How I was Scampted.

BY N. P. DARLING.

I wish you could have seen Miss Medora Budderli in the fall of 1866. She was just the loveliest, sweetest creature that these blue orbs of mine ever gazed upon. Every young man in Larragon was over head and ears in love with her, your humble servant, who alas was not young, included. She was then in her eighteenth year, and had just returned from Madame Crinklen's boarding school, where she had passed two years, and in that time she had blossomed out most gloriously pretty and exceedingly charming. We could hardly believe it was the same girl that had left us only two years before. I remember the first time I saw her after her return. I was standing behind the counter in my store (I was in the dry goods and grocery line, and every day the large building that stands in front of the railroad depot. Perhaps you have seen my sign in passing, through Larragon on the cars—William Henry Junger, in large gilt letters over the door, endeavoring to sell a dress pattern to old Mrs. Mungee, when through the medium of my oilyatory parves, I became aware that I had not done like eyes, and behind Mrs. Budderli just entering the door. "Behold her, behold a gem of a creature," as Homer said Helen, a Grecian lady of some note, though where she bought her pertuency the poet doesn't state. Miss Budderli used Phlox's. She was arrayed in a neat, rose-colored morning dress, and upon her shining hair she wore one of the most charming hats (as I thought so then)—it's out of fashion now, consequently must look horrid, and on her face she wore such a sunny, melting smile, that upon my honor, madam, I sold that dress pattern to old Mrs. Mungee for ten cents a yard less than cost, before I could recover myself sufficiently to create the cause of this remarkable fall in my goods.

Mississippi and Texas.
In the first of these States both parties occupied substantially the same platform, so far as any principle may be considered to have been involved in the contest. The negroes under the manipulation of the Military Government, and the Washington office holders scattered throughout the States, all worked and voted enthusiastically for the old slave-holding secessionist Alabama, now one of the Radical States; while large numbers of the whites refused to vote either ticket. The consequence is that Alabama and Texas have pretty much their own way. The most significant feature about the election is the defeat of Grant's brother-in-law Gen. Dent, who was perhaps the only real Grant man upon any ticket in the State. Dent and the extreme Radical Wing seem to have driven Grant to the wall, and forced him to witness Dent's political as-sination, without daring to raise a hand to help him.

In Texas the Hamilton Party have succeeded by a large majority. We do not know whether the Legislature is of the conservative and temper to ratify the XVII Amendment or not.
We have felt but little interest in these elections.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Will There Be High Taxes Continued?
An intelligent Tennesseean who was in our village last week looking after a valuable tract of land, which is owned by himself and others, asked us, in an earnest manner, if there was any chance of taxation would be kept up in Alabama.
We told him we hoped not—that our Governor was a practical, common sense man, and had the prosperity of the State and welfare of the people at heart, and that we had no doubt, in good faith, upon the Legislature a reduction of taxes, and before another year. In all our ideas of republicanism we are averse to property qualification in making up the fitness of voters and legislators, but on the other hand we dread the ruinous consequences to our State and people of a heavy prevalence of men to legislate for us, who are without pecuniary responsibility, and who do not place their hands in their pockets, and who are not ready to tax themselves, whilst they extract so heavily and recklessly from the pockets of the people. There is an immense tide of emigration from our States at this time—a heavy loss of physical force, energy and enterprise which is so much needed here.
High taxes is one of the inducements to leave, and the same thing is doing other people coming into the State, and especially those who have property to tax.
And they who have property to tax will dispose of their property, if they even have to make sacrifices in order to escape the heavy burdens. Without a change, and that speedily, the disaster and ruin that await our material welfare and prosperity are incalculable.

UNLASENERS ABOUT SPAIN.
The Grant means mischief with Spain, there can be no doubt. He has not the remotest right to confiscate the embassies here being seized and which are being built to suppress an insurrection in Cuba. Cuba has no status in the family of nations and hence Spain has the right to buy and build there what she likes, all the talk about their being intended for the Peruvian service being pure nonsense. The Government will release them, and the Congress will not attempt to do so. The rights to Cuba. There seems to be some fear that the Radicals will take such a course, as Congress is to meet on the 6th and the case of the embassies is set down in the United States Courts for the 14th.
To be ready for any emergency, however the Spanish Government not only keeps its fleet in our harbor, but has ordered two more to be sent to go to New York, and as report says, to release the embassies if they are necessary, should the recognition of Cuban belligerency eventually be made. They will however, have a fine time of it, if they cut up any pranks about here, as the embassies arrive here shortly from Fortress Monroe will make short work of all the naval strength Spain may display on our coast or in our harbor. It is hoped, however, that the men on horseback who guide the destinies of this country will take a more manly survey of the field before he allows us to drift into a war with Spain.—Cor. Arg. Con.

