ATHERED BY THE REPUBLICAN'S ABLE CORPS OF CORRESPONDENTS.

PIEDMONT.

On last Thursday evening a party young people, chaperoned by rof. Stephenson and lady, drove to Piedmont Springs, took tea the hotel, and enjoyed a pleasant de home by moonlight. They ere Miss Floy Montgomery, of cksonvilie, Misses Mary Lou and nnie Moody, Miss Florence Harin, Misses Carrie and Mamie Monaan, Misses Mullins and McLeod of he Seminary, and Miss Lu Elgin; lessrs E. W. Ledbetter, T. P. Ledbetter, A. D. Alexander, T. F. Woodruff, James Palmer, Prof. Kimbrough, D. Smythe, Frank Harris, Mr. Thompson, of Chattanooga, and Clifford S. Morse, of Atlanta.

Miss Mary Glover left for Tallapoosa, Ga., last Thursday, to take charge of a music class in the High School at that place.

Miss Annie Watts, of Cleveland, Tenn., was here last week in the interest of the Centenary Female College of that place.

Miss Betsy Swafford, of Choccolocco, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Andrews, on Center Avenue.

Miss Murla Phillips, of Chattanooga, is visiting Mrs. R. C. Craig. Miss Murla is an enthusiastic cyclist, and has her wheel with her.

Miss Ida Hunt, of Cave Spring, Ga., spent a couple of days in the city last week, looking after collections.

Mr. Arthur Moody, of Birmingham, came in on Saturday for a months idleness and rest from business.

Miss Alice Caller, of the Tuskeegee Methodist College, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. W. Little.

Miss. Floy Montgomery, of Jacksonville, visited Miss Lu Elgin last week.

Mr. Sidney Sharpe, of Wildwood, Fla., is visiting relatives here. He has just finished a course in one of the business colleges of Atlanta.

Earnest Yeatman, of Selma, is up on a visit.

The Kings Daughters, of this place will give a crazy-tea at the High School building next Friday evening. The Menu is quite mysterious, but judging from the ones who are providing refreshments, we are sure the fare will be good. Music and recitations will enliven the occasion, and the proceeds are to be used in charity.

Mrs. Coleman, of Rockrun, was in the city on Monday.

The opening exercises of the Seminary on last Monday were well attended and were unusually spicy and interesting, from the short, pithy remarks made by Messrs Brewster, Brock, Alexander, and Revs. Witherspoon, Bradford and Harris. Over one hundred pupils were enrolled, and the session begins most auspiciously, with a full corps of well qualified teachers and the hearty co-operation of the town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. McBride have returned to their home in Tallapoosa, after a week spent pleasantly with relatives here.

Mr. E. E. Frizzell has moved into the house vacated by P. G. Wingo on Centre Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Bently returned to their home in Pensacola, Fla., last week, accompanied by their adopted daughter, Nannie.

Miss Josie Reed, who has been spending the summer with Mayor McClelen's family, has gone to Oakman, Ala., to take a position in the high school at that place.

A GOOD APPETITE and refreshing sleep at this season indicate a condition of bodily health. These are given by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It makes pure blood and good health follows.

SCHENCKS SPRINGS.

Mr. & Mrs B. H. Denman and Mrs. J. T. Henderson, of Jacksonville, visited the springs last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, after spending several weeks in this vicinity, returned to south-west Georgia last Monday. Mis Mattie Phillips accompanied them.

A party of ladies and gentlemen from Anniston visited the springs last Sunday.

Tilman Turner's family, after a stay of several weeks here, returned to their home in Oxford last Sunday.

Wiley Andrew and wife and Mrs. James Smith were among the visitors here Sunday.

John Dillard says that he has the best twenty acres of corn in the county.

The recent wet weather is causing cotton to rust, and the farmers have had a hard time to save fodder on account of the rain.

I notice in some sections of the county the hogs are dying. They should be fed on sorghum cane or slop regularly, as I understand both are good remedies.

I learn that Jim Landers is trying to make up an old bachelor's club, the object of which is when a member goes to get married the club pays his wedding expenses. I believe it is a good thing, though I am afraid that Jim has forgot something, as it takes two to make a match. If they will only make an amendment by insuring that I can marry, you bet I will join them.

DEARMANVILLE.

In the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. Mr. Jones, Rev. A. M. Yoe, of Oxford, filled his appointment here last Sunday. Mr. Yoe is a Calhoun county boy, son of the late John Yoe, who lived for years in Jacksonville, and grand-son of Fielding Snow, one of the pioneers of that place. Mr. Yoe will join the conference this fall, and enter regularly in the work of the Ministry.

The hegira to Texas has come suddenly to a halt. Several parties who had sold out with the view of going to the "Lone Star" State have changed their notion.

A number of the disgruntled, who were going to leave the country on account of the impending stock law have rented land for the ensuing year.

Several young ladies prepared baskets last week with the view of spending the day at the Oxford Lake with couple of Georgia Swains, whom they expected on the morning train. Like the ill fated letter, the "lovers" never came. So the aforesaid young ladies had to issue out their "Nic Nacs" to a couple of improvised escorts of this berg, on a basis of five to two. "The best laid schemes of mice and men aft gang a glee."

Many farmers are hauling out the corn that was overflowed and feeding to their hogs.

Sorghum making has begun here a most important event.

CHOCCOLOCCO.

We are having a great deal of bad weather for fodder pulling season.

A few days ago a certain young man was trying to persuade a visiting young lady to take up her abode in this valley —that is we suppose he was. He was describing the different fruits and told her that muscadines grew on the creek banks as large as his fist. She replied that that was nothing, as they grew on the other side of the county as large as her double fist. The young man wilted and left the discussion of fruits.

Some of our neighbors are having a law suit for a ten dollar debt. Yesterday was the third trial of the case and both sides had a lawyer. They are to have another trial by jury in a month, with lawyers again. It looks like it has already cost twice ten dollars, and yet they keep it up. It does look strange that people will so lose their head as to do this way. I would advise them to split the difference on debt and cost and stop this down hill business.

ALEXANDRIA.

A very interesting meeting is in progress at the Methodist church at this place, conducted by the pastor Rev. Mr. Horton.

Ross Green, after a month's rest, has returned to his work in Anniston.

Mr. George Bowling has taken charge of the gin here. They expect to do the largest business they have ever done.

Dr. W. W. Corley, of Talladega, was here for a day or two this week.

Ben Burns, after a visit to friends in our town, has returned to his home in Anniston.

Miss Mamie Williams, of Lincoln, who has been the guest of Mrs. Hannah for several weeks, has returned to her home.

Mr. Dean is an exceptionally bright and affable young man, and has made many pleasant acquaintances during his stay here.

The progressive citizens of Alexandria are charmed with the work being done by the rock crusher. It will make a good lasting road; and the history of good roads always tells of an enhancement in the value of the lands through which they run.

A certain young man of the L. & N. R. R. finds Alexandria very attractive.

WEAVERS.

The farmers and ginners are preparing for their fall work of gathering in the fleecy staple which is beginning to open.

Miss Margie Watson and brother, of White Plains, spent Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Baskins, of Coats Bendfare visting the latters parents Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Hubbard.

Mrs. Will Henderson and children have returned to Ragland after a week spent with the formers parents.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Marston went up to Jacksonville Tuesday.

Mrs. W. H. Hubbard has returned home, after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Atkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Han. Tumlin, of Davistown, spent Tuesday with Mr. Tumlin's sister Mrs. John Adair.

Mrs. D. T. Young, who has been quite sick is improving.

Mrs. Hinds and daughter, of Chattanooa, are visiting the family of Mr. Robt. McGhee.

Mr. D. D. Weaver went over to Gadsden last week to accept a position in the L. & N. office.

Two good protracted meetings near here closed last Sunday. One at the Baptist church (Antioch) and the other at the Methodist church (Four Mile). A goodly number were added to both churches, as a result of these meetings.

MORRISVILLE.

Farmers are troubled about the wet weather because they cannot save their fodder.

The protracted meeting at New Bethel closed last Saturday night. There were several additions to the church.

J. H. Johnston, of Eastaboga, visited his brother in law, Horner Reid, of Morrisville, last Sunday.

Dr. R. G. Ragan, of Alexandria, was here last Saturday, taking out old teeth and putting in new ones.

Messrs. R. F. Wilson and E. A. Womack, the the champion check players of Egypt, were in town today.

J. W. Ford is having himself a nice dwelling house built near Shady Glenn Academy. W. F. Morris is the contractor and builder.

The stock law fever seems to have a firm hold on some of our citizens, while others have been stricken with great objections.

J. W. Wilkes, of Dry Tuck, is seriously sick. He has epileptic fits every few days.

MINK.

The health of this community is good.

Elders. J. W. Smyly is up and out again after quite a long illness.

Prof. L. D. Miller visited our school last Friday and delivered an interesting lecture to the pupils and a few of the patrons that had come out to hear him. We trust that his efforts will aid in building up the school. Mr. Miller is a painstaking, faithful official. He is doing much good in the cause of education, and is the right man in the right place.

P. D. Phillips and family, of south Georgia, were visiting friends and relatives in this community a few days since. They leave for their home on next Monday.

Mrs. Eliza Doss was in Mink, on business, last Saturday.

Elder Joe Holden baptized eight more at New Liberty last Sunday. This makes twenty-two new members by baptism.

Since our last C. A. J. Hollingsworth has been on an extended prospecting tour of Talladega county.

Foddering is the order of the day but the weather is very unfavorable for such work.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Nance were among their many friends in this community last Sunday.

Misses Pie and Fernanda Rhodes have returned from an extended visit to friends in Choccolocco.

Mrs. Nannie Powers, of Atlanta, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. E. White.

The Jacksonville REPUBLICAN is a most welcome visitor to our office. We hope to send in more new subscribers soon.

FERGUSONVILLE.

The camp meeting is the topic of the day. F. W. Foster has his tent nearly completed. There are many places staked off for tents, and Mc. Eachern, Simpson and Emerson are hauling lumber and working on their tents.

C. F. Simpson and lady, J. M. Loyd and lady, G. W. S. Loyd and family, visited Fergusonville last Sunday.

Hon. E. M. Reid, of Morrisville, was in our town this week.

Clarence Weathers, of Anniston, is out here among his friends this week.

The frequent showers of rain have damaged early fodder very much.

Cotton crop is late, and there is some rust on it.

BRUNER.

Our farmers have had a hard time saving fodder and hay, and it is still raining, with no prospects of good weather.

Mrs. Thrift is still improving.

There is some sickness near Francis. H. A. Daniel, his wife and two of their children are sick with bilious fever. Dr. Brothers was to see them to-day.

The sorghum mills have started out, and there is a great deal of cane to work up.

Some cotton is opening in our settlement.

The Bruner school is progressing finely. A large bell has recently been purchased for the school building. The average attendance is forty-five.

R. H. McCain, of Bruner, left this morning for Albertville, Marshall county. He is looking for a location and hopes to find it in some thriving little town. Success to him.

ADVERTISER, DROP YOUR EYE HERE!

The Jacksonville Republican was established in 1837, and for years has been the best advertising medium in north-east Alabama.

It is the official journal of Calhoun,—a county which ranks among the wealthiest in Alabama,—a county which has rich farming lands, fine water powers, marvelous deposits of iron, manganese, bauxite, kaolin, and a climate which has no superior on earth,—a county which is populated by a people able to make purchases and with whom it pays to advertise.

The Republican is THE paper to reach the people of this section. It has a guaranteed circulation in Calhoun larger than any other paper, and gives advertisers better returns than any paper in its section.

If you want to place your advertisement where it will pay, send it to the Republican.

LADIGA.

We are having some sickness in this community just now—mostly chills.

Mrs. D. C. Graham has been confined to her room several days. Glad to state she is improving.

A son of Davis Stewart, of Goshen, was found dead in bed by the family Monday morning. He had been suffering for some time with diabetis, and had recently returned from Atlanta where he went for medical treatment. The family have the sympathies of the entire community.

Mrs. W. E. Smith visited relatives in this place last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray, of New Goshen, visited friends and relatives here last Sunday.

Mr. W. E. Smith, road contractor for this beat, has been doing good work on the Rome and Jacksonville road, at this point, for the past week.

John and Nina Graham entered school at the C. P. Seminary, at Piedmont, Monday.

Jno. C. Graham and daughter Miss Nina, visited Rome last week.

Will Raburn, who is at work at Merrelton, visited his father's family at this place last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. L. J. Gregory, of near Summerville, Ga., paid us a visit last week with a view of locating in our section. We hope he will decide to come as he is a good man and we welcome all such.

Miss Addie Hammond, of your city, who is at present teaching the school at Becknell, in company with Mrs. Geo. Stewart, passed through our burg Saturday on a visit to Piedmont.

BERA.

Protracted meetings are the order of the day throughout this part of the county, and we hope that much good is being done. The union meeting began at Eulaton church last Saturday. The meeting at New Bethel church closed last Saturday with three additions by baptism. Much interest in the meeting was manifested by the people.

Mrs. C. E. Cheatwood, of Floyd county, Ga., is visiting her mother, Mrs. N. J. Waddle, this week.

Misses Bettie and Della Waddle, and Sallie Stephens visited Misses Sallie and Maggie Haynie last week.

Prof. P. I. Stovall's school at New Bethel closed last week, and he has returned to his home at Francis. He will be greatly missed in social and musical circles here. He was an excellent teacher and gained many friends while at this place.

The health of this community is not very good, though there are no special cases of sickness.

G. H. Haynie went over to the city of Anniston last week.

Esq. Haynie is holding court this (Tuesday) morning. Prisoners are charged with burglary.

W. H. Defreese was in Bera Tuesday.

F. B. Gordon, member of the firm of J. Kyle & Co., Columbus Ga., is in town for a few days. Mr. Gordon is an ex-Bostonian who often refers to himself as a reconstructed yankee. He has made his home in the south and never tires of singing her praises, and picturing her brilliant future to his northern and eastern acquaintances and friends.

ALABAMA CROPS.

Cotton Shows Some Improvement But the Condition is Not at All Satisfactory.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 2.—The week has been warm, with frequent showers and a deficiency of sunshine, with a general rain on the 27, which was at some points heavy. Cotton shows a slight improvement but its condition is not at all satisfactory. Boll worms are numerous and are damaging the crop. The continued moisture causes a continuation of rust and rot, and the plant is making to much stalk. Sunshine would greatly benefit the cotton crop. The bolls are opening slowly. Picking is progressing as the weather permits, and will be general the coming week.

The general condition of corn is the same as last week. Late corn was benefitted by the recent rains. Fodder gathering is progressing rapidly. Sorghum harvesting continues and syrup making is in full blast.

F. P. CHAFFE,
Director of Alabama State Weather Service.

Farmers Camp Meeting.

At a meeting of the Calhoun County Farmers Alliance in July a committee was appointed to select a place for holding a farmers camp meeting and also to arrange a program for said meeting.

The committee has selected Schencks Sulphur Springs as the place and the 19th and 20th of September (Thursday and Friday) as the time.

The first day will be devoted to to the discussion of such subjects as stock raising, fertilizers, improvement of soils &c.

The discussion will be continued on the second day of the meeting and special attention will be paid to a discussion of the cause of the depression in agriculture, and to the best methods of organization for their mutual benefit.

Those who have stock, or farming implements which they wish to exhibit are requested to bring them to the meeting. All farmers are invited to attend and participate in the meeting. Everybody will be welcomed to the meeting.

Kisses for the Church.

From the Madison Advertiser.

At an entertainment given for the benefit of the Methodist church of Moultrie, Ga., a few nights ago, the prettiest young ladies of the town arrayed themselves in their best costumes and sold kisses to the boys for ten cents apiece. "As a natural consequence," says the Albany Herald, "the church debt has been paid in full, a nice surplus left and the young men of Moultrie are bankrupt. This new and practical osculatory exercise may be all right, but it must strike the average reader that the Moultrie girls have made a big mistake. A kiss that isn't worth five times as much as a pound of cotton isn't worth having. Ten cents is a regular bargain counter price and should never have been set.

This kind of caper for relief of a church debt may spread. It may become a fad, and if it does and strikes Madison, the young ladies of Moultrie will be shown a thing or two. In the first place the "kissables" will be classified just as cotton is. Sixteen-yearolds will be worth something like $5 a smack, and so on up in age until the old maid class is reached. Those in this class will have to hustle for themselves, that's all.

If every man will do his duty towards the normal school here, its opening next month will be the largest it has had since the school was established. Let us all go to work and see how many boarders we can bring here for the opening of the school.

Those who have houses to let would do well to leave their names at the REPUBLICAN office. The demand for dwelling houses is greater than has been known here for a number of years. Every week we have applications by those who wish to come here to place their children in school.

CARLISLE IN THE RACE.

Mrs. Carlisle Lets Out the Fact That Her Husband Will Be a Candidate For President.

NASHVILLE, Sept. 1.—A special from Clarksville says that Mrs. Carlisle has written to a friend in Christian county, Kentucky, that Secretary Carlisle is a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, and will have his name placed before the party as the present administration favorite. Further than a general statement that this is true none of the communication's details are given, except that such prospective candidacy is the reason for Secretary Carlisle's support of Nominee Hardin in Kentucky, along with the assistance of all the administration forces.

Grubbs On Petticoats.

May the good Lord wind up the affairs of this world before the day dawns when men, in petticoats, shall feed the babe with a bottle, while the mother, in pants attend the convention or work the road.—Decatur News.

Imagine Brother Grubbs in petticoats and balloon sleeves with a baby and a bottle! It would scare the infant into convulsions.—Huntsville Tribune.

We never expected to live to see the day when the Montgomery Advertise would come out in favor of bloomers and Dr. Grubbs would go back on petticoats in any shape. Is the millennium approaching?—Selma Times.

The REPUBLICAN tenders its thanks to Hon. Wm. M. Robbins, of North Carolina, a member of the commission appointed to locate the corps engaments on the field of Gettysburg, for a large photograph of the stone wall and surroundings, where Law's brigade—4th 15th, 44th, 47th, 48th Alabama Infantry lost 550 men out of 1400 engaged in the two days fighting at Gettysburg.

The scene is a very attractive one. In the fore ground stands the wall of rock, and just behind it is a growth of trees, which have evidently grown up since the day when grape and cannister, and parrot shells and musket balls, in a perfect avalanche, swept men and beast and vegetation from the face of the earth. Looking through the trees one sees the valleys and hills of Pennsylvania stretching out in a beautiful landscape beyond.

C. S. A.
Law's Brigade
4th, 15th, 44th, 47th 48th Alabama, Infantry.

July 2 1863, left New Guilford at 3 A. M. arrived and formed line of battle 50 yards west of this at 4 P. M. and advanced against the Union position on Little Round Top. The assault, though vigorous was unsuccessful ending after nightfall.

July 3 on the slopes of Round Top at the line marked there except the 4th and 15th regiments aided in repulsing the Union cavalry commanded by Brig. Gen. Farnsworth. 8 P. M. the Brigade resumed its original position.

July 5 about 5 A. M. began the march in retreat. Present in battle about 1400. Loss about 550.

Not a human being is to be seen in the picture, and it is difficult for those who were not actors on that dreadful battle ground, to people it now with fighting, and dying and dead infantry and cavalrymen. But not a single confederate veteran who was there could remember it in any other way.

The outlook for the opening of of the State Normal School here is unprecedentedly bright. A number of families from the country are arranging to move in to get the benefit of the school. Rents here are low, and with free tuition, almost any family can afford to move here to get the advantages of the school.

We learn that there is considerable excitement in Cherokee county over the rebuilding of the court house. A majority of the voters have petitioned the commissioners not to rebuild at Centre until the question of location between Centre and Cedar Bluff is decided by a vote of the people.

With The State Press.

Anticipating attacks upon Mr. Herbert, when he comes to speak in Alabama, the Mobile Register exclaims: "Oh, shame, where is thy blush. After paying a beautiful and deserved tribute to Mr. Herbert, the Register says:

"Nevertheless, there will not be lacking persons who will misrepresent him and even villify him, and, with shame be it said, these persons are Alabamians.

And all this in behalf of Mr. Herbert, when the Register remained silent while the vilest and most senseless atacks were being made upon Senator Morgan, who was also invited to Montgomery to speak and "is an Alabamian and a democrat," just as Secretary Herbert. It was all right with the Register to abuse and villify and slander Senator Morgan when "invited to Alabama to speak" but a great outrage to treat Herbert in the same manner. Not only was Senator Morgan villified and misrepresented at home, but an outrageous lie was sent to the Associated Press, a great news agency of which the Register is a member, and which was used to wreck private vengence and vent personal spleen. The Register remained silent then, and it is silent still.—Montgomery Journal.

Capt. Joseph F. Johnston made a fine silver speech at Linden on the 24th. Marengo is solid for Johnston.—Sumpter County Sun.

Governor Oates as late as 1894 said there were only a few cranks who thought the business of the world could be conducted on a gold basis.—State.

The Advertiser say it advocated the free coinage of silver for twenty years without ever having studied the question. Hereafter will not our esteemed contemporary inform a confiding public when it's opinions are liable to be modified by "study?"—Daily State.

Every objection now made to the equal coinage of both silver and gold has been proven untrue in the past. 1. The parity cannot be maintained. It was until silver was demonetized. 2. The country will be flooded with money. It was not under free coinage. 3. Gold will leave the country. It did not. 4. It will go out of circulation. It did not. 5. It will ruin commerce. It built it up. 6. It will be a depreciated dollar. It was not. Experience proves every charge made against silver untrue, and the advocates of the single standard have only speculations to present that are overwhelmed by the facts of history.—State.

The Birmingham State learns that Gen. George P. Harrison, now favors passing a free coinage bill to take effect in one year and to appoint a commission to fix the ratio ten days before the law goes into effect. Whenever the owners of silver bullion get within ten days of free coinage silver bullion will be worth $1.39 per ounce. It is significant, however, that the gold standard leaders are weakening all along the line.—Clayton Courier.

The Huntsville Tribune jumps on Gov. Oates for going off to eastern resorts instead of patronizing Alabama resorts, and says the Governor goes there for the purpose of being near the money markets, so he can keep up the credit of the state. The Governor has got the money and he pleases to spend the heated term. If he prefers the society of these folks up there to plain Alabama people, you ought not to jump on him about it.—Selma Times.

A young man of this city was arrested, charged with kissing a young lady against her will on the public highway. The prisoner pleaded that she was in bloomers, and he mistook her for his long lost brother. The magistrate discharged him, and it said our tradesmen can now scarcely supply the demand for bicycles and bloomers.—Decatur Herald.

One of the most successful revivals that has been held in the county in quite a while closed at Four Mile church on last Sabbath. Rev. J. O. Horton was assisted by Rev. F. M. Treadaway. Twenty-two members were added to the church. Mr. Horton went from Four Mile to Alexandria, where he, and Mr. Treadaway began a protracted meeting.

At a conference of the Baptist church here last Sunday morning, Dr. Wright, of Oxford, was elected as pastor for the ensueing year.

The Republican.

Official Journal of Calhoun County.

AYERS & CROOK, Proprietors.

AYERS & CROOK, Editors and Publishers.

Entered at the post office at Jacksonville, Ala., as second class matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Established in 1837, is the OFFICIAL JOURNAL of Calhoun, one of the largest and wealthiest counties in Alabama, and in which are located the towns of Jacksonville, Anniston, Oxford, Oxanna and Piedmont.

CIRCULATION.

It has a larger guaranteed county circulation in Calhoun than any other paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The subscribers of the REPUBLICAN are the best people in the county,—a class of people with whom it pays to advertise. Than it there is no better advertising medium in this section of Alabama.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Gen. E. W. Pettus.

The Selma Times nominates the distinguished gentleman whose name heads this article as a suitable person to succeed Senator Pugh in the United States Senate.

The Times says Gen. Pettus is not a candidate, but suggests that it would be a nice thing on the part of the Democracy of Alabama to show its appreciation of the very valuable service which this grand old Roman has rendered his country both in times of war and times of peace, by electing him to the United States Senate.

We fully agree with the Times in holding that Gen. Pettus is worthy of any gift in the hands of the people of Alabama. He has never asked an office, and if he will only express a desire now to go to the senate there will go up all over Alabama such a hurrah of enthusiasm for him as will insure his election over any gold standard man who will enter the race.

Gen. Pettus is an old style Democrat. He has none of the new fangled John Sherman frills on the borders of his democracy. He is such a Democrat as was Thomas Jefferson, and is as greatly beloved by the people of Alabama as was ever any man.

Talk about bringing forward any man because party success demands it, here is a man whose candidacy would probably be worth more to the party than any other man in the state, and we heartily second the nomination of the Selma Times to do all possible to have his name placed before the people as the proper man to succeed Senator Pugh.

Duty of the Democratic Party.

No man who feels an interest in the success of the Democratic party and who has recently been among the people of the country, can fail to realize the importance of nominating for the different offices in Alabama next year men who are in line with the people of the state upon the great public question now before them.

Heretofore in Alabama the nomination of a candidate by a democratic convention was an assurance that he would receive the support of all Democrats, irrespective of his views on finance, tariff, or other important measures. To an extent this is yet true, but by no means to the extent which has existed heretofore, and it is important that we as Democrats realize the changed conditions which now exist. Go among the people where you will, and you will hear expressions from men who have never failed to vote the democratic ticket similar to these. "Hereafter I propose to vote as I please." "You can nominate by as many conventions as you please men who are on the wrong side of measures which are of importance to the prosperity of this country, but I shall not vote for them." These expressions are not confined to the people of Alabama, but there is a disposition on the part of the people in all the states to hereafter vote for men and measures, and not be bound by the ties of party.

So far as the south is concerned, we believe this indifference to party fealty is a mistake, for we do not believe the time has yet arrived when the south can trust her interests in the hands of any other than the democratic party. But there is no question but the time is at hand when the democratic party in a state must exercise the greatest discretion in the selection of its candidates or it will certainly meet with defeat in the next general election.

Jacksonville on Finance.

A short time since we made mention in the columns of the REPUBLICAN that an effort was being made on the part of certain individuals to create a prejudice against Jacksonville on what was reported to be her position on the question of finance. We have recently been informed that a gentleman who lives in the southern portion of the county who is supposed to know the position of the people of Jacksonville on public questions, has been set apart as the man to post the people as to how Jacksonville stands on the free and unlimited coinage of silver. That the said informer will any time walk considerably out of his way to inform a silver man from the country that Jacksonville is the worst goldbug town in Alabama. Not satisfied with this information, he will remind his country friends that no one is surprised, however, at Jacksonville being against the free coinage of silver, as she never fails to oppose any measure which is calculated to benefit the country people.

Why this interest in Jacksonville's position on the silver question? It is for no other purpose than to prejudice the country people against Jacksonville. It is known that the people of this county, outside of the towns, are practically solid for the free coinage of silver, and by playing on their prejudices it is expected to make votes in favor of the removal of the court house. But fortunately, the people of this county are not to be caught with any such chaff. They know the court house and silver questions to be separate and distinct issues, and that one has nothing to do with the other.

But the statement of facts are not true. Instead of Jacksonville being practically solid for the gold standard, a good majority of the voters in the Jacksonville beat are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

The statement that Jacksonville never fails to oppose whatever measures that are to the interest of the country people, is too absurd to justify a denial. There is no other town in the county which is so absolutely dependent upon the agricultural trade as is Jacksonville and whatever benefits the farmer, is necessarily to her interest, and people are not given to doing things which work an injury to themselves.

One thing Jacksonville can say, she has no newspaper which is laboring from day to day to change the people of this county from favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver to John Sherman's single gold standard. Neither has she attempted to destroy the effect of the speech of any prominent free silver speaker who has come into the county by placing one of her own citizens up to plead for the single gold standard.

We are opposed to dragging the financial question into the local fight in this county, but if it must be brought we have in store some expressions which were applauded very enthusiastically by prominent gentlemen of a certain locality during a joint discussion on the financial question a short time since, which will make very interesting reading matter for the free silver men in this county.

IF the gold standard men succeed in retiring the $360,000,000 greenbacks now in circulation, what do they propose to give in place of it? The answer comes, what did they give in place of the silver coined under the Sherman bill? They gave nothing to take the place of $54,500,000 which was being coined monthly under the Sherman bill, neither will they furnish anything to take the place of the greenbacks.

Theirs is a policy of contraction, and they propose to continue to favor such legislation as will increase the purchasing power of the dollar, and lessen the value of all property and products.

THE campaign in Kentucky has presented some unique incidents, none of which are more ridiculously amusing than that of Mr. Bradley, the republican, making a plea to the democrats to stand by Cleveland and Carlisle. Is this a case of the lion and the lamb walking together, or is it rather the flocking of birds of one feather? The democrats of Kentucky take the latter view of it.

EDITOR HENRY WATTERSON goes to Europe and leaves his great paper, the Courier Journal, muzzled, when the democrats of Kentucky so much need its assistance. The gallant American poker playing editor will be cordially received in Merrie England by "His Nibs" and associates, and it may be possible that he can be allowed away in Parliament alongside of Henry M. Stanley. There will be no tears of sorrow over here.

Judge Richardson For Free Coinage.

Rapidly the leading men of Alabama are publicly declaring themselves in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Until recently no public declaration had been made by Judge Richardson, of Huntsville, on the silver question, but in answer to a letter of inquiry he puts himself on record in the following letter which cannot be misunderstood:

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 29, 1895.

Hon. J. E. Brown Scottsboro, Ala.

Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of your favor of 23d instant inviting me to express my views in your paper—"The Progressive Age" on the silver question.

I have no hesitancy in acceding to your very kind request.

I am in the true and full meaning of the term a bimetallist, and hence am opposed to making gold alone the primary and redemption money of our country. I confess that I do not understand how the true and fair commercial value of silver as compared with gold can be ascertained as long as gold is allowed and silver denied free and unlimited coinage at our mints. Hence you have properly classed me among those democrats who believe that the silver dollar should be restored to the mintage rights that it had when demonetized in 1873 at the ratio of 16 to 1.

In my humble opinion the best interests and permanent prosperity of the people of this country demand this.

It is manifest that the financial issue promises to create an earnest and vigorous contest in the ranks of our party.

Such a contest should be tempered with prudence and judgement and should not affect our allegiance to or jeopardize the triumph of the democracy. As a democrat, I earnestly believe that in the advocacy of the free, independent and unlimited coinage of silver we but faithfully follow democratic precedents and the teachings of the wisest and ablest statesmen and patriots of our party.

The lines of demarkation between those who follow the "gold standard" and those who favor the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver are clearly and distinctly drawn, and I shall not at this time undertake to present more fully such views as I have.

I will gladly co-operate with you and other friends in your efforts to have this important and vital question fairly submitted for the consideration of the people of our section.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM RICHARDSON.

Judge Richardson is a man of great influence in north Alabama, as was shown in his candidacy for Governor in Alabama in 1890 when he carried every county in his congressional district, and his influence will be worth much in the fight for the free and unlimited coinage of silver in his section of the state.

As there have been some doubts in minds of the cuckoos as to the meaning of that plank in the platform of 1892 which discountenanced the control of the state conventions by federal agencies, we deem it not improper to give the following paragraph from Mr. Cleveland's letter accepting the nomination on that platform. It is as follows:—

The administration and management of our Government depend upon popular will. Federal power is the instrument of that will—not its matter. Therefore the attempt of the opponents of Democracy to interfere with and control the suffrage of the States through federal agencies, develops a design, which no explanation can mitigate, to reverse the fundamental and safe relations between the people and their government. Such an attempt cannot fail to be regarded by thoughtful men as proof of a bold determination to secure the ascendancy of a discredited party in reckless disregard of a free expression of the popular will. To resist such a scheme is an impulse of Democracy. At all times in all places we trust the people. As against a disposition to force the way to federal power we present to them as our claim to their confidence and support, a steady championship of their rights.

Some wily cuckoo will now say that this letter refers to such attempts when made by the enemies of Democracy, and, in as much as not one word is said about a democratic president, Mr. Cleveland's course in Kentucky, Iowa, Ohio, Mississippi and Texas has been quite in accord with the declarations in this letter.

One thing can be truly said, and it is this: That though it be an impulse of Democracy to resist such a scheme, it evidently is no impulse with Mr. Grover Cleveland.

HARDIN, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Kentucky, goes boldly on with his canvass advocating the free and unlimited coinage of silver. His fearless advocacy of the rights of the people has clearly knocked out Bradley, the Republican gold bug nominee, and he has declined to meet Gen. Hardin in joint discussion for appointments which they had already made. Really, it seems that it doesn't take a single gold standard man long to get tired of meeting in joint debate an advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

In the Line of Remedy.

The banks having suspended gold payments without meeting with any serious criticism from the subsidized goldbug newspapers, what is to prevent the treasury from suspending gold payments for a time long enough to convince all concerned that the law which says that the greenbacks shall be redeemed in coin, and not in gold alone is a good one?

It must be perfectly clear even to the eastern contingent that the greenbacks cannot and will not be retired. It must be perfectly clear to them, too, that the administration cannot go on selling bonds for gold and running the people deeper and deeper into debt. It must also be perfectly clear that the banks do not propose, at this day and hour, to come to the relief of the treasury and furnish gold for export; and for a very good reason. They have no gold to spare.

Mr. Carlisle's underlings, drawing on their imagination, have left it to be understood that our stock of available gold amounts to about $600,000,000. The fact is that our only available stock of gold is that which belongs to the treasury reserve, supplemented by such amounts as the Rothschilds syndicate can command from time to time. The banks having suspended gold payments, the stock they have on hand cannot be regarded as available except for the purchase of government bonds, or for such premium as the syndicate can afford to pay.

There must be an end to this business. There must be an end to the treasury receivership. There must come a day, and that shortly, when even the syndicate cannot afford to put up gold to be carted off.

There must be an end to the bond business. The people will not tolerate it. There must be an end, in short, to the financial mismanagement that has disgraced the Cleveland administration and well nigh ruined the democratic party.

