SPAIN'S ANARCHISTS.

A FIERY TUMULT CREATED BY THEM IN MADRID.

A Woman Mounted the Platform and Preached Powder and Balls to the Maddened Throng.

MADRID, Jan. 3.—Fifteen hundred anarchists held a reunion Sunday evening in Barcelona to celebrate the New Year. There was much incendiary talk, and several of the speakers predicted a reign of bloodshed and terror in Spain during the year just opened.

The leading anarchist, one Volas, declared that he meant to inaugurate 1893 with a baptism of blood. Great shouts of approval and torrents of denunciation of the grandees and middle classes followed this declaration.

A female anarchist named Theresa Claremunt sprung to the platform. She is as fierce an enemy of the established order of things as Louise Michael, and a good deal handsomer.

"Go Home," She Cried, with flashing eyes and tossing hair, "go home for the present and save the centimes your oppressors allow you to earn, while they revel in wealth; save the pittance to buy rifles, and prepare to execute on the blood-sucking capitalists and their miserable tools the destruction that is provided for them in the anarchist program."

Howls and shouts of applause broke in upon the words of the speaker.

"Give Them No Quarter,"

she cried, "no quarter. I will lead to the points of the bayonets." The whole audience seemed frenzied by the woman's wild utterances, and there might have been a dangerous demonstration but for the interference of some of the cooler heads who succeeded in calming the excited gathering.

DISTURBANCES IN GERMANY.

Troops Called Out to Suppress Rioting Miners, Backed by Socialists.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The authorities are considerably agitated by the serious nature of the coal miners in the Saar district, and Sunday four battalions of the 29th and 66th regiments and a large force of gendarmes were ordered to the scene of disturbance. The number of strikers has increased, and

Now the Number Is About 23,000.

Many of them have arms and rioting is reported at many points in the district. The leaders of the strike have forced thousands to join them who would have preferred to remain at work. The authorities have received information that socialistic orders are behind the movement.

The military are under instructions to enforce order without mercy for the rioters and to protect those who wish to work in returning to the mines.

The rioters, it is said, will be suppressed if it takes an army of troops to crush them.

KENTUCKY CONVICTS.

They Are About to Fall Into the Hands of the State on Short Notice.

FRANKFORT, Jan. 3.—One of the most important communications that has been penned in Kentucky recently has been received by the board of sinking fund commissioners and ex-officio managers of the state penitentiary from the Mason-Foard company, the present lessees of the convict labor. The communication is of vital importance, for the reason that if its expressed intentions are adhered to, the state will have to take charge of all its hundreds of convicts next April, at an annual cost to the tax-payers of over $100,000.

The communication finally notifies the board that the firm will not avail itself of the option to extend for four years the lease which expires next April. They are willing to continue the existing lease indefinitely on the present monthly payments, to terminate on ninety day's notice from either side, if the state will provide shop room for 800 convicts now idle. If any shops are destroyed, and the state fails to rebuild in ninety days, the lease shall terminate.

The governor, who is ex-officio chairman of the sinking fund commissioners, has never been able to agree with the lessees about the proper and legal construction of the contract of lease. The lessees claim that the state owes them a balance of several hundred dollars, while the governor thinks the balance should be double as much on the other side of the ledger. The legislature will most likely be called on to take a hand in the vexing question.

MURDER IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Details of a Horrible Affair Committed in Stokes County.

RICHMOND, Jan. 3.—A special received here reports a horrible murder in Stokes county, North Carolina, near Neatman's post-office. Ira Voss, Sandy Stevenson and Peter Keyser went to the house of Mrs. Polly Watson and asked for admittance, and were refused. Voss and Stevenson entered the house by tearing down the door. Stevenson dragged the woman out and, about ten steps from the house, beat her head into a jelly.

Voss remained in the house, while Stevenson came back and attempted to shoot the 6-year-old boy of Mrs. Watson, and would have done so had it not been for Voss striking his hand as he fired, causing the ball to go over him. Mrs. Voss was found the next morning near the house with a log across her head and shoulders that would weigh about 1,200 pounds. It is supposed that Voss is implicated in the murder. The parties are in the hands of officers.

Memphis Gambling Houses Close.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 3.—The gambling houses of the city closed Saturday night in advance of an order to that effect from the city authorities. The order had been determined on in consequence of attack made by the press upon the fire and police commissioners for permitting the games to run, notwithstanding that the state law makes faro and roulette felonies. These as well as all other games, have been allowed here in consideration of sums amounting to about $2,500 monthly, paid by the gamblers into the city treasury.

A FEARFUL TRAGEDY.

Fatal Termination of a Watch Night Play in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—The old year was closed Saturday night by a terrible tragedy, in which Sydney McCoy, a young lawyer aged 33, lost his life, and Miss Grace King, aged 18, is in an unconscious condition.

A party of about fifty friends assembled at McCoy's house to watch the old year out and the new year in. A feature of the evening's entertainment was the production of a short play written by McCoy and performed by amateurs.

The plot of the play was the betrayal of a band of ruffian nihilists by one of their number. The nihilists discover their traitor and condemn her to death. They decide by lot who shall perform the execution and the number fell to the character portrayed by McCoy, Miss King playing the part of traitor. She is given the choice of being killed or stabbing herself, and chooses the latter alternative.

McCoy handed her a stout dagger which had been in his family for many years. In the play, instead of stabbing herself she was to stab her executioner, and when Miss King received the knife she reached to touch McCoy on the breast with the knife. At the same instant McCoy started towards the girl, when she stumbled and falling forward with the dagger in her hand drove it through McCoy's heart.

McCoy showed wonderful vitality and presence of mind. He walked into the next room and asked for a doctor and then fell dead. The girl knew there had been an accident of some kind, but did not know McCoy was killed. She was taken home and afterwards, on the advice of friends, gave herself up to the police.

She was taken to the city prison at 3 o'clock, and when she entered the prison fainted, and has since remained unconscious.

McCoy's two brothers secured her release by giving bond for $10,000 for her appearance. The girl was taken home, and is in a critical condition.

The accident is explained by the fact that recently Miss King suffered from a sprained ankle, and has been using crutches to walk with, but had laid them aside to practice her part in the play. As she made a motion to stab McCoy she rested her weight on the weak foot, it gave way and she fell forward.

A METHODIST DAILY.

One Will Be Started in Chicago on Advanced Religious Principles.

ST. PAUL, Jan. 4.—It has developed in the last few days that the Methodists propose something unique in daily journalism. At a convention of the Epworth league of northern Wisconsin, at Hudson, a resolution was passed Wednesday recommending the Methodist church of America to begin the publication of a daily Christian advocate at Chicago, the editorials to be of advanced liberal religious thought, with sensational and objectional news eliminated from the news columns.

It is estimated that there are 5,000,000 members of the Methodist church in America, and the promoters of the scheme say the daily could be started with a million subscribers. The influence of the paper, it is claimed, will be far-reaching. Epworth leagues throughout the country, it is understood, will pass similar resolutions, and the new venture will be launched in March or April.

A MURDERER CAUGHT.

He Has Been Hidden Away in the Mountains for Seven Months.

KNOXVILLE, Jan. 4.—Edwards, the desperado who killed Deputy Sheriff James Taylor, near Jellico, Tenn., seven months since, was captured and brought to Clinton Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Hembree and A. Taylor, and lodged in jail. At the time of the killing Edwards was mounted on a horse behind Taylor, being under arrest for larceny. He left Taylor to die in a lonely valley, and made his escape.

A reward of $500 was placed on his head, but he eluded the officers until last Saturday, when the theft of a mule led to the discovery of his hiding place in Elk Valley, Roane county. He has lived by peddling moonshine whisky to secluded mountain hamlets since the murder of Taylor.

CRISP CAUGHT COLD.

He Has Been Quite Sick for Several Days But Not Seriously.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The special correspondents Sunday night sent out the statement that Speaker Crisp is a very sick man.

Dr. Sowers, the attending physician, was to see him twice Saturday. Members of the family were greatly alarmed, but Sunday night Judge Crisp was much improved, and the worst appears to be over.

While in New York Speaker Crisp caught a severe cold which settled in his stomach.

Dr. Sowers said that he was attending Speaker Crisp for an attack of indigestion; that the speaker was not seriously ill and that he has not been well since his return from New York.

A Tin Plate Combination.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 4.—In order to more closely cement their interests and to stop the cutting of prices, the plate glass manufacturers of the United States have appointed a general agent to sell the product of their factories and distribute the orders. The agent selected is S. E. Wheeler, general manager of the Standard Plate Glass works at Butler. All orders will pass through his hands, and will be distributed by him between the eleven factories in the country on the basis of production. Mr. Wheeler will have his headquarters in Pittsburg, and will begin work about the middle of January.

A Democrat from California.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4.—A sensation has been caused here by the withdrawal of W. W. Foote, Democrat, from the senatorial contest. He and his chief supporters declare in favor of Stephen M. White, the only other Democrat in the field. This insures the election of White to succeed Charles N. Felton, a Republican.

CARLISLE AND CLEVELAND.

Their Long Conference in New York Closed—Some Topics Discussed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Senator John G. Carlisle, after an extended conference with Mr. Cleveland at the latter's residence Saturday afternoon, returned to Washington. Mr. Carlisle has been the guest of Mr. Cleveland since Friday. He came to Washington on special invitation of the President-elect, conveyed to him through ex-Mayor W. R. Grace, who went to Washington two or three days ago. It is said that among the topics that were given prominence in the discussion was Mr. Carlisle's disposition as to a place in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, which, it has been semi-officially declared, has been tendered to him.

After he left it was said that he had given Mr. Cleveland no definite answer on the question. Some of his friends say that would be influenced to some extent by the wishes of Mrs. Carlisle in this matter, and it was also said that she did not look with favor upon it, preferring to see her husband remain in the senate, which is conceded to be practically a life position with him. It is said that the Democratic tariff policy was another topic of discussion.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

The Orleanists Seem to Have Designs Against the Government.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The Orleanists have by no means abandoned the hope of regaining the throne of France through a revulsion in the republican sentiment caused by the revelations in the Panama affair. What the present intentions of the Orleanists are, is hard to say, but it is evident that some project is contemplated that is intended to lead to the overthrow of the republic and the establishment of a monarchy.

The Count of Paris has telegraphed to his son, the Duke of Orleans, who is now traveling in Indo-China, to hasten his return, in order that he may take part in the deliberations of the Orleans party.

In English circles it is believed that there is no chance of the machinations of the French Royalists and Imperialists proving successful. It is thought that the French government by pursuing those implicated in the Panama scandal to punishment will establish the republic on sounder foundations than before and will render such an evil as the Panama affair hereafter impossible.

FEARS FOR GLADSTONE.

Detectives Are Guarding Him Against Conspirators—The Queen's Message.

LONDON, Jan. 2.—The authorities appear to be so strongly convinced that the Dublin explosion, by which Detective Synott lost his life, was part of the work of a band of conspirators that they have sent a detective to Biarritz to keep guard over Mr. Gladstone and protect him from outrage. Mr. Gladstone has not been made aware of the precaution taken, as it is known that he would resent any protection of the kind should he be aware of it. Home Secretary Asquith is also protected when he goes out in public by a detective in civilian attire, who keeps near enough to interfere in the event of an attack upon Mr. Asquith.

In view of the precautions taken the opinion prevails that the authorities are in possession of definite and important information as to the existence of a formidable dynamite conspiracy.

Queen Victoria was among the earliest to congratulate Mr. Gladstone on the arrival of his 83d birthday. Her telegram was unusually gracious in tone.

Complimenting Flower.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 4.—Governor Flower was at the executive chamber all the morning. About noon an immense floral piece eight feet long, representing the ship of state and named "Empire State," was placed upon the governor's desk. From the mast heads floated two streamers, one bearing the words "I don't care a d—n for votes," the other words, "no debt, no cholera." It was a gift from James Oliver, of New York city, sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic national committee, and it pleased the governor very much.

John Hopkins Open for Women.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 3.—Miss Mary Elizabeth Garrett has made possible the opening of the proposed medical school of the John Hopkins university, in which women shall receive the same opportunity for study as men. The school, by vote of the university of the trustees, will open in October, 1893. Miss Garrett has placed at the disposal of the trustees $306,977, which, with the amount already in hand, will make up $500,000, the sum which was required. The gift is to be called "The Mary Elizabeth Garrett fund."

A Meat War in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3.—There is a prospect of a lively meat war in San Francisco as the result of the establishment of Philip D. Armour's big stock yards and slaughter house plant in South San Francisco. The local slaughter-house men are trying to make the retail butchers boycott Armour's establishment. Armour's representative says that if the boycott is attempted his company will open retail butcher shops all over the city, and will sell meats at rates with which other butchers cannot hope to compete.

An Aged Couple Murdered.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 3.—News has reached here of a double murder in Chatham county, the victims being Adam Siler, aged [illegible], and his wife, aged [illegible]. Their bodies were discovered lying on the floor of their house by their 16-year-old grandson. Siler had been shot three times and Mrs. Siler twice. The house had been searched for money, although little was found. The coroner's inquest failed to yield any information regarding the murderer. Mr. and Mrs. Siler were buried in the same grave.

The Mexican Veteran Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Just previous to the holiday season, President Harrison disposed of all bills sent to him for his signature and those that had not reached him at the time of the holiday recess he requested should be held at the capitol. Among the bills is the Mexican pension bill.

MR. CARLISLE'S WIFE.

SHE TAKES A LIVELY INTEREST IN HIS AFFAIRS.

Her Wishes Will Have Much to Do with His Acceptance of a Cabinet Portfolio.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—It has been learned that Senator Carlisle had left the question whether he shall become secretary of the treasury with his wife to decide. Mr. Carlisle was asked by the president-elect to come over from Washington to talk over the question of accepting the portfolio.

He spent the better part of two days at the Cleveland residence. Ample opportunity was afforded to discuss the momentous proposition. After all his other objection had been gone over, the senator is reported to have given his weightiest reason. It was that his

from the moment his name was first mentioned.

A close friend of the senator said: "Mrs. Carlisle has begged her husband not to think of becoming a member of the cabinet."

From the same source it was learned that, on leaving the president-elect, the senator remarked that he would leave the final decision to Mrs. Carlisle.

A recent writer said of Mrs. Carlisle: "How strongly her personality had been stamped upon the senators life, how much her influence had counted in keeping him true to himself; and in such lines best calculated to bring him. The honor and distinction which, were his due, perhaps never will be fully known."

From Extraordinary and Mental Gifts,

Mrs. Carlisle seems to think her husband will be greater as a senator than as a cabinet minister, so those who know her say. Her main reason, however, is that his income does not yet warrant it. As a senator comparatively little is expected from him in entertainment. As a cabinet officer it would be impossible for him to make the salary of $8,000 pay his bills.

THE MYRA CLARK-GAINES WILL.

An Effort to Establish It in Louisiana on a New York Decision.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 4.—Judge King, of the civil district court, has decided an important point in connection with the will of the late Myra Clark-Gaines. The ruling was on the petition to register the probate of the will of Mrs. Gaines, dated Jan. 5, 1885, by the surrogate court for the county of Kings, New York, and to order an execution of the will.

The Louisiana court had previously decided the will defective in form and not entitled to probate, which decision has been confirmed by the supreme court. The court decides that "the will of Mrs. Gaines, having been made in Louisiana, is governed by the laws thereof, and having been declared invalid, can not be taken to New York, the last domicile of the testator, probated there and made valid by the law of New York and brought back here for recognition and execution in court on property situated in this state and in possession of officers of this court."

A New Bank for Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 4.—A new bank has been organized here known as the Columbian Banking and Trust company, with the following officers: President, Henry W. Haesloop; vice president, Jacob [illegible]nobeloch; solicitors, Hollings and Dothage; directors, L. Dunneman, D. Rhode, Henry Haesloop, Joseph Dothage, James McAl[illegible] M. Pearlstine and Jacob Kuo[illegible]. Capital stock, $[illegible]. The new bank is to be located in Upper King street and is backed by the merchants and capitalists of that growing portion of the city.

[illegible] Beer Trust.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—An opinion just delivered by Judge Biddle declares the association, which was formed by the beer brewers of Philadelphia in 1886, and known as the Brewers Pool, to have been an unlawful combination, because it was against public policy and restrained trade. This association was composed of some forty-five brewers and firms engaged in the beer business for the avowed purpose of controlling the trade in Philadelphia and Camden and fixing the price for which beer was to be sold.

Withdrawals from the Combine.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The coal department of the Central railroad of New Jersey, known as the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company, will, it is announced, withdraw from the Reading combine and sell its own coal. From the time of the formation of the Reading combine the company has sold its output to the Reading. [illegible] given for the action [illegible] anxiety over the litigation against the combine.

[illegible] Thornton Stringfellow [illegible]

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. [illegible]—The jury in the case of the state [illegible] Thornton Stringfellow for killing Charles H. Pratt, editor of the Gainesville (Fla.) Daily Leader, was out only fifteen minutes. Stringfellow [illegible] Pratt in flagrante delicto [illegible] and killed him. The verdict of the jury [illegible] popular [illegible] of [illegible] the court room.

Whitelaw Reid's Present.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The French consul [illegible] delivered [illegible] sent to him through the French minister [illegible] the French [illegible] which bears the inscription: "The government of the French Republic to Mr. Whitelaw Reid, late minister of the United States of America as a souvenir of his mission at Paris, 1889-1892."

The Paragon Mills Sold.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Jan. 4.—The Paragon cotton mills were sold at sheriff's sale to H. H. Epping for $83,3[illegible]0.

CADETS UNDER ARREST.

Boys Who Have Fallen Below Par at Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 4.—Naval Cadets J. M. Shaw, of Minnesota, Emory Winship, of Georgia, and several others are under arrest at the naval academy for alleged violation of that article of the regulations which forbids the lessening of respect due the commandant of the post.

While the sixteen cadets were recently confined on the Santee for escorting Fred L. Perkins, a dismissed cadet, to the main gate in a body after his fight with another cadet, Shaw wrote a letter to his father, saying that the Santee was not fit to be quartered on and complained of alleged indignities to the imprisoned squad. Several of the squad certified to the correctness of his statement.

Cadet Winship wrote to his congressman complaining of his treatment, and the letter found its way back to Superintendent Pythian.

TWO SCANDALS.

The Ohio Legislature Will Be Called Upon to Investigate Soon.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 4.—Early in the present session the legislature will probably be confronted with the necessity of investigating two very nasty scandals. For more than a year there have been charges and counter-charges in connection with the administration of Hon. Daniel S. Ryan, as executive officer of the Ohio World's Fair commission. The recent controversy between Mr. Ryan and Colonel Poorman has given the unpleasant affair additional prominence, and doubtless an effort will be made to probe to the [illegible]. General Pocock's now famous Chicago trip, accompanied by Miss Lucy Rhoades, of Zanesville, will demand proper attention.

Complaints Filed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—There has been filed with the interstate commerce commission a complaint by H. W. Behlmer, and other merchants of Summerville, South Carolina, against the Memphis and Charleston railroad, East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, Georgia Railroad and Banking Co., South Carolina Railway company, receivers of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, receiver of South Carolina Railway company, Central Railroad and Banking Company of Georgia, and Southern Railway and Steamship Association.

The complaint claims discrimination in freight rates in favor of Charleston, S. C., and against Summerville, on shipments from Memphis, Tenn., higher rates being charged to Summerville, the shorter distance.

Heavy Suits Against Kentucky Firms.

LOUISVILLE, Jan. 3.—J. Kennedy, Tod & Co., of New York, have brought suit in the federal court against the Louisville Trust company, the Kentucky Union Loan company, the Three Forks City company, E. T. Halsey, receiver of the Kentucky Union Land company, Hamilton Bean, receiver of the Kentucky Union Railroad company, and others to recover on bonds, amounting to $195,000.

J. Kennedy Tod & Co. claim five defaulted payments of coupons of $5,850 each, together with interest from the date of maturity of the respective coupons. The plaintiffs also ask that their liens be enforced.

Big Car Works in Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Jan. 4.—A strong company with John M. Bass, of Ft. Wayne, Senator Brice and Sam Thomas as leading stockholders, has been organized, and will erect car works and a car wheel foundry at Lenoir City, twenty miles west of Knoxville. The car works will have a capacity of fifteen complete cars per day. A quarter of a million [illegible]llars [illegible] expended on the plant. Already [illegible]hinery is being purchased for [illegible]tory and the foundry, which will be one of the largest industrial establishments [illegible]

Confederates in New York.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The third annual banquet of the Confederate Veteran camp of New York will be held in the Scottish Rite hall on Twenty-ninth street and Madison avenue at 7 o'clock, Jan. 29. Among the speakers will be Senator Butler, of South Carolina; Colonel George B. McClelland, Colonel John R. Fellows and General George H. Sharp. Edward Owen is chairman of the reception committee, aided by Rev. W. W. Page, J. Hamilton Hunt, C. E. Shorburn and P. W. Esiger.

A Job Offered to Mrs. Lease.

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 3.—Governor-elect Llewelling announces that he has decided to offer Mrs. Lease a position on the state board of charities. It will be one of the first appointments he will [illegible]

It is reported here that Mrs. Lease has manifested her willingness to accept the position but it is to be well understood beforehand that in accepting this position she does not in any way relinquish her claim to the senatorship.

May Be Professor McGlynn.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—It is said by a man in Catholic circles in this city that Dr. Edward McGlynn is likely to become Professor McGlynn. He will be, it is said, offered the chair of sacred oratory in the Catholic university at Washington. Bishop Kean, president of the institution, Dr. O'Gorman, Dr. Bouquillon and other members of the faculty, are among the restored priest's [illegible] friends.

A Noted Minister's Death.

SAVANNAH, Jan. 4.—Rev. William Royall, D.D., fell dead in the street in this city. He was on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. Powell, and was preparing [illegible] North Carolina [illegible] overcome with heart failure. He [illegible] church in [illegible]

[illegible] Railroad.

[illegible] Jan. [illegible]—The Decatur, Chesapeake and New Orleans railroad has been sold by decree of the United States courts to Judge G. P. Haws, of New York, representing the reorganization committee. The price paid was $100,000.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1893.

The Democrats hold the balance of power in the Kansas Legislature.

The only road to an honest election law lies through a constitutional convention.

The Anniston Hot Blast has been improved in appearance by a change of form.

It is prosposed to settle the postoffice struggle in Anniston by a primary election.

Carter, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, conceds the control of the United States Senate to the Democrats.

There is a deadlock in the organisation of the Nebraska Senate. In the House the independents have taken all the offices.

The Supreme Court of the State has decided the contest over the probate judgship in Conecuh county in favor of Lee (Kolbite) who was counted out.

The Democrats and the Populites have organized the Montana Legislature, but the margin between the combination and the Republicans is very slim.

A prominent Kolb man in this county has assured the editor of the Anniston Hot Blast that the Kolb men in Calhoun will favor a constitutional convention.

The Talladega County Alliance has had a meeting and resolved to stand by the Ocala platform. Dr. Groce was present. The dispatch does not state how many were present.

Trouble is again about to break out at Coal Creek, Tenn. among the miners. The troops have been fired on lately and the military authorities are preparing for the worst.

Messrs. Porter, Williams and Morris all board at the same place in Montgomery and are in thorough accord on local measures. The interests of the people are safe in their hands.

Solicitor W. W. Quarles, of Dallas, has written a strong letter to the Birmingham Age-Herald in favor of a constitutional convention and then an honest election law which will secure a "free ballot and fair count," based on an intelligent and honest suffrage.

It looks as if the Republicans will organize the Kansas [illegible] The populists threaten bloodshed if they cannot have their way. They have contested several seats in the Legislature, but so far the supreme court of the State has ruled against them.

On January 3rd a masked mob of 500 men took Calvin Snipes, a murderer, from the jail at Bakersville, N. C. and hung him.

The sheriff, with a posse, defended the prisoner. Seven of the sheriff's posse and twenty-five of the mob were killed.

Hon. Lewis J. Morris, while in Jacksonville last week, [illegible] freely committed himself to the [illegible] constitutional convention. [illegible] have had no means of securing the views of Representative Williams or Senator Porter, but presume there will be no inharmony in Calhoun's delegation on this question.

Prominent Cleveland men recently called on Col. Dan Lamont, Cleveland's former private Secretary, and asked him about the treatment those would receive who had opposed Cleveland. Lamont replied that he did not care to talk about that matter, but that Cleveland would certainly not forget the men who were in favor of him.

We can see no reason for calling on the State Democratic Executive Committee to give its sanction to the bill calling a constitutional convention, if a Democratic caucus determines in favor of such a bill. There are two State committees, claiming to be democratic, and a submisson to one and neglect of the other will inevitably lead to a division of the white people on a measure on which there should be no division and may be concert of action.

The Legislature will meet the 19th of this month and will remain in session twenty-seven working days, or a little more than a month's time including Sundays and holidays. It is during the latter end of the session that all questionable measures—all measures which the projectors are afraid to submit to the people during recess—are sprung upon the Legislature. We sincerely trust that this present Legislature will be free from that kind of thing. It is more important now than ever that our Democratic Legislature should possess the confidence of the people. It may ask them to trust the party to change the organic law. It will not do for it to destroy this confidence by going back upon any pledges made the people during the campaign. Common honesty demands this much at the hands of our legislators, good policy and wise statesmanship demand it.

Speaker Pettus for a Constitutional Convention.

Glowing Tribute to the Black Belt Democrats.

Who Want Relief From the Present Evils.

No Makeshifts Will Answer on This Occasion.

We Must Change Our Fundamental Law.

And Go Direct to the Tap Root of Existing Evils.

