SONGS OF THE SOUL.

Oh! the wonderful songs that never are sung
With words of an outward token;
But go singing themselves for aye in the soul
In a language that never is spoken.
Songs that are sweeter than poets e'er penned;
All their power and beauty excellent;
With a melody purer and tenderer far
Than the notes that their numbers are swelling.

Songs every true love sings to his love,
Born of his deep-hidden feeling;
Such as sing themselves low in the pure
Maiden's breast,
For fear of an outward revealing.
Songs that the mother-heart sings to the babe
In peace on her bosom reclining;
That give spirit voice to her hopes and her Tender beyond all defining.

Wild, thrilling songs, that awake every chord
When the soul is exultant with gladness;
That sigh through its chambers like voices of Night,
When they utter its burden and sadness;
That breathe through the spirit with soft Sighing notes,
Like winds that rustle through the leaves
When passion is stilled and peace reigns Within.

And the heart hushed and tranquil is lying,
Such songs are sung through all the wide World,
And never once known are the singers,
But their music is echoed from heart into Heart,
And its sweetness and power ever lingers;
And but for the singing of such voiceless
Songs,
In souls filled with hoping and longing,
Oh! dreary indeed would be the dark road
Earth's children are hurried through.

For many the poets whose numbers are formed
In the unwritten language of spirit,
While few are the ones who in words the lips
Frame
The power to express that which inheres;
And rare is the voice that is perfectly tuned
When words are the outward token,
But never a soul but can sweet music make
In the language that never is spoken.

At The Last Moment.

It was a fine old room, and fitted up
With all the luxury wealth could command.
Its two occupants, a lovely girl and an Elderly man, noble in form, but dark and Sinister in face, stood together under the Full blaze of the great antique lamp, swing-

"They were discussing a long-disputed question,"
Mr. Orrell, flaming with passion at the girl's last words, burst out vehemently:
"You are not bound to marry at my command, forsooth! Nevertheless, my independent miss, you are mine by a heavy indebtedness. But tell me what you are, and what? You are called Veronica Yach; but what do you know of yourself beyond that?
Answer me, if you can! Have I not been the making of you? Did I not take you from the kennel, and transform you into what you are? You are accomplished—whose money rendered you so? Mine, ungrateful girl! You are beautiful in your silks, jewels and laces—whose money makes you that? Mine, and mine only! I did all this? Because the son I idolize set his boyish heart upon your baby loveliness, and in riper years crowned you with honor by choosing you for his wife. Think, you then, I can be wheedled out of the reward
I claim? If so, think it no longer. If you have not already learned the truth, learn it now. My son's will is my law. Do you understand that I mean you shall with or without your consent, become his wife? If not, understand it now, and drive from your silly head that beggarly secretary I drove from my doors. I shall choose your husband, and not you, who would to-day be a beggar but for my generous protection.
Herbert loves you—therefore Herbert's you shall be! To-morrow he comes to claim his bride; be ready for your bridal!"

There was a sinister threat in the old man's eyes, as he concluded, that sent an involuntary shiver through the girl's slender frame.
But a determination equal to his own marked both words and tone as she replied, respectfully:
"It is true that I am indebted to you for all I possess of worldly good, and I am, God knows, truly and deeply thankful. My daily life stands witness to the sincerity of my words. You bade me call you father;
and I have striven to give you all a daughter's duty; but, as I have already declared, I will never become Herbert Or-rell's wife! Dote on him as you will, your handsome, gifted son is naught but a polished villain! I would rather die than link my fate with his. Cast me off—let me go out into the world, and battle with the poverty from which you have rescued me, or—"

"Enough!" thundered the old man; "I have made you mine, and mine you shall remain, and my will do! My son shall have the bride of his choice! Now go!"
And striding to the door, he hung it wide open, adding, in deep, threatening tones, as Veronica passed into the hall:
"Go! and remember that for the insubordinate there are means. Our new home here was chosen for its wildness and loneliness. Remember that—and likewise, that my son and I are masters here! Now go!"

A swift change passed over the girl's calm face as the door closed upon her, and it was with fleet foot and panting breath that she sped up the stairs and to her chamber.
"What can he mean? What will he do?" she gasped, shudderingly, as she dropped into a chair before the blazing fire.
"He is deep and unscrupulous, I know.
Heaven protect and help me!"

Her head sunk despondently on her hand and the silent minutes dropped into hours before she stirred.

At last she arose.
"I will do it," she whispered, "and this very night, or it will be too late. They all sleep by this time, and I have no minutes to waste," she hastily added, as the little mantle clock softly tolled twelve. "If I would escape, I must do so to-night."

Her few preparations were hastily made,
and she crept stealthily from the room.
She paused a moment to listen, but profound silence reigned over the house, and her muffled boots gave no sound as she cautiously groped her way down stairs.

At the bottom she stumbled over the mat, catching her breath sharply in her effort to preserve herself from a fall.
The noise was trifling, but, shivering with alarm, she paused a minute to listen.
The silence continued unbroken, and she again groped her way through the dense darkness.

Once she paused again, convinced that she heard a cat-like tread in the darkness behind her.
Then she went stealthily on, assured that it was only the product of her own excited imagination.

She directed her steps to the back door,
remembering that that fastened with a bolt, and consequently offered the possibility of a more quiet egress.

Her muffled hand had just started the bolt, when there was a sudden quick rush in the darkness, and before she could move a fierce hand fell upon her outstretched arm.

"So!" hissed Mr. Orrell's voice.
And the next instant, speechless with terror, she was caught in his strong arms, and borne back to her chamber.

White as death she stood before him, as he released her.
His deep-set eyes flashed angrily upon her beneath his gray eyebrows. But he said nothing—only took her by the shoulder and hurried her rudely to the window.

Throwing back the heavy silken hangings he opened the casement, and pointed below.
It was a brilliant moonlight night; and there, pacing the lawn with sentinel alertness, was one of the men-servants.

Mr. Orrell closed the window in the same expressive silence.
Then he turned to her.
"Four men have been detailed for that duty to-night," he said, significantly. "All the doors will be left unlocked; try it again if you like."

And with the words, he strode from the room.
How the night passed, Veronica never knew.
The marriage was to take place at eleven o'clock the next day.

Herbert could not reach there till ten, and between ten and eleven there would be ample time for his preparation.
A little before eleven Veronica was in her spotless bridal robes in the great drawing-room.

Mr. Orrell eyed her critically.
"You look well—very well," he said;
"quite worthy your handsome bridegroom.
But why he should be such a laggard, is a mystery," he concluded, a little uneasily.
And his pitiless eye left Veronica's beautiful but dead-like face, and turned toward a distant window.

Almost at the same moment there was a faint sound of distant wheels.
"At last!" he cried. "And he comes at a fine pace!"
Nearer and nearer the wheels came, until they stopped at the grand entrance.

There was a sound of hurrying feet and subdued voices; and leaving the white-faced bride, the impatient father hurried to the hall.
There he met a ghastly spectacle.
The dead body of his son, borne by the worthy clergyman (who had accompanied him) and several of the awed servants.

"A terrible accident!" faltered the clergyman, in answer to the anguished gaze of the bereaved father.
And without a word or gesture, the father fell prone before them.
When they raised him he was dead.
A year later, Veronica became the happy wife of the beggarly secretary.

Sharp Eyes.

