POETRY.

Father's Growing Old,

BY J. Q. A. WOOD.

Our father's growing old John!
His eyes are growing dim,
And years are on his shoulders laid,
A heavy weight for him.
And you and I are young and hale,
And each a stalwart man,
And we must make his load as light
And easy as we can.

He used to take the brunt, John!
At cradle and the plow,
And earned our porridge by the sweat
That trickled down his brow;
Yet never heard we him complain,
Whate'er his toil might be,
Nor wanted e'er a welcome seat
Upon his solid knee.

And when our boy-strength came, John!
And sturdy grew each limb,
He brought us to the yellow field
To share the toil with him;
But he went foremost in the swath,
Tossing aside the grain,
Just ki' the plow that heaves the sod,
Or ships that sheer the main.

Now we must lead the van, John!
Through weather foul and fair,
And let the old man read and doze,
And tilt his easy chair;
And he'll not mind it John, you know;
At eve to tell us o'er
Those brave old days of British times,
Our grandsires and the war.

I heard you speak of Ma'am, John!
'Tis gospel what you say.
That caring for the like of us,
Has turned her head so gray!
Yes, John, I do remember well
When neighbors called her vain,
And when her hair was long and like
A gleaming sheaf of grain.

Her lips were cherry red, John!
Her cheeks were round and fair,
And like a ripened peach they s alled
Against her wavy hair;
Her steps fell lightly as the leaf
From off the summer tree,
And all day busy at the wheel
She sang to you and me.

She had a buxom arm, John!
That wielded well the rod,
Whene'er with wilful step our feet
The path forbidden trod;
But to the heaven of her eye
We never looked in vain,
And ne'er more our yielding cry
Brought down rain like rain.

But time is long gone, John!
And we are wat'ry gray,
And little heed we, day by day,
Their fading cheek and hair,
And wear n ne'er her fruitful boast
For time is a longer star,
Heaven, Jean, we've one of shall feel
Where no mortal fear has been!

Since there can be no harm, John!
Then speaking sonly o'er
The closing hours of those, ere long
Shall welcome us as more.
Now mind it not, for we've should last
An honest tear it owes!
The heart one day will lighter be
Remembering it has flown.

Yes, father's growing old, John!
His eyes are getting dim,
And mother's treading softly down
The deep descent with him.
But you and I are young and hale,
And each a stalwart man,
And we must make their path as smooth
And level as we can!

Wit & Sentiment.

"To-morrow" is the day on which lazy folks work, and fools reform

Without content, we shall find it almost as difficult to please others as ourselves.

You are better employed in drying the tears of others than in shedding your own.

As soldiers in the march of life, we may never learn to mark time, but time never fails to mark us.

He who is the slave of his own passions is worse governed than Athens was by her thirty tyrants.

The only hate which we all bear with Christian patience, is the hate of those who envy us.

Worldly joy is a sunflower, which shuts when the gleam of prosperity is over; spiritual joy is an evergreen—an unfading plant.

If any one speak ill of thee, consider whether he hath truth on his side; and if so reform thyself, that his censures may not effect thee.

ANECDOTE OF STEPHEN GIRARD.—Old Girard had a favorite clerk, and he always said "the intended to do well by Ben Lippincott." So when Ben got to be twenty-one, he expected to hear the Governor say something of his future prospects, and perhaps lend a helping hand in starting him in the world. But the old Fox carefully avoided the subject. Ben mustered courage. "I suppose I am free, sir," said he, "and I thought I would say something to you as to my course; what do you think I had better do?" "Yes, yes, I know you are," said the old millionaire, "and my advice is that you go and learn the cooper's trade." This application of ice nearly froze Ben out, but recovering his equilibrium, he said if Mr. Girard was in earnest he would do so. "I am in earnest;" and Ben sought the best cooper in Spring Garden, became an apprentice, and in due time could make as good a barrel as the best. He announced to old Stephen that he had graduated, and was ready to set up business. The old man seemed gratified, and immediately ordered three of the best barrels he could turn out. Ben did his prettiest, and wheeled them up to the old man's counting-room. Old Girard pronounced them first rate, and demanded the price. "One dollar," said Ben. "Is now as low as I can live by." "Cheap enough—make out your bill."

The bill was made out, and old Steve settled it with a check for $20,000, which he accompanied with this little moral to the story:

"There, take that, and invest it in the best possible manner, and if you are unfortunate and lose it, you have a good trade to fall back upon, which will afford you a good living."

We should like to see all the old fellows trying that experiment. It might spoil a barrel or two, but it wouldn't spoil the boys

BITE OF A RATTLESNAKE CURED IN TWO HOURS.—The Petersburg Express publishes the following from a reliable correspondent:

A carpenter while engaged a few days ago in pulling down an old house, and removing some of the rotten timbers near the ground, was bitten by a rattlesnake. In a few moments, his finger was swollen to four times its natural size, and a red streak commenced running up his hand and wrist. A deadly langnor came upon him, and his vision grew dim, clearly indicating that the subtle poison that was coursing through his veins was rapidly approaching the citadel of life. But a remedy was tried, merely by way of experiment, which, to the suprise of all present, acted like a charm; the component parts of which were onion, tobacco and salt, of equal parts, made into a poultice and applied to the wound, and at the same time a cord was bound tightly about the wrist. In two hours afterwards he had so far recovered as to be able to resume his work. I knew an old negro who cured a boy that had been bitten by a maddog, by the same application.

TOUCHING INCIDENT.—We recently heard a remarkable and touching story of a little boy, the son of a gentleman in an adjoining county. His age is twelve or thirteen. He is an interesting, promising lad. One day during the past winter he failed to rise in the morning as early as usual. At length his father went into the room where he lay, and asked him why he did not get up? He said it seemed dark yet, and he was waiting for day-light. His father retired, but the boy did not make his appearance for some time. 'My son, why don't you get up?' He replied, 'Father, is it daylight?' 'Yes, long ago' 'Then, father,' the little fellow said 'I am blind.' And so it was His sight was gone.

In a short time his father took him to Nashville to get the benefit of the medical profession there, but none of the physicians could do any thing for him, and happily made no experiments on his eyes. Some ladies in a family of his father's acquaintance sought to cheer him in his affliction, and one night proposed to take him to the opera, that he might hear the music and singing He went and was delighted. In the course of the performances, all at once he leaped up, and threw his arms around his father's neck, and screamed with ecstacy, Oh! father, I can see! I can see!' His sight had instantly returned, and since then he has retained it in full vigor, except that under excitement there is a transient dimness of vision—The case is one of a remarkable and singular character.

Presbyterian.

A WEDDING AT A DEATH BED.—Mr R. G. Denning of Harrisburg, who was injured on the Pennsylvania Railroad last Thursday, died the same night.—The Harrisburg Telegraph says:

The deceased had for some time been betrothed to an estimable young lady of this city, Miss Grey, and both looked forward to a speedy and happy union. When it was ascertained that Mr. Denning could not possibly survive, at the mutual request of him and his betrothed, and with the consent of the parents of both, they were married, Rev. Mr. Carson performing the solemn and impressive ceremony by the bedside of the dying man. The bridegroom passed from the altar to the tomb, and the devoted bride of an hour changed her wedding garments for the habiliments of mourning.

AN UNMITIGATED BRUTE.—A man named Patrick Connell was arrested in New York, Wednesday, for beating his mother, a crime he had already served one year in the penitentiary for. The Express says:

When arranged before the Captain's desk, Connell broke away from the officer and dealt his mother a powerful blow in the face with his fist, knocking her to the floor, where she remained in a state of insensibility for nearly a quarter of an hour. While the poor woman thus lay before the graceless wretch he assailed her in the most foul and disgusting manner, calling her all the foul and disgusting names imaginable. Subsequently, when before Justice K—, Connell threatened that if his mother sent him up for this assault he would murder her when he got out again. Again addressing his mother, the wretch said 'get you a coffin made and buy a rope for me, for I will certainly kill you, if I hang for it.' As soon as the complaint was perfect the desperate young rascal was committed to the Tombs for trial.

SINGULAR INFATUATION.—Several years ago a circus company performed in Lancaster, N H. While there a bright and active lad attracted the attention of some members of the company, and they pursuaded him to join them, and become an equestrian.—The lad's parents were wealthy people, residing in Concord, the Capital of the State, and he was attending the academy in Lancaster. Like most lads, he was fascinated with the glitter and flash of the circus, and gladly joined the company in question.—Waiting until they had reached the next town, he stole away in the night, and enrolled himself in the sawdust ranks. He became, in time, a very skillful rider, and seemed pleased with his avocation, though he must have often thought of his home and friends in Concord. His parents had made every effort to find him, but without success, and they at length came to mourn him as dead. Some years ago an elder brother recognized him with the performers in a circus company at Natchez, Mississippi, and persuaded him to return to his home and parents in Concord. The boy, now almost a man, by the way, was cordially welcomed home. He re entered the academy at Lancaster, and applied himself assiduously to his studies. He made such rapid progress, that in a year's time he was fitted for college. He entered Darmouth and was making fine progress, when, most unfortunately for him, a circus company performed in Hanover one day last summer. It is inexplicable to us, but the horses, the tinsel and the music had still a charm for him—a fatal charm and he yielded to it. He threw the classics aside and re-entered the arena. It is needless to say that his conduct excited the most profound sorrow among his relatives, but they concluded that it would be useless to again endeavor to make him abandon the ring.—A few weeks since, while riding in Robinson's circus, at Knoxville, Tenn., he was thrown from his horse. His neck was broken by the fall, and he died almost instantly. He was riding what is technically called the three back act, one in which he leaps over streamers and through hoops. We get these particulars from a brother of the ill fated young man, who passed through the city yesterday on his way to Tennessee to obtain the body of the deceased. In former years the writer of this knew the young man's family very well. The young man was strictly sober, never using liquor or even tobacco. His abilities were of a superior order, and while at school he made remarkable progress in his studies. Since resuming the break-neck calling of the ring, his relatives have often received letters from him, all breathing a tone of deep affection. But he wrote that he could never be happy in any other pursuit, and must follow it as long as he lived.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

GREAT AND SAD EXCITEMENT.

Last evening about 7½ o'clock a fire broke out in the fourth story of the wholesale liquor store of Karstendieck & Co., 101 and 103 Tchoupitoulas street, between Lafayette and Girod streets. Before a few moments the flames spread with fearful rapidity and destruction, and shed a grand and awful glare over the entire upper section of the city In a short while the fire rushed through these spacious buildings back to Commerce street, and, now here a fearful occurrence, which we dare not dilate upon, took place.

We were present, standing on the lower or western corner of Commerce and Lafayette streets. A loud explosion was heared—the liquor barrels yielded to the devouring element—a frightful crash followed. An upper portion, one story, of the building of the lower store, 101, of Messrs. Karstendieck & Co., came down by the force of the explosion on the building next it, a three-story one, said to be that of Evans & Co., flour and commission merchants, on the corner of Lafayette and Tchoupitoulas streets.

By this wall falling it carried in the corner store roof and buried the outer or side wall (on Lafayette street) of Evans & Co. to the ground with electrical velocity. How we shudder to report the scene. From 150 to 200 persons were near around, and in this building of Evans & Co. some firemen, some laborers, some policemen, some merchants and others, young and old, of our citizens.

From 25 to 30 laborers, firemen and others, were engaged in removing and rolling barrels of flour and merchandise out of this store, as there was no fire within it at the time. Previous to the fall of the wall, standing on the sidewalk and in the middle of Lafayette street, were from 150 to 200 persons, and when the crash was heard, and the walls gave way, their consternation was truly deplorable to behold. Not less than 50 or 60 were buried in the ruins.

The flames raged in broad and fierce grandeur from the exploded liquor barrels, and a scene of ruins, as if by dramatic magic, so suddenly was the whole calamitous change of things, appeared amid a profound silence of the awe stricken beholders. The heat was intense, and when the scattered populace returned to the spot of disaster, one of the noblest and praiseworthy examples of bravery on the part of firemen and police, citizens, young and old, took place that ever we beheld Regardless of the scorching elements and the dangers of surrounding, tottering walls, the firemen grandly went to the rescue of the sufferers, whose groans of agony were heard from beneath the pile of bricks and rafters.

Every effort was brought to bear by firemen and policemen and citizens to relieve the sufferers, and as, one by one, each body was brought out, the silent operation thereof was loudly cheered by the lookers on. What a sight! There we beheld friends with their hands and arms steeped in the blood of the wound! There we beheld the still corpse but a moment before the agile, active, living body. Horrible, sad sight!

In time the following persons were taken from the ruins, and their condition and fate we sorrowfully relate up to the latest hour of our going to press (12 o'clock,) and we therefore are compelled to be brief

TAKEN FROM THE RUINS.

Alfred Cernu, member of Pelean Hook and Ladder Company No. 4, fatally hurt, and possibly dead ere this—reported to be so at 11½ o'clock.

Ferdinand Guerrenger, of the same company, spine broken, and also reported to be dead.

Edward Hoye, dangerously hurt in the lower part of his abdomen, and one of the sufferers we aided in taking from the ruins. He died at his residence, on Elysian Fields street, abot 10 o'clock. He was a noble young fellow, and was standing in company with some gentlemen, whom we fear have suffered his fate, just by the wall when it fell. He was employed in an auction establishment.

Alfred Delaronde a young fellow of noble nature, aged 19, brought out of the ruins a stiff corpse. His father, when he recognized his dead son at the police station, and made arrangements for the removal of the body home, presented a sad and striking picture of grief.

An unknown man a laborer brought out of the ruins dead, with his neck broken; a fine looking young fellow whose body is at the main police station.

Archy Boiye, an exempt member of fire company No. 12, taken from the ruins with his body badly burnt and suffering from internal wounds; in the Charity Hospital not expected to live.

A. Picton, son of the late Dr. Picton, and a number of Pelican No. 4, taken from the ruins badly bruised and his left leg broken.

Wm. Fitzgerald, a gallant little fellow, whose cries were heard beneath the ruins for nearly half an hour before he was extracted, was taken out sadly prostrated and badly hurt internally. He is the same gallant little fellow who aided in tripping up the burglar Montenegro.

John Kennedy, of whom we could find no definite information, taken out badly cut in the face and breast, and internally hurt.

McMahor, a watchman, badly hurt internally, but not dangerously.

Mr Wingate, of Pelican Hose Company, No 4, taken from the ruins badly hurt, but not dangerously.

Mr. Sheban, second assistant foreman of fire-engine No. 18, taken out of the ruins unhurt. This noble and gallant fellow, after being under the ruins nearly an hour, upon being extricated, remarked, "I'm all right, boys, now let me help the other poor fellows out!" and at it he went. That man is a nobleman, without crown or ermine, yet with a heart that neither could cover. May he prosper.

There were other bodies beside the above, making thirteen in all taken out; but we could not learn the names.

THE MISSING.

It would be impossible to say how many persons are missing and buried beneath the mass of ruins, and it would be unkind to the feelings of many of the reported lost ones' friends now living in our city or on pleasure tours, to give the least word that would imply death was at their doors. However, we can not refrain from mentioning that Alexander Strawbridge, of the firm of Strawbridge & co., Commercial Alley, was not found up to our going to press.

W. Clayton, of American Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2, was also missing.

T G. Barteleen, of same company, is also missing.

Mr. Hernandez, of the cigar store opposite the St. Charles Hotel, is also missing.

We are loth to mention the names of the others we have until we can speak with positiveness, one way or the other.

SLIGHTLY HURT.

The number of persons slightly hurt would fill our columns. Of those whose wounds attracted our attention we can mention Mr. Geiger, foreman of Lafayette Engine Company No 2. The character of his condition is not dangerous so far.

Mr. Clark, a medical student. His wounds may be of a serious character, but we hope not.

Several persons, names unknown, have been hurt.

THE POLICE.

Of the police and Chief McClelland, we have to speak in the highest terms. The special officers and the department proved their services in a public calamity handsomely and nobly.

Lieutenant Jacquess, in his noble endeavors, was felled by a portion of the falling wall, and escaped miraculously. In this connection we must mention Fire Warden J. Adams He behaved like a hero, and by his presence of mind saved the lives of many persons, though he got badly hurt himself.

The loss by this fire in a pecuniary sense, and this is the least consideration in our mind, at this writing will be about $150,000, of which one-third is insured.

Messrs. E J. Hart & Co lose some $30,000 worth of goods stored in one of the buildings, that of 101 Tchoupitoulas street.

P. S.—We have learned that the dead body of T. G. Barteleen has been found, and A. Cernu is dead.

A member of fire company No. 18 is being taken out of the ruins as we go to press.

We will give fuller particulars this afternoon.

Jacksonville Republican.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.
October 4, 1860.

FOR PRESIDENT,

J. C. BRECKINRIDGE,

OF KENTUCKY.

FOR VICE PRETIDENT,

GEN. JOSEPH LANE,

OF OREGON.

To Our Patrons.

We have promised money in the confident expectation of receiving it from our patrons, during the time of our ensuing Fall Court, and hope we shall not be disappointed. We have collected comparatively nothing since the hard times set in early in the Spring, while our cash expenses have been going on without abatement; which we hope will be a sufficient apology for making this request.

Public Speaking.—The Speakers commenced very late in our place, but bid fair to make up for lost time since they have commenced.

Ex-Governor Winston fulfilled his appointment at this place on Friday last. We were absent on business in Talladega County and did not hear him; but learn that he made a speech, more in the character of a telling one for himself in the future, than for the hopeless cause of Douglas He was replied to by Mr. Cobb, one of the Democratic Electors, very much to the satisfaction of the audience

Judge Mudd having failed to arrive to open Court, Col. B. T. Pope of Ashville, addressed the people in the Court house, for perhaps an hour and twenty minutes, in favor of Douglas and his squatter sovereignty doctrines. We did not hear his entire speech; but the part we did hear was devoted to an effort to prove that the seceders in the Charleston Convention were responsible for the disruption of the Democratic party—and, that the Breckinridge party was a disunion party; but strange to say he acknowledged at the same time that he believed both Breckinridge and Lane to be as good Union men as himself or any one else. He dilated upon the dangers and horrors of disunion, and deprecated a sectional party in the South.

