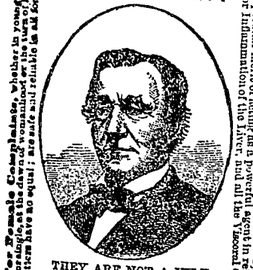
The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.
$100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
They invigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are cured by these Bitters.
Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.
PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.
For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known: its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.
Although advanced Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear. Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.
Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.
Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.
So generally are its virtues known, that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or to more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,
For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond belief, and we believe without a parallel in the history of ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.
Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.
For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.
For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

The following beautiful poem we have not seen for many months, but it will well bear republishing, as the exquisite pathos of its meaning and purity of thought and sentiment pervading every line make it eternal. We received it from a lady friend who well appreciates its tenderness:

Which.

Which shall it be? Which shall it be?
I looked at John, John looked at me,
Dear, patient John, who loved me yet,
As well as though my locks were jet,
And when I find that I must speak
My voice sounds strangely low and weak.
"Tell me again what Robert said."
This is his letter.—"I will give
A house and lands while you shall live,
If in return, from out your seven,
A child to me for aye is given."

I looked at John's old garments worn
And thought of all that he had borne,
Of poverty, and wants and care,
Which I, though willing, could not share.
I thought of seven mouths to feed,
Of seven little children's need,
And then of this. "Come John," said I,
"We'll choose among them as they lie Asleep." So, hand in hand,
Dear John and I survey'd our band.

First to the cradle lightly stepped,
Where Lilian, the baby, slept,
Her glory 'gainst the pillow white.
Softly her father stooped to lay
His rough hand down in loving way,
When dream or whisper made her stir,
And huskily he said, "Not her, Not her."

We knelt beside the trundle bed,
And one long ray of lamp light shed
Across the boyish faces there
In dreams so pitiful and fair,
I saw on James' rough, red cheek a tear
Undried, "He's but a baby too," said I,
And kissed him as we hurried by.

Pale, patient, Robbie's angel face,
Still in his sleep bore suffering's trace.
"Nay, for a thousand crowns not him,"
We whispered, while our eyes were dim.
Poor Dick! bad Dick! our wayward son,
Turbulent, restless, idle one,
Can he be spared? Nay, he who gave
Bids us befriend him to the grave.
Only a mother's love can be Patient enough for such as he.
"And so," said John, "I would not dare
To send him from her loving care,"

Then stole we softly up above,
And knelt by Mary, child of love;
Quite silently he lifted up a curl that lay
Across her cheek in wilful way,
And shook his head, "Nay love not thee."
The while my heart beat audibly
Only one more, our eldest lad,
Trusty and truthful good and glad,
So like his father—"No, John no,
I cannot, will not let him go."

So we wrote, in courteous way,
We could not give one child away.
Happy in truth that not one face
Is missed from its accustomed place;
Thankful to work for all the seven,
Trusting the rest to One in Heaven.

The Stanton Bonds.

The following is the Resolutions finally adopted by the House, and passed by the Senate in relation to the Bond question.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Alabama, that the Governor be and he is hereby authorized and required to enquire into and ascertain the amount of bonds loaned to the Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad Company, and of the bonds of said company endorsed by the State, and when such amount is ascertained the Governor shal make provision by temporary loan or from moneys in the State Treasury, not otherwise appropriated to pay the interest upon said bonds, whenever the coupons attached thereto shall be presented to him or to any agent he may appoint for that purpose.
Provided, That no interest shall be paid upon any of said bonds not proved to be held on the 1st day of January, 1871, by innocent and bona fide purchasers.
Provided further, That no interest shall be paid upon any of said bonds, in the hands of said Railroad Company or merely hypothecated by them, any in corporator or agent thereof, it being the object and intent of this enactment to pay interest only to innocent and bona fide purchasers of valid claims against the State.
Sec. 2. Be it further enacted That whenever the Governor shall have paid any of said interest he may proceed under any of the statutes providing a summary remedy in such case or according to any forms of law which he may deem best and sufficient for the interest of the State to recover the amount so paid from the said Alabama & Chattanooga Railroad Company.

HON. "BOB." TOOMBS.

Why He Could Not Celebrate Horace Greeley's Birthday.

The citizens of Monshire Summit, Ohio, celebrated Horace Greeley's birthday on the 3d inst. An invitation was extended to Mr. Toombs to be present, to which he returned the following characteristic reply:

AUGUSTA, GA., Jan 25, 1871.
GENTLEMEN: I have received your letter inviting me to participate in the celebration of the sixteenth birthday of the Hon. Horace Greeley, and but for a pledge I am under not to cross Mason & Dixon's line until I can "call the roll of my slaves" at the base of Bunker Hill Monument, I should be with you on an occasion which awakens some pleasant and many bitter memories.
Georgia, you will remember, went quite reluctantly out of the Union. I was enabled to rush the ordinance of secession through our Legislature by reading in the House the editorials of the New York Tribune, upholding the right of the Southern States to set up a government for themselves, and denying the right of the Federal Government to keep us in the Union by coercion. For this timely service I then cherish a warm feeling of gratitude towards Mr. Greeley; but a change has come over the spirit of my dream." All things considered, taking Georgia out of the Union was the worst day's work I ever did.

Instead of our slave roll-call, things have turned end for end, and now slaves call the roll for their former masters. The negro has been elevated not only to a personal equality, but has actually become the representative of white men. I do not, however, refer to this painful and mortifying reverse in the fortunes of the South by way of reproof or complaint. Mr. Greeley, in advocating the right of secession, "meant well," though it was "a great mistake," and while I cannot forget that I was cruelly misled, I can lay my hand upon my heart and cheerfully say that I forgive him.
Very truly yours,
ROBERT TOOMBS.

The Terms of Peace.

The conditions of peace settled between Germany and France are much more moderate than the public have been led to expect. The pecuniary indemnity exacted but three hundred and twenty millions of thalers, or two hundred and fifty million in our money. On the other hand, the territorial indemnity also is no larger than that which the Germans have from the first required, namely, the whole of Alsace and Lorraine, including the important fortresses of Metz, Nancy, and Strasbourg. The pride of the French is also spared the humility of the march of the German army through Paris, and the Germans will at once return to their own country by the most convenient routes.
Now the question arises what sort of a permanent government the French will establish. It has been rumored that the influence of Mr. THEIRS would be exerted to decide this question in favor of the restoration of the Orleans monarchy with the charter of 1830. This is not impossible, but it is not to be taken for certain until it is officially verified. All that the outside world will desire is, that whatever the decision may be, it shall be made freely by the French people; and then, whether they determine in favor of a constitutional monarchy, with the Count DE PARIS as King, or in favor of a republic, other nations can have no right to find fault with their action.
N. Y. Sun.

GOOD HABITS.—Remember, boys, before you are twenty you must establish a character that will serve you all your life. As habits grow stronger every year, any turning into a new path is more and more difficult; therefore it is often harder to unlearn than to learn; on this account a famous flute player used to charge double price to those pupils who had been taught before by a poor master. Try to reform a lazy, unthrifty or drunken person, and in most cases you fail; for the bad habit, whatever it is, has so wound itself into the life that it cannot be uprooted. The best habit of all is the habit of care in the formation of good habits.

FELON ON THE FINGER.—Many persons suffer extremely from felons on the finger. These afflictions are not only very painful, but not unfrequently occasion permanent crippling of the members affected. The following simple prescription is recommended as a cure for this distressing ailment: Take common rock salt, such as is used for salting down beef or pork, and mix with spirits of turpentine in equal parts; put it on a rag and wrap around the affected part, and as it gets dry, put on more, and in twenty-four hours you are cured. It will do no harm to try it.

PEACH TREES.—Every sensible person loves good, nice, ripe juicy peaches, because they are good. Now is the season to set out peach trees, and the season from which to draw the dirt from the roots of the old trees. Take your hoe and draw the dirt from the roots, and you will find upon close examination a lump of gum, which, if you will remove, you will find to cover a white worm, with a brown head; this fellow is busily at work, boring into the tender bark of the root of the tree, and if let alone will destroy it. You can kill these insects and have good fruit by washing the root of the tree with a strong decoction of lime-water, potash, or with boiling water, which is cheapest, and by leaving the root thus exposed, the tree will not bloom early enough to be injured with late frosts—try it.

From the Missouri Democrat.]
THE COTTON TAX CASE

In the Supreme Court to-day, Judge Wilson announces that the Court was equally divided in the case of Farrington vs. Saunders, involving the constitutionality of the cotton tax. Judgment below, in favor of the government, is therefore affirmed, but no binding decision is reached upon the constitutionality of the law.
It is understood that Justices Swaine, Miller, Strong and Bradley were of opinion the tax was constitutional, and Justice Nelson, Clifford, Davis and Field were of the contrary opinion.

Death and Burial of Gen. J. Bankhead Magruder.

GALVESTON, Feb. 20.—Gen. Magruder had been unwell a week previously, but his illness was not considered dangerous till within two days of his death. About 8 o'clock Friday night he became delirious, and at three o'clock Saturday morning breathed his last. The funeral took place from the Episcopal Church.
The last conversation the General is known to have was Friday, the day previous to his death, to an employee of the hotel. After sending a message to a distant relative in this city, the General said, probably in reply to a question: I dont think I am long for this world. "No display about funeral obsequies."

Life in Paris is resuming its natural channels. The river boats have commenced running, and traffic on the streets resumed. Some carts are seen, but scarcely any cabs or carriages. The populace are resuming their wonted careless gaiety. Already preparations are making for reopening the dissolute gardens in the capital. The weather is growing more pleasant, and there is no longer any lack of food. The city, however, is still without gas.

"A Hundred Years Ago" is the title of James Parton's last lecture. Could not Col. Susan B. Anthony be prevailed upon to give us a lecture embodying her personal recollections of that period?

A Philosopher at Gadsden, Tennessee discourseth after this fashion in the Jackson Whig and Tribune: "According to my opinion the best pursuit is knowledge—the best foundation is reason—the best study is self—the best duty is doing good—the best affection is compassion—the best contemplation is concerning God. But the best way to make a living is to plant plenty of corn and wheat—to raise plenty of hogs and cattle—to plant and grow plenty of fruit trees, vines, strawberries, etc.

It is announced that a French chemist has succeeded in discovering a process for rectifying petroleum by the addition of a small quantity of a certain chemical product (not named) to the liquid before distilling, by which means an oil is obtained without any odor, even when burning, and the point of inflammability of which is so low that it must be heated to one hundred and seventy-seven degrees before ignition occurs. The volatile gas, usually so readily disengaged from mineral oils, becomes so fixed that evaporation takes place, and, consequently, the danger of fire and explosion is reduced to its minimum. The oils thus prepared, it is stated, can be made into soap, or can be mixed with vegetable oils, and burned like colza in carcel lamps. The soap made by this new form of petroleum oil is said to be very efficacious in diseases of the skin; and is also applicable to the destruction of insects. Articles washed with this are claimed to be ever afterward free from attacks by moths.

The Birds of Prey Again.

The death of Genral Magruder affords the rampant Radicalism of the country an opportunity of indulging itself, and it does not fail to seize it with eagerness.
This was to have been excepted and is to be counted on. It forms a part of the Radicall policy of everlasting hate, and, being methodical as well as malicious, enters largely into the success of the political management of the Radicals.
For an efficient and skillful worker commend us to the cool maligment, who not only is pressed on by a clammy sense of venom within himself, but who knows how to stir up the passions of those who would be more liberal but are less intelligent than he is Mr. Charles Sumner and his partisans, the Pittsburg Gazette and papers like it, may be mentioned by way of illustration.—Whatever viciousness there may be in the South, and, since human nature is the same everywhere, of course the South cannot hope to escape its share, is kept in the background by the pressure of a wise if not to to produce good fruit. In the North however, viciousness glories in its wickedness, disguised in the grab of patriotism dubbed with high-sounding adjectives that are meant to signify loyalty.
We do not propose to meet malice with malice. The Northern people, as a body, are not malicious. They are as generous and as patriotic as the people of the South. They have a joint interest with the people of the South in putting down the professional malignants who are trying to keep them asunder. But wherever the policy of hate has been submitted directly to popular arbitrament it has lost. Next year it will be submitted to a like the people of all the States, and that will be the last of it. With its overthrow we shall have peace on the basis of wiping out and beginning over on terms of honor to both sections.

There is a happy old man at Bennington, Vt. He has just passed the term alloted for the life of man by a celebrated progneosticator of ancient times, and has never known a day of sickness. He has had no inheritance in the thousand natural shocks bequeathed to human flesh, and hence his spirits have always been good. His moral nature has been equally sound, for though a man of property, he never owed a dollar and never went to a circus, menagerie or other public exhibition. Such a paragon of physical and moral purity could hardly be found outside of the Green Mountain State. He is undoubtedly a very hale and holy old fellow, but has done a little more for posterity than prosperity has done for him. A little sprinkling of sickness and sin makes life more interesting after all, and those who have no small sins are apt to have few great virtues.

This incident is related of Capt. Temple, who sailed in command of the Tennessee, which took out the San Domingo Commissioners: At the attack on Fort Fisher his ship stood fire from a shell in the room next to the magazine. One of the little messenger tubboats was plying about the ship, and finally coming alonside, Capt. Temple hailed her.—"Aye, aye, sir," said the tug Captain.—"We are on fire," said Temple, "next to our powder magazine, and I thought it might possibly interest you to know that we are likely to blow up in about three minutes; unless we get the fire under." The suddenness with which the tug captain rang four bells, and the tug plunged away on a bee-line, were laughable, in spite of the critical nature of the situation:

That story of the shirt-tail interview between the Hon. Victora C. Woodhull and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue is not as satisfactory as it ought to be. JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4th, 1871.

COUNTY CONVENTION NOMINATIONS

For County Superintendent,

J. C. McAULEY.

For Directors.

1st. E. T. READ.

2nd [TO BE SUPPLIED.]

With this number of the paper the REPUBLICAN enters on its 35th volume. Our friends may consider the usual professions of past devotion to the interests of the people, and ardent professions of future fealty, spoken.

We thank Col. Joseph Hodgson, our able Superintendent of Public Instruction, for a copy of "Laws relating to the Public Schools of Alabama, with remarks and forms," codified by himself, as also for his special report to the Governor, "containing all necessary and proper information in relation to the educational interests of the State."

Our Legislature, we see by the Associated Press Dispatches, again failed to adjourn on the 2nd of March. In view of this fact, we postpone the article setting forth the character and amount of their work. By our next issue we hope to be able to publish captions of all the acts passed and approved by the Governor.

Gov. Lindsay, in an able message, has vetoed the bill called the Southern Express Company Tax Bill.

"B" stands for "busted" in the vocabulary, as it applies to the man who writes for the Huntsville Independent under that nom de plume.

We want it distinctly understood before the thing goes any farther that we are not responsible for the bad spelling and bad Grammar of the REPUBLICAN. We write things right and spell words right, but the printers will get them wrong, and then overlook corrections of the same in proof. When it is known the office is run by apprentices this will be understood by the craft.

We failed to call attention last week to the card of Elliott & Samuel, because of want of time and room. We now invite the notice of our friends to it and take occasion to say, that this is one of the best firms in Georgia or Alabama. We have long known them, and can with truth say they are most reliable and perfect business men. We ask our friends to bestow on them a deserved patronage.

D. D. Draper Sons & Co., keep constantly on hand a full supply of Shelby county Lime, direct from Calera. They fill orders from one to one hundred bbls.

We notice that our young friend of the Cross Plains Democrat has in his Prospectus the "cheapest and best weekly in Calhoun." We are willing to concede, to save argument, that our friend has the best; but as to the cheapest he had best take down his sign, for the REPUBLICAN is only "$2,00 a year, "invariably in advance"—the same as his.

We omitted last week, to notice the visit of Mr. Speigal, of the Cross Plains Democrat. An office acquaintance with the young man enables us to freely promise to the people of Cross Plains, a real good paper. We hope that the enterprise in which the young man has embarked, may prove a most remunerative one indeed.

Who owns the old Academy. The Town? If so, let us have the lot and building sold and apply the proceeds to beautifying the College Grounds.

How many business men are willing to give $50 apiece to have water brought to the square? If even twelve men can be found who will do it, we may have the water works, and the righteous twelve may save our beautiful village from the fate of Sodom.

Theodore Tilton's "New York Observer," Almanac puts down the number of Baptist Sunday Schools in Alabama at only six, which is a lie told in the interest of the Gospel branch which he represents.

Bishops.

There are 53 Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the United States.

Lutherans.

There are 52 Lutheran Synods, 1926 ministers, 3392 churches and 388,538 communicants in the United States.

The eloping couple from about Giffith's mill, mentioned by the Cross Plains Democrat, did not come to Jacksonville to marry. At least no license had been issued from our Probate court, at last hearing.

We acknowledge the receipt of a lot of very fine apples from our rising young Grocery merchant, Henry McElreath. He will keep apples always, from now until June.

E. Kerr, Esq., one of the solid citizens of White Plains dropped in on us a few days ago, and kindly presented the needful for the REPUBLICAN a year a head. Right this way gentlemen.

Mr. Webb, one of the Conductors on the Selma, Rome & Dalton Rail Road, is very highly spoken of by passengers, as a most gentlemanly and clever conductor. Our friend McFarland has great fame for doing the agreeable also. Both nice men.

Col. Aiken, of Gadsden, gave us a call this week. Always glad to see you, Colonel.

THE GUARDIAN ANGEL.

BY OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES,

BOSTON, TICKNOR AND FIELDS.

"When Izrul, of the Lord Beloved,
Out of the land of bondage came."

We are not in the habit of reviewing works of this description; but we make an exception in this case on account of the high moral tone that pervades the work. This was unexpected, for Dr. Holmes is either an infidel or something worse, a Unitarian. Ticknor and Fields are the publishers of a class of books written by the Unitarian coterie of Authors around Boston and Harvard, that, on an average, send about a thousand souls to Hell, per annum. Yet strange to say, this volume of Dr. Holmes, has an odour of puritanic piety about it really refreshing to evangelical nostrils, and might have been published by the American Tract Society.

For example, an Artist, Clement Lindsay, is boarding for a month or two, in the summer, with one Deacon Rumrill, an evangelical puritanic member of a New England congregation of saints' The Artist is of course addicted to profane literature—reads Shakspear, Walter Scott, and other dangerous works of this class. The Deacon has heard of the Great Scott—author of a commentary on the Bible or some such performance, and very naturally confounds the Great Scott with Sir Walter; consequently forms a very high opinion of the piety of the Artist, from his perusal of Scott's Works. One admiring the Great Scott, the other Sir Walter. When the Artist leaves the Deacon, he loans him Vol. 9 of Scott's works, containing that awfully corrupt and dangerous Romance, "Ivanhoe." The good Deacon next Sunday is prayerfully absorbed in the perusal of the mysteries of "Ivanhoe;" when his pastor coming along, and finding his Deacon thus strangely occupied, informs him that this, instead of being the work of his favorite commentator, is the production of Sir Walter Scott, a profane scoffer and a stranger to evangelical grace. The horror struck Deacon drops the book like a hot potato, washes his hands, and with a pair of tongs takes up the offending volume, and securely envelopes it in brown paper. In a few months Clement Lindsay, the Artist, returns and has an interview with the Deacon. Let our Author tell the story:

Mr. Clement Lindsay appeared suddenly in that important locality, and repaired to his accustomed quarters at the house of Deacon Rumrill. That worthy person received him with a certain gravity of manner, caused by his recollection of the involuntary transgression into which Mr. Lindsay had led him by his present of Invanhoe. He was on the whole, glad to see him, for his finances were not yet wholly recovered from the injury inflicted on them by the devouring element. But he could not forget that his boarder had betrayed him into a breach of the fourth commandment and that the strict eyes of his clergyman had detected him in the very commission of the offence. He had no sooner seen Mr. Clement comfortably installed, therefore, than he presented himself at the door of his chamber with the book enveloped in strong paper and very securely tied 'round with a stout string.

"Here is your vollum, Mr. Lindsay," the Deacon said. "I understand it is not the work of that great and good man who I thought wrote it. I did not see anything immorial in it as far as I read, but it belongs to what I consider a very dangerous class of publications These novels and romances are awfully destructive to our youth. I should recomend you, as a young man of principle, to burn the vollum. At least I hope you will not leave it about anywhere unless it is carefully tied up. I have written upon the paper round it to warm off all the young persons of my household from meddling with it."

True enough, Mr. Clement saw in strong black letters on the back of the paper wrapping his unfortunate Invanhoe,—

"DANGEROUS READING FOR CHRISTIAN YOUTH.

"TOUCH NOT THE UNCLEAN THING."

"I thought you said you had Scott's picture hung up in your parlor, Deacon Rumrill." he said, a little amused with the worthy man's fear and precautions.

"It is the great Scott's likeness that I have in my parlor," he said; "I will show it to you if you will come with me"

Mr. Clement followed the Deacon into the sacred apartment.

"That is the the portrait of the great Scott," he said, pointing to an engraving of a heavy-looking person whose phrenological developments were a somewhat striking contrast to those of the distinguished Sir Walter.

"I will take good care that none of your young people see this volume," Mr. Clement said; "I trust you read it yourself, however and found something to please you in it. I am sure you are safe from being harmed by any such book. Didn't you have to finish it, Deacon, after you had once begun?"

"Well, I—I—perused a consid'able portion of the work," the Deacon answered, in a way that led Mr. Clement to think he had not stopped much short of Finis."

Senator Vance of North Carolina

We regret to learn from the Washington Republican, an administration organ, that Gov. Vance's prospects of being admitted to a seat in the United States Senate, are very gloomy. The Republican says:

Senator-elect Vance left here on Saturday for his home in North Carolina, having become dicouraged in his effort to procure the removal of his political disabilities so as to enable him to take his seat in the Senate on the 4th of March. It is not known that he intends to resign, although it has been stated he does, but in the event of his doing so, Gen. Ransom would undoubtly be chosen to succeed him. Ransom received within two of as many votes as Vance, in the convention which nominated the latter; was a strict States rights man before the war; a violent rebel during the war, but his disabilities have been removed, and he could take the seat if elected,

SAD.—It will be remembered that Senator Phillip King in qualifying to what he was worth in real and personal property in order to go on Barber's bond, described among other things a "fine Durham bull," &c, The sad intelligence has been received that "that bull is dead;" immedlately on hearing the sad story, on yesterday, Senator King asked and obtained inefinite leave of absence. Quere: Will the bull's death vitiate the bond? The Senate will miss the Senator from Dale very much. In the stormest period of the session, when it seemed impossible to restore order, Senator King was wont to rise in his place and read a few pages of Jefferson's Manuel, which had the effect of instantly restoring order. We never shall look upon his like again. P. S. A post mortem examination will be had on the "fine bull."—Mail.

NO HOME.—There are thousands who knew nothing of the blessed influences of comfortable homes, merely for the want of thrift, or from dissidated habits. Youth spent in frivolous amusements and demoralizing associations, leaving them at middls age, when the physical and intellecturl man should be in its greatest vigor, enervated, and without one laudable ambition. Friends long since lost, confidence gone and nothing to look to in old age but a mere toleration in the community where they should be ornaments. No home to fly to when wearied with the struggles incident to life; no wife to cheer them in their despondency; no children to amuse, them and no virtuous household to give zets to the joys of life, All is blank, and there is no hope or succor except that which is given out by private or public charities. When the family of an industrious and sober citizen gather around the cheerful fire of a wintry day, the homeless man is seeking shelter in the cells of the station house, or begging for a nights rest in the out building of one who started in life at the same time, with no greater advantages; but housety and industry built up that home, while dissipation destroyed the other.

A Connecticut school teacher who wanted to make an impression on two of his boys who had been fighting, proposed that they should be tried by a jury of their fellows. The proposition was accepted, and the charges proved, but the pedagogue, who had constituted himself judge, was a little taken back, when the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," without leaving their seats.

Renunciation of Radicalism by an Indiana Senator.

Senator Elliott, of Indiana, in a card published on Tuesday morning thus announces his renunciation of the corrupt and dying Radical party.

In the organization of the Senate, I acted independently of party at a party at a time when my vote could benefit some friends and could not have brought sucsess to the Radical party. Since then, in all test questions I have voted with the Republican party until this evening, when I was surprised and mortified to find the party voting to sanction the monstrous violation of the constitution of the United States, in compelling Southern States to ratify the fifteenth amendment at the dictation of Congress. In the meantime, I have been so grossly abused by Republicans Republican newspapers and self-constituted leaders, charged with treason, bribery, &c., that self-respect forbids me longer to acknowledge myself a member of that party, or act with it. The Responsibility must rest with those who have persecuted me. I will meet them before the people at the proper time henceforth I shall act independently of all party diction from the men who have sought to ruin me and blacken my character. Besides, on the great leading issues of tariff and taxation, I have been in theory, and shall hereafter be in practice, a friend to the people.

WASHINGTON.

