THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
CALHOUN COUNTY.
Court of Probate for said county, January 16th, 1866.

This day came Sarah C. Earle, widow and relict of R. G. Earle, deceased, and presents to the court her petition in writing, representing that she is the widow of said R. G. Earle, deceased; that her said husband died, seized and possessed of the following Lands and Real Estate, situate in said county of Calhoun, and Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, to-wit:

The South half of the north-west fractional quarter, and Fractions B, C, I, and M, Fractional Section twenty, Fractional Township twelve, of Range seven, containing 184 98 100 acres, east in the Coosa Land District. Also Lot No. 1 in the plan of the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, containing 12 acres, upon which is situated the late residence of said decedent, being a part of the North East fourth of Section 14, Township 14, of Range eight east in the Coosa Land District. Said Sarah C. Earle alleges that she is entitled to Dower in the above lands, and asks that the same be assigned to her in the same. It is therefore ordered by the Court, that the 28th day of February, 1866, be set for the hearing of said petition; and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said court, to be held at the Court-house of said county, on said 28th day of February, 1866, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Cherokee County.
To Matthew G. Casey—you are hereby notified, that at the last term of the Circuit Court for said county, the following order was passed, to-wit:

Tumlin & Burge, Circuit Court, Feb. Term, 1865 vs. Matthew G. Casey, Deft. came the Plaintiff, by John W. Ramsey, Garnishees Attorney, &c. appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that the Defendant, Matthew G. Casey is a non-resident of this State. It is ordered by the Court, that publication be made in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper published in the County of Calhoun, for four consecutive weeks, of the issuance and copy of an attachment in this case. A true copy from the minutes.

In pursuance of the above order, you are hereby notified, that on the 2nd day of August last, that an attachment was issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, against you, at the suit of Lewis Tumlin and William T. Burge, using the firm name of Tumlin & Burge, and was levied by Garnishees the above named parties, and that said suit stands for trial at the next term of our Circuit Court, when and where you can attend and defend if you see proper.

Witness my hand this 2th day of December, 1865.
W. H. STIFF, Clerk.

Desirable Lands for Sale.
Farm of 800 acres in Calhoun county Alabama within 6 miles of Jacksonville the county seat, 1 mile of the town of Alexandria, and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville and Selma Railroad. Three hundred acres open the remainder very heavily timbered with pine and oak. One lot, 160 acres is detached a mile from the main body. Improvements a large framed dwelling with 2 good sized rooms well finished, located in a beautiful oak grove—necessary out buildings. There is a large water falling spring within ten yards of the house with a branch flowing from it nearly large enough to turn a mill—also a well of fine water in the yard—it has in it also a large gin house—a large apple and peach orchard, and taken altogether is one of the most valuable and desirable farms in North Alabama.

ALSO—A Farm of 870 acres more or less in Calhoun county, Ala., within 8 miles of Jacksonville, 1 mile of Alexandria and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville & Selma Railroad—350 acres cleared the balance in original forest heavily timbered. This farm is very finely watered by a spring which issues from the bottom of a spring branch open land is clear bottom of very superior quality producing a good season 50 bushels of corn per acre and 1 bale of cotton. Improvements—a large well finished frame house and all necessary out buildings in a good state of preservation. There is a Baptist church on the land—and the society in the neighborhood equal to any in the State. This farm in the hands of a good practical farmer could be made one of the most productive in the region in which it is located. It lies on 1 1/2 miles of cedar fencing taken off the bottom. Lime stone is very abundant on the place which could be converted into lime at very little cost either for market or for fertilizing purposes on the farm.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.
Court of Probate for said county, Special Term, Jan. 22d, 1866.

THE Estate of R. A. Carruth, deceased, was this day, by an Order and Decree of said Court, declared insolvent; and came S. M. Carruth, who is the administrator of said estate, and filed in court his account and vouchers for a settlement of said estate as an insolvent estate. The 22nd day of February, 1866 is set apart for making said settlement; and notice of the same is hereby given in the Jacksonville Republican; a Newspaper printed and published in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said settlement day, as a notice to the creditors of said Estate, and all other persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said Court, to be held at the court house of said county, on said 22nd day of February, 1866, and contest said settlement if they think proper.
A. WOODS,
Judge of Probate.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN.—The New York Citizen (edited by private Miles O'Riley) has an article laudatory of the Fenians, and urging Irishmen and Americans to contribute to the Fenian funds. We quote a single ominous passage.

"We tell the American public—and they have heretofore found us pretty accurate prophets in everything relative to the Fenian cause—that before ten weeks there will be—somewhere—an Irish Republic existing on the face of the earth, with a flag, an army, a port of entry and exit, a navy of privateers, and the tacit encouragement both of France and the United States in the prosecution of belligerent acts against Great Britain. Let no one ask us for the present where this republic will be located, for we cannot answer. It must be called a republic, to warrant the flag and fleet, but will, really, only be used as an immediate basis of operations for the transfer of active hostilities to the Canadian and Irish soils. A word to the wise is enough. And now, while the quidnuncs grow excited, the wise will await developments, giving liberally of their means to aid the cause; nor will they have to tarry long for the fulfillment of all that we herein foreshadow."

A HARD HIT.—The New York Commercial Advertiser (Republican) thus refers to the class of Republicans in Congress who voted for negro suffrage in the District of Columbia, but whose constituencies oppose it at home:

If it were only possible for the Republicans to be as honest in regard to suffrage in Connecticut, in New York, in Illinois, for instance, as they have in a community where they have no interest except as satraps, it would be an encouraging sign; but in the present infirmity of human nature we must expect to see them busy in removing motives from the eyes south of the Potomac, while they wink at the beams in eyes east of the Hudson and north of the Ohio. It is refreshing to see the names of four Republican members from Connecticut recorded in favor of a measure repudiated by the Republicans of their own State. It shows how careful we are of the consciences of others and how unkind of our own.

A BEAUTIFUL INCIDENT.—In 1847, King William IV. expired about midnight at Windsor Palace. The Archbishop of Canterbury with other peers and high functionaries of the kingdom, were in attendance at the closing scene. As soon as "the scepter had departed," with the last breath of the King, the Archbishop quitted the castle and made his way with all possible speed to Kensington Palace, the residence at that time of the Princess—already, by the law of succession, Queen Victoria. He arrived long before daylight announced himself, and requested an interview with the Princess. She hastily attired herself, and met the venerable prelate in her ante-room. He informed her of the demise of William, and formally announced to her that she was, in law and right, successor to the deceased monarch. The sovereignty of the most powerful nation of the earth lay at the feet of a girl of eighteen! She was "de jure" Queen of the only realm, in fact or history, "on which the sun never sets."

The young princess was deeply agitated at the formidable words—no fraught with blessings or calamity. The first words she was able to utter were, "I ask your prayers in my behalf." They knelt down together and Victoria inaugurated her reign, like the young King of Israel in the olden time, by asking from the Most High, who ruleth in the kingdoms of men, "an understanding heart to judge so great a people who could not be numbered nor counted for multitude." The sequel of her reign has been worthy of such a beginning. Every throne in Europe has tottered since that day. Most of them have, for a time, been overturned. That of England was never so firmly seated in the loyalty and love of the people as at this hour. Queen Victoria enjoys a personal influence, too—the homage paid to her as a wife, a mother, and a benefactor of the poor—a Christian woman—incomparably wiser and greater than any monarch now reigning. She is no less admired abroad than loved at home.

Speech of Mr. Voorhies.

Hon. D. W. Voorhies of Indiana, closed his powerful argument in Congress on the 8th, with the following admirable passages:

I make my appeal to the disinterested impartial, and enlightened masses of the country, without regard to lines of party distinction. They have witnessed the patient labors of the President, and since this Congress convened they have beheld their grand fulfillment. Those wandering stars from the azure field of the flag, those discontented Pleiades that shot madly from their spheres have one by one re-illuminated their rays at the great center of light and of glory. The whole land wept when the beautiful sisterhood was broken. The wail of the heart-broken over the pallid face of the beloved and untimely dead is not more full of anguish than were the hearts of those who loved their fellow men when many of our most brilliant planets denied the law of gravitation and struck defiantly out upon orbits of their own. The sword that was drawn by all Christian hands, more in sorrow than anger, hangs peacefully in its scabbard on the wall. Each section has its reminiscences of sublime devotion of grief, and of glory. These are the brave hearts' dearest treasure, and until

"The good knights are dust," they will be hallowed as the devotee halows the rites of his religion. But peace under the policy of the Executive is celebrating "her victories no less renowned than war." The shining symbols of the revolted race are over our heads, State after State, kindly assisted by the paternal hand of the President, comes to take its place beneath its ancient coat of arms. They cluster around these vacant seats that have so long invited them in vain. They are welcomed by the President as Israel's greatest king welcomed the warlike son of Ner, whose standard had waved twice in rebellion.

Let Congress imitate his example and mark the opening of the new year as an era of perfect reunion and a season of universal joy. "Let oblivion's curtain fall" upon the doleful tragedies of the past. Bury, the animosities of a civil war. Take no counsel from their baleful whisperings. Hate is the basest principal of human action. They who have made laws and ruled nations upon motives of vengeance are the monsters whom all history curses with an unbroken voice. The long and deadly prescription lists of Sylla and Marius, Titus, and Clodius, gave the names of their victims to the compassion and sympathy of the world, while an immortality of infamy cling unceasingly to those who took private revenge in the name of the public good.

Charity for the errors, the follies, and the crimes of the whole family of imperfect man is the best virtue in the breasts of law givers and rulers. Those who have been guided by its sweet angelic influences constitute the glory of the firmament in the annals of mankind. Cyrus, Scipio and Washington command the love and veneration of ages more by the forbearance, magnanimity and clemency of their character than by the renown of their military achievements. The savage chief may strike his enemy prostrate and powerless at his feet. It is an attribute of divinity which lifts him up and makes him a friend. When Pericles paused upon the opening threshold of eternity and in his dying moments reviewed the events of his great life, he consoled his parting spirit and rested the chief glory of his reign upon the fact that he had never

CLUBBING.

The following beautiful tribute to the memory of our noble Clubber comes from "The Dublin Nation." He was of that people whose nationality, crushed at home, asserts itself in furnishing the rest of the world with steamers and warriors. It is meet that the Irish Harp should mingle its lament with the note of woe that goes up from the South for one fallen hero. These lines will speak in every Southern heart the thrill which used to answer to his name, when in the day of deadly conflict, the heart stood still and the pulses ceased their beat, until upon the wings of the lightning came the words—Clubber and victory.

