A Pathetic Story.

A pathetic story of a seven days' oneymoon and then desertion and art-rending revelations to the ief-stricken young husband was d Assistant Prosecuting Attor- y Estep yesterday by Thomas avis, who resides at Ninth and iddle streets, St. Louis. One nonth ago Davis wooed and won, fter an acquaintanceship of six eeks, a handsome young belle of f Desoto, Mo. Miss Jennie Smith, he daughter of well-to-do parents. The wedding was solemnized at De Soto on March 28, and all seemed bright to the young man. He brought his young wife to St. Louis and for one week he lived uncon- scious of anything but happiness. Then his wife suddenly disappeared. For two weeks the deserted hus- band searched for her, finally mak- ing the appalling discovery that she was the undivorced wife of an- other man. According to his story, the girl was married to a gambler named Jacob Fisher four years ago, and her flight was prompted by fear that Davis would learn the truth. Davis believes that his wife has gone to Williamsville, Mo., and will follow her.

The Wetumpka Times-Democrat says: "Circuit court convened here on Monday, and something a little unusual for Elmore county the offi- cers of the court were all new to her."

Hereafter a man who is arrested for being drunk on the streets of Mobile will be required to give a bond not to get drunk again for a term of six months. This beats the Keely cure.

COUNTESS OF RUMFORD.

SHE WAS AN EXTRAORDINARY WOMAN OF WHOM STRANGE TALES ARE TOLD.

There died in Paris, Me., last week, one of the most remarkable women of America, Abigal Goss Buck, known as the last Countess of Rumford.

Her dwelling was many miles from the railroad, in the heart of almost unbroken forests. Here she lived alone, sleeping under a cover- lid of goatskins tanned with her own hands. In the house were priceless art treasures and garments —dresses of the smoothest satin and of the choicest silk, silk cloaks and capes, trimmed with the rare fur of otter and sable, sattin bed curtains, wonderfully embroidered by skilled fingers, priceless gloves, rich em- broidery work, rare paintings, etc.

One dress is the one which the first Countess of Rumford wore on her wedding day, 150 years ago. It was made of flowered silk woven to order on the famous Florence looms and trimmed with rare old laces.

Many of the articles were exhib- ited at the Centennial at Philadel- phia in 1876, and still have the tags of the exposition attached to them. Was ever such a spectacle seen upon this earth before as the bent old woman dressed poorer than any town pauper in the land dis- playing, with her shaking hands, silks and satins that England's Queen would be proud to wear.

In the barns were many head of cattle, which "Aunt Jaba," as she was called, managed with skill. She rode to town upon a board thrust between the crossbar and axle of the forewheels of a farm wagon.

So much for recent years. Very different was Abigal Goss Marshall in her girlhood. She was the last of the Count Rumford's line, and a reputed descendant of Henry VIII. of England, and was born in Beth- el Me., in 1816. Dr. Goss a dis- tinguished officer on the American side during the Revolution, mar- ried the daughter of the Count of Rumford. Dr. Goss's daughter was the mother of Aunt Jaba. Her descent from Henry VIII is involv- ed in greater obscurity.

When she was quite young her parents moved to another town, af- fording better educational advanta- ges. The Countess Abigail learned to speak, write and read German, French and Italian with ease and flueney, studied Latin and Greek and was also an accomplished mu- sician, with poetical gifts of a high order.

Her physical beauty equaled her accomplishments. When she vis- ited Boston in her 17th year, beard- ed men stood stock still on the streets and watched her out of sight.

When about 20 the Countess Ab- igail became enamored of a young man who reciprocated her affection; but her parents, who had a more ambitious marriage in view, strong- ly opposed the match. One morn- ing she came out of her room so changed in demeanor as to startle her parents. She told them she had decided to give up her lover, and then, advancing to the table and resting her fair hands upon it, with fingers clinched and thumb extended, a pose she always assum- ed in moments of great mental ex- citement, made a solemn vow to marry the first man who proposed, no matter who it might be.

A worthy young farmer learned in some way of the strange news, promptly proposed and was as promptly accepted. Her parents gave a reluctant consent, in hope that marriage would clear the clouded brain.

Such is the popular story of how plain Jabez Buck came to marry the brilliant and beautiful Countess of Rumford.

Her married life seems to have been quiet and happy. Jabez Buck is described as a mild-mannered, hard-working man, with a change- less love and admiration for his beautiful wife, and an inexhausti- ble patience in humoring her va- garies.

"My husband was one of natures noblemen," said Aunt Jaba. "A better or more honest man never lived. He was rather jealous of me, though, and on his deathbed made me promise never to marry any other man. Since he died I have had twenty-three offers of marrirge from good men besides two half of- fers. By half offers I mean propo- sals from men who had living wives whom they proposed to di- vorce."

Mrs. Buck had no children, but she brought up and partially adopt- ted seven, of which two are dead.

Of course, all sorts of things are now remembered about the "Count- ess." In winter she would enter the woods alone, axe in hand, chop down the biggest trees and cut them into cordwood, which she hauled with four big red oxen to Norway or to South Paris to sell.

"A few years ago," said one of the Paris boys, "a small party of young folks went over to Aunt Ja- ba and asked her permission to gather some chestnuts from her trees. The old lady readily granted the desired permission, but when we asked for a ladder, she exclaim- ed, 'Poob, what boys!' and started off with us. We soon reached a smooth-trunked tree, with the low- est limbs ten feet or more above the ground, and Aunt Jaba, who was at that time 70 years old, wound her arms and legs around the trunk and 'shinned' up into the tree like a squirrel.

"Aunt Jaba once came to my store to solicit a loan of $200," said a Paris merchant. "On the day she agreed to pay me there was one of the worst rainstorms I ever knew: but just before noon Aunt Jaba drove up in front of my store completely saturated. She had come fourteen miles to pay me."

Last fall she had some trouble with one of her tenants, and took her cattle from the pasture, turned them out beside the road, watching them for two weeks to prevent mis- chief. It rained nearly every day, but when night came Aunt Jaba would lie down upon the wet ground and calmly sleep with her cattle around her.

Shall they Attend the Reunion at Birmingham.

GRAYTON, May 2, '93.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—In company with four ex-Confederate soldiers the other day it was moved and seconded that the ex-Confederate soldiers of Calhoun organize and attend the reunion at Birmingham this summer, and you are to put the question in a way to ascertain how many are in favor of the mo- tion. Let us hear from you.

It rains and the farmers are be- ginning to wear long faces. The oat crop is promising.

The Sugar Bounty.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—A plan for suspending the sugar bounty without waiting for the slow action of congress has been sugges- ted to President Cleveland and may be adopted. The plan consists in a simple order from the secretary of the treasury to his subordinates to draw no more warrants and make no payments on account of sugar bounties.

Such action in a single test case would be sufficient to carry the matter to the courts and secure a decision from the supreme court of the United States upon the naked question whether the payment of gratuities to private individuals out of the money received by taxation upon the people was within the power of congress under the consti- tution.

An Automatic Vote Recorder.

An automatic vote recorder, which has attracted much attention in Michigan, has been indorsed by the state legislature by a vote of 67 to 4, is said to be simple and yet perfect, says the Times-Star. A row of perpendicular keys or but- tons indicates the parties, and rows of horizontal keys or buttons the offices. The political parties are further distinguished by colors, as, for example, blue stands for repub- lican, red for democratic, white for prohibition and green for popu- list. You press the key or button for each candidate you desire to vote for and the automatic recorder does the rest. By simply closing the cover the keys are released for the next voter. The number of votes for each candidate is auto- matically recorded, and the result can be announced as soon as the last vote in. The machine does not deprive an ignorant voter of his rights as long as he can distinguish colors. It is alleged that the ma- chine will not allow of crooked manipulation. There is still some doubt, however, if it is an improve- ment upon the Australian system.

MINERS' BIG STRIKE.

Twenty Thousand Quit in Ohio But Without Hard Feelings.

COLUMBUS, O. May 1.—Twenty thousand miners in Ohio are idle today, the men having struck for an advance of 5 cents per ton in the price of mining. No trouble is reported and none is anticipated at this time. A very friendly feeling exists.

PARTICULARS OF THE STRIKE.

CLEVELAND, O. May 1—Dispatch- es received tonight indicate that the 20,000 coal miners in Ohio struck today as a result of the ac- tion taken at Columbus Saturday. Every mine in the Hocking valley is closed. Two thousand five hun- dred miners laid down their picks in the sixth sub-district, of which Bellaire is the center, and 2,000 men in the twenty-six mines of the Massillion district did the same.

In the Hocking valley it is not thought the strike will last long, as the majority of the miners are op- posed to strikes.

THE REBEL YELL.

From the Confederate Veteran.

Many people think of the three measured huzzas given now and then as "the rebel yell." It is shocking to an old Confederate to consider such deception. The ven- erable widow of Rear Admiral Ra- phael Semmes, in attending a Con- federate reunion at Memphis a couple of years ago, modestly ex- pressed her wish to hear "the rebel yell." Something of an old-time cheer came from the throats of men who gladly tried to compliment the wife of the eminent naval comman- der. Kellar Anderson, who was of the Kentucky Orphan Brigade and had heard the yell, wrote a reminiscence for the Memphis Ap- peal. It is this same Anderson, called Captain and again Gen. An- derson, who honored his native Kentucky, his adopted Tennessee, and American heroism some months ago at Coal Creek, in defying the miners who had captured him and demanded his head as a ransom, when it seemed only hopeless to re- fuse their demands. One thing is sure, he had heard "the rebel yell."

"There is a Southern mother on this stand who says she wants to hear 'the rebel yell' once more."

"The announcement transforms, and in an instant I find myself ac- ting the humble part of file-closer to Company I, Fifth Kentucy In- fantry, with pieces at the right shoulder, the brigade in route col- umn. With the active, strong, swinging stride of the enthusia- tic, trained soldier, they hold the dou- ble quick over rocks, logs, gullies, undergrowth, hill, and vale, until amid the foliage of the trees above them the hurling shell and hissing shot from the enemy's field guns give notice that if retreating they have missed the way. Yet, there is no command to halt. Direct, on unchanged course, this battle-scarr- ed and glory-mantled battallion of Kentucky youths continues, and as they reach the open woods, in clar- ion tones comes the order, 'Change front, forward on first company,' etc. The order executed found them formed on ground but recent- ly occupied by a batallion of their foes, and few of these had left their positions. The battalion of Ken- tuckians were in battle array where they once were; but now the ground was almost literally covered with the Federal dead, the entire length of our regiment of seven hundred men. Men, did I say? Soldiers is the word; there were few men among them, they being youths, but soldiers indeed. The increas- ing spat, whirl, and hiss of the minnie balls hurrying by left no doubt of the fact among these sol- diers. They are about to enter the action again and forward is the or- der. Steady, men, steady; hold your fire; not a shot without or- ders. It is hard to stand, but you must not return it. We have friends in our front yet. They are being hard pressed, and their ammuni- tion is almost expended, but they are of our proudest and best, and Humphries' Mississippians will hold that ridge while they have a cartridge.

"It is nearing sunset, and after two days of fearful carnage—yea, one of the best contested battles of the times, the enemy has been driven pell-mell from many parts of the field. Our losses are num- bered by thousands, and we are now advancing in battle array, the little red flag with blue cross dane- ing gaily in the air over the heads of those who were there to defend it. The last rays of the setting sun had kissed the autumn foliage when we stepped into open ground and found that we were among the wreck of what a few short minutes ago had been a superb six-gun bat- tery. The uniforms of the dead artillerymen and the gaily capari- soned bodies of the many dead horses, proclaimed this destruction the work of our friends. We look upon the dead, pull our cartridge boxes a little more to the front and resolve once to face the destruction we are now entering. The boom of artillery increases. The rattle of musketry is steady—aye, incessant and deadly. The sulphurous smoke has increased until almost stifling. Only fifty yards of space separates us from the gallant Mississippians we are there to support. They have clung to the ridge with a death like grip, but their last cartridge has been fired at the enemy, and to their support being at hand these sturdy soldiers of Longstreet's corps are ordered to retire.

"Simultaneously the support was ordered forward. As the Missis- sippians retired the deep-volumed shouts of the enemy told us plainer than could words that the enemy thought they had routed them. Oh, how differently we regarded the situation! If they could have seen them as we—halting, kneeling, lying down, ranging themselves in columns of files behind the large trees to enable us to get at the ene- my with an unbroken front, each man as we passed throwing cap high into the overhanging foliage in honor of our presence—then I imagine their shouts would have been suppressed. 'Steady in the center! Hold your fire! Hold the colors back!' The center advanced too rapidly. We are clear of our friends now, only the enemy in front, and we meet face to face on a spur of Mission Ridge, which ex- tends through the Snodgrass farm, and we are separated by eighty yards. Thud! and down goes Pri- vate Roberson. He turned, smiled, and died. Thud! Corporal Gray shot through the neck. 'Get to the rear!' said I. Thud! Thud! Thud! Woods, Michael, the gallant Thomp- son. Thud! Thud! Thud! Courage- ous Oxley, the knightly Desha, and duty-loving Cummings. And thus it goes. The fallen increase, and are to be counted by the hun- dreds. The pressure is fearful, but the 'sand-digger' is there to stay. 'Forward! Forward!' rang out along the line. We move slowly to the front.

"There is now sixty yards be- tween us. The enemy scorn to fly; he gives back a few paces; he re- tires a little more, but still faces us, and loads as he backs away. We are now in the midst of his dead and dying, but he stands as do the oaks about him. We have all that is possible for human to bear; our losses are fearful, and each moment some comrade passes to the un- known. At last Humphries' Mis- sissippians have replenished boxes and are working around our right. Trigg's Virginians are uncovering to our left. I feel a shock about my left breast, spin like a top in the air, and come down in a heap. I know not how long before came the sounds 'Forward! Forward For- ward!' I rise on my elbow. Look! Look! There they go, all at break- neck speed, the bayonet at charge. The firing appears to suddenly cease for about five seconds. Then arose that do-or-die expression, that maniacal maelstrom of sound; that penetrating, rasping, shriek- ing, blood-curdling noise, that could be heard for miles on earth, and whose volumes reached the heavens; such an expression as nev- er yet came from the throats of sane men, but from men whom the seething blast of an imaginary hell would not check while the sound lasted.

"The battle of Chickamauga is won.

"Dear Southern mother, that was 'rebel yell,' and only such scenes ever did or ever will produce it.

"Even when engaged, that ex- pression from the Confederate sol- dier always made my hair stand on end. The young men and youths who composed this unearthly music were lusty, jolly, clear-voiced, har- dened soldiers, full of courage, and proud to march in rags, barefoot, dirty and hungry, with head erect to meet the plethoric ranks of the best equipped and best army of modern times. Alas! how many of them are decrepit from ailment and age, and although we will never grow old enough to cease being proud of the record of the Confederate soldier, and the dear old mothers who bore them, we can never again, even at your bid- ding, dear, dear mother, produce the 'rebel yell.' Never again; nev- er, never, never."

The Republican.

SATURDAY, NOV. 5, 1892.

If there is a pencil shover in Alabama for whom the Alliance Herald has the deepest sympathy and a perfect commiseration, it is Lon Grant of the Jacksonville Republican. He is too honest for the fraudocracy. He is opposed to ballot-box stuffing, thievery and perjury, and has not been reticent in condemning them. Only a few weeks since, the Selma papers came down on him, with all their power, for having been complimented for the position he held on this subject by his paper. He was constrained to make an explanation, in order to hold his position in the camp of the "black belt heroes." In his last issue, he deals with a correspondent of this paper for the reason that said correspondent said that the papers were condemning the Jacksonville Republican, "because of its advocacy of fair conduct of elections". This is denied and the Republican adds to its denial that "the democratic press of Alabama and the Republican are in accord on the subject of fair elections, and the party is with its organs." In accord how? In favor of fair elections or opposed to them? If they are in accord and in favor of fair elections, the Republican is challenged and defied to name three papers of the fraudocratic stripe that will have the temerity to admit it. Even the Republican dare not admit that it favors a free vote and an honest count. It dances all around the point and plays all about the fact, but it cannot be induced to say that much. Nor can it be induced to answer the question does it favor a free vote and fair count between white folks? All who know Lon. Grant understand his position, but he cannot be induced to let the Republican answer that question.—Alliance Herald.

