What Becomes of "Manhood Suffrage."

A New York dispatch to the Western papers says:

A movement is on foot here among Republicans for the organization of a new party restricting the elective franchise by requiring a certain amount of intelligence, and totally reconstructing naturalization laws. This city is so completely in the hands of foreigners, that this movement, if pursued, will be reactionary. It is thought it will spread, and become formidable on account of the men connected with it.

So the shoe of universal suffrage is beginning to pinch. None of our New York friends felt the pain while consigning the South to a universal suffrage of ignorant and semi-barbarous blacks. They never had a word of remonstrance against that awful outrage against common sense and public safety. Negro suffrage was good enough for us, but Irish and Dutch suffrage will not do for them.

Gentlemen of the manhood suffrage party—you have told us so long and loudly that suffrage is not a political privilege, but a natural right of man—you have gone too far to help yourselves. Your case looks to us remediless. You are fairly committed, not only to Irish, Dutch, and negro suffrage, but the Indians and John Chinamen are yet to come in for this God-ordained right of manhood. We don't see but what you will have to fight it out on that line, and take the consequences.

AFFAIRS IN TENNESSEE.

Andrew Johnson to be the Conservative Candidate for Governor—His Plan of Campaign—Stokes the Coming Moses of the Radical Faction—A Stirring Time Ahead.

[Correspondence of the Courier-Journal.]
NASHVILLE, Jan. 26, 1869.

I will give you briefly, but accurately, a pen-picture of the situation in Tennessee at the present moment.

Andrew Johnson is expected to arrive here by the Middle of March. He has written to his friends to say that he will be a candidate for Governor. No one will oppose his nomination. It will be made spontaneously by the Conservatives; and his platform will consist of "universal amnesty and impartial suffrage," on which the people of Tennessee have risked their claims from the first.

He is expected to do two things: 1st. He will talk to the negroes as no one else has ever talked to them.

2d. He will walk the East Tennessee "loyalists" to a sense of the peril of the present State Government as no one else can awaken them.

Johnson is not a wit like Etheridge. Nor is he an orator like Colyar. But he is a prodigy of muscular power before the Tennessee masses, who consider him a child of destiny, marked by Providence to be their next Governor.

Johnson's purpose is to secure a conservative Legislature, which will return him to the Senate of the United States in place of Mr. Fowler. But for their faith in him the people of the State—by whom I mean the disfranchised masses—would make no contest this summer. They consider the existing system a machine; and they regard its operation as little less than certain.

Johnson does not. He says he has fought a worse fight, and won it. He says he can break up the loyal leagues as he broke up the Know Nothing lodges. He will denounce the Kuklux in unmeasured terms. He will take strong national ground on all national questions, and he expects to carry all before him.

The Radicals themselves apprehend his coming. Moreover, they are disunited. Fletcher will probably go into the State Senate, which will elect him Speaker. This will give him the gubernatorial succession in '71. He is an able man—the ablest in the State on many points—and is a Republican, but not a Radical. He is backed by a growing sentiment in his party.

Senator, the present Speaker of the Senate—is in the face of safe precedents. If Brownlow should die or resign, Senator would be Governor, but Brownlow declines to do either, and Senator is secretly disconcerted. Shrewd Radicals already look on him with distrust. He is a quiet rebel in '61, and is a smart East Tennessee lawyer with some taste and spirit. If Brownlow does not give him, what he considers his right—the Governorship—he will do mischief. Brownlow's term as Senator begins the 4th of this coming March. His term as Governor does not expire till the following October. Will he hold on to the State office until it expires and then go on to Washington and draw his back pay as Senator from the 4th of March? He will. It is plain ciphering to a man who has nothing to cipher on. But there are other considerations. There are personal and prudential motives—motives which he cannot resist—that impel him. If he should give up the Governorship to Senator, what would become of his present duties?

For Tennessee, you must know, like Gaul, is divided into three parts. These are severally designated East, Middle and West Tennessee. Dr. Pearne, a Methodist preacher at Knoxville, is Governor of East Tennessee. Dr. Boynton, a son-in-law of Brownlow, and Buck Lewis (colored) are the principal Governors of Middle Tennessee, but when they are absent or lying about town, it is customary for those who have public business to transact to go out and hunt down a Governor from among the negroes and carpet-baggers of Nashville. The Governor of West Tennessee is Dr. Pearne No. 2, a brother of the Knoxville Governor. All these Governors act in the name of Brownlow, who is at home with the palsy, having ceased to be of any significance or to possess any sense of responsibility. The Radical party is controlled by strangers and kept going by negroes, and the coming Moses is Stokes.

This Moses is a large, thick-set Moser, a Moser with a bald pate and red face, and a voice as loud as that of B. O. the Weaver, a Moser passing the wit of man to say what manner of Moser he is or is not.

Johnson is also a Moser, "And when Moses meets Moses, Then comes the tang of war."

I think it fair to predict that the chances are even; that the fight will be sharp and close, and that Johnson may come out of it with flying colors.

The Kuklux Klan has degenerated into a gang of desperadoes. It has not the sympathy of any part of the people. Its purposes are no longer political, if they ever were, but predatory; and the militia bill and martial law proclamation are mere pretexts on the part of the radicals to carry the election by force of arms.

We understood Gen. Battle to endorse Judge Rice's letter—in point of fact, he said so. If any mistake were made in the business it unquestionably arose out of the circumstance that the gallant General—"a plain, blunt man"—was honeycombed by the insinuating Judge Rice.

But it turns out that notwithstanding Rice's seductive talk and ways, General Battle has escaped at the last moment the snare laid for his political virtue. The Mail informs the public that the editor has received a letter from the General in which he explicitly states that so far from endorsing Rice's "Progress and Humanity" ideas, he intended plainly and distinctly to endorse the resolutions of the last Democratic Convention which assembled in Montgomery during the past Summer. General Battle writes "I intend to support and maintain negro suffrage in the sense of the resolution of the Alabama Democratic Convention which recognized it as a fact, and the laws imposed upon us as a de facto government; and such was my understanding of Judge Rice's letter."

We are really pleased at the prompt explanation of the meaning of a letter whose phraseology it must be admitted was subject to a very doubtful interpretation. It is also a gratification to learn that Hon. W. H. Crenshaw denies that his letter to Judge Rice means anything in particular. It was merely a complimentary communication to the present Chief Justice Peck, because the name of the Chief Justice was written on the margin of the paper and, there being old family consideration, in addition, Mr. Crenshaw thought it was only proper to send a courteous acknowledgment.

So far as the Advertiser is concerned it fully accepts the explanation of Gen. Battle and Mr. Crenshaw. It regards Judge Rice as a true Southern man and of great abilities as a lawyer, but perfectly irresponsible in politics, and it leaves Mr. Alex. White, of Selma, with the Radical party, where he seems to prefer to belong. It is plain from indications not to be mistaken that the "old Union men of Alabama" have nearly unanimously rejected his treacherous address—Montgomery Advertiser.

THE WONDER.—Dr. Gorman has on exhibition one of the most singular specimens of the animal creation that we have ever seen; a yearling with three horns and three eyes. The horns are perfectly symmetrical, the third one, nearly as large as the other two, and directly over the extra eye. It is the largest calf of his age ever exhibited, and of blooded stock. It is the Doctors' intention to exhibit in Houston and Galveston and we heartily recommend him to our press brethren.—Breakham Banner.

In Pensacola, Florida, fine red fish sell in cents a piece, and luscious oysters at seventy-five cents per hundred.

General Battle's Letter.

The Radical organ of this city, which claims that Judge Rice left the Democratic party and gone over to the Radical, a claim which Judge Rice has not corrected if untrue, has something to say of General Battle's disclaimer of any intention to support the outrages which have been perpetrated upon us. In its issue of yesterday it says:

We deny that the Mail has any such letter, and challenge it to produce it. General Battle is a man of sense, knows the meaning of words, and we should like to see his explanation of the term, "I expose."

In reply to this challenge we relieve the Mail from any such imputation, by producing the letter!

TUESDAY, January 21, 1869.

Colonel Joseph Huntson:

DEAR SIR:—Permit me to tender to you my thanks for the very kind manner in which you are pleased to speak of me in your "Third Party Movement" article of yesterday. It is in striking contrast with the "One more Unfortunate" dash of the Advertiser—and it is to me a most pleasing reflection that the hand that penned it in the editorial sanctum, is the same that, on the battle field, wielded one of the trustiest swords ever drawn in vindication of Southern honor.

I have never approved the Reconstruction Acts, or any part of them. I would not have voted for any one of them to save my right arm; but they are laws, and I cannot avoid them. You are right in your supposition that I "intend to support and maintain negro suffrage in the sense of the resolution of the Alabama Democratic Convention, which recognized it as a fact, and the laws imposed upon us as a de facto government."

And such was my understanding of Judge Rice's letter. The whole State knows that he opposed Negro Suffrage, and I have considered his present position that of acquiescence in the existing condition of affairs, coupled with a sincere desire to promote the harmony and welfare of his country. This is the inspiration of patriotism and es nece of manhood.

In the struggle for Confederate Independence I yielded only when the last line was broken, and then only at the command of Lee. The little honor won in that contest, if imperishable glory, will be the richest legacy bequeathed to my children. Sir, Alabama is not less dear to me than she was when the bosoms of her sons swelled with hopes of independence, but I have not regarded it as inconsistent with the highest duty to my beloved State, now that the war is over, to desire the prosperity, harmony and glory of the American Union.