The London Music Hall.
A STRANGE SCENE.
The following account of the singing of "Father Come Home," in one of the music halls in London, is from G. F., an old Trojan. He says:
Having reached the hall, we paid an admission fee of six pence. There was a very neat stage gandy drop scene, side

1,500 majority was too large to get over.) A motion was made and carried to allow Alexander, the negro contestant, to address the House before a vote was taken on the adoption of the report. He is a yellow fellow, about 22 years old. He mounted the speaker's stand, denouncing the Democratic and Proslavery party not fittingly, &c. &c. Before he mounted the stand Mr. Randall gave notice that he would, at an early day, call upon the house to notify the King of Dahomey that he would be expected to address this assembly.

Alexander has a large voice, he swung and lit, reading something from the book, talked about cannons being drawn on Republicans, and out threats of discharge from employment, about the glorious principles of the republicans being crushed under foot and all such. He closed by asking "disrespectful to turn out de Democrat Proslavery out of dis Legislature." He said that "dis Legislature being a republican Legislature, he hoped dey would turn out de Democrat Proslavery." He said the only way to show the Democrat party that there was no money for them whilst the republicans were in power.

After the conclusion of Alexander's remarks, which consumed two hours, Mr.
Randolph moved that five hundred thousand copies of the eloquent speech be printed for the edification of the people, and the benefit of the State printers.
The motion was carried, and the House adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow.

From Poverty to Opulence.
It is the fashion of writers of fiction to drag their heroes down through every phase of misery until they have reached the very verge of poverty, and then by a rapid succession of imaginary events surround them with all the comforts and enjoyments of wealth and good society.
Solomon, however, do such events occur outside the realms of fiction, and when they do they become occurrences of more than ordinary note. We have recently been made acquainted with the facts in a case of this kind, which in its simplicity of development, and ascending acquisition of wealth, and which are somewhat as follows.

A young man giving his name as Harvey Stewart arrived in Alabama, not long since, in a state of complete destitution, and called upon Rev. M. Gayton, whom he knew, and who had been his father's friend, leaving him alone and penniless, that they had come from England and moved to Idaho when young Harry was none but a baby. Indians insisted that they were the only ones who had any advantages of education or any what his mother had given him. He had heard in Idaho that in Pennsylvania orphans were given educations for nothing, and he desired to reach Harrisburg to obtain an entrance to one of the State institutions of learning. The boy appeared ingenuous, and greatly interested Mr. Gayton, who took him to Mr. John Shoemaker's office. Mr. Shoemaker specially obtained him a situation in Pack's planing-mill, but after working three or four hours he came back and stated that he wished to go on to Harrisburg. A pass to that place was obtained for him, and he was sent on his way, those who had been willing to befriended him forgetting all about him in the busy career of life.

While in conversation with Mr. Gayton, the boy had stated that his mother had left him some papers which she declared were very valuable, but which he declared he had not time to read. When in Harrisburg a sudden thought struck him, and he entered the law office of Mr. R. Minnich, to whom he showed his papers. A brief examination of the documents showed the latter to be a deed, and he at once telegraphed to the British Minister at Washington, who in turn telegraphed to the American Minister at London, and in a short time answer was returned that young Stewart was heir to an entailed fortune amounting to $53,000,000 in gold, deposited in the Bank of London, and equal to about $77,000,000 in American currency. This fortune has been lying in the Bank for some six generations, and has thus increased to its present vast proportions.

Young Stewart's identity as the legal heir to this vast possession, has been fixed beyond doubt, and he will receive the first instalment of about $3,000,000 during the present month. What effect the sudden possession of such immense wealth will have upon the mind and character of a young man, uneducated, and inexperienced, remains to be seen.
Stewart appears to have a large share of sturdy common sense, a well balanced though uneducated mind, and considerable natural shrewdness, and if he is fortunate enough to escape the wiles of the human sharks who will be attracted by the glitter of his gold, may soon learn to use it for the benefit of his fellow man, and the still further enlargement of himself.

Mr. Minnich has furnished young Stewart with a traveling companion, a shrewd and talented young railroad engineer named Johnston, whose knowledge of the ways of the world will be a safeguard against the temptations of designing persons.

