Stevenson, Grant & Co., Jacksonville.
Colocho Valley Farm for Sale.
Stevenson, Grant & Co.
offer 71 acres of fine Chocho valley land, mostly on Chocho Creek and rich, improved, at a low price. This land can be added to the other land. It is a very large place, finely situated and in a good neighborhood. Apply to Stevenson, Grant & Co., Jacksonville.
Mineral Land for Sale.
Stevenson, Grant & Co.
offer one half interest in two hundred and forty acres of land in Columbia county on a lead of copper ore, between now and the first of June, at $10 per acre. This land was entered for mineral purposes and is rich in iron of the above quality.
Stevenson, Grant & Co.

ty at $2 per acre.
Desirable Place for Sale Cheap.
Stevenson, Grant & Co.
offer for sale 112 acres one half mile from Duke's Station on the W. R. R. at $8 an acre. There is a good framed, double room house, with hall, upon it, a good well of water. Growth mostly oak. One half is level, balance rolling, nearly all cultivable. The ground consists of 20 acres field and 15 acres cleared within two years. The place is in neighborhood of good school, church, gin house, and etc. The survey of the Anniston and Maden road runs through it.

Fall Dead.—Mr. J. G. Bice of Tallahassee valley was seized with apoplexy Wednesday evening at about 10 o'clock, while in his field, and fell dead in his tracks.
Died.—A little negro girl, daughter of George Read, of this place, was burned to death Wednesday, while starting a fire in a stove.
Arrival day was beautifully observed by the State Normal school on Tuesday, having been postponed until then on account of bad weather. Many of the addressees were very fine and the whole program reflect the highest credit upon those who got it up.
To Mexican Pensioners.
A dispatch from Washington says that Gen. Black desires the old Mexican soldiers who are entitled to pensions, under the late act of congress, to communicate directly with him, and he will send the necessary papers to make the application. We caution our friends to beware of pension agents. In the end it will cost you about $9 a month to get $8.
We have already been inportuned
by wide awake agents in Washington, who say they will make no charge unless they secure a pension. Of course not—but why pay them a "red" when the commissioner of pensions is ready to grant what the law allows without the "base familiarity" of a middle man? It is not treating the bureau with proper respect.

The Gale in Michigan
DETROIT, Mich., February 27.—
Specials to the morning Tribune from various points on the upper peninsula, report the storm of the past twenty-four hours to be of mammoth proportion and terrible intensity. A heavy gale blew the heavy snow about, making drifts from five to ten feet deep,
and effectually stopping all traffic.
Two Grand Rapids and Indiana trains are snowed in south of Mackinaw city, and a Michigan Central train is blocked in the same neighborhood. The gale extended all over the whole state, but was not accompanied by snow
in the neighborhood of Detroit.
About a mile west of Negaunee, four engines and a coach that were breaking the way through the snow, ran into a heavy drift and were thrown into the ditch.

A Captive's Observations.
The Indian in presence of the white man or in presence of strangers is not the same as the Indian at home among his fellows. All taciturnity and stoicism disappear and they act more like grown children than anything else, laughing, playing practical jokes, teasing and romping, fond of feats of strength and agility, particularly in horsemanship.
Here I was with members of a tribe known among white men as the most overbearing, cruel and barbarous on the plains, and yet I must say that whatever as far as I could understand, strictly adhered to. No one meddles with another's wives, horses or arms. No one held claim to a woman or a horse, that he did not pay, spot trade, the price demanded. I was going to say spot cash, but this they had little use for. Provisions were always in common. I do not know how it would be in time of scarcity, for while I was with them provisions were very plenty. The young bucks were always riding better skelter over the hills and prairies for miles around, and kept a supply of meat in great abundance. The springs did all camp and field work.
Their corn fields were all between the points of the hills, and by a stranger would be found with great difficulty, so that if they had from any cause to break camp suddenly their fields would be safe.
Perfection of the Phonograph.
By the way, shortly before Edison left he showed to his old toy, the phonograph, and said that he had not the slightest doubt that the perfected phonograph of, say 500 years from now, will do away with every sort of writing and printing.
People who want to write a letter will say what they want to say into their phonograph, take out the little slip of foil or paper, and send it off, while the person who receives it will put it into his instrument and listen to what his friend has to say. The printer's occupation will be gone, because newspapers will consist of sheets of foil, to be put into each person's phonograph, when the news will be read out to the phonograph in a clear, interesting and effective manner, some device being adopted by which the reader will be enabled to hear exactly what interests him or her, and skip all the rest. Probably the advertiser who takes a whole column for five words will pay extra to have the phonograph shout out that his soap is the best and was used by Cleopatra, Mrs. Langtry, and other beauties of past ages.—New York Cor. Brooklyn Eagle.
To Buy or Not to Buy.
The "Lives" of the I remember in the stock market, and a broker recently told me when the "Lives" were being sold in Philadelphia. The day before the "Lives" were sold we all knew that Philadelphia was down, and our investments were terribly alarmed, some even shipping their goods to New York. The day previous I had been ordered by a customer to buy 1,000 shares of Reading railroad stock. When I saw how things looked I hesitated. I tried to get my customer, but he had already left town and could not be reached. If I bought perhaps he would blame me if there was a loss, while on the other hand if I didn't buy he would blame me if the shares would suddenly rise in value, and then I would be censured for not acting according to orders. I went up to the board room and found they were offering shares of the stocks for almost nothing. I risked the chances and bought all that was offered. I loaded up with it. How much did I make?
Well, about $500,000.—Philadelphia Call.
Soldiers at Columbia, S. C.
"Come, boys," cried a blue clad hero,
"bring your spears." I found a pile of treasures, and with his bayonet work it drew from a new made soldier in the garden adjoining a residence. "See the robe have buried gold and silver here.
Be quiet or a crowd will come to divide our spoils." and in a few minutes four men were at work digging up the box in which the supposed treasures were hid.
It was hard work to go four feet down and lift up a heavy box from the damp earth. Eagerly they worked, and in due time their reward came. Greedily they broke the top from the box, and quickly, with oaths in their mouths, they drew back as the half decayed carcass of a dead dog met their gaze. It was the body of a pet Newfoundland dog that some children had went over and had caused to be buried beneath the shade of a laurel, little dreaming that their Carlo would suffer such ignoble a resurrection.—Atlanta Constitution.
Fungi as Plant Allies.
While some forms of fungus are most destructive to vegetation, it is now believed that there are others which render assistance to the plants on which they live. Frank found that the fungus covering the young root points of certain forest trees, as the beech and oak, seems to help in the nutrition of these trees. Another interesting case has lately been studied in Germany by W. H. H. who finds that a dog-like fungus of the root tissue of orchids works no perceptible harm to the plants, but on the contrary probably aids them by changing woody matters into a form that they may more readily absorb.—Arkansas Traveler.
American Dyed Sealskins.
It may be interesting to know that American art now excels foreign skill in the communication of the quality so essential to a handsome sealskin, namely, the dye. What was known as the London dye held the vantage ground for years, until a furrier in Albany elaborated a superior process. Of course he made an immense fortune. He kept the secret to himself so closely that he maintained a monopoly of the market. He died in the ordinary course, but the secret was imparted to his son a few years before his death, and is still exclusively employed by him.—Brooklyn

ALABAMA NEWS ITEMS.

FROM ALL PARTS OF ALABAMA.

A farmer living in the neighborhood of Wauville, Jackson county, made 40,000 boards from one tree.

Abbeville boasts of a barber who gives his customers a shave and throws in a tune on a fiddle, all for ten cents.

There seems to be considerable demand for Jackson county lumber as saw mills are being located in many parts of the county.

The town council of Sheffield proposes to exempt for 25 years all railroads and manufacturing enterprises that locate in that place.

Don't talk about mud in Birmingham. Down in Uniontown the other day an old lady mired up in the mud and had to be pulled out by two gentlemen.

A stone cutter, Frank Orleans, while walking a railroad trestle near Tusculum a few nights ago, accidentally stumbled and fell to the ground breaking his neck.

Mr. Henry Bradley, clerk of the circuit court of Barbour county, is lying critically ill at his home in Eufaula, with erysipelas, caused by a wound received during the war.

Our artesian well man has struck a gold mine about 800 feet deep. The other day several hands full of some kind of mineral resembling gold was washed up. We have never before heard of gold being found so far below the surface, but wonders will never cease.—Uniontown Herald.