The above article is strangely contradictory. In the first part of the article it is admitted the REPUBLICAN "is opposed to ballot-box stuffing, thievery and perjury and has not been reticent in condemning them." In the latter part of the article the public are informed that this paper dare not admit that it is in favor of honest conduct of elections even among white folks. If it has not been reticent in condemning unfair election methods, how can it be said it dare not admit it is opposed to them? We would suggest to the Herald that its editor take up the study of logic.

The Selma papers have not attacked this paper for its position, nor has any other Democratic paper in the State, so far as we know. The Selma Times said that it liked the editor of the REPUBLICAN, but did not like to see him being complimented by the Herald. This is the extent to which they "came down" on him.

We have said more than once that the REPUBLICAN is in favor of maintaining the purity of the ballot-box, and that the Democratic press and the rank and file of the party are in accord with it on this head, since the new election law has made that possible without subjecting the white people of certain communities in this State to the mortifying and ruinous position of subordination politically to the black race. We say so again. The discussion of the question of constitutional convention brought out fully the embarrassing position of the party with respect to election management and also the frank admission that in certain counties of the State a free ballot and a fair count meant negro domination of white men. A convention was desired to get rid of this embarrassment, so that the people might restore the purity of the ballot box in every part of Alabama. In the discussion of this question in the Legislature the Democratic members from the black belt expressed an ardent desire to secure such a situation as would permit them to have an absolutely fair conduct of elections. How the attempt to call a Constitutional Convention failed is matter of history. The next best thing suggested toward the attainment of fair election methods was the Australian ballot law, now in force in this State, as it is in every State in the Union which has instituted ballot reform. During the discussion on this Representatives from the black belt declared their purpose to be, not to disfranchise white men, but to get into position to have fair elections without resultant negro domination. So far as the Democracy could speak through its representatives in the Legislature it is on record as favoring fair elections. So with its leading press. The Herald defies us to name three papers of the "fraudocratic" stripe that will admit it. We know no papers of the "fraudocratic stripe" that will admit it. We know no Democratic papers in this State we can easily do so. The Birmingham Age-Herald, the Montgomery Advertiser and the Anniston Hot Blast have all declared themselves in favor of the fair conduct of elections, not to speak of the weekly press of the State. These papers, like the REPUBLICAN, do not mean by this neither to give endorsement to the frequent charges of fraud made against their party by wholesale, by the Herald and other papers in opposition to the Democracy.

As we have said before in this paper, no party can arrogate to itself that it is alone virtuous on this head. That a condition has obtained in Alabama which has absolutely forced irregular election methods upon some communities of this State is an open secret. The policy of the Republican party is responsible for this; not the Democratic party. That everybody of honest impulse desires to get away from this condition of things is freely admitted. The new election law is the outgrowth of this impulse. It is a step in the direction of a pure ballot box. Instead of fighting it, the Herald and other opposition papers should approve its good features and invite the co-operation of all men in favor of fair elections to its amendment. The old law afforded protection to the ballot no more than the present one. Under that grew up the abuses bitterly complained of. A change of law was a necessity. If we were to have a change of method. Was not the correspondents of the Herald, if not the Herald itself, boasting that in the coming election the white counties intended to do some tall counting themselves? To what end did this spirit tend? Was it not to destruction of popular government and a determination of results by the men who could cypher best and perjure their souls most deeply? Was not the end of this invited condition revolution and complete destruction of the material welfare of Alabama (whom we should all love) to say nothing of the moral downfall of a great people?

Why may not all good men come together on a proposition to return to the virtuous methods of our fathers? Why should one side of a divided people assume to themselves all the virtue in this case, when but a short while back they were boasting that they intended to employ the very methods they now so bitterly condemn? Are we all not losing sight of the good of the State (which should be our first care) in a miserable factional contention? What has become of that patriotism that led the young men of Alabama in 1861 to offer their lives for the defense of their state?

The mere matter as to who shall be Governor is a trifle. The preservation of popular government to posterity is of inestimable value. The upbuilding of Alabama is a work in which a patriot may engage. The factional brawler is the man most to be feared, whether we look to the preservation of popular government or the material advancement of the State.

A good number of people in Montgomery failed to vote in the late municipal election there, held under the new law, because they had failed to preserve their registration certificates and were not allowed to vote, for that reason. This is a point to be remembered. In May, a year from now, a new registration will be made all over the State. At the August election following a voter must show his registration certificate. If one loses his certificate he loses his right to vote in that election, although he may register in the May following preceding the next general election and again acquire the right to vote. A new registration is made every two years, under the new law.

A division of the white people of Alabama on political questions again next year is to be deplored, but no man is wise enough to suggest a plan to avert it. If it must come, let it come. The Democracy need not "beg quarter." If the Democratic party will put courageous and honest men in leadership and deal candidly with the people, it will have nothing to fear. It will be easily victorious.

It would be well for the Democratic press of the State to await the action of the meeting of the Jeffersonian and Populist committees at Birmingham before slobbering too much about reconciliation.

A clean man, above shallow trickery, must head the party in Calhoun

Judge Bob has dispatched business at this term of the court in such manner that the docket of each day has been easily cleared. His ability grows with his years of service, and it is in the womb of the future that he will yet adorn higher judicial position.

The farmers who have attended court here this week from all parts of the county are in an unusually cheerful and hopeful frame of mind. This is half the battle. Men cannot work well to achieve results when not sustained and fortified by hope. Let the newspapers cease to sing jeremiads, and hereafter give praise to the Lord for his bounties.

Rain!

Picnic!

Commencement!

On account of the rain, school was small Wednesday.

Miss Cora Driskell has been sick for the past few days.

Ben Savage, more commonly known with the boys as "Sol" paid us a most pleasant visit Saturday.

The Seniors have some very pretty badges, with their class flower, the daisy, painted on them.

For the past few days Miss Sallie Savage has suffered very much with tooth-ache.

The young men of the C. L. S. have postponed their annual debate until commencement.

One of the astronomy girls wishes to know why Prof. F. doesn't get a "microscope" so the class can go star gazing.

We school children were very much disappointed last Tuesday when we awoke and found the day "dark and dreary." But on next Monday, if we have "picnic weather," we will celebrate our annual picnic at Sulphur Springs.

We again thank Mr. Slim for his most cordial invitation to picnic at Oxford Lake. We are sorry we can't go. We will "take notes" of how to work around our parents (something entirely new to us) and try to go next year. Hurrah for picnic at Oxford Lake, May '94!

The school was most pleasantly surprised last Saturday by a visit from Prof. W. H. McKee. Prof. McKee is one among many of our former teachers and pupils who will always be accorded a hearty welcome at our dear old Alma Mater.

Miss Goldie Ayers and Master Stakely with their mother spent the first part of the week with relatives and friends in the "Model City."

Miss Haley, our much loved history teacher, with her pupils marched to the cemetery Memorial Day and there had fitting exercises in honor of the "Gray", who lie sleeping "neath the sod."

(Anxious mother) Jennie, you must not forget to take your Bible with you.

(Jennie) Yes mamma, I have it packed in the bottom of my trunk with Puck and Judge.

One of the girls, the other day, come rushing in and wanted to know who all were going to the seminary.

We are glad to hear that Miss Maggie Woodruff, an alumnus of '92, received the medal for the best recitation in a Gadsden society. She is now working for the gold medal and we hope that she will triumphantly bear it away also.

After eight months of hard study Miss Jennie Wyly has "gone to the coast" to spend the hot summer months.

One of our home girls of the graduating class of '87 will soon register her name in the matrimonial department of the school of life. We can only assure her of our best wishes, and in the language of Hiawatha, although on a very different occasion, and with quite a different meaning, we will say to her—

"All our thoughts go onward with you;
Soon our task will be completed,
Soon your foot steps we will follow."

The Mobile Fruit and Trading Co., has changed its terminal point from Bocas de Toro, United States of Columbia; to Bluefields, which is the largest banana port in Central America.

Choccolocco News Notes.

When Anniston booms Choccolocco "follows suit." One of her mammouth brick yards has resumed operations, with the others to follow, if the railroads "toat fare" with them.

A handsome engine for the paint manufacturing company has arrived. The company is pushing its business. It will soon be turning its product upon the market. The company is working the valuable chalk deposit near town town. The chalk will will be carted to the factory, which is located near the Ga. P. depot.

A railroad is projected from this place up the valley; and it will be built, if the mineral resources justify.

Mr. Vansandt is busy repainting the office and buildings of the Choccolocco Brick Company, and loading cars on an order for one hundred thousand brick from the Hercules foundry of Anniston.

Prof. Marsh took to the mountain with his his school on Friday afternoon, recently. He and the pupils report a most enjoyable picnic. Wild flowers were abundant, and the scenery is magnificent.

Mr. A. B. Scarbrough is slowly recovering strength, and with no backset, will soon be up from a long and dangerous sickness.

Mr. Malory, who has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Dr. Davis, has returned to his home in Arkansas.

Homer Orr, one of the pupils at the academy, is laid up from the effects of a fall he had while at play on the campus. His right leg was badly cut. Our school boys are very unfortunate this term, as it has been only a few months since little Abb Scarbrough died from effects of a fall on the snow.

The Centennial meeting at the Baptist church at this place last Saturday and Sunday was a a success in every particular. The attendance was large, the dinners were sumptuous, the preaching was excellent, and the music was charming. A half dozen of the Munford choir joined the choir of the Baptist church, thereby making such a class as had never been heard in this valley. The cash collection on Sunday amounted to $109. A large number of young people from Anniston were present on Sunday.

The cold weather and the freshet have done irreparable damage to the farmers in the Choccolocco valley. On the 3rd inst., the creek was out of its banks and over thousands of acres of corn and cotton and oats.

OCCASIONAL.

WEAVER'S.

The school at this place will have their picnic on Friday, May 12th at the Caves near this place.

On Friday night May 12th there will be a "Spelling Bee" at the academy. Refreshments will be served by the ladies in the interest of the M. E. Church. The ladies will take great pains to make it an enjoyable occasion; so we expect a very pleasant time. All are most cordially invited to attend.

FIVE MEN DROWNED.

Searcy, Ark. May 2.—Five men lost their lives in the raging current of the Little Red river near here today. The river is very high as a result of the recent heavy rains, and the current is very swift. Allen Brown, Robinson Caruth Joe Scott, Sandey Cooksey and Allen Booth were employed at the government rock quarry two miles south of this place. They got into a small boat at noon today and attempted to cross the river to get their dinner. When they had reached the middle of the river the raging torrent overcame their strength and their boat was thrown violently against a rock, wrecking it. The men were thrown into the river and soon carried down with the current. Their bodies have not been recovered.

Avenged His Sister.

Danville, Ky. May 2—L. D. Wood of Cleveland O. shot and mortally wounded Barney Higgins, ex-mayor of Somerset Ky., in the lobby of the court house in this city this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Higgins created a sensation a year ago by getting drunk, and while in that condition assaulted a sister of Wood in the depot at Somerset. Miss Wood has since been demented. Higgins was tried and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. The verdict was reversed and Higgins was given a change of venue to this county. There the trial was put off until September. This infuriated Wood and he walked up to Higgins and shot him four times.

An Insect in Her Dream.

CHILLICOTHE, O., May 2—Miss Blanche Herman, a young girl employed at G. W. Paul's bakery, dreamed that she was by a tarantula, and so great was the pain she felt in her right arm that it awakened her and she could sleep no more. Upon coming down into the store yesterday morning the first thing she noticed was a bunch of bananas precisely like the one she had seen in her dream.

She separated the fruit with a lead pencil and sure enough there was the venemous insect which nipped off the end of the pencil. Assistance was summoned and after a hard fight the tarantula was killed. It attacked everyone and would jump four and five feet from the floor. It is a large specimen, being the size of the palm of a man's hand.

THE FAMOUS.

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?

There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear negligee shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Don't you think it is about time to get a spring Hat?

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try S.S.S. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

MENT EXTRAORDINARY

ecent New York dispatch announcing the formation of a syndicate for the purchase of a large tract d in Bolivia, now owned by n Henri Arnous de Riviere, refers to the Globe Democrat one of ost romantic episodes of south society life which occurred prior e war, and rehabilitates a figthat had long since passed from recollection of all except a few obile and New Orleans antebeaux.

was in 1856 that Henri Arnous Riviere, captain of zouaves, of Corps d' Afrique, French army, made his appearance in this ntry. He came to Mobile loaded letters of introduction to the ds of French and creole families being fresh from the theater of in Crimea and Africa, young singularly handsome, being the uted heir of the barony of de iere and immense wealth, he was ceived everywhere with open ms. De Riviere was at that time an of 27 or 28 years of age, possing a handsome face bronzed by posure, a tall, muscular frame, a ilitary carriage with a little swing hich suggested e was a superb horseman—in fact, man to capture the hearts of a eople like the southerners of those ays and to play havoc with the omen.

He was not in Mobile long before he found an introduction into the amily of Frederick Blount—a lawer of high standing and some wealth—which consisted at that ime of Mrs. Blount, a well-preserved and handsome woman of 40, and her daughter, Emily, a young girl of 15, just budding into womanhood but whose beauty, amiability and accomplishments had already made her much sought after by the young men of Mobile. Among the suitors of Miss Blount at that time, and one who it was thought would be successful in his suit, was Capt. (afterward colonel) Harry Maury, a Virginian and a cousin of Commander Maury of the United States navy, and of Gen. Dabney Maury. Capt. Maury was quite as handsome and dashing a man as De Riviere, but though he had gained military fame as a soldier with Lopez in Cuba and Walker in Nicaragua, he was for the time quite eclipsed by the gallant zouave in the good graces of Miss Blount and her mother, and as a consequence felt sore towards De Riviere.

THE CHALLENGE AND THE DUEL.

Two or three little episodes occurred between the men, but Maury's determination to draw De Riviere into a quarrel, which meant a duel in those days, were for a time frustrated by the coolness of De Riviere and influences brought to bear upon him by Miss Blount. One night, however, Maury and De Riviere met in a public coffee house in Mobile, and Maury took the occasion to fasten upon De Riviere an insult which brooked no delay in the latter's sending him a challenge. Matters were quickly arranged, a cotton merchant of Mobile, Ned McDonald by name, acting as Maury's friend and the French consul acting for De Riviere. The terms of the fight were—Colts navy pistols; twenty paces, to fire at the word, and if neither was wounded to advance, and fire till one or both should fall"—a "business affair" from the start and rendered more serious by the fact that both men were known to be excellent pistol shots, Maury's skill being well known and that of De Riviere depending upon the report of those with whom he was intimate, who declared that he could cut a tape line at twenty paces every time.

THE FIGHT OCCURRED

at the Mississippi state line, some miles west of Mobile, and the party coming and going, had to pass in front of Blount's residence, on the Spring Hill road, now Spring avenue. On arriving at the grounds no time was lost on preliminaries. The men were placed and on toss for the word it was won by McDonald. At the word "one" after fire both pistols cracked. Maury stood perfectly still, cocked pistol in hand but De Riviere lurched heavily forward and fell about midway of the fighting distance, and there, from the ground, fired at Maury. The latter, still unscathed, fired and put a ball into De Riviere's head, which ended the fight. On examination by the surgeons, Maury's ball was found to have entered the left jaw and imbedded itself in the hard palate, whence it was subsequently cut. The first shot, that which caused him to fall, had struck a coin in the pocket directly over the heart, and had knocked him down by sheer concussion. It was reported, and for a long time currently believed in Mobile and New Orleans, that De Riviere wore a shirt of mail under his clothing, but this was not true. The writer has been assured both by the surgeons and by Col. Maury that De Riviere acted most honorably throughout the affair. It would, however, be hard to convince most old Mobilians of the fact. De Riviere was removed to town, but when the cavalcade reached the front of the Blount mansion it was halted by orders of Mrs. Blount, and De Riviere was taken into the house to be nursed back to health by the fair Madame and Miss Blount.