The whole trouble grows out of a plain violation of the law. When the law is once more carried out we shall no longer have the ruinous dislocation of the currency that now exists. The law says that the treasury notes and greenbacks are payable, not in gold, but in coin, which is either gold or silver.

That is the law, and it is only necessary to carry out the law to stop the drain of gold and restore our currency system to what it was when people were receiving fair prices for the products of their labor.

Pay out silver as well as gold, coin the silver bullion in the treasury and use the seigniorage and there will neither be a drain on the gold reserve nor a deficit in the treasury.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE New Woman, is placing herself on exhibition in various ways. Only a week or more ago, a Mrs. Noe, in an Arkansas town, was arrested for scandalizing herself and the town by wearing bloomers on the streets. The learned judge on hearing the evidence, rendered a decision in which he said that the wearing of bloomers was a God-given right to lovely woman, and that no man had the right to interfere, molest or make afraid. No one has taken the trouble to ask where the judge got his law—whether he knew it or guessed at it—but it is to be adopted as the law, not only of Arkansas, but of "the land, and the "fair demoiselles" who prefer the immodest bloomer to the neat and more attractive skirt are at liberty to wear them to their hearts content. The fact is, if letters patent are not speedily taken out by the male population on breeches, these new women will soon be deiked out in them also.

LABOR DAY was celebrated on Monday, the 2nd., in all of the larger cities of the United States. The observance of this holiday has come to be of as great importance and affords as much pleasure as does the celebration of the Fourth of July. It is proper that it should be so. Upon the Fourth we celebrate the declaration of our independance of Great Britain and her oppression. On Labor Day we congratulate ourselves on having so large a part of our population composed of free and independent laboring men, who have done so much, and are ready to do still more to preserve that independence bought by the blood of American patriots.

May God grant that this day be forever, in the history of our country, observed, and by men who are free indeed.

Terrible Misery

Helpless With Rheumatism and Without Appetite

Tired Feeling and Pains Dispelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was in terrible misery with rheumatism in my hips and lower limbs. I read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I thought I would try it and see if it would relieve me. When I commenced I could not sit up nor even turn over in bed without help. One bottle of Hood's Relieved Me so much that I was soon out of bed and could walk. I had also felt weak and tired all the time; could not sleep, and obtained so little rest at night that I felt all worn out in the morning. I had no appetite to eat anything, but Hood's Hood's Pills cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, sick headache, indigestion.

JUDGE LOGAN E. BLECKLEY, Ex-Chief Justice of the supreme court of Georgia, has abandoned the law, and will devote himself to literary work. Judge Bleckley has long been known as one of the brainiest men of his state and has twice held the position of chief justice. He has always been a student of science, literature and art. His career after parting with the law which had been for forty years his mistress, will be eagerly watched. It is safe to say that his contributions to Georgia literature will be valuable ones, and it may be that his course will lend a new impetus to literary work in that state.

Not Enough.

Liver pills have their good and bad side. They cleanse the bowels and clean out the system, but they leave the patient weak, exhausted and unstrung, with no appetite and no strength.

If you were to go to a physician he would tell you that your liver pills were all right but that they did not go far enough. You need something else to restore the appetite, repair the waste, purify the blood and build up the system. He would give you a tonic.

We supply you with the regular physician's medicine for an entire treatment of nearly three weeks. There is one small case of ten of the Liver Pills (the finest in existence) and there is another box containing fifteen of the Tonic Pellets. You get them both for 25c. Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills and Ramon's Tonic Pellets. Together they make a sure treatment for Constipation and Biliousness.

At all dealers, or mail, for 25c., 5 boxes $1.00.

IT is now said that the sage of "Grandpa's hat" will not be a candidate for the republican nomination for President. His hopes evaporated when Boss Quay won Pennsylvania. Nobody has heard or dared to say, however, that our Buzzard Bay friend would not be found in the fight with a third term pennant flying above his head.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Cailloutte, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with LaGrippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at W. B. Abery's drug store. 2

EDITOR WATTERSON ought to don Knickerbockers and learn to play "golf" while he is in England. He will appear more "at himself" than when using his pen to mislead democratic voters, and prevent their support of democratic principles. He might make a good "golfer." He is a miserably poor Sherman democrat.

THE campaign in the tenth Georgia district is on. Black has completely disarmed Watson. It is true that the latter is still crying "fraud," but the resignation of Black in order to stand for a re-election under such conditions as fraud could be imputed to neither side, makes the rantings of Thomas Watson even more tiresome than a thrice told tale.

Notice.

I wish to call the attention of the farmers of Calhoun county that I am still selling the Hattie Clide subsoil Clodless Turning Plow.

This plow is the best plow now in use. It is the best because you get the depth without turning up the clay or subsoil. It raises the clay, pulverizing it and drops it back in the furrow.

The Hattie Clide Plow comes in the reach of every farmer to subsoil his land from 5 to 7 inches deep in gray land and from 4 to 6 inches in red land without exposing the clay to the sun and air.

If you expose the clay to the sun and air you lose a certain per cent of the productive qualities of your land, and by using this plow you can avoid this loss entirely, from the fact that the plow has a five inch slot in the wing that lets the clay pass through and falls back into the furrow and turnes the soil on top of the ground only. The subsoil is rich in plant food—phosphiate of lime, potash, ammonia and iron, which lie dormant and useless until the subsoil is broken and mellowed by the chemical effect of the air. This subsoil should not be exposed to the surface because the sun and air evaporates and destroys the properties.

By the use of H. C. plow your crop will not suffer from a five or six weeks drouth. Because in subsoiling your land in the fall, winter or spring, you are then laying in water to make your crop with next summer; for by subsoiling or deep plowing the water penetrates the ground thoroughly.

The H. C. Plow is a steel plow easily kept up. It is not like other plows, have to lay it aside when you have your land prepared, but you cultivate your crop with it up to the second plowing. By the use of the H. C. plow you will make from one-fourth to one-third more than you will with the ordinary plow, unless you subsoil, and if you subsoil with the old method it will cost you the expense of 4 mules and 2 hands to get 8 inches, where the H. C. Plow will get 8 inches with but 2 mules and one hand. I refer you to the following named parties who have been using the H. C. plows:

From Wall Street to Newgate

BY AUSTIN BIDWELL.

ure, I bought exchange on New York for $80,000, and left the same night for London. Very many times I journeyed over that route in after years, but never with quite so light a heart. I was young and enthusiastic; all the glamour and poetry of life hung around me, while I was too inexperienced to notice whither I was drifting or to understand the powerful current upon which I had embarked. In fact, I had sold myself to do the devil's work, and day by day the chain would tighten, while all the time I thought I could when I pleased stop short on the downward grade and take the back track. More experience would have taught me that every one who forcook the path of honor not only thought the same, but had a purpose to even everything up some day and make restitution. And today there is not a criminal but who at the start looks forward to the time when he will no longer war against society, but will go out and come in at peace with all men. But, when one comes to think of it, what a fool's game is that of a man who fights against society!

The criminal has but two arms, very short and weak they are, and of flesh too. He has but two eyes that cannot possibly see around the nearest corner, while society has a million arms of steel that can reach around the world, and a million eyes which are never closed, that can pierce the thickest gloom with sleepless vigilance. The poor, unhappy criminal by fortunate dexterity may escape for a little, but at last society lays her iron grasp on him, and with giant force hurls him into a dungeon. As for the short lived, tempestuous success that some few criminals have, is there any sweetness in it? I say no; success won in honest fight is sweet, but I know from my own experience that the success of crime brings no sweetness, no blessing with it, but leaves the mind a prey to a thousand haunting fears that make shipwreck of peace.

I went down to Liverpool and embarked on the good ship Java. Ten days later we sailed through the Narrows.

During my last day in London I went to Westminster abbey and spent three hours in that Valhalla of the Anglo-Saxon race. It made a tremendous impression upon my mind. In no other work of human hands do the spirits of so many departed heroes linger, certainly in no other does the dust of so many of the great dead rest, and as I read memorial upon memorial to departed greatness I realized that the path of honor and of truth was the only one for men to tread.

All through the voyage the influences of the abbey were upon me; I felt I was treading on dangerous ground and resolved I would have no more of it. Would I had then resolved, when I met Irving & Co., to throw all the plunder in their faces and say, "I'll have none of it, and here we part." I felt that I ought to do that, but weakly said, I need the $10,000, and I'll give the rogues their share and then see them no more. I had fully made up my mind to that, knowing Irving would be on the wharf eager to meet me.

In sailing through the Narrows and past Staten Island I was making up my mind as to the little speech I would make. We rapidly neared the wharf in Jersey City, and I quickly recognized Irving standing on the edge of the closely packed crowd, watching the steamer with a nervous look on his face.

He sprang on board, rushed to me with a beaming face, grasped my hand, and putting the other on my shoulder led me toward the gangway. He had not spoken yet, but as we were going down the gangplank he said, "My boy, you have done splendidly," and then, putting his mouth close to my ear, whispered, "We have got another job for you, and it's a beauty!"

Going up the wharf with Irving, I was on the point of telling him I wanted no more jobs, but weakly put it off, and by so doing, of course, made it more difficult. He told me Stanley and White were waiting at Taylor's hotel on Montgomery street, a few doors up from the wharf.

We soon were there, and they gave me a warm and even enthusiastic reception, and, opening a box, I produced the 16 bills of exchange for $5,000 each, informing them they should have their cash in 20 minutes. It was curious to see these men handle the bills of exchange, passing them from one to another, examining them with anxious care. But where were my good resolutions and what had become of them? Why, they, under the effect of the wine and the magnetic influence of these three minds, had gone flying down the bay, and under a favoring gale were fast speeding seaward beyond the ken of mortal eye, not to be found by me again until years after, when, with the toils about me, I found myself in Newgate. Then the fugitives all came back, this time to stay.

My three graces who adorned the police department of New York were full of matter of a new enterprise which by my co-operation was to make the fortunes of us all. But they were too evidently anxious, too eagerly desirous to handle the greenbacks my bills of exchange represented to fix their minds upon anything else, so by a unanimous vote we adjourned to the other side of the river, appointing a wineroom on Broadway, a few doors below Exchange place, for our place of meeting at 1 o'clock. Stanley and White went away together, but first each once more told me privately that he depended upon me to put in his own hands his share, showing how these rogues suspected each other and indeed were full of suspicions of every one and everything. Irving crossed the ferry with me, but on the New York side he dropped behind, and, although I paid no more attention to him, no doubt he followed me. The excitement of success and of being at home again banished any possible regrets or fears over the course I had entered, and with a light heart and buoyant step I quickly made my way to a friend of mine, a well known broker in New street, shook hands with him, and, telling him, very much to his surprise, that I had just returned from Europe, asked him to step around the corner to the office of the bankers and identify me.

In a minute we were there. Indorsing the drafts, I told them to make it in one hundreds. They remarked to me that they were not in the habit of cashing drafts for such large amounts, but as I was well known to them, and as I was speedily on my way to our rendezvous with 160 $500 greenbacks in a roll, and meeting the three at the wineroom I made their eyes grow big when I flashed the roll on their delighted orbs. The division was speedily made, I retaining $10,000 for my share, but I was dissatisfied with my share and told them so, when each promptly threw out $1,000, and we shook hands all around.

Here were four conspirators of us, and it was comical to see how anxious we all were to get away so that each could stow his plunder in a safe place. For my part I went home, but I shall say nothing of the meeting with the members of my family. I told them I had made a lot of money in a speculation, and not knowing the inside history or suspecting anything they rejoiced with me and were proud and happy for their boy. I spent about $1,000 making things comfortable for them, but to their grief I told them that circumstances required me to take up my former quarters at the St. Nicholas.

It would be interesting to tell of my reception among my acquaintances on Wall street and other parts of the city. Rumor magnified my resources, and it was reported I had cleared $100,000 in some fortunate deal. It was strange to see the new found deference all around, from my former employers down to my old waiter at down town Delmonico's, where I dined, but I will pass over all these matters and proceed with my history of the Primrose Way.

In 1866 there lived in London a famous queen's counsel, Edwin James. Fame and fortune were his. A born orator, a talented scholar, he rapidly pushed his way from the very bottom of the legal profession to all but its topmost height. At 40 he found himself facile princeps of the English bar, and public opinion, that potent factor in popular government, had already singled him out for the high position of attorney general. That secured, only one step remained to place him in the seat of the lord chancellor—truly an imperial position, one that satisfied the proud ambition of a Wolsey and fitted the genius of a Thomas a Becket. It carries with it the position of keeper of the conscience of her majesty, giving the possessor precedence in all official functions over the English aristocracy, next to royalty itself.

But about this time dark whispers began to fly about through the clubs of London. Soon it became known that Edwin James, the lord chancellor to be, was in the tolls, and it shortly transpired that, in spite of the fact that his income from his profession was nearer £20,000 than £10,000 per annum, it had proved insufficient, and he was heavily in debt and worse.

It would seem he was keeping up what in the polite language of society is known as dual houses. A woman of brilliant beauty presided over one, and the marvelous beauty of its mistress was only equaled by her extravagance. He also had a fondness for associating with younger men than himself and had got into a particularly fast set of young lords and army men. At his club he had lost large sums at baccarat and loo, and, in an unhappy hour for himself and his, he stooped from his high position and—miserable to think of—committed a crime, this in the expectation that he would relieve himself from some of the more crushing obligations he had heaped upon himself, either through the extravagant vagaries of his imperious mistress or by his own rashness in trying his luck among a lot of titled sharpers. He had among his clients one fast, even madly extravagant youth, heir of a historic name and of a lordly estate. To supply his extravagance "my lord" had applied to the money lenders—those sharks that in London, as elsewhere, fatten on such game. These gentry were eager to lend the young blood money upon what are known in English law as post obits, which loans in this particular case carried the trifling interest of about 100 per cent per annum. James was cognizant of his friend's excursions among the money lenders, and no doubt he thought the young spendthrift, when he came into his fortune, would never know within a good many thousands how much he had borrowed nor even the number of post obits he had given.

I will just explain that a post obit is a form of note or due bill given by the heir of an estate (usually of an entailed estate), which matures the moment the drawer of the document enters into that estate. That is to say, the tender hearted son discounts his father's death to provide fuel to feed his flame. So Edwin James, driven to his own destruction, stooped from his imperial position into what one might call ankle depth of crime.

He made out two post obits for £5,000, wrote his client's name at the bottom of each, gave them to the money lenders, who, never doubting that the prodigal son had signed and given them to his counsel, had made no question, but gave James the money for them at once. But James had reckoned without his host, for this nineteenth century prodigal was made of keener metal than he of the first. Strange to say, and utterly unexpected as it was to all who knew him and had looked upon his riotous living, he kept his books straight and knew to a single guinea how much and to whom he was owing.

His discovery of the forgery was accelerated by the sudden and most unexpected death of his father, his return home and stepping into his estate.

The various post obits were presented and placed before him. He instantly pronounced the two for £5,000 each to be forgeries, and the crime was easily laid at the door of the queen's counsel. The heir indignantly refused to condone the offense, and revealing the fatal secret to a few within a mouth it was known in every clubroom in London. From there it got into the newspapers, and then, under a thinly disguised allusion or a distinguished member of the bar, gave more or less accurate details of the damning truth. His former client eventually said he would not prosecute the forgery if the criminal left England; if not, he would immediately go before the grand jury, procure an indictment and have this man, who had moved a prince among men, arraigned in the dock at the Old Bailey, there to plead and stand trial like any common criminal.

And he fled. Of course, like all fugitives from justice throughout the old world, he looked to America for a city of refuge, and here he came. Not to keep my readers too long from the main narrative, it will suffice to say that soon after his arrival he applied for admission to the bar of New York, but first he won to his cause the high souled Richard O'Gorman, then a leader of his profession.

It was for Edwin James a lucky stroke, for at this time O'Gorman was in the full possession of his magnificent powers. Few could resist his magic. His great heart was stirred, and he took up the cause of his friend as if he had been his brother. The English lawyer's reputation was known to every member of the bar of New York, and there had been and still was a bitter opposition to his admission, but when it became known that their eloquent leader was his champion many began to feel that perhaps after all "the poor fellow ought to be given another chance," and when at the next meeting of the Bar association O'Gorman in a set oration brought all his splendid eloquence into play the cause was won.

Great hearted O'Gorman had helped this lame dog over the stile, but the dog's heart was not in the right place, and, as my reader will see in the sequel, he soon went lame again.

In the rear room of a somewhat luxurious range of offices in a building on Broadway facing the city hall four men were engaged in discussing what was evidently an exciting topic. The door of the main office bore the sign, "Edwin James, Counselor at Law and Register In Bankruptcy." He was one of the four. He had failed lamentably in his efforts to secure a practice. The effects of O'Gorman's eloquence had in the gray light of commonplace day faded away, the more so when the ideal his magic had created in the minds of men was in hourly contrast with the man himself and his history. His professional brethren looked upon him with suspicion, and there was a general impression abroad that his escapades were not over yet.

Brea, with a keen eye to business, had married the discarded daughter of a wealthy but not overrespectable New York family, and he had, unsuspected, pulled the wires so that James had been employed as the family lawyer, and in that capacity had drawn the will of the mother. She was an imperious, hot tempered body, one who when aroused was accustomed to use language more vigorous than polite, and who not infrequently went to fisticuffs with her daughters. The husband and father, the creator of the fortune, was dead, and the vast family property, in securities, stocks and lands, was vested absolutely in the mother. In the old lady's will Brea's wife, the second daughter of the house (there were no sons), was down in the very first paragraph for the magnificent sum of "$1 lawful currency," and her name nowhere else appeared in the lengthy document. The old lady was such a termagant and so implacable in her hatred that it was a moral certainty she would never relent and change her purpose toward her daughter. But James had also drawn up a second will of his own and Brea's concoction, and a precious piece of villainy it was, in which the wife was down for legacies amounting to $750,000. The genuine will James kept in his own possession, ready to destroy the very moment word came that the old lady was immortal, while the spurious will was kept in the vaults of the Safety Deposit Company, there to remain until the death of the testatrix, when, of course, it would in due time be produced.

But money must be had at once, for Brea and James were in sore straits, particularly James, who had been threatened with arrest and was so far involved that he always entered and left his house at night in order to escape importunate creditors. This was James' second interview with the men and the first time he had been alone with them. He saw at once that he had to do with able, clear headed men, took them into his confidence and in order to excite their hopes and bind them to him as well he confided to them the plot of the forged will, producing the genuine for their inspection.

He assured them that it was a sure and speedy fortune, as the lady was old and frail in health, and he also promised they should share between them $100,000, provided they would stand by to give a hand in the somewhat improbable event of the other heirs disputing the will, but above all if they would devise some means to furnish him at once $10,000, or at least $5,000. Money he must have, and he could no longer do without it.

The result of our conference in James' office was that the very next day an office down town was engaged under a fictitious name and a simple, unsuspicious fellow hired as porter and messenger. After some little negotiation he obtained particulars of parties banking with the then great firm of Jay Cooke & Co., corner of Wall and Nassau streets. Briefly told, the result was that four days later a messenger walked into their banking house with a check for $20,000, purporting to be signed by another firm, who banked with them. Along with the check went a letter bearing a signature well known to the cashier, asking him to pay the check to bearer, the result of all being that five minutes thereafter we were walking unconcernedly up Broadway, and sending a message to James to meet us at Delmonico's, corner Broadway and Chambers street, we sat down awaiting his arrival. He had anxiously been looking for news, and almost before we had seated ourselves he entered, eager and anxious looking, but when he glanced at our faces a happy expression came over his own and without a word he put out his hand. After a warm greeting I produced the roll, and, to his delight, I handed over to James ten five hundreds. On the morrow I went to the office, and paying my messenger a week's wages, besides making a small gift, told him he need not come any more.

With this $20,000 coup we fondly thought all our troubles and all our unlawful acts were ended. We now had a few thousands, sufficient to last until the $5,000 we had invested in the will case should bring in a dividend that would mean a fortune for us all. So we took things easy about town, and altogether thought ourselves pretty good fellows and this world a very good sort of place to be in.

Thus the winter passed by and the summer was at hand. Our thousands of the year before had dwindled to hundreds, and the old lady whose heirs we had constituted ourselves seemed to have renewed her youth and threatened to outlive us all.

Besides this there had grown up a repugnance in our minds to the business, and when one day my friend Mac remarked it was a scoundrelly business to rob the heirs of an estate, and they women, George and I heartily acquiesced, and we vowed we would take no part in the matter and then and there resolved we would throw both James and Brea over, but first to use Brea and James for our own purposes. Once more we found ourselves planning a coup in Wall street. Talking the matter over, we three soon had a plan, and being dowered with intense energy it promised a successful determination. Audaciously enough we determined the lightning should strike once more in the same place—that is, to make Jay Cooke & Co. again the victims. Irving and his honest fellows were to co-operate by watching everything, and if any arrest threatened to be on hand to make it themselves and then let the prisoner escape. Most important of all, when the bankers drove up in hot haste to police headquarters to give information, James, honest James, would be on hand to receive him, would call in his two trustees to get with him full particulars of the robbery and a description of the men. Then the banker would be sent away with the assurance that "we know the men and will have them," but at the same time warning him to keep the matter a secret in order better to enable them to catch the villains.

If successful, the detectives were to receive 25 per cent between them. Our plan required James to play an important part, and although no confederacy could be fixed on him, yet he would hardly escape questioning and a very considerable degree of suspicion, so much so that it probably would put an end to any lingering remnants of character he had on hand or in stock. But he was tired of America and determined to go to Paris with his share of the plunder. Our visits to James had always been in his private office, and his clerks had never seen either of us or Brea.

Our plan was to make use of James' office in a way that will appear later. As related, he was suspected by his profession; but the general public thought him a very great man. He had appeared as (volunteer) counsel in two or three murder cases and had delivered powerful addresses which had attracted considerable notice in the papers.

One day, soon after our plan was matured, Brea went to Philadelphia, and by a mixture of audacity and finesse procured from Jay Cooke himself (the parent house of the New York firm of Jay Cooke & Co. was in Philadelphia) a letter of introduction to the manager of the New York firm. He wanted the letter ostensibly in order to consult the manager about certain investments which he, as executor of an estate, desired to make for his wards.

As the transaction was one of considerable magnitude there would be large commissions paid, and with the grand send off of a letter from Jay Cooke to his subordinate in New York the speculation opened well—so well that we at once decided what we would do with the money when we got it—a case in point for the old proverb. We had ascertained the name of a Newark manufacturer who had recently failed in business. I will call him Newman. On the morning after his return from Philadelphia Brea prescuted himself at James' office, it being arranged that James should be out, so Brea told the clerk that his name was Newman; that he had lately failed in business and intended to employ Mr. James to put him through the bankruptcy court. The clerk told him to come again at 12 and he would find Mr. James in.

At 12 he came. The clerk introduced him. James kept the clerk conveniently near that he could hear the conversation. Brea, as Newman, told James he had used in his business $240,000 belonging to his wife and her mother.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

Mrs. K. Henke, of No. 846 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his 'Pleasant Pellets' I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief. Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in many countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labelling them poison?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Gentlemen:

Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflamatory rheumatism I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, and always consulting with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. knowing that each ingredient was good for the impurities of the blood, after using two small bottles I was relieved; at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P. and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully,
J. F. GREER.

The Republican.

Oldest Journal of Calhoun County.

A. W. AYERS. J. E. CROOK.

AYERS & CROOK,
Editors and Publishers.

Entered at the post office at Jacksonville, Ala., as second class matter.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Established in 1837, is the OFFICIAL JOURNAL of Calhoun, one of the largest and wealthiest counties in Alabama, and in which are located the towns of Jacksonville, Anniston, Oxford, Oxanna and Piedmont.

CIRCULATION.

It has a larger guaranteed county circulation in Calhoun than any other paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The subscribers of the REPUBLICAN are the best people in the county,—a class of people with whom it pays to advertise. Than it there is no better advertising medium in this section of Alabama.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Gen. E. W. Pettus.

The Selma Times nominates the distingnished gentleman whose name heads this article as a suitable person to succeed Senator Pugh in the United States Senate.

The Times says Gen. Pettus is not a candidate, but suggests that it would be a nice thing on the part of the Democracy of Alabama to show its appreciation of the very valuable service which this grand old Roman has rendered his country both in times of war and times of peace, by electing him to the United States Senate.

We fully agree with the Times in holding that Gen. Pettus is worthy of any gift in the hands of the people of Alabama. He has never asked an office, and if he will only express a desire now to go to the senate there will go up all over Alabama such a hurrah of enthusiasm for him as will insure his election over any gold standard man who will enter the race.

Gen. Pettus is an old style Democrat. He has none of the new fangled John Sherman frills on the borders of his democracy. He is such a Democrat as was Thomas Jefferson, and is as greatly beloved by the people of Alabama as was ever any man.

Talk about bringing forward any man because party success demands it, here is a man whose candidacy would probably be worth more to the party than any other man in the state, and we heartily second the nomination of the Selma Times to do all possible to have his name placed before the people as the proper man to succeed Senator Pugh.

Duty of the Democratic Party.

No man who feels an interest in the success of the Democratic party and who has recently been among the people of the country, can fail to realize the importance of nominating for the different offices in Alabama next year men who are in line with the people of the state upon the great public question now before them.

Heretofore in Alabama the nomination of a candidate by a democratic convention was an assurance that he would receive the support of all Democrats, irrespective of his views on finance, tariff, or other important measures. To an extent this is yet true, but by no means to the extent which has existed heretofore, and it is important that we as Democrats realize the changed conditions which now exist. Go among the people where you will, and you will hear expressions from men who have never failed to vote the democratic ticket similar to these. "Hereafter I propose to vote as I please." "You can nominate by as many conventions as you please men who are on the wrong side of measures which are of importance to the prosperity of this country, but I shall not vote for them." These expressions are not confined to the people of Alabama, but there is a disposition on the part of the people in all the states to hereafter vote for men and measures, and not be bound by the ties of party.

So far as the south is concerned, we believe this indifference to party fealty is a mistake, for we do not believe the time has yet arrived when the south can trust her interests in the hands of any other than the democratic party. But there is no question but the time is at hand when the democratic party in Alabama must exercise the greatest discretion in the selection of its candidates or it will certainly meet with defeat in the most general fashion.

Jacksonville on Finance.

A short time since we made mention in the columns of the Republican that an effort was being made on the part of certain individuals to create a prejudice against Jacksonville on what was reported to be her position on the question of finance. We have recently been informed that a gentleman who lives in the southern portion of the county who is supposed to know the position of the people of Jacksonville on public questions, has been set apart as the man to post the people as to how Jacksonville stands on the free and unlimited coinage of silver. That the said informer will any time walk considerably out of his way to inform a silver man from the country that Jacksonville is the worst goldbug town in Alabama. Not satisfied with this information, he will remind his country friends that no one is surprised, however, at Jacksonville being against the free coinage of silver, as she never fails to oppose any measure which is calculated to benefit the country people.

Why this interest in Jacksonville's position on the silver question? It is for no other purpose than to prejudice the country people against Jacksonville. It is known that the people of this county, outside of the towns, are practically solid for the free coinage of silver, and by playing on their prejudices it is expected to make votes in favor of the removal of the court house. But fortunately, the people of this county are not to be caught with any such chaff. They know the court house and silver questions to be separate and distinct issues, and that one has nothing to do with the other.

But the statement of facts are not true. Instead of Jacksonville being practically solid for the gold standard, a good majority of the voters in the Jacksonville beat are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

The statement that Jacksonville never fails to oppose whatever measures that are to the interest of the country people, is too absurd to justify a denial. There is no other town in the county which is so absolutely dependent upon the agricultural trade as is Jacksonville and whatever benefits the farmer, is necessarily to her interest, and people are not given to doing things which work an injury to themselves.

One thing Jacksonville can say, she has no newspaper which is laboring from day to day to change the people of this county from favoring the free and unlimited coinage of silver to John Sherman's single gold standard. Neither has she attempted to destroy the effect of the speech of any prominent free silver speaker who has come into the county by placing one of her own citizens up to plead for the single gold standard.

We are opposed to dragging the financial question into the local fight in this county, but if it must be brought we have in store some expressions which were applauded very enthusiastically by prominent gentlemen of a certain locality during a joint discussion on the financial question a short time since, which will make very interesting reading matter for the free silver men in this county.

IF the gold standard men succeed in retiring the $360,000,000 greenbacks now in circulation, what do they propose to give in place of it? The answer comes, what did they give in place of the silver coined under the Sherman bill? They gave nothing to take the place of $4,500,000 which was being coined monthly under the Sherman bill, neither will they furnish anything to take the place of the greenbacks.

Theirs is a policy of contraction, and they propose to continue to favor such legislation as will increase the purchasing power of the dollar, and lessen the value of all property and products.

THE campaign in Kentucky has presented some unique incidents, none of which are more ridiculously amusing than that of Mr. Bradley, the republican, making a plea to the democrats to stand by Cleveland and Carlisle. Is this a case of the lion and the lamb walking together, or is it rather the flocking of birds of one feather? The democrats of Kentucky take the latter view of it.

EDITOR HENRY WATTERSON goes to Europe and leaves his great paper, the Courier Journal, muzzled, when the democrats of Kentucky so much need its assistance. The gallant American poker playing editor will be cordially received in Merrie England by "His Kibs" and associates, and it may be possible that he can be induced to stay in Parliament alongside of Henry M. Stanley. Otherwise there is no tears of sorrow over here.

Judge Richardson For Free Coinage.

Rapidly the leading men of Alabama are publicly declaring themselves in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Until recently no public declaration had been made by Judge Richardson, of Huntsville, on the silver question, but in answer to a letter of inquiry he puts himself on record in the following letter which cannot be misunderstood:

Huntsville, Ala., Aug. 29, 1895.

Hon. J. E. Brown Scottsboro, Ala.

Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your favor of 23d instant inviting me to express my views in your paper—'The Progressive Age' on the silver question.

I have no hesitancy in acceding to your very kind request.

I am in the true and full meaning of the term a bimetallist, and hence am opposed to making gold alone the primary and redemption money of our country. I confess that I do not understand how the true and fair commercial value of silver as compared with gold can be ascertained as long as gold is allowed and silver denied free and unlimited coinage at our mints. Hence you have properly classed me among those democrats who believe that the silver dollar should be restored to the mintage rights that it had when demonetized in 1873 at the ratio of 16 to 1.

In my humble opinion the best interests and permanent prosperity of the people of this country demand this.

It is manifest that the financial issue promises to create an earnest and vigorous contest in the ranks of our party.

Such a contest should be tempered with prudence and judgement and should not affect our allegiance to or jeopardize the triumph of the democracy. As a democrat, I earnestly believe that in the advocacy of the free, independent and unlimited coinage of silver we but faithfully follow democratic precedents and the teachings of the wisest and ablest statesmen and patriots of our party.

The lines of demarkation between those who follow the "gold standard" and those who favor the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver are clearly and distinctly drawn, and I shall not at this time undertake to present more fully such views as I have.

I will gladly co-operate with you and other friends in your efforts to have this important and vital question fairly submitted for the consideration of the people of our section.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM RICHARDSON.

Judge Richardson is a man of great influence in north Alabama, as was shown in his candidacy for Governor in Alabama in 1890 when he carried every county in his congressional district, and his influence will be worth much in the fight for the free and unlimited coinage of silver in his section of the state.

As there have been some doubts in minds of the cuckoos as to the meaning of that plank in the platform of 1892 which discountenanced the control of the state conventions by federal agencies, we deem it not improper to give the following paragraph from Mr. Cleveland's letter accepting the nomination on that platform. It is as follows:—

The administration and management of our Government depend upon popular will. Federal power is the instrument of that will—not its matter. Therefore the attempt of the opponents of Democracy to interfere with and control the suffrage of the States through federal agences, develops a design, which no explanation can mitigate, to reverse the fundamental and safe relations between the people and their government. Such an attempt cannot fail to be regarded by thoughtful men as proof of a bold determination to secure the ascendancy of a discredited party in reckless disregard of a free expression of the popular will. To resist such a scheme is an impulse of Democracy. At all times in all places we trust the people. As against a disposition to force the way to federal power we present to them as our claim to their confidence and support, a steady championship of their rights.

Some wily cuckoo will now say that this letter refers to such attempts when made by the enemies of Democracy, and, in as much as not one word is said about a democratic president, Mr. Cleveland's course in Kentucky, Iowa, Ohio, Mississippi and Texas has been quite in accord with the declarations in this letter.

One thing can be truly said, and it is this. That though it be an impulse of Democracy to resist such a scheme, it evidently is no impulse with Mr. Grover Cleveland.

HARDIN, the Democratic nominee for Governor of Kentucky, goes boldly on with his canvass advocating the free and unlimited coinage of silver. His fearless advocacy of the rights of the people has clearly knocked out Bradley, the Republican gold bug nominee, and he has declined to meet Gen. Hardin in joint discussion for appointments which they had already made. Really, it seems that it doesn't take a single gold standard man long to get tired of meeting in joint debate an advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

In the Line of Remedy.

The banks having suspended gold payments without meeting with any serious criticism from the subsidized goldbug newspapers, what is to prevent the treasury from suspending gold payments for a time long enough to convince all concerned that the law which says that the greenbacks shall be redeemed in coin and not in gold alone is a good one?

It must be perfectly clear even to the eastern contingent that the greenbacks cannot and will not be retired. It must be perfectly clear to them, too, that the administration cannot go on selling bonds for gold and running the people deeper and deeper into debt. It must also be perfectly clear that the banks do not propose, at this day and hour, to come to the relief of the treasury and furnish gold for export; and for a very good reason. They have no gold to spare.

Mr. Carlisle's underlings, drawing on their imagination, have left it to be understood that our stock of available gold amounts to about $600,000,000. The fact is that our only available stock of gold is that which belongs to the treasury reserve, supplemented by such amounts as the Rothschilds syndicate can command from time to time. The banks having suspended gold payments, the stock they have on hand cannot be regarded as available except for the purchase of government bonds, or for such premium as the syndicate can afford to pay.