WASAINGTON, March 2.—In the House a bill was passed providing for three commissioners to examine the claims of loyal citizens in the Southern States for army stores furnished during the rebellion including use and loss of vessels employed by the government. The commissioners are not to be residents of the Southern States. They shall hold a session at Washington and then adjourn to such places in the Southern States as they may select, and report their proceedings at each session of Congress.

ALABAMA.

Montgomery, March 2.—The Legislature was to adjourn to-day, but holds over a few days.

There is much interest taken in a suit on trial to-day, wherein the extraordinary spectacle is presented, for the locality, of a United States Judge being the defendant. The suit grows out of the decission Judge Busteed, rendered last June, imprisoning the Auditor of the State for alleged contempt in not obeying the order of the Court restaining the collection of tax from the Express Company. The Auditor sues Judge Busteed for libel, and lays damages at two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Both parties are leading members of the Republican party.

NEW YORK.

New York, March 2.—A special telegram from Paris says that the inhabitants maintain the same quiet, sturdy indifference they showed on the morning of the entry of the Prussians. There were no demonstrations by the people, and the troops prepared to bivouac on Champe Elyses and neighborhood without any apparant excitement.

The French troops who guarded the baracks and bridges, behaved admirably restrained their temper and kept cool.

There has been no disposition on the part of the officers and men of the Prussian army to wander beyond barricade limits even without a military uniform.

Prussian soldiers, if discovered in the lower parts of Paris would be attacked by the angry mob.

FRANCE.

VERSAILLES, March 2.—The Emperor has returned from Long Champes, where he reviewed the army entering Paris.

Bordeaux, March 2.—The Assembly voted for the ratification of the preliminary treaty—546 for, to 107 against.

Paris, March 2.—At ten o'clock thirty thousand Prussian troops, with ninety-six pieces of artillery, and the usual proportion of cavalry, entered the city:

The zone surrendered to the Prussians is nearly clear of French. It commences at the extreme southwest corner of the encente, which forms a point and runs in the shape of an irregular triangle, of which the Seine forms the east side. The encente from the Point Du Jour to the Porte Des Fermes the west side, and the Faubourg Honore and the avenue Des Fermes from the Rue Royale to the encente, the north side or base.

The only points within these limits, retained by the French, are the banking establishment of the Army of Paris, the Que De Bouli and the Pont De Jena.

Few people on the streets. Most of the women out were in mourning, going to mass.

The Germans used no music except drums and trumpets, for signals.

The Germans were astonished at the mournful aspect of the city and deserted streets.

The statutes in Place De La were covered with crape.

"No man can make a good Farmer and a successful one, who does not keep accurate accounts."

Did the cotton planter know exactly what it cost him to plant, cultivate and harvest his crop, he would, like the drover or merchant, set his own price, and not allow outsiders to set it for him. If then, it cost him more than he could get for it, he would certainly cease planting cotton, and cast about for another more remunerative article of produce.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

(From the Rural Carolinian, Fol. 1, No. 12.)

This loose way of farming should be abandoned. A system of accounts should be adopted, by which the farmer shall be able to tell at the end of the year, not only the amount of his gains or losses, but just where these gains or losses have occurred. Suppose, for instance, he first divides his farm into sections, numbering or naming his wood lots, fields, pastures and dwelling house and lot, for convenience sake.—He then estimates the value of each, fixing the same proportionate to the whole. He opens an account with each one, charging to each its valuation. He also opens an account with his stock, his vehicles and tools, charging to each its value. He must, of course, keep a cash account, and charge or credit to some one of his various accounts every cent he pays out or receives.

He charges to each field expenditures for seed, manure and labor, for share of tool account, and each day's work for himself or his oxen, for planting, cultivating and harvesting. If he sells his crop, he credits the cash received. If he stores it for family use, or to feed to his animals, he charges it to family expense, or to the stock account, at whatever he could have sold it for. After the crop is cleared, he estimates the value of the field, making allowance for whatever gain or loss in its condition and crop-bearing capacity may have occurred since the drevious valuation, and the balance of the account shows what has been made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts, taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost money; and if same or similar results follow the operations of successive years, he is thereby warned, and can profit by the experience. From these accounts he can calculate, with certainty, the exact cost of everything produced, including even interests, taxes, and repairs of tools. He has the entire business tabularized, and can at his leisure, during winter evenings, march his colums in review before him, and study to some purpose to reduce costs and save expense.

SOLON ROBINSON says in his valuable FACTS FOR FARMERS:

"No man can be a good farmer and a successful one who does not keep accurate accounts; be able to tell, at the end of the year, every dollar that comes to hand, and accout once a month—once a week is better. Keep accounts with everybody debit and credit, and in some degree with everything; number your fields, and charge each with manure, seed and labor, and credit the crops and you will soon find which is the most profitable: open an account with your stable, your pig-pen your pasture, and with the general stock, and with different classes and branches of it, if you would learn accuracy which is the most profitable. To be successful you must be accurate and must keep accounts."

Price $2.

With this number of the REPUBLICAN, we reduce the subscription price to $2 a year, strictly in advance. Coupled with this, we offer all those in arrears a settlement of subscription accounts at $2 a year. The reduced price will bring the paper within reach of everybody, as also enable delinquents to settle up without difficulty. We hope these offers will have the double effect of greatly augmenting our list of subscribers, and hastening the settlement of old accounts long past due. Every man who intends to pay for his paper, will do so now when we offer him one third of the amount due us to settle. Those who do not settle on this basis within the next few weeks will be stricken from the books and their accounts, at $3 a year, will be placed in the hands of a Justice of the Peace for collection We will make no exception to this rule. We intend to give all men, good pay and bad pay, a fair chance to settle up at $2 a year, and if they fail to avail themselves of it, the presumption will, of course, be that they do not intend to pay and we will be justified in bringing suit.

We learned a few days since at Rome, Ga., that Gatewood, known by the most of the people of this county, as a scout, was killed at Waco, Texas, two or three months since, in a melee. PARSONS, THE RENEGADE.

The special Washington correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution, under date of Febuary 4th, says: "Lewis E. He is aided in his unholy work by ex-Governor Smith and, soon to be, ex-Senator Warner.

Parsons has drawn a bill called the Ku-klux bill which he is endeavoring to have the President send to Congress accompained by a special message. It makes it a felony to wear disguise of any sort, and provides for the arrest and punishment of person suspected of belonging to the Ku-klux.

A bill or resolution is to be brought before the House declaring the purpose of the Democratic and Conservative party to guarantee negro freedom and equality.

Among the bills passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, is one providing for an inercase in the pay of regular jurors, both grand and petit, from $1.50 to $2.00 per day. It provides also for the payment of five cents per mile travelled, going to and from court, all ferriages included.

It is important to know that the Postmaster General issued, not long since, an order requiring the name and address of the sender of registered letters and packages, to be affixed to the same, and in case of non-delivery, the registered letter or package will be returned directly from the office to which it is sent to the sender without being returned through the dead-letter office.

There come to post last Saturday night
The querest little craft,
Without an inch of rigging on—
I looked, and looked, and laughed,
It was so singular that she Should cross the Unknown water,
And moor herself right in her room—
My daughter, oh, my daughter!

Yet by these presents witness all,
She's welcome fifty times.
And comes consigned to Hope and Love,
And common metre rhymes.
She has no manifest but this,
No rag floats o'er the water,
She is too new for the British Lloyd's—
My daughter, oh, my daughter!

Ring out the lover's moon,
Ring out the little worsted socks.

My daughter! oh, my daughter!

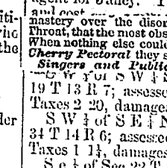
Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends; and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

ROCK RIVER PAPER CO'S

Patent Building Paper,

—FOR—

SHEATHING AND ROOFING

—AND—

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

WE desire to call the attention of the Public to PATENT BUILDING PAPER, which has been extensively used during the past three years throughout the whole country, and has given entire satisfaction to hundreds of builders, hoping thereby to induce parties intending to build to avail themselves of the many advantages we claim for our manufactures.

For Sheathing.

Saturated sheathing weighs about 1½ lbs. to the square yard.

It has been found useful in the construction of buildings, applied in all sorts of ways and to every part—sides, roof, partitions and floors.

For outside use, under weather boarding or clapboards, or for use under shingles or floors, we recommend that saturated with tar, as it will then resist dampness, cold and heat, and make the building dry as well as warm, and the odor of tar tends to drive away all vermin, rats, mice, &c,

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be used as follows:

UPON THE STUDS.

Either up and down or cross-wise; if up and down, the joints should be made on the studs, so as to leave no cracks. It is made 33 inches wide, so as to cover studs 16 inches apart and lap; and if cross-wise the edges should be lapped and afterwards nailed to the siding on the back side. In case it is used this way, no sheating boards are needed, and a building is made very much warmer than by using matched boards without it. One thickness of it will resist more cold wind than an inch board, because of its non-conductive properties, and because it does not shrink.

Many parties, for nice houses, put it on the studs up and down, and use common boards for sheating instead of matched flooring. It is much warmer than with the flooring alone.

ROOFING.

Double thick Roofing weigh about 2 lbs to the square yard.

Our Roofing is entirely different from the Saturated Sheathing. This is made of nothing but woolen rags and thoroughly saturated with tar. Every roll intended for roofing is marked "Roofing." Use no other for this purpose.

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be laid on the Roofing Boards up and down or cross-wise Begin at the lower edge and tack down with good size tacks about one or two inches apart, lapping it about two inches.

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

Prepared Plastering Board weighs about 1½ lbs. to square yard.

This paper manufacture as a cheap substitute for Lath and Plaster. We began to make it in the spring of 1870, on account of a great demend for something to be used instead of Plastering, that would make a smooth, warm and permanent wall at small expense, and not be effected by the changes in the atmosphere. It has been tried by thousands of parties already, and not one has found fait with it, but on the contrary hundred have assured us that it fully meets our recommendations.

It is adapted to use for this purpose for the following reasons.

It is very cheap, costs less than one third as much as plastering.

It can be easily and quickly applied by any one.

It saves all the annoyance, delay and dirt of plastering.

It makes a perfectly smooth, warm and durable wall.

In case of accident it can be easily and cheaply repaired.

It is not affected by dampness in the Atmosphere.

These reasons we think sufficient to induce any one, at least to try it, and that is all we ask, to secure for us a demand for what we can make, for it recommends itself much better than we can do it.

By following our direction, anyone with ordinary capacity can make a perfect wall.

Pricee per lb 6 cents.

CAHOON'S BROADCAST

SEED SOWER.

FOR SOWING ALL KINDS OF GRAIN AND GRASS SEED.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements. It has probably received more First Premiums at State Fairs in the fall of 1869, than was ever awarded any other machine of any name or nature, in one year.

Joseph Harris, author of "Walks and Talks," in AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST. says: "I like the Cahoon Seeder very much indeed." The following from a noted grain grower, speaks for itself:

NORTHPORT, L. I. Nov. 18 1869.

DEAR SIR.—The Broadcast Seed Sower you sent me last spring is the best Seed Sower I ever saw. I used it in the same field with the Drill—taking one half with the Sower and the other with the Drill—The work was done in one-quarter of the time with the Sower; the crop, when threshed yielded more, and the grain was better. I have used it entirely for my fall sowing of wheat and rye. For sowing grass seeds, clover or millet, no other machine could do the work so well. A great many farmers, when they saw it, said it was only a play toy until they saw it in a fifty-acre-lot with one man travelling as fast as he could walk, another carrying grain to him, and four teams following after. Their next business was to watch their crop when up, but all were surprised to find it so evenly distributed.

WILLIAM CARMER.

BRIDGPORT ALA, MAY 4, 1870.

Mess. E. F. Redfield & Co., Jasper Tenn.

Gents: the Cahoon's Broad Cast Seed Sower you sold me this spring beats every thing for the work intended I ever saw, I would not do without it for its price each season. It does its work for a charm at a great saving of labor, time and seed. Yours truly,

A. Gunter.

We warrent the Hand Machine to sow 50 acres of wheat in 10 hours, and the Horse Power Machine to sow 120 acres in the same time, and the work to be done with greater Precision and accuracy that it can be done by any other means whatever

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4th, 1871.

COUNTY CONVENTION NOMINATIONS

For County Superintendent.

J. C. McAULEY.

For Directors.

1st. E. T. READ.

2nd [To be Supplied.]

With this number of the paper the Republican enters on its 35th volume. Our friends may consider the usual professions of past devotion to the interests of the people, and ardent professions of future fealty, spoken.

We thank Col. Joseph Hodgson, our able Superintendent of Public Instruction, for a copy of "Laws relating to the Public Schools of Alabama, with remarks and forms," codified by himself, as also for his special report to the Governor, "containing all necessary and proper information in relation to the educational interests of the State."

Our Legislature, we see by the Associated Press Dispatches, again failed to adjourn on the 2nd of March. In view of this fact, we postpone the article setting forth the character and amount of their work. By our next issue we hope to be able to publish captions of all the acts passed and approved by the Governor.

Gov. Lindsay, in an able message, has vetoed the bill called the Southern Express Company Tax Bill.

"B" stands for "busted" in the vocabulary, as it applies to the man who writes for the Huntsville Independent under that nom de plume.

We want it distinctly understood before the thing goes any farther that we are not responsible for the bad spelling and bad Grammar of the Republican. We write things right and spell words right, but the printers will get them wrong, and then overlook corrections of the same in proof. When it is known the office is run by apprentices this will be understood by the craft.

We failed to call attention last week to the card of Elliott & Samuel, because of want of time and room. We now invite the notice of our friends to it and take occasion to say, that this is one of the best firms in Georgia or Alabama. We have long known them, and can with truth say they are most reliable and perfect business men. We ask our friends to bestow on them a deserved patronage.

D. D. Draper Sons & Co., keep constantly on hand a full supply of Shelby county Lime, direct from Calera. They fill orders from one to one hundred bbls.

We notice that our young friend of the Cross Plains Democrat has in his Prospectus the "cheapest and best weekly in Calhoun." We are willing to concede, to save argument, that our friend has the best; but as to the cheapest he had best take down his sign, for the Republican is only "$2,00 a year, "invariably in advance"—the same as his.

We omitted last week, to notice the visit of Mr. Speigal, of the Cross Plains Democrat. An office acquaintance with the young man enables us to freely promise to the people of Cross Plains, a real good paper. We hope that the enterprise in which the young man has embarked, may prove a most remunerative one indeed.

Who owns the old Academy. The Town? If so, let us have the lot and building sold and apply the proceeds to beautifying the College Grounds.

How many business men are willing to give $50 apiece to have water brought to the square? If even twelve men can be found who will do it, we may have the water works, and the righteous twelve may save our beautiful village from the fate of Sodom.

Theodore Tilton's "New York Observer," Almanac puts down the number of Baptist Sunday Schools in Alabama at only six, which is a lie told in the interest of the Gospel branch which he represents.

Bishops.

There are 53 Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, in the United States.

Lutherans.

There are 52 Lutheran Synods, 1920 ministers, 3392 churches and 388,538 communicants in the United States.

The eloping couple from about Giffith's mill, mentioned by the Cross Plains Democrat, did not come to Jacksonville to marry. At least no license had been issued from our Probate court, at last hearing.

We acknowledge the receipt of a lot of very fine apples from our rising young Grocery merchant, Henry McElreath. He will keep apples always, from now until June.

E. Kerr, Esq., one of the solid citizens of White Plains dropped in on us a few days ago, and kindly presented the needful for the Republican a year a head. Right this way gentlemen.

Mr. Webb, one of the Conductors on the Selma, Rome & Dalton Rail Road, is very highly spoken of by passengers, as a most gentlemanly and clever conductor. Our friend McFarland has great fame for doing the agreeable also. Both nice men.

Col. Aiken, of Gadsden, gave us a call this week. Always glad to see you, Colonel.

THE GUARDIAN ANGEL.

By Oliver Wendell Holmes, Boston, Ticknor and Fields.

"When Izrul, of the Lord Beloved,
Out of the land of bondage came."

We are not in the habit of reviewing works of this description; but we make an exception in this case on account of the high moral tone that pervades the work. This was unexpected, for Dr. Holmes is either an infidel or something worse, a Unitarian. Ticknor and Fields are the publishers of a class of books written by the Unitarian coterie of Authors around Boston and Harvard, that, on an average, send about a thousand souls to Hell, per annum. Yet strange to say, this volume of Dr. Holmes, has an odour of puritanic piety about it really refreshing to evangelical nostrils, and might have been published by the American Tract Society.

For example, an Artist, Clement Lindsay, is boarding for a month or two, in the summer, with one Deacon Rumrill, an evangelical puritanic member of a New England congregation of saints' The Artist is of course addicted to profane literature—reads Shakspear, Walter Scott, and other dangerous works of this class. The Deacon has heard of the Great, Scott—author of a commentary on the Bible or some such performance, and very naturally confounds the Great Scott with Sir Walter; consequently forms a very high opinion of the piety of the Artist, from his perusal of Scott's Works. One admiring the Great Scott, the other Sir Walter. When the Artist leaves the Deacon, he loans him Vol. 9 of Scott's works, containing that awfully corrupt and dangerous Romance, "Ivanhoe." The good Deacon next Sunday is prayerfully absorbed in the perusal of the mysteries of "Ivanhoe;" when his pastor coming along, and finding his Deacon thus strangely occupied, informs him that this, instead of being the work of his favorite commentator, is the production of Sir Walter Scott, a profane scoffer and a stranger to evangelical grace. The horror struck Deacon drops the book like a hot potato, washes his hands, and with a pair of tongs takes up the offending volume, and securely envelopes it in brown paper. In a few months Clement Lindsay, the Artist, returns and has an interview with the Deacon. Let our Author tell the story:

Mr. Clement Lindsay appeared suddenly in that important locality, and repaired to his accustomed quarters at the house of Deacon Rumrill. That worthy person received him with a certain gravity of manner, caused by his recollection of the involuntary transgression into which Mr. Lindsay had led him by his present of Invanhoe. He was on the whole, glad to see him, for his finances were not yet wholly recovered from the injury inflicted on them by the devouring element. But he could not forget that his boarder had betrayed him into a breach of the fourth commandment and that the strict eyes of his clergyman had detected him in the very commission of the offence. He had no sooner seen Mr. Clement comfortably installed, therefore, than he presented himself at the door of his chamber with the book enveloped in strong paper and very securely tied 'round with a stout string.

"Here is your vollum, Mr. Lindsay," the Deacon said. "I understand it is not the work of that great and good man who I thought wrote it. I did not see anything immorial in it as fur as I read, but it belongs to what I consider a very dangerous class of publications These novels and romances are awfully destructive to our youth. I should recomend you, as a young man of principle, to burn the vollum. At least I hope you will not leave it about anywhere unless it is carefully tied up. I have written upon the paper round it to warm off all the young persons of my, household from meddling with it.

True enough, Mr. Clement saw in strong black letters on the back of the paper wrapping his unfortunate Invanhoe.—

"Dangerous reading for Christian youth.

"Touch not the unclean thing."

"I thought you said you had Scott's picture hung up in your parlor, Deacon Rumrill." he said, a little amused with the worthy man's fear and precautions.

"It is the great Scott's likeness that I have in my parlor," he said; "I will show it to you if you will come with me"

Mr. Clement followed the Deacon into the sacred apartment.

"That is the the portrait of the great Scott," he said, pointing to an engraving of a heavy-looking person whose phrenological developments were a somewhat striking contrast to those of the distinguished Sir Walter.

"I will take good care that none of your young people see this volume." Mr. Clement said; "I trust you read it yourself, however and found something to please you in it. I am sure you are safe from being harmed by any such book. Didn't you have to finish it, Deacon, after you had once begun?"

"Well, I—I—perused a consid'able portion of the work," the Deacon answered, in a way that led Mr. Clement to think he had not stopped much short of Finis."

Senator Vance of North Carolina

We regret to learn from the Washington Republican, an administration organ, that Gov. Vance's prospects of being admitted to a seat in the United States Senate, are very gloomy. The Republican says:

Senator-elect Vance left here on Saturday for his home in North Carolina, having become dicouraged in his effort to procure the removal of his political disabilities so as to enable him to take his seat in the Senate on the 4th of March. It is not known that he intends to resign, although it has been stated he does, but in the event of his doing so, Gen. Ransom would undoubtly be chosen to succeed him. Ransom received within two of as many votes as Vance, in the convention which nominated the latter; was a strict States rights man before the war; a violent rebel during the war, but his disabilities have been removed, and he could take the seat if elected,

Sad.—It will be remembered that Senator Phillip King in qualifying to what he was worth in real and personal property in order to go on Barber's bond, described among other things a "fine Durham bull," &c, The sad intelligence has been received that "that bull is dead;" immedlately on hearing the sad story, on yesterday, Senator King asked and obtained inefinite leave of absence Quere: Will the bull's death vitiate the bond? The Senate will miss the Senator from Dale very much. In the stormest period of the session, when it seemed impossible to restore order, Senator King was wont to rise in his place and read a few pages of Jefferson's Manuel, which had the effect of instantly restoring order. We never shall look upon his like again. P. S. A post mortem examination will be had on the "fine bull."—Mail.

No Home.—There are thousands who knew nothing of the blessed influences of a comfortable homes, merely for the want of thrift, or from dissidated habits. Youth spent in frivolous amusements and demoralizing associations, leaving them at middls age, when the physical and intellecturl man should be in its greatest vigor, enervated, and without one laudable ambition. Friends long since lost, confidence gone and nothtng to look to in old age but a mere toleration in the community where they should be ornaments. No home to fly to when wearied with the struggles incident to life; no wife to cheer them in their despondency; no children to amuse, them and no virtuous household to give zets to the joys of life, All is blank, and there is no hope or succor except that which is given out by private or public charities. When the family of an industrious and sober citizen gather around the cheerful fire of a wintry day, the homeless man is seeking shelter in the cells of the station house, or begging for a nights rest in the out building of one who started in life at the same time, with no greater advantages; but housesty and industry built up that home, while dissipation destroyed the other.

A Connecticut school teacher who wanted to make an impression on two of his boys who had been fighting, proposed that they should be tried by a jury of their fellows. The proposition was accepted, and the charges proved, but the pedagogue, who had constituted himself judge, was a little taken back, when the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," without leaving their seats.

Renunciation of Radicalism by an Indiana Senator.

Senator Elliott, of Indiana, in a card published on Tuesday morning thus announces his reuunciation of the corrupt and dying Radical party.

In the organization of the Senate, I acted independently of party at a party at a time when my vote could benefit some friends and could not have brought sucsess to the Radical party. Since then, in all test questions I have voted with the Republican party until this evening, when I was surprised and mortified to find the party voting to sanction the monstrous violation of the constitution of the United States, in compelling Southern States to ratify the fifteenth amendment at the dictation of Congress. In the meantime, I have been so grossly abused by Republicans Republican newspapers and self-constituted leaders, charged with treason, bribery, &c., that self-respect forbids me longer to acknowledge myself a member of that party, or act with it. The Responsibility must rest with those who have persecuted me. I will meet them before the people at the proper time henceforth I shall act independently of all party diction from the men who have sought to ruin me and blacken my character. Besides, on the great leading issues of tariff and taxation, I have been in theory, and shall hereafter be in practice, a friend to the people.

WHAT PROPERTY IS NOW EXEMPT.

Since the late legislature on Exemptions, the above question is very often asked, and a legal friend answers through the Press for genral information, that the following property is now exempt:

The tools of every mechanic necessary to carry on his trade.

Farming utensils for two laborers.

Wearing apparel of every person.

Libraries of Lawyers; Ministers, and Physicians, and instruements Surgeons and Dentist to the value of $250.

Household and kitchen furniture to the value of $250.

Two work horses or mules, 4 cows and calves, one yoke of oxen, one cart or wagon, 800 lbs, pork or bacon, 20 head of stock hogs, 150 bushels corn, 20 bushels of wheat, and 80 acres of land but if the debt was made before September, 1870, then 160 is emempt from that class of debts.

In other words, the statute as it stand in the Revised Code is reenacted except that 2 horses are now exempt instead of one, and 80 acres in place of 160 of land.

Thompson's steam wagon is creating quite an excitment in Stockton, Cal. It is said to be able to plough seventy-five acres in twenty-four hours. It draws three ordinary wagons loaded with sand over common roads with perfect ease.

WASHINGTON.

Wasaington, March 2.—In the House a bill was passed providing for three commissioners to examine the claims of loyal citizens in the Southern States for army stores furnished during the rebellion including use and loss of vessels employed by the government. The commissioners are not to be residents of the Southern States. They shall hold a session at Washington and then adjourn to such places in the Southern States as they may select, and report their proceedings at each session of Congress.

A bill passed restoring James Bellger to his rank as Major, and goes to the President.

A bill removing the political disabilitis of seventy-one Kentuckians which passed the Senate in July, passed and now goes to the President.

The Conference committee on the Texas Pacific railroad have agreed upon a report. A branch from New Orleans to Marshall, Texas, via Baton Rouge and Alexandria. A trunk line from Marshall to San Diego, and a branch from the Colorado, near the thirty-second parallell, to a point on the thirtyfifth paralled.

Parliamentary coutesy requires that the House should act first on the report.

The House adjourned and the Senate will take no action to-night.

