NEW IBERIA SALT MINES.

Editor Mississippian: A few facts connected with these mines may posibly be of interest and advantage to your readers. Business, a few days since, took me to Franklin, La., where I met with Col. Robinson, of Madison county, who had just arrived from Richmond with authority to seize the mines, or so much of them as to warrant a full supply of salt for the army and the people. I accepted the invitation of the Colonel and Maj. Broadwell, Government agent at Franklin, to accompany them upon a visit to the works, some fifty miles distant from Franklin by Bayou Teche certainly one of the most beautiful of all the bayous of Louisiana. Reaching Iberia, or Newton, as it is called by the natives, we took a carriage for the island of salt. Our route lay for nine miles across a prarie upon which large herds of fine cattle were grazing, until we came to the marsh and Bayou Petit Ansis, which separates Salt Island from the mainland. The marsh is crossed by a causseway and drawbridge, affording a dry, hard road for salt wagons during the dry season, but it must be almost impassable after the fall rains set in. The island was an elevation of some 75 or 100 feet from Vermillion Bay, and has a rolling surface, reminding one of Newport Island, R. I. There are two plantations on the island, one owned by Mr. Marsh, and the other by judge Avery. The mines are upon the latter, though the vein extends under the whole island That now being worked is in a deep basin upon the south side Though this invaluable mine was discovered last May, we found that it is only at this late day beginning to be worked with some energy —only about 500,000 pounds have been taken out in about five months! Seventy-five or eighty negroes are now at work, sinking new shafts. All the salt heretofore furnished has been supplied from one small shaft, 24 by 24 feet, and two or three kettles Two new shafts having been completed the day before our arrival, in which blasting had commenced.

SHAFTING FOR SALT.—The salt lies from fifteen to eighteen feet under the surface in the basin. The dirt is removed by the same process that cellars are dug in our cities—carried out by carts so long as the depth will admit of it, and then thrown upon stagings. Owing to a stratum of quicksand, the shafts have to be curbed up, and the deep water, from time to time, thrown out. The dirt removed, a floor of the purest salt presents itself, of, as yet, unknown thickness. The salt is blasted and drawn out by wind asses, and weighed into the waiting wagons that come supplied with goods boxes and flour barrels —sacks are unnecessary, as the salt is solid and dry, and without the least drip carried any distance. The shafts, finished and unfinished at the time of our visit are as follows, viz:

No. 1, old one enlarged from 24 to 48 by 24 ft.

No. 2, 28 by 18 ft.

3, kettles that yield 8 or 10 bushels of the finest table salt we ever saw.

Unfinished shafts:—

No 1, 50 by 25 feet.
No. 2, 60 by 50. "
No. 3, 180 by 80 "

Two of these are by this time under blast, if so, there is a suriace of salt 176 by 137 feet now being worked. I doubt not by this time all who take their teams there are supplied without delay.

PRICE.—These shafts are worked by individuals or companies, who pay Judge Avery 3½ cents per pound for what they mine, and are not allowed to sell it for more than 4½ cents the Judge making 3½ cents clear on all that his own shafts do not produce! Already a man of wealth at this tariff upon salt, if the blockade continues, he will soon be the richest man in the Southern Confederacy —or the continent itself. His son who discovered the mine, (by sinking deeper an old salt well) informed me that he could sell the salt at 75 cents per sack and make $15 per day on each hand! and yet 4½ cents per pound is charged for so indispensible an article at the mine! and Judge Avery could not afford to permit the Government to mine it for the army for less than 2½ cents per pound!

Satisfied that the vein was extensive enough for the Government and all the States, Col Robinson, much to the delight of Judge Avery decided not to interfere with individual enterprise and seized only so much as might subserve the purposes of the Government.

It is the present intention of Col Robinson to work at least 1000 hands and furnish salt, not by the 100lbs, but by the 1000 tons per day, and if the Government will permit it, furnish one half of what he produces to the people at one or two cents, per lb One mill per lb., would be a handsome compensation to the proprietor, and yeild him a princely revenue. Col. Robinson, so soon as he communicates with the Government, will let it be known if he can furnish the one thing is certain, the price of salt is bound to come down, for if the Government supplies itself at this price, the large amounts of salt produced by private enterprise here and supplied by Virginia will be thrown into the market and speculation cannot monopolize it.

We are aware that Col. Robinson in his zeal to serve his Government, exposes himself to the charge of private speculation in salt, as have the Messrs. Bradwell & Payne, Government Agents, who purchase sugar and beef for the Army. I am happy in being able to say in advance, that Colonel Robinson is possed of the most ample fortune, and not only makes a gratuity of his services to the Government, but defrays his own expenses. He is the right man in the right place. He now designs at an early day, to construct a horse railroad to the Petit Ansis, so that salt can be delivered at all points between there and Vicksburg by water.

Will you allow me a word in vindication of our Government Agents at Franklin, Messrs. Broadwell & Payne. Private speculators in sugar represent these men, throughout the Confederacy, as undoubtedly carrying on a underhanded game of private speculation; and under cover of their official position making enormous fortunes. It is alleged that they purchase sugar by the thousands of hogheads, and that the army can not use it all—and some of it crushed at that! It may not be known that our army, before the conscript law was passed, required 100 hogshead per day of brown, and the hospitals ten or fifteen hogsheads of crushed or refined sugar, and both several hundreds of barrels of molasses per day. So far as I can learn, they having not been able even to deliver this amount per day on an average the year round. The sugar region is now open to us, and it becomes them to move out the last hogshead they can get transportation to move it with for within one month, we may be cut off from it; for so soon as the river rises, unless we have gunboats and rams afloat, the enemy will doubtless occupy the sugar country. I found Maj. Broadwell a courteous gentleman, doing five times more work than any government official I am acquainted with, and suffering ten times more abuse. Before he is condemned let facts to sustain a charge be submitted

J. R. GRAVES.

P. S.—Those wishing a supply of salt from Iberia; and to secure themselves against delay, will do well to write to Judge Avery, Newtown, La., and state the amount they want, and learn from him when their wagons can be loaded. I would advise all to send before the rains set in. Distance from Summit to Red River Landing is 90 miles; from R. R. Landing is 160 miles, and a fine field.

The salt (I send you a specimen) has been analized, and found to be the purest article known, containing 98.88 pure salt, and 22 gypsum. Parties going for salt and carrying powder, will be first served and obtain a good price for it.

CAPT. SEMMES AND "290."

EXPLOITS OF THE CONFEDERATE STEAMER "290"—FOURTEEN VESSELS DESTROYED WITH $1,000,000 IN GOODS—YANKEE DESCRIPTION OF HER CAPTAIN, AND HIS "STYLE" OF TAKING VESSELS.

The New York Herald publishes the statement of three masters of ships that have been burnt by the Confederate steamer Alabama ("290"), and says that Captain SEMMES, of the "290," has captured and destroyed fourteen vessels, with $1,000,000 of cargo, and paroled and sent to the Island of Flores 191 prisoners!

It is very evident, from all we learn from Capt Hagar, that the Alabama will; if not fallen in with, captured and destroyed, become the terror of the ocean. Her speed appears to be unequalled both under steam and sail.—Her sailing qualities, as reported, are superior to the speed of nine-tenths of our steamers in the navy, and under steam and canvas combinded it will take the Vanderbilt, or vessels of a similar class, to do anything with her in a chase Her battery is very formidable, equal to many of our screw sloops-of-war of the second class, and vastly superior to any of our smaller vessels. She is in all respects an ugly customer, and one that will destroy millions of property before she is caught, if caught at all.

In all cases where Captain Semmes captures a vessel, he sends an armed boat on board and orders the unfortunate captain on board the Alabama, with his papers On his arrival, he is ushered into the presence of the pirate Semmes, who receives him in the most pompous and overbearing manner He is questioned as to the name of the ship, where from, where bound, and the character of his cargo. Captain Hagar in reply to the latter question, said that some of his cargo was on English account. On his giving this reply Semmes scowled at him and remarked, "Do you take me for a d—d fool? Where are the proofs that part of your cargo is on English account?"

The papers, unfortunately, not having the Consular seal attached, were not considered proof, and the Brilliant and her cargo were in consequence seized by Semmes as a prize

PERSONAL APPEARANCE OF SEMMES.

Capt. Hagar says that, however much Semmes may have had the appearance of a gentleman when an officer of the United States Navy, he has entirely changed now. He sports a huge moustache, the ends of which are waxed in a manner to throw that of Victor Emanuel entirely in the shade, and it is evident that it occupies much of his attention. His steward waxes it every day carefully, and so prominent is it that the sailors of the Alabama term him "Old Beeswax." His whole appearance is that of a corsair, and the transformation appears to be complete from Commander Raphel Semmes, United States Navy, to a combination of Lafitte, Kidd and Gibbs, the three most notorious pirates the world has ever known.

The plan that Semmes has adopted to bring fish to his net is as follows: It will be seen at a glance that the position he was last reported in was in the track of many vessels bound to and from Europe. This is the position he has chosen to do the greatest possible amount of destruction; and he certainly has been most successful. Whenever, he captures a ship, after taking from her all that he and his officers want, he lays by her until dark, and then sets her on fire. The light of the burning ship can be seen many miles, and every other ship within seeing distance stands towards the light, thinking to rescue a number of poor fellows from destruction. The pirate keeps in the immediate vicinity, awaiting the prey that is sure to come, and the next morning the poor fellows, who have, to serve the cause of humanity, gone many miles out of their course, find themselves under the guns of the Alabama with the certainly that before another twenty-four hours the will share the fate of they ship they came to serve

This plan will enable him to destroy an immense amount of property without much cruising. He can lay in one position and gather the ships around him during the night ready for operations on the coming day for weeks to come; for it will be a long time before his depredations can be made known, so that our unsuspecting merchantmen will be on the lookout for him

Again, he will be enabled to cruise for an indefinite lenth of time; for he uses no coal, depending upon his canvas entirely, which, it seems, is not sufficient for his purpose. He carries stores for eight months, and can always replenish from the prize he may take He will be here to day, there to-morrow, and will be certain to be found where no one is looking for him. Looking for him will be like "looking for a needle in a haystack," and with the majority of vessels we have cruising at the present time, should one of them be fortunate enough to see him, all we shall benefit thereby will be a look, and so it will continue to be until we have ships of greater speed than we now possess or expect soon to have.

NOTES OF THE WAR.

THE TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY PLAYING HAVOC WITH THE YANKEE SHIPPING-WHAT IS THOUGHT OF HER IN THE NORTH.

The news from Europe announces the opening success of the Confederate steamer Two Hundred and Ninety, in destroying the Yankee shippings, has caused a great sensation in the North.—We and all the world are finding out what we might have been doing these many months, and have not done, for the want of executive sagacity. Better late than never. The New York Times makes the news the subject of a long article on the "Naval Ravages of the Rebels," in the course of which it says:

We have an enlarged list of American ships destroyed by the rebel pirate Alabama, or "290," near the Island of Flores, one of the Azores It comprises no less than ten vessels—nine ships and a schooner—some of which were large first class vessels, and others smaller and less valuable The new rebel pirate craft has but began her exploits of burning, plundering and slaughtering—having sailed from England, where the rebels purchased her, only a few weeks since. The is the most formidable cruisser the rebels have ever had afloat, and bids fair to do more damage to American commerce than all her predecessors

This is but the first specimen of the fleet which the rebels are purchasing in England with the proceeds of the cotton that they succeed in getting through the blockade. When the English furnish them with their six iron-clads—partially iron-clad only, of course—and when these get afloat on the seas, we may almost anticipate the realization of the rebel dream of sweeping our commercial fleet from the ocean. John Bull has no objection to furnishing the rebels with the armed privateer-vessels, and is doubtless in high glee at the work they are doing He is very neutral, of course, but he can see no reason why that should hinder him from practically taking sides against us.

We suppose the United States frigate St. Louis is still looking about for the "290," and we hope will be successful in catching her. But we fear the latter is too swift, and Capt. Semmes too skilful, as English ports too plentiful all over the globe, to make her catching very easy. We trust the Navy Department will send out what additional force it may have to spare, to assist in the work. We would need to keep as large a fleet watching the English coast to prevent the exit of rebel privateers, as it requires to enforce the Blockade on our own coast.

Every possible exertion should be made to render the blockade more effective. Thus only can the rebels be prevented from procuring as large a navy as is possessed by any nation in the world. There is no limit to the rebel navy as long as the Confederate Government can get their cott on out and sell it in the markets of Europe at fifty or sixty cents a pound.

The surest and only effectual mode of extinguishing the rebel navy, however, is for our army to move with overwhelming force to the destrution of the rebel Government. If the rebel army in Virginia were routed, and Richmond in our possession, we shou'd have little fear of future rebel doings on the ocean. This is no time to talk of our army going into winter quarters.

☞ Our readers will be glad to learn that the Salt Works in Clarke county; under the direction of the State authoritiet, are now turning out one thousand bushels per day. The people are indebted to Col. A. G. McGehee for this increased production of salt, he being the commissioner in charge of these works.

The produce of the State works is not for sale on the spot, but is to be distributed to agents throughout the State, to be sold at a price barely sufficient to cover the cost of production, first to soldiers' families and indigent persons, and afterwards to consumers generally. It is believed that three dollars per bushel, will transportation added, will cover the cost

In addition to the works under the superintendence of the State, there are from three to four thousand persons engaged in the salt regions in Clarke and Washington counties, and the aggregate yield of their industry is estimated at something like three thousand bushels per day. We learn that artesian wells have been bored and others sunk in order to secure a permanent supply of water, and that the work will be kept up throughout the winter.

The impression has prevailed that the business is unhealthy, from the fact that there has been considerable sickness—chills and fever—among the parties at work in the swamp, below high water mark; but the State works are on a high ridge, where there are three hundred hands at work; comfortably housed and otherwise well cared for. This information is gleaned from the Mobile Advertiser of the 26th instant, as given by the editor, who has just returned from a visit to the Alabama Salt Works.—Selma Reporter.

Terrible Railroad Accident.

One of the most terrible accidents it has ever fallen to our lot to record, occurred on Sunday morning last, between the regular passenger trains on the Mississippi Central Railroad. The down train, with eleven cars, drawn by engine James Brown, conducted by Peter Kirby, and the up train, twelve cars; engine A. M. West, Mr. Bender, engineer, conducted by Mr. Shelton, collided one mile below Duck Hill station, causing one of the most terrible wrecks of machinery we have ever beheld, and furnishing a chronicle of casualties exceeding anything of the kind ever known in the South, and but seldom equalled in the country

The casualties were thirty-five killed, and between forty and fifty wounded, nearly all of them soldiers. Most of the latter were severely injured, and the attending physicians give it as their opinion that several could not recover. The severely wounded were taken to Canton.

With a single exception the dead were buried close to the spot where, the accident occurred, in a common grave. Every attention was bestowed, and care taken to identify the deceased. Hundreds of peop'e witnessed the sad spectacle of consigning to their last resting place on earth almost two score of fellow beings, who, but a few hours before, were buoyant with health—who had previously faced the enemies of their country on the battle field without fear, and were again on their way to meet the foe. Strangers as they were, their melancholy fate caused tears to flow from many eyes, that then and there for the first time beheld fearful slaughter.—Memphis Appeal 29th instant.

JACKSONVILLE, ALA.

November 6, 1862.

Camp near Murfreesborough, }
October 26th, 1862. }

PERSONS having friends or relations in my Regiment, to whom they desire to send clothing or blankets, will please deposite such articles with the following named gentlemen, viz:

COL. JOHN D. HOKE, Jacksonville,
BYERS & ROWAN, Ashville,
W. B. TRANSFERD, Oxford,
JAMES H. JOINER, Talladega,
D. W. DAVIS, Montevallo,
MR LATTIMER, Randolph,
GOODWIN & ROBBINS, Selma,
Maj. R. H. Parris, Montgomery.

If the goods are placed in the hands of these gentlemen at once, I will send agents from the regiment to bring them on.

I respectfully urge the friends of the soldiers to send blankets or some articles of bed clothing that are warm and stout—woolen coats and socks are much needed.

JOHN T. MORGAN, Col. 1st Regt. Ala. Partisans.

☞Talladega Watchtower and Reporter and Selma Reporter will copy the above twice and send accounts to Bank of Selma where they will be paid.

The Governor's Message.

We have not given this document entire, because it would have filled up our entire space, and we know the anxiety of our readers to obtain whatever news there is afloat The message however, is able, pointed and well written, but does not call attention to anything unusual or alarming, as was supposed by some, would be the case, by his calling the Legislature together two weeks in advance of the time. This was done no doubt, because the Governor was satisfied that 30 days would not be sufficient time for the important business that would come before the Legis ature. The message recommends the passage of a law calling into service a sufficient force of slave to work on fortifications for the public defence, which has already been acted upon by the Legislature, by the passage of a law authorizing the Governor to impress them, together with materials, provisions, munitions &c. The attention of the Legislature is also called to the salt question—the reorganization of the militia—support of the families of indigent soldiers &c.

☞There has probably not been a greater dearth of news, since the commencement of the war, than for the last three weeks. This ominous silence we think most indicative of one of two things—either active preparation for a more desparate onslaught upon Richmond, and the Southern coast, or a silence that is brooding some plan or propositions for peace. The latter we can hardly hope for, though the rumors of recognition and intervention are again revived with more confidence than heretofore, this time chiefly from Northern sources.

☞CAPT. HOWELL, of this county, and CAPT. MORRIS, of St Clair county, passed through her a few days since. They have been sent on detached service, for the express purpose of procuring clothing for their companies. We give this notice in the hope that those who have friends and relations in those gallant companies, will act promptly and liberally, in contributing all in their power for their relief.