There must be an end to this business. There must be an end to the treasury receivership. There must come a day, and that shortly, when even the syndicate cannot afford to put up gold to be carted off.

There must be an end to the bond business. The people will not tolerate it. There must be an end, in short, to the financial mismanagement that has disgraced the Cleveland administration and well nigh ruined the democratic party.

The whole trouble grows out of a plain violation of the law. When the law is once more carried out we shall no longer have the ruinous dislocation of the currency that now exists. The law says that the treasury notes and greenbacks are payable, not in gold, but in coin, which is either gold or silver.

That is the law, and it is only necessary to carry out the law to stop the drain of gold and restore our currency system to what it was when people were receiving fair prices for the products of their labor.

Pay out silver as well as gold, coin the silver bullion in the treasury and use the seigniorage and there will neither be a drain on the gold reserve nor a deficit in the treasury.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE New Woman, is placing herself on exhibition in various ways. Only a week or more ago, a Mrs. Noe, in an Arkansas town, was arrested for scandalizing herself and the town by wearing bloomers on the streets. The learned judge on hearing the evidence, rendered a decision in which he said that the wearing of bloomers was a God-given right to lovely woman, and that no man had the right to interfere, molest or make afraid. No one has taken the trouble to ask where the judge got his law—whether he knew it or guessed at it—but it is to be adopted as the law, not only of Arkansas, but of "the land, and the "fair demoiselles" who prefer the immodest bloomer to the neat and more attractive skirt are at liberty to wear them to their hearts content. The fact is, if letters patent are not speedily taken out by the male population on breeches, these new women will soon be deiked out in them also.

LABOR DAY was celebrated on Monday, the 2nd., in all of the larger cities of the United States. The observance of this holiday has come to be of as great importance and affords as much pleasure as does the celebration of the Fourth of July. It is proper that it should be so. Upon the Fourth we celebrate the declaration of our independance of Great Britain and her oppression. On Labor Day we congratulate ourselves on having so large a part of our population composed of free and independent laboring men, who have done so much, and are ready to do still more to preserve that independence bought by the blood of American patriots.

May God grant that this day be forever, in the history of our country, observed, and by men who are free indeed.

Terrible Misery

Tired Feeling and Pains Dispelled by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was in terrible misery with rheumatism in my hips and lower limbs. I read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla that I thought I would try it and see if it would relieve me. When I commenced I could not sit up nor even turn over in bed without help. One bottle of Hood's Relieved Me so much that I was soon out of bed and could walk. I had also felt weak and tired all the time; could not sleep, and obtained so little rest at night that I felt all worn out in the morning. I had no appetite to eat anything, but Hood's Sarsaparilla restored my appetite so that I could eat without any distress, and I have gained rapidly in strength. I have taken five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am as well as ever." MRS. S. A. LEFEBER, Rossmoyne, O.

JUDGE LOGAN E. BLECKLEY, Ex-Chief Justice of the supreme court of Georgia, has abandoned the law, and will devote himself to literary work. Judge Bleckley has long been known as one of the brainiest men of his state and has twice held the position of chief justice. He has always been a student of science, literature and art. His career after parting with the law which had been for forty years his mistress, will be eagerly watched. It is safe to say that his contributions to Georgia literature will be valuable ones, and it may be that his course will lend a new impetus to literary work in that state.

Not Enough.

Liver pills have their good and bad side. They cleanse the bowels and clean out the system, but they leave the patient weak, exhausted and unstrung, with no appetite and no strength.

If you were to go to a physician he would tell you that your liver pills were all right but that they did not go far enough. You need something else to restore the appetite, repair the waste, purify the blood and build up the system. He would give you a tonic.

We supply you with the regular physician's medicine for an entire treatment of nearly three weeks. There is one small case of ten of the Liver Pills (the finest in existence) and there is another box containing fifteen of the Tonic Pellets. You get them both for 25c. Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills and Ramon's Tonic Pellets. Together they make a sure treatment for Constipation and Biliousness.

At all dealers, or mail, for 25c., 5 boxes $1.00.

IT is now said that the sage of "Grandpa's hat" will not be a candidate for the republican nomination for President. His hopes evaporated when Boss Quay won Pennsylvania. Nobody has heard or dared to say, however, that our Buzzard Bay friend would not be found in the fight with a third term pennant flying above his head.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Cailloutte, druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with LaGrippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at W. B. Avery's drug store. 2

EDITOR WATTERSON ought to don Knickerbockers and learn to play "golf" while he is in England. He will appear more "at himself" than when using his pen to mislead democratic voters, and prevent their support of democratic principles. He might make a good "golfer". He is a miserably poor Sherman democrat.

THE campaign in the tenth Georgia district is on. Black has completely disarmed Watson. It is true that the latter is still crying "fraud," but the resignation of Black in order to stand for a re-election under such conditions as fraud could be inputed to neither side, makes the rantings of Thomas E. Watson even more ridiculous than a thrice told tale.

Notice.

I wish to call the attention of the farmers of Calhoun county that I am still selling the Hattie Clide subsoil Clodless Turning Ploy. This plow is the best plow now in use. It is the best because you get the depth without turning up the clay or subsoil. It raises the clay, pulverizing it and drops it back in the furrow.

The Hattie Clide Plow comes in the reach of every farmer to subsoil his land from 5 to 7 inches deep in gray land and from 4 to 6 inches in red land without exposing the clay to the sun and air.

If you expose the clay to the sun and air you lose a certain per cent of the productive qualities of your land, and by using this plow you can avoid this loss entirely, from the fact that the plow has a five inch slot in the wing that lets the clay pass through and falls back into the furrow and turnes the soil on top of the ground only. The subsoil is rich in plant food—phosphate of lime, potash, ammonia and iron, which lie dormant and useless until the subsoil is broken and mellowed by the chemical effect of the air. This subsoil should not be exposed to the surface because the sun and air evaporates and destroys the properties.

By the use of H. C. plow your crop will not suffer from a five or six weeks drouth. Because in subsoiling your land in the fall, winter or spring, you are then laying in water to make your crop with next summer; for by subsoiling or deep plowing the water penetrates the ground thoroughly.

The H. C. Plow is a steel plow easily kept up. It is not like other plows, have to lay it aside when you have your land prepared, but you cultivate your crop with it up to the second plowing. By the use of the H. C. plow you will make from one-fourth to one-third more than you will with the ordinary plow, unless you subsoil, and if you subsoil with the old method it will cost you the expense of 4 mules and 2 hands to get 8 inches, where the H. C. Plow will get 8 inches with but 2 mules and one hand. I refer you to the following named parties who have been using the H. C. plows:

FROM Wall Street TO Newgate

BY AUSTIN BIDWELL.

ucre, I bought exchange on New York for $50,000, and left the same night for London. Very many times I journeyed over that route in after years, but never with quite so light a heart. I was young and enthusiastic; all the glamour and poetry of life hung around me, while I was too inexperienced to notice whither I was drifting or to understand the powerful current upon which I had embarked. In fact, I had sold myself to do the devil's work, and day by day the chain would tighten, while all the time I thought I could when I pleased stop short on the downward grade and take the back track. More experience would have taught me that every one who forsook the path of honor not only thought the same, but had a purpose to even everything up some day and make restitution. And today there is not a criminal but who at the start looks forward to the time when he will no longer war against society, but will go out and come in at peace with all men. But, when one comes to think of it, what a fool's game is that of a man who fights against society!

The criminal has but two arms; very short and weak they are, and of flesh too. He has but two eyes that cannot possibly see around the nearest corner, while society has a million arms of steel that can reach around the world, and a million eyes which are never closed, that can pierce the thickest gloom with sleepless vigilance. The poor, unhappy criminal by fortunate dexterity may escape for a little, but at last society lays her iron grasp on him, and with giant force hurls him into a dungeon. As for the short lived, tempestuous success that some few criminals have, is there any sweetness in it? I say no; success won in honest fight is sweet, but I know from my own experience that the success of crime brings no sweetness, no blessing with it, but leaves the mind a prey to a thousand haunting fears that make shipwreck of peace.

I went down to Liverpool and embarked on the good ship Java. Ten days later we sailed through the Narrows.

During my last day in London I went to Westminster abbey and spent three hours in that Valhalla of the Anglo-Saxon race. It made a tremendous impression upon my mind. In no other work of human hands do the spirits of so many departed heroes linger, certainly in no other does the dust of so many of the great dead rest, and as I read memorial upon memorial to departed greatness I realized that the path of honor and of truth was the only one for men to tread.

All through the voyage the influences of the abbey were upon me; I felt I was treading on dangerous ground and resolved I would have no more of it. Would I had then resolved, when I met Irving & Co., to throw all the plunder in their faces and say, "I'll have none of it, and here we part." I felt that I ought to do that, but weakly said, I need the $10,000, and I'll give the rogues their share and then see them no more. I had fully made up my mind to that, knowing Irving would be on the wharf eager to meet me.

In sailing through the Narrows and past Staten Island I was making up my mind as to the little speech I would make. We rapidly neared the wharf in Jersey City, and I quickly recognized Irving standing on the edge of the closely packed crowd, watching the steamer with a nervous look on his face.

He sprang on board, rushed to me with a beaming face, grasped my hand, and putting the other on my shoulder led me toward the gangway. He had not spoken yet, but as we were going down the gangplank he said, "My boy, you have done splendidly," and then, putting his mouth close to my ear, whispered, "We have got another job for you, and it's a beauty!"

Going up the wharf with Irving, I was on the point of telling him I wanted no more jobs, but weakly put it off, and by so doing, of course, made it more difficult. He told me Stanley and White were waiting at Taylor's hotel on Montgomery street, a few doors up from the wharf.

We soon were there, and they gave me a warm and even enthusiastic reception, and, opening a box, I produced the 16 bills of exchange for $5,000 each, informing them they should have their cash in 20 minutes. It was curious to see these men handle the bills of exchange, passing them from one to another, examining them with anxious care. But where were my good resolutions and what had become of them? Why, they, under the effect of the wine and the magnetic influence of these three minds, had gone flying down the bay, and under a favoring gale were fast speeding seaward beyond the ken of mortal eye, not to be found by me again until years after, when, with the toils about me, I found myself in Newgate. Then the fugitives all came back, this time to stay.

My three graces who adorned the police department of New York were full of matter of a new enterprise which by my co-operation was to make the fortunes of us all. But they were too evidently anxious, too eagerly desirous to handle the greenbacks, my bills of exchange represented to fix their minds upon anything else, so by a unanimous vote we adjourned to the other side of the river, appointing a wineroom on Broadway, a few doors below Exchange place, for our place of meeting at 5 o'clock. Stanley and White went away together, but first each once more told me privately that he depended upon me to put in his own hands his share, showing how these rogues suspected each other and indeed were full of suspicions of every one and everything. Irving crossed the ferry with me, but on the New York side he dropped behind, and, although I paid no more attention to him, no doubt he followed me. The excitement of success and of being at home again banished any possible regrets or fears over the course I had entered, and with a light heart and buoyant step I quickly made my way to a friend of mine, a well known broker in New street, shook hands with him, and, telling him, very much to his surprise, that I had just returned from Europe, asked him to step around the corner to the office of the bankers and identify me.

In a minute we were there. Indorsing the drafts, I told them to make it in $10 bundles, and went out to the bank for them, and I was speedily on my way to our rendezvous with 100 $500 greenbacks in a roll, and meeting the three at the wineroom I made their eyes grow big when I flashed the roll on their delighted orbs. The division was speedily made, I retaining $10,000 for my share, but I was dissatisfied with my share and told them so, when each promptly threw out $1,000, and we shook hands all around.

Here were four conspirators of us, and it was comical to see how anxious we all were to get away so that each could stow his plunder in a safe place. For my part I went home, but I shall say nothing of the meeting with the members of my family. I told them I had made a lot of money in a speculation, and not knowing the inside history or suspecting anything they rejoiced with me and were proud and happy for their boy. I spent about $1,000 making things comfortable for them, but to their grief I told them that circumstances required me to take up my former quarters at the St. Nicholas.

It would be interesting to tell of my reception among my acquaintances on Wall street and other parts of the city. Rumor magnified my resources, and it was reported I had cleared $100,000 in some fortunate deal. It was strange to see the new found deference all around, from my former employers down to my old waiter at down town Delmonico's, where I dined, but I will pass over all these matters and proceed with my history of the Primrose Way.

In 1865 there lived in London a famous queen's counsel, Edwin James. Fame and fortune were his. A born orator, a talented scholar, he rapidly pushed his way from the very bottom of the legal profession to all but its topmost height. At 40 he found himself facile princeps of the English bar, and public opinion, that potent factor in popular government, had already singled him out for the high position of attorney general. That secured, only one step remained to place him in the seat of the lord chancellor—truly an imperial position, one that satisfied the proud ambition of a Wolsey and fitted the genius of a Thomas a Becket. It carries with it the position of keeper of the conscience of her majesty, giving the possessor precedence in all official functions over the English aristocracy, next to royalty itself.

But about this time dark whispers began to fly about through the clubs of London. Soon it became known that Edwin James, the lord chancellor to be, was in the toils, and it shortly transpired that, in spite of the fact that his income from his profession was nearer £20,000 than £10,000 per annum, it had proved insufficient, and he was heavily in debt and worse.

It would seem he was keeping up what in the polite language of society is known as dual houses. A woman of brilliant beauty presided over one, and the marvelous beauty of its mistress was only equaled by her extravagance. He also had a fondness for associating with younger men than himself and had got into a particularly fast set of young lords and army men. At his club he had lost large sums at baccarat and loo, and, in an unhappy hour for himself and his, he stooped from his high position and—miserable to think of—committed a crime, this in the expectation that he would relieve himself from some of the more crushing obligations he had heaped upon himself, either through the extravagant vagaries of his imperious mistress or by his own rashness in trying his luck among a lot of titled sharpers. He had among his clients one fast, even madly extravagant youth, heir of a historic name and of a lordly estate. To supply his extravagance "my lord" had applied to the money lenders—those sharks that in London, as elsewhere, fatten on such game. These gentry were eager to lend the young blood money upon what are known in English law as post obits, which loans in this particular case carried the trifling interest of about 100 per cent per annum. James was cognizant of his friend's excursions among the money lenders, and no doubt he thought the young spendthrift, when he came into his fortune, would never know within a good many thousands how much he had borrowed nor even the number of post obits he had given.

I will just explain that a post obit is a form of note or due bill given by the heir of an estate (usually of an entailed estate), which matures the moment the drawer of the document enters into that estate. That is to say, the tender hearted son discounts his father's death to provide fuel to feed his flame. So Edwin James, driven to his own destruction, stooped from his imperial position into what one might call ankle depth of crime.

He made out two post obits for £5,000, wrote his client's name at the bottom of each, gave them to the money lenders, who, never doubting that the prodigal son had signed and given them to his counsel, had made no question, but gave James the money for them at once. But James had reckoned without his host, for this nineteenth century prodigal was made of keener metal than he of the first. Strange to say, and utterly unexpected as it was to all who knew him and had looked upon his riotous living, he kept his books straight and knew to a single guinea how much and to whom he was owing.

His discovery of the forgery was accelerated by the sudden and most unexpected death of his father, his return home and stepping into his estate.

The various post obits were presented and placed before him. He instantly pronounced the two for £5,000 each to be forgeries, and the crime was easily laid at the door of the queen's counsel. The heir indignantly refused to condone the offense, and revealing the fatal secret to a few within a month it was known in every clubroom in London. From there it got into the newspapers, and then, under a thinly disguised alias of a distinguished member of the bar, gave more or less accurate details of the damning truth. His former client eventually said he would not prosecute the forgery if the criminal left England; if not, he would immediately go before the grand jury, procure an indictment and have this man, who had moved a prince among men, arraigned in the dock at the Old Bailey, there to plead and stand trial like any common criminal.

And he fled. Of course, like all fugitives from justice throughout the old world, he looked to America for a city of refuge, and here he came. Not to keep my readers too long from the main narrative, it will suffice to say that soon after his arrival he applied for admission to the bar of New York, but first he won to his cause the high souled Richard O'Gorman, then a leader of his profession.

It was for Edwin James a lucky stroke, for at this time O'Gorman was in the full possession of his magnificent powers. Few could resist his magic. His great heart was stirred, and he took up the cause of his friend as if he had been his brother. The English lawyer's reputation was known to every member of the bar of New York, and there had been and still was a bitter opposition to his admission; but when it became known that their eloquent leader was his champion many began to feel that perhaps after all "the poor fellow ought to be given another chance," and when at the next meeting of the Bar association O'Gorman in a set oration brought all his splendid eloquence into play the cause was won.

Great hearted O'Gorman had helped this lame dog over the stile, but the dog's heart was not in the right place, and, as my reader will see in the sequel, he soon went lame again.

In the rear room of a somewhat luxurious range of offices in a building on Broadway facing the city hall four men were engaged in discussing what was evidently an exciting topic. The door of the main office bore the sign, "Edwin James, Counselor at Law and Register In Bankruptcy." He was one of the four. He had failed lamentably in his efforts to secure a practice. The effects of O'Gorman's eloquence had in the gray light of commonplace day faded away, the more so when the ideal his magic had created in the minds of men was in hourly contrast with the man himself and his history. His professional brethren looked upon him with suspicion, and there was a general impression abroad that his escapades were not over yet.

Brea, with a keen eye to business, had married the discarded daughter of a wealthy but not overrespectable New York family, and he had, unsuspected, pulled the wires so that James had been employed as the family lawyer, and in that capacity had drawn the will of the mother. She was an imperious, hot tempered body, one who when aroused was accustomed to use language more vigorous than polite, and who not infrequently went to fisticuffs with her daughters. The husband and father, the creator of the fortune, was dead, and the vast family property, in securities, stocks and lands, was vested absolutely in the mother. In the old lady's will Brea's wife, the second daughter of the house (there were no sons), was down in the very first paragraph for the magnificent sum of "£1 lawful currency," and her name nowhere else appeared in the lengthy document. The old lady was such a termagant and so implacable in her hatred that it was a moral certainty she would never relent and change her purpose toward her daughter. But James had also drawn up a second will of his own and Brea's concoction, and a precious piece of villainy it was, in which the wife was down for legacies amounting to $750,000. The genuine will James kept in his own possession, ready to destroy the very moment word came that the old lady was an immortal, while the spurious will was kept in the vaults of the Safety Deposit company, there to remain until the death of the testatrix, when, of course, it would in due time be produced.

But money must be had at once, for Brea and James were in sore straits, particularly James, who had been threatened with arrest and was so far involved that he always entered and left his house at night in order to escape importunate creditors. This was James' second interview with the men and the first time he had been alone with them. He saw at once that he had to do with able, clear headed men, took them into his confidence and in order to excite their hopes and bind them to him as well he confided to them the plot of the forged will, producing the genuine for their inspection.

He assured them that it was a sure and speedy fortune, as the lady was old and frail in health, and he also promised they should share between them $100,000, provided they would stand by to give a hand in the somewhat improbable event of the other heirs disputing the will, but above all if they could devise some means to furnish him at once $10,000, or at least $5,000. Money he must have, and he could no longer do without it.

The result of our conference in James' office was that the very next day an office down town was engaged under a fictitious name and a simple, unsuspicious fellow hired as porter and messenger. After some little negotiation he obtained particulars of parties banking with the then great firm of Jay Cooke & Co., corner of Wall and Nassau streets. Briefly told, the result was that four days later a messenger walked into their banking house with a check for $20,000, purporting to be signed by another firm, who banked with them. Along with the check went a letter bearing a signature well known to the cashier, asking him to pay the check to bearer, the result of all being that five minutes thereafter we were walking unconcernedly up Broadway, and sending a message to James to meet us at Delmonico's, corner Broadway and Chambers street, we sat down awaiting his arrival. He had anxiously been looking for news, and almost before we had seated ourselves he entered, eager and anxious looking, but when he glanced at our faces a happy expression came over his own and without a word he put out his hand. After a warm greeting I produced the roll, and, to his delight, I handed over to James ten five hundreds. On the morrow I went to the office, and paying my messenger a week's wages, besides making a small gift, told him he need not come any more.

With this $20,000 coup we fondly thought all our troubles and all our unlawful acts were ended. We now had a few thousands, sufficient to last until the $5,000 we had invested in the will case should bring in a dividend that would mean a fortune for us all. So we took things easy about town, and altogether thought ourselves pretty good fellows and this world a very good sort of place to be in.

Thus the winter passed by and the summer was at hand. Our thousands of the year before had dwindled to hundreds, and the old lady whose heirs we had constituted ourselves seemed to have renewed her youth and threatened to outlive us all.

Besides this there had grown up a repugnance in our minds to the business, and when one day my friend Mac remarked it was a scoundrelly business to rob the heirs of an estate, and they women, George and I heartily acquiesced, and we vowed we would take no part in the matter and then and there resolved we would throw both James and Brea over, but first to use Brea and James for our own purposes. Once more we found ourselves planning a coup in Wall street. Talking the matter over, we three soon had a plan, and being dowered with intense energy it promised a successful determination. Audaciously enough we determined the lightning should strike once more in the same place—that is, to make Jay Cooke & Co. again the victims. Irving and his honest fellows were to co-operate by watching everything, and if any arrest threatened to be on hand to make it themselves and then let the prisoner escape. Most important of all, when the bankers drove up in hot haste to police headquarters to give information, James, honest James, would be on hand to receive him, would call in his two trustees to get with him full particulars of the robbery and a description of the men. Then the banker would be sent away with the assurance that "we know the men and will have them," but at the same time warning him to keep the matter a secret in order better to enable them to catch the villains.

If successful, the detectives were to receive 25 per cent between them. Our plan required James to play an important part, and although no confederacy could be fixed on him, yet he would hardly escape questioning and a very considerable degree of suspicion, so much so that it probably would put an end to any lingering remnants of character he had on hand or in stock. But he was tired of America and determined to go to Paris with his share of the plunder. Our visits to James had always been in his private office, and his clerks had never seen either of us or Brea.

Our plan was to make use of James' office in a way that will appear later. As related, he was suspected by his profession, but the general public thought him a very great man. He had appeared as (volunteer) counsel in two or three murder cases and had delivered powerful addresses which had attracted considerable notice in the papers.

One day, soon after our plan was matured, Brea went to Philadelphia, and by a mixture of audacity and finesse procured from Jay Cooke himself (the parent house of the New York firm of Jay Cooke & Co. was in Philadelphia) a letter of introduction to the manager of the New York firm. He wanted the letter ostensibly in order to consult the manager about certain investments which he, as executor of an estate, desired to make for his wards.

As the transaction was one of considerable magnitude there would be large commissions paid, and with the grand send off of a letter from Jay Cooke to his subordinate in New York the speculation opened well—so well that we at once decided what we would do with the money when we got it—a case in point for the old proverb. We had ascertained the name of a Newark manufacturer who had recently failed in business. I will call him Newman. On the morning after his return from Philadelphia Brea presented himself at James' office, it being arranged that James should be out, so Brea told the clerk that his name was Newman; that he had lately failed in business and intended to employ Mr. James to put him through the bankruptcy court. The clerk told him to come again at 12 and he would find Mr. James in.

At 12 he came. The clerk introduced him. James kept the clerk conveniently near that he could hear the conversation. Brea, as Newman, told James he had used in his business $240,000 belonging to his wife and her mother.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poison?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 25 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

Gentlemen:

Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflamatory rheumatism I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, and always consulting with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. knowing that each ingredient was good for the impurities of the blood, after using two small bottles I was relieved; at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P. and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully,
J. F. GREER.

Rheumatism.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery nerve tonics, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak, nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

MRS. HENKE.

MRS. K. HENKE of No. 64 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his Pleasant Pellets I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief.

Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of Headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only Fifty cents at the drug stores. For sale by W B Arbery. 2

One of the chief attractions to our town is the Big Spring. Visitors find it a delightful place to spend an hour or so in the afternoon or early morning, but as the walk to the spring is in such a wretched condition, half the pleasure of such a visit is withheld. A little labor would put it in repair, and would make it not only an attraction for visitors but a great comfort to those of our citizens who have to come that way to town.

WHAT THEY SAY

OF THE ELECTROPOISE

The Electropoise has relieved me of a throat affection that has baffled all treatment and has annoyed me for more than forty years. Very respectfully, T. T. TUNTSALL.
Mobile, Ala., Oct. 22, 1894.

I commenced the use of the Electropoise when I was in a weak, nervous state lying awake night after night until 2 o'clock. I commenced to sleep better almost immediately after beginning its use, and after three months felt that the Electropoise had paid for itself.
Yours truly, MRS. J. C. BARRY.
Memphis, Tenn., March 5, 1895.

A relative of mine who was wounded during the war, and who never recovered from the effects of the wound, has been using my electropoise, and he is now as well as he ever was. I recommend the Electropoise to all my friends.
Yours truly, W. B. MCGEE.
Tehula, Miss., Dec. 5, 1894.

I cannot say too much in favor of the Electropoise. Yours truly,
T. S. JONES.
Fannin, Tex., June 25, 1895.

After returning from Hot Springs about a year ago without a cure, and as the last resort, I applied the Electropoise, and received a prompt cure of rheumatism. This same Electropoise has made many cures in other diseases, and the instrument will do all that is claimed for it. Yours truly,
J. T. STOUT.
Mobile, Ala., Sept. 22, 1894.

Rental terms, $10 cash for four months, with privilege to purchase by paying $17.50 additional at the expiration of four months.

Pocket Electropoise book of particulars free to any address.

R. L. Ryals and family, who have been in Jacksonville for two weeks on a visit to Mrs. Ryals' mother, have returned to their home in Macon, Ga.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by *

ANNISTON

Every body here is hoping for better times, and if the summer price of cotton will only continue long enough the indications are that we will experience temporary relief. Our condition after the sale of the cotton crop, will depend on the promised but doubtfull beneficent operation of the single gold standard. Let us hope that our administration admirers are not extravagant in their claims.

But little political discussion is being indulged in at present. It is said that the single gold standard manipulators have sent out orders to their followers to stop talking about the currency question. In other words, they have called off the "campaign of education" which was inaugurated by the administration at Memphis by Secretary Carlisle. They discovered that the more they "educated" the stronger grew the cause of silver. Now since they have obeyed the order and will not discuss the question, they are busy trying to convince the country that the "silver craze" is dying out. The fact that the gold men have "crawled into their holes" and in obedience to the supreme mandate of "Mars" Grover and the bankers, refuse to talk, is no evidence that the people have lost interest in that question which pertains so closely to their present and future welfare. The report has gone forth that the bankers of Wall Street will force an abnormal dculation of silver upon the country this fall and winter. It is their intention to use silver altogether in the purchase of the cotton crop, hoping thereby to disgust the farmer with silver money. They wish to cloud the real issue, namely, the demand for the use of silver as primary or redemption money. Farmers if you are forced to take only silver for your cotton this fall put it down as a scheme of the bankers to further fasten upon the vitals of the country the continuously contracting and ever appreciating single gold standard.

The schools of our city are opening for the new years work. The public schools, the university and Noble Institute for Boys opened last week, each having a good attendance. Within two weeks all of our educational institutions will be in full blast. Anniston is fast becoming an educational center.

The indications are that the car shops and furnaces will be put in operation by the first of January. With these industries running at their full capacity, if the farmer could get ten cents for his cotton and a good price for his other produce, our people would take on new life. Let us hope for such a state of affairs.

Local nor county politics has yet claimed the attention of our people. If so it has not been made public. It is not discussed on the streets. When the proper time comes we will doubtless have our share of the lightning rods erected. We have much good material out of which splendid public servants could be made.

Quite a number of our lawyers are attended the Cleburne circuit court during the past two weeks. No town in the state excels this for up-to-date attorneys.

Parker Memorial Baptist church is without a pastor, Dr. Clopton having resigned about a month ago.

The September interest of the city bonds has been paid.

Mr. and Mrs. James B Goodwin are spending the summer in Colorado.

Editor M. A. Smith is drinking the resuscitating water of Tate spring.

Quite a number of our people will attend the Camp meeting at Pescoburg.

Messrs. Longmore and Beavers, of Columbiana are furnishing their recently opened law office in the Security Bank building.

The fruit season is passing away.

Foster Stockton, the popular city editor of the Hot Blast, has returned from a visit to Georgia relatives.

If the court house question is settled, why does Sam Slim keep discussing it?

PIEDMONT.

It always seems to be a good sign when work is going on at any place and employment is thereby furnished to those who would otherwise be idle and empty pocketed.

Mr. Hibble's mill, both saw and grist, is merrily humming.

Mr. Cook's new residence on Main Street is nearly completed.

Mr. Clark has a new house almost finished, on Centre Avenue.

The frame is up for a new store between the railroad and Capt. Hood's store. It is owned by Mr. Fomby, of Spring Garden, who is already in business here with Mr. Aderholdt.

Mr. Cobia is laying down lumber for a new planing and grist mill, near Hughes gin house.

Mr. Collins, of Tecumseh, has moved down to put his children in school. He occupies the old Sharpe residence, vacated by T. R. Sparks.

The Crazy Tea was well attended last Friday night notwithstanding the heavy rain that fell in the afternoon flooding the face of the earth.

This scribe is now, since supper, convinced of the fact that people do like iced tea and cocoanut cake, likewise all other good things to eat. Quite a neat little sum was realized.

The broom factory is to open up soon, Mr. Collins having purchased the plant, and the Piedmont broom will soon sweep clean again.

Mr. Will Harris, of Port Tampa Fla., is visiting his father's family.

Rev. J. G. Walker and lady, of Jacksonville, visited relatives here last week.

Miss. Daisy McCollister, who has been visiting friends in Stanton, Selma and Ellinor, for quite awhile, returned home last week.

Miss Kiser, of Birmingham, is visiting Miss Mary Lou Moody.

Mr. J. C. Wickes, of Tallapoosa, is a frequent visitor to our city. Saturday, Sunday and Monday he spent here.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church, which was to have begun on last Saturday, has been postponed until the second Sunday in next month.

Mrs. Graham, of Oxford, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Palmer, of this place.

SCHENCKS SPRINGS.

Rev. Paul Castlebury, of Tallapoosa county, filled Rev. B. B. Nunnelly's appointment at Post Oak last Sunday.

Mrs. George Vice is very sick with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Stevenson visited the springs last Sunday.

After a week of dry weather, this vicinity was visited by a fine rain last Saturday.

Beat 19 dont want any stock law nor any other law that does not take in the whole county.

Let every body attend the meet- of the alliance here next Thursday and Friday and be sure to bring well-filled baskets, as the 12 o'clock will be the most important hour of the day.

I notice in last week's issue that it is becoming fashionable to put the girls up to be kissed for the benefit of the church. You bet if they ever put my girl up to be kissed by just any one who may come along, I'll tear up the earth and knock some one into the mid' dle of nowhere.

OXFORD

The Wall Street and eastern gold bug view of the financial question is about the same as the British gold bug view of it, as expressed in the London Times which says that for them higher prices has no charms. They like low prices the the lower the better, because they have nothing to sell and a great many things to buy. That's it. Great Britain wants to buy our cotton and corn and wheat, our bonds and a great many other things. And a single gold standard makes money scarce. The dollar comes high, and our truck and trade goes low. Why it is that we people should feel it to our interest to legislate for the benefit of Great Britain is hard to understand. But our gold bug republicans say that they understand it and they have taught our gold bug democrats until they say they understand it too.

They have started out on a campaign to teach us bimetallists the importance, and the necessity, and the unbounded benefits that will accrue to us in keeping one half of our redemption money as a comodity. In other words they have started out to teach us that we would grow fat, and slick, and rich and prosperous on half rations. The campaign of education was set in motion, and the very best teachers in the whole country—even the members of Mr. Cleveland's official household taught the people till they became disgusted and quit, saying that the people were not capable of being educated. I studied, and studied, and studied at that lesson, but I never could learn that if I fed my hog just half enough he would fatten faster than when I fed him all he could eat. Every time it would figure out that half feed wont fatten a hog, but give him all he can eat and he'll boo at you and be lively and make much bacon and lard.

If half rations wont fatten a hog. I cannot see how it will make a government rich and prosperous and a people happy. The REPUBLICANS put us on half rations in 1873, and the gold bug democrats are assisting them to keep us on half rations. We are getting thin, our bones are sticking out, our eyes sinking in, and we are well nigh gone up. We have things to sell, but the price is so low, that we cannot pay our debts. And while this is so, our eastern gold bug brethren chime in with the London Times and say! "For those who have things to sell, we do not feel any great concern."

SAM SLIM.

MINK.

A. B. Hollingsworth and wife were the guests of C. A. J. Hollingsworth last Saturday night and Sunday.

J. R. Atkins and Lee Boozer made a flying visit to Coats Bend last Sunday.

A. A. Williams made a flying visit to Schencks Springs last Sunday afternoon.

A party of young people went over to H. H. Boozer's Tuesday evening to have a "table raising" in honor of Misses Willie Lauders, of Jacksonville, and Katie Landers, of Colvins Gap. These young ladies are spending a few weeks with their aunt, Mrs. H. H. Boozer.

The writer attended the first day of the Sunday School Convention at Anniston last Thursday. All parts of the county were represented. Much interest is being manifested in this work, and we hope much good will result.

We were at the closing exercises of Prof. Stovall's school last Saturday night. The entertainment was opened by a torch light procession the children marching to the church house at Asbury. The house was called to order by the professor, and prayer was opened by Rev. Thos. Nisbet. Then came the speeches and dialogues of the little folks, and, in the absence of our worthy county superintendent, who was billed for a speech, two of our trustees, A. A. Williams and C. A. J. Hollingsworth, Prof. P. I. Stovall, of Francis, and Rev. Thos. Nisbet all responded to a call, and made short, but interesting talks on education. Success to Prof. Stovall. May his life work be a success.

Our fodder is about all pulled and cotton is rapidly opening.

The fruit season is passing away.

Foster Stockton, the popular city editor of the Hot Blast, has returned from a visit to Georgia relatives.

