LOCAL ITEMS.

We are authorized to announce Col. WASHINGTON WILLIAMS, as a candidate for Representative of Calhoun County in the next Legislature.

We are authorized to announce JAMES M. TAYLOR, as a candidate for election to the office of Commissioner of roads and revenues of Calhoun County in the next Legislature.

We are authorized to announce DAVID SCHUB, Esq., as a candidate for Commissioner of Roads and Revenues of Calhoun County, Ala.—Election 1st Monday in August next.

WAR! WAR! WAR!

Attention Pope Walker Guards.

It having been determined that volunteers can only be received for the war, this company is organizing for that purpose. Members who are willing to go for the war, will send in their names as early as possible. Geo. C. Whaley will meet the members of the company in the Eastern part of the county on Saturday, the 8th day of June, at 10 o'clock. There will be a meeting of the entire company at Jacksonville on Monday, the 10th day of June, at which time we expect to know when the Regiment, of which we compose a part, will be mustered into service.

Each member is expected to provide himself with the following articles:—1 Blanket, (any color.) 2 pr Drawers, 2 substantial Shirts, 2 pr Wooden Shoes, 1 pr stout Shoes, 2 Towels, 1 Comb, 1 Spoon, 1 Knife in a case, for cutting purposes. An allowance in money will be paid back, when we are mustered into service. Keep these articles in readiness.

J. B. MARTIN, Capt.

P. S. The cloth for uniforms will be received in a few days, and those who join are requested to go to a Tailor and get their measures for pants and coat (roundabout) and give the measure to John Francis and B. A. Brooks.

Capt. W. R. HANNA's volunteer Company, as will be seen from a notice elsewhere meets at Senior Elston's on Saturday next, for the purpose of receiving a flag to be presented by the ladies of Choculoco valley. Judge J. B. MARTIN has been selected, to deliver the reception speech on the part of the Company.

Capt. HANNA has a full and large Company raised for twelve months service on Saturday next, the Company will determine whether they will volunteer for the war.

We trust Capt. HANNA will have no difficulty in organizing his Company for the war, he is a gallant soldier, and has done much for Southern Rights, and the independence of his native South—he will deserve the honor of leading in the field, his brave volunteers, who have flocked around him to drive back the invading hosts of Lincoln—who have desecrated the soil of the South, with their foot prints and "miscreant fronts."

With the sword of the Lord and Gilead uplifted let their war cry be, onward with a "peace as study as time, and an appetite as keen as study," until every invader is driven from this, our Sunny South.

We are informed that a band of music composed of patriotic gentlemen of this place will leave for Capt. HANNA's on Friday evening for the purpose of performing on the presentation of the flag.

The C. S. A. IN ENGLAND.—The New York Times of the 22d, has a despatch article upon American affairs in England, and says there is hardly room left for doubt that the English Government has determined to give all its aid, short of an open declaration of hostilities, to the cause of the Southern Confederation, by recognizing its right to destroy the commerce of the Union, and by denying the right of the Federal Government to exclude British and French vessels from Southern ports. This determination is hailed with great satisfaction by the ministerial organs, whose comments are quoted elsewhere.

A Protracted Meeting will be held in the Methodist Church in Jacksonville commencing on Wednesday evening the 5th day of June, to continue several days. Ministerial assistance will be given by Bro. E. H. HARRIS, Rev. T. F. MAXWELL, of Talladega, and perhaps others.

J. M. HOOD, P. C.

The PRIZE LIST.—We acknowledge the receipt from Wm. C. PACE, Esq., of a letter containing a list of 18 subscribers. This is the largest list yet received in any one letter, and fairly entitles Mr. Pace to the premium.

The gentlemen whose names have been forwarded will also please accept our thanks for their patronage.

We acknowledge the receipt from J. P. Pearson, Esq. of Springville, St. Clair Co. Ala., of additional names of cash paying subscribers. And we take occasion here to state, that our packet containing a list of cash paying subscribers, contains a larger proportionate number of cash paying subscribers than any other on our book. This would be a good recommendation for the citizens of any neighborhood, and ought to give them credit in any commercial house.

We printed some notices the other day for a meeting of Capt. Hanna's company. The Capt. spoke of setting for them—we told him we did not charge anything. "Very well" said he, "We'll make it all right when we get in 'em."

JACKSONVILLE FEMALE ACADEMY.

The late session of this institution, under the superintendence of Miss COON, closed on Tuesday, last.

The exercises of the session were closed at night by the reading of compositions in prose and poetry, dialogues, conversations, &c. by which the large audience was highly edified and amused, and the young ladies, without a single exception acquitted themselves with great credit.

Miss Cobb, during the last session, has proven herself to be a very competent and diligent teacher; and we doubt whether any one has ever had charge of the Academy, who was more universally beloved by the pupils. The Trustees and patrons, heard with regret the announcement, that she would not continue the next session. Her place, we fear will be difficult to fill.