☞The attention of all persons having friends or relations in Col John T. Morgan's regt., is earnestly invited to his notice in this paper, of the appointment of agents to receive clothing &c We hope the utmost promptitude and liberality may mark the action of the friends of the soldiers in this Regt., as we can assure them that their necessities are very urgent, and it will be impossible for the Government to render them any considerable aid in time. We urge this claim for assistance the more confidently, because their necessities have been occasioned in part, by losses sustained at Lavergne, by no fault of theirs while they were gallantly fighting the Yankees some three miles in advance of where their horses and wagons were stampeded.

☞We invite special attention to the advertisement of the commencement of the next session of the Jacksonville Male Academy, under the superintendence of Rev. R. J. C. Hall. Mr. Hall has heretofore taught in our Academy and given entire satisfaction to his patrons; and many of our citizens are highly gratified at the opportunity of again obtaining his services. We hope that his laudable efforts to build up a good and permanent school may meet with prompt encouragement and liberal patronage.

☞Persons wishing to send articles of clothing to their friends in Capt. Averett's company in North Carolina, can deposit them with E Kerr of White Plains, and they will be taken on by Col. B O Ramey.

☞Persons wishing to send clothing to the 30th Regt. can do so by depositing them at my house or Cross Plains by the 15th inst.

HENRY McBEE.

Extract of a letter from a member of Col. Morgan's First Regt Ala Partizans, dated:

CAMP 10 MILES FROM MURFREESBORO } Oct. 10 1862. }

Before this reaches you, the news of our surprise at Lavergne will be scattered over the country, with various comments and additions detrimental to men and officers. The facts so far as I have learned from observation and enquiry, are these: On the night of the 6th inst, Gen. Anderson, (to whom Col Morgan had reported) was informed that the Yankees were moving on us from Nashville in force. At 3 o'clock on the following morning, we were aroused to make preparation to meet the advancing foe Whether we should have moved earlier or not, is for military and men of good common sense to decide. Howbeit, we were on the field by 4, about 1 mile from camp. The disposition had been made but a few minutes before our piece of artillery opened on the Yankees, distant about 250 or 300 yards The Yankees immediately replied with 4 pieces. Our gun fired 8 shots before its caison was bursted by a shell. The Yankees fired 20 or 25, as near as I can guess, throwing shot, shell and canister. At this juncture, it was discovered that the Yankees had nearly surrounded us, and a retreat by our right flank was ordered This was carried into effect in good order, not a man straggling, so far as I saw. Our company went into action with 43 men, and all came away together There are no casualties to report in our company, one man captured, private Jas T Snow, who was on guard and absent from the company. He has since been paroled. No one killed in the regt., and but few wounded. Private Jack Roberts, of Co A. was shot accidentally through the thigh About 20 of our regt was made prisoners, all since paroled. Lieut. Wm Pelham was burned considerably by the explosion above referred to. Our force amounted to not more than 1500 men. The Yankees to 5 or 7,000, from the best information we could obtain. We fell back about six miles.

October 14

Our company will probably lose 25 or 30 horses Our advance guard and the 32nd Ala. fired a few shot at the Yanks Two companies of the 32nd & Col. Maney were captured and about 20 from our Regt. One man from the 32d killed and a few wounded. Some 40 or 50 Yankees and one of their Colonels were killed.

October 25.

Three days ago 112 men of our Regt under command of Capt. Draper made a dash on a Regt of Yankees about 100 strong two miles this side of Nashville—stationed as pickets. We surprised them thoroughly and captured 87. They fired about 100 shots at us, we fired only 5 or 6. No damage on our side. Stephens of our company went back after we had gone some two hundred yards to get a horse he saw in a stable. The Yanks wounded and captured him—but he made his escape by frightening them, saying we had a large cavalry force coming on that would rescue him.

MR. GRANT:—Almost every time I step out, some one puts to me this perplexing interrogatory, "Well how stands Dekalb, these war times?" The question has so often been asked with a manifest spirit of anxiety, that I wish to place on file this answer—That the county of Dekalb at this time has in the Confederate service fourteen companies, all volunteers To avoid mistakes, I give the names of the gentlemen, who took the lead of these companies; and as near as I can state from memory, in the order of their respective organizations—1st R W Higgins, 2d A A Hughes, 3d A Hammack, 4th J Thomason, 5th Allen Lee, 6th W S Haralson, 7th Geo W Malone, 8th T J Burgess, 9th P B Gilbert, 10th T Reese, 11th D Clayton, 12th R R Davenport, 13th W N Hammock, 14th A Lee.

Now I may be mistaken, but I think the case of population and wealth considered, no county in the State has offered upon the altar of the South a greater sacrifice than this county. I am satisfied there are but few counties, if any, less able to spare at home, the labor of working men. Be this as it may I notice a fact worthy of note, as well as example, that the labor of the volunteer, in many instances, is being supplied by the mother, wife and daughter who take an honest pride in turning a hand at out door work, for the sake of independence. Another fact: old conscript does not find many subjects in this county. The Conscript agent tells me that in his opinion, the conscript list here, will not number a hundred. The volunteer spirit has well nigh absorbed all our legalized fighting material. In a number of instances your old friends have here as elsewhere, dedicated all their sons to the war. Without any design to make invidious distinction among so many thus devoted I will mention the name of A W Majors, who has not only given up all his sons, irrespective of age but also all his sons in law, to the service of the republic. This brief sketch is given to show that the people of my county, have done something for the cause of the South, and that they make sacrifices and endure hardships, equal if not greater, in degree to any people in the State. I trust now a quietus is placed on the question, "Well how stands Dekalb, these war times?"

FROM THE NORTH.

THE SPEECH OF JOHN VAN BUREN AT THE DEMOCRATIC MEETING IN NEW YORK, A SPEECH TO THE POINT.

We published in our Northern news yesterday some extracts of the speech of JOHN VAN BUREN at the Democratic Mass Meeting in New York, on Monday. If there is any real significance in any of these addresses lately launched against the LINCOLN Administration by the Democratic orators in the North, that of Mr. VAN BUREN is far more important than any yet published He is the only speaker yet who has dared to meet the question of peace squarely, without making subjugation a sine qua non. We make some highly interesting extracts from the speech as reported in the New York Herald.

HOW THE WAR WAS BEGUN—IMPORTANT LETTER FROM GEN. SCOTT—THE ALTERNATIVES AND LINCOLN'S CHOICE

On the 3d of March President Lincoln, about to be sworn into office, found himself in the city of Washington, having reached it in disguise (laughter), covered with a Scotch cap (renewed laughter), and wrapped with a blue cloth cloak. For the first time in the history of this country, the President found himself at the seat of Government. And it was through the active exertions and great discretion of Gen. Scott and Gen Wool that he was even enabled to take the oath And on the 3d day of March, as he was about entering upon those duties, before he took the oath, a letter was addressed to him, and which I now propose to read to you, and I ask you to notice (because I have not time to return to it) the wonderful spirit of prophecy and extraordinary judgment, as well as unquestionable patriotism, that animates every word and every line of this letter. I would say, however, that I was not authorized by General Scott to make this letter public. The letter was in form submitted to Secretary Seward, but was laid before the President, and reached him thus in a proper official mode:

WASHINGTON, March 2, 1861.

DEAR SIR: Hoping that in a day or two the new President will have happily passed through all personal dangers, and find himself installed an honored successor of the great Washington, with you as chief of his Cabinet, I beg leave to report in writing what I have before said to you orally, this supplement to my printed "views" (dated in October last) on the highly disordered condition of our (so late) happy and glorious Union.

To meet the extraordinary exigencies of the times, it seems to me that I am guilty of no arrogance in limiting the President a field of selection to one of the four plans of procedure subjoined:

1. Throw off the old and assume a new designation—the Union party. Adopt the conciliatory measures proposed by Mr. Crittenden or the Peace Convention—(applause)—and, my life upon it, we shall have no new case of secession; but, on the contrary, an early return of many, if not all, of the States which have already broken off from the Union Without some equally benign measure the remaining slaveholding States will probably join the Montgomery Confederacy in less than sixty days, when this city, being included in a foreign country, would require a permanent garrison of at least 35,000 troops to protect the Government within it.

I stop here to call your attention to the fact that Maryland did not join the Montgomery Confederacy, and yet with Maryland on our side to-night, it requires a garrison of 150,000 men to protect Washington. (Applause.)

2. Collect the duties on foreign goods outside the ports of which this Government has lost the command, or close such ports by act of Congress and blockade them

[And this, unhappily, was the course that was entered upon.]

3. Conquer the seceded States by invading armies. No doubt this might be done in two or three years by a young and able General—a Wolfe, a Desaix, or a Horne, with 300,000 disciplined men—estimating a third for garrisons, and the loss of a yet greater number by skirmishes, siezes, battles and Southern fevers. The destruction of life and property on the other side would be frightful, however perfect the moral discipline of the invaders.

The conquest completed at that enormous waste of human life to the North and Southwest with at least $250,000,000 added thereto, and cui bono? Fifteen devasted provinces, not to be brought into harmony with their conquerors, but to be held for generations, by heavy garrisons, at an expense quadruple the net duties of taxes which it would be possible to extort from them, followed by a protector or an emperor

4. ... ay to the seceded —wayward sisters, depart in peace.

In haste, I remain, very truly yours,

WINFIELD SCOTT.

Hon. WM. H. SEWARD, &c., &c., &c.

THE VIEWS OF GENERAL WARDSWORTH, REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR GOV. ERSON—THE SOUTH BE WHIPPED AND THEN LER GO.

I have no acquaintance with General M. Clellan, even by sight, and no communication with him, direct or indirect, but I tell these Republican gentlemen that if they keep on they will make him President of the United States (Loud cheers.) Now, I say that Wardsworth is his open, malignant, bitter persecutor. When the country is at war the bitter enemy of the Commander-in-Chief should not be placed at the head of the Goverment of this State (Cheers.) As a friend of the war, determined to see it carried on until an honorable peace is accomplished, I say it is the most unsuitable thing for me to do to support James S. Wardsworth for Governor of the State of New York

I had a conversation with him myself—not a private one, for these Republicans never make confidants of me; if they have any secrets to keep, they choose some other depositary—and I said to him, in the presence of several people, who will appear if he contradicts what I say. 'How do you propose to terminate this war?' I wanted to see a Republican who sees where we are coming out: I never met one yet I agree to go on with the war; I agree, most of all, not to stop when we are whipped; but, when we get through, I want to know what then. "Will you hold the States of the South by armies, and call upon us to pay the taxes necessary to subsist the troops, amounting to some millions of men?" [A voice—"No."]—That is what Wardsworth said [Laughter.] "Will you change the form of this Government, so that, instead of being the government of our liberty and of the Constitution, it shall be a military government?" "No." "What then?" "Why, we will whip them and let them go!" [Cheers.] "But," said I, "would it not be easier to let them go without whipping them? Would they not be a little better neighbors? You do not propose to move the continent away; the people will be there; and would they not be a little better neighbors, if you let them go without whipping?"—[Cheers.] "No," said he, "we will whip them, and let them go." And he, being a military man, and I a civilian, he started South to whip them, while I staid here, after he got through, to let them go. [Laughter and applause.]

RICAMOND TO BE CAPTURED—A CONVENTION TO BE CALLED, AND IF THE SOUTH THEN WON'T AGREE TO STAY, LET HER GO.

We propose to have a vigorous prosecution of the War now—[applause]—and in my judgement DeClellan ought to be authorized to march to Richmond and take the capital. [Cheers.] Taking the enemy's capital is the natural resting place in every war. When Vienna was taken the austrian Geverament was subdued: when Paris was taken upon two different occasions France was subdued. It was never heard of that you carry out the war in the detail so as to conquer every province of the country that you are attempting to subdue When Mexico was taken, although there were seven millions of hostile Mexicans in every part of that Republic, Mexico was conquered, and peace was declared. I say it is, if not the end of the war, the natural resting place in the war and after that will be the time, in my humble judgement, to treat of peace, and to determine what ought to be done. And I am just as well prepared now to say what ought to be done as I should be then. I believe a convention should be called ["That's right," and applause.] I believe our Southern brethren ought to be invited to such a convention.—["That's the doctrine."] I believe that when Richmond is taken they will be satisfied of their inability to contend with the gigantic resources of the free and loyal States of this Union. They have suffered prodigiously and must suffer more. I still not believe that they have utterly forgotten the glorious and precious histories of our past career [Applause.] I will not believe that they are willing to relinquish their share in our common heritage of fame I will not believe that they will consent to see this great model republic, starting in its career and challenging the admiration of the world, and being the hope and light of freedom throughout the world, strangled in its infancy. I believe that under those circumstances they would come into a convention, that we would agree to live together under the Constitution as it is, or with more distinctly defining what the Constitution now is. [Applause.]

And if they won't consent then I know that I am in favor of so amending the Constitution as to let them go, saying to them, in the language of the gallant Scott, "wayward sisters, depart in peace." I say they have no right to go It is a wanton and wicked attempt on their part, in defiance of the Constitution and the laws peaceably to secede from the Union; but if they after due reflection, think it desirable to form a Confederacy of their own, I should feel in regard to it very much as I should if I had a wife who told me she was going to leave I would say to her, you cannot go according to law. You can make me mighty uncomfortable if you stay; you had better think this thing all over before you set out, and if, upon mature reflection (though there is no law under Heaven authorizing you to go), Peter or Thomas, whoever it was, will pack your trunk, stop at some lawyer's as you go down street, and find out how we can get apart at the least possible expense and go. [Laughter and cheers.] I had rather pack your trunk myself, than to have you stay, if you want to go.

And now, gentlemen, let us see what is our condition just at this time. We have already, as I have stated to you, carried on this war at this frightful loss of human life and this great destruction of property; we have come to a state of things when the widowed mother calls upon you to stop at the first honorable point; when the wife whose husband goes out to battle for the Union and the Constitution; when the sister who finds a brother coming home; when the betrothed, who parts from her future lord and master, dedicates him, to the service of the country; when the bride who separates from her groom at the church door to go forth to battle—all appeal to you not to stop the war dishonorably.—With firm lips they tell you to go forward as long as honor and justice requiae it; but when you come to a point where peace can properly be made, then to make it.

Gen. John H. Morgan Hangs the Yankee Provost Marshal of Lexington, Ky.

We have it upon what we deem very reliable authority, that after our army fell back from Perryville, Gen. John H. Morgan dashed into Lexington and hung, in the street, the Provost Marshal of that city. It seems that this dirty tool of Lincoln, had notified the mother of General Morgan that she must leave Kentucky, and, in the event of her failing to do so, would resort to some severe measures to make her go. The noble son, learning this, resolved that he would take his life at all hazards. This he did, as reported to us by truthful Kentucky gentlemen, in a gallant style —Knoxville Register.

MOBILE, Nov. 1.

The following are special dispatches to the Advertiser & Register:

Holly Springs Oct. 31.—Surgeon Bond of General Price's army, who was left with our wounded at Corinth, returned to-day in Rosecranz's ambulances.—He left 400 of our wounded at Iuka, and 250 distributed in the country. They are well fed and cared for and have twenty Confederate Surgeons with them.

Gen. Rosecranz has been very attentive to our wounded soldiers, and declares that such fighting men were never equalled, and that they are entitled to every attention. The only thing they require is clothing, of which they are much in need. Three hundred suits will be sent to them immediately.

Gen Rosecranz, in tears, met our Surgeon after the battles, and expressed his regret that such brave men should suffer so severely His Adjutant declared that if Gen. Price's command had been supported by other troops, handled as well, the Confederates would have held Corinth. They, finding that our troops had gained the centre of the town, fired their ordinance buildings, and it was with much difficulty that the flames were extinguished after Gen. Green's brigade fell back for want of support.

Surgeon Scott, who has been imprisoned at St. Louis, has returned.

Senatobia, Oct. 31.—The Memphis Bulletin of the 29th, says Gen. Buell has been relieved of his command of the Union forces in Kentucky, and Gen. Rosecranz has been appointed in his stead.

OBITUARY.

In "these times that try men's souls," there is many a daring deed of valor, many a noble sacrifice freely tendered, that is swept unnoted by its boisterous waves into the dark sea of oblivion. Yet are they forever lost? No! no! caught up by the recording angel, they are perpetuated in characters of light to glow with a new brilliancy in heaven.

Not the least in this bright galaxy will appear the name of Seaborn W Chisolm, who ere the noonday of life was attained, we'comed the dreary shadow of death. Scarcely 20 years of age, with a bright future opening up before him, he relinqushed the honors awaiting him in college and all his high hopes of life, and gave an eager response to the first loud call of his outraged country The last blow he struck for her wrongs was in the terrific battle of Sharpsburg. Here he fell wounded and was left far from home, helpless and bleeding among strangers. But God raised up friends even in an enemy's land. In the house of a kind Marylander (a cousin of Gen. Lee,) he found a quiet harbor of repose and one friend who attended him with all of a sister's love. This noble hearted young woman was touched with his heroic fortitude, as memories of her loved brother, who had so recently shed his life's blood in the Confederate cause came crowding into her mind—her sympathies flowed freely for the youthful patriot, and her hands found ready work in alleviating his suffering. But alas their generous kindness could not stay the hand of death. His approach was too surely and sadly marked. It became necessary as a last resort, to amputate his leg and in a brief time, that manly heart was stilled—that proud form was laid low by the hand of the destroying angel.

This occurred on the 21st of Sept., a day fraught with woe for his already grief stricken parents. Oh who can tell the anguish of that father and mother, as they bow, in silent grief, to this second stroke of death. Twice has the cruel monster invaded their home circle and claimed a noble son, the pride of the household—the hope of their old age. We cannot thread the mystic mazes of God's will, but faith, strong and free, springs upward from the grave, and enables us to bow in meek submission to Him "who doeth all things well" The deceased was baptized three hours before his death and left a message for father and mother, brothers and sisters to meet him, an unbroken family in Heaven.