The Senate has confirmed R. Clark to be assessor of the first Georgia district.

ALABAMA.

Montgomery, March 2.—The Legislature was to adjourn to-day, but holds over a few days.

There is much interest taken in a suit on trial to-day, wherein the extraordinary spectacle is presented, for the locality, of a United States Judge being the defendant. The suit grows out of the decission Judge Busteed, rendered last June, imprisoning the Auditor of the State for alleged contempt in not obeying the order of the Court restaining the collection of tax from the Express Company. The Auditor sues Judge Busteed for libel, and lays damages at two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Both parties are leading members of the Republican party.

NEW YORK.

New York, March 2.—A special telegram from Paris says that the inhabitants maintain the same quiet, sturdy indifference they showed on the morning of the entry of the Prussians. There were no demonstrations by the people, and the troops prepared to bivouac on Champe Elyses and neighborhood without any apparant excitement.

The French troops who guarded the barracks and bridges, behaved admirably restrained their temper and kept cool.

There has been no disposition on the part of the officers and men of the Prussian army to wander beyond barricade limits even without a military uniform.

Prussian soldiers, if discovered in the lower parts of Paris would be attacked by the angry mob.

FRANCE.

Versailles, March 2.—The Emperor has returned from Long Champes, where he reviewed the army entering Paris.

Bordeaux, March 2.—The Assembly voted for the ratification of the preliminary treaty—546 for, to 107 against.

Paris, March 2.—At ten o'clock thirty thousand Prussian troops, with ninety-six pieces of artillery, and the usual proportion of cavalry, entered the city:

The zone surrendered to the Prussians is nearly clear of French. It commences at the extreme southwest corner of the encente, which forms a point and runs in the shape of an irregular triangle, of which the Seine forms the east side. The encente from the Point Du Jour to the Porte Des Fermes the west side, and the Faubourg Honore and the avenue Des Fermes from the Rue Royale to the encente, the north side or base.

The only points within these limits, retained by the French, are the banking establishment of the Army of Paris, the Que De Bouli and the Pont De Jena.

Few people on the streets. Most of the women out were in mourning, going to mass.

The Germans used no music except drums and trumpets, for signals.

The Germans were astonished at the mournful aspect of the city and deserted streets.

The statutes in Place De La were covered with crape.

ENGLAND.

London, March 2—The barricades in the northern and eastern Faubourgs of Paris are only precautionary, to be used if the Germans should overstep their assigned limits.

"No man can make a good Farmer and a successful one, who does not keep accurate accounts."

Did the cotton planter know exactly what it cost him to plant, cultivate and harvest his crop, he would, like the drover or merchant, set his own price, and not allow outsiders to set it for him. If then, it cost him more than he could get for it, he would certainly cease planting cotton, and cast about for another more remunerative article of produce.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

(From the Rural Carolinian, Fol. 1, No. 12.)

This loose way of farming should be abandoned. A system of accounts should be adopted, by which the farmer shall be able to tell at the end of the year, not only the amount of his gains or losses, but just where these gains or losses have occurred. Suppose, for instance, he first divides his farm into sections, numbering or naming his wood lots, fields, pastures and dwelling house and lot, for convenience sake.—He then estimates the value of each, fixing the same proportionate to the whole. He opens an account with each one, charging to each its valuation. He also opens an account with his stock, his vehicles and tools, charging to each its value. He must, of course, keep a cash account, and charge or credit to some one of his various accounts every cent he pays out or receives.

He charges to each field expenditures for seed, manure and labor, for share of tool account, and each day's work for himself or his oxen, for planting, cultivating and harvesting. If he sells his crop, he credits the cash received. If he stores it for family use, or to feed to his animals, he charges it to family expense, or to the stock account, at whatever he could have sold it for. After the crop is cleared, he estimates the value of the field, making allowance for whatever gain or loss in its condition and crop-bearing capacity may have occurred since the previous valuation, and the balance of the account shows what has been made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts, taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost money; and if same or similar results follow the operations of successive years, he is thereby warned, and can profit by the experience. From these accounts he can calculate, with certainty, the exact cost of everything produced, including even interests, taxes, and repairs of tools. He has the entire business tabularized, and can at his leisure, during winter evenings, march his colums in review before him, and study to some purpose to reduce costs and save expense.

Solon Robinson says in his valuable Facts for Farmers:

"No man can be a good farmer and a successful one who does not keep accurate accounts; be able to tell, at the end of the year, every dollar that comes to hand, and what for; and every one that goes out, and why it went; and balance your cash account once a month—once a week is better. Keep accounts with everybody debit and credit, and in some degree with everything; number your fields, and charge each with manure, seed and labor, and credit the crops and you will soon find which is the most profitable: open an account with your stable, your pig-pen your pasture, and with the general stock, and with different classes and branches of it, if you would learn accuracy which is the most profitable. To be successful you must be accurate and must keep accounts."

Price $2.

With this number of the REPUBLICAN, we reduce the subscription price to $2 a year, strictly in advance. Coupled with this, we offer all those in arrears a settlement of subscription accounts at $2 a year. The reduced price will bring the paper within reach of everybody, as also enable delinquents to settle up without difficulty. We hope these offers will have the double effect of greatly augmenting our list of subscribers, and hastening the settlement of old accounts long past due. Every man who intends to pay for his paper, will do so now when we offer him one third of the amount due us to settle. Those who do not settle on this basis within the next few weeks will be stricken from the books and their accounts, at $3 a year, will be placed in the hands of a Justice of the Peace for collection We will make no exception to this rule. We intend to give all men, good pay and bad pay, a fair chance to settle up at $2 a year, and if they fail to avail themselves of it, the presumption will, of course, be that they do not intend to pay and we will be justified in bringing suit.

He is aided in his unholy work by ex-Governor Smith and, soon to be, ex-Senator Warner.

Parsons has drawn a bill called the Kn-klux bill which he is endeavoring to have the President send to Congress accompained by a special message. It makes it a felony to wear disguise of any sort, and provides for the arrest and punishment of person suspected of belonging to the Kn-klux.

A bill or resolution is to be brought before the House declaring the purpose of the Democratic and Conservative party to gurantee negro freedom and equality.

Among the bills passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, is one providing for an inercase in the pay of regular jurors, both grand and petit, from $1.50 to $2.00 per day. It provides also for the payment of five cents per mile travelled, going to and from court, all ferriages included.

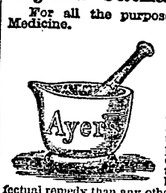
Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends; and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

ROCK RIVER PAPER CO'S

Patent Building Paper,

—FOR—

—AND—

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

WE desire to call the attention of the Public to PATENT BUILDING PAPER, which has been extensively used during the past three years throughout the whole country, and has given entire satisfaction to hundreds of builders, hoping thereby to induce parties intending to build to avail themselves of the many advantages we claim for our manufactures.

For Sheathing.

Saturated sheathing weighs about 1½ lbs. to the square yard.

It has been found useful in the construction of buildings, applied in all sorts of ways and to every part—sides, roof, partitions and floors.

For outside use, under weather boarding or clapboards, or for use under shingles or floors, we recommend that saturated with tar, as it will then resist dampness, cold and heat, and make the building dry as well as warm, and the odor of tar tends to drive away all vermin, rats, mice, &c,

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be used as follows:

UPON THE STUDS.

Either up and down or cross-wise; if up and down, the joints should be made on the studs, so as to leave no cracks. It is made 33 inches wide, so as to cover studs 16 inches apart and lap; and if cross-wise the edges should be lapped and afterwards nailed to the siding on the back side. In case it is used this way, no sheating boards are needed, and a building is made very much warmer than by using matched boards without it. One thickness of it will resist more cold wind than an inch board, because of its non-conductive properties, and because it does not shrink.

Many parties, for nice houses, put it on the studs up and down, and use common boards for sheating instead of matched flooring. It is much warmer than with the flooring alone.

ROOFING.

Double thick Roofing weigh about 2 lbs to the square yard.

Our Roofing is entirely different from the Saturated Sheathing. This is made of nothing but woolen rags and thoroughly saturated with tar. Every roll intended for roofing is marked "Roofing;" Use no other for this purpose.

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be laid on the Roofing Boards up and down or cross-wise Begin at the lower edge and tack down with good size tacks about one or two inches apart, lapping it about two inches.

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

Prepared Plastering Board weighs about 1½ lbs. to square yard.

This paper manufacture as a cheap substitute for Lath and Plaster. We began to make it in the spring of 1870, on account of a great demend for something to be used instead of Plastering, that would make a smooth, warm and permanent wall at small expense, and not be effected by the changes in the atmosphere. It has been tried by thousands of parties already, and not one has found falt with it, but on the contrary hundred have assured us that it fully meets our recommendations.

It is adapted to use for this purpose for the following reasons.

It is very cheap, costs less than one third as much as plastering.

It can be easily and quickly applied by any one.

It saves all the annoyance, delay and dirt of plastering.

It makes a perfectly smooth, warm and durable wall.

In case of accident it can be easily and cheaply repaired.

It is not affected by dampness in the Atmosphere.

These reasons we think sufficient to induce anyone, at least to try it, and that is all we ask, to secure for us a demand for what we can make, for it recommends itself much better than we can do it.

By following our direction, anyone with ordinary capacity can make a perfect wall.

Pricee per lb 6 cents.

CAHOON'S BROADCAST

SEED SOWER.

FOR SOWING ALL KINDS OF GRAIN AND GRASS SEED.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements. It has probably received more First Premiums at State Fairs in the fall of 1869, than was ever awarded any other machine of any name or nature, in one year.

Joseph Harris, author of "Walks and Talks," in AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST. says: "I like the Cahoon Seeder very much indeed." The following from a noted grain grower, speaks for itself:

NORTHPORT, L. I Nov. 18 1869.

DEAR SIR.—The Broadcast Seed Sower you sent me last spring is the best Seed Sower I ever saw. I used it in the same field with the Drill—taking one half with the Sower and the other with the Drill—The work was done in one-quarter of the time with the Sower; the crop, when threshed yielded more, and the grain was better. I have used it entirely for my fall sowing of wheat and rye. For sowing grass seeds, clover or millet, no other machine could do the work so well. A great many farmers, when they saw it, said it was only a play toy until they saw it in a fifty-acre lot with one man travelling as fast as he could walk, another carrying grain to him, and four teams following after. Their next business was to watch their crop when up, but all were surprised to find it so evenly distributed.

WILLIAM CRAIGEN.

DARGROFF ALA, MAY 4, 1870.

Mess. E. F. Redfield & Co., Jasper Tenn.

Gents: the Cahoon's Broad Cast Seed Sower you sold me this spring beats every thing for the work intended I ever saw, I would not do without it for its price each season. It does its work for a charm at a great saving of labor, time and seed. Yours truly,

A. Gunter.

We warrent the Hand Machine to sow 50 acres of wheat in 10 hours, and the Horse Power Machine to sow 120 acres in the same time, and the work to be done with greater Precision and accuracy that it can be done by any other means whatever

President Grant, since he has attained his present high position, has frequently taken needless pains to show his contempt for the people to whom he owes his elevation.—The Washington Patriot says that at the late Carnival in that city, right in the midst of the wheelbarrow race, when the presence of carriages was positively prohibited, when the crowd was surging across the avenue in dense throngs, and and at a time when it was positively dangerous to the multitude, the President with the ladies of his family drove rapidly up the street, followed by another carriage containing his father-in-law and a lot of juvenile Dents, the two vehicles dashing among the people scattering them in all directions, and imperilling a number of lives.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Evening Post's special says that within a few days matters have taken such shape as to leave no doubt that attorney-General Akerman will leave the Cabinet before the middle of March.

Col William McMichel arrived in Washington yesterday morning from San Domingo, and had an interview with the President in reference to that island. He reports the commissioners and a large majority of the people in favor of annexation.

Since it has been found out that the San Domingo Commission is not likely to return till April, a sudden indifference to prompt despatch of business has been developed, that looks as though the new Congress was to be kept here on various excuses in order to prolong the session into May or June, to try and carry San Domingo through.

AN AIMLESS LIFE.—Says Robert Dale Owen: "I committed one fatal error in my youth, and dearly have I regreted it. I started in life without an object, even without an ambition. My temperament disposed me to ease, and to the full I indulged the disposition: I said to myself. 'I have all that I see others contending for—why should I struggle?' I knew not the curse that lights on those who have never to struggle for anything. Had I created for myself a definite pursuant it—literary, scientific, artistic, political, no matter what, so there was something to labor for and overcome—I might have been happy. I feel this now—too late. The power is gone. Habits have become chains.—Through all the profitless years gone by, I seek vainly for something to remember, with pride, or even to dwell on with satisfaction. I have thrown a life away: I feel, sometimes, as if there was nothing remaining to me worth living for."

Sharp Trick to Rob an Express Car.

St. Louis, Mo., Febuary 22.—The Republican has a special from Denver dated 21st, which says.—A box marked F. C. Cross Newton Corner, Mass., was left at Wells & Co.'s express office last night to go East by the Kansas Pacific train. Suspicions were in some way aroused, and upon examination F. C. Cross himself, a young man who has resided here sometimes, was found inside. He had a pistol and tools with him, and the box had a trap-door. A heavy shipment ment of gold was to go East by the same train. Cross was arrested and placed in jail.

☞A news paper article has been going the rounds of the press, headed, "Where is your boy at night?" A brilliant urchin suggests the propriety of another article, inquiring, "Where is the old man at night?"

☞Every farmer we see says he will plant corn this year. We hope they will stick to the present resolution and thus become independent of the corn and bacon dealers in the West.

At the execution of John Howard, in Cumberland, Md., thousands of people for miles around came in as to a grand fair or convention—fathers, mothers sons, and daughters— all to see a poor wretch hung, who was so drunk that he had to be held while the noose was adjusted. "Is our civilation a failure?"

Wisconsin's Legislature must be in a bad state. A local paper says: "Under the head of public charity the treasury is robbed for the benefit of public thieves. And under the name of public benefit municipalities are made alembics to change the wealth of individuals into the wealth of corporations.—

The sensation of the Williamsburgh "woman-stabber" has ended in a most farcical manner, if we may credit late New York journals. The police now say that the existance of this misguided youth is purely imaginary, only one woman, out of all those mentioned, being found to maintain that she was stuck and that with a pin only. But, notwithstanding the denial of the authenticity of this sanguinary lad by the police, a great many good people will persist in declaring the truth of the story in all its terrible details—the more especially as it is said that the police have come to their decisions because of their inability to secure the $250 reward offered for the apprehension of the offender.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ough to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best o all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State where the temperature is regular, and no subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes, Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville. It is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseasd a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1860, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Medicines, especially Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce billious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another stiff, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night-sweats and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limiss of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treament is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better, than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa ensues, a dose of the Mandrake will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, put no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands
Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters, according to directions, and remain long unwell.

100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Livor, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They invigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are cured by these Bitters.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known, that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or to more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,
For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

THE BLUE COATED KU-KLUX

Outlaws in Epaulettes!—Sherman's Bummer's Recalled,"—The Bayonet is the Law!"

The Air Line Eagle details several incidents of the "raid" made by United States soldiers on stills in that section.—Monday last as the revenue officer, with a train of wagons, approached the bridge across the Chestatee river, belonging to W. R. Bolding, Esq., he ordered the bridge-keeper to open the gate and let him and his train pass. Before doing so the keeper demanded the toll, which the officer refused to pay. About this time Mr. Bolding himself came up, when the same order was given to him which he also refused to obey until the toll was paid. At this the officer ordered an axe to be brought, when, Mr. Bolding feeling that he was powerless to enforce his rights, and fearing his property would be damaged, directed his bridge keeper to deliver up the key. This the officer would not allow to be used, but had the gate broken and passed through —his whole manner being most insolent, arbitrary and insulting. Ordered Mr. Bolding under arrest—had him handcuffed—then, in this condition, without permitting him to speak to his wife or children, he was dragged as a felon from his home and family, to be carried, as is supposed, to Atlanta.—And all this for no crime, no violation of law, no wrong. Mr. Bolding is one of the first citizens of Hall county—a peaceable, law-abiding high-toned, christian gentleman.

At Ezekiel Dungan's, in Hall county, after destroying four stills, burning and destroying his still-house, stands, and a quantity of meal, they captured about a barrel of whisky and a large quantity of brandy, variously estimated at from 600 to 800 gallons. The brandy is said to have been made under a regular license. While camped at Gainesville, which was headquarters for two or three days, they wantonly shot several hogs, burned rails, fed and wasted corn and fodder, and committed other acts of wrong and oppression in violation of law, and wholly out of their line of duty.

BLACK AND WHITE—Some time ago, Ephriam Watson, negro, and Mary Bowen, contracted a matrimonial alliance and were tried before Jas. H. Hammond, Esq., Notary Public and ex-officio Justice of the Peace in the lower part of this county, proceedings had under section 3602 of the Revised Code, and committed to jail

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MARCH 11th, 1871.

We publish in another column a letter from Rev. D. F. Smith, as well as the press dispatches, in relation to the recent troubles at Meridian. Since the letter was written, the African Church spoken of and the residence of the Rev. Moore, (negro) has been burned.

We regret exceedingly the departure northward of Mayor Sturges, the carpet-bag villain who it is said was instrumental in stirring up the strife between the races, which culminated so disastrously and fatally. He should rather have been given sure passport southward, where the Devil could have treated him with fire to his hearts content. This great patience of the Southern people, begins to look very much like cowardice. This Sturges no doubt deserved death more richly than any of his ignorant dupes, and yet he is safely guarded to the train and shipped northward, only to misrepresent the whole facts to the northern people, and again come with hate in his heart, to plague the people of Meridian or some other locality South, should this government continue for another term of years under the control of the revolutionists and traitors now harrassing our people [illegible]. John Brown was not given safe conduct northward by the Virginians after his raid on Harper's Ferry. If Sturges was not guilty he should not have been invited, and if guilty he should not have been permitted to leave Meridian. But rather have been held amenable to outraged law; which law fairly administered, would have sent his soul "marching on" after old John Brown's.

At a meeting of the Stock holders, held on the 4th inst., the following named gentlemen were elected Trustees of Calhoun College: E. L. Woodward, Gen. W. H. Forney, Hon. Thos. A. Walker, G. B. Douthitt, Col. Jno. H. Caldwell, P. Rowan, E. M. Crook, Mr. Fouche, and Capt. Wm. M. Hames. The selection is a wise one and the College will prosper under their management.

Gov. Lindsay has appointed another Banking house, financial Agents for the State, in New York, in place of Henry Clews & Co Smith's appointees. This we think right, as Henry Clews & Co. are warm and active supporters of Gen. Grant, and Grant is the bitterest and most relentless foe the people of the South have.

The impeachment of Governors seems to be the order of the day. Governor Butler of Nebraska is to be impeached; and will be suspended during the trial in obedience to State Constitution.

The election for County Superintendent of Education and School Directors passed off very quietly in this county, not more than a fourth of the voting strength having been cast. This may be accounted for by the fact that the Radicals had no candidate out. J. C. McAuley, Esq, was elected Superintendent and Messrs. Read and Stevenson Directors, by an almost unanimous vote.

At an election held for Mayor and Councilmen, in Jacksonville, March 4th, George I. Turnley, Esq, was elected Mayor, Joe S. Montgomery, David Privitt, Wm. Dean, Ed. L. Woodward and L. W. Grant were elected Councilmen.

The contest for school superintendent has been rather warm in Etowah county, there having been Rev R. J. C. Hail, the Democratic nominee, Wm. Cowan, Democratic independent candidate, and H. W. Pickens, Republican Democratic, Independent, Conservative &c., candidate, all running at the same time.

We hope to learn that Rev R. J. C. Hail is the elect one.

With modesty bordering on bashfulness we reproduce the following from our esteemed cotemporary, the Montgomery Mail. We have heretofore spoken of the recent improvements in the appearance and management of that able journal in the very highest terms; but we wish it understood that the compliment below is not payment in kind. No, no. We feel that it is a frank expression from the very depths of Cook's great soul.

"The Jacksonville Republican has entered on its 35th year. Like wine the Republican has grown better with age, until it is to-day one of the noblest, ablest and best Democratic papers in the State. Long life and prosperity toit!"

The old council have recently accomplished several much needed improvements, such as the recovering of the old well, the erection of bridges along our main thoroughfares &c.

As promised, we publish caption of Acts passed by the present Legislature. The list is not complete, as its heading indicates; but we hope to finish it next week. "Mighty interesting reading," that about free dealers. &c.

Any of our subscribers can get, for nothing a paper of the genuine white and black Norway oats and the Chester county mammoth early corn, by sending stamp to N. P. Boyer & Co., Parksburg Chester county Pa.—Only our subscribers, remember.

The jury in the Reynolds-Busteed case could not agree upon a verdict, and were discharged. Before the "old thing" ended, the Sheriff and one juror got themselves into jail for five days and were fined $50 each—the Sheriff for alloying an interested party to talk to the juror and the juror for talking to said party.

Robert Tanner, the tax Collector of this County, informs us that he has paid into the County Treasury every dollar due the County. It is simple justice to say that Tanner makes a good and efficient officer.

Maybe the Legislature adjourned on last Thursday. At least that was the understanding when we last heard from them:

The whole force of the Cross Plains Democrat, including the editor, have been down with the mumps for the past week or two. We agonizingly hope the disease may not take an unfavorable turn.

The young people will be glad to hear that old John Robinson's Circus will be here on Friday. We all know John Robinson's show, and all go when he comes along

In the New England billiard tournament Melvia Foster took the 2d prize $159, and Matt Hewins of Hartford the third $50. Foster and Hewins both beat Stone of Hartford, a third party to the tie, and then played off. Foster gave Hewins 100 points, and won by 1,000 to 967. This ends the tournament.

Gen. Arnold Elzeth died in Baltimore last week. He was a native of Maryland and a Confederate major-General.

Our friend Hammonds has been quite busy this week making hotel improvements. His hotel is one of the best interior hotels in the South.

We were pleased to receive a visit from Dr. Evins, of White Plains, this week. The Dr. is one of the finest physicians in the country and we are always glad to see him.

The most agreeable men to do business with that we know of, is W. D. Hoyt & Co., large dealers in Drugs &c. Rome Ga., Being prompt, polite and able to fill all orders in their line, it is a real pleasure to transact business with them. We commend the firm to all our friends who may have to send to Rome for any articles in their line.

Several friends have dropped in on us this week with the needful. Subscribers are rapidly taking advantage of our offer at reduced rates. The wheat is rapidly being seperated from the chaff. We wait awhile longer. Who next?.

MERIDIAN LETTER.

MERIDIAN MISSISSIPPI,
March 7th, 1871.

MR. L. W. GRANT,

Dear Sir: Meridian, for a few days past, has been the seat of most startling and tragical events. For more than 12 months, it has been evident that the citizens were subjected to many inconveniences, and annoyances arising from the utter inefficiency, and corruptions of a carpet-bag Mayor. One or two other extraordinary wicked white men, acting together with the mayor, and a number of fiends incarnated in negro flesh, especially one Rev. Aaron Moore, (black) Representative from this county, (Lowdendale) in the Legislature of Mississippi, were evidently misguiding the negro population, and inflaming their feelings against the whites. His excellency, Gov. Alcorn, either blinded by the false statements of Rev. Moore & Co., or influenced by party prejudice, persistently refused, though frequently memorialized by the best white citizens of the town, to remove the objectionable officers, or furnish the necessary protection of life and property.

Under these unfortunate influences, the colored population became gradually more and more insulting and defiant. The slumbers of peaceable citizens were broken at all hours of the night, by the loud and repeated report of fire arms, occasionally the flying lead rattling like hail upon their houses. In some few instances white men while walking the streets, were halted and fired upon. A guard of armed negroes were found of late placed around the colored church, indicating that some mischief was in contemplation. It was even dangerous for white persons to walk the streets, during the hours of night. A brigade of negro militia on Saturday, paraded the streets with drum and fife, frightening horses, and annoying the inhabitants.

On Saturday last, towards the close of the militia exercises, Billy Clopton, a notorious wicked wretch, 2nd to Aaron Moore, as a leader, became extremely abusive towards the whites, and declared that with one hundred men, he could annihilate a thousand white men—that the whites were afraid of the negroes, and he would have his way in Meridian. Inflamatory speeches were made also the same evening by Aaron Moore, Warren Tyler and other negroes. Some spoke of the possibility of the town being reduced to ashes. About seven and a half o'clock Saturday night, the flames were discovered issuing from the roof of the store belonging to a brother of Mayor Sturges. They spread with great rapidity, soon enveloping the entire building, and communicating to the houses on either side. There being no organization for the purpose of extinguishing fire, the devouring element marched on despite the feeble efforts that were made, without any order, in the tearing down of sheds and roofs, and the use of buckets and blankets, until the entire block on Front street (10 or 12 store houses) between Lee and Johnson streets, was a mass of ruins. A few goods were saved, and through a merciful Providence the fiery element was prevented from crossing Johnson street to another block, and consuming perhaps one half of the town. The loss is estimated at about $75,000, $28,000 worth covered by insurance.