Yours very respectfully,
CULLEN A. BATTLE.

It may Work the Other Way.

The city of Philadelphia elected Democratic municipal officers. She couldn't help it, because the great majority of the people are Democrats; but she is to be punished. The Radical Legislature of Pennsylvania, in view of her awful crime, will put her in charge of a Radical police commission, and the benefits of the New York city system of protection from crime will be duplicated there. Of course this is a great outrage on Philadelphia, just as the placing of Democratic New York city under a municipal police was a great outrage on that city. But it is a bad rule which does not work both ways.

Here in Alabama, when the Democrats got the State Legislature we can appoint honest white men to office in the negro counties, and do away with the Q. Smiths, the Stokeses and the Elys. The Republicans are teaching us new tricks daily. How easy, for instance, it will be to amend the charter of Montgomery and let the city officers be voted for only by tax payers! That would set Montgomery all right. Then we could repeal the laws establishing a Judiciary, legislate the Q. Smiths, the Polhams and the rest of that sort of stock out of their seats, and let the Legislature elect judges for the present.

Judge Rice, not being able to see through a millstone, thinks there is no way of killing a dog except by choking him with butter. On the contrary, there are many ways in which Radical physic can be administered to those who put up the prescriptions.

Montgomery Advertiser.

The peninsula, opposite Vicksburg, has commenced a wholesale caving, having parted with the bank from Young's place down—nearly to the rear of Nolly's—a distance of several miles and a width of about two hundred yards. The little Roma Wheeler, passing at the time of one of the big cavings, had to make a "bee line" shot into the middle of the stream to prevent being capsized by the surging waters.

The population of Baltimore, according to the report of the Census Commissioners, is 352,136. Of these, 803,761 are whites and 48,375 colored. There are in Baltimore 44,988 houses, exclusive of public buildings. The Census Commissioners report 1669 vacant houses.

Arrangements are making in Alabama for the opening of the Public Schools required by the laws of the State. There is to be at least one school in each township for the whites, and at least one for the blacks. The poll and perhaps some other taxes are appropriated for the support of these schools, and the interest on the two per cent. fund, long ago allowed by Congress for educational purposes goes to the same object. With some aid from the Freedmen's fund and from the Freedmen's Bureau, it is hoped that these schools can be supported on a scale commensurate with the wants of the population.

We regret to hear that there is some reluctance on the part of competent white men to take charge of the schools for the colored race. This reluctance, we have every reason to believe, springs more from an apprehension that public opinion among the whites of the State is adverse to negro education, than from an inveterate personal abhorrence of the situation. But we are convinced that persons hesitating for this reason are misreading public sentiment. There is no wide spread repugnance on the part of the whites (at least among the intelligent portion) to the proper education of the negroes. There is a very just opposition to their education in politics and in dislike and distrust of the white race by enthusiasts sent out by Northern Radical fanatics. And this very opposition to such an education of the negroes is one consideration influencing sensible people to desire their education by competent Southern men. There is yet too much distrust and alienation between the two races at the South, and nothing can have a more pernicious effect in ministering to and aggravating it, than the importation of Northern teachers for the colored youth. On the other hand, nothing will be more effectual in overcoming this distrust and alienation than alacrity on the part of the Southern whites in taking charge of their schools and laboring faithfully for their education. Indeed it appears to us that the organization of these schools presents the very best opportunity by which it could be afforded for undoing the mischief that Northern Radical interlopers have done, and for restoring the old time confidence between the two races.

We appreciate the feeling that restrain ladies of the South from taking charge of colored schools, containing as they must many pupils nearly or quite grown and wholly lacking in good breeding or manners. But there are many young men who could do good service to their own race, while advancing the negroes in intelligence and cultivating good feeling between the races by taking charge of these schools. The task may be an unpleasant one, but it is one that the public good requires some Southern man to assume. And unless assumed by them, the "Bureau" will be called on to furnish the teachers, and they will be such as it has heretofore furnished—teachers of politics and incalculators of mischief, rather than trainers of the African mind in the elementary sciences. Reflecting men will regard a true Southern man, employed in teaching a colored school, as one engaged in extinguishing a firebrand cast into our midst, and will respect him accordingly.—Columbus (Ga.) Enq.

A CHANGE OF HEART.—Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, now living in Florida, enjoying the aroma of the orange groves, wouldn't allow negroes to come near her, she detests them so heartily. Since writing "Uncle Tom's Cabin" she has experienced a remarkable change of heart.

We clip the above item from the Oakland News, a Radical organ. Contrast with the negroes of the South who produce "a change of heart" in many of the "universal brotherhood" advocates of the North. We only wish they could have the opportunity to enjoy the equality business where it has been forced upon the people, as in Florida and other Southern States. It would regenerate them and in a brief period work out the salvation of the Government.—Col. Argus.

The way of the World.—Go! dress up in diaph, with shrine, and pinch back Jewelry from head to foot, for she is the Goddess of the day and fall down at her feet, and see if perchance she may hear thee! Let all the roes and bucks put on their bells and sandals, and chase after the Goddess diaph! for many get great gain by worshiping, and working in the vineyard of diaph, who would not worship the Great Goddess diaph for such rewards.

An Attempt to Murder.

We invite special attention to the card of the excellent and reliable firm of Edwin Bates & Co. wholesale dealers in Dry Goods & Clothing, of Charleston, S. C. Formerly there was considerable wholesale trade, in the various lines, between Charleston and this section of country, much to our advantage; and now, with the convenience and advantage of direct and unbroken railroad communication, we are glad to see it reviving. Give this firm a trial and see if you cannot do as well or better than in New York, and at the same time assist in repairing the ruin of our much loved South.

Public Meeting.

The citizens of Jacksonville and vicinity are requested to meet at the Court-house, at one o'clock, on Monday next, 8th inst. on business connected with the Railroad connection from Atlanta to this place, and thence to Decatur, Ala.

FARMERS AND MECHANICS MEETING.—By some oversight, the day for the adjourned meeting was not mentioned in the published proceedings in our last paper.

We are now requested to state that the next meeting will take place at the Court-house on Saturday the 20th of February, 1869. The two Committees will meet on Tuesday the 16th Feb. in order, to prepare their reports to be submitted to the meeting.

Let no one who feels the slightest interest in the prosperity of the country, or the great enterprises contemplated for the day, or fail to attend. The ball is now in motion—keep it rolling until we have at least one or two splendid Factories in or near Jacksonville. There is no better location in the State—no better or surer investment. What one cannot do, perhaps ten can; and if not ten, perhaps one hundred—"where there is a will there is a way."

The smallpox is reported to be very severe in the Western cities. It is asserted that the number of deaths from this disease has been unprecedentedly great in Cincinnati. Smallpox is declared to be an epidemic in St. Louis; it is scourging Chicago, though nothing is said about it in the newspapers, and in Milwaukee the public schools and the rink have been closed in consequence, and the shutting up of theatres, concert saloons and other places where large numbers of persons assemble, has been discussed.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY.—A murder, followed by most melancholy results, lately occurred near Columbus, Miss.—A young man named Demsey was murdered by one J. Hanton. Young Demsey was an only son, and his father, on hearing of his tragical death, was so overwhelmed with the grief that he dropped dead where he stood. Another member of the family, a daughter, bravespirited, though stricken with grief, started after the body of her brother. Returning to the house, she found that her mother was also dead of a broken heart, and dressed ready for burial.

TO PREPARE COTTON SEED FOR MANURE.—Mr. Gideon W. Dowie in the Southern Cultivator, gives the following plan for preparing cotton seed manure, and preventing the immense loss of ammonia by gradual evaporation from the old-fashioned seed pile, thus retaining it in muck as the most valuable of all food for plants:

I hauled the muck directly to the field, and made pens ten by ten at intervals. Having determined what distance I wished the plants to stand, and how much manure to the hill, it was an easy matter to determine the bulk necessary to each pen to manure an acre. I then put the cotton seed one inch thick all over the pen, then six inches of muck evenly over the seed—thus in alternate layers of one of seed to five of muck, until four feet high—the muck being the top layer.

And now for the result. When the banks were opened, there was not a vestige of seed to be seen—not a particle of unpleasant odor, even when handled and put to the nose. The whole mass perfectly friable and had an oily appearance—all going to show that I had accomplished what is most desirable in all manure, so fixed the ammonia that it was fully secured as food for the growing plant. The land to which it was applied was very old and exhausted by long and shallow culture, that when I began to plant it, three hundred pounds of cotton, or four bushels of corn to the acre. That year, subsiding the land applying about one quart of the above compost to the hill, gave me twenty five bushels to the acre. I have used it frequently on corn and cotton since always with the most satisfactory results. I am satisfied that with deep and thorough disintegration of the subsoil in preparing land, frequent and light stirring of the surface in cultivation, and with muck and cotton seed compost we need neither Peruvian or any other guano to bring our old lands up to 30 bushels of corn or 500 pounds of lint cotton per acre. I have for years wished to give this experiment to my brother planters, and have been deterred hitherto by the fear of intruding upon space that might be occupied by a more valuable article.

DEATH OF CULLEN BAKER.

This man who has probably caused more excitement and committed more crimes than any man of modern times, has at last fallen, and the country breathes free once more.