From the Troy Budget.
The London Music Hall.
A STRANGE SCENE.
The following account of the singing
of "Father Come Home," in one of the music halls in London, is from G. F., an old Trojan. He says:
Having reached the hall, we paid an admission fee of six pence. There was a very neat stage gandy drop scene, side wings, and a tolerably good orchestra.— In the stalls sat the chairman, to keep order over as motley an audience as ever was out of the gallery of the Victoria Theatre. All appeared plentifully supplied with porters, and all were enjoying their pipes to such an extent as to make the places almost suffocating; for there must have been an audience of nearly five hundred. A nigger "walk round" was being finished and the shouts of "encore," whistling and stamping of feet made the hall perfectly bewildering. A name was announced from the chairman, which we could not catch and amidst clapping of hands and stamping of feet, there was a buzz of "This is the song." The waiters called loudly, "Are you orders?" and these being taken and duly executed, all seemed to settle down quietly to listen to the song. There was the symphony and buzz of "This is it!" and we began to feel anxious. Presently, a female came in front of the curtain, amidst great applause, and commenced. "Father dear father," &c. Every word was distinct, and she sang like a bird with great feeling. In order to fully describe the scene which followed each verse, it is necessary to give "Little Mary's" song:

"Father dear father, come home with me,
The clock in the steeple strikes one (gong, You promised, dear father, that you would come home
As soon as your day's work was done,
Our fire has gone out—our house is all dark & not worth a new waiting since tea,
With poor little Benny, so sick in her arms,
And no one to help her but me,
Come home, come home, home, home,
Please, father, dear father, come home."

At the conclusion of the last line the drop scene drew up, disclosing the father sitting at the door of a public house in a drunken, benighted state, with his pipe and pot before him. Little Mary was trying to drag him from his seat, at the same time pointing to a certain balcony, as she took up the curtain from the lady and touchingly sang "Come home," &c.
The other curtain was now drawn aside, disclosing a wretched room, with the poor mother sitting on the ground with a sickly boy in her lap and in the act of feeding him with a spoon. Simultaneously with the drawing of the curtain, the line light was brought to bear upon the tableaux, giving them a truly startling effect.
After a moment or two of the drop scene came down and the lady proceeded:

"Father, dear father, come home with me
The clock in the steeple strikes two! (gong, You promised, dear father, that you would
come home
As soon as your day's work was done,
Our fire has gone out—our house is all dark & not worth a new waiting since tea,
With poor little Benny, so sick in her arms,
And no one to help her but me,
Come home, come home, home, home,

But he has been calling for you, Indeed he is worse—worse than he will die, Perhaps before morning shall dawn, And this was the message she sent me to bring—Come quickly or he will be gone, Come home, come home, come home,

The act drop rises again, and now the child has hold of the powder pot, trying to take it from her drunken parent, and she cries out, "Father, dear father, come home," &c. The other curtain is drawn aside, and we next see the child stretched out on its mother's lap, and as it just raises its little head and falls back with a gasp, with the line light reflecting strongly upon it there was a reality about the whole terrible vision. Sobs were heard from the female portion of the audience, while tears trickled down many a rough man's cheek. We have seen "Susan Hop-ley," "Jane Shuter," "The Stranger," "East Lynne," and other effective pieces played, but never before did we witness such a scene of general crying. Even the lady who sang the song was affected and could scarcely proceed with the third verse:

"Father, dear father, come home with me now, The clock in the steeple strikes three! (gong, gong, gong.)
The house is so lonely, the hours are so long,
For poor weeping mother and me, Yes, we are alone now Benny is dead,
And gone with the angels of light, I want you the very last words he said, I want to kiss papa good night
Come home, come home, come home,

Again the drop rose, disclosing little Mary on her knees appealing to her father, who with port elevated, is in the act of striking her with it, as she sings, "Come home," & then the dark curtain draws aside, showing the mother paying over a child's coffin. But now the robe from the audience burst out still more freely and, two females were carried out fainting.
The scene was truly harrowing and we gladly turned our eyes away. An additional verse was sung about "Poor Ban-ny" being with the angels above. The drop rose; the father, sober now, is weeping over the coffin with the mother and little Mary on her knees, singing—"Home, home, father, dear father come home." At this moment the other curtain is drawn aside, and little Benny is suspended over the coffin with wings, smiling down upon them and pointing upward. The father falls forward on his face, the act-drop descends, and for a minute all is hushed save the sobs of the females in the audience.

The progress of Minnesota in the production of wheat, is among the agricultural marvels of the age. It is estimated that the surplus of wheat of that State the present year, will be fully 15,000,000 bushels, while but a little of the great grain plateau embraced within its limits has yet been brought under cultivation.
One farmer, the past year, harvested 1-000 acres, with an average yield of forty bushels to the acre. This section, while much of it is too far north for growing corn, will evidently become the wheat of America in the production of wheat.

They have in their employment the best Tanners in the South, as has been proven by several descriptions of their leather taking the premium at the Fairs of Rome, Selma, Montgomery and Macon. We are glad to learn that their investment is a profitable one, and that they have orders for leather faster than they can furnish.