While the fire was raging, and while many colored men (to their praise be it spoken) as well as white, were doing what they could to check the flames, and to remove and save goods, the Bill Clopton was on hand "thanking God, that the rebel's property was burning," urging the negroes to cease working, and "praying that the flames would consume every building in the city." While marching up the street in front of the fire, pistol in hand, using profane and abusive language, gloating over the misfortune of the rebels, he was suddenly, and unexpectedly knocked down, disarmed and left to his colored comrades who carried him out of the crowd. About this time, before the fire was extinguished, the bell of the African church pealed forth the usual signal for the negroes to gather there. This proved too much for the already too long exercised patience of the white citizens. A company at once formed and marched to the residence of the Sheriff, where a tender was made of the posse, and a request for the arrest of Billy Clopton. The Sheriff sent his deputy Mr. Belk, in charge of the possee, and arrested Clopton, and placed him under guard at the Court House. (I here quote from the Daily Gazette.) "The turbulent threats of the negroes, and their white allies called the citizens together again; Sunday P. M., when 100 men volunteered to vindicate the majesty of the law, and put down lawlessness, no matter from whence it might come. The town was well policed on Sabbath night, and a strong guard kept over Clopton, to see that he was neither rescued nor molested.

The negroes did not carry out their threats. One squad of armed negroes was dispersed and sent home.

Yesterday morning (Monday the 6th,) there was an immense mass meeting at the Court House, to devise ways and means for keeping peace. The meeting was large and enthusiastic, perhaps five hundred in attendance, and all classes represented. The speeches were pointed and decided, but every one advised adherence to law and order, and the administration of justice to all parties. It was evident however that all the white men felt that they had been outraged, and refused that protection to which every good citizen is entitled. A committee was appointed to wait on his excellency Governor Alcorn, to lay the grievances of the people before him, and the causes thereof, and to request him to provide the citizens of Meridian, with a good, efficient and just executive officer acceptable to the people.

It was evident that the white people had determined, that, after trying every means to bring the law to bear upon offenders, and this failing, they would rise in their full strength, and check the mad and destructive career of bad negroes, and their white confederates.

But alas the tragedy does not end here. The meeting closed quietly, and every thing seemed to be moving in the right direction.

In the afternoon of the same day (Monday) while the examination of the witnesses in the case of the state, vs W. Clopton, and other negroes charged with riotous conduct, on Saturday night at the time of the fire, was progressing, an altercation occurred between a Mr. Brantley (white) and Warren Tyler (negro) who was armed with two pistols. Tyler stated angrily that he would impeach Brantley's testimony, when Brantley raised a cane and advanced towards him. At this juncture Gen. Satten, city Marshal, caught Brantley and held him. While Brantley was thus held, Tyler drew a repeater and commenced firing at him. At the first fire Judge Bramlette (on the bench) was shot through the head and instantly killed. The room was crowded, and great excitement prevailed. An indiscriminate firing commenced, in which Bill Clopton (the prisoner) and a negro named Gus Ford were killed, and several persons white and black wounded. Tyler, after firing several shots, jumped out of the court room, on the 2nd story, and ran up Sydney street. The announcement flew along the streets, "a negro has shot Judge Bramlette." Stores were closed almost instantly, and in less than five minutes 50 armed men were in pursuit of Tyler, who fired a number of shots at those following him, refusing to surrender to the last. Taking refuge in a small store room, he was overtaken and instantly killed.

During the evening and night, intense excitement prevailed. Under the authority of the Sheriff, more than 100 men and boys were patrolling the town, arresting some parties, and giving notice to others, who had helped to stir up strife, to leave immediately, and disarming negroes. Aaron Moore made his escape. The notable Mayor Sturges wrote out his resignation, signed it, and asked to be guarded to the Railroad, where he took his leave of a town which he had been one of the instruments in bringing to the verge of ruin, and started on his way to his Northern home.

It is to be regretted that during last night, a rush was made upon a guard placed over three negroes, by 12 or 15 armed men, who had become desperate. The three negroes were taken out and shot; their bodies were found near town this morning. Thus one white man, universally respected, having been Probate Judge, and being Justice of the Peace, and six negroes, were hurried suddenly and violently into eternity.

The delegation has gone to Jackson to wait on the Governor, peace and quiet are restored, and the citizens of Meridian now hope for protection and wholesome Government.

Yours &c.
D. F. SMITH.

Large Fire at Meridian!

Number of Families Burned Out!

Fire the Work of Incendiaries!

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Several Negroes Arrested.

MERIDIAN, 3:30 P. M., March 6.

A fire broke out just before eight o'clock in rear of the upper part of Theodore Sturges' store, Saturday evening, March 4th, and spread rapidly until the entire square was consumed. By great exertions of the people, favored by a perfect calm in the atmosphere, the fire was prevented from spreading across the streets.

The losses are Hurlbutt & Bro., partially insured, Theodore Sturges, fully insured; A. Schimpf, family grocery, no insurance; M. Roos, dry goods; don't know about insurance. The building belonged to J. W. Harvey, no insurance.—The tenement house owned by R. B. McCaskill, loss about fifteen hundred dollars; insurance $800. Don't know about other losses and insurance. One bar room was burned, and five families burned out of homes. There seems to be no doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Dark suspicions are entertained as to who the guilty parties are.—A committee of citizens are charged with the duty of working up the case and will report at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.—There has been no violence.—When the fire broke out one prominent negro William Dennis, used incendiary language regarding it. He seemed in great glee at the prospect of great destruction of property, and did all in his power to prevent the saving of goods, and urged the negroes to shove them further into the fire instead of saving them. When the fire was stopped, a number of citizens assembled and waited upon the Sheriff, demanding the arrest of this negro and proposing to be his posse. The Sheriff sent his deputy, and a warrant was sworn out and Dennis hunted up, arrested and placed under a strong guard, where he now is. His trial will come off imediately. Everything was done in an orderly manner.

There had been a meeting of the negroes at the court-house during the afternoon, a few hours before the fire occurred, at which meeting seditious language was used by several negro speakers.—Two more of these, Warren Tyler and Hon. J. Aaron Moore, members of the Legislature, were arrested to-day, and are now in charge of the Sheriff.

A mass meeting was held at 10 o'clock, this morning, to take into consideration the matter of preserving the peace of the city, lawlessness having become so alarmingly prevalent among the negroes of late. A committee of seven was appointed to go to Jackson and inform Gov. Alcorn of the true state of affairs here. The committee is composed of men of both political parties. A committee of safety was also appointed, with power to call out any necessary number of citizens to aid the civil authorities, when wanted.

An attempt to rescue Dennis was the programme of the negroes last night, but a strong guard of citizens and several squads of patrols made it the most quiet night Meridian has seen in six months.

JUDGE BRAMLETTE SHOT.

The Murderer Riddled with Bullets

[Special to the Times]

MERIDIAN, March 6, 7. P. M.

During the trial, to-day of the negro Dennis for riotous conduct, a desperate negro named Warren Tyler, shot and killed Judge Bramlette and then fired into the crowded court-room. The officers and citizens fired upon him, wounding Dennis and killing another negro accidentally. Tyler ran into an adjoining room and jumped from the second story to the ground.—He was pursued by the Sheriff and posse and killed, being riddled with bullets.

J. Aaron Moore, a negro member of the Legislature, was also wounded.

The whole town is in arms, but the excitement has abated.

Dennis, Tyler and Moore were notorious and mischievous characters.

Our contemptible little carpet-bag Mayor has not shown himself since the tragedy. He has been the prime mover in bringing about the present state of affairs.

A strong patrol force will be kept on duty for the present.

Jackson, March 7.—A riot occurred at Meridan, yesterday, during which Judge Bramlett, of the City Court, white, eight or ten negroes were killed, and a number of whites and negroes wounded.

A fire occurred Saturday night, destroying seventy-five thousand dollars worth of property. Loften, negro, was arrested as the incendiary, and was being tried before Judge Bramlett, when Tyler, negro, rose in the Court room and shot Judge Bramlett through the head, killing him instantly. A general melee ensued. Tyler and Loften were killed instantly. J. Aaron Moore, negro, a prominent politician and member of the Mississppi Legislature, was also a prisoner, as being accessory to the burning, was shot—it is supposed mortally.

Last night there was another fire, destroying a church and other buildings.

A meeting of the citizens was held and a safety committee to-oporate with the Sheriff in preserving order, was appointed. All is now quiet.

Sturgis Mayor, from Connecticut, who has been fermenter of strife in the town, took the North-bound train last night, promising never to return.

A committee arrived here this morning to confer with Gov. Alcorn in the matter.

The Legislature has been trying to evade the enactment of a law preparatory to holding elections this fall.

Yesterday, Governor Alcorn informed a committee that he would order an election for all offices to be filled under the Constitution, whether they enacted the laws or not He also informed the committee that he would not occupy is Senatorial chair until the election would be held in November. By this bold stand, the Governor has shown his intention to work in the interest of the people, and not risk the State Government in uncertain hands making many staunch supporters, who a few weeks ago, were his political enemies.

Special to the Times.]

Meridian, Miss, March 8, 1871.

Three negro conspirators against the life of the Sheriff of the county were captured. Two of them were brought to town, but the third, the ringleader, is reported to have escaped. All of them lived in the country. Hon. J. Aaron Moore, negro member of the Legislature, hailed the Jackson bound train this morning fifteen miles west of Meridian. He was accompanied by a dozen negroes, but none of them got on board of the train.

"No man can make a good Farmer and a successful one, who does not keep accurate accounts."

Did the cotton planter know exactly what it cost him to plant, cultivate and harvest his crop, he would, like the drover or merchant, set his own price, and not allow outsiders to set it for him. If then, it cost him more than he could get for it, he would certainly cease planting cotton, and cast about for another more remunerative article of produce.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

(From the Rural Carolinian, Vol. 1, No. 12.)

This loose way of farming should be abandoned. A system of accounts should be adopted, by which the farmer shall be able to tell at the end of the year, not only the amount of his gains or losses, but just where these gains or losses have occurred. Suppose, for instance, he first divides his farm into sections, numbering or naming his wood lots, fields, pastures and dwelling house and lot, for convenience sake.—He then estimates the value of each, fixing the same proportionate to the whole. He opens an account with each one, charging to each its valuation. He also opens an account with his stock, his vehicles and tools, charging to each its value. He must, of course, keep a cash account, and charge or credit to some one of his various accounts every cent he pays out or receives.

He charges to each field expenditures for seed, manure and labor, for share of tool account, and each day's work for himself or his oxen, for planting, cultivating and harvesting. If he sells his crop, he credits the cash received. If he stores it for family use, or to feed to his animals, he charges it to family expense, or to the stock account, at whatever he could have sold it for. After the crop is cleared, he estimates the value of the field, making allowance for whatever gain or loss in its condition and crop-bearing capacity may have occurred since the previous valuation, and the balance of the account shows what has been made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts, taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost money; and if same or similar results follow the operations of successive years, he is thereby warned, and can profit by the experience. From these accounts he can calculate, with certainty, the exact cost of everything produced, including even interests, taxes, and repairs of tools. He has the entire business tabularized, and can at his leisure, during winter evenings, march his colums in review before him, and study to some purpose to reduce costs and save expense.

SOLON ROBINSON says in his valuable FACTS FOR FARMERS:

"No man can be a good farmer and a successful one who does not keep accurate accounts; be able to tell, at the end of the year, every dollar that comes to hand, and accout once a month—once a week is better. Keep accounts with everybody debit and credit, and in some degree with everything; number your fields, and charge each with manure, seed and labor, and credit the crops and you will soon find which is the most profitable: open an account with your stable, your pig-pen your pasture, and with the general stock, and with different classes and branches of it, if you would learn accuracy which is the most profitable. To be successful you must be accurate and must keep accounts."

ALICE CARY'S SWEET POEM.

Of all the beautiful pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
Is one of a dim old forest,
That seemeth best of all;
Not for its gnarled oaks olden,
Dark with the mistletoe;
Not for the violets golden
That lean from the fragrant hedge,
Coquetting all day with the sunbeams,
And stealing their golden edge;
Not for the vines on the upland
Where the bright red berries rest;
Nor the pinks, nor the pale sweet cowslip,
It seemeth to me the best.

I once had a little brother
With eyes that were dark and deep—
In the lap of that olden forest
He lieth in peace asleep;
Light as the down of the thistle,
Free as the winds that blow,
We roved there the beautiful Summers,
The Summers of long ago:
But his feet on the hills grew weary,
And one of the Autumn eves
I made for my little brother
A bed of the yellow leaves.

Sweetly his pale arms folded
My neck in a meek embrace,
As the light of immortal beauty
Silently covered his face;
And when the arrows of sunset
Lodged in the tree-tops bright
He fell, in his saint-like beauty,
Asleep by the gates of light.
Therefore, of all the pictures
That hang on Memory's wall,
The one of the dim old forest
Seemeth best of all.

Death of Bishop James O. Andrew.

A dispatch received yesterday by Rev. A. M. Wynn, from Rev. John W. Bush, brought the sad, yet not unexpected, intelligence of the death yesterday morning at Mobile, of this venerable servant of God. He had attained his 78th year and passed away full of the blessed hopes and bright assurances of a glorious, immortality. We learned that he preached his last sermon—a most powerful effort—at New Orleans on Sunday week; that shortly afterwards he was stricken with paralysis, that rallying, he started for his home at Summerfield, Ala., but was so ill on reaching Mobile as to render further progress impossible. The attack terminated in death as above.

Bishop Andrew was born in Ebert county, Ga., was licensed to preaching 1812, his ministerial labors thus covering a period of fifty eight years. In 1832 he was ordained Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, in which capacity he served until 1844, when the disruption between the Northern and Southern churches occured, growing out of the case of Bishop Andrew's being a slaveholder. Since that time he has filled the office of Bishop in the M. E. Church South, and at the time of his death was senior in the Southern College of Bishops.

Rev A. M. Wynn of this city was a nephew of Bishop Andrew, and spent his boyhood days in his family. Few, therefore, know more of his excellencies as a man and christian. But the reputation of the deceased Bishop is as extensive as the boundries of Methodism and his name and memory will be especially revered and cherished throughout the Southern States.—Columbus Sun.

Cotton Tax.

The manner in which the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the cotton tax case was announced, left the impression that the law imposing the tax was affirmed. The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette writes, Feb. 29:

"In the Supreme Court to-day, Judge Nelson announced that the Court was equally divided in the case of Farrington vs. Saunders, involving the constitutionality of the cotton tax. The judgment below in favor of the government, is therefore approved, but not being decisive is being reached upon the constitutionality of the law. It is understood that Justice Swayne, Miller, Strong and Bradley were of the opinion that the tax was unconstitutional, and justices Nelson, Clifford, Davis and Field were of the contrary opinion."

It will be seen that four of the Judges among whom are Grant's appointees, Strong and Bradley—favor the constitutionality of the law, while the other four assert that it is unconstitutional. It is a fact Chief justice Chase was not there to settle the question.

Talledega Watchtower.

PROFIT OF GOATS.—Robert W. Scott of Franklin county, Ky., writes to the Observer and Reporter (Lexington) a long letter in regard to goat raising in that State. In its course he says: "I have a flock of nearly two hundred head of Cashmere or Angora goats, produced from the native or common females, now long enough in the blood to produce wool long enough to be shorn and manufactured. This flock has cost me almost nothing; the sales which have been made and the meat and skins of the wethers from time to time in the course of production having remunerated all expenses. I have recently received the account of sale of goats' wool at 85 cents per pound. To produce this wool cost me no more per pound than to produce the wool of my 'improved Kentucky' sheep, and yet 37 cents per pound was the best offer I could get for my sheep's wool in Kentucky.—Both the goat's wool and the sheep's wool were shorn and handled alike, yet one produced 85 cents and the other 37 cents per pound."

The North Carolina Legislature has appointed a committee to investigate the case of E. W. Jones, Judge of the 2nd Judicial District of the State, on charge of drunkness.

LOVE LETTERS.

THE ART OF WRITING THEM LOST—THE LAST AND BEST OF THE ARTICLE.

A writer in Cassell's Magazine says we no longer write love letters, that we are too busy and cautious for the real billet doux. He says:

It would be horrible to become a source of amusement to "the jury." Our letters accordingly are written with an eye to the confusion of Sergeant Buzfuz, and precious things of course they are.

The only good modern love-letter the present writer remembers to have seen was one he wrote himself. The letter was the composition of another person, a bricklayer, who asked the writer whether he would mind 'doing a bit of writing' for him. He assented. The bricklayer produced a sheet of foolscap from the interior of his hat and dictated "Miss." The writer asked, "Miss what?" The bricklayer in confusion answered Stokes, but thought there was "no call to put that down." The writer suggested "Dear Miss." The bricklayer fired up and declared he wasn't going to knuckle under like that. The writer accordingly set down "Miss." "Your treatment of me the other night," continued the bricklayer, "was too bad; the cauliflower I gave you at our last meeting was perfectly fresh though you chose to not consider it so. I can be as proud as you; I did not pick it up after you had threw it down." The writer suggested thrown. The bricklayer asked him if he was certain about it. The writer gave him an assurance to that effect. The bricklayer went on. "I ask to let bygones be bygones, Mary and I will take you to Greenwich. Why should persons keeping company have words? The lives of the longest of us soon ends in the grave, and what will be your feelings there when you look back on the eighteenth of August?" Here the bricklayer cleared his throat.

The writer wished to know if he should go on. The bricklayer asked "how he was off for room," and suggested that he should take a measurement. The writer said he could rule the other side, and this was done.

"Come, let us be happy together," resumed the bricklayer in verse; "for where there's a will there's a way. Let your heart be as light as a feather——"

The writer asked if this were the beginning of a letter to another person. The bricklayer said "No," but his composition seemed to want a something to finish it off; perhaps the writer could think of a line or two himself? The writer meditated.

"'I dreamt,'" said the bricklayer, after a pause, "'I dreamt'—that 'ud do, if I could only recollect it."

"'That I dwelt,'" suggested the writer.

"That's it," said the bricklayer—

"'in marble halls.
With vassals and serfs by my side;
But the only thing which pleased me most
Was that you was to be my bride.'"

The verse was written, "Yours obediently" was added to it, with the bricklayer's name, and the thing was done.

Editorial Rules.

Editors are often blamed for unbosoming the secrets that are confided to them, and rushing recklessly into print. They have even been accused of gossiping and scandalizing and of aiming at the destruction of private as well as public reputation. They have been charged with chattering with the pen; they have been stigmatized as journalistic magpies. Of course this abuse is retailed by people who have been familiar with only the mean and sordid phase of editorial life. Thank Heaven there is a brighter side. When one remembers how much editors might tell, and how little they do, one feels rising up within him a reverential love for the editorial character proper. An editor who is a gentleman cheerfully keeps more to himself every day than nine out of ten gentlemen, who are not editors, do. His calling trains him to reticence; his profession imposes upon him a habit of silence. In learning what ought to be said he has cultivated and refined those intutions which teach him what ought to be left unsaid. Like other men he sometimes employs language for the sake of concealing his thoughts; but an unerring delicacy instructs him that silence is often the neatest and strongest way of expressing them. With him silence is so golden that he does not care to make it common by changing it into the circulating medium of speech.

The man who unites the qualifications that are characteristic of the gentleman and of the editor, is not so absolute a myth as he is commonly represented to be. Often he is encountered very unexpectedly. He knows when to keep his mouth shut and his pen dry. He understands to suppress himself, and comprehends that newspapers are not published as the organs of personality. Every day enough gossip floats to his ears to make the reputation of twenty scandal mongers, and his triumph is that he keeps it all to himself. Even the abused correspondent of the provincial press, often proves that he knows how to keep a secret. His tantalization is that a sense of honor prevents his telling all that he knows. His breast is the tomb of piquant secrecies, his memory the graveyard of succulent scandals. His heart grows familiar with delightful detractions, but then the detractions die out, and "close their little being without light." And if these things are true of the correspondent, they are true in a much larger and more important sense of the editor. His muteness is incalculably more worthy of admiration than his loquacity; and when all that he might say is compared with all that he does, his self sacrifice appears gigantic indeed!—N. Y. Standard.

Thomas Gray, a cooper, employed on Pier 40 North River, quarrelled yesterday with David Brown, a stevedore. Brown knocked Gray down and Gray struck Brown with an adze, wounding him seriously.

Gustavus Sherman, of Waterbury, Vt., having been put off a train on the Vermont Central Railroad for refusing to pay his fare fired upon the conductor, but missed him.

Francis M. Snow, formely of New York, was killed on Saturday evening by a fall of a pile driver at the railroad tunnel in Hartford. Another workman was seriously injured.

The New Congress

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Senatorial Republican caucus for the re-arrangement of commissioners, placed the matter in the hands of Sherman, Morrill of Vermont, Howe, Poole and Nye.

Col. J. J. Reynolds is ordered to return without delay to his Headquarters, as commander of the Texas department.

The Senate petitions for the relief of the old spoliation matter were renewed.

A bill was introduced abolishing the income tax.

Robertson introduced a bill relieving from disabilities imposed by the Fourteenth Amendment, all except members of Congress and officers of the army and navy, of twentyone years of age, who abandoned their places to aid the rebellion, and members of the State conventions who voted for secession.

A joint resolution, to adjourn on Wednesday, was tabled.

Joseph C. Abbott presented a memorial claiming to have received a majority of legal votes in the North Carolina Legislature; for Senetor, those cast for Vance being ineligible, and null.

Bills were introduced to charter the Tchuahtepec Railroad and ship canal. Also, by Blair, to remove the disabilities from people of the Southern States. Adjourned to Thursday.

In the House, the credentials of Duke, claiming a seat as Representative from Virginia, at large, was referred to the election committee.

Under a resolution instructing the Speaker to appoint commissioners, Butler urged Congress to stay and pass some law for the protection of the people of the South. The resolution was tabled, and the House adjourned to Thursday.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Among the bills which passed the Senate but failed in the House, was one relieving some six thousand Southerners of political disabilities.

General Kirkpatrick said in a recent lecture in Chicago, in regard to the "March to the Sea:" "Milledgeville was not captured by the army, but by the bummers, who took possession of it five hours in advance of the leading regiment. The rebel Mayor, accompanied by lawyers, doctors, deacons, and the good men and the bad men of the city, came out with a flag of truce to receive the bummers. One man read a discourse prepared for the occasion, setting forth what history might say of the surrender of Milledgeville and the conduct of the Yankee troops. The chief bummer promised all sorts of protection to private property. One Northern man, who had lived there a long time, said he had always been a good Union man and loved the old flag, etc. The bummer looked at him for a moment and then said: 'Dry up, dry up; it don't make no difference to me what you are; have you got a watch?' The gentleman was obliged to give up his watch kill his chickens and prepare a 'rum old dinner' while the latter ransacked the house."

The sufferings of poets when they fall in love must be something tremendous, if one of them who writes in the Home Journal is a fair sample. He begins by averring that he loved her ere he saw her face—he loved her for her lovely name: her beauty and celestial grace have kindled in his heart a flame that neither time nor tide can tame. Now the man who is in such a condition of mind is, we should think, much to be envied; but that is not his opinion, for he goes on to express the agony of woe in the following verses:

"The arrow's quivering in my heart
I strive to draw it, mad with pain:
Mine eyes grow dim, my pulses start,
Hot lava streams course every vein.
Delirium clasps my reeling brain."

Our advice to this young man is to take a strong dose of castor oil without a moment's delay.

ROCK RIVER PAPER CO'S

Patent Building Paper,

—FOR—

—AND—

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

WE desire to call the attention of the Public to PATENT BUILDING PAPER, which has been extensively used during the past three years throughout the whole country, and has given entire satisfaction to hundreds of builders, hoping thereby to induce parties intending to build to avail themselves of the many advantages we claim for our manufactures.

For Sheathing.

Saturated sheathing weighs about 1¾ lbs. to the square yard.

It has been found useful in the construction of buildings, applied in all sorts of ways and to every part—sides, roof, partitions and floors.

For outside use, under weather boarding or clapboards, or for use under sillsgles or floors, we recommend that saturated with tar, as it will then resist dampness, cold and heat, and make the building dry as well as warm, and the odor of tar tends to drive away all vermin, rats, mice, &c,

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be used as follows:

UPON THE STUDS.

Either up and down or cross-wise; if up and down, the joints should be made on the studs, so as to leave no cracks. It is made 33 inches wid , so as to cover studs 16 inches apart and lap; and if cross-wise the edges should be lapped and afterwards nailed to the siding on the back side. In case it is used this way, no sheating boards are needed, and a building is made very much warmer than by using matched boards without it. One thickness of it will resist more cold wind than an inch board, because of its non-conductive properties, and because it does not shrink.

Many parties, for nice houses, put it on the studs up and down, and use common boards for sheating instead of matched flooring. It is much warmer than with the flooring alone.

ROOFING.

Double thick Roofing weigh about 2 lbs to the sxuare yard.

Our Roofing is entirely different from the Saturated Sheathing. This is made of nothing but woolen rags and thoroughly saturated with tar. Every roll intended for roofing is marked "Roofing;" Use no other for this purpose.