From the Dublin Nation.
CLUBBING.
 How far and fast the autumn blast
 Bears the dead leaves o'er the ground!
 As fast and far has the hand of war
 Strewed our country's brave around!
 And their nameless graves are the ocean caves,
 Where the vulture screams as the angry
 streams
 Are hiding the bones of men!
 And what anguished cries
 From the South arise
 For the brave ones fallen in vain!
 While the victor North
 Rings pines for them,
 And exults in her broad domain!
 As fire suppressed in Yeasou's breast,
 The latent fires of crime
 In the human frame pulse on the same,
 'Till fanned by the storms of time;
 As the lava fold, swept uncontrolled
 Where Pompeii's glory shone,
 So the wakened rage of a Vandal age
 When Freedom is overthrown
 And we'll look in tears.
 Through long, long years,
 For the brightness shrouded o'er,
 But the golden rays
 Of her halcyon days
 Shall return to the land no more!

Then fling to the horse their base award—
 Their chief to the triumphal crown;
 Place the deerskin in judgment seat,
 Where honor is translated down;
 Give a patry bribe to the hired scribe,
 To the venal bard his fee;
 But him who draws in a righteous cause
 A freeman's sword give me!
 Though his bones should bleach
 On the sea washed beach,
 Though his grave be the lowly mound,
 His name shall chime
 Through the halls of time,
 And swell through the deep profound!

Ye brave en masse, who fall and pass
 To the lucid halls of death,
 There are palms for the few, but alas, for you,
 Not a leaf from the victor's wreath!
 But I stung for one whose glory shone,
 Like a meteor, bright and grand,
 Who gave us a name to the trumpet of fame,
 And his name to the generous land!
 The festive toast,
 The soldier's boast,
 The type of a martial age!
 The foe of wrong,
 The soul of song,
 And the light of a future page!

The base grow bold for power and gold,
 The vain through fear of scorn;
 The brave wax strong in their hate of wrong,
 But he was a warrior born;
 From his eagle glance the stern "Advance!"
 And his action, swift as thought,
 The rank and file from his own fair side
 Their courage electric caught.
 As the whirlwind's path
 Shows its fierce way
 Through the forest's lordliest pines,
 So the deepest
 Of the fallen brave
 Told where Cleburne crossed the lines.

On Richmond's plain his captive train
 Outnumbered the host he led;
 And he won his stars on the field of Mars
 Where the glorious Johnson bled!
 'Twas his to cope while a ray of hope Illum'd his flag—and then
 'Twas his to die while that "flew high"
 In the van of chivalric men!
 Nor a braver host can Erin boast,
 Nor than he a more gallant knight,
 Since the peerless Hugh Crossed the Avon dhu,
 And Bagnal's hosts a-fight.

There were eyes afar that watched your star
 As it rose with the "Southern Cross,"
 There were hearts that bled when its course
 Was sped,
 And Old Ireland felt your loss
 Whichever flowers shall blow, or her waters
 flow
 Through Shannon, Suir and Lee,
 The patriot's song shall roll along
 Their winding waves for thee!
 And they'll tell with pride
 How Cleburne died!
 In the land of the "free and brave,"
 How his sword of might
 Was a beam of light
 Through it led to an exile's grave.

The name of Patrick Cleburne, Lieutenant General in the Confederate army is one which should not be forgotten in the military annals of our race. He fought in "a good cause and in gallant company." He was the hero of over thirty pitched battles, and the number of minor actions in which he participated is beyond precedent. He was distinguished for decision and intrepidity, and almost every movement committed to his division was successful. He received the incessant congratulations of the Southern press, and was several times complimented by the Confederate Congress. After the death of Jackson, he got the sobriquet of "The Stonewall" of the South, for he was to the Army of Tennessee what Jackson was to that of Virginia; but, most of all, he was tender and generous to the vanquished, and, as Ferguson says, "Kindly Irish of the Irish." He lies in a lonely grave in the village of Columbia, Tennessee, whither he was borne after the battle of Franklin by one of his officers. I know I have not done justice to his memory, but history will not consign his name to oblivion. Bidding her consideration, let the foregoing be a leaflet to his memory.

The head of a turtle for several days after its separation from the body retains and exhibits animal life and sensation. An Irishman had decapitated one, and sometime afterwards was amusing himself by putting sticks in its mouth; which it bit with violence. A lady who saw the proceeding exclaimed, "Why, Patrick, I thought the turtle was dead?" "So he is, ma'am," replied Patrick; "but the cratur's not sensible of it."

An Irishman got out of the carriage at a railway station for refreshments, but unfortunately he fell, and the train left before he had finished his repast. "Hould on!" cried Pat, as he ran like a madman after the train; "hould on, we murtherin' ould stame ingin—ye've got a passenger aboard that's lift behind!"

OVER THE RIVER.

Over the River they beckon to me,
 Loved on as who've pass'd to the other side;
 The gleam of their snowy robes I see,
 But their voices are low in the distant tide.
 There's one with ringlets of sunny gold,
 And eyes the reflection of heaven's own blue;
 He crossed in the twilight gray and cold,
 And the pale mist hid him from mortal view.
 We saw not the angels who met him there,
 The gates of the City we could not see;
 Over the River, over the River,
 My brother stands ready to welcome me.

Over the River the boatman pale,
 Carried another—the household pet;
 Her bright curls waved in the gentle gale—
 Darling Minnie, I see her yet.
 She crossed on her bosom her dimpled hands,
 And fearlessly entered the phantom bark;
 We watched it slide from the silver sands,
 And all our sunshine grew strangely dark.
 We know she is safe on the other side,
 Where all the ransomed and angels be;
 Over the River, the mystic River,
 My childhood's idols are waiting for me.

For none return from these quiet shores
 Who cross'd with the boatman cold & pale;
 We hear the dip of the golden oars,
 We catch a gleam of the snowy sail,
 And to they have passed away from our
 hearth;
 They cross the stream and are gone for aye,
 We cannot under the veil apart,
 That hides from our vision the gates of day;
 We only know that their bark no more
 Shall sail with ours in life's stormy sea:
 Yet somewhere now on the unseen shore
 They watch and beckon and wait for me.

And I sit and think when the sunset's gold
 Is flushing river and hill and shore;
 I shall one day stand by the water cold,
 And wait to the sound of the boatman's oar;
 I shall watch for the gleam of the flapping sail,
 I shall hear the boat as it gains the strand,
 I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale
 To the better shore of the spirit land!
 I shall know the loved who have gone before,
 And joyfully sweet will the meeting be,
 When over the River, the peaceful River,
 The Angel of Death shall carry me!

AMBROTYPES.

E. GOODE, Artist.
 HAS prepared an Ambrotype Gallery in this place, over Ryan & Rowland's Store, where he is prepared to take all kinds of AMBROTYPE, but up in fine or common cases, or without cases, at as low prices as can be done anywhere in this country. He expects in a few weeks to be prepared to take PHOTOGRAPHS with Albums, for sale. Those who want Photographs should come in soon and have their Ambrotypes taken, so that the Photographs
 can be taken from them as soon as he gets ready.
 He hopes and believes, from his long past experience, that he can give general satisfaction, and will receive a liberal patronage from citizens of this and surrounding counties.

McGUIRE & PIERSON'S OLD STAND, ON BROAD ST. ROME, GA., No. 26 '65—3m.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, } CALHOUN COUNTY, } Court of Probate for said county, January 16th, 1866.

This day came Sarah C. Earle, widow and relict of R. G. Earle, deceased, and presents to the court her petition in writing, representing that she is the widow of said R. G. Earle, deceased; that her said husband died, seized and possessed of the following Lands and Real Estate, situate in said county of Calhoun, and Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, to-wit:

The South half of the north west fractional quarter, and Fractions B. C. I, and M. Fractional Section twenty, Fractional Township twelve, of Range seven, containing 184 98 100 acres, east in the Coosa Land District. Also Lot No. in the plan of the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, containing 12 acres; upon which is situated the late residence of said decedent, being a part of the North East fourth of Section 14, Township 14, of Range eight east in the Coosa Land District. Said Sarah C. Earle alleges that she is entitled to Dower in the above lands, and asks that the same be assigned to her in the same. It is therefore ordered by the court, that the 28th day of February, 1866, be set for the hearing of said petition; and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said court, to be held at the Court-house of said county, on said 28th February 1866, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

A. WOODS, Judge of Probate. Jan. 27.

They Have Come Sure.

What has come? That fine stock of Choice GROCERIES.

We have been looking for several weeks. Who are they? Kohr's Cheap Emporium, west side of the square.

Who has got them? Our clever, jovial friends, S. D. & J. F. McCLELLAN.

Are they cheap? Yes, cheap as you could ask. What have they got? Oh more than you can tell.—Sugar, Coffee, Salt, Cheese, and Crackers, Raisins, Figs & Candies, Sausages, Oysters & Pickles, Tobacco, Cigars and Snuff. A fine article of COTTON CARDS. Call and examine, and supply yourselves with whatever you wish. Jacksonville, Dec. 15, 1865.

Desirable Lands for Sale.

Farm of 800 acres in Calhoun County, Alabama within 6 miles of Jacksonville the court seat, 1 mile of the town of Alexandria, and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville and Selma Railroad. Three hundred acres open the remainder very heavily timbered with pine and oak. One lot, 100 acres is detached 1/2 mile from the main body. Improvements a large framed dwelling with 8 good sized rooms well finished, located in a beautiful oak grove—all necessary out buildings within 100 yards of the house with a branch well in a well of fine water in the yard—In use on it also a large gin house—a large apple and peach orchard, and taken altogether is one of the most valuable and desirable farms in North Alabama.

ALSO—A Farm of 870 acres more or less in Calhoun County, Ala., within 8 miles of Jacksonville, 1 mile of Alexandria and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville and Selma Railroad—550 acres cleared and the balance in original forest heavily timbered. This farm is very fertile watered by spring branches which head on the place—80 acres of the open land is cedar bottom of very superior quality producing a good season 50 bushels of corn per acre and 1 bale of cotton. Improvements—a large well finished frame house and all necessary out buildings in a good state of preservation. There is a Baptist church on the land—and the society in the neighborhood equal to any in the State. This farm is made one of the most productive in the region in which it is located. It has on it 1 1/2 miles of cedar fencing taken off the cedar bottom. Lime stone is very abundant on the place which could be converted into lime at very little cost either for market or for fertilizing purposes on the farm. HUGH FRANCIS, Agent For Sale and Purchase of Lands.

BABY CHANGES—A MYSTERIOUS AFFAIR.

A domestic drama of sad import to those most immediately concerned is reported as occurring at the West End. A woman with a bundle in her arms, apparently containing a baby, called at the house of a gentleman residing in the vicinity of Cambridge street, a few days ago, and asked leave to remain awhile, as she was in feeble health. She said she had lately been delivered of a child and asked for a glass of stimulant of some sort. The lady of the house was alone in the room, attending to her babe of three weeks old. She left the room to accommodate her strange guest, and proceeded to a store near by, leaving her own child asleep in its cradle. While absent she met her husband, to whom she told the affair, and he unhesitatingly went to his house. He saw no woman present, but heard the cries of an infant, and went to the cradle and removed the covering to take out the child. He then found that his own child had been removed and a negro child of about the same age substituted. The woman has not been seen or heard of since, and the parents are nearly crazy at their loss.—[Boston Herald Jan. 19.]