The new jury law for Bullock county, requiring extra jurors to be drawn out of a box containing names of men in all parts of the county, is a vexatious failure. It delayed the court several hours on Monday in organizing the petit jurors.

The Abbeville Times furnishes its readers with this bit of information, besides making it the occasion for booming the town as a growing place: "The harvest time is near at hand, and the crop of babies promises to be unusually large in our town. Many a man will be made happy within the next three months. The best water in this section we know. Commonwealth to increase in every respect. There is more significance in this paragraph from the Columbus Enterprise than many are willing to admit: The agriculture of the country is drifting into the hands of the negroes, while there is a strong tendency among the white farmers to sell out or rent, and move to the towns and engage in commercial and industrial pursuits. This is an ominous sign.

Real estate continues firm, little being offered and the prices remaining decidedly stiff. About the average number of lots were sold this week, some at an advanced price over last week's holdings. The building boom now setting in will serve to materially strengthen the market, so that those who want Sheffield dirt at a reasonable figure had better invest at once.—Sheffield Clarion.

Recently Mr. Dan Norville, formerly of Livingston, Ala., met with a painful accident while hunting. He had killed two birds and was looking for them, carrying his gun cocked, prepared to shoot should any other birds rise. While engaged in this doubtful duty with his gun pointing downward, from some unknown cause it fired, bored a hole through his right foot and amputated the two toes next to the "big" toe. He was carried to the office of Dr. Mart Thompson, who dressed the wound. Mr. Norville is resting as easy as might be expected, and hopes to be out at an early day.—Meridian News.

In these days when every Alabama town is trying to get up its "boom" by writing to the newspapers of its wonderful advantages and so on, it is really a relief to read what "Hog Jaw," an Athens Democrat correspondent has to say about the city of Sugar, "just over the county line, in Lauderdale county." "Hog Jaw" says: "We will first give you a sketch of Sugar, Ala. It is just over the county line, in Lauderdale county. We have one store, consisting dry goods and family groceries and one school, both houses kept in running order by Williams & Warren. We also have a post office named Sugar, we get three mails every week.

The Mobile Register gives the following account of a very sad accident which occurred in that city on Thursday last, the body coming about half past five o'clock a most distressing accident occurred, whereby Rupert, the five-year old son of W. H. Dodson, was killed by being run over by a horse. The boy was playing with a number of other children on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Elgins' residence on Joachim, second south of Congress street, and the children seeing a runaway horse coming made for the gate. Rupert sought protection behind a tree, but some one called to him to come into the gate. The little fellow started, but was met by the horse running wildly down the sidewalk. The boy was run over, knocked down, and when taken up was found to be fatally injured, the skull being fractured. The unconscious child was carried to the residence of his parents a few doors above on the opposite side of the street; and although the best medical attendance was secured, he died in an hour.

A Bank Note's Trip.

From the New York Sun.
One of the reasons why silver coins are defaced with the initials and names are written on so many bank notes is that people want to find out whether the particular coin or bill will ever come back into their possession after once more getting into general circulation. It is an interesting experiment. A San Francisco reporter tried it, with a curious result. One evening in 1884 he wrote the three initials of a friend's name on a one-dollar bank note in the presence of a friend. One day recently the friend went to a coal office to pay for some coal and got three one dollar bills in change for the ten dollars tendered the dealer. The customer stared at one of the bills in surprise.

"Why what's the matter?" exclaimed the dealer. "It's good isn't it?"
"Yes, it's good," replied the customer; "but the curious thing about it is that it is identically the same bank note that my initials were written on three years ago, and here it is back again."

The bank note is now safely locked up as a souvenir.

Catarth Cured.

Dawson G. Dec. 7 1886.
For fully nine years I had catarth. For five years I had it in the worst form, how obnoxious that I need not recount. I was under treatment of one of the most celebrated eye, ear and throat physicians in the United States, but he was unable to do me any good. In despair, I resorted to numerous patent medicines that I saw advertised but to no avail. Finally, about six months ago I began to take S. S. S. in sheer desperation, but with little hope and no faith in it. But to day I am comparatively well; indeed I have been so benefitted by the S. S. S. that, although skeptical of its merits, I am compelled by the benefit I have derived from it, to testify to its unquestioned curative powers in catarth cases. The best compliment I can pay it is that I have recently recommended it to a number of my warmest personal friends.

Blood Poison.

Waco Texas, Oct. 16, 1886.
To the Swift's Specific Co. Atlanta Ga.
Gentlemen: I am an employee of Messrs. Cameron, Castle and Story, the great drug firm of Waco, Texas. I used two bottles of your S. S. S. for a bad case of blood poison, and the medicine cured me completely.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. B. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Three bottles of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at W. M. Nisbet's.

Thousands of people suffer with backache, not knowing that in most cases it is a symptom of diseased kidneys and liver, which plasters and lotions cannot heal, the best and safest remedy is Dr. J. H. McLean's Liver and Kidney Pills. 25c per bottle.

A tramp who was scaling a wire through Indiana on a freight train the other night was discovered by a brakeman and pursued. He jumped from the train just as it was crossing a canal bridge, landed in the water forty feet below, and then waded ashore unhurt.

Eighteen months ago William Chapman, of New London, was in a house when it was struck by lightning, and was severely shocked. Ever since he has been able to predict a coming thunder storm with great certainty from certain signs that he feels in his head some hours before the storm.

The records of the treasury department show that eleven persons on its pay roll have died since January of this year, a greater number than for a like period of any previous year. It is claimed that several of these deaths resulted from the bad sanitary condition of the building.

Among the Montana Blackfoot Indians polygamy is still rife, though the redskins are beginning to abandon it. When Buffalo were plenty—when meat was scarce—more than one man would take a harem of women, but now, when the buffalo are scarce, the practice is falling into disrepute.

E. B. Davis, while putting up telephone wires in Detroit, seized a working wire and received a shock that knocked him from the pole to an adjoining roof. He was not harmed by the fall, but found that the wire had burned a groove across the palm of his hand clear to the bone. No drop of blood was drawn, and on the sides of the groove the flesh was seared. The hand gave him no pain, and he was at work next day.

The death of a woman in Chicago the other day was attributed by a coroner's jury to excessive indulgence in confectionery.

On John McClellan's farm, near Catawba, O., a ewe has given birth to a new lamb with four legs. The lamb lived but a short time.

Says a Maine paper: One of our citizens, saving wood during the cold weather a few days since, was so absorbed in the occupation that he did not notice one of his fingers was frozen until it became nearly black. There he sat for some time, but he did not notice it until he called attention to business, whatever that business may be. This reminds us that one of the oldest mornings of this season two citizens meeting on the street stopped, both speaking almost simultaneously, one saying: "Your nose is frozen," and the other: "Your cheek is frozen," which was the fact in both cases.

Lighting played a queer prank in Chicago the other day. It struck a house in which were six people, tore a ragged hole in the roof and demolished the ceiling and walls. Running down the chimney, it entered the kitchen range, which was completely destroyed. The lightning then ran out of the open door and entered the cellar through a thick stone wall, knocking the stones and mortar in all directions. It finally burst through a well window and disappeared down a well. Strange to say, the occupants of the house received no injury beyond a general shaking up.

Lady Colin Campbell denies that she is to become a professional singer.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

In Princeton Theological seminary there is a student 68 years old.

Messrs. Moody and Sankey will attempt to evangelize Chicago, and to that end will erect a building in that city to cost $250,000 for the training of Christian workers.

The Baptists of Red Willow, Neb., last week cut through two feet of ice and last week a number of converts, the mercury at the time being 10 degrees below zero.

An item of the effect that Sam Jones made $10,000 in Boston has been widely current in the exchanges. It shows how easily an absurd rumor may receive general credence.

According to The Baptist Handbook, there are in the United States 2,742 churches, 3,377 chapels, 1,192,374 chapel seats, 302,015 members, 47,170 Sunday school teachers, 456,694 scholars, 4,011 local preachers and 1,808 pastors in charge.

The Rev. Galbraith B. Perry, of Baltimore, who has been admonished by Bishop Parry for his extreme ritualism, is one of the few clergymen of the Episcopal church who have devoted their lives toward evangelizing the colored race.