We confess that it requires a stretch of charity on our part, patiently to listen to the charge from a Douglas orator, that the seceders disrupted the Democratic party, while they carefully keep out of view the fact, that the Douglas faction obstinately refused to adopt the majority platform, which was acceptable to the entire South, where alone the democratic party had any available strength. The truth is their own blind devotion to Douglas, at the sacrifice of principle, disrupted the party, and continues the alienation. Such orators can abuse their own people in the South for entertaining sectional feelings and forming a sectional party, in self defence, while they have not a word to say against the sectional Black Republicans of the North, who trample upon the Constitution, and are making constant aggressions upon the rights and interests, lives and property of Southern citizens. All their guns are directed against Breckinridge, the true Southern Rights Democratic candidate. They have no ammunition to waste upon Black Republicans & freesoilers. They seem to have no other idea of maintaining rights but by submission to wrong; and pay a poor compliment to either the intelligence patriotism or bravery of the Southern people, by appealing to their fears of disunion, which is invited by submission, and can only be averted by united and manly resistence. This disunion cry however, is a mere hobby with these Douglas and Bell men. They know there is no danger except in the election of Lincoln; and if they feared it half as much as they pretend, they would unite on Breckinridge, the only candidate that stands any possible chance to beat him, instead of doing all they can to defeat him

He was replied to by Mr. Whatley, who reiterated the arguments heretofore referred to in our paper, and introduced others; and also showed the utter unsoundness and anti-Southern votes and principles of Bell and Douglas. He was loudly and repeatedly cheered during the delivery of his speech.

Gen. Earl also made a speech after dinner, in favor of Breckinridge and Lane, but we heard only a small part of the conclusion.

☞Persons who may wish to guard against the dangers of Lightning, are referred to the advertisement of Mr. J. W. Porter, of Montgomery, who has the disposal of the Copper Cable Rods, without Joints.

These Rods have received the endorsement of the highest scientific authority, and have almost entirely superceded all others. The cost too is comparatively small. Orders left at this Office will be promptly attended to.

"The True Flag."—We noticed some weeks ago, the establisment of this new Breckinridge paper at Rome, Ga. by Mason & Hood, Editors and Proprietors. We have since received several of the first numbers, which fully come up to the high expectation we had formed. It takes the front rank in the political battle, and bears indeed the True Flag aloft, nobly and bravely. It is doing good service, in a place where it is much needed, and we hope will be liberally patronized. Will not our friends in this section send on lists of advance subscribers?

Breckinridge's Prospects.

In answer to the many enquiries made of us, as to the progress and prospects of the political battle, we can say to our friends in all candor, after calmly receiving the field, and obtaining information from 40 or 50 papers, in the South west, that Breckinridge & Lane have been rapidly gaining ground for some weeks past. This is especially true in the States of Louisiana Tennessee, Georgia, Virginia and North Carolina, the only Southern States of which there was any doubt.

Notwithstanding the friends of Breckinridge and Lane have had to contend with the united cohorts of Black Republicans in the North, and the friends of Bell and Douglas in the South—notwithstanding the mode of electioneering against Breckinridge, especially by the Douglas faction, has been foul, unfair, illegitimate and dishonorable; such as trying to prove him both a disunionist and emancipationist—misrepresenting and garbling his letters & speeches—affirming that he had declined &c., he has steadily advanced every day, and grown stronger and stronger, and is now almost morally certain of every Southern State.

As for Douglas, he has declined more rapidly than Bell. His doctrines became more and more unpopular as they were better understood. He drove the last nail in his political coffin in his Norfolk speech, in which he volunteered his services to Lincoln, to whip the South into submission. Even those who might think his position correct, could but be disgusted at his malevolence, and regard his threat as a gratuitous insult to the South. Douglas may now be considered as utterly out of the question.

Let the friends of Breckinridge and Lane then press steadily and confidently forward, nothing daunted by the array against them, remembering that it is a great honor to carry the only true flag, & that the greater the odds against them, the more glorious will be their victory.

Our Circuit Court is now is session. Judge Mudd, who was expected to hold Court, having been detained on account of sickness in his family, wrote to Judge Martin, who arrived on Wednesday morning and opened Court.

☞Persons who may wish to purchase a great bargain in steam machinery would do well to embrace the opportunity offered by advertisement in another column. Information of terms, &c. will be given on application at this office.

Great Mass Meetings.

Sentenced to be Hung.

In our last issue, we noted the fact, that the slave SAM, the property of Reese Howell, was on trial for leading in the late insurrectionary plot. The jury was out but a few minutes, when they unanimously agreed on a virdict of "guilty." In accordance with that verdict, he was arraigned before Judge Thornton on the following morning, when the sentence of death was pronounced on him, in the presence of a crowded Court-room. The execution is to take place (by hanging) on Friday, the 5th day of October, prox. The sentence was preceded by an appropriate and touching lecture, in which Judge Thornton evinced the spirit of the true christian, while performing the stern duties of the jurist. We give the remarks made on the occasion by the Judge, to our readers;

Sam, stand upon your feet.

You have been charged with consulting and conspiring to rebel and with being connected with an insurrectionary plot against the white inhabitants of the State of Alabama, for which you have been arraigned, and tried by a jury of twenty-four men, sworn well and truly to try you according to law and the evidence against you, under the charge of the Court, giving you the benefit of all doubts as to the testimony aforesaid.

The testimony against you was from those of your own color, who were charged and sworn by the Court to speak the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, under the solemn responsibilities of their oaths, the punishment that the law should inflict if they swore falsely, and the more awful punishment that awaited them in the world to come to all of which you have listened.

The charge against you is one of the most hideous character; that of consulting and conspiring an insurrection for the murder of innocent persons, helpless women and children.—To this, you have asserted your innocence, and plead not guilty. Whether innocent or guilty, this court nor jury does not know, except so far as the testimony against you farther than this, you, and God before whom you must shortly appear, only know. But the jury acting under their solemn oaths upon the evidence given have returned their verdict that you are guilty of the charge. So far as I could do exert, you have had a fair and impartial trial, and it now becomes my painful and solemn duty to pronounce upon you, the sentence of the law. But before doing this, let me exhort you as one having an immortal soul soon to pass into eternity, prepare to meet your God; you have but a short time to live, though short, yet by an humble confession, and true repentance for all your sins, and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, you may be forgiven, and prepared for the solemn hour; do not despair of mercy, but for the few days you have to live, be earnestly engaged in prayer to God, that he may have mercy on your soul.—As before stated, confess your sins, for no one persisting in untruth, can or should expect forgiveness.

If you desire it, you will no doubt have the advice and prayers of christians,—no one desires your eternal punishment.

I will pronounce the sentence

It is ordered by this Court, that you be taken from here to the jail there safely kept, until Friday, the 5th day of October next, from thence be taken to a gallows prepared, and between the hours of 11 o'clock, A. M., and 1 o'clock, P. M., there to be hung by the neck until you are dead. And may God have mercy on your soul.

Two others were afterwards sentensed to be hung on the same day.

CHIEF JUSTICE TANEY DENOUNCES SQUATTER SOVEREIGNTY.—The Philadelphia Pennsylvanian states upon undoubted authority, that this venerable and distinguished Chief Justice of the Supreme Bench of the United States; who pronounced the opinion in the Dred Scott case, denounces Douglas' squatter sovereignty as the worst heresy. The Chief Justice will support Breckinridge & Lane.

GREAT LAND SALE.

☞ The attention of land buyers is specially invited to the Administrators sale of three large and valuable Coosa River Plantations, by Messrs. Thornton and Kyle, Adms.

This is certainly a rare opportunity to purchase some of the best land on Coosa River; and as the credit is one two and three years, a part, if not all is in the reach of men of ordinary means. All these lands are still increasing in value; and a large portion of the place opposite Gadsden, may probably be needed in a few years for Town lots, and then clay up preciate immensely in value.

For particulars of quality, health of location, quality of soil, improvements &c. please read advertisement.

THE LADY ELGIN DISASTER.—The Milwaukee papers contain some interesting facts relative to the recent loss of the steamer Lady Elgin on Lake Michigan. The Democrat says:

The train from Chicago last night brought home eleven of the dead of the wreck, including T. H. Eviston, Chief Engineer of the Milwaukee Fire Department. On the arrival of the train, about 1 A. M., it was met at the Depot by the Milwaukee Fire Department, with torches, and a large number of citizens. The body of Mr Eviston was taken in charge by the Department, and conveyed in solemn procession, with blazing torches and the tolling of the city bells, to the residence of his father, on Main street. A deeply solemn tone seemed to pervade the countenance of every one who united in this procession, and the glaring torches, the monotonous music, and the doleful sound of the tolling bells as it floated away on the midnight air, altogether made up a scene of indescribable, I might say heart-rending, solemnity.

The outer signs of mourning are visible in almost every portion of our city. All the public buildings, including engine houses, newspaper offices, hotels, headquarters of the various political associations, &c., are draped in black. In Market, Main Michigan, Wisconsin, Huron, Mason, and the streets in that vicinity, almost every building presents the same sombre appearance. The grief is deep and universal.

We have heard of a case where a lady, whose husband was on board and among the lost, dreamed, about the time of the accident, that an express came to her informing her of the death of her husband, which, however, she refused to believe.

We have heard of still another case, where a mother, when leaving, requested a friend in whose charge she left her children, to give them in charge of the Sisters of Mercy in case she should never return. This request was made playfully, as if she attached no particular importance to it; at the same time she would not leave until she exacted a solemn promise to that effect

The drummer boy of the Milwaukie Light Guards was saved by means of his drum. He had presence of mind enough to whittle a plug and close the air vent, then lashing the drum to his shoulder he trusted himself to the waves. The drum supported him, and also four others who seized hold on it; but the sea, one after another, dropped off. The drum carried the boy nearly ashore, when by some means one of the heads burst in and it filled with water. The boy abandoned it, and seizing a fragment of the wreck succeeded in reaching the shore. The drum afterwards came ashore and was returned to the boy whose life it had saved.

SINGULAR PRESENTIMENT.—We are told that Beck, Chief of Police, on the morning of the late calamity, about the hour it is supposed to have occurred, suddenly awoke from his sleep with the strong impression on his mind of an impending calamity of some nature. This impression he was unable to shake off He naturally thought if it meant anything it was in connection with his duty towards the city, and therefore supposed that fire, burglary, murder, or something of that nature might have transpired, or was transpiring. He repaired to the police headquarters and found all right there, and successfully visited every ward in the city with the same result. After daylight he returned to his room and bed with the impression still weighing on his mind, never once, however, during the whole time, connecting his impression with the excursion, or thinking of it.—About nine o'clock he got up again and came down the street, and soon after heard of the terrible calamity.

We suppose many more similar cases might be cited.

We now have the following from the lips of the parties, who are well known in this city, and who se characters are a sufficient guaranty of its truthfulness.

The lady had retired on Friday night as usual —Her husband came home at ten and retired also. About two o'clock the wife woke the husband up in the midst of the storm.

He found her sitting up in bed the very picture of terror, but unable to give expression to her feelings. Her husband asked her earnestly what was the matter, and she finally replied that she did not know, but there was something dreadful was happening.

HORRORS OF CIVIL WAR IN VENEZUELA.—Civil war in its most horrible shape is now prevading in Venezuela as well as Syria, as the following brief letter in the Journal of Commerce, dated Laguayra, June the 20th, will show: "Your readers have no doubt heard many accounts of the civil war in this unfortunate country; but not one-fourth of the distresses and disasters are generally known. The rural districts have most awfully suffered, in burning of villages and houses, destroying plantations; and the cold blooded murders, rapes and assassinations wantonly perpetrated."

The Walker Expedition.

It will be seen from the news which we publish this morning that the expedition of General Walker to Honduras has entirely failed.

From the beginning no thoughtful man believed it would be successful. There was every rational probability that it would lead to nothing but the destruction of those who were engaged in it.

Yet, although undertaken against so many chances of failure, and exhibiting so little wisdom as to the means to accomplish it, one cannot help feeling some degree of admiration for its leaders; not because of their common sense, but of that reckless trusting to a future, wherein all the odds were against them. As for the valor of General Walker, that will not be denied If he was shot, he died, we have no doubt, with perfect composure, satisfied to accept the destiny which he tempted.

Gen Walker's career is really a very singular one. There is nothing like it in our modern annals—and it proves that the man was of such stuff as "heroes" are made of. We are not certain that we admire the class of men to which he belonged; but one cannot help saying that here was a man who, if he had travelled the path cut by the age, would have been successful, distinguished, useful. With his first movement towards Nicaragua we felt sympathy, and exhibited it by taking risks to make it successful. A bad investment, we now know, but made without much expectation of profit. That movement, with more wisdom, would have been a success; but it failed mainly by errors of judgment in Central America, and by errors of judgment here on our own soil, where Walker lost the sympathy of our people, by which alone he could have succeeded. Well, we say peace to the ashes of this strange, restless man!

Col. Rudler, the second in command, was well known to many of our citizens; and we suspect that not one who knew him is without a very great respect for him. He was the quietest gentleman that ever went on adventures so desperate. He was the last person who, on a partial acquaintance, would have been taken for a filibuster. Like his chief, he was reserved, self composed, spoke in a low, calm voice; was always courteous; never, that we know of, excited—a man of the most honorable impulses; true to his word, and shrinking from a mystery. We knew him very well, and must say that the authentic news of his death will give us more pain than that in respect to any person of the expedition But he, like his chief tempted his fate; and he, too, if dead, died like a soldier.—Tribune.

A British officer writing from Teheran, Persia, to the 'London Times,' remarks: —"A Cathartic Pill manufactured by 'an American Chemist' (Dr J. C. AYER, of Lowell, Mass.) has cured the Shah, of a Liver Complaint that threatened his life. This simple fact, as might be expected, renders the Americans immensely popular here, while we English are overlooked. Doubtless our own scholars made the discoveries which he employs, and thus it is in everything: we do the labor, then the mousing Americans put their mark on it and take the reward. Doct. Ayer is idolized by the Court and its retainers here, which will doubtless be reflected to him on a gold snuff box, or diamond hilted sword, while not the name even of Davy, Christison or Brodie—the great lights by which he shines, is known."—

New York Sunday Paper.

A SOLDIERS ESTIMATE OF GLORY. Sir Charles Napier, so distinguished for his military services in India, on receiving dispatches from the English Government making him Governor of Scinde, with additional pay, and order ing attriumphal column to be cast from the guns he had captured, wrote:

I wish the government would let me go back to my wife and girls: it would be to me more than pay, glory and honor This is glory, is it? Yes. Nine princes have surrendered their swords to me on the field of battle, and their kingdoms have been conquered by me and attached to my own country. Well all the glory that can be desired is mine, and I care so little for it that the moment I can all shall be resigned to live quietly with my wife and girls; no honor or riches repays me, is agreeable, only as it may enable me to do good to these poor people.—Oh, if I can do any good to serve them where so much blood has been shed in accursed war, I shall be happy. May I never see another shot fired. Horrid, horrid war.!

Important Revelation---Yancey offered the Douglas Nomination for Vice President but Declines.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette telegraphs to that paper under date of the 6th inst, as follows:

A dispatch from Richmond, dated last night, says:

"O. Jennings Wise addressed a large audience at Metropolitan Hall, in this city, to-night, in favor of Breckinridge and Lane. He stated upon the authority of a Virginia delegate who remained in the Douglas Convention at Baltimore, that Wm L Yancey was tendered the nomination for the Vice Presidency on the Douglas ticket, but that he refused to accept, stating that oil and water could not intermix."

Mr. Wise stated that he was aware of the fact that the Douglas men in Baltimore were hunting up a Southern protectionist who would accept the nomination for the Vice Presidency but failed to get any. Thes statements took the meeting by surprise. They will damage the cause of Douglas in Virginia very materially.

Mr. Yancey at Knoxville.

East Tennessee is all ablaze. The speech of Mr. Yancey, at Knoxville, on Tuesday last, has created the wildest enthusiasm among the Democracy. We have just seen a gentleman who heard Mr. Yancey at Knoxville, and he represents his speech as the greatest triumph of his life. It was a booming cannonade upon the enemies of Democracy—a complete defence of our cause and its champions. The Knoxville Register gives an extended notice of Mr. Yancey's speech, from which we make the following extract:—Memphis Ap.

At this stage, a voice, Mr. Manly, asked, "what would you do if Lincoln was elected President?"

Mr. Yancey.—Come upon the stand. Mr. Manly came up and took his seat.

Mr. Yancey said he received twelve years of his education in New England, and there learned the Yankee mode of answering questions, and said to Mr. M, "I'll answer your question by asking another."

Manly.—Ask it.

Yancey.—Who are you in favor of for President?

Manly.—John Bell.

Yancey.—Will you endorse what John Bell has said on breaking up the Union?

Manly said he had propounded the question at the request of others.

Mr. Yancey asked their names. A note was handed to him signed S. R. Rogers. Wm. Rogers, Jno. M Fleming, W. G. Brownlow and O. P. Temple. He called out the names of these gentlemen and requested them to come on the stand with him. After some little delay they appeared on the stand as requested.

Mr. Yancey asked them who they were in favor of for President. All answered—John Bell. He then repeated the question he had propounded to Mr. Manley, and requested an answer from each.

Col. Temple—Said Bell had always been a Union man; though some Breckinridge men had, by garbled extracts from his speeches, sought to create a different impression. Thus recognizing Mr. Bell, he was prepared to endorse his position properly construed. He did not mean to charge Mr. Yancey with garbling, etc.