The circumstances of his death are as follows:

About four weeks since, he went to the house of his brother-in-law, Mr. Thos. Orr, in Lafayette county, Ark., and breaking down the door, took Mr. Orr and their father-in-law, Mr. Wm. Foster, tied their hands behind them and kept them during the night. Next morning he hung Mr. Orr until he supposed he was dead, when he cut him down to get the rope to hang another man. This man was finally released by some of Baker's men, Mr. Orr recovered after Baker and his party left. Mr. Foster they released about 12 o'clock that day. On the 6th of January Baker and a man named Kirby came into the settlement again, and Mr. Orr, with a few friends, determined to kill him or sacrifice their lives in the attempt. They rushed on him and succeeded in killing him about 11 o'clock, A. M. The man Kirby was also killed. Their bodies reached this city yesterday evening about 6 o'clock, and large numbers of persons are congregated around the tent where the bodies lie. Baker's corpse has been fully identified by many who had known him. Thus ends the career of a man who has kept a whole country in terror for months, and Mr. Orr deserves and will receive the thanks of mankind for his action in ridding the state of a man who had declared himself the enemy of his race. The above facts we got from Mr. Orr in person.—Jefferson (Texas) Simplex.

The defeat of Morrill, of Maine; the other day, is the work of that celebrated whirlwind of time that brings its revenges. A few years since, Morrill, on the question of admitting Mr. Stockton, of New Jersey, to the seat to which he had been elected, paired off with a sick Senator, Mr. Wright, of New Jersey. When the vote was taken, one Radical was necessary to exclude Stockton, and Morrill violated his Senatorial and personal honor and gave the requisite vote. He is now left out, and Mr. Stockton is or will be elected. So mote it be. Nashville Union.

A man in getting out of an omnibus a few days ago, made use of the two rows of knives as balusters to steady himself, at which the ladies took offence, and one of them said aloud, "A perfect savage!" "True," said a wag inside, "he belongs to the Pawnee tribe."

FROM TENNESSEE.

Memphis, Feb. 4.—Refugees from Crittenden county, Arkansas, report that the militia hung a planter, and are committing all kinds of vandalism. A planter was killed and robbed six miles from Little Rock. Speaker Richards has vacated the chair pending the investigation charging him with corruption in connection with the missing school fund.

ARKANSAS.

Another Horrible Outrage in Mississippi Outrage.

A Harmless and Sick Cripple Murdered Without Cause.

Frightful Atrocity.

From the Memphis Appeal, Jan. 31.

By arrivals from the neighborhood of Osceola, yesterday, we learn the sickening details of another atrocity perpetrated by fiends in human form, who are "making the murder as they make the law," in God-forsaken Arkansas.

On Carson's Lake, some eight miles from Osceola, lived a quiet, peaceable man, named Alex. Baugh. During the war, Baugh, being a cripple, took no part on either side, but remained at home and cultivated his little farm. A neighbor of his, whose son had entered the Confederate army, dying during the progress of the hostilities, he took the orphan children to his family, and cared for them like his own. When the war closed, the young soldier returned home and went to work on Baugh's farm, where he remained until the militia were sent down to Crittenden and Mississippi counties, when, fearing a repetition of the atrocities committed by them at Marion and elsewhere in his neighborhood, he took his sister, a young lady about grown, and brought her over into Tennessee, leaving her with an aunt near or in this city.

A few days ago he determined to go back and bring away his little brother or sister, a mere child. He succeeded in making the trip, returning in safety to this side; but, unfortunately and fatally, as it turned out for his kind protector, Mr. Baugh, he was seen and recognized while at the house by a negro who had some malice against him or Baugh, and this demon reported Baugh to the militia at Osceola as harboring refugees.

On Wednesday evening a party, consisting of sixteen white and four negro militia, were sent out by Monk, who is commanding at Osceola, to Baugh's place, with orders, it is said to kill him. On arriving at the house they found him ill in bed, and after gutting the house of everything they coveted or wished to destroy, they forced the poor sick cripple to crawl out of bed. After ironing him, they commenced asking him where was the young man who had run away from them? In vain he protested he did not know; they swore that unless he disclosed the hiding place they would kill him. One negro brute asked him, "Damn you, don't you think you ought to be killed?" Baugh answered that he did not know of any reason why he should. "We do!" was the answer, and with that they dragged him about a hundred yards and shot him to death—in the presence of his horror-struck and agonized wife.

POETRY.

Better than Gold.

Better than grandeur, better than gold,
Than rank and titles a thousand fold,
Is a healthy body, a mind at ease,
And simple pleasures that always please;
A heart that can feel for another's woe
And share his joy with a genial glow;
With sympathies large enough to enfold
All men as brothers, is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear,
Though tolling for bread in an humble sphere;
Doubly blessed with content and health;
Untried by the lust of cares or wealth;
Lowly living and lofty thought
Adorn and ennoble a poor man's cot
For mind and morals in nature's plan,
Are the genuine tests of a gentleman.

Better than gold is the sweet repose
Of the sons of toil when their labors close;
Better than gold is the poor man's sleep
And the balm that drops on his slumber deep,
Bringing sleeping draughts to the downy bed
Where luxury pillows his aching head;
His simple opiate labor deems
A shorter road to the land of dreams.

Better than gold is a thinking mind,
That in the realm of books can find
A treasure surpassing Australian ore
And live with the great and good of yore
The sage's lore and the poet's lay;
The glories of empire passed away;
The world's great drama will thus unfold
And yield a pleasure better than gold.

Better than gold is a peaceful home,
Where all the fireside charities come,
The shrine of love, the heaven of life,
Hallowed by mother, or sister, or wife;
However humble the home may be,
Or tried with sorrow by heaven's decree
The blessings that never were bought or sold
And centre there, are better than gold.

A CONGRESSMAN'S STATEMENT OF GOVERNMENT FRUGALITY.—Mr. Jencks is one of those sober, cool and talented men of the House of Representatives who does not make exaggerated statements. Well, he said in his lecture on Saturday night, at the University building, that from his own careful examination during the last four years, the government has been defrauded in the public service, by a hundred millions of dollars a year, and that Commissioner Wells makes the sum still greater. Was there ever such stupendous fraud and robbery before? A hundred millions or more a year stolen from the government and people? Is it not time that the Tenure of Office Act should be repealed and the responsibility of a faithful execution of the laws be placed in the President?

N. Y. Herald.

A Monarchy at Washington

(From the Marion Commonwealth.)

In a late issue of that sterling journal the Montgomery Advertiser, we find the following italicized declaration: "We will venture to say that there is not one white man out of ten in the South, who would not choose a dictator or emperor in the person of a renowned soldier like Grant rather than submit to an Oligarchy of Radical politicians in Congress."

The Advertiser is right. Nine out of ten of the intelligent white people of this section and, so far as we know, of the entire South, are satisfied that Republican institutions have signally failed to secure the ends for which they were originated; and always preferring honesty of purpose in their dealings, they are disgusted with a despotism which so boastfully pretends to be a government by the people. One despot can never originate as many tortures as a multitude of despots can. Hence we say: "Give us a monarchy and away with the present pretense of Republican Government!"

Hold on, boys.—Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, or speak hastily, or use an improper word.

Hold on to your hand when you are about to strike, steal, or do any improper act.

Hold on to your foot when you are on the point of kicking, running away from study, or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime.

Hold on to your heart when evil persons seek your company and invite you to join their games of mirth or revelry.

Hold on to your name at all times for it is more valuable to you than gold, high places, or fashionable attire.

Hold on to the truth, for it will serve well, and do you good through eternity.

Hold on to your virtue; it is above all price to you at all times and in all places.

Hold on to your good character, for it is, and always will be your best wealth.

Good for Alabama.

Alabama, so far as principle is concerned, is best off of all the so-called reconstructed States. She has consented to no iniquity, the evil that she endures temporarily has been forced upon her. It makes a true heart thrill to hear the Montgomery Advertiser speak in this fashion:—

"The Democratic party is united and sound and we will elect our Governor and a majority of the Legislature, most probably by a powerful and combined party movement at the next election. We have not taken off our caps to Gesler, or bent the knee to Basl. Better as we stand than to have elected a few milk and water Judges of Probate, &c., who might at this crisis be unable to decide on which side of the fence they were to be found."

The first bar of tin made on the Pacific coast was recently turned out at Temascal, San Diego county, Cal.

Reputation.
The question of reputation of the war debt of the United States threatens some day to be a vital issue in American politics.

Various plans for the reduction of that debt, for partial repudiation, have been suggested in political quarters; but to this time men with political aspirations have shrunk from the step beyond propositions to tax the interest on the bonds, to reduce the rate of interest, to pay the principal in greenbacks, and similar half way measures.

Yet that such an advance step might be safely taken, is shown, for instance, in the enormous circulation attained last fall by Brick Pomeroy's "Democrat," which had but little to commend it to public favor beyond its bold advocacy of open repudiation.

But pending a general election, it was natural that the leaders of both parties should avoid a new issue, the strength of which was involved in doubt, and against which so much spread-eagle declamation could be brought to bear.

There will be no general election for some time now, and the public mind is getting in a mood suitable for the calm consideration of any question affecting the interests of the people; and now men of character and ability, who have no personal aspirations to be affected, are beginning to think about repudiation as something practical, and to advocate it.