We learn from Dr. J. L. Burke, recently arrived from Huntsville, that the U. S. District Court, Hon'ble Busted presiding, after a session of 20 days, adjourned on Saturday the 4th inst. The Judge, having participated in the hospitalities of the Huntsville Bar, at a splendid entertainment given him at the Huntsville Hotel on Saturday night, left the city on Monday noon, accompanied by U. S. Dist. Attorney Southworth, for Montgomery, Alabama. There will be no regular session of the District Court held in this city. Judge Busted will open court in Mobile on the 13th, and pass through Montgomery and remain a few days for the discharge of Bankrupts.

See advertisement of sale of valuable Land and Lots, by Administrators of John M. Cook, deceased, and Joseph Gladden, deceased.

These are about the most valuable and desirable Lands in the county, and such an opportunity is seldom offered.

Here are a few pithy sentences which are truly suggestive: Sorrow's best antidote is employment. Beauty devoid of grace is like a hook without a bait. Confine your expenses, or they will confine you. He that falls in love with himself will have no rivals. If you cannot do as well as you wish do as well as you can. Promises made in the time of affliction require a better memory than people commonly possess. When you hear a man say life is but a dream, tread on his corners and wake him up. Life is real. Be deaf to the quarrelsome, blind to the scurrilous, and dumb to those who are mischievously injurious.

HINDS vs. SHERRID.—Yesterday, Hinds began, before Judge Busted, to take testimony of his witnesses (about 40 we learn) to establish his claim to a seat in Congress over Sherrid, the successful Democratic candidate. Hinds' counsel were Gen. J. W. Burke and the new District Attorney, Southworth, and Sherrid by Gen. L. P. Walker. Four white witnesses were examined and they knew nothing material. The fifth witness was a negro, named—Orr. Under Gen. Walker's searching cross-examination, he showed so conclusively that he was lying, that Judge Busted discharged him, and Hinds, forthwith, abandoned the contest. So Sherrid will take his seat next week, we presume.—Huntsville Democrat.

Latest News.

FROM WASHINGTON. Washington, Dec. 5.—A quorum of both Houses of Congress is present.

FROM RICHMOND. Richmond, Dec. 5.—Charles H. Rogers, a traveling collector, was murdered and robbed, this morning on a road four miles from the city.

FROM WASHINGTON. Washington, Dec. 4.—A vigorous fight is pending over private claims, the contestants holding that a repudiation of these gives a cue to the repudiation of the whole debt.

It is reiterated upon the very best authority that has never been officially tested, that the Virginia Senators have never signed the petition asking the recognition of Cuba, and spoke strongly in its favor.

Drake's bill restraining the Federal courts was presented.

In the Senate, Mr. Morton introduced a bill to reconstruct Georgia.

In the House, Buckley and Mr. Buell [back?] of Alabama, and Mr. Cox, of New York, were admitted. Messrs. Herrod and Dox approached the bar, but were objected to.

The House took a recess till half-past six o'clock.

The President recommends the prompt admission of Senators and Representatives from Virginia; he also recommends Mississippi and Texas have been invited to meet the approval of Congress; such the renewal of the tax on incomes, at a reduced rate, say three per cent, the tax to expire in three years; says immediate resumption of specie payments is not desirable, though it should be reached at the earliest possible moment consistent with a fair regard for the debtor.

Such recommendations such legislation as will give a gradual return to specie payments and the fluctuations in the value of money. To end fluctuations in the currency values he recommends authority to Treasury to redeem its own paper at a price whenever presented, and to hold from circulation all currency so issued until sold again for gold; that national resources, developed and undervalued, should make our credit the best in the world, and the debt could be paid in years, but it is not desirable that people should be taxed to pay it in time.

The message says this, as a United States is the freest of all nations, so its people sympathize with all people fighting for liberty and self-government while sympathizing it is due to its honor that we should refrain from sending our views upon unwilling nations and from taking an interested part in quarrels between governments.

Our course should conform with strict justice and equity and local law. Such has been the policy of the administration in dealing with the questions regarding Cuba. It says notwithstanding the war is rapidly entertained for the Caribs, if time assumed the conditions which recognize the existence of a detestable organization of the insurgents, it is just to justify a recognition of belligerence. The principle is maintained, never, that this nation is its own judge to accord the rights of belligerence to a people struggling to free themselves from a government they believe to be tyrannical and independent nations at with each other. The United States is disposed to interfere with the relations of Spain to her colonial possessions.

REDEMPTION OF THE UNITED STATES BONDS. To raise a larger amount of money than the income tax raises. By taxing the Government would be able to use with the income tax, the most tax ever laid in this country, and to take a handsome profit by the change. It is better for all that it be done. Better for the bondholders, yes, better in the end for the bondholders no less than for the income-taxpayers.