Yancey—Said he did not suppose any gentleman would try to insult him on the stand, and he did not regard Mr. Temple's remarks as applying to him, or he would have replied in a different manner.

Mr. Brownlow—In answer to the question, said, yes, and added—I propose, when the Secessionists go to Washington to dethrone Lincoln, I am for seizing a bayonet and forming an army to resist such an attack, and they shall walk over my dead body on their way.

S. R. Rogers endorsed Mr. Brownlow's position.

J. M. Flemming—If Mr. Bell had been interrogated on this point, he would endorse his answer.

When the question was asked Wm. Rogers. Mr. Brownlow said, we all answer in the affirmative.

Yancey—I ask him. I suppose he knows better than you, unless you have agreed on a stereotyped answer.

Brownlow—No; we have not been initiated into your League.

Yancey—No; or you would have been a better Southern man.

Mr. Yancey then read an extract from John Bell's speech, (the extract published a short time since in the Register.) and said—Now, gentlemen, I will answer your question, and answered it in the following works:

I now proceed to answer this question, although unable to perceive in what manner my future act in Alabama can in the least degree affect your votes here, on the question of the election of a President.

By an act of the General Assembly of Alabama, passed last winter, it is made the duty of the Governor, in the event a Black Republican shall be elected President, in a certain period after he ascertains it (30 days I believe) to make a proclamation of the fact—and that an election shall then be held by the people to elect delegates to a Convention of the people of the State, which Convention will consider what the sovereignty and wrongs done the State requires at its hands.

As I said to you in the earlier part of my speech, I am a States Rights man—believing in the right of a State to command the allegiance and obedience of its citizens, and therefore that my allegiance is first due to my State. I do not believe in exercising the individual natural right of rebellion, until both State as well as Federal Constitutions are broken and destroyed. If the Federal Constitution shall be broken and destroyed by the usurpation of a Higher Law faction, my right to resist is subordinate to my allegiance to my State Constitution. As an individual, therefore, I shall not rebel against such an election, for that would be rebellion also against my own State authority. But whatever course Alabama may take, that course I shall be bound by as a citizen, and if it is to acquiesce, I shall do so—If it is to secede, I shall cast my fortunes with that of the State. If the Convention shall see fit to go into consultation with the other Southern States and act as they agree. I shall abide by that action. If it shall decide to demand new guaranties for its rights, before it will remain longer in the Union, I shall acquiesce in that. In fine, as I am bound by, so shall I acquiesce in all that my State may decide to do.

If my State resists, I shall go with her, and if I meet this gentleman (pointing to Mr. Brownlow,) marshalled with his bayonet to oppose us, I'll plunge my bayonet to the hilt through and through his heart and feel no compunctions for the act, and thank my God my country has been freed from such a foe. This man, forgetful of his nativity, had uttered fratricidal sentiments of hostility towards men of the South who differ with him upon their views of their rights and the time and manner in which they should be asserted and supported, but who, if they err in judgement, err on the side of patriotism and through their devotion to their native land. If Providence in pity refrains from sending its thunderbolt, crushing this old oak tree, whose boughs now shelter us, and which has lifted its head to Heaven since the days of Washington, and our Revolutionary sires—he but one individual of the South, might very safely leave the author of such sentiments to the reproaches of his own conscience and the retributive justice, which, sooner or later, ever overtakes those who oppose their country's weal. He recognized those who came on the stand as gentlemen, and he bore no personal malice towards them. He hoped no militia office would be conferred on this gentleman (pointing to Mr. Brownlow.) He had better preach.

He regretted that he had been diverted from words of peace through interruption. He called it an interruption, but in one sense, and that not an offensive one. He thanked the people for their kindness and courtesy. He also thanked the Bell men who were gentlemen, and those not gentlemen.

He knew the power of the Press, the base slanders it had utterred against him, and between now and the end of the canvass they would still go where his voice could not reach. Their lies were like a scrubby quarter nag, while Truth was a thorough bred 4 mile horse. On a short race the quarter nag was always success ful, but thorough-bred Truth Was always victorious in a long race.

After a few other eloquent and complimentary remarks to the ladies, Mr. Yancey closed At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Brownlow took the stand and said in substance that the gentleman had spoken of him as a parson and suggested his duty in that capacity. He had read some scripture and he would say to the gentleman, get thee behind me Satan. He had heard the gentleman in a whisper ask a gentleman on the stand, if that was not the parson, referring to the speaker. The gentleman said yes, and while he was on the subject of Parsons, the gentleman should have referred to the fact that the gentleman of whom he asked the question, (Rev. Isaac Lewis,) was a Federal office holder, as was another Parson present and that the Democrats had on their State ticket, and as elector for this district, two men, parsons, who only differed from him in the fact that they had been silenced for lying.

He declined speaking any more, but would speak out through his paper.

Mr. Yancey said, if you have anything to say, say it here before me like a man.

The crowd called again for Yancey. He said, gentlemen, you cannot expect me to dignify such a speech with a reply.

In this report we have sought to present the facts as they were. Though not full, and necessarily imperfect, we have sought "nothing to extenuate nor aught to set down in malice," and if we have done any man injustice we will make the necessary corrections. We have no space for comments.

To the Public.

OCTOBER, 3d, 1860.

Upon my arrival in Jacksonville, I found a rumor afloat, that my boy Bill, who had been implicated in the negro insurrectionary movement at Talladega, had been run-away and sold by myself. This rumor is absolutely false, and in justice to myself I will now state the facts. As soon as I learned the boy Bill was the least implicated, I went myself and arrested him, and delivered him over to the Vigilance Committee, and told them to hang him if he was guilty.—I also went to the Jailor at Talladega, and told him if a crowd should come in the night to take Bill to hang him, to give him up to be hung. I even went so far as not even to require a trial. Notwithstanding I gave my consent to hang without trial, the Vigilance Committee saw fit to give him a legal trial. To my astonishment I was informed by the Committee there was no legal proof against him, and that he was discharged. I was not satisfied. I sent him to Montevallo, loaded him with chains and notified the Grand Jury of Shelby County of the facts, and they sent for Negroes, but finally ignored a bill against him. I then proposed to the best citizens in Shelby and Talladega counties, to try him according to the rules of Lynch law, and if he was guilty under that law I would help hang—They refused and so the matter stands. The boy is now at Montevallo in chains, and shall not be carried off until the community at Talladega is perfectly satisfied. And I will further say, that any 12 men who desire, may investigate his case, and if they are satisfied of his guilt, may hang him until he is dead. The above are the facts, and if doubted, can be proven by overwhelming evidence. If I was satisfied of his guilt I would hang him myself. All I ask is justice.

The crowd greeted his fall by loud and continued cheering. His corpse was decently buried by the foreigners at Truxillo, the natives refusing absolutely to take any part in the obsequies. Col. RUDLER, the associate of WALKER, has been tried and sentenced to four years' close confinement.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the awful destruction of human life, caused by Sexual diseases, and the deceptions practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by Quacks, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, as a charitable act worthy of their name to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of diseases, in all their forms and to give

CATAMENIAL CORRECTOR

HAS HAD

A Ten Years Trial,

Which should be sufficient to convince every

of the Great Value of the CATAMENIAL CORRECTOR; and that it is without exception

The Best Medicine

before the public for all diseases arising from Irregularities, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Palpitation of the Heart, Vertigo or Dizziness, Pains in the Kidneys, Pains in the small of the back, Pains under the shoulders, Lowness of spirits, Languor and Nervousness generally, Difficult menstruation, Suspended menstruation, or Cessation of the menses and an almost endless variety of other diseases attendant on irregularities superinduced by colds, by over exertion, by a weak constitution, severe mental or physical labor.—The simple remedy for all is to get at the primary cause of the disease: remove it, and you assist Nature to regulate. This can be done by the great CATAMENIAL CORRECTOR which has never failed to affect a cure when properly used, according to the directions, and a fair trial given it.

It is prepared from the recipe, under the personal supervision of a most Skillful Physician, who for a number of years confined its use to his private practice. For the few years that it has been before the public it has gained for itself a position that will soon by its rapid increase of popularity, place it at the head of all remedies heretofore offered for Womans' diseases. The more especially those above enumerated which too often end in CONSUMPTION.

RICHARDSON'S

IRISH LINENS,

DAMASKS, DIAPERS, &C.

CONSUMERS of RICHARDSON'S LINENS, and those desirous of obtaining the GENUINE GOODS, should see that the articles they purchase are sealed with the full name of the firm,

J. N. RICHARDSON, SONS & OWDEN,

as a guarantee of the soundness and durability of the Goods.

This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and deceptive Linens are prepared season after season and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer & the manufacturers of the genuine Goods, will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

Court of Probate for Calhoun County, Ala. Special Term, Sept'r. 11th, A. D. 1860.

THIS day came J. L. Davis, Administrator of the Estate of William Mallory, deceased, and filed his petition in writing, representing that his intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands, lying and being situated in said County of Calhoun, towit: the North half of section 8, Township 16, Range 9 and section 9 Township 16, Range 9 East in the Coosa Land District, said Administrator further states that the following named persons are the only heirs and distributees of the estates of his Intestate, towit, Eliza J. Mallory, widow of deceedent and Lucy J. Davis late Lucy J. Mallory and now the wife of petitioner, Mary V. Mallory, all of whom are over 21 years of age, and reside in said County of Calhoun; William Mallory, Jr. Caroline M. Mallory, and James B. Mallory, the two former of full age and the latter a minor under 21 years of age and all three of whom reside in the State of Arkansas; and Chora Mallory, Allen Mallory, Eliza Mallory, John Mallory and Lenny Mallory, all five of whom are minors, under twenty-one years of age, and reside with their mother Eliza J. Mallory, in said County of Calhoun, and said Administrator asks, that an order and decree of said Court be made authorizing the sale of all the above described lands, (except 52 acres heretofore sold under a former decree of said Court, lying in the South East corner of said Section 6 including the Mill and factory buildings) for division among said Heirs, alleging that an equal, fair and beneficial division of the same cannot be made among said Heirs without a sale of said lands. It is therefore ordered by the court, that the 1st day of November, A. D. 1860, be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition; and it being further shown to the court, that said Mallory Jr. Caroline M. Mallory and James B. Mallory are non residents, residing beyond the limits of the State of Alabama:

It is therefore further ordered by the court, that notice as to said nonresident heirs of the filing of said petition, & of the day set for the hearing of the same, be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county for forty days, previous to said Thursday the 1st day of November, 1860, notifying said non-resident heirs, to be and appear at a special Term of said court, to be holden at the court House of said county on said 1st day, of November, 1860, and defend against said petition, if they think proper.

POETRY.

Life and Love.

Life is a garden fair and free,
But 'tis Love that holds the goblen key;
For hand and heart
Once held apart,
Life's flowers are dashed with storms of sorrow,
And bloom to-day may be bright to-morrow.
So reckless ever of wind and weather,
Let Life and Love be link'd together.

Life is a diamond rich and rare,
But Love is the lustre that danceth there,
For hand and heart
Once held apart,
Life's jewels grow dim in the breath of sorrow,
And diamonds to-day may be dust to-morrow.
So reckless ever of wind and weather,
Let Life and Love be link'd together.

Life has a rich and smiling face,
But Love is the dimple that gives it grace
For hand and heart
Once held apart,
Life's brightest beams are clanched with sorrow,
And roses to-day may be lilies to-morrow.
So reckless ever of wind and weather,
Let Life and Love be link'd together.

Rain.

The following was written by Frank Soule, for the California Chronicle, while waiting for the proof of the leader. It is a bright and sparkling little gem:

"Rejoice, the silver rain has come—generous, shining rain; it falls like music on the roof, like blessings on the plain. With glories charged, as if from heaven, it glitters on its way; 'tis tearful April's kind adieu, God's welcome sent to May. The golden rain, the gold it brings from gulches and the plains, will bow anon in their gratitude their heads of golden grains. Where golden headed Flora treads, its golden flowerets shoot, and golden Summer's promise ends in Autumn's golden fruit. The silver rain, the golden rain, the white and pearly rain, that scatters gems upon the hills, and sifts them o'er the plain.—That leaves a tear of joy upon the young, rejoicing flowers, until the face of Nature smiles in answer to its showers. That makes the miner's bosom swell with hopes too high for words, and fills with silent gratitude the mute and thirsty herds.

"The swelling rivulets that wind through many a grassy maze, and babbling to the generous rain their hymn of gleeful praise. A greener tinge is on the grass, a fresher on the trees, a purer scent floats from the earth, a fresher in the breeze. The rain hath washed the air that folds the hills and mountains high; and deepened, with artistic touch, the canvass of the sky. It comes as gracious angels come, and gladdness springs to birth, and pleasure, like a wedding veil, more beauteous makes the earth.

"Shall man alone, of all the world—blessed by the showers—refuse to render gratitude to Him who sends the rain? The rain that whispers as it falls, and from the freshe ed sod, 'I come in answer to your prayers, the messenger of God.' The silver rain, the golden rain, the pure and pearly rain, that scatters blessings on the hills, and sifts them o'er the plain."

LYNCHING IN LAWRENCE COUNTY, KY.—A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, writing from Mouth of Sandy, Ky. Sept. 13th, says:

As an item of news I give you the particulars of a case of lynching which occurred in this neighborhood to-day. You will probably recollect that about four or five weeks ago a man named Auldrich who had been released from confinement in the Penitentiary a few weeks previous, murdered his sister and his son, who were important witnesses against him. The body of the sister was cut nearly in two with an axe and thrown into the Big Sandy river, and the son was taken some distance into the woods and there murdered by his brutal father. He made his escape, after saying he intended to kill his father and mother. Auldrich was arrested in Greenbrier county, Va., some few days since, and taken to Louisa, Lawrence county, Ky., where quite a number of the citizens of the neighborhood in which Auldrich lived (about thirty miles above Louisa) took him from the authorities and hung him without the benefit of a trial. The father and brothers of the unfortunate man, I learn, advised the people to pursue this course. It is contended that Auldrich could not have been convicted before any jury in the United States, inasmuch as there was no positive evidence against him—not even circumstantial evidence—though there is not a person on Big Sandy river that doubts he was guilty. The whole community, far and near, are much excited.

DREADFUL TRAGEDY.—We have heard the particulars of a recent terrible tragedy, which occurred on Black River, in the parish of Lafourche—the names of the parties in which we are induced to omit by the request of friends. A planter on Black River, who had a very handsome wife, of whom he had had thirteen children, recently employed a young Kentuckian as overseer. His wife was a creole lady of very great personal attractions, and it was soon observed by the neighbors that a suspicious intimacy had sprung up between her and the overseer. The husband was informed of this by some of his neighbors, and for some time he would not credit it. At last he determined he would satisfy himself, and accordingly, notifying his wife of his purpose to go to the city, he left his house, and, returning at night, placed himself in a convenient position to observe her room.

It was not long before he discovered the overseer enter her room, and on looking through the window discovered his wife in the embraces of said overseer, she being in her night clothes. Waiting until the guilty parties had separated, the infuriated husband having provided a double-barreled gun, saw the overseer come out of the room accompanied by his paramour and kissing her, and was about to leave, when the husband rose up and discharged one of the barrels of the gun into his side, causing immediate death. The other barrel was directed at his wife, but missed, and she ran off into the woods, and had not up to the last news, been heard of.—[N. O. Delta.

REGRETABLE HOMICIDE AND SHOOTING.—We regret to learn from a passenger on the railroad, that Mr. Richard Jeter shot and killed Mr. James Taylor at Lafayette, Chambers county, on Saturday last. It would seem that Mr. Jeter's father and the deceased was engaged in a fight at the time of the killing.—We could not learn the particulars or cause of the difficulty.

We learn, also, that another serious shooting affair took place not far from Tuskegee, in Macon county, last Wednesday, whereby one Dawson and a lad by the name of Brooks were shot. Lewis Watkins and John Day are said to be the offenders, and have been arrested

Last Hours of Gen. Walker.

A correspondent of the Havana Diario de la Marina, writing from Truxillo by the Osceola, gives the following particulars of Gen. Walker's imprisonment and execution:

So soon as Walker entered the prison he was put in heavy irons, and being asked if he wanted anything, only asked for water. Soon after he sent to call the capellan of the fort, to whom he professed the Roman Catholic faith, and afterwards made his devotions before a little altar on which was to be distinguished in the dim light of the waxen candles the image of Jesus. Among other things he said to the capellan: "I am resigned to die; my political career is concluded."

On the 11th, at seven in the evening, Walker was informed of the sentence of death that had been pronounced on him. His only reply to the fatal message was at what hour the execution would take place, and if he would have time to write.

At 8 o'clock the morning of the 12th, the prisoner marched to the place of execution. He walked with a crucifix in his hand, listening to the psalms which the priest recited, without turning his face to the right or to the left. Having arrived at the place of execution, which was surrounded by troops, he there pronounced these words with much resignation: "I am a Roman Catholic. The war I have made upon Honduras, at the suggestion of people of Roatan, is unjust. Those who accompanied me are innocent; I alone to blame. I ask pardon of this people. I receive death with resignation. Would it might be for the well being of society."

A HUGE MILLION OF DOLLEARS FOR A COPPER MINE.—Two years ago a Canadian near Acton, Lower Canada, while engaged in digging potatoes, found some fragments of copper ore. On the 15th of September, 1859, Mr. Lewis Sleeper, a school teacher at Montreal, having obtained a lease of the grounds, commenced the development of the mine with great success, having since March last taken out $200,000 worth of ore, some of the blocks weighing 15 tons. A few days ago this mine was sold for $500,000, of which Mr. Sleeper received $400,000.

