EPISODE AT THE BATTLE

OF LEESBURG, VA.

Delivered at the Meeting of the "Association of the Graduates of the U. S.

Military Academy," at West Point N. Y.

on the evening of June 11th, 1874. in the Cadet Mess Hall, by P. T. TURNLEY, of Tennessee, a Graduate of 1846.

I recount you a tale;

It is not very long.

And was it not a tale of a nearness of the heart?

In story or song,

For only the feeling might word it.

Twice the evening of battle;

All day the shots sped,

O'er the field which the foe was winning;

And yonder a hillock,

Ringed round with the dead,

Marked the spot of its fatal beginning.

A battery planted,

Refrained o'er with smoke,

Fronted down on the pitiful scene,

And sobbed from the dying

The dead stillness broke,

Where the boom of the cannon had been.

Its guns were all silent;

Not a man stood to tell,

The tale of the day that was lost;

But each suffered corpse

Told, they died, every man at his post.

One last gun stood loaded;

The fire that had called,

That a score of brave souls to their God,

Was quenched in the hand;

Whose strong sinews had pulled

For it sped the dire missile of blood.

And now from the necking sword,

Bleeding and pale,

The captain mused on his gun;

"Tis our last shot yet braves!"

"I shall hear them our tale,

From the field that they dearly have won."

But sharp from the thicket,

A horseman sprang forth,

Dismounted, and called the "surrender!"

"This land, then, aggressor,

Is the land of my birth,

And I am its faithful defender."

"Your sword, dying man,

Quick, down on your knee,

From the grace that you never would have Given;

A soldier strikes not

Upon a man who has died for his country.

They stood face to face,

And the gaze eye to eye,

Was a gaze of hate and defiance;

"Demand of the coward to yield!"

My reply,

And this trusty sword—my reliance.

"Each soldier that dies

On this green covered sod

Shall give nerve to my arm as I wield it;

And not till this spirit

Goes up to its God,

Shall living man say that I yield it.

"I fight for the right,

And my quarrel is just

Machine.

THE LAST TRY.

Over brown moors and wither'd leas
The angry winds were sweeping,
Over the gray northern sea
The cruel waves were leaping;
And you and I stood close together,
In the killing gleam of the wintry weather,
As the lone, gaunt branches overhead,
Shook their lingering leaflets gold and red,
While in every falling word we said Mingled the words for the days that were dead.

For by the sad sea, 'neath the storm-beat
Of the wind, we were heaving;
Our last try we were heaving.

I scarce could hear the words you sobbed, Amid your passionate weeping,
And the glow from my eager prayer was Robbed.

By the child around us creeping;
From the silent paths, where in summer
We had walked together.

Youth, joy, and music had met together,
From the cry of the sea-mews flitting past,
Over the wild white waves in the bitter blast,
From the breakers that crashed on the hollow sand.

From the sigh of the breeze o'er the dull, damp land,
From sea and shore rose "No more, no more,"
As our last try we were heaving.

There was not a pale bud left in the south,
And the dry leaves round us heaving,
The bitter harvest of reckless youth, Time's iron hand was reaping;

Our lips still said "Forever, forever,"
As the trembling fingers clung together,
But even then each soul heart knew What fate and circumstance meant to do.

And the mighty leas wind'd a line a-kent,
As we turned apart from that long farewell,
And to wind and rain and the moaning main Left the last try of our keeping.

—All The Year Round.

DR. B. W. WHIT. "ARTHUR BINGHAM, the reputed editor of the Montgomery Journal, state treasurer, and candidate on the negro ticket for re-election, swore before the BATES' impeachment committee that he had published in his paper libels upon Judge BATES, knowing them to be false, to get even with the Judge. This advocate of negro social equality and purveyor is daily impudently striving to teach decent white people good morals, and their duty to their God and country."

A Queer Story.