THE ELOPEMENT.

Some weeks passed and Capt. Riviere was reported as convalescing finely, when one morning all Mobile was thrown into the wildest excitement by the report that De Riviere, Mrs. Blount and Miss Blount were missing. Blount was beside himself, and as soon as he learned the facts, which were that the party had taken carriages and gone overland to a point on Mississippi sound, where they intercepted a sound steamer from Mobile to New Orleans, he went to New Orleans in search of the elopers, but arrived there just in time to learn that they had departed for Havana in an outgoing steamer. Blount followed, and arrived in Havana just in time to prevent the wedding of De Riviere and Miss Emily, but in some way they managed to elude him and left for New York. Again he followed, and in New York, finding that the infatuation of his wife for Riviere frustrated all his attempts to get possession of his daughter, he resorted to the court, where, after a long legal fight, he finally succeded, and returned to Mobile with his family.

RIVIERE RETURNED TO ERANCE

shortly afterward and the Blounts lived down the scandal. Years passed by, and finally the war came. One day; along in '62 or '63, a letter came from France addressed to Col. Blount. It contained a statement from De Riviere that he was willing and anxious to repair all the injury he had done; that he still loved Miss Blount, and that, his father having died, his mother and sisters would gladly receive her into the family as his wife, and winding up with the proposition that Mr. Blount, his wife and daughter should run the blockade and come to France, where the past should all be rectified. It is said that the letter contained exchange for a large sum (50,000 francs), to defray the expenses of the trip. Col. Blount at once settled up his affairs and, with his family, went aboard a blockade runner and in due time landed in Havana, where they embarked on a Spanish steamer for Gibraltar. There they were met by the mother and sister of De Riviere, and subsequently the nuptials of the Count de Riviere (for such he is) and Miss Blount were celebrated in Paris with great eclat.

From time to time during several years there came back to Mobile rumors of unhappiness in the Riviere household. Children had been born to the couple thus romantically married, and Mr. and Mrs. Blount had gone the way of all flesh. One day, some ten years ago, the quiet neighborhood in which the Blounts had lived was surprised to see once more inhabited, and the few surviving old friends were delighted to receive visits from Mme. de la Riviere, returned alone to her old home to live out the balance of her days. What her source of grievance against her husband, what indignity that caused her to abandon the life of luxury in Paris, her home and her children, need not be told here, but she deemed it sufficient. So she took up her abode in her childhood's home, and has lived there quietly and unostentatiously, a most exemplary life, for several years, beloved and esteemed by all who came in contact with her. From time to time she was visited by her son, a stalwart young man, much like his father at his age, and her daughters, beautiful and talented young ladies, but all of whom clung to the father. A few months ago Baron de la Riviere himself arrived, and now again it looks as though the sunsets of Emily Blount's life might be gilded by wealth and happiness.

THE CAREER OF BARON DE LA RIVIERE

has in the meantime of itself been a romance that other pens can write. He has made and lost vast fortunes in South American ventures, and is again, if we may believe the direct reports of those who know, on the point of realizing millions. He recently sold a piece of mining property in South America for a very large sum in cash.

To finish the sketch without some reference to the subsequent careers of the other men engaged in the de Riviere-Maury affair would be to leave out the most romantic portion of it. On the day of the duel words passed between Maury and his second, McDonald. It is believed, and probably on sufficient grounds, that the difference arose concerning a point of etiquette on the ground, but whether this be so or not, the men left Mobile the next day, and the day afterward fought a duel on the old New Orleans dueling ground, in which both were wounded, one in the arm and the other in the leg. While McDonald was laid up with his wound his mistress, the beautiful but frail Jennie Stuart, left him and went to New York with another man. He followed as soon as possible, and, after searching for the woman everywhere around the city, found her at Taylor's restaurant, on Broadway, and shot her dead. He was apprehended and committed suicide in the Tombs.

Capt. Maury never married. He served as colonel of cavalry during the war on the confederate side. After the surrender he went into business in Mobile, but his health soon failed and he died many years ago.

The people of Jasper are going about the business of a cotton factory in a business way and in a manner that insures success. They sent a man to the different factories throughout the South to investigate the workings and cost of a mill and will now raise the money and build the mill.

A car-load of oak, hickory, walnut, ash, sweet gum and poplar timber was shipped from Alexander City to Northern markets one day last week.

MORRISVILLE.

The wet weather is causing many farmers to look sad; some of them are not done planting and cannot tell when they will be. All vegetation seems to be growing very fast. Crab grass is plentiful and looks well. Wheat and oats are doing well; there is no rust that I have heard of and if there is no accident to fruit in the future we will have plenty this year.

Last Saturday was memorial day at Cane Creek. The Baptist Church and people began to work on the cemetery early and by 11 o'clock it was nicely cleaned off and all the graves renewed. Then the ladies decorated the graves with flowers. It was a beautiful sight to see mothers sisters and daughters placing flowers on the graves; some were unknown graves, but none were neglected. After the work was done the good sisters spread the dinner which they had prepared for the occasion (and they never do things by halves) and I am satisfied that we did the subject full justice. Dinner being over we were treated to a very interesting sermon by Rev. J. N. Belton, of Anniston.

Brother Arp, Jr., of Schencks, seems to think that President Cleveland is coming down this way to get help to attend to matters at Washington and other places. Well all I have to say about the affair is this, that if the president wants help he could not do any better than to apply to Beat 5. There is plenty of the best material here that would be glad to serve their country in a democratic administration, especially where the salary is good.

PREDICTIONS OF A PROPHET.

Over thirty years ago an old German hermit published in a Bavarian paper a curious prophecy. In it he foretold the Austro-Prussian and Franco wars, the death of Pope Pius and the Turko-Russian debate at arms. He said that Germany would have three Emperors in one year before the end of the century, and indicated the death of two United States Presidents by assassination.

Here are some of the things yet to happen: When the Twentieth Century opens New York City is to be submerged, Cuba will break in two and the west half and the City of Havana sink below the waves. Florida and Lower California are to suffer like extinction.

The twenty fifty is to be the last President of the United States. Ireland is to be a Kingdom and England a Republic by the close of the century.

The year 1900 will see Italy and France obliterated from the maps and the United States divided with capitols at Washington, San Francisco, St. Louis, New Orleans, Salt Lake City and Boston.

RESOLUTIONS

Of the Calhoun County Farmers Alliance Passed at Alexandria Apr. 24th 1893.

Whereas, We as allianecmen believe in "equal rights to all, and special favors to none" and in "a government of, by, and for the people." Therefore we watched the actions of our officials and general assembly with a great deal of interest, and deep solicitude and were pained to note their perfidy, their unreasonable, unjust, undemocratic and unamerican actions.

First, In that the chief executive of the great commonwealth of Alabama failed to carry out his solemn pledge to the people to give them a fair contest law.

Resolved, Therefore that we denounce the rulings of the President of the Senate and speaker of the House of Representatives of the last general assembly of Alabama as unjust, unreasonable, undemocratic, unamerican and despotic in the extreme.

Resolved further that we denounce the general assembly for their failure to fulfill their promise to the people in several instances, but more particularly in that they promised a fair election law and instead of a fair equitable one, passed the most iniquitous election law that ever was placed upon the pages of any statute book. A law that strikes at the very foundation of American liberties. The theory of our government is, that every man is a free and independent sovereign; no difference how humble his station in life.

Resolved further that the Calhoun County Farmers Alliance request the Alliance Herald and JACKSONVILLE REPUBLICAN to publish the above resolutions.

CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS.

Reunion at Birmingham, July 19th and 20th.

To All Confederate Veterans in Alabama:

Camp Hardee in Birmingham has delegated us to address you in its name and to beg and urge you to join with it in making the annual encampment, which will be held by the United Confederate Veterans in Birmingham July 19th and 20th, a great meeting. It is an honor to have had our state selected for this great meeting of all the old boys of 1861-65.

Age has dimmed the strength but it cannot damper the spirit which carried us all to the front in those heroic times.

Within our state the first confederate convention was held, and within our state was Mr. Jefferson Davis elected president.

Alabama was not then, is not now and never will be ashamed to fight for right.

As comrades of the lost cause, come and join us in July as one people in heart and soul. Let the old gray-haired veterans, as they come flocking in from all the states, find an army of Alabamians to meet and shake them by the hand as they come into our state. Form camps in every county and come to us in July. Let the world see that love and sentiment fires the southern heart now, as it has ever done. All the great leaders are gone now, hardly any left but the old privates to keep the memory green. All for principle, all for honor. Let us show the young boys what sort of men starved and fought for four long years. We expect 25,000 veterans from all the states and let 10,000 Alabama veterans be on hand to meet and welcome the old heroes. For information how to form camps and blanks apply to Gen. George Moorman, 25 Carondelet street, News Orleans La., and blanks and information will be furnished you.

THURSDAY, MAY 11, 1893.

Pay no attention to men who are trying to stir up political strife among the people. They do not love their country as they ought to do.

Dr. J. H. Johnson, superintendent of the Alabama Institute for the deaf, dumb and blind at Talladega, died the 5th inst., after a long illness. He was a prominent figure in Alabama, and his death is a loss to the State.

A correspondent of the New York Examiner in giving an account of the Baptist Congress recently held at East Lake, says of one of our pastors:

"It became the turn of Rev. W. H. Smith of Jacksonville, to show why missionary intelligence should be transmitted through the adopted organs of the Boards rather than through our denominational papers exclusively. It also fell to the lot of pastor Smith to preach on the first night of the session. There were some of us who had never heard the gifted young brother, but had heard frequently of him. He is one of the strongest and most forceful preachers of the younger element in the denomination in the south. Indeed those who know him best think that he has few superiors in any rank."

The President has been compelled to issue an order that he will give no more interviews to office-seekers, unless they be at his own invitation. He says that applicants will certainly prejudice their claims by remaining at Washington to await results.

What say the Confederate soldiers of Calhoun to forming a Regiment and going to Birmingham in a body? Major-Gen. John H. Forney might act as Colonel and Brigadier Generals "Tige" Anderson and Wm. H. Forney might act as Lt. Col. and Major and Col. John H. Caldwell or Col. John M. McKleroy might act as Adjutant. It would be a regiment splendidly officered by gallant men who held high rank in the late Confederate army. The companies could be officered by men who held staff and regimental positions, out of all the gallant soldiers now living in old Calhoun. The soldiers might meet at Anniston and Pell City and get a special rate over the Ga. Pacific to Birmingham.

What say the old Confederate soldiers of Calhoun?

The company who own the ice plant here are willing, upon proper inducement by the council and people, to put in an electric light plant. It would be well for the council to look into the matter and invite Mr. Coppock, the manager of the ice plant, to a conference with them. Electric light would be furnished private houses for less than kerosine now costs, the cost for each light being something like forty cents a month. The Ice Company would also take hold of the water works, enlarge the same, pump water to the reservoir from the big spring. All these things are worthy of consideration by our people. Jacksonville ought to be travelling along with the other progressive towns of the State. The company who own the ice plant have an abundance of capital for all they undertake.

Recently ten members of a "white cap" gang were arrested and arraigned for trial in Mississippi. About two hundred of the white cappers surrounded the court house, with arms in hand, and demanded the release of the prisoners. The brave Judge left the bench and summoning a posse from the bystanders, ordered the mob to disperse. They drew off to some distance. The Judge then procured arms for his posse and telegraphed the Governor for other arms. He then announced his intention of arresting and trying the leaders of the mob. Men of the county town rapidly armed themselves and came to the help of the Judge. The mob withdrew with the avowed purpose of returning and liberating the prisoners. Meanwhile the Governor arrived with arms and ammunition and some of the military. The town was guarded nightly. The white cappers threatened loudly, but finally abandoned the effort to override the law. They will be arrested and prosecuted vigorously. The Governor of Mississippi is determined to break up whitecapism in that state.

Resolutions of the County Alliance.

We publish the resolutions of the late County Alliance in obedience to a request of our friends of that order. We think they misunderstand Gov. Jones' position with regard to a contest law. He recommended both the session previous and the last session the passage of such a law. He was the first man, nearly four years ago, to call attention to the necessity for such a law. The Governor can only recommend. He cannot force the Legislature to do anything. When the Legislature was hatching a law that was manifestly unconstitutional and defective, the Governor was sick with fever. It was such a law as he would have been compelled to veto under his oath of office. He knew the interpretation that would be put upon his veto, and he was naturally concerned that such an alternative might not be presented to him. But he declared to the writer and others who talked to him that he wanted to see a proper and fair contest law passed. He recommended such a course to the Legislature in a message. His expression in regard to an extra session is much misunderstood. He said he would call the Legislature in extra session if time was not sufficient for a contest at the regular session. He was going on the presumption then that the Legislature would pass a law providing for a contest. The Governor should not be blamed for the neglect of the Legislature to pass such a law.

We are ignorant of the rulings of the presiding officers alluded to in the resolutions. Suffice it to say that both these officers were complimented at the end of the session in resolutions, adopted by members of all the parties, for their fairness and impartiality, and both were presented with handsome testimonials, to the purchase of which members of the Jeffersonian, the Populist and the organized Democratic parties all contributed.

The election law is just now being fiercely attacked throughout the State. It is not the best that could have been made. It is defective and allows room for fraud; but it is not so defective as the old law it has supplanted, and fraud is much more difficult under it than under the old law. It should be and will be amended and perfected in the future. The people will like it better than the old law, after they have tried it, we think, and will never consent to go back to our old imperfect election law. New laws are always met with distrust. It would be well to try this one before abusing it too much.

The Jeffersonian Democratic Executive Committee, which met in Birmingham the 11th inst, proposed a basis of compromise to the Organized Democratic State Committee, which is to be open for acceptance forty days. It proposes a general primary election in April next at which all wite men shall be permitted to vote. This, of course, permits white Republicans, and Populists to help name candidates for the Democracy. We shall publish the proposal in full next week.

ALEXANDRIA, ALA., May 8th.
ED. REPUBLICAN:

There is nothing to be gained by underestimating the strength of the opposition or trying to belittle the facts of the case. The publication in the Age-Herald from Anniston that there were not more than fifty men out to hear Manning and Longshore speak at this place falls far short of the truth. There were nearer three hundred. The party will have a stubborn opposition next year, and its enemies have already begun their campaign. The Democracy cannot begin to repel attack too soon, though I confess I do not feel like advising any of our ambitious young democrats to throw themselves in the forefront of the battle, in the light of recent political history in Calhoun.

ORGANIZED DEMOCRAT.

NO SOAPTAIL.

His Position Known of All Men.

The Eufaula Times thus speaks of the one-armed hero of the wire-grass:

"A good many newspapers in Alabama believe in the nomination of Hon. William C. Oates for Governor. The Colonel is not the candidate of those people who affect to believe there may be a reconciliation between the factions. He is looked upon as being the most utter and out and out anti-Third party man in the State of Alabama, and people who hope for reconciliation are not grooming him. Those who are working for his nomination believe he is the strongest man before the people, because he has not fawned on men who held heretic notions, albeit the notions were popular for the time. They feel that one can always tell where the Colonel "is at," and that quality is attractive to honest men every where. They believe, too, that such men are numerous enough in the State to nominate and elect him, hands down."

... "Grandpa Candidate" writes a communication touching the allusion made to him in connection with matrimony, by Bill Arp, jr., in Schenk's Springs locals a week or two ago. It is well written and a good natured take-off of some of William's peculiarities but we cannot publish it as much as we like the writer and as much as we would be glad to accommodate him, for the reason that the communication is not news. The great trouble with local correspondence is that correspondents are too prone to make allusion to local persons and events in a covert way for purpose of fun and these provoke reply, and the result is a discussion of something of neighborhood import through the paper that the general readers of the paper can know nothing about. Hereafter we shall cut out from county correspondence all that is not strictly news. That we are glad to have. We will gladly publish all the news items our bright young friend, "Grandpa Candidate" may send us.