M. J. WILLIAMS, Esq., Editor of the Salina Reporter is now in our place, and will probably remain several days. The Reporter is an able and interesting paper; and we believe, since the Railroad has been finished to the Depot above Talladega, the latest telegraphic intelligence reaches our place from Selma.

The Reporter is published daily and weekly, and in individuals or clubs in this section who wish to subscribe for either can do so upon advantageous terms. Mr. WILLIAMS may be found during his stay at Mr. Renfro's Hotel.

We have received from our friends some songs suitable to the times, which will be published agreeably to their request in our next paper.

Are Threshing Machines.—We have been informed that Mr. J. F. Davis, at his shop, near Court Grove, has a newly invented Threshing machine, of very superior quality, having a cast iron breast and speed regulator attached by which the speed can be increased to double the usual rates, if desired. Mr. Davis is engaged in the manufacture of these machines, and is prepared to fill any orders that may be forwarded. We shall probably publish an advertisement next week, giving more definite information.

Jacksonville Cadets.—This handsome juvenile company, under the command of Captain DUNSTON, paraded on the public square on Saturday last. The company is composed of boys between the ages of 12 and 18, with showy uniforms, and makes quite a gay appearance. They performed a number of military evolutions with promptness and correctness; so much so that we would have supposed they had been drilled for several months; but upon enquiry, they had only been drilled some three or four times. This company was much admired by all who witnessed their maneuvers. We were highly complimented by Captain Caldwell, of St. Clair, in his speech in the Courthouse to the Pope Guards and citizens. He very appropriately denounced such companies, nurseries of the armies of the Confederate States. When the company is full, we will publish a list, if furnished with a copy of the names.

It is common, as we observe in our exchange papers, to mention the many cases of liberal contributions to the cause of Southern defence and independence, on the part of patriotic individuals; we hope we may be pardoned for mentioning similar cases in our midst.

In the list of contributions to the "Soldiers Aid Association," we see to the name of the Hon. Mr. THOMAS A. WALKER, the sum of five hundred dollars; and to the names of several other patriotic individuals, one hundred dollars, and down to less sums. We do not mention these sums, as any disparagement to those who have subscribed less.

On the contrary those who have subscribed less in proportion to their means, are equally entitled to praise and grateful remembrance.

John R. Black, who resided on Tallapoosa in the eastern part of Calhoun County, Ala., in December last, killed a man by the name of Allison Tolbert, formerly of Carroll county, Ga.

Black fled to North Carolina, and has been recently arrested in Macon county, in that State, and lodged in jail at Franklin.

The Gov. of this State will no doubt make a demand for Black, and he will be brought back for trial.

We were prevented by absence from attending the examination, last week, of Miss MARTIN TENNEY's school, and the interesting exhibition which took place at night, but learn from those who were in attendance that the examination was altogether satisfactory to the patrons of her school, and that the exhibition at night was highly entertaining to the audience. A part of the exhibition at night consisted of an original scene, gotten up to represent the going out of the States which have seceded, each State being represented by a little girl.

In the hurry of business, we neglected last week, to call attention to the call made on the subscribers to the fund of the Soldier's Aid Association of ten per cent.

It is earnestly requested that this call be promptly responded to; and that every man who has not yet subscribed, would call at Mr. Woodward's store and other places where lists are kept, and do so immediately.

THE LAST BLOUNTVILLE PIONEER.

The last Blountsville Pioneer contains a list of the officers and privates of three volunteer companies in that County.

ATTENTION! The Choculoco ladies will meet at Senior Elston's on Saturday the 8th inst. to receive from the ladies of Choculoco a flag for the Company. An address will be delivered by the Hon. J. B. Martin on the occasion. The vote of the Company will also be taken whether they "will go for the war."

A full attendance is requested. The citizens are cordially invited to attend. Material for uniforms and blankets for the Company have been procured. W. R. HANNA, Captain.

MR. GRANT I note down a few thoughts as I travel along, which you will please insert in your valuable paper, which in all probability, bring about a revolution in some locality for our great Southern cause.

We would be proud to see all the counties in every State in this Confederacy, and especially of Alabama, my adopted State, make a move with reënforced energy, in organizing volunteer companies in every beat, or if there are not enough in one beat, to form a company of six men, let two unite, and thus form six companies all over the country, elect a full quota of officers, and then report to head quarters, the number of companies with the names of the officers in the country—these officers will be commissioned and will be in readiness at the call of the President. By this means the whole military force of each county could be organized in a short time, and we would have placed before the President of our Confederacy, a power which he could draw from time to time without inconvenience to the people; and this plan would prevent the delay of drafting the first man in this Confederacy to fight for such a cause.

Do I hear some one say that we cannot do what has just been suggested, from the fact, you say, that we must have a home protection. I am sure of this, that there will be a sufficient number of these companies left at home in any event, no matter how fierce the war may be, to form a sufficient Home Military Guard for the protection of defenseless women and children, and the property of all citizens, and also to punish traitors and intruders. Every man knows that by being thus organized and drilled, they would be the better prepared to perform the duties of a Home Guard, which if we get in a war, might be very useful.