If the court house question is settled, why does Sam Slim keep discussing it?

CHOCCOLOCCO.

The cotton worm has made its appearance in our cotton fields. We do not think it will do much damage as the season is too far advanced.

Crops are not good with us. Some of our best judges place cotton at one half a crop, and corn one third short.

Mr. Walter Heifner has a new mower and is cutting grass for his neighbors.

Mr. Hudson closed his school at this place last Friday.

Dr. Scott baptized four persons at the mill last Sunday.

Rev. Jones commences meeting at the academy next Sabbath.

S. N. Milligan will buy cotton for the Howell Cotton Company, at this place this fall.

Mr. Emerson Scarbrough and his three youngest children stopped over three days with relatives, on his way from New York to his home in Austin, Texas.

Mr. Henry Woodruff and wife, and Mr. Dorrah Watson, of Anniston, have been visiting A. B. Scarbrough.

Sam Slim has been visiting friends in the valley.

Mr. A. J. H. Borders has been quite sick but is much better.

Miss Jessie Davis has gone to south Alabama to teach school. We are sorry to lose her sunny face from our community.

We regret to announce that Miss Bettie Rhodes is sick.

Mrs. Kelly has been quite sick, but is much better at this writing.

Miss Linnie Parker, of Cleburne, is visiting the family of Mrs. Rhodes.

Mrs. English and Laurence, her daughter, will move to Jacksonville soon to place her grand children in school.

MORRISVILLE.

Miss Carrie Morris school will close Friday 13th and her pupils are preparing to have a concert at night. They anticipate having a good time.

Cotton is opening very fast in some places and it will not be long before the noise of the gin will be heard seperating the fleecy staple from the seed.

Mr. H. H. Usry, of Crook's Bend, is teaching a writing school at this place. He is a good teacher.

Dr. P. H. Brothers has bought the Morris gin and all the machinery. He is locating his gin at Polkville, and will soon be ready to accommodate the public in the way of ginning cotton.

Mr. Jas. F. Nunnelly, of Owensville, is one of our most progressive men. He raises his own meat, bread, syrup and tobacco, and has erected a cotton factory for the purpose of manufacturing at least a portion of his cotton crop into cloth. His factory is on a small scale, but he will enlarge it as the necessities of his family require.

Mr. J. T. Vinson, of Boozer, was in town this morning.

WEAVERS.

About the heaviest rain of the season fell here last Friday, but the prospects now are for better weather. But little fodder and hay has been saved, clear of rain.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Weaver, of Charleston, W. Va, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Moon, of Lineville, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. T. L. Weaver.

Miss Laura Weaver has returned from Choccolocco after a stay of several weeks there.

Mr. J. F. Marston has gone to Birmingham to work at the carpenters trade.

Rev. T. K. Troster and wife, of Duke, spent Tuesday night with the family of Mr. James Haralson.

Mrs. D. F. Weaver, after spending a few days with relatives in Oxford, has returned home.

Mr. Granville Kilgore and Miss Minnie Ridinger, both of this place were married last Thursday afternoon and are now housekeeping in the residence of the late Rev. J. K. Spencer.

The health of our community is improving.

Conference of Old Style Democrats.

The State Largely Represented by Patriotic Leaders.

Ringing Letter From Senator Morgan.

RESOLUTIONS IN FAVOR OF THE COINAGE OF BOTH METALS.

The Bimetallists to Have a Thorough Organization in Alabama.

In response to a call of the Alabama delegation to the recent national conference held at Washington, a large number of Democrats assembled in Birmingham last Tuesday in a conference, the object of which was to take steps to secure the organization of the democratic forces in Alabama favoring the time-honored principles of the party.

Notwithstanding only a few days notice had been given, the conference was largely attended, —nearly every available seat in Erswell's spacious hall being filled by prominent democrats from all sections of Alabama.

The conference was harmonious and enthusiastic, and from the reports from the different sections of the state, there is no doubt in the mind of any man who attended but that a large majority of the democrats in Alabama favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1.

Col. Jos. Hodgson, of Mobile, having been invested with such authority by the national conference, called the meeting to order and stated its object.

TEMPORARY OFFICERS

President, John W. A. Sanford, of Montgomery.

Col. S. W. John moved that the delegates present from the different counties hand in their names for enrollment:

Chandler, Joseph F. Johnston, W. C. Garrett, C. McAdory, R. F. Wetmore, W. P. Pluckard, Mark Rittenbury, W. J. Vann, B. W. Taylor, J. F. B. Jackson, William Bethea, Joseph Montgomery, R. G. Hewitt, George S. Emmett, Samuel Faucett, J. J. Altman, Robert Warnock, R. J. Lowe, W. P. Hickman, L. H. May, J. De B. Hooper, H. M. Wilson, Telfair Hodgson, James A. Bivings, W. B. Burton, S. W. Johns, J. C. Read, C. P. Hickman, James O'Keefe, A. S. Elliott, John W. Tomlinson, John T. Milner, W. K. Terry, J. M. Arnold, A. O. Lane, N. S. Miller, C. A. Senn, Jno. C. Carmichael, and R. H. Fries.

At this juncture the audience began calling for Senator Pugh. In response to the call, Senator Pugh came forward, and among other things said:

"The democratic party of Alabama and the national democracy have made their record on the equal use and coinage of both metals, without discrimination, and when they made thier last declaration in 1892 there was not a democrat in the land who did not believe that it meant the equal use of both gold and silver. There was not a democrat elected in Alabama, or in the southern states, that the district from which they were elected had not declared for coinage at 16 to 1.

"There has never been any mistake as to where the democratic party stood. If there has been any failure it is not the fault of the party. The party may have been mistaken in its officials and I hope that in the future we will not make a similar mistake. When the constitution was framed and the country organized there was not a country in the world on a single gold standard. There is not one on a single standard today that is satisfied—not one today where the people are not clamorous for silver. There is not a country on the double basis where the people are dissatisfied with their currency.

"There would have been a free coinage law operating today in this country if the pledges of the party had been obeyed. The repeal of the Sherman law which put this country on a gold basis was passed in opposition to the democrats of both houses of congress. It was not an expression of democracy. By the repeal of that law the country was put on a gold basis not on account of its own acts but on account of those who have disappointed the party in carrying out its pledges. It is conceded by the gold standard advocates that the government cannot be administered on a gold standard basis in the present condition of our financial system.

"I predict that Mr. Cleveland's next message will declare for additional legislation to maintain the gold basis. That means that the gold trunk is too slim to support the limbs put out by the silver and gold basis. The coin basis has been contracted and will break to pieces under the weight of its limbs, and then will be demonstrated the impossibility of the single gold standard. This will happen before July next. He will ask for repeal of the law compelling the reissueing of greenbacks. He will want a number of bills repealed. He will try to get rid of greenbacks and currency notes to the amount of $300,000,000 to further contract the currency. And I predict that he will not be obeyed and neither house will aid him. He will ask for another issue of bonds to maintain the gold standard, and that will be refused. The government on the gold basis is cornered. (Applause.)

"There will never be given a right to charter state banks except as an enlargement of the national bank system.

"The next congress will prove that this country cannot be run on the gold basis except by amended legislation, and that legislation will not be adopted, and the administration will have a lot of redeemable money without the gold to dedeem it in.

"By the next convention it will be demonstrated that there can be no free coinage by international legislation and that Cleveland has tried to keep up the gold basis by wiping out the greenbacks. If Cleveland expects endorsement for his financial policy by that convention he will not get it. By that time it is possible that the gold craze will be dying out and the silver craze will be perfect sanity. If the American people are capable of self-government Mr. Cleveland will not be endorsed by the next convention. (Cheers.)

"I am with you to carry out the purposes of this convention to restore the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1. (Cheers)

Able and patriotic speeches were made by Hons. Jos. F. Johnson, Jesse F. Stallings, James Crook, Wm. Richardson, Gaston A. Robbins, J. W. A. Sanford, J. H. Bankhead and Ex-Gov. Rufus Cobb and we regret that we have not space to give at least a synopsis of their speeches.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The conference reassembled at 3:30 o'clock.

At the night session the committees appointed reported as follows:

COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

Senator Pugh read the following report from the committee on resolutions, which was adopted by a unanimous vote of the conference.

"Resolved, that we members of the democratic party participating in this conference, do hereby declare our approval of, and adherance to the wise principles of democracy which for so many years promoted the prosperity, and enhanced the glory of our county.

And whereas, the question of currency is the paramount issue; therefore be it,

"Resolved, that we believe in the equal coinage and use of both gold and silver as the standard and legal tender money of the country, without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage.

"Resolved, that we favor free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without the consent or permission of any foreign government; upon this declaration of principles we invite all democrats of Alabama to unite with us in sending delegates to our state and national conventions, who will enunciate these doctrines and policies without equivocation evasion or possibility of misconstruction, and nominate candidates who will fearlessly execute the will of the party so declared and enunciated.

The following report of the committee on organization was then read and adopted unanimously:

COMMITTEE ON ORGANIZATION.

We, your committee on organization, recommend that the temporary officers of this conference be made permanent.

2. That the list of delegates enrolled by the secretaries be entitled to seats in the conference.

3. That we recommend John W. Tomlinson, of Jefferson, as a suitable person for the position on the democratic national bimetallic executive committee from Alabama.

4. We recommend the selection of a campaign committee consisting of two members from each congressional district, and two members from the state at large, and urge a thorough organization of the state.

Respectfully submitted.

M. A. Mason,
Chairman.

The committee on campaign literature reports as follows:

"The committee recommends the appointment of a permanent committee on campaign literature, one for each county in the state, whose duty shall be, in connection with campaign committeemen of its county, to obtain and distribute literature on the financial question now being discussed before the people.

"The committe further recommends the appointment of a sub-committee on campaign literature."

Seventh—W. H. Norris, of Franklin, and T. M. Jones, of St. Clair.

Eighth—George C. Hunt, of Jackson, and George P. Jones, of Launderdale.

DELEGATES AT LARGE.

James Crook, Calhoun; William Richardson, Sam Will John and Gen. John W A Sanford were elected as delegates at large.

Senator John T Morgan was sick and not able to attend the conference, but sent letter by Senator Pugh The letter was read by Dr T W Ayers, and it created the greatest enthusiasm We will publish it in full in the next issue the REPUBLICAN

A patriotic letter was also sent to the conference by General Joe Wheeler.

COLONEL JOHN CHAIRMAN.

After the adjournment the executive committee held a brief session to elect officers. Colonel S. W. John was chosen chairman, and the power of appointing a secretary was left to him. The committee adjourned without transacting further important business.

LADIGA.

There is plenty of sickness in this neighborhood. The question most often heard now is; How many chills at your house today.

Mrs. J. R. Graham is expected home today from an extended visit to relatives in Oxford and Anniston.

S. D. Savage and family, with Mrs. M. A. Wilson went to Anniston on Monday

Mrs. T. B. Palmer, of Piedmont, visited relatives here last Tuesday.

Rev. P. H. Brewster of Piedmont was with relatives here one day last week.

Little Miss Marie Graham entered school at Piedmont last Monday.

We forgot to tell you in our last that Mr. Rowland (our John) had visited friends here. If he is as successful in winning the girl he loved as he is in capturing lawbreakers he will have little truble when smitten with matrimonial fever.

There has been so much rain that very little fodder has been pulled around here. Cotton is opening very fast.

THE REPUBLICAN.

English Candor.

It has been repeatedly held by the REPUBLICAN and other bimetallist papers that under gold monometallism it was impossible for the people of the United States to enjoy more than a temporary reaction in the downward trend of prices. Such an idea has been hooted at by those who took the opposite view, and to those who expressed it has been given the name of "calamity howler," while its truthfulness was stoutly and vehemently denied.

We do not for a moment deny that it is a protest against a movement that, if continued, will in the words of Mr. Carlisle, bring more distress to the people of this country than war pestilence and famine. We take the position now that it is far better to refuse to bend the knee to Baal, than in the future to be obliged to "sit by the rivers of Babylon" and tune our harps to a song of lamentation in which shall be recounted the faded glories and triumphs of the past.

But it is indeed remarkable, that while the English press agree with us on the point that gold monometallism means lower prices for us, its satellites on this side of the water tell us that it is untrue. It would appear that if these Anglo-Americans endorse the English policy, it were more honest if they would come up, and accept the arguments which England puts forward in its favor. But no. They are too well aware of the fact that when they do this they but unmask their guns, and their deception being known, the concentrated fire of the descendants of the Revolution will be turned upon them and a second struggle for American independence will be precipitated.

The London Times, one of the strongest, and ablest, and most candid monometallists in England had this to say in an issue of several weeks ago:

"It seems impossible to get bimetallists to understand that there is quite a large number of us for whom a general rise of prices has no charms whatever. We like them low, and the lower the better. If they all went down to half their present figures we should rejoice, because we have nothing to sell and a great many things to buy. For those who have things to sell we do not have any great concern.

"In a nutshell it has thus been stated. England is a buyer and wants low prices. We are the greatest producer of the world. Do we too want lower prices? England 'likes prices low, the lower the better.' Does the cotton farmer, the cattle and hog raiser, the wheat and corn grower of America want them so? England would rejoice if prices "went down to half their present figures," because England has nothing to sell, and a great many things to buy." Instead of cotton selling at seven cents, England desires it and is working to place it, at three and one half cents. At the same time that she is doing this she is also arranging to rob the producer of cotton of the very clothes that hide the nakedness of himself and his family.

"Yet in the face of all this there are those on this side of the Atlantic who (we say nothing of their motive) are working to fasten upon the shoulders of American agriculture a burden that will be unbearable. Let them pause and consider the frank statements of the English press. Let them study dy the effect already produced. Let them take warning that in their blind worship of foreign policies, they are leading a Trojan horse within the citadel of our independence that will in time bring about conditions more to be dreaded than war, pestilence and famine."

Government Ownership of Railroads.

Just at this time, when the question of the free coinage of silver is absorbing so much of the time and attention of the people of the United States, they are likely, in their attempt to relieve the troubles of our country by the establishment of bimetallism, to overlook and fail to take notice of an evil that threatens their prosperity and their liberty, and which, if successful, would more than undo, at one fell stroke, all the good that might be done by restoring silver to its time honored position of equal recognition with gold at the mints of the land. We refer to the agencies now at work in this country, the tendency of which is towards a centralized form of government.

It has been one of the great arguments of American bimetallists that the gold standard was the work of English greed and that it was fast reducing us to a condition similar to that of all strong governments, in that, the masses were growing poorer and more dependent, while the holders of capital were growing richer, and more powerful. In other words, their position was, that we had a money despotism in America, as hurtful to the liberty of the whole people, as are the autocratic and monarchial forms of government of Europe.

The evil to which we refer as threatening the liberty of our people is that of the centralization of power at Washington. The less governing our government has to do the better for the governed. The less power that is placed in the hands of the chief executive and his administration the less likely are they to abuse that power. Enlarge that power, and the greed of the administration is fanned into a flame, which will be satisfied with nothing short of absolute control.

If there is any one thing, that should cause American citizens to halt and consider their wild advocacy of the the governmental ownership of railroads and telegraph lines it is the conduct of the last two administrations in the use of federal office holders to control and divert the will of the people whose servants they are. If Benjamin Harrison had added to his army of two hundred thousand federal officials, the eight hundred thousand that work on our railroads and telegraph systems, Grover Cleveland would not today be president, for in spite of all the efforts of the people. Harrison would have been re-elected.

If Grover Cleveland today could marshal this political standing army of one million men, where is the force short of a bloody insurrection, that could be called into the field and defeat him in his efforts to be three times elected President of these United States? Nay, more than that! Where is the power that could prevent either him or any other selfish leader from proclaiming himself Dictator, and assuming the power of the Russian Autocrat?

Whenever the government takes charge as owner, of these vast industries which of right belong to individuals, it is a step that at once places us where we must begin the most terrific struggle for liberty that history shall recount.

The free and unlimited coinage of silver is a necessity. Monometallism is to be avoided. But let us not, while steering the ship of state safely past this gold Charybdis which threatens it, be dashed to pieces upon this more dangerous Scylla of centralization.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW, the big republican railroad magnate whom, to fill with a good dinner, is to fill with plenty of talk, is visiting England. While away he is telling the English people what he knows (as well as what he does not know) about the complexion of American politics. Among other things which Chauncey says is, that Grover Cleveland is the only logical and available candidate for the democratic nomination at the next national convention. In fact, this great after dinner improvisatore thinks that Mr. Cleveland is sure to be selected by the party.

No one doubts for a moment that Chauncey would be delighted to witness such a consumation. The fact is, Chauncey would in all probability vote for the democratic nominee in such a case. But Chauncey, in his ardent desire for such a condition, has let his tongue run away with his intelligence. He is dead wrong. Grover Cleveland will come nearer being the nominee of Chauncey's party next year than that of the democratic party.

H. C. TOMPKINS and Wm. C. Oates ought not to feel hurt that Mr. Dick Clark was selected to meet Bankhead in debate at Montgomery. Bankhead will make a "spectacle" of Mr. Clark, and either of the other gentlemen would have suffered a similar fate had he been selected.

Fair Elections.

The time has come when the avocation of the ballot box stuffer should cease, when every election should be fairly and honestly conducted and every ballot counted as cast. We fully endorse the following editorial from the Atlanta Constitution:

"The contest that is now going on in the tenth congressional district is of more than ordinary interest. Apart from the fact that it is a re-trial of strength between the democrats and populists of that section it has other noteworthy features. Both sides have determined to have a fair election, and both sides are apparently working for that result with an ardor that ought to be an example not only to the whole state but to the whole south.

Congressman Black, the democratic candidate, resigned his seat in the house because his opponent charged that there had been frauds in the election, especially in Augusta. Major Black has been criticised for his course, and yet it was the act of a sensitively honest man who could not bear to have his title to a political office smirched by any cry of fraud even though it came from a political opponent. By his action he has won the respect and esteem even of his opponents.

Next Wednesday the registration list in the tenth will close, and every name on the list ought to represent a qualified voter. By means of the lists the people in the tenth district can prevent any fraud and any attempt at fraud. Congressman Black has spoken in favor of fair elections in a way that permits no doubt of his earnestness, and the other side seems to be equally in earnest. Consequently it seems to be certain that the people will be satisfied with the result of the election, no matter which way it turns.

The reform that is under way in the tenth district should be carried out in every district and state in the south. The ballot box should be made to register the will of the people. Honest elections are the essence of liberty; they are the foundation and basis of republican and democratic institutions. One fraudulent vote is an insult to every voter in the republic. We must have a free ballot and a fair count not only in the tenth district but in every county and district in the country.

To this end the people of the tenth district are setting a most wholesome example."

State Normal School.

The thirteenth annual session of the State normal School at Jacksonville begins next Tuesday.

From present indications, the attendance will be larger this year than any year since its existence.

Not only will the attendance be larger, but from new features which have been added, it will be a better school than it has been at any time since it was established.

Not only will the attendance be larger, not only will the school be greatly improved, but the charges for attendance are less than at any time since the school was founded.

The tuition in the public school department and the normal department is free and no charges made for tuition except in the academic department. This will enable families to move here and educate their children for a less amount of money than at any other place in Alabama, and we hope to see many of the families of this county avail themselves of this opportunity to educate their children.

No young man or young woman in this section who expects to teach should fail to attend this school.

One of its diplomas will entitle its holder to teach any where in Alabama without standing examination. Its graduates are in demand, and those who are now teaching can come here and graduate and readily secure schools which will pay them two to three times as much as the schools which they now teach. We know a number of young teachers in this and adjoining counties who make a great mistake not to come here and take the normal course in this school. It will not only better prepare them to teach, but from a financial standpoint will be the best investment they can possibly make. It will not only enable them to teach more satisfactorily to themselves and patrons, but will put money in their pockets by enabling them to get better schools and better pay than they are now able to secure.

All friends to young teachers in this section should urge them to come to Jacksonville and take the course in the normal school. In doing this they will not only do a work in the interest of the teachers, but in the interest of our public schools.

Let The People Rule.

Sunday's issue of the Daily State, contained an editorial entitled "Union and Harmony" that is well worth the attention of every democrat in Alabama. It takes the position that it is the views of the Advertiser, that no man should be admitted to the primaries and conventions of the party unless he voted for the democratic nominees at the last election, be adopted, it means danger and probable defeat for the party. The State says:

"It is said by the Advertiser and those whose views are expressed by that journal that no man who did not vote the democratic ticket at the last election should be allowed to vote for delegates to the next convention. It seems to us that that is a very narrow view to take of a most vital question. It is not the policy which constrained the leaders of 1870 to call upon all white men to join in their first convention. It is not the policy which refused for twenty years to clothe an executive committee with power to apply tests. It may be good policy for those who do not wish to see representation grow and machinery decline, but it is bad policy for a party which has been rent in twain and which needs the return of its old followers. There is not a fair-minded man in Alabama today who can say that this state government is not a minority government. The best that can be said is that it is matter of grave doubt. Such a condition is intolerable. It is debasing to all men of conscience. The sooner it is cured the better for white rule and for the democratic party.

With an earnest desire to keep Alabama under the rule of the white race we submit to the leaders of the party whether it is not expedient to open the door and to invite into our conventions all those who favor democratic supremacy in state and nation. It is only by that supremacy that Alabama can escape another period of reconstruction and the shame that would follow.

This doubtless grates harshly on the ears of machine politicians throughout Alabama. But be that as it may, it is the voice of reason and of justice. The success of the party in Alabama depends upon the adoption of these simple rules of justice. It can be said that the prosperity of our state demands their adoption.

If there be those claiming to be democrats who believe that free men must do penance at the threshhold of Democracy before entering her portals, by that very belief they prove themselves aliens to a knowledge of the true meaning of the name our party bears. We are a conservative party, not a despotic or autocratic one, and as conservative democrats we have no right to lay down the rigid rules by which conventions and primaries in the beats are to be controlled.

We cannot believe that the executive committee will take any other view of this matter than that so ably expressed in The Daily State. It is highly improbable that it will follow the dictatorial lead of the Montgomery Advertiser, and usurp an authority that was not delegated to it by its creator, the convention of 1894.

That Headache!

You have sick headache occasionally, with sour stomach and biliousness. This ail comes from a sluggish action of the liver.

There are three things you can do. You can take liver pills which cleanse the whole system out but leave you weakened and exhausted. Or you can consult a physician, which is a good but expensive plan. Now there is a third and better course. You can have the physician's advice and his remedies both for 25c.

Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. He will give you two boxes of medicine. These boxes contain exactly what every leading doctor prescribes. You first take a Ramon's Pill which opens the bowels easily and naturally, without violence. You then take the Ramon's Tonic Pellets daily for a fortnight.

They contain a powerful Tonic and Blood Purifier, which makes a new creature of you. At the same time they keep the bowels mildly active. Try it once.

At all dealers, or mail, for 25c., 5 boxes $1.00.

GENL. CHAS. M. SHELEY was in Montgomery for a few days this week, and the rumor got afloat that he came to look into his chances to be elected Governor of Alabama next time on a gold platform.

Gen'l Shelley has been away from Alabama most all of his time for several years, and has lived in washington City. We do not know whether he desires to be Governor of this state, nor do we know whether he is a gold bug. But this we do know. If he is a gold bug, he need not expect to be the next Governor of Alabama.

We do not make this statement to disparage Gen'l Shelley's claims.

We are surprised to hear him classed with the gold bugs. If Gen'l Shelley really believes in the so-called "sound money" fallacy, he is simply out of touch with his people, and of course cannot reasonably expect their suffrage.

MISS GERTRUDE VANDERBILT, daughter of the New York millionaire, Cornelius Vanderbilt, is soon to be married to a young New Yorker, who bears the plebeian name of Moses Taylor. Miss Gertrude has doubtless made this assault upon her pride, solely for the purpose of showing her opinion of Miss Gould's wild rush at a French Count. After all, "Mose My Darling," will sound just as affectionately, as "My Dear Count." It will be vastly more American.

MR. BANKHEAD will meet Mr. Clak in joint debate at Montgomery sometime in October. Mr. Clarke is one of the few in the south who, like Hoke Smith and Herbert, was educated after he went to Washington. He will find that an educated man is not always an educator, for Bankhead will tear his specious arguments to tatters, when he gets him before a Montgomery audience.

ED. C. CALDWELL,
Sheriff of Calhoun County, Alabama. 3t.

Notice.

I wish to call the attention of the farmers of Calhoun county that I am still selling the Hattie Clide subsoil Clodless Turning Plow. This plow is the best plow now in use. It is the best because you get the depth without turning up the clay or subsoil. It raises the clay, pulverizing it and drops it back in the furrow.

The Hattie Clide Plow comes in the reach of every farmer to subsoil his land from 5 to 7 inches deep in gray land and from 4 to 6 inches in red land without exposing the clay to the sun and air.

If you expose the clay to the sun and air you lose a certain per cent of the productive qualities of your land, and by using this plow you can avoid this loss entirely, from the fact that the plow has a five inch slot in the wing that lets the clay pass through and falls back into the furrow and turnes the soil on top of the ground only. The subsoil is rich in plant food—phosphate of lime, potash, ammonia and iron, which lie dormant and useless until the subsoil is broken and mellowed by the chemical effect of the air. This subsoil should not be exposed to the surface because the sun and air evaporates and destroys the properties.

By the use of H. C. plow your crop will not suffer from a five or six weeks drouth. Because in subsoiling your land in the fall, winter or spring, you are then laying in water to make your crop with next summer; for by subsoiling or deep plowing the water penetrates the ground thoroughly.

The H. C. Plow is a steel plow easily kept up. It is not like other plows, have to lay it aside when you have your land prepared, but you cultivate your crop with it up to the second plowing. By the use of the H. C. plow you will make from one-fourth to one-third more than you will with the ordinary plow, unless you subsoil, and if you subsoil with the old method it will cost you the expense of 4 mules and 2 hands to get 8 inches, where the H. C. Plow will get 8 inches with but 2 mules and one hand. I refer you to the following named parties who have been using the H. C. plows:

J. F. Smith and Cheatwood, Oxford, Ala.

William Hughes, Choccoloco, Ala.

John Pruett, Jonas Aderholt, S. R. Wilkerson, Maj. P. Rowan, } Jacksonville, Ala.

FROM Wall Street TO Newgate

BY AUSTIN B. DWELL

AT 10 O'CLOCK Brea sent a messenger with a note to the bankers, requesting them to send the bonds to Edwin James' office, and he would pay for them on delivery. He could not come himself, as he was in consultation with the executors of the estate.

In the meantime a check for the full value of the bonds, $240,000, had been made out. It was drawn on the Chemical bank and was, in fact, similar to those always given between bankers on bond transactions.

Brea had drawn his own check for $240, and had it in his hatband along with the $240,000 dummy check. The plan is palpable enough. When the messenger brought the bonds, Brea, or Newman, was going to say: "All right, I have the check here. Bring the bonds, and we will go to the Chemical bank and get them to certify my check." Then when at the bank he would take out both checks, letting the messenger only get a glimpse of one, and that one would be the small $240 one, which Brea would pass in through the window with request to have it certified. This would be done, and when handed out of course Brea was to change it and hand the messenger the big one of home manufacture.

The night before the expected coup we met James for a final full dress rehearsal for the morrow, and after everything was settled adjourned to the up town Delmonico's for supper. It so happened that Detective George Elder was there. He had some acquaintance with me, but the rest of the party were strangers. I did not see him at the time, but it would seem he was curious, even suspicious, from some scraps of conversation he overheard. However, neither his curiosity nor suspicion would have been of any consequence or concern to us had it not been that in going out Brea left on the table with some papers the memorandum or pro forma bill of the bonds given him the day before by the bankers. Strangely enough, the body of the bill alone was intact. The heading bearing the name of the firm and purchaser had been torn off and destroyed.

Elder picked it up, and having some vague suspicions of a plot somewhere he determined to go around among the hundred or more bankers and brokers in and around Wall street and investigate quietly, without making any report to his superiors, his immediate superior being of course our honest friend, the worthy chief of the detective force, who was anxiously looking for his percentage of the deal. The whole force was split up into cliques, each intensely jealous of every other, each with its own stamping grounds, and each strictly protecting his own preserves.

At 9:30 the next morning Elder started around, carrying the fragment of the memorandum he had picked up from bank to bank and from one broker to the other. He had spent over an hour making inquiries and walked into Jay Cooke & Co.'s office just as the messenger was leaving with the bonds for James' office. Fifteen minutes more, and the game was ours. Elder produced the memorandum, and they at once recognized it as their own. Elder asked them if they knew their man and were sure it was all right.

They said it was perfectly right, that Mr. "Newman" had been introduced by the head of the firm in Philadelphia and was also a client of Edwin James, but then it was strange the bill should be mutilated. Elder averred his belief that a fraud was intended and suggested that he and the manager should accompany the messenger with the bonds. This alarmed the manager, and he directed Elder and the messenger to await his return. Seizing his hat, he started for James' office to investigate. James was there, and Brea, the pseudo Newman, was in the private office with two checks ready, anxiously awaiting the arrival of the messenger with the bonds.

"I suppose you will pay currency for the bonds!"

Myself and all the other members of our party were near by, watching and awaiting developments. The manager, considerably perturbed, entered the office, and James saw at once the business was a failure, for he knew of course that any suspicion as to good faith would be fatal to the success of the plot. Brea, hearing the voices and supposing it was the messenger with the bonds, opened the door of the private office and was vexed to see the manager, who, shaking him by the hand, told him the bonds would arrive soon, at the same time saying, "I suppose you will pay currency for the bonds?" To which Brea replied, "I will go to my bank with you now and get my check certified for the amount and give it to you, or leave it until the messenger comes with the bonds."

This offer, along with Brea's coolness, apparently disarmed all suspicion, and he said: "Oh, all right. The messenger will go to the bank with you." He left the office, but stopped in the hall for a moment, then turned and hastily re-entering said, "By the way, Mr. Newman, please draw the currency from the bank and pay the notes to the messenger upon delivery of the bonds."

So the grand coup had failed, ignominiously failed, and through what appeared a trivial accident, but this was fate. More such "accidents" at critical periods will appear before the history is done that changed the whole course of our lives.

The dummy check was still in our hands, and was at once destroyed, so, with nothing to fear, we coolly walked up Broadway.

CHAPTER IV.

The Eastward Ho was a hint of a project we had frequently talked over as a possible speculation. Here we see how men are led on step by step from bad to worse when once they set out on the Primrose Way.

We resolved to tell Irving in a general way that we were going to Europe to make some money and would pay him and his two fellows their percentage. Then we could apparently work with impunity, for of course if we committed a forgery in Europe and were recognized as Americans—as probably we would be—the foreign police would report the case to the New York police—that is, to Irving.

Edwin James and Brea had dropped out of our lives for good, but as my readers will be curious to know of their fate in after times I will relate it in this chapter.

The $5,000 we gave James eased up matters for a time. Practice he had none, but managed to hold on in the hope of realizing on the Brea will matter, but getting deeper and deeper in debt. Brea helped him all he could, as his presence was essential if the old lady departed and the forged will was produced. One night, four years later, Brea's mother-in-law had a more than usually furious outbreak of temper and fell to beating the three daughters still living with her. Before it was over she had attacked and seriously injured the oldest, and then flew to her room in a passion. Not appearing at breakfast the next morning her daughter went to her room, but she was not there and the bed was undisturbed. Going to the room that served for office and library, they found the door as usual locked. Bursting it open the poor old maids found their mother huddled in a corner of the room dead.

The genuine will was destroyed, and the family lawyer, James, immediately after the funeral produced and read "the last will and testament" of the dead woman. The four sisters and a host of poor relations were present at the reading. When Sarah, Brea's wife, heard her name read as chief heir of the vast estate, she was stunned, but if she was stunned the rest of the family were paralyzed. Legacies were left to many, small in amount, save in the case of the other three sisters, who were to have a certain tenement and land in Harlem and $3,000 a year for life out of the estate. None of those present thought for a moment of questioning either the genuineness of the will or the validity of the testaments save only a poor relation, a nephew, whose name was down for $500. He was indignant with the old lady and loudly declared that he would not put up with it. The next day he employed a briefless lawyer, one that had wit and brass enough and who had his way to make in the world and was determined to make it.

Without waiting for the will to be probated or having legal authority to do so Brea and his wife, the very day after the funeral, moved into the house and took possession. But before the week was out he had persuaded the three old maids that they would be happier if away from the scene of their parent's death, so he had them installed in their own house at Harlem, he remaining in undisturbed possession, waiting only for the will to be probated in order to take possession of upward of $200,000 in cash and bonds still in the custody of the old lady's bank. He had full possession of the house, and with entire confidence waited to be put in legal possession of all.

But little did he dream that at that moment there was one poor torn sheet of foolscap in the library, casually thrust in a book, lying completely at his mercy to destroy if he could only have known it, which was going to tear all his wealth from his grasp and drive him forth a foiled plotter to become an adventurer and ultimately to perish a miserable outcast.

Brea then attempted negotiations with the attorney. Cautious as he was, he said enough to convince the lawyer that for some reason he did not want the case to come before the courts. Still the attorney was half inclined to join hands with Brea. In the meantime Ezra (this was the name of the man of law) had acquired great power over the sisters, and they all looked to him both as champion and protector. He resolved to be protector to one at least, paying assiduous court to Jane, the youngest. Although past 30, and without education or accomplishments, she was warm hearted and extremely sentimental, and a thrill went through her tender heart when it became evident that Ezra's attention pointed at her. She quickly made him a hero and invested the thin shanked, narrow chested, waspish attorney with a thousand tender attributes, and when, after one month's acquaintance, she found herself alone with him in the poky little parlor, and he asking her to be his wife, her woman's heart overflowed, and telling him she had loved him from the first hour they met she threw herself into his arms, crying she was the happiest and most favored woman in the world. In the midst of the happy lovers' talk she ran to the shelf, took down a book, and opening it revealed a soiled sheet of paper and asked her lover what it was. His love had given him a gift indeed. His trained eye recognized it at once as a draft of a new will in the handwriting of the deceased mother and dated the very night of her death. It was a rough draft, but across the bottom was drawn the bold, masculine signature of the old lady. There were no signatures of witnesses, but Ezra was lawyer enough to know it would stand, and that it revoked all previous wills. Calling in the two elder sisters, he read the will to their amazed ears, and then and there wrote out a full statement as to the circumstance under which it was found. All four attached their signatures to the document.

and when Ezra kissed his love a tender good night and went home he hardly felt the paving stones under his feet, for he had carefully tucked away in the inside pocket of his vest, just over his heart, the little soiled piece of paper which told him in unmistakable terms that his fortune was made, and the wedding ceremony once over that it was beyond all chance of change.