A man has a sharper eye than a dog, or a fox, or than any of the wild creatures, but not so sharp an ear or nose. But in the birds he finds his match. How quickly the old turkey discovers the hawk, a mere speck against the sky, and how quickly the hawk discovers you if you happen to be secreted in the bushes, or behind the fence near which he alights. I find, I see almost without effort, nearly every bird within sight in the field or wood I pass through (a flit of the wing, a flit of the tail are enough, though the flickering leaves do all conspire to hide them), and that with like ease the birds see me, though unquestionably the chances are immensely in their favor. The eye sees what it has the means of seeing, truly. You must have the bird in your hand before you can find it in the bush. The eye must have purpose and aim. No one ever yet found the walking ferret who did not have the walking fern in his mind. Nevertheless, the habit of observation is the habit of clear and decisive gazing; not by a fine casual glance, but by a steady, deliberate aim of the eye are the rare and characteristic things discovered.

You must look intently and hold your eye firmly to the spot, to see more than do the rank and file of mankind. The sharpshooter picks out his man and knows him with fatal certainty from a stump, or a rock, or a cap, or a pole. The phrenologists do well to locate not only form, color, shape, etc., in the region of the eye, but also the faculty which they call individuality, which separates, discriminates, and sees in every object its essential character.

This is just as necessary to the naturalist as to the artist or the poet. The sharp eye notes specific points and differences—it seizes upon and preserves the individuality of the thing. Persons frequently describe to me some bird they have seen or heard and ask me to name it, but in most cases the bird might be any one of a dozen, or else it is totally unlike any bird found in this continent. They have either seen falsely or else vaguely. Not so the farm youth who wrote me one Winter day that he had seen a single pair of strange birds, which he describes as follows: "They were about the size of the 'chip pie,' the tops of their heads were red, and the breast of the male was of the same color, while that of the female was much lighter; their wings were slightly tinged with red, and I have described them so that you would know them, please write me their names."

There can be little doubt that the young observer had seen a pair of red-polls, a bird related to the goldfinch, and that occasionally comes down to us in the Winter from the far north. And her time, the same youth wrote that he had seen a strange bird, the color of a sparrow, that alighted on fences and buildings as well as upon the ground, and that walked. This last fact showed the youth's discriminating eye and settled the case. I knew it to be a species of hawk, and from the time, size, color, etc., the tit-lark. But how many persons would have observed that the bird walked instead of hopped.

cess was dressed in black, with a white rather short, and so far as the casual observer could determine, her jewelry was conspicuously absent. She wore a red shawl dark hat with a red band. This last fact ground. Far below, little black pigmy men—so they seem in the distance—are moving about, but not singly or at random, for closer observation shows that they are working in groups, each group upon a certain well-defined square patch of solid earth, at which it is picking and delving, or walking to and fro over it, carrying little buckets of loosened soil. In their midst sits or stands a white overcoat, or the master himself. Spread over the wide excavation of dirt, cold iron, pot or basin, whichever conveys the clearest idea, like a spider's web on a dewy morning, run innumerable little white threads, so they seem as they glisten in the sun. Follow one such thread to our feet, and it will be found to be a shining wire rope, worn white with constant use. And here on the edge or brim, called, as we know, the "street," we find a scene of life and labor even more animated than below. All around, but chiefly on two opposite sides, is erected a strong framework of timber called the "staging," estimated to have cost $250,000. It is built in three tiers, like a three-story house, and each tier is floored to afford standing room for laborers. Firmly set all along each tier of this staging are hundreds of wooden wheels, about four feet in diameter, with crank on each side, to be turned by four Kaffirs. The iron ropes run from every part of the circumfer-ence, but differ greatly in length, some extending vertically down the reef, some far out into the centre of the mine, and others to varying intermediate distances, but each to its own claim. Such a rope is stretched from the bearings of each wheel on the staging to its corresponding claim below, where it is made fast to a post sunk firmly in the ground. Thus, a wheel, a wire rope and a "claim," be it only a sixteenth, are inseparable, and equal in number. On these wire ropes the "blue stuff" is hauled in buckets by aid of the windlass, up out of the mine.

The lovers of lawn tennis have for this season made some new modifications of the laws of the game which will not fail to add to its interest. The revision of the old code has been made by direction of the famous English clubs, the Marylebone and All England, and their sanction will go far to secure a general adoption. Uniformity of practice, if it can be secured, is, of

THE ELECTION.

The law requires that the boxes be kept until Saturday at 12 o'clock, when the official count shall be made; hence we cannot give a return of the vote. No one kept an unofficial count of the full vote, and we cannot give that. The confusion here Tuesday was so great that it was impossible for us to gather data necessary to give even a safe guess as to who was elected for some of the offices. It may take the official count to determine whether Judge Woods or Mr. Henderson is elected Judge of Probate, with the chances in favor of Woods.

Also the official count to determine who will be the Circuit Clerk with the chances in favor of Ross. Unofficial data gives the election to Ledbetter for Assessor by a handsome majority.

It may take the official count to determine who is Sheriff, with chances in favor of Farmer.

Goodlett is elected Tax Collector by a very large majority. Skelton is elected County Treasurer by a handsome majority. Grant received between 800 and 900 majority over Sheid for Senate.

Box received a majority over Whitlock of between 600 and 700. The County Commissioners are in doubt, but the best calculation gives it now to McCormish, Love, Fowler and Dymun. The official count may change this.

The election at all points of the county was quiet and orderly. No man was denied the right of suffrage and every one voted as he pleased.

The result in this county shows, so far as the judicial and senatorial races can determine the question, that the people of Calhoun are tired of Independentism. It will be a bold man indeed who runs as an Independent candidate in Calhoun hereafter.

In view of the lesson this election teaches on this point we say to the young men of Calhoun, who have aspirations for political life, and who expect to go before the people for places of honor, cling fast to Democratic organization. Be true to your party under all circumstances and do not suffer personal spite, personal disappointment, prejudice, passion or anything on the earth or under the earth or the waters thereof to tear you from your allegiance to the organized Democracy. By and through organization we will always conquer. When we depart from it, we invite defeat.

The Radical party of the State was in evident collusion with the Independent party in this State. Let voters stick a pin down here, and remember these Independents next time.

As an evidence of the falling off from Independentism, we have only to instance Congressman Lowe's own county. Last election it gave 1300 Independent majority. This time it gives 800 for the nominees, or a change of 2100 in favor of organization.

The Radical Greenback Independent combination, has been literally annihilated in Alabama and the Democratic party is supreme. Selma Times.

The handwriting on the wall has appeared for Mr. Lowe of the 8th District. The district sat down on the Independent Greenback party this year in every county of the District. He will go up the spout if he runs in November.

If any gentleman is contemplating an Independent race for Congress in this District, he would do well to study first the vote between Whitlock and Box. 8,000 to 9,000 majority might possibly deter him from sacrificing himself.

Rumor has it that Judge Thornton has beaten the Independent candidate for Probate Judge in Talladega by a small majority.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects, and does not blister. Read proof below.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20, 1880. Dr. D. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: In reply to your letter, I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago, I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame, and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring bone was forming. I procured a bottle of 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

Stoughton, Mass., March 16th, 1880. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think that I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off, and two for the small one. I have used bottles, but the horse is entirely well, not as all said, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but it does for all what it has done for me, its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

Kelly's Island Erie Co. O. Mch. 23 1880. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., GENTS:—I have used your 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' on a bone spavin, and am pleased to report that it has taken the enlargement completely off. It took only one bottle to perform the cure. I am confident if it is properly used, it will do all you claim for it.

Yours truly,
C. M. LINCOLN.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—In the year 1875, I treated with Kendall's Spavin Cure, a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a man's egg and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's spavin Cure.