It was stated in the Congressional club at San Francisco that in that city, with a population of about 300,000, the attendance at the Protestant churches was about 32,000, and at the Catholic churches about 18,000, making a total attendance of about 50,000. Probably three-fourths of the population never attend church.

The eighth and last volume of Professor Heinrich Ewald's Jewish history is now ready in an English form, and with this completion of the translation is finished a work that has already proved a mine of wealth to English exegetes, and fairly answers to the description given of it in the present preface as "an encyclopedia of biblical learning."

The Living Church says that there were few Communist women of the last century who did not keep a diary. Then it quotes from a diary of 1790: "I had roast pork for dinner, and Rev. Dr. S. who carried, held up a rib on his fork and said: 'Here, ladies, is what Mother Eve was made of.' 'Yes,' said sister Patty, 'and it's from very much the same kind of rib.'"

The English society for the propagation of the gospel in foreign parts is arranging for the observance, on Aug. 12, 1887, of the 10th anniversary of the consecration, in Lambeth palace, of Dr. C. J. Lewis, who was not only the first bishop of Nova Scotia, but the first bishop of the Church of England in foreign parts. Of course, therefore, this is an event in which the American Episcopalians will feel much interest.

We are compelled to believe, by the stern array of facts and figures, that at the end of his boasted century of missions, while not 1,000,000 converts, nominal and real, have been won to Christianity in paganism, heathen and Mohammedan are 300,000,000 more than they were at the beginning of the century. Thus the votaries of these faiths increase 70 times faster than the followers of Christ. The church is outstripped in its own methods.—New York Observer.

Statistics collected in the Scotch Presbyterian church and the English Established church show that the average attendance represents about one-third of the average church-going population. (This reckoning is trustworthy, we may multiply the evening congregations of London on the 24th of October by three, which will give as the total of the church-going population 1,489,000 out of the 3,810,000. This gives the number of customary absentees of people who, though they may occasionally attend a service, cannot be described as church-goers, as 2,321,000. These figures show an immense and startling alienation of the London public from the regular organization of religious worship.—Church Review.

The Gobelin tapestries, which have been in their present position in Paris for two centuries, are to be removed to the Chateau de Compiègne, where the last imperial family lived.

Augustus St. Gaudens has finished his statue of the Virgin, which is to be unveiled in Springfield in June next. It will be sent to the country next week to be cast in bronze.

The "hundred gilder" plate by Rembrandt has brought from time to time enormous sums at sales. There are but eight of them known to be in existence. One of these is in the collection of the Duke of Buccleuch, which will be sold in London this spring.

The central tower of the picturesque old church of St. Michael, Paris, is in such a dangerous condition that efforts are making to demolish it. A credit of 1,100,000 francs has been asked of the French government for the purpose.

The attendance upon the exhibition of the St. Louis pictures during the week has been unprecedented in numbers. Room could not be found for all the art works belonging to the merchant prince. These pieces, chiefly sculpture, have been left in the house on Thirty-fourth street, where they will be shown by card.

It is said that George H. Boughton will visit America in the spring. In his early days, when living in Albany, he is said to have placed so modest a value upon his pictures that he sold them for almost nothing. Now he is probably the best paid of any living American painter. He works only on commission. Notwithstanding a long residence in England, he is still fond of painting in his old time Dietrich Knickerbocker vein, and he remains in feeling one of the most patriotic of Americans. There is no painter resident in Europe who has the prospects of American art more sincerely at heart.

OLD FRIENDS.

A Cuban town prides itself upon having eleven women over 100 years of age.

The oldest person in the world, according to authentic record, is an old woman who lives in the village of Auberville, France. She was born, according to the parish records, March 10, 1761, and is therefore almost 126 years old.

Capt. John Patten, of Bath, Me., is dead at the age of 97. He was a member of the first city council of that place, was captured and imprisoned by the English during the war of 1814, and died worth $500,000, which he had made in the possession of ships.

William J. Haynes, of St. Louis, who will be 100 years old if he lives until December next, was on the staff of Gen. Jackson at the battle of New Orleans, was engineer of the first steamboat that arrived at St. Louis from the south and ran the first locomotive that ever left St. Louis for the west.

SOME FOREIGN NOTES.

Nicaragua pays a bounty for the planting of India rubber trees.

The 12th of May is the date irrevocably fixed for the sale of the French crown jewels. They will be on view for a month before the auction, in the Pavillon de Flore.

Butcher shops are rapidly multiplying in Japan. The natives have a strong belief that the superiority of foreigners in physique and energy is due entirely to their meat diet, and hence they are adopting it.

The stalls of the famous "Marche du Temple" at Paris, where great sales of second-hand clothing are made, are rented at an annual charge of $400, and the receipts for each occupant are said to average between $8,000 and $10,000 a year.

Dr. Hainswald, the African traveler, says that in Zululand he met the savage who killed the French Prince Imperial, and told him that if he had only taken the young man prisoner he might have got a large ransom; whereupon the Zulu wept with regret and grief.

The Prince of Wales has just granted a warrant for a new Masonic lodge, to be called "Anglo-American." The lodge is formed with a view of affording facilities for American residents in England meeting their brethren of the English grand lodge under the constitution of the latter body.

Thirteen years ago a hospital was started in London on the plan of dispensing alcohol except where every other means failed. Since the beginning only four cases out of tens of thousands have been treated with alcohol, and the percentage of recoveries has been much larger than in any other hospital.

The quantity of sugar beets worked in Germany and France in 1885-86 was 10,614,000 tons, and thirteen years ago it was 10,949,000 tons. But in that period the German consumption of sugar beets more than doubled under the influence of the sugar tariff, while the French consumption was reduced more than half.

Epernay, in France, is a vast subterranean city of champagne. For miles and miles there are streets hewn out of the solid chalk, flanked by piles of bottles with champagne of all brands and qualities. There is no light in this labyrinth of streets, crossings and turnings, except what the splintering candles afford.

It is dark, dark and damp, with the temperature away down about zero. The largest champagne manufacturers in Epernay have underground cellars which cover forty-five acres and contain 5,000,000 bottles of wine. There is a whole street in Epernay lined with fine cellars, all owned by champagne men.

Alexander Napoleon Louis Joseph Berthier, Prince de Saxe-Albani and Prince de Wagram, has just died in Paris. The four names were given to him by the Emperors Alexander and Napoleon and by Louis and Joseph Bonaparte, the kings of Holland and of Spain. He was the eldest son of Berthier, the most diplomatic of Napoleon's marshals, and of the Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria of the Palatine branch. The deceased prince was born on September 11, 1810. His father represented the emperor of the French at the marriage, by proxy, of the Archduchess Maria Louisa. The late prince was a gentleman farmer of a German type. He was passionately fond of agriculture and shooting.

Lehrich von Treitschke, who succeeded Napoleon von Bismarck as premier of Prussia, is the fifth man appointed to the post, and not one of them has been a native of Prussia. The first was Johannes von Moll, a Swiss, who had long lived at Vienna. He was appointed in 1849, but after John he became so fulsome a flatterer of Napoleon that he was asked to resign. Barthold Georg Niebuhr succeeded him, a Dane, who began his career as a financier and left his record as a student of Roman literature and archaeology. Friedrich Wilken, a historian of the crusades, was the third, a Tecklenburger. Leopold von Ranke, the fourth, was a Thuringian, and his successor was also not born in Prussia.

LADIES' GOSSIP.

Beaded bonnets are all the go.

Valenciennes is still queen of the world of lace.

For plain black dresses diagonal wool draped over a pinked skirt of black bengaline is a stylish combination.

Stock fringes and embroideries are a good deal worn in various shades of gray in different materials. Silk fringes of every color and shape appear for trimming spring things.

Ladies who want suggestions regarding black silk dresses are advised to get a woman and basket checked satin stripes for the skirts, with a basque of similar checks without stripes.

The heavy skirts of all new tailored gowns are arranged to fasten by large hooks to loops placed inside the dress waist and the waist line, thus making the shoulders help to carry the weight, and preventing at the same time the skirt from moving a hair's breadth from its appointed draping.

A very grand toilet was recently worn by Mrs. William Kingsland at a superb entertainment given in New York. It was of dark blue velvet over pale blue moire, the lower part of the moire skirt richly embroidered in gold. A long train of velvet, falling from the waist at either side, was bordered with gold embroidery; the corsage of blue velvet was ornamented to match. The negligee was of pale blue ostrich tips, and diamond ornaments.