Unsuccessful Men.

The following truthful and thoughtful observations are from the pen of the Hon. George S. Hilliard: "I confess that increasing years bring with them an increasing respect for men, who do not succeed in life, as those words are commonly used. Heaven is said to be a place for those who do not succeed on earth; and it is surely true, celestial glazes do not thrive and bloom in the hot blaze of worldly prosperity. Ill success sometimes arises from superabundance of qualities, in themselves good—from a conscience too sensitive, a taste too fastidious, a self-forgetfulness too romantic, a modesty too retiring. I will not go so far as to say, with a living poet that 'the world knows nothing of its great men,' but there are forms of greatness, or at least excellence, which 'die' and make no sign; there are martyrs who miss the palm, but not the stake."

heroes without the laurel, and conquerors without the triumph."

The negro soldiers in passing through Atlanta, Ga.; last week, while creating disturbance, were attacked by the city police, when a sharp skirmish ensued. Some twenty five shots were exchanged but nobody hurt. The negroes were driven back.

A large corps of Yankee school teachers, male and female, have arrived in Tusculum and opened schools for the freedmen, so says the North Alabamian.

The St. Nicholas Sunk.—The well known river steamer St. Nicholas was sunk while making the trip from Demopolis. She ran against a snag, and the consequence to her was destruction. She had 500 bales of cotton on board. The cotton will probably be saved in part. No lives were lost. The steamer, it is expected, will prove a total loss. The scene of the casualty was about 27 miles from Mobile and about 45 from the mouth of the Bigby river. The vessel sank five minutes after striking the snag.

Editing a Paper.

Editing a paper is a very pleasant business. If it contains too much political matter, people won't have it. If the type is too large, it don't contain enough reading matter. If the type is small, people won't read it. If we publish telegraph reports, people say they are lies. If we omit them, they say we have no enterprise, or suppress them for political effect. If we have in a few jokes, people say we are a rattlehead. If we omit them, they say we are old fossil.

If we publish original matter, they damn us for not giving selections. If we publish selections, men say we are lazy for not writing more, and giving them what they have not read in some other paper.

If we give a man a complimentary notice then we are censured for being partial.

If we do not, all hands say we are a greedy dog.

If we insert an article that please the ladies, we become jealous.

If we do not cater to their wishes, the paper is not fit to have in their house.

If we attend church they say it is only for effect.

If we don't denounce us as deceitful and desperately wicked.

If we remain in the office and attend to business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with our fellows.

If we go out, they say we never attend to business.

If we publish poetry, we affect sentimentalism.

If we do not, we have no literary polish or taste.

If the mail does not deliver our papers promptly, they say we do not publish "on the time."

If it does, they are afraid we are getting ahead of the time.

If we do not pay all bills promptly, folks says we are not to be trusted.

If we do pay promptly, they say we stole the money.

He who lives for himself alone, lives for a mean fellow.

Two hundred and seventy five cases of divorce have been granted in Chicago the past year; the devotion to the union is very weak there.

A late copy of the Savannah Republican says the business of cotton stealing is very lively in that city. It quotes cotton as having an "absent tendency."

To a lover there are but two places in all the world—one where his sweet heart is, and one where she isn't.

Why are jokes like nuts? Because he drier they are the better they crack.

THE TENNESSEE FRANCHISE BILL.

The Memphis Appeal, referring to the bill now before the Legislature of Tennessee, and likely to pass, says it sweeps from the "repentant rebels" who deserted the Confederate cause, and became intensely loyal in the early progress of the war, their franchise, and puts them in the same category with those who held out to the end. It disfranchises at least seven-tenths of the people of Tennessee. It is virtually, a declaration of perpetual hostility and partition wall between friends and neighbors, and is a legislative rebuke of the spirit of amity and good feeling which is everywhere exhibited by many men who were on different sides in the late civil war. It ought to be entitled—"A bill to promote emigration from the State."

We are authorized to announce J. C. McAuley, Esq., as a candidate for Probate Judge for Calhoun county—election first Monday in May next.

We are authorized to announce Capt. J. B. Farmer, as a candidate for Probate Judge of Calhoun County—election first Monday in May next.

D. M. FULENWIDER, with Harrell, Eskridge & Sturdivant, of Selma, is our authorized Agent, to contract, receive and receipt for subscription and advertising for the Republican.

COLD WEATHER.—Thursday and Friday last were the two coldest days of the season. On Friday morning after sunrise, the thermometer in a room stood at 18 deg. above zero, within 6 or 8 degrees we believe of being as low as ever known here. It is supposed by farmers that winter rains have been killed and wheat injured. The weather moderated considerably on Friday evening.

THE LEGISLATURE.—The Journal of legislative proceedings for the last few days presents but little of interest, that body having been engaged principally on local business. On the 9th inst. Mr. Forney introduced a bill in the Senate, making a new County out of parts of Randolph and Calhoun, to be called Cleburne. We understand it passed the Senate, but what its fate may be in the House we cannot conjecture. A resolution passed the House to adjourn Wednesday last, but it was tabled in the Senate. We may be enabled to publish the captions of all the public acts in our next paper.

Attention Land Buyers.

See advertisement of sale of 1500 acres of Land lying near Blue Mountain, the present terminus of the Ala. & Tenn. R. Railroad—also a tract of land near Jacksonville, and two Town Lots.

See advertisement of sale of valuable lands by Terrell and Bowling Bryant, Administrators.

E. L. Woodward, has just received and offers for sale at low prices, a large lot of Boots and Shoes, of real SUPERIOR QUALITY. He has also received a fine lot of Hats and Caps.

Chandler, Bickel & Co. Jobbers and Dealers in Dry Goods, Shoes, Hats, Clothing &c. Selma, Ala.—We invite special attention to the card of these gentlemen, in to-day's paper. They have on hand an extensive stock of Staple and Fancy Goods, and by their thorough arrangements and extensive business facilities, will keep their stock always full of seasonable Goods. They are prepared at all times to offer great inducements and rare facilities to country merchants, in keeping their supplies and filling up their stocks.

Major A. J. Wilson, formerly of Oxford, is in this house, ready at all times to wait upon his old friends in his usual prompt, correct and courteous manner.

L. W. Pettibone.—It will be seen by reference to the advertisement of this gentleman, so long and favorably known to many of our citizens, that he has taken the Brick Warehouse near the Railroad depot, and is prepared to attend to the receiving, storing and forwarding business in all its branches, with promptitude and efficiency. We cordially commend him to the confidence of our friends and fellow citizens, who may have business in his line.

It will be seen by reference to their advertisement, that our worthy and enterprising fellow-citizens, Messrs. Donihit & Bickel have commenced the manufacture of that much needed article, tin-ware. The public may rely upon their having good materials, and having work faithfully executed by one of the best workmen in the South. We hope that liberal patronage and merited success may attend their enterprise, so useful and advantageous to the public.

The Legislature will adjourn sine die on Friday, the 23rd instant.

Washington dispatches state, as if by authority, that the Government has decided that Mr. Davis shall be tried for treason and other high crimes before a military commission. The significant summons to Washington, therefore, of such distinguished generals as Sherman, Sheridan and Meade, and the arrival, also, of Burton Harrison, who was the private Secretary of Mr. Davis during the war, may now be understood.

Two of THEM.—The Galveston Bulletin concludes an article on the subject of Mexico by saying: "If Barnum wishes to engage one of the greatest humbugs of the world, let him secure the Mexican 'Republic.'"

On his way back he might add much to his collection by going to Nashville, and taking a model of the present Government of Tennessee.—Appeal.

Gen. Prim appears in no haste to reach Portugal. On January 18th, the date of the latest advices, he was not only still in Spain, but it was then thought probable that instead of crossing into Portugal, he would attempt to penetrate into Andalusia, the most democratic part of the kingdom. The insurrection therefore cannot be regarded as suppressed. On the contrary, there are several reports of new outbreaks in various parts of Spain, and a semi-official correspondence states that the Government finds it necessary to adopt a most vigorous system of repression.

By the arrival at New York of the steamship Atlantic from Panama we have later advices from Central and South America. The temporary successor of Pareja has raised the blockade of all the Chilean ports save two. It was expected that Peru would declare war against Spain. Two States of Columbia have adopted strong resolutions of sympathy with Chili.

A Havana letter gives the experience of one of Maximilian's garrison at Bagdad. He charges that the attack on the town and its capture were entirely the work of American soldiers, principally colored, from Texas, commanded by United States officers, and landed across the river by a United States revenue vessel. He gives the particulars of alleged horrible scenes of pillage, robbery, murder, outrages on women, and manner of crimes to which the captors for some hours devoted their entire attention, and in which it is said they were incited and assisted by Gen. Weitzel's officers, about twenty in number, some of whose names are given. He declares that even soldiers, sent over by Gen. Weitzel to preserve order, took equal part with the raiders in pillaging. The spoils, which are described as immense in quantity and value, and greatly enriching many American officers, are said to have been all dispatched across the Rio Grande to Clarksville and Brownsville, Texas, thence transported to Brazos, and thence sent to sea.

GEN. HARDEE.—Gen. Hardee, the hero of a dozen campaigns, the veteran soldier and sterling gentleman, whose courage and genius in the field commanded the admiration of his countrymen, and whose graceful and dignified submission to the fortunes of war wins their hearts now, was in the city yesterday. His deeds will live in song and story long after his spirit shall have gone to God who gave it; and, unless the narrow minded fanatics who can appreciate nothing noble and generous can find some means to bind with chains the affections of the late "rebels," his name will be spoken with reverence by the present generation, or their children after them.

The Scotchman is none the less a loyal citizen of the British Empire because the name of Bruce thrills his heart and fires his soul; and we scorn the bigot who asks us to forget the illustrious ones who led our brothers and kinsmen and friends to glorious victory or honorable graves.—Selma Times.

Saturday's meeting of the House of Representatives shed additional light on the position of parties in Congress. The speeches delivered on that occasion are very suggestive of a classification of members under some other banner than that of revolution. Of the seven gentlemen who spoke against the bill for extension of the Freedmen's Bureau, three were Democrats, four Republicans. The Republican members who rose superior to the dragging of Mr. Stevens on that occasion are from Kentucky, Maryland and Ohio.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST.—We had the pleasure to meet to day our illustrious friend, General Wheeler, whom we have not seen, since our first Kentucky campaign in 1862.

The General looks hale and hearty—the same as when, with desperately inferior numbers, he boldly attempted to cut off the rear of Sherman's gigantic army, and only succeeded in building up the fame of Southern gallantry by his daring encounters with General Kitchin, who, no less gallant and dashingly possessed such vast material advantages over his adversary.

Both have done wonders to establish the claim of American cavalry to an equal rank with Murat's splendid cuirassiers or Trenck's bold pandours.