Price per lb 5 cents.

It may be laid on the Roofing Boards up and down or cross-wise Bugin at the lower edge and tack down with good size tacks about one or two inches apart, lapping it about two inches.

INSTEAD OF PLASTERING.

Prepared Plastering Board weighs about 1½ lbs. to square yard.

This paper manufacture as a cheap substitute for Lath and Plaster. We began to make it in the spring of 1870, on account of a great demend for something to be used instead of Plastering, that would make a smooth, warm and permanent wall at small expense, and not be effected by the changes in the atmosphere. It has been tried by thousands of parties already, and not one has found fult with it, but on the contrary hundred have assured us that it fully meets our recommendations.

It is adapted to use for this purpose for the following reasons.

It is very cheap, costs less than one third as much as plastoring.

It can be easily and quickly applied by any one.

It saves all the annoyance, delay and dirt of plastering.

It makes a perfectly smooth, warm and durable wall.

In case of accident it can be easily and cheaply repaired.

It is not affected by dampness in the Atmosphere.

These reasons we think sufficient to induce any one, at least to try it, and that is all we ask, to secure for us a demand for what we can make, for it recommends itself much better than we can do it.

By following our direction, anyone with ordinary capacity can make a perfect wall.

Pricee per lb 6 cents.

CAHOON'S BROADCAST

SEED SOWER.

FOR SOWING ALL KINDS OF GRAIN AND GRASS SEED.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements; It has probably received more First Premiums at State Fairs in the fall of 1869, than was ever awarded any other machine of any name or nature, in one year.

Joseph Harris, author of "Walks and Talks," in AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, says: "I like the Cahoon Seeder very much indeed." The following from a noted grain grower, speaks for itself:

NORTHPORT, L. I Nov. 18 1869.

DEAR SIR.—The Broadcast Seed Sower you sent me last spring is the best Seed Sower I ever saw. I used it in the same field with the Drill—taking one half with the Sower and the other with the Drill—The work was done in one-quarter of the time with the Sower; the crop, when threshed yielded more, and the grain was better. I have used it entirely for my fall sowing of wheat and rye. For sowing grass seeds; clover or millet, no other machine could do the work so well. A great many farmers, when they saw it, said it was only a play toy until they saw it in a fifty-acre-lot with one man travelling as fast as he could walk, another carrying grain to him, and four teams following after. Their next business was to watch their crop when up, but all were surprised to find it so evenly distributed.

WILLIAM CRASIER.

BRIDGEPORT ALA, MAY 4, 1870.

Mess. E. F. Redfield & Co., Jasper Tenn.

Gents: the Cahoon's Broad Cast Seed Sower you sold me this spring beats every thing for the work intended I ever saw, I would not do without it for its price each season. It does its work for a charm at a great saving of labor, time and seed.

Yours truly,
A. Gunter.

We warrent the Hand Machine to sow 50 acres of wheat in 10 hours, and the Horse Power Machine to sow 120 acres in the same time, and the work to be done with greater Precision and accuracy that it can be done by any other means whatever.

☞The people of Sumter county, in a late public meeting held in Livingston, unanimously declared that they have neither confidence in, nor respect for, Luther R. Smith, the carpet-bag Judge of this Judical Circuit, and therefore, unanimously request him to resign. The action is eminently just and proper in itself, and we have no doubt reflects the sentiment and wishes of all the respectable portion of the people of this Judical Circuit. The carpet-bag usurper is without, qualification for the office which he holds by a bayonet appointment, and is a virulent and active Radical partizan. If he had the least self respect or the smallest particle of decency and honor in his nature he would refuse to hold an office for which he is both morally and mentally unfit and which he disgraces by dragging the ermine of the Judge in the mire of Radical partizanship.—Livingston Journal.

Gen. Forrest, as we learn by a private telegram, has promptly met the interest on the bonds of the Selma Marion & Memphis Railroad on the 1st of March. This is a gurantee that the road will be rapidly pushed forward to completion.

Grant in the New Congress.

In the present Congress the Republicans have a majority of forty-eight in the Senate, and of ninety-nine in the House. The next Congress assembles on Saturday of this week. In the Senate the Republican majority will be forty, in the House thirty-three.—The States of California, Connecticut, New Hampshire, and Texas have not yet elected members of the House, thus leaving fourteen vacancies. These seats will probably be equally divided between the two political parties, thus fixing the Republican majority at thirty-three when the House is full.

This is a very serious falling off from the Republican majorities in the two Houses of the Forty-first Congress, and especially in the Representatives' branch. With a Republican majority of ninety-nine to lean upon in that House, Gen. Grant has barely been able to carry through that body some measures upon which he was known to have set his heart; such, for example, as the passage of the San Domingo resolution, while others which he was understood to favor, have signally failed.

If the President has fared thus in the Congress which is about to expire, how will he be treated by that which is just coming into power, with a Republican majority so narrow that defeat will follow a change of seventeen votes on a call of the yéas and nays? It is a fact whose significance even Gen. Grant cannot overlook, that a large share of those Republicans who have from time to time gone back upon his pet measures in the Forty-first Congress, are reelected to the Forty-second. These members, with some new men whose attachment to the President is known to be very feeble, will so demoralize the party in the House that Gen. Grant, unless he displays more than his unusual stolidity and obstinacy, will not venture to try as many experiments with the incoming Congress as he has with the outgoing.

Of course everything will run smoothly at the organization of Saturday. The warring of factions, which will surely crush Grant before they have done with him, will break out at a later day, when great questions of the policy and the selection of candidates for President demand the attention and distract the councils of the New Congress.

N. Y. Sun (Rad.)

A train four days from St. Louis arrived in Selma last week, and consisted of two cars of corn, one of hay, two of oats, one of bran, three of flour, one of molassss, three of bacon, and six tons of sugar. All except the sugar ought to have been raised in Dallas. The shipments of corn from Mobile up the river are heavy this season.—The sheriff will be selling the farmers out next year, to pay for this corn, bacon, &c.—Selma paper.

Here is a straw: Francis E. Carrol, Democrat, was elected Mayor of Saratoga, New York, on the 21st, having one hundred and thirty-four majority. The Radical candidate was elected last year by a majority of over three hundred.

Dr. SCHENCK advises Consumptives to go to Florida in Winter.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State where the temperature is regular, and no subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes, Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville. It is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Medicines, especially Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce billious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night-sweats and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limiss of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treament is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa ensues, a dose of the Mandrake will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, put no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

Dec. 14. 1869. Sup't.

WHEREAS, by an act of the General Assembly of the State of Alabama approved the 15th day of October, 1868, it is provided as follows; to-wit: "It shall be the duty of the Probate Judge of each county in this State to designate a newspaper in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications, of any and every character required by law to be made in his County, shall be published; which paper so designated shall be the official organ in and for said county," and in obedience to the requirements of said act, I, as Judge of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, did heretofore designate the "St. Clair County Eagle," as the official organ in and for said County of Calhoun, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character, required by law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun shall be published, said designation to remain until recalled ordained by me.—

And the "Jacksonville Republican" being a County paper, published in the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, and in my opinion clearly within the provisions of said act, I therefore recall and change my order designating the St. Clair County Eagle, as the official organ for said County of Calhoun, and designate the said Jacksonville Republican as the official organ hereafter, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character required by Law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun shall be published. This designation to remain so long as in my opinion, the Editor of said Jacksonville Republican conducts said paper so as to be within the provisions of said act.

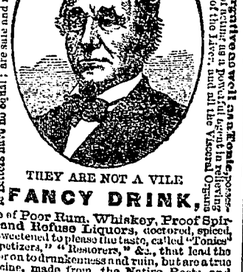
The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,

Hundreds of Thousands Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?



THEY ARE NOT A VILE
FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters, according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They luvigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are cured by these Bitters.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find the impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has any thing won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the lungs and throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known, that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in no wise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures affected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpid action of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

A FAMILY PICTURE.

BY A. B. LONGSTREET.

Passing over the intermediate period, I now introduce the reader to this family after most of the children had reached the 'age of reason.' In contemplating the scene which I am about to sketch, he will be pleased to turn his thoughts occasionally to Gilbert's 'principles of good government.'

Sarah was about two years and a half old when Gilbert invited me to breakfast with him, one December morning near the Christmas holidays. It was the morning appointed for his second killing of hogs; which as the Southern reader knows, it is a sort of family carnival in Georgia. I went, and found all the children at home, and Gilbert's mother added to the family circle. John and Anna had reached the age when they were permitted to take seats at the first table, though upon this occasion John being engaged about the pork did not avail himself of this privilege.—The rest of the children were taught to wait for the second table. Breakfast was announced; and, after the adults and Anna had dispatched their meal, the children were summoned. As they had been taught not to seat themselves at the table until bidden, and as there was some preparatory arrangement to be made, they all gathered around the fire, clamorous with the events of the moring.

'By jockey,' said William, 'didn' that old black barrer weigh a heap?'

'Look here, young gentleman,' said his mother, 'where did you pick up such language as that? Now let me ever hear you 'by-jockeying,' or by ing anything else again, and I'll 'by-jockey' you with a witness, I'll warrant you.'

'But the black barrer,' said George, 'didn't weigh as much to his size as the bob-tail speckle, though.'

'He did.'

'Hush your disputing this instant! stop it! You shall not contradict each other in that manner. And let us hear no more of your hog-pen wonders—nobody wants to hear them.'

At this instant William snatched a pig-tail out of Isaac's hand.

'Ma,' yelled Isaac, 'make Bill gi me mah tail.'

'You William! give him his—thing.—And if I was near you I'd box your ears for snatching that—Mr. Butler, you will really have to take that fellow in hand. He's getting so I can do nothing with him.'

If he don't behave himself,' said Butler carelessly, 'just turn him over to me; I reckon I can manage him.'

'Ma,' said Bill, 'he took my blather.'

'Hush!'

'I didn't.'

'You did.'

'Don't I tell you to hush your disputing?'

'Well, Ma, Uncle York give it to me.'

'He didn't Uncle Monday give it to me.'

'He didn't.'

'He did.'

Here the mother divided a pair of slaps between the two disputants, which silenced them for a few moments.

At this juncture Rebecca cried out with a burnt finger, which she received in cooking another pig tail. The burn was so slight that she forgot it as her mother jerked her from the fire.

'You little vixen!' said the mother, 'what possesses you to be fumbling about the fire? Mr. Butler, I beseech you to forbid those negroes from ever giving the children any more of those poison pig tails; they are a source of endless torment. And now, young gentlemen, one and all of you, the next one of you that brings one of those things into the house again, I'll box his ears as long as I can find him. Now remember it! Come along to your breakfast.'

In a little time, after some controversy about places, which was arrested by the mother's eye, they were all seated; John happened in, in the meantime, taking his father's seat.

'Iss-sp!' said William, 'sassidges! that's what I love.'

'Hoo,' said Isaac, 'spareribs! that's what I love.'

'Well, cease your gab, and eat what's set before you without comment. Nobody cares what you love, or what you don't love.'

'Souse!' said Abraham; I don't love souse. I wouldn't eat souse 'tain't fitten for a dog to eat.'

'Get up, sir; get right up from the table and march out of the house until you learn better manners. I'll be bound if I say you shall eat souse you'll eat it. Do you hear me, sir?'

Abraham raked himself lazily out of his seat, and moved slowly off, casting a longing look at the many good things on the table, which he evidently thought 'fitten for a prince to eat.'

'Ma,' said he as he retired, 'I wish you'd make Bill quit laughing at me.

'William, I've as great a mind as I ever had to do anything in my life to send you from the table, and not let you eat a mouthful. I despise that abominable disposition you have of rejoicing at your brothers' misfortunes. Remember, sir, what Solomon says: He that is glad at calamities shall not go unpunished.'

'Ma,' said Abraham, 'mayn't I come to my breakfast?'

'Yes if you think you can now behave yourself with deacency.'

Abraham returned, and they all broke forth at once:

'Ma, mayn't I have some sassidge?'—'Ma, I want some spare-rib.'—Ma I ain't got no coffee.—Ma, if you please ma'm, let me have some ham gravy, and some fried hom'ny, and some egg, and—

And some of everything on the table, I suppose. Put down your plate—every one of you. George, what will you have?

Some sassidge, and some fried potater.

John, help your brother George. What do you want, William?

I want some spare rib and some hom'ny.

Nancy, help William. What do you want, Abraham?

'I recon,' said John, smiling, he'll take a little souse.

Now, John, behave yourself. He has suffered the punishment of his fault, and there let it rest.

I'll have, said Abraham, some ham gravy, and some egg, and some hom'ny.

Holp him, Chaucy. What'll you have Isaac?

I'll have some ham gravy, and some hom'ny, and some sassidge, and some spare rib, and some—

Well, you are not going to have everything on the table, I assure you. What do you want?

I want some ham gravy and some hom'ny.

John help I—

No! I don't want no gravy; I want some spare rib.

John, give him—

No! I don't want no spare rib; I want some sassidge.

Well, if you don't make up your mind pretty quick you'll want your breakfast, I tell you. I'm not going to be tantalized all day long by your wants. Say what you want, and have done with it.

I want some ham gravy and some sassidge and hom'ny.

Help him, John.

John helped him to about a teaspoonful from each dish.

Now, Ma, jest look at Bud John!—He hain't gi me only jist these three little bit o bits.

John, if you can't keep from tantalizing the children, tell me so, and I'll not trouble you to help them any more. I confess that I am at a loss to discover what pleasure one of your age can take in teasing your younger brothers. Rebecca, what do you want?

I want my pig tail, ma'am.

Bless my soul and body! haven't you forgot that pig-tail yet? It's burnt up long ago, I hope. Look Bob, and see; and if it isn't, give it to her. I wish in my heart there never was a pig tail on the face of the earth.

Bob produced the half charred pig tail, and laid it on Miss Rebecca's plate.

There, continued her mother, I hope your heart's at ease. A beautiful dish it is, truly, for any mortal to take a fancy to.

Ma, I don't want this pig tail.

Take it away. I knew you didn't want it, you little perverse brat. I knew you didn't want it; and I don't know what got into me to let you have it. But really, I am so tormented out of my life that, half the time, I hardly know whether I am standing on my head or my heels.

Misses, said Chaney, Aunt Dorcas say please make Miss Louisa come out de kitchen. Say if you don't make her come out de fire, her'll git burnt up d'rekly. Say every time she tell her to come out do fire she make a mouf at her.

Why, sure enough! where is Louisa? Go tell her to come to her breakfast this instant.

I did tell her, ma'am; and she say she won't come till she gets done bakin' her cake.

Mrs. Butler left the room, and soon returned with Louisa sobbing and crying.

Aunt Dorcas jerked me hard as ever she could jerk 'fore I did anything 't all to her.

Hold your tongue! she served you right enough; you'd no business there. You're a pretty thing to be making mouths at a person old enough to be your grandmother. If I'd thought when I gave that lump of dough that the whole plantation was to be turned upside down about it, I'd have let you done without.

Miss Louisa, after a little sobbing and pouting, drew from her apron a small, dirty, ashy, black, wrinkled, burned biscuit, warm from the kitchen-hovel, which would have been just precisely the accompaniment to Rebecca's dish; and upon this, in preference to everything on the table, she commenced her repast.

'Well, Lou,' said the mother with a laugh, as she cast her eye upon the unsightly biscuit, 'you certainly have a strange taste.'

Everybody knows that the mother's laugh is always responded to with compound interest by all her children. So was it this instance, and good humor prevailed around the table.

'I'm sorry,' said Abraham, 'for Louisa's b-i-s-s his, k-i-t kit, biskit.'

'Well, really!' said Mrs B., 'you are a handsome speller. Is that the way you spell biscuit?'

'I can spell it, Ma,' bawled out Isaac. 'Well, spell it.'

'B-i-s-b-i-s-c'—(Well that's right,')'h'—'Ah, well! that'll do. You needn't go any further; you've missed it worse than your brother. Spell it William.

William spelled it correctly.

Just here, Miss Sarah, who had been breakfasting at a side table, was seized with a curiosity to see what was on the breakfast table. Accordingly, she undertook to draw herself up to the convenient elevation by the table cloth: Her mother arrested her just in time to save a cup, and pushed her aside with a little admonition. This did not abate Miss Sarah's curiosity in the least, and she recommenced her experiment. Her mother removed her more emphatically this time. These interruptions only fired Miss Sarah's zeal, and she was returning to charge with redoubled energy, when she ran her cheek against the palm of her mother's hand with a rubificent force. Away she went to her grandmother, crying, 'Gran'ma, Ma whipped your prettious darlin angel baby.

'Did she, my darling? Then grandma's precious, darling angel must be a good child, and mother won't whip it any more.'

'Well, I will be a dood child.'

'Well then, mother won't whip it any more,' and this conference was kept up without the variation of a letter on either side, until the grandmother deemed it expedient to remove Miss Sarah to an adjoining room, lest the mother should insist upon the immediate fulfilment of her promises.

'Ma, just look at Abe,' cried William; he saw me going to take a biscuit, and he snatched up the very one I was going to take.'

'Abe,' said the mother, 'I do wish I could make you quit nick naming each other; and I wish more that I had never set you the example. Put down that biscuit, sir and take another.'

Abraham returned the biscuit, and William took it with a sly and triumphant giggle at Abraham.

'Ma,' said Abraham, 'Bill said God durn.'

'Law, what a story! Ma, I declare I never said no such thing.'

'Yes you did, and Chaney heard you.'

Wills countenance immediately showed that his memory had been refreshed; and he drawled out, 'I never none now,' with a tone and countenance that plainly imparted guilt to some extent. His mother suspected that he was hinging upon technicalities and she put the probing question, 'Well, what did you say?'

'I said I be teetotly 'od 'urn.'

'And that's just as bad. Mr. Butler, you positively will have to take this boy in hand. He evinces a strong propensity to profane swearing, which if not corrected immediately, will become ungovernable.

'Whenever you can't manage him,' said Mr. Butler as before, 'just turn him over to me, and I reckon I can manage him.'

It is due to Butler here to state that it was mutually understood between him and his wife that her credit was not staked upon these general drafts, and therefore he did not feel himself bound to honor them; but whenever she valued to him (as the merchants say) for a specific amount or a special purpose, her bills were never dishonored.

'When did he say it?' inquired the mother, returning to Abraham.

'You know that time you sent us all children to the new ground to pick peas.'

'Why, that's been three months ago, at least, and you've just thought of telling it. Oh, you mali cious toad, you; where do you learn to bear malice so long? I abhor that trait of character in a child.'

'Ma, said Bill, 'Abe hain't said his prayers for three nights.'

Abe and Bill now exactly swapped places and countenances.

'Yes,' said the mother, and I suppose I should never have heard of that if Abraham had not told of your profanity.'

'I know better,' dragged out Abraham in reply to William.

'Abraham,' said the mother solemnly, 'did you kneel down when you said your prayers last night?'

'Yes, ma'am,' said Abraham, brightening a little.

'Yes, Ma,' continued Bill, he kneel down and fore I say 'Now I lay me down to sleep, he jumps up every night and hops in bed and says he's done said his prayers, and he hain't had time to say half a prayer.'

During this narrative my namesake kept cowering under the steadfast frown of mother, until he transformed himself into perfect personification of idoliey.

'How many prayers did you say last night Abraham?' pursued the mother in an awfully portentious tone.

'I said one, and'—(here he paused.)

'One, and what?'

'One, and a piece of t'other one.'

'Why, Ma, he couldn't ha' said it to save his life, for he hadn't time'—

Hush, sir, I don't ask for your assistance.'

'I did,' muttered Abraham, 'I said t'other piece after I got in bed.'

'Abraham,' said his mother, 'I declare I do not know what to say to you. I am so mortified, so shocked at this conduct, that I am completely at a loss how to express myself about it. Su

JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MARCH 18th, 1871.

The Jacksonville Republican, we are sorry to see, is an almost open advocate for the Repudiation of the Railroad bond debt of the State. A paper of so much ability ought not even to squint at such a political monstrocity as the repudiation of any portion of the bona fide debt of the State.—Eutaw Whig & Observer.

The Observer is mistaken. So far from "squinting at the repudiation of the bona fide debt of the State," the Republican ever, in the humble part it took in the controversy, advocated payment of all we really and fairly owed; and to arrive at that, urged investigation to the utmost limit. In this we believe the Observer agreed with us, the only difference being that the Observer, more emulous of the good opinion of the land sharks of Wall Street, and having a larger leaven of Democratic policy, was more in a hurry about the matter than we were. To pursue the ins and outs of the rascals, who, no doubt, fleeced us in our helplessness, required patient and lengthy investigation, for they were not the men to leave tracks easily distinguishable, and we were sorry when we saw the Legislature (to complete the simile) following off the loudly barking puppies of the pack, who, as may have been supposed, had taken the wrong scent, artfully left by the old Railroad "doublers" who understood the matter. In the discussion, we looked alone to the rights, not solely to the interests, of the people of Alabama; and we yet look to Gov. Lindsay to protect the people in those rights, as far as he is able, in the trammelled condition in which the Legislature left him. In our opinion it were better had the Legislature never touched the matter, than to have left things as they are. We only think the Legislature was unequal to the occasion, and that is the extent of our offending, and the Observer, we observe agrees exactly with us in this.

The news to date (16th) confirmes the glad tidings from New Hampshire. The dispatches announce the election of a Democratic Governor, all three Democratic candidates for Congress (which, by the way, will make a change of six in the House) and a Democratic Legislature both in the House and Senate, the most complete and sweeping victory the Democrats have gained in that State for fourteen years—a perfect Waterloo defeat for the Radicals. They confidently counted on carrying everything before them in New Hampshire, except one Congressional District which they conceded would go Democratic. How the people of that noble State have disappointed the Consolidationists and Monarchists, called Radicals, our readers can see. Thus while the fools in Congress are busily forging new and more galling fetters for the people of the South, the good sense of the North is steadily and quietly preparing to surely strike them off again in 1872.

It requires a majority of all the votes cast, in New Hampshire, to elect a candidate for Governor. Thus, although the Democratic candidate is ahead of the Radical candidate, it is not certain he is elected; for many scattering votes were cast. But the Legislature, which is Democratic on joint ballot will settle the matter in the election of the Democratic candidate in event he is not elected by a majority vote of the people of the State.

And now Massachusetts, moral, pharisaical, loyal, egotistical, rebel-hating Massachusetts has got her back up, and is "resolving" at Grant and Congress, becuase her beloved Chawles Sumner has been humiliated before the world, by deposition from the Chairmanship of a Committee, a position which he, Chawles, has held for the past decade. She goes on to say, through her State Senate, that she "views with alarm" (sic) the dictatorial and usurpatory (sic) course of Grant, and the disposition on the part of Congress to pander thereto, as evinced in poor Chawles' case. Such loyal indignation is quite refressing to us deown South, and we hail with delight such a blunder on the part of Great Ulysses, the First.

O, most righteous and loyal Massachusetts! All hail, Thrice illustrious and Victorious Ulysses! Alas poor Sumner! We all knew him well—a fellow of infinite infamy.

Speaker Blaine arose from his seat "with a sigh," the other day, and went for the Massachusetts Champion Spoon Thief, Butler, in a way that he (Butler) afterwards declared he despised. It seems that the Resolution, which passed by a vote of both Radicals and Democrats, to appoint a Committee of thirteen to see about the Ku-klux and report in December, was the death of Butler's revolutionery ku-klux bill, for the time being, which so surprised and exasperated the Massachusetts Saint that he attacked the Speaker of the House and declared that that worthy had played him a "trick that was vain." It was at this juncture that Blaine arose with that sigh and proceeded to "despise and spit upon" Butler's assertion, calling him a liar and indulging in other and sundry "extemporaneous remarks," much to the discomfiture of S. T. B who declared he had never before been attacked with more malignity. Butler, however, rallied and "replied very bitterly," whereupon the whole Radical pack set upon him. Our Massachusetts Statesmen seem to be in a bad old way.

AN ITEM FOR THE OUTRAGE COMMITTEE.—A party of boys engaged in desperate fight in defence of a former slave at Cross Plains.

General Early has cautioned the Southern people to beware of swindlers, who profess to act for the benefit of the monument fund. He says that the association has declined to have any connection whatever with any scheme for raising money by exhibitions, lotteries" gift enterprises, or the like as it depends entirely upon the voluntary contributions of individuals directly to the fund in their own names. Nor have any traveling agents been appointed to act for the association in any part of the country.

The young people of Jacksonville, we believe, contemplated giving a concert for the purpose of raising a memorial fund; but the project, we learn, was abandoned before the above publication found its way into the newspapers.

A Horse for a Wife.

From the Windham (Conn.) Journal.]

These wife sales are getting numerous nowadays. Week before last we gave an account of a case at Jewett, where a wife was sold for 25 cents. Now we have to record a similar transaction which took place in Ashland. In this instance the wife was traded for a horse.