GRAND JURY REPORT.

Hon. L. F. Box, Judge 7th Judicial Circuit:

We, the Grand Jury impanneled for the Spring Term of the Circuit Court for Calhoun county make the following report.

We have carefully investigated all indictable offenses brought to our notice and made true presentments of the same, except in those cases of misdemeanor left to our discretion, and these cases being convinced that a prosecution was not for the public good. We regret to say that too many people seem to think that Grand Juries were created for the purpose of affording individuals an opportunity of wreaking revenge for private wrongs and not for the suppression of violations of law.

BONDS.

We have examined the official bonds of the various county and precinct officers and deem them all good and sufficient.

COUNTY SUPT. OF EDUCATION.

We have examined the books of the County Supt. of Education and find them correctly and plainly kept, with vouchers on file—showing disbursements of the school funds coming into his hands.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

We find the Court House in good repair, showing that it is well looked after by our efficient Sheriff, Ed G. Caldwell and the County Commissioners. We visited the Jail and report with great pleasure that under the administration of Deputy Sheriff J. T. Rowland and W. H. Clark, Jailor, we find everything neat and clean, the prisoners well provided with bedding and a sufficiency of wholesome food. The building seems perfectly secure but we suggest that the Commissioners, as they have already done at the Anniston Jail, have different staples and combination bolts, believing it necessary for the safe keeping of the prisoners.

We have also made as thorough an examination of the different offices as our our limited time would admit. We find them neatly kept and well adapted for their different uses. We find the books and papers of the several offices conveniently arranged and easy of access to the public; but would suggest additional book racks for the Probate office as those now in use do not afford sufficient space for the present records and which are constantly increasing.

We would also recommend that the Commissioners Court supply the office of the Circuit Clerk with files and racks similar to those in the Probate office in order that he may be enabled to take proper care of the records of his office. The need of such appliances are apparant at a glance.

COUNTY TREASURER.

The committee appointed to examine the books of this office, not having sufficient time to make such an examination as would do justice to our worthy Treasurer F. M. Treadaway, we suggest that the Probate Judge appoint a committee as provided by law to make such examination.

POOR HOUSE.

We find the buildings and bedding reasonably clean and the grounds well drained. The inmates claim to be well fed and cared for and their appearance shows this.

In this connection we would say that we have learned with great satisfaction, that the Commissioners Court have now under contract a large and commodious fire proof building, within one mile of the Court House as a "County Infirmary" (to take the place of the present poor house) affording plenty of room and good accommodations for its unfortunate inmates.

We commend the Commissioners for their action in this, for we think it eminently right that such a rich county as ours should take good care of its poor.

We also think the present system of caring for the county paupers should be changed.

At present it seems to us that it is too great a temptation for speculation at the expense of these unfortunates. We think when the new infirmary building is ready for use that the Commissioners Court should employ a competent manager at a stated salary, then let him under the supervision of the Court buy the necessary supplies, utilizing the grounds for raising fruits, vegetables &c., also establish a dairy (for which the place is well adapted), and we feel sure the cost would be little if any more than at present and the paupers be made more comfortable.

ROADS.

We have made diligent enquiry into the operation of the present system of road working. The general verdict is that never in the past were the roads in better condition than now, and we feel sure that if the Commissioners will look closely after the administration of the contractors that we will have reason to be proud of our roads and willing to continue the system. Our thanks are hereby tendered to our accomplished solicitor Hon. B. F. Wilson for the able assistance renderd us during our deliberations. Our thanks are also due Col. J. M. Sheid for his prompt attention and services as doorkeeper.

We ask that these presentments be published.

Having concluded our labors we ask to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,

H. F. MONTGOMERY, Foreman.

W. J. BOLES, Clerk.

THE FAMOUS.

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest. SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?

There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear negligee shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Don't you think it is about time to get a spring Hat?

SSS CURES MALARIAL POISON

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try SSS. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

Is the State Democratic cutive Committee Going to Do About It.

State Executive Committee Jeffersonian Democratic parfaction, met in Birmingham sterday in Erswell's hall. he thirty-one members, twenen were present in person, proxy and two wrote that ere ill.

large number of prominent bers of the party were in atnce, including Captain Kolb ll the old ticket that made the n 1892.

e committee was called to orn the morning by Chairman dwyn. Another session was in the afternoon at 6 o'clock, adjournment being reached t 8 o'clock.

he committee unanimously insed Mr. R. H. Seymour of Sumfor United States marshal of the thern district; W. E. Richardof Montgomery, for United tes district attorney of the Midt district; J. H. Gardner of Dalfor register of the land office in Montgomery district.

The only other business of pubimportance transacted was the option of the proposition which ll today be handed by Chairman dwyn of the Jeffersonian comtee to Chairman A. G. Smith of e organized democratic committe.

Several documents were submitd by several members, and what as considered the best features of ch thrown into the full plan finalagreed upon. While there was onsiderable discussion and some pposing views as to details, everything was adjusted and the propotion as completed received the nanimous vote of all present.

The populist committee, which was called to meet on yesterday, did not have a quorum in town and held no regular session. Those members present seemed in full sympathy with the purpose of the Jeffersonians, between whom and themselves there is a cordial feeling.

The proposition, which will today be handed Chairman Smith, is as follows:

Hon. A. G. Smith, Chairman of the Organized Democratic State Executive Committee of Alabama—

By a resolution of the state executive committee of the Jeffersonian democracy of Alabama, I have been instructed to present to the state executive committee of the organized democratic party of Alabama the following proposition, to-wit:

The moral and material interests of Alabama demand an election unclouded by fraud and untainted by corruption, and assuming that your chief desire is to prevent a recurrence of political strife and animosity which existed in this state last year, and believing that this result can be accomplished only by the united and conscientious efforts of the white people of Alabama, we respectfully submit the following proposition for your acceptance or rejection, trusting that the great good which must necessarily result to the commonwealth from its adoption will win for it your hearty approval. We submit the following:

1. That the present state executive committees of the Jeffersonian democracy and of the organized democracy, as well as the other committees of each party, respectively, shall remain intact until new committees shall be selected, as hereinafter provided.

2. That the present state executive committees of the Jeffersonian and organized democratic parties or factions of Alabama, respectively, unite in a call for a primary election at every beat and every polling place in the state for the nomination of the state and county officers to be elected the first Monday in August, 1894, and for the election of the democratic state executive committee, which shall consist of three members from each congressional district, who shall be elected by a majority or plurality of the votes cast in their respective districts, and four members from the state at large, who shall be elected by a majority or plurality cast in the state. Said primary election shall be held the second Saturday of April, 1894.

At this primary election every white man who voted for Kolb or Jones in 1892, or who who would have so voted had circumstances permitted, who is a qualified voter, or who being disqualified to vote at said election, will be eligible to vote in the August election of 1894, and who will support the candidate so chosen, shall be eligible to vote.

3. Each county at said primary election shall select, by a majority or plurality vote, an executive committee upon the same basis of representation heretofore used in said counties respectively, except that each beat shall vote only for the member from that beat, and each county executive committee so elected shall thereupon elect a chairman, and each county at said primary election shall select, by majority or plurality vote, all nominees for its county officers.

4. That at said primary election there shall be two inspectors and one clerk of each party or faction respectively, to be chosen by the county executive committee of each respective party or faction, and if there shall be no county executive committee, then in that event the voters of each party or faction shall select said two inspectors and one clerk by a mass meeting or otherwise.

5. That before opening the polls each inspector and clerk shall subscribe to the following oath, which shall be administered by any officer in the state authorized to administer oaths, or by some one of the managers, to-wit:

I, (or we, and each of us severally,) do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I (or we, and each of us severally,) will conduct this election fairly and honestly; that I (or we, and each of us severally,) will honestly count and a correct return make of the number of votes cast for each candidate respectively as herein provided, so help me (or us) God.

In case any manager or clerk fails to act, the member for that beat of the executive committee which originally named such manager or clerk, or the representatives of the faction or party present of which he is a member, shall have the right to appoint some person to supply the place; and in case there shall not be a sufficient number of voters of either party or faction to supply the requisite number of inspectors or clerks, in that event the members of that faction in the county may supply such inspectors or clerks from any other beat in the county.

6. Every voter shall vote in the beat in which he resides, except where he shall be an inspector or clerk as provided in the preceding section.

7. The voters shall cast their ballots in said primary election as has been the custom at all previous elections in this state before the passage of the Sayre election bill.

8. No person shall be allowed within 10 feet of the voting place except the inspectors and clerks until the polls shall be closed, when each inspector and clerk shall have the right to call to his assistance one person whom he may select.

9. That the polls shall be opened at 8 a. m. and shall remain continually open until 5 p. m., when the count of the votes shall commence, and continue without interruption or postponement in the room where the election shall be held, and a copy of the election returns, signed by each inspector and clerk, shall be given to each inspector, and one copy with one poll list and the ballots shall be deposited in a box, which shall be sealed with sealing wax or mucilage, and given to one of the inspectors. The other poll list and all the tally sheets shall be given an inspector of the other party or faction than the one to which the inspector belongs who had been given the ballot box.

10. That on the Tuesday following, at the county site, the canvass of the result of the election shall be had by a canvassing board to whom the returns shall be delivered.

11. That the canvassing board shall consist of the chairman of the county executive committee of each party or faction respectively, or some person he shall appoint, with a clerk from each party or faction respectively, who shall be appointed by the chairman of each executive committee of each party or faction respectively, or his representative.

12. On completing the canvass, nominees for county and beat officers shall then be declared and announced, and two copies of the result of said canvass shall be furnished each chairman of the county executive committee of each party or faction respectively who shall transmit one copy of the same to the chairman of the state executive committee of the party or faction he represents.

13. On the next following Tuesday the chairman of the state executive committees of the respective parties or factions, or their respective representatives, whom they may appoint, shall meet in the city of Montgomery and canvass the result in the respective counties and make a public declaration thereof, and each chairman, or his representative, shall appoint a clerk to assist in the work to be done incident to the declaration of the result. In case either chairman or his representative shall fail or refuse to canvass the result and returns from the different counties and make a declaration thereof, then, in that event, the other chairman or his representative shall canvass and declare the result.

14. That the persons receiving a majority or plurality of the votes cast in said primary for the candidates voted for, and the members of the executives committees to be selected shall be the candidates of the party and the respective executive committees of the party.

15. That the acceptance of the nomination of this primary election hereinbefore provided for shall commit the nominee thereof publicly to the people of the state as being in opposition to any and all legislative enactments tending to or providing for the disfranchisement of the white masses of the state of Alabama.

16. That this plan, in its entirety is offered for acceptance or rejection within forty days.

17. That each party or faction or any candidate to be voted for at said primary, may announce the platform upon the indorsement of which the suffrage of the people will be sought.

In consonance with the resolution above referred to, this plan is submitted to the state executive committee of the organized democratic party of Alabama with the hope that it may meet its approbation and allay the strife and quiet the dissention that has so long disturbed the peace and quietude of our beloved state.

Very respectfully,

A. T. GOODWYN,

Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Jeffersonian Democratic Party of Alabama.

THAT PROPOSED COMPROMISE.

What the State Papers Say of the Proposition of the Jeffersonians.

Birmingham News:

Taken in its entirety, the proposition is so objectionable that its rejection is assured.

If section 15 is intended, as has been suggested by the Age-Herald, and it so appears to the News, to require a pledge from every candidate "against the Sayre Election law," The News would enter its objection to it, for, in its judgment limitation should be placed upon the elective franchise: the Sayre bill does not go far enough to meet what some see fit to call the progressive views of The News.

The most objectionable feature however, of the proposition is contained in the last clause of section 2, which reads as follows:

"At this primary election every white man who voted for Kolb or Jones in 1892, or who would have so voted had circumstances permitted, who is a qualified voter, or who being qualified to vote at said election, will be eligible to vote in the August election of 1894, and who will support the candidate so chosen, shall be eligible to vote."

This opens wide the door into the Democratic household to every carpetbagger, Third Partyite, Republican and political scamp and tramp —all the ancient enemies of the Democratic party, who persistently made war upon it before the Kolb bolt, and between whom and Kolb's Democratic supporters there never was, nor now is, any bond of sympathy.

Mobile register:

The Kolbites and Weaverites are holding committee meetings at Birmingham to organize for a campaign against the Democratic party in this state next summer. They might as well adjourn without action. The men who worked and voted against Cleveland and Stevenson can never carry Alabama. At the same time the Democratic party must be alert.

It [their proposed plan of compromise] is designed to embrace all who have fought the democratic party in the past and who are its enemies at present. Of course every sensible citizen understands that the Birmingham junta was composed of sore-heads, populists and republicans, and that their purpose is to collect all the enemies of genuine democracy into one camp if possible, so as to wrest the state from the true men who have ruled it for twenty years.

Birmingham Age-Herald:

It bahooves the organized Democratic organization to carefully study this proposition. There is a large element in the party clamorous for reunion and peace and the acceptance of the plan will be strenuously urged as a matter of right and of public policy. On the contrary, there are many who will view with opposition and alarm the admission of the Republicans and Populists to a Democratic primary, in which they would hold the ballance of power. Nor can it be overlooked that to accept the shrewdly worded pledge against the Sayre election law as a condition precedent would be to admit in advance the condemnation pronounced upon it by the Jeffersonians and to declare the organized Democracy in the last legislature grievously in the wrong.

The Bessemer Weekly:

There are two insuperable obstacles in the way of the acceptance of this proposition. In the first place it would effectually wipe out the democratic party in this state.

Huntsville Argus:

Forty days is given as the time within which the proposition must be answered. It was submitted yesterday to Hon. A. G. Smith, chairman of the state democratic executive committee. Mr. Smith will of course give the matter due consideration while there are several features that appear to us to be altogether out of line, notably the indirect attack on the Sayre law. Nevertheless, we find in the proposition a basis for consultation, and we venture to express the hope that good may be the final issue of the discussion.

Anniston Hot Blast:

The Kolb faction, or what is best known as the Jeffersonian democracy of the state, has been in session in Birmingham this week. A proposition for a white primary was unanimously adopted and submitted. It is a shrewdly prepared document and is seemingly fair on its face, but is open to much criticism. The democratic party of the state is not ready to denounce its own doings and open allegience with all white men who have hitherto been enemies.

Tuskaloosa Times:

The gist of the proposition is that all legally qualified white electors are eligible to vote, and by casting a vote they will thus pledge themselves to support the nominees and to allign themselves against any law for the purpose of disfranchising electors. This is a slap at the new election law, but as many are tired of strife, the proposition will by no means, meet solid disfavor among either Jeffersonian or organized democrats. However, a warm fight is anticipated. The proposition is open forty days.

Huntsville Mercury:

The resolutions adopted by the Jeffersonian executive committee in their meeting in Birmingham presents terms of peace which are embodied in propositions marked with such a spirit of fairness and true democratic sentiment that we can see no grounds upon which the organized democracy of Alabama could base a refusal of acceptance.

It is true a state primary has some objectionable inconveniences but under existing circumstances had we not better suffer some inconvenience than to refuse the offered olive branch? We say accept it! Solidify the white vote of Alabama! The uniting of the white vote of Alabama under the banner of the organized democracy has been the prayer of every leading statesman and journal in Alabama since the dissolution first occurred.

The terms of peace are fair, and carry with them the democratic idea of good government. If we desire peace, if we desire a white supremacy and democratic government, the opportunity is presented; so without bickering, political jockeying, or hesitation, let the organized democracy embrace the opportunity presented.

