went to the Fair of Killkenny, to sell a dozen hanks of yarn of his wife's spinning, and a fat pig, the produce of which was to pay half a year's rent, and add to their little comforts. Here he met with a jovial companion, who took him into a booth, and treated him to sundry potations of whisky; and while in his company, his pocket was picked of the money he had just received, and something more; in short, of all he possessed in the world. At that luckless moment, while maddened by his loss and heated with liquor, he fell into the company of a recruiting sergeant. The many-colored and gaily fluttering cockade in the soldier's cap shone like a rainbow of hope and promise before the drunken eyes of Mickle Reilly, and ere morning he was enlisted into a regiment under orders for embarkation, and instantly sent off to Cork.

Distracted by the ruin he had brought upon himself and his wife (whom he loved a thousand times better than himself), poor Reilly sent a friend to inform Cathleen of his mischance, and to assure her that on a certain day, in a week from that time, a letter would await her at the Kilkenny post office; the same friend was commissioned to deliver her his silver watch, & a guinea out of his bounty money. Poor Cathleen turned from the gold with horror, as the price of her husband's blood, and vowed that nothing on earth should induce her to touch it. She was not a good calculator of time and distance, and therefore rather surprised that so long a time must elapse before his letter arrived. On the appointed day she was too impatient to wait the arrival of the carrier, but set off to Kilkenny herself, a distance of ten miles; there, at the postoffice, she duly found the promised letter; but it was not till she had it in her possession that she remembered she could not read; she had therefore to hasten back to consult her friend Nancy, the schoolmaster's daughter, and the best scholar in the village. Reilly's letter, on being deciphered with some difficulty even by the learned Nancy, was found to contain much of sorrow, much of repentence, and yet more of affection; he assured her that he was far better off than he had expected or deserved; that the embarkation of the regiment to which he belonged was delayed for three weeks, and entreated her if she could forgive him, to follow him to Cork without delay, that they might "part in love and kindness, and then come what might, he would demane himself like a man, and die asy," which he assured her he could not do without embracing her once more.

Cathleen listened to her husband's letter with clasped hands & drawn breath, but quiet in her nature, she gave no other signs of emotion than a few large tears which trickled slowly down her cheeks. "And will I see him again?" she exclaimed, "poor fellow! poor boy! I knew the heart of him was sore for me! and who knows, Nancy dear, but they'll let me go out with him to the foreign parts? Oh! sure they wouldn't be so hard hearted as to part man and wife that way!"

After a hurried consultation with her neighbors, who sympathized with her as only the poor sympathize with the poor, a letter was indited by Nancy and sent by the Kilkenny carrier that night, to inform her husband that she proposed setting off for Cork the next blessed morning, being Tuesday, and as the distance was about forty eight miles English, she reckoned on reaching that city by Wednesday afternoon; for as she had walked to Kilkenny and back (about twenty miles) that same day, without feeling fatigued at all, "to signify," Cathleen thougt there would be no doubt that she could walk to Cork in less than two days. In this sanguine calculation she was, however, overruled by her more experienced neighbors, and by their advice appointed Thursday as the day on which her husband was to expect her, "God willing."

Cathleen spent the rest of the day in making preparations for her journey; she set her cabin in order, and made a small bundle of a few articles of clothing belonging to herself and her husband. The watch and the guinea she wrapped up together and crammed into the toe of an old shoe which she deposited in the same bundle, and the next morning, at "sparrow chirp," she arose, locked her cabin door, carefully hid the key in the thatch, and with a light expecting heart commenced her long journey.

It is worthy of remark that this poor woman who was called upon to play the heorine in such a strange tragedy and under such appalling circumstances, had nothing heoric in her exterior; nothing that in the slightest degree indicated strength of nerve or superiority of intellect. Cathleen was twenty-three years of age, of a low stature, and in her form rather delicate than robust; she was of ordinary appearance; her eyes mild and dove-like, and her whole countenance, though not absolutely deficient in intelligence, was more particularly expressive of simplicity, good temper, and kindness of heart.

It was summer, about the end of June; the days were long, the weather fine, and some gentle showers rendered traveling easy and pleasant. Cathleen walked on stoutly towards Cork, and by the evening she had accomplished with occasional pauses of rest, nearly twenty-one miles She lodged at a little inn by the roadside, and the following day set forward again, but soon felt stiff with the travel of two previous days: the sun became hotter, the ways dustier; and she could not with all her endeavors get further than Kathery, eighteen miles from Cork. The next day, unfortunately for poor Cathleen, proved hotter and more fatiguing than the preceding. The cross road lay over a wild country, consisting of low bogs and bare hills. About noon she turned aside to a rivulet bordered by a few trees, and sitting down in the shade, she bathed her swollen feet in the stream, and overcome by heat, weakness, and excessive weariness, she put her little bundle under her head for a pillow and sunk into a deep sleep.

On waking she perceived with dismay that the sun was declining; and on looking about, her fears were increased by the discovery that her bundle was gone. Her first thought was that the good people (that is, the fairies) had been there and stolen it away; but on examining further she plainly perceived large foot prints in the soft bank, and was convinced it was the work of no unearthly marauder. Bitterly reproaching herself for her carelessness, she again set forward; and still hoping to reach Cork that night, she toiled on and on with increasing difficulty and distress, till as the evening closed her spirits failed, she became faint, footsore and hungry, not having tasted any thing since the morning but a cold potato and a draught of buttermilk. She then looked round her in hopes of discovering some habitation, but there was none in sight, except a lofty castle on a distant hill, which raising its proud turrets from amidst the plantations which surrounded it, glimmered faintly through the gloom, and held out no temptation for the poor wanderer to turn in there and rest. In her despair she sat her down on a bank by the roadside, and wept as she thought of her husband.

Several horsemen rode by, and one carriage and four attended by servants, who took no further notice of her than a passing look; while they went on their way like the priest and the Levite in the parable, poor Cathleen dropped her head despairingly on her bosom. A faintness and torpor seemed to be stealing like a dark cloud over her senses, when the fast approaching sound of footsteps roused her attention, and turning, she saw at her side a man whose figure, though singular, she recognized immediately: it was Halloran the Peddler.

Halloran had been known for thirty years past in all the towns and villages between Waterford and Kerry. He was very old, he himself did not know his own age; he only remembered that he was a "tall slip of a boy" when he was one of the —— regiment of foot, and fought in America in 1778. His dress was strange, it consisted of a wollen cap, beneath which strayed a few white hairs; this was surrounded by an old military cocked-hat, adorned with a few fragments of tarnished gold lace; a frieze great coat with the sleeves dangling behind, was fastened at his throat, and served to protect his box of wares which was slung at his back; and he always carried a thick oak stick or kippeen in his hand. There was nothing of the infirmity of age in his appearance; his cheek though wrinkled and weather-beaten was still ruddy; his step still firm, his eyes still bright; his jovial disposition made him a welcome guest in every cottage, and his jokes, though not equal to my Lord Norbury's, were repeated and applauded through the whole country. Halloran was returning from the fair of Kilkenny, where apparently his commercial speculations had been attended with success, as his pack was considerably diminished in size. Though he did not appear to recollect Cathleen, he addressed her in Irish, and asked her what she did there; she related in a few words her miserable situation

"In troth, then, my heart is sorry for ye, poor woman," he replied, compassionately; "and what will ye do?"

"An' what can I do?" replied Cathleen, disconsolately; and how will I even find the ford of Ahnamoe and get across to Cork, when I don't know where I am this blessed moment?"

"Musha, then, it's little ye'll get there this night," said the peddler, shaking his head.

"Then I'll lie down here and die," said Cathleen, bursting into fresh tears.

"Die! ye wouldn't!" he exclaimed, approaching nearer; is it to me, Peter Halloran, ye spake that word; and am I the man that would lave a faymale at this dark hour by the wayside, let alone one that has the face of a friend, though I cannot remember me of your name either, for the soul of me. But what matter for that?"

"Sure, I'm Katty Reilly, of Castle Conn."

"Katty Reilly, sure enough! and so no more talk of dying; cheer up, and see, a mile further on, isn't there Biddy Hogan's? Was, I mane, if the house and all isn't gone: and it's there we'll get a bite and a sup, and a bed, too, please God. So lean upon my arm, ma vourneen, it's strong enough yet."

So saying, the old man with an air of gallantry, half rustic, half military, assisted her in rising, and supporting her on one arm, with the other he flourished his kippeen over his head, and they trudged on together, he singing Cruiskeen lawn at the top of his voice "just," as he said, "to put the heart into her."

After about half an hour's walking, they came to two crossways diverging from the highroad; down one of these the peddler turned, and in a few minutes they came in sight of a lonely house, situated at a little distance from the wayside. Above the door was a long stick projecting from the wall, at the end of which dangled a truss of straw, signifying that within there was entertainment (good or bad) for man and beast. By this time it was nearly dark, and the peddler going up to the door, lifted the latch, expecting it to yield to his hand, but it was fastened within; he then knocked and called, but there was no answer. The building, which was many times larger than an ordinary cabin, had once been a manufactory, and afterwards, a farmhouse. One end of it was deserted, and nearly in ruins; the other end bore signs of having been at least recently inhabited. But such a dull hollow echo rung through the edifice at every knock, that it seemed the whole place was now deserted.

Cathleen began to be alarmed, and crossed herself ejaculating, "O God preserve us!" But the peddler, who appeared well acquainted with the premises, led her round to the back part of the house, where there were some ruined outbildings, and another low entrance. Here, raising his stout stick, he let fall such a heavy thump on the door that it cracked again, and a shrill voice from the other side demanded who was there. After a satisfactery answer, the door was slowly and cautiously opened, and the figure of a wrinkled, half-famished, and half naked beldam appeared, shading a rush-candle with one hand. Halloran, who was of a fiery and hasty temper, began angrily: "Why then, in the name of the great devil himself, didn't you open to us?" But he stopped suddenly, as if struck with surprise at the miserable object before him.

"Is it Biddy Hogan herself, I see?" he exclaimed, snatching the candle from her hand, and throwing the light full on her face. A moment's scrutiny seemed enough, and too much, for, giving it back hastily, he supported Cathleen into the kitchen, the old woman leading the way, and placed her on an old settle, the first seat which presented itself When she was sufficiently recovered to look about her, Cathleen could not help feeling some alarm at finding herself in so gloomy and dreary a place. It had once been a large kitchen, or hall: at one end was an ample chimney, such as are yet to be seen in some old country houses. The rafters were black with smoke or rottenness; the walls had been wainscotted with oak, but the greatest part had been torn down for firing. A table with three legs, a large stool, a bench in the chimney propped up with turf sods, and the seat Cathleen occupied, formed the only furniture. Every thing spoke utter misery, filth, and famine—the very "abomination of desolation."

"And what have ye in the house. Biddy, honey?" was the peddler's first question, as the old woman sat down the light.

"Little enough, I'm thinking."

"Little! It's nothing then?"

"No, not so much as a midge would eat have I in the house this blessed night, and nobody to send down to Balgowna."

"No, need of that, as our good luck would have it," said Halloran, and pulling a wallet from under his loose coat, he drew from it a bone of cold meat, a piece of bacon, a lump of bread, and some cold potatoes The old woman, roused by the sight of so much good cheer, began to blow up the dying embers on the hearth; put down among them the few potatoes to warm; and busied herself in making some little preparations to entertain her guests:—Meantime the old peddler, casting from time to time an anxious glance towards Cathleen, and now and then an encouraging word, sat down on the low stool, resting his arms on his knees.

"Times are sadly changed with ye, Biddy Hogan," said he at length, after a long silence.

"Troth, ye may say so," she replied, with a sort of groan. "Bitter bad luck have we had in this world, any how"

"And where's the man of the house? And where's the lad, Barny?"

"Where are they, is it? Where should they be? may be gone down to Ahnamoe."

"But what's come of Barny? The boy was a stout workman, and a good son, though a devil-may-care fellow, too. I remember teaching him the soldier's exercise with this very blessed stick now in my hand; and by the same token, him doubling his fist at me when he wasn't bigger than the turf kish younder; aye and as long as Barny Hogan could turn a sod of turf on my lord's land, I thought his father and mother would never have wanted the bit and sup while the life was in him."

At the mention of her son, the old woman looked up a moment, but immediately hung her head again.

"Barny doesn't work for my lord now," said she.

"And what for, then?"

The old woman seemed reluctant to answer—she hesitated.

"Ye didn't hear, then, how he got into trouble with my lord; and how—myself doesn't know the rights of it—but Barny always had a bit of wild blood about him; and since that day he's taken to bad ways, and the ould man's ruled by him quite entirely; and the one's glum and fierce like—and t'other's bothered; and, oh! bitter's the time I have 'twixt 'em both!"

While the old woman was uttering these broken complaints, she placed the eatables on the table; and Cathleen, who was yet more faint from hunger than subdued by fatigue, was first helped by the good-natured peddler to the best of what was there; but, just as she was about to taste the food set before her, she chanced to see the eyes of the old woman fixed upon the morsel in her hand with such an envious and famished look, that from a sudden impulse of benevolent feeling, she instantly held it out to her. The woman started, drew back her extended hand, and gazed at her wildly.

"What is it then ails ye?" said Cathleen, looking at her with wonder; then to herself, "hunger's turned the wits of her, poor soul! Take it—take it, mother," added she aloud; "eat, good mother; sure there's plenty for us all, and to spare," and she pressed it upon her with all the kindness of her nature The old woman eagerly seized it.

"God reward ye," said she, grasping Cathleen's hand, convulsively; and retiring to a corner, she devoured the food with almost wolfish voracity.

While they were eating, the two Hogans, father and son, came in. They had been setting snares for rabbits and game on the neighboring hills; and evidently were both startled and displeased to find the house occupied; which, since Barney Hogan's disgrace with "my lord," had been entirely shunned by the people round about. The old man gave the peddler a sulky welcome. The son, with a muttered curse, went and took his seat in the chimney, where, turning his back, he set himself to chop a billet of wood. The father was a lean stooping figure, "bony and gaunt, and grim;" he was either deaf, or affected deafness. The son was a short, brawny, thickset man, with features not naturally ugly, but rendered worse than ugly by an expression of lowering ferocity disgustingly blended with a sort of stupid drunken leer, the effect of habitual intoxication.

Halloran stared at them a while with visible astonishment and indignation, but pity and sorrow for a change so lamentable, smothered the old man's wrath; and as the eatables were by this time demolished, he took from his pocket a tin flask of whiskey, calling to the old woman to boil some water "screeching hot," that he might make what he termed "a jug of stiff punch—enough to make a cat spake." He offered to share it with his hosts, who did not decline drinking; and the noggin went round to all but Cathleen, who, feverish with traveling, and, besides, disliking spirits, would not taste it. The old peddler, reconciled to his old acquaintances by this show of good fellowship, began to grow merry under the influence of his whisky-punch: he boasted of his late success in trade, showed with exultation his almost empty pack, and taking out the only two handkerchiefs left in it, threw one to Cathleen, and the other to the old woman of the house; then slapping his pocket, in which a quantity of loose money was heard to jingle, he swore he would treat Cathleen to a good breakfast next morning; and threw a shilling on the table, desiring the old woman would provide "stirabout for a dozen," and have it ready by the first light

Cathleen listened to this rodomontade in some alarm; she fancied to detect certain suspicious glances between the father and son, and began to feel an indescribable dread of her company. She arose from the table, urging the peddler, good-humoredly, to retire to rest, as they intended to be up and away so early next morning: then concealing her apprehensions under an affection of extreme fatigue and drowsiness she desired to be shown where she was to sleep. The old woman lighted a lantern, and led the way up some broken steps into a sort of loft, where she showed her two beds, standing close together; one of these she intimated was for the peddler, and the other for herself. Now Cathleen had been born and bred in an Irish cabin, where the inmates are usually lodged after a very promiscuous fashion; our readers, therefore, will not wander at the arrangement. Cathleen, however, required that, if possible, some kind of screen should be placed between the beds The old hag at first replied to this request with the most disgusting impudence; but Cathleen insisting, the beds were moved asunder, leaving a space of about two feet between them; and, after a long search, a piece of old frieze was dragged out from among some rubbish, and hung up to the low rafters, so as to form a curtain of partition half way across the room. Having completed this arrangement, and wished her "a sweet sleep and a sound and lucky dreams," the old woman put the lantern on the floor, for there was neither chair nor table, and left her guest to repose.

Cathleen said her prayers, only partly undressed herself, and lifting up the wornout coverlet, lay down upon the bed In a quarter of an hour afterwards the peddler staggered into the room, and as he passed the foot of her bed, bid God bless her, in a low voice. He then threw himself down on his bed, and in a few minutes, as she judged by his hard and equal breathing, the old man was in a deep sleep.

All was now still in the house, but Cathleen could not sleep. She was feverish and restless: her limbs ached, her head throbbed and burned, undefinable fears beset her fancy; and whenever she tried to compose herself to slumber, the faces of the two men she had left below flitted and glared before her eyes. A sense of heat and suffocation, accompanied by a parching thirst, came over her, caused, perhaps, by the unusual closeness of the room. This feeling of oppression increased till the very walls and rafters seemed to approach nearer and close upon her all around. Unable any longer to endure this intolerable smothering sensation, she was just about to rise and open the door or window, when she heard the whispering of voices. She lay still and listened. The latch was raised cautiously—the door opened, and the two Hogans entered: they trod so softly that, though she saw them move before her, she heard no footfall. They approached the bed of Halloran, and presently she heard a dull heavy blow, and then sounds—appalling, sickening sounds—as of subdued struggles and smothered agony, which convinced her that they were murdering the unfortunate peddler.

☞Our thanks are especially due to the procession of citizens on election day, for their very flattering recognition of the humble services of the "Republican," in the campaign which has just closed so gloriously in this County, for the cause of truth, justice and the constitutional equality of the South.

We "have done what we could," and yet nothing but our duty. We have not aspired to lead, but to keep pace with public opinion; and consider ourselves fortunate in being located in the midst of an intelligent and patriotic people, who so well understand and firmly maintain their constitutional rights. Would that all the south were as much united in defence of its rights as the County that bears the name of CALHOUN and the Town that bears the name of JACKSON. If it had been so, we should not have heard so much of the hissing scorn of fanaticism, and the boasting threats of supposed arrogant power.

In return for this honorable manifestation of remembrance on the part of our friends and fellow citizens, we can only renew our pledges of fidelity. So long as we are able to use the pen, to place a type, or wield the ponderous press, from whence goes forth the light of mind to meet the light of day, we will never knowingly give evil counsel, or advocate other than the cause of truth and justice, the equality and honor of the South.

Large Vegetables.—C. M. Martin Esq. of Choccolocco valley, left at our office the other day a turnip of the red top variety, which measured 23 inches in circumference and weighed four pounds.

Mr. J. A. Whiteside, also sent to our office on yesterday two turnips which weighed and measured respectively 4 & 6 pound and 21 & 22½ inches in circumference.

Mr. R. T. Griffith, of Cove Creek, also sent us a monster Radish, the largest we have seen the present season; but it was used up before we had an opportunity to measure and weigh it.

Atlanta & Jacksonville Railroad.—Col. L. P. Davis, Agent of this company, was in our place on Tuesday last. He had passed along the entire route down Terrapin creek and by Cross Plains, for the purpose of securing the right of way, and informs us that he had succeeded along the entire route, with some three or four exceptions. He has also traversed previously the direct route, which comes in due east, to within six miles of this place, and secured the right of way in every instance, and while here on Tuesday election day, saw nearly all the settlers on the remaining portion, who gave him assurances, that the right of way would be unanimously given.

We sincerely hope that the company may find it to their interest, upon a careful and accurate survey of both routes, to adopt, the most direct and shortest by some six miles, which comes in directly east of this place. We feel perfectly assured, that at least fifty thousand dollars more of stock will be taken on this than any other route. Should they fail to do so, and intersect the Rome road some 14 miles north of this, the Griffin road will certainly make the direct connection, and thereby divert a large amount of travel and business from this road.

Cheap Goods.—It will be seen by reference to the advertisement of A. Oberndorf, that he is offering remarkable inducements to those who may wish to purchase goods. Being determined to dispose of his present stock in a short time, for the purpose of making different business arrangements, The advantages he offers are well worth going a good ways to obtain.

Jacksonville Insurance Company.

Since we mentioned that the requisite amount of stock for organization had been taken in this company, we learn that it has been organized by the election of Hon T. A. Walker, Prest. and E. L. Woodward, Secy. The stock has also been increased to $60,000, by C. J. Clark and B. C. Wyly increasing their respective amounts to $10,000 each.

The Election in this place, passed off pleasantly and peaceably on Tuesday last, but not so very quietly. There was a good deal of boisterous mirth—in fact a perfect "jolification," on the part of many from morning till 9 oclock at night; but we are much gratified at being able to state, that there was not a single quarrel, fight or accident of any kind, barring, that our friend, J B. Farmer, bursted in the head of the base drum in the excess of his zeal for Breckinridge and Lane, and hearty co-operation in the good humor and hilarity which seemed so universally to prevail.

In the early part of the day, a company of six or seven, on horseback, came in from the south, having a jack in company, fantastically dressed, and a real old fashioned cow bell. This procession, as it passed through the street around the Court house, caused a good deal of boisterous merriment.

At about 11 o'clock, J. H. WRIGHT, Esq. being loudly called, addressed the crowd on the public square, some three quarters of an hour, on the present condition & future prospects of the South, being frequently and loudly applauded throughout. At the conclusion of his speech, a Lincoln flag, was committed to the flames.

Gen. R. G. Earle was then called for by the crowd, who appeared on the portico of the Court house, and addressed the assemblage for some time, who was also frequently and loudly applauded.

The whole crowd at one time, with martial music, moved in one dense and imposing mass around the Breckinridge flag. Afterwards, several processions were formed, accompanied with music, & headed by Capt. J. A. Cobb, marched through various parts of the town. At night there was a considerable display of rockets and other fire works.

Altogether, we have never witnessed a more noisy, and yet peaceful and good humored election.

☞It will be seen by refernce to their advertisement, that Drs. Porter & McCargo have formed a copartnership in the practice of Dentistry in this place and vicinity.

Dr. Porter has been long known as one of the most scientific and skillful Dentists that has ever practiced in this section of country, and few if any have ever given more universal satisfaction to numerous patrons, by faithful execution of work, and uniform reasonable charges.

Dr. McCargo, being a regular graduate of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, and having had a number of years successful practical experience, will doubtless also be enabled to give entire satisfaction to the patrons of the firm.

The Teachings of the Bible.

The Bible teaches three grand principles. First, it teaches the existence of a supreme invisible Creator; secondly, the creatureship or workmanship of a sovereign, and thirdly, the government or economy under which all his creatures are placed. To correctly understand these, is of vast importance, and well enables us to reason correctly on every principle relative to ourselves, and all things else pertaining to that which may be known of God. There is nothing that we may know of God except what is revealed in the Bible, which we acknowledge to be his word. Then the Bible informs us, that God is a Spirit; that he is from everlasting to everlasting, the first and the last; that there is none before him nor after him; and that there are seven characteristics, which are essential to his being, viz: omnipotence, omniscience, omnipresence, love, justice, mercy and truth. And from these he cannot vary, being the same yesterday, to day, and forever; without variableness or shadow of turning. The same book teaches, that all created things were designed for his glory.

All inanimate things in the economy of God are governed by fixed laws, and these as unchangeable as God himself, which we call the laws of nature; and under all circumstances, the same causes, invariably produce the same effects. All these conspire to speak forth the glory of the work-master.