Selma, Dec. 26.—I have read with great interest Judge Caffe's letters upon the subject of a change in the election methods of the state and your editorial of the 25th inst. and I thank both Judge Caffee, and yourself for the kind words you have to say about me personaly. I was born and reared in Dallas county, and my boyhood and early manhood were largely spent amid the reconstruction scenes in Dallas county; scenes through no man of Caucasian lineage could live and not have the recollection burned into his being. At the period in man's estate, at which impressions are most indelibly impressed upon us, I witnessed the rule of the scallawag and the carpet-baggar, leading, as they did, a horde of electors fresh from slavery and druken with the fumes of newly given power. Since arriving at man's estate I have been one of the men of the black belt with the conviction, deep set and a part of my very being, that nothing short of death itself were not preferable to a return to the days when the virtue and intelligence and manhood of our people were a scoff and a byword in the mouths of oppressers. I believe there is no true man in our whole black belt who does not hope for and advocate absolute purity in elections. The men of the black belt, and certainly of [illegible] county of Dallas, who are selected as managers of elections are always selected from our very best citizens, resident in the precinct in which the election is to be held. They are selected for their manhood, their courage, honesty, their incorruptibility and their love for white supremacy. As a rule, they are the most prosperous men in their neighborhood, the men who would prefer, infinitely, death to dishonor to themselves or their commonwealth. It may be admitted that some of their actions in some particulars may be subject to criticism, and if so, you must critise all of us, for no true man lives among us who will not shoulder any responsibility or blame which may be attached to any one of them. Now Judge Caffee has suggested, and you have reiterated in words, I were more than human if I did not appreciate, that I should endeavor, in the Alabama legislature to relieve the Black belt counties and the state of Alabama from these burdens which have rested so long and so heavily upon them. To me, this is no new question; I have given the subject much thought and have spent much time in the examination of the statutes of states resting under similar conditions. The laws of Tennessee and South Carolina and Mississippi and Arkansas have been carefully and laboriously investigated. I have investigated the constitutions and law [illegible] I be [illegible] every state which has a[illegible]ted, of recent years, new methods of conducing the [illegible] and I now state, after thorough [illegible] and careful and deliberate investigation and thought, that there is no remedy for us, except in a change in our fundamental law. Makeshifts and shams, it is true, [illegible] be devised, but nothing permanent or lasting or of real benefit or honesty can be attained except through the medium of a constitutional convention. Many amendments to our constitution are needed; many have been pointed out by the general assembly, in separate resolutions, and have received the approval of our chief executive, and have been submitted to the popular vote of the electors of the state, and with singular uniformity have been rejected, notably what was known as the "Birmingham amendment," which, I believe, was favored by every elector in Birmingham which received the unanimous support of both branches of the general assembly, which was approved by the governor, and then which, when submitted to a vote of the people, no man opposing it, was overwhelmingly defeated.

I am, as you rightly judge, entirely in favor of a radical change of election methods in Alabama, and I believe that we should go to the root of the evil. The people of Alabama are an honest people, believing in right and willing to do justice to all. Let us go before them with a call for a constitutional convention; ask for their permission, frankly and fairly, to change our fundamental law in regard to elections, and adopt, substantially, the Mississippi system. If they should refuse, then we must again take up our burden and bear it as best we may, trusting that the all wise father, who has imposed this burden upon us, will in his own good time, relieve us from it. I shall have the honor, upon the reassembling of the general assembly, on the 19th of January, to introduce into the house of representatives a bill calling a constitutional convention, and to the best of my ability I shall endeavor to have it enacted into a law.

Most respectfully,
FRANCIS L. PETTUS.

A BAPTISM OF BLOOD.

TERRIBLE BATTLE IN THE SAN JAUN MINING CAMP.

Eleven Men Reported Killed and Many Wounded—They Fought for the Possession of Very Rich Mines.

Denver, Col., Dec. 28.—The San Jaun mining camp has followed the precedents of all great mining excitement by baptizing itself with human blood.

A courier arrived in Bluffs City early this morning and reported a terrible battle yesterday, in which over 100 shots were exchanged. He reported eleven men killed and a large number wounded.

George Ferguson, an old prospector, and James Cody, known as "Blind Jim," one of the best known characters in Arizona and New Mexico mining camps, are reported to be slain. The courier was in in a state of breathless excitement, and had left the grounds after the last shots had been fired to obtain medical assistance.

A private dispatch from Dolores to John Edney, a Denver miner, confirms the report. The trouble grew out of a dispute over certain claims which have been staked out. There are nearly 5,000 men in the fields, and there has been very little attention paid to staking off claims. The prospectors have simply devoted their time to prospecting and scouring the sands to find the most promising locations. A few claims have been staked out, however, in places where many dollars to the pan have been turned out.

The direct cause of the trouble was the discovery of large nuggets in the bottom of a small stream. Up to the moment of the rich strike everything was all right, but the sight of the large nuggets has the same effect on the prospectors as a red rag has on a maddened bull. Each man claimed that he had first located the ground, and to settle the dispute firearms were brought to bear. Over forty men were engaged in the terrible conflict. Few, if any escaped unhurt.

Information of the trouble has caused the greatest excitement in Denver among prospectors who were skeptical as to the enormous wealth of the new gold fields. The battle will undoubtedly bring thousands of people into the new camp, for old prospectors regard deadly conflicts over mining claims as the best evidence of the rich strikes.

THE VOICE OF THE BIGOT.

There is something unspeakably ludicrous to men of inteligence in the fearful dread of "Romanism" that possesses some simple souls. For several days the disquieting rumor that Mr. Blaine had joined the Catholic Church, and that he has all along been a Catholic in disguise, has tiptoed through and through the country whispering the horrible secret to a fearful people. Mr. Blaine's family have felt called upon to [illegible] an authoritative denial and thus relieve a number of well-meaning but nervous, and simple-minded people of their apprehensions. If Mr. Blaine were to join the Catholic church on his death-bed a hundred able divines would preach his funeral sermon in sulphurous language and Elliott Shepard would call for troops to storm the vatican. But this is not the sign of rampant Romanism that strikes terror to the hearts of the faithful. The Presbyterian ministers of Philadelphia discussed the presidential election a few days ago. Ministers in that part of the country are given to this sort of thing. One of these ministers told the startled assemblage that they might as well face the fact that the election was a triumph of Romanism and that we shold have a Romanist postmaster-general who would have more power than an army. The appalling possibility of a descent from Presbyterian to Roman Catholic postoffices did not fail to produce the desired shudder among the faithful; but one hard-headed old preacher took an optimistic view of the situation and attempted to allay the panic by asserting that President-elect Cleveland was, like his predecessor, a "sterling calvinist" and therefore the country was safe in his hands. It was not to be thought of that a "sterling Calvinist" would Romanize the mails.

All this would be laughable if it were not pitiful to see educated ministers of the gospel shouting themselves red [illegible] over their own horrible [illegible] growing frantic with terror at air drawn monsters and dyspeptic visions. Poor Burchard, whose blundering speech defeated Blaine, was only one of a considerable class of clerical chumps. His blunder deservedly brought defeat to his candidate for it called attention to the spirit of religious bigotry and intolerance in the Republican party, which it has inherited from the Puritan witch-burners and women-whippers. This same element are now doing their best to created a factitious alarm by crying "Romanism!" The preacher who congratulated the country upon the fact that Mr. Cleveland was a "sterling Calvinist" was no whit less foolish than he who feared the appointment of a Roman Catholic in the place of the snivelling and canting Wanamaker. Mr. Cleveland is a "sterling" Democrat and such he is free from all religious bigotry and procribes no man on account of his religious belief. When the time comes that a man must not belong to any particular church to hold office in this country we shall have made a wide departure from one of the foundation principles of American institutions and a long step toward tyranny in its darkest and cruelest form.—Memphis Commercial.

Barley.

Barley as a regular grain crop is but little known in the South. It is, however, one of the standards in various parts of the world, in the old world especially. All over the Pacific coast of North America the grain is extensively grown, taking the place of our Indian corn as an element of food for horses and other live stock on the farm or ranch. The California crop of barley is immense, there being, as a rule, no corn cultivated in that State except on small scale in a few localities, and then the product is confined almost exclusively to the roasting ear patch. Not one horse in a thousand in California knows what corn is. It is a little remarkable that our Southern people have so long neglected this valuable grain. It is more valuable as a horse food than corn, and it is far more easily cultivated. There is also more economy in growing barley. With the majority of our Southern farmers corn is one of most troublesome and expensive of all the grains to cultivate. To grow it successfully requires long and close attention, the season of its culture and harvesting stretching from February to November.

With the same expense of cultivation and labor generally put into a barley crop, the barley will be worth largely more to the Southern farmer than the corn crop gives on our average land, while the period of cultivation and harvesting embraces only a few days each in the fall and summer.

One of the great advantages barley has over corn is that it enables the farmers to dispose of the employment and feeding of hoe hands through the long months of summer. Another advantage lies in the fact that one of the most valuable features of the barley crop comes in the rich pasture, or soiling, which the plant affords in the winter times when green food is scarce and important. Experiment made by some of our most progressive farmers in Georgia in the cultivation of barley show that it can not only be grown with great success as grain crop her, but those experiments have demostrsted clearly also that it is one of our most valuable plants for soiling purposes. The season of the year is now approaching for sowing barley. We would advise our planters who have not heretofore had experience in growing the grain to plant a few acres as experimental crop. The ground should be well prepared, well fertilized and plowed deeply; and then the grain sowed very thickly and harrowed in, leaving the land so that a scythe or mowing machine can easily run over it.—M. V. M., in Houston Post.

From the Gold Fields.

OURAY, Colo., January 4.—The first stage to and from the new San Juan gold field, has returned to Dolores, having made the trip to Bluff City and returned in four days with one coach, six horses and twenty-one passengers.

Two stage passengers report 7,000 men there and that the rush contines at the rate of 600 daily. They are scattered over a territory of 150 miles in extent. Gold is all over the region and great results are anticipated. Digging will begin near Bluff City and extend for 250 miles along San Juan and Colorado rivers and over the adjacent country.

AT THE DOOR OF THE COURTHOUSE IN GREENVILLE ALA.

Temple of Justice Again the Scene of Condign Punishment Without Judge or Jury—Gruesome Sight for Timid People.

Birmingham, Dec. 30.—When the citizens of Greenville, Ala., arose this morning they saw two dead bodies dangling from the court house steps. Last night late two strangers went to Jailer Bergainer's house and arousing him told him they had a prisoner. He went with them to the jail, where he was met by a mob of 100 armed men, who were hidden behind a fence, with drawn pistols, and demanded the keys, which Bergainer surrendered. The cells of John Hipp and Charlies Kelly, the alleged murderers of Tax Collector C. J. Armstrong, of Butler county, were opened and both men were taken out in their night clothes and hurried to the court house steps. The mob then quietly dispersed. The verdict of the coroner's jury is that the men were hanged by unknown persons. Armstrong, while collecting taxes, was murdered from ambush and robbed of $2,000, Dec. 17, Panther creek bridge. John Hipp, a noted desperado, was arrested a week ago after a desperate fight with a sheriff's posse, in which Hipp was seriously wounded, and last Sunday Kelly was caught in Monroe county. The evidence against both was deemed to be conclusive, and as it was ascertained that these men had been guilty of several murders they were lynched.

HAIRSTON'S ASSASSIN.

And the Accomplices in the Hands of the Law.

The murderer of R. P. Hairston was arrested at Bessemer by Detectve Tom Hewlett yesterday morning.

His name is Glover Jones, and he is a negro. He was brought to the city, and at 3:40 in the afternoon Detective Hewlett left with him by the Alabama Great Southern train for Eutaw.

Early yesterday moning Jim Rencher, a colored accmplice and his brother, John Rencher, were arrested as they were boarding the steamer Tally on the Bigbee river, near Dew's landing.

After being arrested Jim Rencher made a confession to the effect that one G. P. Williams, a white man who kept a small store near Hairson, and sought to rival Hairston in trade, gave him, Rencher, and Glover Jones $50 each to kill Hairston, and that Jones did kill the merchant planter while the latter was going home from his store; that Jones got $3 in money and a pearl-mounted pistol from Hairston's body. Furthermore, that Williams endeavored a year ago to get Key Rencher, brother of the prisoners, to put Hairston out of the way, but that Rencher had refused his offered bribes, which consisted of a shotgun and a railroad ticket to Texas.

It is alleged, in this connection, that Williams' little store was really on land owned or controlled by Hairston; but for a year or two Williams had been very bitter in his expressions concerning the more successful man 100 or 200 yards away.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

The assassination of R. Percy Hairston at 9:30 o'clock on the night of the December 21 was one of the foulest of crimes.

Hairston is a station on the Alabama Great Southern railroad, near Bodigee. Mr. Hairston was one of the largest land owners and planters in the state.

He was a prominent citizen and one of the leading democratic politicians in his county. He was a son-in-law of the late Gen. S. A. M. Wood of Tuskaloosa.

The news of the murder created a profound sensation when it reached Birmingham in the shape of a telegram to Mr. M. T. Sumner, Hairston's brother-in-law, asking for dogs. The response was immediate, and Sheriff Morrow, with Special Agent Matthews of the railroad, several deputies and trained dogs left at once for the scene.

In addition to his other interests, Mr. Hairston was the proprietor of a large supply store at Hairston station on the Alabama Great Southern road, and his residence is about a half mile away on the hillside.

On Wednesday night about 10 o'clock Mr. Hairston and a negro servant left the store to go home.

Between the house and the store is a gulch, which is spanned by a small foot bridge.

When near this place a shot was fired, and Hairston fell to the ground dead. The negro, it appears, saw the flash and was only a short distance from Hairston at the time, but, as he says, thought nothing strange of it and went on home. By this action it was believed that he is in some way connected with the crime.

Sheriff Morrow discovered that a short distance from where the body was found the next morning they found horse tracks, and they led off up the gulch and out into the road some distance down the railroad and were lost. It was believed then that there were two men connected with the killing, but there was one horse. The track was so cold the dogs could do nothing with it.

Randolph, Jan. 4.—Mr. Roily Smitherman, an old and highly respected citizen of this county, living about four miles from Randolph made perhaps a successful attempt to commit suicide Monday night by cutting his throat. Mr. Smitherman has been despondent and melancholy for several months on account of enfeeble health. He is a brother of Mr. Steven Smithersan who a few months since committed suicide by blowing his brains out with a shotgun.

EXPLANATION Each dash indicates the absence of a certain letter, and when the proper letters are supplied the original word will be found complete. Example: B—b—e. A book which everyone should read. The omitted letters are i and l, and when properly inserted the complete word is bible.

REWARDS Are paid in cash the very day any answer is found to be correct. To prevent even any appearance of irregularity or collusion, a copy of the original ten words has been deposited in a safety vault under seal, to be opened December 31st, 92, in the presence of witnesses, whose sworn statement as to the correct words together with the list of prize winners, will be published in the January number of the GOLDEN-ROD.

Remember Every Correct Answer Wins A Prize.

CONDITIONS The object of this extraordinary offer is of course to secure subscribers at once, and in large numbers. We therefore require that 50 cents for a year's subscription for our great paper The Golden-Rod, be sent with each answer. Thus if two words are answered $1.00 must be sent, three words $1.50, five words $2.50, and so on, and as many copies of the paper will be mailed to addresses given.

Designate the words you answer by their numbers. Send at once and win one of the grand prizes. Address all letters and make all remittances payable to

...UR GIFT TO EVERY ONE OF OUR READERS.

"A Yard of Pansies."

By special arrangement with the ...ublishers, we are enabled to make every one of our readers a present of these exquisite Oil Pictures 36 inches long, a companion to "A Yard of Roses," which all have seen and admired. This exquisite picture, "A Yard of Pansies," was painted by the same noted artist who did the "Roses." It is the same size and is pronounced by art critics to be far superior to the "Roses." The reproduction is equal in every respect to the original, which cost $300, and accompanying it are full directions for framing at home, at a cost of a few cents, thus forming a beautiful ornament for your parlor or a superb Christmas Gift, worth at least $5. Send your name and address to the Publisher W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York, with three two-cent stamps to pay for the packing, mailing etc., and mention that you are a reader of the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN, and you will receive by return mail one of these valuable Works of Art.

The REPUBLICAN enters with this issue upon its fifty-seventh year.

Miss Willie Woodward, of this place, has a life size oil painting on exhibition in Birmingham which has attracted much attention. The Age-Herald has made more than one complimentary notice of it.

Lost Books.

Recently we have lost two valuable medical works. The one "Bryce's Pocket Medical Companion," the other "Surgical Emergencies." We would be grateful for their return to our office by any one who may come across them.

Again, we would most respectfully ask the good people of the town to examine their libraries for any books bearing our family name. The different members of the family have loaned out books during the past 15 years, and a good many have not been returned. In especial, "Dickens' Globe edition," several volumes.

If any such works belonging to us be found we would be glad of their return to us.

Respectfully,
WALTER V. MONGOMERY,
CHAS. H. MONTGOMERY.

TEN FOUND GUILTY.

FIRST OF THE TRIALS OF THE HOMESTEAD RIOTERS.

A Surprise to the Offenders and a Victory for the Prosecution of the Cases.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 11.—The verdict of the jury who tried the thirteen strikers charged with riot at the Duquesne steel works of the Carnegie company, opened in court, finds ten of the accused guilty of riot, two for unlawful assemblage, and one acquitted.

The verdict created much surprise, as it was generally believed it would be "not guilty." It was looked upon as a great and it is the first case growing out of the Homestead troubles. The punishment is the same for riot as unlawful assembly, the maximum being $500 and two years in jail or the workhouse. The defense at once moved for a new trial. In all there were thirty strikers indicted for riot, but the officers were unable to find the others.

IN HIS SECLUSION,

Jacob Teufel Sought to Forget the Girl Who Had Rejected Him.

HAZLETON, Pa., Jan. 11.—A startling discovery was made in the woods near here by some woodsmen cutting timber. What was at first thought to be an Indian mound proved to be a hut, and inside it was found Jacob Teufel. This was the first seen of Teufel for seven years. He was once a well known figure on the streets of this place, but suddenly disappeared. A week ago Nicholas Seipel leased a tract of land from Jacob Klase, embracing about 200 acres between the Nescopeck and Mill Mountain. Workmen were set to work chopping down the timber, and the hermit's hut was found. On the edge of a cot sat a man. A shaggy beard covered his face, and disheveled hair hung about his shoulders.

Jacob Hinkle, who made the discovery, rushed back to the lumber camp. When a party returned the man within had become thoroughly aroused, and confronted them with a woodsman's ax.

It took but a few questions to identify the stranger. He proved to be Jacob Teufel. Teufel explained that he had lived in that hut ever since he left town and that he had not spoken to a civilized being since then. He told his visitors that he subsisted by trapping and fishing, and refused all offers of aid.

Previous to Teufel's going into seclusion he is said to have proposed to a young woman, who rejected his suit. On this account, it is now believed, he sought the life he is leading.

COAL COMBIME BROKEN.

The New Jersey Central Railroad Has Cancelled the Agreement.

TRENTON, Jan. 11.—The great Reading coal combine is broken. The New Jersey Central Railroad company has withdrawn from it, and hereafter will be operated independently, the same as it was before the agreement with the Reading and Lehigh Valley was entered into. An official of the Central has confirmed the truth of the news. He said that Attorney General Stockton was in possession of a communication from the Central in which it is acklowledged that all its agreements with the roads in question are canceled and terminated.

This applies to the leases under which the coal lands were recently absorbed by the combine. What influences moved the Central to take this step are not known, but undoubtedly the fear of action on the part of the legislature had something, if not all, to do with it. William Johnston, assistant attorney general, confirms the above report. The Central has asked Chancellor McGill for permission to prove this fact. They will then ask for the quashing of the proceedings for the appointment of a receiver.

TENNESSEE'S INAUGURATION DAY.

The Legislature Has Been Asked to Pass a Prohibition Law.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 11.—In the senate two memorials were read which prayed that laws be passed prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in the state. Mr. Barter introduced a bill to protect workmen, laborers and employes in their rights of organization and to prevent discrimination against the same on this ground. Mr. Leech offered a bill to make corporations liable for injuries resulting from negligence of fellow servants.

In the house, Mr. Ellis offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the inauguration of Governor-elect Turney on the 16th instant. A resolution requesting congress to pass a bill for the free coinage of silver was tabled. A resolution petitioning congress not to appropriate money for the Nicaragua canal was tabled.

ATTACHED THE CENTRAL.

Receivers of the Richmond and Danville Get In Their Claim.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, receivers of the Richmond and Danville, have obtained from Judge O'Brien, of the supreme court, an attachment against the property of the Central Railroad and Banking company of Georgia, in a suit to recover $1,318,464 for money laid out and expended for the use of the defendant, the Central Railroad company, in discharging the accrued interest on defendant's mortgage bonds, and in paying other debts of the defendant, between November, 1891, and April 1, 1892.

The Colorado Lock Broken.

DENVER, Jan. 11.—The deadlock in the senate has been broken by a combination of Populists and Democrats. Terms acceptable to both sides were agreed upon [illegible] immediately [illegible] upon the proceeding to the election of a [illegible] Kennedy, the Democratic candidate, was elected by twenty to fifteen votes. For sergeant-at-arms Cummings, the Populist candidate, was elected. The minor offices were divided between the two parties.

THROUGH THE SOUTH.

Current Events That Happen from Day to Day Tersely Told.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 7.—The city of Birmingham has got itself into a fearful tangle over her police department. The legislature recently created a police commission, to be composed of five members to be appointed by the judge of probate. The commission is to elect the police and control them, while the city council is to fix their number and make the appropriation.

Judge Porter announced the appointments Thursday, and all five of them were men bitterly opposed to the present council and mayor in the Democratic primary, and some of them were prepared to bolt the nominations after they were made. The chairman is Robert Jamison, vice president of the Union railway, the great street railroad corporation of the town, between which and the city there is almost constant war. He is arrested every few weeks for some violation by the company of an ordinance.

At a meeting of the Aldermen at night the mayor announced that the appointment of the board was an insult to his administration. The council then appropriated $100 for the police department during the coming year and that is all the new board has at its command to police the entire city. It is war to the knife. It is a virtual abolition of the police department at Birmingham and everything is at a standstill.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 11.—The story of a singular tragedy in Buchanan county, Virginia, comes through a reliable source. Charles Carroll, a moonshiner who was being pursued by a deputy marshal, concealed himself in an abandoned cabin, barred the door and stood peeping out through a knot-hole. The posse came along the road, stopped and began talking on the edge of the clearing, too far to be heard, and in an ordinary conversation, a bet was made and taken that one of the party could not shoot through a knot-hole in the door of the cabin. A Winchester was leveled and fired, and something was heard to fall inside the cabin. The officers rushed to the spot and found, writhing in death, the man for whom they were hunting. The ball had entered his eye.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 10.—Joseph Myers, one of the most prominent dry goods merchants of this city, is dead. His health had been bad for some time.

Mr. Meyers and Hon. Alex Stephens were lifelong friends, and Mr. Stephens, on his visits to Augusta, always made the house of Mr. Meyers his stopping place. He was 64 years of age, and popular with everybody. He was the senior member of the wholesale firm of Meyers & Marcus some years ago. Two sons, Sam and Frank, are prominent merchants of Augusta.

He died of congestion of the lungs. He had between $75,000 and $100,000 insurance on his life. He was one of the most prominent Hebrews in the city.

ANNISTON, Ala., Jan. 10.—R. H. Roberts, constable for the Anniston beat, died Sunday morning from the effects of injuries received Saturday night.

Parties going out the public road near the western limits of the city about 8 o'clock were attracted by his groans to Mr. Roberts, who was lying in an insensible condition near the roadside. Blood was issuing from his nose and mouth and there was a fearful wound on his head. He died without regaining consciousness. It is thought that he either fell off or was thrown from his horse, as he left the city about dark considerably intoxicated.

ATLANTA, Jan. 10.—For the first time in many months Steve Ryan walks the streets a free man. He was liberated from the jail on bond by Junge Marshall Clarke.

He will be free until his case is called for trial before a jury, as Judge Clarke has given it this direction. His bond was fixed at $100,000, and was signed by Messrs. John Ryan, John F. Ryan, Joe F. Gatins, Ed McCandless, Abe Fry and Henry G. Kuhrt.

ATLANTA, Jan. 10.—Despite the fact that there were only five days of last week in which the banks of Atlanta did business—Monday being a holiday—the clearances for the week were the largest for the same period of time in the history of the Atlanta Clearing House association. The total for the week reached nearly five million dollars. It was $4,666,877.88. The clearances of the week before only reached $3,501,703.54.

THOMASTON, Ga., Jan. 10.—Mrs. William Wallace died Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock. She leaves three daughters and one son, who reside in Thomaston—one son, editor and proprietor of the Osceola Gazette, Kissemee, Fla., and one son at Dawson, Ga. Mrs. Wallace for a long time run a confectionery store and ice cream saloon. She was a consistent member of the Methodist church and liked by everybody.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 10.—While Mills is the only avowed candidate for the Texas senatorship, Governor Hogg may decide to enter the race, and should he do so he will beat Mills. Hogg is popular with the Populists, and Mills is unpopular. Hogg's friends are in the majority in both houses.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 10.—The firm of W. J. & C. J. Juhan, retail dry goods, have filed a deed of assignment for the benefit of their creditors. The liabilities will amount to about $40,000, and the assets to between $55,000 and $60,000. Mr. George C. Price, of this city, is the assignee.

ATLANTA, Jan. 10.—The first negro ever elected tax receiver in Georgia has just been elected to that office for Camden county. J. M. Hollelorf is the name of the lucky negro. It is a very responsible office and the incumbent has to give a good bond.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 10.—In the house, Mr. Clift introduced a resolution calling for an investigation as to the cost of the mining troubles. Mr. Pierce offered a resolution to petition members of congress to support the anti-option bill.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 10.—Dr. J. P. Chazel, one of the most prominent physicians of Charleston, died suddenly at his residence here Sunday night, aged 79 years.

GOOD FOR FLORIDA.

The Plant System Has Secured a Western Outlet Via Montgomery.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The Plant Investment company has acquired a controlling interest in the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf Railroad company, which operates a line forty-three miles from Ocala to Iverness, where it joins the South Florida road, one of the roads in the Plant system; and also has thirty-two miles branches to the phosphate mines. Upon the completion of the link of about sixty miles now under construction between Dunnell, on the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf railroad, and High Springs, on the Gainesville division of the Savannah, Florida and Western railroad, the Plant system will control a continuous line from Montgomery, Ala., to Tampa, Fla., and makes the shortest route for western traffic with south Florida.