A California paper tells a queer story about a couple of pious ladies who were traveling on a train there recently. They had with them a basket filled with nice little Bibles, and with these they were going about doing good and making money. While looking for customers they ran across a gentle looking fellow, who offered to give the ladies a little game, just to while away time and keep them quiet. He threw the cards, and then asked them to pick out the Jack, which he had previously shown them. They did so, once, twice, three times. Then he threw them again, and one of the innocents cried:—"There it is, you can't fool me, if you did throw 'em quick." "No, madame, you are mistaken," he replied, and, drawing out of his pocket a ten and two twenty dollar pieces, he said: "I'll bet you $50 you don't know which is Jack."

"Oh, we never bet," said one of them. And then they stood and eyed these gold pieces and thought how little the possessor, apparently appreciated their worth. Watching for the favorable moment, the reckless young man said: "Well, I don't care, seeing it's you, I'll bet you this $50 against that basket of books—hallo, hang me, they're Bibles; but everything goes as it lays—you can't find the Jack." The bet was taken, but the ladies lost their wager, having failed to find the Jack. The winner marched through the train and distributed Bibles among the passengers. What became of the woman is not known to the passengers.

The Negro's Own Baby.

The Radical State Convention of Michigan has endorsed the Civil Rights Bill. Every Radical State Convention has thus far endorsed it. The Alabama Convention tried to "wire in and wire out," but they put the negro in the platform and the whole State now sees him. They left entirely too much of him sticking out. For instance: White is one of his heels; Sheets is another; Spencer is his back; Bingham is his neck and shoulders; McKinstry is his body; Adam Felder is one of legs, and Saffold is the other. We will call Lewis his eyes, because there is some white about him. Geo. Turner is his flat nose, and dear, good old granny Rice aspires to the dignity of his perfume! Rapier is the veritable negro himself. Yet with all this negro sticking out of it, they carry the thing before North Alabama a dunces and exclaim: Behold! how white it is! "White!" indeed! It is the negro's own baby, and who ever knew a negro to have a white baby? Montgomery Advertiser.

In all seriousness the people of Mont. om y would like to know what the negroes mean by their nightly drills in obscure places, about this city. Two hundred of them were drilling between 10 o'clock and daylight, in rear of the Capital just outside of the city limits, yesterday morning. They are all provided with guns, and seem to relish the fun amazingly. This we get from those whose business it is to watch over the city after night. Montgomery Advertiser.

Said Young America to his father:—"Be you a Britisher?" "Yes my son, I was born in England." "Well, you whipped you," retorted the youngster.

—John T. Henderson, Esq., was nominated by the Democratic Convention, at Talladega, for Judge of the tenth Judicial Circuit.

REGULATOR

The Favorite Home Remedy.
This invaluable Southern Remedy is warranted not to contain a single particle of Mercury or any injurious mineral substance.

It HAS NO EQUAL.

VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim
VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters
according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country, during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose
equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, and they will quickly remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Portify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Stomach, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Pupilation of the Heart, Induration of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better remedy than its merits than a lengthy dissertation.

Scorbutic, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Gout, Rheumatic Inflammations, Indurated Glands, Aggravated Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, &c. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, WALKER'S Vinegar Bitters have shown their great remedial powers in the most obstinate and incurable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Head, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in baldest and most laborious occupations, such as Farmers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a small quantity of VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Itch, Scald Head, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally drag out and carried off by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, burrowing in the system so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine can remove them, no authorities will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young girls, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Vinegar Bitters speedily do decide an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find impurities flowing through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is four, your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Address of the State Executive Committee of the Democratic and Conservative Party of Alabama.

The delay in publishing the address of the State Executive Committee of the Democratic and Conservative Party has been caused, we learn, by the fact that those of the members of the Committee who were not at Blount Springs

were consulted in reference to the concurrence in the address before it was published.

Blount Springs, Aug. 27, 1874.