R. A. GAINS.

Pennsburg Falls Vt., Feb. 25th, 1879. Sworn and subscribed to before me this 25th day of Feb. A. D. 1879.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

On Human Flesh.

PATTEN'S MILLS, WASHINGTON CO. N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878.

P. J. KENDALL, M. D., DEAR SIR:—The particular case on which I used your Spavin Cure was a malignant ankle sprain of sixteen months' standing. I had tried many things, but in vain. Your Spavin Cure put the foot to the ground again, and for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excels anything we ever used.

Yours truly,
REV. M. P. BELL.

Pastor M. E. Church, Patten's Mills, N. Y.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild, and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for best as well as man.

Price, $1 per bottle or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont.

Sight Restored!

The undersigned having had remarkable success in treating numerous cases of sore eyes, catarrh, dimness of sight, and persons suffering from any inflammation of the eyes, impaired vision, etc., desires to make known to the public how such sufferers may avail themselves of his wonderful remedies.

The following certificates—obtained without solicitation—speak for themselves. Persons desiring treatment can be visited by me if preferred.

A. J. KERR, White Plains, Ala.

DAVISVILLE, ALA., Dec. 19th, 1879.

This is to certify that Dr. A. J. Kerr has been treating my eyes for one, and they are much better—think they will get entirely well. Cheerfully recommend his treatment to the public.

This is to certify that Lucinda McDowell's eye became affected by loss of sight four or five years ago, and remained so till three or four weeks since, when she went under the treatment of Mr. Andrew Kerr, and in six or eight days afterward she could see with that eye as well as ever.

I certify that this is a true statement with regard to my daughter.

Dec. 26th, 1877. JNO. W. McDOWELL.

STATE OF ALABAMA, ETOWAH COUNTY, Feb. 7th, 1880.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: This is to certify that my grand-daughter, Nancy Griffin, was afflicted with sore eyes for three years, to such an extent that she could scarcely see to go about. Six months ago Mr. A. J. Kerr came and took her under treatment, and to our astonishment, she could even see to thread the finest needle or do any kind of fine sewing. I hereby recommend Mr. Kerr's medicine to any person similarly afflicted.

Given under my hand and date as above mentioned.

So far as we can hear the election was not disturbed by a single riot or difficulty in Calhoun County.

The whole civilized globe does not hear a more hospitable and independent people than those who live in Calhoun County.

And Paul said unto Timothy, take a little wine for your stomach's sake.

Every train brings more drummers. Our merchants must give them some encouragement.

The Congressional Convention assembled in Gadsden next Tuesday, Aug. 10th.

A very large crowd was in town Tuesday, waiting for the election returns.

Not an intoxicated man was seen on our streets Monday last.

The young folks had a very pleasant affair at the hospitable mansion of Maj. Jno. M. Wyly last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Gen. Wm. H. Forney is visiting her daughter in Baltimore.

Many of our State exchanges spoke in complimentary terms of the manner in which Mr. Jno. M. Caldwell handled Weaver, the greenback candidate for President, when he spoke here.

Weaver has returned North and is abusing the Southern people in his speeches. He was never anything but a bitter Yankee Radical.

Miss Annie Lawche, of Atlanta, is visiting Jacksonville, the guest of Col. Peyton Rowan's family.

At the outset of this campaign we said through the Republican that this would be a bad year for Independents. It 'pears as if it be the fact.

Calhoun County casts a much larger vote at this election than ever before, and Parson Pickens and his crew got but little comfort here. This County is still true to the organized Democracy.

The elected candidates are wearing their honors with becoming modesty. The defeated candidates have submitted with charming grace. It takes a good man to bear defeat cheerfully.

MARRIED.—At the residence of Mr. Wm. Taylor on the 29th of July, by Rev. Wm. Taylor, Mr. D. C. Ross and Elizabeth P. Thomas—all of this county. May they live long and be happy.

The defeated candidates are bearing their disappointment bravely. It was impossible for all who offered to be elected for office, but some of the men were competent and good, whom we regret that all could not have been elected. We campaigned with them and know the majority of them to be honorable, light-hearted gentlemen, who will do to vote for if they can again.

S. D. McClellan, a large planter in this county and a most reliable and trustworthy man, and his son E. D. McClellan, from this county this week to North Carolina to work up the sale of Arnold's Patent Grave Cover. It is a good thing, proved by years of test in every cemetery, and agents who have taken it to find a most profitable business.

We are pleased to see the handsome face of Mr. Pink Wood, of Tallapoosa, again on our streets.

Last week an article appeared in the editorial column of the Republican, bearing down harshly on Independent Democrats—too harshly we thought. We want it understood it was not written by the editor of this paper. He was in Calhoun County making speeches and did not know of it until he read it in the paper.

The following is the unofficial returns from the election in Calhoun County. They may be relied on as accurate. The official count can only make a few changes one way or another. The regularly nominated ticket is elected by a small majority.

The elegant title page bears life like photographs of most President and vice President most happily framed with appropriate and patriotic utterances. Its popularity is already assured through its adoption by hundreds of Hancock Clubs and under its inspiring strains resounding from the organs of Bands, Pianos and Organs throughout the Union the Soldier Statesman will "Forward March" into the White House. Sarah Adelia Burton.

This sweet child, the daughter of Rev. W. H. Burton, of Pleasant Gap, died at the residence of her brother at Weavers, Ala., July 19, 1880, aged eight years, wanting ten days.

The family tender their grateful acknowledgements to the many kind friends at Weavers and Pleasant Gap for their kindness and sympathy.

'Delia was a singularly bright and intelligent child. She was a faithful Sunday School scholar. The 20th was a day of re-union of a number of Sabbath Schools near Pleasant Gap. On that morning her school changed their bright badges for those of mourning. At the grave, Rev. W. E. Mountain delivered one of the most appropriate and affecting addresses I ever heard.

In sadness, the school marched to the celebration or place of re-union, where the sympathy of five or six schools was extended, and resolutions of condolence passed by the assembly.

"Dearest sister, thou hast left us, Here thy loss we deeply feel, But 'tis God that hath bereft us, He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee, When the day of life is fled, Then in heaven with joy to greet thee, Where no farewell tear is shed."

Parson Pickens and his pitiful party have played out. There is no place for a southern white man outside of the Democratic party; and it is a good party for a southern black man to belong to also. The interest of the whole people of this country, white and black, rich and poor are interlocked, and what concerns one concerns all. Demagogues may teach differently, but then you know, demagogues always lie.

When we period from the regular nominated candidates at Sugar Hill in Calhoun County, after a two weeks campaign with them, we could not keep back a sneaking tear or two; which, despite all precaution, took possession of one corner of each eye and told the boys how sorry we were to part from them.

A two weeks association with them taught us their true worth and gave them a place in one corner of our heart from which they cannot be evicted. Although we politically opposed them, we learned to esteem also most of the Independent candidates on the county ticket and if it ever comes in our way to do them a personal service, they are hereby authorized to draft on us. Take them all in all the people of Calhoun and Calhoun are the best people in the world, no matter what their political opinions on local questions.

Constitutions.—No man has a moral right to vote for relative or friend, holds principles and advances policies at war with the rights and interests of his country or of the State or community in which he lives.

No Democrat has been found, either in the North or in the South, in the East or in the West, who refuses to vote for Hancock.

The New York South, which ably and zealously advocated the nomination of Gen. Grant by the Chicago Convention, is out for Gen. Hancock.

