cession or submission. The Black Republics, are firm and unyielding in position to any compromise or concession, and emphatically declare they have no new guarantees to offer to the South. In this determination they have no doubt been greatly strengthened by the compromise and co-operation of the South, in whose course they see nothing but division, indifference and weakness. The border States are aroused to an assertion of their rights by the time our conventions, which is now probable, our convention will have nothing else that we can do, except to co-operate with North Carolina in doing something or nothing, the border States in doing nothing. I am sure we can do it but it will be the former. Then the border States will be left to choose between compromise or submission.

The citizens of Brook Siding and vicinity met in Convention at Brook Siding on the 21st inst., for the purpose of an expression of sentiment, in regard to the momentous political affairs of the country, and for the more express purpose of submitting for publication the proceedings of a late march upon the Legislature, by the citizens of the State Convention.

He would never give up his old dream of a republic with "Less Democracy than the present Republic." The South did not intend to leave the Union. The Government might be broken up, but she would remain under the Constitution, and defend her rights. She would cling to the Union as she clung to life, and she would stand at the head of the nation's election no matter how dark and gloomy the clouds around her. He declared Lincoln's election no cause for disunion, and concluded by quoting, "The Federal Union, it must and shall be preserved." — He would give himself to save the Union.

Dr. BACHMAN, advanced forward with upraised hands, in prayer to Almighty God, for His blessing and favor in this great act of His people, about to be consummated. The words of the prayer were to be repeated with hats off, listened to the touching and eloquent appeal to the All-Wise Disposer of events. At the close of the prayer the President advanced with the consecrated parchment upon which was written the decision of the States with the "Great Seal of the United States" and solemnly it was read unto the people—"dissolve!"—when men could contain themselves no longer, and it soon shone that shook the very building, reverberating, long-continued, rose to the roof and ceased only with the loss of breath. In the great silence, the Convention itself waited the end, with beating hearts.

The President then requested the Delegates (by previous decision to stand forward as they were called in the at-

JANUARY 17, 1861.

Rev. B. C. WELLES, of the Holston Conference, will preach in the Methodist Church in this place, to-morrow, (18th) at early candle-light.

We attended church on last Sabbath at the Methodist chapel, and were greatly entertained by our new minister for the year, Rev. Mr. Hood. We trust he will find his new quarters pleasant, and that our people, generally, will extend to him that courtesy and consideration so characteristic of them.

Our town and vicinity was visited on Tuesday last with a storm, which, in wind and rain, exceeded any one of a similar kind we have witnessed for a long while. The demon of discord seems to reign in the elements no less than in the body politic.

Post Office.—We notice that a new building fitted up in the west side of the lower room of the Court House, by Mr. Goodwin, our attentive and energetic Post Master, to which the Post Office will be removed in a few days. This will be altogether convenient to the town and country, and withal appropriate, too, that the Post Office in our new Republic should be in a public building.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Our readers will not fail to notice the clearness and beauty of our print to day; also, the quantity of miscellany and news in this No. of the Republican. It requires fact and industry to do all this, and we are determined to spare no exertions to make our paper fully equal, if not superior to any newspaper of its size in the State.

Our thanks are due those of our patrons who have lately given us their names as subscribers to the Republican. Also to those of our old friends who have kindly come forward and "paid their dues to this office." All of which creates labor, and encourages us to persevere in our exertions to merit, as we should, public favor.

The ladies, universally, admire the soldiers. It is not the plume, the appa-rel, nor the glittering insignia of war that attracts their fancy, but it is the warrior's self: witness the devotion of Josephine to the lion-hearted Napoleon. We noticed bright eyes looking at Capt. Forney's drill parade, on last Saturday, and it made us feel like packing up our duds for the war, as we are!

Times are more lively now in Jacksonville than they have been for some time. A good many persons may be seen from the country, in groups on the public square, some on business—others merely venturing a few prophecies respecting the probability of war, &c., &c.

We have never, never, in all our life, known the people so generally, to know so much anxiety for the news they do at the present. This forces upon notice, and makes us feel as if we too, are somebody. Dogs have their days—so do printers!

On last Saturday evening we beheld the most magnificent sunset we ever gazed upon since first we felt the inspiration of that poetic ardor which so often waits on from this world to that clime, beyond those windows of purple and gold through which the sweet blue of heaven weds us so gently—so irresistibly. For miles, fading away towards the North, the unclouded dunes lit with "vibrant splendor," seemed a bridge for happy spirits—a highway, paved with gems and gold, leading to the far-off dream land, where all is beauty—and where the heart never gets heavy any more.