CONSISTENCY.—Mr. Douglas spoke at Albion, N. Y., on the 19th, and Mr Herschel V. Johnson spoke at Williamsport, Pa., on the same day. Mr. Johnson maintains that "the right of secession must be maintained. It is the last, the only hope of the South." Mr. Doug las maintains that this "only hope of the South" must be crushed by force!

GEN. SHIELDS OUT FOR BRECK. AND LANE.—The Napa (California) Times says that this gallant officer, who distinguished himself so highly in the Mexican War, and who is now in California, has, like Gen. Pierce and other leading officers, who took part in that great contest against the enemies of their country, come out in favor of his old comrades in arms, Breckinridge and Lane.

POLITICA.

SPEECH OF HON. WM. L. YANCEY,
IN WASHINGTON CITY,
At the Serenade Given Him Sept. 21.

Fellow citizens—I am no party man, and I do not address you as a party man to-night. Strange as it may seem to you, after what you have heard from some quarters, I come before you this evening as the friend of the Constitution, [good] and the Union under the Constitution, [good. and better,] and as the enemy of any other Union, coming from what source it may. [Vociferous cheering; "that's right."] During my brief political career, my countrymen—— [Just here the speaker was interrupted by some drunken individual.]

A Voice. Put him out.

Mr. Yancey. Oh, no; let him alone. No harm can be done to me by any man, or any party, who listens to me. [A voice—that's so.] I have no sentiments to conceal from any man of any party. I hope men are here representing all parties, with the exception of that party which is the enemy of the Constitution—the Black Republican party. [Loud and enthusiastic applause.]

My friends, there is one issue before you, and to all sensible men but one issue, and but two sides to that issue. The slavery question is but one of the symbols of that issue; the commercial question is but one of the symbols of that issue; the Union question is but one of those symbols; the only issue before this country in this canvass is the integrity and safety of the Constitution. [Great applause, and cries of "good."] He is a true Union man who intends to stand by that Constitution with all its checks and balances. He is a disunion man who means to destroy one single letter of that secred instrument. It has been said that the South asks you to trespass upon the constitutional rights of the other States; it is said that the South seeks to aggrandize itself at the expense of other sections; that we want this Government to carry slavery and force it upon a people who do not desire it. With all proper respect for those who say this, I, as a Southern man, say that in every iota of its utterance it is false. [Good.] The South has aggressed upon no section, nor does she propose aggression upon any section. She asks no section to yield anything that is hers for her safety or for her protection. All that the South has ever asked of the Government is to keep its hands off of us, and let the Constitution work its own way. [Applause.] The South has been aggressed upon; the South has been trenched upon; four-fifths of its territory, in which she has equal rights, has been torn from her; and by the acts of Government she has been excluded from it. Revenues have been raised at the rate of two or three dollars in the South to one from any other section for the support of this great Government; but the South makes no complaint of mere dollars and cents. Touch not the honor of any section of the country and she will not complain of almost anything else you may do; but touch her honor and equality and she will stand up in their defense, if necessary, in arms. [Applause.]

All, then, that the South asks in this contest is that you shall observe the constitutional checks and balances with reference to her. She is not willing that her rights shall be submitted to the will of mere numerical majorities. For our fathers, our ancestors and the great patriots of the North agreed that it should be otherwise. It was the written compact of our fathers that the minority should receive protection from the Constitution against the mere selfish and avaricious will of a preponderant majority. Parties divided themselves originally in this country upon that great principle. One desired that the majority should rule in all things while the other—the State-rights party of the country—desired it should be different. This latter party carried the day in the formation of the Constitution, and placed checks upon the advancement of the majority. And this written Constitution was the compact by which majorities should restrain themselves with reference to the rights of minorities. Majorities need no protection save their own power. Hence it is easy for the North to cry out for the Union at all hazards and under all circumstances. It is easy for the North, with its majorities of millions to say they are for this Union any how. No matter who may be elected, no matter what may be done, still they will stand to the Union as the great cause of their prosperity. Why? Because with no Constitution at all, the North can protect themselves with their predominant vote in the country. But how is it with the South? How is it with the majority of the country—the minority States of the Goverment? If they leave it to the mere will of preponderant majorities in Congress, the North, as in all other cases, will seek its advancement of power, will seek its own selfish aggrandizement, and will distribute the money of the Government among themselves, raise as much as they please, do all for their own advancement at the expense of minorities. Minorities, gentlemen are the true friends of the Constitution, because that Constitution is their shield and their protection against the unchecked and unlicensed will of the majority.

Hence it is that my section of the South stands by the Constitution. You do not hear so much said there with such flippant tongues about the Union as you do at the North; but you hear much said there about the Constitution: about its strict construction; about the rigid enforcement of its checks, and its balances in favor of these minorities; because to them it is a case of life and death. Within this Government that Constitution must prevail, or the minority will be placed as a "lamb that is led to the slaughter." But let that Constitution be observed, and the rights of all sections under that Constitution preserved, and the South is content to abide its fate under the working of that instrument. The North may well cry out Union! Union! Union! at all hazards, and to the last extremity. And the North, even now, I understand, at midnight, is arming itself and training its midnight bands for the purpose of forcing a Union of a mere majority upon the South. I understand there are "Wide Awakes," as they call themselves—that is, they think themselves very "wide awake," but they will find some men in the Southern States, gentlemen, sufficiently "wide awake" to meet them. ["That's so." Applause.] A brave people and a true people; gentlemen, will fear no "Wide Awakes."

No man is more wide awake than he who loves his own fire side, his own wife, his own child, and aggresses on nobody, but determines as far as God gives him power that nobody shall aggress on him. [Applause.] And there is no man who hear me to-night who would flinch like cowards if they found that others were bent merely upon aggressing upon their people when they could do so! [That's so!] As a distinguished friend of mine said to me the other day, the battle of the revolution was fought with shot-guns. Our people was not furnished with the great armament of modern warfare then, but being armed with the right, they were enabled to meet the powerful array of the then greatest nation of the earth, and wipe out the British lion from the country. [Applause.]

Now, I desire simply to say to you to-night, that the South, stands on nothing but the Constitution, fears no aggression, fears no section; and that Constitution the South intends to stand by. If in the progress of party division, party dissentions, and party elections, that Constitution shall be trampled under foot; if a Government shall be instituted here which shall be a usurpation on the government of Washington and our fathers; if this temple of liberty, based upon that Constitution, shall be subverted, and instead of a Constitutional Government a "higher law" Government shall be established, you will find, gentlemen, that the Constitution will have friends even in that hour; and if driven from all other sections of the country, and there is no other spot where the ark of the covenant of our safety can rest and be protected, it will be on Southern soil, where the friends of the Constitution live. [Loud applause.]

We do not desire at the South, disunion: I know of but few advocates at the South of this measure. I can point to hundreds of distinguished Northern men who are far in advance of any men at the South upon the question of disunion. I know, in the Northern States, men who want a "higher law," who want another Bible—aye, and who, in religion, even call for another Jesus Christ. [Laughter and applause.] Disunion per se exists in that region. I know of no disunion, per se, at the South. The humble individual who addresses you to-night has probably been more denounced as a disunionist than almost any other man in the Union. I tell you gentlemen, my disunion consists in this; I stand by the Constitution. I intend that the provisions of that Constitution, which I look upon as the shield of the South in this Union, shall be carried out and enforced. If that Constitution is taken away from the South in this Union, and the South is then to remain in the Union, I consider that we would then have no rights, for we would then be placed at the feet of a dominant sectional, abolition majority. [Applause.]

A Voice—We'll stand by you.

Mr. Yancey. I say, then, that the South stands by the Constitution, as a shield in this Union. When that shield shall be taken from their breasts, by a dominant sectional majority, who seeks to reduce this Government to the will of a mere majority, for its own sectional purposes—who intend to make us hewers of wood and drawers of water—we intend to take that Constitution with us; and, gentlemen, imitating the mighty example of George Washington, if there is no other place where we can erect and keep this Constitution, we will take the banner of liberty and plant it in the mountains of Augusta, and there we will entrench ourselves as a body of freemen. [Applause.]

But, as I have said to you, we hope that day is far distant from us, and that none of us may live to see its dawn. I, so help me God, will consider that to be an evil hour when this Government shall be so rent by factions that the charter of our liberties shall be trodden under foot, and the compact of our fathers disregarded by their degenerate sons. It would be indeed and evil hour, but we are compelled to look it in the face. A large party, numbering in itself now, it is said, a plurality, if not a majority, of the people in this country, I anded together with a discipline such as no other party has, having hopes which no other party has, led by men of eminent ability, with Abraham Lincoln its candidate, with Seward its chief statesman and chief advocate; who, from Maine to the furthest frontier of civilization, proclaims a war, an "irrepressible war," upon the institutions of one half of this Union; who proclaims gentlemen, that the manner in which he interprets the Constitution is that it shall give freedom to everything in human shape upon the face of the earth; who proclaims, gentlemen, therefore, that this Constitution, which is based upon the recognition of negroes as an inferior race, that is based upon the rec quires that property to be delivered up by the hostile States into which it may become fugitive—that this Constitution is to be utterly disregarded by him, and only his wild, insane, revolutionary, and incendiary notions are the interpretations to be placed upon the Constitution by this new government, if elevated to power.

Suppose that party gets into power, suppose another John Brown raid takes place in a frontier State, "Sharp's rifles" and pikes and bowie knives, and all the other implements of warfare are brought to bear upon an inoffensive, peaceful, and unfortunate people, and that Lincoln or Seward is in the Presidential chair, where will then be a force of United States marines to check that band? Suppose that is the case—that the frontiers of the country will be lighted up by flames of midnight arson, as it is in Texas; that towns are burned; that the peace of our families is disturbed; that poison is found secreted throughout the whole country in immense quantities; that men are found prowling about in our land distributing that poison in order that it may be placed in our springs and our wells; with arms and amunition placed in the hands of this semi barbarous people, what will be our fate? Where will be the dread of this General Government that exists under this present Administration? Where will be the fear of Federal Officers, of a United States army to intimidate or prevent such movements? Why, gentlemen, if Texas is now in flames, and the peace of Virginia is invaded now under this administration, and under the present aspect of affairs, tell me what it will be when a "higher law" government reigns in the city of washington! Where, then, will be our peace, where will be our safety, when these people are instigated to insurrection; when men are prowling about throughout this whole country, knowing that they are protected by an administration which says that by the Constitution freedom is guaranteed to every individual on the face of the earth? Can you expect any people of spirit or courage, true to themselves, true to their firesides, true to their own families—can you expect such a people, I say, to give up all regard for the Constitution, permit it to be trampled under foot, to acknowledge this "higher law" government, to give it their assent—can you expect, I say, any brave and heroic people thus to be untrue to their families and their firesides, and to the great principle of eternal freedom and self-preservation?

A voice. Never, never!

We will preserve these rights; and those who would fail to rise in their defence are deserving of the execration and contempt, not of all mankind only, but of every republican who would place this Government over us. We would deserve to be pitched out of this land into the sea, and drowned in the surf that breaks upon its shores. We would deserve that there should be no further propagation of such a race of cowards. We will remember that Washington, the greatest rebel the world ever produced, led the way in defence of the great principle of freedom—in defence of these institutions upon which our government is based, and under which it has so long prospered as a nation.

I say to you, then, that though we deprecate disunion, we will have the Union of our fathers. It has been said that the South has aggressed upon the North. When and where has my people ever aggressed upon the people of any other section? When and where has any Southern Statesman proposed a wrong to be done to the west, northwest, the east, or the northeast?

A voice. Never.

Mr. Yancey. Never. History will proclaim it. This age proclaims it. Our enemies will proclaim it by their silence when we defy them to answer the question.

Ours, then, is a position of defense within the limits of the Constitution. We uphold its banner. We intend to defend its principles. We ask only equal rights in our common Government. We ask protection for these rights in our common Government. Nothing more, and, so help me God, we will submit to nothing less. [Applause.]

Now, my fellow-citizens, I do not intend to address you at length to night. I am wearied, having traveled all night, and having been detained on the way by an accident on the railroad. I have spoken four times this week, and once I had the immodesty to address four hours. [A voice. "Give us four hours more to-night." I, therefore, have no physical ability to detain you any longer to-night. I conceive that you have met here to night not for any special respect to an individual, but that you have recognized me as one earnestly striving to advance the cause of the Constitution; and in that spirit, and in that only, have shown your respect for the cause of Democracy—something that is deserving of that respect for that I most sincerely thank you. I trust I shall never deserve a want of respect at your hands, or at those of any one else, by proposing aggression on any or by proposing any measure not in accordance with a strict construction of the Constitution.

A Voice. What will the South do in the event of Linnoln's election.

Mr. Yancey. I don't know what she will do but this I will say to you—I put it to you, my friend. Now if you live in a slaveholding State——

The same voice. I do, sir.

Mr. Yancey. Well, then if John Brown commits a raid on that State while in the peace of God, and while in the peace of the country, under the peace of the Constitution that is supposed to protect it—if he comes with pike with musket and bayonet and cannon; if he slaughter an offensive people if his myrmidons are scattered all over our country where it is supposed rests this institution which is so unpalatable inciting our slaves to midnight arson, to midnight murder, and to midnight insurrection against the sparsely scattered white people; if the brotherhood of this nation shall be broken up, and the common citizenship shall be ignored if the protection that is due from every citizen to every other citizen shall be no longer afforded; if in the place of its a wild and bloodthirsty spirit not of revenged—but a bloodthirsty spirit of assassination of murder, and of wrong takes its place and we find scattered throughout all our borders these people, and we find the midnight skies lighted up by the fires of our dwelling, and the wells from which we hourly drink poisoned by strychnine; and our wives and our children, when we are away at our business, are found murdered by our hearthstones my answer my friend, is in these words: What would you do? [Loud applause.]

A voice. I would stop him before he got that far.

Mr Yancey. I believe that the God of liberty, to whom it is our duty at all times to pray—he who holds in his hand the very destinies of nation—will so turn the hearts of our people that such an event shall not happen.

A voice. Amen.

Mr. Yancey. For myself, I do hope that in the Northern States, which hold this question in their hands, in some way a feeling of justice will be aroused in the minds of the people, and they will consider this matter, and prevent this dire result. As for the South we are in a minority. We can not prevent it however much we desire to do so. The North is now the dominant section of this country. It has 183 Electoral votes to our 120. It is for them to say what is to be our destiny within this Government. It is not, thank God for the North to say what shall be the destiny of Southern freemen, God' and applause.] That we hold in our own hands. Our prosperity, our safety, our institutions, do not depend upon any vote the North may give in this matter as long as we are true to ourselves. They are safe, though the Constitution may be rent asunder. We prefer our protection and our defense within the lines of the Government of Washington and Jefferson and of Hancock, but if it is not given to us, we know that we have freedom within our own breasts. But within this Union, must be preserved by Northern votes.

The issue is now left with the Northern and tendered her to save the Union and the Co stitution by putting down the black Republican party [Good]. They can do it, by a union of all parties against the common enemy. If they do it, the Union will be safe and we will be rejoiced to tender our acknowledgments to our Northern brethern that they have preserved the Union. [Good.] But if they do not preserve the Union, if they choose to divide it into factions looking after the State spoils, and without reference to the safety of this great country, and this party is elected and the South is driven to wall, then let not the North complain if Northern commerce that rests upon Southern industry, becomes destroyed, and they become beggared by the operation.

I read the other day a very stateman like speech by Mayor Wood, of New York, at the great Union meeting in which he spoke of commerce and the value of commerce to the whole country But I would commend to the Northern people this idea, which did not enter into the speech of Mayor Wood; Commerce is not merly the handmaid of agriculture, but it is the creature of agriculture Commerce is the mere means of interchanging the commodities which are made by industry by the agricultural and mechanical art. It is true that if we make no surplus there will be no commerce but still agriculture will exist, and the mechanic arts will exist for our own subsistence. If the South ever undertakes to make other marts than New York, and if the North does not uphold this Union, but permits it to be destroyed, the South intends to make her Baltimore, her Norfolk, her Charleston, her Savannah, her Pensacola, her Mobile, and her New Orleans, her marts. Rivals, not rivals merely, but substitutes for New York, will rise up along the Southern border. $316,000,000 of exports in the last year were all given to New York and New England commerce, the coasting and shipping and foreign trade of the North, and interchanges usually make that right. $250,000,000 of this amount were the sole results of Southern industry. This $250,000,000 a year can make commerce at other ports than New York. Let New York see to it, my countrymen If she loves her commerce and loves her palatial houses and princely merchants, let them see to it that the South, driven to the wall, does not make New Yorks of her Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, Savannah, and New Orleans, and grass grow in the streets of New York. We can do without her Commercial facilities, but she can not do without our agricultural labor. We can bring the shipping of the world to our ports, and make our own shipping to carry away 250 millions of the 316 millions. She can not supply the 250 millions of our Southern labor, if she does permit that division to take place I say, therefore, to New York, in no spirit of arrogance and pride, that her commerce, while in some respects it may be the handmaid, is the creature of Southern industry and Southern wealth, and unless she chooses to take in hand this question, she, Boston and Philadelphia, and settle it so as to preserve the benefits of this Union and the Constitution that secures it to her, we will show to the North that we can do without New York Boston and Philadelphia, and make other marts for our industry, while her shipping, and her wharves, and her warehouses will rot for want of that industry and that support. The Union is everything to New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. The Union is much to the South; we prefer to have it as it is, and we will deprecate dissolution. But if it is dissolved, it shall not be the South who do it. It shall be dissolved by those who are warring on the South and seeking to destroy the Constitution, and destroy the Union that is made by the Constitution. Let Northern men see to it that they preserve that Union, if they want to preserve their commerce, if they wish to preserve their manufactures or power, and if they wish to preserve the South as the best mart for the sale of their products, the fruits of their industry and their commerce. If we of the South are driven to support ourselves, we are independent of the world; we have the great peacemaker, King Cotton, within our midst. [Vociferous applause.]