Horses' Brings.—Horses of great value have always commanded great prices. At Newmarket in 1805, a bay colt, sold for $75,000 by Benjamin Brough, a year old by Volunteer, and a three-year-old filly by St. Peter, were sold for $40,000 each. For the celebrated horse that accepted an offer of $100,000 for $40,000 we are refused, and O. Kelly, a yearling colt, sold for $100,000 for $40,000. Tradition says that a three-year-old filly of Devonshire refused for $100,000 the weight of the horse in gold could not be bought for $100,000, and weeping, she then Gladstone carrying everything before him. English turf, the Count de La Rochefoucauld would not have parted with him for $100,000. Coming to America, we find that his 15,000 were paid for Lexington, that his son, Kentucky, was sold for $40,000. Mr. Alexander refused $40,000 for Acorn, Kentucky's half-brother, and Norfolk, another half-brother, sold for $46,000. Mr. Bonner refused $40,000 for Dexter, and offers $100,000 for that can equal Dexter's wagon.

THE COBBLER'S HINT

REV. R. STODDARD,
PELL ST. CHAPEL, LONDON.
Caught in a pelting shower of rain, While near the city road,

I begged a moment there to stay, Until it should subside, And whilst he did the lapstone pat,

Old shoes said I that still decay, Thou dost to mend device, But canst thou not thy power extend,

He paused a moment—dropped his awl, Looked up, and thus he said, I might as well attempt to mend,

No sir! a heart so bad as mine—So vile in all its bearing, Is like the leprous house that must Go, sir! and search the sacred page, That holy book is your guide, Nor does it e'er or thought admit,

This lesson at Gannett's feet, Was never learned by Paul, Nor was it by the Cobbler drawn,

Thus spoke the man—a saint indeed, By holy calling true,
He still contrives old soles to mend,

I blush I with shame beside his kit,
And pondered o'er his words, And still believe, and dare maintain

With hand in hand, we hid firewell, I left his humble shed,
And from that period to this hour,

NAVIGATION OF THE COOSA AND ALABAMA RIVERS.

Important Letter from Eugene Le Hardy, Chief Engineer of the Seima, Rome and Dalton Railroad.

Through the courtesy of Major LE HARDY, we lay before our readers this morning the following letter submitted to the Commercial Convention, lately in session in the city of Louisville, Ky., on the subject of making continuous navigation of the Coosa and Alabama rivers.—Excerpts.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE, Rome, Ga., Oct. 25, 1869.
Dr. J. G. Zeiler, Delegate of the City of Rome to the Commercial Convention at Louisville, Ky.

MY DEAR SIR:—Permit me to direct to you as a Delegate to this city to the Commercial Convention at Louisville, Ky., a tract of your attention, and that of the Convention to the great question of the opening of the Coosa river for continuous navigation from this point to the Gulf of Mexico, by Mobile, a work of vital importance for the States of Alabama and Georgia, as well as of general interest for the country at large. If these simple actions of political economy are true:

The aggregate wealth of the country is double of its sections.
The general characteristics of this water course are:
1st. The distance by water between Rome and Mobile is 700 miles or thereabouts.
2nd. The difference of level between low water mark here and the tide water of the Gulf is 500 feet, giving a general slope per mile of foot 0.71.
3rd. The upper and navigable portion of the Coosa river from Rome, Ga., to Greensport, Ala., is 180 miles.
4th. The lower portion of the Coosa river, partly shoaly, partly navigable, between Greensport and Wetumpka, is 124 miles with a difference of level of feet 24.5 or an average fall of foot 1.94 per mile.
5th. The distance between Wetumpka and Mobile, also navigable in all seasons, is 390 miles.
6th. Summing up the two portions navigable makes 574 miles, and their whole fall is feet 345.5, which give an average of foot 0.61 per mile.
7th. From surveys made by different parties, the cost of work to make the navigation continuous upon the whole distance has been estimated at from $70,000,000.

From these figures we can see at once that the technical question of the appropriation of the fund by a judicious and skillful system of locks and locks and that of construction present no material difficulty, and that the amount of money required to do that work, if it was even double of that of the estimates, is a matter of very little importance if we consider the magnitude of the object to be attained.

The canal of Suez having for its object to connect the Mediterranean with the Red Sea, just finished and called a wonder of modern times, and it is a marvel, opening as it does a channel to the commerce of the world with eastern Africa, western Asia, the Indian and Pacific oceans, New Holland and Australia, is but 100 miles long and has cost $70,000,000.

The Coosa and Alabama rivers, made one continuous channel for traffic present a distance of 700 miles, with an estimated cost of the work to be performed for that purpose of 15 to 19 times less, and the distance seven times greater.

The wonder in this case is that this work has not been accomplished a long time ago. Indeed, what channel of transportation is better calculated than this, to spread all around industry, prosperity and wealth.