Montgomery Advertiser:

We wonder if a poll were taken at the meeting of the Jeffersonian, so-called, Committee, on the 11th inst., to ascertain how many of them voted the Democratic ticket for President and Congressman last November. It is highly desirable to have a restoration of good feeling between the opposing factions of the Democracy, and those who got together in the fall and forgot the August differences ought to be able to very quickly come to terms. We believe they went nine-tenths of the road to complete harmony when they voted side by side for Cleveland and Democrats for Congress. Was there any representation of this class of the Democracy at the Jeffersonian meeting? This is a query that ought to be answered. If there was none then the propositions submitted come altogether from men who did all in their power to defeat the Democratic party at the last election. The commitee stood hand in glove with Moseley, Parsons and Magee. The Democratic Committee will consider their propositions calmly and deliberately, and give such answer, we feel sure, as will meet the approval of every man in Alabama who really desires Democratic ascendency and control.

Eutaula Times.

The proposition of the Jeffersonians would turn the whole white republican strength of this state into the democratic camp. An army can't win with a host of aliens inside its picket lines. And this feature is objectionable. The democratic party is under no obligation to the republicans of this state, and they won't be allowed in its primaries.

And again, the democratic executive committee won't impeach the motives or intelligence of the democrats of the last legislature in their action in adopting the Sayre bill.

But there are some things about the proposition worth looking into. The Times hopes Chairman Smith may call the democratic executive committee together and discuss the matter with the Jeffersonians. The Times is in favor of a reunited party, and hopes much to see it, but will not give its consent to a reunion on terms absolutely dictated by the Jeffersonians. The democrats won't consent to turn in the republicans or exclude colored democrats from participation, and that much may be depended on. But the Times is in favor of any honorable way to get together.

THE VETERANS.

Arrangements Made for a $10 Excursion Rate to Chicago from the Encampment at Birmingham.

Age-Herald.

The following letter received by Captain Johnston explains itself to the veterans and will largely help to swell the vast concourse who will be here in July:

HEADQUARTERS UNITED CONFEDERATE VETERANS,
NEW ORLEANS, May 9, '93.

Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, Commander Camp Hardee No. 39, U. C. V.

DEAR COMRADE:—From present indications the attendance of veterans at the great reunion to be held in Birmingham on July 19 and 20 next promises to be very large, even beyond our calculations, as a great many letters are being received from all parts of Alabama and the south asking for information and necessary papers to form camps. Please ask your state papers to publish this note, requesting every town to form a camp, and apply to these headquarters for the necessary papers and information. All veterans joining now can meet their comrades at Birmingham, participate in the reunion, visit all the northern prisons and graves of the confederate dead, be at the unveiling of the confederate monument at Chicago and see the World's fair at the reduced rates from Birmingham and return of $10. Fraternally,

GEO. MOORMAN,
Adjutant-Gen'l and Chief of Staff.

The Birmingham camp are arranging an excursion, for those who cannot go to Chicago, to the battle field at Chickamauga for a round trip rate of about $2. This will enable thousands of the old soldiers to visit once more one of the great battle fields of the late war.

The Australian Collapse.

The financial depression in the United States may be largely ascribed to the reflex influence from the kingdom of Great Britain, which is the central influence in the money system of the world. Great Britain has been everspeculating. The crash in Argentina was hardly old enough for recovery to be fairly under way, before the Australian inflation began to collapse. Some idea of the over investment or development in that quarter may be had from the simple statement that the whole population of Australia is only 3,183,137, while the colonial debts are $780,000,000 in round numbers. The debts of the cities and of individual holders of property under mortgage make something over $1,250,000,000, or about $1500 for every family. Small wonder that recent that Australian bank failures aggregate the enormous sum of $160,000,000.—Age-Herald.

Is the State Democratic cutive Committee Going to Do About It.

e State Executive Committee Jeffersonian Democratic parfaction, met in Birmingham sterday in Erswell's hall. the thirty-one members, twenen were present in person, proxy and two wrote that were ill.

large number of prominent bers of the party were in atnce, including Captain Kolb ll the old ticket that made the n 1892.

e committee was called to or- n the morning by Chairman dwyn. Another session was in the afternoon at 6 o'clock, adjournment being reached t 8 o'clock.

he committee unanimously in- ed Mr. R. H. Seymour of Sumfor United States marshal of the thern district; W. E. Richard- of Montgomery, for United tes district attorney of the Midt district; J. H. Gardner of Dalfor register of the land office in Montgomery district.

The only other business of pub importance transacted was the option of the proposition which ll today be handed by Chairman odwyn of the Jeffersonian comttee to Chairman A. G. Smith of organized democratic committe.

Several documents were submitd by several members, and what as considered the best features of ch thrown into the full plan finalagreed upon. While there was onsiderable discussion and some pposing views as to details, everything was adjusted and the propotion as completed received the nanimous vote of all present.

The populist committee, which was called to meet on yesterday, did not have a quorum in town and held no regular session. Those members present seemed in full sympathy with the purpose of the Jeffersonians, between whom and themselves there is a cordial feeling.

The proposition, which will today be handed Chairman Smith, is as follows:

Hon. A. G. Smith, Chairman of the Organized Democratic State Executive Committee of Alabama—

By a resolution of the state executive committee of the Jeffersonian democracy of Alabama, I have been instructed to present to the state executive committee of the organized democratic party of Alabama the following proposition, to-wit:

The moral and material interests of Alabama demand an election unclouded by fraud and untainted by corruption, and assuming that your chief desire is to prevent a recurrence of political strife and animosity which existed in this state last year, and believing that this result can be accomplished only by the united and conscientious efforts of the white people of Alabama, we respectfully submit the following proposition for your acceptance or rejection, trusting that the great good which must necessarily result to the commonwealth from its adoption will win for it your hearty approval. We submit the following:

1. That the present state executive committees of the Jeffersonian democracy and of the organized democracy, as well as the other committees of each party, respectively, shall remain intact until new committees shall be selected, as hereinafter provided.

2. That the present state executive committees of the Jeffersonian and organized democratic parties or factions of Alabama, respectively, unite in a call for a primary election at every beat and every polling place in the state for the nomination of the state and county officers to be elected the first Monday in August, 1894, and for the election of the democratic state executive committee, which shall consist of three members from each congressional district, who shall be elected by a majority or plurality of the votes cast in their respective districts, and four members from the state at large, who shall be elected by a majority or plurality cast in the state. Said primary election shall be held the second Saturday of April, 1894.

At this primary election every white man who voted for Kolb or Jones in 1892, or who who would have so voted had circumstances permitted, who is a qualified voter, or who being disqualified to vote at said election, will be eligible to vote in the August election of 1894, and who will support the candidate so chosen, shall be eligible to vote.

3. Each county at said primary election shall select, by a majority or plurality vote, an executive committee upon the same basis of representation heretofore used in said counties respectively, except that each beat shall vote only for the member from that beat, and each county executive committee so elected shall thereupon elect a chairman, and each county at said primary election shall select, by majority or plurality vote, all nominees for its county officers.

4. That at said primary election there shall be two inspectors and one clerk of each party or faction respectively, to be chosen by the county executive committee of each respective party or faction, and if there shall be no county executive committee, then in that event the voters of each party or faction shall select said two inspectors and one clerk by a mass meeting or otherwise.

5. That before opening the polls each inspector and clerk shall subscribe to the following oath, which shall be administered by any officer in the state authorized to administer oaths, or by some one of the managers, to-wit:

I, (or we, and each of us severally,) do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I (or we, and each of us severally,) will conduct this election fairly and honestly; that I (or we, and each of us severally,) will honestly count and a correct return make of the number of votes cast for each candidate respectively as herein provided, so help me (or us) God.

In case any manager or clerk fails to act, the member for that beat of the executive committee which originally named such manager or clerk, or the representatives of the faction or party present of which he is a member, shall have the right to appoint some person to supply the place; and in case there shall not be a sufficient number of voters of either party or faction to supply the requisite number of inspectors or clerks, in that event the members of that faction in the county may supply such inspectors or clerks from any other beat in the county.

6. Every voter shall vote in the beat in which he resides, except where he shall be an inspector or clerk as provided in the preceding section.

7. The voters shall cast their ballots in said primary election as has been the custom at all previous elections in this state before the passage of the Sayre election bill.

8. No person shall be allowed within 10 feet of the voting place except the inspectors and clerks until the polls shall be closed, when each inspector and clerk shall have the right to call to his assistance one person whom he may select.

9. That the polls shall be opened at 8 a. m. and shall remain continually open until 5 p. m., when the count of the votes shall commence, and continue without interruption or postponement in the room where the election shall be held, and a copy of the election returns, signed by each inspector and clerk, shall be given to each inspector, and one copy with one poll list and the ballots shall be deposited in a box, which shall be sealed with sealing wax or mucilage, and given to one of the inspectors. The other poll list and all the tally sheets shall be given an inspector of the other party or faction than the one to which the inspector belongs who had been given the ballot box.

10. That on the Tuesday following, at the county site, the canvass of the result of the election shall be had by a canvassing board to whom the returns shall be delivered.

11. That the canvassing board shall consist of the chairman of the county executive committee of each party or faction respectively, or some person he shall appoint, with a clerk from each party or faction respectively, who shall be appointed by the chairman of each executive committee of each party or faction respectively, or his representative.

12. On completing the canvass, nominees for county and beat officers shall then be declared and announced, and two copies of the result of said canvass shall be furnished each chairman of the county executive committee of each party or faction respectively who shall transmit one copy of the same to the chairman of the state executive committee of the party or faction he represents.

13. On the next following Tuesday the chairman of the state executive committees of the respective parties or factions, or their respective representatives, whom they may appoint, shall meet in the city of Montgomery and canvass the result in the respective counties and make a public declaration thereof, and each chairman, or his representative, shall appoint a clerk to assist in the work to be done incident to the declaration of the result. In case either chairman or his representative shall fail or refuse to canvass the result and returns from the different counties and make a declaration thereof, then, in that event, the other chairman or his representative shall canvass and declare the result.

14. That the persons receiving a majority or plurality of the votes cast in said primary for the candidates voted for, and the members of the executives committees to be selected shall be the candidates of the party and the respective executive committees of the party.

15. That the acceptance of the nomination of this primary election hereinbefore provided for shall commit the nominee thereof publicly to the people of the state as being in opposition to any and all legislative enactments tending to or providing for the disfranchisement of the white masses of the state of Alabama.

16. That this plan, in its entirety is offered for acceptance or rejection within forty days.

17. That each party or faction or any candidate to be voted for at said primary, may announce the platform upon the indorsement of which the suffrage of the people will be sought.

In consonance with the resolution above referred to, this plan is submitted to the state executive committee of the organized democratic party of Alabama with the hope that it may meet its approbation and allay the strife and quiet the dissention that has so long disturbed the peace and quietude of our beloved state.

Very respectfully,

A. T. GOODWYN,
Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Jeffersonian Democratic Party of Alabama.

THAT PROPOSED COMPROMISE.

What the State Papers Say of the Proposition of the Jeffersonians.

Birmingham News:

Taken in its entirety, the proposition is so objectionable, that its rejection is assured.

If section 15 is intended, as has been suggested by the Age-Herald, and it so appears to the News, to require a pledge from every candidate "against the Sayre Election law," The News would enter its objection to it, for, in its judgment limitation should be placed upon the elective franchise. the Sayre bill does not go far enough to meet what some see fit to call the progressive views of The News.

The most objectionable feature however, of the proposition is contained in the last clause of section 2, which reads as follows:

"At this primary election every white man who voted for Kolb or Jones in 1892, or who would have so voted had circumstances permitted, who is a qualified voter, or who being qualified to vote at said election, will be eligible to vote in the August election of 1894, and who will support the candidate so chosen, shall be eligible to vote."

This opens wide the door into the Democratic household to every carpetbagger, Third Partyite, Republican and political scamp and tramp—all the ancient enemies of the Democratic party, who persistently made war upon it before the Kolb bolt, and between whom and Kolb's Democratic supporters there never was, nor now is, any bond of sympathy.

Mobile Register:

The Kolbites and Weaverites are holding committee meetings at Birmingham to organize for a campaign against the Democratic party in this state next summer. They might as well adjourn without action. The men who worked and voted against Cleveland and Stevenson can never carry Alabama. At the same time the Democratic party must be alert.

It [their proposed plan of compromise] is designed to embrace all who have fought the democratic party in the past and who are its enemies at present. Of course every sensible citizen understands that the Birmingham junta was composed of sore-heads, populists and republicans, and that their purpose is to collect all the enemies of genuine democracy into one camp if possible, so as to wrest the state from the true men who have ruled it for twenty years.

Birmingham Age-Herald:

It behooves the organized Democratic organization to carefully study this proposition. There is a large element in the party clamorous for reunion and peace and the acceptance of the plan will be strenuously urged as a matter of right and of public policy. On the contrary, there are many who will view with opposition and alarm the admission of the Republicans and Populists to a Democratic primary, in which they would hold the balance of power. Nor can it be overlooked that to accept the shrewdly worded pledge against the Sayre election law as a condition precedent would be to admit in advance the condemnation pronounced upon it by the Jeffersonians and to declare the organized Democracy in the last legislature grievously in the wrong.

The Bessemer Weekly:

There are two insuperable obstacles in the way of the acceptance of this proposition. In the first place it would effectually wipe out the democratic party in this state.

Huntsville Argus:

Forty days is given as the time within which the proposition must be answered. It was submitted yesterday to Hon. A. G. Smith, chairman of the state democratic executive committee. Mr. Smith will of course, give the matter due consideration while there are several features that appear to us to be altogether out of line, notably the indirect attack on the Sayre law. Nevertheless, we find in the proposition a basis for consultation, and we venture to express the hope that good may be the final issue of the discussion.

Anniston Hot Blast:

The Kolb faction, or what is best known as the Jeffersonian democracy of the state, has been in session in Birmingham this week. A proposition for a white primary was unanimously adopted and submitted. It is a shrewdly prepared document and is seemingly fair on its face, but is open to much criticism. The democratic party of the state is not ready to denounce its own doings and open allegience with all white men who have hitherto been enemies.

Tuskaloosa Times:

The gist of the proposition is that all legally qualified white electors are eligible to vote, and by casting a vote they will thus pledge themselves to support the nominees and to allign themselves against any law for the purpose of disfranchising electors. This is a slap at the new election law, but as many are tired of strife, the proposition will by no means, meet solid disfavor among either Jeffersonian or organized democrats. However, a warm fight is anticipated. The proposition is open forty days.

Huntsville Mercury:

The resolutions adopted by the Jeffersonian executive committee in their meeting in Birmingham presents terms of peace which are embodied in propositions marked with such a spirit of fairness and true democratic sentiment that we can see no grounds upon which the organized democracy of Alabama could base a refusal of acceptance.

It is true a state primary has some objectionable inconveniences but under existing circumstances had we not better suffer some inconvenience than to refuse the offered olive branch? We say accept it! Solidify the white vote of Alabama! The uniting of the white vote of Alabama under the banner of the organized democracy has been the prayer of every leading statesman and journal in Alabama since the dissolution first occurred.

The terms of peace are fair, and carry with them the democratic idea of good government. If we desire peace, if we desire a white supremacy and democratic government, the opportunity is presented; so without bickering, political jockeying, or hesitation, let the organized democracy embrace the opportunity presented.

Montgomery Advertiser:

We wonder if a poll were taken at the meeting of the Jeffersonian, so-called, Committee, on the 11th inst., to ascertain how many of them voted the Democratic ticket for President and Congressman last November. It is highly desirable to have a restoration of good feeling between the opposing factions of the Democracy, and those who got together in the fall and forgot the August differences ought to be able to very quickly come to terms. We believe they went nine-tenths of the road to complete harmony when they voted side by side for Cleveland and Democrats for Congress. Was there any representation of this class of the Democracy at the Jeffersonian meeting? This is a query that ought to be answered. If there was none then the propositions submitted come altogether from men who did all in their power to defeat the Democratic party at the last election. The commitee could hand in glove with Moseley, Parsons and Magee. The Democratic Committee will consider their propositions calmly and deliberately, and give such answer, we feel sure, as will meet the approval of every man in Alabama who really desires Democratic ascendency and control.