PETROLEUM.—On last Tuesday the steamer Undine took down to Gadsden a car load—$10,000 worth, or thereabouts—of machinery, for boring for Petroleum Oil. We are informed that this machinery belongs to an Atlanta company, of which Mr. J. H. Rogers is Superintendent. It is said that the work of boring will be commenced immediately by practical oil men, who are very sanguine of success. They say the indications of rich deposits are of the very best kind. They are going to make a thorough test as soon as possible. They have a set of hand pumps from the oil regions of Pennsylvania, who thoroughly understand the business.

Bill Arp, the Roman Run- age.

ATLANTA, May 22, 1864.

MR. EDITOR:—"Remote, on fringed, melancholy, slow," as somebody said, I am now seeking a log in some vast Wilderness, a lonely roost in some Okeefokee swamp, where the fowl invaders cannot travel, nor their pontoon bridges pilot. If Mr. Shakespeare were correct when he writ that "sweet are the juices of adversity," then it is reasonable to suppose that me and my folks and many others have some sweetnin to spare.

When a man is aroused in the dead of night, and smells the approach of the fowl invader: when he feels constrained to change his base and become a run- agee from his home, leaving behind him all those necessary things which hold body and soul together, when he looks; perhaps the last time, upon his lovely home where he has been for many delightful years raising children and chickens, strawberries and peas, lie soap and inyuns, and all such luxuries of this sublunary life; when he imagines every unusual sound to be the crack of his earthly doom; when from sick influences he begins a dignified retreat, but soon is constrained to leave the dignity behind, and get away without regard to the order of his going—if there is any sweet juice in the like of that, I have been able to see it. No, Mr. Editor, such things never happened in Bill Shakespeare's day, or he would not have written that line.

I don't know that the lovely inhabitants of your beautiful city needs any fore- warnin to make 'em avoid the breakers upon which our vessel wrecked, but for fear they should some day shake their gory locks at me, I will make public a brief allusion to some of the painful circumstances which lately occurred in the regions of the eternal city.

Not many days ago, the everlastin Yankees (may they live always when the devil gets 'em), made a violent attack upon the city of the hills—the eternal city, where a hundred years the Injun rivers have been bein' in their waters peacefully together—where the chock- lock children built their flutter mills, and toyed with frogs and tadpoles, while these majestic streams were but spring branches, a babblin along their sandy beds. For 3 days and nights our valiant troops had beat bak the fowl invader, and saved our pullets from their devourin jaws. For 3 days and nights we bade farewell to every fear, and luxuriating upon the triumph of our arms, and the sweet juices of our strawberries and cream. For 3 days and nights fresh troops from the South poured into our streets with shouts that made the welkin ring, and the turkey bumps rise all over the flesh of our people. We felt that Rome was safe—secure against the assaults of the world, the flesh and the devil, which last individual are supposed to be that horde of fowl invaders, who are seekin to phlank us out of both bread and existence.

But alas for human hopes? Man that is born of woman, (and there are no other sort that ain't full of trouble. Altho the troops did shout, altho their brass- bound musik swelled upon the gale, altho the turkey bumps rose as the welkin rung, altho the commanding General assured us that Rome was to be held at every hazard, and that on to- morrow the big battal was to be fount, and the fowl invaders hurled all bleed- ing and howling to the shores of the Ohio; yet it did transpire somehow that on Tuesday night, the Military evacuation of our city were peremptorily ordered. No note of warnin—no whisder of alarm—no hint of the morrow came from the muzzled lips of him who had lifted our hopes so high. Kaluly and coolly we smoked our killy kinick, and surveyed the embarkation of troops, konstruin it to be some grand manouver of Military strategy. About 10 o'clock we retired to dream of to-morrow's victory. Sleep soon overpowered us like the fog that kivered the earth, but nary bright dream had kum, nary vision of freedom and glory. On the contrary, our rest were un- easy—strawberries and cream seemed to be holdin secession meetings within our corporate limits, when suddenly in the twinkling of an eye, a friend ar- used us from our slumber and put a new face upon the situation. General Johnston was retreatin, and the blue-nosed Yankees were to pollute our sakrid soil the next mornin. Then came the tug of war. With hot and feverish haste we started out in search of transportation, nary transport could be had. Time be- ored friendship, past favors shown, everlastin gratitude, numerous small and lovely children, konfederate kurrency, new isbees, bank bills, black bottles, all influences were urged and used to sekure a kornor in a kar, but nary kornor—ton- late—too late—the pressure for time was fearful and treacherous—the steady clock moved on—no Joshua about to lengthen out the night, no rolin stock, no steer, no mule. With reluctant and hasty steps, we prepared to make good our exit by that overland line which Railroads do not control, nor A. Q. M.'s impress.

With our families and a little clothing, we crossed the Etowah-bridge about the broke of day, on Wednesday the 17th day of May, 1864, prezakly a year and two weeks from the time when General Forrest marched in triumph through our streets. By and by the bright rays of the mornin sun dispersed the heavy fog, which, like a pall of death had overtoped all nature. Then were exhibited to our afflicted gaze a highway crowded with wagons and teams, kattie and ogs, nigger and dogs, women and children, all movin in dishevelled haste to places and parts unknown. Mules were brayin, cattle were lowin, hogs were squealin, sheep were blatin, children were cryin, wagg'neers cussin, whips were poppin, and horses stallin; but still the grand karavan moved on. Everybody was continually a lookin behind and drivin before—everybody wanted to know every- thing, and nobody knew nothin.

Ten thousand wild rumors filled the sirkumambient air. The everlastin kavaly was there, and as they ad- vanced to and fro, gave false alarms of the enemy bein in hot pursuit. About this most kritikal juncture of affairs, some philanthropik friend passed by with the welkum news that the bridge wer burnt, and the danger all over. Then ceased the panic; then came the peaceful calms of heroes after the strife of war is over; then exclaimed Frank Ralls, my demoralized friend, "thank the Good Lord for that. Bill, let's re- turn thanks, and stop and rest. Boys, let me git out and lie down, I'm as hum- ble as a ded nigger. I tell you the truth, I sung the long meter doxology as crossed the Etowah bridge, and I ex- pected to be a d-d man in fifteen minits. Be thankful fellers—let's all be thank- ful, the bridge is burnt, and the river is three miles deep. Good sakes! do you rekun them Yankees kan swim? Git up, boys—let's drive ahead and keep movin. I tell you, there's no akount in for anything with blue-chees on these days. Dinged if I aint afereed of a blue tailed fly."

With most distressin flow of langua- ge, he continued his rapsody of random remarks. Then there was that triumph of good fellows, Big John—clever as he is fat, and as fat as old Faustaf—with indefat- igable diligence, he had sekured, as a last resort, a one-horse steer spring wa- gin, with a low flat body a setuin on two riketty springs. Bein mounted there- on, he was urg' a more speedy loko- mostum, by layin on to the kurkass of the poor old steer with a thrash-pole some ten feet long. Havin stopped at a house, he prokured a two-inch augur, and borin a hole through the dash-board, pulled the steers tail through and tied up the end in a knot. "My runnin gear is weakly," sed he, "but I don't in- tend to be 'tack in the mud. If the body holds good, and the steer d'n't pull off his tail, why Bill, I am safe." "My friend," sed I, "will you please to inform me what port you are bound for and when you expect to reach it? No port at all, Bill," sed he; "I'm goin dot's rate to the big Stone Mountain. I am goin to git on the top and roll rocks down upon all mankind. I now fore- warn every livin thing not to cum there until this everlastin foolishness is over."

He were then but three miles from town, and ben travlin the livelong night. Ah! my big friend, thought I, when wilt thou arrive at thy journey's end. In the language of Patrick Henry will it be the next weeks or the next year? Oh, that I could write a poem. I would embalm thy honest face in epik verse. I can only dropt to thy pleasant memory a passing random rhyme:

Farewell, Big John, farewell; 'Twas painful to my heart To see thy chances of escape. Was that old steer and kart. Methinks I see thee now. With axletrees all broke. And wheels with nary hub at all And hubs with nary spoke. But though the mud is deep, Thy wits will never fail, That faithful steer will take thee out; If thou wilt hold his tail

Mr. Editor, under such variegated scenes we reported progress, and in course of time arrived under the shadow of thy sitty's wings, abundant in gra- titude and joy.

With sweet and patient sadness, the tender bears of our wives and daughters beat mournfully as we moved along. Often alas, how often, was the tear seen swimming in the eye, and the lip qu- ivering with emotion, as memory lingered around deserted homes, and thought- dweet upon past enjoyments and future desolation. We pl-cked the wild flow- ers as we passed, sing' sons of merriment, exchanged our wit with children— smothering, by every means, the sor- row of our late. These things, together with the comic events that occurred by the way, were the safely valves that saved the poor heart from bursting.

But for them, our heads would have been fountains and our hearts a river of tears. Oh, if some kind friend would set our retreat to musik it would be greatly appreciated indeed. It should be a plaintive tune, interspersed with okkus and conik notes and frequent l- ges scattered promiskuously.

Our retreat were koud to be in ex- cept if god order after the bridge was burnt. If there were any stragglin troops, they staggled ahead. It would have delighted Gen. Johnston to have seen the alacrity of our movement, the grat struggle of our content seemed to be, which any could retreat the fastest. Gen. Johnston's or own—which could- outplank the other, and I at ow as how it were palk Dick pull D-vil betwe- n us. It is a source of egret, however, that some of our household's of the Afri- kan sent have fell bak into the arms of the fowl invaders. I suppose they may now be kalled missingenators, and are by this time increasin the stock of Oland-Afrigue in Northern society, which popular perfume have crowded out of the market all those extracts which made X Bazin, Julius Hall and Lubin famous. Good bye sweet otter of Roses, farewell ye bairms of a thousand flowers—your days are numbered. But I must klose this melokally nar- rative, and hasten to subkrib myself, Your Runagee, BILL ARP

P. S.—Tip are still faithful onto the end. He says the old turkey we left behind, have been settin for 14 weeks, and the fowl invaders are welkum to her; futher-more, that he throwed a ded cat in the well, and they are welkum to that. B. A.

The farm of M. L. Sullivant, of Cam- paign County, Illinois, consisting of 70,000 acres, 23,000 of which are under good fence and in active cultivation, is said to be the largest farm in the world. Much of the work is done by machinery. Mr. S. gives employment to two hundred farm hands, two hun- dred horses and a large number of oxen.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA, Calhoun County.

Court of Probate for said county, Spe- cial Term, Jan. 22nd, 1866.

This day came John W. Ledbetter and John W. Whiteside, Administrators of the Estate of Moses Whiteside, deceased, and filed their application, setting forth among other things, that decedent was the owner and in posses- sion of the following described lands, to-wit:

The north west quarter of section three, in Fractional Township thirtee- n of Range ten east, containing one hundred and forty and 17-100 acres. The east half of the north east quarter of section four in Fractional Township thir- teen of Range ten east, containing eighty and 21-100 acres. The west half of the north east quarter of section four, in Fractional Township thir- teen, Range ten east, containing forty and 12-100 acres, except fifteen acres, sold in lifetime of inter-state off of the west portion of the above described lands.