An English girl was married the other day, and she went to the altar perfectly satisfied with herself and blessing her dressmaker. The gown was of silver gray plush, cut in princesses like a pelisse, lined throughout in cream Sielienne. It fell loosely at the side, as an overdress, to display a front embroidered from neck to hem with fine steel beads and steel colored silk or cream Sielienne. The cream Sielienne sleeves were embroidered to match, and from the elbow fell long pendant loops of plush. The lady was entirely content with her dress. It was completed by a small gray plush bonnet of the baby shape, with strings of pique ribbon tying under the chin; drooping bows of the same, each bow lined with white ribbon standing up well in front with osprey plumes.

A young man of Kansas City was playing a guitar the other evening and a large rat came into the room, seemingly well pleased with the music. It slowly approached the player until very near, and then after listening for some time it went away.

According to Professor Baird, a fish has no maturity, and there is nothing to prevent its living indefinitely and growing continually. A pike living in Russia dates back in age to the fifteenth century. In the Royal Aquarium at St. Petersburg are fish that have been there 140 years.

MUSIC.—Mrs. L. W. Grant, Miss Sue Hayden, Corey Crow, Fannie Lee Swan and Ida Woodward.

A GOOD THING.

Messrs. A. G. & G. W. Pitts had on exhibition here during Court the "Alabama Fence" on which they have applied for a patent. It is portable and easy handled, firm and stock proof and is undoubtedly the best stock fence we ever saw. No farm should be without it. With this fence, pastures can be easily changed from place to place and all waste grass be used and lands brought up. Messrs. Pitts are selling beat and county rights fast, as also farm rights at most reasonable figures. Their address is DeArmanville, Ala., this county.

JOTTINGS FROM CROSS PLAINS.

We are having a great deal of rain and the farmers can't do anything. We hope to see pretty weather soon.

Quite a number of our citizens are attending United States court at Birmingham this week. Between this court and our circuit court at Jacksonville, our town is nearly depopulated.

That clever gentleman and fine physician, Dr. J. P. Ralls of Gadsden, spent a part of last Tuesday in Cross Plains. It is always a treat to meet such men. He reports Gadsden on a big boom and property advancing steadily.

The measles still linger with us but we hope to get rid of them soon.

Miss May Brown of Munford, will teach music in Cross Plains during the spring and summer months. We welcome her to our midst.

Mr. E. D. McClellan returned from Atlanta and says he bought a large stock of goods for the spring trade.

Rev. N. J. Tunlin of Cave Spring, Ga., has been in Cross Plains for several days. Mr. Tunlin is a fine conversationalist and never fails to interest a crowd of listeners.

Locals are very scarce this week on account of the courts and bad weather. But few people in town and very little going on.

An Old Citizen Speaks.

Mr. J. M. Norris, an old resident of Rome, Ga., says that he had been badly troubled with Kidney Complaint for a great many years and with Ezema for three years; at times could scarcely walk and had tried many remedies without benefit, and until he began taking Electric Bitters and anointing his hands and feet with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. This treatment afforded him great relief and he strongly recommends Electric Bitters to all who suffer with Kidney Complaints, or need a Blood Purifier. Sold by W. M. Nisbet.

Superstition Among the Poles.

There is a venerable superstition among Polish people that when a crow alights on a house it portends death to one or more of the occupants. When about 8 o'clock Thursday morning a couple of birds of this species were described calmly perched on the roof of one of Poland's sons on Tucson street, north of Brady, the neighborhood by Poles, was thrown into an hour of excitement. In less than half the proportion of the crowd attracted to the attention of the police. Hostile demonstrations caused the beleaguered birds to fly to an adjoining roof. Up popped an upper story window in the next house, a woman's head appeared, and in evident alarm the woman waved an apron menacingly at the "birds of evil omen." Instead of being frightened away the crows took the waving of the apron as a sign of welcome and changed their position from the roof of her neighbor to her own house.

By this time the excitement of the crowd below had grown to fever pitch. Women were shedding tears or mumbling a prayer, while little children clung to their skirts, unable to make out what was the matter. Men and women were gathered in knots, all gesticulating and jabbering at once, but all keeping a weather eye open and a pocketful of stones ready in case the birds should steer for their own premises. Finally the crows began to fly from house to house, and then there was a shower of stones as thick as hail, men, women and boys being engaged in the fusillade and the most indescribable excitement. The birds flew from house to house until they had had taken in the entire square. Finally they distanced their yelling pursuers.

As the people returned to their homes many offered prayers for themselves and families. One old man who believes in the superstition said in his broken English: "It must be so, now, that we all die. You see, some terrible sickness spread among us."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Exorcising the "Demon of Pride."

A miller woman named Jallu had four children, two sons and two daughters. The elder daughter, Esther Jallu, was pretty and conscious of the fact. She had also some education, and was a great favorite in the village, where the other inmates of the mill were disliked and feared. One day her family began to assume that she was possessed of the demon of pride. There was an evil spirit declared to everybody that she could in some way drive it out. After rummaging upon the matter for some time they barred the doors of the mill, and, seizing their sister, threw her on the floor. One of them held her down while the other bored holes in her with an auger. The demon was to escape out of her body by these openings.

While the screams of the tortured girl were half drowned by the noise of millstones turning rapidly, two women—the mother and sister—were actually kneeling beside her praying for the success of the operation. Four loaves were baked—one in the forehead, one in the body and one in each leg. Whether these ignorant peasants really imagined that they could thus drive the demon of pride out of their sister, or whether they premeditated the murder they committed, matters very little for Esther, who, of course, died under the operation. The gentlemen were at once informed of the occurrence, and the inmates of the mill having been seized, they were sent to a madhouse. —Paris Cor. London Standard.

A Bicycle Rider's Training.

When asked what course of training a bicycle rider undergoes a prominent bicyclist said: "In our training we take plenty of hard exercise and eat nothing but light food. It is not safe to eat any kind of vegetables or to drink coffee. Rare beef, beef tea, oatmeal gruel, raw oysters are rare eggs constitute most of our diet. A long race the second and third days are the hardest. Then the muscles of the ankles and legs are all contracting with the continued short leg motion. At the last of a race we ride a much shorter wheel than when we began. Warm baths and dry rubbing, followed by liniment baths, keep us up during the race. A crowd and the excitement has much to do with the speed. People and applause make fast riding.

"After the race our legs are short and stiff and it takes at least two weeks to get back to one's natural condition and shape. The exercise is all in the lower parts of the legs and back. Our arms are used, but not strengthened much. A fifty mile race is more tiresome, but no as lasting in its effects."—New York Journal.

Natural Gas a Nuisance in 1827.

In 1827 there lived in Washington county a farmer by the name of McCook, an uncle of the famous Gen. Asa G. McCook, the present secretary of the United States senate. McCook's farm was situated on the old national pike, eight or ten miles out of Brownsville. In attempting to dig a well a strong large flow of natural gas. This by accident became ignited, and the flame it gave forth scared the horses passing on the pike and many runaways occurred. This went on for some time until the authorities in that section passed an ordinance signifying it as a nuisance and compelling McCook to suppress it as such, which he did. Thus what the citizens of Pittsburg now consider the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century, just half a century ago the citizens of Washington county considered the greatest nuisance.—Pittsburg Times.

CHILDREN OF THE APACHES.

Barbaric Education of the Girl—Training Them to be Cruel.

A prominent feature of any Apache village are the children, who are unkempt little savages, but are much handsomer in childhood than in mature life. The care of the male children devolves upon the man, who carefully educates them to emulation and practice in deeds of blood, including the art of scientific torturing. So well are these lessons taught that the Apache boy, at an early age, is ambitious and fitted to go on the warpath. Some of the most daring deeds in Apache warfare have been performed by boys who were envious to earn their title to manhood.

The girl is taught the rude domestic arts and lessons of labor, but her education in barbarity is not a whit less thorough than that of the boy. The fate of the captive among the Apaches has always been most lamentable, but the greatest cruelty both to men and women have been perpetrated by the Apache females. A captive woman, made compulsorily the wife or slave of an Apache warrior, is usually, after the first cruelties of the attending capture, treated by him as well as other women in the tribe, but, in his absence, the captive will be often grievously beaten by the other wives.