To the People of Alabama:

We are about to commence a canvass of more vital importance to the welfare and prosperity of our beloved State than any which has occurred since the late war, and in this crisis of public affairs

we are called upon to give our rights to ourselves, to our families, to our neighbors, to our country, and to his God, to perform his whole duty. This duty is too plain to be a subject of doubt for one moment. The political government of Alabama was created by the people for their own protection, and for the benefit of the great questions of their posterity. This government is administered by officers, selected by the people, and these officers are but the agents and servants of the people.

In selecting these governmental agents, it is through the ballot-box that your power is declared, and your rights and liberties preserved. If you shrink from your duty, and fail to exercise your high privilege in this respect, you cannot justly complain of the evils of bad laws, or of bad government, resulting from your own indifference. We therefore call upon you, by all that you hold sacred and dear, to vote, in this election, and thus make your voice heard in the selection of these public servants and agents of the people. The platform of principles adopted by the State Convention of our party, we feel satisfied, will meet your approval. We do not have propose to discuss the merits of the great questions involved. Our candidates, and others whom you will desire to hear, will present these vital questions to you with more power, and more acceptably, than we could hope to do in a brief address of this character.

There are matters, however, to which we desire to call your serious attention.

These we will briefly enumerate. We earnestly urge you to thoroughly organize in every county and precinct, in this State, so that, on the election day, you can go to the polls, in a spirit of harmony, and with the feeling that you are all performing their duty, and that victory is certain. If you will do this, your rights and liberties will be secured, and your future will be bright and promising.

We earnestly urge you to carefully read the platform of our party, and to avoid all party spirit, and to be attempting to preserve your own rights. Let peace not only prevail, but let our people avoid all just cause of complaint. Turn out and vote with those who oppose us in this contest will only weaken the moral force of our cause, and will do us more harm than good. Let us avoid all personal animosities, and if these should be upon us, let us only act in that line of just self-defence which is recognized and provided for by the laws of the land. We could not manhood, to destroy the civilization of the past, and to overthrow the public education, and to establish, practically, the doctrine that the vile and ignorant shall rule the affairs of this State. Can the sham platform lately prepared by the Republican Convention,

that those of the members of the Committee who were not at Blount Springs

were consulted in reference to the con-

published.

Old Rossum, the Beau-The Story of a Popular Old Song.

From the Atlanta Herald.

Noting in the columns of the Sun-Enterprise, a few days ago, an article from Major Calhoun, in which allusion is made to Col. W. H. Sparks, of New Orleans, now in this city, as the author of this well known and popular old song, I called attention to it. The following letter is in reply to my inquiry. Col. Sparks is, perhaps, as well known to the South than any other man of the old regime of aristocracy and wealth, for which the great Southwest became so famous anterior to the war. He is the author of a highly interesting book entitled "Memories of Fifty Years."

The Colonel is now over seventy-five years of age; but still retains his health, constitution, vigor, and great moral strength to a remarkable degree. He numbered as his personal associates and companions of the long ago such personages as Daniel Webster, Calhoun, Gen. Jackson, John Bell, Sillid, and most of the statesmen of note who flourished in those times. In conversational powers the Colonel is unsurpassed, and his familiarity and acquaintance with all the prominent men and public incidents of the half century back made his society really charming. He, together with his excellent and talented lady, have been spending the summer at the Kimball House, and the two have been the centre of great attraction for the number of intelligent guests who daily throng its parlors. But I give you Col. Sparks' own words, together with the original "Rossum, the Beau."

ATLANTA, GA., Aug. 21, 1874.

My Dear Sir—I am obliged to you for the little paragraph from the Sun-Enterprise referring to me in the authorship of this song, once so popular throughout the country.

It is very true, I wrote the lines I send you, and they are the first that were ever sung to the air which became famous.

I will give you a brief history of the writing, and of the man who inspired them. When I first went to the West, in 1825, I was some time in selecting a domicile. Why it is not necessary for me to state, as the reason and cause for delay will form a theme for a chapter in the second volume of the "Memories of Fifty Years."