The phosphate mines on the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf railroad, which have hitherto been wholly dependent on Fernandina as an outlet for their export business, will now have a shorter line to deeper water at Port Tampa, on the gulf of Mexico. The same phosphate territory will now have ready access to Brunswick and Savannah by this connection through the High Springs and Savannah, Florida and Western railroad. The new connection also opens up to those ports and Port Tampa the valuable phosphate territory lying between the Silver Springs, Ocala and Gulf railroad and the Cedar Keys division of the Florida Central and Peninsula railway, and also the territory lying between the latter and the Gainesville division of the South Florida and Western railroad. The plan for improvements at Port Tampa recently begun provides for additional facilities for export business superior to those now afforded elsewhere.

Typhus in Mexico.

TORZION, Jan. 11.—Nearly all the towns and cities of Northern Mexico, except Monterey and Durango, are affected with an epidemic of typhus, and the rate of mortality from the disease is alarming. In this city and Laredo there are 70 new cases and seven deaths. The epidemic has even reached Eagle Pass, Tex., where Henry Ornelas, a brother of the Mexican consul at San Antonio, is sick with it, but will probably recover. At San Luis Potosi and Zacatecas the deaths are increasing, instead of decreasing. The health authorities of the government, aided by those of the different cities, are using every means to control and stamp out the epidemic.

Dr. McGlynn Going to Rome.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Dr. Edward McGlynn will go to Rome. This statement is authoritative, and bears out the announcement made at the time his suspension was removed by Satolli. The visit will be made within a few weeks. This indicates that the restoration of his priestly functions by the papal ablegate was in the nature of a compromise. Dr. Henry Carey, who led the revolt of St. Stephen's church parishioners against Dr. McGlynn's suspension, and who has been his leading supporter ever since, said: "He will not go under disciplinary orders, but in response to an invitation from his holiness, which it is but proper that he should comply with."

Superintendent Dorchester Investigates.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Daniel Dorchester of Washington, superintendent of the Indian schools of the United States, is in this city with his wife, who is the government's special agent to look after the Indian schools for girls. They are on their way to the capital after an extended tour through the west.

In answer to the charges of brutality and immorality against the teachers of the Indian schools of the southwest by C. A. Lummis, Superintendent Dorchester has prepared a reply, in which he intimates that Lummis is demented.

A Day Laborer's Fortune.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 11.—Dennis Dollery, an eccentric [illegible] died recently near Stonington, left his estate of $34,000 to St. Michael's Roman Catholic church at Westerly. His relatives may contest the will. Dollery had been nothing more than a day laborer all his life, but every cent of his wages was hoarded away, he being a frequent visitor to the savings bank. He carried his bank books around his waist in a belt under his clothing, where they were found after his death.

A Compromise was Effected.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The action of Theo E. Ellen to recover $30,000 from W. S. Kimball & Co. for services in organizing the cigarette trust, which has been on trial for several days before Justice Ingraham, of the supreme court, has been withdrawn, as a settlement has been reached. The compromise provides for the withdrawal of the other four actions against the other original members of the trust, but counsel would not disclose the terms of the compromise.

A Whisky Peddler Suicides.

PARIS, Tex., Jan. [illegible] named Matthews was arrested by Deputy Marshal Simpson near Tula for peddling whisky. He was sick, and a guard was left with him. In a day or two he died suddenly and, on arranging the body for burial, a bottle of strychnine was found in the bed. He had undoubtedly committed suicide. He left a wife and children.

Blockaded by Snow.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 11.—No through trains from British Columbia by the Canadian Pacific railway, says information received here from Winnipeg, can possibly arrive before a week, owing to the heavy snow slides in the Rocky Mountains. This is the worst blockade, it is said, that the roads has had for the past five years.

A Heavy Shoe Failure.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 11.—The firm of Dewey, Rogers & Co., the largest wholesale shoe house in Ohio failed. Liabilities are said to be in the neighborhood of four hundred thousand dollars; assets are about three hundred [illegible] and dollars. The failure was caused by disagreement among the partners, not by business reverses.

FROM FOREIGN LANDS.

PRUSSIA WRESTLING WITH THOUSANDS OF STARVING PEOPLE.

The Saar Mine Troubles Are All That Germany Can Cope with. Other Minor Items.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The strike of the Saar miners is keeping Germany so busy that she has little opportunity to rejoice in the embarrassment of her Gallic enemy. The strike is spreading slowly to the coal districts, and the leaders say, will paralyze the whole coal mining business of the empire before the end of the week. Railways are already beginning to feel the scarcity of coal, and the Prussian government has been obliged to take steps to purchase advance supplies from private coal dealers. These purchases have reduced the quantity available for the manufacturers and families so noticeably that the Berlin dailies prophesy a coal famine. Many manufacturers in Brandenburg are preparing to curtail production and work short-handed. Untold misery will follow such action, as Prussian cities are over-run with the unemployed, and further increase of their numbers during the present severe weather must result in starvation, riot and bloodshed.

A Mine Horror in England.

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A calamitous accident occurred at Penzance Cornwall, while a number of men were at work in the mine at that place. Water suddenly rushed in and drowned many miners. As soon as the rush of water was heard those who were nearest to the main shaft rushed into the cage and were quickly drawn to the surface. Others at a distance were overtaken by the water, and their cries could be heard resounding through the galleries.

The number of men drowned, it has been ascertained, will be thirty.

Vice Admiral Fairfax Acquitted.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Vice Admiral Fairfax, lord commissioner of the admiralty and commander of the Mediterranean squadron, has been acquitted of the charge of neglect of duty in connection with the stranding of the British warship Howe, at Ferroll, Spain, on Nov. 2. It was charged that the vice admiral failed to signal the Howe, which was following the flagship, and that the accident was due to his negligence. It was shown that the cause of the stranding was the defective character of the charts supplied to the navy.

Americans Dined in London.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Henry White, secretary of the United States delegation, gave a dinner at the Savoy hotel to Professor Ronald P. Falkner, Thomas T. Keller, and Thomas W. Cudler, United States delegates to the Brussels Conference, and Lieutenant Commander William S. Cowley, the United States naval attache, who assumed office here Jan. 5.

Dynamiters at Work.

COLOGNE, Jan. 10.—An attempt was made to blow up the Cologne express near Rauxel. A dynamite bomb was placed on the track about 300 yards from the station, but it exploded prematurely. The track was torn up for some 30 yards.

Robbed the New York Life.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 10.—The manager of the Brussels branch of the New York Life has made legal complaint against a cashier and a clerk formerly employed by him. He charges them with having absconded with $25,000.

THE GEORGIA COLLEGE.

Merely Formal was the Action of the Electors in Their Votes Cast.

ATLANTA, Jan. 11.—The electoral college for Georgia met in the senate chamber.

There the official vote of the state was cast for Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Dick Grubb, the editor of the Darien Gazette, was choosen as the messenger to bear the vote to Washington.

The college was composed of the following electors chosen at the recent election:

[illegible] James and William T. Gary for the state at large, and Alex [illegible] rington of the first district, [illegible] W. Walters of the second, Edgar F. Hinton of the third, William C. Adamson of the fourth, B. M. Blackburn of the fifth, Frank Flynt of the sixth, [illegible] Young of the seventh, John Shannon of the eighth, William E. Simmons of the ninth, John W. Lindsey of the tenth, and A. F. McCook of the eleventh.

New York's Electoral College.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The state electoral college assembled in the senate chamber at noon, W. M. Steinway presiding.

On motion of Alexander T. Goodwin, resolutions were adopted by a [illegible] vote approving the candidacy of Edward J. Murphy, Jr., for United States senator, and expressing the desire of the college for his unanimous nomination by the Democratic members of the legislature.

Low Silver Causes a Shut-Down.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 10.—The closing down of the Rico Aspen consolidated group of mines at Rico has caused a sensation in mining and financial circles. Prominent mining men all agree that the step is the result of the depreciation of silver and the high wages paid to miners. It is understood that the principal operators have practically agreed to [illegible] unless silver advances. In case this action is taken thousands of men will be deprived of a [illegible] will [illegible] a period of financial depression.

Gone Wrong in His Accounts.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Jan. 10.—George F. Cooper, bookkeeper in the New York office of the Newell Manufacturing company is an embezzler to the extent of about $5,000, and it is thought has gone to Canada, leaving a wife and family in Brooklyn.

CHAIRMAN HARRITY'S WORK.

He Is Able to Make Good Reports to His Party and Friends.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Chairman Harrity has been in the city for the past two days, coming over on Saturday, for the purpose of attending the annual Jackson Day banquet of the business men's Democratic association. While here he made it an opportunity to see a good many of the gentlemen with whom he was brought into close relations during the recent campaign. He had a long interview with Mr. Cleveland at his office in the Mills building on Saturday, and discussed the political situation with him.

Ever since it became apparent that there would be contests in some of the western states as to the control of the legislature and the election of senators, Mr. Harrity has been giving special attention to the matter and was able to report progress favorably the president-elect and other friends. All his advices indicate that the senators from Wyoming, Montana and California will be Democratic.

This gives the party forty-four senators, which, with the casting vote of the vice president, will enable it to organize that body when it meets in extra session on the 4th of March. Mr. Harrity has confined his attention to the matter of protecting the Democrats of these states in their rights to control their legislatures, and has given no attention to any special candidacies of the senate.

His advices from California are to the effect that the caucus candidate, Stephen M. White, will have no difficulty whatever in securing the votes necessary to elect him in joint convention, as several men elected as Independents or Populists are already pledged to vote for Mr. White.

GROW LESS COTTON.

The Advice Issued to Southern Farmer's Alliance Planters.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 10.—B. G. West, secretary of the cotton bureau of the National Farmers' Alliance, has issued an address to the order, advising the reduction of acreage in cotton planting. He holds that the southern states produce 55 per cent of the cotton grown and 82 per cent of the staple [illegible] for use in this country. He also [illegible] that cotton mills in the south [illegible] desirable but [illegible] manufacturing country. [illegible] of the southern farmer [illegible] diversification of crops and [illegible] home instead of depending upon the pork packers of the north for food. He points out [illegible] that the reduction of the crop this season resulted in a marked increase in the price, and insists that the cotton planters can secure fair prices every season by keeping the production within reasonable bounds.

A Christian Endeavor Meeting.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 9.—On next Friday, January 13th, there will assemble in Augusta the third annual convention of the Georgia State Union of the Young People's societies of Christian Endeavor. The convention will be called to order Friday afternoon, and will be in session the remainder of that day, and on Saturday and Sunday. It will be one of the most interesting gatherings of the year, and several hundred delegates are expected to be in attendance. There are 108 societies in Georgia each of which is expected to send delegates.

Trying to Beat Railroad Time.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 10.—Three men were killed within the city limits by the Baltimore and Southwestern trains. [illegible] ney Hilvas and George Re[illegible] were crossing the track at Fairmount, were struck by a locomotive and killed. Andy Fritz, a workman at St. Bernard, was killed by another train. Still another locomotive struck and seriously injured William Henks at the Cincinnati stock yard. All of the victims were attempting to rush across the track.

King Humbert's Silver Wedding.

ROME, Jan. 10.—A decree of general amnesty will be issued in Italy on the occasion of the silver wedding of King [illegible] will be [illegible] United States who have failed to render the required military service in Italy. They will thus be enabled to revisit Italy at any time without fear of arrest.

Humbert was married to Margherita [illegible] April 22, 1868.

Burglars in Virginia.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Saturday night burglars entered the county clerk's office at Fairfax courthouse, Va., and blew open the safe, leaving its contents, consisting of records, strewn all over the floor and partially burned. The will of George Washington, father of his country, was deposited [illegible] but the depredators [illegible] were not aware of the fact, for the document was found undisturbed when the clerk came to the office.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 14, 1893.

The business men of Jacksonville ought to give the REPUBLICAN a better support this year than last. It does not speak well for the enterprise of a town when all its business interests are not represented in the columns of its local press. A liberal home patronage enables the publisher to give the public a better paper and this in turn reflects credit upon the town in which it is published. A newspaper is an industrial enterprise in itself. It collects money from wide sources and expends the bulk of its receipts in the town where it is published. The owner of the REPUBLICAN has always been liberal in subscription of money to every public enterprise in Jacksonville, and in every way has devoted himself to the upbuilding of the town. This entitles his enterprise to the liberal support of every citizen and every business interest of the town. He is desirous of making the REPUBLICAN a better paper both in the quality of material used and the mass of matter that goes into its columns, and to this end has ordered a new dress for the paper. Let the business men of the town co-operate with him in his effort to print a paper of which the town may be justly proud. By doing so they will help their own business and at the same time contribute to the general good. No business man ever lost a cent by advertising to the people the inducements he could offer them to trade with him. The REPUBLICAN asks nothing in charity. It is a business concern. As such it expends its money in Jacksonville and contributes to the business of all our merchants. It only asks a fair return of favors. The people of Jacksonville are very liberal in the expenditures of money to bring new business enterprises to the town. This is proper, but they should also see to it that existing enterprises are sustained. Jacksonville people should sustain Jacksonville enterprises. Our people should cease to send abroad for what they can buy here and thus enable our business men to be even more liberal in the future to public enterprises than they have been in the past. Let us all be mutually helpful one to another. This is the way to build up a town. One other suggestion and we close: Do not cripple any enterprise by failure to pay bills due it. Your trade with a merchant is a positive injury to his business if you do not pay him for the goods he has sold you. He has already paid for them and he is crippled by your failure to pay him back the money he has expended for you. So it is with a newspaper. What support do you give to a paper if the publisher never sees the color of your money?

The meeting of Populites and Jeffersonian Democrats at this place last Saturday was a perfect failure in point of numbers. This and other meetings throughout the state were called pursuant to a general plan to protest against alleged frauds in the recent state election and to demand of the Legislature the passage of a bill by which contests for state offices may be instituted.

Probably thirty-five or forty men participated in the meeting. Many of the prominent Kolb men in the county were notably absent. The meeting opposed by resolution the calling of a constitutional convention, opposed an increase in the tax rate, called for a decrease of salaries and demanded the enactment of a proper contest law. A letter from Kolb was read in which he opposed Mr. Pettus' plan for a constitutional convention. In his letter he declared the adoption of the Mississippi plan, as proposed by Mr. Pettus would disfranchise half the whites and all the negroes. Such reckless statements as these were evidently believed, for the meeting practically followed the advice offered in the letter.

Meetings of this character were to have been general throughout the State, but very few counties are reported to have held them. The sensible men of the State have about come to the conclusion that they have had enough of Kolb and his demagogism. It was evidently expected that according to the carefully arranged plan, the whole State would blaze with indignation, but she didn't blaze worth a cent. The demonstration didn't amount to a tallow dip in a dark night.

The Democratic party is going to secure good government and prosperity to the people and Kolb and his little gang of fault finders had as well get out of the way of the procession.

The correspondent of the Chicago Herald is certainly in error when he says Senators Pugh and Morgan of this State will enter into a combination with the New York Senators and the Republicans in the United States Senate to embarrass President Cleveland. Both will support his administration. Neither has any ill-will toward the President. In a great speech in this county, before the November election, Senator Morgan paid the finest and most glowing tribute to Mr. Cleveland, both as a man and a public servant, that has ever been listened to. Such cordial words could only have emanated from a heart full of love and high regard for Mr. Cleveland.

The Democratic caucus of the New York Legislature has nominated Murphy for the U. S. Senate by an almost unanimous vote.

[illegible] Our Home publishes the portrait and sketch of the life of Mr. Jno. R. Barrett, a prominent citizen of that town, who has recently been elected to represent the Talladega Odd Fellows in the State Lodge at Montgomery in May. Mr. Barrett served several years apprenticeship in the REPUBLICAN office when a lad, and is very affectionately remembered by all the family of the late J. F. Grant, under whom he served and to whom he rendered signal political service after he grew to manhood and became a citizen of Wilcox county. When Mr. Grant was a candidate for State Treasurer the writer went to the State Convention and there met Charlie Scott, formerly a Congressman from California, but then a delegate from Wilcox county. Mr. Scott informed him that the Wilcox delegation was solid for Mr. Grant and that the reason was that Mr. Barrett had gone before the delegation and told them of how Mr. Grant had befriended him when a printer boy. Mr. Barrett was a successful business man in Wilcox county. For years he has been a prosperous merchant in Talladega.

There is a movement in Anniston to settle the post office appointment by primary election. It is claimed that Hon. Wm. H. Denson favors that plan in his district, and that he will in any every case appoint the men who receive the largest vote from the democrats who get their mail at any given post office.

The illness of Gen. Wm. H. Forney has been magnified by the state papers and through the associated press dispatches. He has been detained at home by an attack of indigestion, but at this writing is rapidly recovering his health and vigor, and will be soon able to return to Washington.

In Kansas they have a double-barrel Legislature. The Populists and Republicans have each elected speakers and officers of the House and the two speakers preside from the same stand.

The contest in Shelby county over the county officers has been decided in favor of the candidates known as Jones men. The Kolb men have appealed to the Circuit Court.

The telegram detailing a lynching and a fight between the sheriff's posse and a mob and the killing of several people was a lie out of whole cloth, sent by a man named Hyams.

Senator Kenna, of West Virginia, died of heart disease the 11th inst.

He was the youngest man in the U. S. Senate, being only forty-five years old. He was a man of eloquence and ability.

Benj. F. Butler, of Massachusetts, died of heart failure, superinduced by pneumonia, the 11th inst.

The Southern Steel Aluminum Alloy company has completed its plant at Rome, Ga. and will shortly proceed with the manufacture of aluminum and its commercial alloys. The plant is said to be a substantial one, built at large cost. It is called into existence by the Calhoun county bauxite deposits, that mineral being the basis of aluminum manufacture.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The deposits of bauxite one mile east of Jacksonville at the foot of the mountains is inexhaustible and very rich in aluminum. The establishment of this plant at Rome will no doubt bring the bauxite here into demand. The Tredegar Mineral road will be probably extended to the beds.

Jacksonville, too, is engaged in getting up subscriptions for a cotton factory. The Republican reports the required amount as almost made up. It is understood that Eastern men have agreed to put up so much if Jacksonville will meet them half way and she is about to do it. The amount is not stated.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The capital stock of the factory is to be $200,000. Of this Jacksonville and the country adjacent is only required to take twenty thousand. This amount has been subscribed by the people of Jacksonville and some of the prosperous farmers of the county who find their market here. There seems to be little doubt but that the cotton mill will be built here.

The Pension Steal.

In one of his always interesting letters from Washington, Hon. W. W. Screws gives the following illustration of the abuse of the pension laws:

"As an illustration of the basis on which many of the claims for pensions are granted, the story is told of an Ohio regiment which was raised just before the surrender at Appomattox and was mustered out after three weeks service in the comfortable barracks at Camp Chase. It is said that of the thousand men who were enlisted in that regiment, not one of whom served more than three weeks or suffered any hardships whatever over six hundred are now carried on the pension rolls."

The war record of Captain Douglas Vass, of Mobile, though well known to his friends, has never been printed. It is truly remarkable. He was a member of the Mobile Cadets when that company was sent to Fort Morgan, to garrison that post before Alabama seceded; he went to Virginia as first sergeant of his company, in the Third Alabama Regiment; he served through the whole war; was never furloughed, never absent without leave; and never sick; he never was in a battle; never fired a gun in a fight; never was shot at, and although he is now sixty-three years of age he has never in all his life seen a dead man.—Montgomery Advertiser.

FROM TEXAS.

COMANCHE, TEXAS, Jan. 7, '93.

MR. EDITOR—As I promised nearly every man, woman and child to write to them, I find it will be an expensive as well as a tiresome job. Will you please allow me space in your paper to communicate to them what I have found out about this country. This is the finest looking country I ever saw and the land, the most of it seems to be rich and fertile in the production of all the grain crops, and cotton grows better and produces more to the acre than any country that I was ever in. Sodded lands produce from one half to one and one half bales per acre; the older lands do but little better. Corn produces from thirty to sixty bushels per acre; wheat from ten to forty bushels per acre; oats no telling what it will make with anything like a fair chance. All the tame grasses and clover grow fine on these lands. Now the above is what my neighbors say about this country. I can write from experience next fall if I should live. What I have seen with my own eyes: I have seen more healthy looking people since I've been here than I ever saw.

Comanche is a considerable little town, about the size of Jacksonville, Alabama. The finest court house I ever saw, constructed out of the native stone. It cost seventy-five thousand dollars.

The best and purest water that I ever drank and tastes just as good as Cedar Springs water, or any of Alabama's, Georgia's or Virginia's purest fountains. I have not seen one puny-looking man, woman and child since I've been here, and I've been around a good deal.

Good society, good churches, Sunday schools, good laws, and the officers seem to take a delight in enforcing the laws. No drunkenness, no pistols allowed to be carried around, good schools, common schools. The directors of this district told me the other day to send my chaps that there was money to run a school for six months and it would not cost me anything only for books. That's nice for the frontiers of Texas, ain't it? You can't send your chaps one month in Alabama but what you pay half, if not all the tuition.

Now I will write you all again next fall and let you know just how I like this country. There is one objection I've got now the wind blows pretty free here now, but I am told this is nothing yet. It's enough for me. I am grubbing the land to plant cotton. I never grubbed any before. It goes pretty hard, but I am getting good pay for the job. I am breaking land for corn. I will commence planting corn about the middle of February. Commence planting cotton last of March and first of April. From then on till the first of June the people say is a good time to plant cotton but the sooner the butter.

Truly yours,

J. J. JOHNSON.

The Mississippi election law has been presented to the Age-Herald by a citizen now of Birmingham, but formerly of Mississippi. Much of it is taken up with a description of the machinery of the election, which is modeled on the same plan as that of Alabama. The most important features in the law are those regulating the qualifications of voters. No person can register and vote unless he has paid all taxes required of him. A person shall not vote unless he be able to read any section of the constitution, or read the constitution, or in case he can not read, unless he able to understand any section thereof when read to him, or give a reasonable interpretation thereof. A person who has been convicted of bribery, burglary, theft, arson, obtaining money or goods under false pretenses, prejury, forgery, embezzlement or bigamy shall not vote. Any person who falsely registers shall, on conviction, be fined not exceeding $100, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one year, or both.

The sheriff shall provide at each election place a sufficient number of voting compartments for the use of the voters, and so arrange that it will be impossible for one voter to see another. The ballots in all elections shall be printed and distributed at the public expense, and shall be known as the official ballot. The ballot shall contain the names of all the candidates. There shall be left on each ballot one blank space under the title of each office voted for, so that in the event of the death of any candidate the name of his substitute can be written in the space. The voter shall mark a cross (x) opposite the name of the candidate of his choice. The ballot must be folded. No voter shall be allowed to occupy his booth longer than ten minutes, if other voters are waiting. Electors shall, in all cases other than those of treason, felony, or breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the election.

EVEN WORSE THAN SIBERIA.

A Convict's Story of an East Tennessee Mining Camp.

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 7.—A terrible tale of suffering worthy of the mines and dungeons of Siberia comes from the mining camps of East Tennessee and is told by Ed Hudson, who says he spent two and a half years as a convict at the Briceville mines. He yesterday related to Chief of Police Deitsch the horrible story of the treatment accorded the convicts.

He says the men are divided into gangs and given a certain amount to do each day. If they fail to get out the required amount they are beaten with a strap, which very much resembles the Russian knout.

All are whipped, no matter if all but one or two did their share. He claims he has seen convicts die from this beating, and Hudson himself is a mass of scars.

Every cut of the knout draws blood. Two men he had known to commit suicide to avoid punishment and others have been known to pull great pieces of slate down upon themselves so that they could not work in the mines.

Hudson's story is on a line with that of a very eminent professor of national reputation who recently investigated the Tennessee system, and described it as worse than Siberia, a veritable hell on earth.

THE AUSTRALIAN BALLOT.

If it be true that ballot reform through a new election law can only be secured through constitutional convention, as a matter of information, we would be glad to have some of our legal friends show us wherein our present constitution differs from those of many of the states which have successfully adopted the Australian law! We are not prepared to deny the correctness of the opinion that the change can only be made in the manner indicated, but if there is a probability that it can be done without the delay, to say nothing of the possibility of a failure to secure the convention, then it is the imperative duty of the legislature to pass the law at once. Has there not been a contest in nearly every one of the states which now have the new ballot system on the very point involved in the present controversy in this state? We have not examined this question, but it occurs to us that there was a contest before Judge Key of the Judges court at Chattanooga, one before Judges Jackson and Howell at Louisville and another before Judge Hammond at Memphis, and our recollection is that the constitutionality of the law, as now in force in Tennessee and Kentucky, was affirmed, notwithstanding a constitutional provision in the constitution of each state similar to our own as regards an educational qualification. We may be in error, and if so, hope some of our friend who have carefully examined this all-important question will give the people the result of their investigations.—Tuscumbia North Alabama

Alabama's Vote for Cleveland

Montgomery, Jan. 10.—The electors of Alabama met this morning in the executive office of the capitol building. The electors present were: For the state at large, E L Russell, of Mobile and Emmet O'Neal of Lauderdale; First district, J T Russell of Monroe; Second district, J F Miller of Wilcox; Third district, H D Clayton of Barbour; Fourth district, B D Williams of Calhoun; Fifth district, L Pearson of Tallapoosa; Sixth district, T L Long of Walker; Seventh district, W R Dorch of Etowah; Eighth district, S Blackwell of Morgan; Ninth district, G B Johnson of Perry.

The electors organized by the election of Hon Emmet O'Neal as president, and Hon J F Miller secretary, after which they adjourned until 2 p m.

On reassembling the electors cast the 11 votes of Alabama for Cleveland and Stevenson. After this the electors proceeded to elect a messenger to carry the vote to Washington from among the many applicants. After many ballots the electors selected William L Byrd of Jefferson as messenger.

Just before the balloting for messenger began, a stranger was noticed in the room and the question was asked if any but electors were privileged to be present. Chairman O'Neal answered in the negative, and asked the stranger to retire. The man declined to do so, saying that he was present as a legal elector to cast his vote for Harrison.

Elector Clayton said, "This is not a Harrison meeting."