Before the discovery of the new will, while it was believed that Mrs. Brea was an heiress and her credit good, she and her husband had made use of the fact, and had incurred debts to a large amount. Brea got his wife to indorse his note for $10,000, and he borrowed that sum from the bankers, but as soon as the true state of the case was known his creditors became clamorous and had him arrested on civil suits. Unable to give bonds, he was locked up in Ludlow Street jail, and there he remained six months, until, acting upon Ezra's advice, the sisters agreed to pay all his debts and give him and his wife $1,000 each if they would live west of Chicago. This they were forced to accept and went to Montana. Brea opened a saloon at Butte City, but he never recovered his spirits again. He became his own best customer, and that of course meant ruin, but what, after all, killed him was the knowledge that he had been for more than a score of days in full possession of that old house and had spent scores of hours alone in the old library and yet had not discovered and destroyed the now will lying there at his mercy.

The sheriff soon sold out his saloon, while his wife eloped with his best friend. Ruined in pocket, health and character, poor old Brea was left bare to every storm that blew. One morning, as the sun was rising over the town, surprising half a dozen belated gamblers in Ned Wright's saloon as they were getting up to leave, they found lying across the threshold the body of a man, ragged, emaciated, forlorn. It was Brea.

As soon as James had read the will he insisted upon having $5,000 from Brea at once, and he got the money. But when that thunderbolt of the new will fell on the two men James sadly recognized that fortune and he would shake hands no more, so far as this world is concerned, and he resolved to chance returning to London before the whole of the $5,000 he had from Brea was gone. To London he went. He lived a few years in extreme poverty, driven to all manner of miserable shifts, and at last died.

This man died who ought to have been buried in Westminster abbey, so adding one more brilliant name to the long line of illustrious lord chancellors from Thomas a Becket and Cardinal Wolsey down, but he, hating his own soul, took the first step in wrongdoing, and instead of resting in the mighty abbey and bequeathing his dust as a precious legacy to succeeding generations perished forlorn and alone and was buried in a pauper's grave.

We all landed in Liverpool in the highest spirits and at once took the train for London, enjoying the novelty of everything.

Therefore, after completing certain preparations which required skill and considerable business knowledge, we departed to execute this new and of course last shuffle for fortune.

After we saw George off to Paris on the train Mac and I walked up and down the platform outside of the station, star gazing. Mac, with his brilliant scholarship, elegant speech, logical force and fiery enthusiasm, made a most fascinating companion.

The study of mankind is man, the old proverb says; but, like many other proverbs, there is a full measure of unreality in it. It takes a good amount of arrogance and conceit for one to fancy he is going to study and understand men. No man can understand himself, and by no amount of experience or study will he ever come to understand that subtle thing he calls his mind or understand the motives that sway him.

I only wish one of those scientists who study the human mind could have sat in mind that night, have thought his thoughts and heard his speech, while remaining ignorant of our history and mission. Mac's mind was a storehouse of erudition, his memory a picture gallery whose chambers were gilded and decorated with many a glowing canvas. As a child he was familiar with the Bible, the Old Testament particularly, and, improbable as it seems, was still a diligent student of holy writ.

His mind was completely saturated with Bible imagery, yet there we were with our pockets full of forged documents walking up and down that platform star gazing, while he talked with intelligent enthusiasm of those silver flowers in the darkened sky, of stellar space, how in its infinity it proved the presence of Deity; that with him there was no great and no little; that a thought sweeping across the God given mind of an infant was as wonderful and as much an evidence of power as the millioned arch of radiant suns in the milky way. While speeding through Belgium on our way to the Rhine he continued until the sun shone upon the horizon at times, talking like an inspired prophet of God's purposes to man and of the destiny of our race. It was something to stir one's enthusiasm to see his sublime faith in the mighty destiny of man, and to listen to him tell of the dignity and grace of every human soul and his sure faith that all would be garnered in the mighty plains of heaven, and he meant and felt it all. Yes, meant all he said, believed all he said, believed that he himself was a potent factor in the divine economy, and furthermore believed it behooved every man to do all things, to be all things good and true, yet on this Sunday morning we were fast speeding to the scene of our contemplated schemes, and with light hearts looked forward to a speedy return to London, fairly well laden with plunder.

We talked the whole night through, or rather Mac talked and I listened, and it was a treat to be a listener, he being the speaker.

A period was put to his oration by the train stopping at Luxembourg, we being summoned to breakfast.

On resuming our journey we took a nap, and when we awoke we found ourselves nearing the Rhine. About noon we arrived at Cologne, and going to Uhlrich platz drank a bottle of tokay in a famous wine cellar there; then, hurrying back to the station, we traveled across the sandy plain that stretches from near the Prussian border to the capital. We arrived soon after dark, and Mac went at once to the Hotel Lion de Paris and registered. I waited across the street in the shadow of the Empress palace. Mac soon came out, and we went to dine in a large cafe. We enjoyed the novelty of the scene and were never tired of marveling over the all predominant militarism—soldiers everywhere, all with good lungs and loud voices. We spent the evening seeing the town. At midnight we parted to meet and breakfast together at the cafe at 8. I then went to an obscure hotel and soon was in the land of dreams. In the morning I awoke with an anxious feeling and found myself wishing it were night. At 8, the appointed time, I met Mac. He may possibly have felt some anxiety. If so, it was invisible.

When an honest man makes a mistake, he has not only sympathy, but can always pick himself up again. With a rogue a mistake may easily be and almost always is fatal. So, too, with us. We feared the unseen and the unexpected. Above all, our imagination magnified the danger, while tormenting us with needless fears. In Germany the banks open at 9 o'clock, and we knew they would receive soon after 8 the letter we had deposited in the mail in London. We decided that it would be best for Mac to enter the bankers' at five minutes after 9. We had discovered the night before the location of the firm. During breakfast Mac went carefully through his pockets, taking out every scrap of paper and turning everything over to me; then, taking out from among the others in our bag the letters of credit and introduction, we made our last scrutiny of them.

So, with the documents in his pocket and giving me a smile, out he went, and I followed after, keeping him in sight, and very anxious I was. We were on Unter den Linden. Walking one square and turning to the left half a block away were the bankers—Hebrew, by the way. I saw Mac saunter up the steps and disappear from view. Outside of America money transactions are carried on with the utmost deliberation—to an American with exasperating slowness. I thought it possible he might remain there for a whole half hour, and a long half hour it would be to me. In order to have my anxiety shortened by even a half minute we had arranged that when he came out if he had the money he was to stroke his beard as a signal. If it was all right, but delayed, he was to put his handkerchief to his face, but if everything was wrong he was to clasp his hands across his breast for a moment.

In that event I was to keep a lookout to see if he was followed. If so, I was to give him a signal, when he would go straight to his hotel, in passing through would dispose of his tall hat and put on the soft hat he had in his pocket, then pass out the back entrance and hasten to a certain hatshop, where I would meet him, and take a cab to a little town six miles away, called Juterbogk, where all trains going south, west and east stopped. While driving out we would settle on some plan. But this emergency did not arise. I had stationed myself in a little shop across the street, and from that vantage ground was watching for Mac's reappearance, and just as I had settled myself for a weary watch out he came, smiling and stroking his beard. A moment's glance satisfied me he was not followed. I hastened after, and coming up with him as he turned the corner he merely said £2,600 ($13,000). It seemed too good to be true, and I said, "I don't believe you."

He replied, "It is all right, my boy; here it is," at the same time thrusting a big package of gulden notes into my hand. We instantly separated, I hastening to different but nearby brokers' offices, buying for nearly the full amount French bank notes and gold. We went straight to the latter's and bought one of those broad brimmed German student hats, which, when he had placed it on his head, put on a pair of spectacles and parted his flowing beard in the middle, made such a transformation in his appearance that I myself would have passed him unrecognized. In the meantime I had picked out a cab driver, a stupid looking, conservative appearing old fellow, and engaged him to drive "mich und meinen freund nach Juterbogk." So we entered the cab, an open one horse affair, and started for that town. Our next objective point was Munich, but as the train did not leave until noon we preferred to spend the time in a pleasant drive and at the same time make assurance doubly sure. Around Berlin the country is flat and uninteresting. Our driver was a crabbed old fellow, but we managed to extract some amusement out of him.

What pleased us greatly was to see him from time to time take out from under his seat a loaf of black, dry bread and cut off a slice for himself and one for his horse, and then, seeing we were in no hurry, he would get down, and walking beside the horse would feed him and himself at the same time. When we arrived at Juterbogk, we had an hour to spare, so we drove to an inn, and ordering a bottle of Hochheimer for ourselves and beer and pretzels for our driver we passed the time pleasantly. In the meantime we had touched a match to the letter of credit, and at traintime we went by separate routes to the depot. Each purchased his own ticket. To Nuremberg mine was, his to some nearby city, and at 12:30 we boarded the train and were off for Munich and more profit there on the morrow.

Tuesday morning at 7 we met at a restaurant, as agreed, and soon had over again our Berlin experience, but the amount we obtained here was only 12,000 gulden (£1,000). Mac, thinking it best to ask for a round sum, feared, Munich not being much of a commercial city, to ask for too much. In cashing his credit, although the amount was in gulden, the bank paid him in New Saxon thalers, the thaler being 70 cents.

"My husband was subject to severe attacks of neuralgia which caused him great pain and suffering. The pains were principally about his eyes, and he often had to remain in a darkened room, not being able to stand the light. Ayer's Pills being recommended, he tried them, using one before each meal. They very soon afforded relief, followed by permanent cure. I am a strong believer in the efficacy of Ayer's Pills, and would not be without them for ten times their cost."—Mrs. M. E. From LaGrippe.

How Dr. Miles' Nervine Restored One of Kentucky's Business Men to Health.

No DISEASE has ever presented so many peculiarities as LaGrippe. No disease leaves its victims so debilitated, useless, sleepless, nerveless, as LaGrippe.

Mr. D. W. Hilton, state agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Kentucky, says: "In 1889 and '90 I had two severe attacks of LaGrippe, the last one attacking my nervous system with such severity that my life was despaired of. I had not slept for more than two months except by the use of narcotics that stupefied me, but gave me no rest. I was only conscious of intense mental weakness, agonizing bodily pain and the fact that I was hourly growing weaker.

When in this condition, I commenced using Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. In two days I began to improve and in one month's time I was cured, much to the surprise of all who knew of my condition. I have been in excellent health since and have recommended your remedies to many of my friends."

ON THE ROAD to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, wifehood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nerve strengthener that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

Skin Cancer Cured.

Messrs. Lippman Bros., Savannah, Ga.
Gentlemen:—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually called a skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief; it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the same. I have taken five or six bottles myself and put another course of it to a case. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
CAPT. W. M. RUST,
Attorney at Law.

Office of
J. F. GREER,
County Judge.
Green Cove Springs, Clay Co. Fla.

Gentlemen:

Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflamatory rheumatism I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, and always consulting with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. knowing that each ingredient was good for the impurities of the blood, after using two small bottles I was relieved: at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P. and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully,
J. F. GREER.

Rheumatism.

Is emphatically a blood disorder caused by inability of the kidneys to throw off certain poisons which accumulate in the tissues about the joints and muscles.

P. P. P., very simple, quickly and surely cures this disease neutralizing impurities in the blood. Experience and science both endorse P. P. P., as the only infallible blood purifier known.

Mr. Ed Rowan, who has made his home in Jacksonville for the past four years, left on Tuesday, for Benton, Alabama, to which town he goes to engage in the mercantile business. Mr. Rowan is one of our best young men. Since making his home here he has made friends of all our people. He is steady, industrious and a good business man. It is with reluctance that Jacksonville gives him up.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Ruiter, of Canajoharie, N. Y., says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman Druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's new Discovery is undoubtedly the best Cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at all Drug Stores. Regular size 50c, and $100 For sale by W B Arbery. 3

Ed. G. caldwell carried the biggest picnic of the season to his ranch, over on the mountain, Thursday. Every vehicle in town was called into service, and many were so loaded with picnic people and picnic dinner that it required four strong mules to pull them.

Easily Cured.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by * George Gibson, an old negro inmate ran away from the colored paupers home recently, and a few days afterwards was found on the track of the Southern railway between Jacksonville and Anniston with injuries about his head and body from which he died. An inquest was held and a verdict rendered stating that the cause of his death was unknown. Some thought he had been murdered, while others thought he had been killed by the railroad.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic Diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by. *

Jacksonville's baseball team may or may not be celebrated for the ball they play, but the whole lot of them are pretty fair deputy bailiffs.

On last Saturday they went down to play a game with the Alexandria team. For some reason the Alexandria boys did not meet them on the diamond, so the team went out and played a little practice game. While they were thus engaged, a young negro man espied the "grip" in which the team carried their shoe polish, face powder, bay rum &c., and finding that he was not watched, stole it and slipped away. The boys missed this valuable adjunct to their outfit and began search for the theif. After several hours they located him in a barn near town. A warrant for his arrest was sworn out on which he was arrested, when the team took charge of him and landed him in the Jacksonville jail about 12 o'clock Saturday night. The face powder and bay rum was not recovered.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Y. M. C. A. Des Moines Iowa says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, ball players, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Miss Mattie Swan left Jacksonville Monday for Dalton, Ga. She goes to Dalton to take a position as teacher in the schools of that city. Miss Swan was one of the faculty of the normal college at Jacksonville last year, and she discharged the duties of her position with great satisfaction to the trustees and patrons of the institution. The Dalton schools are fortunate in securing the services of so excellent a young woman and so competent a teacher.

WHAT THEY SAY

OF THE ELECTROPOISE.

The Electropoise has relieved me of a throat affection that has baffled all treatment and has annoyed me for more than forty years. Very respectfully, T. T. TUNTSALL.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 22, 1894.

I commenced the use of the Electropoise when I was in a weak, nervous state lying awake night after night until 2 o'clock. I commenced to sleep better almost immediately after beginning its use, and after three months felt that the Electropoise had paid for itself.

Yours truly, MRS. J. C. BARRY.

Memphis, Tenn., March 5, 1895.

A relative of mine who was wounded during the war, and who never recovered from the effects of the wound, has been using my electropoise, and he is now as well as he ever was. I recommend the Electropoise to all my friends.

Yours truly, W. B. McGEE.

Tehula, Miss., Dec. 5, 1894.

I cannot say too much in favor of the Electropoise. Yours truly,

T. S. JONES.

Fannin, Tex., June 25, 1895.

After returning from Hot Springs about a year ago without a cure, and as the last resort, I applied the Electropoise, and received a prompt cure of rheumatism. This same Electropoise has made many cures in other diseases, and the instrument will do all that is claimed for it. Yours truly,

From All Over Calhoun

Minor Happenings of the Week

OXFORD.

Did you ever have a bad cold? They are all called bad, but some of them are worse than others. Well, when you had a bad one you did not care much whether there was free silver or not. You just took up all your time doctoring the cold, and coughing and sneezing, spitting and grunting, keeping your nose dry, and thinking how you caught it; when the fact of the business is, you did not catch it at all. It caught you. That is the way one did me a few days ago. I never would catch one of the nasty things any more than I would bite a snake, and if a cold never catches me again and a snake never bites me, there will be no more catching and biting with me again as long as I live.

The Anniston correspondent wants to know if the court house question is settled, why I continue to mention it. Now, you know Sam Jones said the hit dog was the one that did the hollowing, and I really love to hear them yelp. That is the reason why I mention the matter. Now, if that Anniston correspondent will let us know when the election is really to come off, we will get ourselves in shape to do the voting.

Our gold bug friends tell us that the silver craze is dying out. It is a very active sick fellow. It gets about much more spry than I did when the bad cold had me. They say that by the next national election it will be dead, very dead. Well, like every one else, I have my opinion on that subject, and my opinion is, that at the said convention, the free and unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, regardless of international agreement, will be the livliest corpse that ever a set of men undertook to shroud.

I do not know who comes and who goes, but each day some nice young ladies are visiting our young ladies. There are lots of fine young men who live here and others who visit here, but if there is going to be a marriage here soon, I have not heard of it. Now I don't blame the young ladies but I do blame the young men. I think the reason they do not marry is because they are too selfish, and stingy and mean to pop the question.

I do not know of any body that is sick enough to count. I was mighty near that point when the bad cold had me. I am about right now except that my voice would not do for a musical chorus. It might do to beat a base drum with.

Iron and iron products have advanced in price. No wonder. Nearly all of the furnaces had been stopped and the supply of the world was exhausted. Railroads had to have cars, hence the starting up of the car shops. There is something like a two and one half million bale shortage in the cotton crop and of course the price of cotton will go up. For all of which let us thank God, and not the single gold standard fellows, who are claiming that gold monometallism is the cause of this prospect of a little financial "ease up."

BYNUMS

Business is improving of late.

Mr. Burl Whaless has been very ill for some days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Brothers are spending a few weeks at Piedmont Springs.

Mr. T. K. Walker, a promising business young man of Anniston, spent Sunday here.

Prof. J. E. Hughes will close his school here next Friday. He has accepted the principalship of the school at Cedar Keys, Fla. We wish him unlimited success.

The picturesque source of Cold Water was the place of a most enjoyable social reunion last Saturday, given in honor of the community's fair visitors, Misses Ida Tinsley and May Farrier, of Birmingham. While Coldwater has more attractions than any place in this part of the county, including the purest waters, magnificent shades and a soft grassy lawn, the presence of such pretty young ladies added much to it.

BERA.

There has not been so much sickness in these parts, at one time, in many years.

John J. Canada died at his home on the night of the 9th., after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Canada was among the oldest settlers of Calhoun county, and was a good man. The bereaved family have the sympathy of our entire community.

Prof. M. C. will sing at New Bethel the 5th Sunday in Sept. Everybody is invited to come and bring a well filled basket.

There is some talk of a stock law in Beat 14. But this is one beat that does not need a stock law, as we have plenty of timber and one of the best ranges in the county. Water is scarce and on this account a stock law would ruin a great many of our farmers.

Rev. D. F. Hoke, who has been spending the summer months in Jacksonville, left, the early part of the week, for San Antonia, Tex.

The health of the community is better than when I made my last report.

Mrs N. J. Waddle has been sick but is convalescing now.

B. F. Jones, of Cane Creek, was over a few days ago talking up his friend, Buck Sisson, who is a candidate for commissioner in this district. The impression made on the people by Mr. Jones will, no doubt almost carry this beat solid for his friend.

There will be an all-day singing at New Bethel on the 5th Sunday in this month, to be conducted by Prof's Scott and Stovall. Another chicken pie on the program at 12 o'clock, m.

We ask the sympathy of the people of the entire county in behalf of Esq. E. M. Reid, Chief J. P., who was so unfortunate as to take a chill just as he arose from his chair to marry a couple the other day. We believe if the chill had lasted 5 minutes it would have resulted in dissolution.

Prof. P. I. Stovall is in the burg visiting friends. He no doubt will be solicited to teach another school at New Bethel before he leaves town.

W. N. McNair was a gusst on Sunday of Esq. E. J. Haynie.

GRAYTON.

Pulling late fodder has the attention of the farmers just now

The health of our community is very good.

Our community has recently made a move in the right direction. The patrons of the Williams and Ohatchie church schools have agreed to unite the two little schools into one large school. A large new building will be erected in the centre of the two communities. This will put eighty children within two and a half miles of the new school house. The theory that there are too many little schools and not enough large ones was the cause of the consolidation. Rev. Mr. Bobinett has been selected as the teacher for the new school.

Hon. Jno. M. Caldwell, of Anniston, will deliver his lecture "John" at Middleton some time in October.

T. S. Gray attended the silver conference in Birmingham last week.

Shelton Meharg has entered school at Piedmont.

James Coker will return to Dallas next week.

Long live the REPUBLICAN.

SCHENCKS SPRINGS.

Rev. W. O. Horton filled his appointment at Union church last Sunday.

Mrs. Robt. McDonald is sick with fever.

Among the visitors here last Sunday were Anthony Dickerson and James Richie, of beat 7, and Henry Duggan of Alexandria.

A big crowd of yellow jackets and I had a picnic a few days since. They did the singing and patting and I did the dancing. It is well known that I am acquainted with several dances, but I never knew how to dance a jig before.

MORRISVILLE.

Mr. J. J. Canada died last Monday night and was buried Wednesday in the cemetery at New Bethel church. He was near 80 years old. He had been a faithful member of the Baptist church many years. He leaves a wife and several children to grieve over their loss. The grief stricken family has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

The syrup makers are very busy at this time. There are several mills and pans in operation in this settlement and it will take them several days to get through with the job.

Leslie, the 13 year old son of W. A. Glenn, of Polkville, killed 41 snakes at one time recently. He was on the bank of Cane creek and a monstrous cotton mouthed moccassin snake came very near biting him. He struck it with a piece of fence rail so hard that he cut a hole in its side and was surprised to see a whole lot of small snakes crawl out of the old snake through the hole in its side. He killed all of them—the old mother snake and 40 young ones.

Misses Nannie and Dorothy Adams, of Mcdodeon, and Miss Nettie Brown, of Owensville, and Misses Sallie and Daisy Hamilton, of Buncomb, visited Miss Kansas Reid, of Morrisville, last Sunday.

On last Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. H. P. Castly, of Bera, Mr. S. J. Cole, of Morrisville, and Mrs. M. E. Castly, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. E. M. Reid, J. P., officiated. The bride looked as lovely as a morning daisy, and the groom looked to be as happy as a big sun flower. There was a considerable number of people met to witness the happy union and among them were several ministers. Revcrends Noah Stephens, R. F. Wilson and E. J. Haynie were all present.

H. W. Canada, of Egypt, visited Morrisville last Sunday.

There is some sickness in this neighborhood. Some have chills, and the toothache is more plentiful than free silver or any other kind of money.

BRUNER.

We people are getting ready for the closing exercises of the Bruner school which takes place on the evening of the 25th inst. The good ladies of our community are preparing a quilt to be sold after the exercises, the proceeds of the sale to be given to Mr Claude Poe, to aid him in going to Hot Springs, Arkansas. All our people have been very liberal in contributing to this fund.

Our worthy pastor, W. D. Vinson, delivered a fine sermon, last Sunday, at Sulphur Springs Baptist church. His subject was. "Law and Grace."

The health of our community is good.

FERGUSONVILLE.

The weather is very warm and cotton is opening rapidly.

Mr. F. M. Davidson and family have moved to Sand mountain, near Albertville.

Mrs. Maud Simpson is visiting relatives here this week.

MERRELLTON.

The first bale of cotton from this place went to Piedmont last Saturday and was sold for eight cents. Mr. Tucker raised it on M. B. Green's farm.

There is considerable sickness in this beat, but none of a serious character that we hear of. Mrs. J. L. Nunnelly is among the sick.

Several young people of Merrellton attended the singing at Four Mile on last Sunday. They report a pleasant time.

There is to be an all-day singing at Hopewell, the 5th Sunday in September. Hope it will be well attended.

HERE IT IS.

A WORD FROM THE COMMISSIONERS COURT.

ANSWER TO THE CARD OF THE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Pay Your Money and Take Your Choice.

Editor REPUBLICAN.

Dear Sir:- We notice in the Hot Blast of Sept. 11th a card signed by the board of Equalizers. Now we have nothing to say against these gentlemen, but presume they have done the work assigned them by law, and if the duties placed upon them entails heavy expense, people certainly will not hold said board responsible, but the law requiring this expense. We do not see why this Board considered it necessary for them to rush into print to defend their action, they had no choice but to obey the law, and they were not expected to accept for their service less than the law provided, but we do not understand why they deemed it necessary to attack the Commissioners Court, and so grossly misrepresent them in order to defend a very useless and expensive law. In their statement they very ingeniously cover up over half of the expenses of said board, by showing only the expense paid by ths county, entirely ignoring the part paid by the State, which is half of the amount paid as salary to the Board. They very ingeniously attempt to show the amount saved to the county by computing the taxes on the amount raised by the Commissioners and that raised by them. We take it that the people think the commissioners came nearer doing right in not raising the assessments except where the undervaluation was so glaring, rather than do as this Board did, raise them helter skelter without regard to merit or justice. Now to the point. In their two statements they make the impression that the Commissioners Court was in session twenty two (22) days on this especial business, which is not true. The Court met in regular session on August 13, 1894, and while in session transacted some very important business, and a great deal of routine business.

We agreed upon the rental of the City Court building, had contract drawn up, investigated the condition of the building, entered into said contract of rental. We had the agent of the Tenn. Coal & Iron R. R. Co. with us, entered into an agreement, and executed a contract for the hire of our convicts for the next year. We heard the report of the Terrapin Creek Bridge, and received the Bridge and settled for same. We received and investigated the application of the Anniston Cordage Company for exemption from county taxation under a special law exempting all new cotton industries from taxation for a certain number of years. We visited and examined the jail and poor house, and discussed the terms and conditions upon which the poor house would be let for the next year, and had prepared a contract and bond, so that bidders might see what would be required of them. We discussed and heard evidence touching the establishment of several new roads. We examined, and audited the accounts of the road overseers. We had before us quite a number of important matters for consideration which consumed time, and could not be neglected. Our August Court was a very busy and important court as the twenty one pages of our minutes will show and required all of two weeks to complete the business. We have made an accurate calculation of the time really spent on the tax matter and find that ten (10) days fully covers that. We submit as an accurate and full statement of our expenses in examining the assessments, and hearing objections and etc, as follows:—

Ten days expenses 4 Commissioners and Judge	$170.00
Issuing and serving notices	212.50
Witness fees on part of state	10.00
Entire expense	$392.50.

The above is the entire expense paid by State, County AND INDIVIDUALS.

Now let us see about that statement of the Secretary of the Board of Equalizers.

30 days for 2 of the board	$216.00
Witness fees	30.92
Attorney fees	10.00
Notices for the county	2.00
Two large dockets	29.00
Actually paid by State and county	$287.92

Now while this $237.92 may cover the item stated, ask the Secretary of the board how much the notices cost the individual tax payer? The law under which this Board works, requires the Assessor to charge his fees for notices to the tax payer whose property has been raised, and if those whose taxes have been raised will notice they will see this fee taxed up to each one of them yet this ingenious Secretary says no fees for that. We would say the fee for that service would amount to not less than $100.00. Now add to all this the expenses of the board in the incoporated towns, and we think you will have an amount, not accounted for by the Secretary of that board, equal to, if not more than the amount stated in this statement. We believe the law to be vicious because it makes the assessor's fees contingent upon making the raises stick. No raise no pay for him, see? We have no criticism to make on the actions of the Board, we believe them to be conscientious, painstaking officials, and think they have done remarkably well for new hands, and having a difficult matter to handle. We only make this statement to correct the false and uncalled for insinuation against us by the secretary. When the unpleasant duty devolved upon us to raise assessments of property, we did what we thought right, and accepted the consequences without attempting to blame someone else. We had no fees that depended upon making the raises stick, hence when convicted of our mistake in making the raise we were free to take it off. We performed the duties placed upon us by the revenue law as economically as possible and believe the Equalizers did the same and see no necessity in defending the law or the expense it necessitates.

Very respectfully,

County Commissioners.

1895 VS 1894.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT.

Figures Given By The Board Equalization.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—As the impression seems to have been made and extended over the county than the new means of equalizing taxes is not so economical as the former plan the present board deems it but just to the taxpayers to submit without comment the following comparative statement:—

Raises in 1894 $214,571.

County taxes on same	$750.29
Expenses, issuing and serving citations	$212.50
Expenses Board 22 days days	267.50
Expenses witnesses	10.00—520.00
Total amount saved to county	$161.28

Raises in 1895 $410,161.

County taxes on same	$1,475.57
Expenses issuing and serving citations, None.
Expenses Board 35 days to county	$105.00
Expenses witnesses to county	30.92
Expenses attorney fees to county	10.00
Expenses subpoes to county	2.00—150.42
Total amount saved to county	$1,281.65

A ROUSING LETTER

FROM SENATOR JOHN T. MORGAN.

IN FAVOR OF HOME RULE AND SELF GOVERNMENT.

Down With the Alleged Power of the Executive Committee to ostracise Democrats.

In a letter to the recent silver conference at Birmingham, Senator John T. Morgan had the following to say in reference to the alleged power of the democratic state executive committee in Alabama.

If that conference will address itself to the reconstruction of the democratic party in Alabama, and get rid of the alleged power of the executive committee to ostracise democrats who choose to follow principles rather than men, and leave a man's right to vote in a democratic primary to the democrats of the precinct or ward in which he resides, to be finally adjudged and settled by them, we shall have a vitalized party that will live and grow instead of one that decreases in numbers and zeal, and must so decrease at every election.

After one hundred years of experience it is too late to bring in new definitions to ascertain who are democrats and who are not, and to make it an inflexible test that a democrat refused to vote for some nominee of the party at a previous election.

That is a question to be settled by the primary meeting to which he is admitted or refused admission, according to the decision of his neighbors, who are democrats. They are and ought to be the only judges of his proper relations to the party and of his fitness, personal or otherwise, to participate in its action. If a man subscribes to this declaration. "I am a democrat, and when I vote I will vote the democratic ticket," he should be entitled, at least, to take the decision of the democrats of his precincts as to his proper qualification to unite with them in their primary meeting, and when they decide the matter no other committee or body of men should have the power to overrule that decision or reject the vote. This is "home rule" and self government. It is true democracy.

"Party principle requires no different rule of procedure, and it is never demanded until "discipline" is the mere substitute for coercion, and until party success is measured only by the success of party bosses.

The cardinal principles of democracy are known of all men. They are not many and are very simple. Whether a particular act, measure or proposition is within these cardinal principles is determined finally by the joint and authentic act of the whole party leaving to every man the right of private judgment and the choice either to waive the decision of the particular question adversely to his convictions and remain with the party, or to refuse to vote the ticket. When that question is settled or his convictions are changed, he can still say. "I am a democrat, and when I vote, I will vote the democratic ticket," and and his democratic neighbors can again honorably admit him to a voice in democratic counsels. Such a law of party action would build up the party in numbers and character, and secure the free discussion of every public question within the lines of the party. A democratic club, voluntarily organized in every precinct in Alabama, without authority or constraint from any body of men, outside the precinct, and thus asserting its right to home rule and local government, would do more to build up a grand, self-governing and enlightened democracy, than all the and national committees that ever statehave been, or ever can be, organized.

It needs only a suggestion to set this movement on foot, for our people are so tired of bosses and personal politics that they will adopt some course that will, at least, be more respectable.

These clubs, at first, would be the true expositors of the public will in the local meetings, but their aggregated strength, whether it was party power or moral influence would soon make itself felt in a way that would end the rule of the political bosses in Alabama.

God speed that day!

I am here for my health, which needs repairs, to fit me for our winter's work, and it is most important to me that I should remain. If you attend the conference I wish you to know my views of the situation in Alabama. If you do not attend I hope you will make any criticism you think just upon this letter with entire freedom, so that our friends may know in what respects we hold different opinions on these subjects, if there are such differences, and that you will forward them with this letter to Captain Johnston, Col. John, or some other friend, to be laid before the meeting.

I will do my best to comply with any duty that shall be assigned to me, in October, connected with a movement to canvass the state.

With great respect.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN T. MORGAN.

THIS BEATS ITS RECORD.

The State Normal School at Jacksonville on a Boom.

One hundred and fifty-six pupils is the number at the opening of the State Normal School at Jacksonville this week.

This is the largest opening the school has had since it was founded.

This means for it a new era of prosperity and usefulness.

A large number of pupils are yet to enter, and in less than two weeks there will be two hundred pupils in attendance.

Not only will the school be much larger than usual, but it will be improved in every department, and the work which it will do for its pupils cannot be excelled by any school in Alabama.

This school offers unusually fine advantages to the parents in this and adjoining counties to give their children a good education, and we yet hope to see a sufficient number avail themselves of the opportunity which it affords to swell the attendance to three hundred before Christmas. The building can accommodate this number and we hope to see all the space occupied.

FOR 60 DAYS

There has never been a time when our people as a whole were trying to inform themselves on the great issues of the day as they are now. It is the duty of every newspaper in the land to exert every effort to see that its readers have ample opportunity, in their search for information, to arrive at the truth. Believing this to be our duty, and realizing that we are on the eve, as it were, of national and state elections the importance of which cannot be estimated—elections which will be of deeper interest to the people than any of recent years, we have arranged to make the following OFFER FOR 60 DAYS.

We will send the WEEKLY BIRMINGHAM STATE, a mammoth eight page paper, for one year, to

(1) Every new subscriber to the REPUBLICAN who sends us $1.00, cash.

(2) Every old subscriber who renews before the 60 days expire.

(3) Every delinquent subscriber who pays up arrearages for one year.

The State is the ablest exponent of free coinage published in the South. It is a Great Family Weekly, and should be in the home of every Democrat in Alabama.

Its agricultural department commends itself specially to every farmer and stock-raiser. At the low price no farmer should be without it.

Read the advertisement of the Victoria Hotel which appears in another column. Visitors to the exposition should arrange a place to stay before reaching the city. Write the proprietor of the Victoria for rooms.

COMMISSIONER COPE.

ON THE ROCK QUESTION.

He Has a Word With Those Who Are Kicking Against Its Use.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:—Allow me space in your paper to answer some inquires from some of the people in the county.