The valley through which it runs is bounded in stone coal and iron ores of the best quality, marbles of various kinds, millstones, flagstones, fine gravel, sandstone and a variety of other minerals. Capital and cheap transportation are only wanted to make this section of country an immense workshop capable of giving employment to thousands and thousands of mechanics and workmen and to turn out millions of dollars worth of products of all descriptions.

The ports of the Gulf of Mexico, now provided with English and Pennsylvania coals and iron, ought to be furnished right from the banks of the Coosa river, as also the West Indies, Central and South America.

On page 75 of his report on the Geological Survey of Alabama, Professor Field, concludes:
"This coal has been carried down the Coosa river to Montgomery, where it has been sold at 40 cents per bushel. But what gives it its greatest value here, is its vicinity to a good bed of iron ore, which it approaches within two miles. There are here, then, within a space of a few miles all the materials for the manufacture of iron ore, coal, limestone, and on the immediate banks of the river."
The Cornwall and Round Mountain Iron Works are in the same condition, and hundreds of others can be made so, by substituting charcoal where stone coal is too distant.

Judging from the experience made in every country in similar circumstances, what an immense economical revolution will not this new channel of thorough transportation, once opened, produce over the country at large and particularly to the States of Alabama and Georgia immediately contiguous.

The cheap transportation of manure and fertilizers will induce planters and farmers to use them more freely, and the consequence an increase in the production of the staples and a decrease in their prices.

The increase or decrease in the prices of cotton, rice, sugar and tobacco, as well as general consumption, is felt all over the country North as well as South, East as well as West, and for this reason each section is bound for the whole, and the duty of a good government is to treat all in the same scale.

The cheap transportation of heavy materials to build with, will open over this large and beautiful valley with manufactures, towns and villages.

And we have said already, this Coosa valley is sublimous, its climate mild and temperate, its winters short duration, its soil rich and producing, besides the staples, everything in abundance which is necessary to make living cheap for the workmen, laborer and mechanic, peas, potatoes, turnips, small grains, vegetables and fruits of all kinds and varieties.

This great valley is intersected by a large number of streams, which never freeze, and on them a multitude of sites for mills and factories, with inexhaustible water power, all destined to be one day the customers and the feeders of this great channel.

him tried him before a League Court convicted him and sentenced to be hung. The white people, hearing of these proceedings, gathered to the number of about forty, and went in haste to his residence before the sentence of the League Court should be executed. They arrived in time, and were fired on by the negroes, and two slightly wounded. Thereupon, the whites charged the black savages, killing one, severely wounding five others, and completely dispersing the band. A vague rumor has reached the city, that twenty of the ruffians had been arrested, and the whites were day before yesterday afternoon preparing to hang them all upon the same pole.

Congress and Reconstruction. By the latest telegraphic dispatches, we learn that Congress is about to admit Virginia into the Union, she having complied with every requirement, and her leading men made every promise of future good behavior required of them. But then, to make all things even, they are about to turn Georgia out, under circumstances of outrage, unparalleled. This reconstruction business has cost the nation hundreds of millions, and is apparently no nearer consummation than it was years ago. Our State Legislature has been in session 30 days, and only eight bills passed and presented to the Governor for his signature—nearly all the time having been consumed in wrangling, and unsuccessful efforts to turn out democratic members. It adjourned on the 15th inst. to meet again on 10th January.

Jacksonville Hotel Reopened. It will be seen by reference to the advertisement of Mr. J. D. Hammond, that he has reopened this popular commodious and well arranged Hotel. He has refitted and furnished it in a style well calculated for the comfort and accommodation of transient and permanent boarders. Mr. Hammond is a worthy, competent, polite and courteous gentleman, with considerable experience in the business, and we doubt not will give entire satisfaction, and make this house more than ever popular with its patrons.

BERRY'S & CO., Wholesale Grocers and Commission Merchants, Rome, Ga. We published the advertisement of these energetic, correct and experienced business men in our last paper, and need only say now to their numerous friends and patrons in this section, that they are still driving ahead with their extensive business, at their old and conveniently located situation near the depot. They have heavier stocks than heretofore, kept constantly full, and increased facilities for the transaction of every description of Commission business. Orders forwarded to them will be promptly and correctly filled; and we heartily commend them to the confidence and patronage of all who are not already acquainted with them.

HOMICIDE.—We learn that on Saturday last, about dark, D B Moore, was killed at Cross Plains, by J. L. Thompson, who beat him to death with a club. It is represented as a foul, cold-blooded murder. The relatives of Moore are unable to offer a large reward; but we hope the Governor, on proper representation, will promptly offer a suitable reward for the apprehension of the murderer.