Milo Waterman has endured the thraldom of a married life for some years, but lately the fetters have become galling, and consequently very unpleasant, and he resolved to throw off the yoke and proclaim himself free. But it is not an easy matter to shake off such a responsibility as a wife, and our friend Waterman was in a quandary. He didn't know exactly what to do, and the more he pondered, the more difficult seemed to be his situation. Finally, one day last week, Milo ran across a neighbor John Mulford who is ever ripe for a bargain, and after some conversation, in, which they descanted on the respective merits of wife and horse, a bargain was "struck up." Mulford was to take Waterman's wife, and Waterman Mulford's horse.

Waterman took his horse home, put him in the stable, and retired. But he could not sleep. He tossed nervously upon his pillow, and began think of his wife. True, they had their "ups and dows," but, after all, had't she sometimes been good to him? Then he thought of the many happy moments they had spent together, of their love and courtship, of their marriage, and their honeymoon, and Milo began to regret the trade. At last he could endure it no longer. He got up, stole out to the barn in the dead of the night, took out the old horse and proceeding to Mulford's, woke him up, and wanted to trade back. But Mulford couldn't see it. Waterman begged but Mulford was inexorable bickering, however, the latter agreed to let Waterman have back his spouse in consideration of a forfeit of two birch logs.

A Man Drowned while being Baptised.

A few weeks since Dr A. P. Pownall, of Sand Hill, Ky. after a brief courtship was married to Miss Mary J. Wilson. Shortly after his marriage, Dr. Pownall united with the Christian Church, and Sunday last was appointed as the day of his baptism, he having requested his pastor, the Rev J. B. Hough, to perform the rite. At the appointed hour a large number of persons had assembled on the banks of Crooked creek, the place chosen for the immersion. After singing and praying, the Rev. Mr. Hough entered the water, leading the Doctor. They were obliged to proceed some distance from the shore in order to reach a sufficient depth, but suddenly both were seen to go down. They soon arose to the surface, and the minister regained the bank, but the Doctor being unable to swim, was swept by the current under a flood-gate only a short distance below. Every exertion was made to save him, but in vain. The body was soon after found and brought to shore amid the most heart-rending screams from his young wife and friends. Everything possible was done to resuscitate the Doctor, but alas! the vital spark had flown.

Impanneling Juries.

Questions alternately by the Court, the State's attorney, and the defence, as usually answered by "an intelligent juror."

"Are you opposed to capital punishment?"

'Oh, yes—yes, I would.'

'If you were on a jury, then, where a man was being tried for his life you wouldn't agree to a verdict to hang him.

'Yes, sir—yes, I would.'

'Have you formed or expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused?"

'Yes, sir.'

'Your mind, then, is made up!'

'Oh, no—no, it aint.'

'Have you any bias for or against the prisoner!'

'Yes, I think I have.'

'You are prejudiced.'

'Oh, no, not a bit.,

Have you ever heard of this case.'

Think I have.'

'Would you decide, if on the jury, according to the evidence, or mere rumor!'

'Mere rumor.'

'Perhaps you don't understand; would you decide according to rumors, or evidence.'

'Evidence.'

'If it were in your power to do so, would you change the law of capital punishment, or let it stand.'

'Let it stand.'

The Court—'Would you let it stand or change it.'

'Change it.'

'Now, which would you do.'

'Dont know, sir.'

'Are you a free- holder.'

'Yes, sir oh, yes:'

'Do you own a house and land, or rent.'

'Neither, I'm a boarder.

'Have you formed an opinion.

'No Sir.'

'Have you expressed an opinion.'

'Think I have.'

'The Court—Gentlemen I think the juror is competent. It is very evident he has never formed or expressed an opinion on any subject—Courier Journal.

The Philadelphia Age says:

The Morton Smelling Committee in relation to Ku-Klux outrages in the South refuses to make public their proceedings, on the ground that the witnesses from the South why testify against the Ku-Klux must be protected. In other words, any scalawag ruffian who, for hire or motive will testify falsely before this Committee, is to escape all proper punishment for the infamous and dangerous crime. This is offering a premium for lying.

A Patriotic Jury.

Charles M. Lee was a well known criminal lawyer of Rochester, New York. He summed up a case with a superfluity of gesture, and an affluence of perspiration that would have astonished even John Graham in his vehement and melting moods. Lee was defending an old revolutionary soldier for passing a forged promissory note for some thirty dollars. There was hardly the faintest doubt of his guilt; but Lee contrived to get before the jury the fact that the prisoner then a dare devil boy of nineteen, was one of the storming party that followed Mad Anthony Wayne in his desperate night assault upon Stony Point, and helped to carry the wounde general into the fort during that terrible fray. In summing up, Lee, after getting over the ugly points of the evidence as best he could, then undertook to carry the jury by escalade, on the ground of the prisoner's revolutionary services. He described in graphic language the bloody attack on Stony Point, the impetuous valor of Wayne, the daring exploit of his client, and wound up with this stunning interrogatory: "Gentlemen of the jury, will you send to the State prison for passing a contemptible thirty dollor forged note, an old hero of three score years and ten, who, in his youth, cheered the heart of his country in the darkest hour of the revolution, by storming Stony Point."

This was a poser. The chains of some of the jury quivored, but the foreman, a bluff farmer, put on an air which seemed to say that storming Stony Point was a good thing in its line, but what it had to do with passing this forged note? After being out a couple of hours the jury returned to the court room, when the clerk went through the usual formula.

'Gentleman of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict?'

'We have.'

'Not guilty, because he stormed Stony Point,' thundered the stalwart foreman, who, it was afterward learned, was the last to come to an agreement.

The audience applauded, the crier rapped to order, the district attorney objected to the recording of the verdict, and the judge sent the jury out again, telling the foreman in a rather sharp tone that they must find an unconditional verdict of guilty. After an absence of a few minutes they returned, when the foreman returned a simple verdict of not guilty, adding, however, as he dropped into his seat; "It was a good thing, though, judge, for the old revolutionary cuss that he stormed Stony Point"

A patron of a certain newspaper once said to the publisher:

"Mr. Printer, how is it you have never called on me for pay for your paper?"

"Oh," said the man of types, "we never ask a gentleman for money."

"Indeed," replied the patron, "how do you manage to get along when they don't pay you?"

"Why," said the editor, "after a certain time we conclude he is no gentleman and we ask him."

"Oh—ah—yes—I see. Mr. Editor, please give me a receipt,' and hands him a V. "Make my name all right on your books."

— TRAGEDY IN ALBANY.

Beating Out his Wife's Brains with an Iron Griddle.

Albany, March 8.—Dr. Lemuel P. Van Hoosen, residing on Madison avenue, who is of intemperate habits, had angry words with his wife this morning, and seizing an iron griddle, struck her with it on the back of the head. Her skull was completely battered in and her brains scattered about in all directions. She died almost instantly. The doctor made no attempt to escape, and at first doggedly refused to give any reason for the commission of the foul deed. He submitted quietly to arrest but soon after became terribly excited, and is now a raving maniac. The horrible deed was committed as near as can be ascertained, about 1 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Van Hossen had a large circle of acquaintances and was highly respected. The doctor was for several years almshouse physician.

Dr. Van Hoosen was laboring under an attack of delirium tremens at the time. When taken into custody he was asked why he done the deed, and answered: "I could not help it; I had to do it to save my own life; they were after me."

HARD ON THE KU-KLUX.

Three enterprising gentlemen; named James Epps, John Payton, and W. N. Kelly, anxious to revive the fading interest felt in the Ku-Klux, donned their diguises and sailed out upon thieving expedition. They failed however, to pronounce the shiboleth aright, and were caught in their loyal excentricities, and proved to be three of Bullocks stripe, and were each sentenced to seven years hard labor in the penitentiary, by the Superior Court of Chattooga.

We hope this immolation upon the Ku-Klux alter will satisfy the loil devotion of the proclamation Journals, and that Chattooga will be redeemed from the pall of Morton's Ku-Klux displeasure.—We venture that Bullock will pardon these rogues before next Christmas.

This prompt punishment of crime made by the Jury of Chattooga, shows that the much dreaded guise of a Ku-Klux cannot shield its perpetrators from the action of the law—and that in no county in the United States is the law more respected than in Chattooga.

CAHOON'S BROADCAST

SEED SOWER.

FOR SOWING ALL KINDS OF GRAIN AND GRASS SEED.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements, It has probably received more First Premiums at State Fairs in the fall of 1869, than was ever awarded any other machine of any name or nature, in one year.

Joseph Harris, author of "Walks and Talks," in AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, says: "I like the Cahoon Seeder very much indeed." The following from a noted grain grower, speaks for itself:

NORTHPORT, L. I Nov. 18 1869.

DEAR SIR.—The Broadcast Seed Sower you sent me last spring is the best Seed Sower I ever saw. I used it in the same field with the Drill—taking one half with the Sower and the other with the Drill—The work was done in one-quarter of the time with the Sower; the crop, when threshed yielded more, and the grain was better. I have used it entirely for my fall sowing of wheat and rye. For sowing grass seeds, clover or millet, no other machine could do the work so well. A great many farmers, when they saw it, said it was only a play toy until they saw it in a fifty-acre-lot with one man travelling as fast as he could walk, another carrying grain to him, and four teams following after. Their next business was to watch their crop when up, but all were surprised to find it so evenly distributed.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

(From the Rural Carolinian, Vol. 1. No. 12.)

This loose way of farming should be abandoned. A system of accounts should be adopted, by which the farmer shall be able to tell at the end of the year, not only the amount of his gains or losses, but just where these gains or losses have occurred. Suppose, for instance, he first divides his farm into sections, numbering or naming his wood lots, fields, pastures and dwelling house and lot, for convenience sake.—He then estimates the value of each, fixing the same proportionate to the whole. He opens an account with each one, charging to each its valuation. He also opens an account with his stock, his vehicles and tools, charging to each its value. He must, of course, keep a cash account, and charge or credit to some one of his various accounts every cent he pays out or receives.

He charges to each field expenditures for seed, manure and labor, for share of tool account, and each day's work for himself or his oxen, for planting, cultivating and harvesting. If he sells his crop, he credits the cash received. If he stores it for family use, or to feed to his animals, he charges it to family expense, or to the stock account, at whatever he could have sold it for. After the crop is cleared, he estimates the value of the field, making allowance for whatever gain or loss in its condition and crop-bearing capacity may have occurred since the previous valuation, and the balance of the account shows what has been made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts, taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost money; and if same or similar results follow the operations of successive years, he is thereby warned, and can profit by the experience. From these accounts he can calculate, with certainty, the exact cost of everything produced, including even interests, taxes, and repairs of tools. He has the entire business tabularized, and can at his leisure, during winter evenings, march his colums in review before him, and study to some purpose to reduce costs and save expense.

SOLON ROBINSON says in his valuable FACTS FOR FARMERS:

"No man can be a good farmer and a successful one who does not keep accurate accounts; be able to tell, at the end of the year, every dollar that comes to hand, and what for; and every one that goes out, and why it went; and balance your cash accout once a month—once a week is better. Keep accounts with everybody debit and credit, and in some degree with everything; number your fields, and charge each with manure, seed and labor, and credit the crops and you will soon find which is the most profitable: open an account with your stable, your pig-pen your pasture, and with the general stock, and with different classes and branches of it, if you would learn accuracy which is the most profitable. To be successful you must be accurate and must keep accounts."

Proceedings of the Council.

MONDAY, March 13th, 1871.

Present.—Geo. I. Turnley, Intendent; J. D. Privett, L. W. Grant, Ed L. Woodward, J. S. Montgomery and W. H. Dean, Councilmen.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved, Committee on Report of Treasurer, granted farther time, in which to report. On motion same committee were instructed to ascertain and report the condition of the finances of the Town.

On motion, the Secretary and Treasurer were allowed to purchase necessary stationery.

The Council then went into the election of officers with the following result.

Wm. H. DEAN, SECRETARY,
Ed L. WOODWARD, TREASURER,
S M. PRUITT, MARSHAL.

On motion, Council adjourned, to meet again at Intendent's office, Monday night 20th.

Judge M. J. Turnley, one of our most esteemed citizens came very near loosing his life at the hands of a young man named Marshall, in Centre Ala., some days ago.

The Judge in company with other lawyers from here, was attending Court, then in session. He had had a lawsuit with the father of young Marshall, in which he was successful, a fact that so exasperated the young man, that he determined on the assassination of the Judge. He was heard repeatedly to say on the streets that he would kill Judge T. on sight; and as we understand took his position, armed, at the Court House door, to carry his threat into execution. It not happening that Judge Turnley passed that way, the young ruffian approached him while sitting at supper in the hotel, and with some remark presented his pistol within six inches of Judge T's face and endeavored to fire. The pistol was knocked from his hand and the bloody intent frustrated. Marshall, we learn made his escape in the confusion which ensued. The pistol afterwards fired clear, which proved that Marshall was determined on the act. Judge T. cooly sat down and finished his supper, though others who witnessed the affair were so shocked as to loose their appetite. It is to be hoped that Marshall will be brought to justice, as an example to disappointed litigants, who may hereafter when beaten at the law choose to resort to violence.

Rumor brings to us details of a most horrible tragedy from St. Clair county, which we heartily wish may turn out to be only a rumor. The story goes that the Tax Collector of St. Clair county, after having collected the tax of that county, entrusted the same to the care of his wife, and with the remark that he would be necessarily absent for a day or two, left her in possession of the treasure. That night a party of disguised men visited the woman and demanded the money. On her refusal to give it up, the ruffians searched the premises and possessed themselves of it. They then compelled her to get them some supper, which she did. The story further goes, that she poisoned the coffee and killed all three of them; and when their disguises were torn off, one of the party was revealed as her husband, who had taken the method stated of robbing the county. If the facts are true, the death of the men was a most righteous judgment, much to be rejoiced at: but the sufferings of the poor faithful wife must be terrible, such as to awake the deepest sympathies of our nature.

We learn that quite a serious difficulty occurred at Cross Plains, on Wednesday 16th, during Robinson's show, in which Mr. Keith was shot through the thigh, John Neighbors cut in the arm, Shields Keith, badly cut on the head with a pistol, a horse shot, and several bad bruises given.

The difficulty we learn originated, as follows: One of the Keith's, during the performance, kicked and maltreated a negro, who formerly belonged to the Neighbors family. The Neighbors boys took the part of the negro, and a fight ensued under the canvass. The difficulty was renewed outside the canvass, afterwards, with the above result.

We hear of the death of a negro woman near Greensport, on Coosa River, under most revolting circumstances. Negroes near the place, state that they were awakened by the cry that "somebody is dead." In affright, they made their way to the cabin from which the sounds proceeded and found on the bed a negro woman, who was, then confined with child, stark dead, from the effect of gunshot wounds through the head, which mangled her in a most horrible manner. A little negro child in the cabin with her dead mother, stated that her father had before gone into an adjoining room, and immediately thereafter a gun was thrust through the crack in the partition directly towards her mothers head and fired. The man sturdily denies any knowledge of the crime, and his conviction will have to rest on the child's testimony alone.

We were pleased to meet our old friend and army chum, Jno. S. Looper of the large firm of LeGrand & Co., Montgomery, Ala., in town on last Wednesday. LeGrand & Co., are the largest advertisers in Montgomery, and consequently do a larger business than any other house; and consequently again can sell Groceries and Dry Goods &c. cheaper than those firms doing a smaller business. They are well represented in Mr. Looper, who makes a most favorable impression wherever he goes, and who is well known throughout this entire section of country.

Yesterday we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. W. L. Grady, one of the proprietors of that spiciest and ablest Georgia daily, the Rome Commercial. We wish Mr. Grady a long list of subscribers in Calhoun County, and the Commercial abundant success generally.

Capt. James Crook, our talented Representative has returned. He made a record in the Legislature on all railroad subjects, entirely consistent with the sentiments of his constituents.

Mr. Fannin, one of the former proprietors of the Montgomery Mail, and now representing that sterling sheet, gave us a call on last Thursday. We wish the Mail most unbounded success in this portion of Alabama, for it has the ring of the true metal, and utters the sentiments of the unterrified and uncompromising Democracy of the hills. The Mail has heretofore attained no large circulation in this county, because no agents from that office have solicited subscriptions among us as in the case of other papers; but we trust Mr. Fannin has left enough leaven, to finally leaven the whole lump. The Mail is only to be read once, to be subscribed for.

The Lauderdale Confederate Orphans gave an exhibition in the Baptist church, on Friday night. Everybody was highly pleased with the little fellows. The net proceeds of the Exhibition foot up $140.

Col. Robinson failed to give an Exhibition of his Circus performances on Friday night, owing to the fact that the Confederate Orphans had bills up for that night. The Colonel further sent them his band for the occasion—an act worthy the gentleman that he is. The performance during the day was as good as any we have witnessed since the war, and the troupe by their conduct here have entitled themselves to the patronage of the Southern people wherever they may go.

Six thousand dozen eggs or more have been shipped from this point South within a short time, and the cry is still they come. Fruit of the description named brings ten cents a dozen now.

There is some talk of blasting on the old well again. With Dr. Nisbet's experience before us we doubt whether the effort would be worth the powder.

We are glad to announce that Rev. R. J. C. Hail, the Democratic candidate in Etowah, was elected Superintendent of education by a handsome majority over all competitors.

The Gadsden Times speaks of a gentleman of that region who has been taken in by the counterfeit money swindlers. We don't call them soft gentlemen over this way.

Our friend Mungie Renfro, has been confined to his "little bed" the past few days, from the effect of his last bad joke in relation to the Jacksonville city fathers.

A Card.

The udersigned having understood that charges have been circulated since his election to the post of Marshal, to the effect, that he voted at the late gubernatorial election the radical ticket, takes occasion to denounce the same as false in part and in whole. He claims to be as good if not better Democrat than any of his critics. He respectfully refers to Messrs. Geo. I. Turnley and L. W. Cannon, who know that he voted the straight out Democratic ticket in full at the late election. He has never voted any but a Democratic ticket.

Very Respectfully,
S. M. PRUITT.

THE BEAUTY OF LIBERTY

When the dance of the shadows
At day-break is done,
And the cheeks of the morning
Aer red with the sun,
When he sinks in his glory
At eve from the view,
And calls up the planet
To blaze in the blue:
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
More proud than the sight of a nation when free?

When the beautiful bend
Of the bow is above,
Like a collar of light
On the bosom of love;
When the moon in her mildness
Is floating on high,
Like a banner of silver
Hung out in the sky:
There is beauty. But earth has no beauty to see
More proud than the front of a nation when free.

In the depths of the darkness
Unvaried in hue,
When shadows are veiling
The breast of the blue;
When the voice of the tempest
At midnight is still,
And the spirit of solitude
Sits on the hill:
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
Like the broad beaming brow of a nation when free?

In the breath of the morning,
When nature's awake,
And calls up the chorus
To chant in the brake;
In the voice of the echo,
Unbound in the woods;
In the warbling of streams,
And the foaming of the floods:
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
Like the thrice-hollowed sight of a nation that's free?

When the wild driving surge
Is mad on the main,
Like the charge of a column
Of plumes on the plain;
When the thunder is up
From its long cradled sleep,
And the tempest is treading
The path of the deep:
There is beauty. But where is the beauty to see
Like the sun-brilliant brow of a nation when free?

MABEL GRAY.

The Career and Death of the Queen of the Demi-monde of London.

The death of Mabel Gray, the famous queen of the demi-monde of London, has already been announced, but some facts connected with her extraordinary career may not be uninteresting.

She was once a poor sewing girl. The most notorious and conspicuous of those who supported her in luxury and splendor, according to all accounts—for it is a notorious scandal in England—has been the Prince of Wales. At one time she was engaged to be married to the heir to one of the oldest English dukedoms; but by strenuous interference of his friends, and the granting for life to her of a liberal provisions, what would have been a gross mesalliance was fortunately prevented. Many stories are told of her dashing extravagance. Her name and conduct were the theme of gossip in the club. She was the original of Boucicault's "Formosa." She it was who gave its name to the "Mabel Waltz," composed by Godfrey, the leader of the band in the Guards. She caused the ruin of Capt. Milbanke, of the Guards. Her portrait was flaunted in London where portraits of Nilsson, Patti, the Queen and the Princess appeared. She was seen, like "Anonyma," that other famous "queen of the demi-monde," at the opera, the Chiswick flower show, at Kensington gardens, and riding a blooded horse on the fashionable park drive called "Rotten Row"—always mingling at such times with the noblest ladies of the land. Once "Anonyma" had the audacity, in riding the Row, to compel the Princess of Wales to turn out and give her the road, by giving the Princess' horse a smart blow with her whip. The affront was never made the subject of any action. The Prince, who seems to have inherited all the vices as well as the stupidity of his royal ancestors, the Georges, is openly talked about as having squandered vast sums on "Mabel Gray." On one occasion, at the Ascot races, this wanton made this weak Prince bet $100,000 on a particular horse, and he lost. The power of his infatuation with the creature for whom he had thus proved untrue to his worthy wife, the young Princess Alexandra, of Denmark, may be inferred from the fact that, while paying out such lavish sums to gratify her whims, he was to all others—if we are to credit reports—extremely penurious, not to say miserly. Mabel Gray had a sumptuous villa at St. John's Wood, Brompton—a part of London—where she dwelt in such plendor as few women have commanded since Cleopatra. In her stables there were always a dozen or fifteen costly, blooded horses, than which no finer could be found in England. These were for the saddle and for driving, and they were the gifts of her numerous aristocratic admirers. She denied off disher of silves and gold. Her apartments were furnished with regal richness. The saloon was 60 feet long by 30 feet in width, and the frescoed ceiling was fifteen to eighteen feet above the costly velvet carpet—the latter apiece of Gobelin work which displayed a view of the port of Marsailles and which cost $10,000. Velvet hangings, like those of some of the rich old French chateaux, were in keeping with the carpet and style of sofas, lounges and countless articles of costly furniture in the room. A published account gave a description of the room. There was an immense and very costly mirror framed in gold, and showing an inside frame of crimson velvet. The tables, ottomans and furniture generally were rich and expensive to the last degree. Statutes, bronzes and shells—paintings by Meissoner and other masters—splendor and luxury in everything struck the eye of the visitor. The young woman herself has been known by her photographs not only all over England, but by many in this country.

A colored boy named Albert Wallace was brought before the Circuit Court in Lexington, Ky., on Thursday. He would engage no lawyer, and insited upon defending his own case, and here is the result: "Gemmen uv de jurity, 'tis a scaulous shame to tak de big-eyed coon not according to de constitution uv de revolution. I will plead frum de law what is not in de law as other lawyers. frum de law as was before de black-eyed dog an' de sharp-eyed rabbit, tho' my hair is short, fur de mercy uv de poor pris'ner. To tak a man an' vict him under de constitution uv de revolution. De burds flu' high when we shall quit arth, an' de wurld shill jar an'quake. Oh! gemmen uv de jurity, dat I shill hav to stan' up here an' plead fur life an' de burds flu' high—" Here his Honor informed the new perfectly enthused orotor who was swaying himself and waving his law book before the jury, that he might retire, as he thought he had said enough.

WASHINGTON.

Washington, March 12th.—The commission of the Republican caucus meets to-morrow, at 10 o'clock, to devise a Klu Klux bill.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

Charleston, March 12—The troubles between the whites and negro militia, in Chester county, are subsiding.

The citizens, in public meeting, have pledged protection to all negroes who lay aside their arms and return quietly to their homes. There is now a strong force of United States Regulars.

At an invitation of Gov. Scott, a number of the leading citizens, from various sections of the State, will meet in Columbia, to consult with him as to the best measures of preventing a recurrence of these disorders.

WASHINGTON.

Washington, March 14—In the Senate, Sherman called Sumner to order while reading his Dominican petition, upon the point of order that foreigners could not petition Congress. Colfax sustained the point of order.

A bill was pased authorizing the issue of new for mutilated bank notes.

Pratt occupied the balance of the day on the public lands.

In the House Sypher introduced a resolution, which passed, directing the Secretary of War to survey the ship canal connecting the Mississippi river with the Gulf of Mexico.

Beck's general amnesty bill was resumed, and upon motion, reconsidered the vote by which the bill was referred to the judiciary committee, the effect of which is to put it upon its passage.

Beck accepted the amendment, excluding from its benefits, certan classes; exclaiming, that without these exclusions the bill had no chance. The exclusion comprises members of Congress who abandoned their seats to go into the rebellion; officers of the army and navy, over twenty-one who joined the rebellion; members of conventions which adopted ordiances of secession, and who voted for the same.

Quiet a long debate ensued when, finally, the bill failed by a vote of one hundred against eighty-two; this is not a two-thirds vote.

The joint committee caucuses' recommendation have been substantially adopted.

Butler's Ku Klux bill authorizes the President to employ troops to suphress disorders without requisition on the State governments; it establishes an elaborate code for the trial and punishment of Ku-Klux by the federal courts; anyone of a disguised band is made punishable for the acts of any undetected member, the damages for such bands payable by the counties wherein the damage occurs; jurors shall take the iron clad oath.

The report was disoussed three hours in caucus, where strong objects were urged against the military and features of the bill in the State caucus which adjourned until ten o'clock to-morrow without action.