A contemporary says that Potter Palmer owner of the famous Palmer House, and brother-in-law to Fred Grant, abandons Garfield and swings out for Hancock.

Colonel McClure, of the Philadelphia Times, uses a happy phrase when he says that Hancock "will run like fire in an August clearing," and when he puts down Pennsylvania as quite as certain for Hancock as Ohio is for Garfield he doubtless knows what he is talking about.

The last news reports a series of earthquakes at Manila, which destroyed a large number of edifices, the last being the Convent of Guadalupe, a building three centuries old. There was also considerable loss of life.

The effects of this convulsion, we suppose, were manifested in the shocks recently at Memphis; and on the 20th inst. in various parts of New Hampshire. At Manchester, in that state dishes and pictures in many houses were shaken from their places. The buildings were also perceptibly moved by it.

THE ELECTION.

The election just passed demonstrates the fact that Alabama will go for Hancock and English in November, and further that Independentism is dead in the State of Alabama. Thanks be to that Providence which overlooks and rules the destiny of nations! It is a fact no longer capable of concealment that there was a co-alition of the Independents and Radicals to carry Alabama. It is true that the rank and file of the Independents did not know of it. But it is no less a fact that their leaders would have sold them out to the Radicals, if they had possessed intelligence to have perfected their plans. The movement had no head to direct it. If it had been intelligently managed it might have been very formidable. It might at least have captured the Legislature and elected another than a Democrat to U. S. Senate.

In some few counties the unholy alliance did prevail and in every instance the Democracy was defeated. Let us take counsel by past events, and in future cleave to the organized Democracy.

When the party in Convention, says to do a thing, let us like good soldiers and party men do it.

A correspondent of the Montgomery Advertiser has the following concerning Gen. J. B. Weaver's speech at Jacksonville:

At the conclusion of his remarks young John M. Caldwell was loudly called for, who, with characteristic courtesy and becoming deference for the rights of Gen. Weaver, stepped to the front to excuse himself. The call became more imperative, when, with the permission of Gen. Weaver, Mr. Caldwell yielded to the solicitation. With a resource that would have done honor to more experienced debaters, he proved himself equal to the exigency of the occasion. He discussed the propositions submitted by Gen. Weaver, with a method that almost seemed studied and so conclusive and convincing was his exposition of the danger in the doctrine advocated by Gen. Weaver, and the sophistry of the arguments by which he endeavored to maintain it, that all were convinced that Gen. Weaver was only a recruiting officer for the Radical party in disguise.

Mr. Caldwell is a young man of extraordinary ability; and for general information in political matters, and readiness in debate, has few superiors.—Merion Mail.

The Independent movement in Cleburne came within 25 votes of defeating the Democratic nominee for Probate Judge. Judge Hunnicutt, a former Republican and a popular citizen, run against Burton, the nominee. The Senatorial nominee beat the Independent candidate for Senate 240 votes and yet the nominee ran with his ticket. It was not because they liked the nominee more, but because they liked the Independent less that produced this result. Judge Whitlock beat Mr. Box.

The Rome Tribune publishes some hard facts of the treatment of German emigrants by Col. Glidden of the Alabama Iron Works, which, if true, are very damaging to Col. Glidden and calculated to retard immigration to the south. We have been given the full exposition, but will not publish this week for this reason that we do not believe that a man ought to be judged on a one-sided statement of facts. The Germans who profess to have been treated brutally by Glidden are at Germania in this county; we would suggest to them that they have their remedy at law if Glidden failed to carry out his contract. If he treated them as they say he did, he is certainly to be reprehended. If he did not he is an injured man. It is now in order for Col. Glidden to rise and explain how he treats the laboring men under his control and within his power.

It has been said here that Mr. Caldwell was too severe on Gen. Weaver, but subsequent developments prove that he treated the subject rightly. Gen. Weaver is evidently in the pay of the Radical party—is himself an intensely bitter Radical—and has been misleading the people of the South since his return North by the testimony of the Chicago Tribune and other opposition papers. One could look at Gen. Weaver and see at a glance that he was a typical yankee and hereditary enemy of the South. We are glad John Glendon him up.

THE CONVENTION

The Convention of this Congressional District, which met in Gadsden the 10th inst. paid Gen. Forney the high compliment of a gain nominating him by acclamation, no opposition to him being developed in the Convention.

Gen. Forney has made a most excellent Representative in Congress, and the fact that he has had no opposition for the nomination, twice consecutively, attests his popularity with his constituency.

Since the State election, which developed the remarkable weakness of the Independent movement, it is not likely that he will have opposition in his race before the people.

Among all the public men of Alabama, Gen. Forney has few peers, and it would be a bad day for this District when he should be exchanged for an Independent, should one run and the people be foolish enough to elect him.

STATE OF ALABAMA.

Calhoun County.

In Probate Court for said Calhoun County, Special term Aug. 9th, 1880. This day came M. J. Woodley administrator of the Estate of Wm. G. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects, and does not blister. Read proof below.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20, 1880.
Dr. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: In reply to your letter, I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago, I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring bone was forming. I procured a bottle of 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bone be found.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

Stoughton, Mass., March 16th, 1880.
Dr. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off, and two for the small one. I have used two bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunion to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but I do for all what it has done for me, its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

Kelley's Island Erie Co. O. Feb. 28 1880.
Dr. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I have used your 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' on a bone spavin, and am pleased to report that it has taken the enlargement completely off. It took only one bottle to perform the cure. I am confident if it is properly used, it will do all you claim for it.

Yours truly,
C. M. LINCOLN.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—In the year 1875, I treated with Kendall's Spavin Cure, a horse spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's spavin Cure.

R. A. GAINS,

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

On Human Flesh

PATTON'S MILLS, WASHINGTON CO. N. Y. 25th Feb. 1879.
B. J. KENDALL, M. D. DEAR SIR:—The particular case on which I used your Spavin Cure was a malignant ankle spavin of sixteen months' standing. I had tried many things, but in vain. Your Spavin Cure put the foot to the ground again, and for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excels anything we ever used.

Yours truly,
REV. M. P. BELL,
Pastor M. E. Church, Patton's Mills, N. Y.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness, and all enlargements of the joints or humors, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild, and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for best as well as man. Price, 81 per bottle or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. J. For Congress, Seventh District,
W. H. FORNEY.

GEN. FORNEY.

We place at our masthead this week the name of the office of the Congressional District Convention, and shall advocate his election over any Independent candidate who may be foolish enough to oppose him, both on party grounds and upon his eminent fitness for the place.

Gen. Forney for cool judgment, extended information, culture, and statesmanship is the peer of any man in Alabama. His experience in Congress has sharpened these natural and acquired gifts and he can be of more service to the people of this District than any man who may offer against him.

In his extended Congressional career he has not made a single important mistake, and to state this is to pronounce the highest encomium upon him.

The people of the District know and appreciate his worth, and have twice manifested that appreciation by endorsement for re-election, in two consecutive conventions, by acclamation.

Both in war and peace he has shown a devotion to the interests of the people that has brought its reward in the shape of the highest honors his constituency could confer upon him.

As we have said, we do not believe that, in the light of the recent election, a man in the District can be found so foolish as to oppose him. Should there be, however, we can assure him in advance, he will but dig his own political grave in the act.

We are no man for adulating successful men, but where we find true worth and rich deserving we are both willing to acknowledge and print the fact.

Gen. Forney will, if he lives, assuredly represent the people of this District in the next Congress, and if his record there is as fair and consistent as it has been in the past, the State holds for him in her hands yet higher honors than any undetermined time in the future.