We have before us, a pamphlet printed recently by Isaac Butts, Esq., of New York, in which the propriety, right and duty of a full and absolute repudiation of the war debt, is urged at great length and with great ability, not as a party measure, not in the interest of any party, but for the good of the whole country. We have not yet had leisure to read carefully this essay, and therefore can express no opinion of the argument, which has made an impression in quarters where it was least expected.

The New York World, the great democratic organ of the bond-holders, reports ten or twelve columns, of Mr. Butts' argument, and, without attempting to answer it, tells the public creditors, that, however fallacious the reasoning may be, its effect upon the public mind, though it may not be great now while everything is prosperous, would infallibly in a season of general distress lead to the election of a repudiating Congress, and, therefore, advises them as speedily as possible to make some arrangement with the government by which they will make sure of a portion of their claims while lessening the public burdens so as to guard against the danger of repudiation.

At the same time, the World tells the bond-holders, that whatever their legal rights, the payment of the bonds in gold at their gold value when bought would be equity.

Sooner or later, the public debt of the United States will be repudiated. With economy in the public administration and integrity in the collection of taxes, it might be paid in fifteen years without increasing the present burdens of the people. But there is no probability of Congress becoming less recklessly extravagant, or the revenue department less shamelessly corrupt. And the people will not much longer submit to wholesale robbery under the forms of law for the enrichment of political adventurers and corrupt officials.

The question of repudiation will, ere long, be a practical one; and when it becomes such, the bond-holders, who have controlled Congress, and who could have defeated the reconstruction acts and restored to the Union as co-equal States the white commonwealths of the South, will have the satisfaction of knowing that in seeking to punish the whites of this section for participation in a war which gave them their untaxed wealth, they have made 700,000 negro voters for repudiation.

Selma Times.

A New Thing Under the Sun.

[From the New York Tribune, 15th.]

A gentleman called at our office the other day and showed us something which certainly appears to contradict that sweeping declaration of the wise man of old, which denies any novelty upon earth. It was a little piece of mechanism, which has already been advertised in our columns as the "Power Adding Machine." This little instrument, small enough to be carried in the coat pocket with no inconvenience than a common note book, and simple in its construction as a pair of scissors, will put together sum of figures, in quantities ranging from the limits of simple addition to the dimensions of the national debt, more rapidly than an average writer could set them down, and will announce the sum total of the whole, whether it be units or millions, before an ordinary accountant will have got fairly started on his first column.

Its accuracy is beyond the possibility of a doubt. The rapidity of its action is certainly marvelous, and the simplicity of the principle on which it acts is so obvious that the first thought that strikes the beholder on witnessing its operation is, "What a set of blockheads we all must be to have gone on muddling our poor brains over stacks of figures for so many generations and never thought of this most plain and easy way of helping ourselves." To bookkeepers, accountants, lumber dealers, and business men generally, it must prove of immense value, as an economizer of time and labor, and with a lively sympathy for the thousands who are now toiling as we have so often done, over wearisome lines and rows of obdurate figures, we trust they may soon find an "ever present help in time of trouble."

The inventor is now selling State rights to manufacture and sell his machine, and for further information see our advertising columns.

A gentleman who has been present at the performance of many earthquakes, including the one which recently came off in San Francisco, gives a singular and interesting account of the effect of an earthquake on men, women, children and domestic fowls and animals. He says that, as a rule, men run into the streets laughing, while women and children sink down and cry piteously and hysterically. Horses generally snort with terror and dash madly away.

Cattle bellow and run wildly about. Sheep huddle close together and stand still. Dogs bark vociferously and run about without any apparent object.

And according to the testimony of a lady who was standing in her yard feeding her poultry when the shock of the San Francisco earthquake was first felt the hen and chickens all ran away to the henhouse as though a shower had occurred, while her only turkey ran toward and lying flat down at her feet looked up into her face as if imploring protection.

THE SWEDENBORGIAN DOCTRINE.

According to Swedenborg, there are three heavens, consisting of three orders of angels: the first distinguished for love, the second for wisdom, and the last for obedience. All angels have lived on earth; none were created such. They are men and women in every respect; they marry, and live in societies, in cities and countries just as in the world but in happiness and glory ineffable. All in whom love to God and man is the ruling principle go to heaven at death. Between heaven and hell a perfect equilibrium is maintained. As there are three heavens, there are three hells, and every angelic society has an infernal antagonist. Hell, as a whole is called the devil and satan; there is no individual bearing that name.

How to Retain Youth.

It is a matter of no little concern, says an Exchange among men—and women, too—to preserve the bloom and freshness of their youth. Cosmetics, plumpers, and the whole offspring of artifice and deception are resorted to, in the effort to stay the furrowing ploughshare of time. External applications cannot reach or rejuvenate the decaying spirits of the man or woman who willfully and maliciously perpetrated a glaring wrong on a fellow creature. Something must be done quicken the vitality of the "inner man," if you would preserve the ruddy glow of health and rosy form of youth. An easy conscience is the all potent remedy for that elasticity of spirit which give color and beauty to the human face, and activity and energy to the physical body. Hear an old man sing:

They tell me I am handsome yet,
And all the ladies say
"Do look at him! the dear old man
Grows younger every day."

And when each friend asks, At your age
How came you free from ill?
I always answer: "In my youth
I paid my printer's bills."

Little Things in Farming.

The whole success of a farmer hinges upon timely attention to little things. This mainly makes the difference between thrift and poverty. The philosophy of success is expressed in the old adage: "For want of a nail a shoe was lost; for want of a shoe a horse was lost; for want of a horse a man was lost." It is a little thing to keep accounts of the pecuniary transactions on the farm. A half hour Saturday evening would enable farmers to know just how they stand with the world. Yet we suspect half the men who cultivate the soil never make an entry on a book; and for want of this accounts run up fearfully at the store, and many articles of luxury are purchased, for which they are unable to pay at the close of the year. Debts accumulate, the farm is mortgaged, and finally lost for want of a little paper and ink. It is a little thing to put up a tool in its place, or place of shelter for any implement or vehicle. Things are left where they were last used—the plow in the field, the cart in the yard, the chains in the stable, the harness in the wood house, the axe at the wood pile, and the rake at the corn crib. Many do not even house the expensive implements they have bought; and reapers and threshers are treated like old plows and harrows. The parts made of steel and iron grow rusty, and the wood decays.

A machine that is good for thirty years, with proper care, is used up in five by abuse. It is a very little thing to turn a nut that is loose, yet for the want of the tightening, the nut is lost, the bolt comes out, and the loaded wagon breaks down on the way to market, and a whole day for man and team is lost. It is a little thing to keep a horse properly groomed, yet for want of clean fetlocks, the skin cracks and the horse is lame, and the owner loses the use of him for weeks or months. Ventilation is a small affair, yet for the want of the health of stock in stables suffers severely, and diseases sets in. It is a small affair to provide good seed at the beginning of the year, but the whole success of a season depends upon it. It is an easy thing to deal fair with your neighbors, and make a name that is better than precious ointment. Many cheat on small occasions, do not get what they sell, and get a reputation for meanness that stands in the way of their success.

A BALCONY VOYAGE TO EUROPE.

The notion of an aerial voyage to Europe has been revived by M. Chevalier, a celebrated French aeronaut, who has just arrived in New York. He proposes starting from New York next April or May. M. Chevalier, we are told, once made the journey from Paris to the Russian frontier, a distance of over seven hundred miles, in less than five hours.

Upon another occasion, he crossed St. George's Channel from Dublin, and has accomplished, without injury, several ascensions in France and England.

The air ship in which the experiment is to be attempted is called L'Esperance. Its height is ninety-five feet, its diameter one hundred and fifty feet, and it requires one hundred and twenty thousand cubic feet of gas to inflate it. Attached to the ship is an enclosed car, capable of carrying about fifty persons; with provisions for a ten days voyage. M. Chevalier contemplates extending invitations to several members of the press to accompany him. At a late meeting of the Democratic editorial corps, it was resolved, with remarkable unanimity, that this paper will not be represented on the voyage.

Louisville Democrat.

ACT WISELY IF YOU WOULD DO WELL.

"Once upon a time" a certain man was granted all he might be able to carry across the sea in a great ship. He employed laborers and loaded his ship with costly merchandise to its utmost capacity. He set sail with fond anticipations of the great wealth he was about to possess. Before the voyage was ended he realized his folly. Hunger came and would not be appeased with hope of future feasting, or heaps of riches. Fortunately a provision laden vessel was met, and our avaricious man was but too glad to exchange half his wealth for ship stores. This still left him half, after all the pangs of hunger and trouble of loading. But, he said, he was only entitled to what he carried across, and of course had to render an account of what he took away, and did not carry across; so this took the other half he had left.

POTOMAC, Jan. 22.

We have had a sensation in our poorhouse—a sensation rivaling in intensity the story of "Perichole." Some months ago a woman, squally dressed, but the owner of a face singularly beautiful, was committed to the almshouse for vagrancy. A little child accompanied her. Her manners, though coarse, gave unmistakable evidence of former refinement. Her voice was soft and melodious, and her eyes lustrous and sparkling. She was miserably poor, both in purse and dress, and appeared to have suffered in past years much agony of mind. She claimed to have once moved in respectable circles, and registered her name in a beautiful hand as Eloise Brentano. She performed all her duties in the almshouse, and frequently sang sonnets in French and Italian. It is reported that she was formerly an opera singer of some note. When spoken to on the subject she gave an evasive answer, and preserved a long silence.