This state of things would also be an advantage in many ways than one, the north being superior to all.

It would serve in some degree to stimulate them and perhaps bring about peace earlier. Let us say to this, and then, after we shall have gained the independence of the South, and established by the sword the long cherished principles of States rights and equality, (rights which we will never yield, until conquered and entirely overrun by the forces we have to fight, and which we have to fight with better feelings, and more power, and prosperity and happiness in the future.

If by the inaction of a large number of those who could go and fight, we should be eventually subjugated, and have to bow to the despotic power of the North, where I ask the man who would care to live in our beloved South. I had rather be swept off the earth by some mighty flood, and be no more.

Then the word should be, to arms, to arms, forward, and fight, if we are in a unit in this cause, the day will soon be ours. I believe we have the God of battles on our side, He who if we are the weaker can give our armies success. Who can help seeing the mistakeable intervention of Providence in almost every instance in our favor, at this moment. What does all this prove? I leave the reader to answer it to his own satisfaction.

SIX NEGRO CHILDREN BURNED. We are informed by a gentleman of Prattville, that a shocking affair occurred near that place on Friday night last, at the residence of the late Judge Graham. One of the negro women went off some distance to wash and locked the door of the house with a six little negro children in it. During her absence the house took fire and was consumed together with the children.

THE STRENGTH OF THE SOUTH.

A Republican contemporary says the South is hopelessly weak and powerless for the want of men. What do we gain by such misrepresentations? It does not weaken the South, but exposes ourselves to the danger of making insufficient preparation for our warlike undertakings. In his history of Charles the XII. Voltaire says: "It is not the scarcity of men that weakens a State, it is the want of tone and of able men. Let us not feel concerned with the number of men we find necessary for her purpose. It is an ill for us to do, and speaks not much for our sagacity, to say that those States which have always furnished more than two-thirds of all the export wealth of the whole United States, are unable to procure men. And it is equally ridiculous for us to pretend that the South cannot put a formidable army of at least 500,000 men, in the field. A population of 8,000,000, of the character of the South, will find it no great feat to come, no impossible task to raise quite as efficient an army as can be raised out of 18,000,000 like our northern population. Let us not be deceived by the readiness with which we can raise 200,000 men, with us, it is mostly the floating loose population which enlists. Our fifth are men who do not enlist. They will not, neither will their sons, to any extent. Our men of wealth and business, will not go to the war. The men who go about our streets pumping up the war excitement, have no idea of putting up their own bodies to be shot at. Let us tell the truth. And above all, let us not be quite so boastful, until we see how the enlistment of soldiers for three and five years gets on. It is a very easy business to talk big armies. Newspaper armies are not.

TO MY SONS IN VIRGINIA.
The following lines were written originally to her sons belonging to the Guards, now in Virginia:
My children, I have sent thee forth
To battle for the right;
I give thee youthful arm the power
Which gives to men of might.

Thy mother's son! shall father not,
Although her cheek grows pale,

Blessing I have laid,

Let my children's weapons be,
The sword and spear and shield.

Sight of Acquia Creek.

As I understand, says the Richmond Enquirer, that the United States gunners, on their way down the river, saw Acquia Creek, Wednesday, April 10, 1862, and that they fired three shells at the battery stationed at that place. Before the shells returned the flag, one battery of two solid shot (of 15 pounds) and shells. The shots took effect in the center of the hull, and a shell struck the gun. can be loaded and fired three times in a minute. The gate that holds open the cartridge opens by the same motion as the trigger, but not until after it is fired. You only drop the cartridge in the opening in the side of the case, the door of the case pushes the gate forward and the gate pushes the cartridge forward into the barrel, when it is fired, and the same motion in closing the gate cocks the gun; so you have only three motions to make in loading and firing it. It is an admirable arrangement for its simplicity and disposition of its layers, which is so arranged that one would not doubt that it had a bayonet until it was shoved to the end of the barrel, and there permanently fixed, which can be done in an instant of time, whilst on full charge of powder. I think the gun must take the lead, as it is very

The Defences of Norfolk—An Inter-

A correspondent writing from Norfolk, gives the following account of the efficiency of the Southern troops, and their defences at that point:

Only yesterday I witnessed the working of a heavy 11-inch gun mounted on a carriage constructed on a plan submitted by Mr. Meigs, carpenter of the yard, and built in four days. Two men can sweep this monster gun round the horizon without the slightest effort, and vibration, and these work are entirely covered from the shot of an enemy.

In a week we will have several 10-inch and a goodly number of solid shot guns mounted in the same way; and then let the Yankee Doodles look out. I only wish they would make an attempt on the harbor with their ships, for there are hundreds of us who have sailed in the identical man-of-war steam frigates, and

- At the top, a small illustration of a figure, possibly a saint or religious figure, within a decorative frame.
- Below this, several lines of text in a historical script, possibly Latin or Greek, though the characters are difficult to decipher due to the damage.
- Further down, another illustration of a figure, possibly a seated person, also within a frame.
- More fragments of text and possibly other small illustrations are visible towards the bottom of the strip.