I notice your correspondent from Cane Creek asks what has gone with our road money? Another man said to me, if we, meaning the commissioners court, would give them their road tax in beat 5 we could take the crusher and go with it.

Now let us see where the bulk of the money comes from. Take the Southern Railway, better known as the East Tennessee. Last year the tax on that railroad was $3,428.44. The G. P. R. R. $4,647.16. The E. & W. R. R. $2,517.68. The Alabama Mineral R. R. $2,700. The Anniston City Land Co., $4,277.69. The Anniston Water Supply Co., $540. The cotton factory in Anniston, $2,850. The Alabama Mineral Land Co., $776.34. The Woodstock Iron Works No. 2, $2,223.97. I could give other large taxes, but this is sufficient.

Suppose these were to demand their taxes, and say let some of the beats which have been kicking so high take their tax to work their roads. The result would be that they could not work an oppossum trail.

The four beats which compose the Anniston District pay seventy per cent of the taxes of the county. If they were to get their tax for their roads, they could soon have marble roads.

Now, I name this so as that all who are inclined to curse the rock crusher can see where the money comes from.

All of the large tax payers I have talked to tell me we are twenty-five years behind time beginning to place rock on the roads.

Remember the incorporation of Anniston does not get a cent of this road money, while she pays a large amount of the tax.

When the subject of buying a rock crusher came up I was at a loss to know whether to say yes or no. But after talking over the matter, and reaching the conclusion that we could not make good roads in Alexandria and Choccolocco valleys other than to rock them, we bought the outfit for rocking the roads, and since I have seen the operation of the crusher I am satisfied we did right.

The great hue and cry for a long time has been about those muddy lanes in Alexandria valley. We could not get to market with a load of cotton. Now the commissioners are fixing so as that there can be as much hauled over them with two mules as could be hauled with four before the rock was placed on them. And still we are cursed.

I know the public officials of this county will be criticised in their acts; and should be, but pray let your criticism be just. I am proud that we have the large industries mentioned above which bring such a large revenue to the county. I wish we had more Annistons. The rich pay most of the tax and the poor laboring men are getting the benefit of the same. I took a little over one hundred dollars from beat 5, about the same amount from beat 18, not quite so much from beat 14, something near four hundred from beat 2, to do the rock work on the roads. While we are using the crusher in Beat 2, the improvement in the roads will be as much benefit to beat 18 and a part of 5, as it will be to beat 2, as the people of these beats travel over this road in going to market.

I have been requested to make this statement for the benefit of those who are complaining so much about the taxes and who want to know what has become of our road money.

Those who pay most of the tax approve of the course we are pursueing in rocking the roads. One large tax payer, who has a stock farm near Alexandria, said to me that he was glad he had something on which to pay a tax, and it went cheerfully in building good roads and taking care of the unfortunate poor of our county. I wish we had more such men to deal with.

I wish those who are disposed to condemn the rocking of the roads to go and see what has been done

THE REPUBLICAN.

WHAT do the gold standard men offer in place of the free and unlimited coinage of silver? The free and unlimited issuance of bonds.

IF you have a son or daughter to educate, remember that you can send them to no better place than to the state Normal School at Jacksonville.

THE exposition is now in full blast in Atlanta, and every man, woman and child who can do so should see it some time during the year.

SENATOR Cockerill, of Missouri, thinks that Cleveland and Sherman on a presidential ticket would be a pair to draw to. They would draw a solid Republican vote and all the Shermanized Democrats.

"INTERNATIONAL ARBITRATION" is the bait with which Mr. Cleveland has caught many a gudgeon, but right now his luck seems to be pretty sorry. He gets no bites and few nibbles.

THE indications now are that we are to have another issue of bonds. Under our present system of finance, where is the end to the issuance of bonds? One thing is certain, its continuance means bankruptcy to the government.

THE silver conference in Birmingham last week was entirely satisfactory to the friends of the white metal in the state. It brought together many of the foremost democrats in Alabama—men who are leaders socially, politically and in the business and professional world.

IN entering candidates for congress the democrats of the Fourth District will do well to remember the importance of having a candidate who can reduce the populists majority in Talladega and Shelby. This is a time when the office in this district should seek the man, and the party must not make such mistakes as it made last year.

THERE is no danger of the people being led out of the democratic party when they follow such men as Gen. Pettus, Gen. Wheeler, Gen. Morgan, Gen. Johnson, Senator Pugh, Ex-Governor Cobb, Col. John W. A. Sanford, Hon. Jos. F. Johnston, Hon. John H. Bankhead, Judge Richardson, Jos. Hodgson, and a host of other prominent democrats in Alabama, who are fighting for the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

WHEN you strike a man who favors the single gold standard ask him if he is not even in favor of a further contraction of the currency? Or to be more specific, if he is not in favor of retiring all the greenbacks now in circulation? This is their theme. And while they go on defiantly contracting the currency, and thus increasing the purchasing power of the dollar and lessening the value of all property and products, they will stand up and advocate it without a murmur. If you enter your protest, then you are a calamity howler, you must not complain at the scarcity of money or the lessened value of your property. You must not complain at a system of finance which has doubled your indebtedness and made it impossible for you to meet your obligations, but must stand up like a little man and sustain Sir John Sherman and say good times when are coming.

General Morgan's Letter.

The letter of Senator-elect Morgan which we publish in this issue of the REPUBLICAN will attract general attention all over the State. It deals with questions which are of vital importance to the success of the Democratic party in the State, and should be carefully read and studied. It makes a strong plea for home rule, self-government and true democracy.

There is no question but the time has arrived when the democratic party in Alabama can no longer remain the dominant party in the state if democrats are to be ostracised by bosses. The people have grown so tired of political bosses and personal politics that they are in no humor to submit to such high handed dictation as we have had for the last few years.

It is absolutely necessary to bring back to the democratic party every man who believes in true democratic principles and will support democratic nominees. These men can be brought back only by proper treatment, and as Gen. Morgan suggests, every man of them who subscribes to this declaration, "I am a democrat, and when I vote I will vote the democratic ticket," should be invited by the democrats of his precinct to participate in the primaries.

This is not a question of interest only to those who favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver, but to all who are interested in the success of the party, and we are glad to see the Birmingham News, a gold standard paper, speak out on the question as follows:

John T. Morgan is, the News believes, the greatest man now a member of the senate of the United States, although it differs absolutely with him on the financial question. Anything Senator Morgan says or writes should command the respectful consideration of every democrat. His letter, read before yesterday's silver democratic conference, and published in full in today's News, ably covers two questions, viz: the free silver coinage at 16 to 1, to which the News cannot subscribe, and the reorganization of the democratic party in Alabama—recruiting it, sending "bosses" to the rear and giving the people the reins of power—which the News most heartily endorses.

The democratic party of Alabama cannot continue in power, and will not deserve to remain in power, unless it can actually poll a plurality of votes on election day. Stuffed ballot boxes and perjured returns honest men will not longer tolerate. The party cannot be recruited by heaping insult upon those whom we wish to secure as political brethren. The News has always insisted that every white man in Alabama, regardless of his previous political affiliations, be invited and permitted to come into the primaries and conventions of the democratic party, upon the one condition that he pledges himself to abide by the action of the party and support its nominees. The fact that such a policy at this juncture may possibly admit more voters who hold opinions opposite to those held by the News than agree with them, on the silver question or any other one issue, does not in the least cool the News' ardent desire to see the democracy of Alabama strong enough to fairly elect its nominees.

That democratic executive committees in Alabama have assumed too much authority and been apparently forgetful that they are the servants, not the masters of the people, few intelligent men will deny. The fountain of power is the people. A cardinal principle of democracy is "home rule," and the News rejoices that Senator Morgan, at this late day, has come to the position, persistently advocated by the News year in and year out during its existence, viz: That the democrats of each precinct, and not a committee, shall determine who are or are not fit to enter democratic councils, and that a pledge to support the nominees should admit any white man into democratic primaries.

IT is to be hoped that every man woman and child in Calhoun, who can spare the expenses of the trip, will visit the city of Atlanta this fall and attend the exposition which she has arranged for her visitors. The pluck which this most wonderful of southern cities has displayed in assuming the responsibility attached to so gigantic an enterprise, deserves and must receive the substantial encouragement of southern people. Despite disadvantages which would have deterred cities of twice her population, Atlanta has pressed boldly forward and completed a labor which would be a credit to New York, Chicago or St Louis.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to hold an inter American exposition at Galveston, Texas, and several states have appointed delegates to a meeting to be held soon to discuss the matter. It is to be hoped that a successful plan will be developed. Atlanta has set the pace, and her example is worthy of the emulation of all our large southern cities. The south is the place for these expositions and made it impossible for its matchless resources to arrange the most remarkable exhibit of any country on the globe.

The Southern Associated Press dispatch from Birmingham published in yesterday's ENQUIRER SUN, reporting the proceedings of a caucus of prominent advocates of free silver coinage at 16 to 1, contained one piece of astounding information. It mentioned among the list of those who addressed the meeting, along with Senator Pugh, Congressmen Stallings and Robbins, Capt. Joseph F. Johnston, a defeated candidate for Governor at the last election, also the name of "ex-Governor Kolb" "and others." Kolb's title of "ex-Governor" exists of course in his own imagination, and surprises no one. But what does surprise every one is the presence of Reuben F. Kolb in such an assemblage of silver democrats.

It is hardly possible that Senator Pugh and Captain Johnston would let themselves be caught in such political company, even to advance the cause of free silver in Alabama, and the name of Kolb as present at the conference can very easily be attributed to an error.—Columbus Enquirer Sun.

Capt. R. F. Kolb did not attend the conference of democrats recently held in Birmingham. But the conference was attended by one of the grandest old Romans in Alabama in the person of Ex-Governor R. W. Cobb, of Shelby. No better man or truer democrat can be found in Alabama than is Ex-Governor Cobb, and he was proud to be numbered among the men who are holding fast to democratic principles as handed down by the fathers of democracy.

The Advertiser and Age-Herald seem to be very much excited for fear some other prominent man in Alabama will become more popular with the Democrats who are in favor of restoring silver to its time honored position than Joe Johnston. We wish to assure these Shermanized journals that they can safely place all their fears aside. There is no danger. Joe Johnston will be kept in the lead and will be made the next Governor of Alabama.

We can also assure them that there is no danger of any spirit of jealousy or antagonism between Johnston and Bankhead. Both of these gentlemen will be properly taken care of, and our gold bug friends need have no fear that either of them will be snubbed or pushed aside.

It is said that if you would draw a line across the state east to west over the city of Calera, every county north of said line is for silver. It is a fact that great many counties south of this imaginary line are also for silver.—Selma Times.

THERE is no question but the Democrats in Alabama who favor the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver are much more numerous now than they were last year. They liked only thirty-four votes controlling the last state convention. Next year they will be much better organized than last year, and will control the next state convention and the next general assembly of Alabama.

FEW gold bugs deny that free coinage would be a blessing to the world, but they say that we can't have it because there will never be an international agreement. Well, no, there never will be, as long as no strong nation will assume "the aggressive" and force the fight. Neither would Mary ever have learned to swim if she had listened to the foolish injunctions of her fond mamma, as detailed in the following poem:

Mother may I go out to swim?
Yes, my dearest daughter,
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb,
But dont go near the water.

You have sick-headaches occasionally. They are not pleasant; why not get rid of them?

If you call in a physician it will cost you from $1 to $5. How can you escape this cost but secure the physician's treatment? Let us tell you.

Go to your druggist and ask for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. They will cost you (1 box Pills and 1 box Tonic Pellets) only 25 cents. These are the exact medicines that any doctor would prescribe for a sluggish, torpid or disordered liver.

You take one of RAMON'S PILLS immediately. That causes a complete action of the bowels. You then take one of RAMON'S TONIC PELLETS for a week or longer. These keep the bowels healthy and open, but at the same time they arouse the appetite, purify the blood and "tone up" the whole system.

Try this just once. It can not harm you.

Notice.

I WISH to call the attention of the farmers of Calhoun county that I am still selling the Hattie Clide subsoil Cleadless Turning Plow.

This plow is the best plow now in use. It is the best because you get the depth without turning up the clay or subsoil. It raises the clay, pulverizing it and drops it back in the furrow.

The Hattie Clide Plow comes in the reach of every farmer to subsoil his land from 5 to 7 inches deep in gray land and from 4 to 6 inches in red land without exposing the clay to the sun and air.

If you expose the clay to the sun and air you lose a certain per cent of the productive qualities of your land, and by using this plow you can avoid this loss entirely, from the fact that the plow has a five inch slot in the wing that lets the clay pass through and falls back into the furrow and turnes the soil on top of the ground only. The subsoil is rich in plant food—phosphate of lime, potash, ammonia and iron, which lie dormant and useless until the subsoil is broken and mellowed by the chemical effect of the air. This subsoil should not be exposed to the surface because the sun and air evaporates and destroys the properties.

By the use of H. C. plow your crop will not suffer from a five or six weeks drouth. Because in subsoiling your land in the fall, winter or spring, you are then laying in water to make your crop with next summer; for by subsoiling or deep plowing the water penetrates the ground thorougly.

The H. C. Plow is a steel plow easily kept up. It is not like other plows, have to lay it aside when you have your land prepared, but you cultivate your crop with it up to the second plowing. By the use of the H. C. plow you will make from one-fourth to one-third more than you will with the ordinary plow, unless you subsoil, and if you subsoil with the old method it will cost you the expense of 4 mules and 2 hands to get 8 inches, where the H. C. Plow will get 8 inches with but 2 mules and one hand. I refer you to the following named parties who have been using the H. C. plows:

J. F. Smith and Cheatwood, Oxford, Ala.

William Hughes, Choccolocco, Ala.

FROM

Wall Street TO Newgate

BY AUSTIN B. DWELL.

We did not like the new thaler notes and wanted to change them there, but there was no time if we were to catch the 10 o'clock train. I had Mac's derby hat in a box, and in three minutes he had the hat and spectacles on, and with his board again parted the transformation was complete, and he, a perfect picture of the dreamy German student, sauntered down to the depot and bought his ticket for Leipsic. I followed him, carrying all the cash and documents in my bag. We arrived at Leipsic soon after dinner. Times were brisk, with plenty of bustle there, for the great Leipsic fair was in full blast. Here was an opportunity missed. We ought to have had three or four letters to as many banks. The place was thronged, and the banks were paying out and receiving money in thousands. On the train I had sat apart from Mac, but in the same compartment, which was filled. Arriving at Leipsic he left the train, and walking up the street entered a wineroom, where I joined him. He scrutinized his letters carefully, and placing them in his pocket in five minutes was in the bank. Seeing the bank was full of customers, instead of remaining outside to watch, I entered and stood among the crowd, anxious, of course, but letting nothing escape.

Instead of waiting or trying to transact his business with a subordinate, Mac demanded to see the head of the firm. He was received at once, and upon the production of his letters was treated with the utmost consideration. He asked for 50,000 gulden (£20,000), which was given him at once.

Soon after 5 o'clock we were on the train, but for some reason which I now forget we did not arrive until 10 o'clock the next day at Frankfort—Frankfort, the home and still the fortress of the Rothschilds.

In Frankfort the boerse opens at 10 a. m. and closes at 2. During those hours the bankers are to be found on the exchange only, and not at their offices. Many of the offices are then deserted and fast locked.

Soon as we arrived we went to a cafe, and leaving Mac there and all the money and papers in the bag I hastened to the bankers, hoping to find them open.

But when I arrived I found the doors locked. I at once returned to Mac and said: "We are through. Let us catch the train for Cologne at once." And taking out all the letters and every scrap of paper we destroyed everything.

This decision of course brought a great relief, for the strain had been greater than either of us had been willing to confess to the other. So, easy in mind, we ordered lunch. Of course we would have no news of George until we met in London. We had no anxiety about him. We felt certain he would come out all right. While waiting for the train we discussed the future and took it for granted that George would secure as much as we had done. We counted ourselves possessors of $90,000. Of this fully $10,000 would go to our three honest detectives in New York; we would spend about another $10,000, leaving us about $23,000 each. Making this calculation, we sat down, and with the cash safe in our hands we were planning for the future. Did we say, "Now we have a sum of money ample to start us in an honest business, and we will quit?" Nothing of the sort. We were blind to the promises made to call a halt when funds were got. Now we seemed poor and said, "What fools we would be to quit; we will make it $100,000 each first," and already were planning new schemes.

We had a pleasant all night journey, arriving very early the next morning at Ostend. How lovely the sea looked, with the morning sun shining on its restless waves!

We got to Dover without accident, and two hours after the express landed us in London, and we drove at once to our appointed rendezvous, the Terminus Hotel, London bridge. We had no news of George, but that evening, opening the door in response to a loud knock, he walked in, receiving a boisterous welcome.

The next morning we all drove to Hampton Court, the creation of Wolsey, and when tired we went to the Star and Garter. There we talked over matters and came to the conclusion we must have $100,000 apiece before we could afford to settle down at home.

We resolved to send off the "percentage" to Irving & Co., and to pay all debts we were owing at home.

This matter settled, we determined to have a little recreation by taking a tour in Italy. After studying guide-books and routes we resolved to take a steamer from Southampton to Naples, spend a few days there in seeing the town and visiting Pompeii, etc., then north to Rome.

We had made considerable preparation for our tour, when a circumstance arose that not only changed our plans, but in the sequel changed our lives as well.

We had been paying another visit to Hampton Court, and in place of dining at the Star and Garter we returned by boat on the Thames and dined at the Cannon Street hotel. Before going to the hotel we took a stroll down Lombard street, and, arriving at the intersection of streets opposite the Bank of England, we came to a halt. While watching the human whirlpool in that center of throbbing life I turned to my friends, and, pointing to the Bank of England, said, "Boys, you may depend upon it, there is the softest spot in the world, and we could hit the bank for a million as easy as rolling off a log." No response was made at the time, and the casual remark was apparently forgotten. Well for us if it had been!

The next day we went for a drive to Windsor and were to dine at a famous old roadside inn. On arriving we of course visited the castle, and while viewing the decorations in the stately throneroom Mac stopped, George and me with the remark that something I had said the day before had been sticking in his mind. He went on to say that we wanted $100,000 apiece in order to return home in good shape, that the Bank of England had plenty to spare, and it was well on the lightning

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

The bank would never miss the money, and he firmly believed the whole directorate of the fossil institution was permeated with the dry rot of centuries. The managers were convinced that their banking system was impregnable, and, as a consequence, it would fall an easy victim, provided, as we suspected, the bank had really been managed by hereditary asses.

Here was a picture indeed—three American adventurers, two of them barely past their majority, standing in the throneroom of Windsor castle and plotting to strike a blow at the money bags of the Bank of England!

The idea grew on us rapidly. After dinner we sat in the twilight of that old inn and discussed the Old Lady of Threadneedle street from a point of view from which she had probably never been discussed before. I can imagine with what scorn the puffed and bepuffed magnates of the bank would have regarded us had they known of our discussion.

They boasted to me, and had boasted for a century, that their system was perfect, and as a proof that it was so they widely proclaimed they had not changed it in 100 years. They had proclaimed so loudly and so long its absolute invulnerability that they not only believed it themselves, but all the world had come to believe it as well. "Safe as the bank" was a proverb everywhere underlying the English tongue.

In our discussion we speedily came to the conclusion that any system of finance, unchanged in detail for a century, belief in the perfection of which was an article of faith not alone with the officials charged with its management, but with the people of England at large, must, in the very nature of the case, lie wide open to the attack of any man bold enough to doubt its impregnability and resolute to attack.

What a figment of the imagination this boasted impregnability of the Bank of England was the sequel will show. And as for those masters of finance, those earthly Joves of the financial world, who sat serene above the clouds, the governor and company of the Bank of England, they soon had the whole money world shaking with laughter when they stood revealed the Simple Simons they proved to be.

We wanted $100,000 apiece now and had resolved to get it from the Bank of England. Such was our confidence that we never thought failure possible. Truly if there ever was a plan laid in ignorant enthusiasm this was one. Here we were, absolutely without any knowledge of the inner workings of the institution, strangers in London, being under assumed names, without business of any kind, and not only unable to give any references, but unable to stand any investigation.

In conference it was determined an account should be opened with the bank anyway; after that was done we could decide what use to put it to.

As I had not yet shown up in the previous transactions I volunteered to go to the front in this, so I told my two friends to go to the continent—Italy, if they liked—I would remain in London and manage to get the account started. They took me at my word, and a day or two after sailed from Liverpool to Lisbon, and passed through it to Spain, visiting the chief cities of that country.

I was left alone in London and began prospecting at once, setting all my wits at work to see how I could manage to get an introduction to the bank. Of course one is supposed to give reference, even if introduced. Although I had no acquaintance with this bank's methods, yet I was confident that all those at the top must be a stupid lot of red tape sticklers, and I resolved to do my business with them alone. I was pretty sure that the routine of an introduction once well over, so as to give me access to the officials, they could be easily satisfied and made to help on the fraud in place of being obstacles. The result proved my surmise correct, for such a lot of self sufficient barnacles no institution in the world was ever burdened with, the manager reassuring me that their system was so perfect no change had been made in its methods for a century.

I finally made up my mind to find some old established shopkeeper who kept an account at the bank and secure an introduction through him.

I determined to carry out the plan at once. The thing was first of all to find my man, so at 3 o'clock that afternoon I stationed myself near the bank to watch depositors coming out and then follow them. Four out of five depositors when they take money to the bank come out examining their passbooks. That afternoon I followed several. Of these I selected three. One was an optician and electrician, an old established firm, doing a large business. Another was an East India importing house. The third was Green & Son, tailors.

The next day I went to the optician and purchased an expensive opera glass, and had him engrave on it, "To Lady Mary, From Her Friend," and paid him for it with a £100 note. Then I went to the East India firm and bought a costly white silk shawl and a lap robe fit for a prince, and looked at a camel's hair shawl at 100 guineas.

I had brought from America with me a western hat, and as I had resolved to play the silver king I wore it when going around among the tradesmen. The English had and still have absurd ideas concerning that desirable article, "the American silver king." The stage article they take for the genuine and devoutly believe that the pavements are thick with them in America, all marching around with rolls of $1,000 bills in their pockets, which they throw out to bootblacks and bartenders.

Therefore I resolved to play this role. After my purchase of the shawl and robe I drove in my brougham up to Green & Sons and entered, smoking a cigar, and with my big hat pulled well down over my eyes. Soon as I saw the older Green I felt I had my man. Certainly I had hit well, for the firm (fathers and sons) had been depositors in the Bank of England for nearly a century, and had considerable wealth, but, English fashion, stuck steadily to business. This is a firm of ultra fashionable tailors that, like the historic Poole next door, charge for their reputation more than for the fit of their garments.

One of the firm and an attendant flew to wait upon me, but paying no attention to them I started on a slow march around the establishment, examining the array of cloths, they following at my heels. I went down one side and returned on the other to the door. Arriving there I halted, and, pointing first at one roll of cloth and then another, said: "One suit from this, three suits from that, two from that, a topcoat from that, another from that, another suit from that, one from that. Now show me some dressing gowns." The first shown was 20 guineas. I instantly said that would do. One may be certain the tailor and his assistant flew around, one to measure and the other to write the measurements of this American sheep that Providence had led astray into their shop. When asked my name and address I gave F. A. Warren, Golden Cross hotel, and then, for fear I might forget my name, I made a memorandum of it and placed it in my vest pocket.

They bowed me out, evidently greatly impressed with my taciturnity, and especially my big hat, confident also that they had hooked a fortune in a genuine American silver king. I entered the brougham and drove directly to the Golden Cross hotel, Charing Cross, and there registering "F. A. Warren" and securing a room I left for my hotel. This room at the Golden Cross I kept for a whole year, but never slept there. It was the only address the Bank of England ever had of their distinguished customer, Mr. Frederic Albert Warren.

I did not trouble any more about the other two store people, but looked about the town amusing myself. In due time I called and tried the garments on, and, when ready to deliver, I left the cash with the hotel people with orders to pay the bill, which was done. There the matter rested for ten days, when I drove up again, and, remaining in my carriage, the head of the firm came out to me, and I remarked, "I must have more garments; duplicate that order," and drove off.

A week after I called to have them tried on, and then remarked that as I was going to Ireland for a few days shooting with Lord Clancarty I would send down a portmanteau for the garments and call for it on my way from the hotel to the station. So I bought the most expensive trunk I could find and sent it to the tailor. When the day came for me to call I provided myself with five £500 bank notes, five £100 and about 50 £5 notes to go on the bottom of the roll. Before leaving my hotel I had a large trunk put on the cab, and then, taking inside of it all the dressing bags, rugs, silk umbrellas and canes in the whole party, I drove to the tailor's, paid my bill with a £500 note and had the portmanteau put on the cab. I turned to go; but, halting at the door, I remarked quite in a casual manner, "By the way, Mr. Green, I have more money than I care to carry loose in my vest pocket to Ireland; I think I will leave it with you." He replied, "Certainly, sir," and as I was pulling the roll out of my vest pocket he said, "How much is it, sir?" "Only £4,000; it may be £5,000," to which he replied, "Oh, sir, I would be afraid to take charge of so much; let me introduce you to my bank."

He ran for his hat, accompanied me to the Bank of England, and, calling one of the submanagers, introduced me as an American gentleman, Mr. F. A. Warren, who desired to open an account.

A week after a passbook was brought and the signature book laid before me for my autograph, and I was requested to sign my name in full, so I christened myself Frederic Albert. I drove to the North Eastern station and telegraphed the boys at Barcelona that the thing was done and they could, if they liked, curtail their excursion and return to England at once.

CHAPTER V.

Finally, as the result of many debates, we resolved to abandon the Bank of England matter temporarily, possibly forever, because it was too dangerous, and the delay would be too great. Our new plan was to go to South America on a buccaneering expedition, there being no cable in 1873, and it took, as we ascertained, 40 days to send a letter from Rio de Janeiro to Europe and get a reply, so that if we executed an operation boldly and well we might hope for anything.

Our plan was, in the main, similar to the one we had lately used with so much success in Germany and France. Only in this case we proposed to use the credit of the London and Westminster bank, and therefore obtained the documents required to carry through such an operation successfully.

The steamer Lusitania of the Pacific Steam Navigation company was advertised to sail on the 12th, and we determined to go by her.

Modern buccaneers indeed were we, engaged in a nineteenth century piratical descent upon the shores of South America. Instead of the burly, much bewcaponed pirate of other years we were mild mannered, soft spoken, courteous youngsters, yet our stool pen and bottle of ink were more deadly instruments, or at least of surer fire and of better aim, than the long toms and horse pistols of the piratical braves of the seventeenth century.

The Monday before we sailed for Brazil I called at the bank and told the submanager that I was going to St. Petersburg and on to southern Russia for a time to inspect some work I was doing there, and I purposed to withdraw my account. He begged me not to do so, said many flattering things to me and urged that it would be convenient to have an open account in London.

Gentlemen:

Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflamatory rheumatism I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas and many other watering places, and always consulting with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. knowing that each ingredient was good for the impurities of the blood, after using two small bottles I was relieved; at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P. and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully,
J. F. GREER.

Castoria destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

ATHENS, O., July 21, 1891.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: DEAR SIRS—I bought a bottle of P. P. P. at the Springs, Ark., and it has done me more good than three months treatment at the Hot Springs. Send three bottles C. O. D.
Respectfully yours,
J. M. NEWTON,
Aberdeen, Brown County, O.

Capt. J. D. Johnston.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby testify to the wonderful properties of P. P. P. for eruptions of the skin. I contracted for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. I tried every known remedy in vain until P. P. P. was used, and am now entirely cured.

Skin Cancer Cured.

SEGUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: Gentlemen—I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer of thirty years' standing, and found great relief; it purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken three or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach trouble. Yours truly,
CAPT. W. M. RUST, Attorney at Law.

LOCAL HPPENINGS.

Miss Marie Duplissis left for Mobile Thursday.

Mr. E. W. Whisenant was married last week to Miss Green, of Greensport.

Dr Forney Stevenson, of Montgomery, is spending the week with his parents.

H. F. Montgomery Esq., has been elected City Clerk in place of Mr. Ed Rowan, resigned.

Rev. Mr. Treadaway preached for the congregation at Friendship church last Sunday.

The Georgia Home Insurance Co. has decided to rebuild the court house at Centre, Ala.

Miss Willie Landers is at home again after a visit of two weeks to relatives at Mink.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hayden and son, of Talladega, are the guests of Mrs. W. P. Crook this week.

Will Driskill, a popular hotel man of Birmingham, is visiting his parents in Jacksonville this week.

Reynolds Crook, after a vacation of two weeks, returned to his business in Columbus, Ga., last Saturday.

Mrs. L. E. Watson joined her husband in Atlanta last Sunday. She will remain in Atlanta during the exposition.

Miss Carrie Lee Alexander, after a pleasant stay of two weeks in Gadsden, returned to her home on Wednesday.

His speech was a masterly effort and was most graciously received by the vast concourse of veterans who heard him.

The ice factory closed last Saturday and Jacksonvilles supply of ice has been cut off, much to the disappointment of our people.

The lack of space forces us to leave out several letters from our county correspondents this week. They will appear next week.

S. D. G. Brothers and family returned from Zula on Sunday. Miss Zula Brothers accompanied them, and will resume her studies at the normal school.

Mr. Hardwick Ruth came up from Montgomery on Sunday last to spend a day or two in a climate in which people can keep cool. He and Mrs. Ruth and son Emmett left on Tuesday for Columbus, Ga.

Chas. McGinnis, Chivis Woodruff and Sam Swan went over to Atlanta this week. All three have accepted positions on the exposition grounds. Mr. McGinnis is assisting in the management of the Alabama exhibit, and Mess. Swan and Woodruff will aid Mr. Watson in his concession.

Vice President Baldwin, of the Southern has issued a circular to all the agents of the line, allowing them a short vacation, and passes to the exposition, for themselves, their wives and children. This liberal policy of Mr. Baldwin will be much appreciated by the employes of the great line he represents.

We regret to learn that Mr. C. W. McGaughey, the efficient agent of the Southern at this place has resigned his position. McGaughey is a good business man, and his strict attention to his duties here has been worth much to the road, and has won the confidence of our people.

THE CALHOUN ASSOCIATION

Will Meet Wednesday Before Second Sunday in October.

There seems to be some confusion as to the time of meeting of the Calhoun County Baptist Association, and we are requested to state that it will meet with Oak Bowery Baptist Church on Wednesday before second Sunday in October.

Oak Bowery church is two miles from Ohatchie, and those who expect to go to the association on the railroad, should write Rev. B. B. Nunnelly, Ohatchie, so as that conveyances may be provided to carry them to the church.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill, was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at all the Drug Stores. Regular size 50 and $1.00. 5

The Misses Lane in Forsyth.

In speaking of an entertainment given in Forsyth, Ga., last week in the interest of the Presbyterian church, the Forsyth Hustler has this to say of Misses Undine and Sydney Lane:

"Miss Sydney Lane sang "Angnes McDonald" exquisitely."

"One of the most enjoyable features of the entertainment was the magnificent singing of Miss Undine Lane. Miss Lane possesses a marvelously sweet voice, and when she sang "That Distant Shore" so great was the applause that followed that she was compelled to respond to the enchore."

An Easy Cure for Drunkenness.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Gen. J. W. Burke was a prominent visitor at the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic in Louisville, last week. At one of the "Camp fires" the General addressed his old comrades in-arms on the subject: "The Union Soldiers in the South." No man is more able to speak on this subject than Gen. Burke. His life among the southern people, extending through a period of thirty years, makes his acquaintance with them most thorough.

White in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Gentleman who go to Atlanta are directed to read the advertisement of L. M. Pack in this issue, Mr. Pack has fitted up rooms for gentlemen at 42 Washington St. He offer advantages that are exceptional. When you start for the exposition cut out his "ad" and carry it along with you.

on the road from Samuel Crook's old residence toward Alexandria. I believe any fair minded man will say, as other men have said, that it is the best and only way the roads can be improved to stand any length of time. There has been very nearly, or quite as much money expended on this road since the present law has been in force as is required to rock it, and heretofore we have had only a dirt road. Where is the good sense in still heaping up more dirt on the roads to have more mud in the winter. Think how difficult it was to get over this road last winter. Then travel over it now, and I believe you will say it is the thing to do. In my judgement we have only made the beginning in rocking the roads of the county which cannot be properly fixed otherwise. We have given eighteen dollars per mile all over the county, regardless of what portion of the county the money came from.

Now be of good cheer, for in due time you will reap if you faint not.

What I have said has been said with the best feelings to all.

Very Respectfully,
M. N. COKER.

BALANCES TO A CENT.

A Good Showing for Treasurer Treadaway.

There being some misunderstanding as to the amount of the road fund in the hands of the county treasurer, the county commissioners appointed H. F. Montgomery to make an examination of the treasurer's books to ascertain if any mistake had been made in the division of the common and road fund.

Mr. Montgomery finished his work a few days since, and in footing up Treasurer Treadaway's books for the past three years, during which time he has handled about $75,000, his books balanced to a cent. This indeed reflects credit on Calhoun's treasurer.

It was found by the examination that all the road fund had been exhausted, and that the road fund was due the common fund $202.66.

The tax collector will soon start on his rounds, and money will again soon be in the hands of the treasurer to carry on the work on the roads.

The treasurer had on hand $2,300., which will be kept to pay the expenses of the circuit court.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic Diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by.

John Weir, who has been taking a business course at Lexington, Kentucky, is spending a short while with his parents in Jacksonville, before locating in business. John is a hustler and we predict for him a successful business career.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Y. M. C. A. Des Moines Iowa says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by.

ALL ABOARD FOR THE EXPOSITION.

Persons going from Jacksonville and surrounding country to Atlanta during the exposition can find no better route than over the East and West. In going this way you make close connection with the W. & A., in Cartersville, and run no risk of being delayed. All the people in this section who expect to go over and see the great exposition, should go this route.