When the soul of the young martyr had winged its way to a brighter clime, he was laid at the request of his new found friend, in the foot of the garden, beside her cherished brother. Here in this quiet retreat the turmoil of battle can reach him no more.

"But the night dew that falls, though in silence it weeps, Shall brighten with verdure the hill where he sleeps."

"Asleep in Jesus! far from thee
Thy kindred and their graves may be;
But thine is still a blessed sleep
From which none ever wake to weep."

WEDOWEE ALA., Oct. 26th 1862.

Editor Jacksonville Republican:—Doubtless you are called upon almost daily to announce the death of some gallant and noble soldier who has spilled his life's blood upon the altar of his country But among the many who have fallen, I desire you to notice the death of Joseph C Burns of Capt Reaves' company, 13th Regt Ala Vols, from this county, who fell pierced thro' the lungs in the memorable battle of Sharpsburg, Md., in the 26th year of his age.

Though he fell many miles from his home, it is some consolation to his beloved wife and friends generally to know, that the deceased had the admiration of both officers and men of his company.

Thus passed away in the early bloom of manhood, one of Randolph's most noble sons. For many years Joseph C Burns had been a citizen of this county and was always among the foremost to espouse every enterprise which looked to the welfare of his country, and State at large Having married about the year 1856 to Miss Mary A E West, a daughter of Ephriam West of this county. When the war broke out, and he saw his country was about to be overrun by the vandal hordes of the North, he was among the first to leave his wife and loved ones and take up arms in the cause of his country, though in the early part of life. He attached himself to one of the first companies from the county, and went to the war leaving all that is near and dear in life behind. His relations and friends will mourn the loss of so noble a patriot. May God protect and shield his devoted companion Mary A E Burns, and little children from all harm is the humble prayer of his comrades in arms.

Court of Probate for said County, Special Term October the 16th A. D. 1862r

At this Term of the court came Wm. H. Dulaney a citizen of said county, of lawful age, and son and distribee of the Estate of Baker Dulaney deceased and filed in said court his petition in writing under oath, representing in substance that John F. Dill was sometime since, by an order of said court duly appointed the Administratsr of said Estate—that said Estate is considerably in debt, that said Administrator has sold none of the property of said Estate for the purpose of paying the same, excepta small lot of cotton and one mule, that the said Dill is now, and has been for some time past absent from the State of Alabama, and for such absence rather causes mentioned in said petition, petitioner asks that the said Dill be removed from said Administration, and some other suitable person be appointed in his place, alleging that it is necessary for the interest of said Estate, that said Administrator be removed and a successor be appointed in his place. It is therefore ordered by the court that the 14th day of November 1862, be set apart as a day for the hearing of said application and petition and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspaper printed and published in said county for three successive weeks prior to said day of a notice to the said John F. Dill, administrator aforesaid to be and appear at a special term of said court to be holden at the court house of said county on said 14th day of November, 1862. and show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted, and be received from said administration &c if he thinks proper.

Witness A Woods. Judge of said Court at office this 16th day October, A D 1862.

TO THE PUBLIC.

As an act of justice to Mr. Nathan M Reed of Cherokee county, I state that I did Mr. Reed great injustice by having him arrested with others, on the 29th Sept last, for coming to my house and threatening to commit murder. I am now satisfied that Mr. Reed is and was innocent of any immoral or unlawful purpose upon the occasion alluded to. If any injury has resulted to Mr. Reed's character for morality or honesty from any act or declaration of mine, I deeply regret it, and I make this public statement as due to him as an honest man. In excuse for myself, I state that it was through a misunderstanding of both facts and law, that caused Mr. Reed's name to be inserted in said warrant. J. P. CAMP.

CIRCULR LETTER.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, }
MONTGOMERY, ALA., Aug. 26, '62. }

To the Soldiers' Aid Societies and the Women of Alabama:

In consequence of the difficulty of providing our soldiers now in the field with socks for the coming fall and winter, I have to appeal to the Aid Societies and generally to the women of Alabama, through whose patriotic labors our troops up to this time have been kept in the field. There are full fifty thousand of these troops to be provided for, and it cannot be done without your assistance. Those who are able, it is confidently hoped, will supply them gratuitously, for a large proportion of the army cannot pay for their clothing out of the allowance made by the Confederate Government, at the high prices induced by extortion and speculation.

Those who cannot afford to furnish them gratuitously will be paid at the rate of fifty cents a pair for heavy cotton and seventy five cents for good woolen socks.

The Aid Societies and Judges of Probate throughout the State will act as receiving agents, and will forward at the expense of the State to General DUFF GREEN, Quartermast, Mobile, or to Col. WM. R. PICKETT, Assistant Quarter Master, Montgomery, who will make payment for all except gratuitous contributions.

The State cannot undertake to forward contributions to individuals, but those made to companies will be forwarded from Montgomery without cost to the donors.

JOHN GILL SHORTER.
Governor of Alabama.

Dissolution.

THE firm of Sargeant & Inglis is this day dissolved by mutual consent. James B. Gregg having bought out the interest of T. A. Inglis in the Livery Stable in Jacksonville, together with the books and all accounts of said firm of Sargeant & Inglis. And the said Sargeant & Gregg is authorized to settle the business of said firm, and to collect the accounts and claims in favor of the said firm. And the said firm of Sargeant & Gregg, has assumed the payment of all debts and claims against said firm of Sargeant & Inglis.

J. B. SARGEANT,
T. A. INGLIS.

Jacksonville, Sept. 6, 1862.

Notice.

FROM the above it will be seen that I have disposed of my interest in the Livery business in this place to James B. Gregg. For the very liberal patronage extended to the late firm, I take this opportunity to return my sincere thanks, and ask that the same may be continued to Messrs Sargeant & Gregg

Improved Merchant Mills

THE undersigned respectfully inform the public generally that their Flouring Mills situatee on Tallassahatchee Creek, five miles south-west of Jacksonville, has been recently much improved and thoroughly repaired. They are now prepared to manufacture an article of Flour, equal in quality to that of any mills in the country, and as large a quantity to the bushel. They have a good lot with water convenient, for the use of persons who may bring wheat from a distance.

They solicit a continnance of the patronage of their old friends and customers, assuring them that their well-earned reputation for promptitude and correct dealing shall be fully maintained. Every effort will be made to accommodate those who come from a distance, so that they may get their grinding done without having to return:

Their SAW MILL is also now in excellent order, and they have on hand a large quantity of almost every variety of Lumber, and will at all times be prepared to fill orders with accuracy and dispatch.

J. A. ADERHOLT,
June 27, 1861. P. SPARKE.

State of Alabama, Calhoun County
Court of Probate for Calhoun County
Special Term Sept. 9 1862.

THIS day came Nancy Phillips, administratrix of the Estate of Mark Phillips, deceased, and files in Court her petition in writing, representing among other things, that she is the widow of said decedent, that said decedent died seized and possessed of the following described Lands, lying and being situate in said county of Calhoun, to:wit: the North-west fourth of north west fourth of section 29, and Fr. A, of Fl. Sec 30, Fr. C of Fl Sec. 30, Fraction S of Fl Sec. 19, one rod in width off of the North end of Fraction B of Fl Sec. 30 beginning at the east and running to the west line of said fractions, except the right of a road to Thomas R. Mangham's and his heirs and assigns across the north east corner of Fraction B of one rod in width, all of Fractiox D of Fractional Section 30, lying north and west of Adams' creek to be straightened as the marks on the trees are now made, all in fractional township 13 of Range 6, and all containing 227 acres, more or less; and the west half of north west fourth of section 27; and north east fourth of north east fourth of north west fourth, and west half of north west fourth of section 28, township 13 range 6, containing 360 acres, more or less, and the south west half of north west fourth of section 20, township 12 range 6, containing 40 acres more or less; the south east fourth of south west fourth section 21, and the north west fourth of south east fourth and south half of south east fourth and south west fourth of south west fohrth of section 22, township 13 range 6.

Petitioner asks that dower be assigned her in the foregoing described lands as the widow of the said Mark Phillips deceased, petitioner further alleges that Lydia Cannon wife of Cornelius Cannon and Eliza Hampton wife of Eliza Hampton are nonresident distributees of said Estate. It is ordered by the court that the 3d day of November 1862 be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition, and that notice therefore be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for thirty days prior to said day as a notice to said nonresident heirs to be and appear at a Regular Term of said court house of said county on said 13th day of Oct. 1862, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness A. Woods Judge of said court at office, this 9th day of Sept. 1862.

A. WOODS
Judge of Probate

The State of Alabama, }
Calhoun County. }
Court of Probate for said county,
Special Term, Sept.
9th. 1862.

This day came Nancy Phillips Administratrix of the Estate of Mark Phillips deceased, and files in court her petition in writing representing among other things, that she is the Administratrix of the Estate of the said Mark Phillips deceased, that her intestate died seized and possessed of the following described lands situated in said county of Calhoun to-wit: The N. W. ¼ of N. W. ¼ of sec. 29, and Fraction A. and C. of Fractional sec 30 Fraction S. of fractional sec 19, and one rod in width off of the North end of Fraction B. of Fractional sec 30 begining at the East end running to the west line of said Fraction, except the right of a road to Thomas R. Mangham and his heirs and assigns across the North East corner of Fraction B. of one rod in width all of Fraction D. of Fractional sec. 30 lying North and West of Adam's Creek to be straitened as the marks on the trees are now made all in Fractional T. 13 of R. 6, containing 227 acres more o less. also the W. ¼ of N W. quarter of sec 27, and N. E. ¼, of N. E. ¼ of N. W ¼ and W ½ of N. W. ¼ of sec 28 T 13 of R. 6, containing 360 acres more or less. also S. W. ¼ of N. W ¼ of sec 20 T. 13 R 6 containing 40 acres more or less. also the S E ¼ of S W ¼ and N W ¼ of S E ¼ and S ½ of S E ¼ of sec 21 and S W ¼ of S W ¼ sec 22 all in T 13 R 6.

Said Administratrix asks that an order and decree of said court be made authorizing her to sell the whole of the above described lands except her dower interest in the same for distribution alleging that an equal, fair and beneficial division of the same cannot be made among the destributees of said Estate without a sale thereof and petitioner further alleges that Lyd a Cannon wife of Cornelius Cannon and Eliza Hampton wife of Eliza Hampton are nonresident distributees of said Estate. It is ordered by the court that the 3d day of November be set apart to hear and determine upon the allegations of said petitions and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for forty days prior to said day, as a notice to said non-resident distributees, to be and appear at a special term of said court, on said 3d day of November, 1862, and contest or defend against said petition if they think proper.

POETRY.

DEDICATED TO THE MEMORY OF BENJAMIN A. BROOKE, WHO DIED OF ERYSIPELAS, IN THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, ON THE 9TH OF DEC. 1861.

1.

He's gone to the grave, to rise no more,
Till Gabriel's trump aloud shall roar
To call him forth to meet his God;
From where he lies beneath the sod.

2.

On Bristow hill, his body sleeps,
Where none but God a vigil keeps;
To guard it from our country's foe,
Who once possessed the hill Bristow.

3

'Tis true his body does not sleep,
Alone upon that hilltop steep,
For others there have found a grave;
Who died like he, their homes to save.

4

Calmly they rest there, side by side.
The young—the brave—their countrys pride
From friends and loved ones, far away,
But God is there, to watch their clay.

5

And he can keep them safe from harm,
Protected by his Mighty arm.
His watchful eye that never sleeps,
A faithful vigil ever keeps.

6

But still 'tis wished they'd brought him home,
Near kindred friends to have a tomb;
Where they might see the sacred spot
Where he was laid, but not forgot.

7

'Twould soothe the pang of those bereft,
To know that he had not been left.
So far away from friends and home,
In Virginia's soil to have a have a tomb.

8

'Tis hard to think he had to die,
So far away, from his native sky,
And Loved and friends he loved so well,
Without one last, long sad farewell.

9

Could he have had his Losem friend,
To nurse him, and his couch attend,
And gently all his wants supply,
'Twould not have been so hard to die.

10

For well he loved the gentle one,
Whose heart and hand he'd sought and won;
And she alone possessed the power
To soothe and close his dying hour.

11

But this bright boon he was denied,
He did not have her by his side,
For she was very far away,
And knew not that in death he lay.

12

A Vernon watched beside his bed,
Did all for him he could 'tis said.
That friend or aught save kindred tye,
Could do for one that's called to die.

13

'Tis hoped the Lord this friend will bless
With health, long life and happiness;
For the sake of him he tried to save,
From death and an untimely grave.

14

May friends stand round him, when he dies,
To soothe his pains and close his eyes;
May he a home in Heaven find
Because he was so good and kind.

15

He told them that if he should die,
He was going to live above the sky;
To his Saviour's will, he was resigned,
And to his hands, his soul consigned.

16

'Tis hoped, his soul has gone to rest,
To that bright world, where all are blessed
Where all is love, and joy and peace,
And blissful praises never cease.

17

His gentle wife laments his fall;
She feels she's lost her earthly all;
May the Lord to her new strength impart,
Bind up and cheer her broken heart;

18

And give to her at last on high,
With him a mansion in the sky,
To bask in the sunshine of his love,
And all the joys of Heaven prove.

19

His mother long since passed before,
She'll greet him on that happ, shore,
And welcome him, from earth away,
To live with her in endless day.

20

Far from the threshold of her home
She long has looked for her's to come.
He was the first of her dear cherished band
To meet her in that far off land.

21

His father's tottering steps, are seen,
Just on the brink of Jordons stream,
He soon will stand on the other shore,
To join with those who've gone before.

22

On Zion's walls, he long has stood,
Proclaiming life through Jesus' blood;
His mission here will soon be done,
His earthly race is almost run.

23

Brothers and sisters mourn behind,
The loss of one so good and kind;
They almost wish him back from Heaven,
He was the favorite of the seven.

24

Life's chain, that bound them all together
Death's ruthless hand, has dared to sever.
The cherished one he chose to take,
A shining mark he loves to make.

25

And many friends his death deplore,
Because they'll see them here no more;
And though he sleeps his last, long, deep
His memory they will ever keep,

26

A guardian spirit, he may come,
To visit earth, so late his home;
And they grieve, perhaps he's near,
To hear each sigh—to see each tear.

27

And can the bosom of the blessed,
Have pain at seeing freinds distressed?
His guardian spirit will be grieved,
To see the tears of those bereaved.

28

Then they should their grief refrain,
Since their great loss is but his gain;
For earth, with all its glittering store,
Will soon pass by, to be no more.

29

But his is an eternal home,
Bright flowers there will ever bloom;
And they should look from earth away,
To that bright world where all is day.

30

At Jesus' feet they all may meet,
To reunite in friendship sweet;
And live and love, on that bright shore;
Where pain and parting are no more.

31

He lost his life in his country's cause
His unwary merits her applause;
And though his death has caused a glooin
A halo of glory lights his tomb.

32

Then let him rest in his quiet grave,
Besides his comrades—the good and brave
For God has called the warrior home,
From the battlefield, in Heaven to roam.

33

Farewell, dear one, we'll meet no more;
Upon this troublous mundane shore,
But in thy happy home on high,
We hope to meet thee by and by.

OBITUARY.

Thomas H. Chennault departed this life on Sunday evening the 26th of October 1862, at his residence near Branchville, St. Clair Co. Ala.; in the 44th year of his age. His disease was supposed to b. Typhoid fever. The deceased the son of John and Fanny Chennault, was borned in Lincoln Co. Tenn., August 15th 1862, and in December of the same year his father and family emigrated to this State, and in his 19th year he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Hambright of Cherokee Co., and has lived in this county to the time of his death. When he was about 25 years old he professed religion and joined the Baptist Church at Bethel where he lived a consistent member until death has taken him away.. August last he was elected Sheriff this county, and no doubt but what if he had lived he would have made a good Sheriff. He was known by all a good citizen, and true to his country. he sympathized with his beloved country, he threw in a great deal to the volunteers and their indigent families. He has left a bright example for his children to follow; he bore his last long sickness of 42 days with great fortitude; he has left a companion and three daughters and many relatives and friends to mourn his untimely loss; but their loss is no doubt his eternal gain.—The morning before he died in the evening, he called his wife and his children and Relatives to his bed and told them he was going to Heaven, and told them to meet him there and presently he tried to sing, but could not. He expressed himself perfectly reconciled to the will of God. From the testimony given, we believe he has made a happy exchange of worlds, and is now enjoying a bright immortality with the saints in light.—We mourn not as thos who have no hope, though his body is consigned to the narrow limits of the grave; yet we believe that when Jesus shall come to collect his jewels, that he will be one of that number that will have past in the first resurrection,

DIED—in Richmond, Va. July the 18th 1862, of wound received while charging a battery in the battle before Richmond, Wm A. T. Turntine, son of of Capt. D, C. and Caroline E. Turntine of Gadsden Ala. He was born August the 3th 1840, professed religion and joined the M. E. Church South, Oct. 1857 and was enlisted in the service of his country June the 4th 1861—joined Capt. Hughes' company which was attached to the immortalized 10th Ala. Regiment. He was in the battle at Drainsville Dec. the 20th 1861.—He fired thirty-four rounds in the battle of Williamsburg—fought gallantly in the battle of Seven Pines, and finished his work in the battles before Richmond. He was a dutiful son, an affectionate brother, a faithful friend, a punctual christian and a brave soldier, in all the relations of life acting well his part; he was esteemed and loved while living and lamented and mourned when dead.—While we weep over his absence we bid the youthful patriot and christian sleep on until the storm of battle is hushed and until the bright day of the resurrection morning has dawned, and then arise from their resting place to join the loved ones where war and death are no more.