Chairman O'Neal asked Electors Clayton and Pearson to conduct the stranger from the room. They approached him, and he protested. Finally he said he would yield to force, but insisted upon leaving his vote, thereupon placing on the the table two tickets written in excellent penmanship. One read:

"For president, Benjamin Harrison of Indiana."

The other, "For vice-president, Whitelaw Reid of New York."

The two electors gently conducted him from the room. It was given out that the stranger's name was McDuffie, a former school teacher and a harmless lunatic.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

The General Assembly will reconvene next week, and among other matters on which it is called to take some action, is that of the Railroad Commission. The last Democratic State Convention put into its platform a pledge that the party would make the Commissoners elected. This pledge must be kept. No party can afford to make unkept promises. To fail in this matter would be a confession that the party is a dishonest juggler.

The fact need not be overlooked that the Commission itself is an unpopular institution, and there is a large and growing sentiment in favor of abolishing it altogether. A still stronger sentiment exists in favor of reducing the salaries of its members. The Age-Herald is opposed to tearing down anything. We are for building up, always and everything and everywhere. The Commission is a useful institution that costs the people nothing. It is no impediment to the successful operation of the railroads, such as the Georgia Commission, and the roads are content to go on paying the cost if the board be maintained in its condition of harmlessness. Make the Commissioners elective so that they will be a little more active in getting out reports and maps and making themselves serviceable. Then let them alone.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

[illegible] WITH FIDDLE IN HAND [illegible]

An Old Man Is Sent Into Eternity.

GADSDEN, Jan. 10.—There was a cold-blooded assassination on the Sutton road, two miles southwest of Gadsden, Monday night, by an unknown party. Joe Davis, a man about 70 years old, was living alone in a log cabin in the yard with his son-in-law, named G. L. Stalnan. Tuesday morning his daughter went out to get some water, when she saw signs of powder burns on the side of the house, and, looking in was horrified to see her father cold in death. She called her husband, who sent for neighbors and came after Coroner Levy.

The assassin shot Davis through an augur hole with a 38-pistol, the ball striking him in the breast. One shot did the work. He was sitting in a chair by the table and must have been playing a fiddle which was lying in his lap as though dropped when shot.

The assassin's motive was either for money or revenge. He is said to have had considerable money. His wife is in Rockmart, Ga., they having been separated sixteen years on account of his running after women.

The coroner refuses to give out any news, but from what can be learned suspicion points very clearly to his son-in-law as the assassin. No arrests have yet been made.

CORRUPT ELECTIONS IN GEORGIA.

The reports from the elections held in Savannah Wednesday have attracted, and will attract, wide attention in Georgia. The special correspondent of the Enquirer-Sun wired this paper that the corruption had been without any precedent in Savannah election. The local papers corroborated this statement. The Savannah Morning News of Thursday, said:

"The buying of votes, it is said, was carried on to a greater extent than ever before. The price was rapidly run up from $3 to $6, and at 11 o'clock good votes, with no doubt as to registration, were bringing as high as $8. These were fancy figures, however, and after 12 o'clock the leaders began to reduce prices toward the level of those paid in the early morning. It was a very dull negro who did not get $5 for his vote if he wanted to sell it.

The scenes at the polls were disgraceful, and it was pronounced the "toughest political fight" ever known in Chatham county.

We have not singled out Chatham because it is a striking exception to the rule, for the evil is too prevalent throughout Georgia to make any such distinction. Chatham simply seems to have outstripped her sister counties in the quantity and recklessness of this corruption.

All good citizens will agree with us that it is time to call a halt, and it must be called imperatively before another election year approaches. A reform has already been inaugurated in Savannah. The opposing candidates for Mayor have signed an agreement not to contribute, or allow their friends to contribute, one dollar for other than legitimate purposes, or any money which can, by any possibility, be used for the corruption of voters in the municipal election. Mayor McDonough, a candidate for re-election, is quoted as saying: "I am willing to put up a bond for $10,000 not to countenance the use of money in my campaign except for legitimate purposes, in the way of printing and advertising." His opponent, Harmon, promptly expressed a willingness to do the same thing.

The question as to the remedy for the evil is one that must be discussed in Georgia and adequately settled. The Enquirer-Sun believes a law should be enacted making it at least a misdemeanor to collect or contribute money to be used in a campaign except for strictly legitimate purposes—the printing of tickets, advertising, clerical work, and such other incidental expenses as are clearly proper. In New York and some other States the law requires all candidates for Congress and some other candidates to make returns under oath of the money expended by them during the campaign. Such a provision should be incorporated in the Georgia law, and if possible, it should be extended so as to include the expenditures of active friends of the candidates. We are sure that the wisdom of the Georgia Legislature will be equal to framing a statute that will largely modify, if it does not entirely free our elections of the corruption that has now grown to be so open, so reckless and so demoralizing.—Columbus Enquirer-Sun.

The Cotton Factory.

Wednesday the amount Jacksonville was required to subscribe to the Cotton factory was made up, and Mr. Geo. P. Ide of the Tredegar National Bank left for the Eastern States to secure the promised subscriptions to stock from that quarter. The location of the Cotton plant at this place is not dependent upon the sale of the Land Company, as was at one time the case, but the money subscribed here is to be paid in installments as work progresses. It is contemplated to finish the Mill which is to cost $200,000 by the cotton season. It is very creditable to Jacksonville that she has subscribed $20,000 to this project these hard times. The town is small but very public spirited. It has built several miles of railroad at a cost of many thousand dollars since the collapse of the boom and now subscribes the above amount to the cotton mill. The town will also push the extension of the Tredegar Mineral northward during the coming summer.

Yesterday the remains of Miss Janie Duncan, sister-in-law of Mr. Jno. Hubbard, who lives two miles north of the city, were shipped to East and West Junction for burial.—Anniston Hot Blast.

We sincerely thank those of our subscribers who have paid up past subscription dues this season, and trust that others will do likewise. People should remember that it takes money to run a newspaper business, and that a publisher can only wait on them year after year at great inconvenience and pecuniary loss. Come up at once and pay the small amount you owe this office. You don't want to put us to the necessity and expense of sending a collector to you. We need the money due the office and must have it. Don't delay. If you can't come to town, write and send it and you will get credit for same on our books.

To Our Customers.

We earnestly desire that those who have favored us with their custom in the past should come forward and make settlement before the beginning of another year. It is absolutely essential that those of our customers who expect indulgence the coming year should make a settlement of some kind of past accounts and have an understanding with us time and terms for the future. With this understanding the patronage of our customers is respectfully solicited for the ensuing year.

Dec 24. CROW BROS.

Lost Books.

Recently we have lost two valuable medical works. The one "Bryce's Pocket Medical Companion," the other "Surgical Emergencies." We would be grateful for their return to our office by any one who may come across them.

Again we would most respectfully ask the good people of the town to examine their libraries for any books bearing our family name. The different members of the family have loaned out books during the past 11 years, and a good many have not been returned. In especial, "Dickens' Globe edition," several volumes. If any such works belonging to us be found we would be glad of their return to us.

Respectfully,
WALTER V. MONTGOMERY,
CHAS. H. MONTGOMERY.

MONEY TO LOAN.

I am prepared to negotiate loans on five and ten years time, in sums of $1000 and upward, at less than 8 per cent. per annum. Apply to the undersigned at the office of the Register in Chancery.

OUR GIFT TO ONE OF OUR READERS.

A Yard of Pansies.

By special arrangement with the Publishers, we are enabled to make every one of our readers a present of these exquisite Oil Pictures 36 inches long, a companion to "A Yard of Roses," which all have seen and admired. This exquisite picture, "A Yard of Pansies," was painted by the same noted artist who did the "Roses."

It is the same size and is pronounced by art critics to be far superior to the "Roses." The reproduction is equal in every respect to the original, which cost $300, and accompanying it are full directions for framing at home at a cost of a few cents, thus forming a beautiful ornament for your parlor or a superb Christmas Gift, worth at least $5. Send your name and address to the Publisher W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York, with three two-cent stamps to pay for the packing, mailing etc., and mention that you are a reader of the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN, and you will receive by return mail one of these valuable Works of Art.

THROUGH THE SOUTH.

THE CREAM OF CURRENT EVENTS IN A FEW LINES.

What Has Happened During the Week at Various Points in the Southern States.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., Jan. 18.—A murder at Starr's mill, nine miles from Fayetteville, causes a shock of horror to steal over the law-abiding citizens of Fayette. It occurred last Saturday about 2 o'clock, and resulted in the killing of Mr. Omneo Bozeman by a negro named Bartow Price.

It seems that the two eye witnesses of the killing were standing on the front of Tom Hasting's store when they saw Prices wife and children run from his house, which was about fifty yards from them, screaming.

A few moments afterwards Bartow Price ran around the store, entered the front door and when he reappeared he carried a double-barreled shotgun. He then ran to within thirty yards of his house and, raising his gun, fired one barrel into it. The moment he did so Om Bozeman rushed out and fired four times at Price with a revolver.

The negro then fired his remaining load at Bozeman, and turning, ran about fifty feet, dropped his gun and picked up a large stone and started in the direction of Bozeman.

Bozeman ran towards the stores, and the negro, throwing down the rock he carried, grabbed an ax and started in pursuit. As Mr. Bozeman was suffering from loss of blood he had only gone a short distance when the negro struck at him with the ax. Bozeman threw up his left hand, knocking the ax from the negro's hands. But he picked it up again, and as Bozeman turned to face him, struck him in the breast, knocking him down and before Bozeman's friends, who were trying ty reach him, could do so struck him a terrible blow on the head, driving the blade about four inches into Bozeman's skull.

Bozeman never spoke after the blow with the ax. He was carried to his home a short distance away, and after lingering in a deathly stupor until 11 o'clock Saturday night, died.

The negro escaped and has not yet been captured.

SAVANNAH, Jan. 17.—The Evening Press anticipates the reorganization of the Central and outlines the scheme in which all the present bonds, debentures, stocks, railroad and steamship company of the Central is wiped out and forty millions of new bonds will be issued.

Twenty-five millions preferred stock and twenty-five millions common stock.

The new securities are apportioned out to the roads according to the present earnings, power and priority of claims. The common stock under the new system is absolutely unsecured, and if the property was foreclosed it would be valueless. The preferred stock draws 3 per cent. interest.

The fixed charges on the bonds will be 4 per cent. on $1,600,000, on the preferred stock the 7 per cent. is $50,000. This is very little less than the present fixed charges. The bonded interest, however, shows a saving of $900,000 annually.

The same apportionments do not hold good for less lucrative lines. Holders of the present stock get two for one in the new stock. Financiers here pronounce the plan admirable. The stockholders are blue because they don't see a dividend in sight in this century.

RICHMOND, Jan. 17.—An appeal has been issued by the Ladie's Memorial association, and the Confederate camps of Richmond, in behalf of the monument to the memory of the private soldiers and sailors, stating that it is designed the monument shall speak for each state of the Confederacy of its sacred love and reverence for its dead sons. The name of each state is to be graven on the stones forming the column, upon which will stand the stalwart figure of a Confederate private soldier.

The museum connected with it will contain the true story of that dire struggle, and tell of the spirit of self-sacrifice which gladly gave it's all at the call of duty. It is intended to assign a room to each state, in which shall be placed the relics of the past. To further this end there will soon be held in this city a memorial bazaar. In it there will be tables or tents for each state, bearing its name, shield, motto and colors, and it is earnestly desired that each state shall assist its own table with contributions of all kinds. The bazaar will be under the auspices of the memorial associations and the Confederate camps.

JACKSON, Jan. 16.—Governor Stone has issued a manifesto declaring the counties of Amite, Pike, Franklin and Lincoln in a state of outlawry, and calling on all officers to assist him in bringing to justice the perpetrators of the numerous White Cap outrages in southwest Mississippi. The governor offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of each White Cap. Stone's signing the proclamation against the lawlessness in southwest Mississippi recalls the fact that a similar condition of affairs existed there fifteen years ago.

The same species of deviltry as is now being executed became so frequent that the legislature of 1878 passed a special act applying only to the counties of Pike, Amite, Lincoln and Franklin, imposing the severest penalties for all species of "white capping," which word was not then coined. The marauders were then called "kuklux," though it was after the day of the alleged existence of this organization as a political force. This law was limited in its operation to two years.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 16.—A slick swindler, who has been operating in church circles and religious schools, was neatly and unexpectedly captured in St. Augustine by two nuns of the order of St. Joseph—Mother Superior Claverie and Sister Mary Ann. He had defrauded them by arranging to place his daughter in the convent school here, paying the terms of expenses in advance with worthless checks drawn for $29 in excess of the necessary amount and receiving cash in change.

Two nuns went to St. Augustine to warn the sisters against him. They had hardly entered the convent building when he was admitted by a servant. They recognized him and seized him. He fought hard for his liberty, but they threw him down and held him on the floor until officers arrived and arrested him. He traveled under the name of Moseley, and has played his confidence game successfully in Washington, N. C., and other southern cities.

JACKSON, Jan. 16.—There are grave apprehensions of a bloody race war at Greenfield, Tenn.—A few nights ago two negroes went to the farm house of Mrs. Jones, a widow, and attempted to assault her. The woman recognized one of the negroes and told the neighbors.

The following night a body of masked men went to the home of the negro and was greeted with a volley of shot.

The men riddled the house with bullets and the negro was shot in the throat, but escaped to the bottoms and remained on a stump all night almost naked, surrounded by water.

In the morning he was caught and whipped almost to death. Thursday a strange young white man came to town and brought thirty-five masks. The negroes have been buying guns and ammunition, and trouble is expected. Nearly every negro in the neighborhood has quit work, and a bloody outbreak is expected at any moment.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 17.—This city is aroused as it has not been since the Hawes murder four years ago. Perry H. Carpenter, the man shot by the unknown white man Saturday, died early next morning. All descriptions of the murderer tally with those of the man who recently assaulted three women in the streets in one night and is locally known as the "fiend of the alley." Two arrests have been made, but the right man is still at large. These desperate crimes have come along with an outbreak of an epidemic of highway robberies. A woman can no longer go out late in the evening, and staid citizens wear pistols for self-protection. The sheriff is fully prepared to resist a lynching should the unknown "fiend of the alley" be caught.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—James Landsberg, one of ten convicts who escaped from the Dade Coal mines several days ago, has been recaptured and resumed his place in the penitentiary. Landsberg belongs to a wealthy family of New York, and was a commercial traveler by profession. A year ago, while on a trip to Savannah, he met a Bryan county girl of 16, who was a stranger in the city. She besought him for information, which he proceeded to give by accompanying her to the place. Instead he led her to a vile retreat, where he bound and muffled her and kept her for several days. On being tried for the offense he was convicted and given a penal term of ninety-two years.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—Jack Hastings, The Journal reporter, who has been on trial several days, charged with assault with intent to murder, has been found guilty of assault and battery with a recommendation to mercy. The case grew out of a fight in which two newspaper men, Hastings and Hurtel, attacked A. A. Murphy, a leader of the 1890 club, and prominent prohibitionist, and in the scrimmage Murphy got his head mauled with a club in the hands of Hastings, and Hastings got knocked into the middle of the street by Murphy. Hurtel came in for his share of the fight, and is also under indictment for assaulting Murphy. Hurtel will be tried next week.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 16.—The court of appeals affirmed the decision of Judge Tucker in the habeas corpus case on H. Jones, declining to admit Jones to bond. Jones is the man who slipped up behind Captain W. G. Veal, at the Confederate reunion, two months ago, and shot him dead, giving as his reason that Veal had outraged his wife twenty-five years ago. Heretofore, Texas courts have been admitting all killers to bail, and consequently the case has excited considerable comment.

ASHLAND, Ky., Jan. 16.—United States deputy marshals and several posses of men are making war on the moonshining districts in Wayne, Cabell and Logan counties, West Virginia. These counties lie in the Big Sandy valley and almost every township has several stills. During the past two weeks no less than six lots of illicit distillers have been captured. In several instances women and children were discovered assisting in the work.

RICHMOND, Jan. 16.—Mayor J. Taylor Ellyson, president of the Jeff Davis Monument association, says it is probable that the remains of Mr. Davis will be removed from New Orleans to this city for final interment in the early spring: that he has received a number of satisfactory letters from the collectors of the monument fund and that when the weather opens permanently, a new impetus will be given to the scheme.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Jan. 16.—The University of Virginia at Charlottesville, has just received a donation of $60,000 from Mrs. Linden Kent, of Washington, D. C., for the establishment of a new chair to be known as the Linden Kent memorial chair of English literature. The board of visitors ordered the establishment of the new chair and appointed Professor Charles W. Kent, of the University of Tennessee, to fill it.

PRINCETON, Ky., Jan. 18.—Mr. M. G. Hatcher, of this place, wrote to Congressman Stone in regard to amending the coinage laws so as to allow the souvenir coins of the World's Fair to be mutilated in any way the people saw fit in order to preserve them as relics or ornaments. He is just in receipt of a reply, and Congressman Stone assures him that in time he will introduce the bill and work for its passage.

ATLANTA, Jan. 17.—Atlanta is no longer a city with prescribed limits, inside of which the health officer's look after its sanitary condition. The recently reorganized board of health has just wiped out those lines, and now the officers are circumscribed only by the limits of the city's boundary lines.

SAVANNAH, Jan. 18.—The Ogeechee canal is frozen for the first time in seven years.

The New York Mutual Life Insurance company proposes to erect a fine building in Savannah.

ABOUT TO FALL.

The French Government Will Soon Strike at the Royalists.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The government will soon strike a blow. It is reported on excellent authority that there is now ample evidence of a Royalist conspiracy, and that arrests will be made at an early date.

The conspiracy has been hatched in London and Madrid, and the count of Paris, instead of having been especially close in expenditures of late for the Royalist cause,

Has Been Unusually Lavish.

He is not himself a man of details and it is not desired he should, but his leading representatives are more active than ever. The Royalist influence and funds had much to do with the recent activity in revolutionary circles in Paris, and it is reported much of the applause of the extremist speakers at Tivoli Vaux hall was

Furnished by Paid Royalist Clacquers.

The Royalist plan it appears to be is to overthrow the republic by some means, no matter what, and promote disorder in the hope that French people will turn to the count of Paris or the Duke of Orleans for rescue or protection.

Steamers Collide in Mid Ocean.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—A dispatch from Messing states a collision between the Italian steamer San Marco and the French steamer Algerie (not Agesian as before reported) resulted in much greater loss of life than was reported in the first account of the disaster. The two steamers collided Sunday night in the Straits of Messing and both sunk.

It is now known that five or six persons on board the Algerie were saved, but the fate of the others is not known and it is supposed they were drowned. Seventeen persons were saved from the San Marco. Two of her crew are missing, and presumably are dead.

Cold in Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—There has been little abatement in the severely cold weather here. A heavy snow storm is prevailing. The ground is covered to such a depth that the traffic of the street is at a standstill. A number of persons have died from the effects of exposure. Rivers Seine, Lovre, Loviet are frozen over.

Satolli to Reside in New York.

ROME, Jan. 18.—As it is not the intention of the Vatican to establish a legation in the United States, Monseigneur Satolli, the apostolic delegate, will, it is stated here, reside in New York and not in Washington.

RIOT REIGNED

Used to Turbulent Scenes in Life, Butler's Death Created More.

LOWELL, Jan. 18.—At General Butler's home on Belvidere Hill, private funeral services were held, Rev. Dr. A. St. John Chambre, of St. Ann's Episcopal church, officiating. The body was in the drawing-room and President Harrison's wreath and some flowers lay upon the coffin. There was no address by the clergy, and after the short services, closing with the Lord's prayer, those present looked upon the general for the last time. Comrades of Post 42, G. A. R., bore the body from the house to a hearse drawn by four horses. A wild wind was blowing from the river over the hill. The drums of the band rumbled, the colors were dipped and the company saluted, and then the march to Huntington Hall began, where the body was laid in state.

A Great Crowd Was Waiting

to be admitted, and such was the rush the mob almost carried the doors off their hinges. They struggled upstairs and bowled over the police, and yells and cries awoke the echoes where the dead man lay. Huntington Hall, whenever General Butler appeared there in life, saw turbulent scenes, but these surpassed anything ever seen before. Down in the streets thousands pressed forward when they saw the doors open. All the afternoon a steady stream of people poured in, but the crowd that waited to get in did not diminish. Late in the afternoon the doors were closed, but at 6 o'clock they were opened again. This time the people,

Were Beaten Into Lines,

and more order was maintained, up to 11 o'clock, when the final closing was made.

At night the police force was increased and about forty firemen assisted. The crowd smashed a lot of glass in a shop and an unknown woman had a leg broken.

ATTACKED THE SUPERINTENDENT.

Miners Grew Desperate and Precipitated a Riot in Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 16.—Driven to desperation by the futility of their strike, which promises to result disastrously for many of the men who have taken part in it, several hundred miners at Dortmund made an attack upon the overseers at the Schek pits.

They would undoubtedly have seriously injured the overseers had not an extra force of gendearms appeared. The strikers resisted the officers and a short, sharp fight followed, during which several rioters were wounded. Miner Scheewald, who led the rioters, was arrested, as also several of the other strikers. The mob, when they saw their leader under arrest, took to flight.

By His Wife's Hand, but in Fun.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 16.—George Roberts, a carpenter, died suddenly from a peculiar cause. He was subject to epilepsy, and he jokingly tossed a block of wood at his wife and she returned it with equal playfulness, but with more vigor. The missile struck him on the head, rupturing an artery of the brain. He made no complaint during the night, but on calling him to breakfast his wife found him in convulsions, and he died without recovering consciousness.

Killed the Whole Family.

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 17.—Thomas Rodgers, a youth 24 years, shot his father, Thomas Rodgers, 60 years old; his mother, Martha Ann Rodgers, of about the same age, and his married sister, Mrs. William Kildey. His father had scolded him for laziness and threatened to eject him.

STEVE ELKINS IN IT.

SOME GRAVE CHARGE MAY BE BROUGHT OUT.

A Suppressed Order Issued by the President Which Has Just Come to Light.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—The Constitution prints the following sensational story from its Washington correspondent:

It seems probable that the present administration is doomed not to escape without another scandal, which, if not so widespread and malodorious as the pension stench, is perhaps of a graver character, in that it goes directly to the door of a member of Mr. Harrison's cabinet, Hon. Steven B. Elkins, the secretary of war.

The story of the affair was concealed beneath an innocent sort of a resolution which the house adopted, which reads: "Resolved, That the secretary of the interior be directed to inform the house whether an executive order has been issued restoring to the public domain any portion of the Navajo Indian reservation lying in the territory of Utah, and, if so, that he furnish the house with a copy of said order and report what action has been taken regarding the same."

The resolution refers to the reported finding of rich placer gold mines on these lands. These alleged discoveries have only been made public within a short period. It is said that the discoveries were made known to Secretary Elkins ahead of the public, and that he proceeded, in company with others, to get in the ground floor by locating all the choice finds. Of course these mines could not be located or worked legally so long as they remained within the limits of an Indian reservation. Lands are set apart for Indian reservations by congress, and can only be restored to the public by the same authority or by an executive order from the president. It is claimed that an order has been issued by President Harrison to restore them, thus placing them in the catalogue of lands which may be entered, or, if containing precious metals, staked out as mining claims.

Representative Stout, of Michigan, went to the interior department to see the order, but could get no satisfaction regarding it: hence the resolution. It has developed that the order in controversy was made last November, and has been, for some inexplicable reason, withheld. The order, which is printed for the first time below, is signed by President Harrison, and rescinds an order of President Arthur. It is as follows:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, Washington, D. C., Nov. 19, 1892.—It is hereby ordered that the executive order of May 17, 1884, by President Chester A. Arthur, withdrawing from sale and settlement and setting apart as a reservation for Indian purposes certain lands in the territories of Utah and Arizona, be and the same is hereby modified so that all of the lands described in said order which lie west of the 110th degree of west longitude and within the territory of Utah be, and the same are hereby restored to the public domain, freed from the reservation made by such order. BENJAMIN HARRISON.

Meanwhile, while the order was being withheld, it is claimed that Steve Elkins's syndicate was quietly slipping around and entering all the rich mineral lands. The excitement in the west attending the discovery of this new gold field and the rush for it in the first instance is responsible for the charges of foul play against Elkins. Elkins has always been considered a very thrifty individual, but he has been keen enough in past enterprises to effectually cover up his tracks.

Representative Stout claims that he has enough data to force an investigation unless this matter can very satisfactorily be explained. Should an investigation be had, it will go to the bottom of things, and whatever shrewd practice has been indulged in by any one, high or low, in or out of office, will be ferreted out and made known to the public. If the case is as flagrant as it is said to be, somebody may be indicted or impeached.

STOUT'S SHARP STICK.

Is After the Whole Interior Department in a Business Way.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Representative Stout, of Michigan, has received several letters regarding the Steve Elkins land grab in Utah. One of the telegrams was from a man in Salt Lake, who said that he could send to Mr. Stout information which would help to make out a case against Mr. Elkins and his partners. The other telegrams and letters commended Mr. Stout for the course which he has taken in the house in regard to the Elkins matter, and urged him to keep at it.

Mr. Stout took occasion Friday afternoon to see that the resolution calling upon the secretary of the interior for information regarding the issuing of the order under which Elkins and others made their grab, was duly forwarded to the interior department. Mr. Noble had it Saturday. He is expected to make a reply to it early this week. If he shows any signs of procrastinating in the matter Mr. Stout, who is, under the circumstances, very naturally suspicious of the whole interior department, will take an occasion to prod the people down there.

A Negro Child [illegible]

ATLANTA, Jan. [illegible] a negro child 3 years old was burned to death on Rosser street. The child was at the home of her aunt at the time of the accident. She was playing before the fire when her clothing ignited, and in a few seconds was burned from her body.

After lingering for several hours in horrible agony the child died.

Andrew Watson, the father of the child, is now in jail on the charge of violating the internal revenue laws. He will be released to attend the funeral.

Fatal Explosion of a Steamer's Flues.

CHATTANOOGA, Jan. 18.—While the steamer Warned was towing the R. C. Crouse above the city two of the flues of the Warned exploded, literally cooking the unfortunate crew. Two were killed and fifteen severely scalded. The deck hands were huddled around the boiler to keep warm. The boat was not injured and was towed in by the Crouse.