Some days ago Marshall Hunter of Anniston learned from one of the contractors on the factory building that some negroes of the place were in the habit of meeting in one of the company buildings and gambling. A raid on this place broke them up. Later the officer learned that the negroes were at a house farther out engaged in the same unlawful business.

He summoned a gentleman named Gardner and proceeded to the place. As they approached the door of the cabins, the negro gamblers discovered them and made a break. Mr. Hunter entered and found two still in the building. He ordered these to surrender, when one of them drew a pistol on him. He drew back to club him, when the other knocked Mr. Hunter down. As he recovered his feet the negro with the pistol shot him in the shoulder, inflicting a very painful but not necessarily fatal wound. Mr. Gardner who had been looking after the horses heard the noise of the fight and at this stage approached with drawn pistol. He at once fired on the negro who had shot Mr. Hunter, inflicting a probably fatal wound. Meantime the negro who had knocked Mr. Hunter down made his escape, but through the efforts of Mr. Green Skelton and others was captured. He was started to jail at this place after preliminary trial, but made his escape from his guard and is still at large.

None of the other negroes some five or six in number have at this writing been captured.

Mr. Hunter is a very courageous man, and this probably led to that lack of caution which may have ended in his death. In future expeditions of this kind he will likely have arms in his hand and be ready for any who may assault him for his endeavor to enforce law.

On the assembling of the new Commissioners Court Aug. 9th 1880, I. L. Swan County Treasurer, among his last official acts, recommended the reduction of the county tax from 35 cts. to 30 cts. on the $100 dollars worth of property, and the Court made the reduction. This saves another thousand dollars to the tax payers of the county.

Wallace Woodward, our brilliant young townsman, has made a reputation in the State canvass of Texas and has attracted the attention of the press. He espoused the cause of the present Governor, who had bitter opposition, and upon the recommendation of that gentleman, was complimented with an invitation to call upon him. Old Calhoun need never be ashamed of her boys, no matter in what clime or under what sun they move. So far they have shown their ability to cope with all comers wherever they may be or from wherever they may hail. An instance in point is the case of Munchausen Weaver, who came to this State heralded as a member of Congress who had made a National reputation and who had received the sanction of two or three millions of men for the Presidency. Gen. Morgan passed to another appointment in this county and left him to the mercy of the youngest member of the Jacksonville bar. Result: Weaver went off with his feathers drooping, and at other points said he had been more severely handled at Jacksonville than at any other point in the State. We have hitherto stated that John M. Caldwell was the young man who sent this falsification of the South (as subsequent developments have proven), this Radical wolf in Greenback clothing, away from this county, bearing with him the consciousness that the intent and purpose of this mission had been divined here.

These are only two instances of what the young men of Calhoun are capable of, [and we have many others in mind's eye as we write.] We give them as encouragement to the youth of Calhoun. She has been for thirty years and still is sending out and nurturing her eminent men. It may be your turn in time, ambitious young reader. It will be your turn certainly if you but studiously cultivate your God-given faculties of mind, and preserve a pure moral character.

But stop! We started out to make a mere local mention, and have written two pages to point a moral.

The Montgomery Advertiser of the 17th incidentally announces that the returns now in, almost complete, show the combined vote of the State for Cobb and Fickens the Democratic and Greenback candidates for Governor, to be about one hundred and seventy thousand, with Cobb upwards of ninety thousand ahead. The vote of the State was larger in this election than in the last Presidential election by 1,768.

Thursday a negro by the name of Lee Vinyard, from near Anniston, was brought to town by two men and lodged in jail.

He is charged with being found in the sleeping room of a white couple, J. B. Costney and wife, attempting to take improper liberties with the lady while she slept.

The husband on being awakened by his wife, grasped the fellow, but he tore loose and ran, leaving most of his shirt behind him. He was overtaken and captured, and recognized by his torn garment. This is about as bold an attempt at outrage as we have read of.

SUICIDE.
We are reliably informed that Rev. J. A. Collins committed suicide at his home in St. Clair county, some fifteen miles from here, last Sunday morning.

He had been in very bad health and low spirits for a long time, and it is supposed that these facts, together with other depressing circumstances so impaired his mind as to drive him to this desperate deed. Mr. Collins was upwards of seventy years old, and for many years he was an active, popular and successful minister in the Baptist Church. His sermons were among the ablest we ever heard delivered from the pulpit. All over Alabama, and in many other sections of the country are friends and acquaintances who will be pained and shocked to learn of this sad termination of so useful a life.

Talladega Mt. Home.
We want a dollar. Gen. J. B. Weaver, the Greenback candidate for President, and pamphlet publisher, has issued a circular in which he calls upon his deluded followers for a contribution of a dollar each to his campaign fund. We trust that our old friends Gen. Rueland Davis, and Gen. A. M. West, will hand in their dollars without delay, as the absence of two dollars from the Greenback party of Mississippi might create a financial panic in the party.

Vicksburg Commercial.
Will Mr. S. Griffin please furnish us the name of the lady for whom he brought us 50 cts. for campaign paper. Her address was not written down at the time and the young gentleman who received the money has forgotten it.

Here is a little incident suggestive of General Hancock's great popularity: At the reception to Garfield in New York on last Friday night, General Anson I. McCook, a war veteran of the Garfield school, attempted to criticize General Hancock, whereupon he was interrupted by a volley of cheers for Hancock. There was thereupon a shower of hisses from the nearest speaker but it was at once silenced by another ringing cheer for General Hancock.

Some of the interior grangers are passing resolutions advising the repeal of the crop lien law. The workings of that law it is said has disappointed the expectations of those for whose benefit it was made. The Montgomery Advertiser has no doubt that it ought to be repealed as soon as possible.

OBITUARY.

SEYMOUR WEST, the son of E. P. and Eva West, was born Aug. 16th, 1868, departed this life Jan. 22nd, 1880, aged 11 years 5 months and 7 days.

He was an obedient, dutiful and dearly beloved son of his parents, brothers and sisters, and by all the family relatives. He was a youth of extraordinary habits of industry, resoluteness and energy. In school he was very studious, submissive to all the regulations, quiet in his manners, sportful in hours of recreation, kind to his classmates affectionate towards his teacher and all his schoolmates. There was scarcely ever a youth that displayed more shining evidence for a fair future than he. But alas! while this was once the case with him and while it was promising to view his condition and hopes of a bright future in this mode of existence, he was instantly called away by his "Author and Finisher" to that Celestial abode. The home of the ever blessed—where doubtless to-day he constitutes one of the Angelic hosts having escaped a rugged world of sin and misery, there waiting to meet with those loving, yet mourning parents, brothers, sisters, relatives and friends.

There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God; for he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his works as God did from his.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died in Birmingham, on the morning of July 25th, Mr. JAMES B. HEDSON, formerly of Jacksonville, Ala. His funeral took place from the Episcopal church, on the evening of July 26th; Rev. J. B. Gray officiating.

The subject of this memoir was for some time previous to his death a faithful and efficient employee of the Ala. Great Southern Railroad, and as Mr. Hedson's assistant in the Birmingham agency, became recognized as a true gentleman, affable and courteous in his dealings, and esteemed by all for his many noble and endearing qualities.

To his associates in business he especially commended himself by his strict business integrity and moral worth. As a husband he was ever kind and affectionate, and true devoted to principles of honor he blest within himself the attributes of a just and good citizen.