We can supply the looms and manufactories of the world; we can feed ourselves and clothe the world. Unless these people, therefore, want to go naked, [laughter,] and show their nakedness, [renewed laughter,] they had better come and solicit the support of our cotton planters.

Now, then, fellow citizens, I beg you to excuse me from saying anything further, and for the desultory character of the remarks I have at this time submitted. I close them by telling you that the South loves the Union, respects the Union, has all respect for the Constitution, and will stand by and preserve that instrument intact, with all its checks and balances; and the South is now sternly resolved that every other section shall so preserve it. The South means to defend that Constitution against the Wide Awakes, the sleepy Abolitionists, or any body else. [Great applause and laughter.]

7. R. W. COBB, OF Shelby.

☞G. C. WHATLEY, Esq., will meet the Bell and Douglas electors, at Teagues Cross-roads on Friday 26th inst., at Oxford, " Saturday 27.

The Election returns from the State elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, indicate an overwhelming Black Republican victory in the approaching presidential election. Where now is the boasted strength of Mr. Douglas in these States? His name is not even mentioned in the returns. On the contrary, in the South, where elections have taken place, in Maryland, Florida, Mississippi, Delaware and South Carolina, the friends of Breckinridge and Lane have obtained splendid victories And in Baltimore, (heretofore the scene of riot & bloodshed on election days) the utmost peace and quietude prevailed. This shows that the city was not in the hands of Know Nothings, Plug Uglys or Blood Tubs.

Henceforward, should Lincoln be elected, the name of Stephen A Douglas will be branded, as the traitor who, from inordinate personal ambition, turned back the tide of democratic success, and delivered the country over to Black Republican rule. And it will be no credit to Bell men, to be known as having coalesced with and encouraged his friends in their evil work, for no better reason, than the paltry consideration of some temporary political advantage.

Fusion in New York.—The Atlanta American of the 9th inst., a Bell paper, says the fusion of all parties in New York against Lincoln is now complete, and that the danger of the election of a Black Republican is really past; and then, in the very same paragraph, utters the self-contradictory sentence, that "the bad effects of the cry already raised by the Breckinridge-Yancey-Disunion orators in the South, politically and monetarily are present with us and apparent." Well then, this American must consider this New York fusion as one of the bad effects of the manly resistence of the Breckinridge, party to Northern aggression, or its paragraph furnishes one of the most remarkable instances of the obfuscation of party prejudice on record. Who does not know that if there were only a Bell party, without principles and a Douglas party with free-soil squatter Sovereignty principles in the South, there would be no conservative party in New York, and no necessity for fusion against Lincoln? The Breckinridge party, the true constitution Democratic party, have had to carry the weight, and the abuse and recrimination of both the Bell and Douglas parties, and yet produce this effect in New York. The effect of the Bell and Douglas parties, whether they intend it or not, has been to give aid and comfort to the Black Republicans. The candidate of the Bell party is himself a dumb-bell, and his orators go about the country, enunciating principles so vague and indefinite, as to mean any thing or nothing. They spread their nets to catch all birds of all feather, and all fish of all scales, and fish without any scales—eels, catfish, turtles and tad-poles. With a disgusting, selfish and deepdyed demagogueism, they show a willingness and desire, to profit by the unfortunate division in the dominant party of their own section, in this time of impending peril—they utter "great swelling words of vanity," about their success, and their devotion to the Constitution and the Union; while they at the same time pursue their true-hearted Southern brethren, who are struggling for equality and constitutional rights, with the false and hypocritical wolfery of Disunion. No one pretends to believe there is any possible danger of disunion, except by the election of Lincoln; and yet they are doing all they can to injure and defeat Breckinridge, the only candidate whose principles stand in direct antagonism to Lincoln's, and the only one who stands any possible chance to defeat him.

While all this is going on the Douglas party too are playing upon this harp of a single string, disunion—representing Mr. Breckinridge at one time as a proslavery disunionist, and in the same breath an emancipationist — and his Lexington speech as so intensely union that he is losing all the fire eaters. It seems truly, as stated by Mr. Samford, that the label of confusion had been sent on their lying tongues. Their leader himself Mr. Douglas, is making speeches over the country in favor of his odious squatter sovereignty doctrines, replete with false accusations against his opponent and the President. In Virginia volunteering to aid Lincoln in whipping the South into subjection; and threatening to erect a gallows higher than the one upon which John Brown was hung, for those who dared to adopt the peaceable remedy of secession, in the last resort.

Such is a brief statement of the present political canvass, with the qualification, that the above picture is applicable chiefly to the selfish political leaders; but such we fear is the blindness and obstinacy of political prejudice, that but little change can now be effected; and we are forced to confess that there is a strong probability of the election of Lincoln, with all the undefined and disastrous consequences that may result. The friends of Breckinridge cannot abandon him, without a sacrifice of principles vital to the South; but the friends of Bell and Douglas can leave them without any such sacrifice. But will they do it? We occasionally hear of old line State Rights Whigs going for Breckinridge; they prove by the act that they love their country more than party, and we honor them for it. We hope that many more may do so; but cannot say we have the same hope of the few in the South, who still adhere to the fallen fortunes and forlorn hope of Douglas.

"From New York and Philadelphia." This sentence has been to us, for forty years, familiar as "household words." Since 1820, we have been engaged, without intermission, in Newspaper offices, as apprentice, journeyman or proprietor, in the States of Kentucky, Louisiana, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama. In all that time this sentence might have been seen in the advertising columns of almost every Southern and South western paper, in glaring capitals It seemed to be an essential recommendation, in the announcement of the reception of almost every new stock of goods, that they were just received "from New York and Philadelphia." Occasionally in Tennessee the name of Baltimore would appear, and in Alabama and Georgia of late years, that of Charleston What a fact is here revealed, in this one simple sentence, of the true source of the vast wealth and prosperity of these great cities. And yet in the midst of all this profitable commercial intercourse, there has been in the States of these great cities, a fanatical sectional party arrayed against the constitutional rights, equality, and domestic institutions of the South, constantly growing & increasing, which threatens to be overwhelming and decisive in the approaching presidential election. The telegraph announces a Black Republican victory in the State election of Pennsylvania. Should New York go the same way it will ensure the election of a Black Republican President. In that event, whatever may be the effect upon our political relations—whether we remain nominally united or really a divided people, we hope never again to see, in the same connection, the long familiar words, at the head of this article. If Pennsylvania and New York desert the South in this important and perilous crisis, and elevate to the highest office of the nation, the head and representative of her relentless and implacable foe, we hope that no Southern merchant will ever again purchase goods in these cities; or if he does, that they may remain on his shelves, and the people be as much determined not to touch them as if they knew them to be infected with the small pox on plague.

☞By a letter from Dr. P. M. Brothers, formerly of this County, we learn some additional particulars of the disastrous consequences of the recent drouth in Texas. He has recently traveled in some 12 counties, none of which he says will favorably compare with Calhoun Co Ala. Corn was selling at from two to two and a half dollarr per bushel, and he predicts that there will be a greater emigration from Texas this year, than ever to it in any one year The Doctor has settled in Franklin Parish, La.

A year of Calamities.—The present year, 1860, was early characterized as one of very destructive and distressing calamities, which has continued thus far without abatement; and as the year wears to a close, this distinctive feature, seems rather to increase than diminish. These calamities have been by land and sea, by fire and flood; by earthquakes and storms, by the various modes of travel, and in almost every imaginable and conceivable manner. War, pestilence and famine too, have done their work in various parts of the world. The natural and political elements seem to have been in a continued state of change and commotion. Crime too, of every description, appears to have been rapidly on the increase, and of more unnatural, fearful and startling character. This is truly a dark catalogue; but we feel sure that any one who has given attention to the subject, or had access, as publishers generally have, to various and extensive sources of information, will agree with us in opinion. If a correct statistical account for the year 1860, were made out, of what we have alluded to above, it would doubtless surprise every reader, and well nigh make him a believer in the calculations, and opinions of Dr. Cummings, of Scotland, that the last seven years of the great Tribulation had commenced.

☞We invite especial attention to the Ware-house notice of Mr. S. W. Pettibone, successor to W. Y. Lundie, & Co in the Railroad Warehouse.

Mr. Pettibone is a gentleman of long experience in business, who has been remarkably popular with his patrons; and we understand the Railroad company have been, thus far, exceedingly well pleased with him.

Our Circuit Court is just over, Judge J. B. MARTIN having presided. It will be recollected, that Judge Martin had procured Judge Mudd to hold this court, and try the cases in which Judge Martin had been employed—but while holding Tuscaloosa court, he heard that Judge Mudd was sick, and that this court would fail, unless he reached here by Wednesday at 3 o'clock of the first week. He left Tuscaloosa on Monday, and by extraordinary exertions, reached here Wednesday morning and opened the court. He closed the trial docket on Friday evening of the second week, and beyond controversy, has disposed of more business, than has been tried at any previous term of this court. Litigants were well convinced, by the imposition of costs, that they had to get their cases ready, or go out of court. The Judge has given entire satisfaction.

By the way, we learn, the bar have agreed in future, to try all Judge Martins cases by substituting a Lawyer in his stead. Even during this Term, many of his cases were tried by Chancellor Foster, by the consent of all concerned. So that in future we will have the services of our own Judge.

MR. GRANT,
Dear Sir:

It seems, as if the piney woods teacher has rather insulted Mr. Tax Collector's dignity, in his communication in your interesting Journal of the 30th Sept. From the manner in which he writes in his communication of the 27th of same instant; and more especially in Mr. Gaunt's, I suppose this has all grown out of his indifference to attend to the proper demands of his office, more than any other particular. Now if Mr. Tax Collector allows us to work by the rule of supposition, we are ready to admit that it is a pretty hard test to assail a public officer in a public journal; or even for a piney woods teacher to open his mouth against the acts of a Tax Collector; no sort of difference how much he may have fallen short of complying with the duties of his office, or how much soever this detestable class of people may stand in need of their hard and just earnings. For indeed Tax Collectors occupy a very high and elevated station, especially in such a county as Calhoun, where it pays so large amount of Taxes. But is it not a well known fact to Mr. Tax collector, that he has been notified by Mr. Dodson the proper authority to receive and distribute this fund, time and time again; that he wants this fund for the use it was intended. This I presume he will not pretend to gainsay; and regardless of these warnings, this thing has been postponed up to this late date; and yet not adjusted. Notwithstanding all this, this detestable class of people, as looked upon by Mr. Tax collector, must wait and wait, until their patience are worn entirely threadbare without saying one word, or ever make known their wants. We did not mean any harm in our first communication, and yet do not pretend to charge Mr. Tax Collector with anything, but indolence in his office. Notwithstanding all this, the piney woods teacher, unless he performed a wonderful prodigy in finding the location of Mr. Tax collector; not in Montgomery, as he thought or supposed, from the intelligence he had received, of his knowing patrons; but in "Bit Nose," a name quite appropriate to designate his manner of transacting business. I suppose Mr. Tax Collector thinks so too, if he did brand the piney woods teacher's communication with ignorance enough on its face to convict him of this fatal leprosy, before an intelligent jury. "Bit Nose," yes, Bit Nose is the name of the gentleman's location. Well this calls to my mind the expression of one of the piney woods teachers not very long since, when he was lamenting over his situation for the want of his money, for last years service. The expression was this, that he was bit when he voted for Mr. Tax collector the last time. Well if Mr. Tax collector's communication in your 27th Sept. has found its way to him in the piney woods, which I presume it has, he will find he is bit again, in as much as he will learn from it, that Mr. Tax collector has administered upon the piney woods teachers estate, and appointed himself their guardian. At the same time associating with him some of the knowing ones, as partners to constitute a firm, for the safe distribution of the school funds. Indeed, it is amusing to the piney woods teachers to see the conspicuous part the notable one of this firm bears to the rest —I—The prominent member of this firm, assumes to himself the appellation of big —I—and the rest of the firm little—U—However we have no objections to this, for we believe in public men, more especially where they have a fat office, of holding themselves in high repute We suppose from the distribution this firm, is going to make of the school fund; and particularly the first division. That big —I—and little—U—the Amanuensis of big—I—will constitute a firm sufficient to consume the first division; viz. in grog. So we may say to this piney woods teacher he is bit again. The piney woods teachers seem highly delighted with the second division of this charitable fund, provided they distribute as the firm proposes and not otherwise, to themselves. The second division goes to the poor, as proposed by the late firm of the school fund. Well and piney woods teache s are bound to receive a portion of it, for in reality we are the poorest class of people in all Christiandom. So boys take courage, do not despond, we are not so badly bitten in the second division, provided it is made soon; if not we are fearful the firm will want to borrow from the second to add to the first; grog is the go But as to the third we are fearful we are bit and bit all over. We take this for granted, from the long time this firm has had this fund on hand; and no sign of any Rail Road being built in Bit Nose, or even so much as located. Our greatest fear is, that it will go, or has gone to the benefit of that part of the Selma Road already completed for the importation of grog to Bit Nose. If this conjecture be true, boys, we are bit again. And every man to a man of us, should use our influence to have the road completed from Selma to Jacksonville as speedily as possible, so as to pass Bit Nose. For as long as the head of the Rail Road is below Bit Nose, it is a matter of impossibility for the grog that comes on it to arrive to any point, where we can get any part of it. From the manner in which he has thrown our ignorance into our countenance, in his communication, as a sign of transacting business, by taunts & threats, we may suppose and are bit again. He speaks of calling on us for our taxes a second time. But this is one of the times boys we happend to be smart enough to take the papers, which reads as follows.—Received of Piney woods teacher four and 70—100 dollars, in full of his taxes for the year 1859 &c., James Meharg T. C. of C. C. Now Mr. Tax collector, do not tell any more of your old piney woods anecdotes, in your next communication. They indeed are as old as the first piney woods settlement. There is where they had their origin, They are disgusting to us, and the old ladies out here seem to be surprised, that as old a thing as the one your hand introduced, as a slur upon us should have found its way to Bit Nose, at so late a date, where as intelligent a community resides; and where so many R Rs. are in contemplation. In conclusion Mr. Tax collector, will you be so kind as to let me dictate an anecdote for your next communication, which I think will please the boys, and one that will be news to us all. Come up like a gentleman, as we all believe you are, pay over to Mr. Dodson the proper authority to receive this fund; and let him call in the Trustees of this detestible people; and let them distribute it to us.

Yancey at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, September 26.—Hon. WM. L. YANCEY spoke at Easton, Maryland, yesterday. He was well received by a large audience, and created a profound sensation. It is alleged he made 200 converts to BRECKINRIDGE in the county. Mr. YANCEY embarked on board a steamer provided specially for the occasion, and was received with shouts of welcome and the firing of cannon. About 200 excursionists from Baltimore accompanied him. In consequence of the roughness of the weather, the boat failed to reach Easton until it was late in the afternoon. Mr. YANCEY immediately addressed the vast multitude, holding them spell bound by his eloquence for two hours.

His defence of himself against the charges of disunionism was satisfactory to his friends. He exposed freesoilism in all its nakedness, and alleged that Mr. BELL was tinctured with freesoilism. His dissection of DOUGLAS' squattersovereignty was merciless, holding it up to utter contempt; besides, he vigorously attacked LINCOLN, and SEWARD'S destructive doctrines. He endeavored to show that Mr. BRECKINRIDGE was really the only Union candidate in the field, and said that, without the Constitution, the Union was valueless. He was unreservedly in favor of the Constitution and the Union.

No speech ever produced a greater effect in Maryland, or was more generally admired than this effort of Mr. YANCEY. Many of the audience shed tears of joy; and when, in his sublime picture, he compared the fight now making by BRECKINRIDGE'S friends to the great charge of MCDONALD at the battle of Wagram, the enthusiasm knew no bounds. Mr. YANCEY speaks at Wilmington, Delaware, and Frederick, Maryland, this week. Then he goes to Virginia, where he will close his campaign.

Another Letter From Hon. L. M. Keitt.—The Charleston Mercury publishes another letter from Hon. Mr. Keitt of South Carolina which is calculated to exert considerable influence in that State. The gist of it is contained in the single declaration, that "if the Black Republican party succeeds in the coming election, the issues between the North and the South will be withdrawn from the Federal arena, and must be decided by the States themselves, as Sovereigns. In this contingency, my convictions of duty and policy are clear and well settled. I shall advise disunion promptly." The success of the Republican party Mr. K. regards as so imminent, that common prudence requires that the policy to be pursued in that event should be decided, as far as practicable. He continues as follows, predicting the consequences:—Journal of Commerce.

The success of the Black Republican party will develop a quarrel between the North and South, which no compromise can reach, and which submission will only aggravate. If the two sections were divined upon a mere question of material policy, generosity, forbearance, an enlightened sense of the common weal might, and probably would, harmonize them; but this quarrel stretches over government, society and morals. It is irreconcilable, because it has taken possession of the imagination and the conscience. That it is irreconcilable, is declared even by our enemies. The platform of the Republican party affirms that the social and industrial institutions of the South are disgraceful and must be destroyed. Its presses inflame Northern sentiment and unleash Northern hate against them. Its leaders proclaim that the "conflict is irrepressible," and can only end in the destruction of Northern or Southern society. Irreconcilable enmity is embodied in the very platform of the party. Inextinguishable hatred gleames all through the recorded declarations of its chieftains and flames out through the avowals of its nominees. * * *

I hold it then to be evident, both from its platform and principles, and from the declarations of its leaders that the Republican party must continue its warfare upon slavery, and that it would use the Federal Government to abolitionize the South. We cannot look to the Supreme Court for protection for it is pledged to reorganize that and even if it were not, it would be compelled to do it or reject its decisions. Believing that slavery is wrong, and that it is their duty to abolish it, and believing also that all power is in the hands of the majority, the Republicans could not pause before the decisions of the Court, any more than they have paused before the stipulations of the Constitution. We cannot look to the Senate for protection, for that body will soon be under their control. We cannot look to the House, for that is already abolitionized. Where then must we look for protection? I answer, to the States themselves. The States of the South must take their own safty into their own hands.