CLEVELAND AND THE REPORTERS.

He Is Unlike Many of His Predecessors in His Treatment.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8.—The Republic's New York correspondent writes his paper as follows:

"Old newspaper men who have reported the goings and comings of presidents-elect and their callers since Lincoln's time, agree that Grover Cleveland and his visitors are the most unsatisfactory set of men, from the news-gatherers' standpoint, they have ever dealt with. The younger generation of scribes who write for the New York newspapers are ready to take the old-timers' word for it, for their lot has been a hard one since Nov. 8. Mr. Cleveland is as little like his immediate predecessors in his dealings with the newspaper men in other respects.

Lincoln and Grant were fond of having the newspapers guess at their probable course of action in public matters. Hayes did not object to it, while Garfield and Arthur, and especially the former, rather fed newspaper gossip. President Harrison took a keen enjoyment, by and with the assistance and advice of 'Lige Halford, in keeping the public guessing at the names of his probable cabinet ministers before his inauguration. In fact, the newspaper fraternity, or that part of it located at Indianapolis, from November, 1888, to March, 1889, owe an everlasting debt of gratitude to the president's private secretary for the amount of "copy" he made it possible for them to grind out. But Mr. Cleveland looks at the matter in a different light. He receives newspaper men cordially, but with only those in whom he has reason to repose confidence does he ever discuss matters of public interest. He never permits the publication of an interview with himself that he has not read and indorsed, and these interviews are given only on matters of pressing importance. Mr. Cleveland dislikes to have the newspapers gossip about Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth, even though they only say nice things of them, but he is getting used to this now and does not mind it so much.

M'KINLEY SPEAKS.

His First Public Utterances on the Recent Republican Defeat.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 16.—Governor McKinley, in an address before the Ohio Wool Growers' association Thursday night, made his first public utterance on the results of the election and the policy of the Republican party in the future. Among other things he said:

"I do not know what will happen to the wool growers under the legislation that will come within the next administration. I do not, however, believe in giving up a fight after

"One Engagement and One Defeat.

"The wool growers have had it their own way every time since 1867, and more than once have demonstrated their power in Ohio. I do not believe in free raw material. I do not believe in having commodities free at one end of the factory and tarriffed at the other end. You are entitled to higher protection, and you should express that conviction in every possible way. I am here to say that in my opinion the great policy of protection is [illegible], and I believe that it is just as dear to the American people as it ever was before.

"I am rather inclined to think that the Democratic members of congress

"Are Committed to Free Wool,

"but who is not committed to free wool? You are in the most critical period of this great industry. I don't know how you feel about it, but I have not lost any courage."

SUFFERING AT HOMESTEAD.

Hundreds of People Upon the Point of Starvation—Light Pay.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 18.—The continued cold weather has increased the suffering at Homestead, and it is stated that hundreds of people are on the verge of starvation. Contributions are still coming in, but the aggregate amount is so small that it will not procure the bare necessities. In the mill there is a great deal of dissatisfaction over the wages.

Upon the first day under the new scale, many of the workmen claim their envelopes did not contain more than one half the amount received for the same work before the strike.

A number of men stated that they would quit or strike just as soon as there was warmer weather. The officials deny that there is any dissatisfaction, and claim that if the wages are smaller it is the fault of the men, who are not working as hard as formerly.

GOVERNOR LEWELLING REGRETS

His Hasty and Rather Abitrary Action Towards the Kansas Legislature.

TOPEKA, Jan. 16.—There was a big assemblage of Republicans, Democrats and citizens generally at the Grand opera house Friday night to protest against the revolutionary action of the Populists in organizing the house. It has had a perceptible effect in cooling the ardor of the hot-heads.

The Populists also held a meeting at which Simpson, Clemons and others, tried to brace up those who show signs of becoming weak-kneed, but it is evident the Populists are looking for a way out of their dilemma gracefully.

[illegible] talk that Governor Lewelling has regretted his action in recognizing the Populist house, for he failed to send in his promised message, and there are no signs that he intends to do so.

Roasting the Newspaper Men.

BERLIN, Jan. 18.—Events in France are being watched here with the closest interest, and the course of the French government toward the men mixed up with the Panama affair is regarded as favorable to the maintenance of the republic. All the papers contain articles on the expulsion of the journalists who have tried to paint the scandal in its blackest light, and as a rule they express approval of the action of the French authorities in driving objectionable newspapermen from the country.

A New York Murder Sentence.

ALBANY, Jan. 18.—The court of appeals has affirmed the judgment of lower court convicting Carlyle W. Harris, of murder in the first degree.

News Items That Flash Over the Wires from All Points.

A plan is forming to preserve the house in which Tom Thumb was born.

J. N. Mittelberger, treasurer of St. Charles county, Mo., confesses to a shortage of $16,000.

The ice gorge at Louisville is growing more and more solid, and coal went up another dollar a load.

A convict at the Jeffersonville (Ind.) prison swam across the icy river to escape and was then arrested by policemen.

Governor Buchannan of Tennessee has legalized, though under semi-protest, the swearing in of Governor-elect Turney at his home, made necessary by the latter's illness.

For the first time in fifteen years the Cumberland river froze thick from the head of the river all the way to Nashville. The severest weather known for twenty years is reported from different parts of Tennessee.

Miss Ethel Carry, of Crawford Station, Tenn., shot and killed an unknown man, who had followed her on her return from a neighbor's. The man attempted to assault her, and, after a short struggle, she drew a revolver and shot him.

The pope has appointed Rev. F. Z. Rooker, of Albany, N. Y., secretary to the mission of Satolli, papal ablegate to the United States. Father Rooker is vice rector of the American college in Rome. He has already started for New York.

In New Orleans, Dr. Samuel Logan, one of the oldest and most prominent physicians in the south, died suddenly of apoplexy. Mrs. Logan died three days ago, and the blow prostrated her husband. Mrs. Logan was born in Charleston, S. C.

At Milan, Tenn., Wadleigh's old mill was burned. It was used as a lodging house. Joe English jumped from a second story window and broke his neck. Tom Ashton was suffocated while trying to escape by the elevator. Twenty other lodgers barely escaped with their lives.

A syndicate of Knoxville men have completed the purchase of 10,000 acres of coal land on New river, Virginia, for which they paid $120,000. The tract adjoins the land lately bought by Drexel & Morgan, of New York, presumably for the Vanderbilts, for which the sum of $800,000 was paid.

Private cables from Paris to bankers in New York state that the Bank of France has cancelled its orders for gold and will take no more gold from the houses which have for eighteen months been shipping from New York. This is likely to end the export movement of gold from New York and will probably be followed by a return movement of the metal.

W. A. Bly, late general passenger agent of the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap and Louisville railroad, has been missing several days. His whereabouts are unknown, but supposed to be near New Orleans. Officers of the road practically admit that he is short in his accounts. Robert Vestal, his stenographer, the son of a prominent family, is also missing.

Invitations have been sent out through Colonel H. C. Corbin, U. S. A., to the governors of all states, inviting them and their staffs to participate in the inauguration ceremonies. The inauguration committee request that all civic organizations from various sections of the country who intend to participate in the inauguration ceremonies will notify the committee on civic organization, William Dickson, chairman.

A special from Raleigh, N. C., says: The legislative committee on judiciary decided to make a favorable report on a bill intended to put a stop to lynching. It is important as the first ever introduced in this state, and is certainly stringent. It imposes a penalty of $500 and imprisonment on any person engaged in a lynching. It also holds the authorities of a county responsible if a lynching occurs. The governor will be allowed to send a judge and solicitor directly to the place where a lynching occurs and try any persons concerned in the affair who may be apprehended.

The immense plant of the United States Rolling Stock company, at Hegewich, Ill., by order of Judge Gresham, has been turned over to the United States Car company, a New Jersey corporation. The order permits the receiver to lease the plant for a rental equal to the amount paid in insurance, taxes and interest on certain of the mortgage bonds issued by the rolling stock company. This amount the receiver estimates at $50,000 per annum. Work will be resumed in the works within thirty days, or as soon as the property can be put in good working order.

It is stated that the fire engine manufacturers in the United States have combined and formed a trust known as the American Fire Engine company. The combine consists of the Silsby Manufacturing company, the Ahrens Manufacturing company of Cincinnati, the Clapp & Jones Manufacturing company, of Hudson, N. Y., and the Button Fire Engine company, of Waterford, N. Y. The combine also includes manufacturers of hook and ladder trucks, hose carriages and carts, hand fire engines, heaters, stationary pumps and fire department supplies.

M. Ribot has had to remove one of his new ministers, owing to popular clamor.

Three more cases of cholera have developed at Hamburg on board the steamer New Orleans.

The Paris socialists have issued a manifesto for a new government and calling a mass meeting.

The German army bill now seems to have a safe majority in favor of its passage in the Reichstag.

The striking German miners, who have lost their struggle, are resorting to dynamite as a means of revenge.

Ex-Minister Baihut of France has confessed to bribery charges in connection with the Panama canal scandal.

Emperor William made a sudden and mysterious visit to Carlsruhe, the home of Bismarck, where he made an unexpected call on the garrison.

Anarchists are extremely active in Germany and France, hoping to profit by the mining troubles in the one country and the Panama scandal in the other.

Interesting complications are likely in Morocco, owing to England's demand for reparation for injury done to her subjects. Spain and France are jealous of the interference.

Washington Notes.

Commissioner Raum estimates that an appropriation of $175,000,000 will be necessary to pay pensions during the fiscal year ending June, 1894.

A bill has been favorably reported to the house authorizing the Oklahoma Midland Railroad company to build a line through Oklahoma territory.

The house committee on territories has favorably considered the bill to give Utah statehood, and will probably report it back to the house in the near future.

The minority report on the Andrew bill for the repeal of the Sherman silver law charges that it is intended as a final step towards an absolute gold standard in this country.

The public lands committee will report favorably to the house a resolution calling for information regarding the opening by stealth of the San Juan mining fields of the Navajo Indian reservation by which Secretary of War Elkins is said to have profited.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 21, 1893.

The Alliance Advocate, of Gadsden, has suspended.

Ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes, died at his home, in Ohio, of heart disease a few days ago.

From the way Mr. L. Miller is taking hold of the school interests it seems as if Calhoun is at last to have a county superintendent who intends to earn his salary.

The Anniston Hot Blast appeared Wednesday in a new dress, which very much improved the appearance of that excellent paper. The REPUBLICAN ordered new type a few days ago and will follow suit as soon as the new material reaches here from Philadelphia.

The Calhoun Medical Society held its regular annual session in Anniston Tuesday. Dr. J. C. LeGrand was elected President, Dr. J. M. Whiteside Vice-President and Dr. B. D. Williams Secretary. The meetings of the Society will be monthly hereafter. The next meeting will be held in Oxford on the 1st Tuesday in March. Only thirteen members of the profession attended the meeting Tuesday. We trust this was more from the bad weather than from a lack of interest in the Society on the part of the profession.

The Calhoun Mutual Admiration You-Tickle-Me-and--I'll-Tickle-You Society, numbering fully half a dozen gigantic intellects and specimens of sublime devotion to the powers that be, has a candidate for President hid out in the woods. They are saving the best for the last and will only produce him after the other five have been provided with very high positions. But he is coming, and when the aggregation of gigantic intellects and sublime devotion spring him upon the country, Carlisle and all such ordinary men had as well retire. He lives in the county and is a hummer.

The muddle in the Kansas Legislature continues. The two factions are still holding house sessions in the same hall. The Republicans and Democrats have joined hands against the Populists, and members of the legislature go heavily armed. If the Populists resort to force, as they are threatening to do, there will be bloodshed.

The Anniston [illegible] a man [illegible] first [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] who [illegible] er [illegible] else, who [illegible] was for the Democr[illegible] Governor or for a [illegible] who subsequently tried to break down the Democratic party, a man who trained with the Ocalaites as long as they were of use to him and deserted them only because they were on the losing side.

We should think the News ought to sing low about "square, clean, ironclad Democrats."

B. Dudley Williams, of Oxford, will be an applicant for the position of United States Indian Inspector under Mr. Cleveland, and he has many friends who will assist him in getting the appointment. Dr. Williams is well known to the people of Alabama. Before the Chicago convention he was an outspoken and earnest advocate of the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. He was a delegate to the State convention, and was active in securing a delegation to Chicago favoring the nomination of Mr. Cleveland. He was also made presidential elector for the fourth district. He organized and was president of the first Jones club in Calhoun county, and has always been faithful to organized Democracy. So far as we know Dr. Williams will be the only applicant from Alabama for this position, and he certainly deserves the united support of the party.—Talladega Mountain Home.

Elsewhere we publish an endorsement by the Talladega Mountain Home of our fellow-countyman, Dr. B. D. Williams, for the position of U. S. Indian Inspector. Dr. Williams has had wide experience among the Indians, having been one of Mr. Cleveland's appointees as Indian Agent. He is fully equipped for the position in every way. He is capable and faithful and his services to the party deserve recognition. Unlike some who are being urged upon Mr. Cleveland's attention, he was faithful to the party when it was in straits in this State, and was foremost in the preliminary battle which settled the contest for Jones. In the November election he worked unceasingly for the election of his original choice for President. It has been given out that Mr. Cleveland intends to recognize first his friends in the distribution of office, all things being equal between contestants for place. This is natural and proper, and will be approved by the country. Mr. Williams was a Cleveland man when it looked like another aspirant for the presidential office had the State in a swing.

Got The Wrong Sow By The Ear.

"The rostrum was once an educator. The charm of eloquence and oratory, the power of logic and the force of argument found a radiating focus from its hallowed shrine. Giants in intellect measured lances before the populace, and invoked a righteous verdict. All these things have passed away. Money Bags has decreed that light shall not be thrown in any such way. His minion and puppets prefer to appeal to prejudice, to fears and to conjure up phantasms and hobgoblins to frighten, to arouse prejudice or to control passions. The light of reason is not desired. The power of analysis is not wanted."—Alliance Herald.

The Herald brings a splendid indictment against its own gang in the above. Who was it first instituted the boycott against all newspapers that didn't agree with Parson Adams & Co? Who was it advised Alliancemen to stay away from the appointments of Democratic speakers and refuse to hear the truth? The Alliance Herald itself advised this course and taunted Democratic speakers with the fact that Alliancemen would not go to hear them. They refused joint discussion of public questions. They discarded the rostrum as a public educator and indicted and condemned public men behind closed doors without a hearing. When these men went before the people to justify themselves and their party the Herald and the leaders of its "nonpartisan" order warned their crowd against going out to hear them. They decreed that light should not be thrown in any such way. They preferred darkness to light and the result was general disgust and the disperson of the forces Baltzell, Longshore, Adams & Co. once had so well in hand.

The North Carolina "anti-lynching bill" will amount to little or nothing. Make it the duty of the Governor to remove any Sheriff who allows a prisoner to be taken from him, and allow the successor appointed by the Governor to hold until the next regular election, and there will soon be a decrease in the number, both of lynching and lynchers. As soon as it is the rule that Sheriffs will shoot and shoot to kill to prevent a lynching, lynchings will become very unpopular.—St. Louis Republic.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean throws out this sage remark:

"You can always judge a town and its people by its newspaper. Never buy town lots or lands where a poor newspaper is published. Newspapers these days are a necessity, not a luxury. They are so cheap that the poorest men can have them—unless [illegible] a bill at the saloon. It matters not how many city papers a man may take, he should give [illegible] support to his home paper."

[illegible] Gen. [illegible] [illegible] of four [illegible] gazed at the [illegible] in wonderment. At [illegible] that such an honor was hers, she asked:

"Are you the General Grant that fought in the battles?"

"Yes, I was in a good many battles," said Grant, much amused.

Another long and wondering gaze, and then came the modest request: "Let's hear you holler!"

CARLISE TALKS FREELY.

Cincinnati, Jan. 14.—Senator Carlisle, who is visiting at his former home in Covington, Ky., talks freely about his acceptance of the office of secretary of the treasury. He said that it was important that his successor should be elected in time to take his seat March 4, and that he would mail his resignation after he returned to Washington. It is understood that he has not yet formally notified Mr. Cleveland of his acceptance of the office.

Bourke Cockran has followed up his warm championship of the incoming Administration by declaring that "the future of the Democratic party lies with Cleveland. He has put the party where it is today; he has already proved himself the man of the party and the New York Democracy will support him in every way."

Accidentally Shot.

Robert Harris, colored, while carelessly handling a 28 calibre pistol at his home in Oxanna yesterday morning was shot in the leg, the ball entering at the calf and lodging near the ankle. Dr. L. Jenison was called in and extracted the ball.—Hot Blast.

The Legislature reassembled Wednesday.

Hon. Francis L. Pettus introduced a bill calling a constitutional convention.

Mr. Brewer offered a bill to prohibit the working of convicts in mines.

Mr. Sayre, on the part of the special elections committee, introduced a bill to change the election law. It is substantially the Australian system now in force in many states. We will publish a full text of the bill next week.

Mr. Forman, of St. Clair, introduced a bill to restore the number to the ballot.

Senator Hundley introduced a bill to make the office of Railroad Commissioner elective.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

Proceedings of the Meeting Held at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Ala. Jan. 13.—The Calhoun County Teachers' Institute met at the court house and was called to order at 11:30 a. m. by County Superintendent of Education L. D. Miller.

After prayer by President John L. Dodson, of the Oxford Male and Female College, Mr. Miller, in a brief talk, stated the purpose of the law requiring teachers to attend every one of the four sessions during the year. The presiding officer then appointed Miss Haley and Mr. Forney Secretaries of the Institute.

President B. E. Jarrett, of the Normal School, moved that the President appoint a committee of three to arrange a program for the remainder of the meeting. Mr. Miller appointed on that committee Mr. Jarrett, Mr. Beason and Miss Privett.

The following teachers were enrolled:

C L Beason, J L Bynum, Miss E D Brennan, J L Dodsen, Jacob Forney, J E Hughes, Miss B M Haley, B E Jarrett, S L Prickett, Miss L A Privett.

Upon motion the Institute adjourned until 3 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At 2:12 p m, the Institute was called to order by Supt. Miller and the names of four more teachers were enrolled; Mrs. Rosa Anderson, T M Evans, W F Haynes, and Mis Laura Stanley.

The afternoon session was devoted to the discussion of queries from the teachers, the first being the much vexed question of rewards. Prof. Dodson stated that he had used them with success, especially in securing better order from little children. We are all working for prizes in the school of life, and judiciously used rewards are certainly a great advantage in the school-room. Prof. Jarrett gave his unsatisfactory experience in offering a reward for elocutionary work at a public entertainment, and he advised the giving of merely disciplinary cards and these to only younger pupils.

The highly important subject of language is evidently a perplexing one to our teachers, for there were several questions relating to grammar, diagramming, etc. In regard to the age at which grammar should be begun, Prof. Dodson said the degree of mental developement and not the age of the pupil should determine this matter. When a child can understand the classification of objects, such as trees, then he is old enough to begin the classification of words, and this with most children is not under the age of eight or ten years. Prof. Jarrett deplored the fact that many of us make the common definition of grammar a misnomer; [illegible] so much technical grammar at the expense of the correct use of language in writing and speaking. Prof. Haynes [illegible] upon the teaching of language.

In regard to [illegible], Prof. Forney said as an object lesson it is very good, but otherwise utterly useless.

Upon the question "Should the teacher confine himself to any certain text book in grammar?" there was a unanimous vote of no.

In answering the question, "How would you deal with a girl who is frequently overtaken in a falsehood?" Prof. Forney said that he could not reply from experience, but that he would suggest expulsion. Prof. Dodson said, "Have as little dealing with her as possible." He advocated, however, as a prudentail measure for the teacher, severer treatment of girls than of boys so overtaken. He said too, that the girl should be prayed for in her own presence that God would help her to use her tongue for nobler purposes.

Opinion was divided as to the use of corporal punishment though most of the teachers admitted its efficacy as a disciplinary measure in extreme cases.

Prof. Bynum solved and explained a problem in interest which had been submitted.

Prof. Jarrett answered the question as to the best method of teaching arithmetic to beginners by explaining briefly the Grube system. Prof. Jarrett contended that too much time and attention are expended upon arithmetic as a disciplinary study and not enough given to it in its practical aspect.

Upon motion the Institute adjourned until 7 p. m.

EVENING SESSION.

The Institute came to order with President Miller in the chair and B. E. Jarratt as Secretary pro tem. The subjects discussed were:

1. The best method of teaching arithmetic to beginners (continued from afternoon session) Speakers: Profs, Persons, Bynum and Jarratt, followed by a general discussion.

2. The best method of teaching. General discussion.

3. Should rules be memorized? Prof. Persons took the negative side arguing that it is a waste of time. The secretary agreed with the first speaker. Prof. Dodson favored the affirmative.

The discussions were more animated and spirited than those of the previous meetings.

Institute adjourned to meet Saturday at 10 a. m.

SATURDAY MORNING SESSION.

President Miller called the Institute to order, and, after prayer by Prof. Persons, the enrollment was completed by the addition of the following names:

J W Abercrombie, A D Alexander, T J Borden, H C Gunnels, H R Hunt, W J Nash, H T Persons, P I Stovall, J O P Treadaway, F H Watson, John Watson, Wm Watson, Mrs Ida J Woodward, Miss Ida G. Woodward, Miss Linda Persons.

Mr. Miller being called away by imperative duties as County Superintendent, Prof. Jarratt was asked to take the chair.

"How can we as teachers best promote the educational interests of Alabama?" Prof. Dodson answered this at length. We should, by our own actions, show the highest regard for moral character; we should violate no law, moral nor religious; we should take an active part in all the religious exercises of the community; we should be circumspect in politics—having decided views which we should defend boldly if necessary, but always in a conciliatory manner; we should encourage and stimulate our pupils by inspiring them with confidence in their own powers; we should elevate the standard of education by placing before the people the very best methods of teaching; we should be thoroughly conversant with the laws of the land, particularly those relating to education. Organized teachers, he proved by illustration, may accomplish much in State legislation.

Prof. Abercrombie affirmed that on the right solution of this question depends the future welfare, not only of Alabama, but of the nation as well. If the educational laws of Alabama are not what they should be, it mus be through the teachers that they are altered. In order to illumine the gross ignorence existing today in regard to our State and National affairs, Civil Government should be made a compulsory study in all the grades of the public schools. After Prof. Abercrombie's reading of a bill which he had prepared and intends to have introduced in the legislature for the enactment of such a law, Prof. Persons moved the adoption of the bill. This motion was, after hearty endorsement by Profs Dodson and Gunnels, unanimously carried, and Prof. Abercrombie was appointed a committee of one to draft the resolution and append the same to his bill before sending it to the General Assembly.

The next subject on the program was that of Reading Circles. Prof. Persons urged their importance, but was undecided as to how we may obtain a course sufficiently elastic to meet the wants of the different grades of teachers.

"How shall the country schools be graded?" Prof. Abercrombie said, "It cannot be successfully done without compulsory education, and therefore I am in favor of compulsory education." Prof. Gunnels was of the opinion that the solution lies in the adoption of a uniform system of text books.

The committee upon securing a uniform system of text books submitted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this Institute that uniformity of text books in our common schools is imperatively demand for the upbuilding of these schools that for the accomplishment of this object, we the teachers of Calhoun county, petition our Legislature to enact a law, making it obligatory upon the County Board of Education, with two other teachers of the county appointed by the county superintendent, to adopt a series of text books for all the common school studies, and that all the common schools of the county be required to use the books thus adopted for two years, beginning October 1st 1893 and that no patron shall receive the benefits of the public funds unless he furnishes the books that may be adopted for the county.

Resolved 2 That the following committee be appointed to draft and forward to our representatives in the legislature a bill suitable for this purpose, to-wit: Jno. W. Abercrombie, B. E. Jarratt and H. C. Gunnel.

H. T. Persons,
J. L. Bynum,
John L. Dodson,
Committee.

The resolution was adopted by a small majority.

The matter of pensioning teachers after ten years' successful service in he cause of education elicted some discussion, but it was deemed not advisable to take any definite action at present.

"For equal work in the school should not men and women teachers receive equal pay?" Prof's Jarratt and Bynum thought that women should not be discriminated against. But Prof. Dodson was not so sure; the said women are much more economical than men and can therefore live upon far smaller salaries; it is partly woman's own fault, anyway, that she does not receive equal pay with the men, for she will not patronize those institutions where she may obtain equal advantages with her brothers. Just so soon as she does, however, she will demand and receive equal compensation for her service. The present system is a relic of the dark ages and it must surely pass away. Adjourned until 2 p. m.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Institute was called to order by Vice President Dodson.

The only unconsidered question was with respect to the best method of teaching U. S. history. Prof. Jarratt stated that there are but two methods, the Longitudinal and the Transverse and after explaining each he gave his reasons for preferring the Longitudinal.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the secretary and the good people of Jacksonville for courtesies rendered.

Prof. Persons moved that a committee be appointed by the county superintendent to receive and answer at the next Institute, questions submitted by teachers in the meantime, he himself volunteering to send the questions to the proper member of the Committee. This motion was carried.

Superintendent Miller announced that the next Institute will be held in March or April and owing to the great probably of bad roads, suggested that it be held in Jacksonville as the most central point. State Superintendent J. G. Harris has promised to attend the next Institute provided it be held at some place on the railroad.

Prof. Abercrombie moved that all teachers absent from this meeting on account of the inclemency of the weather be excused. Carried.

A motion prevailed that the secretary be instructed to prepare the minutes of this Institute for publication in the Anniston Hot Blast and the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN.

After a short prayer by Prof. Persons, the first Institute of Calhoun county for 1893 was declared adjourned.

L. D. MILLER, Pres.
BESSIE M. HALEY, Secy.

Will Stand.

A few days ago the Talladega County Alliance held a meeting and during the session passed a resolution to stand by the St. Louis and Ocala demands.

We are not surprised at this action when we consider the class of men now composing and running the County Alliance. They need something to stand to. The great majority of the farmers of Talladega county left these St. Louis and Ocala fellows in a very lonely position last November when they broke away and removed the collars from their necks which these fellows who are going to stand placed there a few years ago.