NOVEL SURGICAL OPERATION.—We were permitted to examine, a day or two since, the subject of quite a novel surgical operation performed a few days after the battles around Richmond, by Dr. C. J. Clarke Surgeon in charge of the 3d Alabama Hospital, in this city. J. W. Wacaster, a member of the 1st North Carolina cavalry, received a severe gunshot wound through the ankle. By an ingenious and skillfully performed operation, the foot was removed, leaving the heel with half its bone, which was drawned around and applied to the end of the leg bones, previously sawed off. The heel has now become firmly attached in its new position, thus making the limb almost as long as the opposite one and avoiding the necessity of either crutch or artificial leg. We are informed that the operation was first devised by an eminent Rusian surgeon named Pizogoff—Richmond Enquirer 27th.

A Cheap Mode of Curing Bacon.

ENON, ALA., October 23, 1862.

I saw to-day, at the house of Mr. Wm. Morton, a well known and respectable citizen of this place, good bacon from a hog weighing two hundred and fifty pounds, killed last week, made by dipping in boiling brine, hung and smoked immediately. The plan is simple and commendable for its economy of salt. Take a kettle or large pot nearly full of water, put in a little more salt than the water will dissolve, bring to a boil, cut up the meat, and while the animal heat is in it put in the kettle and boil from two to four minutes, according as the meat is thick or thin; rub on meal to keep off the flies, then hang and smoke it. The brine must be kept up to its full strength by occasionally adding salt. When the work is done the remaining brine may be boiled down and the salt saved for other uses, or for the next killing.

Mr. Morton tells me he learned this plan from an old man forty years ago, who had used it for years previous. He has frequently tried it in the month of August with invariable success. Every one who knows him will vouch for the truth of his assertion. He has never weighed the salt to ascertain the exact amount saved in this way, having heretofore found its chief advantage in being able to save meat at any time, but is satisfied it saves at least three-fourths, one peck being equal to a bushel in the old way. The only difference between his meat and the winter cured bacon is, that it loses slightly its flavor, and tastes a little old. That which I saw was dry and salt enough, with no appearance of having been cooked. He saves beef in the same manner.

When this plan was published last spring, I was a skeptic, believing that the meat being partially cooked would sour and become worthless. I know nothing of Mr Stubbs, and was not prepared to take for granted what he said. I know Mr Morton, and am satisfied.—Others may know nothing of him or I, and may still doubt. Let every one who has tried it publish the fact, and benefit the public. Some of our blood thirsty speculators may be hurt yet, and those planters who give the high price for salt as the reason for raising the price of their corn to unreasonable rates, may learn that honesty is the best policy.

Our Importations—Trading with the Yankees. It seems that the city of Charleston, which has assumed the title of "the nest of the rebellion," and which claims to be perfectly incandescent on the subject of Southern rights, is making a very unenviable reputation in this war as an emporium of contraband trade with the Yankees. One has only to look over the list of one of the numerous cargo sales in that city to see that the Yankees are getting our Cotton for their "notions." Scarcely a single article applicable to the immediate purposes of the war is brought in by the adventures which "run the blockade," so constantly. Our shrewd women all know that the calicos sold in Charleston are the genuine Yankee manufacture. Recently on a lot of these goods sold by a South Carolina firm as "arrived from Europe," there was discovered a Yankee stamp, the picture of which was a herculean Zouave strangling "the rebellion." We are informed that a single firm in Charleston has cleared from trade with the Yankees, two millions of dollars since the blockade.

It is possible that these evils might have been remedied by Congress by a law allowing Cotton to be exported only for army supplies. As it is, we are satisfied that the business of secretly exporting from the Southern ports, and running the blockade, is but a mask for a lively trade with the Yankees.—Richmond Examiner.

From Our Army in Northern Virginia.

It was stated at Winchester, on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, that the enemy were crossing the Potomac in heavy force at Berlin and Point of Rocks, and that their cavalry were in the neighborhood of Snickersville, on the Shenandoah river. Of the movements of our army we cannot speak. During their sojourn in the lower Valley, our forces effectually destroyed the Baltimore and Ohio, and Winchester and Potomac Railroads. The Baltimore road was torn up from the neighborhood of Sir John's, in Morgan county, to within four miles of Harper's Ferry—in all, a distance of some forty miles. All the depots on the road were torn down or burned, and the fine hotel, belonging to the company, at Martinsburg, was committed to the flames. The cross-ties and sills of the road were taken up and fired, and the heavy iron rails laid on and bent by the heat, so as to render them unfit for use. The Winchester road was destroyed entirely from Winchester to Halltown, some twenty-five miles. The lower end of this road was destroyed within sight and in hearing of the enemy's forces on Bolivar Heights, without the slightest resistance being offered. It will require some time to repair these roads so as to make them of any service; and if the Yankees should invade the Valley again during the winter, they will have to furnish other means of transportation.—Richmond Dispatch 31st ult.

☞ We take the following from the Cincinnatti Times:

"Vallendigham, though his district in the new apportionment was arranged especially to defeat him, is barely defeated, and that is all. In his old district, where a year ago he scarcely dare attempt to address a popular assemblage, he has a majority of about seven hundred, and is defeated only from the fact that a very strong Republican county has been added to the district. These facts are given as an illustration of the political revolution that has undoubtedly begun in the Northern States."

COTTON CARDS.—A Cotton Card Factory is now in successful operation at Rome, Georgia, with wire enough, as the manufacturers say, for twelve thousand pairs. The cards at present are sold only for hard tanned sheepskins.

JEFF CLEMENS.—We learn that this person was beaten within an inch of his life on the streets of Huntsville the other day by Augustus Withers, Esq., a brother of Gen. J. M. Withers. Mr. Withers was one of the twelve citizens incarcerated by Mitchell, and their prison window commanded a view of the Yankeeizing Southerners, of whom they kept a list. They had spoken very plainly about these individuals, of whom Clemens was one, who, coming behind Mr. Withers, snapped a pistol at him. Withers turned and beat him as we have mentioned, disfiguring him frightfully.—Knoxville Register, 25th inst.

A FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.—A frightful accident occurred a few days since, on the mountain road near Harper's Ferry. A train of Federal army wagons going up the long and narrow cut on the eastern side of the mountain, was met by a train coming down. The mules in the down train took fright, and becoming unmanageable, dashed down the mountain at a frightful speed, and crowding the up train off the road, hurled the wagons, mules and drivers over a steep and rocky precipice of a perpendicular height varying from fifty to one hundred feet. Over and over rolled the great wagons and teams, crashing and crashing, and breaking into fragments, and tearing to pieces, until the whole train lay at the foot, and scattered along the side of the mountain, a mass of frightful ruin.—Richmond Eng. 3d Nov.

FIRE AT ST LOUIS.—A gentleman who left Memphis Thursday afternoon informs us previous to their departure letters were received by commercial houses in the city giving a few particulars of a great fire at the St. Louis landing. They stated that four or five loaded steamboats were destroyed, and several warehouses—the total loss being estimated at about a million and a half, of which one million belonged to the government. Our informants could give us no information as to the origin of the fire.—Memphis Appeal Nov. 1st

NORTHERN ELECTIONS.

Some people say they are by the Northern elections, like the Kentuckian's wife was about the fight between her husband and the bear—"she didn't care which whipped,"—but we confess we feel very differently. The Democratic victory in the election of Seymour, the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, and Parker, Dem. candidate for Governor of New Jersey, together with decided majorities for Congress, in N York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and other states, is, we think, the plainest and broadest streak of day-light that has occurred since the commencement of this abominable and unholy war. We prefer it to a thousand rumors of intervention, and almost intervention itself. It is true all parties profess to be in favor of a vigorous prosecution of the war. Less than this they dare not do, while the war is in progress and they are not in power. But look at the antecedents of the parties. The Democratic party, as a party, has never been opposed to the South or its institutions, and always voted for President with the same party of the South. On the contrary, the Abolition or Black Republican party has been nurtured and built up solely on the ground of hostility to the South, until placed in power, and it culminated in the inauguration of this war Besides Wadsworth, the Black Republican candidate for Governor of New York, who ought to know better than we of the South, in a recent speech, called the Democratic party, the peace party, and asserted roundly, that if they get into power they would make peace in ninety days, and upon terms admitting the disruption of the Union, and the independence of the Southern Confederacy.

☞Salt, we notice is quoted as considerably declined, in Mobile and Atlanta, and continues dull. This is a hopeful sign, at least that some of the heartless speculators will be be made to suffer for their extortion. Salt having been the first article that started the speculating mania, we hope that it may also be the first to cause a general abatement of the spirit of extortion, which is disheartening the people, oppressing the poor, and doing more to ruin our country, than all its enemies. The decline in salt in Mobile, may be occasioned by a fear that the place may be occupied by the Yankees; but in Atlanta, it can only be indicative of early peace or an abundant supply. Bacon is quoted as going off very brisk in Atlanta, at 60 cents per pound. No wonder that cholera is among the hogs.

☞Persons having friends and relatives in co D, 13th Ala. Regt., formerly commanded by Capt. Aiken, now by Capt. Reaves, are informed that they can send clothing, blankets, &c., to them by T J Strong, who will start about the 25th inst Clothing should be plainly marked to the persons for whom they are intended, and deposited with the Probate Judge at Wedowee.

CHARLESTON.

Gen Beauregard, has notified the non-combattants, and women and children of Charleston, to leave the city for a place of greater safety in the interior, as soon as practicable. This indicates that he feels certain of an early attack on the city. Savannah and Mobile, are also threatened—may be attacked simultaneously. At all events we are doubtless on the eve of important and decisive movement.

SERGT. JOHN D. Walker, formerly a printer in the Republican office, a member of the Pope Walker Guards, who was wounded in the battle of Sharpsburg, passed a night with us this week. We regret that his wound having deprived him of his left thumb, has irremediably spoiled his trade as a printer.

The South contains no soldier more truly devoted to her cause He says he took some twenty-odd deliberate shots at the Vandals on that bloody field, and expresses a determination to try them again so soon as circumstances will permit.

W. W. BEASLEY, another of the Republican printers, who went out in the 4th Ala. Regt., and will be remembered as having, alone and unaided, taken four Yankee prisoners in the first battle of Manassas, has been sojourning in our place several days. He has been in several hardfought battles since, among others, the Seven Pines, the battles before Richmond, the 2d battle of Manassas, and Boonesboro Md. He has fortunately escaped without a wound. At the last named battle he was taken prisoner, and is now on parole, awaiting exchange

CAPT. R. G EARLE, of the "Tom Walker Dragoons," arrived in our place on Monday night last, and left early on Tuesday morning, for his residence in the Western side of the county. He reports the general health of his company now in Florida as good. He brings no news not in the papers; but says there is a general impression of an early and ferocious attack by the Yankees on our Southern coast.

☞Particular attention is invited to the advertisement of R B Kyle, Agt. Qr. Mrs. Department relative to the supplies of leather for shoeing the army. In view of the great destitution and pressing necessities of the army, it is hoped that Tanners generally will step forward, with commendable patriotism and accept the liberal proposition made.

Louisiana Salt Works.

We had an interview with Dr. J. N. Simmons, who has just returned from Jackson and Vicksburg, and from whom we have learned many interesting things concerning the recent salt discoveries and operations in Louisiana.

1st The Lake Bistineau Works.—This lake is between Bienville and Bossier Parishes, in Northwest Louisiana, some 15 or 20 miles this side of Shreveport. A large number of hands are making salt there from the water of the lake, by boiling, the same as salt is obtained at the salt wells in Virginia: and the salt is the same kind—fine, white, and comparatively pure. A very large amount—many thousands of bushels are being made there daily; but operations will cease before a great while, as the winter rains overflow the whole region of the lake and the country adjacent. They are improving the time, and will make all they can before these rains drive them out If the winter is a dry one, they may be able to work there till in January, or possibly till February.

2d The newly discovered mine of fossil or rock salt, near New Iberia.—This mine is in St Mary's Parish, near the coast. This is a solid salt formation some 16 to 18 feet below the surface, and is quite extensive. It is in Man Island. Tests have been made over 50 acres, and it is found to be fully that extensive. How much more extensive it is, is not known. It is solid like a rock, and is quite hard and dry. It does not deliquiate, or liquify by absorption in the air, as common salt, owing to its purity and firmness. It can be shipped in boxes, hogsheads, or almost any way—the same as huge lumps of coal, or stones from a quarry It is the same kind as the rock salt in Poland, and is the purest and most preservative of any salt in the world. It is obtained by blasting, as it is too hard to dig up rapidly. This bed of salt has been bored to the depth of over 30 feet, and no bottom or under surface reached. It seems that the supply is inexhaustible.

The discovery of the salt was on this wise. A well was dug there in 1814, which afforded salt water. This fact was known to those who owned the premises all the while—though no use was made of the well. Some time ago, the proprietor gave directions to a few hands to dig the well down deeper and see what discovery could be made, with instructions to cease operations at dinner time if no further evidence of the existence of salt could be found Just before dinner, the great bed of salt was struck.

Dr. Simmons informs us that the Government has taken possession of this valuable mine. He was told that the proprietor of the land was preparing to work it extensively when the Confederate States Government claimed it under the pre-emption or other land laws of United States, relating to the public lands in Louisiana. These pre-emptions or grants, made titles to the pre-emptions or guarantees, reserving to Government all the minerals that might exist in them. Under this reservation the Confederate Government claims the salt mine and has taken possession of it, and is preparing to work it on a large scale A sufficient force is now there to keep off Yankees by land and they cannot reach it with gunboats.—Confederacy.

THE LAST RAID OF MORGAN—DIFFICULTY IN CATCHING HIM.—A letter dated Cincinnati, the 31st ult., says that Buell with his grand army, 146,000 strong, was returning to Louisville, and receiving all the abuse which is the result of failure. The letter acknowledges that Bragg took over 4,000 wagons of provisions away with him, and the Federals only succeeded in re-capturing forty. The letter adds:

The rebel partizan, Morgan, has performed deeds which rival Stuart's raid into Pennsylvania. He has trotted round Buell as Stuart did around McClellan. He made a dash into Lexington, drove out our forces into Marseilles, then round the Kentucky river to Lawrenceburg, and swept on to Bardstown. At Cox Creek he came upon a wagon train and burned eighty wagons, taking the teamsters and guards prisoners. Thirty of the wagons were empty, the others laden with supplies for Wood's division. Pushing on toward Bardstown, he captured another large train and burned it, and when last heard from was pushing Southwest, evidently to destroy the Lebanon Branch Railroad, and then to push on towards Munfordsville and destroy the Nashville Railroad—all of which he will undoubtedly accomplish

The train due last night from Munfordsville is not in. Probably it is destroyed. He has a force of twelve hundred cavalry. Gen. Dumont is following, but Gen. Morgan changes horses continually, while Dumont's are worn down. There is no force in front of Morgan. He can have things all his own way It is supposed he is aiming for Nashville, and that Bragg is moving with the main part of his army in the same direction. Gen. Negley is there with about five thousand men.

The Fire at Augusta.

About 11 o'clock last night, a fire broke out in the block bounded by Jackson, Greene, Ellis, and Campbell streets, and before it could be arrested, destroyed property to the amount of about half a million of dollars.

The buildings burned were all the property of Rev. W H. Harrison, who, we understand had but little insurance on them They were occupied as follows: Col M P Stovall's Cotton Warehouse, Mr. Edmondston's Produce store, and Kritz and Bird's stables.

The loss, as near as could be ascertained this morning was as follows:

Col. Stovall's warehouse, in which were stored about 4,500 bales of cotton under the sheds This, with about 1,500 bales in the adjoining buildings, was nearly all destroyed. It belongs to various parties whose names we have not yet been able to ascertain. We presume that it was all insured. In this stock were a few hundred bales of Sea Island cotton, a few bales of which only have been saved.

Mr Edmouston's Produce Store, in which were stored flour, sugar, salt, osnabargs, &c.

Kritz & Bird's Stables, on Ellis street, opposite Concert Hall

The total loss is estimated at about $500,000, including the buildings, and this loss is pretty much covered by insurance, which is scattered among several offices, so that the loss will not fall heavy upon any one of them.

The fire was, doubtless the work of an incendiary. The door of Mr. Edmonston's store was seen ajar about a quarter before 11 o'clock, P. M., and notice of this fact was sent to one of his clerks, who, on repairing to the store, we understand, discovered the fire bursting forth, Fortunately the night was calm, otherwise the destruction of property would have been far greater.

No clue has been discovered to the perpetrators of this crime; but our active and vigilant police will, doubtless, use every exertion to bring the to justice.

Retaliation.

The Richmond Whig recommends, that since Congress has failed to make specific provisions for preventing the murderous system of warfare proposed by the Abolition President, that the States should interpose their authority The Governors of the several States should issue proclamations "giving notice to the enemy that any Yankee soldier taken within the limits of their respective jurisdictions after the 1st of January will be held as being there for the purpose of aiding and abetting in the perpetration of the crimes directed to be committed by the proclamation, and as participes in any such crime already committed, and shall be hung."

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that a very serious railroad accident occurred this side of Cleveland on Tuesday night, as the train was coming down from Knoxville. There were 18 killed and 48 wounded Capt Cooper and Lieut. Scott of the 33d Alabama, were among the killed. None killed in the 10th Alabama, but five were wounded, among whom were Capts. Ashford and Smith. Four cars were smashed. The medical corps at Cleveland rendered all the assistance in their power The cause of the disaster was the breaking of an axel of one of the cars.—Chattanooga Rebel, 6th inst.

More Retreating.