In his young manhood he passed away, and when death came to sever the golden cord of his beautiful life, many aching hearts were left to beat in fond memory of the departed one.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

The most successful remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects, and does not blister. Read proof below.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20, 1880.
Dr. D. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: In reply to your letter, I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago, I procured a bottle of your 'Spavin Cure', and with it cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame, and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse; when I discovered that a ring bone was forming, I procured a bottle of 'Kendall's Spavin Cure', and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

Stoughton, Mass., March 16th, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think that I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure', one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off, and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but it does for all what it has done for me, its sale will be very great.

Respectfully yours,
CHAS. E. PARKER.

Dr. B. J. KENDALL & Co., GENTS:—I have used your 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' on a bone spavin, and am pleased to report that it has taken the enlargement completely off. It took only one bottle to perform the cure. I am confident if it is properly used, it will do all you claim for it.

Yours truly,
C. M. LINCOLN.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—In the year 1875, I treated with Kendall's Spavin Cure a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's eye and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's spavin Cure.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

On Human Flesh

PATTEN'S MILLS, WASHINGTON CO. N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878.

B. J. KENDALL, M. D.; DEAR SIR:—The particular case on which I used your Spavin Cure was a malignant ankle sprain of sixteen months' standing. I had tried nearly thirty things, but in vain. Your Spavin Cure put the foot to the ground again, and for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excels anything we ever used.

Yours truly,
REV. M. P. BELL,
Pastor M. E. Church, Patten's Mills, N. Y.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all other ailments of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild, and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success for its knowledge, for its use as well as its price, $1 per bottle or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to you at cost by special order of price by the proprietors.

CITY NEWS.

The past week has been very dull in commercial circles.

Major John Wyly and his accomplished daughter, Miss Annie, left Friday for New York to be gone some time, we wish them a pleasant trip.

Misses Minnie Bellamy and Annie Larsh who have been spending a part of the summer in our city, left on Friday, for home. More than one young man's heart went pit-a-pat as they saw the iron horse carry them away, hoping they will come again.

Jackie, a colored hood and ladder Co. turned out one day last week for a parade, and did themselves credit, by the manner in which they went through the maneuvers, considering the disadvantages under which they labor. This is one enterprise which our citizens ought to encourage.

A poor dog with a tin can attached to his tail, made night hideous last Wednesday night, by taking a tour around the square. Why will young men do these things?

Messrs Will Dean of this place, and Ben Wyly of Aniston, went on the excursion to Norfolk, we predict for them a good time.

There was some talk of a Harems flag to float over the court house, is the idea given up.

The Literary Society met at Major Brown's on last Thursday. Capt. John Crook presiding over his usual dignified manner.

Messrs. Joe Privett and Will Hammond are spending several days in Tallahassee.

Mrs. Judge Standifer and her accomplished daughter, Miss Ada, of Gadsden, are spending some time with the family of Mr. W. W. Stevenson.

We are indebted to Mr. Pilgrim for one of those excellent, light cakes, such only as he can turn out. Besides a bakery, he keeps an excellent stock of confectioneries and other things which he sells very cheap. He deserves to succeed.

The Dr. Tanner, excitement has about played out. The next thing we suppose will be, that he will with the life of Dr. Tanner and his forty days fast.

Like up, ye valiant little thing, And grow as big as you can grow! This country wants to hear you sing Haddock-a-doodle-do!

Now slant your hackles, clear your throat, And split your head in two! Ring out your shrillest, sharpest note Haddock-a-doodle-do!

PERSONAL.

We had the pleasure of meeting Monday in this place Mr. Rush Taylor, a lawyer of Lafayette, Chambers county, who once lived in this county. He is a candidate for Solicitor of his circuit, with most flattering prospects of election.

Thursday we met Mr. John Enochs of the Hayneville, Lowndes county bar. He is a relation of Judge Joe Walker, once of this place and afterwards Chief Justice of Alabama. He very much resembles his distinguished relative. Mr. Enoch has many friends here who are always glad to meet him.

New Plan for Small Remittances.
The satisfaction with which the withdrawal of fractional currency in paper was greeted, a few years ago, was measurably tempered by regrets for the loss of a convenient means for remitting small sums. For such purpose coin is not at all suitable, and postal-cards are at once inconvenient and relatively very costly for small amounts. Postage stamps of the larger denominations might answer the purpose imperfectly, if they were exchangeable for stamps of smaller value, as it is this method of remitting usually subjects the receiver to inconvenience. If not actual loss, since few people can make use of the larger stamps in any considerable quantity. Several more or less clever devices for overcoming the difficulty have been suggested by correspondents of different papers, but none seem to have received the approbation of the postal authorities. Possibly something more may come from the plan proposed by Mr. Chetwynd, receiver and accountant general to the British post-office. It appears from a late report of the postal department that a large part of the 17,000,000 money orders issued in the year ending March, 1879, were issued for sums for which commission was less than three pence; and on all such orders there was an absolute loss to the department, thus compelling a readjustment of the rates. With the withdrawal of the lower rates, the money order ceased to be economical to remitters of small sums, and some other cheap and convenient remitting service was urgently called for. Accordingly, Mr. Chetwynd, who for more than forty years has taken a prominent part in the improvement of the postal service, and is particularly known as the author and joint organizer of the system of government savings banks so successful in England, has suggested a system of post-office notes. As described by the author of the system, the new note is designed to combine the simplicity of a postage stamp as the subject of an account, with the advantages of a small bank post-bill, a circular note, and a check issued by what may be called a government bank and payable at any one of the five thousand Government banks throughout the United Kingdom to the order of any person named by the purchaser of the note in writing on the back of it. To begin with, it is proposed to issue four classes of these notes—namely, for 2s., 5s., 10s., and 20s.—at 1d. commission for the former two, and 2d. the latter two amounts, and it is the intention of the post-office to issue them in books for use as required, as well as singly. These notes will differ in character from our abandoned postal or fractional currency in several particulars. They will not be legal tender, and will be limited in their period of currency. Besides, though in the first instance an open note payable to the bearer on demand, a note may be crossed at once, giving it the security of a check similarly dealt with, or it may be localized in the same manner as the money order, by the simple insertion of a particular post-office, at which alone it will then be payable; while the mention of the payee's name adds further security to the note. But, whether open or otherwise, the postal note will require to be indorsed by the bearer before it will be cashed, so that any fraudulent attempt to get payment of it will thus involve forgery, and be subject to heavy penalties. A bill to introduce this system was brought before Parliament just before the recent dissolution; and the scheme will doubtless be brought up again at an early date.

Our Diet.
It is a well established fact that in every effort we make, however slight, whether it be muscular, respiratory, or mental, there is a corresponding loss of tissue. Now this waste, as it passes out of the body by the various excretions, is found to contain certain constituents, as nitrogen, carbon, various salts, &c., which are exactly similar to those which enter into the composition of the blood and tissues of the body; and therefore it follows, that in order to repair the waste which is continually going on, these constituents must enter into the food taken. Some articles are rich in nitrogen, as for example, meat and peas; some are rich in carbon, as sugar, &c.; while others contain both these elements in various proportions, and are called mixed, of which the best examples are milk, rice, potatoes, and various meats, as oat meal, wheat meal, barley meal, &c. Nitrogenous food builds up and repairs tissue, as flesh, muscle, &c., while carbonaceous food, by a process of combustion, serves to assist respiration, and is called the respiratory food. Certain salts are also necessary, to form and sustain the solid framework and nerve and tissue, and these are found in common salt and various vegetables. Diet, therefore, to be wholesome and nourishing, must contain these three elements as well as some fat and water. But there are some other points about diet as well as its chemical composition which require some notice. First, it should be regular and not hurried; second, it should be sufficient in quantity; third, it should be adapted to age. Regularity of diet is most important, as nothing contributes so much to produce indigestion as irregular meals, and too much haste in taking them. For an adult, three meals a day are sufficient and the hours should be so arranged as to have as far as possible an equal interval between each meal. Children require food more frequently. With regard to quantity, much depends on the nature of the work done; the greater the work the greater quantity of food required to repair it. The quality of the food must always be good, and be of a mixed character, to fulfil the conditions already mentioned. Children require a different diet to adults. In infancy milk contains all that is necessary for its nurture; as they grow older, other matters have to be added, to give it a mixed character. Finally, a healthy diet should be free from excess of any kind, and should consist of a class of food only, to the exclusion of others.