Oh, yes! that handful of Ocalaites which met and resolved to stand will get very lonesome, for be it said to the honor and good sense of the farmers of our county, they will no longer stand with this crowd who desire to keep up strife in order that they may get loaves and fishes. The farmers of Talladega county are perfectly willing for this handful of resolutors to stand by the St. Louis and Ocala demands. They will not stand with them any longer.

But there is wisdom in these fellows for wanting to stand by Ocala. They don't want to go to work. They want to keep up an organization for the purpose of getting dues and levying assessments to enable them to keep the kid-glove part of the fraternity away from the plow and hoe handles during the coming summer.

Now, gentlemen, stand by your Ocala and St. Louis doctrines; but we assure you that the farmers of Talladega county are not going to stand with you.—Talladega Mountain Home.

MURDERED FOR HIS PAINS.

A Birmingham Highwayman Shoots a Citizen Who Interferes With His Work.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan., 14.—A dastasdly assassination occurred on the streets of Birmingham, in the center of the residence portion of the city, tonight about 9 o'clock. An unknown highwayman, a well dressed white man, shot and fatally wounded Perry Carpenter, a well-known bussiness man. Carpenter was going home, and when on Sixth avenue, near Twenty-Second street, he saw a negro walking in front of a white man. The former had his hands up over his head. Carpenter realized that it was a case of highway robbery and interfered. As he did so the white man turned on him with a pistol and shot him twice, one ball going through the abdomen and the other throgh the breast. Carpenter fell dying within sight of his own house, where his wife and four children awaited his coming. The murderer fled through the darkness. George Hansberger, the negro, says he was accosted by the white man, who commanded him to hold up his hands and walk in front of him. Carpenter came up about this time and the shooting occurred. Dogs were put on the trail, but could not follow it, and the assassin is still at large. Carpenter was remomved to his home where he died in a short time. The assassin fills the description of the man who has been assaulting and holding up white women after dark nearly every night for two weeks. His identity is unknown.

A Cotton Mill.

Sylacaugh, Jan. 18.—Mr. J. M. Lewis of Talladega, Ala., is erecting a cotton factory at Sycomore, six miles north of this place, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad. Capt. B. F. Hammet of this place has the contract. The foundation is laid, and he is pushing the work as fast as posiible. The mill will have 8000 spindles.

Gadsden, Ala., Jan. 18.—There was a sad suicide at Reid Gap, Blount County, one night last week. John Mitchell had been drinking very hard for several days and while suffering with the delirium tremens he cut his throat from ear to ear with a ragged piece of glass severing the jugular vein and causing almost instant death. He leaves a wife and several children.

Woodstock Iron Company.

Judge Bruce has named Messrs. W. G. Ledbetter and J. W. Stillwell as receivers for The Woodstock Iron Company. This has long been contemplated, and many of the stockholders have thought it advisable for months. It will improve the prospects considerably, as a reorganization on a sound financial basis is now a certainty. It is believed that the company will be in a better condition in three months than for years. The receivership will not interfere at all with the present working force. It is a kind of amicable agreement for the settlement of the affairs of the old company in order that a reorganization can take place. Mr. Ledbetter, the present president and Mr. Stillwell, the present secretary of the company, were fittingly chosen for receivers, as they are experienced iron men and well acquainted with the affairs of the old company.—Hot Blast.

Here is an echo from Chistmas. A well-known married man whose home is in Cleveland and who makes Chattanooga very frequently, informed his wife that business would take him to Chattanooga. It was a few days before Christmas. While arranging his papers his wife was by his side giving him no end of commissions, all of which he promised to faithfully execute. He was especially intent upon his work when the dear wife told him of certain church decoration she intended doing. "Now, dear, help me out," said she. "When you get to Chattanooga hunt up a carpenter and have made a large motto which we can decorate with evergreens. I will see the ladies tomorrow, get the size of the space and telegraph you the motto we decide upon. Will you attend to it, dear?

"Certainly," replied the husband, who, deeply interested in his papers, caught only the conclusion of the query. "Certainly, with pleasure, with pleasure."

Next day he was in Chattanooga, busy as a bee, endeavoring to conclude his work in order to catch the evening train. While in a well-known attorney's office the telegraph messenger found him. "What can the matter be?" mused the busy man as he tore the envelope. This is what he read:

"Unto us is born this day a son, size seven by eleven.

THE COLD WEATHER.

Hamilton, Ga. Jan. 17.—The co weather in Harris county caused a very singular phenomenon on M berry creek, near Hamilton.

For several miles above whe the Richland creek empties into th Mulberry the latter creek is froz into one solid mass of ice. It is no known here yet how far this exte up the creek, but 'tis known it e tends several miles. A small bran empties into Mulberry creek. T branch water, fresh from spri was not so readily frozen, so it some distance over a bottom fiel Mulberry creek before being fro an now the entire bottom is a so cake of ice, ten feet thick. Mulbe ry is frozen to where the Richla creek runs into it. The Mulberr for two miles, where the Richla runs into it, is scarcely six inches depth anywhere. Without any e aggeration, at least 200 lbs of fis were caught in this stream toda and there is no doubt but wi twice this quantity will be caug tomorrow. A young negro b about thirteen years old caug carp that weighed sixteen pounds Several large fish were caught weig jing from four to eight pounds. M C. C Winfee caught one turtle th weighed eighty six pounds. T people in the community are ve mute in regard to the matter, b there is no necessity, as it is very likely that quite a large amount of fish can be easily secured when th creek above begins to thaw.

For several nights of past and this week great fires raged on the mountains encircling Jacksonville, giving a comfortable suggestion of heat while the mercury was playing about the zero mark, and presenting a very beautiful sight. But Wednesday morning opened on a landscape clothed with six inches of snow and all the air filled with falling flakes of fleecy whiteness. The fire succumbed to its chaste rival and we were left to the desolateness of winter with no relieving spark of fire-light, save that which sparkled in the grate or the old time fire place.

The boys of the town are requested not to frequent the REPUBLICAN office during their hours of leisure, and interrupt the printer boys at work at their cases. This practice has grown to be annoying to the management of the paper. To do correct work the printers must be free from interruption. The boys who have thoughtlessly frequented the office during work hours are perfectly welcome to come after work hours are over. We like the boys and are ordinarily glad to see them, but business is business and during business hours people must be left alone to attend to business or soon they will have no business to attend to.

To Our Customers.

We earnestly desire that those who have favored us with their custom tin the past should come forward and make settlement before the beginning of another year. It is absolutely essential that those of our customers who expect indulgence the coming year should make a settlement of some kind of past accounts and have an understanding with us time and terms for the future. With this understanding the patronage of our customers is respectfully solicited for the coming year.

Lost Books.

Recently we have lost two valuable medical works. The one "Bryce's Pocket Medical Companion," the other "Surgical Emergencies." We would be grateful for their return to our office by any one who may come across them.

Again, we would most respectfully ask the good people of the town to examine their libraries for any books bearing our family name. The different members of the family have loaned out books during the past 11 years, and a good many have not been returned. In especial, "Dickens' Globe edition," several volumes.

If any such works belonging to us be found we would be glad of their return to us.

Respectfully,

DEATH OF MRS. JOE FRANK.

A Gifted And Lovely Woman Passes Suddenly Away.

Mrs. Frank, the beautiful and gifted wife of Mr. Joe Frank, died suddenly of heart failure, at the family residence on the South Highlands, at 10:55 o'clock last night. She was taken in the evening, and her condition becoming alarming, Dr. Griggs, the family physician, was hastily summoned; but she never rallied and growing rapidly weaker died after a few hours' illness.

Mrs. Frank had a great number of admirers and friends in Birmingham. In addition to her charm of person and manner she was one of the most gifted musicians in this section. She sang with exquisite sweetness and force, and her voice has charmed thousands of our people, as she was often called upon to sing in churches and for charitable objects. She was a woman of lovable and admirable character and her sudden death will be widely regretted.

It is presumed that the remains will be sent to Atlanta, Mrs. Frank's old home, for interment.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

We sincerely thank those of our subscribers who have paid up past subscription dues this season, and trust that others will do likewise. People should remember that it takes money to run a newspaper business, and that a publisher can only wait on them year after year at great inconvenience and pecuniary loss. Come up at once and pay the small amount you owe this office. You don't want to put us to the necessity and expense of sending a collector to you. We need the money due the office and must have it. Don't delay. If you can't come to town, write and send it and you will get credit for same on our books.

MONEY TO LOAN.

I am prepared to negotiate loans on five and ten years time, in sums of $1000 and upward, at less than 8 per cent. per anum. Apply to the undersigned at the office of the Register in Chancery.

OUR GIFT TO EVERY ONE OF OUR READERS.

"A Yard of Pansies."

By special arrangement with the Publishers, we are enabled to make every one of our readers a present of these exquisite Oil Pictures 36 inches long, a companion to "A Yard of Roses," which all have seen and admired. This exquisite picture, "A Yard of Pansies," was painted by the same noted artist who did the "Roses." It is the same size and is pronounced by art critics to be far superior to the "Roses." The reproduction is equal in every respect to the original, which cost $300, and accompaning it are full directions for framing at home, at a cost of a few cents, thus forming a beautiful ornament for your parlor or a superb Christmas Gift, worth at least $5. Send your name and address to the Publisher W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York, with three two-cent stamps to pay for the packing, mailing etc., and mention that you are a reader of the JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN, and you will receive by return mail one of these valuable Works of Art.

NOTICE.

LETTER FROM SAM SLIM.

OXFORD, ALA., Jan. 16, '93.

I have no desire to forget the REPUBLICAN nor for the readers of the REPUBLICAN to forget me. However, if they should forget me, I insist that they shall not forget Oxford. Hence this epistle.

Well, Oxford is here waiting for something to turn up; and talking about going to work to turn up something.

Moses Brothers have closed out business, and are looking about them for a new location. W. H. Griffin is closing out at cost, collecting overdue accounts, and living, as best he can, on the interest of what is owing to him. A. L. Higginbotham has sold his merchantile interest to Thompson Bros., who propose to feed, clothe and shoe people for a very small profit.

Oxford and the people along Snow's creek and on Choccolocco creek below the mouth of Snow's creek have been very much exercised for some months about the deposit of red mud in the beds of said streams sent down from the ore washer in Anniston. A committee of our citizens have gone up there to day to meet Superintendent Noble to see whether he will take it off, or have it knocked off. The thing has got to be stopped. It's a nuisance, an inconvenience and a damage that the laws of the State of Alabama do not tolerate. Notwithstanding the red water and mud from Snow's creek will make the commonest old cow you can start give Jersey butter, and notwithstanding the citizens of Anniston have bought and eaten thousands of pounds of red mud butter for Jersey butter, the dairymen even are dissatisfied, for occasionally a cow gets more mud than she can mix with her butter, and dies in consequence thereof. It makes no particular difference to dairymen so long as the cow lives and he can sell the red mud butter to Anniston folks, but when the cow dies it does make a difference, and he calls aloud for the healing of the waters. Y-a-ye heard of painting a town red. Well, the next time you go to Anniston just cast your eye over on Glenn Addie and if you don't think the model city has commenced the job, I'm mistaken. I noticed in the proceedings of their last council meeting, that the city engineer reported an overflow of red mud that part of the city, and a committee was appointed to look into the matter. Well, if Anniston will just quit painting Glenn Addie red, the slush will cease flowing down on us, and all will be serene.

A Pen Tribute to the Memory of Miss Lizzie Burke.

What is this pain the heart would free
This unforgetting sorrow?
This dread suspense, unknown, and yet
We hoped 'twould end tomorrow!
Oh! who can lift this deep'ning gloom,
Death's icy hand has spread?
Who pierce these heavy mists that hide
The visage of our dead.

We look around the home the haunts,
That oft her footsteps traced;
The voice that naught but kindness knew,
Is hushed in Death's embrace.
Transported from this exile home,
That voice will speak in Heaven,
Where crown for cross, and bliss for pain,
Forever will be given.

'Tis sweet to think that God has called
The blossom home, he lent,
The summons tho' keen, sorrows sword
To a parents heart has sent.
A father on whose snow white brow,
Full many a sun has rose;
Is mourning for an absent child,
Whom Heaven has claimed from woes.

Look down on on earth, beloved and keep
Thy father from all harm,
For oft upon thy childood's heart,
He's laved affection warm.
Affection that in death he makes,
A strong, Holier bond;
Indissoluble on earth 'twill be,
And in the Home beyond.

Is this the death that fills the soul,
With overwhelming grief,
That cumbers heart and minds and thoughts,
In time so short, so brief,
Then let us live, that death to us,
Will be no cumbrous grief,
But a peaceful sleep which over,
We'll wake to find relief.--N. C. B. in Helena Daily World.

And if perchance, a fault has stayed,
Her yearning soul from bliss;
If Purgatory's cleansing fires,
Must free a stain like this:
Then those who mourn thy absence,
Will not unheed thy knell
Of pity, but in fervent prayer,
The "De Profundis" tell.

No more the evening shades will be,
For thee, dear dead, the greeting;
A mother's salutation sweet,
No more will be thy pleading.
No more at morn, at night, to lisp,
The name of Mary dearest;
To hide within her mantle pure,
To speak to heart that's nearest.

The consummation of all hopes.
The "Beatific Vision,"
The glories of the House of God,
Is Heaven thy soul's Elysium.
The smiles of her, whose canticles,
Thy voice in song was spent,
She'll bid thee with the Virgin throng
Forever more content.

For she in whose short life we know,
Great blessings had been wrought,
Had kind words for the erring one,
Each act with merit fraught.
To the sorrowing a comfort give,
A victory to achieve.

All this for Him, who deigned to give Earth's wealth, a plenty store,
The poor, their sufferings allayed,
His glory praised, what more.
We pray, for all these charities,
Our dead has now been given,
All beautiful, celestial bright,
A crown of life in Heaven.

Frozen to Death.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—Walter Trout, an old negro man, who lived alone in a little shack on Cinder row, was found dead this morning. He had been sick for some time, but it is thought that he froze to death, as he had little clothing of any kind.

Anniston, Jan. 26.—Noah Lowman, a negro brakeman on the Georgia Pacific, was found lying by the track, early this morning, frozen stiff. Benumbed by the intense cold, he is supposed to have fallen from the top of a car and to have frozen while unconsious from injuries received.

Knoxville, Jan. 16.—Not for thirty years has there been such severe weather as now prevails in this section. The thermometer is far below zero, and a dozen or more people are reported frozen to death. Business of all kinds is suspended, and the united efforts of the city officials and church members are being utilized to aid the poor. All trains are late and it is difficult to run them on anything near schedule time.

Francis Wilsons Shocking Timidy.

Reginald de Koven, the composer of "Robin Hood," gave a dinner recently to a number of people. Among these was Francis Wilson, a painfully timid man of the stage (says the Recorder). Mr. Wilson was seated near the hostess. "Have you any children, Mr. Wilson?" she asked sweetly. "I have two, thank you," replied Francis, with a perceptible blush. "Are they boys or girls?" beamingly. "They are both girls, I thank you, madam." The eyes of the company were upon him, and he felt it incumbent on him to make some query in kind, and so he asked: "Have you any children, Mrs. de Koven?" "Oh, yes; I have one, Mr. Wilson, I am very much obliged to you." "Not at all," murmured Francis, now quite confused by the vivacity of his hostess and the close attention of the guests; "you are under no obligation to me, I assure you!" There was immediately an unusual rattling of tableware and a sudden resumption of general conversation.

A DESPERATE NEGRO.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 13.—Shortly after midnight Miss Duncan, residing in this city, opened the door of her residence, when a big negro seized her and tried to abduct her. She screamed and her father, T. A. Duncan, came to the rescue.

The negro shot Mr. Duncan fatally and fled, also shooting a bloodhound that was put after him.

To Aid a Good Cause.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—The stockholders of the Anniston Industrial company held a meeting this afternoon and voted $500 worth of stock in the proposed Anniston Yarn and Cordage company.

Fire at Anniston.

Anniston, Jan. 16.—The two story residence on Wilmer, between 11th and 12th street, owned by James H. Nunnelee and occupied by Mrs. F. L. Stokes, was burned. The fire originated near the roof and was caused by a defective flue. Nearly all of Mrs. Stokes' furniture was burned, but she carried an insurance of $1000. The house was valued at $2500 and was insured for $1500.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country. Let's see how that is. Cleveland's old home gave a majority for Harrison. Harrison's home returned the compliment and gave a majority for Cleveland. McKinley's home went Democratic and David B. Hill's went Republican. A man's strength can't always be measured by home popularity.—Frankfort Capitol.

FORTY BELOW ZERO

St. Paul, Minn. Jan. 14.—The temperature in St. Paul today has ranged all the way from 12 degrees below zero to 28 below, and the indications point to a registry of more than 30 below by tomorrow. All Minnesota points have the coldest day of the winter. It was 30 degrees below zero at Elk river this morning, and at several northern Minnesota points 40 below was registered. All trains are from one to five hours late, owing to the extreme cold.

WEAVER IN ARIZONA.

Phdenix, Ariz., Jan. 15.—Gen James B. Weaver opens the populist campaign in this territory January 18. Efforts are being made by the populists to control the next legislature in anticipation of its statehood and the election of a United States senator. Weaver will be assisted by Gen. A. J. Streater of Illinois. Later he will be assisted by Mrs. Lease of Kansas.

Mother at Prayer.

Once, says a writer, I suddenly opened the door of my mother's room and saw her on knees beside her chair, and heard her speak my name in prayer. I quickly and quietly withdrew with a feeling of awe and reverence in my heart. Soon I went away from home to school, then to college, then into life's sterner duties. But I never forgot that one glimpse of my mother at prayer, nor the one word—my own name—which I heard her utter. Well did I know that what I had seen that day was but a glimpse of what was going on every day in that sacred closet of prayer, and the consciousness strengthened me a thousand times in duty, in danger, and in struggle. When death came at last and sealed those lips, the sorest sense of loss I felt was the knowledge that no more would my mother be praying for me.

"No other house does, ever did, or ever will sell such sterling values a such low prices as we quote."

QUALITY

Is the "bone and sinew" of every garment in our stock, and on it we rest our reputation. Every day swells the chorus of praise that are being sung to the success of our achievements. The hundreds of patrons who have already sounded the depths of our resources this season are enthusiastic. THAT WE MAKE THE CLOTHING WE SELL SEEMS TO FILL EVERYONE WITH CONFIDENCE. We claim for it but its just dues.

It is the Finest that Can be Made.

Cause is the parant of effect. We couldn't give you the service you were entitled to—and depend on the trade for our supply, so we jumped into the breach ourselves, rolled up our sleeves and went to work on our own hook. We put the Best Fabrics the mills of the world weave in the hands of the Most Expert Artists, and kept a zealous watch over every step. What could come out of such a combination but perfection? Make your wants known. All we need is a hint of your desire, and we can parade before you a stock of Fall Suits and Overcoats that so far excels in quanty, quality and variety the vain boasts of others as to drop them into the pit of obscurity. Judge by facts, not fancies. Call at our establishment, devoted exclusively to our stock of crowded to their utmost capacity with the latest patternings of fashion. Then bring this magnificent display in contrast with the meager assortments others are showing.

Roll the resources of any three of them together, and we are leaders still! Take our prices into account. The same enterprise that perfected the qualities has curtailed the costs. We have brought both ends of satisfaction together—The Highest Values and the Lowest Prices. In every one of our grades, from $10 to $40, in both Suits Overcoats, you may rest assured you are getting

FULL VALUE.

In the Boy's and Children's Department you will find we have followed fickle fashion through all her various moods. The superior quality that we insist shall be a known quality in everythig we show, leaves us only the most notable fountains to draw from. Two Piece Short Pants Suits, Long Pants Suits, Reefers or Overcoats, are all original effects, selected by us, made up to our notion, and left to our exclusive control. We are not talking idly. These are facts, and you need not be a clothing expert to appreciate them. They are self-evident.

Calls are being made for the heavier overgarments. Ours are ready, tuned on the same chord of consistent perfection, what a whealth of variety is awaiting your inspection.

THROUGH THE SOUTH.

THE CREAM OF CURRENT EVENTS IN A FEW LINES.

What Has Happened During the Week at Various Points in the Southern States.

MONTGOMERY, Jan. 21.—The legislature has reassembled, after the holiday recess. Among the important measures introduced was a bill by Speaker Pettus providing for the holding of a constitutional convention. Section 6 provides for the consideration of the suffrage question and as an additional qualification to wit: "No person otherwise qualified shall be permitted to vote at any election in this state unless he is able to read and write the English language, or has served as a soldier, sailor or marine in the late war between the states; or if he resides within the corporation limits of a city or town, owns property to the value of $250, or if he lives without the corporate limits of a city or town and owns forty acres of land."

This is by far the most important section of the bill of Speaker Pettus' and one that will elicit a lively discussion in the state press and a still livelier debate in the general assembly.

Mr. McCall introduced a bill to require the employment of competent trackmen to supervise and keep in repair the tracks of railroads in this state and to create the office of state examiner of railway trackmen, who shall serve for a term of two years and whose duty it shall be to examine all persons who may apply for employment to any railroad as division or section master, or foreman in the charge of hands engaged in keeping tracks repaired. The examiner shall keep his office at some railway center in the state and shall be entitled to a fee of $3 for each applicant examined. The bill is accompanied by a petition having seventy-two signatures.

ALBANY, Ga., Jan. 21.—Just after church Sunday a tramp of German nationality walked boldly into the front hall of Judge W. T. Jones's residence on Pine street and asked Mrs. Jones for a quarter. She was disposed to give him the money, but Judge Jones, coming on the scene just at that time, objected, as the tramp looked to be an able-bodied man. The tramp used some very insulting language, stating that he intended to have the money at all hazards.

Provoked by his insults, Judge Jones collared him, saying that he would take him down and have him arrested. With that the tramp jumped back, drew a razor and started at the judge. Judge Jones quickly drew his pistol, presenting it in the tramp's face. As he was about to shoot, his wife and children, who were on the scene, cried to him not to do it. The tramp, seeing his opportunity, broke away and made good his escape. The officers are now after him but they have not caught him. Judge Jones is judge of the county court, and if that vagrant is caught the judge will probably give him the limit, which is a big fine or twelve months in the penitentiary, or both.

LAREDO, Tex., Jan. 21.—Saturday morning United States Deputy Marshals Hull and Benavides and Chief of Police Yglesias arrested Pablo Gomez. The officers surrounded the hut where Gomez was and Yglesias and Hall entered. They found him writing and covered him with their pistols. When questioned as to his identity, he replied that his name was Juan Fulano. Benavides recognized him at once as the man who covered him with his Winchester, when Benavides and Guerrera were captured by revolutionists.

Some time ago Benavides says that Gomez was second in command of the body of bandits that captured him and Guerrera, and that Gomez on several occasions advised the killing of himself and Guerrera while they were prisoners. Gomez was indicted as a follower of Garza, and is also under indictment for participation in the recent outbreaks. Gomez seems to be somewhat literary in his taste, as among a great many valuable papers captured by the officers were several pieces of original Spanish poetry.

The arrest of Gomez is very important and will go a long way toward breaking up the lawless gang that has infested the lower country for more than a year. He is now in jail awaiting transfer to San Antonio.

PAINTSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 22.—Reuben Stewart of Pike county, has committed suicide by shooting himself in the head at the home of one Hall, who lives in the Cumberland mountains.

The last exploit of Stewart was the killing of the Ratliff boys in August last. A crowd of men and boys had gathered at the store of John L. Ratliff at the mouth of Marrowbone Creek, and were drinking and talking when they became involved in a general row. Stewart was one of the parties in the fight, and, suddenly drawing his pistol, swore he would kill all the Ratliffs, and commenced firing. The first shot took effect in the breast of David Ratliff, killing him instantly. Another shot penetrated the neck of Hawkins Ratliff, and thinking the shot had not killed him, drew his knife and ripped open his abdomen. After his murderous assault Stewart leaped out of a window of the store and escaped to the mountains, where he has been in hiding ever since.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Jan. 21.—Another bold and daring robber and murderer has been captured in North Carolina, just across the line, near the town of Bakersville, seat of the fake war. A few weeks ago Henry Woody, a well-known character stole a horse from a Tennessean and escaped into North Carolina. He was pursued by an officer who located him in Caldwell county.

When the officer attempted to arrest the fugitive the latter shot him down. A reward of $500 was immediately for his arrest, and several officials put out on his track. A day or two ago Will Haney, James Wilson and Robert Young captured him and took him to Bakersville, where he was lodged in jail for a short time. He was then conveyed to the county site of Caldwill county, where he was turned over to the sheriff, who paid the reward. He will be tried for murder. While at large in the country, he dyed his whiskers and hair to avoid recognition.

ATLANTA, Jan. 23.—Some time ago, Asbury Gentry, a man named Miller, with four other prisoners escaped from the Fulton county jail, by over powering the jailers and leaving them locked inside while they made off in the darkness, and made good their escape.

The stories told by the jailers were straight, apparently, and sounded well enough to the casual listener, but somehow the grand jury did not feel clear that all was right; so they have, for some time, been investigating the affair closely; and the results of their labors are two true bills, one against Jailer D. N. Maddox and the other against his assistant, D. O. White.

These men are charged with "aiding an escape" which, under the laws of Georgia, is a felony and the punishment prescribed is confinement and labor in the penitentiary for a term of from one to four years.

CARROLLTON, Ga., Jan. 24.—Captain J. W. Hewitt, Carroll county's plucky sheriff, returned from Texas Sunday and tells of a thrilling experience he had while going to the Lone Star state. He said one night near Fair Oaks, Ark., the engine and nearly all the train jumped the track and on investigation it was learned that robbers had pulled the spikes out of the track for seventy-five yards, which had caused the wreck. Hewitt says the passengers on the train were badly excited, but by an organized effort stood the robbers off. They had to abandon going through them. The train people put out skirmish lines and then the train was two nights and one day in the deep forest subject to attack at any moment. Snow covered the ground from twelve to eighteen inches deep.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 25.—Arthur Flower March, a young Englishman who came to Virginia last October with letters of introduction which gained for him the entree into the best society in the town of Cobham, near here, was tarred and feathered Saturday night by John Armstrong Chanler, the husband of Amelie Rives Chanler, and then escorted to the railroad station and put on a train for the north. Mr. Chanler discovered that March was an imposter and his persistent attention to the ladies of Mr. Chanler's becoming objectionable he adopted heroic measures to rid the town of the Englishman's presence.