Eutaula Times:

The proposition of the Jeffersonians would turn the whole white republican strength of this state into the democratic camp. An army can't win with a host of aliens inside its picket lines. And this feature is objectionable. The democratic party is under no obligation to the republicans of this state, and they won't be allowed in its primaries.

And again, the democratic executive committee won't impeach the motives or intelligence of the democrats of the last legislature in their action in adopting the Sayre bill.

But there are some things about the proposition worth looking into. The Times hopes Chairman Smith may call the democratic executive committee together and discuss the matter with the Jeffersonians. The Times is in favor of a reunited party, and hopes much to see it, but will not give its consent to a reunion on terms absolutely dictated by the Jeffersonians. The democrats won't consent to turn in the republicans or exclude colored democrats from participation, and that much may be depended on. But the Times is in favor of any honorable way to get together.

THE VETERANS.

Arrangements Made for a $10 Excursion Rate to Chicago from the Encampment at Birmingham.

Age-Herald:

The following letter received by Captain Johnston explains itself to the veterans and will largely help to swell the vast concourse who will be here in July:

HEADQUARTERS UNITED CONFEDERATE VETERANS,
NEW ORLEANS, May 9, '93.

Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, Commander Camp Hardee No. 39, U. C. V.

DEAR COMRADE:—From present indications the attendance of veterans at the great reunion to be held in Birmingham on July 19 and 20 next promises to be very large, even beyond our calculations, as a great many letters are being received from all parts of Alabama and the south asking for information and necessary papers to form camps. Please ask your state papers to publish this note, requesting every town to form a camp, and apply to these headquarters for the necessary papers and information. All veterans joining now can meet their comrades at Birmingham, participate in the reunion, visit all the northern prisons and graves of the confederate dead, be at the unveiling of the confederate monument at Chicago and see the World's fair at the reduced rates from Birmingham and return of $10. Fraternally,

GEO. MOORMAN,
Adjutant-Gen'l and Chief of Staff.

The Birmingham camp are arranging an excursion, for those who cannot go to Chicago, to the battle field at Chickamauga for a round trip rate of about $2. This will enable thousands of the old soldiers to visit once more one of the great battle fields of the late war.

The Australian Collapse.

The financial depression in the United States may be largely ascribed to the reflex influence from the kingdom of Great Britain, which is the central influence in the money system of the world. Great Britain has been everspeculating. The crash in Argentina was hardly old enough for recovery to be fairly under way, before the Australian inflation began to collapse. Some idea of the over investment or development in that quarter may be had from the simple statement that the whole population of Australia is only 3,183,137, while the colonial debts are $780,000,000 in round numbers. The debts of the cities and of individual holders of property under mortgage make something over $1,250,000,000, or about $1500 for every family. Small wonder that recent that Australian bank failures aggregate the enormous sum of $160,000,000.—Age-Herald.

The Republican.

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, MAY 20, 1893.

A county exchange suggests that whatever advantage has been gained by fixing the basis for a consideration of a reconciliation has been secured by the Jeffersonians; and follows this announcement with a basis of its own, which is in short, to admit all men to Democratic conventions who supported Cleveland in 1888. This antedates the Third party and includes that political organization in the scheme of fraterzination, albeit the Third party men have shown no disposition to have anything more to do with the Democratic party. The same paper also invites conservative men to the front.

Soon after the late gubernatorial contest in this State the State Executive Committee of the organized Democracy officially expressed its desire for reconciliation, and to this end agreed by resolution to bury the unhappy differences that had arisen over the contest for State offices, by making support of the nominees of the National Democratic party the test of standing in the Democratic party of Alabama. The olive branch thus tendered was accepted by thousands who had voted against the Democratic nominees in the State election, and these thousands are now, under that resolution, in as good standing with the organized Democracy of Alabama as any other men within its ranks. Thousands of other good men became confused. They were dissatisfied with the nomination of Mr. Cleveland, against whom they had been prejudiced; but they could not make up their minds to vote against the nominees of their party, and therefore did not vote at all. These men are proper objects of solicitude on the part of the Democracy, and all proper efforts should be made to secure them to the party for the future.

Thousands of others who, before the last State election, had habitually voted the Democratic ticket, deliberately rejected this overture for peace and reconciliation and voted for the combined Harrison and Weaver electoral ticket, composed, as it was, of Third party men and Republicans. In doing this they formally and openly abandoned the Democratic organization and made common cause with the white Republicans of this state to break it down. The Third Party State Executive Committee have made no overture for peace. On the contrary the speakers of that party are now on the stump daily, abusing the Democratic party.

The proposition to invite these men of a different party into the innermost councils of the Democratic party, when they have made no request to that end or expressed any contrition for having fought it, is a surprising one, coming even from the Jeffersonian Democrats; but it is more surprising that such a proposition should receive the endorsement of any newspapers that have heretofore stood by the regular Democratic organization.

It is a proposition, in short, to surrender the Democratic organization to the men who have been desperately trying to destroy it. Such a proposition will not favorably strike the democrats of Calhoun. It might well suit the interests of a certain class of so-called democrats, who were skulking between camps during the late gubernatorial contest, trafficing with both sides and true to neither, and who now, since the lines have been too well defined for mixing, find themselves in a hole they do not well know how to get out of; but it will not suit the men of well defined status on either side, who love to known who their political enemies are and who are not afraid to fight them.

The call for "conservative" men to the front is the natural sequence of the proposition to surrender. If it means anything it means an impeachment of the men who have led the Democracy of this State to victory after victory, since the election of Houston, by the force of their aggressive and invincible courage.

What the Democratic party of this State needs now, more than at any time before, is that its boldest and most resolute leaders be kept to the front and that its petty traders in politics, its skulkers between camps, its timorous men who take counsel of their fears, be sent to the rear among the cooks, hospital stewards and baggage wagons.

The Democratic party is essentially aggressive, because it is progressive.

It never will, in this State, if it be kept out of the hands of sneaktails, either compromise its principles or beg quarter at the hands of its enemies.

15. That the acceptance of the nomination of this primary election hereinbefore provided for shall commit the nominee thereof publicly to the people of the state as being in opposition to any and all legislative enactments tending to or providing for the disfranchisement of the white masses of the state of Alabama.

The State Constitution provides that all men over twenty-one years of age who shall have resided in the State for twelve months or who have become naturalized citizens shall have the right to vote, except persons who have been convicted of treason, embezzlement of public funds, malfeasance in office, larcepy, bribery or other crime punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary, idiots and insane persons. The United States Constitution expressly provides that no man shall be disfranchised on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude. Not only every man elected to and inducted into office in Alabama, but every registered voter takes an oath to support the constitution of the United States and of the State of Alabama.

In view of this fact the above 15th section of the proposition of the Jeffersonian committee becomes meaningless. Why pledge men not to do anything they could not do if they would, and which they swear not to do before voting or before induction into office. In view of the fact that the Federal constitution protects the negro equally with the white man in his right of franchise, why should the Jeffersonians throw the regis of their pretended protection over the "white masses" alone; if the whole section is not a lot of cheap buncombe. They know well enough the negro cannot be disfranchised any more than can the white man, under the United States Constitution. The State Democratic Executive Committee should not assume that the section is a "slap at the Sayre election law." If the Sayre law disfranchises anybody who had the right to vote prior to its passage, it is void and of no effect, for want of constitutionality, a matter which the courts could settle without party interference. The best answer the State Democratic Committee can make to this 15th section is that the Democratic party proposes in the future, as in the past, to stand by and uphold the constitution of the United States and of the State of Alabama.

Among the inscriptions on the monument recently erected to Alexander H. Stephens is the following extract from one of his speeches;

"I am afraid of nothing on earth, or about the earth or under the earth except to do wrong—the path of duty I shall always endeavor to travel, fearing no evil and dreading no consequences."

Another inscription is as follows:

"Here sleeps the remains of one who dared to tell the people when they were wrong when he believed so, and who never intentionally deceived a friend or betrayed an enemy."

It will be seen from a call published in this issue that the proposition to form a camp of Confederate Veterans, who may visit Birmingham on the occasion of the great reunion in that city the 19th and 20th of July, has taken shape. Let as many old Confederates go to Anniston the 27th as can. Those who may not be able to reach there by train at 11 o'clock a. m. can get there on later trains. It will take all evening to complete the organization.

It will be seen from a letter from Adjutant-General Moorman, published in this issue, that a cheap round trip rate of five dollars each way has been provided for the Confederate soldiers who may wish to visit the World's fair at Chicago from the encampment at Birmingham, or round trip rate of $2 to the Chickamauga battlefield.

The organized Democracy has more to fear just now from traitors and time-servers within its ranks than from the cohorts of the Republican and Third parties. There is mischief brewing, and it would be well to watch the men who are advising the party to take off the guard and invite the enemy to the heart of its citadel.

Preserve Democratic organization.

CARMICHAEL—BRENNAN.

We clip the following marriage notice from the Rockmart (Ga.,) Register:

"Last Tuesday the 9th of May, our worthy townsman, W. I. Carmichael was united in marriage to Miss Lizzie Brennan, of Jacksonville, Alabama. The ceremony was performed at high noon by the Rev. F. A. Rogers at the residence of the bride's mother in Jacksonville, and the happy couple arrived here on the East & West passenger train at 3:30 p. m. They were tendered a brilliant reception at the York house Tuesday evening. The editor of the Register was a happy participant in the festivities of the evening and can truthfully testify to the excellence of the supper, and the spirit of hearty goodwill with which those present tendered their congratulations to the bridal pair.

The house was tastefully and beautifully decorated, and Mr. and Mrs. York were untiring in their efforts to make the hours pass pleasantly for their guests. On the event of this reception the York House—already so popular with the traveling fraternity, and as a boarding house—surpassed itself in hospitality and general attractiveness, and won laurels that will add still more to its future popularity.

Mr. Carmichael our jeweler is an estimable young man, and deserves much credit for the perseverance and untiring energy he has shown in his profession. He is truly a self made man, and well worthy the respect and patronage of the town and community.

In his marriage with Miss Brennan he has but won his desserts.

The bride is indeed a charming type of womanhood, endowed with all the grace and beauty that combine to make a lovely specimen of feminity. Her native refinement, together with her various accomplishments and attractive personal graces bespeak for her a high place in the social circles of our town.

The Register extends its sincere congratulations to the happy pair, and hopes that each may find in the other a loyal, loving helpmeet through all the trials and vicissitudes of life.

In their home may the light of contentment ever radiate. Around their fireside may no gloomy shadows hover to darken and chill the warmth and happiness of connubial love.

This wedding which seems such an auspicious and happy event in our eyes has put us in mind to advise the bachelors of our acquaintance to follow our friend. Ivy's laudable example, for what is better than to have "some sweet woman" to reign over our hearts and homes?

The Evangel's "Book."

The much heralded "book" of the Clay county Evangel is out, and dwindles to a pamphlet of forty pages, with the usual paper cover. It is more of a tirade against the Southern people for having been slave owners than anything else. A good sample of the "book" is the Evangel's account of the rotten egging he got at Florence. As he tells it, none of the eggs hit him. We have always labored under the impression that he was pretty badly besmattered first and last.

We call special and particular attention to this "book." The Evangel is the leader of the Populist party in this State, and one of the opposition's most earnest, influential and ablest advocates. If every native Southerner would read this "book" the political skies would clear, for not one of them could afford to follow the author of that tirade any longer.—Age-Herald.

ED. REPUBLICAN:

Please publish the enclosed extracts from circular of the State Supt. of Education dated March 29. This circular was submitted to the Teachers Institute on the 8th of April which passed a resolution requesting the County Board of Education to select places, appoint speakers and prepare programmes for each day specified in the circular below.

In accordance with this request the said Board will hold a meeting in July for the purposes set forth and all persons who are sincerely interested in the educational welfare of the county will be invited to attend and particapate in its deliberations so that there may be all necessary preparations for the success of the requested meetings throughtout the county.

In your next issue I will furnish you extracts from another circular from the State Superindent, which contain suggestions as to the subjects that should be discussed by the speakers.

L. D. MILLER,
Co. Supt. of Education.

DEPARTMENT OE EDUCATION.

Montgomery, March 29 1893.

DEAR SIR:

Deeply impressed with the fact that the cause of education has been, to some extent, overlooked and neglected in our popular gatherings, when other questions of less importance have absorbed and engrossed the attention of our people, it has occurred to me, as this is an off political year in Alabama, it would be most suitable and opportune to have the State thoroughly canvassed and the people aroused and enlightened on the subject of popular or general education. Looking to this end, I have determined to arrange and prepare a program, for the holding of five public meetings in each county in the State, by the County Sup't of Education, to which meetings all the white people will be invited. These gatherings will be held as follows; August 5, 12, 19, 26th and September 1st. Each County Sup't of Education will arrange for the meeting in his county, select the places of meeting notify and interest the citizens, secure speakers to address the people and to supervise the entire management. These conventions or gatherings must be emphatically non-political and non-sectarian. The purpose is to gather all classes and creeds, and political parties for the purpose of exchanging views and opinions in reference to the public school question.

Before our educational system proves a great blessing to the people, it must be better understood, in order that it may be perfected. The children of Alabama deserve better school facilities, and the State is in condition to devise ways and means to accomplish this end. When the questions growing out of public school system are thoroughly understood, we may confidently expect to make the same advance that has placed the Eastern and Western states so far ahead of us. It is no uncommon thing to hear of our people meeting together to discuss political issues, medicine, law, religion agriculture; in fact all creeds and professions have their gatherings, that their aims and purposes may be advanced. Such being the fact is it not high time that the entire people of the state should begin to look into the all important matter of providing the safest and best means by which the youth of the land may be educated.

I suggest, that you enlist, at an early day every teacher in your county, in behalf of this movement. In consultation with the teachers and citizens select the most suitable places for holding these meetings, and insist on the people providing a basket dinner, that they may spend the entire day in considering the various educational interests. Encourage all the people to come out and join in the important work.

In due time I will send out to each County Sup't handbills for posting, which will be filled out with the time, place and name of speakers. Do not confine the speakers exclusively to men who are accustomed to public speaking, they are excellent to have, but get speakers from all professions and avocations who are willing to take part. What we want is to arouse the masses of our fellow-citizens, and induce them to study the questions that pertain to popular education, so that they may deal intelligently with educational issues.

The first day of September will be the day for holding a mass meeting at the courthouse of each county, and will close up the canvass. This circular is sent out this early, from the fact it will take some time to get up an interest in the campaign and organize in such a manner as to insure success.

SSS CURES MALARIAL POISON

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try SSS. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

THE FAMOUS.

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?

There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear negligee shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Don't you think it is about time to get a spring Hat?

Every male member of the West Anniston Baptist church, with one exception, withdrew from the church on Sunday and every lady remained. Some dissatisfaction with the pastor caused the trouble.

The Anniston Evening News has been looking into the postoffice question and this is what he says: "Mr. Robbins still declines to have the appointment of postmaster at Anniston made, and in the meantime drug stores are selling nerve tonics and a band of Gypsies just outside of town are making good money guessing at the outcome."

While handling a shot gun, Bob Padgett, of Anniston, shot himself in the left hand and his thumb had to be amputated.

Trustees Re-Appointed.—The terms of Hon. H. C. Tompkins, of Montgomery, and Capt. T. G. Bush as trustees of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum at Talladega having expired, they were on Thursday re-appointed by the governor. This institution is now presided over by a son of the late superintendent, Dr. J. H. Johnson, who had trained him especially for the work and it is said he is in every way competent to take the place of his distinguished father. He has for some years been assistant superintendent.—Hot Blast.

Twin Bearers.