FARM AND GARDEN.

AN AGRICULTURAL CREED.—According to the Canada Farmer, the agriculturists of Canada met in convention not long ago, and adopted for themselves the following creed: "We believe in small farms and thorough cultivation; we believe that the soil lives to eat, as well as the owner, and ought, therefore, to be well manured; we believe in going to the bottom of things, and not merely scratching the surface of it, all the better if it be a subsoil plow; we believe in large crops which the land better than they found it, making both the farm and the farmer rich at once; we believe that every farm should own a good farmer; we believe in the fertilizer of any soil is a spirit of industry, enterprise and intelligence; without these, lime, gypsum, and guano would be of little use; we believe in good fences, good farm-houses, good orchards, and good children enough to gather the fruit; we believe in a clean kitchen, a neat house in it, a clean cupboard, a clean dairy, and a clear conscience; we believe that to ask a man's advice is not stooping, but of much benefit; we believe that to keep a place for everything, and everything in its place, saves many a day, and prevents a great deal of trouble; we believe in producing the best quality of goods and keeping them in order; we believe that kindness to stock, like good shelter, is saving of fodder; we believe that it is a good thing to keep an eye on experiments, and note all, good and bad; we believe that it is a good thing to sell grain when it is ready; we believe in producing the best butter and cheese, and marketing it when it is ready." All this may certainly be commended as "sound doctrine."

BEE-HIVES IN PARIS.—The establishment of large apiaries in Paris in the most crowded quarters, such as St. Germain and St. Germain, is a fact to which Dr. Delpech has recently called attention in an interesting report. This proves to be a very lucrative industry at the expense of the sugar-refiners, and a source of risk to the population. Dr. Delpech found in one establishment over a hundred bee-hives at the beginning of winter, and the number is more than doubled at the proper season. As a live in good working order contains forty thousand workers, one may judge of the amount of sugar carried away. The proprietor lives in the country, and only comes to receive the yield of honey. The bees' stings suffice to make them respected. The sugar-refiners furnish the raw material, and the bees convert it into honey without expense. The manager of the sugar-refiners says that in spring the court-yard swarms with bees, and that they are collected by the hectoliter in sacks and considered sugar recovered from them. The windows of the refinery are coated with oil, and a man specially employed for the service. Notwithstanding all precautions, the bees obtain entrance into the room where they are employed almost in a naked state, at a high temperature. Workmen are often stung in grasping the molds. This happens so often that a man is engaged to go round with a bottle of ammonia to aid the four hundred workmen. The bees show remarkable instinct in presence of molasses and pure sugar, they enter the latter, and when the molasses from cane and that from beet are both treated, they neglect the former and eat with avidity the latter.

FARM NOTES.—Meal will make more milk than bran. The change in the butter product is remarkable; in changing from meal to bran, there was a loss of 17.7 per cent. in the butter producing capacity of milk; in changing from bran to meal, there was a gain in the butter-producing capacity of milk of 21.3 per cent. There is a substantial agreement in the two changes. Every farmer who has not, should try a patch of sugar beets or mangels this summer, for his cows to eat next winter. He will know then what to do on the next year. It is a good and profitable way to raise the corn. Pure corn meal has a perceptible nutriment in it, but it seems to have a mechanical effect, so that its value is about equal to bran mixed with corn meal. The quantity of feed improves the quality of the milk, but only by slow and persistent efforts can this be done with the given cow, and it may be considered useless to try and make a Jersey out of a Holstein by feeding straw alone. An advance of one cent a pound in the price of butter would add nearly $10,000 to the total value of the product of the country for one year. Orchards on low or that ground in a heavy soil should be under-drained if the trees are expected to be healthy and prolific. All seeds grow best from having the earth pressed over them. If the soil is damp it should be more lightly pressed than it dry.

REVIVAL IN THE SHEEP INTEREST.—There are at present more calls for the names of raisers of pure-blooded sheep, than for leather. A short time ago a gentleman wished to know where he could purchase several hundred of the best Merinos, mostly rams, for shipment to the Southwest. Not only is there a revival as regards the number of sheep to be raised, but a strong tendency to grow only those of the best blood. The "boom" in sheep-raising, as the slang of the day is, is a healthy one, and it is to be encouraged, moreover it seems likely to last for an indefinite period of time.

WHEN COWS ARE BECOMING TOO FAT. stop the meal and increase the bran. A very fat milk cow is a losing place of property. Ask any grazer (he would be willing to buy a lot of old dairy cows to fatten for market. It is only where there is more pasture than the regular herd can clean, that such cows should be accepted as a present.

ALL KINDS OF HERBS, such as mint, balm, lavender, sage, etc., that are gathered for drying or distillation or other purposes, should be cut when just beginning to come into flower, and laid in the shade to dry gradually, which will render them much better for any purposes than if they were dried in the sun.

AN IMPORTANT SCOTCH INTEREST has loomed up lately, the production of sulphur, paraffine and ammonia from shale, the latter being found in immense quantities in various localities, the most famous being remarkable for its richness in oil. It is found traversing the upper Devonian shale, but it is met with more extensively in connection with the coal measures. The oil is in great demand, and realizes a good profit. The value of solid paraffine is well known. Liebig, the great chemist, said that if any one succeeded in producing it from coal it would be one of the greatest discoveries of the age. This has been accomplished, and from shale is obtained a white, dry, colorless substance, portable, and capable of being burned in a lamp. Among the various works in Scotland, nearly 800,000 tons of shale are distilled annually, producing nearly 30,000,000 gallons of crude oil, from which are obtained some 12,000,000 of refined oil.

DOMESTIC.

CARE AND FEED OF DUCKINGS.—As soon as the ducklings are well out of the shell, whether the mother be hen or duck, coop them up in a coop with a pen. The ducklings should be confined to a pen, and should be confined to it about a week. Water that has had the child taken off may be supplied in shallow pans, and the ducklings will dabble around in it and enjoy it. Have your duck coops as far as convenient from the stream or pond, and they must be moved at least three times a week to fresh ground. After the ducklings are a week old, if they had a hen mother, the pen may be opened on pleasant days after the dew is off the grass, and the mother and her brood allowed liberty to wander around in search of food. By the time they are six weeks old their under feathers will be out, and they may be allowed unlimited range. Rats, cats and weasels show a remarkable fondness for ducklings and you have to look out for them. The ducks should be kept in a wood-pile these days. "John," said his wife, "if you fight Injuns as well as you saw wood and support your family, it would take 118 like you to capture one squaw, and you have to catch her when she had the ague and throw pepper in her eyes." John went back to the wood-pile.