Two weeks ago, one Clarence Beaumont, a "Piquillo," tattered and torn, hungry and forlorn, was committed to the building on the charge of vagrancy. He was possessed of more than ordinary intelligence, but seems to have been outbitten by the trials of life, and his conversation was marked with coarseness and profanity. After being in the almshouse three days he manifested a strong attachment for Eloise, and sought her company constantly, waiting upon her with the assiduity of a servant, and paying her the most respectful attention. He soon gained her heart and affection. On the day before his discharge they had a long interview, and separated with mutual tears and caresses.

Now, mark the sequel. Clarence Beaumont was discharged from the poorhouse on Friday morning. Before he left, the pair had made preparations for an elopement. At 3 A. M. Eloise stole out of her cot, with her sleeping child on her arm, met her lover beneath the cold stars at the gate, and carefully crept away over the snow. At 7 A. M. they were seen arm in arm, floating down the Dutchess county turnpike, since which time nothing has been heard from them.

It now turns out that Eloise had

POETRY.

GRACE, LOVE AND GOD!
That heart is wise that flies to rest
Securely on this mighty truth:
Trust God!—what is it always best!
So seeks a stricken bird the nest—
So childhood, 'mid the woes of youth,
Sleeps lightly on the mother's breast.

This faith translates the ills of time
To the sublimest tongue; and things
Thyself the triumph of our foe—
Transfigured in its light sublime,
Grow beautiful, and bathe their wings
In the radiance of a higher clime.

Nay, more than this; the Patriarch,
Too old to stand up with his rod,
Summed human life. O, hear and mark
Three waves that urged his precious barque
Thro' all the tempests, home to God,
Guiding it like another ark;

"Alas, Almighty God appeared,
And blessed me—under Ephraim's sod
Rachel lies sleeping—all is heard!"
Only three grand emotions stirred
The grand old man—Grief, Love, and God—
The rest of life had disappeared!

So we shall find, ere life shall close,
We tread the path the Patriarch trod!
Forgot all our little woes—
Remembered only, Grief, Love, God!
Three grand words written in heart-throes
—M. N. C. K. of Mo. in Scott's Monthly.

SOMEBODY LOVES ME.

BY MRS. M. O. JOHNSON.

Two or three years ago, the Superintendent of the Little Wanderer's Home, in Boston, received one morning, a request from the Judge that he would come up to the Court House—He complied directly, and found there a group of seven little girls, ragged, dirty and forlorn, beyond what even he was accustomed to see. The Judge pointing to them (utterly homeless and friendless), said, "Mr. T.—can you take any of these?"

"Certainly, I can take them all," was the prompt reply.
"All! what in the world can you do with them?"

"I'll make women of them."
The Judge singled out one, even worse in appearance than the rest, and asked again—"what can you do with that one?"
"I'll make a woman of her," Mr. T.—repeated, firmly and hopefully. They were washed and dressed, and provided with a good supper and beds. The next morning, they went into the school-room with the rest of the children. Mary was the name of the little girl whose chance for better things the Judge thought small. During the forenoon, the teacher said to Mr. T., in reference to her, "I never saw a child like that; I have tried for an hour to get a smile, and failed."

"Mr. T.—said afterwards, himself, what her face was the saddest that he had ever seen—sorrowful beyond expression; yet she was a very little girl, only five or six years old.

After school, he called her into his office and said pleasantly: "Mary, I've lost my little pet. I used to have a little girl here that would wait on me and sit on my knee, and I loved her much. A kind gentleman and lady have adopted her, and I should like for you to take her place, and be my pet now! will you?"
A gleam of light flitted over the poor child's face, as she began to understand him. He gave her ten cents, and told her she might go to a store near by, and get some candy. While she was out, he took two or three newspapers, tore them in pieces and scattered them about the room. When she returned in a few minutes, he said to her: "Mary, will you clean up my office a little for me, pick up these papers, and make it look nice!"

She went to work with a will. A little more of this sort of management—in fact treating her as a kind father would, wrought the desired result. She went into the school room after dinner, with so changed a look and bearing, that the teacher was astonished. The child's face was absolutely radiant; and half fearful of some mental wanderings, she went to her and said:

"Mary, what is it? What makes you look so happy?"
"Oh! I've got some one to love me! SOMEBODY TO LOVE ME," the child answered earnestly, as if it were heaven come down to earth.

That was all the secret. For want of love that little one's life had been so cold and desolate that she had lost childhood's beautiful faith and hope. She could not at first believe in the reality of kindness or joy for her. It was the certainty that some one loved her, and desired her affection, that lighted the child's soul and glorified her face! Mary has since been adopted by wealthy people, and lives in a beautiful home in New England; but more than all its beauty and comfort, running like a golden thread through it all, she still finds the love of her adopted father and mother.

Shall we who have many to love, and to love us, refuse to be comforted, to see any value and use in life, any work for our hands to do, because one of our treasures may be removed from our sight—from our home and care to a better?

Proceedings of the Meeting of Old Union Men at Montgomery.
Address of the Committee.

At an adjourned meeting of the old Unionmen, held at the city of Montgomery on the 29th inst., the report of the Committee on Address was received and unanimously adopted. The Committee's address is as follows:

Claiming to have been old Unionmen, and to have acted with you in the past, and desiring to remain with you in the future, because of our abiding confidence in your patriotism and political sagacity, we feel that recent political movements make it eminently proper that we protest against any open or covert attempt to alienate you from the support of the National Democratic party, and that we invite you to join us in repudiating all overtures which entice you from the ranks of our friends and lead us to those who have shown themselves treacherous enemies.

You have been invited by persons who have recently been conspicuous in their advocacy of the principles represented by the Democratic party, to dissolve your organization in this State, and either to seek political peace and commercial prosperity in that repose which the Republican party offers to those who are content to be the slaves of tyrants, or to allow like laggards in the battle and witness the overthrow of the friends of law and order, without taking a hand or voice in vindication of the right. To do either would bring not only disgrace upon yourselves but ruin upon your State.

You have seen the Republican party violate in every essential particular the Constitution which was handed down to us from the fathers. You have seen them visit upon your people every indignity and outrage—perpetrating in wanton partnership those very crimes for which our Revolutionary sires waged war against Great Britain. You have seen them consummate their series of oppressions by thrusting upon your State at the point of the bayonet a constitution which misrepresents the wishes of the people and which was never ratified by even the illegally constituted incorporate.

Since the erection of the State government in despite of your wishes and protests, you have been doomed to see a reckless squandering of the public money, a tyrannical imposition upon you of officers whom you detest, a terrible increase of taxes upon an already overburdened people, and constant and harassing resort on the part of those who have been placed over you, to the use of every means employed by tyrants, for expropriating money from their subjects, and for wresting from the hands of the people the power to protect their rights. When you appealed to the courts, the monstrous Republican party barred the door of justice against you. When you appealed to the Executive, they deprived him of a constitutional prerogative by which he might have ameliorated your condition. When you appealed to Congress in the most piteous petition which ever welled up from a manly breast to an earthly throne, your plea was spurned either with derision or contempt. When you appealed to the ballot, this same party which prates of "God and Justice" bound hundreds of thousands of voters in political chains, and successfully conspired against the voice of a majority of the legal citizens of the United States by enfranchising nearly half a million of ignorant creatures and placing under their rule the fairest portion of the Union.

You have been compelled to witness these crimes, and in the midst of your sufferings you have seen but one party contending manfully in your behalf.—That party is the National Democratic. It has never yet yielded one iota of the right, but from beginning to the end of this terrible scheme of Radical Reconstruction has kept flying to the breeze a banner upon which every old Union man can gaze with pride and affection. It is the banner of constitutional supremacy, independence of the Judiciary and equality of the States.

You are now asked to turn from the Democratic party and seek new allies. Where could you find them, even if you could prevail upon yourselves to desert those who throughout your trial since the war, have never deserted you?—Not in the Republican party. You could only find allies there by forsaking every principle you have held sacred, and consorting with the most ignorant and most unscrupulous of men. Not in a third party. Such a party would have but a local existence, would be impotent for good, and productive only of evil.

It would attract no appreciable element from the Republican ranks, and would only divide those who owe a duty to stand united against the common oppressors.

History teaches us that in no free country it is possible for three political parties to exist for any length of time. Political questions may change, and parties may change with them, but throughout all the mutations of history, there remain but two sides to each impending question, a right side and a wrong side. There may be incidental questions of greater or less importance, bearing upon the fundamental principle involved, but such questions are always solved by mutual concession and compromise, as our fathers solved the problem of a Constitutional Federal Union. In the question before us now, that of the rights of the State in the Union, there can be, from the nature of the case, but two sides,—the one occupied by the Republican party, which contends for the supremacy of the Federal Government over the State in certain matters affecting domestic institutions, and the other occupied by the Democratic party which contends for the free and independent exercise by the State of those rights reserved to her by the Constitution. This issue is so plain and palpable, and draws the lines of party demarcation so distinctly that only he who would play the traitor could fail to distinguish the colors of his camp. Impatient and ambitious men may urge you to lose sight of the fundamental issue before the country by appeals to incidental questions which are not now before us; of which, before the next general election, may be solved by the marie of events. We beg you to refuse to wander away from the plain highway of duty to follow such a devious path. Whatever differences may exist among the Democratic party of Alabama, involving questions of policy, simply, should be submitted, as is customary in all great political organizations, to their representatives, in Convention, and every member, whatever may be his views, should be entitled to a respectful hearing.