Mr. Keitt proceeds to show that the South, in the event supposed, would be as fully justified in resisting the power of the Northern majority, as were the colonies in declaring their independence of Great Britain. He asks:—"Are the spoliations, confiscations of property invasions of our soil, insults against our dignity, inroads upon our peace, dangers to our domestic tranquillity, less now, from the North, than they were, eighty years ago, from Great Britain?" And again:—

What protection does the Union give to slavery? Tell me a statue which guards it in the South! Tell me a statue which protects it in the Tertories! Tell me if the flag of the Republic, under Mr. Lincoln, will protect it on the high seas? Can we recover our negroes at the North? Northern statute books bristle with prohibitions and penalties against their recovery. Does the Union protect us against their abduction? We have lost more slaves by the theft of the Abolitionist in one year under the aupices of this "glorious Union," than the British army carried away from us all through the war. Does the Union protect us from the hostile invaders? Virginia still smokes with blood shed in the invasion of her soil. What domestic security does the Union give? Texas tells you in her burning villages, the ashes of her smoldering dwellings, and the graves of her butchered children. All the Southwest is telling you in poisoned wells, and midnight fires, and foul conspiracies hatched by Republican followers.

The right of secession is next considered and is found to be the only resource. He says:—

I believe, with the Republican party in power, that there can be neither peace nor tranquility in the Union. It is organized fanaticism, led by organized venality. Its shameful peculations, falsehoods, usurpations, intrigues and corruptions have disgraced the records of every State which it has controlled. Its members have been expelled from Congress for bribery, its Governors have been accused of swindling, its Legislatures have been convicted of embezzlements; its Judges have sold the law for a price, and its leaders have palliated their venality by the limits within which they confined it. Can the South look to these blistering records, and bear the domination of such a party? * *

In conclusion, I may be permitted to say, that I do not support Mr. Breckinridge because I believe him to be a disunionist. He is a Union man. On the question of the Union, I differ from him as widely as from Mr. Bell. I support him because I agree with him more nearly on the principles on which the Government should be administered. I shall be for disunion if Lincoln is elected, because then Mr Buchanan will be the last of the Constitutional Presidents. Despite the rancor of parties, the bitterness of faction, and the slander of enemies, Mr. Buchanan's administration has been pure and upright. Loyal to the Constitution, and true to the Republic, a statesman at home, and an American President in his intercourse with foreign nations, he, with his Cabinet, will leave to the world an example of fidelity and patriotism. The last of a line is oftentimes as patriotic as the first.

If Mr. Lincoln is elected, I shall urge disunion, because the South will be in danger from the principles and the policy of his administration. It is one of the essential characteristics of fanaticism, not to be undeceived by experience. If the South submits to Black Republican rule, her future is settled. A cloud of witnesses may rise up to convict Abolitionism of excess and terror, fields of bootless and sickening slaughter may appeal against its horrors; but still this party, encamped behind the Government, will drive on to the consummation of its aims. Slavery must be in the keeping only of the South. The Republican party would use the Union to withdraw it from such protection. Against that party I would, therefore, urge disunion, to defend an institution guarded by the records of the world; by the traditions of all mankind; by the logic of history and fitness of things; and, without which the South would sink down into chaos.

This language is unequivocal. Yet, without doubt, it receives the indorsement of a large proportion of the people of South Carolina.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Wm. Seward has declared that Lincoln will if elected to the Presedential chair, immediately issue an address to the people of the United States, setting forth his views of public policy, more especially in relation to the institutions of the South. In this way Lincoln hopes to quiet the fears of the South, and to prevent the secession of a single State.

The Douglas men here are terribly discouraged at the result of the election in Pennsylvania and Ohio. All hope has now deserted them, and it is generally conceded that Lincoln will be elected by the people in November. Senators Green, of Missouri, and Wigfall of Texas, have just arrived here; both are confident that their respective States will cast their electoral vote for Breckinridge.

The greatest excitement prevails here, owing to the Black Republican triumph in Pennsylvania The Lincoln men of this city are to have a grand demonstration in honor of the victory in Pennsylvania, which they consider decisive. Should the result be guilty of any breach of decorum or serious difficulties are anticipated.

Threats, North and South.

The threats from the South, are very different from the threats from the North. The threats from the South, in the matter of disunion, is to withdraw from association with the people of the North. It proposes to take nothing from the people of the North which is theirs. No right—not a liberty—not a single advantage, physical, moral or political, does it propose to take from the people of the North. It is simply, a threat of separation. On the other hand, the threats from the North are of coercion and slaughter—with a total annihilation of all self government or liberty in the South. Considered apart from all prejudices, it would appear most innocent and reasonable that a people, if they think fit, should withdraw from association with another people, and should govern themselves and their own destinies. If the people from whose association they desire to withdraw are neither plundered nor wronged by them in any way, why should their separation be objected to? No people can have any right to coerce a continued association with another people, simply on the ground that the association contributes to their interest or advancement. Even the principle of honesty and justice dictates that, if a people do coatribute, by the association with another people, to their benefit, they cannot be blamed for withholding it. If it was voluntary it can voluntarily be withdrawn. Donations cannot be converted into rights. But when to leave a voluntary association is denied as a right—whilst it is claimed as a right to coerce a continued association and the threat of violence and death put forth against the innocent people, who simply affect to control their own, in the separation they meditate,—it is clear that all conventional relations are broken down between the parties. Force, instead of assent, becomes the bond of union; and if the union is continued under such a threat, its subjects are tributaries, colonists, slaves.

And yet, whilst it is thus clear that the South, in her threats of separation from the North, purposes to leave untouched and unmolested every right and interest of the North, the answering threats of the North, are most aggressive, brutal and malignant. The sword and the scaffold are the instrumentalities they present to the Southern people, to obtain their continued association. The welfare of the South, is no longer a consideration in her union. The welfare of the North is the sole criterion—and that welfare, is to be watered and fattened by the blood of the peopleof the South.

STATE OF ALABAMA,
CALHOUN COUNTY.

In Grand Jury Room, Fall Term, 1860.

We, the Grand Jurors, empanelled for the County of Calhoun, beg leave to submit the following as our report.

1st. We have examined the County Jail, and regret exceedingly, since so much money has been expended on said Jail, that we are compelled to report the room known as the debtors room, badly out of repair, whereby the Sheriff to confine 13 white inmates in one cell; we therefore recommend to the proper authorities the propriety of repairing the damages done to the said room, and suggest to them, that ways should be provided for carrying off the filth that necessarily accumulates from such a number of prisoners, else the Sheriff will never be able to keep said jail in a healthy condition.

2nd. We have examined the office of the County Treasurer, and find the books kept in a correct and business like manner. A summary of the transactions for the last six months in this department, may be found in the following statement:

Amt. in Treasury April 21st 1860.	$911 38
Amt received since,	1031 93
	1943 31
Amt. paid out to present date,	1750 43
Leaving.	192 88

3d. We have examined the bonds of all our County Officers, with regard to their correctness, and sufficiency, and believe them to be correct and safe.

4th. We have inquired as far as possible into all indictable offences, committed in the county within the last twelve months, and while we have not been able to reach every case, we trust our labours may result in the suppression of crime, to some extent in our midst, and prove to those who offend the law, that "the way of the transgressor is hard."

5th. We cannot ask of the court a discharge from our labours, without thanking his Honor Judge Martin, for his able charge and courtesy shown to this body during the present sitting of the court, and at the same time express our unqualified admiration for the devotion which he manifested to his own people, in returning home so promptly when his circuit had been unavoidably abandoned.

6th. We also take great pleasure in tendering our thanks to our Solicitor, J. H. Caldwell, Esq. for his prompt, constant and kind attentions to our body during our labour; and for the faithful and energetic discharge of his duty as State's Attorney, in bringing the violators of law to just retribution for their crimes.

It is moved and seconded, that the foregoing be published in the Jacksonville papers.

TO THE PUBLIC.

HAVING recovered my health to a considerable extent, and being now able to work, I shall in future be found at my post, ready to attend to all calls, and to all orders for work, executed in the neatest, most fashionable and durable manner.

All kinds of

FURNITURE!

SUCH AS

BUREAUS,
WARDROBES,
TABLES,
SIDEBOARDS,
BOOK CASES,

AND THE BEST OF

COTTAGE BEDSTEADS!

Made on the best plan, mortised, tenanted and screwed together—you can't wear them out. I don't work on the plan of dowel-pinning and blacking bedsteads now in use. So bring in your orders and the money, and have them filled. It is impossible for a man to pay cash for materials, and sell on a credit, unless he had plenty of capital, and if he had that, I guess he would not want to work. So my terms are cash for all work when delivered

My experience in business enables me to make the best Bedsteads in use—proof against bed-bugs, so trouble some in this region.

All kinds of COFFINS made to order, and burials attended promptly—prices as low as those of any Cabinet maker who has served a regular apprenticeship at the business, and works at the trade for a living. I am not selling my prices by those who work one month at one trade and another month at another trade.

DR. MOTT'S CHALYBEATE PRESERVATIVE PILLS OF IRON

An apperient and Stomach preparation of IRON purified of Oxygen and Carbon by Combustion in Hydrogen. Sanctioned by the highest Medical Authorities, both in Europe and the United States and prescribed in their practice.

The experiences of thousands daily proves that no preparation of Iron can be compared with it. Impurities of the blood, depression of vital eneegy, pale and otherwise sickly complexions indicate its necessity in almost every conceivable case.

Innoxious in all maladies in which it has been tried, it has proved absolutely curative in each of the following complaints, viz:

In Debility, Nervous Affections, Emaciation Dys Pepsia, Consumption, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Incipient Consumption, Scrofulous Tuburculosis, Salt Rheum, Misenstruation, Whites, Chlorosis, Liver Complaints, Chronic Headaches, Rheumatism, Intermittens Fevers, Pimples on the Face, &c.

In cases of GENERAL DEBILITY, whether the result of acute disease, or of the continued diminution of nervous and muscular energy from chronic complaints, one trial of this restorative has proved successful to an extent which no description nor written attestation would render credible. Invalids so long bed-ridden as to have become forgotten in their own neighborhoods; have suddenly reappeared in the busy world as if just returned from a protracted travel in a distant land. Some very signal instances of this kind are attested of female Sufferers emaciated victims of apparent miniasmus, sanguineous exhaustion critical changes, and that complicated of nervous and dyspeptic aversion to air and exercise for which the physician has no name.

In NERVOUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds and for reasons familiar to medical men, the operation of this preparation of POETRY.

"Cut Out!"

It is many a year since I fell in love
With Jane Jerusha Skeggs,
The handsomest country girl by far
That ever went on legs.

By meadow, creek, and wood and dell,
So often we did walk,
And the moonlight smiled on her meeting lips,
And the night winds learned our talk.

Jane Jerusha was all to me,
For my heart was young and true,
And loved with a double and twisted love,
And a love that was honest, too.

I roamed all over the neighbor's farms,
I robbed the wildwood bowers,
And tore my trowsers and scratched my hands
In search of choicest flowers.

In my jovous love I brought all those
To my Jerusha Jane;
But I wouldn't be so foolish now,
If I were a boy again.

A city chap then came along
All dressed up in store clothes,
With a shiny hat and shiny vest,
And a moustache under his nose!

He talked to her of singing schools,
(For her father owned a farm,)
And she left me, the country love,
And took the new chap's arm.

And all that night I never slept,
Nor could I eat next day,
For I loved that girl with a fervent love,
That naught could drive away.

I strove to win her back to me,
But it was all in vain—
The city chap with the hairy lip
Married Jerusha Jane.

And my poor heart was sick and sore,
Until the thought struck me
That just as good fish still remained
As ever was caught in the sea.

So I went to the Methodist church one night,
And I saw a dark brown curl
Peeping from under a gipsy hat,—
And I married that very girl!

And many years have passed and gone,
And I think my loss my gain:
And I often bless that hairy chap
That stole Jerusha Jane!

GROWING OLD.—The dead are the only people that never grow old. Your little brother or sister that died long ago remains in death and remembrance, the same young thing, forever. It is fourteen years this evening, since the writer's sister left this world. She was fifteen years old then—she is fifteen years old yet. I have grown old, since then, by fourteen years, but she has never changed as they advanced; and if God spares me to foreseeure, I never shall think of her as other than the youthful creature when she faded—The other day I listened as a poor woman told of the death of her first born child. He was two years old. She had a small washing green, across which was stretched a rope that came in the middle close to the ground. The boy was leaningon the rope, swinging backwards and forwards, and shouting with delight. The mother went into the cottage and lost sight of him for a minute; and when she returned the little man was lying across the rope dead. It had got under his chin; he had not sense to push it away, and he was suffocated. The mother told me, and I believe truly, that she had never been the same person since then: she thought of her child as an infant of two years yet; it is a little child, she looks to meet at the gates of the Golden City. Had her child lived he would have been twenty years old now; he died, and he is only two; he is two yet; he will never be more than two. The little rosy face of that morning and the little half articulate voice, would have been faintly remembered by the mother, had they gradually died away into boyhood and manhood; but that stereotyped them: and they remain unchanged.

DEATH OF A TENNESSEE HERMIT.—The McMinnville (Tenn.) New Era announces the death, on the 25th ult., of Daniel West, the well known hermit of the mountains, at the age of seventy eight. He had lived for a number of years in the hollow of a large American poplar tree, in the opening of which he had fitted a rude door. In the centre of this hollow he would build his fire in winter & for cooking his plain meals. This hollow also served as his sleeping apartment, and it is said he slept in a sitting posture, reclining against the wall of his house. Adjoining or near to this tree he had a rude shed which he used as a workshop, where he manufactured chairs, boxes, cider mills, &c. He was a North Carolinian by birth, and was a soldier in the war of 1812. He was at the Mobile station when the battle of New Orleans was fought, and heard the booming of the guns.

Garibaldi in America.—On the 8th or 9th of September, 1853, the Peruvian bark Carmen arrived at Boston with a cargo taken on board at Isboy, Peru. Her commander was no less a personage than G. Garibaldi, then a simple captain of a trading vessel, now as the hero of Italy, and the subverter of thrones, occupying the attention of the entire civilized world. The signature at the bottom of the manifest at the Customhouse is in an elegant hand, showing that in this particular his education in youth had not been neglected. The Carmen was consigned to C. L. Bartlett, and the position of captain of the vessel was undoubtedly accepted by Garibaldi as a temporary occupation. It was the remark of the mate of the Carmen, in speaking of his commander, that he put his lightning or electricity into every one who was connected with him, and even his sailors would have jumped overboard to obey him. On shore in Boston he usually wore a plain citizen's dress with a Kossuth hat, but on shipboard his favorite costume was a sort of fez cap and sailor jacket. Garibaldi, as much as possible, avoided public observation, only on rare occasions was present at any large assemblage of people. He walked the streets in a contemplative mood, and he then had a very large correspondence with his patriot friends in Italy and those who had been expatriated for political cause and were residents of this country. He remained but a few weeks, when he left for New York, where he put the vessel in charge of the mate and embarked for Italy, where he has since remained.

THE JOHN BROWNITES IN TEXAS.

The following well authenticated and clearly proved document has been sent to us from Texas, by a gentleman from this city, who assures us that there can not be a particle of doubt as to its genuineness.

It is a startling and fiendish document which is quite worthy of the perusal of these credulous, easy-going citizens who have no anxieties about the South—no fear of any real design to interfere with our institutions by Northern emissaries.

From the following, which we find in the Fort Smith Herald we are pleased to learn that the writer of the document below has been caught:

N. O. Delta.

On Sunday last Rev. W. H. Bailey arrived here in the Overland, under charge of Mr. Johnson, an officer from Texas. The reverend gentleman it appears, is one of the disciples of the John Brown school, and has been engaged in the burning, stealing, etc., in our sister State. A reward of $3,000 had been offered for his delivery at Fort Worth.

The following is the letter sent to us, identifying this individual:

DENTON CREEK, TEXAS, July 3d, 1860.

Dear Sir—A painful abscess on my right thumb is my apology for not writing to you from Anderson. Our glorious cause is progressing finely as far south as Brenham. There I parted with Brother Wampler; he went still further south, he will do good wherever he goes. I traveled up through the frontier counties, (a part of the time under a fictitious name) I found many friends who had been initiated and understood the mystic rod. I met with a good number of our friends near Georgetown. We held a consultation and were unanimously of opinion that we should be cautious of our new associates—most of them are desperate characters and may betray us, as there are some slaveholders among them, and value the poor negro much higher than horses. The only good they will do us will be to destroy towns, mills, &c., which is our only hope in Texas at present. If we can break Southern merchants and millers, and have their places filled with honest Republicans, Texas will be an easy prey if we only do our duty. All we want, for the time, is the control of trade. Trade, assisted by preaching and teaching, will soon control public opinion. (Public opinion is mighty and will prevail) Lincoln will be elected; we will then have the Indian Nation, cost what it will; Squatter Sovereignty will prevail there as it has in Kansas. That accomplished we have but one more step to take, one more struggle to make—that is, free Texas. We will then have a connected link from the Lakes to the Gulf. Slavery will then be surrounded by land and water, and soon sting itself to death.