The Lynchburg Republican of the 3d inst. says Gen Echols has retreated from the Kanawha Valley, leaving the great Salt Works to be again occupied by the Yankees. A letter from Lewisburg dated 30th Oct., says: "The enemy are reported 15, 000 strong, 15 miles below Charleston, several thousand at Baintown or Summerville, and some 4,000 making through Logan."

Latest News.

From the Atlanta Confederacy.

AUGUSTA, Nov 4—A fire here last night destroyed Stovall's Warehouse and stable. Six thousand bales of cotton and some produce, &c., were destroyed. Loss over half a million of dollars.

CHATTANOOGA, Nov. 5.—Col. E. Roddy surprised a federal camp of six hundred at Cherokee, on the 2d, killing three. Our loss one killed and two missing.

The enemy fled to Corinth

An accident occurred on the East Tennessee and Georgia road last night, killing seventeen soldiers and wounding about fifty. The accident was caused by the breaking of an axle of one of the cars.

JACKSON, MISS., via Mobile, 5th Nov. Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon, the building used as a cartridge manufactury, having a large amount of powder stored in it, exploded with fearful concussion its occupants—boys, girls and young ladies. Not one of them escaped. In the confusion and excitement, it is impossible to learn their number which is certainly not less than 30, and may far exceed that number. The cause of this explosion is unknown

RICHMOND, Nov. 3—Passengers report a skirmish in Culpepper yesterday morning, in which eighty Yankees were captured

Persons arrived at Fredricksburg today from Maryland, say that Halleck is sent to the West, McClellan is Federal-in-Chief, and is to remain in Washington. Hooker takes McClellan's place.

MOBILE, Nov. 4.—A special dispatch to the Tribune from Grenada the 3d, says the Memphis Bulletin of the 1st is received. It states that the Liverpool Journal of the 21 ult. says that Gladstone's speech has convinced nearly everybody that Lord Palmerson, who is at the head of the Government, is about to recognize the Confederate States. It is said a memorial, signed by 21 members of the Chamber of Commerce, is to be presented, urging Her Magesty's Advisors to recognize the Confederate States at once

It is the opinion of the memorialists that there is no cause for further delay. The Chancellor of the Exchequer had emphatically announced in public that Jeff Davis had not only created a large army and a small navy, but a new nation. Gladstone avowed active intervention Packington asserts the time has arrived when Her Magesty's government, in conjuction with other governments, ought to offer mediation in American affairs, on the basis of a a separation between the con ending sections, with the understanding that the non-success of such effort is to be followed by immediate recognition of the Confederate States Equally strong views have been expressed by several prominent men in Liverpool.

The Post of the 11th says that two of the highest class houses have received telegrams from Headquarters at London that the British and French Governments lost no time in announcing that they are resolved on a policy of perfect neutrality.

Army movements unimportant.—Thirty person have been ordered to leave Memphis on account of attacks by guerillas on steamboats.

SECOND DISPATCH.

A special dispatch to the Advertiser from Grantown to 3d, says scouts from above report the enemy reinforcing heavily at Corinth, and strengthening their fortifications. They are removing buildings from Barnesville and getting large quantities of lumber from the neighboring mills.

HOLLY SPRGS, Nov 3.—Scouts from the vicinity of Corinth represent that the enemy have been largely reinforced and are fortifying, entrenching and making every preparation to hold the place.

At Jackson, Tenn., there are 3,000 Yankees, and 21 regiments at Bolivar, with interminable lines of fortifications.

MOBILE, Nov. 6.—A special dispatch to the Advertiser & Register, from Holly Springs, the 5th, says the enemy have advanced in force to LaGrange Tenn., and are reported to be advancing on this place.

Jackson's cavalry had a skirmish today at Lamar, it is probable the enemy will give us battle as they are about to make a strenuous effort to open the Mississippi river The land force is under McClernand. He will be supported on land by Grant, and on the river by the gunboat flotilla.

The prospect of recognition is hurrying them.

AUGUSTA, Nov. 6.—The Savannah Republican learns through a private letter that the Abolitionists are bombarding our fortifications on Tampa Bay, Fla., on the 3d. Our forces were confident of their ability to hold out.

The Advertiser & Register learns from a private dispatch from Jackson, Miss., the 6th, that the Southern Railroad Depot there, with several stores, were destroyed by fire. Loss heavy—no details given

RICHMOND, Nov. 7.—The Baltimore Clipper of the 6th received at Winchester to-day, announces the election of Seymour as Governor of New York.—Nineteen Democrats and twelve Republicans are elected to Congress,

In New Jersey, Parker (Democrat) is elected Governor. To Congress, four Democrats and one Republican In Illinois, six Democrats and five Republicans—two, doubtful.

One hundred and four Yankees were captured near Winchester to-day.

A snow storm commenced here last night, and continued all night and this forenoon.

No news from the army.

RICHMOND, Nov. 6.—There is nothing of importance from Northern Virginia.

An immense Republican meeting was held in New York city last week, at which Wadsworth, the Republican candidate for Governor, made a flaming speech in favor of the subjugation of the South.

RICHMOND, Nov. 8—Northern papers of the 5th have come to hand.

The New York Herald says that New York City has gone for the Democrats by thirty-one thousand (31,000) majority.

Among those elected from New York City, are the two Woods, Fernando and Ben. Also, James Brooks, of the Express,

RICHMOND, Nov. 9.—A dispatch from Fredericksburg, to-day, says a party of Abolitionists made a raid on that place to-day. They said that the Democrats had swept the North, and that England and France have recognized the Southern Confederacy, and Lord Lyons to be instructed.

No news of importance from the army of the Potomac. Skirmishing daily.

OBITUARY.

DIED—At his residence in this co., JAS. Y BROWNING, aged 32 years, after a protracted illness of some months, contracted during his stay in camp, near Centreville, Va. Deceased was a member of Co. "G," 10th Ala. Regt. His feeble constitution, could ill brook the vicissitudes of the rigorous climate of Virginia, or the many toils and privations incident to camp life. The writer of this notice, knew him at the second Alabama Hospital, where he was under treatment several weeks, until he went home on furlough He was very gentle and amiable, and universally beloved by all who knew him. When he saw that his hour of departure had come, he called his wife to his bedside, said: "You have been true and affectionate, and it is hard for me to part with you; but I have to go, and I want you to raise my two little children right- meet me in a land of rest, where parting is no more." His mourning wife and other relatives have thus the consolation such a dying testimony imparts to the surviving friends. His released spirit doubtless winged its flight "where the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest: D. GOODMAN.

DIED—At Chimboraza Hospital Richmond Va., SANDERS W. BROWNING, aged 19 years, a member of Co. D, 10th Ala Regt., after a long illness, contracted in camp in Virginia. He was patient and resigned during his sickness and enjoined his attendants to tell his father that he was conscious of his condition, and perfectly willing to die, feeling assured that he would go to a better world. Deceased was a good soldier and a consistent Christian, enjoying the respect, and affectionate regard of all who knew him. His bereaved friends mourn not without hope.

D. GOODMAN.

JESSE HARRIS, the subject of this notice, aged 26 years, was a son of Warren & Mary Harris, of Calhoun co. Ala. Soon after the present war commenced, he volunteered and rushed to the battlefield in defence of his country, as a member of the "Pope Walker Guards." At the battle of Drainesville he was severely wounded in the neck, on account of which, he was for sometime unable to share the fortunes of the gallant 10th Ala., to which he belonged. As soon as sufficiently recovered however, he again returned to the seat of war, where he remained in the faithful discharge of duty, until the second battle of Manassas when he was killed by the enemy in that sanguinary conflict.

Of brave heart, and noble spirit, the deceased could not be deaf to his country's call in the hour of danger. Tearing himself away, from fond parents and all the endearments of a comfortable home, he offered himself up on the altar of his outraged country, a martyr to human liberty Though dead, he is not forgotten. Long will he live in the affections of his friends and relations, who will ever cherish a fond remembrance of his manly impulses and generous nature.

The deceased was an undaunted and faithful soldier, and so demeaned himself in camp life as to secure the confidence of all by whom he was observed. But he is gone. May his remains softly lie and sweetly sleep. And may—

"The storm that wrecks the wintry sky,
No more disturb his deep repose,
Than summer evening's latest sigh
That shuts the rose."

DIED—Of typhoid fever, Oct., 4th, JAMES HENRY, son of John D and Martha J Kelly, aged 7 years, 8 months and 12 days. For one week he suffered, ere his spirit took its flight, to that radiant shore where sickness and sorrow are unknown. That bud which was just beginning to unfold, has been transplanted to the land, where—

"Time doth not breathe on its fadeless bloom,
Beyond the clouds and beyond the tomb."

Jamie loved to study, and his mind was fast expanding, but has now far outsipped the sages of the earth in wisdom:—

This weary world was all too bleak,
For one so young and fair;
His gentle spirit pure and meek,
Was not to linger here.

Mourn not for him, the early lost;
Wet not with tears the sod;
The gifted one, the tempest tossed,
Is now at rest with God.

TO THE PUBLIC.

As an act of justice to Mr. Nathan M Reed of Cherokee county, I state that I did Mr. Reed great injustice by having him arrested with others, on the 29th Sept last, for coming to my house and threatening to commit murder. I am now satisfied that Mr. Reed is and was innocent of any immoral or unlawful purpose upon the occasion alluded to. If any injury has resulted to Mr. Reed's character for morality or honesty from any act or declaration of mine, I deeply regret it, and I make this public statement as due to him as an honest man. In excuse for myself, I state that it was through a misunderstanding of both facts and law, that caused Mr. Reed's name to be inserted in said warrant. J. P. CAMP.

Improved Merchant Mills.

THE undersigned respectfully inform the public generally that their Flouring Mills situated on Tallassehatchee Creek, five miles south-west of Jacksonville, has been recently much improved and thoroughly repaired. They are now prepared to manufacture an article of Flour, equal in quality to that of any mills in the country, and as large a quantity to the bushel. They have a good lot with water convenient, for the use of persons who may bring wheat from a distance.

They solicit a continuance of the patronage of their old friends and customers, assuring them that their well-earned reputation for promptitude and correct dealing shall be fully maintained. Every effort will be made to accommodate those who come from a distance, so that they may get their grinding done without having to return.

Their SAW MILL is also now in excellent order, and they have on hand a large quantity of almost every variety of Lumber, and will at all times be prepared to fill orders with accuracy and dispatch.

J. A. LOERGOLT,
June 27, 1861. T. SPARKS.

State of Alabama, Calhoun County
Court of Probate for Calhoun County
Special Term Sept. 9 1862.

THIS day came Nancy Phillips, administratrix of the Estate of Mark Phillips, deceased, and files in Court her petition in writing, representing among other things, that she is the widow of said decedent, that said decedent died seized and possessed of the following described Lands, lying and being situate in said county of Calhoun, to:wit: the North-west fourth of north west fourth of section 29, and Fr. A, of Fl. Sec 30, Fr. C of Fl Sec. 30, Fraction S of Fl Sec. 19, one rod in width off of the North end of Fraction B of Fl Sec. 30 beginning at the east and running to the west line of said fractions, except the right of a road to Thomas R. Maughan's and his heirs and assigns across the north east corner of Fraction B of one rod in width, all of Fraction D of Fractional Section 30, lying north and west of Adams' creek to be straightened as the marks on the trees are now made, all in fractional township 13 of Range 6, and all containing 227 acres, more or less; and the west half of north west fourth of section 27; and north east fourth of north east fourth of north west fourth, and west half of north west fourth of section 28, township 13 range 6, containing 399 acres, more or less, and the south west half of north west fourth of section 20, township 13 range 6, containing 40 acres more or less; the south east fourth of south west fourth section 21, and the north west fourth of south east fourth and south half of south east fourth and south west fourth of south west fourth of section 22, township 13 range 6.

Petitioner asks that dower be assigned her in the foregoing described lands as the widow of the said Mark Phillips deceased, petitioner further alleges that Lydia Cannon, wife of Cornelius Cannon and Eliza Hampton wife of Eliza Hampton are nonresident distributees of said Estate. It is ordered by the court that the 3d day of November 1862 be set apart for the hearing and determining upon said petition, and that notice therefore be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican a news paper printed and published in said county for thirty days prior to said day as a notice to said nonresident heirs to be and appear at a Regular Term of said court house of said county on said 13th day of Oct. 1862, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Witness A. Woods Judge of said court at office, this 9th day of Sept. 1862.

POETRY.

All quiet along the Potomac Tonight

"All quiet along the Potomac," they say,
"Except now and then a stray picket
Is shot, as he walks on his beat to and fro,
By a rifleman hid in the thicket."
'Tis nothing—a private or two now and then,
Will not count in the news of the battle;
Not an officer lost—only one of the men
Moaning out, all alone, the death rattle.

All quiet along the Potomac to-night,
Where the soldiers lie peacefully dreaming;
Their tents in the rays of the clear autumn moon,
Or the light of the watch fires gleaming.
A tremulous sigh as the gentle night wind
Through the forest leaves slowly is creeping,
While the stars up above, with their glittering eyes,
Keep guard—for the army is sleeping.

There's only the sound of the lone sentry's tread,
As he tramps from the rock to the fountain,
And thinks of the two on the low trundle bed,
Far away in the cot on the mountain;
His musket falls slack—his face dark & grim,
Grows gentle with memories tender,
As he mutters a prayer for the children asleep
For their mother, may Heaven defend her.

The moon seems to shine as brightly as then,
That night when the love yet unspoken,
Leaped up to his lips, and when low murmured vows,
Were pledged to be ever unbroken;
Then drawing his sleeve roughly over his eyes,
He dashes off tears that are welling,
And gathers his gun close up to its place,
As if to keep down the heart swelling.

He passes the fountain, the blasted pine tree,
The footstep is lagging and weary,
Yet onward he goes thro the broad belt of light
Towards the shades of a forest so dreary.
Hark! was it the night wind that rustled the leaves?
Was it moonlight so wondrously flashing?
It looked like a rifle—"Ha! Mary, good by!"
And the life blood is ebbing and splashing.

All quiet along the Potomac to-night,
No sound save the rush of the river;
While soft falls the new on the face of the dead
—The picket's off duty, forever.

☞We give below, from the Palmyra, (Mo.) Courier, a minutue account of the cold blooded murder of ten Confederate soldiers, the most fiendish outrage of this war; perpetrated too under the most frivolous pretense—simply because one of their traiterous spies and informers was missing, supposed to be killed. Our government ought to demand of Lincoln that those engaged in this wholesale murder be given up to be hung, and if refused, their own rule be applied, ten for one be shot forthwith. There can be no denying or lying out of this, as their own papers give the names of the murdered men, those in command, and most minute particulars of the shocking tragedy.

Horrible Yankee Outrage—Ten Confederates Murdered—The Full Particulars of the scene.

From the Palmyra (Missouri) Courier.

Saturday last, the 18th inst, witnessed the performance of a tragedy in this once quiet and beautiful city of Palmyra, which, in ordinarily peaceful times, would have created a profound sensation throughout the entire country, but which now scarcely produces a distinct ripple upon the surface of our turbulent social tide.

It will be remembered by our readers that on the occasion of Porter's decent upon Palmyra, he captured among other persons an old and highly respected resident of this city, by name, Andrew Allsman. This person formerly belonged to the 3d Missouri cavalry, though too old to endure all the hardships of very active duty. He was therefore detailed as a kind of special or extra provost marshal's guard or cicerone—making himself generally useful in a variety of ways to the military of the place. Being an old resident and widely acquainted with the people of the place and vicinity, he was frequently called upon for information touching the loyalty of men which he always gave to the extent of his ability, though acting, we believe, in all such cases, with great candor, and actuated solely by a conscientious desire to discharge his whole duty to his government. His knowledge of the surrounding country was the reason of his being frequently called upon to act as a guide to scouting parties sent out to arrest disloyal persons. So efficiently and successfully did he act in these various capacities, that he won the bitter hatred of all the rebels in this city and vicinity, and they only awaited the coming of a favorable opportunity to gratify their desire for revenge. The opportunity came at last, when Porter took Palmyra. That the villians, with Porter's assent, satiated their thirst for his blood by the deliberate and pre-determined murder of their helpless victim, so truly loyal man doubts.—When they killed him, or how, or where, are items of the act not yet revealed to the public. Whether he was stabbed at midnight by the dagger of the assassin, or shot at midday by the rifle of the guerrilla; whether he was hung, and his body hidden beneath the scanty soil of some oaken thicket, or left as food for hogs to fatten upon; or whether like the ill-fated Wheat, his throat was severed from ear to ear, and his body sunk beneath the wave—we know not. But that he was foully, causelessly murdered, it is useless to attempt to deny.

When Gen. McNeil returned to Palmyra, after that event, and ascertained the circumstances under which Allsman had been abducted, he caused to be issued, after due deliberation, the following notice:

"PALMYRA, Mo., Oct. 8, 1862.

"JOSEPH C. PORTER—Sir: Andrew Allsman, an aged citizen of Palmyra, and a non-combatant, having been carried from his home by a band of persons unlawfully arrayed against the peace and good order of the State of Missouri, and which band was under your control, this is to notify you that, unless the said Andrew Allsman is returned unharmed to his family within ten days from date, ten men who have belonged to your band, and unlawfully sworn by you to carry arms against the government of the United States, and who are now in custody, will be shot as a just reward for their crimes, among which is the illegal restraining of said Allsman of his liberty, and, if not returned, presumptively aiding in his murder.

"Your prompt attention to this will save much suffering. Yours, etc.,

W. R. STRACHAM.
"P M General Dist. N. E. Mo.

"Per order of Brig. Gen. Commanding McNeil's command."