The education of the Apache girl begins with her care of the younger children. She learns to carry water and to go forth to hunt roots, wild fruits and berries, worms and reptiles, and whatever else goes to make up the Apache cuisine. She is taught to prepare for eating the game or domestic animals used for food brought in by the warriors during their excursions. Much of this animal food being common property, she learns to make vigorous trials to secure for her own household the controls, which are the greatest luxury to the Apache. She subsists largely upon such Apache ends as she can get by stealth or after others have been satisfied, as the special household care is the providing for the wants of the warriors and boys. Under such an education she grows up strong, tough and fleet footed, accustomed to every effort of endurance, privation and hardship of Indian life.—Sunshine.

How We Observe Traditions.

How did it happen that Socrates, the highest and noblest of them all, could so far forget the popular religious belief as to ask his disciples to offer the customary sacrifice of two cocks to Asclepius—only a little while before his death? How does it happen that world wide traditions become so enrooted into the very blood and fiber that they become second nature to them? It is the kind of education people receive. People are afraid to think and to free. The great masses of the people are not educated to think for themselves. They are so busy about things in this world that they must take the facts from somebody, and they take counsel and go with the majority.—Rev. Minot J. Savage.

Going to School in Mexico.

A gentleman of an investigating turn of mind has taken the trouble to ascertain accurately how many days the children of Mexico lost from school during 1886. Here is the result: Fifty-two Saturdays, twenty-six Sundays, four national feast days, four five days of vacation and fifty Catholic holidays, making a total of 177 days, and having only 163 school days. When we take into consideration the fact that the most punctual child does not take advantage of every school day, we arrive at the conclusion that the children of this city do not attend school half of their time.—Two Republics (City of Mexico).

The True Gentleman.

But the true gentleman nowhere shows his superiority to other men more strikingly than in his behavior toward those who have given him cause for offense. There is solid truth in the quaint old Scotch proverb: "It's aye gude to be ceevil, as the auld wife said when she bechit to the devil." In society, to treat with marked coldness those whom we do not like is disrespectful to all present.—George L. Carey.

Meat Diet in Japan.

There is said to be a great increase in the number of barbers' shops in Tokio, with upper rooms in which the meat is cooked for customers. The Japanese have a strong belief that the superiority of foreigners in energy and physique is entirely due to a meat diet, hence a large number of the residents are training to become Sullivans by eating liberally of the once neglected flesh.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Intensity of Explosive Gases.

As a matter of precaution for the safety of employees, work is suspended in certain Austrian coal mines, in dangerous places, during a fall of the barometer, it having been proved by experiment that the quantity and intensity of explosive gases greatly increase as the atmospheric pressure diminishes.—New York Sun.

Rev. Sam Jones' Rebuke.

"Brethren," said Sam Jones to his Boston audience, "I think too much of cultured Boston to rebuke an audience, but down south the people don't leave the house until the benediction is pronounced." Few natives of the Hub could administer a rebuke in more gentlemanly terms.—Washington Post.

Tobacco in Rome.

Rome has come into the field of tobacco growing competitors. A recent shipment which arrived in London from that colony found ready sale, and was pronounced to be equal in all respects to the valuable cigar tobacco produced in the neighboring island of Sumatra.—New York Tribune.

Dependent for Support.

"I hope you will be lenient with me, judge," said the thief, as he stood up to be sentenced; "I have a good many dependent on me for their support."

Indian Treachery.

The scarcity of Indian bric-a-brac in California is a new phase of the Indian question. A string of shell and bone beads is worth $50, and wampum, fragments of bones and other relics are rapidly becoming extinct.—Chicago Times.

CURRENT NOTES.

A mast that bends to the gale is an invention of a Connecticut citizen.

Catholic Bishop Becker of Georgia, has issued an order forbidding priests to perform marriage services after dark.

Chicago Exchange: Real estate in Chicago is assessed on the basis of one-third of its natural value. It is but fair that the same rule should hold on the assessment of goods and merchandise.

An immense herd of elephants, numbering not less than 140, has recently been captured in India by Mr. Sanderson, superintendent of the government kheddahs. This is the largest capture on record.

Globe Democrat: It is now said that the world will not come to an end until A. D. 3000. This leaves us 1,113 years in which to study the second section of the interstate commerce bill. The time is short, but by a little hustling we thing the work can be done.

Boston Herald: The fact that this is Lent appears to make no appreciable difference in the fashion of the audience at the Metropolitan opera house. The "Flying Dutchman" was welcomed by boxes filled with elite and pious church people. One concession, however, has been made to the season—dresses were made an inch less décolleté than during the German opera.

One of New York's rich men is often seen driving a Fifth avenue stage up or down town while the regular driver sits quietly at his side. Two millionaires drove a daily coach to Pelham every day last season. Two affluent members of the Knickerbocker Club manned a Third avenue horse car during the hottest days of the strike and made the trip to city hall and back in safety. All this for amusement.

A foreign gentleman who found our language as difficult to master as our cold weather to endure, startled a friend the other morning by exclaiming: "Ah, what cold we had this morning. I had to keep my feet all the time over the transom to be warm." "Yes; our registers are very convenient," replied the friend. "Ah, is that what you call it? Register? I knew it was a hole in the wall," said the stranger in apparent innocence of his blunder.

A gigantic land transaction is reported from Santa Fe, N. M. By it 68,000,000 acres of land in New Mexico, Texas, Indian Territory and Colorado, known as the Beales grant passes into the hands of a syndicate known as the Interstate Company, with headquarters at Kansas City, Mo. The amount of money involved in the transaction is $10,000,000. The lands acquired are comprised in a grant made by the Mexican government in 1824. After several changes they passed into the hands of one John Charles Beales, an Englishman who settled in Mexico, and who have been sold by his heirs.

French authors and artists have opened a fierce war on the proposed great tower for the exhibition of 1889. As it is to be twice as high as the tower of Rouen cathedral, they say it will overlook the city "like a black factory chimney." It will dwarf everything, while it will compel all eyes to gaze upon it. "A hateful column of boiled sheet iron" will humiliate the finest monuments of Paris. These and many other equally strong characterizations are made in a protest signed by the most distinguished literary men of France.

Many people are strangely affected by the light air and 6,000 feet altitude of Cheyenne in Colorado. They generally imagine that they are going to be killed, and have to be carefully watched. Women are the most liable to be affected, and they feel the effects of the rarefied atmosphere in the cars before reaching the town. Among other incidents of this nature a policeman relates the following: "A little fellow from Nevada began to show effects of the altitude as the train neared Cheyenne. By the time he had reached he had barricaded himself in the retiring room and was about to throw himself out of the window when the train men forced their way in and caught him. He was sure somebody was going to kill him. I got him away from the crowd and told him I would protect him, and finally got him quieted down. The train men looked after him until they began to descend from Sherman, and soon after he seemed to be as sane as anybody."

The piles of old London bridge put down in the year 900 are still sound, the water and the blue mud of the Thames having preserved them.

An old newspaper correspondent who has been about Washington for twenty-five years, was asked whom he considered the ablest man in the Senate? "Morgan of Alabama," he replied instantly. There are many people in Washington who share that opinion. Congressman Oates, of Alabama, says he considers Senator Morgan the best lawyer he ever saw, and that he has never known him to be worsted in a legal argument. During the first four or five years of his senatorial career he spoke too frequently, and on many subjects, often wearying the senate and depleting the galleries, though he always spoke well. The past two years he has been more economical of his strength, and there has been a corresponding rise in the estimate of his capacity. He is not an eloquent man in the sense that Senator Hill was. He seldom stirs the emotions of his hearers, and rarely attempts oratorical flights. But he is the best speaker in the senate of today. The fine periods and polished metaphors of Senator Ingalls which have been so much admired invariably smell of the midnight oil, and some of them are so painfully overwrought that they seem to have a galling rather than a natural and healthy vigor. The easy grace and the unstrained strength of Senator Morgan's speeches constitute their most attractive quality.

THE MEXICAN INVASION.

Gov. Torres Highly Indignant—He Orders the Offending Officer Surrendered to American Authorities.

NOGALES, A. T., March 5.—Governor Torres, of Santa Anna, Mexico, and staff, accompanied by Col. Arvizu, arrived this morning from Bermosilla.