They further represent that the fol- lowing named persons are non-resident distributees of said estate, who reside beyond the limits of the State of Ala- bama, to-wit: Mary M. Penland, wife of S. H. Penland, who resides in the State of Georgia; Rebecca S. Kelly, wife of Russel Kelly, who resides in the State of Texas; Elizabeth Cowden, wife of Franklin Cowden, who resides in the State of Texas; the children of James M. Whiteside, deceased, to-wit: Sarah A. Whiteside, Thomas C. White- side, J. M. S. Whiteside, A. D. L. Whiteside, M. H. Whiteside, Mary E. Whiteside and A. Whiteside, all of whom are minors, and reside in the State of Texas. The children of Mar- tha M. Woolf, deceased, late the wife of Henry W. Woolf, to-wit: Marsha- l Woolf, who resides in Cherokee county, Alabama, Mary A. Woolf, Mose Woolf, Washington Woolf, Sarah A. Woolf, Claiborne Woolf, all of whom are minors, and reside in the State of Texas, except Marshal L. Woolf, above stated.

Said Administrators further state, that a fair, just and equitable division of said lands cannot be made among the heirs and distributees of said estate without a sale thereof, and ask the Court to grant an order authorizing them to sell said described lands for the purpose of distribution.

It is therefore ordered by the Court, that Monday the 12th day of March next be set for the hearing of said ap- plication; and that notice of the filing of the same be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a newspa- per published in said county, for forty days prior to said day, which shall be a notice to said non-residents, as well as all others interested in said application, to be and appear before me, at my of- fice in the town of Jacksonville, on said Monday the 12th day of March next, when and where they can contest said application if they desire to do so. Given under my hand and office this 22nd day of January, 1866. A. A. WOODS, Judge of Probate. Jan. 27.

[From the Metropolitan Record.]
Arp Returns to the Eternal City
And Meets His Friend Big John.
E. KIRTON, SR.—I have got up to time made any remarks in public
at the trials and tribulations, the
as and crosses, the buzzards and
the horses seen on our journey to it all city. I shall not allude to only to remark that our comin back not so hasty as our leavin. It was the dead of winter, through snow and ugh sleet, over creeks, without ges and bridges without floors
ugh a deserted and desolate land
ugh no rooster was left to crow, no
to squeal, no dog to bark, where the
of happy homes adorned the way
ghostly chimneys stood up like Sher-
a sentinels a guard in the ruins, he made. A little one boy concern
aining the high of my worldly possions, consist of my numerous and
my wife and children, and a shack
of full of some second class victuain our offspring there was about
of us in and about and around that us, thus illustratin what the poet has
"One glorious hour of crowded life
with an ago without a name," though glory were hard to pursue on such shuns. Mrs. Arp are of the opin-that her posterity were never as y before in their life as on that essin journey, and she once remark-
at there want nary rod of the road
didnt hear some of em a hollerin
tittles. My wife's husband is too-because they sint broke of it yet, and seem that the poorer I git the more urin they bekim, all which will
in sumthin or other, if sumthin happen.
e finally arrived within the presinkts
r lovely home. The doors creaked
ome on their hinges, the hoppin-sheerped on the hearth, and the lin wind was singin the same old around the bedroom corner. We about as happy as we had been able, and when I remarked that Vandiver, who okkupted our
st, must be a gentleman for not burn-
Mr. Arp replied—
wonder what he done with my soo-nashen.
He didnt cut down our shade trees?
My bureas and carpets and crockery
ll gone," sed she.
It may be possible," sed I, "that General."
And my barrrel of soap," sed she.
It may be possible," sed I, "that General moved off our things to take of em for us. I reckon we'll git em back arter while."
Arter while," sed Mrs. Arp like an
and ever since then when I load
Northern brethren she only replis
r while."
and by the scattered wanderers
to drop in under the welcome of our sorrowful city. It wer a ful enjoyment to greet em home,
listen to the history of their suff-
and misfortunes. Misery loves
any, and after the misery is past
is a power of comfort in talkin it
and fixin up a b g n tale as any
I wer standin one day upon the
of the injun river, a wonderin in ind who would come next to glad-
our hearts, when I saw the shadder
objek a darkenin the lit bank. It ot a load of hay nor an elephant, but enuff it wer my friend Big John,
slowly, but surely, to the dug out ing on the opposite side. His big face assumed more latitood when
me, and without waitin for re-
he sung out in a voice some, two deeper than the Southern Harmony.
here came to the beech poor exile
of Erin."
ake him fat," said I, "and you'll ake him fat." Proudly to see him than key, show I paddled the dug out
a double quick and hid him wel-
in the name of the eternal city and noble inhabitants. I soon got him in the little cauo, and before I ware of it the water was sloshin o-o gunnels at every wabble. "Lay
my friend, sed I, and he hid,
was all that saved us from a wave, and the naboorin farms from ation. When safely landed I him wedged in so tight, that he
with rise, so I relieved him by a with the end of the paddle. As
at touched the sakred soil he ren-terated his countenance and sung
edin melody
ome again—home again—from a furrin shore.
auks may cum and the devil too
but I'll not run any more."
ollectin some scraps of blank verse
I said with mock-absent. "Tell ou swift of foot—thou modern
—Oh tell me where is thy chariot
er? Where didst thou go when ee thee driving like Jehu as we ere for life."
tell you all" sed he, "I want my
to know it. I'm now a man of ill, and I'm glad of it. I've done
to some servis and she knows it.
dudled guns—yes, guns—woepins
I. I've slept on my arms since I ou—night after night hav I slept arms with hundreds of deadly
s all around me. Ah Bill, I've a big thing. When you once the ice, great sluices of glory as your arm will spring up like bons in your bosom; and I make
like like thowin yourself clean away
r country. Let me sit down and you all I know, Bill, but as the mid in the theater, when you inters these unlucky deeds relate,
of me as I am—nothing expati-
ate down ha in malice."
sed I, "exakly—exakly—
rased, my hero."

"Well you see the night after you passed me, my steer got away. Hang the deservin beast! I hunted smartly for him the next mornin, but I hunted more forwards than backwards. Leavin my wagin with a widdier woman, I took it
root across the country by a settlement foot they called the 'cut off.' Devil of a cut-off it was to me. I broke down in a fight of a little log cabin, and never moved a foot further that day. The old man had a chunk of a nag that worked in a slide. I persuaded him to haul me to the end of the cut off, and I know
he done it for fear I'd eat up his smokehouse. Every now and then he'd look at the old omun, and she'd look at the smoke-house and then look at me. But that slidin business were the most fullest travellin that I ever hav had. Every time the pony'd look he'd stop, and when he'd start agin he'd give such a jerk that my contents were in danger. My holt broke on one okkashun, a goin down a hill full of gullies. I rolled some twenty feet into the edge of the woods,
and ketch up agin an old pine stump
that was full of yaller jakets. Three of the dinged things stung me before I could rise, but I got through the cut off
and fell in with some empty wagins that was stampedin my way.
"Gittin on to Atlanty, a fool Irishman
stoppd me right in the edge of the town
and denandid my papers. I didnt hav
no papers. Nobody had ever axed me for papers, but he wouldnt hear an argument. As 'Quaries' would say he wouldnt give in, but marched me to an offis, and I didnt stay there ten mi-nits. I wer sent off to Dekatur with some fifty konskripts, who were all in mourin exceptin their clothes. I never seed sich a pitiful set in my life. I talked with em all, and that was nary
one but what had the dyspepsy of the swiny, or the rumatiks, or the blind
stagers, or the heaves, or the humps,
or sumthin. Well there want none of us dischased, for there was bran new orders callin for everybody for thirty days
to go to the 'itches. As I couldnt walk that fur, I was ordered to Andersonville to guard the prisoners. At Ma-kon I met an old akwaintance, who was a powerful big officer, and he had me transferred to his department, and put me in charge of his ordinance. There's where I handled guns, Bill, and slept on my arms. Whole boxes of muskets was around me, and I didnt no wern
mind taking a snooze on a gun box than
if it had been a couch of feathery down.
Its all in gittin use to it, Bill—all in the use."
"Jest so," sed I, "thats the way I soo
it—exakly so, my friend Proceed."
"Its blame'd lucky, Bill, that I didnt go to Andersonville. They would hav had me alongside Wirtz, either as principal or witness, or sumthin, and some-lyin yank would hav had a swear or two
at me about shootin him on the dead line.
Before this my arkas would have been cut up by worus or cut up by Doktors,
and my pletter spread all over a whole
side of Harper's Weekly as a monster of deth."
"Well, I kep handlin guns and bay-
nets and dang rus weepins, until one day I got a furl to go to Rome. Sherman w s p a n base around Atlanta, and I had to circumference around
by the way of Selma, and the very day
I get there, everlastin blast em, the Wilson raiders got there too. I wasent no more lookin for y-akes in Selma, than I wer for old Beizebab, and both of em was all the same to me. Blamid if they wasent shootin at me before I knowed
they was in the State. How in the 'dicks they missed me I dont know for their minny balls ever yanked dode
all around me and over me and under
me and betwixt me.
"I tell you, Bill I run like a mud
turkle, lookin ahead of me at every step
to find an easy place to fall when I was plugged. An old woman overtook me and I axed her to take my watch and my money. She took em in a hurry and put em in her bosom. Well, I found a gully at last, and I roild in kerplesh for
it was about two feet in mud and water.
The infernals found me there j-st-at-night
and got me out at the pint of the baynet.
They marched me to the wolf pen, and
there I staid till the buss was over.
"Right here, Bill, I want to make an observation. There was a letter with me when I was outch'd, and I seed him
make a sorter of a sign to the captain
and they turned him loose in two minis
and he just went anywhere as nary a king, while I had a cross-eyed dutch-
man standin over me with a baynet
aimin from mornin till night.—There was some Free Masonry about that, Bill,
and if another one of these fool wars
comes along, I'll jine em if they'll let me.
"But I am at home now for good—
I'm gvine to stay here like a sine die
I'm agin all wars and fightin. I'm opposed to all wars and 'trumpus and riots. I dont keer nigh as much about a dog fight as I used to. Now if one could always see the end of a 'thing in advance, and the end was all right, I wouldnt mind a big fuss, but then you know a man's foresight ain't as good as his hind sight. If they was, this war wouldnt have broke up, and I wouldnt have list my steer and my watch. I never seed that woman before no since,
and I wouldnt know her from any gh-
woman that walks the yearnin road
if I'm certain whether she wer white or black. Bill, how you're offerrin."
"Hungry as usual, I thank you," sed
I.
"How Mrs. Arp?
"Rebolicious, John, very; but I think
she'll be harmonized—arter while—arter
while."
"Mr. Editor, I will not relate further
these trying adventures at this time,
Big John are now entirely harmonious,

and I suppose his future career will be all serene.
Yours as ever,
BILL ARP.
P. S.—Mrs. Arp wants you to git
back the letters I writ her when sweet sixin: "Then I offis her went get em
and I suppose have laughed all the funny part away by this time. They containid some fool things, that boys will write when they fall in love, and my wife some times used em upon me as reminders of broken promises.
"She says if they'd send em, she'll try
and forgive em—arter while."
"Don't trouble yourself much, Mr. Editor, and it will be all the same to me."