A written duplicate of this notice he caused to be placed in the hands of the wife of Joseph C. Porter, at her residence, in Lewis county, who, it was well known, was in frequent communication with her husband. The notice was published widely, and as Porter was in Northern Missouri during the whole of the ten days subsequent to the date of this notice, it is impossible that, with all his varied channels of information, he remained unapprised of Gen. McNeil's determination in the premises.

Many of the rebels believed the whole thing was simply intended as a scare—declaring that McNeil did not dare(?) to carry out the threat.

The ten days elapsed, and no tidings came of the murdered Allsman. It is not our intention to dwell at length upon the details of this transaction. The tenth day expired with last Friday. On that day ten rebel prisoners, already in custody, were selected to pay with their lives the penalty demanded. The names of the men so selected were as follows:

Willis Baker, Lewis county; Thomas Hunston, Lewis county; Morgan Bixler, Lewis county; Herbert Hudson, Ralls county; John M. Wade, Ralls county; Marion Lair, Ralls county; Captain Thomas A. Snider, Monroe county; Eleazer Lake, Scotland county; Hiram Smith, Knox county.

These parties were informed on Friday evening, that unless Mr Allsman was returned to his family by one o'clock on the following day, they would all be shot at that hour.

Most of them received the announcement with composure or indifference.—The Rev. Jas. S Green, of this city, remained with them during that night, as their spiritual adviser, endeavoring to prepare them for their sudden entrance into the presence of their maker.

A little after 11 o'clock A M, the next day, three government wagons drove to the jail. One contained four and each of the others three rough, board coffins. The condemned men were conducted from the prison and seated in the wagons—one upon each coffin. A sufficient guard of soldiers accompanied them, and the cavalcade started for the fatal grounds. Proceeding east to Main street, the cortege turned and moved slowly southward as far as Malone's livery stable. Thence turning east, it entered the Hannibal road, pursuing it nearly to the residence of Col. James Gilbertro. There throwing down the fences, they turned northward, entering the fair ground, half a mile east of the town, on the west side, and driving within the circular amphitheatrical ring, paused for the final consummation of the scene.

The ten coffins were removed from the wagons and placed in a row, six or eight feet apart, forming a line north and south, about fifteen paces east of the central pagoda or music stand in the centre of the ring. Each coffin was placed upon the ground, with its foot west and head east. Thirty soldiers of the 2d M. M., were drawn up in a single line, extending north and south, facing the row of coffins. This line of executioners ran immediately to the east base of the pagoda, leaving a space between them and the coffins, of twelve or thirteen paces. Reserves were drawn up in line upon either flank of these executioners.

The arrangements completed, the condemned men knelt upon the grass between their coffins and the soldiers, while the Reverend R. M. Rhodes offered up a prayer. At the conclusion of this each prisoner took his seat upon the foot of his coffin, facing the muskets which in a few moments were to launch them into eternity. They were nearly all firm and undaunted. Two or three only showed signs of trepidation.

The most noted of the ten was Captain Thos. A. Sidner, of Monroe county, whose capture at Shelbyville, in the disguise of a woman, we related weeks since. He was now elegantly attired in a suit of black broadcloth, with a white vest. A luxurious growth of beautiful hair rolled down upon his shoulders, which, with his fine personal appearance, could not but bring to mind the handsome but vicious Absalom. There was nothing especially worthy of note in the appearance of the others. One of them, Willis Baker, of Lewis county, was proven to be the man, who, last year, shot and killed Mr. Ezekil Pratte, his Union neighbor, near Williamstown, in that county. All the others were rebels of lesser note, the particulars of whose crimes we are not familiar with.

A few minutes after one o'clock, Colonel Strachan, provost marshal general, and Rev. Rhodes shook hands with the prisoners. Two of them accepting bandages for the eyes, the rest refused. A hundred spectators had gathered around the amphitheatre, to witness the impressive scene. The stillness of death pervaded the place.

The officer in command now stepped forward and gave the word of command—"Ready; aim; fire!" The discharges, however, were not made simultaneously—probably through want of a perfect previous understanding of the orders and, at the time at which to fire. Two of the rebels fell backward upon their coffins and died instantly. Capt. Sinder sprang forward and fell with his head toward the soldiers, his face upward, his hands clasped upon his breast, and the left leg drawn half way up. He did not move again, but died immediately. He had requested the soldiers to aim at his heart, and they obeyed but too implicitly. The other seven were not killed outright; so the reserves were called in, who dispatched them with their revolvers.

The "Times" on the Maryland Campaign.

The London "Times," in some speculation upon the results of the Maryland campaign, concludes as follows:

"Of course, the contest is henceforward only for boundary. Maryland was one of the great difficulties. The South could not abandon that State with honor, and could not hope that the North would ever surrender it. Maryland has now had her opportunity, and as she has not risen to accept her deliverance, the Southern government may well conceive it cleir absolved from any imperative obligations towards her for the future—Sooner or later, a time will suddenly arise when this question of boundary will assume an absorbing importance. Already the Northern States are gradually awakening to the fact that two nations are not like two pike, and that it does not follow because one is somewhat larger than the other, that the larger can swallow and digest the smaller.—After a further quantity of useless butchery and carnage, and after the innumerable hospitals have been some more times filled and emptied, this truth will grow into a familiar fact. And the next thing then necessary will be, to have ready prepared some feasible line of frontier, which may also be discussed with familiarity Mr. Jefferson Davis seems to look more wisely toward this contingency than Mr. Lincoln. Mr. Jefferson Davis has already provided himself with an excellent excuse for giving up Maryland, while Mr. Lincoln's proclamation would perpetuate Maryland in all the privileges of a slave State under the protection of the Northern Government. Such a barrier-boundary would clearly be the most convenient position which could be wished for by that new nation which, as our Chancellor of the Exchequer has just so significantly and so truly said Mr. Jefferson Davis has made. Let the abolitionist look to it. A slavery boundary State, under the protection of the North, is the only device which could render possible the perpetuity of slavery in Confederate America."

Legislative Appropriations. The Legislature of this State at present called session has appropriated a considerable sum of money for various purposes. Among the bills passed, one for the public defence, appropriates one million dollars, another for the relief of indigent families of soldiers, appropriates two millions; five hundred thousand dollars has been appropriated for the defense of Mobile; sixty thousand dollars for the purchase of cotton cards, and thirty thousand dollars for the pay of the members of the Legislature—making a total of three millions five hundred and ninety thousand dollars.—Montgomery Adv.

LADIES ATTENTION!!

All ladies in our community, who feel interested in the comfort and welfare of the soldeirs, are most earnestly solicited to attend the meeting of the Soldier's Relief Society at the Female Academy, Saturdy 23d inst., 3 o'clock P. M.—Come on ladies all of you; your country has need of you.

If those of our subscribers who are indebted for one year & over do not pay up promptly by the 1st of January next, they will force us to the disagreeable necessity of eracing their names, and collecting what is due as best we can.

Our strenuous efforts to keep our paper at the old cheap rates, we think fairly entitle us to the favor here asked. Send by mail at our risk.

To our numerous punctual patrons we return our grateful thanks.

No paper however, taken by an absent soldier's wife will be discontinued, if we know it.

Salt.—By a letter to the Editor of this paper dated Saltville, Va. Nov. 10, from Rev Rob. Scales, who left this place some time since for the purpose of procuring salt for himself and others, we gather the following items of information:

The Governor has contracted with Messrs. Ferguson & McFarlane to supply the counties of Cherokee, DeKalb, Marshall, Morgan, and they have about 3000 bushels on hand and are making about 125 or 130 bushels per day. He has a contract also with Messrs. Jaques & McClung, of Knoxville, Tenn. to make one hundred thousand bushels — They have commenced making salt.—They are bound to furnish 330 bushels per day and no more. They are now ready to commence delivering their daily amount. He has another contract for 50,000 bushels with a firm from Tuskegee (Barton & Co.).

He thinks these contractors cannot furnish more than 65,000 bushels during the packing season. Salt is worth from 21 to $22 per bushel at the works. Mr. Scales says he is offered one bushel of salt for 4 bushels of corn, and 2 bushels of salt for one cord of wood, and that it is his purpose to go to Tennessee immediately to get the corn to exchange for salt for those who sent by him.

☞ We can but hope that the earnest appeal made by the Soldiers Aid Society of this place, in to-day's paper will meet with a prompt and liberal response. If we thought words would add any thing to the public conviction of the necessity and duty of prompt and liberal action, we would be disposed to increase them; but surely this cannot be. Those in the army who have neither kindred or friends to help them, naturally appeal to the society, and the society as naturally appeals to the public for whom they are fighting. Friends, instead of being cramped or contracted, let us rather rejoice, that an opportunity is thus offered to render as essential service to our country, as if we were in the field, fighting her battles.

☞ Our readers will find another earnest appeal in this paper, to the friends of Col J. T. Morgan's Regt. for assistance in the way of clothing, blankets, &c. Friends, for the sake of our noble cause and suffering country, let not these appeals be made in vain. Neglect will discourage our soldiers, and directly encourage our enemies, who are already counting largely upon the effect which the necessities of our bare footed soldiers is to have, in relaxing their exertions and bringing the war to a close upon terms to suit themselves.

☞ The Supreme Court of Georgia has decided the Conscript law to be Constitutional. Gov. Brown in his special message declared the law unconstitutional, and declared that not a single man should be furnished from that State under it. So he has come in collision with the Confederate Congress and Supreme Court both. What will he do next? Will he burst the boiler?

Small Pox.—The Atlanta Confederacy says this loathsome and much dreaded disease has broken out in various parts of the State, and advises general vaccination. The Rome Courier, reports a case as occuring in that place at the Soldier's Relief Room—says several citizens were exposed to the contagion, and knows not how far it may spread.

WHO WILL HELP US!

Hark! the wintry wind mournfully wails around your dwelling. Methinks there is a voice in the blast. Listen! it comes from the fields where our soldiers stand, and maybap it brings some tidings from our army. Sadly the cry breaks in again upon the dreary silence. "Patriots, what message from the camps?" "Come and help us or we perish!" Citizens of Calhoun, did ye hear that call? "Help us or we die." Shall we plead in vain? Must the poor, tattered, wounded soldier ask for assistance from his own countrymen, only to be cast aside? Nay, we will not believe it. In this dire extremity, we turn to one who is ever the friend of the sufferer. To woman: tender, merciful woman; whose gentle heart was formed to feel another's woe, we confidently turn. These threadbare garments, these uncovered limbs, and bruised feet, these bleeding wounds and emaciated frames will tell to her pitying eye, the sorrows we have felt. We remember that when responsive to our country's call, we forsook our quiet homes and peaceful avocations to defend the frontiers of our threatened land, our mothers, wives and sisters united themselves in a patriotic sisterhood for the comfort of the soldier. Ah yes! with full hearts, we remember that manifestation of their loving care. We saw our Society begin their enterprise with a zeal worthy the patriotic object. Many displayed a spirit of self-sacrifice and heroic devetion, that reminded us of the glorious pages that record the lofty virtues of Roman and Spartan matrons, or our own honored grand-mothers of '76. With a throbbing heart, we marked their noble deeds, and noted the sweet evidences of good, which gladdened their hours of self imposed toil. They contributed cheerfully and wrought willing'y. For the mighty spirit which impels the soldier to rush to the battle-field, cast himself before the thundering artillery of a skillful enemy, and even give up his precious life with a triumphant shout, bursting from the unfathomable depths of his great heart, that potent spirit was wielding its magic influence over the softer nature of woman. Good results followed. Many home comforts found their way to the suffering invalid in the crowded hospital, more substantial gifts cheered the hearts of some destitute soldiers, and the weary sentinel, wrapping his warm covering about him, as he paced the midnight round, remembered with a moistened eye and grateful heart, this little band devoted to the relief of himself and comrades For months, the good work sped swiftly. Liberal friends sustained the feeble sisterhood. Patriotic men and women from the country, sent in their generous donations, thankfully accepted, and worthily remembered. But now, what are you doing friends? We stretch forth our hands for assistance: to that society we send our solicitations. What mean these averted looks, and downcast eyes? We read mercy in your sympathizing countenances, but your once willing hands now seem to refuse the holy labor. "Will ye also forsake us?" Alas! they tell us, they cannot work Wherefore? They have no cloth! Feeble in means, and small in numbers, they are utter'y unable to buy jeans, linseys, wool and cotton, at present prices. Who will help? Who among the weavers of our county, will step forward, and lay his gift of twenty, ten, seven, or three yards of jeans upon the shrine of patriotism? Who will donate a portion of his linsey to the same noble purpose? Who will contribute wool? The members of the society will quickly knit it into warm socks. Times you say are hard: yes friends times are hard, very hard, but will you feel the pressure any more, by appropriating a portion of your substance to those who are defending all you have. Nay, verily. We believe you love your country, prove yourselves, by your liberal contributions, as much the patriot at home, as the soldier manifests it by his bravery, on the field. The ladies have offered to buy trimmings for all the materials you will contribute, and cut and manufacture clothing for destitute soldiers. Who will accept the proposition? We eagerly wait to hear. We are persuaded that our fellow citizens will come forward in this trying time, and prove themselves worthy their native land. Come quickly, ere some perishing soldier haunts your warm couch, and disturbs your pleasant slumbers. Bring your contributions to the Republican Office and our friend the editor, will transfer them to his good wife, the Treasurer of the Relief Society. The names of the donors will be preserved, and placed into the hands of the Secretary, who will enroll them on the minutes of the Society, to be held in grateful remembrance. So, that in future years, when the scarred veteran may desire to know who were his friends in the hour of need, may here find their names, once written with fading ink, but now transcribed upon the tablets of a thankful heart. Children too, may thus be permitted to read the memorial of their parents' patriotism. Will you do it? Those who do not manufacture cloth, may have some wool on hands. Send a portion of it to the members of this society; they pledge themselves to have it carded, spun and knit. Those who have no wool, have money. Such contributions would be gladly received. Again, there may be some whom fortune has not highly favored, yet whose noble heart is eager in some way to benefit the common cause. To such we would say: ladies are willing to purchase your cloth at just what it cost you. They will then find thread, buttons, linings and all necessary trimmings, and make the clothing themselves. Who will respond to this proposition? Will you for the sake of a few dollars, refuse your aid to one of the noblest undertakings of the present crisis? Refuse to enroll your names among the gallant patriots of your glorious country? Refuse to show to your fellow countrymen, to your brave soldiery, and to your beloved children, that, is that gloomy hour which "tried the souls of men, your own free spirit remained firm and unshaken; the supporter of the cause of God and your native land

O! that you could see the needy ones of our army. Then, though your hearts were deaf to the clarion call of Patriotism, yet the soft voice of sympathizing humanity, would unseal the generosity of your nature. Pass along these decimated ranks and view the heroes of many a well-fought field. Mark those shivering limbs and bruised feet. There they stand, their bleeding wounds crimsoning the pure surface of the newly fallen snow, the miserable rags, which vainly strive to conceal their freezing forms, fluttering in the rude blasts of winter; yet there they stand, proud and unmoved: the most gallant soldiers that ever grasped a bayonet, and though the Heavens gather blackness and winter descends in howling storms, though the earth be one vast expanse of frozen snow, though the terrible North King expends his rage, above, around and beneath them, even until the piercing blasts convert those living frames into monuments as firm, cold and lifeless as the sculptured marble, yet still, with unbroken front and undaunted heart, they maintain their ground, as defenders of you and your country.

The melancholly darkness of a winter night settles upon the earth. Gather your happy band around the cheerful fireside; but when the circle is formed is there no vacant chair?

Ah! where is the manly form that once filled the unoccupied seat? Cold blows the north-wind, and fiercely the snow storm is raging; mother, wife, sister, wherere are your loved ones tonight? Oh! bitterly wails the storm again, darker, colder grows the dreary night, the household band are snugly stowed away: weary, tearful matron, lay your aching limbs upon the waiting couch. 'Nay! Nay!' the blast replies, then sadly wails. Mother! I wonder who stands guard to night. Perhaps your boy. O! mothers, mothers of braver than Roman veterans, for the sake of the heroes you call your sons, think of the soldier. Fond young mother, as you bend your tenderest glances upon your first-born, your baby-boy, think of the soldier. He, too, was once a tender babe As fond arms as yours pressed his darling little form, as loving a bosom as yours once pillowed the little head. Ah! yes, press your infant closer to your full heart: gather the little dimpled feet under the warm cloak, but O! we entreat you, by the holy love you bear your precious child, to think of the soldier. Look again upon that pure baby brow: and as the wife fondly traces the features of the absent father, we would urge her by the deep, sacred, womanly affection she feels for her brave husband, to remember the soldier. Maiden, have you a brother? For the sake of your patriot brother, think of the soldier. Aye, and if your thoughts turn to another manly form, and brave heart, we beseech you, by the sacred love you feel for one whose name you dare not breathe, to think of the soldier. Again, the voice of the night-wind wails from the snow-covered field where our loved ones are standing guard, again comes the solemn call: "Help us or we perish. O! mothers, wives, sisters, friends, who will help?

MR. J F GRANT,

DEAR SIR: Permit me through your valuable paper to tender to the court of county Commissioners my heart felt thanks for being elected by them to the office of Tax Assessor, and also to endeavor to possible to put an end to a report that I learn is circulating in some parts of the county, that I am a Union man. Such rumor never reached my ears until since the election and to which I must say that such rumor is as false as Satan and as corrupt as Hell itself, and for satisfaction to the citizens of Calhoun county, I have only to refer them to those who are personally acquainted with me and have been during the present crisis. It is well known that I have used every plausable means to defend my country's cause so far as I am capacitated to do, both publicly and privately; and I do positively affirm that no man has ever heard me utter one single union or disloyal sentiment, and I defy any man living to make it appear that ever I have done or said anything that has had the least resemblance of disloyalty since this war commenced, or anything of the kind has been existing. I hope this will be satisfactory if not I think that I am fully prepared to satisfy any person or persons who will meet me in person on the subject. God save me from such a stygma as that of disloyalty! I am yours truly,

F. M TREADAWAY.

SHOCKING DISASTER IN JACKSON, MISS.