Governor Torres, on learning the particulars of the affair of Thursday censured the Mexican consul Senor Labadiel, in unmeasured terms, for not surrendering Lieut. Gutierrez, who led the soldiers in the

to the American authorities immediately. Colonel Arvizu in order to clear himself, stated to Governor Torres that the Americans were at fault, whereupon the governor said: "Americans are not in fault. They were not in fault. They were not in Mexico fighting you! What business had your soldiers in the United States, armed and fighting United States authorities?"

Gov. Torres is

at the actions of the local Mexican authorities. Upon learning that Vasquez, chief of the Mexican police had been removed for refusing to take a hand against the Americans, he immediately reinstated him. He was ordered to take a force of men and secure Lieut. Gutierrez and turn him over to the United States authorities. The chief thereupon dispatched ten men, full armed, to scour the country and bring in Gutierrez dead or alive. This, it is believed will prevent further trouble.

Augusta, Ga., Jan. 7, 1887. Swift's Specific Co. Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR:—For ten years my blood was in a very bad condition, evincing its ill humors in a chronic swollen and violent red nose, and innumerable boils that frequently appeared on my face looked as if I had several cases of erysipelas.

Some time ago I determined to try S. S. S. as I had heard so much of the Specific as a blood purifier. After using six large bottles of S. S. S. I was entirely cured. The violent deep red color left my nose, the boils disappeared permanently, and my general health was built up wonderfully. I regard S. S. S. not only the finest blood purifier, but also as the finest tonic for reduced constitution and general debility that I know of.

Yours truly, W. J. POLLARD

From Rev. Mr. Kelly.

Myself and wife were seriously afflicted with malarial poison, nervous prostration and general debility. After using three large sized bottles of Swift's Specific, we now consider ourselves almost entirely free from any blood impurities, and are as active and supple as we were twenty years ago. I take pleasure in recommending S. S. S. to all who suffering from any impurities of the blood, dizziness or nervous headache.

HORRIBLE HOLOCAUST.
ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—A fire was kindled at 12:30 o'clock this morning in the Albany hotel, corner of Main and Richmond streets. The alarm was sounded and the fire department responded promptly. The hotel was a large and modern building, and was filled with guests last night. The fire broke out in the kitchen, and spread rapidly to the other parts of the building. The firemen were unable to reach the fire in time, and the building was completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen. The firemen were unable to reach the fire in time, and the building was completely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The fire was caused by a gas stove in the kitchen.

A SAD AFFLICTION.
Congressman Dragg Loses One of His Eyes, and May Go Entirely Blind.
GEN. E. S. DRAGG.
FOND DU LAC, WIS., March 17.—Gen. Edward S. Dragg, the well known congressman and politician, has entirely lost the sight of his left eye, and fears are entertained that his right eye will be affected. A few days ago General Dragg, while writing at his desk, suddenly noticed a decrease in vision. In a moment he discovered that he was unable to see with his left eye. He immediately stopped work, and since then has consulted several physicians, who tell him that the optic nerve is paralyzed. The trouble is not necessarily incurable, but it is a very serious matter. Gen. Dragg is confined to his home at present, and hopes to save at least the right eye, and possibly regain the use of the left.

IS WILLING TO ARBITRATE.
CANADA MAKING OVERTURES ON THE FISH QUESTION.
The Government Forward a Proposition to the London Office Which It is Expected the United States Will Accept.
A Brief History of Former Treaties.
NEW YORK, March 19.—An Ottawa special to the Tribune says. Recognizing the importance of the interests involved in the present fishery dispute, and the importance to the people of this country of the pending negotiations, the Canadian government about eight weeks ago forwarded to the colonial office in London a proposition which it was suggested should be sent to the United States secretary of state by the English authorities, suggesting a modus vivendi for the settlement of all differences between the British North American possessions and the United States. These propositions have not been made public. The full text of the matter so submitted was seen by a correspondent and the following is the substance:
After rehearsing the history of the treaties of 1781, 1783 and 1785, as well as legislative action in 1870, the document sets out that by the treaty of 1781 Canada went so far as to grant a continuance to the Americans of the treaty rights for six months, in order not to interfere with or break in upon the fishery season of 1885. This concession was freely made, although the United States refused, on the plea of non possumus, to continue to the Canadians the equivalent concession of admitting Canadian fishery rights. As soon as the fishing season of 1886 opened, the Canadian government issued a special circular, dated May 15, to the district customs officers, directing them to detain and seize all fishing boats found within three marine miles of the shore within their district, with a printed copy of the warning enclosed herewith. This warning notice carried out the acts of the 18th treaty.
The document then goes on to show that the United States local authorities on this occasion, for the first time, devised a remarkable plan to enable fishing vessels to escape being made for fishing vessels. They provide fishing vessels with full permits as trading vessels, in effect saying to Canadians: "You must admit these vessels to your ports to buy fish or bait or oysters, or what you will, for we are licensed traders." But the Canadians have the simple rejoinder: "There are no fishing vessels and, therefore, can not trade." In regard to the bait question, it is claimed that the catching of bait is fishing in its strictest sense and that all bait is necessarily caught within the three mile limit. To come within the limit is to buy fish, fresh, caught within the limit, is in effect to buy bait for the fishing. The Americans have special right under the treaty of 1818 to catch bait or buy bait on the Magdalen Islands and coasts of Newfoundland. Such a concession would have been obviously superfluous if similar rights were conceded in the clause which gave the United States the right to fish in Canadian waters for the specified purposes of catching wood and water, or shelter, or repairs, and for no other purposes whatsoever.
It is suggested that in order to settle all differences Canada submit that Great Britain should pay to the United States the sum of $100,000 in gold, to be paid in three installments of $33,333.33 each, on the 1st, 15th and 29th of March, 1887. The sum of $100,000 is to be paid in three installments of $33,333.33 each, on the 1st, 15th and 29th of March, 1887. The sum of $100,000 is to be paid in three installments of $33,333.33 each, on the 1st, 15th and 29th of March, 1887.

NO PLACE FOR OUTLAWS.
A Band of Cuban Agitators Required to Leave a Florida Town.
KEY WEST, Fla., March 17.—A band of eleven Cuban outlaws landed here from Tampa, Saturday. Eight left town on receiving notice to do so from the citizen's committee. Of the remaining three, Emilio Garcia surrendered himself to the sheriff, Pedro Oja was arrested at the instance of the state attorney and looked up in jail, and Ramon Ruben asked the committee to make a fuller examination into his case. The committee granted his request, but finally informed him that he must go, which he immediately agreed to do if the committee would give their reasons for insisting on his departure in writing. This was willingly and promptly done. The notice given by the committee was as follows:
"We are here as the representatives of the good people of this community to say that we intend to have order, peace and quiet prevail in our midst, and to give no place to disturbers and agitators must leave immediately and without further notice. If you are peaceful and law-abiding and wish to remain in our midst and pursue a legitimate business, we will see that you are protected and in no way molested. But if you remain you must conform to our laws and customs. We know the agitators and disturbers and if they remain after this notice they must abide the consequences."
The committee, which consisted of fifteen persons, was appointed at a meeting of citizens held here on the 15th inst. for the purpose of visiting some means of reducing the number of this kind of desperadoes, and given full power to adopt such measures as they saw fit. The committee visited the headquarters of the disturbing faction and informed them that they were known to be outlaws and blackguards, and ordered them to leave. Hence their exit. Two of the band are now in jail here.