Next to this are what is known as animate creatures, from the smallest to the greatest which have life. These are all placed in the scale of being according to their several grades, while some are to honor and some to dishonor or less honor. Those which seem to be less honorable, are, nevertheless, needful; the brute creation of all kinds, vary in their grade, yet answer the purpose of this creator, which is the service of man—being made subordinate to him, and adapted in every way to his use and control, and although they are unintelligent, and differing in in their sense according to their respective grades: yet they are all adapted to several needs of man

Next comes the intelligent part of creation—known by one general name, which is man. Of the different grades, of these, we shall here speak of but two, the negro and the white man. While both are rational, one is less so than the other, viz: the negro; and, in the scale of being, is made a little lower in capacity than the white man; and in every sense, is his inferior, and is adapted to servitude, and as willingly submits to the same as any other being; when exercised in this sphere he is happier than in any other. Those that have carefully observed the characteristics of the negro's nature, will be obliged to confess that these things are so. Hence, the white man rules over him, it being God's ordinance that it should be so. The white man in his creation, by nature is of a higher order, and of course more honorable. Nevertheless, none should be disregarded, from the least to the greatest; but each should exercise in his own proper station, for which he was designed of his creator—all things having emanated from the hand of God, and intended for a purpose of his glory. Now while in their several ranks, each is governed in the economy of God according to his capacity, man, as a rational being, was, in his creation placed under a rational law, or law of commandments, and every other creature was made accountable to man and all things were put under him—man only was made accountable to his creator—for his conduct, and for the manner in which he has treated the things committed to his trust or care. This higher station in which man is placed, is the reason why he shall give an account for the deeds done in the body, whether they be good or bad. Now for man to have been governed by a rule of absolute restraint, as the horse or ox, would have been inconsistent with his nature, and also at variance with the divine system of God. Consequently, man would have justly complained of such a government; for it would have been placing him on a level with meaner things—things less honorable; and the glory due to God from man could not have been rendered, in any other manner than by the law of free-agency, or in other words, by the law of rationality. Therefore, the commandment of God to man in the garden of Eden, was perfectly consistent with a just and equitable government, and also with man's capacity; for he was endowed with discretionary powers, was susceptible of impressions, both good and evil; and was able to choose or refuse according to his own will. Now all men suffering themselves to be ruled by reason from a correct hypothesis, are forced to acknowledge these facts. Hence, it is easily to be seen that man's guilt arises, from a violation of a law of rationality—a law of ordinances, contained in commandments in proportion to the magnitude of those commandments Our Creator, as a sovereign, possessing the characteristics which he does, every offence must be great in his sight, from the fact that the order disobeyed is from high Heaven, yea, his honor would cease to exist, should he pass by unnoticed the offences man. Therefore, be ing of such inflexible attributes—unchangeable in his existence, it cannot be otherwise than retributive justice will be rendered to every one according to his works.

With a correct view, how can any one escape, seeing all men have sinned and come far short of rendering that service to their creator which is due at their hand? It is idle to think of reform in view of atoning for past offences. Here we see a great fitness, in Christ's being "set forth to be a propiciation through faith in his blood for the remission of sins, that are passed through the forbearance of God; to declare his righteousness that he might be just, and the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus." We see then in the order of God's Salvation, there is justice, equity, mercy, faithfulness, power honor, and truth. It excludes all boasting on the part of man. So then "as by the disobedience of one man many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one man many can be made righteous." This is to be received by faith or believing as "Abraham believed God and it was counted to him for righteousness. It was not written for his sake alone that it was imputed to him but for us also to whom it shall be imputed if we believe on him that raised up Jesus, our Lord from the dead who was delivered for our offences, and raised again for our justification." Now man's accountability arises in proportion to his capacity. To him that there is much given, of him shall be more required. Thus, one grade of men have no advantage over another in this respect, for they that have sinned without law, shall also perish without law, and they that have sinned in the law, shall be judged by the law.

Sufferings in Kansas.

"Thaddeus Hyatt gives an extreme picture of the destitution existing in Kansas. In a letter to President Buchanan he says: Thousands of once thrifty and prosperous American citizens are now perishing for want. Winter is upon them, of clothing they are nearly bereft: food they have not to last them through the cold season that is approaching. Of over a hundred thousand people upon Kansas soil, six months ago, at least one-fourth or one-third have left; of the remainder it is safe to say that forty thousand at this moment see nothing but exodus of starvation at the end of the sixty days now before them; from ten to twenty thousand look with only despairing eyes upon November; thousand cannot subsist a month longer unaided, other thousands are living upon the little which their neighbors deprive them selves of to give them—neighbors equally unfortunate, and with whom the starvation is merely a question of but a few days longer; while still other thousands, if not at once relieved, must perish from hunger or the diseases that follow in its train. Some have already died, others are daily dying, while the hours grow darker and the days grow longer for the living to whom relief comes not, and whose eyes are aching with watchings for the succor that delays."

Such, remarks the Washington Star, is, doubtless a truthful picture of the labors of the abolition emigration aid societies, to shape the institutions of the unhappy Territory of Kansas as New England preferred to have them. These starving creatures are neither more nor less than the sweepings of the gutters of northern towns, villages, and cities, who without the least fitness for successful life on the frontier, were transported by thousands to Kansas on the money raised by the New York Tribune Henry Ward Beecher, et al, to accomplish a political end at war with the spirit of the Constitution. They are of the Class with whom Osawottomie Brown worked there The work of that description being over in Kansas, they are no longer of value to the emigrant aid societies, who have turned them out to starve. The fate of these poor creatures, as pictured by Mr. Hyatt, is perhaps a just retribution for the mischief to the cause of the true principles of the Constitution they permitted themselves to be used to work out. It also accords to the letter with the fate of three-fourths of the runaway slaves seduced from kind masters and really comfortable homes in the South, by the class of northern people who compose the emigrant aid societies; who, while ready to give thousands to work out a mischievous political end, will not part with a penny to relieve the absolute distress of the ignorant and unthinking whom they have brought to misery in accomplishing their political ends.

The Charleston Courier, closes some appropriate, sensible and truthful remarks, on the appointment of Thursday last, by the Governor of South Carolina, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, with the following truly pathetic, if not prophetic language:

"This day should be observed above all others that we have ever been invited to keep, in the spirit of adoring love and humble trust. We should clasp with a tight embrace the sweet and sublime truth recognized in the proclamation which calls us to gather together in the courts of the Lord's House. Let us put our trust in the Lord Jehovah and stay upon God. We may have need of this confidence under new circumstances—amid strife, and commotion, and peril, and blood. The roll that contains the history of the coming months may be written within and without with lamentations, and mourning and woe. Is our faith strong enough for the day of darkness? Can we trust in him as the God of battles, who teacheth the fingers to war and the hands to fight, who goeth forth with the armies? If so we have nothing to fear, for our cause is just With dauntless spirits we may view the gathering clouds, assured that though we may suffer, we will triumph."

MRS. JOHN C. CALHOUN.—Washington, Oct. 28.—Mrs John C. Calhoun, relict of the distinguished Senator from South Carolina, has been for some time on a visit to her daughters, Mrs. Clemson, near Bladensburg. She leaves tomorrow for her Southern home. Mrs. Calhoun is now sixty-eight years of age, with an eye scarcely dimmed by age, cheerful in conversation, and refers with pleasure to her many valued associations during former residences in Washington and Georgetown. The lady of the departed statesman does not choose to trouble herself with politics, and within the past few weeks she has wrought, and exhibits to her friends, a large and splendid curtain of crotchet work, done with her own hands, "and without the aid of glasses," adding that "this was but the first of ten which she had undertaken"

Cor Baltimore Sun.

YANCEY IN OHIO.—A Scene—Hon. Wm. L. Yancey delivered his first Ohio speech at the Opera House, in Cincinnati, on the night of the 20th inst. The building was packed in ten minutes after the doors were open. The papers relate the following incidents, which occurred during the evening:

Mentioning hemp as one of the products of the South, he said they intend ed to keep a good stock of it on hand.

"What for?" asked a Republican.

"To hang you gentlemen who come down South to steal our slaves."

The retort called forth great cheering. At another time he said:

"Some of your papers remarked to day that the farce of disunion would be enacted upon this stage to night. I love this Union. The heroism of our common ancestry, the blood they shed in the cause of freedom, our mutual prosperity demands it But if the Union is to be sustained by trampling upon the Constitution and oppressing my section because it is the weaker, then (folding his arms and stamping his foot, while his eyes flashed fire) I am a traitor, and you can make the most of it."

This was received with immense and prolonged cheering, many rising up and whirling their hats, and many of the ladies waving their handkerchiefs. This was accompanied by a volley of hisses coming from all parts of the house. The orator stood immovable, with his arms folded, as the shouters at tempted time and again, to drown the hisses. Finally, order being restored, his arms still folded, in a soft tone, said:

"Eighty years ago, when young Freedom was compelled to hide in the caves and secret resorts of the country, a noble spirit in the Virginia House of Burgesses, bravely lifted his silvery voice in behalf of his beloved mistress, liberty. As the patriotic words gushed from his musical lips, the minions of power were there and dared, like minions of power here to-night, hiss at the language of truth and justice."

This produced another outburst of applause, which was prolonged for several minutes. No more hissing was heard during the delivery of the speech.

Arrival of the Steamer

ASIA.

The steamship Europa had arrived at Liverpool.

The Sardinian Chambers have adopted the law of annexation.

Count Cavour made a speech containing continued menace to Austria.

The bombardment of Capua commenced on the 9th October. [Capua is a strongly fortified city of Naples, and is regarded as one of the keys of the Kingdom. It is the only fortress that covers the approach to the city of Naples, and is about twenty miles from Naples.]

It was reported that Garibaldi had been wounded at Volturas.

Count Cavour advocates the removing of the Capitol of Italy to Rome.

Latest—Arrival of the Fulton.

CAPE RACE, Oct. 29.—The steamship Fulton which left Southampton on the 17th inst was boarded off Cape Race this forenoon, by the steam yacht belonging to the New York Associated Press.

Commercial News.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.—[No report of sales received.] The Cotton Market closed at an advance of 1-16 a ⅛d.

General News.

The steamships Teutonia, Anglo-Saxon and the Adriatic, had arrived out.

The Neapolitan Princes had ordered a renewal of hostilities against the Garibaldians.

It is stated that there was considerable consternation in the Turin Cabinet, from the fact that the Russian and Prussian Ambassadors had protested against the Sardinian invasion of Naples.

The Allies in China had attacked the Chinese Tarter camp. The Chinese fled in disorder. A grand attack on the Taku forts was made on the 15th August.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP FULTON.

Cotton Advancing.

AUGUSTA, Oct. 29.—The steamship Fulton has arrived off Cape Race.

Cotton had advanced 1 1-6d.

Consols 92⅝ to 92⅞.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

Later from Europe.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP BOHEMIAN.

FARTHER POINT, Nov. 1.—The steamship Bohemian has arrived with dates from Liverpool to the 19th ult.

The sales of cotton for the week amounted to 78,000 bales, and the market had advanced ⅛ cts.

Consols remain unchanged.

DECLINE IN STOCKS—BROKER'S BREAKING.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—The extensive stock and exchange brokers, Josiah Lee & Co., closed doors to day. They have made an assignment to Appleton & Co.

There are rumors of other similar establishments suspending, in consequence, we presume, of heavy losses in stocks resulting from the panic in the stock market in New York.

SENATOR WIGFALL'S POSITION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.— Senator Wigfall, of Texas, has informed President Buchanan that he will not resume his seat in the United States Senate if Lincoln is elected to the Presidency.

GENERAL NEWS.—The departure of the Russian Embassy from Turin is officially announced.

The steamship Persia had reached Liverpool on the 20th ult.

NEWS FROM KANSAS—SQUATTER SOVEREIGNS IN TROUBLE.

LEAVENWORTH, K. T., Oct. 30.—The Leavenworth Times says that sixty United States dragoons, under the command of Capt. Sturgis, and accompanied by the Indian agent, Mr. Corran, have been engaged in driving settlers from the Cheroke "neutral land." Seventy-four houses are reported to have been burned and the occupants thereof ejected.

Much excitement exists in Southern Kansas, in consequence of this interference with the Squatter sovereigns. It is generally believed, however, that the reports are exaggerated.

A committee of the citizens of this place have appointed agents to solicit subscriptions in the East for the relief of persons throughout the Territory, who are suffering in consequence of the failure of the crops the past season.

Fearful Railroad Accident.

SCRANTON, PA., October 25.—A car containing twelve miners at Fort Griffith, while descending a fifteen hundred foot slope, the rope broke and the car was precipitated to the bottom. Eight persons were killed.

Steamboat Fred Tron Sunk.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 24.—The steamer Fred Tron, bound from Memphis for Cincinnati, having on board 1000 bales of cotton, sunk near Island No. 10. The boat is a total loss.

It is stated that new republican clubs have been formed in various parts of the West, under the names of "Zouave Wide Awakes," "Rail Splitters' Battalion," "John Brown Avengers," and "Harper's Ferry Raiders."

LARGE FIRE IN OPELIKA.—We find the following in the Mail of yesterday:

More Rail Splitters Around!—Eds. Mail: I write to inform you that a great conflagration took place in Opelika last night, about 10 o'clock, destroying ten of the largest business houses the place; most of the goods were saved, but all the houses that took fire were burned to ashes, and as there are no vacant houses in the place, the merchants are left in quite an awkward situation. It is believed to be the work of a black hearted Yankee. If we catch the rascal we will hang him higher than old John Brown ever hung.

TWO DEATHS NEAR CAVE SPRING.—On the morning of Tuesday the 20th Oct., Mrs. A. J. King, a daughter of Carter Sparks, died. Also about the same time Wm. M. Davis, a young man aged about 24 years, and son of Thos. W. Da...

A Heart Worth Having.—A young printer of his city fell in love with a beautiful girl who had the misfortune to be rich. He essayed to attract her attention, but who ever heard of a pretty rich girl falling very deep in love with a poor printer? Despairing, he started for California—that land of refuge for broken fortunes and wounded hearts. This was in the year 1850, when San Francisco was a village, and wanted printers more than at present. The boy quickly became a man there; and embarking in the printing business, soon found himself the proprietor of an establishment from which sprang, in due time, a weekly newspaper, there long to be followed by a daily. His journal and his fortunes flourished amazingly, and he returned to New York in 1854 with the avowed purpose of buying a six cylinder press, but with the unavowed purpose of lockin up a lovely form in his new golden chase. Alas, for human hopes! The maid was wedded and the mother of two children. The printer bought his presses and returned to California, a sadder, not a wiser man. Years progressed, and he prospered. One day a lady visited his editorial rooms to lay her modest contribution on his fable, in hopes of getting some remuneration for it. Her story was told briefly; he husband had come to mend his fortunes in the land of gold, and had died, and she was left very poor, with her two children to support. The editor looked at the lady a moment, then handed her a doubloon. The astonished woman essayed to utter thanks, but was waved away. To shorten the story, the lady was his early love, and he married her, sold out his establishment, returned to New York, and is now enjoying as much felicity on the banks of the Hudson as falls to the lot of few printers even to conceive. [Springfield Republican.

We were showe yesterday an invention which we think excels anything in the way of firearms that we previously ever saw. It consists of a common shaped rifle barrel, to which are annexed two tubes, which tubes are parallel with the barrel. One of these is for powder, the other for ball. By a peculiar arrangement of the lock of the gun, the main barrel made to revolve, and bring the tubes in succession over the chamber of the gun, and by this means a load is deposited. This loads the gun forty times, without replenishing either powder or ball. Maynard's patent primers are used, so that a person may load the gun once, and fire forty times before there is any necessity for reloading.

Gertrude.

The crisis of her life had come,
Yet Gertrude had not felt till now
How hard it was to part from one,
The shadows of whose wayward life
So strangely blent with hers.
The sleeping god awoke, & Destiny
Unveil'd to her an agonizing sense
Of unrequited love! yet girding
Up her timid strength, and pressing down
Her heart's delerious pulse, she goes to him,
And lays her hand, as white as Alpine
Snow, in his, to bid the last adieu!
Yet no! such word was never meant
For lips like hers. Her strength is gone!
Her woman's pride, which conquers all
But love—alas, that, too, has flown!
Now marvel that his arms did ope
Like eden's gate, while she in helplessness,
Is pillow'd on his noble breast!
* * * * * * *
There was a mystic charm in Gertrude's
Large & thoughtful eyes as deep as heav'n;
And in her voice an under tone
Which match'd the flute's.——
She did not force our love, but glided
In the willing heart like some sweet
Image seen in dreams when sleep unveils
Her fairy world!
* * * * * * *
Now, nestling in yon flowery vale, a cot
Is seen—and that is Gertrude's home!
Home! Dear synonym of all that's meant
By "bliss," Is garnered on the earth,
Or kept in sweet reserve beyond the skies!
'Tis evening now, and in the avenue
She fondly waits, where green trees wave
On either side. And when the sun
Hath touch'd with gold the western cloud,
He hies him, home, and meets her there:—
She tosses back her floating curls,
And feels his kiss upon her brow!—
Their cup is full, and heaven itself
Can grant no more.

The Four Seasons.—A Retrospect.

'Tis Spring; At morn the rising Sun displays,
Obliquely o'er the plain, refulgent rays;
Projecting his slanting golden beams,
Beyond the hills, the vales and purling streams;
O'er Nature's wide expansive diffusing light,
To wake her genial powers and spread delight,
To ope the buds of yon sequester'd bower,
The tender gem, the unexpanded flower.
The torpid race which rugged winter chill'd,
Will now resume their strength, with vigor fill'd -
Reanimated by those beams, they soon
Are on the wing, and strike the rural tune.
And sprightly birds their approbation prove.
By those meliodious strains, that fill the grave;
Perch'd high upon the branches as they sing,
I hail them as sweet messengers of Spring.
These natural modulatings, which I hear,
Invite reflection and enchant the ear;
Corroborate the weak imagination,
Involve the ling'ring mind in meditation,
Because, there dwells in souls that meditate,
A sympathy, which sounds will penetrate
Some melting air, or distant chime of bells,
With easy force will ope those dormant cells
Where Mem'ry slept. Awake, with this embrace,
"With a few short moments, I retrace
The windings of my way through many years;"
Th' incessant march of life—this vale of tears.
The scene recurs to Mem'ry with its train
Of juv'nile sports, its pleasures, and its pain.
And I have often thought, that, could I tread
The same ground o'er, I would not be misled
By vain pursuits, and foolish, turn'd aside
From rectitude, into the band of pride:
These recollections shine with such degree
They bid the things obscure, conspicuous be Obedient, the brilliant hues display
A vivid light—then smoothely glide away.
My walk resum'd, intent the plains to rove,
In quest of fragrnt flowers, beside the grove,
Wand'ring, I view the tall majestic trees
Around me waving from the western breeze;
At length I reach the meadow full in bloom
So richly dec'd, with beauty and perfume,
That Flora seems to grant her care entire
To dignify her crop—which we admire;
She paints the enameled ground as each plant grows;
Here stands the Lilly, there the blushing Rose;
The fields, the verdant banks, the green retreats,
Are overspread with spicy balmy sweets!
Come, lovely nymph, and bless the silent hour.
When these receive the cooling vernal shower;
All nature laughs, the groves are fresh and fair,
The Sun's mild lustre warms the vital air;
The forest I survey, the hills I view,
All flourish, all appear divinely new.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale, on accomodating terms, and at a very moderate price, in proportion to its intrinsic value

Two Tracts of Land.

One containing 160 acres, lying one mile east of his present residence, on the Jacksonville road, 3 miles from Oxford. About 55 acres cleared and in a good state of cultivation—comfortable log cabins, crsbs, stables and other improvements. A spring of pure never failing water, near the house. The soil is of good quality, well adapted to the cultivation of grain or cotton.

The other place is situated 4 miles from Oxford, and contains 120 acres, about 35 cleared and under good fence—comfortable log cabins, and other necessary improvements on the place, and a good well of never failing water in the yard; also a good young peach orchard. If the places are not sold by the middle of November they will be to rent. Persons wishing to purchase are invited to call and examine them.

Oct. 11, 1860—4t. J. W. MADDOX.

VALUABLE LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale his two tracts of Land containing FOURTEEN HUNDRED ACRES, eight hundred of which is comprised in the tract upon which he now resides, situated in Choccolocco Valley; four miles south of White Plains, in Calhoun county, Ala.

Near five hundred acres are cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation—two hundred acres excellent bottom land, nearly all of which is cleared.

The place is well improved, having a large two story Frame Dwelling House, six rooms besides dining room and kitchen; all good out houses. Cotton Gin, and Screw, together with a large, young Orchard. All the upland is of good quality—fine for cotton and grain; and all the uncleared land is well timbered. Every field in the tract is well provided with water.

ALSO—Six hundred and eighty acres, known as the James A. Williams tract, situated eight miles from White Plains, on the Wedowee road, which is also well improved, having a large two story framed dwelling house, brick kitchen, and dining room; smoke house and negro houses, regularly and conveniently arranged—also, Cotton Gin, a Grist Mill, and a good site for a Saw Mill. About 400 acres cleared, lying level, and the greater portion first class bottam land; and the upland excellent. The entire tract is unusually well watered in every part—there is also on the place a good young orchard.

All the above described land will be sold on reasonable and accommodating terms.

Land buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves, and if they wish further information before doing so, they can obtain it by addressing a letter to me, at either White Plains or Corn Grove.

Howard Association.

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases; such as Spermatorrhea, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c. &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

Medical Advice Gratis

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual Diseases, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labor of their Surgeons in the cure of Spermatorrhoea, Seminal Weakness, Gonorrhe, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism, or Self-Abuse, Diseases of the Kidney and Bladder, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

VALUABLE REPORTS on Spermatorrhoea, and other Diseases of the Saxual Organs, on the NEW REMEDIES employed in the Dispensary, sent to the afflicted in sealed letter envelopes, free of charge. Two or three Stamps for postage will be accepted.

Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon Howard Association No. 2 South NINTH Street, Philadelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

JUDSON'S

Mountain Herb Pills

ABOVE, we present you with a perfect likeness of ...sauco, a chief of a tribe of the strange Aztec Nation that once ruled Mexico. You will find a full account of him and his people in our Pamphlets and Almanac—to be had gratis, from the Agents for these Pills.

The inventor and manufacturer of "Judson's Mountain Herb Pills," has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited nearly every country in the world. He spent over six years among the Indians of the Rocky Mountains and of Mexico, and it was thus the "MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS" were discovered. A very interesting account of his adventures there, you will find in our Almanac and Pamphlet.

It is an established fact, that all diseases arise from

IMPURE BLOOD!

The blood is the life! and when any foreign or unhealthy matter gets mixed with it, it is at once distributed to every organ of the body. Every nerve feels the poison and all the vital organs quickly complain. The stomach will not digest the food perfectly. The liver ceases to secrete a sufficiency of bile. The action of the heart is weakened, and so the circulation is feeble. The lungs become clogged with the poisonous matter; hence, cough—and all from a slight impurity at the fountain head of life—the Blood! As if you had thrown some earth, for instance, in a pure spring, from which runs a tiny rivulet, in a few minutes the whole course of the stream becomes disturbed and discolored. As quickly does impure blood fly to every part, and leave its sting behind. All the passages become obstructed, and unless the obstruction is removed, the lamp of life soon dies out.

These pills not only purify the blood, but regenerate all the secretions of the body; they are, therefore, unrivalled as a

CURE FOR BILIOUS DISEASES,

Liver Complaint, Sick Headache, &c. This Anti-Bilious Medicine expels from the blood the hidden seeds of disease, and renders all the fluids and secretions pure and fluent, clearing and resuscitating the vital organs.

Pleasant indeed, is it to us, that we are able to place within your reach, a medicine like the "MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS," that will pass directly to the afflicted parts through the blood and fluids of the body, and cause the sufferer to brighten with the flush of beauty and health.

Judson's Pills are the Best Remedy in existence for the following Complaints:

Bowel Complaints,	Debility,	Inward Weakness
Coughs,	Fever and Ague,	Liver Complaints,
Colds,	Female Complaints,	Lowness of Spirits,
Chest Diseases,	Headaches,	Piles,
Costiveness,	Indigestion,	Stone and Gravel,
Dyspepsia,	Influenza,	Secondary Symptoms.
Diarrhœa,	Inflammation,
Dropsy,

GREAT FEMALE MEDICINE

Females who value health, should never be without these Pills. They purify the blood, remove obstructions of all kinds, cleanse the skin of all pimples and blotches and bring the rich color of health to the pale cheek.

☞The Plants and Herbs of which these Pills are made, were discovered in a very surprising way among the Texucans, a tribe of Aborigines in Mexico. Get the Almanac of our Agent, and you will read with delight the very interesting account it contains of the "GRAND MEDICINE" of the Aztecs.

Observe.—The Mountain Herb Pills are put up in a Beautiful Wrapper. Each box contains 40 pills, and Retail at 25 cents per box. All genuine, have the signature of B. L. JUDSON & CO., on each box.

Celebrated American

WORM SPECIFIC, OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy; not infrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,

DR. M'LANE'S VERMIFUGE

Will certainly effect a cure.

The universal success which has attended the administration of this preparation has been such as to warrant us in pledging ourselves to the public to in every instance where it should prove ineffectual: "providing the symptoms attending the sickness of the child or adult should warrant the supposition of worms being the cause." In all cases the Medicine to be given IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH THE DIRECTIONS.

RETURN THE MONEY

We pledge ourselves to the public, that

Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge

DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY

in any form; and that it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

Address all orders to

FLEMING BROS., PITTSBURGH, PA.