EXPLOSION OF AN AMMUNITION FACTORY AND LOSS OF LIFE.

From the Jackson Mississippian of Friday we copy the fallowing account of a terrible calamity in that city:

About half past three o'clock on Wenesday afternoon—the day before yesterday—our city was the scene of one of the most appalling disasters that it was ever our misfortune to witness, the results of which are heart-rending. At the above hour, one of the buildings, about three squares back of the Bowman House, used by the Ordnance officers for the manufacture of ammunition, exploded with an awful crash, that shook every house in the city, and caused the greatest alarm and excitement.—In an instant, astonishment and horror were depictured in every face, and soon hundreds were running with breathless haste to the locality of the sad occurrence. A scene there met the eye that caused the stoutest heart to quail! The two story brick building used as a laboratory was blown to the smallest atoms, and the debris were scattered for several hundred yards around. All the men and women employed in the building at the time had been hurled to instantaneous destruction. Shockingly mangled bodies of both sexes lay around in the most frightful and horrible positions, being blackened and disfigured so as to almost defy identity as human beings! One man had a leg torn off and his brains literally blown out. The body of a poor girl was hanging by one foot to the limb of a tree; she was evidently dead, but her clothes were still burning. Other bodies were blown to a distance of from fifty to one hundred and fifty yards, and presented a mutilated and most shocking appearance. The packages of powder and the shells were yet continually exploding, as the fire of the burning ruins reached them, and many who attempted to go nearer, in order to render assistance, if needed, were thus warned to desist until the danger was over.

The fire engine was promptly on the ground, but could not do much, owing to the want of water.

In a short time many of the friends and relatives of the unfortunate victims were on the spot, and scenes of the most affecting and heart-rending character took place as the awful fatality was known. Several surgeons and humane gentlemen on hearing to find some who had not been killed outright, but the only one we saw who seemed to have any chance of recovery was a sentinel—his thigh was broken and he was otherwise wounded: he was carefully placed on a cot and borne off by friends. Another sentinel, about one hundred yards or more from the explosion, was hit in the back by a flying brick, and but slightly injured James Carnes, a carpenter, was also slightly hurt in the side. These three were the only ones outside the building who were hurt.

The officers in charge of the Arsenal are, we learn, Col. P. Stockton, Capt. W. Tames, Lieut. R. L. Kinney, and Capt. H Fisher. Col. Stockton had fortunately just been called away Capt. Tames and Capt. Fisher were not in the immediate vicinity of the explosion, luckily, and Lieut. Kinney was providentially absent, sick in his room. At the time of the explosion, the laboratory had only a few hundred rounds of fixed ammunition, and about two hundred pounds of powder, so that the pecuniary loss is quite inconsiderable. The cause that led to this tragical occurrence, must, like others of a similar nature, remain a mystery. It is most positively known that there was no fire within several hundred feet of the laboratory, and no satisfactory account can ever be given of the cause of this direful calamity. The officers mentioned are well known to be skilful, experienced, and cautious, and the employees had often been warned of the dangerous character of the material they worked with. Only two out of twenty-one young women are known to be saved—twenty-nine bodies, through the humane exertions of the Mayor and his attendants, have been gathered together for burial. Some of them have not been recognized, so severely have their features and bodies been distorted. The other buildings of the Arsenal were comparatively uninjured, but some of the dwellings in the immediate vicinity were considerably damaged. Their occupants had a wonderful escape, and were terror-stricken for hours after the occurrence.

Salt, Salt, Salt.

The undersigned will leave on Monday night next, for the Salt works in Louisiana, accompanied by Nick Holland, Esq. who lives 20 miles from the works, and has generously tendered his aid in hauling the salt to where it can be forwarded by railroad. Those who want salt for planting next for them must deposite the money with E. L. Woodward, and sacks plainly marked with their names.

OBITUARY.

G. W. SHERBUTT.

This is intended as a brief memoir and as a faint token of respect to the noble and heroic deceased who was a member of the White Plains Rangers from Calhoun county Ala., which entered service the 3d of Sept. 1861. G. W. Sherbutt was a son of Samuel and Elizabeth Sherbutt, of this county, was born June the 24th 1839, Spartenburg district S. C. Died the 12th of July 1862 from severe wounds received on the 27th of June in passing through the great battles in front of Richmond, Va., died at the Chimborazo hospital Richmond, Va. Too much cannot be said of the many virtures and noble bearing of the deceased He was moral, refined, intelligent, generous, brave, noble and just—one that never swerved from duty, never murmured for hardships, discharged every duty nobly, esteemed no sacrifice too great for his country loved dearly Southern principles, and I have known him to rise at any and all times of the night to wait upon the sick of his mess. His name was never called in vain when needed, he was ready to sympathize with all. He had no an enemy in camps, and none but friends at home; was loved and highly esteemed by all who knew him. Yet alas! his body now sleeps far from relatives and friends in the lone soldier's grave to awake no more until the trump of Jehovah shall summons it to his bar, to await the final Judgement of the righteous dead. He was not only a soldier of the army of the Confederate States of America, but a good soldier of the cross; he was a devoted member of the Church of Christ at Oak Bowery Calhoun county Ala.

Rest noble George, a monument is erected to your memory in the hearts of all who knew thee.

Asleep in Jesus, far from thee,
Thy kindred and their graves may be;
But thine is still a blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep.

J. G. BRYANT.

Col. John T. Morgan's Regiment.

I HAVE returned to Alabama, under orders from Col. Morgan, to superintend the collection and forwarding of all articles of clothing, blankets, &c., that may be contributed by the people to his regiment.

The following gentlemen have been acquested to act as agents, ziz:

Col. John D. Hoke, Jacksonville,
Byers & Rowan, Ashvil'e,
W. B. Turnipseed, Oxford,
James H. Joiner, Talladega,
D. W. Davis, Montevallo,
Mr. Lathan, Randolph,
Goodwin & Robbins, Selma,
Maj. E. H. Harris, Montgomery,
W. R. Brown, Marion.

Those who have friends in the regiment, and all who can aid in contributing clothing, blankets or shoes, will please send them to the agent in their vicinity

The agents for the several companies will please to box up the articles contributed and consign them to me to the care of Capt. C. E. Thames, A. Q. M. at Selma.

I would urge dispatch, as the cold weather will cause great suffering among those in need of clothing, and I wish to transport the articles that may be contributed to the regiment as soon as they can be collected together.

Any inquiries addressed to me should be directed to Uniontown, Perry county.

Deceased Soldiers Claims.

CLAIMS FOR SUPPLIES and every other description of claim against the Government will be attended to by the subscriber. A long and intimate acquaintance with such business justifies him in saying that when entrusted to his care, they will be prosecuted to an early and successful settlement. Correspondents will receive prompt replies to their letters, consulting him on business. His fees except by special agreement, will be 10 percent. on amounts collected. Remittance of the same will be made by checks from the banks, or otherwise if ordered.

SOLDIERS' CLAIMS.—"The claiming heir must produce his or her affidavit, and that of one disinterested person, stating the relationship and that there is no other person entitled to claim. For istance, if the claimant be a mother, the affidavit must state that there is living neither wife, child nor father of the deceased; if the father, that there is neither wife nor child, and if the child, that there is no wife. The Magistrate administering the oath should certify to the credibility of the witness, and the clerk of the court should certify, under seal, that he is such magistrate."

Claims prepared in accordance with the above, (accompanied by an order signed by the claimant, and witnessed by two witnesses, authorizing the amount due to be paid,) and transmitted by mail to the undersigned will be sufficient. Where the claimant is present in the city, upon application to the undersigned all the papers necessary for procuring the pay, &c., due deceased or discharged soldiers, will be prepared, ready for presentation to the proper office, for a fee of $1 or he will prosecute and obtain the pay on the same at a reasonable charge. Improved Merchant Mills.

THE undersigned respectfully inform the public generally that their Flouring Mills situatee on Tallassehatchee Creek, five miles south-west of Jacksonville, has been recently much improved and thoroughly repaired. They are now prepared to manufacture an article of Flour, equal in quality to that of any mills in the country, and as large a quantity to the bushel. They have a good lot with water convenient, for the use of persons who may bring wheat from a distance.

They solicit a continuance of the patronage of their old friends and customers, assuring them that their well-earned reputation for prompt trade and correct dealing shall be fully maintained. Every effort will be made to accommodate those who come from a distance, so that they may get their grinding done without delay and dispatch.

Their SAW MILL is also now in excellent order, and they have on hand a large quantity of almost every variety of Lumber, and will at all times be prepared to fill orders with accuracy and dispatch.

POETRY.

AFTER ALL.

The apples are ripe in the orchard;
The work of the reaper is done,
And the golden woodlands redden
In the blood of the dying sun.

At the cottage door, the grandsire,
Sits pale in an easy chair,
While the gentle wind at twilight
Plays with his silver hair.

A woman is kneeling beside him;
A fair young head is pressed,
In the first wild passion of sorrow,
Against his aged breast.

And far from over the distance
The faltering echoes come,
Of the flying blast of a trumpet,
And the rattling roll of a drum.

And the grandsire speaks in a whisper:
"The end no man can see;
But we give him to his country,
And give our prayers to Thee."

The violets star the meadows,
The rose-buds fringe the door,
And over the grassy orchard
The pink-white blossoms pour.

But the grandsire's chair is empty,
The cottage dark and still;
There's a nameless grave on the battle-field.
And a new one under the hill.

And a pallid, tearless woman,
By the cold hearth sits alone,
And the old clock in the corner
Ticks on with a steady drone.

The New York Election.

Scenes and Speeches at the Political Headquarters—The Democracy Jubilant.

The New York Herald of the 5th, devotes a page to a description of the scenes at the several political headquarters, in that city, on the night of the election We copy a few extracts commencing with

TAMMANY HALL

At this "ancient hunting ground, as the Herald styles it, the "unterrified" assembled in overwhelming numbers—Mr. Purdy presiding as usual.

Ex-Marshal Isaiah Rynders was presented to the crowd and was received with a good deal of noise and applause. He occupied the best part of an hour reading the election returns as they gradually dropped in and commencing in his well known rough but caustic style, on the melancholy demise of the republican party. He thought it was high time that such an occurrence should take place. The abolitionists had hoped to deprive the people of their ancient liberty altogether, but the results of this day's election will show that the people of New York have not forgotten the value of those rights for which their fathers fought, bled and conquered. (applause.) No democratic government that ever existed had been guilty of infringing on the rights of the people. They never imprisoned men—free citizens—without due process of law. The rights of the people were always respected and individual liberty was not then a farce. ("That's so.")

A Voice—Rynders, you will be sent to Fort Larayette if you don't look out.

Rynders—What, Fort Lafayette! You may rest assured that I shall not be alone in my glory there. Establish the democratic government, and liberty will be so free that there will be no fear of any forts or prisons for free men. (Applause.)

A Voice—Tell us something about Greeley, and how the old man feels to night.

Another Voice—The Tribune is closed up, or if not, it should be (Loud laughter.)

Rynders—Why, friends, Greeley himself gave up Wardsworth as a case without hope. He informed the public that Tammany and Rynders supported Seymour. Did he think we would support Wardsworth? Not a bit of it. He knew that poor old Wardsworth was no where, and that Seymour would sweep the Statt as we have swept the city to-day. Wardsworth, you know, is a great warrior. He went to Washington and drew his sword, and that is all we know about it.

A Voice—In what battle?

Rynders—My friend, history has not yet recorded that fact. (Laughter.)—From all sides the most cheering news is coming in from every part of the Empire City. A return was just put into his hands announcing that the Ninth ward has given nine hundred majority for Seymour—(loud cheers) and the Eleventh (good old ward) has given him 2,014 (Renewed cheering.) Do you wonder, then, that the black republican papers were so terrified at what they saw would be the result of this contest? It was for this that the Times propose that the whole election power should be set aside This was to bring the military power right among us here; and, in case of Seymour's election, to set it aside by military authority But Seymour has been elected, and if he mistook not they would "see more" of the same kind before long. (Loud laughter.)

Cries from the rear—Here are returns from the thirteenth ward. Give them to us, Rynders

Rynders—Fetch them along, boys.

Cries of let's hear from the old Thirteenth. How is Duffy?

Rynders—The Thirteenth ward has given an overwhelming majority for Seymour. (Cheers.) Alas! poor Duffy.—(Loud laughter.) There is but one story to be told to-night—Victory everywhere. (Applause.)

A voice—How is Dickinson, the apostates? Let us hear from him.

Rynders—Talk of victory to night, boys—that is the first and last thing.—Then we will talk of traitors afterwards. (Applause.)

A Mr. McSweeney was the next speaker. He thought that in the triumph of democracy liberty would be re-established. There could be no more arbitrary arrests. (Applause.) In the last steamer from California there were. He was sorry to say, a number of clergymen, brought as prisoners for Fort Lafayette, because they would not pray for the President. (Hisses,) Now he believed that religion had nothing, to do with politics, and a man might pray for whom he pleased. (Applause.)

A German orator next addressed the meeting in the language of faderland—The masses of Irishmen present did not understand one word he was saying, but cheered in the most enthusiastic and genuine manner.

Another gentleman, full of enthusiasm and eyeing his auditory through an immense pair of spectacles, then took the rostum with as much dignity as the equivocal position of his pulpit would allow. He was exceedingly hilarious over the utter rout black republicanism—nay he was somewhat inclined to be serious were the sentiments that filled his swelling bosom. He said it was a great and tremendous victory. Democrats could now give their shouts without fear of Fort Lafayette, and they could tell the administration and the nefarious traitor at the corner here—("Three groans for Greeley." given with a good deal of gusto)—that the Union of the States is now settled forever. (Applause.) The victory of the democracy was, in his opinion, the great harbinger of the return of peace and Union to our divided country. (Applause.)

The arrival of Mr John Van Buren at this juncture threw all the occupants of the wigwam into political convulsions. After considerable trouble he reached the platform and was duly introduced to his democratic friends

Mr. Van Buren said that he thanked his friends kindly for the enthusiasm with which they greeted him. He had talked to them at great length last night, and now he would talk briefly in the hour of victory and triumph. (Applause.) He congratulated them on the appearances of a great and decided victory through the State——certainly throughout the city. (Applause.) After some other remarks from volunteer speakers, bearing entirely on the advantages of victory of the democratic party.

The "War Horse" announced the Black Hole of the republican party in Twenty-Third street and Broadway had admitted a majority of thirty thousand to the democratic party. He was able to correct this by saying that their victory, so far as known, showed a majority of twenty-seven thousand (Applause.)

A voice—Is Greeley ready for execution.

Another voice—No! he is coming on with nine hundred thousand more.

All—Bully for Greeley.

The returns now were nearly all in, and people began to drop off so rapidly that the directors of the meeting found it necessary to propose an adjourment.

YOUNG MEN'S DEMOCRATIC UNION ASSOCIATION.

At the headquarters of this Association, No. 932 Broadway, there was a large gathering of Democrats Judge Dean was the first speaker. The struggle, he said, was for principles and not for men, and he did not believe in arbitrary arrests, &c.

Mr. Cozans then said he had received a telegraphic message, not from the republican headquarters, but from Mozart Hall, stating that the city had given them a majority of from thirty thousand to thirty-two thousand. Loud cheers and remarks of "What a gent many traitors there are in the city" greeted this announcement

New Jersey was then heard from, stating that Joel Parker would inevitably be elected the Governor of that State.—Cries of "Good," "Good," and loud cheers greeted this intelligence. Syracuse was next heard from as giving a majority of 250 for Seymour, when the high spirits of the meeting found vent in singing the "Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Richard Connolly said he had just come from the republican headquarters; and before he left dismay and gloom had spread over the room. As the returns came in showing how the city was going, one of the speakers—Mr. Spencer, he believed—told the chairman for God's sake not to give them any more returns. Cries of "Brooks," and loud cheers, interrupted the speaker, who, after a few more remarks, gave place to Mr. Brooks, who spoke in substance as follows:

Gentlemen:—I thank you with my whole heart and soul for this demonstration [Cheers.] It is the proudest day of my life—not that I am re-elected to a Congress where, inside, I have had four years of experience, and outside, as a looker on in Washington, means for observation twenty years more—but I thank you now because you have elected me, on trust, with hands untied—[cheers]—and, "as an independent representative, freely to endorse the administration in what is right—[cheers]—and freely to condemn it in what is wrong.—[Cheers.] And that you yourselves have been able to elect me, though living in the midst of party organizations, upon well known principles, with but little regard to mere party mechanism. [Cheers.] Gentlemen, I am an old line whig [tremendious cheers] of the school of Daniel Webster; and Henry Clay [renewed cheers], but I am indebted to-day for the cheerful suffrages of the democracy, and I owe my election to them. [Great cheering.] In the progress of events old issues have passed away; and as you have adopted the mottoes and maxims of the old whig party, the constitution, the Union and the enforcement of the laws, there is no reason why we should not adopt your name and become a member of the democratic party. [Cheers] I am largely indebted to-day not only to American born citizens, but to Germans and to Irishmen, whose good sense and patriotism would have preferred even a "Know Northing" to an abolitionist, and who have announced that cry, in the expressive language of the day, quite "played out." [Cheers and laughter] I thank you all, then, no matter under what sky your eyes first opened upon the light of heaven. Gentlemen I foresee questions of awful magnitude upon which, if living, I shall be called upon to act as a member of Congress, and I tremble over the responsibility. With God's blessing I hope to satisfy you all, and, what is more important, to discharge my duty, and fearlessly, too, to the country, and the whole country, without prejudice or passion: [Cheers.] I hope to take part in restoring once more the now rent and bleeding Union; but while vindicating the supremacy of the constitution and the laws, in that vindication also to demonstrate there is no reason why brother should longer imbrue his hands in the blood of brother, and thus causelessly prolong a fratricidal war. [Loud, long and tremendous cheering, amid which Mr. Brooks retired, the audience crying "go on, go on."