A Railroad to Selma.
SELMA, ALA, Jan 29, 1866.
To the Editor of the Times.—We have sent up to-day an application for a charter for the proposed railroad from New Orleans to Selma. I am succeeding in getting up a very considerable interest in the enterprise, and now it behoves your city to be looking to this matter. I think it well to mention the fact that from Selma there is now under construction a road direct to Pensacola,
and if it is allowed to be completed any
length of time before this proposed route,
as a natural consequence it will draw
very decidedly from your interest, and only a knowledge of the country to establish this position beyond question is necessary.
This air line to Selma runs through the most desirable country. It is as well timbered as any portion of the South, and the plantations abound in large orchards and vineyards, coumbing
much excellent fruit and garden vegetables to reach your market almost as fresh as when gathered. These, of course are minor considerations when compared with the grand results of having
by far the nearest and most convenient
route to all the places of great importance North; yet such advantages add much to the success of a road, and add
not only to the receipts, but vastly to the convenience of citizens depending upon your market for supplies. Cannot there be a meeting in New Orleans of merchants and others who are vitally interested in this undertaking, and at once make arrangements for the survey
and completion of the road? Of course there will have to be a charter from Louisiana, as well as from this State and Mississippi. I will have the two last obtained, and with any co-operation
from New Orleans, the whole will soon
be under way, and from its conception,
or rather location, there will be no danger of fagging.
Let New Orleans take a step in this direction and she will find the whole country along the line most liberal, as well as Selma, and the influence of the different roads North of this place.
The project once up-er way, you may look with confidence for ready sale of the bonds, and though the road will operate against the interest of Mobile, yet
the State will act towards the enterprise
with great liberality. This route once established will be worth more than an-
two other simi ar outlets to N. O.
Is this not the day for us all to be doing? And will New Orleans allow Alabama to do her work? If she will not then let those who have the working ability call a meeting and determine that the undertaking shall be an accomplished fact. We will attend your needs and cooperate with you whenever invited.
I will send you a copy of charter
granted by our Legislature when obtained, and trust you will urge the enterprise in such a way upon your citizens as will bring it to their front door.
The country never had so many good men to take charge of public enterprises, and as soon as organized, we can find a charter, or a similar man, who does his work well and speedily, and will make all satisfied that they could not have done better than have invested in this great work for the good of the Crescent City and the country generally.
Yours truly,
SELMA.
"Sustain the President" is the subject of the leading editorial in the Journal of Commerce, in the course of which it is asked:
"Shall we have instant claim, and resume the ordinary business of life, the land be at peace, the nation proceed on its path of power, the people fall back to their ancient happiness, business resume its steady flow, natural channels,
excitement of all kinds, political and financial, be calmed? or shall we have turmoil for years, while we are in the hands of politicians seeking only political power and spoils?
The war is between the President,
who desires peace, and a body of men
who are determined to keep the country
in a state of ferment for years to come,
that they may be thrown up to the top
with the scum which floats above all fer-mentations.
The radical majority in Congress has assumed a position of open hostility to Mr. Johnson. The Government, for which a great war has been fought, and
fought successfully, is to be abandoned,
overturned, remodeled, revolutionized,
to suit radical views of what it ought to
be. It is impossible that this can be done and all things go on smoothly.—
The convulsions of politics will be as severe as the convulsions of war. All our interests, all our devotion to the Union and Constitution, all our patriotism, and judgment—everything warns us that if Mr. Johnson is not sustained, the people's future is darker than
the past."

RENTS IN NEW YORK.—The crazy
rate at which rents are advanced in N.
York is exhibited in the following incident: "A dry goods firm have rented a store for the current year at $15, 000. The owner called on them a few weeks since to ask their intentions for another year. They expressed a wish to stay if the terms were made agreeable. He offered to treat them fairly,
and suggested that $40,000 per annum,
for a three years lease, would be a reasonable advance. They indignantly refused to treat, and he left. After a few hours search for another place, they concluded to pocket their indignation and accede to the terms. Calling on the owner for this purpose, they learned
that they were too late, the premises
having been leased for three years at fifty thousand dollars per annum. A further search left them hopeless of securing anything more eligible, and they have purchased the lease of the new parties for a bonus of ten thousand dollars.

CALHOUN COUNTY.
Court of Probate for said county, January 16th, 1866.

This day came Sarah C. Earle, widow and relict of R. G. Earle, deceased, and presents to the court her petition in writing, representing that she is the widow of said R. G. Earle, deceased; that her said husband died, seized and possessed of the following Lands and Real Estate, situate in said county of Calhoun, and Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, to-wit:

The South half of the north west fractional quarter, and Fractions B, C, I, and M, Fractional Section twenty, Fractional Township twelve, of Range seven, containing 184 98/100 acres, east in the Joo-a Land District. Also Lot No. in the plat of the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, containing 12 acres, upon which is situated the late residence of said decedent, being a part of the North East fourth of Section 14, Township 14, of Range eight east in the Coosa Land District. Said Sarah C. Earle alleges that she is entitled to dower in the above lands, and asks that the same be assigned to her in the same.

It is therefore ordered by the Court, that the 28th day of February, 1866, be set for the hearing of said petition; and that notice thereof be given by publication in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper printed and published in said county, as a notice to all persons concerned, to be and appear at a Special Term of said court, to be holden at the Court-house of said county, on said 28th February, 1866, and defend against said petition if they think proper.

Cherokee County.

To Matthew G. Casey—you are hereby notified, that at the last term of the Circuit Court for said county, the following order was passed, to-wit:

Tumlio & Burge,
vs.
Matthew G. Casey, Deft.
& P. J. Chisolm and John W. Ramsey, Attorneys, GARNISHEES

appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that the Defendant, Matthew G. Casey is a non-resident of this State. It is ordered by the Court, that publication be made in the Jacksonville Republican, a Newspaper published in the County of Calhoun, for four consecutive weeks, of the issuance and levy of an attachment in this case.

A true copy from the minutes.

In pursuance of the above order, you are hereby notified, that on the 2nd day of August last, that an attachment was issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court, against you, at the suit of Lewis Tumlio and William T. Burge, and was levied by Garnishers, and was named parties, and shee the above named parties, and that said said attachment, when and where you can attend and defend if you see proper.

Witness my hand this 20th day of December, 1865.

Desirable Lands for Sale.
Farm of 800 acres in Calhoun county, Alabama, within 8 miles of Jacksonville the county seat, 1 mile of the town of Alexandria, and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville and Selma Railroad. Three hundred acres open the remainder very heavily timbered with pine and oak. One lot, 160 acres is detached 1/2 mile from the main body. Improvements a large framed dwelling with 8 good sized rooms well finished, located in a beautiful oak grove—all neatly laid out buildings. There is a large never failing spring with 100 yards of the house with a branch flowing from it nearly large enough to turn a mill—also a well of fine water in the yard—it has on it also a large fine house—a large apple and peach orchard, and taken together is one of the most valuable and desirable farms in North Alabama.

ALSO—A Farm of 870 acres more or less in Calhoun county, Ala., within 8 miles of Jacksonville, 1 mile of Alexandria and 7 miles of Blue Mountain Station on the Jacksonville & Selma Railroad—350 acres cleared the balance in original forest heavily timbered. This farm is very finely watered by spring branches which head on the place—80 acres of the open land is cedar bottom of very superior quality producing a good season 50 bushels of corn per acre and 1/2 bale of cotton. Improvements—a large well finished frame house and all necessary out buildings in a good state of preservation. There is a Baptist church on the land—and the society in the neighborhood equal to any in the State. This farm in the hands of a good practical farmer could be made one of the most productive in the region in which it is located. It has on it 1 1/2 miles of cedar fencing taken off the cedar bottom. Lime stone is very abundant on the place which could be converted into lime at very little cost either for market or for fertilizing purposes on the farm.

Foundering of the Steam Ship London.

LOSS OF TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY LIVES—
TERRIBLE SCENES.

The steamship London from London to Melbourne, has foundered at sea, with about 270 souls on board. The survivors—sixteen of the crew and three passengers—were landed at Falmouth on January 16. The Western Mail gives the following account of the closing scene of the terrible disaster:

It was at ten o'clock on the morning of that fated Thursday that Capt. Martin had the terrible task of making known to the two hundred passengers that the ship was sinking and that they must prepare for the worst. She was then as low in the water as the main chains. The whole of the passengers and crew gathered, as with one consent, in the chief saloon, and having been calmly told by Capt. Martin that there was no hope left, a remarkable and unanimous spirit of resignation came over them at once. There was no screaming or shrieking by women or men, no rushing on deck, or frantic cries. All calmly resorted to the saloon, where Rev. Dr. Draper, one of the passengers, prayed aloud and exhorted the unhappy creatures by whom he was surrounded. Dismay was present to every heart, but disorder to none. Mothers were weeping sadly over the little ones about, with them to be engulfed, and the children, ignorant of the coming death, were pitifully inquiring the cause of so much woe. Friends were taking leave of friends, as if preparing for a long journey; others were crouched down with Bibles in their hands, endeavoring to snatch consolation from passages long known or neglected. Incredible, we are told was the composure which under the circumstances, reigned around. Capt. Martin stationed himself in the poop, going occasionally forward or into the saloon; but to none could he offer a word of comfort by telling them that their safety was even probable. He joined now and then for a few moments in the public devotion, but his place to the last was on deck. About two o'clock in the afternoon, the water gaining fast on the ship, and no signs of the storm subsiding being apparent, a small band of men determined to trust themselves to the mercy of the waves in a boat rather than go down without a struggle. Leaving the saloon, therefore, they got out and lowered away the port cutter, into which sixteen of the crew and three passengers succeeded in getting, and in launching her clear of the ship. These nineteen men shouted for the captain to come with them, but with that heroic courage which was his chief characteristic, he declined to go, saying: "No, I will go down with the passengers; but I wish you God speed and a safe land." The boat then pulled away, tossing about helplessly on the crests of the gigantic waves. Scarcely had they gone eighty yards or been five minutes off the deck, when the steamer went down, stern foremost with her crew of human beings, from whom one confused cry of helpless terror rose, and all was silent forever.

After the pinnace had got away from the London, and in the brief interval before she foundered, a rush was seen to be made for the two remaining boats, but the efforts to launch them were ineffectual, and the evidences of the foundering at last—the London being an iron-clad—prevented what might have been a successful second attempt to save a few more lives.