I repeat, Texas we must have, and our only chance is to break up the present inhabitants in whatever way we can. It must be done. Some of us will most assuredly fall in accomplishing our object, but our Heavenly Father will reward us for assisting him in blotting out the greatest curse on earth. It would be impossible for any of us to do an act that is as blasphemous, in the sight of God, as holding slaves. We must have frequent consultations with our co-workers—let your meetings be in the night—impress upon their clouded intellects the blessings of freedom; induce as many to leave as you can. Our arrangements for their accommodation to go North are better than they have been, but not so good as we would like. We need agents, both local and traveling. I will send out our traveling agents when I get home. You must appoint a local agent in every neighborhood in your District. I will recommend a few that I think will do to rely upon, viz: Bros. Leake, James Evans, McDaniel, Victory, Gobe, Nugent, Shaw, White, Gilford, Ashley, Drake, Meeks, Shults, and Newman. Brother Leake, the bearer of this, will take a circuitous route, and see many of our colored friends as he can. It is also recommended that a different mate be used about towns, &c. Our friends sent a very inferior article, they emit too much smoke, and don't contain enough camphene. They are calculated to get our friends hurt. I will send a supply when I go home. I will have to reprove you and your co-workers for your negligence in sending funds for our agents. But few have been compensated for their trouble. Our faithful correspondent and industrious agent, Brother Webber, has received but a trifle, not as much as an apprentice's wages, neither has Brothers Willets, Mangum and others.

You must call upon our colored friends for more money, they must not expect us to do all. They certainly will give every cent if they know how soon their shackles will be broken. My hand is very painful, and I will close.

Yours truly, WM. H. BAILEY.

N. B.—Brother Leake will give you what few numbers of Impending Crisis we have, also, Brother Summers's speech, and Brother Beecher's letters, &c. Farewell.

The State of Texas, County of Tarrant:

Personally appeared before me the undersigned authority, Parol Isbell, a man to me well known, who being duly sworn according to law, says the foregoing letter was found by George Grant, and himself near the residence of said Grant, six miles west of Fort Worth, near where a horse had been fed steadily as it seemed, and that said letter has not been out of their possession till now, and that it has not been altered in any respect whatever.

Given under my hand and the seal of Tarrant County Court this the 10th day August, A. D. 1860.

[L. S.] THOS. M. MATTHEWS, Deputy,
For G. Nance, Clerk of the County Court of Tarrant County, Texas.

I hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original letter now in my possession, except that some of the spelling has been corrected.

Learn in childhood, if you can, that happiness is not outside, but inside. A good heart and clear conscience bring happiness; no riches or circumstance at all can ever do.

☞ The fabulous Unicorn has been found by a traveler. He says it exists in the interior of Thibet, in India, where it is well known to the inhabitants. It is the same as the Unicorn of the Scriptures, and is mentioned by ancient writers. It is said to be about the size of the horse, and extremely wild. It is seldom, if ever caught—They have a horn projecting out from their forehead. They go in herds, and are to be met with on the borders of the Great Desert.

☞ A petrified fish, over sixteen feet in length, and very perfectly preserved, its scales and fins being distinctly marked, has been taken from the coal mine at Blue Mound, Kansas. Its specie has not been determined, but it is much larger than any fish now found in the Kansas rivers.

Unexampled Heroism — A Steamboat Pilot Burned to Death at the Wheel.

John B. Gough, the celebrated temperance lecturer, who has returned to the United States from a visit to his native England, related in one of his recent speeches the following thrilling incident:

John Maynard was well known in the lake district as a God-fearing, honest, intelligent pilot. He was a pilot on a steamer from Detroit to Buffalo one summer afternoon. At that time those steamers seldom carried boats. Smoke was seen ascending from below, and the captain called out, "Simpson, go down and see what that smoke is." Simpson came up with his face pale as ashes, and said "Captain, the ship is on fire!" Then "Fire! fire! fire! fire! on shipboard!" All hands were called up. Buckets of water were dashed on the fire, but in vain. There were large quantities of rosin and tar on board, and it was useless to attempt to save the ship. The passengers rushed forward and inquired of the pilot, "how far are we from Buffalo?" "Seven miles." "How long before we reach it?" "Three quarters of an hour, at her present rate of steam." "Is there any danger?" "Danger here—see the smoke bursting out! go forward, if you would save your lives!" Passengers and crew, men, women and children crowded the forward part of the ship. John Maynard stood at the helm. The flames burst forth in a sheet of fire; clouds of smoke arose; the captain cried out through his trumpet; "John Maynard!" "Aye, aye, sir!" "Are you at the helm?" "Aye, aye, sir!" "How does she head?" "Southeast by east, sir." "Head her southeast and run her on shore." Nearer, nearer, yet nearer she approached the shore. Again the captain cried out, "John Maynard!" The response came feebly, "Aye, aye, sir!" "Can you hold on five minutes longer?" "By God's help I will!" The old man's hair was scorched from the scalp; one hand disabled, his knee upon the stanchion, and his teeth set, with his other hand upon the wheel, he stood firm as a rock. He beached the ship—every man, woman and child was saved, as John Maynard dropped, and his spirit took its flight to his God.

TOBACCO FOR BOYS.—A strong and sensible writer admonishes us a wholesome dose for boys who use tobacco in any form, assuring them that tobacco has utterly spoiled and utterly ruined thousands of boys, imbruing a dangerous precocity, developing scheming and weakening of the brain and greatly injuring the spinal marrow, the brain, and the whole nervous fluid. A boy who early and frequently smokes, or in any way uses large quantities of tobacco, never is known to make a man of much energy or character, and generally lacks physical and muscular, as well as mental energy. We would particularly warn boys who want to be any body in the world, to shun tobacco as a most baneful poison.

THE GAME OF EUCHRE AND LIFE.—AN ARKANSAS FATHER'S ADVICE TO HIS SON.—There is a genuine humor in the idea that an Arkansas man finds the most natural expression, even of parting advice to his son, in the language of the card table, and the manner in which the terms of the game of "euchre" are there fitted to the game of life is ingenious:

"Bob, you are about leaving home for strange parts. You're going to throw me out of the game, and go it alone. The odds is against you, Bob, but remember always that industry and perseverance are the winning cards; they are the 'bowers.' Book larning and all that sort of thing will do to fill up with, like small trump, but you must have the bowers to buck 'em, else they ain't worth shucks. If luck runs again you pretty strong, don't cave in and look like a sick chicken on a rainy day, but hold your head up and make 'em bel eve you're flush of trumps; they won't play so hard again you.

"I've lived and traveled around some, Bob, and I've found out that as soon as folks thought you held outa weak hand, they'd back again you strong. So, when you're sorter weak, keep on a bold front, but play cautious, be satisfied, with a p'int. Many's the hand I've seen euchred 'cause they played for too much. Keep your eyes well skinned, Bob; don't let 'em nigh on you; recollect the game lays as much with the head as with the hands. Be temperate; never get drunk, for then no matter how good your hand, you won't know how to play it; both bowers & the ace won't save you, for there's sartin to be a miss deal or something wrong. And another thing Bob (this was spoken in a low tone), don't go too much on the women; queens is kinder poor cards; the more you have of them the worse for you; you might have three and nary trump. I don't say discard 'em all; if you get hold of one that's a trump, it's all good, and there's sartin to be one out of four. And above all, Bob, be honest; never play a man's trick wot don't belong to you, nor slip cards, nor rig, for then you can't look your man in the face, and when that's the case there's no fun in the game; it's a regular 'cut throat.' So now, Bob, farewell, remember wot I tell you, and you'll be sure to win, and if you don't, serves you right to get skunked!"

A true sketch.—The Hon. T. H. BENTON, (says an exchange,) with all his faults of self will, was a man of splendid talents, high personal character, and a most excellent judge of human nature. Like MACAULEY, he studied books and men, and boldly expressed his opinions on all subjects. Whilst busy in political life, he formed his opinion of DOUGLAS, and, in a speech to the people of Missouri, when a candidate for Governor, he thus describes DOUGLAS as a shallow demagogue.

Read the following extract:

"Fellow-citizens," he said, "you have all heard of the colossus at Rhodes. If you have not, I will tell you about it. The colossus was a huge statue of gigantic proportions. It was so large that it stood with one foot in Turkey & the other upon the Island of Rhodes, and large vessels passed with sails full spread between its legs without touching. Fellow-citizens, Stephen Arnold Douglas in the excess of his vanity, imagines himself some huge colossus, and would fain stretch his little short legs across the Mississippi, and with one foothold at one and the same time upon free and slave territory. Yea, so great is his vanity that he verily believes that while in his position one of our huge Western steamers could pass without touching side or bottom between his feet. But, fellow-citizens, he will find himself mistaken. The people of these United States have too much sagacity ever to permit themselves to be imposed upon so far as to elect this little double-dealing demagogue to the Chief Magistracy of the nation. When he comes to make the actual experiment of putting himself in the position of the huge colossus, he will find to his chagrin that his little legs are too short—he can't reach. And, if he persists in his mad endeavors, he will find himself, ere he is awake, cast headlong, like that huge statute was, and stuck so deep in the mud that he will never be able to extricate himself again."

Whipping an Abolitionist.

An abolitionist named Bagley, near Uniontown, Perry county, Ala., was apprehended on the night of the 1st of October, on a public road, and whipped by individuals in disguise; for having uttered the following language in the presence of a respectable citizen:

"If the Union is dissolved and a civil war ensues, I will be damned if I do not go North, shoulder my musket and fight against the South; there is no one here that I care a damn about any way, except my wife, and I can very conveniently carry her with me. My folks are all North, and I will be damned to h—ll if I don't fight against the South as long as there is any necessity for it."

Afterwards a public meeting of the citizens of Uniontown was held and the chastisement of Bagley cordially approved.

A resolution was also adopted denouncing the editor of the Selma (Ala.) Sentinel for an attempt, as the resolution asserted, to make political capital out of the affair.

CRIME IN ST LOUIS.—Another man was murdered in St Louis on Monday last. His name was Hall. A rowdy insulted his wife—he resented it, and was waylaid by two men, and stabbed fatally. On Wednesday, William Sullivan was convicted of the murder of Timothy Corcoran, and sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty five years. On the same day H Zoumesky was convicted of the murder of his wife. All the witnesses called to the stand to testify in this case corroborated the horrible recital of facts given at the coroner's inquest. The brutal wretch approached his sick and helpless wife while she lay in bed, and struck her repeatedly over the head and arms with a heavy chair, the poor woman all the time crying for help and begging for mercy. The husband, however, was deaf to the heart-rending appeals, and continued his blows until she was rendered quite unconscious. She soon after died. Zoumesky was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, showing that in St. Louis the life of a female is held, at a discount of more than sixty per cent, when compared with that of a male.

Great Storm at New Orleans.—New Orleans, October 4.—There was a very severe storm on Tuesday. Fifty canal boats were swamped, and eleven miles of the Jackson Railroad was swept away. A great many houses and lives were lost; and sugar mills and crops were destroyed.

The State Election.

Since the reception of the election news from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, all eyes are turned upon New York, as the only hope of the Union. The great "Key Stone" of the Ark has fallen out, and unless replaced by the "Empire State," it is feared the ark will crumble. Pennsylvania, hitherto faithful to Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Polk, Pierce, and Buchanan, has yielded to the storm of abolition fanaticism, and a desire for unequal and unjust protective tariff taxation, and thrown all the responsibility, and all the changes for the glory of preserving the Union upon her rival commercial sister, the "Empire State." Never, perhaps, was a state burthened with more responsibility, or holds a more splendid destiny. It is well that it has fallen on so great a state—one that has so much to win or lose. But will she be equal to the occasion? We believe she will. Having just previous to these elections, waded steadily up, through all the difficulties and opposition of corrupt and selfish political leaders to the formation of a fusion ticket, we believe that she will triumphantly sustain that ticket, and thus at least, defeat the election of a Black Republican by the people. We feel the more confident that New York will do this, since the elections in other States have gone as they have, and she feels the pressure of the great responsibility. While there were others, with whom to divide the responsibility, some of her citizens might have wavered, or been influenced by minor considerations, but now they cannot; without the shadow of a subterfuge, they must meet all their responsibilities full in the face. Failing to be elected by the people, who have no fears of Lincoln's elections by the House. At this time it would be difficult, in fact there is no necessity for the formation or ex- pression of any divided opinion as to who will be elected.

The Banner County.
Turn Out--Turn Out !!

As the next will be the most important and momentous election ever held since the formation of our government, we hope that no man who is entitled to a vote will fail to turn out and cast it for the ticket of his choice. Partisan politicians may boast, but the election returns are the true tests relied on, for the real state of public opinion and the strength of parties.

Let none be discouraged because they may think their vote against the Black Republican candidate will be in vain—nor be rendered lukewarm in this County, because so much like a jug handle, all on one side. We should like to see every Southern voter united; but if this cannot be, we want to see the true strength of Breckinridge, Douglas and Bell. There is one very potent reason which should not be overlooked, when every voter who can get to the polls should do so. Our Legislature, made it the duty of the Governor, in the case of the election of a Black Republican, to order an election for a State Convention. That Convention, if convened, ought to have the most accurate knowledge of the state of public sentiment, and can obtain it in no other way except by reference to the vote.

Besides, our friends believe that Calhoun will be the Banner County of the State for Breckinridge and Lane—let all turn out then and prove it fully.

☞ Come out, and encourage every lukewarm neighbor to do the same.

Change of Opinion.—The Rome Southerner, the Douglas organ of that city, seems recently all at once, to have gotten over its fright about the "Breckinridgers" dissolving the Union—it says: "These bolters, having split up the party and elected Lincoln, will not have the courage to propose to carry out what they intend, a dissolution of the Union. They already look white about the gills, and exhibit weakness in the knees."

Well, we thought all along that it was the Bell-Ever-Douglasites, that were "white about the gills" and exhibited "weakness in the knees" from the wolfery they made about "dissolution of the Union," and we might have been alarmed about the effect of such terrors upon them, if we had not known that the cry was all hypocritical. But now that this harp of a single string is broken, and hung upon the willows, they turn upon and abuse them for want of courage to accomplish the mischief.

Again, in speaking of the certainty of Lincolns election, the Southerner says: "We make a prediction, that the Breckinridgers, not only, dont dissolve, but that there is not a dozen of them but what will hold on to their offices under him."

Why did not the Southerner make this prediction long ago, and relieve the "orful" fears of its brethren? What a pity that these "Breckinridgers" will not do something desperate, to cheer the drooping spirits and revive the hopes of their forlorn and despondeing enemies. Could they not be induced to get into a towering passion, "swear terribly, like the army in Flanders," rush into the back yard and "tear a board off the pig pen?"

Opportunity for a good Investment.—The attention of persons who may wish to make a good and safe investment of money, is respectfully and particularly invited to the advertisement of Messrs. Bush, Williams, Woodward, Ryan, Rowland and Whatley, who are the Corporators of the Jacksonville Insurance Company. The books of subscription are now open, and will remain open for some time; but if the requisite amount is not subscribed by the 4th of November, the charter will be forfeited. The charter, which may be found on page 172 of the acts, is a very liberal one. We are requested to say that all who intend to take stock, should do so as speedily as possible.

As this Institution will be of great advantage to the business of our Town, and doubtless add greatly to its prosperity, we hope its friends will not suffer the charter to be forfeited.

Atlanta and Jacksonville Railroad.—We having omitted heretofore, in the press of business, to call especial attention to the advertisement inviting proposals for the grading and masonry of the first 50 miles of the Georgia Western Railroad, extending from Atlanta into Harralson County.

The work is to be executed in a very healthy section, where supplies and implements can be easily obtained, and presents many other advantages and inducements to Contractors. We hope it may all be promptly taken and as promptly executed.

The Board of Directors and Engineers, are very energetic and anxious to push forward the work. We understand that they have lately written to the President of our Road, Hon. T. A. Walker, expressing a great desire to have the remainder of the road located and let out to contract.

☞A trip to the North, during the past few months, it seems, has been an excellent schooling for Southern politicians. It is said that Southerners who have visited the North, even on political errands, have become convinced while there, that political divisions here in the South, have only had a tendency to increase the impudence, arrogance and aggressive spirit of Northern Abolitionists; and they have returned determined to drop all minor differences, discard all prejudice, and go for a distinctive Southern ticket

Dalton and Jacksonville Railroad.—We are truly much pleased to learn from the Rome papers, that the difficulties heretofore existing between the Rome and Dalton Railroad companies have all been removed, and a satisfactory agreement entered into. By this agreement the Dalton Road will come by Rome, and the resources and energies of the two companies be united to push on the work to an early completion.

☞We invite the particular attention of persons who may wish to have drawings of buildings, Machinery, &c. executed in superior style, and also buildings superintended, lands and lots, surveyed, mapped &c., to the card of Messrs Bohmer & Koster, in another column.

A Modern Prophet.—A man by the name of Jacob Greenwood, 79 years of age, writes from starkville, Georgia, to the New York Express, that he has for three years possessed the ken of prophecy, and that the affairs of coming events are freely and unreservedly presented to his mind. His pretensions will of course excite ridicule, but in attestation of their truth he says he predicted the recent affair at Truxillo, the fires in Texas, and the political fusion in New York—and now, although the prospects forbodes a different result, he says he is willing to stake the reputation of his profession upon the prediction that the fusion ticket of New York will carry the largest vote in the coming election—and that Gen Garrabaldi will not survive the 1st of January 1861.

Jacksonville Post Office.—Dr. J. R. Slayton, having recently resigned the Office of Post Master at this place, the Post-Master general has appointed Mr. F. H. Goodwin, to fill the vacancy. The Post Office will be continued at Dr. T. N. Anglin's Drug Store, where Mr. G. will have very prompt and efficient assistants.

☞The Confederation advises the Douglas men to "stand firm." We hope they will; for if they do not, in the South they will go for Bell, and in the North for Lincoln.