FROM THE HUB.
There is perhaps no tonic offered to the people that possesses as much real intrinsic value as the Hop Bitters. Just at this season of the year, when the stomach needs an appetizer, or the blood needs purifying, the cheapest and best remedy is Hop Bitters. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure; don't wait until you are prostrated by a disease that may take months for you to recover in.—Boston Globe.

A MAN IN HELENA, TEXAS, who believes that the whole face of the earth will be covered by a flood next November, is building an ark, which will hold fifty persons, and food enough to last forty days and forty nights. Tickets for the round trip, $500 each. This is very reasonable, considering the risk a man runs by not taking passage. And yet the builder has not sold a single ticket. People are evidently afraid of sea-sickness.

A MAN, his wife and daughter went into a Hartford lawyer's office recently to arrange for a mutual separation. The man had some education, but the woman was evidently illiterate. The lawyer asked what the difficulty between them was. The man replied "Incompatibility of temper." The wife and daughter fell back in their chairs, threw up their hands and exclaimed, "Good heavens! only hear him!"

THE DRAINING PREPARATIONS of Opium for the Baby are rapidly displacing before the use of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. Sold by all Druggists. Price 25 cents.

BARLEY WATER.—Wipe very clean, by rolling it in a soft cloth, two table-spoonsful of pearl barley; put it into a quart jug, with a lump of butter, and a grain or two of salt, fill up the jug with boiling water and keep the mixture gently stirred for some minutes; then cover it down and let it stand until perfectly cold. In twelve hours, or less, it will be fit for use. After the barley water has been used, add one day later the rest of the ingredients, and keep it for a few days with boiling water a second time, and even a third time with advantage. If not unpalatable to the invalid, a strip of lemon peel, cut thin, may be added. A glass of calf's foot jelly is a great improvement.

DON'T SCALE BEFORE YOU COOK.—The following is an English method of cooking fish. It will apply to all fresh water species: "Without scaling, throw some flour over them and lay them on a gridiron over a slow fire; as they grow brown a cut is to be made on the back, not more than skin deep, and then the tail and the fish is then replaced on the fire when sufficiently broiled the skin and scales will peel off and leave the fish clean and firm. The jelly is then to be opened and the inside will come away cleanly. Scraping and water washes away all the flavor and firmness of the fish."

HARD SOAP.—A lady sends the following recipe to an exchange. It is much easier than the old way of boiling, and the writer says that she has used it for three years with success; one pound of concentrated lye dissolved in two quarts of soft water, pour five pounds of grease of any kind into a milk-warm and pour in the lye slowly, stirring rapidly until it begins to thicken. Add one or one-half ounce oil of sassafras. Pour into a box one foot square and cover it, leaving it in a warm place for three or four days. Turn into squares and it is ready for use.

HUMOROUS.

In a Cohoes street-car the other day a slighted man was seated near the farbooth. To destroy despondency he dropped her handkerchief in the lap of the near-sighted man as she paid her fare. She did not notice her loss, and after she had taken her seat, the near-sighted man sitting opposite saw the white handkerchief in his lap and immediately covered it up with his paper, blushing as he did so. Then he inserted his hand under the paper, tucked the handkerchief in out of sight, and went on reading.

PAPER CAR WHEELS.
The paper used is straw-board of rather fine texture. It is received in the ordinary brog sheets, differing in one particular from those used for straw-board boxes or other similar work. These sheets as they come from the paper mill are square, and must first of all be cut to a circular pattern. This is rapidly done on a board table, with a knife which is guided by a radial arm that swings freely over the surface of the table from a pivot at the centre. A small disk is also cut from the centre of the sheet to allow for the iron hub. Being thus reduced to the required shape and dimensions, the paper must now be converted from a mass of loose sheets into a compact, dense body, capable of withstanding the tremendous crushing force to which it will be subjected in the wheels. This is accomplished in the following manner: Ten sheets are pasted together, one upon another, making a disk about one eighth of an inch thick. Enough of these disks having been prepared to fill a powerful hydraulic press, they are subjected to a pressure of 1,800 pounds to the square inch. When removed, the disks are hung out on poles in a steam-heated lath, and left six days to dry. Thicker disks are then made, each formed by pasting together two or three of those already finished. These are pressed and dried as before, and the process is repeated until a block is built four inches thick, and of about the specific gravity of lignum vitae. After each pressing and pressing six days are allowed for drying, and when the block is complete it is left in a drawing-room until thoroughly seasoned. The next operation is that of turning the paper blocks to fit the steel tires and iron hubs. This is done in lathes with as much accuracy and in exactly the same manner as if the material worked on was iron or wood. The circumference is turned to a perfect circle of the precise diameter required, a bed or recess is worked out for the web of the tire to rest in, and the surfaces are left, hard and smooth and the edges sharply defined. The block is then painted and is ready for its place in the wheel. The iron hubs are turned in a lathe to specified gauges; and a hub of any given gauge will therefore answer for any wheel of the corresponding size. The tires are of steel. They are bolted to the paper by an inner rim or flange, and are turned to a perfect circle. Plates of thin boiler iron are bolted to the paper to prevent expansion.

WOMAN'S WISDOM.
"She insists that it is of more importance, that her family shall be kept in full health, than that she should have all the fashionable dresses and styles of the times. She therefore sees to it, that each member of her family is supplied with enough Hop Bitters, at the first appearance of any symptoms of ill health, to prevent a fit of sickness with its attendant expense, care and anxiety. All women should exercise their wisdom in this way."—New Haven Palladium.

ANNUATING TOOLS.—It is well known that glass acquires remarkable toughness by being annealed in oil and that a high degree of hardness is conferred upon metals by a similar process. It is said that engravers and watchmakers of Germany harden their tools in sealing-wax. The tool is heated to redness and plunged in a wax, withdrawn after an instant and plunged in again, the process being repeated until the steel is too cold to enter the wax. The steel is said to become, after this process, almost as hard as the diamond, and when touched with a little oil or turpentine, the tools are excellent for engraving, and also for piercing the hardest metal.

ERUCICATING PAIN.
Edwin Freeman of Norton, Mass., says: "I have suffered the most excruciating pain in my kidneys for years, and physicians and medicine could not relieve me until about three years since I commenced taking Hunt's Kidney-Wort, and I took the first dose there and after using one bottle I was free from all pain, and although this was three years ago, I have not had a recurrence of the pain. I have not had to take any medicine since, and believe Hunt's Remedy to be the best Kidney cure I ever knew, and I am fully convinced it is to all sufferers from this terrible disease." Trial size, 75 cents.

IN CONCLUDING AN ARTICLE on the last corn crop an Alabama editor remarked: "We have on exhibition in our sanctum a magnificent pair of ears."

"Some white felt hats for summer are seven inches high in the crown." They probably "fill a 'long felt' want."

IT IS STRONGLY SUSPECTED that it was Annahs who invented the circus-poster.

A SAFE STAND BY for the family, during the season of Cholera Morbus, Summer complaints, Cramps, Diarrhoea, and all Bowel complaints, is Dr. Jayne's Carminative Balsam. It is a safe and efficient, and if occasion should arise, is sure to be useful.

Tax cause of suicide is often hard to define, and many have no idea just what prompts the rash act. The cause, however, can be traced unquestionably to despondent feelings, produced by Torpid Liver. To destroy despondency and create a cheerful feeling by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator would be the saving of the would be suicide from an untimely end.

IT SEEMS ALMOST like waking from a dream to find oneself so clear headed, so light spirited and so full of gay thoughts, when despondent feelings existed in it taking Simmons' Liver Regulator, when they were despondent like a cloud before sunshine and it seemed as though life was worth living.