The House caucus met to-night to consider the report, and it is believed the Senate caucus will order the bill put upon its passage without serious modification.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Concord, March 14—A full vote was polled up to one o'clock. The returns indicate that the Republicans hold their own.

Latter incomplete returns of the vote in Concord indicate a plurality for Bell, Democrat, and leaves the result in doubt.

VIRGINIA.

Richmand, March 14.—The Legislature to-day elected John W. Johnson, conservative, United States Senator, by one hundred and eighty to fifty cast for John R. Poplan, the republican nominee.

WASHINGTON

Arkansas politics have assumed a new phase. Lieut Governor Johnson has resigned because the Secretary of State, one of Clayton's men, was elected Lieut. Governor. Clayton is again in the arena for U. S. Senator. A special to the Memphis Appeal, accuses Johnson of selling out.

A private dispatch from Little Rock report the election of Clayton to the Senate.

Passed, 120 to 64.

A concurrent resolution that Congress adjourned the 20th inst. passed.

The Speaker announced the following as the committee under Poters' resolution: Butler, of Massachusetts, Shelabarger, Kelley, Maynard, Coburn, Buckley, Stevenson, Bennett, Cox, Beck Archer, Waddell, Robinson.

Adjourned.

The vote on the selection committee of thirteen is as follows: Ayes, Republicans 126, Democrats 64; Nays, 50 Republicans, 14 Democrats. The resolution closes out the Ku-Klux this session, and adjournment on Monday is probable.

The Representatives and Senators caucused four hours to-day without any conclusion, and meet again to-morrow:

Trumbull, Buckinghan, Conklin, Sawyer, Kellogg and Robertson spoke in opposition to Ku-Klux legislation.

Washington, March 15.—Late returns from New Hampshire show a majority of about one thousand on the State ticket and a clean Democratic Congressional delegation. The House caucus agreed last night to report. The joint committee's Ku-Klux bill is subject to free debate.

The present is the first instance wherein Democrats have swept New Hampshire since Pierce's campaign.

NORTH CAROLINA.

He will be followed by Messrs. Boyden and Smith for defence, and Hon. T. Bragg will close on Saturday for prosecution. Vote will be taken next week.

WASHINGTON.

Adjournment is again indefinately postponed.

The committee on disabilities reported a bill removing disabilities of Senator Vance elected from North Carolina; placed on call.

A resolution to restrict business was presented, when Sumner spoke in support at his bill, supplemental to the civil rights bill, to adjournment

In the House the entire day was occupied with skirmishing.

Butler wanted his ku klux bill printed, which, meeting objection, Butler ojected to everything.

The Democrartic caucus to-day resolved to support the Senate resolution for a joint committee, provided they made no report until the next meeting of Congress.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Concord, March 17.—All but five small towns in Coos county have been heard from, and estimating these by last years vote, Weston lacks 152 of election by the people. The Democrats have both branches of the legislature, and three Democrats elected to Congress withouta doubt.

SOUTH CAROLINA DISGRACED.

Drunkness and Ribald Songs at the Close of the Session—No Money for the Members—Shaving the Colored Men's Bills Encounter with the Ku-Klux Klan.

Columbia, S. C., March 8.—Gov. Scott's Legislature adjourned early this morning after an allnight session. The scene on the floor of the House of Representatives just before the adjournment was disgraceful. Drunken members, the majority of them negroes, accompained by colored women of the lowest class, appeared on the floor and outraged the decency of the House by ribald songs and indecent jokes. The appropriation bill for paying the legislative expenses of the session, and which called for $265,000 was voted by Gov, Scott, and contrary to expectation the veto was sustained: consequently the State Treasurer cannot pay the members ther salaries and mileage.

To-day Gov. Scott's bank is crowded with the negro members, who are having their claims shaved at from five to ten per cent discount. This is regarded here as a huge joke on the members, and as a bit of sharp financiering on the part of the patriotic Governor. A sharp encounter is reported to-day at Chester between the Ku-Klux and a body of Gov. Scott's negro militia. The disturbance was begun on Monday night by the negroes making a raid on a liquor domolishing its contents. To day about forty armed white men mounted, appeared on the scene and cleaned out the uniformed maranders. After a sharp fight, in which one negro was killed and several of the whites were wounded, the militia took to the woods.

It is more than likely that the Gevornor, who seems recently to have adopted a conciliatory policy toward the people, will reorganize the militia on a more respectable basis.

A fat darky, named Jackson Thomas, who has been drinking heavily for three months, died of spontaneous combustion in Fort Pickering Wednesday. Thomas had accumulated a few hundred dollars during a life of probity and industry. He lived very happily in a shanty with his "ole woman," who did washing. When the winter set in she took a cold and died. The old man at once lost all heart, dld not seem to care for anyting on earth, brought his liquor home by the demijohn—the strongest and cheapest he sould get—which he drank in constantly increasing quantities. A day or two ago a brother of his arrived from Alabama to look after him. He persuaded Jackson to change his drink to applejack, which he took but once, but he took a fearful heavy dose of it—about three pints. It is said that he went off like benzine. He died in the night, and the people who looked in through the chinks of the shanty saw him lying on the floor and a blue flame coming out of his mouth, eyes, nostrils and ears.

DONT FRET.

Don't fret, for what can you gain by it? Will it lighten your cares any? Will it brighten your life any? Will it strengthen you for the performance of your daily duties? Will it add to the sweetness of your disposition or the force of your character? Will it increase for you the affection of those around you? Once acquired is the habit easily overcome?

You think it strange to see such an article addressed to housekeepers but who needs the caution more? No person has a right to fret, but who has more causes for fretfulness than the manager of a household—the wife the mother the housekeeper.

A home may be very happy, full of blessings and comforts, but there are little cares, little burdens, little annoyances, little trials, that will always find the housekeeper, especially, if she is one who is thorough, and systematic, and realizes fully the responsibility of her position.

"I wouldn't mind if it were something great," I overheard a lady remark the other day, "I could endure it then—but such a little thing, no one gives you any sympathy or credit, or realizes it amounts to anything."

To what she referred I did not know, but it was easy to guess, it belonged to the little cares, a little grief, nothing worth speaking about, but so hard to be borne.—Yes, these little burdens are hard to bear, but fretting won't help to lighten them.

Does it make husband any more amiable, patient, loving and considerate to hear you constantly fretting? Does it make him any more cheerful, any less tired, when he comes home at night to hear you always complaining about your hard lot in life? And if he happens to be poor and money scarce, will fretting replenish your pocket-book or encourage him in his daily toils?

Does it add to the good nature of the children? Can you not see your own fretfulness reflected in their countenance? Their little hands, their little feet, make extra work, but you would fret still more should they be taken out of your household. Their little busy fingers ransack mother's work-basket; their little sticky hands soil mamma's white paint; their little crumbs of cake litter mama's carpet, but will fretting restore order?

Fretting will magnify, multiply your labors, but never diminish them.

Oh be cheerful, be loving, be kind. Try to forget your own troubles in comforting some one else. See how bright, how pleasant, how sweet you can make your home. Don't always introduce your troubles to mar the enjoyment of others, but see how much a place of rest and happiness you can make it. There is wonderful, power in a cheerful, loving and patient woman. There's a sweet grace in her heart that makes her a blessing in the household.

You need comfort; you need rest; you need sympathy and strength, but instead of fretting go to one who has said "As thy days so shall thy strength be."—"Casting all your care upon Him for he careth for you."

TENOROON.

A few evenings ago, Rev. A. B. Earle requested a Philadelphia congregation to join him in prayer; but seeing that, with few exceptions, the audience retained their seats, he said: "I want every one to get down on his knees, except such as may not be able to do so on account of the infirmities of age or some deformity." Never was a fashionable congregation seen to get upon their knees more quickly than they did,

Dr. SCHENCK advises Consumptives to go to Florida in Winter.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best o all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State where the temperature is regular, and no subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the heating influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville. It is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Medicines, especially Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night-sweats and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa ensues, a dose of the Mandrake will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, put no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS,
Hundreds of Thousands Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.
WHAT ARE THEY?

FANCY DRINK,
Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters, according to directions, and remain long unwell.
$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mercurial poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.
For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.
They invigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.
Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are cured by these Bitters.
Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effects.
Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.
For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

The reputation this excellent medicine enjoys, is derived from its cures; many of which are truly marvellous. Inveterate cases of Scrofulous disease, where the system seemed saturated with corruption, have been purified and cured by it. Scrofulous affections and disorders, which were aggravated by the scrofulous contamination until they were painfully afflicting, have been radically cured in such great numbers in almost every section of the country, that the public scarcely need to be informed of its virtues or uses.
Scrofulous poison is one of the most destructive enemies of our race. Often, this unseen and unfelt tenant of the organism undermines the constitution, and invites the attack of enfeebling or fatal diseases, without exciting a suspicion or its presence. Again, it seems to breed infection throughout the body, and then, on some favorable occasion, rapidly develop into one or other of its hideous forms, either on the surface or among the vitals. In the latter, tubercles may be suddenly deposited in the lungs or heart, or humors formed in the liver, or it shows its presence by eruptions on the skin, or foul ulcerations on some part of the body. Hence the occasional use of a bottle of this Sarsaparilla is advisable, even when no active symptoms of disease appear. Persons afflicted with the following complaints generally find immediate relief, and, at length, cure, by the use of this SARSAPARILLA: St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Sore Ears, and other eruptions or visible forms of Scrofulous disease. Also in the more concealed forms, as Dyspepsia, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Neuralgia, and the various Uterine affections of the muscular and nervous systems.
Syphilis or Venereal and Mercurial Diseases are cured by it, though a long time is required for subduing these obstinate maladies by any medicine. But long-continued use of this medicine will cure the complaint. Leucorrhœa or Whites, Uterine Ulcerations, and Female Diseases, are commonly soon relieved and ultimately cured by its purifying and invigorating effect. Minute directions for each case are found in our Almanac, supplied gratis. Rheumatism and Gout, when caused by accumulations of poisonous matters in the blood, yield quickly to it, as also Liver Complaints, Torpidity, Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and Jaundice, when arising, as they often do, from the rankling poisons in the blood. This SARSAPARILLA is a great restorer for the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are Languid and Listless, Despondent, Sleepless, and troubled with Nervous Apprehensions or Fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of Weakness, will find immediate relief and convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial.

FURTHER LANGUAGE FROM TRUTHFUL JAMES.

(NYE'S FORD, STANISLAUS, 1870.)

Do I sleep; do I dream?
Do I wonder and doubt?
Are things what they seem,
Or is visions about?
Is our civilization a failure?
Is our Caucasian played out?

Which expressions are strong;
Yet would feebly imply
Some account of a wrong—
Not to call it a lie—
As was worked off on William, my pardner,
Which his name it was W. Nye.

We came down to the Ford
On the very same day
Of that Lottery drawed
By those sharps at the Bay:
And he says to me, "Truthful, how goes it?"
I replied, "It is fair, from gay—"

"For the camp has gone wild
On this Lottery game,
And has even beguiled
'Injin Pick' by the same."
Which said Nye to me, "Injing is pizen—
Do you know what his number is, James?"
I replied "7, 2,
9, 8, 4, is his hand;"
Which he started—and drew
Out a list, which he scanned;
Then he softly went for his revolver,
With language I cannot command.

Then I said, "William Nye!"
But he turned upon me,
And the look in his eye
Was quite painful to see,
And he says: "You mistake; this poor Injin
I protects from such sharps as you be!"

I was shocked and withdrew;
But I grieve to relate,
When he next met my view
Injin Pick was his mate,
And the two around town was a lying
In a frightfully dissolute state.

Which the war dance they had Round a tree at the Bend,
Was a sight that was sad,
And it seemed that the end
Would not justify the proceedings,
As I quiet remarked to a friend.

For that Injin he fled
The next day to his band,
And we found William spread
Very loose on the strand,
With a peaceful like smile on his features,
And a dollar greenback in his hand.

Which, the same when rolled out,
We observed with surprise,
What that Injin, no doubt,
Had believed was the prize—
Them figures in red in the corner,
Which the number of notes specifies.

Was it guile, or a dream?
Is it Nye that I doubt?
Are things what they seem,
Or is visions about?
Is our civilization a failure?
Or is the Caucasian played out?

A Reminiscence of Gen. Scott.

One evening, after our rubber, I said to the General, "There is one question I have often wished to ask you, but have been restrained by the fear that it might be improper." The General drew himself up, and said in his emphatic manner, "Sir, you are incapable of asking an improper question." I said, "You are very kind; but if my inquiry is indiscreet, I am sure you will allow it to pass unanswered." "I hear you, Sir," he replied. "Well, then, General, did anything remarkable happen to you on the morning of the battle of Chippewa?" After a brief but impressive silence, he said, "Yes, Sir; something did happen to me—something very remarkable. I will now, for the third time in my life, relate the story:
"The 4th day of July, 1814, was one of extreme heat. On that day my brigade skirmished with a British force commanded by Gen. Riall from an early hour in the morning till late in the afternoon. We had driven the enemy down the river some twelve miles to Street's Creek near Chippewa, where we encamped for the night, our army occupying the west, while that of the enemy was encamped on the east side of the creek. After our tents had been pitched, I observed a flag, borne by a man in peasant's dress, approaching my marquee. He brought a letter from a lady who occupied a large mansion on the opposite side of the creek, informing me that she was the wife of a member of Parliament, who was then at Quebec; that her children, servants, and a young lady friend were alone with her in the house; that Gen. Riall had placed a sentinel before her door; and that she ventured, with great doubts of the propriety of the request, to ask that I would place a sentinel upon the bridge to protect her against stragglers from our camp. I assured the messenger that the lady's request should be complied with. Early the same morning the same messenger, bearing a white flag, re-appeared hith a note from the same lady, thanking me for the protection she had enjoyed, adding that, in acknowledgement of my civilities, she begged that I would, with such members of my staff as I choose to bring with me, accept the hospitalities of her house at a breakfast which had been prepared with considerable attention, and was quite ready. Acting upon an impulse which I have never been able to analyze or comprehend, I called two of my Aids, Lieuts. Worth and Watts, and returned with the messenger to the mansion already indicated. We met our hostess at the door, who ushered us into the dining room, where breakfast awaited us, and where the young lady previously referred to was already seated by the coffee urn. Our hostess, asking to be excused for a few minutes, retired, and the young lady immediately served our coffee. Before we had broken our fast, Lieut. Watts rose from the table to get his bandana, (that being before the days of napkins,) which he had left in his cap on a side table by the window, glancing through which he saw Indians approaching the house on one side, and red-coats approaching it on the other, with an evident purpose of surrounding it and us, and instantly exclaimed, "General, we are betrayed!" Springing from the table and clearing the house, I saw our danger, and remembering Lord Chesterfield had said, 'Whatever it is proper to do, it is proper to do well,' and as we had to run, and my legs were longer than those of my companions, I soon outstripped them. As we made our escape we were fired at, but got across the bridge in safety.
I felt so much shame and mortification at having so nearly fallen into a trap, that I could scarcely fix my mind upon the duties which now demanded my undivided attention. I knew that I had committed a great indiscretion in accepting that singular invitation, and that if any disaster resulted from it I richly deserved to lose both my commission and my character. I constantly found myself wondering whether the lady really intended to betray us, or whether we had been accidentally observed. The question would recur even amid the excitement of battle. Fortunately my presence and services in the field were not required until Gens. Porter and Ripley had been engaged at intervals for several hours; so that when my Brigade, with Towson's artillery, were ordered to cross Street's Creek, my nerves and confidence had become measurably quieted and restored. I need not describe the battle of Chippewa. That belongs to and is part of the history of our country. It is sufficient to say that at the close of the day we were masters of the position, and that our arms were in no way discredited. The British Army had fallen back, leaving their wounded in our possession. The mansion which I had visited in the morning was the largest house near, and to that the wounded officers in both armies were carried for surgical treatment. As soon as I could leave the field I went over to look after my wounded. I found the English officers lying on the first floor, and our own on the floor above. I saw in the lower room the young lady whom I had met in the morning at the breakfast table, her white dress all sprinkled with blood. She had been attending to the British wounded. On the second floor, just as I was turning into the room where our officers were, I met my hostess.
One glance at he was quite sufficient to answer the question which I had been asking myself all day. She had intended to betray me, and nothing but the accident of my Aid rising for his handkerchief saved us from capture.
Years afterwards, in reflecting upon this incident, I was led to doubt whether I had not misconstrued her startled manner as I suddenly encountered her. That unexpected meeting would have occasioned embarrassment in either contingency; and it is so difficult to believe a lady of cultivation and refinement capable of such an act, that I am now, half a century after the event, disposed to give my hostess the benefit of that doubt."
"And now, Sir," added the General, "this is the third time in my life I have told this story. I do not remember to have been spoken to before on the subject for many years." He looked at me, and seemed to be considering with himself a few moments, and then said: "Remembering your intimacy with Gen. Worth, I need not inquire how you came to a knowledge of our secret."
"Well, General," I replied, "I have kept the secret faithfully for more than forty years, always hoping to obtain your own version of what struck me as a most remarkable incident in your military life."—Thurlow Weed, in Harper's Magazine for March.

ENTANGLED IN A COBWEB.

THE COUNTRY FLY WHO LISTENED TO THE MUSIC OF A CITY SPIDER.

Music from a New York Spider—A Buffalo Fly Entranced—How the Spider Spread the Web—How the Fly was Captured—Then What Happened to the Fly.

The ways of matrimonial advertising are so numerous, and the fools that walk therein so common, that their names are hardly worth mentioning unless by some accident they are prominently brought before the public. Of that rather numerous class who have not met with success in their dealings with the fair sex through the columns of the newspapers, Mr. JOHN S Paddock may be mentioned as a prominent and conspicuous member. This gentleman had a business. He was a thriving manufacturer of buttons in the city of Buffalo, and as such was considered more than ordinarily skilful. He had lived the life of a bachelor, and up to the time of the event which is recorded, had never been suspected of matrimonial intention. But the following advertisement appearing in a prominent daily newspaper, published in this city, attracted his attention:

THE MYSTERIOUS ADVERTISEMENT.

COMPANION.—A lady of retiring manners and moderate fortune, would like to form the acquaintance of a gentleman with a view to travelling through Europe, and if agreeable permanently residing abroad. A party of unquestionable character, and one who would be willing to defray a portion of the travelling expenses, may address E. M., General Post Office New York.

Mr. Paddock is very communicative, and has no objection to publicity being given to his case if by such means others may be warned from the trap he fell into. The following is a copy of the letter he wrote in answer to the advertisement:

BUFFALO, Feb. 9, 1871.

DEAR MADAM: If you are sincere in your wish to secure a companion for a trip to Europe, I should like very much to form your acquaintance, with the hope that we may be found agreeable to each other. I have always had a desire to travel: but until recently my means have been too limited to gratify my wishes. I am forty seven years of age, but my friends flatter me with the compliment that I look ten years younger. Of course if I make an arrangement with you I shall expect to defray my share of the travelling expenses, if not more. An early answer will oblige.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN S. PADDOCK.

In reply to the above Mr. Paddock received the following:

NEW YORK Feb 11, 1871.

DEAR SIR: I am so unaccustomed to write to strangers that I feel as though I was committing some act of impropriety in addressing you. The loss of my only brother has left me without a friend in the world. I am naturally of a cheerful disposition, and I feel that I must turn in some direction for a companion. Hence the advertisement you saw. I do not know what foolish notion prompted me to write it, but if it shall secure me such a friend as I could wish, I shall indeed be happy. My father's estate has fallen into my hands, and I have ample means to travel. It is not necessary that you should be troubled with a protracted correspondence. Consequently if you can conveniently come to New York, I will state in my next where I can meet you.

Yours respectfully,
EMMA MESSENGER.

THE NEW YORK SPIDER AND THE BUFFALO FLY.

Two or three other letters passed between Mr. Paddock and the Miss Messenger, when it was decided that he should meet her in the ladies' room of the Jersey City ferry house, at the foot of Courtlandt street. Before leaving Buffalo Mr. Paddock arranged his business for a long absence from home, presuming that he should be abroad some time. As he wisely remarks however, "A man never stops to think when he is engaged in any woman business." This will probably account for what befel him.
Promptly at the time appointed, the gentlemanly Paddock made his appearance at the rendezvous, and there found a lady about the medium height, dressed in black, with a very pretty face, and of agreeable manners. He was at once struck with her engaging and ladylike appearance, and he involuntarily came to the conclusion that fortune had thrown in his way the being that was to complete his earthly happiness.
It did not take Miss Emma Messenger long to tell her story. It was the one she had foreshadowed in her letter, with a few details concerning her dear father's death. She was so artless in her description of her deceased parent's love for her, and she related in such an interesting and mournful way how cruel fate had robbed her of her only earthly friend, that Mr. Paddock was quite overcome. She spoke of her yearnings for some one to love, and how under such circumstances she had been induced to write the advertisement Mr Paddock had read. She did not fail to impress upon that gentleman's mind her joy over receiving his letters, and how happy it made her to find him all that her fancy had painted. This, and a great deal more of the most flattering language imaginable, did she pour into her wilting listener's ear. Finally proposed a drive on the avenue. The invitation was readily accepted, and during the afternoon she induced him to partake of several glasses of wine, the result of which was that before darkness closed over the city he was in fine spirits, and had taken much time in talking over his prospective visit to Europe. But when night fell Mr. Paddock suddenly remembered that he had made no arrangements for hotel accommodations. In this emergency the lady came to the rescue, and as Mr. Paddock was a stranger in the city, she proposed to introduce him to a gentleman friend of hers who kept a first-class hotel in Prince street. Mr. Paddock at once decided that the hotel on Prince street should be his abiding place during his stay in the city. This matter settled, he suggested as a fitting conclusion to the day's entertainment that they should visit the theatre. Miss Emma Messenger consented. After the theatre came supper and more wine. The flow of champagne proved too copious for Mr. Paddock, and in a short time became perfectly oblivious to all his surroundings. How he found his hotel or reached his room he does not know; but when he got up next morning somebody had carried off his watch and money—in fact everything he had save his clothes.

THE DISCONSOLATE BUFFALO FLY.

The proprietor of the house professed to know nothing about the matter, except that late at night a carriage containing a lady and gentleman was driven to the private entrance, and the lady had called for a room for herself and husband, stating that her husband was sick.
Mr. Paddock, like thousands of others who have been robbed in New York, was ashamed to make his case known to the authorities. Although his checks were gone, he hoped to recover his trunks, and he went to the depot for that purpose, but they were missing. Some one had been there before him, and claimed them on the checks. The credulous Paddock had been completely cleaned out. He had lost $1,600 in money, several valuable checks and drafts, and all his baggage. After thinking the whole matter over, he came to the conclusion that the best thing he could do was to stop the payment on his checks and drafts, and go home. Before taking his departure he indited the following advertisement which up to the present time has not been answered:

CONFIDENTIAL—If the lady who, being anxious to go to Europe, formed the acquaintance of a gentleman from Buffalo for that purpose, and afterwards robbed him, will return the checks and drafts she took from his pocketbook, a favor will be conferred and no questions asked. Address.

☞The Tuskaloosa Observer says that the "Heathen Chinee" are very deferential; they never fail to say "goohy" as they "lumber" out of church while service is going on.

Minor Exhibit.

A few days ago the Mail had an editorial complimentary of Maj. Babbitt, at one time commissary of Law's Brigade, Army of Northern Virginia, and suggestive of a tribute due the gallant old fellow for the very faithful manner in which he discharged his duties and procured food for suffering the ragged heroes who looked to him for bread in the time that tried men's souls. At that time we knew not where he had hidden himself away "when the war was done," but the following paragraph from the Mobile Tribune does away the mystery and rewards the old fox. Says the Tribune:

"We are pleased to be enabled to give our Montgomery friends the information they lately sought through the columns of the MAIL. Their gallant and wholesouled friend, Maj. Babbitt, is now residing in Okolona, Miss., and is employed as Cashier of a Bank in that place."

We thank our friend of the Tribune for his attention, and shall be happy at any time to reciprocate in any manner the kindness he has thus shown us.

We now propose that each member of Law's Brigade contribute the sum of fifty cents to be devoted to the purchase of a suitable testimonial of their appreciation of Babbitt's excellent merit as an officer and call on the press of the State to pass the proposition around. The contributions may be directed to M. M. Cooke, Mail Office, Montgomery, who will deposit the funds and superintendent the selection of a suitable testimonial subject of course to suggestion, advice, etc., from the contributors.

Montgomery Mail.

ALL QUIET.—Gov. Alcorn appears to have at length realized that "blood is thicker than water," and has appointed Mr. J. W. Smith, Mayor of Meridian. Mr. S. is a gentleman whose reputation in the past, is a guarantee that he will discharge his duties with impartiality, and fearlessly. A new Board of Aldermen has been appointed, also, and is composed of men generally acceptable to the friends of law and order. The Mercury says:

Our new city government, with Mayor Smith at the head, has got fairly to work. The police force has been judiciously selected, and yesterday, last night and to-day, the most perfect order prevails. Men begin to feel secure in going about their business, and nervous and timid women begin to regain confidence. The nightly fusilade in negro quarters of the the town is hushed, and the dread of the perils it portended is passing away and yielding to a sense of security. For our own part, we begin to feel that our life is our own again, and that the law is building

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA.