JOHNSON CITY, Jan. 23.—The weather here for the past two weeks has been the coldest which has ever been known in East Tennessee, it being from 22 to 31 degrees below zero. Sally Grant, an old lady, was found frozen to death in the road. P. H. Abernathy, a prominent merchant of Bakersville N. C., the place of the alleged riot arrived here, and brought news of the finding of an old man by the name of Ellis dead at that place, he having been frozen to death and his body covered with snow. Several persons are also reported to have been frozen to death near here.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 23.—Off Ocean View, in this harbor, there are fourteen schooners, and at Lynn Haven bay two others, flying signals of distress, and they cannot get help, for no boats can get near them. They are bound fast in the ice, and no one knows how long they will have to wait before their signals will be answered. The names of the vessels in distress cannot even be learned. The steamships just in report hundreds of vessels frozen in Hampton Roads and Lower bay.

SAVANNAH, Jan. 19.—Mayor McDonough was re-elected by a decided majority, the majority being 920 votes in a poll of 4,200 votes. Captain McDonough was the candidate of a citizen's meeting, and Colonel Harmon was backed by the liquor element. Both candidates agreed not to use any money, but their respective "heelers" disregarded the agreement, and money flowed like water, and the negro voter and the "white contingent" were happy.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 21.—Governor Tillman has entered into an agreement with the Baltimore Trust and Guarantee company to purchase $2,000,000 worth of 4½ per cent. state bonds at par. The inducement offered is $130,000, the amount of the semi-annual interest on the stock which is to bear interest from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1893. The supreme court has decided that the governor has a right to pay six months' interest as a bonus.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 19.—The body of Miss Eliza McDonald, a teacher in the State Female college at Greensboro, was found on the track of the Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley railroad, evidently crushed to death by being run over by the train. Miss McDonald was a highly estimable young lady, and had a large circle of friends.

NASHVILLE, Jan. 19.—The senate and house took separate ballots for United States senator. The Democrats voted for Senator W. B. Bate, and the Republicans for Hon. C. W. Winstead. The vote in the senate stood:

Bate, 21; Winstead, 6. In the house Bate received 67, Winstead 23, A. E. Garrett 2.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 21.—A special from Frankfort says: Governor Brown withdrew from the senatorial race to succeed Carlisle. This leaves the fight to Congressman W. J. Stone, and James B. McCreary and Judge William Lindsay, Kentucky's World's Fair Commissioner.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—Fire in the large warehouse of the American Posphate and Chemical company caused a loss estimated at $200,000, which, it is thought, will be covered by insurance. The firemen had great difficulty in getting to work by reason of frozen fire plugs.

CORDELE, Jan. 23.—The Fenn Lumber company of Fenn, Ga., has failed. Assets $15,000 to $20,000; liabilities $25,000. A bill was filed on behalf of the creditors by Littlejohn & Thompson, lawyers of this place, and a temporary receiver appointed by his Hon. Judge Fish.

TRENTON, Ga., Jan. 21.—The Alabama Great Southern pay car collided with a through freight four miles south of this place at 8 o'clock a. m. The disaster was a fearful one, and several persons of each car were injured, some perhaps fatally.

DEATH OF BISHOP BROOKS.

The Most Eminent Episcopal Divine in America Passed Away.

PHILLIPS BROOKS.

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—Bishop Phillips Brooks died at 6:30 o'clock a. m., of pneumonia. The bishop died of heart failure, brought on by a fit of coughing. His death was entirely unexpected. He was taken ill Thursday with a sore throat, but nothing serious showed itself until Sunday.

Dr. Beach, his physician, discovered late in the evening diptheretic symptoms, and considered consultation advisable. He called in Dr. Fitz.

Nothing serious was anticipated. Dr. Fritz remained only a short time. Dr. Beach was with the bishop the entire night. About half past six the patient was seized with a coughing spasm which lasted a few moments and his heart ceased to beat.

Phillips Brooks, the most eminent divine in the United States, was born in Boston, Dec. 13, 1835. He was graduated at Harvard in 1855. He studied theology at the Alexandria, Va., seminary, and was ordained in 1859. Soon after he became rector of the Church of the Advent, Philadelphia. In 1862 he took charge of the Church of the Holy Trinity in that city, and in 1869 went to Boston to become rector of Trinity church.

Bishop Brooks was noted for his "low church" views, and has often preached in churches of other denominations. He declined a professorship at Harvard and many calls to other churches at large salaries.

In 1886 he was elected assistant bishop of Pennsylvania, but declined, preferring to remain in Boston, where his influence was very great, especially among the young men. He was one of the most famous pulpit orators America has produced, and was also a versatile writer.

He was elected bishop in 1891, succeeding the late Bishop Paddock. In point of service in the episcopal office he was one of the youngest members of the house of bishops.

Trinity, the church he served so long in Boston, is one of the most unique edifices in the country, and cost over $1,000,000.

The death of this great and good man will be mourned throughout this country regardless of religious creed. Bishop Brooks's fame was not confined to America, but he was known and honored in Europe. On his last visit to England he preached before Queen Victoria in her private chapel by special request.

Many Rival Telephone Companies.

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—One by one the patents covering telephone rights are expiring. At midnight Friday night the Blake transmitter, which receives the speech and transmits it over the wire, became the property of the public after many years exclusive control by the American Bell Telephone company. March 7 will see the end of the main patent on the telephone, that issued to Alexander Graham Bell, and which covered the fundamental patent on the telephone, the transmission of speech electrically over a wire. At the same time the patent first issued on the receiver will expire, though a second patent was granted on this device January 30, 1877, and that has until January 30 of next year to run.

With the expiration of the bell patent the telephone business is promised many rivals.

Will Let the Pinkertons Alone.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The subcommittee on the Pinkerton system will report to the full judiciary committee of the house in a few days. The report will show that there is an agreement on the facts, and that the members are nearly in accord that no legislation on the part of congress is called for as the result of the investigation. Mr. Broderick of Kansas and Mr. Boatner of Louisiana are of the opinion that a law might perhaps be framed which would be effectual, and also constitutional, to meet troubles such as occurred at Homestead, but may decide not to press their individual opinions.

Living with a Broken Neck.

BAY CITY, Mich., Jan. 21.—Peter Brinkenstein, of this city, has a broken neck, but physicians say he will recover. Brinkenstein was night watchman in a box factory, and Saturday night had a bad fall. He remained insensible for some time and upon recovering was unable to move his head. He walked home, however. Physicians say that two of the vertebrae of the spinal column are broken.

A Big Gold Shipment.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The most valuable cargo that has left this port in many days has just gone by La Champagne for Havre. Four million five hundred thousand dollars in gold is a large amount to ship on short notice; and the officials, clerks and employes have been on the jump since early morning at the sub-treasury preparing the kegs of precious metal to this amount for shipments.

Another Italian Bank Failure.

ROME, Jan. 25.—The Guerrini Banking company has suspended payment and closed its doors. The depositors will be paid in full as the assets exceed liabilities by 1,600,000 lire. The house was founded fifty years ago and has always enjoyed an exceptionable reputation. The suspension was due to the impossibility of realizing on securities and buildings since confidence was shaken by recent banking troubles.

Train to Blaine.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Citizen George Francis Train has sent the following dispatch to ex-Secretary Blaine:

"CITIZEN JAS. G. BLAINE: You are better because of abstaining from food. Live as I do! Eat! Take possession of yourself (as in auld lang syne)! Open windows! Let in light—air—sun! Resolve to live, and I will guarantee that you will not only not pass over the river, but be in better health than for a score of years.

"GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN."

L. Q. C. LAMAR DEAD.

A VACANCY CAUSED ON THE SUPREME COURT BENCH.

Brief Life Sketch of This Eminent Jurist, Eloquent Advocate and Distinguished Statesman.

JUSTICE L. Q. C. LAMAR.

MACON, Ga., Jan. 25.—L. Q. C. Lamar died in this city at 9 p. m. Monday. The direct cause of his death was angina pectoris, Bright's disease being the primal trouble from which the judge has been a sufferer for a long time.

His health had seemingly improved greatly since he came south a few weeks ago, and, even a few hours before his death he was receiving congratulations of friends upon his marked improvement, and it was thought that, right early the justice would be able to return to his duties at Washington.

Justice Lamar came into the city in the afternoon and called at the office of Colonel R. E. Pardee, where he conversed pleasantly on several topics. He was accompanied by Dr. Lewellyn on his return to the residence of W. H. Virgin, who married Lamar's daughter. The attack was very severe while it lasted, and the physician, Dr. A. H. Parker, who had been in attendance, arrived only a few minutes before his death.

At this time Justice Lamar was unconscious and beyond medical aid. Restoratives were at once administered, but were entirely without avail. He died with his head on Mr. Virgin's hands, and apparently without pain.

With the passing away of Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar contemporaneous political history loses one of its most unique figures.

Mr. Lamar was noted in Washington, where the best years of his life were spent, for his absentmindedness, and eccentricities, no less than for his genial nature and charming manners. Every trait of his character was inherited. His father, for whom the dead associate justice was named, had his unusual cognomen selected for him by a brother of his mother, who insisted upon naming her children after his favorite historical heroes.

Lamar the elder was a lawyer, a compiler and editor of legal decisions, etc., a judge, a host of unbounded hospitality and an eloquent speaker, but withal a man of many little eccentricities which seemed to be but the children of a high and by some it is believed an overwrought artistic temperament. He was attacked by dyspepsia a couple of years before his death. The accompanying celebral fever made Mr. Lamar delirious at times, and while suffering from the temporary mental alberation thus induced he committed suicide.

It is therefore not difficult, it will be observed, to account for the many little eccentricities which served rather to lend a charm to the unique personality of the dead justice. He seemed to have been but a composite picture of his father and the members of his paternal grandmother's family.

Like Justice Lamar's personality, his public career was remarkable. He comes of one of the oldest families in Georgia. He was born in Putnam county in 1825 and after his father's deplorable death was taken to Oxford, Miss., where his education may be said to have begun. After acquiring all that was to be learned in the Oxford schools, young Lamar was sent to Emory college in Georgia. He graduated in 1845, at once commenced the study of law in Macon, Ga., and was admitted to the bar two years later.

The practice of law in a small town and the attendant struggles for the "root of all evil" seemed to fail to satisfy the young attorney, whose inclinations were all toward study, and whose keen analytical sense was only wasted on the trifling cases which are usually intrusted to a beginner. Mr. Lamar, after two years of work, which was eminently unsatisfactory and uncongenial to himself, accepted a position as adjunct professor of mathematics in the University of Mississippi.

Cold, dry figures were no more to his liking than petty legal cases, and after a year at the university, his reputation as an analytical adviser and eloquent advocate having preceded him, Mr. Lamar removed to Covington, Ga., and resumed the practice of the law. Important cases were given him, and his fame, spreading rapidly in his adopted county, the people in 1853 elected him to represent them in the state legislature.

This may be said to have been the beginning of Mr. Lamar's public career, and it came dangerously near being the end, for small politics was not to his liking either, and he gave it up in disgust and in 1854 moved back to Mississippi, locating on a plantation which he owned in Lafayette. Here Mr. Lamar had his first opportunity since attaining manhood to pursue to the full his studies in intricate legal literature.

The citizens of Mississippi were unwilling to permit their brilliant young advocate to waste his ability on a plantation, and in 1856 he was elected to congress as a Democrat. He served from 1857 to 1860. Things had reached such a pass then that every public officer had to decide between the Union and the Confederacy. Mr. Lamar therefore resigned his seat in congress to become a member of the Mississippi secession convention, in which body he played an important part.

When hostilities began, Mr. Lamar accepted a commission as lieutenant colonel of the Nineteenth Mississippi regiment. He was afterwards promoted to the coloneley, and up to the day of his death the people of his home town, Oxford, almost always referred to him as Colonel Lamar and seldom a senator or judge. Ill health compelling his retirement from actual service in the field, Mr. Lamar was sent as a Confederate commissioner to Russia. His mission, as history relates, failed of its purpose.

When the war closed he went back to the university of Mississippi, where he became professor of political economy and social science in 1866, and was given the chair of law a year later. He then once more resumed his practice at the bar, which he continued until he was elected to congress in 1872. He was re-elected in 1874 and in 1876 was chosen by the legislature as one in the United States senate. He remained in the senate until March 4, 1885, when he accepted the portfolio of secretary of the interior tendered him by President Cleveland.

On December 6, 1887, Mr. Cleveland sent to the senate the name of L. Q. C. Lamar to be associate justice of the United States supreme court, vice Justice Woods deceased. After some delay the nomination was confirmed, and in the latter part of January, 1888, he entered upon the discharge of his new duties.

In the house of representatives and in the senate Mr. Lamar was not a frequent speaker, but whatever he said was attentively listened to, for his utterances always gave evidence of deep thought and careful preparation. He was a graceful and forcible speaker, but never understood or attempted to employ the artifices of the professional orator. With all his absentmindedness and love of hobbies the associate justice was a man of remarkably good judgment, and his ability to quickly read the character of a new acquaintance was almost marvelous. Secretary Vilas once said of him:

"Lamar is a man of magnificent surprises. I did not know him until we met in the cabinet, and during the past two years I have been very intimate with him. I think I have never met any man whose intellect has grown upon me so overwhelmingly as has Lamar's. At times he has consulted with me about matters of public policy which only the decision of a question of law could settle.

"Once he had a most important decision to make. He had not written it, for I believe he does not write his decisions until the last minute, but he had the whole matter revolving in his mind. He began at the beginning and stated the facts. Such a faculty of clear, limpid statement is seldom met. I think in my time no man I have known has possessed it so well as Mr. Lamar, unless it was the late Matt Carpenter of Wisconsin. Then he began to unfold the principles of law which he thought applicable. As his mind rolled on from position to position it was with a ponderous majestic yet ever delicate and sensitive movement that was simply wonderful.

"I said to myself, this man may not be able to quote the exact section of the law or the particular page of the reported decision, but he has a mind thoroughly imbued with legal principles and magnificently disciplined. Without making invidious comparisons, it is my judgment that Mr. Lamar will add strength and adornment to the supreme bench. I believe he possesses some qualifications that the bench needs, and as the years go on the wisdom of his appointment will establish itself far above the reach of criticism."

Justice Lamar was twice married. His first wife was a cousin of Longstreet, the famous Confederate general. She died early in January, 1885, leaving one son and three daughters, one of whom, Miss Jennie, made her debut in 1886 and soon became a great social favorite at the national capital.

Two years after the death of his first wife Mr. Lamar married Mrs. William S. Holt, the widow of a well known Georgia judge. The ceremony was performed in Macon, Ga., Jan. 5, 1887. Mrs. Holt had a fine mansion and was quite wealthy.

In April, 1892, Justice Lamar was stricken down in Washington with hemmorrhages of the lungs, complicated by symptoms of Bright's disease. He had occasional rallies at intervals of a few months, until exhausted nature succumbed to the strain.

It is said that Mr. Lamar was a more voracious reader than any public man who has been seen in Washington since the civil war. To this propensity was attributed most of his absentmindedness.

Justice Lamar's remains will be interred at Milledgeville by the side of those of his father, as he requested. His body has been embalmed, and the funeral arrangements will not be decided upon until his children from Mississippi arrive.

DEATH OF TWO GEORGIANS.

They Both Died by Violence a Long Way from Home.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 25.—Stephen J. Daniels, for many years baggage master at the Illinois Central depot in this city, committed suicide at McComb City, Miss. He was 63 years old and a native of Georgia. Accompanied by his daughter, he visited his wife's grave a few days ago (his wife had died two years ago). He returned home with his daughter and afterwards went out alone. Next day his lifeless body was found lying across his wife's grave. He had shot himself through the right temple.

John C. Neighbors, aged 25 years, single, a native of Georgia, residing at 225 Chartres street, and employed as switchman on the Southern Pacific railroad, was run over and killed by a switch engine in this city. The body was given to Russell Neighbors, brother of the deceased, who will have it prepared for shipment to Temple, Ga.

Ben Butler Died Intestate.

LOWELL, Jan. 25.—A citation in Saturday's issue of The Courier answers numerous inquiries made since General Butler's death as to whether he left a will. He died intestate, and his son, Mr. Paul Butler, and son-in-law, Hon. Adelbert Ames, have applied for a letter of administration upon the estate.

Erie Railroad Shops Burned.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 25.—The shops of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad company at Chartiers, were entirely consumed by fire Sunday night, together with several freight cars and two passenger coaches. The fire was caused by natural gas. Loss, $35,000.

They have done no work for a month or more.

W. Collins, of Lewis county, Virginia, died, leaving an estate valued at $3,600. He had been going with Minnie Collins, who now springs a letter on the probate court like this: "I now state what I told you before: if I leave this world before we are married, and we are still corresponding, I will you my all after my expenses are paid." She claims the money.

The people near Greenville, Ala., are still puzzled over the sudden kindling of a fire in his deserted house when the body of John Hipp was carried home. He had been hung by a mob, and his coffin was being carried back to his little cabin in the woods. The house had been vacated fifteen or twelve hours, but all at once, as the coffin approached, a bright blaze was kindled in the fireplace.

It is feared that the long continued cold spell will almost exterminate the partridge in North Carolina. The farmers report that the half-starved and frozen birds come around the barnyards in the country to secure food. When the Carolina Central train was about to leave Charlotte for Wilmington a few days since a partridge flew on the platform and got into the sleeping car to get out of the weather.

It is said that the reports of the White Capping of Jewish merchants and planters in south central Mississippi have not been exaggerated. An edict has been published that no negro tenant shall stay on a place owned by a Jewish merchant. H. Hiller, a Jewish merchant of that section, has just returned to Jackson from a trip to some of his plantations. He found many of them posted with the following placard: "Neither for sale or rent; Jewish merchants' places will hereafter be held for pasturage."

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 28, 1893.

It is likely that the Legislature will refuse to pass Mr. Pettus' bill for a Constitutional Convention, and it is perhaps as well that it should at this session. The people want a rest on politics.

But, notwithstanding the fact that, had Mr. Pettus' bill become law, the people would have been allowed a vote first on the question as to whether they would or would not have a convention, second on the men who would compose the convention and third on the adoption or rejection of the constitution such a convention would have framed, an intention is evident on the part of the foes of the Democratic party in this State to make it appear that the introduction of this bill discloses a purpose of the Democratic party to disfranchise the negroes and poor whites of the State; and small politicians of the opposition are already trying to make this use of it.

When the famous thirteenth plank of the State Democratic platform was attacked last Summer, the REPUBLICAN said it only meant that Alabama should be ruled by white men; and that is what is sought in Mr. Pettus' bill for a constitutional convention. It is a practical submission of the question to the voters of the State whether the State shall be ruled by white men or whether it shall be turned over to the ignorant horde of negroes in the black belt, who undoubtedly hold the balance of power, in default of fraud or force to prevent an expression of their wishes at the ballot box. The bill drawn by Mr. Pettus goes far to protect the white men in the State as well as the intelligent negroes of the State [illegible] educational qualification [illegible] alone would [illegible] White men [illegible] are as intelligent and patriotic as their book-learned neighbors, men who fought for their country, men who have an interest in the soil. To avoid doing injustice to these it was provided that no one who had served as a soldier should be disfranchised. This covers about all the white men now living in the State who have reached the age of 46 and upwards. To embrace the sons of these men it provided further that any man who owned $250 worth of property in a town or 40 acres of land in the country should not be disfranchised. Thus it will be seen that these various qualifications, any one of which is sufficient, was designed not to restrict but to enlarge the limit of suffrage to the white men of the State, under the laws of the new constitution, while at the same time it would effectually eliminate the dark hordes of the black belt who are semi-savages, who cannot read or write, who never fought for their country and who have no interest in the soil. It is a substantial declaration on the part of the black belt Democrats that they want a government of white men in the State, that they want the negro hordes who surround them deprived of suffrage by law and not by fraud or force, and that they are willing to remit the control of the State to the white counties.

And yet, for wishing to submit this question to the voters of the state, although the party may not deem it wise to do so, we predict that in the next state election the little demagogues and small politicians of the opposition will be busily engaged in arousing predujice against the party on the ground that it wanted to disfranchise "all the negroes and half the white voters of the state." Such a statement will be a lie so far as it concerns intelligent negroes and the great bulk of the white people embraced in those classes who can read and write, those who served in the army and those who own land; but the fact that it is a lie will only commend it to that gang who in the last campaign showed such a talent for defaming public men in the Democratic party and misrepresenting the party both as to its performances and purposes.

The Montgomery Advertiser has made a canvass of both the House and Senate on the constitutional convention and reports both houses against the proposition. The Senate is reported to be twenty-six against it to seven for it. A canvass of the House shows the members standing as follows:

|---|---|
| Against Convention | 59 |
| For Convention | 21 |
| Undecided | 20 |
| Absent | 3 |

Pretty nearly everybody agrees that some changes in our constitution is necessary in order to have a fair election law that will satisfy all the white people of the state, but all do not agree that now is the time to push the matter.

---

It is understood here that the bill for the establishment of a city court throughout the county, has been laid aside temporarily to give the people a chance to send in their petitions against it, if they desire to do so. There is a strong lobby from Anniston in Montgomery pressing the passage of the bill, and the only way for the people to meet that lobby is to send down their protest in the way of petitions.

The Anniston News confesses that it published an affidavit attacking the democracy of the editor of this paper, while he was at the forefront fighting the battles of the party in the recent campaign; but prudently refrains from telling its readers that it did not give room to published statements of numerous of the best men in Jacksonville who came to his defense and proved that he was doing the very opposite to that charged in the affidavit which was so shamelessly procured. The News knows that its editor in his heart did not believe one word of the affidavit, but yet it affects now to have been influenced by it.

But the News says it don't want to "rake up matters that are dead and buried and gone." It goes further and says "it has nothing but the kindest feeling toward the REPUBLICAN," and intimates that it is even willing to see its editor have the post office at Jacksonville, if he should want it. The News is very careful, by implication, to disclaim any support of the very reticent gentleman who was made a tool of by a few political tricksters who deceived both the News and the Democrats of Anniston as to their intentions. We are glad of this confession at least. We may have to confess the simplicity of the News, but can acquit it of the charge of wishing to foist upon the party a man who did not have the courage to openly identify himself with its nominees, when such a course meant the loss of a few votes among Alliancemen.

The only tenable ground of complaint we have against the News is that it was not as ready to publish matter vindicating the editor of the REPUBLICAN as it was to publish matter attacking his party consistency. The News doubtless has a qualm of conscience on this head, and tries to to make reparation by offering its support to us for postmaster at Jacksonville. Unfortunately matters cannot be arranged on this basis, for the editor of the REPUBLICAN does not want the Jacksonville post office and wouldn't have it if given to him. In the future, perhaps, the News, profiting by past experience, will have its opportunity to make reparation, not to the editor of this paper but to the party by refusing to give its support to any attack upon any good democrat who is fighting at the front, by base cowards and skulkers in the rear, who conspire to give aid and comfort to the enemy during the heat of battle but who are promptly on the ground to claim the fruits of victory when the battle has been won.

Representative L. J. Morris, by request, has introduced into the Legislature a bill to create a city court for Calhoun, with headquarters at Anniston. The introduction of this measure will be quite a surprise to the people of Calhoun county, and will be met with indignant protest. As Mr. Morris introduced the bill by request, and so stated, it is supposed that he will not personally favor its passage. But the position of our representatives on the question is not known. It is not astonishing to hear men speak their surprise at this measure, because it was understood that no such local legislation would be agitated at this session, and in fact our representatives pledged themselves on the stump that no such legislation would be considered by them, and that the people should have a voice in determining whether they should be saddled with any such law. The bill as introduced, establishes a court of full concurrent jurisdiction with both the Circuit and Chancery courts throughout the county, with two jury terms of as much as ten weeks a year, with the non-jury term to continue practically all year. The Judge is to be paid $2500 a year out of the common tax fund of the county, and all the other expenses of the court are to be paid by the commissioners court out of the general fund of the county in like manner as the expenses of the circuit court.

If the people of the county, who live outside of the territory of the city court of Anniston, do not desire the extension of its jurisdiction throughout the entire limits of the county they had better go at once to sending in their protests in the way of petitions to their Senator and Representatives at Montgomery.

Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, of the U. S. Supreme Court, died at Macon, Ga., of heart disease the 23rd inst. He had been in bad health for a long time and had gone to Macon to recuperate. President Harrison will doubtless appoint a Republican to fill the vacancy caused by his death.

Mr. Brown should have marred his election bill by providing that the number might be left off the ballot at the request of the voter. The ballots should all be numbered.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

An Act.

A bill to be entitled an act to provide for the calling and holding of a convention to revise and amend the cenvention of the state of Alabama.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of Alabama, That a general election shall be held in each county of this state on the first Monday in August, 1893, by the qualified voters of this state, for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not a majority of qualified voters of the state approve or disapprove of a convention on Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1893, to revise and amend the constitution of the state of Alabama.

Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That at said election herein provided for, every qualified voter, voting at said election, who approves of the holding of said convention, shall declare the same by depositing his ballot with the words 'for convention' written or printed or partly written and partly printed thereon; and every qualified voter who disapproves of the holding of said convention shall deposit his ballot with the words 'against convention' written or printed or partly written and partly printed thereon: upon the same ballot upon which said qualified elector may vote for or against said convention he may also vote for a delegate or delegates to said convention, as the county in which said elector votes, may be entitled to under the provisions of this act.