We are confident that it is foreign to the policy of the Democratic party to suppress the freest interchange of opinion, and we are equally confident that no cautious opposition will be offered to the administration of Gen. Grant. Determined to sustain the Government in the spirit of constitutional liberty, the Democrats of Alabama will honestly approve in the conduct of the Administration whatever they believe to be right, as they will certainly condemn whatever may appear to them to be wrong. It is their sincere hope that the laws will be administered by Gen. Grant and Gov. Smith in such a way as to command the respect and patriotic support of all the people. The Democratic party do not intend to sit in judgment upon our rulers in a spirit of mere partisanship.

We beseech you to heed not the insidious appeals of those who would divide your ranks upon such minor questions of policy in order to make you an easy victim for the common enemy.—There can be no successful solution of such questions of policy until the fight is won on the great question of principle. There can be no commercial prosperity or individual wealth until the pillars of the State rest upon the solid foundation of intelligence and virtue.

We appeal to you to spare the overtures which are being made to you in the name of peace and quiet. Such peace and quiet is the repose of despotism, and not the tranquility of Right and Law.

Terrible and Bloody Tragedy.

Three Young Men Shoot and Kill Each Other Instantly, at Marianna, Arkansas. The Prosecution Most Trivial!

Sad Result of Carrying Deadly Weapons!—Arkansians Rapidly Becoming another "Dark and Bloody Ground."

(From the Memphis Avalanche)

One of the most painful and tragic events that ever transpired in Arkansas, occurred on Thursday last, at Marianna, a village in Phillips county, 25 miles northwest of Helena. The actors in this bloody tragedy were all young men of good standing and excellent character, men of the very best stamp, brave, generous, and in the very heyday of youthful manhood, and their sudden and terrible dissolution has not only shrouded three homes in dismal mourning, but cast a gloom over the whole county.

The particulars of this terrible event, as far as we have been able to gather them from parties living near Marianna, are briefly these: It seems that on Thursday of last week, while Mr. Tom Freeman was driving a wagon and team in the direction of Marianna, he was accosted by Mr. Tom Slaughter, of Mississippi, who, together with his cousin, Mr. Arthur Slaughter, was riding on horseback in the same direction. The remark made by the first Mr. Slaughter was something to the effect that "he was d—d glad they could afford at least one white driver in Arkansas!" Mr. Freeman, it is alleged, being rather deaf, interpreted this remark as an insult, and bitterly cursed the young man. They or one of them, remarking that it was all right, said they would see him in Marianna. Upon the arrival of the wagon at Marianna, Tom Slaughter ordered Freeman to dismount, drawing a pistol at the time, which, it is supposed, accidentally was discharged, wounding Freeman in the right leg. Immediately killed Tom Slaughter, the ball passing through his body in the region of the heart. Mr. Arthur Slaughter being present, leveled his pistol and fired upon Freeman, shooting him through the head, not, however, before Freeman had simultaneously fired, mortally wounding Arthur Slaughter, who died instantly. This in a few minutes three brave young fellows were sent to their long account, without warring and from a trifling cause. Mr. Arthur Slaughter's father Captain H. P. Slaughter, is a prominent citizen of the county, and was a member of the Legislature in 1860-7.

Consumption.—A writer in the Atlantic Monthly gives some startling evidence to prove that consumption is caused by the dampness surrounding the abodes of those attacked by the disease. He says that extended and repeated observations in England and Massachusetts show beyond a doubt that, other things being equal, consumption with the moisture of the localities where they live. He thinks that consumption is in the ordinary sense, a hereditary disease; and believes that with proper precautions in building houses in dry places, and in draining wet places where houses are already built, this terrible disease may be reduced to one-third of its victims at once, and may be eventual y banished from among men entirely.

Four persons, in one family, recently died in Oneida county, N. Y., from trichiniasis, and a microscopic examination of the muscles of one of the deceased revealed the presence of myriads of trichinae in an active state. The little worms look like, under the microscope, like living, writhing snakes. The salt pork and sausages of which the deceased had eaten were full of trichinae in the encysted state. This pork was raised and fattened, as usual, on corn and grain. There was nothing in the conduct or appearance of the animals when fattening, or the look of the meat to indicate disease. The sausages were made of raw meat, and then smoked until quite black and dry; as is the German custom, and were eaten without cooking.

Railroad Accident.
On Sunday the mail train going north ran off the track a few miles above Silver Run.

The engine and several freight cars next to it kept on the track, but two passenger cars, the baggage car and a box car, which was used as Express car, were thrown into the ditch.

We are sorry to learn that one of the brakemen, whose name we were unable to learn, was killed on the spot, and the baggage master was slightly hurt. Though the trucks of the passenger cars were badly broken up, none of the passengers were injured. The train was only detained about an hour behind its usual time.

The cause of the accident, has not, as yet, been discovered, but it is supposed to be originated through the breaking of a coupling.—St. Louis Times.

Small-Pox in California.
Letters and exchanges from California continue to bring fearful accounts of the prevalence of small-pox on the Pacific coast. In San Francisco, the pestilence is full, and funerals are of constant occurrence, and the burials in many cases taking place at night. The Chinese it is stated, have suffered severely, three cases out of five of the patients belonging to this nation terminating fatally.

This unusual mortality arises from the ignorance of the native doctors. Melancholy as the accounts from San Francisco are, the towns in the southern part of California are still great sufferers. Malignant small-pox is attacking almost every one, and vaccination does not seem to afford any protection. Hospitals have been hastily organized, but no beneficial effects from them have as yet been perceived. Whole families are swept away, and in one instance a father and four children died within forty-eight hours.—San Juan, a town of 1,000 inhabitants, in Monterey county, about 100 miles from San Francisco, has lost 160 out of 400 small-pox patients. In the country, away from the reach of skillful medical advice, two-thirds of the cases, it is asserted, prove fatal.

The State of Affairs in Greece.
The old Monitor, which since its release from official trammels, has become the best paper in Paris for news, takes a very gloomy view of future prospects. One fact is established beyond question—the firmness of Greece holds the whole diplomacy of Europe in check. The Hellenic government, anxious to conciliate public opinion in Europe, has charged Mr. Constantine, the Athenian, having refused to lead King George money, the Greek Cabinet will, no doubt, have recourse to an issue of paper money. Great excitement continues to prevail throughout the Hellenic peninsula. The advisers which we receive from Constantinople continue to represent the Sultan as ready to open the campaign in Greece as soon as it receives the news of the conclusion of the Congress. Great activity reigns at the French Foreign Office, the Austrian Embassy and the Italian Legation. It is generally believed that the Eastern question is not the only one which occupies public opinion. An Austro-Prussian difficulty is very likely soon to spring up.

STATE OF ALABAMA.
A. DITOR'S OFFICE.

Sir:—Your attention, and the attention of the county officers who are charged with the execution of the Revenue Laws of this State, is called to the following directions, which will be enforced as decisions of this office in construction of the Revenue Act.—See section 120.

No proceedings will be commenced against persons subject to pay license, for non-compliance with the law, until the third Monday of March, 1869.—See section 111. All persons engaged in any business subject to license during the month of January, are liable for the full amount of an annual license.

Any license granted during the year 1868, when the laws then in force were complied with, is good and valid for the time named in such license.

No money can be refunded to any party who may have taken out a license during 1868, for any business, profession, or occupation, which is exempt from such license under the new Revenue Law; nor can any portion of such license tax paid by them be applied in payment of any license now required by law.

Where the license is reduced under the present law, no person can have any part of his license, paid during 1868, refunded or applied pro rata upon present year's license; upon the plea that the money was paid near the close of the year 1868.

"Dealers in spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors, in quantities of one quart or less than one quart, are deemed Retail Dealers, while those selling in quantities over one quart are deemed Wholesale Dealers."

"License for Retail Dealers, in an incorporated town of less than one thousand inhabitants, shall be the same as charged for any town not incorporated, or for a village.—See sec. 112 § 4.

Dealers in Guns, Pistols, or other Firearms, and also dealers in Tobacco or Cigars, are liable for license, whether these articles are sold in connection with other merchandise, or to the extinction of all other articles of traffic or trade.

Public Feed Stables, or Stables where a charge is made for feeding horses, mules, &c; are deemed Livestock Dealers; also, those where horses, buggies, carriages, &c; are hired.

"Each exhibition" of Circus, Menagerie, or Museum, &c. shall be construed to read; "each performance," for which a charge is made for admission.

Jenny Lind Tables are liable to license tax the same as Daggle Tables, if used to play for money, of where pay is required, directly or indirectly, for the use of such tables.

No license is valid outside of the county where issued. Such a license made by parties in cities or towns, by removal, must be reported to the Judge of Probate, and approved; otherwise, the license shall be considered as forfeited. (This ruling does not apply to Attorneys-at-law.)

The County Commissioners' Court may or may not add to the price of any license imposed by the State, at the option of such Court; but in no case can the Court levy an amount to exceed the price charged by the State.—See section 114.

County Solicitors are specially charged with the enforcement of penalties for violations of the Revenue Laws of the State, and will institute proceedings in all cases against persons who attempt to evade the same, & act in open violation thereof.