Seven day tickets can be purchased from Jacksonville for $2.60. For longer limited tickets address BART COWDEN, Genl. Pas. Agt. Cartersville, Ga., or any local agent in Calhoun County.

Lincoln as a Lover.

Abraham Lincoln's sentimental perplexities are to be shown in an article of singular interest which John Gilmer Speed has written from unpublished letters of Lincoln to Joshua Speed, for next issue of The Ladies home Journal. The article will show that the great President was not steady in his affairs of the heart, that he floundered in his love, and finanally induced his friend Speed to marry and tell him (Lincoln) whether marriage was a failure or not.

PROBATE OF WILL.

THE STATE OF ALABAMA,
Calhoun County.

In Probate Court Special Term September 18th. 1895.

This day comes E. M. Reid, Esq., and files in this Court a paper writing purporting to be the last will and testament of John J. Canada deceased, and with it his petition praying that the same be admitted to probate and record as the true last will and testament of said deceased. It is therefore ordered that Monday the 21st, day of October A. D. 1895 be and it is hereby appointed the day on which to hear and determine said petition and to probate said will; and notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of said deceased and especially to Jamison G. Canada who resides at Maganett, Hot Springs Ark., and who is a non-resident next of kin of said deceased, to appear in said Probate Court on said day and contest said petition if he thinks proper. Given under my hand at office this September 18th, 1895. EMMETT F. CROOK,
Judge of Probate.

Notice.

Tax Collector's

APPOINTMENTS 1st ROUND

I will attend the following appointments for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Calhoun county, Alabama, for the year 1895. All taxes delinquent after December 31st, 1895, and each tax unpaid at that date is subject to a fee of 50c and interest on until it is paid. As this is the last year of the term it will be absolutely necessary to enforce the law strictly that I may be able to settle in full at the proper time. I hope every tax payer will see the necessity for this and will help me accomplish my purpose.

CALHOUN NEWS

From Every Nook and Corner of The County.

FOR THE PRESENT WEEK.

The Republican's Correspondents Gather the News and Furnish it to its Readers.

PIEDMONT.

Piedmont has been enjoying a very, very warm September, but the last few nights have been refreshingly cool.

Mrs. J. W. Harris spent last week in Chattanooga among her relatives.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, and her daughter, Mrs. Sanders, of Birmingham, returned to their home last Thursday, after spending a week with relatives here.

Mrs. Harlowe, of Birmingham, was here last week visiting relatives.

Mrs. Porterfield and children, of Alexandria, have been visiting the family of Capt. Monahan.

Miss Fannie Palmer is visiting Mrs. McKenzie, of Rome.

Mr. E. E. Frizzell has returned to Atlanta with the promise of plenty of work and good pay until Christmas.

Quite a party of our townspeople went over to Atlanta to the opening of the big show last week. They were somewhat disappointed though, as some of the exhibits were not in place, and some of the buildings not open.

Miss Walker, the popular music teacher of the Seminary, was called home a week ago by the dangerous illness of her mother who died before she arrived.

Miss Burris, of Miss., has arrived at the Seminary to take charge of the music department until Jan., when Miss Walker will return.

Miss Bertha Hanna is visiting friends in Jacksonville and Gadsden.

The shoe factory is not running this week on account of the non-arrival of a carload of leather. They have a great many orders ahead and will no doubt make things hum when the leather arrives.

Miss Mary Lou Moody, Miss May Harris, Miss Helen Yeatman, Miss Mamie Monahan, and quite a number of gentlemen, went up to Cartersville last Sunday to hear Sam Jones. They were delightfully entertained, mentally by Mr. Jones, and physically by Mrs. Bartow Cowden, who gave them a good dinner and sent them home rejoicing.

The public school at this place has gotten into a squabble, as is usual. Miss Fannie Holcomb's friends made up a school for her to begin next Monday. Miss Katie Kerr began teaching her school last Monday, and the question is who is entitled to the school house. The trustees have been appealed to, to settle the dispute.

Mr. R. B. Harbin returned to New Orleans the first of the week.

The colored persuasion of the Methodist church have been carrying on a protracted meeting for two weeks. Judging from the songs and shouts which wake the midnight echoes, they are having as good a meeting as their emotional natures could wish.

Our little neighbor, Spring Garden, has sent an old negro to the exposition who is said to be one hundred years old. He was brought from Virginia forty years ago and sold to Mr. Aiken for only three hundred dollars as he was so old at that time. His grand daughter—herself an old woman—takes care of him, and though he may forget what he had for dinner to day, he never forgets how the British soldiers looked, the boats on James river, the gallant appearance of Washington and other prominent men.

WEAVERS.

The caterpillars have made their appearane in the cotton fields here, and will soon have them stripped of their foliage.

The extreme warm, dry weather is making cotton open very fast, though but little has been ginned.

Mr. Wm Keith, of Tenn., visited his uncle, Mr. R. J. McGhee, and old war comrade, D. F. Weaver, last week. To hear him talk one would judge that he had all the incidents connected with the war, in his mind.

Dr. Tucker and son, Oscar, came out from Sulphur Springs and spent a few days with relatives here.

Miss Jessie McGhee has returned to school in Talladega.

Miss Pet Trotter, of Duke, spent last Satueday and Sunday here.

Mr. R. F. Hughes has returned home after about six months spent with relatives in South Carolina.

Mrs. Ham and Mrs. McCraw returned last week to their home in Oxford, after a visit of several days to Mrs. R. B. Weaver.

Mr. Cochran, of Birmingham, is visiting his son, Gus, at this place.

The mother of C. D. Fite is still very ill.

Miss Mattie Watson spent Tuesday in Jacksonville, the guest of Mr. Jno. P. Weaver.

The reunion of the brothers and sisters of D. F. Weaver, last week, was a pleasant affair; there being nine in number, ages ranging from 35 to 58 years, all in good health. They met at Mr. Weaver's home and all took dinner at the same time, an occurence, which they do not remember to have taken place heretofore. The afternoon was spent in visiting the old house in which they were reared and many incidents of childhood were called to mind.

Mrs. S. T. Peace, of East Lake, and Mrs. Thompson, of Tallapoosa, are visiting the family of Dr. Ison.

ALEXANDRIA.

The protracted meeting conducted by the pastor, Mr. Horton, and Mr. Smith, at the Methodist Church, has closed. It has been a most interesting meeting and much good has been accomplished. Mr Smith will be long and gratefully remembered by the people of Alexandria.

Mr. K. S. Woodruff having accepted a position with the Inman Cotton Co., has removed with his family to Birmingham.

The family of Mr. Giles Mathis, recently of Anniston, will occupy the residence vacated by N. Woodruff.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Crook, of Jacksonville, were visitors to our town Sunday.

There is an unusual amount of sickness in our valley.

The infant son of Mike Donnelly died last week after a short illness, and was buried in the Baptist church-yard.

Mrs. J. F. Wood and children have returned from a pleasant visit to Calera.

CHOCCOLOCCO.

The weather is as warm as any we have had this year, but it is fine for saving hay and fodder.

There is much sickness in our community; Mrs. A. J. H. Borders is having chills and fever. Mr. Albert Leggett lost a child last week.

Mrs. Katie Allin, of Bessemer, Mrs. Woodruff, of Rome, Mrs. Judge Aiken, of Gadsden, and Mrs. Watson, of Weavers, have been visiting their sister, Mrs. A. B. Scarbrough. They are spending this week at Weavers, with Mrs. Dave Weaver.

It was reported here last week that one of Mr. Len Greer's children had diphtheria. We are glad to report that it was a mistake.

Mr. A. J. H. Borders has the finest arbors of scuppernongs we have ever seen. They cover over one half acre, and they are literally covered with grapes.

Miss Callie Milligan has gone to Jacksonville to go to school.

Lindsay Scarbrough has gone to school at Greensboro.

Mallory Davis left this week for school in Arkansas.

MORRISVILLE.

Rev. W. O. Horton filled his regular appointment at Morrisville Methodist church last Sunday, and as usual, preached a very interesting sermon. There were four additions to the church.

We are having splendid weather for gathering crops, and farmers are putting in double quick time pulling fodder, picking cotton, mowing hay, making syrup and preparing for the camp meeting.

The indications are that good old Moses will have to stretch out his rod over Eypt, and command peace again. Mr. Thomas M. Haynes says that some body has stole his cat, that it is a pretty pussy kittie, and that if it is not returned by 12 m. Monday, a certain old lady will feel the earth quake, hear a cyclone, jaw bones will crack, and the ground will be badly torn up all in a very small space.

Esq. Reid thanks your Bera correspondent for his sympathy, but wants to know how any body can keep from being agitated and shaking while standing in the presence of a two hundred pound ice berg.

Parson, W. G. Adams, our efficent mail carrier, while en route from Anniston one day last week, killed a coach whip snake so long that he could not measure it with his buggy whip.

Rev. John Harden, will preach the funeral of Perry Burrel's infant son, John, at Union church on the 4th Sunday in October, at 11 o'clock.

SCHENCKS SPRINGS.

Rev. Gillam Boozer filled Rev. Hugh Johnson's appointment at Angel's Grove church last Sunday.

The following from Jacksonville visited the springs last Sunday: R. L. Vansandt and wife, T. M. Roberts and wife, W. L. McGinnis and wife, Mrs. Callahan, Mrs. J. Vansandt, Misses Fannie Lee Swan Clint McMillan, Mamie Ward, Messrs Gus Williams and John Alexander.

Mrs. Jim Buchannan is sick with fever.

Mrs. E. T. Clark and Mrs. W. Cooper were visitors in this vicinity last Tuesday.

It is whispered in the air that there will be a wedding at Duke soon.

The farmers camp meeting here Thursday and Friday of last week was a success, although there was considerable disappointment because State Lecturer Harris did not get here. We had splendid speeches, however, from the following: Capt. James Crook, N. J. Stephens, Dr. Skelton, B. G. McClellen, R. M. Hanna, T. L. Harvey, G. W. Landers and John Reaves.

We had splendid music led by Mrs. Elwell on an organ, assisted by Messrs. Greer and Marston on violins, and Mr. Elwell on kettle drum.

Being such a busy time of the year there was not as large a turnout as was expected.

I didn't get to make my speech, as there were but few ladies present.

CANE CREEK.

Cotton is getting white in the fields and our people are busy picking it out. Several new bales have been sold in Lincoln—our nearest market.

There is much sickness throughout the country,—mostly chills and fever.

The big booger has promised to go out on his bike, but Frank says the only chance is to smoke him out. By the way Mr. Big Booger, you stop telling fish stories at prayer meeting, or I'll print some of them.

L. J. Franklin says Buck Sisson is "Sho" a candidate for commissioner, and he is going to stump the county for him. Buck's platform is: "Free grass."

There is a decided movement in Sunday school work since the convention met in Anniston. New schools are being organized, and old ones revived.

The camp meeting is to open on Friday night, the 4th of October. This is official, having been decided on by the managers last Sunday at a meeting.

MINK.

The health of our community is good except a few chills in the families of W. A. Johnston and J. Rhodes.

Elder J. W. Smyly is visiting his father who lives near Jacksonville.

Our literary society met again last Saturday night, with a good crowd in attendance. We had some good help from our Tredegar friends in the way of recitations by Misses Nisbet, Munger and Head. We hope they will come out again.

We would be pleased to have the editors of the REPUBLICAN with us on the next fourth Saturday night.

Since our last letter H. L. Boozer and wife, Lee Boozer and Miss Lula Boozer have been visiting at Boozer, Ala., in Beat 14.

Miss Augusta Mann was at Mink on school business Monday.

Col. R. B. Kyle, of Gadsden, was in our settlement Monday, looking after some timber.

C. A. J. Hollingsworth visited his parents, at Hokes Bluff, last Sunday. Prof. Adams' school at that place is in full blast. The Baptists have just built a new church there, at which a protracted meeting is in progress.

We attended the first day of the camp meeting at Schencks Springs. There were about one hundred farmers in attendance. Some good talks were made. Etowah county was represented in the persons of W. D. Atkins and Mr. Wise, of Luke.

MERRELLTON.

Died the 18th inst., at 10 P. M., Mr. B. D. Plexco, after an illness of four months, and was buried at the Dowdell graveyard on the 20th. Rev. Joe Holden conducted the funeral services. His remains were surrounded by his relatives and many weeping friends, who gave evidence of their great loss in his death. Their loss was his great gain, as his life's work testifies. The Bible was his guide in all his dealings with his fellow man. He will be greatly missed in the Sunday school work.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Glover have come down from the mountain much improved in health, having spent the summer at the Springs Hotel.

Mrs. E. Grogan and Mrs. J. H. Price are improving, but still quite sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Holmes have another little boarder at their house—a girl.

M. T. Weaver has scarlet fever in his family,—four of the children being ill with it.

Misses Claude Fitz and Lela Aderhold, of Jacksonville, are visiting Miss Sallie Scott, of Merrellton, this week.

P. Z. Murphy, of Iron City, has returned home.

Cotton is opening very fast. It will prove a shorter crop than was thought a month ago.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Dowdell spent last Saturday and Sunday with their relatives at Colvins Gap.

TAMPA.

The weather continues hot and dry though we are having a breeze most of the time which prevents as much suffering from heat as the mercury would indicate.

Elisha West, who entered the school at Hokes Bluff, is reported as being quite sick.

Mrs. A. J. Tarvin spent a few hours last Monday with her brother, Rhea Pearce. At this writing he is thought to be much better.

Misses Traunie and Ida Cross entered the State Normal last week. We are much pleased to know of the success of that school.

DEARMANVILLE.

Mr. W. C. Borders has gone to Atlanta for medical treatment under a specialist.

Mess. Jasper DeArman, E. S. Seaman, W. C. Manghum, and W. G. Clark have returned from Birmingham where they were summoned before the U. S. Grand Jury in a counterfeiting case.

An old fashioned candy stew was given last night at Mr. Chas. Mathis' complimentary to Misses Era Harrison of Bessemer, Ala., and Lelia Seaman, of Anniston. A number of young people attended from Anniston.

Mr. Louis Dunston, who left last week to seek a new home in Texas, returned in a few days satisfied to remain in Old Calhoun, the best country in the world, all things considered.

Very little cotton has been marketed here. The crop is late as well as short.

A union Sunday-school will be organized at this place on the first Sunday in October by vice-president L. F. Greer, under the auspices of the Calhoun County S. S. Association. This a good field for such a work.

The ground has been secured and the lumber purchased for a handsome school building at this place. Prof. G. W. Bonner will take charge of the school permanently.

The stock law for this and Oxford beats takes effect Oct. 2nd. By mutial consent, in parts of this beat, as the fences are already up, the law will not be strictly enforced until Nov. 1st.

BRUNER.

Eddie Poe, the young man who has been confined to his bed so long with rheumatism, died last Friday evening about four o'clock, and was buried at Green's graveyard Saturday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. F. McCain. There was a large attendance. Our community sympathizes with the bereaved family.

BERA.

Rev. Noah Stephens filled his regular appointment at New-Bethel Sunday.

Mr. Will Canada, of Eastaboga, was guest, on Sunday, of Esq. E. J. Haynie. He did full justice to a dish of beans. Come again William.

We learn that the Rev. Nelson Johnson went over to Cleburne county to preach a few days ago, and the women mistook him for a revenue officer, and he came near having to skedaddle.

We regret to learn that Esq. Reid is still confined to his bed from the effects of that chill.

J. A. Harris says that the finest turnip crop that he has ever seen is at McFall; and the agent there should have credit for it.

IRON CITY.

Beat 12 had a Sabbath school rally at Sunny Eve on last Sunday afternoon. A large crowd was present and some very enthusiastic speeches were made. Mr. T. W. Gidley was elected president. It was decided to hold monthly meetings.

Rev. Griffin filled his appointment at this place last Sabbath and was called for another year.

Dr. Davis, of Anniston, was over last week to see Miss Bessie Davis who has been suffering for quite a while with white swelling.

The darkies school closed here last Wednesday amid much speech making and recitations.

The weather is fine for saving hay and fodder and the farmers are making the most of it.

Several parties will likely be formed in Jacksonville during the months of November and December to visit the exposition.

IN THE RING

And Both Boards Knocking at the Same Time.

NEW LICKS GOT IN BY BOTH

Remains to be Seen Who is to be Knocked Out.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Please allow us space in your columns to reply to an article in your last issue over the signature, County Commissioners.

Our card to the public was not intended to reflect on the official conduct of the old Board. We were informed as stated in our card of the report as to the expenses to the county of the new plan. We simply made a comparision of expenses.

Well, the commissioners say that we charged them with too much time in their job of equalizing taxes. Their minutes show that they were in session 25 days in July, August and first part of September. We thought 3 days for the other work were sufficient as they well know only two of them could work at the tax business until complaints were heard from the defendants. Yet, they ignore anytime they occupied in July. Pages 41-49 of the revenue code requires them to rigidly examine each assessment list and compare same with assessor's book and examine said book and see if made out according to law. Gentlemen, did you lose no time in this duty in July?

Again, they charge us with raising valuations helter skelter without regard to merit or justice! In reply to this, there were 96 cases outside of the four towns, who had fallen off from their 1894 assessment whom we put back something near the former values. In the four towns we sustained 531 raises and assessments, in the said towns we had witnesses whose judgment and integrity could not be disputed to give evidence in the contested cases, who had carefully examined the property in contest and all the real estate inside corporations. We tried to equalize values and give justice to every tax payer. Out of about 800 cases, 627 were sustained and no appeal was taken to city or circuit court. Can the old Board say as much for their 352 cases in 1893 and 272 cases in 1894? The records show that the raises in 1893 amounted to $334,448,00; the expenses of witnesses and citations to the county treasury foot up to $322.25, and the old Board was in session 31 days in the tax and other business during July, August and September. As the commissioners say the new plan is so much more expensive, we herewith submit an itemized statement of expenses to state, county, city and individuals, under the new law:—

Citations 627 raises sustained	156,75
Witness fees	30.92
Attorney fees	10.00
Subpœs	2.00
2 dockts	29.00
Local Board at Jacksonville	23.00
Local Board at Piedmont	16.00
Local Board at Oxford	64.00
Local Board at Anniston	80.00
	$ 632.67

Now under the old law, the 800 citations would have cost the county treasury exactly $600,00. Now, we are willing to leave the matter to the public for their decision. We were forced by their attack to make this reply.

O. S. CROOK, Chm'n.
J. T. A. HUGHES,
B. G. MCCLELEN, Sect'y.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN:—We desire to reply to the questions asked us directly by the Board of Equalization in this issue of your paper.

Yes, we state EMPHATICALLY that ten (10) days will fully cover every minute of time consumed by us in the examination, raising, equalizing and hearing objections to tax assessments. But in the face of this positive assertion, and the facts as shown by our minutes, the Board of Equalization continue, to say the horse is sixteen feet high.

We repeat truthfully that $392.50 covers every dollar of expense of the Commissioners Court in and about the equalization and raise, and hearing objections in tax matters.

It was very hard to ring from the Board of Equalization the TRUE expense of their board, but it comes at last, and what do we find it to be? Not $150.92 as given in the first statement, but the sum of $632.67. Quite a difference. The Board of Equalization does not deny that we only spent ten days in doing the same work over which it consumed thirty six (36) days, but they say the Commissioners were in session twenty five (25) days in July, August and September, and they thought three days enough in which to do the other work. Maybe it was, and maybe it wasn't. We do not think the Equalization Board competent judges, because if we consumed the entire twenty-five on tax matters and did nothing else, we did the work then in eleven (11) days less than that board. But we think three days too little, and judging by the speed that board made in equalizing the taxes, we are warranted in believing it would have taken them the entire twenty-five days to have done regular work of the Commissioners.

Now about that July term of six days—our regular court. It has nothing in the world to do with the duties emposed upon the Board of Equalizers. It is made the duty of the Commissioners Court at its July term to examine the tax lists, the book of assessment, and poll book of the assessor, and see if they are made as the law directs. That is, see if the assessor has done his work correctly. That is all, and nothing more.

The Board of Equalization seems to brag on its having raised and sustained 627 cases to our 272. Well, it is welcome to such glory; but we take it that the people had rather there would be no raise unless there was a glaring undervaluation. We raised only where we thought it absolutely necessary, and not for the fun of it, and to prolong our session. We concede the fact, gentleman, that you surpassed us in the number of cases raised, and the number of days consumed doing the work and in expenses.

Said Board winds up by saying what it would have cost the county if the Commissioners had raised as many cases as it did. Yes, gentlemen, but we didn't. Never did, and we were raising fewer every year, and advise you to do the same. Equalize the taxes and raise only where there were glaring undervaluations was our motto. If the Commissioners had had a board authorized by law in each incorporated town to do the work of valueing the property as the Board of Equalization had, we think our number of days on that work could have been divided by two. So taking the law as we find it, the Commissioners did (as we claim) in ten days just what it required the city boards and the board of equalization seventy-three days to do, as per the statement of that board.

We wish to state right here that we did not charge the county for the day consumed in going to Anniston to hear objections to the raises there last year.

Now, gentlemen, how does the comparison suit you? Ask some more questions. We are on the witness stand, and think when you are through with us YOUR LAW, which you started out to defend, will be like the parrot when the cyclone struck.

Yours truly,
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Colored Farmers Institute.

The colored farmers of Calhoun county met in the court house in Jacksonville last Saturday week and organized a Farmers Institute.

The meeting was called to order by a man by the name of Read, who lives in the western portion of the county. He stated that the purpose of the organization was to better the condition of the colored farmers of Calhoun county, and that no political discussions would be tolerated, and that all its meetings would be public.

The following officers were elected: Savannah F. Moore, of Peaceburg, president, Geo. Woodward, of Jacksonville, vice-president; Prof. Read, secretary.

After the organization, several hours were spent in a discussion of topics of interest to the farmer.

So far as we are aware, this is the first colored agricultural society that has been organized in this section.

Services were held in all churches on Sunday last. Mr. Liston was at the Presbyterian, Mr. Smith at the Methodist, Mr. Forney at the Episcopalian, and Mr. Wright at the Baptist church.

AFTER KOLB

About The Populist Corner on Page

LET OTHERS SPEAK OF.

Kolb's Paper Bonded and Sold in New York for Ten Times Its Worth.

From The Sunday Morning Star:

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 11, '95.

To Capt. Reuben F. Kolb:

As one who has voted for and supported you twice for Governor and to set at rest one way or the other rumors damaging to yourself and mortifying to your friends whose right it is to know the truth, I ask that you copy in your paper, The Tribune, the subjoined questions and answer them.

1. Immediately before you left for the North, about six weeks ago, were you not compelled to borrow money to pay the expenses of The Tribune, and did you not, on your return from this trip, deposit in a Birmingham bank three thousand dollars or more, and was this not a part of the fifteen thousand dollars you publish as the sum you received from sale of the stock or bonds of your paper, The Tribune?

2. Up to the time of the sale of stock or bonds of The Tribune, did your said paper even own and operate a press or own any other portion of a newspaper outfit except the type in your office, all together worth not more than two thousand dollars? How did you manage to get $15,000 for those bonds or stock, a sum nearly ten times the value of The Tribune?

3. Will you publish the names and addresses of the purchasers of these said bonds or stock?

4. Your name heads the list of the call for the silver conference. Is it not a fact that when our State Executive Committee was debating in 1894 whether or not we should propose to the "organized" Democrats that we hold a white primary irrespective of party in the State both you and Mr. Adams opposed it? If you were opposed to having anything to do with "organized" Democrats in 1894, why are you so anxious to hold a love feast with them at this time?

5. Is it not a fact that after your nomination in 1894 you went on a trip to get money for campaign purposes, and on your return you reported to the Chairman of the Campaign Executive Committee that you had collected twenty-five hundred dollars, but that on the next day in the presence of these two last named members of said committee, in answer to questions of another, you admitted having collected more than three thousand two hundred dollars?

6. Is it not a fact that on the day of the Peoples Party State Convention in 1894, you received a thousand dollars to be used in defraying the expenses of said convention, and while you had that thousand dollars you sat in the convention and saw a collection taken up to pay its expenses; and not only so, but did not you yourself move that this collection be taken up, and when it fell short of the required amount, did you not insist upon another collection, saying you had no money but had borrowed some to pay these expenses, and that you must repay it?

And months afterward when asked by the gentleman who had charge of this collection in the convention why you denied having any money on that day when you had a thousand dollars in your pocket did you not reply, "I didn't have a thousand dollars. I had only five hundred on that day and got the other five hundred later," and did you not say that you denied having any money at all at that time because you needed it to pay your own debts?

7. Is it not a fact that a few weeks before the last State election the State Executive Committee was called together for the special purpose of taking you off their ticket as candidate for Governor and replacing you by another man, this action being induced by a loss of confidence in your integrity and that it was not done only because the effect of such action would have been to disorganize and demoralize our people?

Yours respectfully,
GEO. Z. ZIMMERMAN.

The Republican

Official Organ of Calhoun County.

A. W. AYERS, T. CROOK

Editors and Publishers.

Entered at the Postoffice at Jacksonville, Ala., as second class matter.

THE REPUBLICAN.

Established in 1837 is the OFFICIAL JOURNAL of Calhoun, one of the largest and wealthiest counties in Alabama, and in which are located the towns of Jacksonville, Anniston, Oxford, Oxanna and Piedmont.

CIRCULATION.

It has a larger guaranteed county circulation in Calhoun than any other paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

The subscribers of the REPUBLICAN are the best people in the county,—a class of people with whom it pays to advertise. Than it there is no better advertising medium in this section of Alabama.

THE REPUBLICAN.

LOUISVILLE, Chattanooga and Atlanta; but the greatest of these is Atlanta.

THE Atlanta Journal now has a press with a capacity of 48,000 an hour, and which cost $45,000.

THAT speech of Gov. Oates last week was one of the grandest efforts of his life.

THE snow which fell in Colorado last Sunday has defered sending down the cold wave until winter.

REMEMBER that you can get the Jacksonville REPUBLICAN and the Atlanta Constitution one year for $1.50.

IF the Birmingham State doesn't let the Evening News alone, the News will prohibit it from playing in its yard.

THE splendid edition of the Chattanooga Times last week would do credit to the largest cities of this country.

PETTUS, BANKHEAD OR PUGH. This is the order in which the people in this section prefer them for the senate.

THE southern people will never teach their children that the cause for which the southern men fought was wrong.

EVEN the gold bugs now concede that Gen. Hardin will sweep Kentucky. This, too, while Editor Watterson is abroad.

THE gold standard papers continue to boom Gen. Shelly for Governor; but the General continues to saw wood and say nothing.

THE people will keep an eye on Anniston during the next thirty days and watch her plume herself for the court house fight.

DURING the hot, dull days it is well enough to have a little controversy between our tax boards to break the monotony.

IT is believed that the constitutional convention now in session in South Carolina will pass an election law similar to the Mississippi law.

FROM the number of railroads now in the hands of receivers, it doesn't look like there is much danger of the railroads owning the government.

As long as the Birmingham State and News live so close together that they can look across the hall and growl at each other, they will continue to quarrel.

IT appears that Mr. Kolb does not look with much pleasure on these checks which Mr. Skaggs left him as souvenirs of the last campaign.

THE tocsin has been sounded in Selma for a big prohibition fight in Dallas county. All candidates for the legislature in that county will have to speak out on that question.

IT was a feast of love with our Populist friends—Kolb, Skaggs, Bowman, Goodwyn etc., so long as there was any meat on the bone. Now, however, their wrangling has begun. There is crimination and recrimination. The people will study their conduct and be filled with disgust.

ADVERTISERS, who want to reach the people of Calhoun county must get their advertisements in the Jacksonville Republican. This is the paper which the people read.

THE Governors had charge of the Atlanta exposition last week and all pronounce it a great show. The governor of New York was so much pleased that he will return and bring with him Mrs. Morton.

THERE are few weekly papers in Alabama that can borrow $15,000. There is much, however, in knowing when, how, and where to do such a thing. Distance, too, lends something of enchantment to the view of the lender.

THE correspondence between Kolb and Zimmerman makes rather interesting reading matter. Zimmerman is not the only man who believes that Kolb didn't divide up right on the populists corruption fund.

THERE is no doubt but the government ownership of railroads in the United States would amount to nothing less than a monarchy, and why any man who is in favor of a republican form of government can favor such a scheme is more than we can understand.

THERE is no doubt but the bosses among the populists are doing some tall talking about the division of the corruption fund which was raised for them last year in the great money centers of the east and from gold bug republicans.

SINCE the silver conference in Birmingham the organization of bimetallic clubs are being arranged for in nearly all the counties. R. P. Thomason has charge of the work in Calhoun. He is a splendid organizer, and we are confident that Calhoun will be thoroughly organized.

THE State Normal school at Jacksonvills is now thoroughly organized in its work, and is moving along smoothly. Those who have children to educate should send them here and enter them as early as possible. They can send to no better school in Alabama.

Take due notice of the fact that you can for the next sixty days pay one dollar and get for one year the Jacksonville REPUBLICAN and Birmingham State. Now is the time to send in the dollar. This applies to new subscribers, and also to those who pay for a year in advance, or who pay a year's subscription already due.

THE pastor of the Selma Baptist church, Dr. A. J. Dickinson, closed his sermon against the liquor traffic last Sunday night by saying "underneath the Democratic party is the jug and you cannot afford to break away from that jug, and you know it. I am ready to acknowledge and follow a political leader when he is worthy, but I am not ready to follow your yaller dog or whisky jug, even though he is a Democratic nominee.

FROM the correspondence published in this issue between Geo. P. Zimmerman and Capt R. F. Kolb it will be seen that Capt. Kolb has followed in the footsteps of other papers in this state and sold out the Peoples Tribune to unknown parties in New York. It even appears that he has sold bonds to the amount of $15,000 on a newspaper outfit not worth over $2,000. The populists will now do well to keep an eye on the Tribune. Such a sale as this always means something.

JUDGING from what the Age-Herald and Hot Blast have to say, Anniston has no contract with Tokio for iron pipe, and Birmingham has no contract with Honolulu. But then you know both these papers have fallen into the habit of telling such big tales about the gold standard that the telling of tales has grown on them, and you have to take all they say with much salt. When the truth is known, it will doubtless be shown that Birmingham and Anniston each has its reported contract.

IT is only about a month now until the time for Anniston to have ordered the election on the removal of the court house. We presume that she will be ready by that time and will have the election promptly ordered so as to get it out of the the way before the spring conventions. As democrats they certainly cannot afford to entangle the party with this measure next spring. As this local fight is to be had, let us fight it out promptly and turn our attention to other matters of great interest which will certainly suffer as long as this local measure is held up.

KOLB'S REPLY.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 16, '95.

Mr. Geo. P. Zimmerman, Birmingham.

I have read your letter addressed to me and published in the last issue of the Birmingham Sunday Morning Star.

Had the subject matter of your letter appeared as editorial utterance in that paper I should have remained silent paying no attention to it. It is beyond the reach of that dirty sheet to prejudice the people of Alabama against me.

Your letter appears in full in this issue of The Tribune and I answer your questions.

I shall not invite you to appreciate my candor. My sole object is to instruct the public mind where you have undertaken to deceive it for reasons satisfactory to you, principal or a proxy as the facts may determine your part to be in the controversy you have forced upon me.

I have had full knowledge for some time of the damaging rumors being circulated by a few of my enemies with the vain hope injuring my influence, and rejoice now that your letter places me in position to answer the vile charges made against my character.

In answer to your first, second and third questions, I reply that IT IS NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS.

The Tribune Publishing Company is a corporation, incorporated under the laws of Alabama. Everything pertaining to said corporation that you or the public are concerned in, is on file in the office of the Judge of Probate of Jefferson county, subject to the inspection of any citizen of this State. As to what amount of money The Tribune Publishing Company has ever owned, or how much money it has now or has ever had on deposit in a Birmingham bank, or what amount of bonds it has sold or who were the purchasers of said bonds, the public will agree with me when I tell you, it is none of your business.

If you own any of the stock or bonds of The Tribune Publishing Company you then have the right to come to the office and inspect the books, but as you own none, are not even a subscriber, pray what right have you to inquire into its affairs? You might with equal propriety make the same demand on the Age-Herald or The State, both being newspapers incorporated under the laws of the State of Alabama, as The Tribune Publishing Company is. With equal propriety you might make the same demand of any corporation in this State, in which you have not a dollar's interest. To come to the point where you assume to dabble in the lawful business of others, permit me to assist you to see yourself in that unenviable role. Would you condescend to answer partisan questions upon the sources of your living? How and when your office rent is paid? How and when the tax, if any, on your law library is met? Whether you draw upon your bank credit seldom or the reverse, should it be for convenience sake that you maintain a bank credit? Sir, I hardly think any decent, selfrespecting man would thrust questions of that nature upon an active member of the bar even were it necessary to destroy his hard earned practice in order to lift him out of the field of political influence.

I will state, however for the benefit of the public at large, whose confidence you seek to abuse that The Peoples Tribune is here to stay, that it is in good financial condition, and will continue in the future, as in the past, to battle for the sacred principles of the peoples party, and to oppose all efforts to fuse our party with the gold bug elements of either of the old parties. I will also say that the bonds issued by our company are not gold bonds, but payable in currency, and a copy of said bonds is on file in the office of the Judge of Probate of this county.

In reply to your 4th question I answer: I was not opposed to the action of our State Executive committee in submitting a proposition to the executive Committee of the "organized democracy to hold a white primary election, irrespective of party issues. I even went so far as to advocate holding a white primary and permitting only those to participate who had been democrats prior to the election of 1892. I believe then and believe now that such an election would have resulted in a victory for our side, and it was evident at the time that the Executive Committee of the "organized" Democracy thought so too, for otherwise they would have accepted, probably, our proposition.

In reply to your 5th question, I answer that I did go North after my nomination, in February 1894 for the express purpose of collecting funds for our campaign, and I turned over every dollar so collected to the Chairman of our Campaign Committee, except sufficient to defray my actual expenses while on said trip, and excepting also the sum used to pay off a mortgage then existing on the Alliance Herald, and also the further sum of $500.00 which I divided equally between Messrs. W. H. Skaggs, D. G. Bowman, A. T. Goodwyn and myself for our personal campaign expenses.