HENRY A. SMITH.—To the literary man, Henry A. Smith offers every book calculated to please the fancy, or feed the intellect. To the musician, he tender the LATEST and most delightful music. To the giver of Christmas presents, he holds out the finest and best assortment of stock to select from. His Stationery is as varied as his stock is large. In short, his establishment is one without a rival this side of our largest cities.

W. D. HOYT & CO.—We promised last week that we would mention more particularly this magnificent Establishment, in our next. While in Rome we were shown through the entire house by one of the gentlemanly proprietors, and confess that we were astonished at the magnitude and excellence of their Stock. The mere fact that the trade of this house extends from Rome beyond Gadsden, on the River, and to Talladega on our Road, is its best certificate. What more need we say?

C. W. MILLS.—To all young house-keepers and those contemplating matrimony and even those old couples whose furniture has worn and grown antiquated, we cannot too highly recommend this excellent Furniture Store. We were shown entirely through the establishment and a more complete display of every variety of furniture from the most ordinary to the most magnificent, from the most ornamental to the most useful, we have never seen. Our R. R. connection makes it easy to order from them, and we commend them.

We would call the attention of our worthy Town Council to the fact of increasing disorder in our Town, especially of nights on the part of both whites and blacks. On Tuesday night, one negro man chased another along main street, firing some 5 or 6 pistol shots, one only wounding in the thumb, but evidently endangering the lives of chance passers in the street. Since then pistol firing has been kept up every night. If the Marshal unaided is not able to put a check to these things, the Council should devise means to assist him, in which they would be sustained by all good citizens. Perhaps while checking disorder they might ferret out some of the garden robbers who have committed numerous deprivations of late.

Christmas week, unless some restraint is imposed, will greatly increase these disorders and outrages. We do not object to a cheerful, festive Christmas, but earnestly protest against so many making it the excuse and occasion for drunkenness, profanity and robdism, which is a disgrace to civilization. The churches of the Ten Islands association, East of the Coosa river will please call at the Republican office for their minutes of 1869, and those churches on the west side of the river will please call at the office of the Hon. John W. Inzer, Asheville, for theirs. CLERK.

Calhoun College. At a meeting of the Stockholders of Calhoun College, held in this place on Wednesday last, the following gentlemen were elected Trustees for one year: Hon' T. A. WALKER, Col. S. FOUCHE, J. H. CALDWELL, Gen' W. H. FORNEY, J. W. BURKE, Mr. E. L. WOODWARD, H. A. STOLLENWERBK, G. B. DOUGHTY, P. ROWAN.

We suppose the Trustees will promptly proceed to locate and put under contract the College building in contemplation. By reference to the advertisement of W. J. Wills, Esq., it will be seen that a large body of valuable Land will be offered for sale to the highest bidder on the 8th of next month. Also on the 10th two valuable Houses and Lots in Jacksonville will be sold.

In order to give the printers of the Republican, as well as others, some opportunity for rest and recreation during Christmas week, we shall only issue half a sheet next week, containing the legal advertisements. It is now the almost universal custom of the newspaper press to issue no paper for Christmas week, and we are therefore confident that our patrons will excuse our half sheet.

Enlargement of the Republican. So soon as we can use or dispose of our present lot of paper, we intend to enlarge the Republican four columns, making it a 32 column paper, equal in size, with two or three exceptions, to any paper in the State. We have made arrangements whereby we can add greatly to its interest and value. Inasmuch as this increase in size, (without increase of price,) will involve considerable additional expense, we earnestly request those of our patrons who are in arrears one or more years, to assist us at their earliest convenience.

We invite the special attention of the afflicted to the advertisement of Dr. J. A. Clifton, who gives notice that he will visit this and other localities on specified days. By making those diseases his special study and practice Dr. C. has become celebrated for his success during a long experience. In a printed pamphlet circular, hundreds in this and other States testify to having been thoroughly cured by him; and some in this immediate vicinity, can witness to the same fact. The opportunity ought to be embraced by all who need the exercise of his skill.

If you want to a nice Christmas Cris Cingle Candy—prize in every box—price 25 cts. See various notices of new, fashionable and cheap Goods at Rosenbergs. These gentlemen have thus far given very general satisfaction to their patrons.

We tender our thanks to Mr. J. A. Reeves, the talented, worthy and sterling democratic Representative from Cherokee County, for various valuable public documents.

PHILADELPHIA & ATLANTA Wine and Liquor Company, Granite Block, ATLANTA, GA. No Resurrection—Death of a Free Government—An Eloquent Extract.