P. S. Dealers and Physicians ordering from others than Fleming Bros., will do well to write their orders distinctly, and take none but Dr. M'Lane's, prepared by Fleming Bros., Pittsburgh, Pa. To those wishing to give them a trial, we will forward per mail, post paid, to any part of the United States, one box of Pills for twelve three-cent postage stamps, or one vial of Vermifuge for fourteen three-cent stamps. All orders from Canada must be accompanied by twenty cents extra.

☞For sale by Druggists and Country Store Keepers generally.

YOUNG LADIES'
BORDING AND DAY SCHOOL.

This school, prevented hitherto from going into effective operation, will open on Monday, July 30th; and will be for the present, under the Tuition and discipline of Mrs. F. P. Parsons well known, for several years, as the Principal of the Jacksonville Female Academy; and as a most thorough, successful & popular Teacher.

Any pledges heretofore made by the subscriber, to make the Institution worthy of the patronage of those wishing a thorough complete, & accomplished education for their daughters, will be fully redeemed as patronage justifies.

Able and efficient Assistants will be provided as required by increased numbers.

The old Presbyterian church has been purchased by the subscriber for this school. The Presbyterian congregation will, however, continue to occupy it for their purposes till their new house of worship is completed.

The School will therefore open in the church, which is a large and very pleasant room well ventilated, well lighted, commodious and easy of access from all parts of town.

Rates of Tuition per session of 5 months:

For Primary Studies,	$10 00
" Common English,	12 50
" Natural Sciences,	16 00
" Ancient and Modern Languages,	20 00
" Music	25 00

Ornamental branches extra. Vocal music taught gratis

Pupils will be charged from time of entrance. For protracted sickness, the usual abatements will be made

It is very desirable that pupils commence with the session.

This Institution, is subject to no Sectarian or Denominational control, or influence.

TO THE PUBLIC.

HAVING recovered my health to a considerable extent, and being now able to work, I shall in future, be found at my post, ready to attend to all calls, and fill all orders for work, executed in the neatest, most fashionable and durable manner.

All kinds of

FURNITURE!

SUCH AS

BUREAUS,
WARDROBES,
TABLES,
SIDEBOARDS,
BOOK CASES,
AND THE BEST OF

COTTAGE BEDSTEADS!

Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of dwel-pinning and blacking bedsteads now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered

My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs, so troublesome in this region.

All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and burials attended promptly—prices as low as those of any Cabinet maker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not setting my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at another trade.

Selma, March 22, 1860.—1y.

Fever and Ague,

from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and exciting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the CHILL. But in this effort it fails. Then the FEVER follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great exeretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of FEVER AND AGUE. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote,

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from, the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, Bilious Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitations, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hysterics, Colic, Paralysis, and Painful Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "AGUE CURE" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habited to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term acclimatation. Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "AGUE CURE" does it at once, and with safety. We have great reason to believe this is a surer as well as safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

DR. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON

An apperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital eneegy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation DysPepsia, Consumption, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermitens Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In DYSPEPSIA, innumerable as are its causes a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendent Costiveness.

In unchecked DIARHOEA, even when advanced to DYSENTARY, confirmed, emaciating and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Iodine without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this REMEDY and RESTORATIVE, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflamatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swelling and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite complete digestion rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of the price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, CALHOUN COUNTY.

Court of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, Special Term, September 26th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came William A. Wilson, Administrator of the Estate of James Barge, deceased, and filed his petition in writing, representing that his intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, lying and being situate in said County of Calhoun, to-wit: Fraction No. 17, fractional section 30, township 12, range 10—Fractions Nos. 20, 21, 22, fractional section 31, township 12, range 11; and Fraction No. 22, fractional section 33, township 12, range 11. North east fourth of North west fourth section 6, fractional township 13, range 11—south east fourth of south east fourth, section 6, township 13, range 11—north east fourth of north east fourth, section 7, fractional township 13, range 11—south west fourth of north east fourth, section 7, Township 13, range 11; and north west fourth of north west fourth, section 8, township 13, range 11—Fractions E and F, fractional section 18, township 13, range 11—north west fourth of north east fourth, section 19, township 13, range 11; and south east fourth, north west fourth of section 19, township 13, range 11 east in the Coosa Land District.

Said Administrator further states, that Elvira Harris, late widow of decedent and now the wife of Frank Harris, who are over 21 years of age, and reside in Calhoun County, Alabama, Aaron Barge, Richard Barge, & Jacob Barge are over the age of 21 years and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; Edward M Barge, over 21 years of age and resides in Forsyth county Georgia; John and Emily Robertson, formerly Emily Barge, and now the wife of Jackson Robertson, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in parts unknown; Ann Black, formerly Ann Barge, now the wife of James Black, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in Fayette county Georgia; also the following other heirs, the children of Sarah Childs, formerly Sarah Barge, to-wit: Daniel P. S. Childs, over the age of 21 years and resides in Fayette county, Georgia; Martha Eidson, formerly Martha Childs and now the wife of James Eidson, Richmond B. Childs, Eliza Ann Teal, formerly Childs, now the wife of Lovel Teal, who are all over the age of 21 years, and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; also James Childs & Sarah F. Childs, minors under the age of 21 years—the former residing in Fulton County, Georgia, and the latter in Campbell Co. Georgia, are the heirs at law of said Estate. And the said Administrator asks that an order and Decree of said Court be made authorizing the sale of said lands for division among said Heirs, alleging that an equal, fair and beneficial division of the same cannot be made among said Heirs without a sale of said lands. It is therefore ordered by the court that Wednesday the 15th day of November A. D. 1860 be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition. And it being further shown that all of said heirs except Elvira Harris and Frank Harris residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama. It is therefore further ordered by the court that notice as to said nonresident heirs of the filing of said petition and of the day set for hearing the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to said non resident heirs to be and appear at a special Term of said Court to be holden at the Court House of said County, on said 15th day of November next, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness: A. Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this the 26th day of Sept. A. D. 1860.

A WOODS, Judge of

IN CHANCERY.

Laban Pitts, } AT RULES held by the
VS. } Register in Chancery for
Sarah Pitts, } the 36th Chancery district of the Northern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, at Jacksonville, Calhoun county, on Monday the 22nd day of October, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came the complainant by his Solicitor, M. J. Turnley, and moved the undersigned Register in Chancery for the 36th district of the Northern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, and County of Calhoun, for an order of publication against Sarah Pitts; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Register, from the affidavit of M. J. Turnley, complainant's Solicitor, which affidavit is on file, that the said Sarah Pitts is a non-resident of this State, and is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in a weekly news-paper called the Jacksonville Republican, published in Jacksonville, Calhoun County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said defendant to appear before the said Register of this court, at his office in Jacksonville, Calhoun county, Ala. within sixty days from this date, and plead answer or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint, or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing exparte as to her.

It is further ordered, that a copy of this order be posted up at the Court house door of said county within twenty days after this date, and also that a copy be sent by mail to Millidgeville, Georgia, to the said Sarah Pitts, that being the supposed place of her residence.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, }
Court of Probate for said County, Special Term, October, 20th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came Margaret Bedwell Administratrix of the Estate of L. Bedwell dec'd and filed her petition in writing, representing that her intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, besides other lands, lying and being situated in the Counties of Calhoun & Randolph, to wit: the North half of southeast fourth of section 9, township sixteen range 10, East in the Coosa Land district, lying in Calhoun County; also the southwest fourth of southwest fourth of section fifteen, township 19, range 9, East in the Coosa land district, said administratrix furthea states that the following named persons are the only heirs and distributees of said estate, to-wit: Margaret Bedwell, the widow and petitioner, Alvira J. Mohon, late Alvira J. Bedwell, & now the wife of Jesse Mohon, Amanda Bedwell, Ann E. T. Bedwell, Inda. Bedwell, Polk D. Bedwell, and Ann Bedwell, the last five are minors, the others are of full age, and all reside in said county of Calhoun.—Also John P. Bedwell of full age and resides in Jackson Parish in the State of Louisiana, and said Adm'x asks that an order and decree of said court be made, authorizing the sale of the above described lands, for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate.

It is therefore ordered by the court that the 26th day of Nouember, 1860, be set for the heating and determining upon the said petition, and it being shown to the satisfaction of the court, that John P. Bedwell, is a non resident residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama.

It is therefore further ordered by the court, that notice as to said non resident heir of the filing of said petition, and of the day set for the hearing of the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Rapublican a newspaper printed and published in said county for thirty days previous to said 26th day of November, 1860, notifying said non resident heir to be and appear at a special Term of said court, to be holden at the Court house of said county, on said 26th day of November, 1860, and defend against said petition if he thinks proper.

Witness: A. Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this 20th day of Oct. 1860. A. WOODS, Judge

TEN YEARS.—The changes which have taken place between 1850 and 1860 in the economic condition of our country are very great. In that period the gold mines have been discovered in California and Australia. In 1840 we had $4 paper circulation to $1 of specie; in 1850, only 3 to 1; in 1860, less than 2 to 1. In 1849, the produce of precious metals was $95,-000,000; in 1859 it was $26 ,000,000! The whole amount now in the world is intimated at $10,000,000,000, of which six tenths are silver. It was always supposed that a sudden increase in the quantity of money increases prices. This has not proved true; for, in spite of the influx of gold, and in spite of the repeal of the English corn laws, which has enabled us to export immense quantity of flour and grain, prices in general, are lower, and wages higher, than they ever were before. Tables show that prices generally, during forty years, were highest in 1837, & lowest about 1843. Flour was so scarce in 1837, that we imported $5,000,000 worth; its average price, for forty years, has been $5 54 per barrel. The sale of tea has increased in 25 years from 13,000,000 to 36,000,000 lbs.; the average price for that period has been 48 cents. The cotton crop has increased in 40 years from 180,000,000 lbs. 1,800,000,000 lbs.—A great demand for breadstuffs from 1850 to 1857, occasioned by railway labor, and the repeal of the British corn laws, kept prices generally on the advance; but in 1857, on account of the abundant crops, the slackening of the shipping and railway interests, and a glutted cotton market, a downward tendency prevailed. Prices don't seem generally to be affected by the fluctuations of paper currency. In 1849, the bank note circulation was $119,000,-000; in 1852, $173,000,000; in March, 1858, it was $129,000,000, shortly after which it rose $156,000,000. The balance of trade in favor of the United States in the last 10 years is $62,058,884, although our coffee, tea and sugar cost us $40,000,-000 annually. The consumption of coffee in 1834 was 6 lbs. per head; it is now 8 lbs. per head. Our exports of breadstuffs from 1850 to 1860, were $480,000,-000.

☞ Plutarch says in his life of Alexander, that the Bablonians used during dog days, to sleep on skins filled with water. In these days many men sleep on skins filled with bad whiskey.

A DISCOVERY.—A clerk in the Register's office, Boston, lately found a £100 note on the Bank of England, between the leaves of an ancient volume of records. The note was dated 1673.

Child Killing in Wetumpka.

The last Wetumpka Spectator gives us the following:

"A woman giving her name as Mary Powers, arrived in this city some four weeks since, putting up at the Coosa Hall. She represented herself as being from Columbus, Ga., and as having relations in Mobile, whom she expected to meet in Montgomery, but failing to do so, she came to Wetumpka to wait information of them.—She also represented herself as being a widow, having lost her husband a few months since. Some two days after her arrival here, she gave birth to a child, since which time she has remained a boarder at the Hall in partial seclusion. On Wednesday morning last about half past 11 o'clock she exhibited symptoms of insanity, drove the servant attending her from the room, locked the door, and some few moments afterwards the infant of which she was known to be the mother, was found upon the pavement in front of the Hall with life almost extinct. It was taken up by Mr. Stout, the proprietor of the Hotel, and in a few moments was reported dead. An inquest was immediately held upon the body, the verdict of the jury being "that the child came to its death by the hands of its mother, having been thrown by her from the second story of the Coosa Hall on the pavement beneath, while said mother was insane, or simulating insanity." A warrant was issued and she is now under arrest, to await an examination before a magistrate, we forbear therefore, making further remarks until the investigation is concluded.

P. S.—The examination before the magistrate resulted in the acquittal of Mrs Powers. The evidence of the attending physician, Dr. Lightfoot, and Mr. Stout, the proprietor of the Hall going to show she was insane at the time the act was committed. Several letters were found upon her person, and in her trunk, which are at present in the hands of a detective, and may lead to further developments in relation to this horrible affair. She herself although not entirely lucid at the time, has confessed that she was urged to commit the deed by one G. B. Terry, a citizen of Columbus Ga., whom she states was her seducer, and the father of the child.

One of the letters found in her possession, urging her to commit the deed was signed "Sallie," with the initials G. B. T., to the right of the signature."

Stingless Bees.

Mr. A. O. Moore has returned from Gautemala with two swarms of the Stingless bees of that country. These insects are now in charge of the Patent office, and when sufficiently increased, they will be distributed through the United States. These bees are divided into two classes, one being smaller the other a little larger than our common honey bees. The Stingless bees deposit their honey in egg shaped capsules, about half as large as a hen's egg. They are supposed to be very hardy.

Dalton and Jacksonville Railroad.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dalton and Jacksonville Railroad Company was held at the court house in Dalton, on the 3d inst., and organized by calling Capt. James Morris to the chair, and appointing Edward White Secretary.

The annual reports were called for, read, received and adopted. The annual election for directors resulted in the choice of Hon. Leander W. Crook, James H. Huff, Esq., Col J. A. W. Johnson, Wm. McCollough, Esq., Capt. James Morris, Harrsion Rogers, and Hon. Dawson A. Walker.

At a subsequent meeting of the new board of directoas, L. W. Crook was chosen President, Edward White, Secretary, Jas. Morris, Treasurer, and G. Wadsworth, Chief Engineer.

From the action of the Convention and the reports of the officers which will doubtless be published in pamphlet form, the stockholders, and the public will be gratified with the condition of the affairs of the company, and the rapid prosecution of the work of construction.—Dalton Times.

Unfortunate Accident.—We regret to hear that one of the decks of the steamboat Virginia, on which Judge Douglas and his lady had taken passage for Mobile, gave way on Friday night just on the eve of its departure, and resulted in the slight injury of a number of persons who had crowded on board, Judge Douglas' wounds, we understand, were of but little consequence, but the injuries received by Mrs. D. were so severe as to require that she should return to the city, and immediately obtain medical assistance. She is now at the residence of Col. J. J. Seibles, where she will remain until sufficiently restored to travel.
—Montgomery Adv.

POWER IN A WOMAN'S EYE.—A lady when the conversation turned on dynamics, asked the late George Stephenson, the celebrated engineer. "What do you consider the most powerful force in nature?" "I will soon answer that," said he; "it is the eye of a woman who looks with affection on a man; should he go to the uttermost ends of the earth, the recollection of that look will bring him back."

Lincoln Troubled.—Mr. Lincoln is most anxious as to the course of the Cotton States in the event of his election. Those of his leading friends who are at all conservative are engaged just now in assuring the South that Lincoln will enforce the Fugitive Slave law, respect slavery in the States, &c. It is natural that Lincoln and his office-seeking friends should desire a quiet time. Secession and civil war would interfere with their enjoyment of "the spoils."—Raleigh Standard.

AN IRISH TALE.
(Concluded.)

Cathleen listened, almost congealed with horror, but she did not swoon; her turn, she thought, must come next, though in the same instant she felt, instinctively, that her only chance of preservation was to counterfeit profound sleep. The murderers, having done their work on the poor peddler, approached her bed, and threw the gleam of their lantern full on her face; she lay quiet still, breathing calmly and regularly. They brought the light to her eyelids, but they did not wink or move;—there was a pause, a terrible pause; and then a whispering, and presently Cathleen thought she could distinguiph a third voice, as of expostulation, but all in so very low a tone that though the voices were close to her she could not hear a word that was uttered. After some moments, which appeared an age of agonizing suspense, the wretches withdrew, and Cathleen was left alone, and in darkness. Then, indeed, she felt as one ready to die: to use her own affecting language, "the heart within me," said she, "melted away like water, but I was resolute not to swoon, and I did not. I knew that if I would preserve my life, I must keep the sense in me, and I did."

Now and then she fancied she heard the murdered man move, and creep about in his bed, and this horrible conceit almost maddened her with terror: but she set herself to listen fixedly, and convinced her reason that all was still—that all was over.

She then turned her thoughts to the possibility of escape. The window first suggested itself, the faint moonlight was just struggling through its dirty and cobwebbed panes: it was very small, and Cathleen reflected, that besides the difficulty, and, perhaps, impossibility of getting through, it must be some height from the ground: neither could she tell on which side of the house it was situated, nor in what direction to turn, supposing she reached the ground; and above all, she was aware that the slightest noise must cause her instant destruction. She thus resolved upon remaining quiet.

It was most fortunate that Cathleen came to this determination, for without the slightest previous sound the door again opened, and in the faint light, to which her eyes were now accostomed, she saw the head of the old woman bent forward in a listening attitude: in a few moments the door closed, and then followed a whispering outside. She could not at first distinguish a word until the woman's sharper tones broke out, though in suppressed vehemence, with "If ye touch her life, Barny, a mother's curse go with ye! enough's done."

"She'll live, then, to hang us all," said the miscreant son.

"Sooner than that, I'd draw this knife across her throat with my own hands: and I'd do it again and again, sooner than they should touch your life, Barny, jewel: but no fear, the creature's asleep or dead already, with the fright of it."

The son then said something which Cathleen could not hear; the old woman replied:

"Hisht! I tell ye, no—no; the ship's now in the Cove of Cork that's to carry her over the salt seas far enough out of the way: and haven't we all she has in the world? and more didn't she take the bit out of her own mouth to put into mine?"

The son again spoke inaudibly; and then the voices ceased, leaving Cathleen uncertain as to her fate.

Shortly after the door opened and the father and son again entered, and carried out the body of the wretched peddler. They seemed to have the art of treading without noise, for though Cathleen saw them move, she could not hear a sound of a foot-step The old woman was all this time standing by her bed, and every now and then casting the light full upon her eyes; but as she remained quite still, and apparently in a deep calm sleep, they left her undisturbed, and she neither saw nor heard any more of them that night.

It ended at length—that long, long night of horror. Cathleen lay quiet till she thought the morning sufficiently advanced. She then rose and went down into the kitchen; the old woman was lifting a pot off the fire, and nearly let it fall as Cathleen suddenly addressed her, and with an appearance of surprise and concern, asked, for her friend the peddler, saying she had just looked into his bed, supposing he was still asleep, and to her great amazement had found it empty. The old woman replied, that he had set out at early daylight for Mallow, having only just remembered that his business called him that way before he went to Cork Cathleen affected great wonder and perplexity, and reminded the woman that he had promised to pay for her breakfast.

"An' so he did, sure enough," she replied, "and paid for it, too; and by the same token didn't I go down to Balgowna myself for the milk and the male before the sun was over the tree tops? and here it is for ye, ma collen!" so saying, she placed a bowl of stirabout and some milk before Cathleen, and then sat down on the stool opposite to her, watching her intently.

Poor Cathleen! she had but little inclination to eat, and felt as every bit would choke her, yet she continued to force down her breakfast, and apparently with the utmost ease and appetite, even to the last morsel set before her.

While eating, she inquired about the husband and son, and the old woman replied, that they had started at the first burst of light to cut turf in a bog, about five miles distant.

When Cathleen had finished her breakfast, she returned the old woman many thanks for her kind treatment, and desired to know the nearest way to Cork. The woman Hogan informed her, that the distance was about seven miles, and though the usual road lay by the highway from which they had turned the preceding evening, there was a much shorter way across the fields, which she pointed out. Cathleen listened attentively to her directions, and then bidding farewell with many demonstrations of gratitude, she proceeded on her fearful journey. The cool morning air, the cheerful songs of the early birds, the dewy freshness of the turf, were all unnoticed and unfelt; the sense of danger was paramount, while her faculties were all alive and awake to meet it, for a feverish and unnatural strength seemed to animate her limbs. She stepped out, shortly debating with herself whether to follow the directions given by the old woman. The highroad appeared the safest; on the other hand, she was aware that the slightest betrayal of mistrust would perhaps be followed by her destruction; and thus, rendered brave, even by the excess of her fears, she determined to take the cross path. Just as she had come to this resolution, she reached the gate which she had been directed to pass through; and without the slightest apparent hesitation, she turned in, and pursued the lonely way through the fields. Often did she fancy she heard footsteps stealthily following her, and never approached a hedge without expecting to see the murderers start up from behind it; yet she never once turned her head, nor quickened nor slackened her pace.

She had proceeded in this manner about three-quarters of a mile, and approached a thick and dark grove of underwood, when she beheld seated upon the opposite stile an old woman in a red cloak. The sight of a human being made her heart throb more quickly for a moment; but, on approaching nearer, with all her faculties sharpened by the sense of danger, she perceived that it was no old woman, but the younger Hogan, the murderer of Halloran, who was thus disguised. His face was partly concealed by a blue handkerchief tied round his head and under his chin, but she knew him by the peculiar and hideous expression of his eyes: yet, with amazing and almost incredible self possession, she continued to advance without manifesting the least alarm, or sign of recognition; and walking up to the pretended old woman, said in a clear voice, "The blessing of the morning on ye, good mother! a fine day for travelers like you and me."

"A fine day," he replied, coughing and mumbling in a feigned voice, "but ye see, hugh, ugh! ye see I've walked this mornin' from the Cove of Cork, jewel, and troth I'm almost spent, and I've a bad cowld, and a cough on me as ye may hear," and he coughed vehemently. Cathleen made a motion to pass the stile, but the disguised woman stretching out a great, bony hand, seized her gown. Still Cathleen did not quail. "Musha, then, have ye nothing to give a poor old woman," said the monster, in a whining, suing tone. "Nothing have I in this wide world," said Cathleen, quietly disengaging her gown, but without moving. "Sure it's only yesterday I was robbed of all I had but the little clothes on my back, and if I hadn't met with charity from others I'd have starved on the wayside by this time."

"Och! and is there no place hereabouts where they would give a potato and a cup of cowld water to a poor old woman ready to drop on her road?"

Cathleen instantly pointed forward to the house she had just left, and recommended her to apply there. "Sure, they're good, honest people, though poor enough, God help them," she continued, "and I wish ye mother no worse luck than myself had, and that's a good friend to treat ye to a supper, aye, and a breakfast too; there it is, ye may just see the light smoke rising like a thread over the hill, just forenent ye; and God speed ye!"

Cathleen turned to descend the stile as she spoke, expecting to be again seized with a strong and murderous grasp, but her enemy, secure in his disguise, and never doubting her perfect unconsciousness, suffered her to pass unmolested.

Another half mile brought her to the top of a rising ground, within sight of the highroad; she could see crowds of people on horseback and on foot, with cars and carriages passing along in one direction; for it was, though Cathleen did not then know it, the first day of the Cork Assizes. As she gazed, she wished for the wings of a bird, that she might in a moment flee over the space which intervened between her and safety, for though she could clearly see the highroad from the hill on which she stood, a valley of broken ground at its foot, and two wide fields still separated her from it; but with the same unfailing spirit, and at the same steady pace, she proceeded onwards: and now she had reached the middle of the last field, and a thrill of new-born hope was beginning to flutter at her heart, when suddenly two men burst through the fence at the further side of the field, and advanced towards her. One of these she thought at the first glance resembled her husband, but that it was her husband himself was an idea which never entered her mind. Her imagination was possessed with the one supreme idea of danger and death by murderous hands: she doubted not that these were the two Hogans in some new disguise, and silently recommending herself to God, she steeled her heart to meet this fresh trial of her fortitude; aware, that however it might end, it must be the last. At this moment one of the men throwing up his arms, ran forward, shouting her name, in a voice—a dear and well-known voice, in which she could not be deceived:—it was her husband!

The poor woman, who had hitherto supported her spirits and her self-possession, stood as if rooted to the ground, weak, motionless, & gasping for breath. A cold dew-burst from every pore, her ears tingled, her heart flutter...

TO THE PUBLIC.

HAVING recovered my health to a considerable extent, and being now able to work, I shall in future, be found at my post, ready to attend to all calls, and fill all orders for work, executed in the neatest, most fashionable and durable manner.

All kinds of
FURNITURE!
SUCH AS BUREAUS,
WARDROBES,
TABLES,
SIDEBOARDS,
BOOK CASES,
AND THE BEST OF
COTTAGE BEDSTEADS!

Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of dwel-pinning and blacking bedsteads now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered

My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs, so troublesome in this region.

All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and burials attended promptly—prices as low as those of any Cabinet worker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not setting my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at another trade.