Finally I located in Mississippi and commenced the practice of law. It was in the midst of the noblest race of people I have ever known. Amongst these were two equally remarkable but very unlike. One was a schoolmaster who was quite old, and who had been teaching in that neighborhood over forty years. His name was James Rossum. He was peculiar in his habits. On Monday morning, neatly dressed and cleanly shaven, he went to his duties in the old school house, where two-thirds of his life had been spent, and assiduously devoted himself to the duties of his vocation until Friday evening. On the morning of Saturday he arrayed himself in his best, and devoted the day in visiting the ladies of the neighborhood. He was a welcome guest at every house. This habit had continued so long that he had acquired the sobriquet of "Rossum, the Beau." The other name was Cox, who was a rollicking good fellow, and the best of friends I ever knew. He was in song what Rossum was in oratory, and they were long companions. Both died young.

Cox was frequently at my office, and upon one occasion while he was there Rossum walked by the door and his age was apparent in his walk. Cox looked at him, and after a pause turned to me and remarked quite a feeling tone, "which he could assume at pleasure and his eloquence was indelible: 'Poor old Rossum! some of these sunny mornings he will be found dead, when he shall have a noble funeral, and all the ladies will honor it with being present. I know!'"

Soon after he left the office, and being in the humor I seized the ideas and wrote the following doggerel lines. Soon after Cox returned and I handed them to him. He got up, and walked and hummed different airs, until he fell upon the old Methodist hymn tune, in which they have ever since been sung.

I have always considered Cox more entitled to the authorship of the song than myself.

Hundreds of lines have been written to the air, by as many persons, and almost as many have claimed the authorship of the lines, but this is of no moment. I claim no merit for my lines, but everything for Cox's singing them. I have seen him draw tears from the eyes of the old and young, with the feeling he threw into the song:

Now, soon on some soft, sunny morning,
The first thing my neighbors shall know,
Their cars shall be met with the warning—Come bury old Rossum, the beau.

My friends thus so neatly shall dress me In linen as white as the snow—
And in my new coffin shall press me,
And whisper: Poor Rossum, the beau.

And when I'm to be buried, I reckon,
The ladies will all like to go;
Let them on at the foot of my coffin,
And follow old Rossum, the beau.

Then take you a dozen good fellows,
And let them all stagger and go;
And dig a deep hole in the meadow,
And in it toss Rossum, the beau.

Then shape out a couple of cornucopias,
Place one at the head and the toe;
And do not fail to scratch on it—Here lies old Rossum, the beau.

Then take you these dozen good fellows,
And stand them all round in a row,
And drink out a big-bellied bottle,
Farewell to old Rossum, the beau.

W. H. SPARKS.

The following communication fully explains itself: "Enquirer, Sept. 4.—To the Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Barbour county, Alabama: My convictions of right and duty force me to separate myself from the Republican party. I no longer desire to be the Republican candidate for Sheriff, and while I am still thankful to the party for the confidence reposed in me, I hereby tender to the committee, through you, this my resignation, both as candidate for Sheriff and as a member of the Executive Committee. Very respectfully,
A. J. LOCKE.

DEMOCRATS ought to know that "independent candidates" are humbugs. If they are selfish enough to jeopard the harmony of the party, they are also mean enough to make concessions to the Radicals—for in the latter lies their only hope of success.—Savannah News.

Grateful Thousands proclaim

Vinca Bitters the most wonderful and invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters

according to directions, and remain

long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral

poison or other means, and vital organs are not beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Inter-

rivers throughout the United States,

out the entire country during the

companied by extensive derange-

other abdominal organs, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary.

There is no cathartic for the purpose

equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINCA

BITTERS, as they will gently remove the dark-colored bile matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy

functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against dis-

VINCA BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fortified.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Jaundice, Nervous Disorders,

Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour

Pruritus of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Pain-ings of the Heart, Indigestion of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offspring of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better medicine than mercury, and a longer advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White

Spleen, Gout, Rheumatic Inflammations,

Impetigo, Inflammation of the Throat,