THE REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS.

At the Republican Headquarters, corner of Broadway and 23d streets, despondency prevailed. The Herald says:

Mr. C. Spencer, on taking the chair, said that the prospects were that they (the republican party) were defeated in the city and also in the State. (A lull in the audience) If they went down defeated, they would go down to the bottom firing their guns and the water bubbling over them. They would however, defeat or victory, prosecute this war to the bitter end, until the iron heel of the Union would crush into nothingness the heart of rebellion. Applause, cheers, quiet, discussion, jocularity and something of a "give up" appearance on the part of the audience greeted the remarks of Mr Spencer. Cigars received an extra strong puff from those who smoked, the latest French style hat worn by most of the audience were more firmly compressed upon the head, and the dark cloud seemed to grow still darker.

The returns from the different districts of the city here began to come in somewhat rapidly, all giving large majorities for Seymour. The announcement of these returns were, of course, met with silence, and generally speaking, with a good deal of humor, Mr. Spencer, the chairman, accompanying each reading with a well-timed pun.

Nine o'clock found the Headquarters crowded to overflowing, and also brought in the intelligence from the telegraph that Ben. Wood had been elected over Wallbridge by a large majority. Three stentorian and hearty groans were given to this intelligence.

Mr. Spencer—whatever may be the result of this election, I will say that old Abe Lincoln will remain in power for two years more.

A voice—Look out for the draft in those districts. [Laughter.]

Conversation and by play on the part of the audience filled up the interim between the coming in of the returns, and mutual dashes of condolence and opinion were put forth. A regular artillery fire was kept up on all sides and bomb shells were thrown into the camp of the enemy, but which never reached, or probably were not intended to reach that sacred centre. From one side of the room to the other speaking messengers were dispatched, and altogether rather a pleasing comedy was enacted. Dialogues such as the following occurred:

Despairing Republican—I guess we are about played out.

Hopeful Republican—I am waiting for the first gun from the country, where men read and write, where there are but few rum shops and no gambling halls.

Desperate Republican—We shall fight them in the last.

Medium despairing Republican—It looks bad, though.

Sympathizing Republican—It does. We may whip them yet.

Philosophic Republican—There are all Jews in this city, and no christians.

The meeting was kept up until near midnight, and at that time several rather unfavorable accounts having come in from the State—the meeting adjourned in rather a sober mood. John Brown's body was not sung, either time.

NEWS OF THE VOTE AT HOME.

The Hon. Reed Wood needs none of the large appointments at Richmond to find his headquarters for receiving returns etc. We have the following account of what transpired there:

Shortly before seven o'clock the first courier from the polls arrived, bearing the tidings that Mr. Wood had carried the whole ward by an overwhelming majority.

A voice—Hurrah! We are not out of the "Wood" yet.

Here Judge Neff was exultantly held up a roll of Virginia tobacco, remarking: "This is the first sample we have got from Virginia for some time."—Cheers.

Another courier arrived from the Sixth Ward at this juncture with glad tidings for Mr. Wood, and a ship, 'Lip hurrah,' with a final 'rouser,' rings through the building.

Enthusiastic Democrat, to Mr. Wood—Say, Bob, I think you will be in Pennsylvania avenue bomb-row with Mrs. Lincoln. Cheers and great laughter.

Mr. Wood—I think not, she would not walk with me after this. More laughter and cheers.

A voice—She will be a good Seymour man now. Cries of 'good, good' and great laughter.

Another voice—Now she will be a Wood woman, by God. Great uproarious laughter and loud cheers.

Arrival of a message from the Fourth ward, which reports Bob Wood largely in the ascendancy over Wallbridge.

A voice—How are you Wallbridge? I guess you are on your way to Washington now. Great laughter.

In this way the returns came in up to about nine o'clock, when the last courier arrived. The figures were counted up and a clear majority of 3 517 votes for Mr. Wood was announced as the result, whereupon three stentorian cheers rang out for the candidate elect, for Seymour and the whole democratic ticket.

A voice—Three more cheers for Bob Wood. Hip, hip, hurrah!

Another voice—How are you Fort Lafayette? Cheers, laughter, and groans for Fort Lafayette.

Mr Wood—Well gentlemen, I am elected by a majority of 3,517. Cheers.

A voice—Will Judge Neff be in the 9 o'clock train to-night. Great merriment.

Another voice—To see Mr. Lincoln. Loud shouts of laughter and cheers.

Another—Bob Wood is endorsed any how you take him. He goes back again. "Hurrah" and loud cheering.

This closed the anxiety of Mr. Wood's political campaign for Congress. He proposed to his friends a visit to old Tammany to see how the election was at work in former years, and hither they went rejoicing.

☞ The most precious legacy we can left to the people of the South, after the war shall have ended, is the memory of the brave, chivalric men who were first to spring forward at the summons of their country, and who were foremost among the martyr'd dead to pour out their life's blood as a libation upon her sacred altars. A noble company they were who thus gave our possession and the endearments of home, and returned no more save as spectres in the halls of memory." Yet, as an unknown writer has beautifully said, "they never fall who die in a good cause: their heads may sodden in the sun, their limbs be strung to city gates and castle walls, but still their spirits walk abroad; and though years elapse, and others share a track a doom, they but augment the deep and swelling thoughts which overpower all others and conduct the world at last to freedom."—St Rep.

Change Bills—Both Houses of the Legislature passed yesterday the bill authorizing the issuance by the State of two million dollars in small notes of the denomination of one dollar and under.—The bills are to be receivable for public dues, and to be redeemed in Confederate Treasury notes when presented in sums of ten dollars or upwards. On the bill's below the denomination of one dollar the signature of the Governor is to be printed. Those of one dollar are to be signed by the Comptroller, or some persons employed by him for that purpose, to be stamped with the seal of that office, registered and numbered.—Mont. Adv.

TOM WALKER DRAGOONS."

Every [illegible] will be carefully packed, and the [illegible] to the care of the Quarter Master at Selma, Montgomery, and Talladega. [illegible] delivery of goods in a short time.

E. G. FAULK,

Capt. Co A., 24 Ala. cavalry.

Nov. 27th.

How they Love Us.—For many years, previous to the secession of the Southern States, to judge by the tone of Abolition newspapers and orators, one would have supposed that they regarded the Southern people as unfit for the associations of civilized men and that they would rejoice, be greatly relieved by the voluntary withdrawal of the Southern States from a Union with them. But now we only hear of the "rebels" past recovery, unconverted and unrepentant. They have not yet shown an unwillingness to part from us, but a disposition to make the most stupendous exertions of which they are capable to prevent it. Never known in the history of the world. They have raised, or are trying to raise an army of a million of men, have doubled their immense navy and incurred a national debt of twelve or fifteen hundred million to boot. Lack the Southern States into the loving embrace of the Puritanical union and though they have met with little else than Federal disaster for the last eighteen months, they show little disposition to desist from their work of plunder, devastation and murder. Oh yes, they value them very much, so much so that the head of their nation, issues proclamations of wholesale confiscation and inviting servile insurrection; and their people rejoice in the delusive hope of reducing the whole Southern population, men, women and children, to the most abject and inhuman condition of famine and pestilence, superadded to all the misery that they can do by rapine, pillage and murder. Truly they have a strange way of displaying their love. The white livilz I would have you to know, is their ineffaceable disgrace, the utter falsehood and hypocrisy of their pretended desire for peace and union, and that such interest and interest only, is the ruling motive of the mean despicable and unnecessary race with whom we are at war, and time will prove, and history record, nor envy that they must share in the misery and deprivation which they cause; but that all their avaricious designs of subjugation and conquest, have been miserably and totally disappointed and the evils they so heartlessly designed and desired to bring upon us, have been visited upon themselves.

☞ The flood of shinplasters seems to be abating, and we are not sorry for it, except in so far as we lose the profit of issuing them. If Shakespeare had lived in these days, he might well have said—"He that steals my purse steals trash,"—yet and he that steals the good name of speculators and extortioners love the same thing.

Shinplasters were resorted to for the convenience of change, but we have never found any more inconvenient from the fact that we have to sort out from the common mass to get perhaps one in a hundred that will pass freely. It is very much like the operation of sifting a bushel of chaff to get two get two grains of wheat. But as the State is going to monopolize the business in future, we hope we shall not be so much troubled. We intend to keep a few of the rare specimens that have been sent to us from a distance, as a part of the history of the eventful times in which we live.

☞ Wm. M. Weir, a member of Co B. 36th Ala. Regt., arrived in our place a few days since. He informs us that he will return about the 1st Monday, 1st day of December, and proposes to all persons who have friends in that company that he will take back articles of clothing, &c., which they may wish to send. The articles must be deposited plainly marked at the store of Hoke & Bro. He says that numbers of the company are greatly in need of clothing, and that it will be impossible for the Government to furnish them in time to prevent suffering.

THE TOM WALKER REBELS.

This gallant company, originally commanded by Capt. Geo. H. Forney, was represented by our young friend, Lieut. Jason Scott, who left here a few days ago, with 160 pair good substantial shoes, which he got up and paid for out of the liberal donation of the generous patron whose name it bears—the Hon. T. A. Walker. We were proud to learn, from a letter from Col. G. H. Forney, that Mr. Scott is every inch a soldier, and we ourselves know him to be a gentleman. May he reach his brave company soon in safety with his useful and well timed charge. When we see and hear of anything going forward for the comfort and relief of the brave and faithful soldiers it warms our very heart's blood.

SALT.—A letter was placed in our hands from Judge Walker, at Montgomery, to Maj. B. G. Wyly, of this place, from which we learn that Gabriel McGee, State Commissioner, proposes to furnish salt to people in this County, for the Circuit county will be sold at the works at $70 per bushel, delivered at Blue Mountain or Jacksonville, with the freight added, to be paid for in pork, delivered at either place. $70 per bushel. Further information can be obtained by enquiry of Maj. Wyly.

☞ Gen. J. D. Hogan, requests us to ask of persons who design sending clothing to Col. John T. Morgan's Regt. to send it in within a few days, as the time is short when it will have to be forwarded.

☞ See in another column, the Editorial per position by Messrs Crook and Martin, for sale of the shares, at the rum yard near Alexandria.

SMOKE-HOUSE SALT.

MR. GRANT.—Permit me to describe the process by which salt like the sample I send you, may be obtained, out of the grass or weed, that is made in the first year.

Put the dark salt obtained by the first boiling in an oven or pot; kindle a fire around it, and heat the salt until every impurity is burnt. Heat does not injure the salt. It will look black after this burning, perhaps it will be after it is burnt sufficiently to destroy all impurities contained in it. Dissolve it in water, and to every five gallons of this black brine, add one half pint of lime, stir it in, and let it stand from twenty minutes, skimming off the top, strain the brine through a fine cloth, clear as crystal will result. The vapor will run through clear. Boil this brine as before, carefully dipping out the salt from the bottom of the kettle, as it is deposited, put this salt into a bag; hang it up to drip, and return the drippings to the kettle to be boiled down. If white salt is not obtained, it is owing to not heating the salt sufficiently.

WM. SCOTT

CAMP HOWARD, NEAR SPRING PLACE, TENN. Nov. 17th, 1862.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN—Notwithstanding it is seldom I have the pleasure of perusing the columns of your paper, I beg leave to give you a few items in regard to this regt. of Alabama formerly commanded by Col. Howard, now commanded by Lt Col. Wm N Estis, of DeKalb county, Ala.

There are seven companies in this regiment from DeKalb co., Ala. Lt Col. Estis, will be promoted to the Colonelcy as Col Howard has been promoted to position of Brigadier General.

This Regt has twice penetrated into the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, where bushwhackers lie in wait behind every crag and every log, as well for the purpose of murdering and robbing the unwary traveller, as to fire into and annoy bodies of troops passing through the country, either large or small. The second trip the Regiment made into Ky., occurred last week, after the Confederate forces had evacuated the state. Col. Estis with about three hundred men went up to Barksville and brought out about ninety wagon loads of bacon, lard, flour and salt, besides 1200 head of fat hogs and a large number of beef cattle. Col Wolfords cavalry in large force, attacked our regt., while in the vicinity of Barksville, and after a spirited engagement, for half an hour, Wolford's cavalry were totally routed. Col. Estis lost only three men, and one slightly wounded. Of the enemy 13 were killed on the field, and a number wounded. Several prisoners were captured, who were paroled. Two companies from DeKalb Lynch's and Lankford's were in the fight and behaved with the utmost coolness and courage. Col. Estis was ably seconded by Capt N D Rothrock, Adjt of the regt. Capt. Rothrock, a few days after the above engagement, with five men, killed five bushwhackers, and routed ten others, there being fifteen, against five on our side. Rothrock is a fine fellow in a battle, and is destined to make his mark in this war. Col. Estis is bold and enterprising, and will write his name high on the roll of fame, if this war continues.

Capt. Robt McCampbell was in the thickest of the fight, and distinguished himself for bravery.

This regt numbers about 1000 able men, finely mounted, and when you hear from them again, you may listen for deeds of desperate daring. More anon.

Nassau dates of the 11th inst. have been received. The news is unimportant. The Prince of Wales' 21st birth day was celebrated with great pomp at Nassau on the 10th. The day was kept as a holiday.

RICHMOND, Nov. 21.

A demand for the surrender of Fredericksburg has been made, but nothing is positively known.

The Fredericksburg Herald says that on Wednesday the Potomac was covered with transports, and many believed they were to convey Burnside's troops to some other point, leaving enough behind to keep up appearances.

The Herald conjectures that by Saturday night they will be on their way to a new destination, but says others entertain different views and insist that Fredericksburg will be made the place of operations. The people are confident, and will make any sacrifice rather than surrender.

RICHMOND, Nov. 22.—The following communication from President Davis to Gen. Holmes, commanding the trans-Mississippi Department is published, dated "Executive Office, Nov 17: General: Inclosed you will find a slip from the Memphis daily Appeal, of the 31 inst., containing an account purporting to be derived from the Palmyra, (Mo.) Courier, a Federal journal, of the murder of ten Confederate citizens in Missouri, by order of Gen McNeil, of the United States army. You will communicate by flag of truce, with federal officers, commanding that Department and ascertain if facts are as stated. If they be so you will demand the immediate surrender of Gen. McNeil, to the Confederate authorities and if this demand is not complied with, you will inform said commanding officer that you are ordered to execute the first ten United States officers who may be captured and fall in your hands.

Very Respectfully, yours,

OBITUARY.

DIED—In Eutaw, Ala., August 12th, 1862, Rev. L. B. ROBERTSON, in the 29th year of his age.

The subject of this notice was born in N. C., February 5th 1833, emigrated to Cherokee County, Ala., in 1847, thence to Oxford, in 1852, thence to Eutaw, in 1860.

As a son, he was dutiful and affectionate, as a student, he was assiduous

...religion. He exercised in Howard College, Ga. Ch. 1830, while connected with the A. M. E. Church.

In each circle he was a religious—he united with the First Baptist Church in Cherokee Co., in 1849, being in his 16th year. He was raised in morals; a pattern in piety, a burning and shining light in the church, a living epistle known and read of all. Of him it may truly be said:

His life was a life expressed
His doctrine he professed.

Soon after he joined the church, while a fervent youth, he began to exercise in public prayer and exhortation, in both of which he was greatly gifted.

As a preacher, he was earnest and effective, enforced truth by the logic of love—kindled interest by the fires of his zeal. And many an unconscious man was reached by his powerful appeals, and bonfired by his fervent prayers will rise up in the last day and call him blessed.

As a pastor, he was eminently successful. The churches were built up and flourished under his ministry. He infused life into the Sunday School and Prayer-Meeting and stirred up the membership to diligence and duty. He was preeminently qualified for the sacred office, both by nature and grace. His kind disposition, social nature, affable manner made him a general favorite with children and servants, the youth and the aged.

His work as a missionary in the army, has already been alluded to by Rev. A. E. Dickson, under whose direction he was sent out. He was in the army, what he was at home, the good, the useful man. The soldiers at Mobile, Mt. Vernon, and Tuscumbia Springs, greeted him with gladness, and delighted in his society.

Thus, has passed away, a young man in the prime of life—a young minister in the zenith of usefulness. As his life was spotless and pure, so his death was peaceful and happy.

His went down not in empty night,
Tut hid itself in heaven's own light.

He is now numbered with the royal-robed prophets and ruby-crowned martyrs.

"Servant of God well done;
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy"

Improved Merchant Mills.

THE undersigned respectfully inform the public generally that their Flouring Mills situate on Tallassehatchee Creek, five miles south-west of Jacksonville, has been recently much improved and thoroughly repaired. They are now prepared to manufacture an article of Flour equal in quality to that of any mills in the country, and as large a quantity to the bushel. They have a good lot with water convenient, for the use of persons who may bring wheat from a distance.

They solicit a continuance of the patronage of their old friends and customers, assuring them that their well-earned reputation for promptitude and correct dealing shall be fully maintained. Every effort will be made to accommodate those who come from a distance, so that they may get their grinding done without having to return.

Their SAW MILL is also now in excellent order, and they have on hand a large quantity of almost every variety of Lumber, and will at all times be prepared to fill orders with accuracy and dispatch.