SUPERIOR COTTON.—We were shown on Wednesday last, by Mr. T. J. Stephens, of Rome, Ga., a specimen of Brazilian Cotton, raised in Russell County, Ala., which was certainly by far the finest we have ever seen, both for length and fine silkiness of staple. Its superiority was very manifest when compared with the common and Nankin cotton, and comparison, as well as microscopic examination has shown it to be superior even to the best sea island. It will grow well in this latitude, or in fact any where that the common cotton will, and produce more to the acre. It is manufactured with silk extensively in France, and will sell for double the price of ordinary cotton.

It is probably a few bushels of the seed may be deposited with Mr. E. L. Woodward of this place. A specimen of the staple can be seen at this office.

We invite special attention to the advertisement of Smith & Riddle, Grocery, Produce and Hardware Merchants of Oxford, Ala. These experienced, competent, and accommodating Merchants have now on hand, and will keep constantly supplied with a full and complete assortment of the best and most choice articles, and sell at prices to give the most perfect satisfaction to all their patrons. We assure our friends, throughout all the surrounding country, who may wish to purchase for their own consumption, or to sell again, that they will find it difficult to do better than call on these gentlemen. Orders for large or small quantities of Groceries will be promptly filled by them. We hope to see their already extensive and flourishing trade greatly increased this Spring.

Oxford, Calhoun County, Ala.

We passed one day of the present week in this thriving and rapidly growing town, in social and business intercourse with its hospitable, liberal and enterprising inhabitants. We were truly pleased to see the many evidences of thrift and enterprise, on every hand. There are some ten or twelve buildings now in process of erection, among them some very neat residences, some business houses, and some for manufacturing purposes. A brief space of our limited time was spent at the Collegiate Institute, with our friends Messrs. Borden and Dodson, the Associate Principals of the Institute. We were pleased to find it liberally patronized, as it certainly deserves to be under their competent, diligent and superior management, having now 181 pupils.

Among the late improvements of the place, the Messrs McKibbins have erected a steam mill and also iron foundry, both now in operation; but they are still going on with additions and improvements, and will soon have one of the finest Merchant Flouring Mills in the country. These gentlemen are skillful architects and mechanics, and very energetic and enterprising business men, deserving not only the liberal patronage, but the thanks and gratitude of any community. May success and prosperity attend them.

A correspondent of the Macon Telegraph, a short time since visited Hon. A. H. Stephens, and among other things reports his having stated as follows: "In this connection I would add that it is not correct, as I here see it in the papers to-day stated, that I have accepted the Professorship of History and political Science, lately created and tendered to me in the University of Georgia. The state of my health and existing engagements, constrain me to decline it, at least for the present."

GENERAL GRANT.

I asked Mr. Stephens what he thought would be the course of General Grant as President, and while he says but little upon public matters, his reply was as follows: "All the country wants is good government. For General Grant personally I entertain the highest esteem. From the time I first met him at City Point, in 1865, I have regarded, and still regard, him as one of the most remarkable men I ever met. He possesses one of the best combinations of elements of character of perhaps any man living. I do not believe he will be easily influenced, much less controlled, by any person. He will act from the dictates of his own judgment, and what he believes to be the line of his duty. I regard him as a man of great generosity and magnanimity, neither selfish nor ambitious; and I believe he meant all that the words import when he said 'Let us have Peace.' General Grant, however, no more than any other man, can have all things as he might desire. The future of the country, therefore, is still enveloped in great uncertainty. All the patriot at the South can do is to bear in patience the present—exercise a generous confidence and look hopefully for time's development."

Grant and His Party.

Gen. Grant was nominated by a party and he was elected by a party, but the circumstances under which he was nominated and elected, give him a peculiar right to reject the shackles of party. He was not nominated by the Radical party on account of any conviction or impression that he agreed with that party in all its measures and policies, for the whole country had conclusive evidence that he did not. He was nominated simply because the Radical leaders knew, that, whatever he was for or whatever against, they must either take him as their candidate or encounter inevitable defeat. They took him not as a choice but as the alternative of political ruin. And, even in taking him, they gave out, though falsely, that, if they should not like him, the Democracy would. He has a right therefore to consider himself especially free from responsibility or accountability to party domination. He, without the Radical party, would still be Gen. Grant; the Radical party, without Gen. Grant, would be nothing. It has not made him, but he has made it, and he can perhaps unmake it.

Even when Gen. Grant was nominated by the Radical party at Chicago, he was not called on to give, and he did not give, any pledge or promise to conform his opinion and action to its opinion and action. The platform submitted to him for his endorsement was purposely unspecific and vague; it was even equivocal. He gave only a general assent to the leading principles of his party and declared his general sympathy with its views and objects. The party ventured to demand no more. It professed to be satisfied. What General Grant owes to party let him pay. The vast obligation that he owes to the country, let him fulfill.—Louisville Courier.

Grant's Way to Peace.

A Washington correspondent of the Galveston News says that a gentleman lately asked General Grant if he had intimated to an ex Colonel in the Confederate army that he would give him an appointment after his accession, and, being answered in the affirmative, asked on what principle that was done. To which Gen. Grant replied: "Sir, the only great principle that I have promised the American people is, that we must have 'Peace,' and when I find a man who fought in this war, on either side, who heartily desires peace, and will support the laws of the country, and is competent, I shall ask no other question about the propriety of his appointment."

[From the Talladega Reporter]
Innocent Amusement.

In all small towns and villages there is a want of places of innocent amusement, and recreation from the population is not sufficient to sustain them. Hence no theatres to visit during the long winter nights, to relieve the monotony of the sea-on and revivify the spirits. Then is not commendable to supply this desideratum by combination of the citizens of such towns and give innocent entertainments at a trifling cost, such as Concerts, Christmas Trees and Santa Claus Exhibitions, Valentine Drawings and Suppers, Whist and Dancing parties, &c., provided these different amusements are placed under the immediate control of the church and the profits arising therefrom placed to the credit of the same. We are aware some objections may be urged to dancing, but we cannot consider them valid, provided said parties are conducted by the church and attended and controlled by the Pastors or Ministers of the same. Certainly no one can object to the exercise and graceful bearing of dancing, the valid objections arise from the company admitted and the liberties taken in the dancing room, but these would be avoided by placing the management with the church and the superintendence with the Ministry. Our young people must and will have amusement and it is not the duty of the church to control these amusements and sanctify them to the glory of God, if possible.

FROM GEORGIA.

Atlanta, Feb. 12.—The Legislature to-day passed almost unanimously, a resolution to elect Representatives to Congress on the first Monday in April.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.

New Orleans, Feb. 12.—A dispatch from Jefferson, Texas, reports the burning of the steamerboat Millie Stephens, in Caddo Lake, Red River, last night, at midnight. Sixty-three lives were lost, among them W. A. Bradwell and T. J. Lyon, and his son Frank, of New Orleans. The survivors, forty-three in number, were taken to Jefferson on the steamer Dixie. The boat and cargo are a total loss. Amount not ascertained.

A Good Day's Work.—The New York World, of the 16th, says: "Commodore Vanderbilt made ten million dollars in one day recently; so it was stated in open court yesterday. If this is true, and it probably is, it is undoubtedly the largest sum ever made in the same time by one man since the beginning of history."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Blackburn introduced a resolution removing the political disabilities of all persons in the United States imposed by the 14th amendment, which was referred to the Reconstruction Committee.

DARBY'S Prophylactic Fluid.

Letter from Hon. Alex. H. Stephens, of Ga. Savannah, Ga. Sept. 20th. 1865.

Darby's Prophylactic Fluid is an article of little cost, but great value. Its domestic as well as medicinal uses are numerous, while its specialties are most wonderful. I have not been without it for ten years, and no head of a family who can afford to have it should be without it.
ALEX. H. STEPHENS.

The Wonderful Family Medicine.

Letter from the Surgeon General of the late Confederate States.
Richmond, Va., Jan'y 14, 1869.
Jno. Darby & Co., No. 100 William St. N. Y. Gentlemen: I have received your letter of the 15th of December, 1868, calling my attention to your (Darby's) Prophylactic Fluid. I most cheerfully state the Fluid was furnished to, and extensively used by the Surgeons in charge of General Hospitals in the Confederate Service with great benefit to the patients. All the surgeons making a favorable report—a great deal of it was used in the hospitals. Very Respectfully Your Obedt Servt, SAMT. PRESTON MOORE, M. D.

THE ASTONISHING DISINFECTANT!
EMERY COLLEGE, OXFORD, GA.
December 28th, 1868.

Prof. Darby, Dear Sir:—Having not been engaged for many years in the active duties of the Medical Profession, I am only superficially acquainted with the claims of your Prophylactic Fluid, but am well acquainted with its chemical elements. While, therefore, I cannot speak experimentally of the value of the compound, yet the disintegrating and Therapeutic properties of the agents employed in its composition, together with the well known reputation of its discoverer, as a chemist, authorize me to regard its merits as of a high order;—on the whole it must be considered as a valuable contribution to the class of articles to which it belongs.

These views, I may add, are sustained by the testimony of our competent judges, who have tested its properties.

Believe me, dear Sir,
Yours Respectfully,
A. MEANS, M. D., LL. D.

ALABAMA INSANE HOSPITAL,
Tuscaloosa, Dec. 22, 1868.