We are pleased to learn that our friends in West No. 2 & 7, met at the forks of the road, recently, near Mount Park, and boasted a Liberty Pole. They have appointed another meeting on Saturday the 10th of this month, for the purpose of forming a Company for Home Protection. The company will be composed of those too old for military duty under the Statute. Three cheers for the chivalry of Mr. Polk!

We hereby notify the members of the "Home Guard," and the people generally, that there will be a meeting held in the Court House, next Saturday at 2 o'clock, P. M. for the double purpose of organizing said company and ratifying the action of the State Convention. Come ahead!

We learn from the Montgomery Advertiser that John H. Forney has been spoken of as the prospective leader of the military forces of Alabama.

We neglected to notice, last week, the fact of the Post Office being removed. F. H. Goodwin is already unseated in his new quarters in the Court House, and has a very neat and cozy home. Our congratulations are herewith cordially tendered to him.

The attention of persons wishing to be recommended with Horses and Buggies, is invited to the new Livestock arrangements of Messrs Farmer & Private.

These gentlemen will be found at wayside possession of good stock, prompt and accommodating, but will invariably require the cash.

Our readers are requested to notice the card of Messrs. Martin & Martin, published on our outside. These gentlemen have inaugurated the Cash System, and will therefore, work cheap in the future. Mr. Martin is said to be a fine "Crook."

What the "TIMES" THINKS.—The London Times received by the last European mails, has an editorial on our affairs, in which the following remarkable passage occurs:

"The South may have no right to introduce slavery into the territories; it may have no right to turn the educational and moral inhabitants of New England into negro catchers; but it has a right to the advantages of free trade from which it is benefited by the tariff devised for the benefit of the Northern Manufacturers. We are told and can well believe that an important element in the desire for secession, arises from the consciousness of this injustice. A Southern Confederacy, enjoying free trade with England and France, and exchanging the products of its soil directly with the great manufacturing and artistic nations of Europe, is not the unnatural dream of the Southern Unionist. The protectionist legislation of the United States is a disgrace to our civilization and intelligence."

"People," if concessions to the South are to be made, must be made in the form of a "Liberation Company." Mr. Seward opposed coercion strongly in his speech.

We invite special attention to the advertisement of A. Oberndorf & Co. of Oxford. He speaks to his patrons this time in poetic strains; and if they are not convinced that he excels as a poet, they should call and give him an opportunity to prove that he can excel in selling cheap goods.

This enterprising and accommodating firm has commenced the new year with an energetic determination to merit an extended & liberal patronage.

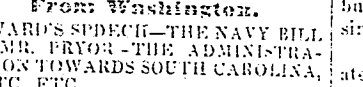

Our readers will find, in today's paper, the news up to the latest hour. Gen. Scott has Washington city under control, similar to that existing under a declaration of martial law—has entire control of the Government, and is reported as intending to blockade Southern ports—Crittenden's propositions all voted down, and reconsideration refused—Holt's nomination confirmed. The prospects of peace gloomy—but it is becoming more certain that North cannot make war upon the South without involving both England and France on the side of the South, in support of free trade.

A letter from Hon. T. A. Walker to Mr. Goodwin, P. M., at this place, encloses an Ordinance to continue present Postal arrangements, and also, the following "result of the election of Delegates to the Southern Convention of Seceding States."

Special to the Charleston Courier.

From Washington.
SEWARD'S SPEECH.—THE NAVY BILL. Mr. Seward, in his address to the Senate, today, made a great speech. He contended that there could not be such a thing as a peaceable secession. He headed the report of the Personal Liberty Bells, and said that the Constitution never should be sacrificed to give Congress the power to abolish slavery in the States. The Territorial question should be settled by admitting all the present Territories as States, with such Constitutions as their people may choose. Kansas should come in with the Wyandotte Constitution. Laws should be enacted to prevent the invasion of one State by another. There should be no Pacific Railways—a North and South, and a Central one.

In the House the Mississippi members sent in their letter of withdrawal from the Union. The Navy Bill was taken up. Mr. Pryor, of Virginia, wanted to strike out the item of $4,000,000 for pay for the officers and men. He said he would sink the whole Navy rather than see it employed against his countrymen. He said that the insubordinate Administration was controlled by an aspirant soldier. He warned Virginia against the impending tyranny.

According to appearances, the Administration towards South Carolina is present attitude towards South Carolina.

The Star of the West was struck by two balls; one struck her on the bow and the other on the starboard quarter, between the smoke stack and the engine beam. Nobody was hurt. She struck on the bow twice on coming out, and at night she saw steamers coming out of Charleston harbor, which she supposed were sent in pursuit. The same night she spoke the ship Emily St. Pierre, from Liverpool, for Charleston, which had been refused admittance in consequence of having the American flag flying. When leaving the Star of the West reports that several shots were fired, but they all fell short of reaching her. The general feeling among those on board is to return to Charleston, with proper means of defence, and effect a landing.