Sad Effects of Excessive Dancing.
The following item is from the Christian Herald, published at Moulton in Lawrence county:

We have an occurrence to chronicle, that should make a deep impression upon every lover of fashionable amusement of dancing.
On Friday the 16th ult. as we are informed, there was a dancing party at the residence of Mr. Scott, near Avoca in this county. The weather was extremely warm, oppressive ly so, in the early part of the night, but in the morning before day the temperature changed very suddenly, and it became extremely cold. The young people were engaged in dancing during most of the night and became very much heated by their exercise. In this condition they started home. The sudden change of the weather and excited state of their systems; doubtless produced the result which followed. We are informed of those who engaged in the dance, two died the next morning, seven have died since, and others are seriously ill, nearly all who engaged in it are more or less ill. It is hardly necessary to comment upon the sad affair. Let it be a warning to our young friends who delight so much in this amusement. The Ball rooms is no place to prepare for death.

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS POLICY.

President Johnson at his reception of the Montana delegation, a few days ago used this language:

You have alluded to the great principles of our Government, having been enunciated in a paper sent by me to the Congress of the United States. The declaration by me of those principles was not the result of impulse; it was the result of a thorough, calm consideration of those great truths. I say that no one can mistake the doctrine of that message. It is very easy for persons to misrepresent it, and make aspersions by saying that or the other has taken place or will take place, but I think I may be permitted to say to you on this occasion, taking all my antecedents, going back to my advent in public life, the cardinal doctrines set forth in that paper have been my constant guide. After having gone so far, it is too late to turn back and take a different direction. They will be my guide from this time forward, and those who understand them may know where I shall always be found when principle is involved.

Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, in his recent letter, says, that unless the rebels are disfranchised in that State, there will be no living with them. The general impression was, until the publication of this letter that not only the rebels, but everybody else, except Brownlow and his Legislature, were already disfranchised. How it happens to be any safer to live among rebels with votes, is not made very clear by the Governor, but he said, it of course it must be so. Taking away a rebel's vote operates on him, we suppose, something like taking the sting out of a bee—it makes him harmless.—Nashville Gazette.

The reunion of the Protestant Episcopal Church which, by the Southern General Council seemed to be indefinitely put off, has suddenly become almost complete. The presiding bishop of the Southern organization, Bishop Elliott, of Georgia, has notified Bishop Hopkins, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, that he has withdrawn from the confederation of the Southern dioceses, and that Georgia returns to the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States. The Episcopal of Mississippi had previously taken this step, "surrendering," as he expressed himself, "to the noble cause pursued by the General Convention." The Church Journal expects that the Bishop of Alabama will at once take the same step. This leaves only the dioceses of Virginia, South Carolina, and Florida to form the Southern Confederation. The Bishop of Virginia is known to be strongly in favor of reunion. It may be expected that the reunion of all the Southern churches with the General Convention in the United States will be complete.

Lieutenant General GRANT has contributed the sum of $5000 to aid in the erection of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, an enterprise which was begun a few years ago, and came to a stand still after the foundation was laid, owing chiefly, we believe, to a want of funds to carry it on. Bishops Simpson and Ames have recently succeeded in collecting the sum of $25,000 to liquidate all outstanding claims. Gen. GRANT is of Methodist parentage and connections, which, in part, explains his magnificent contribution.—Selma Times.

REAL ESTATE IN NEW YORK.—The New York correspondent of the Louisville Courier thus refers to the price of real estate in that city:

"Sixty-odd lots were sold a few days since in the vicinity of Central Park, four and a half miles from the City Hall, at $10,000 per lot of twenty-five feet front, lots on Fifth and Madison avenue, which are fashionable thorough fares, are held at much higher rates." In the lower part of the city property brings still greater price.

The lot on the corner of the Broadway and Fulton, where Barnum's Museum stood, has been leased for $16,000 a year ground rent. Two lots just above and joining the Herald Building, now in course of erection, will be sold shortly at public outcry. They are fifty-nine by two hundred feet, and the enormous sum of $560,000 for them has been refused."

ST. MARY'S, C. W., Feb. 9.—Phelps, agent of the American Express Company, has absconded, taking $14,000. He has gone to Europe.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 8.—Generals Thomas and Fisk were detained to-day, enroute from Washington to Nashville, by missing the railroad connection. General Thomas remarked in conversation that the state of feeling in the South was as good as could be expected, and that the work of restoration was progressing favorably, although it would take many years to efface the animosities of the past four years.

The Condition of the Country—Course and Policy of the Radicals—Policy and Firmness of the President.

We have heretofore published various extracts from replies made by the President to delegations which have waited upon him from all parts of the country, which shadowed forth his principles and policy, and which thus far he has uniformly, consistently and firmly maintained.

Below we give some extracts from the Presidents reply to the Virginia delegation, which waited upon him, composed of the most eminent men, and representing all parts of the State. From these extracts it will be seen that the President still firmly maintains his position that the Southern States were never out of the Union, and of course are not out now. He touches no other key note. "No taxation without representation," which, if we mistake not, will soon shake the fabric of Black Republican inconsistency, misrule, agitation and disunion to its very centre, and insure its speedy overthrow. That party continued agitation until it obtained power, produced revolution and disruption—carried on a four years war under the false and hypocritical cry of the old flag, the Union as it was, and constitution, as it is, until they succeeded, and then with shameless inconsistency, contend that the States are out of the Union, and oppose their re-admission. By fanatical agitation they get into power, and now by the same means, and opposition to all measures of restoration, they seek to perpetuate that power. Ignoring all the peaceful, conservative, and restorative action of State Convention, Legislatures, Governors, and Delegations of citizens, their Senators and Representatives, are daily reading in the Halls of Congress, anonymous letters, to which even the obscure authors, (if they have any) are ashamed to put their names, to prove that the Southern people are still rebellious. Sending forth "mousing and smelling committees into the South, as eyes droppers and spies, whose reports no doubt could be written out as well before they start as on their return; and the utmost of whose achievements, in passing through a desolated and deeply suffering country, might be to snatch up & report some impatient moan from a bereaved father or broken-hearted widow. We ask if such proceedings are not mean, pitiful and shameful; a disgrace to any great and chivalrous nation.

Have not the Southern States done all that was required of them? given every possible guarantee, in good faith of a sincere desire for peace, union and fraternity—then why persevere in this system of deliberate persecution and continued disunion.

But the "test oath" (a measure originally designed for times of war and not of peace,) is the great lever by which the disunion Black Republican Radicals have thus far had their own way. To adhere to such a measure now, in time of peace, after all necessity for it has passed away, is as inconsistent as it would be for a Church to require of one, seeking admission to take an oath that he had never committed a sin or sympathized with any one who had. The question is, not what people have been, but what are they now, and what do they desire for the future. Surely the handwriting is upon the wall against this inconsistent, disorganizing, disunion Radical party, and their overthrow near at hand. Recently one of Tad Stevens' most radical resolutions received only thirty-seven votes.

But to the extract from President Johnson: among many other good, true and strong things in reply to the Virginia delegation he said: "Gentlemen, that is a fundamental principle. 'No taxation without representation' was one of the principles which carried us through the Revolution. This great principle will hold good yet; and if we but perform our duty—if we but comply with the spirit of the resolutions presented to me to-day, the American people will maintain and sustain the great doctrines upon which the Government was inaugurated. It can be done and it will be done; and I think that if the effort be fairly and fully made, with forbearance and with prudence, and with discretion and wisdom, the end is not very far distant.

It seems to me apparent that from every consideration the best policy which could be adopted at present would be a restoration of these States and of the Government upon correct principles. We have some foreign difficulties, but the moment it can be announced that the Union of the States is again complete, we have resumed our career of prosperity and greatness at that very instant; almost all our foreign difficulties will be settled, for there is no power upon the earth which will care to have a controversy or a rupture with the Government of the United States under such circumstances.

If these States be fully restored the area for the circulation of the National currency, which is thought by some to be inflated to a very great extent, will be enlarged, the number of persons through whose hands it is to pass will be increased, the quantity of commerce in which it is to be employed as a medium of exchange will be enlarged, and then it will begin to approximate what we all desire, a specie standard. If all the States were restored—if peace and order reigned throughout the land, and all the industrial pursuits, all the avocations of peace were again resumed—the day would not be far distant when we could put into the commerce of the world $250,000,000 or $300,000,000 worth of cotton or tobacco, and the various products of the Southern States, which would constitute in part, a basis of this currency.

Then instead of the cone being inverted, we should reverse the position, and put the base at the bottom, as it ought to be, and the currency of the country will rest on a sound and enduring basis, and surely that is a result which is calculated to promote the interests not only of one section, but of the whole country from one extremity to the other. Indeed, I look upon the restoration of these States as being indispensable to all our greatness.

I never for a moment entertained the opinion that a State could withdraw from the Union of its own will. That attempt was made. It has failed. I continue to pursue the same line of policy which has been my constant guide. I was against dissolution. Dissolution was attempted; it has failed; and now I cannot take the position that a State which attempted to secede is out of the Union, when I contended all the time that it could not go out, and that it never has been out. I cannot be forced into that position. Hence, when the States and their people have complied with the requirements of the Government, I shall be in favor of their resuming their former relations to the Government in all respects.

They are, so far as they refer to the Constitution of the country, the sentiments and the principles embraced in that charter of the Government. The preservation of the Union has been, from my entrance into public life, one of my cardinal tenets. At the very inception of this rebellion I set my face against the dissolution of the Union of the States. I do not make this allusion for the purpose of bringing up anything which was transpired which may be regarded as of an unkind or unpleasant character; but I believe then, as I believe now, and as you have most unmistakably indicated, that the security and the protection of the rights of all the people were to be found in the Union; that we were certainly safer in the Union than we were out of it.

Upon this conviction I based my opposition to the efforts which were made to destroy the Union. I have continued those efforts, notwithstanding the perils through which I have passed, and you are not unaware that the trial has been a severe one. When opposition to the Government came from one section of the country, and that the section in which my life had been passed, and with which my interest were identified, I stood, as I stand now, contending for the best and surest way to obtain our rights and to protect our interests was to remain in the Union, under the protection of the Constitution.

The ordeal through which we have passed during the last four or five years demonstrates most conclusively that the opposition was right, and to-day, after the experiment has been made and has failed, after the demonstration has been most conclusively afforded that this Union cannot be dissolved, that it was not designed to be dissolved, it is extremely gratifying to me to meet gentlemen as intelligent and as responsible as yourselves, who are willing and anxious to accept and do accept the terms laid down in the Constitution and obedience to the laws made in pursuance thereof.

We were at one period separated; the separation was to me painful in the extreme; but now, after having gone through the struggle in which the powers of the Government have been tried, when we have swung around to a point at which we meet to agree and are willing to unite our efforts for the preservation of the Government, which I believe is the best in the world, it is exceedingly gratifying to me to meet you to-day, standing upon common ground, rallying around the Constitution and the Union of these States, the preservation of which, as I conscientiously and honestly believe, will result in the promotion and the advancement of this people.