Fever and Ague,

from which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sun is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lungs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscera and exerting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile from the blood. Both the virus and the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it out. The blood leaves the surface, and rushes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the CHILL. But in this effort it fails. Then the FEVER follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great excretory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of FEVER AND AGUE. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an antidote,

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blood, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the body. As it should, so it does cure this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease. Consequently it not only cures, but protects from the great variety of affections which are induced by this malignant influence, such as Remittent Fever, Chill Fever, Dumb, or Masked Ague, Periodical Headache, or Bilious Headache, Bilious Fevers, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affections of the Spleen, Hysterics, Colic, Paralysis, and Painful Affections of the Stomach and Bowels, all of which, when arising from this cause, will be found to assume more or less the intermittent type. This "AGUE CURE" removes the cause of these derangements, and cures the disease.

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excretories to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habited to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term acclimatation. Time may accomplish the same end, but often life is not long enough, or is sacrificed in the attempt, while this "AGUE CURE" does it at once, and with safety. We have great reason to believe this is a surer as well as safer remedy for the whole class of diseases which are caused by the miasmatic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another important advantage to the public, which is, that it is cheap as well as good.

DR. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON

An apperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital enecgy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz.

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation DysPepsia, Consumption, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermitens Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly reappeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In DYSPEPSIA, innumerable as are its causes a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant Costiveness,

In unchecked DIARHOEA, even when advanced to DYSENTARY, confirmed, emaciating and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Iodine without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this REMEDY and RESTORATIVE, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflamatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swelling and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefullness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite complete digestion rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of the price All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to

THE STATE OF ALA[illegible]
CALHOUN COUN[illegible]

Court of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, Special Term, September 26th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came William A. Wilson, Administrator of the Estate of James Barge, deceased, and filed his petition in writing, representing that his intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, lying and being situate in said County of Calhoun, to-wit: Fraction No. 17, fractional section 36, township 12, range 10—Fractions Nos. 20, 21, 22, fractional section 31, township 12, range 11; and Fraction No. 22, fractional section 33, township 12, range 11. North east fourth of North west fourth section 6, fractional township 13, range 11—south east fourth of south east fourth, section 6, township 13, range 11—north east fourth of north east fourth, section 7, fractional township 13, range 11—south west fourth of north east fourth, section 7, Township 13, range 11; and north west fourth of north west fourth, section 8, township 13, range 11—Fractions E and F, fractional section 18, township 13, range 11—north west fourth of north east fourth, section 19, township 13, range 11; and south east fourth, north west fourth of section 19, township 13, range 11 east in the Coosa Land District.

Said Administrator further states, that Elvira Harris, late widow of decedent and now the wife of Frank Harris, who are over 21 years of age, and reside in Calhoun County, Alabama, Aaron Barge, Richard Barge, & Jacob Barge are over the age of 21 years and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; Edward M Barge, over 21 years of age and resides in Forsyth county Georgia; John and Emily Robertson, formerly Emily Barge, and now the wife of Jackson Robertson, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in parts unknown; Ann Black, formerly Ann Barge, now the wife of James Black, who are over the age of 21 years and reside in Fayette county Georgia; also the following other heirs, the children of Sarah Childs, formerly Sarah Barge, to-wit: Daniel P. S. Childs, over the age of 21 years and resides in Fayette county, Georgia; Martha Eidson, formerly Martha Childs and now the wife of James Eidson, Richmond B. Childs, Eliza Ann Teal, formerly Childs, now the wife of Lovel Teal, who are all over the age of 21 years, and reside in Campbell County, State of Georgia; also James Childs & Sarah F. Childs, minors under the age of 21 years—the former residing in Fulton County, Georgia, and the latter in Campbell Co. Georgia, are the heirs at law of said Estate. And the said Administrator asks that an order and Decree of said Court be made authorizing the sale of said lands for division among said Heirs, alleging that an equal, fair and beneficial division of the same cannot be made among said Heirs without a sale of said lands. It is therefore ordered by the court that Wednesday the 15th day of November A. D. 1860 be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition. And it being further shown that all of said heirs except Elvira Harris and Frank Harris residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama. It is therefore further ordered by the court that notice as to said nonresident heirs of the filing of said petition and of the day set for hearing the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to said non resident heirs to be and appear at a special Term of said Court to be holden at the Court House of said County, on said 15th day of November next, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness: A Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this the 26th day of Sept. A. D. 1860.

IN CHANCERY.

Laban Pitts, VS. Sarah Pitts, } AT RULES held by the Register in Chancery for the 36th Chancery district of the Northern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, at Jacksonville, Calhoun county, on Monday the 22nd day of October, A D. 1860.

THIS day came the complainant by his Solicitor, M. J. Turnley, and moved the undersigned Register in Chancery for the 36th district of the Northern Chancery Division of the State of Alabama, and County of Calhoun, for an order of publication against Sarah Pitts; and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Register, from the affidavit of M. J. Turnley, complainant's Solicitor, which affidavit is on file, that the said Sarah Pitts is a nonresident of this State, and is over the age of 21 years.

It is therefore ordered by the Register, that publication be made in a weekly newspaper called the Jacksonville Republican, published in Jacksonville, Calhoun County, Alabama, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring the said defendant to appear before the said Register of this court, at his office in Jacksonville, Calhoun county, Ala. within sixty days from this date, and plead answer or demur to the complainant's bill of complaint, or the same will be taken for confessed, and the cause set for hearing exparte as to her.

It is further ordered, that a copy of this order be posted up at the Court house door of said county within twenty days after this date, and also that a copy be sent by mail to Millidgeville, Georgia, to the said Sarah Pitts, that being the supposed place of her residence.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, } Calhoun County. }
Court of Probate for said County, Special Term, October, 20th, A. D. 1860.
THIS day came Margaret Bedwell Administratrix of the Estate of L. Bedwell dec'd and filed her petition in writing, representing that her intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, besides other lands, lying and being situated in the Counties of Calhoun & Randolph, to-wit: the North half of southeast fourth of section 9, township sixteen range 10, East in the Coosa Land district, lying in Calhoun County; also the southwest fourth of southwest fourth of section fifteen, township 19, range 9, East in the Coosa land district, said administratrix further states that the following named persons are the only heirs and distributees of said estate, to-wit: Margaret Bedwell, the widow and petitioner, Alvira J. Mohon, late Alvira J. Bedwell, & now the wife of Jesse Mohon, Amanda Bedwell, Ann E. T. Bedwell, Inda. Bedwell, Polk D. Bedwell, and Ann Bedwell, the last five are minors, the others are of full age, and all reside in said county of Calhoun.—Also John P. Bedwell of full age and resides in Jackson Parish in the State of Louisiana, and said Adm'x asks that an order and decree of said court be made, authorizing the sale of the above described lands, for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate.
It is therefore ordered by the court that the 26th day of November, 1860, be set for the hearing and determining upon the said petition, and it being shown to the satisfaction of the court, that John P. Bedwell, is a non resident residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama.
It is therefore further ordered by the court, that notice as to said non resident heir of the filing of said petition, and of the day set for the hearing of the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a newspaper printed and published in said county for thirty days previous to said 26th day of November, 1860, notifying said non resident heir to be and appear at a special Term of said court, to be holden at the Court house of said county, on said 26th day of November, 1860, and defend against said petition if he thinks proper.
Witness: A. Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this 20th day of Oct. 1860. A. WOODS, Judge

POETRY.

TEN YEARS.—The changes which have taken place between 1850 and 1860 in the economic condition of our country are very great. In that period the gold mines have been discovered in California and Australia. In 1840 we had 34 paper circulation to $1 of specie; in 1850, only 3 to 1; in 1860, less than 2 to 1. In 1849, the produce of precious metals was $95,000,000; in 1859 it was $256,000,000! The whole amount now in the world is estimated at $10,000,000,000, of which six tenths are silver. It was always supposed that a sudden increase in the quantity of money increases prices. This has not proved true: for, in spite of the influx of gold, and in spite of the repeal of the English corn laws, which has enabled us to export immense quantity of flour and grain, prices in general, are lower, and wages higher, than they ever were before. Tables show that prices generally, during forty years, were highest in 1837, & lowest about 1843. Flour was so scarce in 1837, that we imported $5,000,000 worth: its average price, for forty years, has been $5 51 per barrel. The sale of tea has increased in 25 years from 13,000,000 to 36,000,000 lbs.; the average price for that period has been 18 cents. The cotton crop has increased in 40 years from 180,000,000 lbs. 1,800,000,000 lbs.—A great demand for breadstuffs from 1850 to 1857, occasioned by railway labor, and the repeal of the British corn laws, kept prices generally on the advance; but in 1857, on account of the abundant crops, the slackening of the shipping and railway interests, and a glutted cotton market, a downward tendency prevailed. Prices don't seem generally to be affected by the fluctuations of paper currency. In 1849, the bank note circulation was $113,000,000; in 1852, $173,000,000; in March, 1858, it was $120,000,000, shortly after which it rose $156,000,000. The balance of trade in favor of the United States in the last 10 years is $62,058,884, although our coffee, tea and sugar cost us $40,000,000 annually. The consumption of coffee in 1834 was 2 lbs. per head; it is now 8 lbs. per head. Our exports of breadstuffs from 1850 to 1860, were $480,000,000.

A DISCOVERY.—A clerk in the Register's office, Boston, lately found a £100 note on the Bank of England, between the leaves of an ancient volume of records. The note was dated 1673.

Child Killing in Wetumpka.

The last Wetumpka Spectator gives us the following:

"A woman giving her name as Mary Powers, arrived in this city some four weeks since, putting up at the Coosa Hall. She represented herself as being from Columbus, Ga., and as having relations in Mobile, whom she expected to meet in Montgomery, but failing to do so, she came to Wetumpka to wait information of them.—She also represented herself as being a widow, having lost her husband a few months since. Some two days after her arrival here, she gave birth to a child, since which time she has remained a boarder at the Hall in partial seclusion. On Wednesday morning last about half past 11 o'clock she exhibited symptoms of insanity, drove the servant attending her from the room, locked the door, and some few moments afterwards the infant of which she was known to be the mother, was found upon the pavement in front of the Hall with life almost extinct. It was taken up by Mr. Stout, the proprietor of the Hotel, and in a few moments was reported dead. An inquest was immediately held upon the body, the verdict of the jury being "that the child came to its death by the hands of its mother, having been thrown by her from the second story of the Coosa Hall on the pavement beneath, while said mother was insane, or simulating insanity." A warrant was issued and she is now under arrest, to await an examination before a magistrate, we forbear therefore, making further remarks until the investigation is concluded.

P. S.—The examination before the magistrate resulted in the acquittal of Mrs Powers. The evidence of the attending physician, Dr. Lightfoot, and Mr. Stout, the proprietor of the Hall going to show she was insane at the time the act was committed. Several letters were found upon her person, and in her trunk, which are at present in the hands of a detective, and may lead to further developments in relation to this horrible affair. She herself although not entirely lucid at the time, has confessed that she was urged to commit the deed by one G. B. Terry, a citizen of Columbus Ga., whom she states was her seducer, and the father of the child.

One of the letters found in her possession, urging her to commit the deed was signed "Sallie," with the initials G. B T., to the right of the signature."

Stingless Bees.

Mr. A. O. Moore has returned from Guatemala with two swarms of the Stingless bees of that country. These insects are now in charge of the Patent office, and when sufficiently increased, they will be distributed through the United States. These bees are divided into two classes, one being smaller the other a little larger than our common honey bees. The Stingless bees deposit their honey in in egg shaped capsules, about half as large as a hen's egg. They are supposed to be very hardy.

Dalton and Jacksonville Railroad.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dalton and Jacksonville Railroad Company was held at the court house in Dalton, on the 3d inst., and organized by calling Capt. James Morris to the chair, and appointing Edward White Secretary.

The annual reports were called for, read, received and adopted. The annual election for directors resulted in the choice of Hon. Leander W. Crook, James H Huff, Esq., Col. J. A. W Johnson, Wm. McCollough, Esq., Capt. James Morris, Harrsion Rogers, and Hon. Dawson A. Walker.

At a subsequent meeting of the new board of directors, L. W. Crook was chosen President, Edward White, Secretary, Jas. Morris, Treasurer, and G. Wadsworth, Chief Engineer.

From the action of the Convention and the reports of the officers which will doubtless be published in pamphlet form, the stockholders, and the public will be gratified with the condition of the affairs of the company, and the rapid prosecution of the work of construction.—Dalton Times.

Unfortunate Accident.—We regret to hear that one of the decks of the steamboat Virginia, on which Judge Douglas and his lady had taken passage for Mobile, gave way on Friday night just on the eve of its departure, and resulted in the slight injury of a number of persons who had crowded on board, Judge Douglas' wounds, we understand, were of but little consequence, but the injuries received by Mrs. D. were so severe as to require that she should return to the city, and immediately obtain medical assistance. She is now at the residence of Col. J. J Seibles, where she will remain until sufficiently restored to travel.
Montgomery Ade.

POWER IN A WOMAN'S EYE.—A lady when the conversation turned on dynamics asked the late George Stephenson, the celebrated engineer. "What do you consider the most powerful force in nature? "I will soon answer that," said he; "it is the eye of a woman who looks with affection on a man; should he go to the uttermost ends of the earth, the recollection of that look will bring him back."

Lincoln Troubled.—Mr. Lincoln is most anxious as to the course of the Cotton States in the event of his election. Those of his leading friends who are at all conservative are engaged just now in assuring the South that Lincoln will enforce the Fugitive Slave law, respect slavery in the States, &c. It is natural that Lincoln and his office-seeking friends should desire a quiet time. Secession and civil war would interfare with their enjoyment of "the spoils."—Raleigh Standard.

Miscellaneous.

Halloran the Peddler.

AN IRISH TALE.
(Concluded.)

Cathleen listened, almost congealed with horror, but she did not swoon; her turn, she thought, must come next, though in the same instant she felt, instinctively, that her only chance of preservation was to counterfeit profound sleep. The murderers, having done their work on the poor peddler, approached her bed, and threw the gleam of their lantern full on her face; she lay quiet still, breathing calmly and regularly. They brought the light to her eyelids, but they did not wink or move;—there was a pause, a terrible pause, and then a whispering;—and presently Cathleen thought she could distinguish a third voice, as of expostulation, but all in so very low a tone that though the voices were close to her she could not hear a word that was uttered. After some moments, which appeared an age of agonizing suspense, the wretches withdrew, and Cathleen was left alone, and in darkness. Then, indeed, she felt as one ready to die: to use her own affecting language, "the heart within me," said she, "melted away like water, but I was resolute not to swoon, and I did not. I knew that if I would preserve my life, I must keep the sense in me, and I did."

Now and then she fancied she heard the murdered man move, and creep about in his bed, and this horrible conceit almost maddened her with terror: but she set herself to listen fixedly, and convinced her reason that all was still—that all was over.

She then turned her thoughts to the possibility of escape. The window first suggested itself, the faint moonlight was just struggling through its dirty and cobwebbed panes: it was very small, and Cathleen reflected, that besides the difficulty, and, perhaps, impossibility of getting through, it must be some height from the ground: neither could she tell on which side of the house it was situated, nor in what direction to turn, supposing she reached the ground; and, above all, she was aware that the slightest noise must cause her instant destruction. She thus resolved upon remaining quiet.

It was most fortunate that Cathleen came to this determination, for without the slightest previous sound the door again opened, and in the faint light, to which her eyes were now accostomed, she saw the head of the old woman, bent forward in a listening attitude; in a few moments the door closed, and then followed a whispering outside. She could not at first distinguish a word until the woman's sharper tones broke out, though in suppressed vehemence, with "If ye touch her life, Barny, a mother's curse go with ye! enough's done."

"She'll live, then, to hang us all," said the miscreant son.

"Sooner than that, I'd draw this knife across her throat with my own hands: and I'd do it again and again, sooner than they should touch your life, Barny, jewel: but no fear, the creature's asleep or dead already, with the fright of it."

The son then said something which Cathleen could not hear; the old woman replied:

"Hisht! I tell ye, no—no; the ship's now in the Cove of Cork that's to carry her over the salt seas far enough out of the way: and haven't we all she has in the world? and more didn't she take the bit out of her own mouth to put into mine?"

The son again spoke inaudibly; and then the voices ceased, leaving Cathleen uncertain as to her fate.

Shortly after the door opened and the father and son again entered, and carried out the body of the wretched peddler. They seemed to have the art of treading without noise, for though Cathleen saw them move, she could not hear a sound of a foot-step. The old woman was all this time standing by her bed, and every now and then casting the light full upon her eyes; but as she remained quite still, and apparently in a deep calm sleep, they left her undisturbed, and she neither saw nor heard any more of them that night.

It ended at length—that long, long night of horror. Cathleen lay quiet till she thought the morning sufficiently advanced. She then rose and went down into the kitchen; the old woman was lifting a pot off the fire, and nearly let it fall as Cathleen suddenly addressed her, and with an appearance of surprise and concern, asked for her friend the peddler, saying she had just looked into his bed, supposing he was still asleep, and to her great amazement had found it empty. The old woman replied, that he had set out at early daylight for Mallow, having only just remembered that his business called him that way before he went to Cork. Cathleen affected great wonder and perplexity, and reminded the woman that he had promised to pay for her breakfast.

"An' so he did, sure enough," she replied, "and paid for it, too; and by the same token didn't I go down to Balgowna myself for the milk and the maie before the sun was over the tree tops? and here it is for ye, ma'coilen!" so saying, she placed a bowl of stirabout and some milk before Cathleen, and then sat down on the stool opposite to her, watching her intently.

Poor Cathleen! she had but little inclination to eat, and felt as every bit would choke her; yet she continued to force down her breakfast, and apparently with the utmost ease and appetite, even to the last morsel set before her.

While eating, she inquired about the husband and son, and the old woman replied, that they had started at the first burst or light to cut turf in a bog, about five miles distant.

When Cathleen had finished her breakfast, she returned the old woman many thanks for her kind treatment, and desired to know the nearest way to Cork. The woman Hogan informed her that the distance was about seven miles, and though the usual road was by the highway from which they had turned the preceding evening, there was a much shorter way across the fields, which she pointed out. Cathleen listened attentively to her directions, and then bidding farewell with many demonstrations of gratitude, proceeded on her fearful journey. The cool morning air, the cheerful songs of the early birds, the dewy freshness of the turf, were all unnoticed and unfelt: the sense of danger was paramount, while her faculties were all alive and awake to meet it, for a feverish and unnatural strength seemed to animate her limbs. She stepped on, shortly doubting with herself whether to follow the directions given by the old woman. The highroad appeared the safest; the other hand, she was aware that the slightest betrayal of mistrust would perhaps be followed by her destruction; and thus, rendered brave even by the excess of her fears, she determined to take the cross path. Just as she had come to this resolution, she reached the gate which she had been directed to pass through; and with all the slightest apparent hesitation, she turned in, and pursued the lonely path through the fields. Often did she fancy she heard footsteps stealthily following her, and never approached a hedge without expecting to see the murderers start up from behind it; yet she never once turned her head, nor quickened nor slackened her pace.

She had proceeded in this manner about three-quarters of a mile, and approached a thick and dark grove of underwood, when she beheld seated upon the opposite stile an old woman in a red cloak. The sight of a human being made her heart throb more quickly for a moment; but, on approaching nearer, with all her faculties sharpened by the sense of danger, she perceived that it was no old woman, but the monger Hogan, the murderer of Halloran, who was thus disguised. His face was partly concealed by a blue handkerchief tied round his head and under his chin, but she knew him by the peculiar and hideous expression of his eyes: yet, with amazing and almost incredible self possession, she continued to advance without manifesting the least alarm, or sign of recognition; and walking up to the pretended old man, said in a clear voice, "The blessing of the morning on ye, good mother, a fine day for travelers like you and me!"

"A fine day," he replied, coughing and mumbling in a feigned voice, "why ye see, hugh, ugh! ye see I've walked this mornin' from the Cove of Cork, jewel, and troth I'm almost spent, and I've a tod cowld, and a cough on me as ye may hear," and he coughed vehemently. Cathleen made a motion to pass the stile, but the disguised woman stretching out a great bony hand, seized her gown. Still Cathleen did not quail. "Musha, then, have nothing to give a poor old woman," said the monster, in a whining, sung ling tone. "Nothing have I in the wide world," said Cathleen, quietly disengaging her gown, but without moving. "Sure it's only yesterday I was robbed of all I had but the little cloth on my back, and if I hadn't met with charity from others I'd have starved on the wayside by this time."

"Och! and is there no place herabout where they would give a potato and a cup of cowld water to a poor old woman ready to drop on her road?"

Cathleen instantly pointed forward to the house she had just left, and recommended her to apply there. "Sure they're good, honest people, though poor enough, God help them," she continued, "and I wish ye mother no worse luck than myself had, and that's a good friend to trent ye to a supper, aye, and a breakfast too; there it is, ye may just see the light smoke rising like a thread over the hill, just forenent ye: and God speed ye!"

Cathleen turned to descend the stile as she spoke, expecting to be again seized with a strong and murderous grasp, but her enemy, secure in his disguise, and never doubting her perfect unconsciousness, suffered her to pass unmolested.

Another half mile brought her to the top of a rising ground, within sight of the highroad; she could see crowds of people on horseback and on foot, with cars and carriages passing along in one direction; for it was, though Cathleen did not then know it the first day of the Cork Assizes. As she gazed, she wished for the wings of a bird that she might in a moment flee over the space which intervened between her and safety, for though she could clearly see the highroad from the hill on which she stood, a valley of broken ground at its foot, and two wide fields still separated her from it; but with the same unfailing spirit, and at the same steady pace, she proceeded onwards: and now she had reached the middle of the last field, and a thrill of new-born hope was beginning to flutter at her heart, when suddenly two men burst through the fence at the further side of the field, and advanced towards her. One of these she thought at the first glance resembled her husband, but that it was her husband himself, was an idea which never entered her mind. Her imagination was possessed with the one supreme idea of danger and death by murderous hands: she doubted not that these were the two Hogans in some new disguise, and silently recommending herself to God, she steeled her heart to meet this fresh trial of her fortitude; aware, that, however it might end, it must be the last. At this moment one of the men throwing up his arms, ran forward, shouting her name, in a voice—a dear and well-known voice, in which she could not be deceived;—it was her husband!

The poor woman, who had supported her spirits and her self-possession, stood as if rooted to the ground, weak, motionless, & gasping for breath. A cold dew burst from every pore; her ears tingled, her heart fluttered thought it would burst from her bosom. When she attempted to call out, and raise her hand in token of recognition, the sounds died away, rattling in her throat; her arm dropped powerless at her side; and when her husband came up, and she made a last effort to spring towards him, she sank down at his feet in strong convulsions.

Reilly, much shocked at what he supposed the effect of sudden surprise, knelt down and chafed his wife's temples; his comrade ran to a neighboring spring for water, which they sprinkled plentifully ove her: when, however, she returned to life, her intellects appeared to have fled forever, and she uttered such wild shrieks and exclamations, and talked so incoherently, that the men became exceedingly terrified, and poor Reilly himself, almost as distracted as his wife. After vainly attempting to soothe & recover her, they at length forcibly carried her down to the inn at Ballgowna, a hamlet about a mile further on, where she remained for several hours in a state of delirium, one fit succeeding another with little intermission.

Towards evening she became more composed, and was able to give some account of the horrible events of the preceding night. It happened, opportunely, that a gentleman of fortune in the neighborhood, and a magistrate, was riding by late that evening on his return from the assizes at Cork, and stopped at the inn to refresh his horse. Hearing that something unusual and frightful had occurred, he alighted, and examined the woman himself, in the presence of one or two persons. Her tale appeared to him so strange and wild from the manner in which she told it, and her account of her own courage and suffering so exceedingly incredible, that he was at first inclined to disbelieve the whole, and suspected the poor woman either of imposture or insanity. He did not, however, think proper to tally to neglect her testimony, but immediately sent off information of the murder to Cork. Constables with a warrant were dispatched the same night to the house of the Hogans, which they found empty, and the inmates already fled: but after a long search, the body of the wretched Halloran, and part of his property, were found concealed in a stack of old chimneys among the ruins; and this proof of guilt was decisive. The country was instantly up; the most active search after the murderers was made by the police, assisted by all the neighboring peasantry; and before twelve o'clock the following night, the three Hogans, father, mother and son, had been apprehended in different places of concealment, and placed in safe custody. Meantime the coroner's inquest having sat on the body, brought in a verdict of wilful murder.

As the judges were then at Cork, the trial came on immediately; and, from its extraordinary circumstances, excited the most intense and general interest. Among the property of poor Halloran discovered in the house, were a pair of shoes and a cap which Cathleen at once identified as belonging to herself, and Reilly's silver watch was found on the younger Hogan. When questioned how they came into his possession, he sullenly refused to answer. His mother eagerly, and as if to shield her son, confessed that she was the person who had robbed Cathleen in the former part of the day; that she had gone out on the Carrack road to beg, having been left by her husband and son for two days without the means of support, and finding Cathleen asleep, she had taken away the bundle, supposing it to contain food; and did not recognize her as the same person she had robbed, till Cathleen offered her part of her supper.