The Campaign Executive Committee afterwards examined my account and statement of receipts and expenditures and approved the same.

I will also state that during said campaign I had $2500,00 given me for my individual and personal expenses, not a dollar of it intended for the general campaign fund. Of this amount I turned over to Mr. Skaggs, voluntarily, $1,500, for the campaign fund, and the balance, $1000,00 I divided equally between Messrs. Skaggs, Bowman, Goodwyn and myself for our personal campaign expenses.

I will also state that just before the close of the campaign, and while Col. Reese was North trying to get funds, Mr. Skaggs was very short of money and asked me to go to Montgomery and borrow from some friends $500,00 promising to return it out of funds collected by Colonel Reese. This I did and turned it over to Mr. Skaggs. The demand on Mr. Skaggs at the close of campaign were so great and his expenditures so heavy he was unable to return to me the $500,00 and after the campaign was over I had to raise the money myself and pay the party in Montgomery from whom I borrowed it. In addition to that amount, I cashed some small checks for Mr. Skaggs on the last day of the campaign and hold those checks yet. I even gave Mr. Jerry Fountain, Chairman of your County Campaign Committee, $200,00 of my private funds to help defray expenses of your county campaign. I was continually at heavy expense going all over the State, demands for money being made on me from every quarter.

The two campaigns I made cost me individually, not less than $15,000,00.

In reply to your 6th question, I will say, that for some time prior to the meeting of the state convention in this city, in Febuary 1894, I had repeatedly written to my friend, Colonel Lee Crandall of Washington, D. C., telling him how anxious I was to make the Convention a great success; that I was very short of ready money and all our people were very poor; that to make the Convention a success I would be compelled to travel all over the State and it would require a great deal of money to defray necessary expenses. I urged him to go to Boston and do all in his power to raise me some money for that purpose. Feeling confident he would succeed, I borrowed $1100.00 which was expended in that work and before the Convention had met. On the day of the Convention I received by wire from Boston $100060 but did not receive it until after the collection you refer to had been taken up; and I paid Colonel Crandall $200,00 of that sum for his services; and applied the balance to the debt incurred on the faith of obtaining said money. The money had been spent for the purpose it was given before it had even been received.

The morning the convention met in the Wigwam, the owners refused to open the doors until the rent was paid. At the time I was informed of this fact I had less than $5.00 in cash on my person. I immediately went to Mr. Louis Gelders of the Acme Hotel and borrowed the necessary amount, assuring him that a collection would be taken up and the money refunded to him. I afterwards borrowed another amount from him to have the electric lights turned on in the Wigwam. The total amount collected in the Convention was not sufficient by about one-third to repay Mr. Gelders the money I borrowed from him and I had to furnish the balance.

Now you have the whole truth in regard to that much talked about $1.000. The Convention, the Executive Committee nor anyone but myself had anything to do with it. It was obtained for a specific purpose and for that purpose I spent several hundred dollars more than was given to it. If I had the $1,000 in my pocket, as has been charged, when the collection was taken, it would have been no good reason why the Convention should not have defrayed its own expenses. I paid myself about $20.00 of said expense which was no doubt twenty times as much as anyone else paid; possibly twenty hundred times more than a certain candidate for high office at the hands of the party paid.

In reply to your 7th question, I answer that your intimation is the first I have ever had of any such consideration on the part of our State Executive Committee. One thing I do know if there ever was such a consideration, it only existed in the hearts of a few jealous members of the Committee. I rejoice in the belief, that I had at all times, the confidence of nearly every member of the Committee, as well as the confidence, love and esteem of the great masses of our people all over the State.

I am aware of the fact, that a few of my former friends are waging a bitter warfare against me individually and against The Tribune because of the position we have taken against the fusion of our party with the Republican party. That my position and that of the Tribune is correct and has the approval of the masses of the Peoples Party. is evidenced by the hundreds of strong letters of endorsement we received and continue to receive from all over the State, the largely increased list of subscribers, the endorsement of the Peoples Party press, both State and National, and letters received from our national leaders. So long as I control the policy of The Tribune it will advocate the principles of the Peoples Party and ever be as a sentinel on watch-tower to warn our people of efforts by traitors within or without to disrupt it.

That the paper will remain a stumbling block to heroes and statesmen of that base sort the public to whom you appeal may rest assured.

Yours truly,

R. F. KOLB.

Notice.

I wish to call the attention of the farmers of Calhoun county that I am still selling the Hattie Clide Subsoil Clodless Turning Plow. This plow is the best plow now in use. It is the best because you get the depth without turning up the clay or subsoil. It raises the clay, pulverizing it and drops it back in the furrow.

The Hattie Clide Plow comes in the reach of every farmer to subsoil his land from 5 to 7 inches deep in gray land and from 4 to 6 inches in red land without exposing the clay to the sun and air.

If you expose the clay to the sun and air you lose a certain per cent of the productive qualities of your land, and by using this plow you can avoid this loss entirely, from the fact that the plow has a five inch slot in the wing that lets the clay pass through and falls back into the furrow and turnes the soil on top of the ground only. The subsoil is rich in plant food—phosphate of lime, potash, ammonia and iron, which lie dormant and useless until the subsoil is broken and mellowed by the chemical effect of the air. This subsoil should not be exposed to the surface because the sun and air evaporates and destroys the properties.

By the use of H. C. plow your crop will not suffer from a five or six weeks drouth. Because in subsoiling your land in the fall, winter or spring, you are then laying in water to make your crop with next summer; for by subsoiling or deep plowing the water penetrates the ground thoroughly.

The H. C. Plow is a steel plow easily kept up. It is not like other plows, have to lay it aside when you have your land prepared, but you cultivate your crop with it up to the second plowing. By the use of the H. C. plow you will make from one-fourth to one-third more than you will with the ordinary plow, unless you subsoil, and if you subsoil with the old method it will cost you the expense of 4 mules and 2 hands to get 8 inches, where the H. C. Plow will get 8 inches with but 2 mules and one hand. I refer you to the following named parties who have been using the H. C. plows:

Tax Collector's

APPOINTMENTS 1st ROUND

I will attend the following appointments for the purpose of collecting the State and County taxes of Calhoun county, Alabama, for the year 1895. All taxes delinquent after December 31st., 1895, and each tax unpaid at that date is subject to a fee of 50c and interest on until it is paid. As this is the last year of the term it will be absolutely necessary to enforce the law strictly that I may be able to settle in full at the proper time. I hope every tax payer will see the necessity for this and will help me accomplish my purpose.

VIA THE PRIMROSE WAY

BY AUSTIN B DWELL

"Well," I said, looking at my pass-book, "I see I have £2,335 to my credit. I will leave the odd £35 with you." He instantly acquiesced. Had he said, "No, you must leave at least £300, as our rules require," I should have said all right and have made it £600. I drew out the £2,300 at once, intending to deposit £300 before leaving London, but in the haste of our preparations I neglected it, and my balance at the bank stood £35 for all the weeks I was on our piratical cruise to the Spanish main.

Storing most of our baggage in London, we took the train to Liverpool, and purchasing tickets for Rio, we went on board the good ship Lusitania.

The firm of Mann in Rio was the most considerable in all South America, and Mac's introductions were to this firm. The plan was for Mac to present himself to Mann & Co., and to draw within 24 hours at least £10,000, so as to make sure of our expenses, and a day or two before steamer day to arrange for a very large sum, £20,000 or £30,000.

Fate, providence, call it what you will, seldom fails to upset wrongdoing, making it rocky for the wrongdoer.

By an irony of fortune we carried with us that which was going to balk all, or nearly all, our fine scheme.

In our letters of credit in some mysterious way the name of the submanager of the London and Westminster bank had been omitted, although this was absolutely essential to the validity of the letters. There was also another error, an error of such an extraordinary nature—that of spelling "indorso" with a "o"—that it is enough to make any man contemplating an unlawful act despair of success, since we could be defeated by so mysterious and unforeseen accidents.

He told him of his credits for £5,000 to £20,000 each, and that he should want £10,000 the next day. Would they have it ready?

The next day he went to the bank, George and myself being posted outside. In ten minutes he reappeared with a square bundle under his arm. He smiled as he passed us, and, turning a corner, entered a cafe, where we joined him. His bundle contained £10,000 in Brazilian bank notes. He assured us that everything was serene at the bank; that he could have £100,000 if he wanted to ask for it.

The next day Mac went to the bankers again and was requested by the manager to show the letter of credit on which was indorsed the £10,000 he had drawn against it. Looking at the letter, the manager said: "This is singular. There is only the name of Mr. Bradshaw, the manager, on this letter. J. P. Shipp, the submanager's name, should be on the credit as well." And then he went on to say that some time since they had been notified by the London bank that all letters issued by them would bear two signatures.

Mac was a man of nerve, but it required all he had not to betray his uneasiness. He said he really could not say how the omission had occurred; he supposed it must have been accidental, but he would examine his other letters as soon as he went back to the hotel.

The look of chagrin and vexation on Mac's face when he came out was a sight to see and one that is as vivid in my memory now as in that far off day in 1872. What a sea of misery rolls between then and now!

He went direct to the hotel, and there George and I soon joined him. We sat down and looked at each other. The game apparently was up, and we were a sorely disgusted party. We did not fall out with or reproach each other, but felt we deserved a kicking. We did not ask each other any questions, but I know our faces all wore a sadly puzzled look as we repeated mentally, "How could we have made such an oversight?" But soon another blunder—the misspelled word—was to crop up that made this one of the omitted name seem as a fly to an eagle.

Mac and I thought the game up and were mentally planning for flight. But George, being a man of extraordinary courage and resource as well, declared we could and would retrieve the blunder. He declared a bold step must be taken; that as the bankers had only seen the one credit the name of Shipp, the submanager, must be instantly put on the others. We had the genuine signature of J. P. Shipp on a draft, and Mac at once sat down to write it on all the letters. It was a trying ordeal for him, Mac's nerves having had a wrench. He was a temperate man, but under the circumstances we advised him to take a glass of brandy to steady his nerves. Then placing the genuine signature before him and the forged letters he began to put in the name. The signatures were not well written, but under the trying circumstances it was wonderfully well done. All this had taken place within half an hour after he had left the bank.

It was a trying ordeal, but Mac was quite willing to do as George advised, which was that he should take several of the letters and march boldly into the bank and say: "Here are my letters; they are all right. Both signatures are on all my letters but the one, and from that the second signature has been unintentionally omitted." George's last word to Mac was: "Rely on us to extricate you from anything. Keep cool. Act up to the character you have assumed. They can never fathom that the names could have been written in so short a time. Boldly offer them more exchange on London, and if there is any hesitation say you will transfer your business to the English bank of Rio at once."

He started on his decisive errand, followed by us in a miserable state of anxiety. He was not long in the bank, but returned empty handed. Upon meeting at the designated place he informed us the manager was evidently agreeably surprised when shown the letters with both signatures and transferred the indorsement from the letter that had but one signature to one with two.

Once more we had matters all right and the broken place patched up again, but it behooved us not to do so any more. But we did.

The steamer we purposed to load our cruiser on and cruise [illegible] Chimborazo, advertised to arrive on Tuesday, and to leave for the river Plate and the west coast the next day. So it was agreed that on Monday Mac should go to the bank and arrange to cash his letters for £20,000 or £30,000 and go the next day for the money.

Monday came. We expected a nervous day, not such a paralyzingly nervous one as it proved to be. In fact, a nervous Tuesday followed a nervous Monday. My reader must remember that we were in the tropics, with a blazing sun looking down on us with an intensity that made one long for Greenland's icy mountains to cool us.

We went into the public park for our last consultation before our fortune, which never came, was to come.

Mac had in the little morocco case in his pocket two letters, each for £20,000. Certainly no man in the world but himself could have carried off such a game played for such high stakes. Handsome in person, faultless in address, cool in nerve, a master of all the languages spoken in Rio—Portuguese, Spanish, Italian and French. Above all, he had a boundless confidence in himself. What an honorable future might have been his but for his youthful follies! Truly he could have achieved a wonderful success in any honorable career. Unhappily for him, he, like thousands of our brainiest youth, had entered the Primrose Way. In our youthful fire and thoughtlessness we saw only the flowers and heard the siren's songs, but at last the Primrose Way led us down into a gloom where all the flowers withered and the gay songs turned into dirges.

Looking at his watch, Mac jumped up, saying, "It is 10:45 and time to be off." So he started for the bank, we following at some distance, our nerves all on the stretch. We felt that our lives and fortunes were trembling in the balance. While watching we saw several persons enter or leave the bank, and still our friend delayed his appearance.

To our suspicious minds there appeared to be strange movements about the bank that boded ill for us. A thousand suspicions born of our fears came and went through our minds until at last, unable to endure the suspense, I entered the bank myself and stood there, pretending I was waiting for some one. I sharply scrutinized every one and everything. Mac was somewhere out of sight in the private offices. The clerks were gossiping together, and that to me was suspicious. Then, to my alarm, a bank clerk entered from the street with an eagle eyed man, a Hebrew evidently, of about 45 years of age. Both passed hurriedly into the private office, leaving me in an agony of suspense. My only relief at that moment was the thought that George and myself had not as yet compromised ourselves, and could, in the event of Mac's arrest, manage to save him, either by bribery or a rescue.

Without appearing to do so I watched that dingy, mottled door leading into the private office until every crack and seam in it was photographed indelibly on my brain.

In the trying periods of one's life, when the heart and soul are on the rack, how strangely trifling details of the objects about one will be noticed and remembered. It seems some cell of the brain, quite separate from the cell of feeling and sensation, works calmly and steadily on, photographing the material of one's surroundings.

At last, unable to endure the suspense, above all the uncertainty, I went to the little door, and, opening it, looked in. To my intense relief I saw Mac sitting there apparently talking unconcernedly with Braga, the manager, and the Hebrew. As I had not attracted attention I closed the door, went out in the street and gave George the prearranged signal that all was well. Just then our partner emerged, but with a telltale face. It was flushed with chagrin and vexation, and there was gone from the contour of his body that indescribable part that tells, better than words, of confidence and victory.

We went by different routes to our rendezvous, and I will leave it to the imagination of my readers to picture our state of mind as we listened to his recital of woe—the tale of Priam's Troy over again.

Mac had been cordially received by the manager, and had told him he would require £20,000 the next day; would he please have it ready? The manager replied that he did not require any more exchange on London, but that he would send out for his broker, who would sell his bills on the exchange. He (the manager) would indorse the bills of exchange and indorse the amounts on his letters of credit. Of course Mac could only acquiesce, and Mr. Braga sent a clerk to his broker, Mr. Meyers, to come around. This was the sharp eyed Hebrew whom I saw enter.

The manager introduced Meyers to "Mr. Gregory Morrison" and explained that he was to sell exchange for £20,000 on Morrison's credit, which the bank would indorse. Meyers said, "Please show me your letters." Putting his hand into his breast pocket and pulling out the little morocco case containing the two letters, he handed the case and contents to Meyers, who, probably without suspicion of anything being wrong, unrolled both letters, and holding them in his hands ran his sharp eyes down one of them and read right through the body of the letter.

Coming to the "note" which read, "All sums drawn against this credit please indorse on the back and notify the London and Westminster bank at once," he suddenly halted, turned his hawk's eye on Mac and said: "Why, sir, here's the word indorse misspelled. Surely the clerks in the London banks know how to spell!"

Here was a thunderbolt, indeed, that pierced poor Mr. Gregory Morrison through and through, but he showed no sign. He coolly remarked that he did not care to have his bills sold on the exchange, but would go and see the people of the London and Rio and River Plate banks, as they probably would want exchange and would doubtless let him have what money he required. Meyers said very sharply: "Have you letters to those banks?" "I have," said Mac, at the same time producing two, one to each bank, and each bearing the stamp of their respective banks.

That he had letters was a happy thing, and no one under 40 days' time could say for a fact that they were not genuine. The dramatic production of these letters lulled the fast gathering suspicions and would have called a halt had they purposed any serious action, for the reason that during the 40 days it would take to communicate with London the credits could not be proved to be forgeries. That such letters existed at all was due entirely to the foresight which had provided to meet just such a contingency.

We all were for a brief few seconds utterly dumfounded, but quickly aroused ourselves to the necessity of instant action to protect our comrade. We saw that we must at once give over all thought of trying to do any more business in Rio, and set all our inventions and energy at work to save the £10,000 and to smuggle our companion safely out of Rio. But how?

The Ebro, going to Europe, was in the harbor taking in cargo and coal. The Chimborazo, going south, was not yet signaled, and we determined at all hazards to get him off by the Ebro. We all had American passports, and by the use of chemicals could alter the names and descriptions on them at will.

Of course the names in our passports were the same as we had in our letters. George went to police headquarters, and giving a douceur to an attendant had the viso put on his passport at once. Then, going to the passenger agent, he bought a ticket to Liverpool by the Ebro, and by paying 10 guineas extra had a stateroom assigned to him alone. After this he took a boat and went out to the steamer, carrying with him two bags of oranges and stowed them away under the bottom berth.

To make the escape a success it was decided prudent for George as Wilson to get the agent well acquainted with his face and appearance, so if the question was asked, "Who is this Wilson?" the police would see by the description it was not the man they were looking for. For the next 40 hours George made the agent very tired. At one time he would want to know if he could not get some reduction in the passage rate, or if the Ebro was seaworthy, or if there was any danger of her engines breaking down, etc., until the agent got not only to know "Mr. Wilson," but wished him at the bottom of the sea.

It was absolutely essential that Mac should put in one more appearance at the bank. It was an ordeal, but one he had to undergo. He even dreaded to return to his hotel, but go he must; so, just before the bank closed, he called in and casually informed the manager that he should start the next morning for S. Romao, a town in the interior of Brazil, to be absent a week. He was then to go to the Hotel d'Europe, pay his bill at the same time, stating that he was to leave Rio by the 4 o'clock train the next morning. As Mac had two trunks and other impedimenta befitting a man of his importance it was necessary to take a carriage to the station, which was nearly a mile distant. It would be unsafe to go in a carriage belonging to the hotel; therefore he was to say that a friend would call for him. As it was still two hours to sunset I suggested that after he had arranged matters, he should saunter out, walk about the streets until dark, then return to the hotel and be ready when George should call for him at 9 o'clock the next morning.

After these arrangements we separated, George and I following to ascertain if he was being watched or shadowed by detectives. When he entered the hotel we remained in view of the entrance. It was not long before he reappeared and walked leisurely along the street. A few seconds after we saw another man come out, cross the street and go in the same direction. I followed him, and was soon satisfied that he was keeping Mac in view. This sort of double built was kept up until dusk, when Mac returned to his hotel, unconscious that a moment later his "shadow" entered the place also. Here was a "stunner," no mistake, though it was no more than we had anticipated among the possibilities. Still I had indulged in the hope that the bank would rely entirely upon the passport system, and take no further steps for a day or two, which was all the time required to carry out our plan. Though Mac had good nerve, it was already somewhat shaken, and surely the situation would have unnerved most men. Therefore, fearing that the certain knowledge of imminent danger might still further confuse him and cause some false move, we determined to keep our discovery to ourselves.

George next proceeded to an obscure part of the town, and stopping at a small but respectable looking tavern he engaged a room for the next day; also a carriage, with an English speaking driver, to be in readiness at 3 o'clock the next morning. Promptly at the hour he was at the livery stable, where he found the carriage ready, and was driven to the Hotel d'Europe. Sending the driver up to the office on the second floor, Mac soon appeared and informed him that he had promised to take to the station a man who was stopping at the hotel. "He is going to S. Romao by the same train," continued Mac, "and seems a good fellow, for I had a long talk with him last night."

Upon seeing signs of disapproval in my face he explained, "Well, you know, he said he could not get a carriage at so early an hour in the morning, and I

gives you a feeling of horror and dread. There is no longer necessity for its use in many diseases formerly regarded as incurable without cutting. The Triumph of Conservative Surgery is well illustrated by the fact that RUPTURE or Breach is now radically cured without the knife and without pain. Clumsy, chafing trusses can be thrown away. They never cure but often induce inflammation, strangulation and death.

TUMORS Ovarian, Fibroid (Uterine) and many others, are now removed without the perils of cutting operations.

PILE TUMORS, however large, Fistula and other diseases of the lower bowel, are permanently cured without pain or resort to the knife.

STRICTURE of Urinary Passage is also removed without cutting in hundreds of cases. For pamphlet, references and all particulars, send 10 cents (in stamps) to World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

MOTHERS

and those soon to become mothers, should know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription robs childbirth of its tortures, terrors and dangers to both mother and child, by aiding nature in preparing the system for parturition. Thereby "labor" and the period of confinement are greatly shortened. It also promotes the secretion of an abundance of nourishment for the child.

Mrs. DORA A. GUTHRIE, of Oakley, Overton Co., Tenn., writes: "When I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I was not able to stand on my feet without suffering almost death. Now I do all my housework, washing, cooking, sewing and everything for my family of eight. I am stouter now than I have been in six years. Your Favorite Prescription is the best to take before confinement, or at least it proved so with me. I never suffered so little with any of my children as I did with my last."

THE disturbance now going on among the Populist leaders ought to teach thinking men of that party one thing, and that is that there is just as much fraud in the world, and among these very people, as there was before they set themselves up as the disciples of honesty, and begged the people of Alabama to join in the great hegira from the Democratic party which they inaugurated, and which under the guidance of Old Hoar and Chris Magee, led straight to the Republican fold.

THE man who boldly and rashly throws himself in the way of a reconciliation of the democratic forces in Alabama—no matter whether he belong to the arrogant and extreme faction led by the Advertiser, or whether he be one of those who became dissatisfied and followed the lead of Mr. Kolb—takes upon himself a grave responsibility. He must class himself with the mischief-makers, and can find small consolation in the promise made to those who cultivate and foster peace.

Famous Words.

One of the greatest physicians in America said to a lady patient the other day: "If you can keep your bowels active you will never need my services."

Constipation is one of the most dangerous complaints. It creates a disordered liver, and then follow sick-headaches, biliousness, loss of appetite, etc.

A physician would first prescribe a Ramon's Tonic Liver Pill to open the bowels and clean out all the poisonous bile. He would then give you Ramon's Tonic Pellets for purifying the blood, stimulating the appetite, and strengthening the system. The two medicines would cure you completely, and make you feel better than you have felt for years. Ask your druggist for Ramon's Tonic Liver Pills. They cost 25c. a box, and you get with them a box of Pellets free.

At all dealers, or mail, for 25c., 5 boxes $1.00.

Gentlemen:

Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflamatory rheumatism I was attended by the most eminent physicians in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, and always consulting with the local physician for directions; finally came to Florida ten years ago.

About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks and during the time I was induced to try P. P. P. knowing that each ingredient was good for the impurities of the blood, after using two small bottles I was relieved; at four different times since I have had slight attacks and I have each time taken two small bottles of P. P. P and been relieved, and I consider it the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully,
J. F. GREER.

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting, Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have access to the medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

PRICKLY ASH, POKE ROOT AND POTASSIUM

Makes Marvelous Cures in Blood Poison Rheumatism and Scrofula

P. P. P. purifies the blood, builds up the weak and debilitated, gives strength to weakened nerves, expels disease, gives the patient health and happiness where sickness, gloomy feelings and lassitude first prevailed.

For primary, secondary and tertiary syphilis, for blood poisoning, mercurial poison, malaria, dyspepsia, and in all blood and skin diseases, like blotches, pimples, old chronic ulcers, tetter, scald head, boils, erysipelas, eczema—we may say, without fear of contradiction, that P. P. P. is the best blood purifier in the world, and marks positive, speedy and permanent cures in all cases.

Ladies whose systems are poisoned and whose blood is in an impure condition, due to unnatural irregularities, or perhaps neglected for years, find in P. P. P. a tonic and blood cleansing properties. Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., Aug. 24th, 1893.
I can speak in the highest terms of your medicine from my own personal knowledge. I was afflicted with heart disease, pleurisy and pneumonia for 25 years, was treated by the very best physicians and spent hundreds of dollars, tried every known remedy without finding relief. I have only taken one bottle of your P. P. P., and can honestly say it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I can recommend your medicine to all sufferers of the above diseases.
MRS. M. M. YEARY,
Springfield, Green County, Mo.

PIMPLES, BLOTCHES AND OLD SORES

CATARRH, MALARIA, KIDNEY TROUBLES AND DYSPEPSIA

Are entirely removed by P. P. P.

ABINGDON, O., July 21, 1891.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: DEAR SIRS—I bought a bottle of your P. P. P. at Hot Springs, Ark., and it has done me more good than three months' treatment at the Hot Springs. Send three bottles C. O. D.
Respectfully yours,
JAS. M. NEWTON,
Aberdeen, Brown County, O.

Capt. J. D. Johnston.

To all whom it may concern: I hereby testify to the wonderful properties of P. P. P. for eruptions of the skin. I suffered for several years with an unsightly and disagreeable eruption on my face. I tried every known remedy but in vain, until P. P. P. was used, and am now entirely cured.
(Signed by) J. D. JOHNSTON,
Savannah, Ga.

Skin Cancer Cured.

Testimony from the Mayor of Sequin, Tex.

SEQUIN, TEX., January 14, 1893.
MESSRS. LIPPMAN BROS., Savannah, Ga.: For several years I have tried your P. P. P. for a disease of the skin, usually known as skin cancer, of thirty years' standing, and found great relief. It purifies the blood and removes all irritation from the seat of the disease and prevents any spreading of the sores. I have taken five or six bottles and feel confident that another course will effect a cure. It has also relieved me from indigestion and stomach troubles. Yours truly,
CAPT. W. H. RUST,
Attorney at Law.

Local and Personal Happenings

GATHERED ON THE HIGHWAY

Of Interest to Home Folks and Their Friends.

Bruce Armstrong, of Huntsville, spent several days in town this week.

Mrs. R. D. Mitchell, of Rome, Ga., is the guest, this week, of her sister Mrs. J. H. Privett.

Mrs. F. A. Weems has returned from an extended visit to her daughter, Mrs. Cason in Anniston.

Miss Addie Alexander has returned from Gadsden, where she spent two weeks with friends.

Mess. H. L. Stevenson, L. W. Grant, V. H. Marshall and Joe H. Privett visited Anniston on Tuesday.

Miss Jennie Wyly, who has been visiting friends in Anniston, returned to Jacksonville Tuesday.

Will Driskill has returned to his business in Birmingham, after a pleasant visit to the home folks.

The campmeeting is bound to be a success and it is hoped that every body in Calhoun, who is able, will attend.

Mrs. Hellen Brennan, formerly a resident of our city, now of Rockmart, Ga., is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. P. Carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hayden and son, who have been spending a few days with Mrs. W. P. Crook and and Miss Julia, returned to their home in Talladega on Tuesday.

Moses Sewell has purchasod the farm of I. A. Lester in beat three. This is a step in the right direction. We are always glad to see young men buy homes.

Mrs. Ogletree mother, of T. W. Ogletree, of Eastaboga, died on Tuesday morning at the home of her son. Mrs. Ogletree had reach the age of ninety- eight years, and up to a short while before the time of her death her mind was as clear as ever.

General and Mrs. Burke, returned Sunday from Chattanooga, where they had been to attend the dedication of the Chickamanga National Park. Mrs. Burke accompanied her husband in the campaign that embraced the battles of Chickamauga and Mission Ridge, and met many of her old army friends while in Chattanooga.

Mr. John Rowland is just back from a trip through the lower part of the county. On his return he came through Peaceburg, and he brings a glowing account of the success of the good people of that section in getting the houses ready for their camp meeting in October. The big pavillion which will hold twenty five hundred people needs only the cover to be completed. This will be put on next week. Quite a number of the private houses are finished.

The following clipping from a letter to the Constitution written by its correspondent in Forsyth, will be very gratifying to the friends of Dr. and Mrs. Lane in Jacksonville.

The opening of the fall term of the Monroe Female college on Wednesday was the most brilliant that that institution has known in years. The college begins its fortieth session under the management of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall H. Lane, formerly of Jacksonville, Ala. The prospects were never brighter than at present. The grounds have been greatly improved, the building repainted and a magnificent dormitory added. Numbers of congratulations have been received by the trustees on securing the services of Dr. and Mrs. Lane. They are eminent educators and under their regime the success of the college is assured. Mrs. Lane has few equals in the south as a teacher. The most prominent educators have all taken occasion to speak of her in the flattering terms. In an address at the Baptist association held at Thomaston recently Dr. G. A. Nunnally, president of the Southern female college at LaGrange, said: "Mrs. Undine Lane, co-principal of the Monroe Female college, is the grandest woman that ever sat by a cradle or presided in a schoolroom." The entire faculty embraces the very best talent that could be obtained. Miss Undine Lane has charge of the music department. She was regarded as the sweetest singer in Alabama, while her performaces on the piano are marvelous.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas of Junction City, Ill, was told by her doctors she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching Consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at all the Drug Stores. Regular size 50 and $1.00. 5

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DAMAGE SUIT

Against The Southern Railway Company

Assaulted By Conductor Pearce, For Which She Claims Ten Thousand Dollars.

Among the cases filed in the Calhoun county circuit court, is a case of Miss Lizzie Hendrix, of Jacksonville, against the Southern Railway Co. for ten thousand dollars.

The defendant claims the sum of ten thousand dollars as damage for an assault by Conductor Pearce while in charge of a train of the Southern Railway Co. She alleges that on or about May 27, 1895, while a passenger on train between Piedmont and Ladiga, she was grevioously insulted and greatly shocked by the conduct of said conductor.

The specific charges are, that conductor Pearce, who was a stranger to the plaintiff, sat down by plaintiff took her by the hand, and said he would not release her until she kissed him.

The plaintiff is a frail young woman, and from this insult was greatly shocked, from the effect of which she became nervously prostrated and suffered great pain of body, and humiliation and distress of mind.

The plaintiff is represented by D. D. McLeod Esq.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic Diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by.

To Teachers.

EDITORS REPUBLICAN: Under the date of Sept. 20th the State Supt. of Education writes me that he has been informed by the State Treasurer that the funds requisite to pay teachers will not be available in October; and that county superintendents need not fix a day for payment of teachers until further notice.

On account of this condition of affairs the teacher institute which I announced for the 4th and 5th of October, is hereby postponed to some later date, which will be announced in the future.

L. D. MILLER.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr Kahler for telling them 'how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by *

The barn of Messrs Walter and William Dean burned down just at dusk on Monday afternoon. A lot of fodder and some cotton seed was the only loss besides the house.

The burning of two barns in Jacksonville within two or three days has given rise to a number of theories as to their cause. Many believe that the burnig of the Dean barn was due to spontaneous combustion.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Y. M. C. A Des Moines Iowa says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by.

Mr. Joseph A. Callahan, who has been in the harness and saddlery business in Jacksonville for a number of years, moved to Anniston with his family on Wednesday. Mr. Callahan will open up a business there of the same class as the one he has conducted in Jacksonville. He thoroughly understands his business and we predict for him success in his new home.

One of Crow Bros. barns was discovered to be on fire about twelve o'clock on the night of the 20th. The citizens turned out and assisted the fire companies in preventing the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings. They were unable to save the barn which, with some feed stuffs, a surrey and thirty or forty rolls of bagging was destroyed.

WHAT THEY SAY

OF THE ELECTROPOISE.

The Electropoise has relieved me of a throat affection that has baffled all treatment and has annoyed me for more than forty years. Very respectfully, T. T. TUNSTALL.
Mobile, Ala., Oct. 22, 1894.

I commenced the use of the Electropoise when I was in a weak, nervous state lying awake night after night until 2 o'clock. I commenced to sleep better almost immediately after beginning its use, and after three months felt that the Electropoise had paid for itself.
Yours truly, MRS. J. C. BARRY.
Memphis, Tenn., March 5, 1895.

A relative of mine who was wounded during the war, and who never recovered from the effects of the wound, has been using my electropoise, and he is now as well as he ever was. I recommend the Electropoise to all my friends.
Yours truly, W. B. MCGEE.
Tehula, Miss., Dec. 5, 1894.

I cannot say too much in favor of the Electropoise. Yours truly,
T. S. JONES.
Fannin, Tex., June 25, 1895.

After returning from Hot Springs about a year ago without a cure, and as the last resort, I applied the Electropoise, and received a prompt cure of rheumatism. This same Electropoise has made many cures in other diseases, and the instrument will do all that is claimed for it. Yours truly,
J. T. STOUT.

FOR 60 DAYS

There has never been a time when our people as a whole were trying to inform themselves on the great issues of the day as they are now. It is the duty of every newspaper in the land to exert every effort to see that its readers have ample opportunity, in their search for information, to arrive at the truth. Believing this to be our duty, and realizing that we are on the eve, as it were, of national and state elections the importance of which cannot be estimated—elections which will be of deeper interest to the people than any of recent years, we have arranged to make the following OFFER FOR 60 DAYS.

We will send the WEEKLY BIRMINGHAM STATE, a mammoth eight page paper, for one year, to

(1) Every new subscriber to the REPUBLICAN who sends us $1.00, cash.

(2) Every old subscriber who renews before the 60 days expire.

(3) Every delinquent subscriber who pays up arrearages for one year.

The State is the ablest exponent of free coinage published in the South. It is a Great Family Weekly, and should be in the home of every Democrat in Alabama.

Its agricultural department commends itself specially to every farmer and stock-raiser. At the low price no farmer should be without it.

NOTICE, EXPOSITION VISITORS.

All parties that you will make up to visit the Atlanta Exposition, from ten persons up to any number and will telegraph me, at my expense, two days before coming, I will arrange special rooms for and give you a special low rate.

Porters will look after your baggage. Remember we are located only one-half block from car shed. Now is the time to make up your parties. Cut this out and keep it, as it will not appear again. When will you telegraph?

Mgr. Victoria Hotel.