Attention is invited to the card of W. C. Land, Watch maker, who was removed to the South side of the public Square. Mr. L. is known to many as an ingenious and skillful workman.

MEXICO—CORDOVA.—We have been favored with the perusal of a letter from Mr. G. W. Tate, of this place, dated Havana, Feb. 1st. Mr. T. left this place some months since for Mexico, with the objects of improving his health and examining the country. He had been to Cordova, previous to writing the letter, and says that Mexico has the finest climate and richest soil he ever saw, but gives no special description of the country, having done so in former letters which never came to hand. His health has improved in that fine climate, but he expressed the determination to return about the first of April. Should any of his letters come to hand containing interesting descriptions of the country, we will publish extracts from them, for the information of our readers.

SCIENCE.—Yesterday morning, about day-light, Mr. J. Z. Brady, living about four miles south of this place, committed suicide by hanging himself in an out-house near his dwelling. Mr. B. was a poor but industrious and honest man, & no cause is assigned or conjectured for his melancholy end, unless it should have been embarrassment and distress of mind, of which he had frequently complained of late, of the difficulty of procuring means to support himself and family. May his fate be a stimulant to the philanthropy of hundreds, who in these times of distress are hoarding up more than they need, while many others are suffering for the commonest necessaries of life.

Quite an excitement was created in the Kentucky Legislature on Saturday by Mr. Dudley introducing a resolution in relation to the taking of a prisoner, who had been arrested for the murder of a negro, from the hands of the civil authorities by the military, under orders from the Freedmen's Bureau in Mercer county. Several Senators denounced the government as a despotism, and said that they were ready, if the Government did not redress the wrongs of Kentucky, to resist those wrongs even at the point of the bayonet. They would rather die freemen than live slaves. Forbearance had ceased to be a virtue. The resolution provides that the Governor shall investigate the facts in the case, and if true, request the President to at once dismiss General Fisk and Captain Goodloe from the service, and deliver them up to the civil authorities for trial and punishment. The resolution was then adopted.—Nashville Banner 14th inst.

New York, Feb. 8.—At the New Hampshire Democratic Convention, ex-President Pierce made a brief address, in which he said: Our country has passed through serious perils, but I hope that we are now emerging from the thick darkness which at one time brooded over us. The present time calls for the calm, dispassionate and patriotic exertions of all good men in the work of restoration, not merely in form, but a restoration of common interests, fraternal feelings and equality of rights among all the States. The annual message of President Johnson was admirable, and in my judgment his subsequent steps looking to a restoration have been guided by wisdom, patriotism, and statesmanship forecast. I am pleased to greet as co-workers in a noble cause all men who desire the immediate restoration of the Southern States to their civil rights, and who are willing to join efforts in saving whatever may be saved for the prosperity of our common country. Under any circumstances it would be a subject to despair of the republic.

SLAUGHTER AMONG HORSE THIEVES.—The Memphis Commercial mentions the depredations of a gang of horse thieves in Tishomingo and Irawamba counties; Mississippi, and the termination of their operation. It says:

The citizens of Saffillo gaining an inkling of the matter, set detectives on their track, and readily ferreted out their entire system of plundering. A week ago last Friday, this gang headed by Howly, who resides about three miles outside this city, on the Germantown plank road, entered the town of Saffillo and were immediately arrested by the citizens, who, upon consultation, determined upon ridding the community of such ruffians; and in a short time thereafter, Howly, with his six confederates, were ordered to be shot. This sentence was carried out immediately execution, and these bad men thus expiated the folly of their manifold crimes.

A letter from Brownsville, Texas, states that Escobedo, with the forces under his command, has left the Rio Grande for the interior of Mexico, and that the Liberal army, so-called, is almost a myth. A few roaming bands of desperadoes are committing all sorts of depredations on both sides of the river.

If it pleases the public press of the North to style Captain Raphael Semmes, of the Confederate man-of-war "Alabama," a pirate by what name are we to know those of even higher rank who committed depredations in the South, at which humanity revolts? If Captain Semmes, with his chivalric nature—whose only fault was that he destroyed the Federal marine wherever he could find it during the last four years, and upon whose fair shield there is not a blot of which he need be ashamed—if he be a pirate, what is Butler; what is—and a dozen others whose names may not be prudently mentioned? A man sometimes cries "thief, thief," who is not over honest himself.—South Carolinian.

New York, Feb. 17.—The Herald's Vera Cruz dispatches to the 1st instant, state that there was great activity in French military affairs at Vera Cruz, but not of a character to indicate an early evacuation of the country by the Europeans. French troops were arriving in large numbers from the interior and embarking on transports. It was understood that they were bound for the defense of Tampico, which was seriously threatened by the Republicans, and it was even intimated that they were intended for the frontier service on this side of the line of the Panucoa river, in order to be there in readiness to meet and check the advance of the allies, the Liberals in Mexico and from the United States. There was a rumor that the Imperialists had already been compelled to surrender Tampico though an account of a severe defeat of the Republicans in the vicinity of that city comes to us by way of New Orleans.

A special from Cincinnati says twenty-seven children were drowned on the 9th inst. at Cilia, Ohio sliding up on a reservoir. The ice gave way, and all were drowned before assistance reached them.

THE FREEDMEN'S BUREAU BILL.—This bill, which has passed both Houses of Congress, is now in the hands of the President. A cabinet meeting to consider it, has been held. A letter from Washington states that the President had made sundry objections to its constitutional grounds, and was sustained by Messrs. Seward, McCulloch and Welles. The remainder of the cabinet, with the exception of Mr. Denison (who was in doubt,) disagreed. The latter adds: The President left no doubt of his intention to veto the bill. If the President's objections, as stated are based on Constitutional grounds, he cannot do otherwise than veto the bill, however much he may believe in the present necessity of some such a law. It is useless, however, to speculate upon the matter. The question will be decided in a few days.—Nash. Union.

THE CASE STATED.—A Tennesseean, in the course of a private letter, states the case as follows:

Now suppose the fanatics shall declare us out of the Union, will it not be a pretty commentary on a four years' war for the Union and the Constitution? What will become of the idea of the great Union army, of the Union cause, the flag of the Union, and all sort of things? We of the South fought to get out. They fought to keep us in, whipped us, we thought, back again, and then declare we cannot come in; not one of us! Well, it does look strange, but it may be all right. I shall make no fuss about it; it is their business, not mine. I shall behave myself, in or out; I am utterly opposed to a mere factious opposition to the Government. It is unmanly. We fought our fight out; we whipped, and now intend to do our duty, by submitting to the laws like gentlemen.

SNAKE IN A MAN'S STOMACH.—The Newville (Pa.) Star says that Wm. Hutton, a young man residing in Shippenburg, one day last week, vomited a live snake about eighteen inches long and more than half an inch thick. He swallowed it while drinking from a pool in Idaho, about four months ago, and has suffered great distress in his stomach ever since, complaining especially of a sensation of coldness. He returned to his home in Shippenburg, expecting to die. After undergoing an unsuccessful treatment by a great many physicians in Philadelphia, who prescribed an emetic, which was taken, with the above result. It came near strangling him, and before he was relieved, he was black in the face.

ALABAMA LEGISLATURE.

(REPORTED EXPRESSLY FOR THE DAILY) [MAIL.]

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

THURSDAY, 15. The House yesterday evening passed the following bills:

To amend the first clause of section 711 of the Code so as to extend the civil jurisdiction of Justices of the peace to one hundred dollars.

To incorporate the Alabama Petroleum Vapor Stoves and Gas Light Company.

To provide for the preparation of a revised Code of the Statute laws of the State of Alabama of a general and public nature.

The House refused to concur in the Senate amendment striking out "1868" where it occurs in the first section and inserting "1867" in the House bill for the regulation of the Charter Banks of the State of Alabama, and concurred in the other amendments of the Senate thereto.

FIFTY FIRST DAY.

THE REVENUE BILL.

The Senate took up the message of the House in relation to the Revenue Law, and insisted on its amendments to that House bill, and sent a message to that body to that effect.

The House again refused to concur in the Senate's amendments; and asked for a Committee of Conference on the matters of disagreement between the two Houses. The House committee consists of Messrs. Clark, of Mobile, Gibson, Whitfield, Warren and Reese. The Senate committee consists of Messrs. Garrett, Morcan and Huckabee.

THE THREE PER CENT. FUND. The Special Order, the bill to amend and alter an act to loan and appropriate the three per cent fund and its interest, approved February 18, 1866, was taken up.

The question being on the adoption of the substitute offered by Mr. Cooper, of Wilcox, for the substitute was adopted—and after various motions to amend the bill; it was passed. Yeas 71, nays 16.

The Senate ordered to a third reading to-morrow, the House bill to prohibit the sale of spirituous liquors in or about the State Capital or Capitol grounds.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Feb. 16, 1866.

House met pursuant to adjournment. Prayer by the Rev. Mr. Jordan, of this city.

Journal read and approved. The Governor transmitted a message approving the bill to create a new county out of portions of Coosa, Montgomery, Talapoosa and Autauga counties, to be called "Elmore."

Mr. Cooper (Mr. Moore of Perry in the chair) introduced a bill for the relief of J. M. Daniel, late Sheriff of Cherokee county. Passed.

Mr. Freedman submitted a protest on the clause of the revenue bill in relation to the exemption of property of all persons whose aggregate taxable property did not exceed five hundred dollars.

SENATE BILL PASSED. To amend section 1861, of the Code, in relation to divorce and alimony.

To obviate technical objections to the venire in the trial capital offences.

Mr. Smith of Choctaw, of the Judiciary, reported back a number of bills referred to that Committee, which were passed.

Also reported adversely a number of bills involving special legislation. The reports were concurred in.

A message from the Senate, transmitting the Revenue Law, that body insisting on its amendments to the bill.

The House, on motion of Mr. Clark of Mobile, refused to concur in the amendments of the Senate, and requested a Committee of Conference. The Speaker appointed as the Committee on the part of the House, Messrs. Clark of Mobile, Gibson, Whitfield, Warren and Reese.

The House adjourned until 5 o'clock.

SENATE.

February 15. COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Mr. Garrett, from the Committee on Finance and Taxation, reported a substitute for the House bill to equalize the salaries of the judicial officers, which was read a second time, and passed.

Mr. Fisk, from the Conference Committee, reported on the bill to establish Revenue Laws for this State, submitted a report, which was concurred in, and the bill, as amended, was passed.

Mr. Garrett, of the Committee on Finance and Taxation, reported favorably on the House bill to authorize the Governor to sell the Alabama State Arsenal building in the city of Tuscaloosa. Bill passed.

The House bill to be entitled "an act to establish a Penal Code," was taken up. Pending which the Senate adjourned.