The surgeon, who had been called to examine the body of Halloran, deposed to the cause of his death: that the old man had been first stunned by a heavy blow on the temple, and then strangled. Other witnesses deposed to the finding of the body; the previous character of the Hogans, and the circumstances attending their apprehension; but the principal witness was Cathleen She appeared, leaning on her husband, her face was ashy pale, and her limbs too weak for support; yet she, however, was perfectly collected, and gave her testimony with that precision, simplicity and modesty, peculiar to her character. When she had occasion to allude to her own feelings, it was with such natural and heartfelt eloquence that the whole court was affected; and, when she described her rencontre at the stile there was a general pressure and a breathless suspense; and then a loud murmur of astonishment and admiration fully participated by even the bench of magistrates. The evidence was clear and conclusive; and the jury, without retiring, gave their verdict—guilty—Death.

When the miserable wretches were asked, in the usual forms, if they had anything to say why the awful sentence should not be passed upon them, the old man replied by a look of idiotic vacancy, and was mute—the younger Hogan answered sullenly, "Nothing;" the old woman, staring wildly on her son, tried to speak; her lips moved, but without a sound—and she fell forward on the bar in strong fits.

At this moment Cathleen rushed from the arms of her husband, and throwing herself on her knees, with clasped hands, and cheeks streaming with tears, begged for mercy for the old woman. "Mercy, my lord judge!" she exclaimed. "Gentlemen, your honors, have mercy on her. She had mercy on me! She only did their bidding. As for the bundle and all in it, I give it to her with all my soul, so it's no robery. The grip of hunger's hard to bear; and if she hadn't taken it then, where would I have been now? Sure they would have killed me for the sake of the watch, and I would have been a corpse before your honors this moment. O, mercy! mercy for her! or never will I sleep asy on this side of the grave!"

The judge, though much affected, was obliged to have her forcibly carried from the court, and justice took its awful course. Sentence of death was pronounced on all the prisoners; but the woman was reprieved, and afterwards transported. The two men were executed within forty-eight hours after their conviction, on the Gallows Green.

They made no public confession of their guilt, and met their fate with sullen indifference. The awful ceremony was for a moment interrupted by an incident which afterwards furnished ample matter for wonder and speculation among the superstitious populace. It was well known that the younger Hegan had been long employed on the estate of a nobleman in the neighborhood; but having been concerned in the abduction of a young female, under circumstances of peculiar atrocity, which for the want of legal evidence could not be brought home to him, he was dismissed; and, finding himself an object of general execration, he had since been skulking about the country, associating with housebreakers and other lawless and abandoned characters. At the moment the hangman was adjusting the rope round his neck, a shrill voice screamed from the midst of the crowd, "Barny Hogan! do ye mind Grace Power, and the last words ever she spoke to ye?" there was a general movement and confusion; no one could or would tell whence the the voice proceeded. The wretched man was seen to change countenance for the first time, and raising himself on tiptoe, gazed wildly round upon the multitude; but he said nothing; and in a few minutes he was no more.

The reader may wish to know what has become of Cathleen, our heroine, in the true sense of the word. Her story, her sufferings, her extraordinary fortitude, and pure simplicity of character, made her an object of general curiosity and interest: a subscription was raised for her, which soon amounted to a liberal sum; they were enabled to procure Reilly's discharge from the army, and with a part of the money, Cathleen, who, among her other perfections, was exceedingly pious after the fashion of her creed and country, founded yearly masses for the soul of the poor peddler; and vowed herself to make a pilgrimage of thanksgiving to St. Gobnate's well. Mr. L., the magistrate who had first examined her in the little inn at Ballgowna, made her a munificent present; and anxious, perhaps, to offer yet further amends for his former doubts of her veracity, he invited Reilly, on very advantageous terms, to settle on his estate, where he rented a neat cabin, & a handsome plot of potato ground. There Reilly and his Cathleen were living ten years ago, with an increasing family, and in the enjoyment of much humble happiness; and there, for aught I know to the contrary, they may be living to this day.

The Election of Lincoln—Secession of Southern States.

Since we sent forth our last paper, the news has reached us, and been thoroughly confirmed, that Abraham Lincoln has been elected President and Hamlin, Vice President. These men are both citizens of free States—have been elected by an overwhelming majority on a purely sectional issue, without even having a ticket in the South, and by a party pledged against the admission of any more slave States, and to its extinction in the States where it now exists.

Heretofore, the excitement among the people consequent upon the political canvass for President, has quickly subsided when the election was over, but in this instance it has increased tenfold, at least in the Southern States. From all quarters we hear the note of preparation for secession, and resistance to any attempt at coercion which may follow. This note of preparation comes from the letters of public men, from public meetings, from Legislative assemblies, from the messages of Governors, and many other sources.

We believe in the right of secession as clear and indisputable, and that the South alone ought to govern the South—that the time has arrived when the Southern people are called upon to choose between secession, and being taxed at will and ruled by men elected by a northern sectional majority, who avow their deadly hostility to the South and a determination finally to abolish slavery in the States. With such an issue, presented by the North, with a full understanding of all its consequences which the Southern people could not avoid if they would, it is easy to conjecture what their decision will be.

Of course we cannot tell what the wisdom of our statesmen may devise to propose; but we shall feel bound to acquiesce in the decision of our own State Convention.

South Carolina has already called a Convention to meet on the 14th of January. The Governor of Georgia recommends the call of a Convention to the Legislature now in session, and the appropriation of $1,000,000 for defence. The Governor of Alabama it is said will issue his proclamation in a few days, for the call of a Convention, agreeable to the act of the last Legislature. Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Eolurida appear determined immediately to pursue the same course.

With this brief allusion to the subject and expression of our sentiments, we give place to correspondents, and to the copious extracts from telegraphic news and other articles which we know will be more interesting to our readers, and will probably give our views more at length next week.

☞The attention of the friends of Education is invited to the advertisement of the Trustees of the Male and Female Academy 6 miles east of this place, under the superintendence of Mr. J A. Fleming—Female department, by Miss Teague.

Mr. Flemming has had several years successful experience as a teacher; and Miss Teague will doubtless be equally successful in her department.

For the Republican.

Secession.

"To your tents, O Israel."

ALABAMIANS:

The time has come when you must put your house in order. Thirty years ago the Abolitionists were an insignificant faction. For years they were treated with contempt in all quarters. Even their petitions were refused the ordinary courtesies in Congress.

At first their advocates in Congress contended only for the "sacred right of petition." On this ground John Q Adams—a name ever hateful to the South, took his stand and labored until he secured them a hearing in Congress. From an insignificant and despised sect of fanatics, they grew to political power. This became an object of interest to political demagogues and office seekers. They grew stronger, until they carried a State—then another, and another—until finally they have secured an overwhelming majority in all the Northern States—until they have now elected one of their number President of this Republic—and will shortly control all the revenues and executive patronage, and the Army and Navy of our common country.

After the next apportionment of representatives, the Abolition section will have an increased majority.

With the law laid down by them, that there shall be no more slave territory, there can be no more slave States; and every new State carved out of our extensive public domain, will but add strength to our enemies, and forge our fetters the stronger. In a few years the United States Senate, one of the few strongholds we still depend on, will be abolitionized—In a few years the Supreme Court, our last hope will be Abolitionized. We shall then be left to the tender mercies of a mob of fanatics and levelers—made up, much of it, of the scum and offscouring of Europe—with our runaway negroes added—We shall then be at the mercy of the black-hearted villians, and hypocritical scoundrels who now mob every Southerner that goes to hunt a runaway negro—who sent cut-throats and murderers to drive us out of Kansas—who sent old John Brown to devastate Virginia, and then put on crape—tolled their bells and delivered eulogies on him, when he was hung on a gallows, as a murderer—the men who have sent their emisaries to fire the villages and poison the peaceable citizens of Texas—and whose agents are stealthily creeping into our own State, plotting to destroy us, and all that is dear to us.

Alabamians; this is not an exaggerated picture—but these are naked truths, drawn from the history of the times. These things are now, even now transpiring before your eyes. As ing the Northern manufacturing mobs and shipowners an abolishing lever even forever unto death,

Secession will be the salvation and glorification of the South.

Union and submission, will be ruin and destruction to the South.

If we never acquire another foot of territory for the South, look at her. Eight hundred and fifty thousand square miles—as large as Great Britain, France, Austria, Prussia, and Spain. Is not that territory enough to make an empire that shall rule the world? With the fine soil, the most delightful climate, whose staple productions none of those great countries can grow, we have three thousand miles of continental shore line, so indented with bays and crowded with Islands, that, when their shore lines are added, we have twelve thousand miles. Through the heart of our country runs the great Mississippi, the father of waters, into whose bosom are poured thirty-six thousand miles of tributary streams, and beyond we have the desert prairie wastes, to protect us in our rear. Can you hem in such a territory as that? You talk of putting up a wall of fire around eight hundred and fifty thousand square miles so situated! How absurd?

But in this territory lies the great valley of the Mississippi, now the real, and soon to be the acknowledged seat of the empire of the world. The sway of that valley will be as great as ever the Nile knew in the earlier ages of mankind. We own the most of it. The most valuable part of it belongs to us now; and although those who have settled above us are now opposed to us, another generation will tell a different tale. They are ours by all the laws of nature; slave-labor will go over every foot of this great valley where it will be found profitable to use it, and some of those who may not use it are soon to be united with us by such ties as will make us one and inseparable. The iron horse will soon be chattering over the sunny plains of the South to bear the products of its upper tributaries to our Atlantic ports, as it now does through the ice-bound North. There is the great Mississippi, a bond of union made by nature herself. She will maintain it forever.

On this fine territory we have a population four times as large as that with which these colonies separated from the mother country, and a hundred, I might say, a thousand fold as strong. Our population is now sixty per cent. greater than that of the whole United States when we entered into the second war of independence. It is as large as the whole population of the United States was ten years after the conclusion of that war, and our exports are three times as great as those of the whole United States then. Upon our muster rolls we have a million of men. In a defensive war upon an emergency, every one of them would be available. At any time the South can raise, equip, and maintain in the field, a larger army than any Power of the earth can send against her, and an army of soldiers—men brought up on horseback, with guns in their hands.

C.

Large yield of Turnips.—We saw on Saturday last, on Judge Woods' lot in this place, a lot of Turnips, pulled up from a small plot of ground, which measured by stepping 1-13th of an acre. The amount of the turnips was calculated by good judges to be at least 75 or 80 bushels, and that too of the largest class. Twelve of them were weighed, one of which weighed 6 pounds two 5 1-2 three 5 two 4 1-2 & four 4 pounds. The turnips were of the red top variety. He had some two or three other spots, which he thought would turn out nearly as well. It is proper to state that the turnips were drilled and worked like cabbages.

Our thanks are due to the Judge for a number of the finest specimens described above.

The following are the concluding paragraphs of Gov. Browns message to the Georgia Legislature now in session.

For the purpose of putting this State in a defensive condition as fast as possible, and preparing for an emergency, which must be met sooner or later, I recommend that the sum of one million dollars be immediately appropriated, as a military fund for the ensuing year: and that a prompt provision be made for raising such portion of the money as may not be in the Treasury, as fast as the public necessities may require its expenditure. "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute," should be the future motto of the Southern States.

To every demand for further concession, or compromise of our rights, we should reply, "the argument is exhausted," and we now "stand by our arms."

Serenade to Senator Chesnut.

COLUMBIA, November 5.—At half past eight, this evening, a large number of the friends of Senator Chesnut serenaded him, at Janey's Hotel, with a band of music. About fifteen hundred persons were assembled. In acknowledging the compliment, Mr. Chesnut said

He had never before spoken with so deep a sense of the obligations pressing upon him. Before the setting of to morrow's sun, in all human probability, the destiny of a great republic would be decided, by the election of Lincoln. In that event, a line of enemies is closing around us which must be broken. [Applause.] They stood at the initial point of a new departure. Two ways were before them—in one of which, whether they would or not, they must tread; for in that event to which he alluded, there would be no repose, but humiliation, hishonor, emeutes and rebellions with submission in the beginning, in blood at all times, and slavery in the end. The other had its dangers, but no disgrace, and hope beckoned them at the end. Which would they take?

Eighty five years ago an issue of far less magnitude was presented to the American colonies. The result we all know. Constitutional liberty was vindicated, and thirteen free sovereign independent States were ushered into the family of nations. The issue then was duty on tea and stamped paper. Should New Englanders, avowed enemies, without constitution, without consent, bind Carolina, and determine her affairs? [Voices—"No, never!" and applause.] Or should Carolina, be governed by Carolinians? [Many Voices—"Yes and forever!" and applause.] That it was the settled purpose of the Northern States, and would be of Congress under the rule of the Black Republican party, to govern them in violation of the Constitution, and without their consent, was apparent from their past conduct. Their arrogant pretentions and avowed intentions for forty years, had continued to disturb their peace and endanger their lives; sending among them emissaries unknown to them. He then recounted the wrongs the South endured and the purpose of the Abolition party. What would your forefathers have said to such an issue? What did they say to an issue incomparably less? Would they not have said we have cause to assume that position among nations to which nature's God had entitled them? Yes, from their past record they would have acted what they said. [Great applause.] There is but one way out of this difficulty, and you must choose whether you will be governed by enemies or yourselves. For myself I would unfurl the Palmetto flag [thunders of applause,] determined to live or die as became our ancestors. I would ring the clarion note of defiance in the insolent ears of our foe. [Applause.] There are several modes in which to proceed; you have a right received under the Constitution as a sovereign State, to withdraw from this Union. [Great applause.] It is your duty in the event we contemplate, to withdraw. [Increased applause.] It is your only safety. No doubt if the South moves, each State moving for itself, and afterwards determining the relations to subsist between them, would present to the world a political power that would defy all human contingency. With seventy per cent. of all exportation and furnishing seventy per cent of all manufactured cotton goods sent to the world by Great Britain, you have an absolute security to govern in peace and establish your independence. [Applause, and cries of "good."] The man most averse to blood might safely agree to drink every drop shed to accomplish such a result. When they resumed the powers which were delegated to the federal government, they would hold up to the world a constitution for which they are willing to die. When they pursued this course, he believed all the South would flock to their standard. [Applause.] That was the true policy. No better government could be formed. He would not argue the question, but took it for granted, that all Carolinians conceded the right to secede. He hoped the cup might pass away; but if presented, it behooved them to take care the bitter things were not all for them. It behooved them to rescue the alter of liberty from the relentless foe, and if put to the trial, they must

"Strike for their alters and their fires
For the green graves of their sires,
God, and their native land." [Loud cheering.]

He admonished them to be just to their cause and their God. Justice would stand by their side. [Applause.]

Mr. Chesnut was followed by Gen. Bonham who, in a forcible manner, counselled seperate State action in the event of Lincoln's election.

In response to the continued and enthusiastic calls of the crowd, Hon. R. B. Rhett appeared, and delivered a short address, which was most vehemently applauded. Ex-Governor Adams and others also spoke. The excitement will be kept up to a late hour.

Extracts from Governor Wise's Recent Speech in Princes Anne, Virginia.

After rehearsing a history of the rise and progress of slavery agitation, Governor W. proceeds:

* * * * * *

This makes the triumph of what is called Black Republicanism certainly probable in the next thirty days. And we need not be informed what Black Republicanism is. It is the very Demon of National discord. It is death to slave States or to the Confederacy of all the States.

It obtains its own compromise in the Constitution to continue the importation of slaves, and now sets up a law higher than the Constitution to abolish property in slaves which is sold to us, its neighbors.

In 1817-20 it deprived us of equal settlement in more than half the territory acquired from France.

It seized upon Texas North of 36 deg. 30 min, and carved out of Texas 44,000 square miles of slave territory South 36 deg. 30 min.

It seized upon all the territory acquired by common conquest from Mexico, and deprived slave labor of the privilege of operating in the wealthiest mines of earth—the gold mines of California.

It had bribed a slave state with ten millions of common funds to sanction a prohibition of slavery in all New Mexico.

It claims to abolish slavery in the districts, forts arsenals, dockyards and other places ceded to the United States. To abolish the inter State slave trade, and thus cut off the northern slave States from their profits of production, and the southern from their sources of supply of labor.

It claims to forbid all equality and competition of settlement in the common Territories, by the citizens of slave States.

It repels all further admission of new slave States.

It has nullified the fugitive slave acts in fourteen states of the Union. It has denied extradition of murderers and marauders, and other felons in several others.

It has caused and shielded the murderer of masters or owners in pursuit of fugitive slaves.

It has refused to prevent or punish by State authority, the spoliation of slave property; but on the contrary, it has made it a criminal offence in the citizens of several States to obey the laws of the Union for the protection of slave property.

It has advocated negro equality and made it the ground of positive legislation hostile to the southern States.

It opposes protection to slave property on the high seas, and has justified piracy itself in the case of the Creole.

It has kept in our midst emmissaries of incendiarism to corrupt our slaves and induce them to run off or excite them to rebellion and insurrection.

It has run off millions of slave property by a system of what is called "underground railroads," and has made its tenure so precarious in the border slave States as nearly to have abolitionized two of them—Maryland and Missouri; and it is making similar inroads constantly upon Virginia and Kentucky.

It is incessantly scattering fire brands of incendiary appeals in our midst.

It has extended fanaticism into our own borders.

It has invaded a territory by arms furnished by emigrant aid societies, under state patronage, and by funds furnished by foreign enemies in Canada and in Great Britain.

It has invaded Virgina and shed the blood of her citizens on her own soil.

It has justified and exalted to the highest honors of admiration and respect the horrid murders and arsons and rapine of the raid of John Brown; and has canonized the fellons them as saints of martirdom.

It has burnt the towns and poisoned the cattle, and formed the midnight conspiracy for the depopuiation of North Texas.

It has proclaimed to the slave the horrid motto—"Alarm to the sleep, fire to the dwellings, poison to the food and water" of slaveholders.

It has published its plan for the abolition of slavery everywhere. To "rescue slaves at all hazards, form associations, to establish presses, to use the vote and ballot, to raise money and military equipments, to form and discipline armed companies, to appeal to non-slaveholders and detach them from slaveholders in slave States, to communicate with the slaves, to encourage anti-slavery emigrants to the South and West, to seize other property of slaveholders to compensate for the cost of running off their slaves, to force emancipation by all means, especially by limiting, harrassing and frowning upon slavery in every mode and form, and finally by the Executive, by Congress, by the postal service, and in every way to agitate without ceasing until the Southern States shall be abandoned to their fate, and worn down shall be compelled to surrender and emancipate their slaves. It has repudiated the decisions of the Supreme Court.

It assails us from the pulpit, the press, in the school room. It divides all sects and religions as well as parties. It denounces slaveholders as degraded by the lowest immoralities, insults them in every form, and holds them up the scorn of mankind.

It has already a majority of the States under its domination; has infected the Federal as well as the State judiciary; has a large majority of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States; will soon have, by the new census, a majority of the Senate; and before it obtains the Senate, certainly will obtain the cheif Executive power of the United States.

It has announced its purpose of total abolition in the States and everywhere as well as in Territories, and Districts, and other places ceded. And,

It has proclaimed an "irrepressible conflict" or higher law with the Federal Constitution itself!

How, then, is the election of its candidate for that Chief Executive power to be viewed by us and by all? His and his rival's sentiments are both proclaimed—they are the same—"the government cannot endure half slave and half free;" it is an "irrepressible conflict between opposing and enduring forces—the United States must and will sooner or later become a slaveholding nation, or entirely a free labor nation." These are the sentiments of the coming Black Republican triumph by such means as we have seen. What then?

1st. The election of Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency will be an open and official avowal by a popular majority of the North and of the nation that the past aggressions of the Black Republicans are right.

2d. That they are to be persisted in with great aggravation, for the future.

3d. That the slave States shall not govern themselves in respect to their own property in their own limits; but that whilst Territories are to be allowed to prohibit slavery in their limits, the States will not be permitted to protect it in peace in theirs.

4th. That the slave States and their citizens are to be coerced to submission. And such aggressions as this amounts to actual war. It is proclaimed already, and awaits only the election for the power and the means to coerce submission. The election will give it both. And it is the worse for coming in all the panoply of a mere form of right. The form is the election—and the election will be constitutional. That is to be the pore out of which the courage of resistance is to oose. The form of the election may be constitutional, but its intent and purpose is our invasion and a violent infraction of the Constitution. No matter what may be the form, the substance is aggression—the aggression is to us—vital!

If we submit to it, we are at once subjugated, and if we intend to resist it is time we were prepared for the conflict which we cannot repress, but may repel.

The election returns from Delaware indicate that the State has gone for Breckinridge by 1,500 majority.

CONNECTICUT.

Seven towns in this State give Lincoln 21,000, Breckinridge 1,237, Douglas 552, Bell 71. Lincoln's majority in the State some thousands.

LOUISIANA.

Private despatches indicate that the State has gone for Breckinridge.

KENTUCKY.

State reported for Bell by 1,500.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 6.—The following is the result here: Breckinridge 593, Bell 67. County precincts show uniform gains. The State in all probability gone for Breckinridge.

Later reports give Bell gains in the interior of the State.

TENNESSEE.

Reported as gone for Bell. Result very uncertain.

MARYLAND.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—The returns of this city are complete. The following is the result: Breckinridge 14,850, Bell 12,619, Douglas 1,562, Lincoln 1,082.

WASHINGTON REPORTS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.

Despatches received clearly indicate that Lincoln has carried Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont, Indiana, Maine, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin.

It is believed here that all the States South of Tennessee have gone for Breckinridge.

Union men here congratulate themselves on the idea that a Congressional majority opposed to Lincoln will divest him of the power to injure the South, if so disposed.

☞ The following is from a reliable source at Augusta, Georgia: A prominent Carolinian telegraphs from Columbia that South Carolina will call a Convention forthwith to dissolve her connection with the Union.

RICHMOND, November 5.—The political excitement is very high here.

Last Saturday night Ex-Governor Wise addressed an audience at Portsmouth, Va., numbering about a thousand. It is said that his speech was the greatest effort of his life. He solemnly swore he would never acquiesce in Lincoln's election. The Princes Anne county resolutions were adopted amid the wildest excitement. Ex-Governor Wise spoke for four hours.

THE PALMETTO SIDE BY SIDE WITH ALABAMA!

CHARLESTON, Nov. 6.—The United States District Judge, and James Conner, District Attorney, resigned their offices this morning in open Court. Colcock, Collector of the Port, and Jacobs, District Solicitor, have notified the President of their resignation. All the Federal officers will resign before the inauguration of Lincoln.

By Telegraph.

Later from Europe.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP

PRINCE ALBERT.

Italian Affairs More Threatening.

COTTON MARKET FIRM.

ST. JOHN'S, Nov. 5.—The steamer Prince Albert has arrived with advices from Liverpool.

The sales of cotton on Monday and Tuesday, amounted to ten thousand bales; market unchanged but firm.

ADDITIONAL BY THE ADRIATIC.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Ten Broeck's horse Umpire beat the horse Tom Bowline, at the New market races.

The recent census returns of Russia show a population of 70,000,000 inhabitants in that Empire.

The Austrian Government has made great concessions to Hungary and Transylvania.

POLITICS IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—The Black Republicans attempted to get up a demonstration, but fared badly. Their insolence was properly punished. The meeting was broken up and dispersed.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.—The Republican Wide-Awakes are making a desperate attempt to get up a demonstration in this city to-night. They are now marching through the streets in procession, and number about three hundred. They are guarded by a strong police who with difficulty restrain the exasperated populace. The spectators accompany their line of march are groaning and hissing. Our people seem determined to treat them with the contempt they deserve.

They have arrived at Front street Theatre, where they are to hold their mass meeting. Some bricks have been thrown into their ranks and it is feared that the police officers will not be able to control the feelings of the indignant and insulted citizens till the Nigerian procession and jubilee is over.

SECOND DISPATCH.

When the Wide-Awake Republicans were entering Front-street Theatre, the procession was set upon by a cowd of half grown boys and completely scattered. The frames, torches and transparencies were smashed up and carried off in triumph by the boys. After they got into the Theatre, they were greeted with a storm of hisses. The howling and groaning was really terrific. The speakers strove in vain to speak. The noise and confusion was so great that not a word they said could be heard. There was a force of one hundred and fifty policemen in the house endeavoring in vain to keep order. Up to this writing we hear of no serious injury, but Heaven knows what may be the end.

SOUTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.

COLUMBIA, November 5.—The Legislature met to day, according to proclamation of the Governor.