Messrs. John Darby & Co., 100 William St. N. Y. Gentlemen:—I received your Circulars of the 10th inst., asking an expression of opinion from me as to the merits of your Prophylactic Fluid. The preparation has been so generally used by the profession and public at large, and so universally esteemed, that it seems to me to need no further recommendation.

As a Disinfectant, and remedial agent too, when indicated, it is well adapted for every similar preparation. We use your compound in our Hospital very extensively in this Hospital, and could not do without them. I consider yours the best and most elegant preparation of the kind manufactured.

Respy Yours, &c., P. BRYCE, M. D.,
Superintendent of the Alabama Insane Hospital.

A Perfect Pain Killer.
WESTERN FEMALE COLLEGE,
Savannah, Ga. Jan. 9, 1869.
Prof. Darby:—When I was President of the Georgia Female College of Georgia, I used your Prophylactic Fluid in the College with decided success, such as a distemper and as a remedy for sore and burns, &c. it was efficacious and proved to be what it is represented. Every family and public institution ought to have it. I wish you great success in the sale of it.
W. M. A. HARRIS, D. D.,
Pres. W. F. College, Savannah, Ga.

Repeal of the Civil Tenure Law.

Respecting the civil tenure question very decidedly active canvass has been made of the Senate, and within three days the aspect of the matter has materially changed. The situation of the Senate a week ago, by direct evidence, stood twenty-eight for repeal to thirty-eight against it. The carpet-baggers, however, have been generally secured by the friends of Grant, by being told that a vote against repeal forfeited all claims to patronage under the new administration. As things now stand they will vote for the repeal unless brought up by the ins before a week and held to the bargain in black and white for money down. All the Senators who voted for impeachment will vote to sustain the law, except Morton and perhaps Sherman. All the Radicals who voted against impeachment will support the repeal except, perhaps Trumbull. This makes the vote against repeal probably thirty-three, and the vote for repeal, if the carpet-baggers go for it, thirty, leaving three Senators in doubt. As Mr. Thayer is known to favor repeal, the doubtful are reduced to two, viz: Messrs. Ferry and Prentiss. On this question it is plain that the carpet-baggers hold the balance of power, and they are in the market. On the whole, the prospect is in favor of repeal. To-night Mr. Morton is sanguine of repeal. Mr. Williams is skeptical that the law will stand. It all depends on the Southern Senators. The older Radicals, Wade, Sumner, Chandler, Howard, and Pomeroy, are personally requesting the carpet-baggers to stand by the law, while Fowler, Grimes, and other Senators are demanding that if the Southern men expect anything from Grant they must rescind the law. The House Radicals are using the same arguments. The excitement to-night is earnest, and the return of Mr. Henderson, whose one vote may decide the matter, is awaited with interest.

Wash. Cor. N. Y. World.

"Mack" in a letter to the Cincinnati Enquirer of the 13th, says:

The members of the House of Representatives find themselves in a worse plight, through the Tenure-of-office Bill, than they hoped to leave Andy Johnson in when they enacted that remarkable specimen of modern legislation.

Even-handed justice is about to commend the poisoned chalice to their own lips. The Senate refuse to repeal the act, and is not likely soon to yield that refusal, for while the act remains in force the Federal patronage is practically taken away from the members of the House and kept at the disposal of the Senate. Under the old system of appointments and removals a member could get the President to make what changes he pleased in his district, but under the Tenure Bill the first man to be consulted is the Senator from the State in which the change is proposed. It was not to "untie the hands of Grant" that the House so promptly passed the repeal. It was to give its own Republican members facilities for helping their friends to office. The Senate very well understands the advantage it possesses as the matter stands, and is not likely to relinquish the control it now has. The effect as to Ohio is to make John Sherman the arbiter of every office seeker's fate, and thus, of course, to give him a tremendous lever to assist in his own re-election two years hence. No change can be made without Sherman's consent first had and obtained. There is talk that the House is likely to make a direct issue with the Senate on this question. The only way by which it can be done, so far as I can see, is for the House to adopt the repealing clause as an amendment to an appropriation bill, and by refusing to appropriate, compel the Senate to choose. Between indorsing its action and stopping the wheels of government for want of appropriation. Such means have often been resorted to before, and the Senate has generally been compelled to surrender. What it will do in this case, should the attempt be made, as I have indicated, remains to be seen.

Retribution.

A Chain of Singular and Just Coincidences.

A singular chain of coincidences in connection with the brutal assault made by some ruffians of Blount county upon the Rev. Mr. Neal, a minister of the gospel, of the Methodist Church South, last year, and which was fully reported in our columns, has just been communicated to us.

It will be remembered that while returning from divine service he was set upon by a gang of desperadoes, stripped, tied to a tree, and brutally flogged with hickory switches, for no other offense than his connection with what these truly loyal villains were pleased to term a rebel church.

The civil authorities being loyal, sympathized with them rather than with their innocent victim, and the strong arm of the law was never invoked against them. But a stronger power than that which administers human law witnessed their crime and in the mysterious dispensation of His providence, has brought retribution upon them.

We learn that out of the entire number of ruffians, three have since died, one was recently thrown from his horse and received injuries which are believed to be mortal, while another is now lying in jail from crime.

Even the tree to which Mr. Neal was tied by his persecutors has been suitably by the same means, but ever watchful power, and is dead.

Though the mills of God grind slowly, yet they grind exceeding small.

Though with patience He stands waiting, with exactness grinds He all.

POETRY.

GONE TO SLEEP.

Come hither, my baby, my darling,
My lily, my wonderful rose!
The white-bosomed flowers in the garden
Begin their soft petals to close;
The bees have gone home from the clover
The swallows are under the eaves,
And down in the orchard the robin
Broods over her nest in the leaves.

Come hither, baby, my beauty, my darling!
Your eyes are heavy with sleep;
Your little red mouth has grown silent,
And scarcely its laughter can keep;
Lay off the white robe from your shoulders
Unclasp the small shoes from your feet
Oh, dainty blossom of Eden,
I kiss you, my lily, my sweet!

Do you feel the cold wind coming softly,
And see the young moon in the sky?
The clouds sailing over the sunset,
The bats flitting silently by?
Do you hear how the cattle are lowing
Along the green lane by the hill?
And the brook running over the pebbles
With music that never is still!

Now hush while I sing to you, baby,
A song of the angels above,
That come on invisible pinions
To watch o'er the children they love.
So all through your beautiful dreaming,
The voice of your mother shall creep,
Lest hearing the harpings celestial,
Your soul should fly homeward in sleep?

Retribution.

A Startling Instance of the Justice of Heaven.

Form the Lucy's (Ohio) Forum,
Feb. 13.

The retributive justice of Heaven has never been more clearly shown or exemplified than in the fate of the Judge and jury who acquitted the murderer of the lamented Bolmeyer.

The circumstances surrounding the case are too well known to justify rehearsal at this time. Briefly, a brutal beast bearing the name of Brown, in cold blood, and without the slightest provocation, assassinated Bolmeyer on a public street at Dayton, in broad daylight, in the presence of numerous witnesses, for the only reason that Bolmeyer was the editor-in-chief of the Dayton Empire, a democratic paper. Brown, being fearful of the just indignation of the people of Montgomery County, prayed for a change of venue, had the case transferred to the local County of Miami, after a mock trial was acquitted by a jury organized for that purpose by a local court and Sheriff, notwithstanding the proof of guilt was incontestable and overwhelming.

This was the judgment of man. Now witness the judgment of Almighty God!
Every jurymen on that panel that acquitted Brown of the murder of Bol-meyer has since been bereft of reason and natural death, or committed suicide, and as a fitting expiation to this arch of retributive justice, Judge Parsons, who presided over the mock trial, died a few days since a horrible death
in the Lunatic Asylum at Dayton.

Verily those who "sow the wind shall reap the whirlwind."

The Telegraph as a Thief Catcher.

The World says the New York Express is moralizing in the fact that a knavis Chinaman in California ("Honk-Kee") having contracted the barbarian vice of swindling, has cheated sundry merchants in San Francisco out of $18,
000 and, getting on board the Pacific
Mail steamship, fleeing to the Central Flower Kingdom. In this way he hoped to put between himself and those whom he had robbed, first, some 10, 000 miles of ocean, but—

"A telegram from San Francisco bears the tidings of his crime to New York. New York sends it by cable across the Atlantic to London, London through France and under the Mediterranean to Alexandria, Alexandria by the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf to Bombay, Bombay to Ceylon, and Ceylon by the Pacific to Hong-Kong, and Hong-Kong by the ship's gangway at Hong-Kong or Shanghai, dreaming of opium and many-eyed daughters of the Sun in the Land of Flowers, his plaid soul will be disconcerted by the tap of a bamboo on the shoulder and a voice of doom will murmur an ungentle summons in his ear."

Wherefore exclaims the "World"—
"Poor Hong-Kee! The bad morals of the Christians have corrupted him,
and in the steam engine of that Christianity has he put his hope. But the literal 'chain-lightning' of the Christians is after him, to outstrip their steamship and to teach him in sorrow and in shame
how much better is a pot of honest rice and the teachings of Confucius therewith, than many thousands of illegal dollars and a warrant of arrest therewith."

Smallpox prevails quite extensively throughout Minnesota, and there is much alarm.

The smallpox is said to prevail
alarmingly at St. Louis, Cincinnati,
Milwaukee and Chicago.

A man with a scolding wife, on being asked what he did for a living, replied that he kept a hot-house.