The following beautiful extract is from a speech delivered by Hon D. W. Voorhees, of Indiana. It is a melancholy spectacle to behold a free government die. The world, it is true, is filled with evidences of decay. All nature speaks the voice of dissolution, and the highway of history and of life is strewn with the wrecks which Time, the great despoiler, has made. But the hopes of the future, bright visions of reviving glory, are nowhere denied to the heart of man, save as he gazes on the downfall of legal liberty. He listens mournfully to the autumn winds, as they sigh through dismantled forests, but he knows that their breath will be soft and vernal in the spring, and that the dead flowers and withered foliage will blossom and bloom again. He sees the sky overcast with the angry frown of the tempest, but he knows that the sun will reappear, and the embazonary of God cannot perish. Man, himself, this strange connecting link between dust and Deity, totters wearily, wearily on ward, under the weight of years and pain, towards the tomb, but how briefly his life lingers around the dismal spot. It is filled with tears and grief, and the willow and cypress gather around it with their loving but mournful embrace. And is this all? Not so! If a man die shall he not live again? Beyond the grave in the Aethian Hope provides an elysium of the soul where the mortal assumes immortality, and life becomes an endless splendor. But where, sir, in all the dreary legions of the past filled with convulsions, wars and crimes, can you point your finger to the tomb of a free commonwealth on which the angels of resurrection have ever descended, or from whose sepulchre the stone of despotism has been rolled away? Where, in what age, and in what clime have the veins of constitutional freedom renewed their youth and regained their lost estate? By whose strong grip has the dead corpse of the Republic once fallen, ever been raised? The merciful Maker who walked upon the waters and bade the winds be still, left no ordained apostle with power to wrench apart the jaws of national death, and release the victim of despotism. The wail of the heart-broken over the dead is not so sad to me as the realization of this fact. But all history, with a loud unbroken voice, proclaims it; and the evidence of what the past has been is conclusive.

For Sale. Valuable Plantation in Cherokee Valley. Town Lots in Jacksonville Ala. I will, as surviving partner of T. R. Williams & Co. and with the consent and approbation of the legal heirs of T. R. Williams & Co. A. Williams, doe all the lands being of age and will unite in making them sell for cash on the 1st day of JANUARY, 1870, upon the premises, the N. half of sec. 23, and S. half of sec. 14, and north east fourth of sec. 22, and south east fourth of section 11, township 10, range 7, known as the "Cain Catfish place," 3 miles south of White Plains, in the beautiful and fertile valley of Choccoloco, about twelve miles from Oxford and ten miles from Jacksonville on the Selma, Rome and Dalton Railroad.

From Washington. WASHINGTON, Dec. 7. For the first time in the history of this Government, since the existence of the District of Columbia, it has been passed by without notice in the annual message of the President. The message of President Grant, submitted to Congress yesterday, does not even recognize the existence of the seat of the National Government. The House in appropriating to the various committees, by way of a joke, I presume, allotted to the Committee on the District of Columbia all of that portion of the District of Columbia! The gentleman composing this committee are to be congratulated on the lightness of the task before them. Mr. Sherrod, member elect from Alabama, who was objected to yesterday, was sworn in today. W. J. WILLS.

this morning with copies of two pamphlets, written by a Mr. L. U. Reavis, and advocating the "removal of the National Capitol from Washington city to the Mississippi Valley." St. Louis being the site selected. One pamphlet contains no less than 170 pages, a number of maps, and fairly bristles with statistics. It exhausts "the geographical argument," "the commercial argument," and does not wind up with "the conclusive argument," but adds "special and local considerations," and "what time." It is proposed to remove the present buildings piecemeal and remove them to St. Louis; and it is estimated that they can be taken down, moved, and newly erected in five years, at a cost of $100,000,000. I shall not pretend to go into details as to the advantages to be derived from this movement, as I have no faith in its success.—Mr. Reavis is very confident, however, and says that "the change will be made within five years from January 1, 1869." He says, further: "Before two years from January 1, 1869, Congress will authorize, by its own act, the removal of the seat of Government from its present place, and soon will follow the President, national archives and the Legislature of the Republic." We shall see. Perhaps Mr. Reavis is a prophet. Who knows? The Virginia delegation are still hopeful and confident of gaining their seats. It is believed that the influence of the matter yesterday to the Election Committee will not result in hindering the prompt admission of Virginia into the Union. Financial men here pronounce the plan recommended by the President for the resumption of specie payment not only absurd but impracticable. They think his recommendation to Congress to "put an immediate stop to fluctuation in the value of currency," is imposing on that body a task which it is as little likely to perform as if it were commanded to turn the walls of the capitol building into solid gold. Secretary Boutwell's refusal to sell on two occasions, when the price did not reach a certain figure, is now regarded as having fore-shadowed the financial policy indicated in the message. It is said the next monthly statement will show a larger decrease of the public debt than any previous statement. The statement will be furnished in English, French and German.