The Senate met and was called to order at noon. Hon. W. D. Porter was unanimously re elected President, and Gen. Wm. E. Martin Clerk.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House met at 12 o'clock. On motion of Mr. Buist, Mr. Boyleston was chosen temporary Chairman. All members present being qualified, James Simons was re elected Speaker.

The Governor's Message was read, which will be found in another column.

MORE JOHN BROWN RAIDS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Rumors are said to emanate from the same source that notified Gov. Wise of the John Brown raid, reached Gov. Letcher, of Virginia, to the effect that another affair of the kind is anticipated. Gov. Letcher has instituted a system of military patrols along the Potomac frontier, and on all the river countries. He also dispatched Col. Dimmick of the State Guards, to Washington City to purchase more arms for the use of the State military.

From the New Orleans Delta.

FRIDAY, Nov. 2, 1860.

DREADFUL CATASTROPHE!

The steamer H. R. W. Hill exploded her larboard boiler on Wednesday night, killing some 35 persons and wounding 50 or 60 more.

FIRE IN A NEW ORLEANS COTTON PRESS—IMMENSE LOSS OF COTTON—New Orleans, Oct. 29.—The Union Cotton Press, one of the largest in the city, was burned to-day. Fifteen thousand bales of cotton were consumed. The press, as well as the cotton, was fully covered by insurance.

ALSO, at the same time and place, we will sell that portion of the Personal Property belonging to said estate, which was reserved for the use of the widow and the minor children of the said decedent, consisting of Household and Kitchen FURNITURE, some Stock and other things—all the above property to be sold on a credit of TWELVE MONTHS, with interest from date. Note and two approved securities will be required to secure the purchase money, on all sums over five dollars, all sums under five dollars cash.

ABEL PHILLIPS, &
C. W. P. PHILLIPS, Adm'rs of sd Est.

Nov. 15, 1860.—td

☞ P. S.—Since a part of our papers have been printed off, we have received a letter from Hon. J. L. M. Curry, requesting us to give notice, that he will address the citizens of Calhoun County, on Tuesday the 24th inst. at Jacksonville, on the present aspect of political affairs and the duty of the South.

He will then be on his way to Washington, and as it will be the only opportunity he will have of addressing the people of this County, all persons of all parties, who feel interested are invited to attend. The Ladies are also invited, for whom suitable accommodations will be provided.

LATEST BY TELEGAAPH.

Saturday, November 11, 1860.

[Special to the Charleston Mercury.]

Resignation at Columbia.

Columbia, November 7.—Thos. J. [...]mitte, Esq., United States Commissioner for South Carolina, resigned his commission to-day, in consequence of the election of a Black Republican President and Vice President.

The News at Columbia.

Columbia, November 7.—The news of the spirited conduct of the Charleston Federal officers was received here with the greatest enthusiasm.

News at Savannah.

Savannah, November 7—1½ o'clock. A large crowd collected in front of the Morning News office has just given three hearty cheers for Judge Magrath. Intense excitement prevails, and a general determination to resist. There is a call for a public meeting for to-morrow night, signed by hundreds of our best citizens.

Destructive Fire-Williamston Springs Hotel Burned.

Columbia, November 7. p. m.—Information has reached here of a most destructive fire at Williamston, Williamsburg District, on yesterday. The fine building so well known as the Williamston Springs Hotel was burned to the ground. This building was valued at $60,000, on which there was an insurance of $36,500.

Mouldin's store, next adjoining, with its contents, was also totally destroyed. Loss $10,000. Insured for $3000.

The Central House was also consumed. Loss $10,000. No insurance.

Messrs Rechle & Richardson's store was destroyed. Loss $4000. No insurance.

The origin of this destructive fire, which has consumed nearly $1000,0 0 worth of property, is attributed to incendiarism.

Georgia Returns.

Augusta, November 7—Fifteen counties officially heard from give Bell 555 votes, Breckinridge 5267, and Douglas 4263 votes. The returns come exceedingly slow, and the result is uncertain.

The Legal Profession at Columbia.

Columbia, November 8.—There was a full meeting of the lawyers of this city to-day, at which it was determined to return forthwith all Northern claims sent here for collection.

The Feeling at Columbia.

Columbia, November 8—Midnight. The feeling here is calm. Every body looks to the Legislature as certain to fix the time of Convention at an early day.

Excitement at Columbus, Ga.

Columbus Ge., November 8—Noon. A salute of one hundred guns is now firing, in honor of the resignation of the Federal officers of South Carolina, and in honor of Gov. Gist's Message to the Legislature, recommending the secession of South Carolina.

Savannah, November 8.—The State Rights banner was raised this afternoon, in Johnson's Square. An immense crowd was present, and it was hailed with long and loud cheering and speech-[making].

Lincoln's Principles.

Washington, November 8—10 p. m. Reliable advices have been received here that several conservative persons called on Lincoln yesterday, at Springfield, and asked him what he intended to do. Lincoln's reply was that he would adhere to his principles as laid down in his speeches with Douglas, at the same time presenting the gentlemen with a copy of said speeches.

Resignation at Washington.

Washington, November 8.—10 p. m. Secretaries Cobb and Thompson have not resigned as reported, nor is their resignation contemplated at present.

The Constitution of to day has a strong Union article.

From Tennessee.

The following despatch from Tennessee was received at a late hour last night, addressed to our editor and proprietor, Col. R. B. Rhett, jr. We immediately forwarded it to him for a reply. The despatch is from a prominent gentleman:

Knoxville, November 8.—Will South Carolina accept volunteer companies from Tennessee. Reply instantly.

Maryland All Right.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Private advices say that Maryland will link her destiny with her Southern sister States.

Georgia.

Augusta, Nov. 8—11 p. m.—The elections returns come in very slow. The impression is, viewing returns comparatively, that Breckinridge will have a small majority over Bell and Douglas.

Election Returns.

Washington, November 8—Scattering returns from Mississippi give Breckinridge a majority.

Very limited returns from Missouri indicate that the State has gone for Douglas.

It is believed that all the States south of Tennessee have gone for Breckinridge.

The Bell and Douglas men concede Kentucky gives Bell 1500 majority.

Returns so far received indicate that Bell has carried Tennessee.

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, November 8.—The plurality vote for Breckinridge in this State is 8000.

MISSISSIPPI.

VICKSBURG, November 8.—The returns so far received indicate Breckinridge gains.

The Astor House on Fire.

New York, November 8.—The Astor House is now on fire, and its destruction is imminent.

The Senate and the Convention Bill.

Columbia, November 9.—The Senate to-day passed the Convention Bill. The election for Delegates to be held on Tuesday after the first Monday in January (January 8); the Convention to meet on the following Monday (January 14). The bill was carried by a vote of 44 ayes, Gen. Sam'l McAliley, of Chester, casting the only vote in the negative.

Cheering News from Georgia.

Savannah, November 9.—Advices from Milledgeville state that the Governor's Special Message was received yesterday amidst thundering applause. Everybody endorses it. The Legislature of this State endorses the course of South Carolina. The blue cockades are worn in numbers about the streets of Milledgeville.

Senator Toombs sent in his resignation as Senator. He is in favor of immediate secession, and action with South Carolina.

Georgia, from the mountains to the seaboard, is determined to resist Lincoln's election.

Returns from Georgia.

Augusta, November 9.—We have official returns from seventy-nine counties of this State, which give Breckinridge 35,-000, Bell 34,000, Douglas 10,000. The fractions of thousands over these round numbers are small. Sixteen counties are yet to be heard from.

Special to the Advertiser.

THE PEOPLE MOVING FOR SECESSION.

Selma Nov. 9, 1860.

Advertiser: West Alabama is moving en masse for Secession. There was a glorious meeting of the Minute Men here to-night. Dr. Reese, (Bell), was Chairman of the meeting.

Gov. Moore arrived here this evening en route for the Capitol; he made a strong resistance speech, said he saw no security except in secession—had no option about calling a Convention, but if he had would do it anyhow. John T. Morgan made a fine address favoring Secession; John C. Reid, (Bell), of Perry, also spoke eloquently for resistence. Large numbers of all parties enrolled their names as Minute Men, among whom were several veterans of the Opposition. Williams, of the Reporter, joined and said henceforth his corner of the Reporter office was with the South. This secures the co-operation of that most influential Bell paper. The Union movement here is a flat failure. Assiduous efforts for two days have proved unavailable! The State will go by an unprecedented majority for Secession straight. Breckinridge men are a unit. Two-thirds of the Bell and Douglas men are for it. The whole South is ripe for a slave Republic. Bold, wise and resolute action of the leaders is all that is required. The people are ready.—God speed and direct the good work of Southern unity and redemption!

Gov. Moore and others will be up on the King, at 5 P. M. to-morrow.

"The Begining of the End."

A telegraphic dispatch has been received in this city from New York, stating that the fusionists (anti-Black Republicans) had torn down the N. Y. Tribune buildings, and the Republicans had burned down the Astor House because Wm. B. Astor subscribed largely against them. After this, they went to the Custom House to secure the government funds, when it was ascertained that Secretary Cobb had removed the funds from all the Northern cities to Charleston, S. C. There are other rumors afloat of the disposition to be made of the forts at Charleston, in the event that South Carolina secedes, but they have not sufficient authenticity to be relied on.

THE school exercises will be again resumed in the above Academy on Monday, the 26 inst., and continue for 42 weeks; under the immediate control and management of JOHN A. FLEMING, Principal.

In thus attempting to solicit public patronage for our school, we deem it not amiss to say that the Principal has the advantages, derived from several years practical experience in the profession, during which time he has devoted his undivided time and attention to the subject, in order to fit and prepare himself for the proper discharge of all the duties of a Teacher. It will be his purpose at all times to see that the course of instruction is thorough and correct—never suffering his students to pass over their studies, unless they do so understandingly. His object in teaching is to instruct in such a manner as to elicit thought, train the mind and strengthen the memory; to impart ideas and principles, and learn his pupils to think instead of learning by rote, and never getting the idea intended to be conveyed by the text.

Miss ANNA TEAGUE will take charge of the Female Department of the school, though under the general supervision of the principal

JOEL H. FARMER,

MANUFACTURER AND DEALER IN

TIN, COPPER & SHEET IRON WARE,

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

WILL continue the above named business at the old stand, on the south side of the public square, next door to J. B. & G. H. Forney's Store, where he has now on hand, and will continue to keep, a large lot of the various articles in his line of business. He is prepared to furnish, upon favorable terms,

COPPER STILLS,

Of superior quality, to those who may wish to distil their fruit or grain.

He would also call the attention of Housekeepers to his assortment of

TROY & PHILADELPHIA

COOKING STOVES,

Of the latest, best, and most approved patterns, combining utility and economy in an eminent degree; and which he is prepared to sell upon better terms than they can be bought in any other market and transported here.

In addition to his great variety of articles in the Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron line, he has usually many articles of House Furnishing Goods.

☞ Tin Roofing & Guttering executed to order.

He solicits a call from those in need of articles in his line, and the patronage of the public generally. June 14, 1860.

TAILORING.

Hopes all his friends will call and leave their measures for entire suits.

A liberal discount will be allowed for CASH JOBS. Cutting will be done for cash. Jan. 1860.

RICHARDSON'S

IRISH LINENS,

DAMASKS, DIAPERS, &C.

CONSUMERS of RICHARDSON'S LINENS, and those desirous of obtaining the GENUINE GOODS, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm,

J. N. RICHARDSON, SONS & OWDEN,

as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared, season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

AND THE BEST OF
COTTAGE BEDSTEADS!

Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of dwelling and blacking bedsteads now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered.

My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs, so troublesome in this region.

All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and burials attended promptly—prices as low as those of any Cabinet maker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not setting my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at another trade.

D. MOFFAT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON.

An aperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital energy pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermitent Fevers, Pimples on the Face &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description or written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods, have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female sufferers emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In DYSPEPSIA, innumerable as are its causes, a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendant Costiveness.

In unchecked DIARRHOEA, even when advanced to DYSENTERY, confirmed, emaciating and apparently malignant the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Iodine without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this REMEDY AND RESTORATIVE in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swelling and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefulness.

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite complete digestion rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills, price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of the price. All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to

PHILADELPHIA.

A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

TO all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhea, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Onanism, or Self abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

Medical Advice Gratis

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age, and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual Diseases, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labors of their Surgeons in the cure of Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness, Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism, or Self-Abuse, Diseases of the Kidney and Bladder, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

VALUABLE REPORTS on Spermatorrhoea, and other Diseases of the Sexual Organs, on the NEW REMEDIES employed in the Dispensary, sent to the afflicted in sealed letter envelopes, free of charge. Two or three Stamps for postage will be accepted.

VALUABLE LAND
FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale his two tracts of Land containing FOURTEEN HUNDRED ACRES, eight hundred of which is comprised in the tract upon which he now resides, situated in Chocoloceo Valley, four miles south of White Plains, in Calhoun county, Ala.

Near five hundred acres are cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation—two hundred acres excellent bottom land, nearly all of which is cleared.

The place is well improved, having a large two story Frame Dwelling House, six rooms besides dining room and kitchen; all good out houses, Cotton Gin, and Screw, together with a large, young Orchard. All the upland of good quality—fine for cotton and grain and all the uncleared land is well timbered. Every field in the tract is well provided with water.

ALSO—Six hundred and eighty acres, known as the James A. Williams tract, situated eight miles from White Plains, on the Wedowee road, which is also well improved, having a large two story framed dwelling house, brick kitchen, and dining room; smoke house and negro houses regularly and conveniently arranged—Cotton Gin, a Grist Mill, and a good site for a Saw Mill. About 400 acres cleared, lying level, and the greater portion first class bottom land; and the up and excellent. The entire tract is unusually well watered in every part—there is also on the place a good young orchard.

All the above described land will be sold on reasonable and accommodating terms.

Land buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves, and if they wish further information before doing so, they can obtain it by addressing a letter to me, at either White Plains or Corn Grove.

Howard Association.
PHILADELPHIA.
A benevolent Institution, established by special endowment for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

To all persons afflicted with Sexual Diseases, such as Spermatorrhea, Seminal weakness, Impotence, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism, or Self-abuse, &c., &c.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

to all persons thus afflicted, who apply by letter, with a description of their condition, age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty and suffering, to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE. It is needless to add that the Association commands the highest Medical skill of the age and will furnish the most approved modern treatment.

The Directors of the Association in their Annual Report upon the treatment of Sexual diseases, express the highest satisfaction with the success which has attended the labor of their Surgeons in the cure of Spermatorrhoea, Seminal Weakness, Gonorrhœ, Gleet, Syphilis, the vice of Onanism, or Self-Abuse, Diseases of the Kidney and Bladder, &c., and order a continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.

VALUABLE REPORTS on Spermatorrhœa, and other Diseases of the Sexual Organs, on the NEW REMEDIES employed in the Dispensary, sent to the afflicted in sealed letter envelopes, free of charge. Two or three Stamps for postage will be accepted.

Address, Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON, Acting Surgeon Howard Association, No. 2 South NINTH Street, Philidelphia, Pa. By order of the Directors.

YOUNG LADIES' BORDING AND DAY SCHOOL.
This school, prevented hitherto from going into effective operation, will open on Monday, July 30th; and will be for the present, under the Tuition and discipline of MRS. F. P. PARSONS, well known for several years as the Principal of the Jacksonville Female Academy; and as a most thorough, successful & popular Teacher.
Any pledges heretofore made by the subscriber, to make the Institution worthy of the patronage of those wishing a thorough, complete, & accomplished education for their daughters, will be fully redeemed as patronage justifies.
Able and efficient Assistants will be provided as required by increased numbers.
The old Presbyterian church has been purchased by the subscriber for this school. The Presbyterian congregation will, however, continue to occupy it for their purposes, till their new house of worship is completed.
The School will therefore open in the church, which is a large and very pleasant room: well ventilated, well lighted, commodious and easy of access from all parts of town.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, } Calhoun County. }
Court of Probate for said County, Special Term, October, 20th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came Margaret Bedwell Administratrix of the Estate of L. Bedwell dec'd and filed her petition in writing, representing that her intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, besides other lands, lying and being situated in the Counties of Calhoun & Randolph, to-wit: the North half of southeast fourth of section 9, township sixteen range 10, East in the Coosa Land district, lying in Calhoun County; also the southwest fourth of southwest fourth of section fifteen, township 19, range 9, East in the Coosa land district, said administratrix furthea states that the following named persons are the only heirs and distributees of said estate, to-wit: Margaret Bedwell, the widow and petitioner, Alvira J. Mohon, late Alvira J. Bedwell, & now the wife of Jesse Mohon, Amanda Bedwell, Ann E. T. Bedwell, Inda. Bedwell, Polk D. Bedwell, and Ann Bedwell, the last five are minors, the others are of full age, and all reside in said county of Calhoun.—Also John P. Bedwell of full age and resides in Jackson Parish in the State of Louisiana, and said Adm'x asks that an order and decree of said court be made, authorizing the sale of the above described lands, for the purpose of paying the debts of said estate.

It is therefore ordered by the court that the 26th day of November, 1860, be set for the hearing and determining upon the said petition, and it being shown to the satisfaction of the court, that John P. Bedwell, is a non resident residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama.

It is therefore further ordered by the court, that notice as to said non resident heir of the filing of said petition, and of the day set for the hearing of the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Rapublican a newspaper printed and published in said county for thirty days previous to said 26th day of November, 1860, notifying said non resident heir to be and appear at a special Term of said court, to be holden at the Court house of said county, on said 26th day of November, 1860, and defend against said petition if he thinks proper.

Witness: A. Woods, Judge of said court, at office on this 20th day of Oct. 1860. A. WOODS, Judge

POETRY.

RUINS.

Over sea and over desert,
Wand'ring many a weary mile,
By the lordly banks of Ganges—
By the softly flowing Nile:
Travelers wander, seeking ever
Ruins which many tales unfold,
Of the rude, barbaric splendor
Of the mystic days of old.

And they which with straining vision—
Watch as pilgrims at a shrine—
For a glimpse of those half-hidden
Castled crags along the Rhine,
O'er all ancient lands they wander
Ever with a new delight,
Seeking ruins which are sacred
To their wonder loveing sight.

But they know not that around them,
Close at home, are ruins spread,
Strange as those that glimpses give them
Of the ages that are dead.
Crumbling fane and falling turret,
Ruined mosque or minaret,
Teaches not the solemn lesson,
Which we learn but to forget.

Everywhere around are scattered
Ruined lives and broken hearts,
Wrecks of manhood far more shattered
Than these fragments of lost arts.
And we need not go to seek them
Far from our own native land,
For, unnoted and forsaken,
Near us many ruins stand.

But when eyes and hearts are heavy
Gazing on them comes the thought,
That, though corniced aisle and column,
Soon shall crumble into nought,
Still these darkened human ruins,
All rebuilt, shall one day stand,
Beauteous fanes and noble structures,
Within God's most glorious land.

From Once a Week.
A SCORE OF YEARS AGO.

Down by the breaking waves we stood,
Upon the rocky shore;
The brave waves whisper'd courage,
And bid with friendly roar
The falt'ring words that told the tale
I dared not tell before.

I ask'd, if with the priceless gift,
Her love, my life she'd bless.
Was it her voice, or some fair wave—
For sooth, I scarce may guess—
Some murmuring wave, or her sweet voice,
That lisped so sweetly "Yes."

And then, in happy silence, too,
I clasped her fair wee hand;
And long we stood there, carelessly,
While o'er the darkening land
The sun set, and the fishing boats
Were sailing from the strand.

It seems not many days ago—
Like yesterday—no more,
Since thus we stood, my love and I,
Upon the rocky shore;
But I was four-and-twenty then,
And now I'm forty-four.

The lily hand is thinner now,
And in her sunny hair
I see some silvery lines, and on
Her brow some lines of care;
But, wrinkled brow, or silver locks,
She's not one whit less fair.

The fishing-boats a score of years
Go sailing from the strand;
The crimson sun a score of years
Sets o'er the darkening land;
And here to night upon the cliff
We're standing hand-in-hand.

"My darling, there's our eldest girl,
Down on the rocks below;
What's Stanley doing by her side?"
My wife says, "You should know:
He's telling her what you told me
A score of years ago." W. L. W.

Shadows on the Wall.

Beside the hearth there is an hour of dreaming,
A calm and pensive solitude of soul,
When life & death have each another seeming
And thoughts are with us owning no control,
These are the spirits, Memory's revealing;
In deep solemnity they rise and fall,
Shrouding the living present, and concealing
The world around us—Shadows on the Wall

Hopes, like the leaves and blossoms, rudely shaken
By cruel winds of winter from the tree
Of our existence; phantoms that awaken
Wild passing gleams of Joy's young ecstacy;
And Love, once kind and tenderly outpouring
Her wine into our souls, we may recall.
And find them dear and ever heave ward soaring
Though only now as Shadows on the Wall.

Old clasping hands, old friendships and affections.
Once bodied forms, beside us on the earth,
Come back to haunt us ghostly recollections
With mystic converse by the silent hearth.
Yet these are kindly spirits, and retiring
Draw their long shadows slowly from the wall,
And visit us in peace and gentleness, inspiring
A hope that brings the sunshine after all

Wit & Sentiment.

☞"You are from the country, are you not, sir?" said a dandy young bookseller to a homely dressed Quaker, who had given him some trouble. "Yea." "Well, here's an Essay on the Rearing of Calves." "That," said Aminidab, as he turned to leave the shop "thee had better present to thy mother."

☞Thomas Hood died composing—and that too an humorous poem. He is said to have remarked that he was dying out of charity to the undertaker, who wished to urn a lively Hood.

☞A man who don't believe the world is growing better says the time may come when the lion and the lamb may lay down together; but if it does, the lamb will be inside of the lion.

"My German friend, how long have you been married?" "Vell, dis am a ting I seldom don't like to talks about; but ven I dus, it seems to me about so long as it never vas"

A Carolina toast: "Woman—To her virtues we give our love; to her beauty our admiration; and to her hoops we give—way."

☞A faster man undertook the task of teasing an eccentric preacher:
"Do you believe the story of the fatted calf?"
"Yes," said the preacher.
"Well, then, was it a male or female calf that was killed?"
"A female," replied the divine.
"How do you know that?"
"Because, (looking the interrogator in the face,) I see that the male is still alive."

A Frenchman, intending to compliment a young lady by calling her a gentle lamb, said "She is one mutton as is small."

If the mind be properly directed, the hand will work no evil.

A lady wished a seat. A portly gentleman brought one and seated the lady.

"Oh! you're a jewel," said she.

"Oh! no," he replied, "I'm a jeweler; I have just set the jewel."

CHOATE'S COOLNESS.—At the time of Mr. Choate's great speech for Buchanan in Lowell, Mass: there was a sudden settling of the hall where they were. A Lowell gentleman, (Hon. Benjamin F. Butler.) well known as a lawyer and politician, volunteered to go and examine the supports underneath. He did so; and to his sorrow, he found them in such a state that if there should be the least rush of the audience they would inevitably give way, the roof and all would be involved in a common ruin. With great fortitude he was quickly back, and to prove there was no danger, walked the whole length of the crowded hall up to the platform where the speakers and Presidents were. As he passed, Mr. Choate leaned down and asked him if he found danger. The gentleman, keeping his face perfectly unmoved, so as not to frighten others, whispered into Choat's car with characteristic abruptness: "If we can't get this crowd out quietly, we shall all be in h—ll in five minutes." As might have been expected from so blunt and terrible a communication, Mr. Choate's face became ashy pale; but he controlled himself and sat perfectly steady. The gentleman mounted the stage, assured the people there was no real danger, but to guard against the mere possibility of danger, he advised them to withdraw quietly into the open air, where the speech would go on. In five minutes the hall was clear. Dreadful as had been the moment's shock to his feelings, Mr. Choate's humor did not even desert him, for as he stepped from the hall himself, he said to his friend, who had made the announcement to him: "And did you really think, my friend, just now, that I was bound for the same place with you?"

A Mighty River.

The Amazon, the largest river in the world has area of drainage nearly three times as large as that of all the rivers of Europe that empty themselves into the Atlantic. This plain is entirely covered with a dense primeval forest, through which the only paths are those made by the river, and innumerable tributaries. This forest is literally impenetrable. Hombolt remarks that two mission stations might be only a few miles apart, and yet the residents would require a day and a half to visit each other, along the windings of small streams. Even the wild animals get involved in such impenetrable masses of wood, (even the jaguar) that they live a long time in trees, a terror to the monkeys, whose dominion they have invaded. The trees often measure from eight to twelve feet in diameter, and the intervals are occupied by shrub-like plants, which here, in these tropical regions, become arborescent. It is navigable for two thousand miles from the ocean; it is nearly one hundred miles wide at its mouth, and in some places six hundred feet deep; and its torrents project, as it were, into the ocean, more than three hundred miles perceptibly altering its waters at this distance from the American shores.