From Washington.
MAJOR ANDERSON AND REINFORCEMENTS.—SARAH OF THE WEST. MISSISSIPPI DELEGATION FROM CONGRESS.—SEWARD'S SPEECH.—HIS POLICY.—THE UNION BEFORE RECONSTRUCTION.

Washington, January 12, 1 P. M.
It is said that Major Anderson has reported to the War Department that he needs no reinforcements at Fort Sumter until an attack is made.

The Star of the West is announced to have arrived in New York. She has been visited by an immense concourse of people, though nothing is said of the extent of damage done her by the shots from Morris' Island Battery.

One of the largest crooks ever assembled in the Federal Capitol is now gathered to hear Mr. Seward upon the great issues of the hour. No compromise has yet been made.

The Mississippi Delegation have withdrawn from the House of Representatives. Mr. Barksdale presented the letter of withdrawal, signed by his colleagues and himself. Messrs Davis and Brown still retain their seats in the Senate.

Mr. Seward spoke one hour and advertised the seceding hope that war would be averted. He made no compromise upon the questions at issue, and he believed will make none. The Administration is getting calmer upon the subject of seceding States. Mr. Seward opposed coercion strongly in his speech.

WASHINGTON, 5 o'clock, P. M., January 12.—Seward closed his address with somewhat pacific remarks. He favored the proposition of Mr. Rice, territory from Minnesota, to admit all an end of Territorial questions. He bills, the enforcement of the Fugitive Slave Law, and the prevention of armed invasion by people of one State into that of another. He declared his principles to be "The Union before Republicanism," and that every sacrifice should be made for the preservation of peace and of the Union.

Important from Washington.
THE ADMINISTRATION HESITATING.—THE STAR OF THE WEST.—SARAH OF THE WEST.—MISSISSIPPI DELEGATION FROM CONGRESS.—SEWARD'S SPEECH.—HIS POLICY.—THE UNION BEFORE RECONSTRUCTION.

WASHINGTON, January 13—9:45 P. M.—The Administration is still undecided as to what course it will pursue with regard to the recent difficulties with South Carolina arising out of the visit of the Star of the West.

It is now asserted that the Star of the West will not be ordered back to Charleston, but sent to where, it is believed, she was originally destined, Fort Monroe, on the Chesapeake Bay, Virginia. But no movement will be made for the present, in view of information received from official quarters that Major Anderson has not further dispatches, and that the Cabinet is soon to be put in communication with the authorities of South Carolina with special reference to this difficulty.

Publications have been made through the newspapers, purporting to give the details of Lieutenant Talbot's dispatches from Major Anderson, but the principal journals fairly contradict each other. It is only reliably known that Major Anderson has stated that he needs no reinforcements at present.

The Senators from the Gulf States are greatly displeased at Mr. Seward's speech. Mr. Crittenden and others, however, think that it promises a more olive branch for a future settlement. The radical Republicans denounce it. Several Senators of position now assert that the Republicans will eventually vote for Mr. Crittenden's resolutions. But it is thought they will not do so until Secession has run the gamut of the Southern States. It is the opinion of others that this action will come too late to effect any thing.

About 200 United States troops arrived in the city this morning and were quartered at the Army Barracks. The object is to make a military display calculated to intimidate any attempt at invasion.

The Departments are strictly guarded by special watchmen, well armed, and no one is allowed entrance into the buildings before or after the usual business hours.

The President will send into the Senate the nomination for Secretary of the Interior to-day.

It is considered doubtful whether the President will remove Mr. Holt from the War Department, as he has not yet made choice of a successor.

The Constitution newspaper (late Administration organ) comments with great severity on General Scott's present assumption of power. It considers him as playing the double in the full sense of the term, as he is directing the whole army movements and maintaining a servile and cautious policy.

Special dispatch to the Charleston Courier.
From Baltimore.
SEWARD'S SPEECH.—ARRIVAL OF THE UNITED STATES TROOPS.—GOVERNOR HICKS STILL REFUSES TO CONVEY THE LEGISLATURE OF MARYLAND.

Baltimore, January 13.—Mr. Seward's speech in the Senate is received here with general disfavor, though some are weak enough to approve its positions.

The Government troops from Leesylvania, K. T., have arrived. They constitute two effective companies, and have gone, one to garrison Fort McHenry, and the other Fort Washington, on the Potomac River.

Governor Hicks still persists in his determination not to convey the Legislature now or hereafter.

Interesting from Pensacola.
Correspondence of the Observer.
WASHINGTON, Sunday morn 9 o'clock.
Dear Observer.—Everything quiet during the night; several machines are at work on the guns at Fort Barancas. Two arrests during the night, one a soldier at the military barracks, the other a drunken man, who was spouting rant independently.