SATURDAY, MARCH 25th, 1871.

Louisiana, Debt, Taxes and Repudiation.

From the Montgomery Advertiser.

Louisiana has been saddled by the carpet-baggers and negroes with a State debt of thirty odd millions, and is paying the monstrous tax of five per cent, on all her taxable valuations. It is, indeed, a serious question whether any political community on earth can bear such a tax. Nevertheless, the Picayune of Sunday bravely says:

"We must be patient with our thirty millions of debt and our five percent. taxes. We must appeal to our courts, such as they are, for our remedy. We can better afford the loss of half the entire income of our property for twenty years than to resort to the odious and desperate remedy of repudiation. It is said to be in the minds of many, but we believe it is more the expression of impatience than of any settled purpose. We hope any latent or lurking intention of the kind may be dismissed for the honor and the spotless fame of Louisiana. No less by wicked appropriations can compare with the loss of State credit. No burden is like the burden of a bad name."

Very brave words and true under some circumstances; but in the present instance, Louisiana should toss the load from her shoulders without the least regard as to who it should crush. The debt is not the creation of the tax payers and the man who urges them to be so patient as assess are and pay it, is a bad adviser. Not having contracted the debt, their honor is in no way concerned in its payment, and therefore the "honor" argument is mere sophistry, and as dangerous to the interests of the people as the "dead issue" one so much in vogue. We would not give the following two lines for all the voluminous "honor" and "dead issues" editorials ever written.

"Let us do nothing but what is right And, God helping us, submit to nothing wrong."

[Ed. Republican.

The High Court of Impeachment, sitting for the trial of Gov. Holden, voted on the impeachment articles on Wednesday the 22nd. and the result was that Holden was formally removed from the office, of Governor, and disqualified from hereafter holding an office of honor or profit in that State.

The rascal received his just deserts at the hands of the representatives of an outraged people; but it remains to be seen whether or not the central despotism at Washington will permit the old North State the complete exercise of her high prerogative. We anxiously await the denoument; for much of our hopes of liberty hang on the issue.

France, as if not sufficiently humbled and lowered in the family of nations by the German invader, has, since the evacuation of her territory, by the German armies, commenced an internecine strife which will damage her infinitely more than the Franco Prussian war as bad as that was. When a nation thus defies all common sense, she ceases to become an object of pity; and only attracts the indignant contempt of her sisters. The result of the whole matter will be the restoration of the Bonaparte Dynasty, and this in all probability, will be the very best thing that could be done for her. France needs the bit tightly drawn on her, and her Red Radicals want hemp rather than more license, which they term liberty. Just now her mobs need liberal doses of grape and canister—such as the young Corsican Lieutenant administered to them in former times.

When looking at the United States one meets with in the sentiment that "the world is governed too much." When looking at France, we are tempted to reverse the truism and declare that the world is governed too little.

Capt James Crook of Calhoun.

It is with unfeigned pleasure that we reproduce from the Jacksonville Republican, the subjoined compliment to one of the noblest, ablest, purest and best of the sons of the Magnolia State, Hon. James Crook, representative of Calhoun county in the State Legislature. We have but one objection to the Republican's notice of Capt. C., it doesn't go quite far enough. We think the sterling democracy of old Calhoun will hardly confine its endorsement of Capt. Crook's course to "Railroad subjects." It will "go" the whole record, and applaud it besides. But here is what our contemporary says:

"Capt. James Crook, our talented representative has returned. He made a record in the Legislature on all railroad subjects, entirely consistent with the sentiments of his constituents.

Montgomery Mail.

We would have "gone on to state;" but the fact is we had not followed Capt Crook, in all his votes given, as closely as we did on the Railroad question, that being the all absorbing question of the session.

Besides we thought the proverbial modesty of the Capt. might take fright if we piled it on too heavy. We know that he well deserves everything complimentary the REPUBLICAN can say about him, but we deem it best to administer it along in broken doses.

WENDELL PHILLIPS, who is one of the acutest of all Radical rascals, says: "The thirty-three Republicans who removed Sumner last week, elected a Democratic President for 1872." That's the way to talk it out, Wendell. Be candid.

Old Beast Butler has been again "chewed up and spit out" by his Radical friends in Congress, and this time too about that unfortunate Committee business. His chief objection to the appointment of the proposed Committee was that the Democrats on it would call Democrats of the South before it, and that their testimony would then necessarily go before the country, as well as that of the negroes and carpet-baggers. This, of course, in the opinion of the fair-minded Butler, should not be for a moment allowed; and he plainly intimated that his Radical colleague, Mr. Daws, was falling from the faith in supporting a measure that would lead to such results. Mr. Daws objected to such narrow appeal to party considerations as the one made by Mr. Butler, and plainly informed him that the day when the Radicals in Congress could have everything their own way, had passed, and that now, circumstanced as they were, they had to put up with the best they could get. He further repudiated the leadership of the impracticable Butler. His example was followed by other Republicans and in the debate which ensued, Butler was so snarled at and snapped up as to become completely demoralized. He suddenly, out of spite, favored adjournment, which he had hitherto opposed; and even went so far, in his eager haste to revenge himself on his Radical associates, as to make important concessions favorably affecting amnesty measures acted by the Democrats. The House, then, in the passage of Mr. Daws' substitute for the Senate concurrent Resolution, providing for a Committee of 21, finally repudiated his (Butler's) leadership by a vote of 127 yeas to 60 nays. "Goosby" Butler.

As will be seen from the Election notice published elsewhere, our people will soon be called upon to elect School Trustees throughout the County. We would respectfully urge it upon our friends throughout the county, to give more attention to this coming election, than is usual when small offices are to be filled, and select the very best men in the various Townships throughout the county. Though not commonly so esteemed, the office of School Trustee is a very important one, and those among our people, competent to fill the positions best, should not hesitate to give themselves to the service. The duties are not onerous, only requiring a few days in the year, and no man should hesitate to give those few days to the cause of Education; more particularly when his own children are so vitally interested.

Let us have a good turn out and a competent corps of Trustees to hold up the hands and support the efforts of the County Superintendent to forward the interests of Education in our midst.

The St. Clair Canard.

Last week we published a rumor, which we then thought was well authenticated, to the effect that the Tax Collector of St. Clair County had been poisoned after having robbed the county of tax funds in his possession. The rumor was evidently wide spread, for the Talladega Sun, Rome Commercial and other papers got the same report from sources apparently as reliable as ours. What gave rise to the rumor we are entirely at a loss to conjecture; but that it is entirely false we are assured by one of our prominent citizens who has just returned from St. Clair county. Involving a most serious charge as the story did, we regret very much its publication; and that no injustice may be done the parties to the supposed tragedy, we hasten to correct the statement, and request all papers who have copied it from the REPUBLICAN or from any of the other papers who were hoaxed in the same way, to give this article an insertion.

We learn that a negro man named ——Foreman, was waylaid and completely riddled with bullets in St. Clair county some days ago. He is represented as having been a very bad and desperate negro, who had been indulging in violent threats against the white people of that county. This one is reliable.

APOLOGY.—Our paper failed to come to time and we are compelled to use some that is too small. Hope to be all right next week.

THE CHAMPION FOOL.

The perjured scamp who presides over the destinies of this great country, sent the following batch of balderdash, in the shape of a message to Congress, on the 23rd inst. His impeachment is already spoken of in high Radical circles, and we sincerely trust the suggestion may be carried into effect. To be tyrannized over by a man of great mind would be bad enough; but to be ruled by a mercenary fool is unendurable

A condition of affairs now exists in some of the States of the Union rendering life and property insecure and carrying the mails and the collection of the revenue dangerous. The proof that such a condition of affairs exists in some localities is now before the Senate. That the power to correct these evils is beyond the control of the State authorities, I do not doubt; that the power of the Executive department of the United States, acting within the limits of existing laws is sufficient for the present emergencies, is not clear; therefore I urgently recommend sush legislation as in the judgment of Congress shall effectually secure life, liberty, and property, and the enforcement of law in all parts of the United States. It may expedient to provide that such law as shall be passed in pursuance of this recommendation shall expire at the end of the next session of Congress. There is no other subject upon which I would recommend legislation during the present session.

Signed, U. S. GRANT."

JACKSONVILLE ALA.

MONDAY MARCH 20, 1871.

Council Chamber.

Present.—Geo. I. Turnley Intendent. Wm. Dean, J. D. Privett, L. W. Grant, Ed L. Woodward, and Joe S. Montgomery, Councilmen.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

Your Committee, appointed to examine the report of Mr. A. Adams, former Treasurer of the Corporation of Jacksonville, have the honor to report that they have done so, and find that he has no vouchers for three hundred dollars, more or less. He assures us that he can produce receipts for all monies to his credit on his report, save seventy dollars, which he paid R. H. Hand for work on the mountain road. He says that he paid Mr. Hand along as he needed provisions &c., and that he has him charged with that amount on his books.

JOE MONTGOMERY,
ED L. WOODWORD,

Laid on the table to be taken up at next meeting.

We, your committee, appointed to examine the grave yard and ascertain the repairs necessary and the probable cost of repairing, have the honor to report, that the fence on the front side is in good condition; save a few pannels blown down. It will take 1500 feet of plank, and 316 feet of post to build fence on the back side. The cost of the lumber will probably be thirty dollars. The work will cost about fifteen dollars—the whole cost being about fifty dollars.

W. H. DEAN,
J. S. MONTGOMERY,
ED L. WOODWARD.

Laid on the table to be taken up at next meeting.

Your committee, appointed to ascertain the amount of Taxable Real Estate within the limits of the Incorporation, have to report that the amount, so far as we can judge, is about two hundred thousand dollars.

ED L. WOODWARD,
J. S. MONTGOMERY.

Resolved that the Council in taking leave of D. T. Laird, recognize the fact, that during his term of office, he discharged his duty conscientiously and to the best of his ability; and that his accounts with the Town were found to be entirely correct.

On motion the Marshal was instructed to purchase six chairs for the use of the Council.

Account of Fielding Snow to amount $16,25 for hauling heretofore done for the Incorporation, was allowed.

Account of J. D. Hoke to amount of $2,00 for one blank book, was allowed.

On motion adjourned to meet again at Intendent's office, under REPUBLICAN Office, on Monday night 27th inst.

We invite the attention of our people to the advertisement of Col. Parr in another column. He represents two of the finest fire Insurance Companies we know of and an excellent Life Insurance Co. Col. Parr himself is a fine business man, and will take great pleasure in filling up policies for our citizens. Being one of us, he is entitled to the patronage of our Jacksonville merchants and everybody else who may have necessity to insure.

We invite the attention of our readers to the notice of the Board of School Directors in another column. The Superintendent is compelled to make a Report within five days after the 1st day of April to the Superintendent of Public Instruction; and therefore it is important that those Teachers who wish to get their money before the next quarter, hand in their reports at the time specified in the notice here alluded to.

The little orphan left from the Lauderdale Springs crowd, on account of sickness, with our kind fellow townsman, James Crow Esq., is rapidly recovering. The one left in Talladega, we learn, died. We doubt the propriety of keeping the innocents longer exposed as they necessarily are in travelling so constantly. The money is no doubt much needed; but it is not worth exposing the lives of the beneficiaries for.

Those splendid patent rubber floor mops, at Montgomery Bros., have been reduced in price to $1,50.

Every housekeeper should have one. They save labor.

One of our friends, in that suave an polite manner peculiar to him, presented us with a real Havana, the other day—one that was certainly a genuine article. As segars of that quality do not often reach this far into the interior, our much ado over it will be pardonable. It was a rare good one, and we saved it until Sunday, when everybody is out, just to have the pleasure of loafing around to the windward of friends so that the gentle breezes might waft the fragrant odor to their grateful nostrils More than one man felt bad that day because he didn't have, nor couldn't get one like it.

We have received from L. H. Roberts & Co. 60, Wm St, New York, copies of the London Times and Harpers Weekly, reduced to carrier pigeon size, such as the besieged Parisians sent by these messengers of the air to the outside world. Price 25 cents.

We have received from Messrs. Ruble & Hight and have for sale a COTTON PLANTER of the most approved pattern. This labor saving machine saves two trips over the field and plants the cotton much better than can be done by the hand. Price very low. Can be seen at the store of E. L. Woodward's Sons.

We ask and confidently expect our friends to avail themselves of the opportunity our next Court will afford, to either bring in or send in what they owe us on advertising or subscription accounts. After Court week we expect to pursue the course in relation to our accounts, marked out in the notice in which subscription was reduced and subscribers called on to settle.

A meeting of the Calhoun Agricultural society is earnestly called, on the first Monday in April, at the Court House in Jacksonville. Business of importance will be transacted. Every member is urged to be present.

Notice is invited to the advertisement of Criswell's Inteligence office. Such an institution in our midst will be very convenient, and should be encouraged.

Our friend, Mungie Renfro, has been confined to his "little bed" the past few days, from the effect of his last bad joke in relation to the Jacksonville city fathers. —Jacksonville Republican.

"Mungie" has recovered sufficiently to say that the joke is not a bad one.—On the contrary, it is a good one and based on facts, too.—Talladega Watchtower.

It would be so nice if we could say as as much for Mungie. The question, though, is how he knows whereof he speaks. We are inclined to believe he walks by sight alone. He—But "you know how it is yourself," brother Tower.

At the risk of having every bit of our hair pulled out and the loss of all our female acquaintance we publish the gospel truth below, as clipped from the paper of an antiquated Virginia fogy, who is certainly not sound on the Woman Rights question. We are further willing to bet a dozen of McElreath's apples that every scamp of a husband who reads it, will chuckle over it, and then deny that he endorses it when questioned by his better half.

What A Good Wife Should Be.

A good wife should be like three things; which three things she should not be like.

First—She should be like a snail to keep within her house; but she should not be like a snail to carry all she has on her back.

Secondly—She should be like an echo, to speak when spoken to; but she should not be like an echo always to have the last word.

Thirdly—She should be like a town clock, always to keep time and regularity; but she should not be like a town clock, to speak so loud that all the town may hear her.

Bud Joe, alias "Big Joe," of the GADSDEN TIMES, throws out a very spiteful little squib at us this week, for "slandering," as he terms it, the Tax Collector of St. Clair County—not because of his love for that individual; but because, (as he indirectly acknowledges) we, some time last year, jestingly criticised one of his misquotations from Shakespear.

Josy is nothing if not literary, and, like all the literati, is sensitive of criticism in that direction. When approached in a critical way, he always ruffles his feathers and expresses himself in the language of one of his favorite poets, something after this style:

"Oh no! Not for Jo,
If he knows it, not for Joseph."

Knowing all this, however, we cannot now (we did not intend to notice it) forbear mentioning another misquotation he made last week, in the course of a most virulent and slanderous article on the Alabama Legislature, written because that body did not see fit to present Gadsden another railroad out of the pockets of the tax payers of the State. In making an insinuation, he said that the members of the Legislature had best look to their laurels, as the "twinkling of the guinea" had already been hinted at. If he intended to quote from TENNYSON'S "Locksley Hall," he should have had it, "jingling of the guinea." But he probably got things mixed with the following beautiful couplet, which he has come across somewhere, in the course of his extensive reading:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are."

We feared, when we heard of that bad joke of friend "Mungie" that it was one of the premonitory symptoms of an utter recklessness, akin to madness. The last heard of him he was swapping horses with a methodist preacher. It is probably unnecessary to remark here who got the best of the trade, though his Pa don't seem as well pleased with the present animal as the one "Mungie" once had.

Notice advertisement of the Jacksonville Iron Foundry. We will speak of the enterprise more at length in our next.

The editor of the Eufaula News proposes to send his excellent paper gratis for one year to the man or woman who will send him the largest watermelon during the coming season. The offer is open to all the surrounding counties.

This editor is a sly old dog. He thinks he will get lots of watermelons in this way. Every man will think his is the biggest and so carry it to him.

ROME, GA. Feb 7th, 1871.

Messrs. Ruble & Hight,

Gentlemen:—I take pleasure in adding my testimony in behalf of the superiority of the Russell Reaper and Mower that I bought of your agent in this place, last harvest. I cut with it a very heavy crop of wheat, grass and oats. It did everything that could be expected, in a superior manner, and to my entire satisfaction.

Yours Respectfully
A. A. JONES.

The best Liniment to use for stock is that which will cure a hurt in the quickest time, and this merit the proprietors claim for the Magic Arnica Liniment. It is kept in some of the best stables in the country, and there are many instances known where mules lamed in some way during the plowing season, have been cured between sun and sun, and worked the next day as usual. For sale by all druggists.

Beauty.

CAHOON'S BROADCAST
SEED SOWER.

FOR SOWING ALL KINDS OF GRAIN AND GRASS SEED.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without a parallel in the history of Agricultural Implements. It has probably received more First Premiums at State Fairs in the fall of 1869, than was ever awarded any other machine of any name or nature, in one year.

Joseph Harris, author of "Walks and Talks," in AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST, says: "I like the Cahoon Seeder very much indeed." The following from a noted grain grower, speaks for itself:

NORTHBORO, L. I Nov. 18 1869.

DEAR SIR.—The Broadcast Seed Sower you sent me last spring is the best Seed Sower I ever saw. I used it in the same field with the Drill—taking one half with the Sower and the other with the Drill—The work was done in one-quarter of the time with the Sower; the crop, when threshed yielded more, and the grain was better. I have used it entirely for my fall sowing of wheat and rye. For sowing grass seeds, clover or millet, no other machine could do the work so well. A great many farmers, when they saw it, said it was only a play toy until they saw it in a fifty-acre-lot with one man travelling as fast as he could walk, another carrying grain to him, and four teams following after. Their next business was to watch their crop when up, but all were surprised to find it so evenly distributed.

WILLIAM CROZIER.

"No man can make a good Farmer and a successful one, who does not keep accurate accounts."

Did the cotton planter know exactly what it cost him to plant, cultivate and harvest his crop, he would, like the drover or merchant, set his own price, and not allow outsiders to set it for him. If then, it cost him more than he could get for it, he would certainly cease planting cotton, and cast about for another more remunerative article of produce.

FARM ACCOUNTS.

(From the Rural Carolinian, Vol. 1, No. 12.)

This loose way of farming should be abandoned. A system of accounts should be adopted, by which the farmer shall be able to tell at the end of the year, not only the amount of his gains or losses, but just where these gains or losses have occurred. Suppose, for instance, he first divides his farm into sections, numbering or naming his woodlots, fields, pastures and dwelling house and lot, for convenience sake. He then estimates the value of each, fixing the same proportionate to the whole. He opens an account with each one, charging to each its valuation. He also opens an account with his stock, his vehicles and tools, charging to each its value. He must, of course, keep a cash account, and charge or credit to some one of his various accounts every cent he pays out or receives.

He charges to each field expenditures for seed, manure and labor, for share of tool account, and each day's work for himself or his oxen, for planting, cultivating and harvesting. If he sells his crop, he credits the cash received. If he stores it for family use, or to feed to his animals, he charges it to family expense, or to the stock account, at whatever he could have sold it for. After the crop is cleared, he estimates the value of the field, making allowance for whatever gain or loss in its condition and crop-bearing capacity may have occurred since the previous valuation, and the balance of the account shows what has been made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts, taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost from that section of his farm.

The balance of his various accounts taken in detail, show just where he has made or lost money; and if same or similar results follow the operations of successive years, he is thereby warned, and can profit by the experience. From these accounts he can calculate, with certainty, the exact cost of everything produced, including even interests, taxes, and repairs of tools. He has the entire business tabularized, and can at his leisure, during winter evenings, march his colums in review before him, and study to some purpose to reduce costs and save expense.

SOLON ROBINSON says in his valuable FACTS FOR FARMERS:

"No man can be a good farmer and a successful one who does not keep accurate accounts; be able to tell, at the end of the year, every dollar that comes to hand, and what for; and every one that goes out, and why it went; and balance your cash account once a month—once a week is better. Keep accounts with everybody debit and credit, and in some degree with everything; number your fields, and charge each with manure, seed and labor, and credit the crops: and you will soon find which is the most profitable: open an account with your stable, your pig-pen, your pasture, and with the general stock, and with different classes and branches of it, if you would learn accuracy which is the most profitable. To be successful you must be accurate and must keep accounts."

The Lauderdale Orphans netted $140 from their concert at Jacksonville. Good for Jacksonville; but she always wears her heart on the right side.
Montgomery Mail.

S. M. Pruitt, Marshal of Jacksonville, indignantly denies having voted the radical ticket at the last Gubernatorial election. Such a charge ought to be a fighting matter, for a more serious one could hardly be brought now-a-days.
Montgomery Mail.

Mr. William Stillings of Marion who was so brutally assaulted about six weeks ago, by a negro burglar, died last Saturday and was buried the next day. His life was insured in the Piedmont & Arlington Life Insurance Company for $2,000.

Thus far the Lauderdale orphans have netted $11,000, for their "home" in Mississippi. So says Rev. James E. Carter, who in conjunction with Rev. A. D. Trimble, has been managing their concerts during the last few weeks.

A Blacksmith's Idea of Religion.

It has been said that every man has at least one good point in his character. A gentleman, traveling on Sunday, was obliged to stop to have one of the shoes of his horse replaced. The farrier was just going to church, but suggested to the traveler that Jim Harrison might be found at home at the next forge. This proved to be true; and the rustic who had led the gentleman's horse to the spot, exclaimed, "Well, I must say that for Jem, for it is the only good point about him—he do never go to church."

The republican movement in England seems to be continually gaining ground. It has been accelerated by the discussion consequent upon the demand for the dowry of the Princess Louise at a time of such general distress that a Parliamentary return of all the people who have died of starvation has been moved. Republican clubs has been formed at Newcastle, Birmingham, and other places; and it is a part of their work to promote the formation of similar clubs elsewhere.—Meetings to agitate the question of establishing a republic are held in the north of England almost every evening, but most of the newspapers carefully refrain from reporting them. It is evident that the Qeen and royal family are growing more and more unpopular every day.

A Washington correspondent tells a story of a member of the Forty-first Congress, whose constituents have kindly allowed him to retire to private life, who during his whole term of Congressional service never drew a dollar's worth of stationery, but instead took a a money allowance under an existing rule. But it would not do to neglect his constituents, and he could not correspond with them without writing materials; so at an early hour every morning he made a tour of the House, picking up all the loose sheets and scraps of paper from members' desks and transferring them to his own. The same member manifested an exalted appreciation of the value of the Agricultural Department, and was liberal in his drafts upon the seed repository. Upon one occasion he sent in a single order for thirteen hundred dollars' worth of seeds. It is to be presumed that this stateman's district next season will yield a bounteous harvest of pentstemon pulchellum and Aberyeldie kale.

Negro Jurors.—Chief Justice Mason, of Nebraska, has delivered an opinion against negroes sitting as jurors in that State. The principal point made is that the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments grant rights to negroes, but impose no duties upon them, and that jury service is a burden and not a privilege; that the State Constitution can be changed only by the same power that enacted it; that Congress could not confer such authority to change upon the Legislature.

A young and pretty girl stepped into a store where a spruce young man, who had long been enamored but dared not speak, stood behind the counter selling dry goods. In order to stay as long as possible, she cheapened everything; at last she said: "I belive you think I am cheating you." "Oh no," said the youngster, "to me you are always fair." "Well," whispered the young lady, blushing, as she laid emphasis on the word. "I would not stay so long bargaining if you were not so dear."

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best o all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State where the temperature is regular, and no subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes, Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicines, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville. It is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there. The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and then the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than where there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1859, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Medicines, especially Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce billious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days. They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay in a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night-sweats and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its horrid effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhœa ensues, a dose of the Mandrake will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who wish a thorough examination with the Resparometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicines depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, put no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.

JACOB ROSENBERG, Sup't.
Dec. 14, 1869.

WHEREAS, by an act of the General Assembly of the State of Alabama approved the 10th day of October, 1869, it is provided as follows: to-wit: "It shall be the duty of the Probate Judge of each county in this State to designate a newspaper in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications, of any and every character required by law to be made in his County, shall be published; which paper so designated shall be the official organ in and for said county," and in obedience to the requirements of said act, I, as Judge of Probate for Calhoun County, Alabama, did heretofore designate the "St. Clair County Eagle," as the official organ in and for said County of Calhoun, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character, required by law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun should be published, said designation to remain until recalled or changed by me.—

And the "Jacksonville Republican" being a County paper, published in the Town of Jacksonville, Alabama, and in my opinion, clearly within the provisions of said act—I therefore recall and change my order designating the St. Clair County Eagle, as the official organ for said County of Calhoun, and designate the said Jacksonville Republican as the official organ hereafter, in which all legal advertisements, notices or publications of any and every character required by Law to be made in and for said County of Calhoun shall be published. This designation to remain so long as in my opinion, the Editor of said Jacksonville Republican conducts said paper so as to be within the provisions of said act.