A Romantic Story.

The Richmond Dispatch chronicles a remarkable story, derived from a gentleman for many years engaged in the prosecution of military claims, who obtained the particulars from a descendant of the parties that form the subject of the narative. Early in the revolutionary war a man named Lane enlisted in a company raised for three years. The company went north and joined Washington's army. Taking part in all the previous battles, Lane was severely wounded at Brandywine or Germantown, and during the battle and after, he was taken care of by a brother soldier to whom he had become greatly attached, and who belonged to the same company as himself. The term of the service having expired, these two soldiers were discharged, and returned home devoted and inseparable friends. In the meantime the tide of war rolled on the South, and they again enlisted to serve in General Lincoln's army, at the time engaged in the seige of Savannah. In that seige they did their duty bravely. At last, Lane's friend was wounded in turn, and was carried off the field in the arms of his devoted friend. While under the care of the surgeon it was discovered that his brave companion was a woman!

It appeared that she had formed a strong attachment to Lane, whom she had accidently met, but made so little impression upon him that he did not recognize her when he afterwards met her disguised as a soldier. She was in despair when Lane enlisted, and under the inspiration of affection she fled from her parents, donned the Continental uniform, and followed him to the wars. What ensued was a proper finale to such a romance. The woman recovered, and, as soon as the twain were released from captivity, they became one. They lived many years very happily together, and left several children. Both the man and his wife received pensions until their decease, for services rendered as soldiers.

AN EXAMPLE FOR SOUTHERN WOMEN.—A noble and patriotic matron of this city, a daughter of South Carolina, who retains the spirit of the stiring times of '32, is manufacturing one hundred blue cockades, which she proposes to distribute to the Minute Men of this place. If our men all had the spirit of this true hearted Southern lady, the country would be safe, not only against invasion, but against insult.—Such women as she were the mothers and wives of the patriots of the Revolution. May heaven bless the South with thousands of such noble spirits of the crisis.

FIVE MILLIONS AND A HALF IN SILVER.—The Tasmania steamer recently carried from the West India Islands to Southampton, $5,662,000 in specie, and as nearly the whole of it consisted of silver, being dollars from Mexico, its total weight exceeded 156 tons. The treasure was contained in no less than 2168 packages, and the whole of it was landed in seven hours. It was then deposited in 36 railway wagons, which formed a special train drawn by two engines. At the London station the treasure was transferred from the railway wagons to 36 street wagons and vans, which latter, drawn by upwards of 100 horses, reached the Bank of England about 10 a. m., and the entire cargo was safely deposited in the vaults of that establishment by 5 p. m., the same day.

The Bravery of two Noted Fillibusters.—A correspondent writing from Panama on the 6th inst., says:

Mora bore his fate manfully. The file of men drawn up for his execution stood with their muskets not ten feet from him, and yet the five balls in his body did not kill him. "Give another shot gentlemen," he said, "and finish me!" He refused to be blindfolded, but stood calmly facing his executioners. His body as well as that of Canas, was thrown into a hole in the sand, both with the clothes on in which they were murdered. Canas was striking fire with his steel and flint to relight his cigarito at the moment he felt the lead at his heart. He was shot at the foot of the monument erected to his honor for his many services to Costa Rica, in the Plaza at Punta Arenas.

DREADFUL CATASTROPHE!

The steamer Wm. L. Levy, Captain Pucket, hence for Alexandria, when opposite College point, was hailed by the steamer H. R. W. Hill, on Wednesday night at about 12 o'clock. The Levy ran along side and ascertained that the Hill was in distress, having exploded the third boiler from the larboard side.

The Levy returned last evening, having in tow the Hill, when she landed her at the foot of Girod street.

At the time of the explosion there was a head of steam on varying from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and twenty-five pounds to the square inch—the usual power—but owing to the fact that below Australia Landing the boat had run over a stump, knocking a hole in her hull, and no doubt thereby affecting the boilers, this explosion may be conjectured. The engineer, however told us that the boiler-head is made of cast iron, and bears the mark of an old crack on the rim where it was severed from the main boiler.

The explosion is of a curious character. The boiler head is driven out only from the upper part, and doubled over in its center, having the appearance of a circular book cover half closed. When the explosion took place this boiler head was only partly bent over, consequently the steam and water escaped upwards in great force, and broke the floor of the saloon and damaged some of the state-rooms. As the steam and water gained egress, the pressure against the boiler-head caused it to fall over as already described, and then the steam and water took a horizontal course, dashing in the greatest fury aft over the cotton bales, where some forty five persons, deck-passengers and all hands, all Irishmen, were sleeping.

From Mr Johnson, a passenger, we learn that on Wednesday night at 11½ o'clock the after head of the boiler above described blew out, passing, with its contents, (steam and water,) entirely through the engine rooms, killing the second engineer and the striker, both of whom were on watch, and also killing some thirty or forty deck hands and passengers, also, badly wounding fifty or sixty more.

None of the cabin passengers were injured except Mr. Lohman, he having his right hand slightly wounded.

The officers all escaped without injury.

The barber, G. W. Scurry, of Nashville, and Charles Hagger, of Nashville, jumped overboard and were drowned.

Mr. Glidden Marks, of New Albany, was instantly killed. Henry Foster, of Memphis, was considerably scalded, but not dangerously.

A young boy, name unknown, who had jumped overboard, succeeded in gaining the shore.

Mayor Monroe quickly, together with Lieut. Jacquess and a body of police, were in attendance on the Hill last evening, in removing the wounded to the Hospital; also rendering all aid to those whose precarious situations required immediate attention.

Nine wounded men were sent to the Charity Hospital; three to Dr. Stone's Infirmary, and two are still on board the Hill badly scalded.

It was a melancholy spectacle, to behold the whole cabin of the Hill strewn with the wounded, dead and dying, and every person on board endeavoring to do his utmost to relieve the suffering of the unfortunate.

Not a female was hurt on board.

The dead bodies make an exhibition beyond description. Each body was stripped, placed on a pallet, and laid out on the saloon deck and covered with sheets.

Some of the bodies are entirely skinned, and present a horrible sight, like highly colored Indians. Others are stripped of skin in various parts, presenting a fearful appearance.

It is said that a certain boat passed the Hill at the time of the accident, and though the agonizing yells and piercing shrieks of the dying and wounded could be heard a distance of five or six miles, and the boat alluded to was even hailed, still she refused all assistance, as will be seen by our river news report.

Last night we visited the Charity Hospital, and found that one of the sufferers had breathed his last—died in excessive agony.

A Genuine Abolitionist.—One of the new Senators elected by the Douglas party in Oregon—Mr. Baker—is a regular Exeter Hall abolitionist, and being an Englishman born, also, is quite as appropriately the representative of Exeter as of one of the United States. This is the kind of men whom squatterism offers to the South.

A more brutal ruffianly and murderous outrage than the attack on Harper's Ferry never occurred, and yet its anniversary is celebrated in a community supposed to be civilized!

Nothing but Politics.

"There won't be a darned thing this Fall but politics," said Johnathan, who was discussing business matters at the depot with a friend. "I don't meet anybody but what they're puttin' into me 'bout the little giant, the constitution and spread-eagle, the rail splitter, young Kaintuck, and a thunderin' lot of other names. Consarn it, why the bull-frogs in the pond back of our barn are all on a titter, bellowing out 'Old Abe—Old Abe;' 'Illinois—Illinois;' 'little Dug—little Dug;' 'Breckinridge—Breckinridge;' 'Jo. Lane—Jo. Lane;' 'Put-'em-through—Put-'em-through—Puts-'em-through!'"

A SUBSTITUTE FOR HOPS.—Several ladies of our acquaintance are using the life everlasting a plant which grows in great profusion in this section, as a substitute for hops in making bread, &c. Besides being more economical, the bread made from the life everlasting is lighter and of a better flavor than that in which hops are used.—Having seen the matter thoroughly tested, we know whereof we speak. Care should be taken not to pluck the plant up by the roots, as that would soon exhaust the supply.—Tuskegee Republican.

EXTRACT of a letter from a South Carolinian in New Jersey, dated November 8, 1860:

"The vote of Tuesday last, throughout this section, will serve to convince the South what they may expect by a continuance in the Union. The growth of freesoil doctrines, under administration patronage, will soon sweep away here the small band that has heretofore opposed its progress. Now is the time, therefore, for the South to act promptly and unitedly, and from the 6th November, 1860, she will date the era of her prosperity and advancement.

"Should danger threaten her, in any course she may pursue, her sons, scattered though they be throughout the country, will hear her voice and hasten to defend the soil of their affections.

"P. S.—I was in Wall street this afnoon, and people are very much excited in anticipation of the news expected from the South. Placards with 'Forts Sumter and Moultrie in the hands of the Secessionists,' &c., are stuck up at the office of the Post."

SOUTH CAROLINA IN THE YEAR EIGHTEEN HUNDRED & SIXTY (1860).—They tell us that we are weak—unable to cope with so formidable an adversary. But when—shall we be stronger? Will it be the next week, or the next year? Shall we gather strength by irresolution and inaction? Shall we acquire the means of effectual resistance, by lying supinely on our backs and hugging the delusive phantom of hope, until our enemies shall have bound us hand and foot? We are not weak if we make a proper use of those means which God hath placed in our power. Three millions of people, armed in a just cause, are invincible. The battle is not to the strong alone; it is to the vigilant, the active, the brave. Besides we have no election. There is no retreat but in submission and slavery! Our chains are forged. Their clanking may be heard on the plains of Boston! It is vain to extenuate the matter. Gentlemen may cry peace! peace! but there is no peace. Why stand we here idle? Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take, but as for me, "give me liberty, or give me death."

Thanksgiving.—By proclamation elsewhere, it will be seen that the Governor of this State, believing it to be the duty of our people, in some appropriate manner, to return thanks to the Great Ruler of the Universe for His protecting care, has appropriated and set apart Thursday, the 29th of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise. All persons are requested to abstain from their ordinary vocations on that day, and unite in giving thanks to Him who has vouchsafed to us so many blessings during the past year.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

November 22, 1860.

☞ Don't forget to come out and hear the Hon. J. L. M. Curry's speech in the Court house in this place on Tuesday next, at 11 o'clock, on the present crisis.

☞ The attention of Land buyers is particularly invited to the sale of the valuable land belonging to the Mallory Estate It has heretofore been considered one of the most valuable places in the County.

Also to the sale of valuable land by Administrators of Henry Amorine, and Jas Barge, dec'd.

☞ We omitted last week to call attention to the sale of House and Lot by Maj. P. F. Beecham. This is a valuable lot, containing 3 acres, tolerably well improved, having a never failing well of pure free stone water: also a Brick yard on one side. Those desiring such property would do w ll to examine it.

THE ELECTION.

We omit further returns from this State this week in the hope that we can give it entire in our next.

☞ A writer in the Charleston Courier, contends that Congress cannot organize if the Representatives from a single State are absent; because the Constitution expressly provides that representatives from all the States must be present. The truth of this theory will soon be tested, as Congress will meet on Monday week, and the Representatives from South Carolina will be pretty ept "not to be there."

Alabama Convention.

Gov. Moore has written a letter to a number of gentlemen of Montgomery and other Counties, in which he expresses his determination to call the Convention, immediately after the 5th day of December next, when the vote of the Electors has been cast—that the election will be ordered to take place on the 24th December, and the Convention assemble on the 7th January next. He advises the people to bring out their candidates at once.

☞ Persons interested, would do well to heed the notice of Messrs Stipes & Rowland in to-day's paper.

Secession--Southern Confederacy.

The movement in favor of secession, and a seperate Southern Confederacy, from Virginia to Texas, like a swelling tide gathering strength as it goes, seems to be sweeping everything before it. South Carolina is almost unanimous, certainly more united than before and during the revolutionary war; and we verily believe the people of that State, manifest more joy at the near prospect of independence from the federal government, than they did when peace was made, and the independence of the United States first acknowledged by the great nations of the earth. In Georgia there is far more unanimity than in the recent election, and there can be no doubt as to the course of that State. Florida has sent word to S. Carolina, that "the Land of Flowers will be side byside with the Palmetto State." It is well known how our own State is on the subject; with perhaps the exception of a portion of North Alabama, all parties have united upon secession, as the best, if not the only remedy. Papers and travellers from Mississippi, represent the people of that State of all parties, as very much united and very enthusiastic in favor of the same measure. The same may be said of Louisiana and Arkansas; and the people of Texas would move in a body if not prevented by Govenor Houston, who we learn, has refused to call the Legislature together.

While this is the state of things in the South, the Abolitionists and Black Republicans of the North are busily engaged in publishing and disseminating eulogies, and getting up ovations in honor of John Brown and the Black Republican papers, either believe or affect to believe, that there is no danger of the South withdrawing from the Union. If they wait a few short weeks they will be convinced on this subject.

Occasionally we meet with an insulting, brutish article, such as we copy to-day from the Chicago Democrat, to which the attention of the reader is particularly directed. With such people it is a great crime for a Southern State to threaten to withdraw from the Union, one that merits hanging as high as Haman; but they can laud and almost deify such treasonable murderers and midnight assassins as John Brown and others. Can a people thus far apart in moral sentiment and feeling live longer together? We think not.

But contrary to our expectation however, the right of secession is almost universally acknowledged, by all parties North and South. Even Greely Editor of the Tribune, the Black Republican organ of New York, in his paper issued since the election says:

"And now, if the Cotton States consider the value of the Union debatable, we maintain their perfect right to discuss it. Nay: we hold with Jefferson to the inalienable right of communities to alter or abolish forms of government that have become oppressive or injurious and if the Cotton States become satisfied that they can do better out of the Union than in it, we insist, on letting them go in peace. The right to secede may be a revolutionary one, but it exists nevertheless; and we do not see how one party can have a right to do what another has a right to prevent. We must ever resist the asserted right of any State to remain in the Union and nullify or defy the laws thereof: to withdraw from the Union is quite another matter. And whenever a considerable section of our Union shall deliberately resolve to go out, we shall resist all coercive measures designed to keep it in. We hope never to live in a republic whereof one section is pinned to the residue by bayonets."

War may follow a dissolution of the Union, or it may not If it does; it will be made by the North, and they will be responsible for every drop of blood shed. We have been on the defensive in peace, we will be on the defensive in war. We incline to the opinion that no war will follow secession. But it would be well enough for the boys "to keep their powder dry." It is a wise maxim to "hope for the best and prepare for the worst."

Southern Rights Meeting in Jacksonville.

On Saturday evening, 19th inst., a large and respectable meeting of the citizens of Jacksonville, was convened at the Courthouse, for the purpose of giving expression to their sentiments, as touching the issues of the present political crisis; and in order to that fraternal interchange of opinion, so becoming in a government like ours, and so essential to unity of action, when threatened by a common foe.

On motion of G. H. Forney, Col D. T Ryan was called to the Chair, and J. F Grant and R. E. Neeld appointed Secretaries.

Col. W. B. Martin rose and explained the object of the meeting, and in a speech of characteristic brilliancy—declared the right and duty of secession, from the abuses of the federal government, and the "irrepressible" necessity of southern action in the organization of a separate and independent nation. This speech was enthusiastically applauded. He then offered the following resolutions, which after being twice read and some discussion, were deliberately and unanimously adopted.

1st. Resolved, That by the repeated acts of aggression, on the rights of the slaveholding States by a dominant sectional party of the North, and by the election of Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency and Hanibal Hamlin to the Vice Presidency of the United States, sufficient cause now exists in our opinion for the slaveholding States to withdraw from the United States Government.

2nd. Resolved, That by the repeated avowals of the popular assemblies of the people—the resolves of our Conventions to nominate candidates for office, and the oft repeated resolves of our general assembly, the State of Alabama, cannot longer remain in the Union, without abandoning her cherished rights with dishonor. And that in our opinion the State should promptly act for herself and secede from the National Union.

Before the vote was taken on the resolutions, Gen. R. G. Earle came forward, and addressed the meeting in the lofty eloquence of a Patrick Henry. He said those who supposed secession would be peaceably effected would find themselves much mistaken—that he was for secession, and then if war followed, he was ready for it. He had fought through two campaigns and was ready to shoulder his musket in the third. He had hoped the terrible event of civil war might be averted; but as it was likely to come, he would not skulk into non-action—and when it did come, if alive, "old Earle would be there." [Loud cheers]

Some one else arose to speak, when Capt. D. P. Forney, evidently considerably excited, requested them to "hold on,"—that action and not speaking was necessary—Breath was cheap—there had been speaking enough. He asked the crowd, old and young to come forward and sign his muster roll—he wanted to know how many were willing to fight for their homes and firesides, if necessary.

Col. J. D. Hoke answered Mr. Forney, saying that he did not expect to go into battle unless absolutely necessary; but that was not now the question at issue. He was for secession, and if war followed, if he did not go out in an army, he would assist in ministering to the necessities of helpless women and children, and protecting them, at our own homes and firesides.

Dr. C. J. Clark, being called on, responded in a speech of some length—expressing the opinion that the picture of the dangers of war had been overdrawn by Gen. Earle, and dilating upon the bright prospects and promises that beckoned us on in the way of independence. He showed by facts and figures that we were capable of building a new Republic; and that our resources for commercial and agricultural prosperity were unbounded. He predicted there would be no war—but if it did come, he would be in his place battling for the South. He was repeatedly and loudly cheered.

Dr. J. C Francis then rose and addressed the meeting in all the calmness of age, and a settled determination not to be hasty and inconsiderate, but yet prompt in action. He insisted that every man should deliberate for himself. He was for secession, and had always advocated the equality and independence of his own section. He was not the man to backslide in a good cause. He was for Alabama going out of the Union, stay in who would. He was frequently and loudly applauded.

B. A. Brooks, Esq., being called upon, next arose, and in a clear and lucid manner, portrayed the grievances of the South, and impossibility of compromise, except in position subordinate to the North and under Black Republican rule. He thought the causes for secession were sufficient, and was in favor of that measure and immediate action. His sentiments were approved by frequent and warm applauses.

G. C. Whatley Esq., being called on, made an eloquent speech, in which he portrayed with graphic power the picture of our wrongs. He began with the Missouri compromise of 1820, his history of Northern aggression coming down with a swelling tide of oppression to 1850, and from thence to 1860. The climax had been reached, and he for one, was fearlessly for secession; and if war followed, as another act in the drama of Northern aggression—he would shoulder his musket and put his trust in the God of battles! The house shook with applause.

G. C. Ellis, Esq., was called on, but respectfully declined to make a speech on account of the lateness of the hour. He however, before he took his seat, distinctly avowed that he was for secession and immediate separate State action. His avowal was received with loud applause.

On motion of Mr. Grant, the 27th inst. was appointed as the next time of meeting, in order that the people of the County might participate. All persons of all parties were cordially invited to attend, in order that a public expression might be had of the sentiments of our people. He was for burying party differences and for mutual safety and protection, rallying around the common standard of our country.

On motion, the meeting adjourned to Tuesday 27th inst.

A Flag for Alabama.

MR. EDITOR:—Permit me to suggest as a suitable device for a flag for our State:

A Magnolia in bloom, a soldier standing beneath it, with a musket in the military position of "Order Arms."—The mottoes "Here we rest"—"Suum cuique."

The magnolia is our most magnificent forest tree, ornaments all our Gulph coast, and extends far up the rivers. It has almost by common consent come to be the emblem of Alabama.

We greatly prefer it to the cotton stalk proposed. That is common to many States, and might more properly be the badge of Union among those States.

We do not like snakes, on banners—we neither want to emulate their viciousness, or imitate their grovelling habits.—"Here we rest," is the translation, as all know, of the Indian word Ala bama. "Suum cuique." Let each man have his own. Let the laws of property be strictly observed.

Will not some good friends in Mobile, where they have painters and Magnolias, send Calhoun county a Magnolia Banner. Under it we'll promise to roll up the largest county majority in the State for immediate secession.

C.

The Union is Dissolved.

What are the bonds that bound these States into one confederacy? Free and independent, of their own free will and accord they agreed to unite their destinies in one common government.

The terms of that Union were set forth in an instrument of writing called the Constitution. They made a bargain, and agreed to a government partnership on certain terms—the stipulations of that written Constitution. Fifteen Abolition States have broken that bargain. Fifteen Abolition States have violated the terms of that compact—have broken the terms of agreement—have trampled on that Constitution.

And this has not been done alone by mobs of ruffians, and free negroes.—The obligations of that Constitution have been set at naught by a thousand political orators from Maine to Oregon—by hundreds of fanatical or hypocritical persons from Boston to Chicago—and lastly it has been deliberately done after full discussion, by the Legislative assemblies of those States.

Congress after great labor, and millions of expense in discussions, to pacify the South for being robbed of the territory, won by the blood and valor of her best citizens, passed a judicious set of laws providing for carrying out the Constitutional provision for the recovery of runaway and stolen, negroes.—It would seem that we might have been allowed this poor pittance—the right to recover our own property—a right guaranteed by the Constitution.—But no—the territory was now safe to the Abolitionists, and immediately they utterly refuse to carry out, this second compact! Could injustice, and political villainy go further?

By statutes enacted by their deliberative assemblies—spread out before the face of Heaven on their statute books—they have forbidden the rendition of fugitive slaves—and provided disgraceful penalties—fines and imprisonment, for the Southern man who attempts to recover his runaway negro.

Your negro may murder your wife—butcher your children, and let him escape into Abolitiondom, and he will be carressed and feasted and petted—while you, should you dare pursue him will be mobbed—perhaps yourself murdered.

We repeat this Union is dissolved—the compact is broken—the Constitution is a dead letter—we are at the mercy of an unprincipled majority who are our sworn enemies—leagued together for our destruction.

When our Senators and Representatives return to Washington, after Lincoln's inaguration—they go as went the representatives of some conquered province, to imperial Rome—humbly to sue for their rights—or such poor crumbs and terms as may be doled out by our lordly conquerors.

Who will return to Washington on such terms? What Alabamian will bow the knee and cringe before such despotism—that worst of all despotisms, an unprincipled and agrarian mob, led on by political Demagogues greedy for the public plunder.

What Alabamian could hold up his head at the court of Abraham Lincoln, supported on the right and the left, by Giddings and Greely, Sumner and Chase Hickman and Lovejoy, Fred Douglas, and traitor Douglas, with a back ground of runaway cuffeys and Sambos from the South, to scowl, and sneer, and taunt the representative of a subjugated and humbled province!

I had rather be a dog and bay the moon.

Cross Plains, Ala. Nov. 20, 1860.

MR. GRANT—We beg of you a small space in the Republican, to offer a few suggestions. As Gov. Moore will in a short time order an election for delegates to a State Convention—Calhoun county will have a voice, and is it not time the voters should be looking around and make a selection of true and able men. Without disparaging the claims or merits of others, we respectfully beg leave to propose the following gentlemen as suitable and eminently qualified to represent our county, viz: G. C. Whatley, Wm H Forney, J. H Wright and Col. W B. Martin. These men are personally known to the voters, and for talent, qualification and preeminent devotion to the cause of constitutional rights of the South, have no superiors Let the past be forgotten—there is no time now for recrimination—the present and the future are what we have to deal with. The fanaticism and hellish designs of the Republican party North, as lately evinced in the election of Lincoln is enough to a rouse every Southern man, be he native or one by adoption.

VIRGINIA.

Gov. Letcher has called an extra session of the Legislature for the 7th January, to take into consideration the condition of affairs, and determine calmly and wisely what action may be necessary

MONTGOMERY, November 11.—Nothing was ever seen here to equal the enthusiasm of the resistance meeting held here last night The speeches of Gov. Moore, Judge Pettus, Judge Clanton, Col. Yancey, and Messrs Goldthwaith and Rice, were received with tremendous cheering. The Bell Electors; including Mr. Dawson, of Dallas county, are unanimous for secession The resolutions adopted affirm the principle of separate State action, but express a willingness to consult with the other Southern States.

The people are a unit for secession, and Alabama will certainly dissolve her connection with the Federal Government.

NEWS FROM THE FEDERAL CAPITAL.

The secession excitement—political news and sermons in the churches—the President and Gen Cass in consultation—what the Administration intend to do

WASHINGTON November 11, p. m.—Extracts from the Message of Gov Brown, of Georgia, were read to day in many of our principal churches. Prayers were offered that Providence might aid the great movement of the Southern people in support of their constitutional rights The sermons were also mostly of a political character.