BY SECTIONS TO BRECKINRIDGE.—On all sides Southern men heretofore acting with the Bell party, are coming out for Breckinridge—as it is evident the contest is between him and Lincoln and that all others are out of the race. In Macon county, we learn that seven or eight respectable and intelligent citizens have taken this view of the matter; all neighors are acting together. We think this will be the course adopted generally by the South.

Public Meeting.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic public meetings ever held in Uniontown, composed of citizens of the village and surrounding community, without distinction of party, was held this day (Oct. 8th,) to take into consideration the purport of an article published in the Alabama State Sentinel, under date of Oct 8, 1860, and headed "A Vicious Outrage."

On motion of Wm. O. Hudson, Mr. Wm. L. Davidson was called to preside over the meeting, and Jas. G. Hudson requested to act as secretary.

The object of the meeting having been stated by Col. J. L. Price, in an appropriate speech, on motion, the following preamble and resolutions were offered by Dr R. Clarke and unanimously adopted, to wit:

Whereas, It is known that one Jas. G. Bagley was, on the night of the 1st of October; apprehended on the public road, near Uniontown and whipped, by individuals in disguise and,

Whereas, It is generally understood that the said punishment was inflicted upon him in consequence of his using the following language in the presence of a respectable citizen to wit;—"If the Union is dissolved and civil war ensues, I will be damned if I do not go North, shoulder my musket, and fight against the South; there is no one here that I care a damn about except my wife, and I can conveniently carry her with me. My folks are all North, and I will be damned to h—ll if I don't fight against the South as long as there is any necessity for it," and,

Whereas, It is reported on good and reliable authority that he had, on various occasions made use of similar language. Now therefore, we the citizens of Uniontown and vicinity, without distinction of party, in public meeting assembled, do adopt the following resolutions as embodying our sense of the transaction:

Resolved, That we cordially approve and sanction the acts of those persons who inflicted the punishment on said Bagley.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Committee are due to and are hereby tendered to the unknown persons who assumed the responsibility of inflicting upon him this well merited punishment due to the utterance of such sentiments, by one living in a Southern community.

Resolved, That we have no sympathy with or regard for any person who would espouse the cause of said Bagley, or deprecate the action of those persons who inflicted the punishment on him.

Resolved, That the efforts of John Hardy of the Selma Sentinel, to make political capital out of this affair, by attempting to create the impression that Bagley was punished for the reason that he was favorable to the election of "BELL," is unworthy of any man conducting a public journal, pretending to respectability.

Resolved, That a copy if this preamble and resolutions be forwarded to the Montgomery advertiser, Selma issue, Marion Commonwealth, Mobile Mercury and Canebrake Herald, for publication, and that all papers opposed to the utterance of such sentiments as those uttered by said Bagley be requested to copy.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

WM. L. DAVIDSON, President.

The Great Mass-Meeting at Selma.

Unbounded enthusiasm for Constitutional Equality—Judge and Rice address the vast Multitude—Their speeches received with great enthusiasm—The Mountain Democracy come down—Great Speeches by Scott, of Calhoun and Brooks, of Perry.

SELMA, Oct. 19, 1860.

The great State mass-meeting which commenced yesterday, is in numbers and enthusiasm unparalleled in the history of any previous campaign. Never before have the old camp-fires of the true Democracy burned so brightly, or the uprising of the masses been so great. Early on yesterday, the people commenced coming in. They came from the upper counties in immense numbers—and by every conceivable mode of conveyance. Shelby, Bibb, Talladega, Calhoun, Cherokee, Perry, Marengo, Lowndes, and Wilcox, all sent large delegations—each having banners with appropriate inscriptions, breathing the most patriotic sentiments. I must not forget to notice one of the banners borne by the delegation from the eastern frontier of this county. It bore this inscription on one side: "The Constitution and the equality of the States;" on the other,

ALABAMA—WILLIAM L. YANCEY.

When this was put up near the stand, the vast multitude rose to their feet, and gave three hearty cheers for Mr. Yancey.

At about 12 o'clock yesterday, the vast mul itude assembled around Gee's Hotel, and were addressed in a short, but stirring and eloquent speech by Governor Moore, after which Col. Joe Bibb was introduced, and made a brief and forcible speech, highly delighting the crowd. Capt. Thos. E. Irby was called out, and responded lively, in his usual earnest and telling style.

After dinner, the procession formed and marched to Weaver's Grove, where arrangements had been made for the speaking. Hon. Thomas J. Judge, of Montgomery was introduced to the vast assemblage of ladies and gentlemen, and for over two hours, he held them spellbound by an effort of great power and eloquence. It created the greatest enthusiasm for the cause of the Constitution and the equality of the States. The eloquent orator was cheered throughout the delivery of the speech, and at its close, the multitude gave three times three cheers for Thomas J. Judge.

Judge Rice spoke last night. It was by all conceded to be a powerful and truly eloquent speech. The most intense enthusiasm was aroused. When he exposed the negro equality doctrines of Everett, and advocated resistance to the fanatical crew of Lincoln in the event of his election, the ladies threw him bouquets, and the multitude, demonstrated, their approval of the speaker's sentiment, by great and prolonged cheering. At the conclusion of the speech, Col. N. H. R. Dawson, on behalf of the ladies of Selma, presented Judge Rice with a magnificent bouquet, for which he returned, his most grateful acknowledgements.

The assembly were also addressed by Messrs. Thomas Phelan, of Perry, Holman, of Wilcox, Chatman, of Talladega, and Bibb of Montgomery.

This morning, on reassembling, Gov. Moore, Hon. John T. Morgan and Col. N. H. R. Dawson, were presented with beautiful bouquets by the ladies of Selma, in token of their zealous services in behalf of the Constitutional rights of the South. They each responded in gallant and appropriate style returning thanks for the honor conferred.

Let it be Remembered.

That John Bell of Tennessee, the Opposition candidate for President, voted, in 1836 and 1838, for the reception of Abolition petitions by Congress, and that he was the only Southern member who thus voted against his section.

Let it be remembered, that whenever this subject was brought before Congress, John Bell voted always side by side with John Quincy Adams and Joshua R. Giddings, rank abolitionists.

Let it be remembered that John Bell voted against the repeal of that odious restriction upon the South—the Missouri Compromise—and against the Kansas-Nebraska bill, and that the American party of Georgia, in Convention, declared that any man, thus voting, was unworthy of Southern confidence or of association with any political party at the South.

Let it be remembered, that John Bell voted for the admission of California, voting against such men as Berrien, Barnwell, of S. C., Butler, Clemens, Davis, of Miss., Dawson and others and with such men as Chase, of Ohio HAMLIN, of Maine, Seward, of New York, and Winthrop, of Massachusetts.

Let it be remembered, that, in 1838, John Bell, then a Senator in Congress, voted against the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution, and that all the parties at the South had previously declared that a refusal to admit Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution would be a violation of a "great" and "plain" Constitutional right.

Let it be remembered, that John Bell has repeatedly, within the last two years, announced publicly that he WOULD COALESCE WITH THE BLACK REPUBLICANS to save the Union:

Let it be remembered, that John Bell has lately been interrogated by a committee, appointed by a large and respectable convention of the opposition party of Alabama, as to whether he is in favor of protection of the rights of slave property in the territories, and that he has refused to answer.

Let it be remembered, that John Bell was prominently spoken of as a candidate for the Black Republican nomination at Chicago.

Let it be remembered, that the platform of the party which nominated John Bell is, as far as it goes, identical with that of the Black Republican party, both professing to sustain the Constitution, the Union and the enforcement of the laws.

Let it be remembered, that Edward Everett, the opposition candidate for Vice President, subscribed to a testimonial to Charles Sumner, the notorious abolitionist and foul mouthed calumniator of the South, after he was justly caned by the lamented Brooks.

Let it be remembered, that this same Edward Everett said, in a letter written long afterwards, that he agreed with this slanderous liar, Sumner, "in the main line of his arguments," which argument was an attempt to prove that Southern slaveholders were inhuman, immoral, barbarous, dishonest and dishonorable.

Let it be remembered, that Edward Everett voted for a resolution declaring that the rights of humanity, the claims of justice, and the common good alike, demand the suppression by Congress of the slave trade carried on in & through the District of Columbia.

Let it be remembered, that Edward Everett voted for a resolution declaring that Congress has, by the Constitution, power to abolish slavery in the Territories of the United States

Let it be remembered, that Edward Everett voted for a resolution declaring that no new State shall hereafter be admitted into the Union whose Constitution or from of Government shall permit the existence of domestic slavery therein.

Let it be remembered, that Edward Everett voted for a resolution declaring that Congress has, by the Constitution, power to abolish the traffic of slaves between the States of the Union and that the exercise of this power is demanded by the principles of humanity and justice

Let it be remembered, that John Bell, of Tennessee, a native of a slave State, but all his life long a friend and ally of the North, has been selected as a fit and proper candidate to run on the ticket with Edward Everett, whose record is fairly stated in the foregoing paragraphs

With all these facts staring them in the face, can Southern men vote for Bell and Everett?

One of the humanitarian movements of our times although little known as such can hardly be over estimated in its importance upon the well being of our widely scattered communities. The population of the Americans States is in many sections so sparse, that skillful Physicians are hardly available to them. Vast numbers of our people, are obliged to go play in sickness, such medical relief as they can hear of from each other or indeed any they can get from any quarter. Hence arises the great consumption of Patent Medicines among us, greater by far than in any of the old countries, where skillful physicians are accessible to all classes. Unprincipled men have long availed themselves of this necessity, to palm off their worthless nostrums until the word has become synonimous with imposition and cheat One of our leading Chemists in the East Dr. Ayer, is pursuing a course which defeats this iniquity. He brings not only his own, but the best skill of our times to bear, for the production of the best remedies which can be made. These are supplied to the world, in a convenient form at low prices, and the people will no more buy poor medicines instead of good, at the same cost, than they will bran instead of flour. The inviable consequence of this is that the vile compounds that flood our country are discarded for those which honestly accomplish the end in view,—which cure. Do we over estimate its importance, in believing that this prospect of supplanting the by-word medicines, with those of actual worth and virtue, is fraught with immence consequence for good, to the masses of our people. Gazette and Chronicle, Penn.

THE VOTE OF CAMDEN, ALABAMA.—As the newspapers in different towns throughout the country have been giving the political complexion of their respective places by taking votes &c., we concluded the other day to ascertain how our little GEM, Camden, stood, and after some investigation and consultation, we believe we have arrived at the matter almost as clearly as we could by a regular balloting. We find in the corporate limits 116 voters, which will vote at the November election, as follows:

Breckinridge	94
Bell	21
Douglas	1

Another Aeronaut.—Another aspirant for aeronautic fame has sprung up in the person of Mr C C. Coe, of Rome, New York who is making preparations for a balloon voyage to Europe. He has just completed a monster baloon in which to make the trip, and will start at an early day. It is called the United States, and is the largest ever constructed, being nearly three times larger than Lowe's. It will hold 1-731, 000 feet of gas, is 280 feet high, 118 feet in diameter, and has a lifting power of 69.0 00 pounds.

POLITICAL NEWS.—The Louisville (Ky.) Curier states that when Mr. Douglas was in that city he was waited on by a committee of Bell men from Tennessee, who urged him to visit and speak in that State before the election. Mr Douglas would make no appointment, but promised to speak in that State if he could make his arrangements to do so. The Courier also learns, upon unquestionable authority, that one of this committee said, while in the city, to some friends with whom he was talking about the matter, that the reason they wanted Douglas in Tennessee was, bat Bell was in a tight place, and Douglas could distract the Democracy, and has enable them (the Bellgerines) to carry the State!

STATE OF ALABAMA,
CALHOUN COUNTY.

In Grand Jury Room, Fall Term, 1860.

We, the Grand Jurors, empannelled for the County of Calhoun, beg leave to submit the following as our report.

1st. We have examined the County Jail, and regret exceedingly, since so much money has been expended on said Jail, that we are compelled to report the room known as the debtors room, badly out of repair, forcing the Sheriff to confine 13 white inmates in one cell; we therefore recommend to the proper authorities the propriety of repairing the damages done to the said room, and suggest to them, that ways should be provided for carrying off the filth that necessarily accumulates from such a number of prisoners, else the Sheriff will never be able to keep said jail in a healthy condition.

2nd. We have examined the office of the County Treasurer, and find the books kept in a correct and business like manner. A summary of the transactions for the last six months in this department, may be found in the following statement:

Amt. in Treasury April 21st 1860.	$911 38
Amt. received since,	1031 93
	1943 31.
Amt. paid out to present date,	1750 43
Leaving,	192 88

3d. We have examined the bonds of all our County Officers, with regard to their correctness, and sufficiency, and believe them to be correct and safe.

4th. We have inquired as far as possible into all indictable offences, committed in the county within the last twelve months, and while we have not been able to reach every case, we trust our labours may result in the suppression of crime, to some extent in our midst, and prove to those who offend the law, that "the way of the transgressor is hard."

5th. We cannot ask of the court a discharge from our labours, without thanking his Honor Judge Martin, for his able charge and courtesy shown to this body during the present sitting of the court, and at the same time express our unqualified admiration for the devotion which he manifested to his own people, in returning home so promptly when his circuit had been unavoidably abandoned.

6th. We also take great pleasure in tendering our thanks to our Solicitor, J. H. Caldwell, Esq. for his prompt, constant and kind attentions to our body during our labour; and for the faithful and energetic discharge of his duty as State's Attorney, in bringing the violators of law to a just retribution for their crimes.

It is moved and seconded, that the foregoing be published in the Jacksonville papers.

The Quarter Place, adjoining the Home Places, comprises about 823 Acres of Land—295 Acres of which is Fine Bottom—215 of the Bottom in a high state of cultivation—about 60 acres of upland open on this place—fine quarter improvements, and fine Gin House and Screw on the premises.

The Gadsden Place, is situated immediately opposite the Town of Gadsden, and comprises about Eight Hundred and Seventy-five Acres of Land—350 acres of which is FINE BOTTOM LAND—about 250 acres of open land on this place. The Alabama & Tennessee River Rail Road is located through this place, and the contract is made for the completion of the Road to Gadsden by the 1st of October, 1861. The Improvements on this place are good, and its contiguity to the flourishing Town of GADSDEN adds much to the value of the place.

This sale presents a rare chance to parties wishing to purchase Improved Coosa River Lands. The lands are mostly fresh, and were selected by Maj. Thornton on account of the Health of the locations and the Fertility of the Lands—Maps of all the Lands can be seen at the office of R B. Kyle, Gadsden, Ala; and any information given that parties may desire, in connection with the Lands.

Sale to take place at the late residence of Dozier Thornton, deceased.

There are about 2000 Acres of Fine Lands adjoining the Home Place and Quarter Place, that will be sold in quantities to suit purchasers, so that parties could add to either of those places

JUDSON'S

Mountain Herb Pills

ABOVE, we present you with a perfect likeness of Yeowo, a chief of a tribe of the strange Aztec Nation that once ruled Mexico. You will find a full account of him and his people in our Pamphlets and Almanacs—both of which are given away gratis, from the Agents for these Pills.

The inventor and manufacturer of "Judson's Mountain Herb Pills," has spent the greater part of his life in traveling, having visited nearly every country in the world. He spent over six years among the Indians of the Rocky Mountains and of Mexico, and it was thus that the "Montezuma Hair Dye" were discovered. A very interesting account of his adventures there, you will find in our Almanac and Pamphlet.

It is an established fact, that all diseases arise from

IMPURE BLOOD!

The blood is the life! and when any foreign or unhealthy matter gets mixed with it, it is at once distributed to every organ of the body. Every nerve feels the poison, and all the vital organs quickly complain. The stomach will not digest the food perfectly. The liver ceases to secrete a sufficiency of bile. The action of the heart is weakened, and so the circulation is feeble. The lungs become clogged with the poisonous matter; hence, cough—and all from a slight impurity at the fountain head of life—the Blood! "As if you had thrown some earth, for instance, in a pure spring, from which ran any rivulet, in a few minutes the whole course of the stream becomes disturbed and discolored. As quickly does impure blood fly to every part, and leave its stain behind. All the passages become obstructed, and unless the obstruction is removed, the lamp of life soon dies out. These pills not only purify the blood, but regenerate and the secretions of the body; they are, therefore, universale as a

CURE FOR BILIOUS DISEASES,

Liver Complaint; Sick Headache, &c. This Anti-Bilious Medicine expels from the blood the hidden seeds of disease and renders all the fluids and secretions pure as burst, clearing and resuscitating the vital organs.

Pleasant indeed, is it to us, that we are able to place within your reach, a medicine like the "MOUNTAIN HERB PILLS," that will go directly to the afflicted parts through the blood and fluids of the body, and cause the sufferer to brighten with the flush of beauty and health.

Judson's Pills are the Best Remedy in correspondence for the following Complaints:

Bowel Complaints,	Debility,	Inward Weakness
Coughs,	Fever and Ague,	Liver Complaints,
Colds,	Female Complaints	Lowness of Spirits,
Chest Diseases,	Headaches,	Piles,
Costiveness,	Indigestion,	Stone and Gravel,
Dyspepsia,	Influenza,	Secondary Symptoms.
Diarrhœa,	Inflammation,
Dropsy.

GREAT FEMALE MEDICINE

Females who value health, should never be without these Pills. They purify the blood, remove obstructions of all kinds, cleanse the skin of all pimples and blotches and bring the rich color of health to the pale cheek.

☞The Plants and Herbs of which these Pills are made, were discovered in a very surprising way among the Toracans, a tribe of Aborigines in Mexico. Get the Almanac of our Agent, and you will read with delight the very interesting account it contains of the "GREAT MEDICINE" of the Aztecs.

Observe.—The Mountain Herb Pills are put up in Beautiful Wrapper. Each box contains 40 pills, and Price 25 cents per box. All genuine, have the signature of B. L. JUDSON & CO., on each box.