Sec. 3. Be it further enacted, That [illegible] 21 years, and [illegible] members of congress from the state of Alabama, senators and members of the general assembly of Alabama may be elected, notwithstanding their holding such office of senator or representative; said convention shall be composed of 100 members, and the delegates shall be apportioned among the several counties as follows: The counties of Autauga, Baldwin, Bibb, Blount, Butler, Cherokee, Chilton, Choctow, Clay, Cleburne, Coffee, Colbert, Conecuh, Coosa, Covington, Crenshaw, Cullman, Dale, DeKalb, Elmore, Escambia, Etowah, Fayette, Franklin, Geneva, Greene, Lamar, Lawrence, Limestone, Macon, Marion, Marshall, Monroe, Pickens, Randolph, Shelby, St. Clair, Walker Washington, and Winston shall each have one delegate. The counties of Barbour, Bullock, Calhoun, Chambers, Clarke, Hale Henry, Jackson, Lee, Lauderdale, Lowndes, Madison, Marengo, Morgan, Perry, Pike, Russell, Sumter, Talladega, Talapoosa, Tuskaloosa and Wilcox shall each have two delegates. The counties of Dallas and Mobile shall each have three delegates. The county of Montgomery shall have four delegates, and the county of Jefferson shall have six delegates.

Sec. 4. Be it further enacted, That the governor shall, at least sixty days prior to the time fixed herein for the holding of said convention, issue to the several sheriffs of the state writs of election, requiring said sheriffs to take all necessary steps to the holding of the election herein provided for in their respective counties. On Saturday next after the election, at the hour of 12, meridian, the sheriff of the county and the probate judge and the clerk of the circuit court shall assemble at the court house; or if there be no such judge or clerk or either of them fails to attend his place must be supplied by a respectable freeholder of the county, and in the presence of such other persons as may choose to attend, shall make a correct statement from the returns of the votes from the several precincts of the county of the whole number of votes given therein, "for convention" or "against convention" and the whole number of votes received by each person voted for for delegate to such convention, and said board of supervisors shall immediately make in writing, in duplicate, a declaration of the result of such election, which declaration must be signed by at least two of said supervisors; one copy of said declaration shall be filed in the office of the judge of probate of the county, and the other copy shall be immediatly forwarded to the secretary of state; and said returns must within fifteen days after the election, be opened and counted in the presence of the governor, secretary of state and attorney-general, or two of them, and the result of the election thus ascertained the governor must give notice by proclamation, published in some newspaper at the seat of government; and if it be the result of said election, as so ascertained, that a majority of the qualified electors voting at said election have voted "against convention," then no further proceedings shall be had, and no convention shall be held.

Sec. 5. Be it further enacted, That if it be the result of said election, as so ascertained and proclaimed, that a majority of the qualified electors, voting at said election, voted "for convention," then the said secretary of state shall forthwith issue to each of the persons elected as delegates to such convention, commission as delegates, under the great seal of the state of Alabama, and the delegates so elected shall assemble, at 12 o'clock m, in the hall of the house of representatives at Montgomery, on Tuesday after the first Monday in August 1893, and shall proceed to organize said convention by the election of one of their members as president, and by the election or appointment of a clerk or secetary, and such other officers and employes as may, by them deemed necessary. But the officers of said convention, other than the president, need not be members of said convention. Said convention shall then proceed to the consideration and amendment of the constitution and shall continue in session as long as may be necessary, but shall receive no pay for a longer session than thirty days.

Sec. 6. Be it further enacted, That said convention shall consider, among other things, qualifications of suffrage in this state, and shall consider the following, as an additional qualification, to-wit: No person otherwise qualified shall be permitted to vote at any election in this state, unless he is able to read and write the English language, or has served as a soldier, sailor or mariner in the late war between the states, or if he reside within the corporate limits of a city or town, own property to the value of $250, or if he live without the corporate limits of a city or town, own forty acres of land.

Sec. 7. Be it further enacted, That in case any county shall fail at said election on the first Monday in August, 1893, to elect a delegate or delegates to said convention, the governor shall issue to the sheriff of said county a new writ of election, commanding him to hold another election for delegate or delegates to said convention: the result of said election shall be ascertained and declared as herein provided for the election of delegates.

Sec. 8. Be it further enacted, That the members of said convention shall receive [illegible] mile for each mile [illegible] going to and returning from such convention, and the distance shall be computed from the county seat [illegible] $4 per day. The secretary and other officers or employes of said convention receive such pay as may be provided by said convention. The president and clerk or secretary shall certify to the auditor the amount or amounts due to each member, officer or employe of said convention, and the auditor shall thereupon draw his warrant upon the treasurer for such amount.

Sec. 9. Be it further enacted, That the sum of $30,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money, not otherwise appropriated, in the treasury, for the payment of the expenses of such convention.

Sec. 10. Be it further enacted, That in case of any epidemic or pestilence prevailing at the place of holding of said convention, the governor shall, by proclamation, convene said convention in some other city or town and make suitable provisions for the holding of the said convention in such city or town.

Sec. 11. Be it further enacted, That at the election for state officers, on the first Monday in August, 1894, the constitution framed by said convention shall be submitted to the qualified electors of the state; and if a majority of the votes cast at said election be "against constitution," said constitution shall be lost, and the governor shall proclaim by publication in some newspaper published at the seat of government. If a majority of said votes, so cast, shall give notice by proclamation in some newspaper published in Montgomery Mobile, Selma, Birmingham, Huntsville, Gadsden, Anniston and Eufaula, and said contitution shall, ten days after the making of such proclamation be and become the constitution of the state of Alabama.

TILLMAN STANDS PAT.

HE HAS NO APOLOGY TO OFFER TO THE POPULITES.

A Jeffersonian Democrat to the Core and Proud of It.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.

The national executive board of that pestiferous lot of political prostitutes who style themseves Populites, alias the Farmers Alliance, or what is left of it since their convention in Memphis last November, has been closeted with itself in the rear room of some side alley of this city for the past ten days, and if reports be true the confabs of the bosses of "Our Noble Order" have been wide of the mark of brethren dwelling together in peace. They have attracted any attention, for nobody cares what they do in a public sense; but that they are quarreling and fighting among themselves is pleasing to note. The so-called Farmers' Alliance is a thing of the past, and the fragments, as nearly as they can, is henceforth to be mustered into the ranks of the Third Party. This is the scheme of the committee, composed as it is of Loucks, the president, Mann Page, Deming, Leonard and Dean, all of whom are rank Populites. Following upon their session will come a manifesto from the Hon. J. F. Tillman of Tennessee, late general manager of the Alliance lecture bureau, who along with his office was "abolished," so far as the Alliance is concerned, at the Memphis convention. The statement of Mr. Tillman will be a lengthy, but withal an interesting one, and will show up in their true colors the men who now control the Alliance. He reviews the origin and growth of the order, pointing out the original purposes, which he declares were in accord with the principles of the Democratic party, and which he, as a life-long Democrat, undertook to carry out and impress in simple Democratic faith upon its members. Referring to and defending the action of the late national campaign in which he was charged with treason to the Alliance by sending out under his official signature numerous documents appealing to the Alliance to be true to the Democratic teachings upon which it was founded, he says:

"I conceived it a duty devolving upon me, both as the general manger and director of the lecture bureau of the National Alliance, and as an humble member of the Democratic party, to contribute to the success of a cause common to the interests of both. That the literature sent out under my signature aided the Democratic party and contributed alike to the defeat of the Republican and Third party I have no doubt and freely admit. In fact, such were my desires because the Third party in my Stat and other Soutern States was allying with the Republicans in its efforts to defeat Democratic principles."

Mr. Tillman then goes on to show up the preconceived plan of Loucks, Washburn, Ramkin, McDowell, and others at the Memphis convention to convert the whole Alliance machinery into the Third party. He says that "the Memphis session was in the main composed of the desperate followers of Third partyism met with preconcerted designs to subjugate and convert the Alliance to their own political domination, and ready to resort to the lowest tricks and deceptions to carry out their unlawful purposes."

He declares that the first session of the convention was barely opened when the wholesale attack was begun on every officer and member suspected of having even sympathized with the Democracy in the late election, and when he saw the turn things were taking, he demanded an investigation, but never got it. He then denounced his accusers as a rank set of marplots, and they in turn demanded his resignation. This he declined to give, on the ground he had committed no offense, and the upshot of the whole row was the abolition of his office and, of course, him along with it, for offensive partisanship against the Third party. Mr. Tillman then scores President Loucks, Lecturer Willets and Secretary Turner, who, as officers of the alliance, on fat salaries, traveled all over the country making Third party speeches during the campaign.

In concluding his manifesto Mr. Tillman says:

"Believing that the Alliance as now perverted and subordinated to partisan political purposes is no longer in harmony with the interests of labor, and utterly powerful to afford the relief it seeks and deserves from the oppressions and hardships of laws enacted at the instance of monopolies and millionaires, I have determined to continue to conduct the bureau as an independent educational channel, through which shall flow the most reliable and choiceest political litertature. Thus dominated by Third partyism, the Alliance has been shorn of its usefulness, and therefore unworthy of the support of all who are opposed to centralization, and favor a government of the people as intended by the great founders of free government. No true follower of Jeffersonian Democracy can longer uphold its banners. Instead thereof, however, they can unite in the grand effort of reorganizing the Alliance upon its original principles, and thus obtain that reform in the administration of public affairs so essential to the enjoyment of equal and exact justice to all.

"To the attainment of such a glorious end I shall devote my time and energies, and I appeal to all patriotic citizens to co-operate in the work of restoring the order to its once proud position in the interest of the oppressed agricultural classes by at once reorganizing upon the principles of Madison and Jefferson."

This article from Mr. Tillman will appear in the National Economist shortly, and a lively reply to it will probably be made by Loucks and Turner. The Alliance being dead, the Third party bosses are endeavoring to speculate on its remains for what it will bring in future political marts. But they have become such a transparent set of politicians for revenue only that they are treated with deserved contempt by the leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties. The costly experience of Chairman Tom Carter in purchasing J. Henry McDowell of Tennessee in the late campaign is a lesson that the Republican boodlers will not soon forget. The fact is either Chairman Carter or Chairman "Jack" Baker of the Tennessee Republican contingent still owe McDowell $5,000 of the $15,000 he was to get for withdrawing Buchanan at the proper time in favor of Winstead. It has leaked out, however, that even the Populites, through their national board, have repudiated McDowell, and the fiat has gone forth that he is never again to be trusted by them in an official capacity of any kind.

The smallest watch in the world—a silver dime can cover it—was presented to Mrs. Tom Thumb by Adelina Patti. It was made in Geneva and cost 2,000 francs the case being encrusted with tiny diamonds. A gentlemen in Chicago recently found the pretty trinket in the pawn shop. The mystery has not been solved, but of course some one was depraved enough to steal the watch from its little owner.

The boys of the town are requested not to frequent the REPUBLICAN office during their hours of leisure, and interrupt the printer boys at work at their cases. This practice has grown to be annoying to the management of the paper. To do correct work the printers must be free from interruption. The boys who have thoughtlessly frequented the office during work hours are perfectly welcome to come after work hours are over. We like the boys and are ordinarily glad to see them, but business is business and during business hours people must be left alone to attend to business or soon they will have no business to attend to.

Any of our subscibers who have sent six cents for the "yard of pansies" offered and who have not received them, should write again to W. Jennings Demorest, 15th E. 14th st. New York, informing him of the fact. You should write your name, post-office, county and state plainly. If after writing you do not get the picture, write to this office and we will look after the matter. Many of our subscribers have received the picture and pronounce it very pretty.

We have made satisfactory arrangments with our creditors and are now ready to resume business.

We wish to do a strictly cash business and sell at such low prices as will draw the trade. If you want to get value received call on PORTER, MARTIN & CO.

The Birmingham News says an off year in politics is generally a prosperous year, and adds may the rule hold good in 1893.

But is this to be an off year in politics, is the question? It has not started out that way for on the 7th inst, the populites held meetings in many of the counties, and there are those who delight to keep the agitation up to a red hot pitch and they will be making the effort all along to keep up strife. We hope they will not succeed, and that the years 1893 may be indeed and in truth an off year, and that peace, happiness and contentment may be a guest in every home in Alabama.—Greenville Advocate.

A Contest Bill.

Mr. Ferguson introduced a bill in the House Saturday, providing for trial of contests for the offices of Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, and Attorney-General of Alabama. When any person shall desire a contest of any of these offices he shall file a declaration in writing, within five days after the election, with the Speaker of the House, setting forth the grounds of contest. Election for offices mentioned may be contested for the following causes: Malconduct, fraud, corruption on the part of any inspector, returning officer, or board of supervisors; when the person, whose election to such office is contested, was not eligible thereto at the time of the election; on account of illegal votes cast at the election; to bribe or bribery or any other misconduct calculated to prevent a fair, free and full exercise of the elective franchise, but no person shall contest the election of any person on account of race, color and previous condition. The speaker shall notify the contestee within three days after the filing of the declaration and shall publish the same. Ten days after the filing of contest the contestee shall file a plea and the trial shall follow as soon as thereafter as practicable before both houses in joint session. The contestant must give bond in such amount as may be decided upon by any three of the Supreme Court Justices. Commissioners shall be appointed as agreed upon by contestant and contestee and they shall take testimony in the case. When all the testimony shall be in the speaker shall notify the president of the Senate and in ten days thereafter meet and proceed with the trial.

If the conclusion and decision of both Houses are in favor of the contestant the Supreme Court shall be notified by certificate from the clerks of both Houses and the court shall have full jurisdiction to place the contestant in possession of his office. —Montgomery Advertiser.

Recently we have lost two valuable medical works. The one "Bryce's Pocket Medical Companion," the other "Surgical Emergencies." We would be grateful for their return to our office by any one who may come across them.

Again, we would most respectfully ask the good people of the town to examine their libraries for any books bearing our family name. The different members of the family have loaned out books during the past 11 years, and a good many have not been returned. In especial, "Dickens' Globe edition," several volumes.

If any such works belonging to us be found we would be glad of their return to us.

On the Death of Mrs. Ona C. Lauk.

For The Age-Herald.

Like a counter cord whose timbre
Long has trembled with the swell,
Sweet and low, of notes that gently,
Softly sooth-d and plaintive fell—
Till the hand which woke so sadly
Every melancholy tone
By its practice knew the sorrow
Would succeed a touch alone—
When, with almost human feeling,
Seems it still to weep a strain,
Snaps at once its weird tension,
And no sound will make again:
Was the life of her we buried
Fun'raled by our hearts today,
Gone that quick and solemn summons
Much too hastily, obey.
Oh, the deep consoling pathos
Quivered ever in her song!
And the smooth contralto cadence
Seemed its melody prolong!
Thrills her last heard voice in many Earthly hearts and echoes still—
What were lost! had hope no heaven
For it evermore to fill.

The Girl I Loved at School.

When the mellow days of autumn wrap the hills in purple haze
And the sun seems all the drearer for the shortness of the days,
Comes a lovely apparation through the mists of the years,
And I don't know why it is so that my eyes will swim with tears—
For I hate to judge emotions by the text-book's rote and rule,
And I only know I'm thinking of the girl I loved at school.

Of the deepest brownest velvet are the sweetly thoughtful eyes,
And the cheeks are like the roses that our grannies' used to prize—
Not the pampered, pinky blossoms that the hot house man deals out
At four dollars for a dozen and with paste board wrapped about—
But the dear old damask roses that would hold their tints till Yule—
Just the sort I used to gather for the girl I loved at school.

And the lips—no, no! not ruby! for the coldness of the mine
Chills the jewel's burnished surface though the fiery rays may shine
In the glaring of the gaslight; fitter far do they compare
With the warm glow in your chalice;
the same fragrance lingers there;
The same thrill runs through me as when on the organ stool
My lips first pressed the pulsing lips of her I loved at school.

And the form it grows distincter as the misty veil grows thin,
And the silver belt that linked her,
like the serpent shutting in All the earth retained of heaven, hisses out "Thou jealous fool!"
For I parted in my anger from the girl I loved at school.
And I know not if the fleeting of the purple autumn days
Bring us nearer to the greeting at the meeting of our ways;
If it be I may not meet her till we've crossed the Stygian pool,
Yet I think that I shall greet her as the girl I loved at school.

Only a Mule.

BY MRS. E. L. BENNETT.

He lay there, watched by Our Father,
Smitten in mercy, at least;
Free from a cruel master,
Dying, dead, and at rest.

Better to be a homely mule,
Suffering, patient, and kind,
Than the human brute who hath slain him,
The man, with the loftier mind.

In the day of the "just made perfect,"
Ah, laugh not a brute to scorn,
Better to be a sinless mule,
Than a beast in human form.

Only a mule in the harness
Fallen because the load
Was heavier than his frame could draw
Over the slippery road.

Only a mule, and he lay there,
Suffering, helpless, forlorn,
With all of the throbbing, sensitive nerves,
Of a human princely born.

Yes, he lay there an emblem of patience,
Dying in spite of the lash—
Dying in spite of a driver's rage,
Curses and words so rash.

Heflin Hotel Burned.

Heflin, Jan. 21.—The new hotel was burned to the ground last night. But little furniture was saved, except from the dining room. The fire originated in a room up stairs, which was occupied by a drummer. His room was all ablaze when discovered, and he barely escaped a horrible death. Dr. Neil carried him down stairs and sent him to the Central hotel. Though he received some injuries, he was doing reasonable well today. The house was insured for $3500. Heflin is but ten years old, yet there has been much loss here by fire. The average is something over $2000 a year.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Young Man Killed by His Own Gun—Man Wounded by His Son.

Piedmont, Ala., Jan. 20.—This morning while hunting, Jack Morgan a young man about 18 years of age, was upon a brush heap trying to run a hare out when he slipped and fell upon his gun which discharged the contents into the back of Morgan's head, blowing a large hole, the lead lodging in his brain. He died before his parents reached home with him.

F. C. Becknell was also shot in the thigh with a small rifle. While his son was loading the weapon behind him he accidentally fired the gun shooting his father in the thigh, leaving a painful but not serious wound.

For the Sake of "Auld Lang Syne."

In behalf of the Monument to the Private Soldier and Sailor of the Confederate States, whose valor and devotion have won alike the undying gratitude of our people and the admiration of the world; and in behalf of the Memorial Museum to be established in the mansion occupied by President Davis as long as the Confederacy lasted, this appeal is made, to which every citizen of the Southern States is earnestly asked to give sympathy and support.

It is designed that the monument shall speak for each State of the Confederacy, of its sacred love and reverence for the dead, the name of each State graven on the stones forming the majestic column upon which will stand the stalwart figure of the Confederate Private; and in the museum, where one may learn the true story of that dire struggle, and imbibe the spirit of that self-sacrifice which gladly gave its all at the call of duty, it is intended to assign a room to each State (bearing its name), in which shall be placed the sacred relics of the glorious past; and that it shall also be represented on the Board of Managers by a lady regent from that State.

Throughout the South there are many patriotic monuments erected to the memory of the gallant leaders of the Confederacy, but none to the heroic private, who won its glorious victories and bore the severest hardships. These memorials are to commemorate the virtues of all the heroes from all the Southern States.

Perhaps no one spot so speaks of the people of the Confederacy, or is more associated with their unparaleled heroism, that Richmond, the Capital, on whose most lofty hill, overlooking those fields once drenched with the blood of the soldier from every State, and that on-sweeping river so gallantly defended by the intrepid sailor, it should be our pride and glory to rear this unique monument—the combined offering of love and gratitude from the entire Southern people. And surely within the walls where so often gathered the valiant men and true, these lasting memorials of the noble sons and daughters of all the South should be sacredly guarded, that the Past may be ever held in honor remembrance, and our children's children may learn—

"How sublime a thing it is To suffer and be strong."

To this end, there will shortly be held in this city a Memorial Bazaar. In it there will be a table, or tent, for each State, bearing its name, shield, colors, and motto; and it is earnestly desired that each State shall assist its own table with contributions of all kinds. This bazaar will be under the auspices of the Memorial Associations and Confederate Camps, and direct appeals will soon be sent out by them to enlist the active co-operation of those who never failed to honor—what now is only a memory dear to every heart—the cause they believed to be right.

The Ladies' Memorial Associations and the Confederate Veteran Camps of Richmond,
By MRS. LIZZIE CARY DANIEL,
Corresponding Secretary.
720 E. Franklin, Richmond, Va.

Two More Election Bills.

There were two more bills to regulate the general election laws in the State introduced in the House Saturday. Mr. Sayre's bill makes the payment of poll taxes for the preceding year a condition for registration. The registration shall close sixty days before an election. The registrar's certificate must be produced by the election at the time of voting. The vote shall be prepared cast as provided forin the Australian ballot law.

The other election bill was introduced by Mr. Brown, of Colbert. It makes some radical changes. The bill first lays down as a requisite to voting, that the elector must present at the time of registering his poll tax receipt and at the time of voting his certificate of registration. It further provides that the registration of each county must prior to the election file in the office of the Secretary of State the registration list of his county. The bill provides that the ballots shall be numbered, but allows the voter to request that his ballot shall not be numbered, upon which the inspectors shall accept ballot and deposit it in the box, keeping a memorandum of such request. The law further provides that the tickes or ballots shall be printed by the county, and shall not be less than two and a half inches nor more than three inches in width and shall contain all the names of candidates duly nominated with the offices for which they will be voted. The elector will received a ballot from one of the inspectors and will retire to a booth where he will erase the names of all parties for whom he does not desire to vote, and opposite the names of those for whom he does wish to vote he shall make a cross mark and if he fails to either erase a name he does not wish to vote for or to cross a name he does wish to vote for ballot shall be void as to that official. The bill further provides for the contest of an election as to State officers befor the General Assembly; next following the election. The contest to be filed with the Secretary of State, who shall call for ballot boxes from counties, desired to be opened and counted in the General Assembly. The bill provides that the contestant shall be required to give bond in the sum of $5,000 to secure the costs.—Montgomery Advertiser.

THE SAYRE ELECTION BILL.

Synopsis of a Bill Now Pending in the House of Representatives.

The bill provides for an official ballot and the printing and distributing of the official ballot shall be under the charge of the probate judges of the various counties of the state. Upon these ballots shall be the names of all the candidates nominated by any caucus, conventions, mass meeting or primary election of any political party, the name of any person requested to be a candidate, signed in the case of any state or federal office by at least 500 qualified electors—in the case of a county office by at least twenty-five qualified voters. All nominations must be made not more than sixty or less than twenty days before the election. It is a felony to make falsely or fraudulently destroy, suppress or forge any certificate of nomination. The probate judges of the counties are required to prevent the certificates and petitions of nominees for at least six months.

The ballots provided by the act shall contain the names of all the candidates nominated for the same and different offices, which names shall be printed together and arranged alphabetically, irrespective of party. Each polling place is provided with stalls so arranged that the elector may prepare his ballot in secret.

No person whatever shall be allowed within 50 feet of any polling place, save officers of election. The elector prepares his ballot by making with pen and ink or stencil on the margin before the name of each candidate of his choice an x mark. If any elector applying to vote shall declare on oath his inability to read the English language, he may have the assistance of a person to be appointed for that purpose by the inspectors of election in the preparation of his ballot. Any person who makes a false declaration as to his abilty to prepare his ballot is guilty of a felony and any assistant who wilfully deceives any elector in preparing his ballot shall be guilty of felony. And any person who shall disclose how any elector may have voted shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Where the electors consist of persons of different races they are admitted to the polling place alternately. Any person who permits another to see his ballot is guilty of a misdemeanor, or any person who has a ballot in his possession outside the polling place is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The officer who assists the illiterate elector in preparing his ballot is not permitted to make suggestions to any elector as to how he shall vote, but shall receive from such elector the name of each candidate for each office for whom he desires to vote. The ballot shall be cast secretly.

Death of a Physician.

Died, Tuesday, January the 17th, 1893, at his son's residence in Piedmont, Dr. J. W. Kinabrew, in the 74th year of his age.

His remains were interred in the cemetery in Piedmont on Wednesday, in the presence of relatives and friends, and of Rev. P. H. Brewster and Rev. G. W. Hamilton who conducted the burial services.

Dr Kinabrew, or the "old doctor" as he was called to distinguish him from his son, Dr. V. H. Kinabrew, the well-known physician of this city was born in Columbus county, Georgia, where he was actively engaged in the duties of his profession prior to his removal to Piedmont, eight years ago. On coming to this city he relinquished his practice to the able care of his son beside whom he leaves one other living child, Mrs. A. J. Buford, of near Cartersville, Ga.

He had been troubled with an affection of the heart for ten years, and a late attack of la grippe aggravated it. Two months before the death of his wife, who deceased last February, he was taken seriously ill, and his life was despaired of. Good medicine, care and nursing, combined with a stay at Piedmont Springs, bettered his condition until a few days ago, when he contracted the attack of pneumonia which was the immediate cause of his death.

In appearance he was a man of fine physique and was both active and energetic. In his profession he was skillful and observant. His character was such that he commanded respect from all; admiration from his friends; and love from his relatives. He was a member of the Baptist church.—Piedmont Inquirer.

A New Home for the Louisiana Lottery.

The Louisiana State Lottery has been granted a charter from the Republic of Honduras, and will move its business to the country on the expiration of its present charter, which will be January 1, 1894. The concession is a monopoly of the lottery business for the term of fifty years. The Honduras goverment grants the company the island of Guanaja, in the islands of the Bay of Honduras, which is to be used in such manner as the company may see fit for its purposes.

The government concedes free of cost to the company all lands which may be required for lottery purposes throughout the republic of Honduras. All lottery tickets to be issued by the company are to be impressed by the official seal of the Hondurean government, and all drawings are to be supervised by the government. Imitation of the tickets of the company is to be a crime subject to the strict laws of the republic against counterfeiting.

An important feature of the concession is the granting of the right to lay a cable line from any point on the coasts of Honduras to the United States, the Antilles or to Europe. The Hondurean government, as a consideration for the granting of the charter, is to have free use of the cable and of the steamship lines, and is to receive $1,000,000 in American gold coin and a graduated percentage of from 1 to per cent on the face value of all the tickets sold by the company.

Rescued by the Father.

J. W. Speer and his little ten-year old daughter visited at the house of a Mrs. Kenny, who lives near the cotton factory, on Sunday afternoon. While playing around the house, the little girl's dress was set on fire when she went too near an open grate. She ran screaming to her father who wrapped her in woolen cloth, extinguished the fire which was burning her dress, and thus saved her life, Mr. Speer's hands were badly burned in his efforts to save his child. The little girl had a narrow escape from a terrible death.—Piedmont Inquirer.