ALABAMA'S DEFAULTER.
ISAAC H. VINCENT ARRESTED IN BIG SANDY, TEXAS.
After Evading the Best Detectives For Over Four Years He is Finally Captured by a Deputy Sheriff. The Prisoner Breaks Completely Down—The Trial.
MOBILE, Ala., March 16.—Isaac H. Vincent, defaulting bondsmen of E. C. Roy, a deputy sheriff of Barker county, Texas. The prisoner arrived here today in charge of Ray, and was jailed. The arrest was made at Big Sandy, Wood county, Texas, on last Sunday morning at 4 o'clock. Vincent stepped off a train unconcernedly, entirely unsuspecting apprehension.
When he was confronted by Deputy Ray with a revolver in his hand, Vincent, thinking the officer was a highwayman, immediately threw up his hands, stating that he had no money about him. Ray repeated the demand for his money. Vincent at once broke completely down, crying like a child and begged the officer not to take him back to his home, huddled, promising to waive the formality of waiting for a requisition from the governor of Alabama. Vincent complied with the request and brought him down to Mobile.
When the news spread that Vincent was brought back, the excitement was great. Large crowds gathered at the jail to catch a glimpse of the prisoner, and knots of men assembled on the streets and discussed the arrest of the fugitive.
Vincent's flight on January 29, 1885, his confinement of six years of state penitentiary, which he spent in speculation and gambling, and the efforts of detectives to arrest him are matters of history. It remains for a simple deputy sheriff, assisted by the active cooperation of the present state executive, to finally run to the ground this most noted of Alabama defaulters. Vincent always commanded the respect of his fellow men. He was very quiet, and even now commands the sympathy of the people here on account of his interesting family. Vincent is broken down completely, is loggish and worn, and looks twenty years older than he left home.
His trial or indictment, containing thirty-two counts for embezzlement, will come up at this present term of the circuit court, now in session, and is eagerly awaited by the public. It is rumored that some startling revelations will be produced at the trial if Vincent will not confess.

MEXICO'S NEW TARIFF.
Figures of Much Interest to American Merchants Generally.
CITY OF MEXICO, March 19.—The public announcement of a new tariff schedule shows that it is more liberal than the previous one. The following table includes imports and modifications affecting articles imported from the United States: Cotton thread, 12 1/2 per kilogram, a reduction of thirty-three cents per square meter; reduction of three cents per square meter; reduction of three cents, the same with more than thirty threads, fifteen cents, no reduction; cotton cloth, bleached or unbleached, not exceeding thirty threads in the square of one-half centimeter; reduction of two cents; the same with more than thirty threads, eleven cents, no reduction; common salt, three cents per kilogram, formerly one cent when introduced via Paso del Norte and six cents by any other route; iron, five cents per kilogram, a reduction of two cents; steel, five cents per kilogram, a reduction of two cents; bricks, $2.50 per 1,000, a reduction of six cents; lead, five cents per kilogram, a reduction of two cents; iron furniture, twenty cents per kilogram, a reduction from the previous rate.
Canned goods were formerly taxed at almost prohibitive rates. In a few of the most important articles, such as condensed milk, some trade has begun with United States manufacturers. These goods continue to be taxed per legal weight, which includes the weight of the tin or glass. Pickles, sauces and mustard are rated at twenty-five cents per kilogram, a reduction of fifty cents. The tariff on liquors of all kinds is largely reduced, while that on paper is unchanged. The tariff on woven goods is somewhat reduced, but this does not affect the American trade. The absolute free list is enlarged by the addition of forty-two articles, among them barbed wire for fencing, hoses, bars for mines, fire engines, hydraulic lifts, printed books, printing type, rags, for paper, wire rope and cable, church clocks and many useful chemicals. The new free list gives better opportunities to trade with this country.

OLD UNCLE CY.
PEN PICTURE OF THE OLD TIME PLANTATION SLAVE.
The Counterpart of "Uncle Remus" Found in Many a Southern Household—Characteristics of a Typical Negro Servant—"Aunt Bess."
"Uncle Remus," so charmingly sketched by Chandler Harris, of Georgia, had his counterpart in many a southern household. My Uncle Remus is dead. He was the home born slave of my grandfather, in Barnwell, and in his early manhood rafted lumber down Edisto river to Charleston. A pure African by blood, he was a strongly marked prognathous, features of his race; was six feet high, with flesh and muscle in proportion. On the marriage of my father, in 1820, Cy was given to him, and helped him to build the log house to which he took his bride, and to clear his first field. Uncle Cy, as the children always called him, taught me to ride a horse, and later on to shoot a gun. He shook hickory nuts out of the fall trees, and rived trap sticks for me off bark from saplings and plait me the most glorious roping whips in the state. He was the best waggoner of his time; could get more out of a team with less worry, and take a heavy load over the worst roads with less accident than anybody else. At log rollins and house raisings he was head man; and likewise crediting oats and wheat. He was fabulously strong, for strength and skill. For plowing, hoeing and cotton picking he was no great thing—rather disinclined than as fit only for women and common niggers. He was a great man, and could hew to the line. He cleared tobacco; and many of my choicest favors and attentions were procured by a quid literally quid pro quo. I suppose he was the father of thirty or forty children, begotten in his own image, and that all his posterity—children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren—would at this time amount to several hundred.
Uncle Cy became a fair plantation carpenter and blacksmith; could make a plow and stock it, hang doors and gates and make a wagon that would run. On my father's death Cy became the property of my mother by his will, but he thought fully said she could not keep up the plantation without him. At the division of her estate he and his wife fell to me. By degrees he graded me up as years went on. It was first Holland, then Mas Holland, then Master, which title he used to the last, as though he liked it. He was a record a criticism on that romance of marvelous genius, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Such a negro as Uncle Tom was never sold out of any family. Money could not buy that sort.
It was a great treat to be permitted to "go to town" with Uncle Cy on the cotton wagon. There was one to whom he bore a tender loyalty, and for whom he had three names—Missus, Your Mudder, and Miss Betty. To her he felt amenable for the best safety, and he knew how to afford him the utmost help within his limits. When the bright camp fire was kindled and the team halted and fed for the night, Uncle Cy would bring out that frying pan—his only culinary apparatus—and work up a savory meal. For butchering a beef or mutton there was none so efficient as Uncle Cy. He would skin and butcher with pigstails and bladders. In ghosts and witches he was a firm believer, and could beat Vennor prognosticating the weather. I would put him against Carlisle or Barnard for telling the hour of the night if the Seven Stars, Job's Coffin, the Three Hammers, or other heavenly bodies were shining.
For over years he had a deep dislike. While obeying his own master in the letter and spirit of the Epistle to the Ephesians, he was insubordinately to delegated authority, and here came in his most serious trouble. A sad case I may mention to have occurred in Alabama about 1850. In a difficulty with the overseer Uncle Cy rebelled and ran away, taking with him two other negro men. They were gone over a year, and no tidings of them could be got. At last they turned up in South Alabama. It seems they had made their way back to the old Barnwell neighborhood, a distance of over 300 miles, crossing the Chattahoochee, Flint, Ocmulgee, and Savannah rivers, and becoming weary of hiding their heads in the woods, they had turned up in South Alabama. It seems they had made their way back to the old Barnwell neighborhood, a distance of over 300 miles, crossing the Chattahoochee, Flint, Ocmulgee, and Savannah rivers, and becoming weary of hiding their heads in the woods, they had turned up in South Alabama.

John Ruskin wrote of railroads the other day thus: "They are to me the loathesomest form of devilry now extant, animated and deliberate earthquakes, destructive of all wise social habit or possible natural beauty, carriages of damned souls on the ridges of their own graves."

Wicked Mr. Labouche points a finger at the unseemly juxtaposition of two earthquake facts. His point is that while many worshippers in a church were slain that neighboring nest of gamblers, Monte Carlo, was undisturbed, not so much as a teacup having been broken.

Atlanta Constitution: The death of Mr. Beacher has exposed to the public two cranks of the first order. One is the Chicago minister who refused to vote for resolution of sympathy for the distressed wife, and the other is the editor of the Birmingham Chronicle, who writes a silly and exceedingly inappropriate comment, closing with "The South has no tears for Henry Ward Beacher."

In the White sea there is a fleet of six steamers which are owned, officered and manned by monks. They ply between Archangel and the island of Jolovetsk, where there is a monastery, and their business is to convey pilgrims to the island. As many as 30,000 people annually make the journey between May and September, the only time when the island is accessible.

A blacksmith in Louisville recently discovered a new process of making and hardening steel; a blacksmith in Verona, Pa., has now found out how to weld copper, this latter being one of the "utter impossibilities" of scientists. If blacksmiths go on enlightening the world at this rate, the fraternity will soon have good reason for demanding admission into the highest rank of learned professions.

New York Herald: It costs something over a thousand dollars for the aldermen to attend a funeral, and the taxpayers have to foot the bill. Mayor Hewitt suggests that their grief is altogether too expensive, and naively asks how these city officials managed to wear four pair of gloves each. He forgets that when there is a chance to get at the treasury it's a pretty poor alderman who hasn't hands enough to take everything within reach.