The excitement and anxiety here has grown intense since the announcement of the resignation of Senators Toombs and Chesnut. The President has come to the conclusion to make no public exposition of his views until he sends his regular annual message to Congress next month.

Mr. Buchanan and Secretary Cass held a long conference to-day at the State Department. The result of the interview has not transpired.

A Lincolnism.

The Chicago Democrat, a leading Lincoln organ, in its issue of the 8th inst. said:

The election is over and Lincoln is elected, by a larger majority of the popular vote than was anticipated, and by the electoral vote of every free State.

Thus not only has the consummation which the fire-eaters of the South have for years proclaimed as the inevitable prelude to disunion been attained, but the job has been done so effectually, completely and emphatically, as to leave no doubt that the free people of the North meant they should be understood. When eighteen millions of freemen speak as they spoke on Tuesday, they make a noise that even the most stupid secessionist cannot fail to hear.

Thus the free people of the North say to the slave oligarchy, "We will endure your insolence, suffer your tyranny, bear with your assumption, no longer! We have listened to your threats, as insulting as they were cowardly, of what you would do, if we dared to carry out our convictions of right, at the ballot box and elect a man who would not bow the knee to you, and who would place your accursed institution of slavery where the public mind would rest in the belief that it would finally become extinct.

You have sworn that if we dared to elect such a man you would dissolve the Union. We have elected him, and now we want you to try your little game of secession. Do it, if you dare! So long as you remain in the Union, peaceably and decently, you shall enjoy your constitutional rights. But every man of you who attempts to subvert this Union, which we prize so dearly, will be hung as high as Haman. We will have no fooling in the matter! "By the Eternal! the Union must be preserved!"

Such is the lecture read by the people of the North to the Southern Brethren on Tuesday. And now what will the chivalry do about it?

Will they eat dirt? Will they take back all they have said about disunion, a Southern Confederacy, the rights of the South, the blood of their enemies, and all that sort of thing? What will the Yanceys, the Rhetts, the Keitts, the Jefferson Davises, and all that noble army of traitors, do? To what dodge will Wise, the doughty champion of the Hay Stack war, resort, in order to cover his inglorious retreat? Where is the army with which he was to march on Washington and seize the federal city?

The chivalry WILL eat dirt. They will back out. They never had any spunk anyhow. The best they could do was to bully, and brag, and bluster. John Brown and his seventeen men were enough to affright the whole mighty commonwealth of Virginia out of its propriety, and to hold it as a conquered province until recaptured by the Federal troops, and to this day John Brown's ghost is more terrible than an army with banners, in the eyes of every Southern cavalier. These knights of the Sunny South are just such heroes as Sancho Panza was. They are wonderful hands at bragging and telling fantastical lies: but when it comes to action, count them out.

As if to add the last capstone to this absurdity of disunion bluster, the telegraph yesterday brought us the news that the Legislature of South Carolina on Tuesday elected her Presidential electors, and that they had concluded to postpone the arming of the State until they had ascertained that Lincoln was really elected! Poor devils! The smallest kind of a knot hole will be sufficient for them to crawl through now.

JACKSON, Miss, Nov. 13.—An immense meeting of the citizens of all parties, the largest ever assembled in Jackson, was held to night.

Resolutions unanimously passed, expressing a determination to resist Lincoln's administration, and indorsing the action of South Carolina.

The people are entirely united on these issues.

Gov. Moore and the Convention.

Our readers are aware that the last Legislature passed certain resolutions instructing Gov. Moore to call a Convention of the people together to provide for the safety of the State of Alabama, in the event of the election of a Black Republican President.—The event so dreaded by the Union loving men of the South has at length transpired. The Abolitionists have elected for President a man who glories in saying that he "hates slavery as much as any Abolitionist," and who declares that he, and not Seward, is the author of the Irrepressible Conflict between the South and Abolitionism. They have chosen for Vice President a free negro. The Governor of Alabama, after consultation with the most profound lawyers of the State, is of the opinion that he is not authorized by the wording of the act of the Legislature to issue his proclamation for the election of delegates to the Convention, until after the Electors have formally voted in the Electoral Collage on the first Wednesday in December. We are authorized to state, however, and we desire our readers to remember, that the proclamation will appear immediately after the first Wednesday in December, the election for delegates will be held in as short a time thereafter as possible, and the Convention will meet on or about the first Monday in January.

Let the people meet immediately and select candidates for delegetes to the Convention. Let the ablest and truest men be chosen, without regard to party, but with a view only to their devotion to the Southern Rights cause. South Carolina will be out of the Union. Georgia, Florida, and Mississippi will certainly follow, and it remains for Alabama to say whether she will be the last to declare that she will not live under the rule of an Abolitionist and a free negro We hope and trust that there will be not one man in our Convention who will not be in favor of immediate secession and a slaveholding Confederacy.

Montgomery Advertiser.

THE MEETING IN SAVANNAH.—(The vote was about to be taken upon the resolutions at the Savannah meeting, Friday night which we have already published)—

The Hon. Wm Law, who occupied a seat on the stand, rose, and asked permission, before the vote was called, to say a few words Judge Law said that the spectacle before him was such an one as, in his long life, he had never before witnessed. It was a convocation of the people, without distinction of party, to exercise their primary right of sovereignty In the canvass which had just closed, we had differed, as we had a right to differ in reference to the men whom we respectively preferred to administer the government under the Constitution That canvass had passed, and with it its issues and divisions; those differences are forgotten, and the people are now united in a common cause. He had been a conservative man, and had clung to the Union while it might be preserved with safety and honor, but he had always been, and still was, an ardent State Rights man. That the resolutions which had just been read declared nothing but what was right, and he gave them his cordial and most hearty support.

At this point the vast assemblage rose to their feet, with one deafening and prolonged shout of applause.

The Chairman then put the resolutions to vote, and the meeting responded with one unanimous voice of assent. After which, nine hearty cheers were given for the resolutions.

From the Southwestern Baptist.

We were ready to go to press when the following document was presented to the Baptist Convention by Rev. B MANLY D. D., and seconded by Hon. W. P. CHILTON, and unanimously passed by the Convention. It was late at night, Monday night, Nov. 12, and was the last act of the body. After the paper was read, a few remarks were made, prayer was offered, all rose from their knees and voted unanimously, members of the Convention. the congregation, women as well as men. Northern fanatics will see, ere long, whether the South will live in a Union under Black Republican rule.

The members of the Baptist State Convention of Alabama, though assembled for different purposes, find ourselves together at a moment when issues of the most grave and serious character, are brought upon the country. While possessing no authority to pledge or bind the churches or religious bodies we represent, and expressly disclaiming any wish in any form to do so,—we are constrained, as men, as citizens, as Christians, to give full place in our hearts to the love of country.

Standing aloof, for the most part, from political parties and contests, our retired and quiet position does not exclude the profound conviction, based on a long and unquestionable series of facts, that the union of States in this confederacy has failed, in important particulars, to answer the purposes for which it was created. From the administration of the Federal Government, as things are,—especially with reference to our peculiar property recognized by the constitution,—we can no longer hope for justice, protection, or safety.

We have supposed ourselves entitled to equality of rights, as citizens of this republic. We are not willing to surrender them,—even at the risk of life and all we hold most dear.

While, as yet, no particular mode of relief is before us, on which to express an opinion,—we are constrained, before separating to our sacred homes, to declare to our brethren and fellow citizens, before mankind, and before our God,—that we hold ourselves subject to the call of proper authority in defence of the sovereignty and independence of the State of Alabama, and of her right, as a sovereignty, to withdraw from this Union; and to make any arrangement which her people, in constitutional assemblies, may deem best, for securing their rights And, in this declaration, we heartily, deliberately, unanimously, and solemnly UNITE.

Special dispatch to the Charleston Courier

Matters in New York.

Meeting of the Southern Medical Students—They resolve to go home—Excitement at the North—The northern conservatives in tribulation — The Black Republican press defiant—what they think in Maryland—a financial crisis imminent.

BALTIMORE, November 11.—The Southern Medical Students in New York, held a meeting last night which was largely attended. Resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted that they should return in a body to their Southern homes immediately, and stand gallantly to their section when the first Southern State declares for secession. There were present at the meeting representatives from every Southern State Stern determination beamed in every eye, and every Southern heart swelled with patriotic devotion. The speeches were of the most animated character, and showed that Southern men will no longer brook Northern insolence and aggression.

There is intense excitement through out the North, and the Northern journals are now disposed to discuss the secession question in a more serious mood than before the election. They are beginning to think that the cry of Disunion is no longer mere bluster and empty bravado, but a solemn declaration of a people who are determined to submit to no farther invasion of their rights The conservative press, however, advocate the policy of letting the seceding States go out peaceably, unless they refuse obedience to the Federal jurisdiction, which is a virtual recognition of "State sovereignty" The Journal of Commerce (conservative,) advises patience and forbearance toward the seceding States; the Herald advocates the same policy. The violent Black Republican journals are more rampant, taunting and defiant than ever towards the South. They hoot at secession and dare the South to act.

Here in Baltimore, as well as in other portions of the State, all parties generally seem disposed to wait until Lincoln commits some overt act before pronouncing in favor of a disolution of the Union.

A financial pressure now seems evident Many of our merchants are not disposed to sell goods to customers residing in the States likely to secede without getting the cash. There is great apprehension that the political excitement will paralyze the business interests of the country.

What is Ohio Conservatism.—Governor Chase, of Ohio, is among us, soothing us coaxing us, and singing Syren songs to us of Lincoln conservatism.—Pretty well—but Posey is not FACT. What is fact in Republican Ohio? Let us see:

By the laws of Kentucky to assist a slave in escaping from his master is felony. That crime was there recently committed by one who, after its perpetration, fled to Ohio. The Executive of the former demanded from the Governor of Ohio a surrender of the transgressor under a provision in the Federal Constitution as a "fugitive from justice." This was refused on the ground that a human being was not the subject of property, and assistance in his escape could not be a crime.

At the next term of the Supreme Court of the United States, Kentucky, it is said, will present herself at its bar, and apply for a mandamus to compel Ohio to obey the mandate of the Constitution.—N. Y. Express.

WASHINGTON November 9, 1860.

The Secession of South Carolina—Action of Other Sothern States—Non-Intercourse as a First Remedy against the North—The Resignation of Federal Officers—The President's Course.

The Administration await, with some anxiety the movements of South Carolina. There is little doubt that this State will be out of the Union by Christmas, at least as far as she can be out of it by the act of her people adopted in Convention. It is supposed by some, however, that several Southern States, not yet prepared for secession, will endeavor, at a proper time, to detain her, and to defer, temporarily at least, her final withdrawal from the federal union.

It is very probable that Georgia will propose, through the Legislature, an act of non-intercourse with certain non-slaveholding States, or all of them. This, it is believed by many, would be an efficient measure for the security of Southern interests and rights from further Northern aggression, and it is advocated as a measure that ought, in deference to the judgement of a large portion of the South, be tried prior to secession or revolution. But even this measure will be revolutionary in its character, though perhaps conservative in its effect.

The President will not, it is believed, fill the vacancies which have taken place in federal offices in South Carolina before the meeting of Congress. The U S. Distict Judge, and the U. S. District Attorney, and the Collector of Revenue and the Sub Treasurer have all resigned. No one, during the present excitement, would probably accept these places. Meanwhile the operation of the federal machinery in South Carolina will be suspended.

Congress will meet on Monday, the 3d December, the day before the meeting of the South Carolina Convention, and the President may be expected to lay before that body his views in regard to the present crisis If he then nominate federal officers for South Carolina it will be deemed an offence to that State, but it would afford an opportunity for a discussion upon the subject of the crisis in secret secession.

Obituary.

DIED, at Gaylesville, at half past 10 on Tuesday morning, October 30th, Miss P. E. JOSIE BRANDON, aged 18 years and 1 month.

A TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

Whereas, It has seemed good to the Almighty Ruler of the Universe, by an afflictive dispensation, to remove from our midst Miss JOSIE BRANDON, who was a member of our school, and always so kind, so affectionate and so disinterested in performing those little offices of love that "the pure in heart" know so well how to perform, therefore be it.

Resolved, That we deeply and sincerely mourn her death as our temporal loss; and that we have undoubted evidences that this loss is her eternal spiritual gain. And be it.

Resolved, That we cannot better express our sorrow than by saying, that we all loved her! And be it.

Resolved, That out of respect to her memory, we will wear a badge for thirty days; and that a copy of these resolutions be presented to her afflicted family, and published in the Coosa River Argus and National Democrat.

Done at a regular meeting of the students of Chattooga River Institute.

In thus attempting to solicit public patronage for our school, we deem it not amiss to say that the Principal has the advantages, derived from several years practical experience in the profession, during which time he has devoted his undivided time and attention to the subject, in order to fit and prepare himself for the proper discharge of all the duties of a Teacher. It will be his purpose at all times to see that the course of instruction is thorough and correct—never suffering his students to pass over their studies, unless they do so understandingly. His object in teaching is to instruct in such a manner as to elicit thought; train the mind and strengthen the memory; to impart ideas and principles, and, learn his pupils to think instead of learning by rote, and never getting the idea intended to be conveyed by the text.

MISS ANNA TEAGUE will take charge of the Female Department of the school, though under the general supervision of the principal.

EXCITEMENT AT THE CAPITAL—THE PRESIDENT'S POSITION.

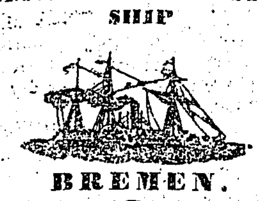

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The movements of South Carolina and Ex-Governor Wise, of Virginia, have excited great alarm here. The result of the contest in Kentucky and Nirginia is considered adverse to secession.

The Administration feels that it will have to bear the brunt of secession, which is anything but pleasant. The President seems duly impressed with the solemnity of the crisis. He will resist nullification but not secession.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMSHIP NORTH AMERICA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.

The steamship North America arrived at Quebec last night, with dates from Liverpool to 1st inst.

The sales of cotton in Liverpool for three days amounted to 65,000 bales—including Wednesday. Speculators and exporters took 36,000 bales. There has been an advance of 1-4 to 3 8.

AUGUSTA, Nov. 12.—One hundred and thirteen counties in Georgia have been heard from, and nineteen more yet to hear from Breckinridge has failed to obtain a majority.

It is reliably reported that Senator Hammond has resigned.

SECOND DISPATCH

AUGUSTA, Nov. 12.—The States of Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee have certainly gone for Bell. Virginia will require the official count to decide.

THE ACTION OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE—THE STATE WILL CERTAINLY SECEDE

COLUMBIA, Nov. 10.—By a unanimous vote to-day, the House of Representatives of the South Carlina Legislature passed on its second reading, a bill to call a Convention of the people on the State election to be held December 6th. The Convention is to meet on the 17th of December.

The State will secede from the Convention as soon as the Convention meets.

SECOND DESPATCH.

To night, the Senate has passed, unanimously, the bill for calling a Convention, as passed in the House of Representatives to day. It is now an act. The feeling is nearly unanimous in favor of bills providing for the arming of the State, and for relieving the banks from pressure, and they are now on progress.

THIRD DISPATCH

COLUMBIA, Nov. 12.—South Carolina will be certain to secede. There are no divisions. Senators Hammond and Chesnut have resigned.

MILITARY CONVENTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 12.—The State Military Convention met here this morning. The attendance of delegates is large. John. W. Anderson has been elected Chairman, and Messrs. Allen of Augusta, and Cabiness, of Forsythe, Secretaries.

A resolution favoring the secession of Georgia from the Union was passed by a large majority.

Gov. Brown was called out and he made a strong and decided resistance speech—declaring in emphatic terms the right of State secession, and the duty of all the States to sustain the right.—He said he would see to it, if federal troops endeavored to coerce any sister State, that for every Georgian who fell in the conflict, the heads of two federal soldiers should atone for the outrage on state Sovereignty. The speech was warmly applauded.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

WASHIGTON, Nov. 12.—It is privately reported here that the Declaration of Independence of South Carolina was laid before the President to-day.

GEORGIA AND SOUTH CAROLINA MONEY.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13.—The banks here refused to take South Carolina and Georgia money, unles at five per cent discount.

S. C. LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED.

COLUMBIA, S. C. Nov. 13.—The extra called session of the Legislature of South Carolina has adjourned. The business transacted to-day was not of general interest.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 13.—The House to day passed, unanimously, a bill appropriating one million dollars as a military fund to purchase arms, amunition, &c.

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 13—Breckinridge's majority will probably be not more than one thousand. Enough counties have been heard from to determine that he has carried the State.

SOUTH CAROLINA DECLARATION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Constitution of this morning publishes one of the forms of the Declaration of Independence, which will be submitted to the State Convention of South Carolina. It embodies a portion of the Declaration of American Independence with the list of grievances altered to suit the present condition of affairs. A copy of this declaration was the one to which reference was made, as having been presented to the President yesterday.

MISSISSIPPI NEWS.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 13.—Gov. Pettus has issued his proclamation convening the Mississippi Legislature on the 26th inst

PENNSYLVANIA.—The majority in Pennsylvania for Lincoln is over 50,000; the plurality over the Breckinridge ticket about 100,000.

TEXAS.—The returns give Breckinridge a strong majority. Houston received 300 votes at Galveston.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Nov. 12.—In the House this morning, Mr. Hartridge of Chatham, offered a resolution declaring that Georgia is out of the Union. Mr. Sprayberry of Catoosa introduced a bill of somewhat similar effect, and calling a State Convention of the people to ratify the action of the Legislature. They were both referred to the Appropriate Committee.

Senator Toombs has given notice that he will resign his office if Georgia does not secede.

Mr. Hill of Troup, in the Senate, and Mr. Lester of Cobb, in the House, introduced bills calling a State Convention to which all federal affairs shall be referred.

John Jones of Baldwin has been elected State Treasurer.

MARKETS.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 13.—Sales of Cotton to day 1,100 bales, at prices ranging from from 8½ to 12 cents. The market declined from ⅛ to ¼ cents.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The steamship Bremen has arrived, with Liverpool dates October 31st.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.—The sales of Cotton for two days reached 48,000 bales. The news from the United States caused an advance of 1-8@1-4d. There was a large speculative enquiry. The market closed on the 31st with a further advancing tendency.

Breadstuffs and Provisions were quiet. Flour dull, and quotations barely maintained

Manchester advices were favorable. The market was firm.

LATER.

LIVERPOOLL, November 1—(By Telegraph via Queenstown)—The sales of Cotton for the week foot up 111,000 bales. Prices have advanced a full ⅛d., and some qualities ¾d.

THE LATEST.

LIVERPOOL, October 31.—There was much speculation in the English papers about the termination of the Warsaw Conference. The London Times insists that it was owing to the impossibility of an agreement between the many antagonistic elements which compose the conference.

The Neapolitans again attacked Garibaldi, and were defeated with great loss and many prisoners.

Victor Emanuel had an interview with Garibaldi and arranged for a grand decisive battle.

Still Later from Europe.

QUEBEC, November 12.—The steamship North American, with dates from Liverpooll to November 1, arrived here last night.

The sales of Cotton for three days amounted 65,000 bales, including Wednesday, the 31st of which speculators and exporters took 36,000 bales. The market has advanced 1 4a3-8d. There is a large speculative inquiry.

Flour was dull, but closed at firm figures Other articles were steady. Provisions were quiet. Turpentine was easier at 24s. 6d.

GENERAL NEWS.

It has been confirmed that France interfered to prevent the bombardment of Gueta by the Sardinian fleet.

Lord Dundonald is dead.

France is making immense naval and military preparations for the campaign.

It is denied that Austria will send an ultimatum to Turin.

The rest of the news by this arrival is unimportant

From Mexico.

NEW ORLEANS, November 12.—We have dates from Vera Cruz to the 7th inst. The Juarez Government has granted an extention of the treaty to the Constitutionalists before Gaudalajara. The country is in a fearful condition. Marina proposes resigning.

VIRGINIA FOR BRECKINRIDGE

RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 13.—Breckinridge's majority in this State is probably not far from one thousand. Enough counties have been heard from to determine that he has carried the State.

NOBILE FOR SECESSION.

MOBILE, Nov. 13.—The people here appear to be almost unanimously in favor of secession. Several minute corps are organizing.

ARRIVAL OF THE ARIZONA.

NEW ORLEANS. Nov. 13.—The steamship Arizona has arrived with Brazos dates to the 9th inst.—Business on the Riogrande was active. The Indians were again ravaging Northern Mexico.

FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

COLUMBIA, Nov 12.—The Senate bill legalizing Bank suspensions of specie payments has passed to a second reading. The House bill for the same purpose was passed and sent to the Senate.

FROM KENTUCKY.

The Louisville brokers take Caroiina and Georgia money at five per cent discount.

Union metings are being held in Kentucky, in which all parties unite.

MOBILE FOR SECESSION,

MOBILE, Nov. 16.—Last night all parties unanimously resolved on immediate secession. A resolution was offered to await the action of other States, but was voted down, and finally withdrawn.

RICHARDSON'S
IRISH LINENS,
DAMASKS. DIAPERS. &C.

CONSUMERS of RICHARDSON'S LINENS, and those desirous of obtaining the GENUINE GOODS, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm,

J. N. RICHARDSON. SONS & OWDEN,

as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

D. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE RESTORATIVE PILLS OF IRON.

An apperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital enegy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation DysPepsia. Consumption. Diarrhoea. Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis. Salt Rheum, Mismenstruation. Whites. Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermitent Fevers, Pimples on the Face &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods have suddenly re-appeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers emaciated victims of apparent marasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of iron must necessarily be salutary, for, unlike the old oxides, it is vigorously tonic, without being exciting and overheating, and gently, regularly aperient, even in the most obstinate cases of costiveness without ever being a gastric purgative, or inflicting a disagreeable sensation.

It is this latter property, among others, which makes it so remarkably effectual and permanent a remedy for Piles, upon which it also appears to exert a distinct and specific action, by dispersing the local tendency which forms them.

In DYSPEPSIA, innumerable as are its causes a single box of these Chalybeate Pills has often sufficed for the most habitual cases, including the attendent Costiveness,

In unchecked DIARRHOEA, even when advanced to DYSENTARY, confirmed, emaciating and apparently malignant, the effects have been equally decisive and astonishing.

In the local pains loss of flesh and strength, debilitating cough, and remittent hectic, which generally indicate INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, this remedy has allayed the alarm of friends and physicians, in several very gratifying and interesting instances

In SCROFULOUS TUBERCULOSIS, this medicated iron has had far more than the good effect of the most cautiously balanced preparations of Iodine without any of their well known liabilities.

The attention of females cannot be too confidently invited to this REMEDY AND RESTORATIVE, in the cases peculiarly affecting them.

In RHEUMATISM, both chronic and inflammatory—in the latter, however, more decidedly—it has been invariably well reported, both as alleviating pain and reducing the swelling and stiffness of the joints and muscles.

In INTERMITTENT FEVERS it must necessarily be a great remedy and energetic restorative, and its progress in the new settlements of the West, will probably be one of high renown and usefullness

No remedy has ever been discovered in the whole history of medicine, which exerts such prompt, happy and fully restorative effects. Good appetite complete digestion rapid acquisition of strength, with an unusual disposition for active and cheerful exercise, immediately follow its use.

Put up in neat flat metal boxes containing 50 pills; price 50 cents per box; for sale by druggists and dealers. Will be sent free to any address on receipt of the price All letters, orders, etc., should be addressed to

VALUABLE LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned now offers for sale his two tracts of Land containing FOURTEEN HUNDRED ACRES, eight hundred of which is comprised in the tract upon which he now resides, situated in Choccolocco Valley, four miles south of White Plains, in Calhoun county, Ala.

Near five hundred acres are cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation—two hundred acres excellent bottom land, nearly all of which is cleared.

The place is well improved, having a large two story Frame Dwelling House, six rooms besides dining room and Kitchen; all good outhouses. Cotton Gin, and Screw, together with a large, young Orchard. All the upland is of good quality—fine for cotton and grain; and all the uncleared land is well timbered. Every field in the tract is well provided with water.

ALSO—Six hundred and eighty acres, known as the James A. Williams tract, situated eight miles from White Plains, on the Wedowee road, which is also well improved, having a large two story framed dwelling house, brick kitchen, and dining room; smoke house and negro houses regularly and conveniently arranged—also Cotton Gin, a Grist Mill, and a good site for a Saw Mill. About 400 acres cleared, lying level, and the greater portion first class bottom land; and the upland excellent. The entire tract is unusually well watered in every part—there is also on the place a good young orchard.

All the above described land will be sold on reasonable and accommodating terms.

Land buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves, and if they wish further information before doing so they can obtain it by addressing a letter to me, at either White Plains or Corn Grove.