All of our citizens know the market gardener, Davis, but very few know that he belongs to a remarkable family. He is the grandfather of three sets of twins, five of whom are boys. His oldest daughter married Tom Caples, whom she blessed with a pair of twins, his second married Marion Bagwell, and she presented her husband with a pair of twins, and the third is the happy wife of John Cannon, and John is the father of a pair of twins. Of course we mean simple couplets when we speak of "a pair of twins." All these parties live in Tuscaloosa county. Mr. Davis is the father of twelve children and has married sons and daughters who have not yet reported their progress to headquarters.

The father of Mr. Davis raised eighteen sons and ten daughters—twenty-eight in all—including one set of twins, and our Mr. Davis is the oldest of the family. He is now 57 years of age, and he and his wife are excellent people, and are proud of the part they have played in multiplying and replenishing the earth.

The family have long since lost count of the descendants of Davis, senior, but it is known twins are a family characteristic all along the line of descent.

Old Aunt Clara Horton died at Athens, Tenn., the other day, aged 103. The Post of that city says: "She was a faithful and true old black mammie and much respected by all who knew her."

ONE OF FIVE SURVIVED.

The Terrible Fate of a Party of Mining Prospectors.

MANELOOA, MEX., May 21.—Francis Banada, a prominent rancher who lives north of here, near San Juan Sibinas, has arrived at Maneloca, and brings the first news of the terrible fate of a party of five mining prospectors who left here four weeks ago for the Sierra San Vincente mountains, in the northwestern part of this state, near the Texas boundary.

There have been many reports circulated in this part of Mexico for several months past of the famous mineral wealth to be found in these mountains, and a party of young men, consisting of C. H. Torian and B. W. Knapp, both Americans; Cecilio Martinez, Eustacio La Joda and Jesus Guerrera, organized themselves into a band to try their luck in the reported El Dorado. The course of their journey lay through a desert for 105 miles and the third day after leaving Santa Rosa, their water supply gave out, and their team of horses was left behind to its fate. For six days the men lived on the juice of the maguey plant. On the seventh day two of the Mexicans, driven crazy by the heat and thirst, broke away from their companions and soon became lost in the desert. Two other members of the party gradually lost their strength and were left behind to die. The only man that came out of the terrible ordeal alive is Mr. Knapp, who on the tenth day reached the San Jos de Piedras ranch, where he received water and kind treatment. Upon regaining his strength he was escorted to San Juan Sabinae by a different route than the one which had proved so fatal to his companions. He is now resting at the ranch of Mr. Banada and will take his departure for his old home in the United States.

PRESS COMMENTS

CONCERNING THE PROPOSITION

What the Democratic Papers Are Saying—Varying Views of the Editors That Make a Chapter of Entertaining Reading.

Huntsville Argus:

There is no reasonable objection to the Sayre election law. It is not expected that the organized democracy will repudiate its own enactment, especially when it has so much that is meritorious in it. The bugaboo about its disfranchisment of white voters has been completely exploded.

Clanton View:

And now we have compromise propositions from the Jeffersonian democracy. How sad it is to be placed in a compromise position. If William C. Oates is nominated for governor and mourners are called for, it seems now that the entire time in our love feasts will be consumed by the experience of backsliders asking for prayers. Come on, death-bed repentance is better than none at all.

Selma Times:

Until the conference meets agrees or fails to agree, let us not apply offensive nostrums that may shatter the constitution of the patient or unstring the nerves of the doctors. A clear head, a steady hand and a right beating heart are all needed in a case of this sort. Often the very worst cases to treat are those in perfect health, but imagine that they are seriously ill. Let the doctors start right and make no mistake, and all will be well.

Greensboro Beacon:

There is a better way for the Jeffersonians to unite with the democratic party than for them to dictate terms and proprose the maintainance of the two rival organizations. They should come individually avowing allegiance to democracy alone. If the Jeffersonians and democratic parties are to keep their hands on their guns they can never be in perfect harmony. As it is, the present situation looks like a case of "you have a pie; let's divide."

Troy Messenger:

Democrats and democrats alone should vote in a democratic primary. This is one feature that the Jeffersonians know and expect will be refused. We feel sure the executive committee of the regular democracy will use discretion, good judgment, sound sense and justice and that their careful consideration will simplify matters and bring out an amicable adjustment of all differences. Let no extremist overstep the bounds of reason, but let the sober-minded and level-headed men act as advance guards and we will hope to see all differences driven away.

Shelby Chronicle:

We would not yield an iota in the matter of principle for the sake of harmony or anything else, and we would not ask of the Jeffersonians anything that we ourselves would be unwilling to do. But we take the position that while their proposition in its present shape is defective, and could not be accepted without modification, still if they are sincere in their expressed desire for harmony, and will meet us like men, a compromise can be effected honorable alike to both parties and without any sacrifice whatever of principle by either side. This much has been said under the assumption that the Jeffersonians really want to reach an amicable settlement.

Gadsden Times-News:

We do not believe the democratic party can afford to allow the republicans of Alabama to come into a primary and help dictate who shall hold the reins of the state government. But the Times-News is in favor of any honorable way to get together. We believe in peace and the consolidation of democrats, and we have prefect confidence in Chairman Smith and the balance of the state democratic executive committee to protect the interests of the state in a safe and conservative manner. That the opposition to the organized democratic party is strong there is no doubt and their proposition should be met squarely, honestly and fearlessly. But meet them squarely and compromise with them on a reasonable proposition.

Talladega Mountain-Home:

It is certainly the desire of every democrat in Alabama that the political warfare which has been going on for the last three years should have an end and the people have an opportunity to settle down to business free from strife and turmoil between the classes, but however much this state of affairs may be desired the democratic party cannot accept the proposition, as a whole, submitted by the Jeffersonians. The section which includes all white men who voted for Jones or Kolb in '92 is entirely too sweeping. That would let in all of the white republicans of the state and also the populists who voted against the democratic nominees in November.

Eutaw Mirror:

This proposition is modified so as to exclude all who voted for Weaver and Harrison, and to include all who voted for Cleveland and Stevenson for president and vice-president, and for the regular democratic candidates for congress, as nominated by the organized democracy, will doubtless meet the views and receive the unqualified acceptance of the democracy (without prefix or suffix) of the state. But, please don't try to cram Weaverites and Harrisonites down the throats of a long suffering people. It would sicken a century buzzard to have to swallow them.

Another point to be observed, is that the organized democracy is pledged to support the Sayre election bill, and they will not accept any proposition to leave it out of the democratic program. We must have pure elections and fair counts at the polls, and the only way to have both is the Sayre election bill or something like. The principle has worked like a charm wherever tried, and will do likewise in our state.

Wetumpka Times-Democrat:

Suppose the regulars accept the proposition of a white primary from the Jeffersonians, the result would be nominated. For the former would have several candidates in the field and would divide their vote, while the latter would tactfully withhold any other candidate but Kolb and thereby insure his nomination. That proposition was worn out by Napoleon, when he divided the enemy and then conquered him. But it don't work in Alabama politics. When Kolb leaves the field there will be hopes of coming together, and not before.

Cullman Tribune:

It used to be said that once upon a time a white man and an Indian went hunting, and a turkey and a buzzard were killed. Upon the proposition of the Indian the white man was to divide the game between them, and he proceeded in this wise: "You take the buzzard and I'll take the turkey, or I'll take the turkey and you take the buzzard." The fraud was to evident to the Indian and he kicked. So with the recent proposition of the two committees at their Birmingham meeting to the organized democracy. The fraud is too evident and will not be accepted.

A HORRIBLE FIND

IN THE MIRE OF A SWAMP.

The Body of Henry Gaines, Aged 85 Years, Found Dead Only One Mile From His Home—Too Feeble to Extricate Himself.

GADSDEN, May 18.—Several farmers coming to town this morning made a ghastly find on the east side of Coosa river, about ten miles from Gadsden.

As they were passing along the road near Colvin, a station on the Louisville and Nashville road, they were horrified to see the body of a man deep in the mire of a swamp. They made an investigation and it proved to be Henry Gaines, a highly respected citizen of this county.

The facts, as near as possible, are as follows: Henry Gaines, aged 85 years and very feeble, left his home early Monday to walk to Rock Springs a distance of six miles, and it is supposed when he reached the branch he fell in and, being very feeble, was unable to get out. The ground showed signs of his struggles to get out, but being in vain he died a lingering death of torture and only a mile from home.

The road is one seldom used, which accounts for the lapse of time in finding him. Some say there was foul play, but that is not probable. No coroner's inquest has yet been held.

Salary, $50,000 A Year.

Chicago, May 20.—A story from New York that Dr. Talmage has been offered $50,000 a year to preach in some Chicago churches is not credited in church circles here. Among those who think the report incorrect is R. R. Beam, manager of the Presbyterian Publishing company, who said this afternoon:

"I know of no church in the city that could pay such a salary. All the large pulpits are well filled and there is no talk of any prominent change. It is barely possible that a new church is being formed, but if so the promoters have been careful to keep the matter a secret."

So long as unjust and unconstitutional tariff laws impoverish nine tenths of the people to enrich the other nine tenths, so long, even in this bountiful land of America, will hard times be the rule and prosperity the exception.—Talladega Reporter.

President Cleveland has been an agreeable surprise to the honest, intelligent element of the Populites. Brothers, Democracy is still pure as a rule. There are bad men in it of course and it is your duty to stay in the party and drive them out if you have the interests of the people at heart.—Talladega Reporter.

OXFORD.

Letter From Sam Slim.

OXFORD, May 23, 1893.

If I fail to give you as much news as you want, Mr. REPUBLICAN, don't you land me in the waste basket, for if you do, there will be a reconing when we meet again.

Oxford at this writing is as dry as a chip, and the farmers have laid off their coats and gone to work in a hurry. Crops in this vicinity look well, and are in good condition. There is very little complaint of poor stand of cotton, but the bud worm is getting in his work on the young corn in Choccolocco bottoms.

Snow's creek is as red as bleeding Kansas caused by washing ore at the washer in Anniston. The grand jury at the last term of the City court found a true bill against the managers of the Woodstock Iron Co., for creating a public nuisance by spoiling the waters of Snow's creek for stock and domestic purposes, and for filling of that stream and also Choccolocco, below the mouth of Snow's creek, but the bill being defective was quashed. And the washer authorities promised to build a dam and catch the mud and heal the waters, but the mud comes all the same, and the creek beds are fast filling up and in years much valuable farming lands on Snow's and Choccolocco creeks will be submerged in water and ruined for agricultural purposes. One company should not be allowed to defile the waters of two towns and spoil a half dozen valuable farms even if it is an iron company.

The Methodists and Baptists of Alexandria are on the best of terms and so they should be everywhere. They each want an organ for their Sunday schools, and they ought to have them. And in order to raise the necessary wherewithal they will give an entertainment at the academy on Friday evening (7:30) June 2d. I haven't seen the program, but let me tell you, I have known those Alexandria people a long time and they "git there Ely" in everything they undertake. They have sent me a pressing invitation to attend and sing "Old Grimes," and Providence permitting I'll be there and hope to meet many friends, and enjoy the entertainment with them, and if they can enjoy Old Grimes or find any music in my solo, they are welcome to it.

Extortion In Russian Villages.

One morning sleighbells jingled in our village. A police captain and lieutenant drove in with a dead body covered up on a sleigh. They called for the village elder.

"Ivan Ivanovitch," said the captain, eying the crowd of trembling peasants, "a terrible crime has been committed close to the land of your village."

"In God's name, what?" asked the old man.

"See for yourself." The captain drew off the cover and exposed the mutilated body. "Your village is responsible for this murder. There must be a commission sent here to investigate the matter."

"Anything but that," begged the elder, stroking and kissing the captain's coat. He know that such a commission meant ruinous fines, to say nothing of floggings for every witness.

The peasants with one voice joined in the appeal, "Anything but a judicial inquiry!"

"Well, but the matter is serious. It will cost me a lot of money to prevent a commission coming," said the captain.

After some haggling the wretched peasants, suffering for want of sufficient food or good shelter, clubbed together and paid 75 rubles.

The captain and lieutenant climbed into the sleigh once more and drove away with the corpse to the next village. Here they repeated the same performance, and as long as the cold weather lasted that corpse represented at least 50 rubles extorted from every village it visited.—Poultney Bigelow.

Going to the Theater.

A tall, broad shouldered westerner witnessed the performances at the Star theater on Monday and Tuesday nights. Wednesday evening he was at the ticket office again.

"What's the price?" he asked.

"Same as last night," replied the treasurer, who recognized the man.

"I ain't in the Star theater again, am I?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then I've made a mistake. I want to see some of the other shows."

The stranger walked out of the house, down Broadway and turned into Thirteenth street. He noticed a crowd around the entrance to a theater and bought a ticket for 25 cents. He went up to the top gallery; then he swore.

For the third time he was in the Star theater. He rushed down to the gallery ticket office and explained that he didn't know that every door in the city led to the same show. The ticket seller said he could do nothing.

"You don't have to," snapped the man. "I'll get even with you."

"How?"

"I'll just tear up the ticket and won't use it at all."—New York Evening Sun.

A Queer Death Superstition.

A curious relic of the superstitions ideas of the middle ages still exists in many parts of England—the notion that when the death of a person is imminent the fastenings of the door of the death chamber or of the other rooms of the house hinder the departure of the soul from the body, thus making final dissolution doubly painful.

A gentleman writing some 40 years ago for a collection of antiquarian papers states that when he was curater at Exeter he had a call to the deathbed of one of his parishioners. Upon arriving there, the wife of the patient told the minister that she had expected her husband to die during the previous night and on that account had left the doors all open or unlocked. Upon asking for reasons for this odd proceeding he was told of the neighborhood superstition.—St. Louis Republic.

Romantic French Poets.

The romantic French poets of the early part of the present century never saw anything as it actually was, but on the contrary looked at all things under a glamour of unreality.

One evening Alfred de Musset, one of this romantic band, was walking in a park near Paris with another of the fraternity, who suddenly exclaimed, pointing to a bright object on the ground:

"See, Alfred, a star on the ground!"

It was a glowworm, but De Musset answered:

"So it is! It is well. I will light my cigar with it!"

It was worthy of a romantic poet to wish to light his cigar with a star, but in this case romance was one thing and reality another. The star refused to work as a "light."—Youth's Companion.

Doing Two Things at Once.

At an evening party it was remarked that nobody could draw two things at once. Sir Edward Landseer replied that he thought he could, and taking a pencil in each hand he drew simultaneously and without hesitation with the right hand the profile of a stag's head and all its antlers complete and with the left hand a lovely horse's head. The acts of draftsmanship were strictly simultaneous and not alternate, and the drawing by the left hand was as good as that by the right.—Exchange.

THE POSTMASTER'S DAUGHTER.

She Robbed the Mail, but the Inspector Kept Her Secret.

An inspector had a queer experience some time ago in a pretty little town in Maryland. As the train neared this village he walked into the mail car and asked for the mail clerk, showed his commission and put in a letter addressed to James Lancaster, a fictitious name. The letter contained a $10 bill. The inspector stood upon the platform of the mail car when the train stopped and the pouch was thrown off. A boy took the pouch over his shoulder and started up the village street. There was a crowd of visitors inside the office who swarmed toward the little desk. The inspector waited 15 minutes until they had all gone to get their mail. He entered the place. A handsome girl, 17 years old, dressed in an old fashioned bodice and light colored skirt, sat behind the wire grating in a rocking chair, sewing.

"Is there a letter here for James Lancaster?" he asked.

"No," she said after sorting some letters in the case marked "L."

"I am sure the letter must have come," said the inspector.

"It's not here."

"Are you the postmaster?"

"No. I am the assistant. My father is the postmaster."

"Who opened the pouch that came in by the last train?"

"Idid."

"No one to help you?"

"No, sir."

"Maybe it's stuck in the pouch. I have heard of such things. Won't you look?"

She took the pouch, turned it up side down, shook it and looked in side. No letter.

"Won't you let me come in and help you look for it?"

"No. No one is allowed in here."

The inspector drew out his commission. "May I come in now?" he asked.

"Yes," blushing; "I beg your pardon."