The Wyandotte towed out the Supply yesterday evening, both machines and men. This morning the Wyandotte came into the Yard with a white flag up. She is now lying at the Commerce Wharf in the Navy Yard.

An American military company has arrived north of Woolsey this morning.

The inhabitants seem to be quite calm this morning; the change in affairs seems to go well.

The flag of Capt. Randolph, late of the United States Navy, is flying from the flag staff.

The Montgomery companies, Wetumpka and Haysville companies and some others are at the Military Barracks, Fort Barancas.

The U. S. steamer Wyandotte, and the U. S. store ship Supply goes out to New York with the following passengers: Commodore James Armstrong and wife, Postmaster Warrington and wife and son, Dr. Bishop and wife, the Gunner, Gunter and Sail-maker of this Yard quarters, and the wives of Lieuts. Slimmer and Gilman, U. S. Army.

The Pilots have been notified not to bring in any U. S. armed vessels under penalty of death.

A fellow was caught yesterday bringing despatches to Com. Armstrong from Washington. They were received and delivered to Captain Randolph.

A large force and several pieces of artillery are on their way here via Perdido, they have been crossing that stream since yesterday morning.

The greatest order of morals. Which ever way I turn it the same; all are busy in the same great cause—no drunkness, no profanity, no noise.

Yours,
NEMO.

From the Charleston Courier.

WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, January 13—10 o'clock, P. M.—The President's levee was thinly attended to-night. He received but few congratulations. His visitors were principally those who heretofore have been his bitterest opponents. Mr. Buchanan will scarcely have need of the expression, "leave me for my friends."

Col. J. W. Hayne, Commissioner from South Carolina, called upon the President precisely at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and had a very pleasant personal interview with Mr. Buchanan, which lasted about twenty minutes. The President declined to receive any official communication from him, or entertain any verbal suggestion or proposition. The inference from this is, that the Administration intends to transact no business whatever with any one but the Federal authorities with reference to affairs at Charleston.

Two or three Cabinet sessions have already been held, but no positive decision has yet been arrived at. Outside of government circles it is considered a fixed fact that Major Anderson will be reinforced, and that this has been agreed upon. It is generally believed here that the demand of the South Carolina authorities, could the Commission get an opportunity to make it known, is that the fortifications of the Charleston harbor shall be restored to their original condition, when all hostilities shall cease, with the understanding that the State troops shall be promptly withdrawn from Castle Pinckney, Fort Moultrie and Fort Johnson, and Anderson would then go back to Monroe.

Neither Col. Hayne nor Lieut. Hall have thus far deemed the result of their mission definite enough to send one word to their respective superiors.

CONGRESSIONAL.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Seward in the Senate today, Mr. Rice, of Minnesota, introduced a series of resolutions, looking to the admission of Kansas and New Mexico as States, extending the limits of California, &c.

Mr. Crittenden's resolutions were taken up and amended, by guaranteeing slavery in all the present and future territory of the United States, south of 36° 30' 30" north latitude, and forbidding by striking out the preamble, first resolution, and inserting in lieu thereof a section to the effect that the present Constitution is sufficient to meet present and future emergencies. The whole subject was then tabled.

A motion to reconsider was pending, when the Senate adjourned.

Hoke.—In the House the army bill was taken up. Mr. Garnett, of Virginia, said that Virginia would become the leader of the Southern Confederacy.

Messrs. Gurley, of Ohio, and Morris, of Illinois, made strong coercion speeches. No action was taken.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14, P. M.—The Senate has just given a quorum to the compromise resolutions of Mr. Crittenden. They were voted down by a majority of two. Every Republican voted against the compromise. Intense feeling was manifested in consequence throughout the city.

MASS MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA.
PHILA., Jan. 17.—An immense mass meeting of citizens, irrespective of party, was held here last night. Resolutions in favor of conciliation instead of coercion, and peaceful separation rather than civil war, were adopted.

It is rumored in Congressional circles, that Buchanan expresses a readiness to recognize the de facto Government of three or more States—but not of a single State.

Mr. Hayne has modified his proposition materially, at the instance of Southern Senators; and the prospect is that Anderson will remain and kind relations be restored with the privilege to Anderson of the Charleston Market.

Senator Davis addressed a letter to Gov. Pickens, deprecating any course calculated to precipitate a collision and urging moderation and restoration of friendly relations with Anderson.

A collision, he thinks, would be a great misfortune, and to be avoided.

Anderson will refuse to withdraw from his post, and will not be moved from his position, which will probably be done tomorrow.

Lieut. Hall gone North, on leave of absence, he will not be back here.