Rev. Dr. Talmage's experience with a Philadelphia philosopher was thus mentioned in that preacher's sermon on Sunday: "When I see that there are so many people in the world who like to say disagreeable things I come almost in my weaker moments to believe what a man said to me in Philadelphia one Monday morning. I went to get the horse that was at the livery, and the hostler, a plain man, said to me: 'Mr. Talmage, I saw that you preached to the young men yesterday.' I said, 'Yes.' He said: 'No use, no use; man's a failure.'"

After banishing beer the prohibitionists of Iowa are now making a crusade against cider. In Des Moines recently the prohibition spies seized a keg of cider belonging to one Jacob Hueglin and accused him of violating the law in having so deadly an agent of intoxication in his possession. As it was not strong cider, he believed he was not violating the law in using it. But the justice of the peace declared the fluid to be intoxicating and ordered it to be destroyed. The head of the keg was accordingly knocked in and the contents poured in the street as a warning to all other offenders.

Boston Herald: There is a dispute among the New York politicians as to whether Mr. James C. Bayles, whom Mayor Hewitt has just appointed president of the health board in place of Gen. Shaler, is a republican or a democrat. There's no doubt, however, about him being an honest, energetic and capable man, who understands his business, so it isn't a matter of grave importance whether the subject of dispute among the politicians is ever settled. The mortality will probably be reduced even if there is sickness among the politicians.

New York Tribune: Those zealous people who would like to compel their neighbors to stop using tobacco will be interested in the attempt of His Excellency Muley Hassan, Sultan of Morocco, to reform tobacco users. This particular method of reform which he adopts is to have them soundly flogged every time they are caught smoking. Muley is evidently a reformer whose vigorous way would shock the generous and effete West.

Chicago News: There have been 112 murders committed in Edgely county, S. C., during the last thirteen years. Within a week or so a man who shot down a negro boy by way of amusement has been acquitted by a jury and another who killed three unoffending men was found guilty of manslaughter. Thirty-one men charged with a murder committed in 1885 have had their cases postponed to another term of court, and it is deemed probable that they will never be tried. Murder is now considered the safest pastime which can be indulged in by Edgely county people.

Macon Telegraph: Some of our free trade friends are beside themselves with joy, because the Pennsylvania republicans threaten to gerrymander Mr. Randall's congressional district. Mr. Randall's district has been democratic for fifty years; long before our free trade friends or the republican party were born. Mr. Randall has always been nominated and elected by democrats. Pennsylvania was once the Key Stone State of democracy, and we have the authority of her democratic governor, Curtin, for the statement that she would return to her allegiance but for the foolishness of our free trade friends and the republicans combined will be unable to put Dr. Randall outside of the democratic party.

New York Times: The denials that followed the first rumor of a plot to kill the czar were prompt and persistent, but their very urgency was suspicious, and now the original story is repeated, coupled with the report of a project by others than nihilists to overthrow despotism and substitute constitutional monarchy. Six years have passed since the assassination of the czar's father, on the 13th of March, 1881, and the life led by his successor, with its terrors and alarms, must have been one of misery. Not until 1893 did he venture to be crowned, and now, after a brief respite from conspiracies against his life, he finds them rife again. All this time he has taken no step to disarm enemies and strengthen the loyalty of his people by giving Russia a constitution. During the earlier years of his reign such a gift might perhaps have been misinterpreted as a wrong from him by fear; but there was good opportunity for it later, and had he done that act his throne would probably have been stronger to-day and his life happier.

AN ACT.

To Define the Rights and Liabilities of husband and Wife.

Sec. 1.—Be it further enacted by the general assembly of Alabama, That all property of the wife held by her previous to the marriage or to which she may become entitled after the marriage, in any manner, is the separate property of the wife, and is not subject to the liabilities of the husband.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That the earnings of the wife are her separate property; but she is not entitled to compensation for services rendered to or for the husband, or to or for the family.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That all damages which the wife may be entitled to recover for injury to her person or reputation, are her separate property.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That the husband is not liable for the debts and engagements of the wife, contracted or entered into before marriage, or for torts committed by her before marriage, but therefor she remains liable and liable as if she were sole.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That the husband is not liable for the debts or engagements of the wife, contracted or entered into after marriage or for her torts, in the commission of which he does not participate; but the wife is liable for such debts or engagements entered into with the consent of the husband in writing, or for her torts and is liable therefor as if she were sole.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That the wife has full legal capacity to contract in writing as if she were sole with the assent or concurrence of the husband expressed in writing.

Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That the wife must sue alone, at law or in equity, upon all contracts made by or with her, or for the recovery of her separate property, or for injuries to such property, or for its rents, income or profits, or for all injuries to her person or reputation; and upon all contracts made by her, or engagements into which she enters, and for all torts committed by her, she must be sued as if she were sole.

Sec. 8. Be it further enacted, That the wife, if the husband be of sound mind, and has not abandoned her, or be not a non-resident of the State, or be not imprisoned under conviction for crime for a period exceeding two years, cannot alienate her lands, or any interest therein, without the assent and concurrence of the husband to be manifested by his joining in the alienation in the mode prescribed by law for the execution of conveyances of land, and if the husband be non compos mentis, or has abandoned the wife, or is a non-resident of the State, or is imprisoned under a conviction for crime for a period exceeding two years, the wife may alienate her lands as if she were sole. But the personal property of the wife, or any part thereof, may be sold, exchanged or otherwise conveyed or disposed of by the husband and wife by parol or otherwise. If the husband is living apart from the wife, without fault upon her part, or if he be of unsound mind, the wife may convey or dispose of such property in any manner as if she were sole.

Sec. 9. Be it further enacted, That the husband and wife may contract with each other, but all contracts into which they enter are subject to the rules of law as to contracts by and between persons standing in confidential relations; but the wife shall not, directly or indirectly, become the surety for the husband.

Sec. 10. Be it further enacted, That the wife may, with the consent of the husband, expressed or in writing, and filed and recorded in the office of the judge of probate of the county of their residence, and of the county in which the business is carried on, enter into and pursue any lawful trade or business as if she were sole. But the consent of the husband is not necessary if he be of unsound mind, or has abandoned his wife, or is a non-resident of the state, or is imprisoned under conviction for crime.

Sec. 11. Be it further enacted, That all property of the wife, whether acquired by descent or inheritance, of gift, devise or bequest or by contract or conveyance, or by gift from a contract with the husband; is the separate property of the wife within the meaning, and is subject to all the provisions of this act, saving and excepting only such property as may be conveyed to an active trustee for her benefit.

Sec. 12 Be it further enacted,

That sections 2704, 2705, 2706, 2707, 2708, 2709, 2710, 2711, 2712, 2717, 2718, 2719, 2720, 2721, 2722, 2723, 2724, 2735, 2736, 2727, 2728, 2729, 2730, 2731, and 2732 of the code of 1876 be and the same are hereby repealed; and the provisions of sections 2713, 2714, 2715 and 2716 of the code, are applicable to the separate estate hereby defined and declared.

Approved February 28, 1887.

Unfold Sufferings—A Ten Years Experience.

NEAR BROWNWOOD, GA.,

Dec. 6, 1886.

GENTLEMEN: For ten years I had a tumor. During that time I have under treatment of the best physicians in Atlanta, Ga., and Utica, N. Y., none of whom were able to give relief or assurance of cure. Then I turned to the use of patent medicines, several of which I used without avail. My doctor in Dawson, who had attended me for twenty years assured me that I could not live a year. About two years ago I began using S. S. S., and at once my tumor yielded to its influence; it grew softer and smaller, and my general health, which was badly run down, was built up with the decrease of the tumor. Finally, I felt so well and my general health was so good, that I stopped the Swift Specific, and went on performing my household duties. But, of course, as I had persisted in the use of the medicine until the tumor had entirely disappeared, I could only look for a return of the ailment. Again I resorted to the use of the Swift's Specific, with the same happy results as on the first occasion. This has been repeated several times within the last two years, the medicine never failing to reduce the tumor and build up my general system. When I first began to take the Specific, I was so nervous that I could not sleep for hours on retiring. I felt that I just held my feet still for a few minutes by force of will, that it would have thrown me into convulsions. That nervousness the S. S. S. entirely cured. My pain was so great that my physician urged me to keep under the influence of morphine all the time, and to abandon hope of recovery. When I began the use of the Specific, I was on the bed half my time, a helpless invalid. This year I have been able to do all my own cooking, except when I was down with a severe cold.