"I mailed a letter myself to James Lancaster," the inspector said. It is a fictitious name—Lancaster. The letter was put in that pouch by the mail clerk on the train, who took a memorandum of it and locked the pouch in my presence. When that pouch was put off at the station, I followed it and kept it in sight until it was taken into the postoffice. Now, you say you opened it alone, and that no one else touched it. Where is my letter?"

"I never saw it, sir. If you doubt me, you can search me."

The inspector began to pace the floor in deep thought. The girl, more beautiful than ever in her excitement, sat down in the chair, crossed her legs and began to rock herself to and fro.

"Call your mother, and she can search you in my presence."

"My mother is dead."

Again the inspector paced the floor. As he walked back and forth he noticed the swinging feet of the postmaster's daughter. One of her stockings had fallen a little, and under it was the shape of an envelope.

"Your stocking has dropped," he said.

The girl turned scarlet and then white and stopped rocking. She caught her breath and almost fainted. Then she recovered, took the letter from its hiding place, handed it to the inspector and burst into a flood of passionate tears. The girl had admirers, as was natural. Her father was miserly, not giving her the money even that was needed for a bright bit of ribbon, let alone a new dress. She had been tempted to take money from the mails for bits of finery. The inspector bitterly accused the old man of being the one to blame.

"I suppose you will arrest her!" he said.

"Will you make restitution of the sum stolen?"

It was handed over.

"Will you arrest her?"

"If I did, what would be her future? No. Unless you or she tell, this will never be known."—Indianapolis Journal.

A Clever Frenchman's Scheme.

A French viscount, who is not so richly endowed as he would like to be, has invented a novel means of feathering his nest. He advertises in the French papers a lottery in which the great prize will be himself and his title. Five thousand tickets are to be issued at 20 francs each which will bring him in over $25,000. The lady who draws the lucky number will have the choice of two alternatives. She may marry the viscount with his fortune or she may share this capital sum, but must first forego all right to his hand.—Exchange.

Thistledowns High In the Air.

It was only a few days ago that I stood on the top of one of your tall buildings here and noticed a thistledown passing high over my head to the west. It undoubtedly came from across the Mississippi river over in Illinois somewhere. While on the top of the Auditorium tower in Chicago I saw one just a little below that height coming in from Lake Michigan, and where it could have started from cannot be guessed, for a stiff breeze was blowing from the east. The chances are that it came across that great lake. Two years ago, while at the top of the Eiffel tower in Paris, I saw one at that great height smoothly sailing by, and it looked as though it was constantly rising higher.

I have met thistledown miles out at sea, and I know as a boy I have seen this down passing over the little lake at home, which was three miles long and two miles wide. They seem to be all pervading, for Du Chaillu says that he saw thistledown floating by him when fully 100 miles out on the desert of Sahara, where there was no sign of vegetation. Thistledown would have been immortalized had only some floated out past Columbus when he came to America in 1492.—Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NORMAL NEWS.

Miss Mamie Riddle spent Sunday and Monday at home.

Mr. W. C. Hannah has gone home on a visit. During the summer months he will struggle with the "young idea."

After three years of study at the Normal, Mr. Ross Davenport has returned to his home in Arkansas. We miss him very much and are sorry to have to give him up. But it is like the poet says; "To meet, to know, to love, to part, is the sad tale of many a human heart."

One of the Junior girls contemplates writing a treatise on mathematics. We wish her much success but hope that it will not be a "riddle" throughout.

Miss Mattie Wherton made a business trip to Choccolocco, Oxford and Anniston last week, and came home quite sick. Has not been able to resume her school duties.

Mallory Davis returned last week to his home at Choccolocco.

Miss Bessie Savage has been absent a week on account of the sickness of her grandfather, Mr. J. R. Graham of Ladiga.

Gray Meharg and Tom Clements two of our old boys called in to see us last week. Call again boys, you will find the latch-string on the outside.

One of our girls who was certain she had one "bean to her string," the other day received a newspaper and in looking over it she read where the wedding bells chimed most merrily at the marriage of ——. Since then she has had a "far away look" out of her eyes.

The Seniors are thanking their stars that the Geometry examinations are at last over.

The annual picnic was well attended and enjoyed by all.

The Alma Mater may well be proud of some of her daughters (to say nothing of her sons) in days to come. For they are bright and ambitious. Many of them already have their life-work decided upon and are aiming high. We will have teachers by the score; teachers of art, music, science, and Literature. There will be writers of note, writers of poems, novels, text-books, essays, newspapers and journals. While there is one who proclaims that her mission is to be a lawyer—"fair attorney," and one other says that some time "in the sweet I hope to embark upon the sea as nothing more but a good M. D."

It is encouraging to see such bright prospects for the "distant." Go on girls, aim on,—"hitch your wagon to a star—if you would ride high." With this let me bid you God speed.

Unhappy Foreign Ministers.

How pinched our diplomatic agents are was well illustrated in Mr. Lowell's time. A rich American, proud of his country and wishing to leave a monument to his liberality and patriotism, decided to purchase a fitting legation house in London for the American minister, but Mr. Lowell begged him not to carry out his generous intention during his term of office, for the cost of maintaining such a house would have been nearly three times his salary. Mr. Lincoln lived becomingly but modestly during his tenure of the English mission, but he recently stated to a friend that his annual expenditure was $35,000, or just double his salary.

What the expenditure of an embassy will be depends on the means of the embassador, but if our embassador to London or to Paris were to be paid a salary equal to that of the president he would not be able to do more than return the official courtesies of the country to which he was accredited and of his fellow members of the corps. All of this means that an American embassador who has no private fortune will be unhappy, and unhappy men cannot successfully transact business.—Harper's Weekly.

A Delicate Operation.

An artisan about 30 years of age some five years ago fell and severely injured his right arm. It was operated on at the time, and the result proved that either the surgeon by misadventure had divided the nerve or it had been torn in the fall. At all events the injured arm never recovered its former appearance, but wasted and became quite useless. It was a serious misfortune to a workingman, and it was decided to open up the arm and explore, with the result, as first surmised, that the nerve was found to be partially divided. Two fresh ends were made, and a live rabbit having been obtained it was rendered unconscious, skinned, and the two sciatic nerves were extracted and stitched to the two ends of the divided nerve in the man's arm. The wound was then stitched up and the patient placed in bed. The result is most favorable. The man has perfect power in the right arm, which is rapidly regaining the original bulk, and he is now able to follow his employment.—London Cor. Edinburgh Dispatch.

Some Wonderful Egyptian Relics.

The Abbott collection in the rooms of the New Historical society is probably the richest in Egyptian relics, especially those which point to scenes and persons of the Bible, of any in the United States, if not in the world. Here may be seen the signet ring of Cheops, the builder of the great pyramid; the gold necklace and earrings of Menes, the first pharoah of Egypt and earliest king known to history, the ornament being not less than 4,664 years old. In the same collection one may see some of the very bricks that the children of Israel made during the Egyptian captivity, and the armor of Shishak, who took Jerusalem from Rehoboam.—St. Louis Republic.

FINE SILK FROM WOOD PULP.

A Novel Substitute For the Silkworm's Product and What It May Mean.

The fact that the United States has not achieved a striking success in the attempts which have been made to introduce silkworm culture in this country is practically admitted today. A few scattered efforts have shown some indications of success, but for the most part the silkworm finds fault with his food or the climate. Perhaps because of the apparent impossibility of producing a large supply of raw silk the American manufactures of that article have not fairly equaled those of France, except within a few very recent years. Today it can be said, however, that Maine produces as fine an article of "broad" silk goods as any French manufacturing center can show, if impartial judges are to be believed. The American ribbons also are practically as good as those imported from France. The American and French manufacturers buy much of their raw silk in the same market, and the Americans are using as good machinery and as skilled labor as their French competitors employ.

It is therefore worthy of note at this the best period of American silk manufacture so far that a method of making silk threads from wood pulp is being brought to a practical stage. The method made its first public appearance at the Paris exposition of 1889, where it at once attracted attention. At that time, however, it was imperfect if not absolutely dangerous. Since that date the improvements in the original method have been noticeable, and the revised process is now employed at Besancon, where the silk is being manufactured. The material employed is nothing more than the "wood pulp" which is already used so largely in paper making. After being crushed the pulp is dried in an oven and afterward immersed in a nitro-sulphuric acid mixture.

The pulp is then thoroughly washed in water and is finally dried in alcohol. The resultant product is put into a mixture of practically pure alcohol and ether until a "collodion" is formed not noticeably different from that used for photographic films. After the collodion is prepared it is forced through a filter and is then forced into a long tube, in the side of which are hundreds of spigots with a very minute outlet. The collodion issues from the spigots in thin, sticky threads, which are afterward washed by ammonia and water. This washing takes the soluble ether and alcohol from the collodion, which immediately grows harder and tough and in about every respect as brilliant and as strong as silk thread. The resultant threads are spun together in strands of six and are then ready for weaving.

When the Chardonnet process was first exhibited, one very strong objection to the textiles woven from the new "silk" lay in the great inflammability of such a texture. The original combustibility was at the rate of two centimeters a second, and it was claimed with much justice that goods of such a nature could not be and ought not to be used for purposes of dress. The addition of ammonia to the water bath in which the collodion thread was washed served to do away with the objection. Still again it was found that the pressure on the collodion tube was not equal throughout, some of the threads snapping off before they were put into the final bath. It is announced that this fault has been corrected under the revised process, and if this announcement is authentic the new method of producing silk without silkworms will attract the notice of American manufacturers.—Boston Advertiser.

Strange Coincidences.

Not so long since a stowaway was found dead under the main hatch of one of the National line of steamers. He had concealed himself before the steamer left Liverpool and died of suffocation. Curiously enough in his pocket was found a novel entitled "Doomed on the Deep." Another singular coincidence happened in America. A pleasure party were overturned and drowned on the Hudson river. Just before the accident they had been singing "Lost In the Wreck." More recently a person was charged with abstracting a book from one of Messrs. Smith's bookstalls, and when arrested two volumes were found in his possession, one of which was entitled "Found Out."—Boston Traveller.

Curious Identification.

"Men are often identified in queer ways," said Morris McPortland of Philadelphia. "Some are known as brothers or sons of distinguished or prominent men, some as the husbands of well known women. There's the Count Bozeta—fewer people will talk about him as such than will point him out as Mme. Modjeska's husband. Here you have Abraham Gould, who is better known, I think, as Jay Gould's brother than by his own name. Trifles, too, are often associated with people and are used in recalling them to memory. The butter and egg man is rarely ever known in a household by his surname, or prænomen either, for that matter; so, too, the milkman, the coalman and so on.

"A most curious case, though, has been known in our town for years. It is a man of affairs who is spoken of and remembered only by a single circumstance. His father, too, is recalled in the same connection. They lived in a big house on a fashionable street, and the father, even when the son was well grown, refused to give his son the use of a latchkey. Since then, when any one mentions the father, they say at the clubs and elsewhere, 'Oh, that was the old fellow who wouldn't give his son a latchkey,' and when the son is mentioned they say, 'Wasn't it his father who wouldn't give him a latchkey?' And that is all they say about them."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THAT BABY.

A New Orleans Man Waxes Enthusiastic Over Its Beauties.

It was a wee mite of a thing in pink and white, delicate as a newborn violet and buried within a world of softest white stuff that rose up around its tiny face like the billows of a frozen sea caught in a ground swell. It was, to tell the truth, a funny looking creature—this little baby, with its soft, silky hair lying in fluffy patches over its pulsating head, and its fat little cheeks all excavated with pristine dimples that as yet were unacquainted with the expanding properties of a baby's laugh. Its little eyes were round and wandering, and the lilliputian mouth seemed made only to pucker up for a mournful wail every time some mistaken old lady would try to spread a demonstrative kiss all over the little face.

Father and mother gazed upon this little newcomer into their household with all that pride and joy that can come from no fount save that of the love born of instinct. He would take the petit bundle of infinitesimal baby and innumerable skirts up in his big hands in a gingerly, awkward sort of a way and look at it for a moment, and then he would lay it down gently upon the soft pillow again as if he feared it would break if it should by any chance be jostled against anything so tangible even as a strong current of air.

Then, when all the rest had gone, the mother, in whose eyes now dwelt that new light hitherto unknown within their depths, would gather up with a confident grasp the little thing that was all in all to them both and would insist upon calling the father's attention for the four hundredth and odd time to the many and fast multiplying beauties of the little creature, and would then be highly indignant if he did not repeat 20 times in succession the admission that it was the most beautiful and wonderful baby the world had ever produced. She would catch the infant up to her bosom and kiss its little face until it scarcely had a fair chance to breathe, and then she would lay it down again, and moving slightly away feast her eyes upon the little one's varied charms when shrouded in the heightened enchantment borrowed from distance.

It was a common enough sort of a baby after all, but then it was their baby, and they thought there had never been a baby in the world that could boast one-half the charms that were embodied in the little piece of humanity they called their own. There might be many babies who could tip the beam of the grocer's scales a pound or two more than theirs, and there might be a thousand parents who thought they had babies more beautiful than this little fellow, but this mother and father were not ready to admit the possibility of the approximate correctness even of such a line of reasoning. This was their baby, their only baby, and it was therefore the only baby on earth for them, and besides it was their valentine.—New Orleans Delta.

Melliferous P. Chubbins, Naturalist.

There is an old negro in this city who swears he has seen flies eating glass. His name is Melliferous P. Chubbins, and he lives just a little distance beyond the popcorn vender's shop. People who use the electric lights often find small holes in the glass globes, which they have to patch up with putty. This old fellow says he has seen the ordinary house fly, which often passes off for caper with boiled mutton, alight on one of these globes, cut a ridge with its serrated hind legs and then with its sawlike teeth cut clear through the glass. It then goes inside to see if the light itself is not a big lump of extra clarified sugar. He says that the fly eats the fine glass dust and considers it an excellent substitute for calomel in removing bile from the system.—Florida Times-Union.

Antiquity of Tarring and Feathering.

The practice of tarring and feathering, which we regard as essentially American, belongs, I am reminded by a note on the crusades which I made about 20 years ago, to ourselves. To us the honor of inventing or adopting that very disagreeable mode of punishment belongs. Among the laws for the preservation of order when King Richard sailed on his crusade was one that any soldier convicted of theft should have his head shaved, be stripped of his clothes, have melted pitch poured all over him, after this be covered with feathers, and so set ashore at the first land that is touched.—London Queen.

Yes, She Is From Boston.

A little 6-year-old girl, whose favorite aunt had gone away the night before, came down to breakfast quiet and sober.

"Don't you feel well, my dear?" asked her mother with tender solicitude.

"I feel well physically," was the suggestive reply.

It is hardly necessary to add that this careful line drawer is a Miss Boston.—New York Times.

"She" an American Woman.

An exchange prints the fact that the first Mrs. Rider Haggard was a Miss Carroll of Baltimore. She was divorced from the English novelist and is now living on the Pacific coast with a third husband. A further bit of information is that this initial Mrs. Haggard, nee Carroll, is the original of the writer's remarkable creation—the terrible and ageless beauty. "She who must be obeyed" is an American woman!

It Wouldn't Pay.

"The company ought to charge by weight," said the cross conductor to the 300-pound passenger who pushed into a crowded car.

"If it did," replied the latter, "it would owe me $1 every time I ride on the line for the wait I have to suffer before the car comes along."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Crumbling Walls Around Japan Cities.

Even in much changed Japan there are old cities which still retain their walls of the age of feudalism, and in the very heart of the capital the imperial palace is surrounded by the same quaint fortifications which in old troublous times made it an imperium in imperio, although the walls are crumbling, and the gates are never shut, and the moats have been abandoned to the lotus and to carp of monstrous size and fabulous age.—Chicago Herald.

Says an authority, "Don't eat the toast on which asparagus may be offered to you any more than you will eat the napkin when it appears on that article." LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try SSS. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

THE FAMOUS.

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving; ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?

There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There's lots of style about them: lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear negligee shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Don't you think it is about time to get a spring Hat?
